NUMBER 66

TEXAS

By WILL H. MAYES, Austin.

DALLAS GETS BOOST—Whatever helps any one city, town or community in Texas helps all the state, even though it may be a bit hard for some whose vision never reaches beyond the horizon of their own homes to see it. Dallas is the largest inland spot cotton market in the world. A bill has been introduced in the senate to make that city a point of delivery for cotton brought on New York exchange contracts. This would result in much cotton being contracted at Dallas that now goes to other designated delivery points and would expend the Dallas cotton business enormously. Cotton concentrated in Dallas would create a better spot market in Dallas and throughout its trade territory, would require enlargement of warehouse and compress facilities, would require more labor in handling, and would keep more money in Texas. Mike Thomas, a Dallas cotton factor, whose business opinion is much respected, says: "The establishment of Dallas as a point of delivery on exchange contracts would be of more material benefit to the city than all the bond issues and other civic improvement movements undertaken in the last five years."

METHODISTS FAVOR UNION—Of interest to all Methodists especially and to many other church members as well was the recent vote of 352 to 3 by the Methodist Episcopal church (North) in favor of "initiating and receiving overtures from like-minded churches looking toward closer co-operation and union." While the resolution especially had in mind other branches of the Methodist church, the action was regarded as most significant in Methodist church history toward union with the Presbyterian church, Congregational and other churches. There has long been a feeling, which is increasing, that concerted effort looking to church union should be made in the interest of under-churching and over-churching communities. Cooperation is an essential in church work as in any other endeavor, although the churches apparently have been slow to realize that for them, "in union there is strength."

TOURIST CAR LICENSES—The Texas state highway department has sent peace officers throughout the state a notice that the laws allow a tourist who has complied with the laws of his own state thirty days' free use of the highways of this state. If he remains longer he is required to take out a visitor's license, which may be procured from any county tax collector at the cost of $1.00 and which is good for sixty days' additional use of the highways. If he stays longer than 90 days in the state, the tourist must register his car in the manner and with the fees required of residents of Texas.

BUILDS GRAIN ELEVATOR—The increasing production of wheat in the extreme northern part of Texas is shown in a little announcement from Spearman, in the border county of Hansford, that the seventh elevator is being constructed in that town in time for the season's grain crop. Elevators are getting so thick in parts of North Texas that travelers are seldom out of sight of them.

BROWNWOOD HOT WELLS—Brownwood has almost unlimited opportunities for establishing itself as a health resort in its hot wells of reputed medicinal values, which are located in a beautiful spot right in the suburbs of the city. An immense bathing pool containing three divisions of cool, warm and hot water is the greatest attraction. To make it the success it should be this resort needs sanatorium and hotel facilities and a more liberal policy of publicity on the part of the management. Reports are built up on the patronage of visitors and cannot depend for support on home people. Mineral Wells, Marlin, San Antonio and other places of less repute are becoming better known all the while. Every health resort rightly conducted adds to the patronage of those already established, and brings more wealth to Texas.

BUS LINES CONSOLIDATE—The Railroad commission has given its approval to the consolidation of two bus lines operating between Austin and San Antonio. These lines have been operating buses every half hour between the two cities—too often for any profit—and hereafter will run hourly schedules, with the consent of the commission. The operation over highways of more buses than needed for the convenience of travel not only results in financial losses, but is reflected in poor equipment, and besides, is an unnecessary use and wear of the roadways.

EVANGELIST HERE SUNDAY—Evangelist Lynn Squires will preach at the First Methodist church Sunday at 3 o'clock. He is well known in Cisco, having held several revivals here. The Ely orchestra will play.

Nobile Is Over Unexplored Arctic

ITALIAN FLIER SIGHTS FRANZ JOSEPH LAND

LONDON, May 16.—General Umberto Nobile, commander of the polar dirigible Italia, sent out a radio message today that he had sighted Franz Joseph Land and was attempting to chart hitherto unexplored portions of the Arctic, according to a Central News dispatch from King's Bay. The dirigible is functioning perfectly but is flying low because of the fog in the upper strata, the dispatch said.

HOMESICK BOY IS PICKED UP BY COPS HERE

A real homesick boy was Earl Case, 17, who was picked up by the night patrol of the Cisco police force while asleep at the Union passenger station here Tuesday night. The boy, with tears streaming down his face, Wednesday implored Chief White to release him and allow him to continue his journey home. However, the chief thought best to hold him until he could communicate with his step-father, who lives near Dallas. "I can make it to Dallas today if you will let me go," the boy told the chief, but he was placed in charge of R. B. Gustafson and taken out to Lake Cisco to be cared for until his step-father could send money for his ticket home. Chief White would not allow him to beat his way back to his home.

Case said he was returning home after a tour of the West Coast, and was anxious to see home folks again. He indicated that he had been cured of the wanderlust, and would be content to stay in the family circle after seeing the great outdoors.

Three other boys sought refuge from the storm Tuesday night by requesting a place to sleep. They were released Wednesday morning.

CISCOAN MADE PRESIDENT OF T. U. GLEE CLUB

Otho M. Stubblefield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stubblefield, of Cisco, has been elected president of the Men's Glee club of the University of Texas. Otho has been an active member of the Glee club since he entered the University. A score of concerts have been given by the club this year, in which it traveled over 2,000 miles to establish a record for the club.

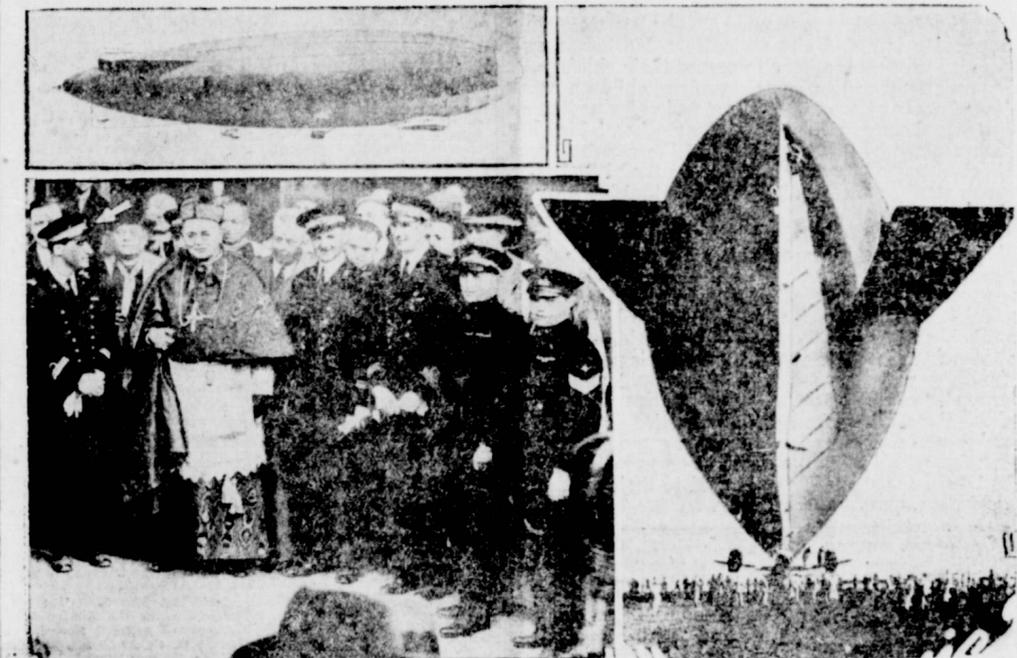

It is quite an honor to be chosen head of the University Glee club, as it is one of the oldest musical organizations in the state, having been organized over 30 years ago.

HOOVER MONEY GIVEN TO G.O.P. HEADS IN SOUTH

250,000 Shares of Stock, $410,000 in Cash Returned by Sinclair to Company as Sequel to Oil Scandal

NEW YORK, May 16.—Another chapter in the Teapot Dome scandal was written today when Harry P. Sinclair at the annual meeting of the Sinclair Oil company here offered to return to the company 250,000 shares of stock he obtained in exchange for 501,000 shares of Mammoth Oil company stock. He also offered to pay back $410,000 cash which he received as dividends on the Sinclair stock. The board of directors accepted the offer. The Mammoth company was formed by Sinclair and some of his associates to develop the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

T. & P. CEASES TAKING WATER OF LAKE CISCO

"For the present at least, the Texas & Pacific railroad will hardly take any more water from Lake Cisco," R. E. Scott, water superintendent, said Wednesday. The recent rains have given the road all the water it will need at the present time. C. F. Coie, local station agent, also stated. Cisco is glad to have been able to supply the road with the water it needed during the past dry spell.

BOND ALLOWED J. H. DUMAS BY HIGHER COURT

AUSTIN, May 16.—J. H. Dumas, charged with conspiracy to commit murder in Upton county, was granted $5,000 bond by the court of criminal appeals here today. The charges grew out of Ranger Captain Frank Hamer's allegation of existence of a "murder ring" to collect the Texas Bankers' association reward of $5,000 for benefits killed in the robbing of banks. The district court in Upton county refused to allow him bond.

FLAMES DESTROY AUTO. DAMAGE SEVERAL OTHERS

A fire alarm was turned in Tuesday afternoon about 3 o'clock from the Gomer Williams building on East Sixth street, formerly occupied by the Rumph Motor Co. One Ford car was completely burned and several other used cars were damaged, according to C. O. Pass, chief of the C. O. Pass Chevrolet company. The building was occupied as a used car store, and Mr. Pass said the fire originated while the porter was working on the car. The porter gave the alarm as soon as he saw it was beyond his control and the department responded quickly, extinguishing the blaze before greater damage resulted.

ASSAULT CHARGE PLACED AGAINST PILOT'S ATTACKER

PONTIAC, Mich., May 16.—A charge of assault to do great bodily harm was preferred today against Clarence Frenchett, who is alleged to have slugged Harry Anderson, pilot of an airplane in which they were flying 2,000 feet in the air.

Tracks of Katy Railroad Near Sedwick Washed Out; House on Creek at Albany Is Swept Away

Rains which have been falling over the major portion of West Texas almost daily since last Friday have reached the point where they are resulting in damage at some places although as a whole the continued precipitation is beneficial to growing crops because of the long dry spell which preceded it. The downpour Tuesday night washed out portions of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad track for several miles in the vicinity of Sedwick. The southbound passenger train scheduled to arrive at midnight had not reached Cisco early Wednesday afternoon. The Texas & Pacific schedule was not affected.

At Albany a small two room house, located on the bank of Hubbard creek, was swept away Tuesday night when the continued rains sent the stream on a rampage. The occupants learned of the danger in time to escape and save some of their belongings. Their escape was made during the heaviest part of the rain. Several bridges in the vicinity of Albany were washed out by Hubbard and other creeks when they left their banks.

Heaviest Rain of Year.—Tuesday night's rain, which was general in this section, was the largest of the year to date in Cisco, the rain gauge at the city hall recording one and a quarter inches. The heaviest precipitation was between 8:25 and 8:35, a half inch falling in the 10-minute period. The rain was accompanied by hail at intervals and a high wind.

Lake Cisco rose one foot and two inches from this rainfall, and Lake Bernice rose two feet and four inches. R. E. Scott, water superintendent, estimates that 226,512,681 gallons of water was stored in Lake Cisco by the continued precipitations.

"The heaviest rain did not fall on the water shed of Lake Cisco," Scott said, "as reports show that much heavier rains fell both north and south of Lake Cisco."

Damage Done by Hail.—Heavy hail storms are reported around Eastland, Ranger, Breckenridge, and other sections of the county. Henry Stubblefield said he had reports that his farm Southwest of Cisco, was badly washed, and considerable damage was done by the hail.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Swope, who visited the Daily News office Wednesday while en route home to Abilene from Rising Star, reported hailstones larger than turkey eggs in some places near Rising Star Tuesday afternoon and night. Mrs. Swope said the stones were great chunks of ice, stripping trees of foliage and badly damaging crops.

OPERATION ON SHERIFF ENDS IN HIS DEATH

The section around Pioneer was reported badly damaged by hail. Streams in the southern part of the country were out of their banks from the rain, and all plowed lands were badly washed.

GOLSON HOTEL, RANGER, IS LEASED FOR 10 YEARS

RANGER, May 16.—B. H. Murphy, manager of the Golson hotel, for more than a year, and the Blue Bonnet Hotel company Inc., reached an agreement Tuesday, whereby Murphy took over a ten-year lease on the hostelry from the hotel company. The lease went into effect May 1, but final papers were not signed until Tuesday. Floyd Singleton, president of the Blue Bonnet company, and widely known in Ranger and Texas hotel circles, represented his company.

MAYOR TELLS OF CHANGE IN TRAFFIC LAW

The following statement, explaining some of the changes in parking of automobiles on D avenue, was issued Wednesday by Mayor J. M. Williamson: At the regular meeting of the commission held Tuesday afternoon, May 14, 1928, it was determined to limit parking on D avenue to one hour and to stop all curb parking on this street, allowing stops at curb to let shoppers out, to unload produce and to load purchases—cars must be stopped parallel and right hand wheels not more than six inches from curb. Traffic must move as near curb as possible. In order to keep traffic lanes open and reduce hazards it is necessary to enforce these regulations and I call upon merchants and drivers of vehicles to cooperate with officers to the end that there may be as little confusion and inconvenience as possible.

By order of the city commission, J. M. WILLIAMSON, Mayor.

COL. PERKINS SEEKS W.T.C.C. PRESIDENCY

ALPINE, May 15.—The candidacy of Col. John Perkins for the presidency of the West Texas chamber of commerce was formally launched Tuesday by the Brewster county chamber of commerce. His candidacy has been endorsed by the Jeff Davis county chamber of commerce and other organizations of this section. In an address at a luncheon held following the announcement Col. Perkins stated the major planks in his platform would be the development of agriculture, livestock, and the mining industries of West Texas; upbuilding of all educational institutions now located in West Texas; the conservation of natural resources and the progressive development of same; with special attention paid to the great reserves of petroleum and natural gas.

I. J. LAMB RECOVERING FROM APPENDICITIS OPERATION

I. J. Lamb, caretaker of the city hall, who went on the operating table at the Graham sanitarium two weeks ago for an appendicitis operation, has sufficiently recovered to be taken home. He was dismissed from the hospital Tuesday. He was reported to be doing exceedingly well today. Since he became a patient at the hospital Mr. Lamb has been attended by his son, Nathaniel Lamb, and his daughter, Mrs. Noel Walker, both of Seadrift.

FIRE CHIEF TELLS HOW TO TELEPHONE ALARM

"In case of fire, call chief operator at the telephone exchange, give her the location of the fire and she will do the rest," C. O. Pass, chief of the Cisco fire department, said Wednesday. "Unless this rule is observed much delay and confusion often results. By simply telling of the fire to the chief operator who answers the call valuable time is lost, as she has to transmit the message to the chief operator. If all would observe this method in reporting the fire the department will be greatly facilitated."

SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUSTS

When men now eligible to vote were four-year-old babies, some insects laid eggs and died. This summer, in hundreds of places, thousands of insects hatched from those eggs will emerge from the ground at nearly the same time.

Brood II of the "seventeen-year locust," or periodic cicada, is expected to make its debut this year. Authorities say that cicada conventions will be held in portions of Connecticut, the District of Columbia, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia.

Something like thirty broods of the so-called seventeen-year locust are known in this country, and the cycles of their appearance have been tabulated in the territories occupied by each. The general region covered by the different broods together is east of central Kansas, and north of northern Florida.

Of course, writes A. B. Champlain, state Entomologist of Pennsylvania, in the June issue of Popular Science Monthly, the "seventeen-year locust" is not a locust at all, but a cicada, one of the bug family. The true locust is a close relative of the grasshoppers, crickets and roaches.

Most insects "grow up" in from less than one, to three or four years. The cicada, however, remains in underground burrows for sixteen years, in the middle and northern states, before emerging and transforming into the winged adult stage. In the southern states maturity is reached in thirteen years.

Brood II occupies chiefly the more densely settled areas of the Atlantic seaboard. The experience of this territory in 1911 tells us what to expect in 1928. Where the "locusts" swarmed at their best, the purring rattle of their air drums became almost deafening. Strange to say, only the males can sing. Why, no one knows.

Thousands of the creatures swarmed on tree trunks, on foliage, and on the ground, jostling each other to find a comfortable perch.

The periodic cicada measures from one and a quarter to one and a half inches in length. It is black, banded, and marked with some orange on the abdomen, and has six reddish legs. Bright red spots like headlights artistically adorn the front, while four shiny transparent wings contain a network of orange-colored veins.

RUBBER

Dr. Richard E. Riehl, who directs a rubber research institute in Java, has come to America to study our rubber manufacturing methods. He will learn much of value regarding that end of the industry. As for the other end, the production of crude rubber, Americans may learn from him. Synthetic rubber, he declares, is an idle dream. Rubber will continue to be grown by human cooperation with nature, not made in a laboratory. That is not because of scientific impossibility but because of the cheap labor in Java and other rubber growing regions.

ROOF SIGNS

Will Rogers, making a typical Oklahoma gesture, offered to pay for the paint used by any city in spreading its name on some roof for the guidance of aviators. So great is the response that he has had to hedge a little, making good his offer only in cities of not more than four letters, then dropping to three. Even that will cost him, or somebody, a lot of money. Our philanthropists, notably paint companies and brush makers, are getting into the game. From present indications, there will soon be as many town names painted on roofs as on railroad stations. That will boost flying. The next thing needed then will be an airplane that can land on a roof and rise from it. Except for playgrounds and sunrooms, there's no better use for city roofs.

SCHOOL DOINGS

Kansas seems to take high school scholarships seriously. For some years the Emporia Teacher College has been holding what the sports writers would call a "brain tourney." Representatives from many of the high schools of the state meet at Emporia and compete in learning in everything from plane geometry to commercial law. Spelling, mathematics, world history and most other subjects found in any good high school course appear on the list of competitive entries. There are even hardy students who are entered for "general scholarship." One might think that such an event would be interesting and exciting only when it was a novelty. Not so. This year, according to a Kansas paper, the interest was keener than ever before, the number of enrolled entries larger than ever. More than 1,200 pupils from 86 high schools signed up for the event. Come to think of it, this isn't the only evidence of scholastic enthusiasm there has been. We seem to remember running across items from other parts of the country about oratorical contests and debates and "honor days" on which the whole school unites to pay tribute to pupils who have excelled in their studies. There's life in the nation's public schools.

COUNTRY PLAYGROUNDS

W. J. Faust, head of the Recreation Association of America, is concerned about farm boys and girls because they have no uniform playgrounds, no instruction from elders and none of the play stimulation commonly afforded city youngsters. He has found country parents too busy to amuse their children. It is probably true that some country children never learn how to play and fail to get full enjoyment from their rural surroundings. One city mother, taking her own youngsters to visit friends in the country, was shocked to find that the children on the visited farm never went on rambles in the woods that lay back of the grain fields and pasture land. These country children had never paddled in the very charming brook that crossed their farm until the city children set the example. They sometimes went on picnics to an amusement park some miles away, but they never picnicked in their own woods or orchard. There are probably many like them. What such children need, it seems to some thoughtful observers, is not so much "uniform playgrounds" with playground apparatus, as an introduction to the opportunities that lie all about them. They need such instruction in bird lore and nature study as city children now receive in progressive schools. And no doubt some parents need to be taught that play is as essential to their children's right development as fresh milk.

Modern Effort To Beautify Cities Lends Charm To Loft Building

A feature of the city's life, it appears, is today too drab to be beautified by the architect or the owner when charm is really desired. This is the latest in loft buildings in the heart of New York City's far district where Cass Gilbert, creator of many beautiful American architectural specimens, made use of terra cotta to develop a highly decorative motif in detailed detail and color. Both in design of the spandrels on the front of the building and in the color of the beautiful polychrome friezes, he repeated more than one hundred times many of the details—an economical way of achieving a brilliant result. The inset shows the polychrome terra cotta panels over the entrances and the flanking lions, this being the only detail that does not repeat in the entire structure. The panel is a modern adaptation of an ancient design and is in its individual way symbolic of the futuristic quality.

SUIT PENDING FOR RAMSOWER OIL INTERESTS. EASTLAND, May 16.—Another lawsuit is an obstacle in the path of Col. R. D. Gordon's effort to come back in the oil game. Since his discovery of the Gordon pool, in the Ramsower field, fine miles northeast of Cisco, where he still retains valuable interests, many obstacles have retarded his progress. And now a suit for $25,000 and recognition of their interests, have been filed in the district court by Walter Rosenbaum and Stanley J. Kern of Pittsburgh against Colonel Gordon, Mrs. L. A. Ramsower, the West Adams Petroleum corporation and Edwin Larson. The plaintiffs claim an interest in the Ramsower lease and, in addition to asking the court to recognize their right title and interest, they ask $25,000 as damages. Owens & Owens, of Eastland, are plaintiffs' attorneys.

Hard Rain Fails to Dampen Ardor of Entertainers from City of Ranger

Tickville Band, "4 Leaks From Big Dam" Chautauqua Features; Eastland Lions Appear Tonight

A deluge of rain Tuesday night kept many Ciscons away from the Lions club chautauqua at the high school auditorium but it did not dampen the ardor of the Ranger Lions, who presented the evening's program. The crowd, considerably smaller than that of Monday night, showed its appreciation of the efforts of the entertainers from the neighboring city.

The Tickville Band, outlandishly garbed, opened the program with a variety of numbers. They were mostly airs of yesteryear. Although it was intended as a farcical offering, it was apparent that real talent was possessed by the players in their grotesque make-ups. "Gripping Gus" Coleman was interloper.

Two pleasing dancing numbers were given by two young sisters, Little Dorothy Neal, hardly old enough for school, gave an interpretive dance, "To a Wild Rose." Peggy Neal did the "Varsity Drag." An Irish song that has never grown old despite its years—"When Irish Eyes are Smiling"—was sung by Miss Christine Schmuck and it was one of the best numbers of the evening. She was followed by Miss Gillian Buchanan in a violin obligato. J. M. Edwards pleased the audience with a vocal number, "Pale Moon." "Spring Awakening" with Miss Buchanan, violinist, Miss Nell Tubbs, pianist, and Luther Brothers, clarinet was also well received.

The closing number was "Four Leaks From the Big Dam." Four men in the attire of tramps and in a hobnob setting, reminisced and sang songs of home and mother. They drew big hands from the audience.

Tonight's entertainment will be offered by the Eastland Lions. The program, which promises to be one of the week's best, is as follows:

1. Drago Ensemble, Mrs. C. G. Norton, accompanist. (a) "Fun on the Mail" (Severn); (b) "Largo" (Dvorak); (c) "Spanish Dance" (Moskowsky).

VESPER MUSIC PROGRAM WINS AUDIENCE HERE

A large and appreciative audience listened to the vesper program given by the pupils of Dr. G. C. Morris last Sunday evening in the Presbyterian church. The program was one which would do credit to a much larger town than Cisco.

The opening number, a violin and organ duet by Dr. and Mrs. Morris, was most pleasing. Mrs. Morris plays with a grace and smoothness of tone which is delightful to hear, and Dr. Morris handles the organ in a masterly way which shows all the possibilities of this particular instrument.

Those pupils taking part on the program gave evidence of their months of careful instruction under Dr. Morris. Each one displayed great improvement since the public program last February.

The following program was given:

Organ and violin, "Nina," Pergolesi—Dr. and Mrs. Morris.

Piano, "Callirhoe," Chaminade—Mrs. Frank Nikel.

Voice, "Close to Thee," Rolfe—Miss Elizabeth Simmons.

Piano, "Valse in E Flat," Chopin—Miss Ora Howell.

Voice, organ and violin, "O Dry Those Tears," del Rio—Mrs. Louise Medaris.

Piano, "Gavotte," Bach; "Butterfly," Grieg; "Dance Caprice," Grieg—Miss Eunice Goodie.

Voice, "Mother, 'Tis You," Morris; "Knownest Thou That Land," from "Mignon," Thomas—Miss Ella Andrie.

Piano and organ, "Serenade," Czerny—Mrs. E. L. Graham.

Dr. Morris.

Poem, "Music," James Russell Lowell—Mrs. Morris.

Piano, "Juba Dance," Dett; "May Night," Palmgren; "Japanese Eude," Poldini—Mrs. Donald Kinnaird.

DARK COLORED SHOES WORN THIS SPRING

PARIS, May 16.—Dark-colored shoes are going to be worn this summer, the light tones of last year having been displaced by richer ones of sable, brown and nigger.

Shoes made of delicate, supple place kid in a shade of dark sapphire-blue, have a handbag to match. Black ones trimmed with pleated leather in red have handbags in the same shade. Alligator-skin makes a new low-cut Oxford, tie in rich brown and has a novel bag of envelope order in hexagonal shape to go with them.

Sealskin is soft and yielding and makes some attractive shoes in brown and dark blue. A model in navy has a triple collar of lizard. Black sealskin with a dull finish, has a collar of polished lizard. Other black shoes for dress wear show strappings and set in contrasting pieces of leather.

There are more trimmed shoes for out-of-door wear than have been seen for a long time and bear the trend toward femininity. Discreet insets and attractive collars are being tried on walking-shoes to change the one-tone idea. Reptile shoes are still worn with a certain amount of trimming on them.

For evening shoes of satin with silver kid collars are frequently seen. The satin is usually white and dyed to match the frock. Sandal shapes are deeply cut down at the sides. There are a good many solid and silver tinsel court shoes that will go with a variety of frocks. Beading, too, is to be seen. Oxidized metal shoes are embroidered in crystal beads and the vamp of a satin shoe is studded with steel. Multi-colored brocade shoes are now out of favor and trimmed evening shoes of satin or tulle have taken their places.

A new experiment is being tried with heavy crepe de Chine for evening shoes of dull fabric, but one is likely to find that they stretch.

Economy Promises of Moody Have Been Ignored, Wardlaw Charges in Political Talk at Comanche

COMANCHE, May 16.—The second term issue as affecting the race for governor of Texas was discussed in detail here Tuesday night by Louis J. Wardlaw, assistant for the seat now held by Governor Moody. Wardlaw based his argument upon an appeal to the business judgment of the people.

"If you were hiring a man to conduct your business and tenure of his service was to run two years, if he made you specific promises as to how he would conduct that business and then did not perform as he promised, would you re-employ him for two years more?" the candidate asked.

He charged that Governor Moody specifically promised the people of Texas that he would not increase expenditures, but that in the face of this he approved an appropriation bill of $31,000,000, the largest in the history of the state. In addition, he charged that Governor Moody approved huge increases in salaries for state employees, citing the increase in the judicial appropriation bill, and also the increase in salaries among others of the employees of the executive office.

Wardlaw was introduced here by Oscar Callaway, former congressman, Comanche lawyer and ranchman. The candidate has been greeted throughout the week by large crowds, the largest since he began his campaign. In Comanche he severely harangued the methods of the highway commission of Texas, charging that a great surplus of money taken from the people in most Texas counties had been expended in a favorite few under the direction of R. S. Sterling, chairman of the commission. He again urged that the office be made elective and that the state be divided into four districts with a fifth commissioner-at-large to act as chairman. His advocacy of the repeal of the auto license law met with cheers from the audience.

From Comanche the candidate will go to Brownwood, where he speaks Wednesday night. From there he will go down the Santa Fe for engagements during the remainder of the week at Goldthwaite, Lampasas and Temple.

THOSE STAGE GIRLS WORRY HOUSTONIANS

HOUSTON, May 16.—Houston this week is engaged in a hefty argument concerning the mooted question of censorship. The onslaught against the stage is being led by the Women's City club.

"It's the rouderville that's bad," said Mrs. T. L. Waugh, committee member. "The women and girls on the stage need to put on more clothes—rather some clothes. They are not wearing any now." "I haven't seen anything that looks so bad," George Woods, chairman of the censor board said. He declared that "we see more on the streets than we do on the stage."

BAPTISTS BACK ONLY DRY MEN FOR PRESIDENT

UPHILL FIGHT OF ORIENT IS TOLD BOARD

WICHITA, Kan., May 15.—A romance of business—the story of how the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad was received from the government after the war as virtually a junk heap and brought to a state of efficiency on a financial shoestring—was told President Coolidge's fact finding board in the Orient water dispute here Monday by E. H. Shauler, general manager of the road.

The purpose of the evidence was to show that funds of the road are being spent on equipment needed to keep trains moving and to preserve for the 600 brothers' members threatening to strike the jobs they now hold.

The Orient contends that despite increased earnings in recent years it can not at present pay the "standard wage" asked by the Brotherhood because funds must be used for new equipment, new improvements under the heading of "deferred maintenance."

Within four years the Orient will, at its present rate of progress, recite the entire system at a cost of $1,363,000. Shauler said on being cross-examined by S. P. Harvey, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The Orient introduced 26 exhibits to show its record of close purchasing and economy. It was asserted the Orient obtains sand and gravel ballast for its road-

OIL PRODUCTION DOWN BECAUSE OF WEST TEXAS

TULSA, Okla., May 16.—With the productive West Texas fields settling the pace in reverse during the past week, the oil industry here had set the pace in advances for several previous weeks—total daily average production of oil in the United States decreased 108,856 barrels during the seven day period, according to the Oil and Gas Journal. The decrease in light gravity oil production was 99,250 barrels, with the remainder from 406,312 barrels for the week ending May 5 to 305,435 barrels last week.

Oklahoma production also decreased during the week from 617,400 barrels to 613,000 barrels. This put it in third place for the week, as California production was estimated at 619,750 barrels. Total production of Texas in first place was approximately 665,000 barrels.

Seminole production decreased from 220,320 to 218,825 barrels. All other major fields in the state had decreases of a few hundred barrels each.

The only large increase of the week was in the Gulf coast fields, where daily average production increased 8,550 barrels or heavy crude Arkansas heavy also increased about 1,000 barrels.

IDEA FOR "THE GAUCHO" GOTTEN AT REAL SHRINE

Douglas Fairbanks' inspiration for his new "Gaucho" picture, reaching the Palace theater next Sunday for three days, in which he appears as a bandit chief, comes directly from his visit to the famous shrine at Lourdes, France.

The star last year was affected by the sight of many stricken and maimed pilgrims, as well as by the faith cures. The mighty urge and influence of the shrine suggested a production, and Doug visualized the conflict of the sinister forces of greed and those of faith.

The result is a gripping story against the background of the Andes and the pampas countries of South America. An imaginary city has grown about a place of healing shrine, sacrifice and rescue combine in a picture calculated to thrill as well as charm.

tator and a bandit outlaw. Fairbanks appears in the latter role, the title role of "The Gauchito." He has chosen the picturesque plainsman, now becoming extinct, as a character little known to film audiences and therefore of novel interest.

The conflict between the gauchito bandits and the army of the dictator, between the love of a wild village girl and a fair pilgrim to the shrine; the deeds of daring, treachery, sacrifice and rescue combine in a picture calculated to thrill as well as charm.
