PARIS GIRLS WON'T QUIT JAY WALKING

PARIS, April 21—You can lead a Parisian girl on the dance floor but just try to teach her how to cross the street. Every gendarme of Paris is willing to aver that it can't be done.

Parisian police authorities are obliging if anything they put in force a code for pedestrians and then establish a school for "jaywalkers." Mademoiselles went proudly to the bottom of the class. A bee-line is the shortest distance between two points and when we are going somewhere we take the quickest route," they said. Gendarmes expostulate, threaten, and reprimand. To each schooling the Parisiennes reply: "Zut" which is equivalent to "chase yourself," or "I can't be bothered." The Parisienne has ruled the boulevards for many years—she still rules them.

Charles Hatton, 16, Inadvertently Fired Gun Into Powder Magazine; Terrific Blast and Death Resulted

Charles Hatton, 16-year-old son of Ed Hatton, superintendent of the Eastland county farm, was instantly killed late Friday afternoon when a powder magazine exploded three miles south of Eastland.

Father and son were out hunting the report goes, but had separated just before the explosion. The boy fired at something, probably a rabbit, the charge striking the powder magazine which contained a large quantity of dynamite and other explosives.

A terrific blast followed and when the father reached the scene his son's lifeless body, burned almost to a crisp, met his gaze.

The explosion broke plate glass windows in Eastland and was felt in some sections of Cisco. Many people from Eastland rushed to the scene.

The dead boy is survived by his parents, two sisters, six brothers and a large number of other relatives, many of whom live in Cisco. He was a nephew of Mrs. W. P. Caldwell and Mrs. Lee Burkett, of Cisco.

Burial was at Liberty cemetery Saturday afternoon.

CHICAGO FINDS LOWEST CRIME THING OF PAST

CHICAGO, April 21—The "low-brow" hoodlum, crude, outright in his crime, dressing the part as he did in the past, has gone.

Disguises thick enough to deceive the keen-eyed state and federal officers have taken the place of flashy clothes and crude manners.

This is the finding of G. L. Hostetter, executive secretary of the Employers' Association of Chicago, who has been active in bringing exposes of racketeers.

In place of the old, easy-to-spot criminal, according to Hostetter, police are forced to look for criminals among men who seem to be prosperous business men, liveried chauffeurs and professional men.

Up-to-Date Methods

"Every sort of a dodge is being used by the up-to-date racketeer," Hostetter told International News Service.

"So far the new type criminal we are forced to combat has not resorted to a listing in Dun or Bradstreet's but he has done everything else possible to make his business look tight.

"Elaborate systems of faked references, business, financial and social, are ready to be shown to inquirers. He has books even for the income tax examiners, and his only desire seems to be to make a good appearance."

Police officers in Chicago have reported increasing difficulty in tracing the heads of beer running, syndicates and alcohol distributing organizations.

Paid By Job
Alderman Titus Haffa, ward leader, and ten others were indicted ed by a federal grand jury, charged with having run a $5,000,000 annual business in illicit liquor. The company operated by Haffa was thought to have been a legitimate concern, federal investigators said until it was accidentally "tipped off" to detectives.

"The new crook's 'dirty work,' according to Hostetter, is done at so much per job, and he affects a vast contempt for hoodlums he keeps on his payroll to do it.

"The criminal pose has but one object," said Hostetter, "and that is to disguise the graft, terrorism and blackmail by which he lives without working."

"And, naturally, he is increasingly hard to catch."

Cisco Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy Will Open U. D. C. Park to the Public Soon

Recent improvements at U. D. C. park, situated on D avenue, in the south section of Cisco, has converted that resort into one of the beauty spots of Cisco. Those who now visit the park that is owned and sponsored by the Cisco Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will see many things to admire and attract their attention. Quite a sum of money has been recently expended in beautifying this resort, but in these improvements the chapter has incurred an indebtedness that will have to be met. As the park will be opened to the public ultimately, it will be but fitting that public spirited people assist the ladies of the U. D. C. chapter in meeting this debt, and further beautifying the park. In the scheme of beautification the most approved landscape patterns and groups have been laid out and edged with rock borders. Gravel walks and a horse shoe drive make the whole park accessible to autos and pedestrians. This work was done by J. B. Ely, of the Cisco Floral company. Many shade and ornamental trees outline the spaces. A complete watering system has been laid down. The city has indicated they will run the grader over the drive and improve the main entrance. These patterns and groups have been planted in evergreens and hardy shrubs, including every variety that is hardy in this section. The funds accumulated from rentals of a house built some years ago, the labor of which was largely donated by the carpenter's union, was used to partly defray a portion of the $900 expended. The great influence this park will have along the line of encouraging home beautifying is already seen in homes where these patterns have been duplicated. The question of maintenance is now the next consideration and it is agreed that it will require most of the rental of the house to care for this. The U. D. C. chapter now owes about $400 on this planting, and it is understood they are going to give the friends and well wishers an opportunity to donate toward the discharge of this debt. At a near future date a public meeting is to be held at the park, at which time it will be formally dedicated to the use of the public, it is stated.

Technicolor Shows Clara Bow As True Auburn-Haired Type

Technicolor may become a regular feature of starring moving picture productions as a result of the precedent set by the directors of "Red Hair," the picture starring Clara Bow, which is at the Palace theater today and tomorrow. Brilliant effects are produced in the opening sequences of "Red Hair" by this process and the auburn tresses of Clara Bow, so long known to film goers only in the unsatisfactory medium of black and white, are here shown in their real glory. B. P. Schulberg, associate producer of "Red Hair" is so well pleased with the results of this innovation in this particular picture, that he predicts a more frequent use of this medium in future productions. "A great deal of the real personality of Miss Bow is explained by her hair, which is of a brilliant auburn color," Mr. Schulberg said. "Until this time, this pleasing feature of the star's appearance has been hidden from the public and the color effects will bring the famous star even closer to the public."

"Red Hair" is said to be the perfect story for Miss Bow. It is a tale of an American flapper, whose harmless flirtations get her into all sorts of trouble when the right boy turns up. The story is the first one Elmer Glyn has written for Miss Bow since the famous "It." Color effects in clothes, which Miss Bow believes to be so necessary for the proper background of the red-haired woman will also be displayed in the technicolor portions of "Red Hair."

CAFE "SET-UPS" ARE PROOF OF LAW VIOLATION

CHICAGO, April 21.—Cafe owners who charge exorbitant prices for bottles of ginger ale and a small cube of ice are "admitting" they are violating the prohibition law under the "observation" ruling and are liable to have their establishment closed for one year by federal injunction. This ruling, deemed of paramount importance by cafe owners throughout the country, was made by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley in Chicago recently in the case of the Plantation restaurant. "Set-Up Is Evidence" "The sale of set-ups, day after day and night after night at the outrageous price of $1.25 or $2 for a 15 cent bottle of ginger ale is in itself an admission of guilt that the restaurant is used as a place for promiscuous drinking," Judge Lindley ruled. Evidence against the cafe which was closed for one year was obtained by two prohibition agents. The agents testified they had brought into the cafe a quart bottle containing whiskey and had set it on the table. With a woman companion they took three drinks from the bottle and were not cautioned or warned by the waiter. They then went into court and said the restaurant violated the prohibition law. In granting the injunction Judge Lindley scored the federal prohibition department for its tactics in obtaining the evidence. Admonished Agents "In the future," Judge Lindley said, "I shall not accept testimony of agents who absolutely violate the law to entrap cafe owners. These agents brought liquor into the premises of this cafe and willfully drank it. They did not buy the liquor. They abused their privileges. If it were not for the other evidence introduced in this case I would discharge the injunction petition. And in the future, I may even hold prohibition agents in contempt of court."

if they ever do such a thing again." The Plantation Cafe, a "black and tan" resort, first came into public notice when its owner, Joseph Glazer, was accused of enticing young girls into his apartment and attacking them. He was found guilty of attack on a 14-year-old girl, whom he married afterwards, and was sentenced to prison. Pending sentence a 17-year-old girl told the police and a municipal court judge that Glazer had attacked her. He is now on bond pending hearing of that charge.

Tom Whitehead and Lee Smith, Former Ciscoans But Now of Midland, Spent a Few Hours With Friends Saturday

Lee Smith, former operator of the Pennant Service Station in Cisco, and Tom Whitehead, former editor of the Cisco Daily News, were in Cisco Saturday on business. Both the former Ciscoans are now located in Midland where Smith is wholesale distributor for the Pierce Petroleum corporation and Whitehead is manager of the Home Building and Loan association of Midland. Both have just completed new brick homes there. Smith said that something of the spirit of boogie that has characterized Cisco in the past is very evident in Midland, and showed his Cisco training by making the following declarations: "Midland has been recognized by the major oil companies and other big interests as the future city for a wide territory between Abilene and El Paso. Since I went to Midland last September a world of residence and business house construction has been done, and still more and larger projects are now under way. Last year a total of 491 new buildings were put up in Midland, and already this year 150 new buildings have been built or are under construction at the present time. T. S. Hogan, former state senator of Montana and oil and mining financier of Denver, Colo., is now erecting a 12-story office building and it is reported that every office space has been leased by oil companies which will move hundreds of people to Midland in the fall when the Hogan building is completed. A six-story office building was completed about the first of the year and is now full with a waiting list, and the new half-million Scharbauer hotel, built by a Midland cattleman out of his own funds, has just been opened to the public and has been turning away guests. A seven-story hotel is to be started about May 1. Numerous one and two-story business houses are under construction and others are to start immediately for such stores as J. C. Penney and Woolworth, which are coming to Midland in the fall. Of course, there is a great deal of residence building going on, with brick and stucco houses in the majority. A number of $15,000 residences are now being built, while Mr. Hogan is opening a highly restricted residence subdivision in which lots sell at $2,500 each, and only houses costing $15,000 or more are permitted. At its present rate of growth, Midland will no doubt be the center of oil and cattle operations for the entire West Texas area for years to come, and many are predicting it will be a city the size of Abilene within a very brief space of time."

Mr. Whitehead said that the green fields and trees around Cisco were a most welcome sight to one from farther west. Although Midland got a heavy snow a week ago, the moisture was insufficient to do much good and a good rain, long delayed, is needed, he said. There is but little farming in the Midland country, although those who do farm report it profitable, he said, while the main occupation of the native citizens is cattle raising. "A good rain would make the cattle business boom, since good prices for cattle now are the rule and a good range would reduce the cost of feeding," he said. "While Midland is the center of oil activities in West Texas, the fields are 50 to 60 miles away in every direction. The higher type of men connected with the oil industry make Midland their home, so that there is a great similarity between Midland and Cisco in this respect."

SUICIDE CRIME FOR ALL RACES AND RELIGIONS

CHICAGO, April 21.—Tracing the origin of suicide back as far as 2,000 B. C. from the present day, Dr. Ruth Shonle Cavan, of the University, has presented the question in all its forms in a book recently issued here.

Throughout all the years and religions and races the scholar has found suicide to be a sin, regarded lightly in some parts of the world, but the gravest of social crimes in other countries.

Mainly, she said, suicide comes from an inability of an individual to make an adjustment to a social environment causing disorganization of the mind from which relief is seen only in self-destruction.

Always a Crime

At first, according to the authorities, suicide was approved in some cases by one of the greatest and most powerful religions of today. Of this she says "at first the church approved of certain forms of suicide—to procure martyrdom, to avoid apostasy or to retain virginity."

Famous for suicide in the last instance were Demina and her daughters, and Pelagia, who was later made a saint."

From the general religious point of view, Dr. Cavan points out, suicide was always a serious crime, and a violation of the social order.

The Greek language hardly distinguishes between self-murder and the murder of kin (the worst of offenses)," Dr. Cavan states. From 500 B. C. to the end of the first century after Christ, about 600 years, suicide flourished in the same general ratio as moral customs declined until Christianity almost eliminated self-destruction.

"During this period in Greece suicide became almost a dogma among certain philosophical sects, she said. The control of the state over the individual weakened and with it came the right of persons to decree their own conduct. Suicide, then, was purely a personal matter. Suicide tended to become a matter of eliminating all pains and miseries, many of them trivial ones, she stated.

Steels Taught Suicide

In the tumultuous period in which the Roman Empire sunk into a gradual decline and decadence, the steels taught suicide as a "natural means of ending life that had become intolerable," according to Dr. Cavan.

"Christianity came and erected a stern control over the individual, succeeding in counteracting the freedom and suicides of the past eras. "Gradually," she said, "all suicides were condemned by St. Ambrose, by St. Jerome and St. Augustine between 340 and 430 A. D."

After the Renaissance in Europe the attitude that suicide was sinful was challenged by a number of philosophers who gave many claims to its excellent qualities, she declared.

This feeling for suicide was gradually worn down and the present conditions were introduced.

Today there are about 12,000 suicides annually in the United States, according to Dr. Cavan.

BRITISH POSTOFFICE TO STUDY AMERICAN METHODS

LONDON, April 21.—In the hopes of improving her own service, England is going to America to study postoffice methods.

The administration of the British postoffice system has been severely criticized on economical and other grounds, and the question has been discussed in the house of commons.

During the course of a debate there, the postmaster general announced that he was planning a "flying visit" by officers of the British postoffice to America to make a close study of the American telephone and telegraph service.

Leprosy was chosen by God because of its loathsome, defiling, degrading effects, to be a type of sin. What leprosy is to the physical man, sin is to the spiritual. Are you a victim of the awful plague? If so, there is a cure. Hear this sermon.—JOHN W. BATDORF, Minister.

It was learned that this sad tragedy occurred about ten o'clock Saturday morning, 13 miles this side of San Antonio. Mr. Bricker having left that city for his home in Cisco, after a week's absence on business for his company. Details of the tragedy are meager, but deceased is reported to have met his death in an auto accident when he applied the brakes on a wet road on a decline ap-

First Cream Route Began Operations Friday Morning

127 Pounds Cream Results of First Day's Trip of Cream Truck; Made Into Sweet Cream Butter Same Day

One hundred and twenty-seven pounds of sweet cream was gathered on the first day of the operation of the cream route, which started Friday morning, according to E. H. Varnell, agricultural vocationalist of the Cisco high school and chamber of commerce, who has taken an active interest in dairy matters in the Cisco country.

"This sweet cream was gathered from 11 farms," Varnell said, "which were from the farms of Lee Leiske, Joe Brown, O. P. Weiser, Charles Wendle, J. H. Johnson, Lee Boland, O. H. Ballew, R. Q. Lee, W. M. Moore, J. C. Leveridge and H. O. Hearne.

"The cream came into the Cisco Creamery in perfect condition, of 62 degrees. Paul Weiser, who operates the truck on the cream route made his first trip in about two and one-half hours, as he started out at 7:30 and reached the Cisco Creamery at 10 o'clock, traveling a distance of 46 miles. The truck will run every day, including Sunday, and will go on a regular schedule, arriving at each farm about the same time every day. Cream producers are to have their cream in the cans ready to be taken up just as soon as the truck arrives, and those who cannot have the cream on the highway, and live near any of the stores on the route, may leave their cans of cream at the following places: Nimrod, at Elliott & Ford's; Seranton, Gattis Bros.; Putnam, Putnam Motor Co.; Dotnan, Hazelwood's store.

"The cream that was gathered on the first trip was converted into butter Friday afternoon by the Cisco Creamery, and was on the market Saturday.

"Paul Weiser has converted a light delivery truck into the milk truck, with appropriate signs, one of which is the word 'Cream,' painted in large letters that the farmers may see his approach and have the cream awaiting his arrival.

"The Cisco Creamery is paying the farmers 10 cents per pound above sour cream prices. This cream is converted into sweet cream butter the day it arrives, and on the market the following day, giving Cisco customers a butter superior to the best grades of country butter, and the farmers a profitable market for their cream."

ENGLISH WOMEN LIKE TO FLY IF DANGEROUS

LONDON, April 21.—Undertended by the recent tragic deaths of Lady Carberry and the Hon. Elsie Mackay, more and more English women are learning to fly.

The London Airplane Club, pioneer light airplane club of England, which teaches men and women to become pilots, reports an increasing number of women among its members.

Five more women members now receiving instruction will shortly be awarded "solo" certificates and become fully fledged pilots entitled to fly their own machines. All the women use "moth" machines, the tiny airplane with what is little more than a motor-bicycle engine, which is enjoying a vogue here.

The success of Lady Heath and Lady Bailey, two of the pioneer English women pilots, who recently have flown from England to Africa alone, undoubtedly has inspired other women to take up flying, according to Captain F. G. M. Sparks, chief pilot instructor to the London club.

Women are excellent pupils, in Captain Sparks' opinion, and quickly grasp the essential points in the management of an airplane. "Generally speaking," Captain Sparks told International News Service, "they make skillful and steady pilots."

"The recent success of Lady Heath and Lady Bailey has had an influence in dispelling the fears of mothers who prohibited their young daughters from taking up flying, and have had a number of youngsters as members of the club in the last few months.

"We are now teaching 300 pupils, men and women. Twenty-six full members own their own airplanes and regularly fly them.

"The time is coming when flying will displace motoring in popularity both for men and women."

DALE, OUSTED LEGISLATOR, IS INNOCENT

AUSTIN, April 21.—F. A. Dale, ousted Bonham legislator, was today found not guilty of the charge of accepting a one thousand dollar bribe. A jury rendered the verdict this morning. Following the announcement of the verdict, Dale's attorneys filed suit for recovery of a thousand dollars alleged to have been taken from Dale by Ranger Captain Frank Hamer.

CISCO TEAMS TO COMPETE AT A. & M. EVENTS

F. H. Varnell, agricultural vocationalist of the Cisco high school and chamber of commerce, will leave today for College Station with his livestock and grain judging teams for the contests that will be held at the A. & M. college Monday. Those whom Mr. Varnell will enter in the live stock contest are Seaborn Yeager, Bert Ezzell, N. L. Taylor and Hale McCantles.

"The stock judging," Varnell said, "includes all kinds of livestock. The winning team will be awarded a large loving cup, and a cup will be awarded in each division. The grand champion winning team will, in addition to the loving cup, be given a free trip to Kansas City to attend the American Livestock show. The high point team judging dairy cattle will be given a free trip to the National Dairy show at Memphis, Tenn.

"The plant production contests consist of cotton classing, budding and grafting fruit trees and grain judging. In this section Cisco will be represented by Arlin Birt, Floyd Thurman, Glenn Kinard and Bill Puppen. Cups will be awarded in this contest, also. The judging will be at the A. & M. college all day Monday and part of Tuesday," Varnell concluded.

"BLUEBONNET SWEET CREAM BUTTER" IS IT

"Bluebonnet Sweet Cream Butter" was the name chosen by the committee which met Friday night to select the most appropriate name for the new product of the Cisco Creamery from the list submitted by pupils of the Cisco public schools.

Raymond Witten, member of the sophomore class of Cisco high school, was the lucky one who submitted "Bluebonnet Sweet Cream Butter," and will be awarded $10 for having his suggestion adopted by the Cisco creamery. In addition to the $10 the sophomore class will enjoy 10 gallons of ice cream which was offered as a supplementary prize to the winner's class in school.

The committee was composed of R. L. Poe, B. B. Longacre, W. H. LaRoque, T. F. Preston, Miss Letha Easer and Miss Leta Deel Surles, and the winning suggestion was selected from a list of more than 1,000 conveyed by the committee which were submitted by Cisco school pupils.

In the list there were ten others who submitted the name of "Bluebonnet" but omitted the "sweet cream butter," while only one submitted "Bluebonnet Sweet Cream Butter," causing the committee to think it most appropriate, and giving the prize to Raymond Witten.

The committee however, selected another with the name adopted, and submitted the two to the Creamery management, so the final choice was made by those who expect to use the name as their trade mark for their product.
