FILIBUSTERERS RULING SENATE

Obstructionist Group Paralyzes Congress; Tactics Relaxed Long Enough to Consider Two Reports

WASHINGTON, May 25.—After paralyzing congress for more than 24 hours by blocking all legislation in the senate, a group of senators at noon today relaxed long enough to permit the adoption of a conference report on the $100,000,000 Muscle Shoals project. The filibuster was resumed immediately by opponents of the Boulder Dam bill but was relaxed a few minutes later to permit the consideration of a conference report on the tax reduction bill. A sharp fight developed over the action of the conferees in dropping the provision for publicity on tax returns.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Charles M. Schwab, who last year succeeded the late Elbert H. PRESBYTERIAN MERGER VOTE IS UP MONDAY

ST. LOUIS, May 25.—Proposed union of the Southern Presbyterian church with the United Presbyterian church will be voted on Monday afternoon at the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian church in session here.

The proposal is to submit the basis of union to the various Presbyteries. Under the procedure of the two churches, the union can not be completed before 1929.

The Southern Presbyterian church known officially as the Presbyterian church in the United States, has a membership estimated at 300,000. The United Presbyterian church numbers about 175,000.

It is proposed that the two bodies shall agree upon the Westminster confession of faith and the longer and shorter catechism, now held in common by the two churches, and in addition the confessional statement of the United Presbyterian church.

In the union it would be affirmed that the church's mission is exclusively spiritual and that its synods and councils are "not to meddle with civil affairs," although "it is the imperative duty of the church, through its members, as citizens of the civil commonwealth, to apply the principles of Christianity to the moral, social and industrial conditions of society."

PENNSYLVANIA CONGRESSMEN TO AID HOOVER

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Nine members of the 33 Republican members of the Pennsylvania congressional delegation joined 115 Republican representatives from other states at a private dinner here Thursday night in pledging their support to Herbert Hoover for the presidential nomination.

The dinner, which Hoover attended and addressed, was one of a number of such gatherings of house backers of the commerce secretary that have been going on for several months, but Hoover managers saw extra significance in the attendance for the first time of the Pennsylvania group.

BRINGS ABOUT REAL SPOTLESS TOWN

You've all heard of Spotless Town—perhaps you've wondered where it is—or if there was such a place. Well, there most certainly is, and it's located in Marietta, Oklahoma. There's no getting away from the fact that Marietta is just about the cleanest little town in the world! You can't find a speck of dirt anywhere. Credit for polishing up the pleasant township must go to George Burnitt, who owns 599 acres of land in Love County, and could spend his winters in Florida and his summers in Canada. If he wanted to, without worrying away from the rest of his life to pleasure, Mr. Burnitt has dedicated his time to keeping Marietta spotless. He was elected Commissioner of Streets a short while ago, and the next day he was right on the job with broom and dump cart. And now, with a helper, he scans the streets of this village twice a day. Burnitt himself pays the salary of his assistant, and turns over his own official pay envelope to charity. In spite of the nature of his work, Burnitt insists on wearing his diamonds on the job, and the street-sweeper's hands have often puzzled visitors.

Posse of 200 and Airplanes Close in on Four Bandits Who Robbed Bank in Colorado, Killing Three in Raid

LAMAR, Colo., May 25.—Sheriff Alderman and a posse of 200 men, assisted by two airplanes, have surrounded the four bandits who Thursday robbed the First National Bank of Lamar of $20,000 and kidnaped a teller after killing the president and cashier of the bank. The bandits are near the Colorado-Kansas boundary line at Dighton, Kan., on the Smoky Hill river and their capture is imminent. A savage gun battle is being waged between the outlaws and the posse.

E. A. Kessinger, the kidnaped teller, was slain by the bandits evidently after the robbery. His body is reported to have been found near Dodge City, Kan.

A. M. Parrish, president of the bank, a past member of the state legislature and prominent in state Republican circles, was shot and killed by the gunmen when he fired several shots at them in response to their command to "stick 'em up."

John Parrish, his son and cashier of the bank, seeing his father fall before the bandits' fire, drew his own gun and shot and seriously wounded one of the quartet before he, in turn, was shot dead.

BYRNES TAKES APPEAL FROM DEATH DECREE

AUSTIN, May 25.—An appeal was filed today in the court of criminal appeals by Floyd Newton Byrnes, convicted of the murder of Myrna Juergens, 14, in Tom Green county and sentenced to death. The girl's mother and grandmother, Mrs. Rose Schirra, were butchered at the same time early in March.

The triple slaying was one of the most brutal in the annals of Texas. Byrnes, who had made his home with the Juergens family, was arrested in East Texas and returned to San Angelo. In a purported confession he said that he had killed the three because Mrs. Juergens had rebuked him for signing her husband's name to checks.

Short Course in Hotel Keeping to Be Conducted at Abilene for Handling Druggists' Convention

ABILENE, May 23.—During the week of June 4 and 9 a short course in hotel keeping and service-giving will be held in Abilene under the direction of L. M. Drown and Phil Ford, managers of two hotels of the city. Already more than 1,000 people have enrolled for the course. All participants are members of prominent families of the city and their enrolling in this unique school is a result of several hundred homes in the city having been opened to supplement the facilities of Abilene hotels to provide housing accommodations for the more than 2,000 members of the Texas Pharmaceutical association who will be in the city for the annual meeting of the association June 12, 13 and 14.

Very few of the owners of the homes in which the drug men and their wives will be housed have ever had any experience in hotel keeping and therefore the special school to acquaint them with the proper methods to use in giving real service to their paying guests.

In addition first-class hotel service will be available at the modern fireproof dormitories of Simmons University, Abilene Christian College and McMurry College. There are eight of those buildings and all of them will be used if necessary. The dormitories are all on street car or regular operated bus lines.

"No person who wants to attend the convention need fear he will have any trouble getting a good room in which to sleep," declares John B. Ray, chairman of the housing committee. "We will have rooms for 3,500 people if they are needed and they will all be good ones."

HIGHER CREDIT GIVEN C. H. S. ON STENOGRAPHY

Unsung, Cisco high school has been granted an additional one-half unit for first year stenography, according to a communication to J. J. Youngblood, superintendent of Cisco schools, from the educational department at Austin. The communication is from A. M. Blackburn, chief supervisor of high schools, who said that the committee on classified and accredited high schools had authorized this increase.

"Hereafter the credit will be listed as shorthand, one unit, and typewriting one-half unit. Your school has been granted this increase of credit upon evidence of satisfactory work. Under this arrangement it is recommended that typewriting be given the year before shorthand is taken up, and be a prerequisite for enrollment in shorthand classes." Blackburn wrote.

"Our school had not made application for this extra one-half unit," Youngblood said, "but the state inspector who visited our school during the year was well pleased with the excellent work that P. L. Kelley is doing in the commercial department. We are certain that it was due to the inspector's recommendation that we were given this additional credit in stenography. This increase now gives Cisco high school a total of 35 units of affiliation with the state department of education." P. L. Kelley, who has been with the Cisco schools for the past eight years, is a graduate of the Bowling Green Business university, with the degree of bachelor of business administration. He also has an A. B. degree from Abilene Christian college.

MUCH FEARED GUNMAN MEETS DEATH

Patrick Mitchell (upper inset), better known in New York's underworld as "The Lynx," met his death as he had lived. He was lured to a rendezvous by telephone by the promise of information which would give him something on a certain speakeasy. "The Lynx" was ever on the lookout for any leads which would give him a hold which he could use to draw graft from his victim and fell for the trap. He arrived at the speakeasy and was seized by five of his enemies. He was given one minute to pray. The timekeeper tolled the fatal seconds. Five guns were ready at "The Lynx's" head. Sixty—the guns belched and "The Lynx" fell dead.

STOCKMAN AT LUBBOCK FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

LUBBOCK, May 25.—Pat Wolfarth, 70, one of the pioneer ranchers of the South Plains, was found dead on a vacant lot Thursday morning. Wolfarth lay on his back with a 45-caliber gun underneath his right hand on his breast and a bullet hole just behind his right ear. His ear was slightly powder burned. The body was partly concealed by weeds and was on a back street. No inquest has been held. Wolfarth was not at home Wednesday night. Wolfarth had lived in Lubbock county for the past ten years, having come here from Jack county. Until recently he was engaged in ranching, but had retired from business activities a few years ago. He is survived by his wife and son, Joe of Lubbock; four brothers, Easton and George C. of Lubbock; and Scott and Joe of Jacksboro; and four sisters, Mrs. A. W. Kynes, Crosbyton; and Mrs. Breech, Mrs. Monte O'Sullivan and Mrs. N. E. Owens, all of Jacksboro.

"PATENT LEATHER KID" IS WINSOME LOVE TALE

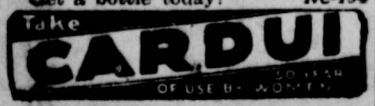

One of the sweetest love stories ever told, with the World War as a background and with dramatic interest, suspense, tragedy and flashes of clever comedy. This, in a nutshell, describes the great epic of the tank corps, "The Patent Leather Kid," which comes to the Palace theater Sunday for three days. "The Patent Leather Kid" is the story of an East Side boxer who fell in love with a cabaret dancer, who was forced into the war against his wishes, but who emerged a hero. As The Kid, Barthelmess does the finest work of his career, and the role again stamps him as one of the finest actors on the screen. Molly O'Day, a petite and charming Irish lassie, played her first dramatic role in "The Patent Leather Kid" and as a result of her characterization of "The Golden Dancer" is now hailed as a screen sensation. The war scenes in the picture are sensational. It is the first big picture that deals with the tank corps of the American army. Many tanks and thousands of troops were used in these sequences.

HYSTERICAL South Carolina Lady Then Tried Cardui and Says She Noticed Remarkable Improvement.

Anderson, S. C.—"I suffered a long long time, before I tried Cardui, and my only regret is that I did not know about it sooner," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 130 "E" Street, this city. "I was badly run down in health. My nerves went to pieces, and I had to go to bed. I was not able to do my house work for many months. "I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild. "One day I was reading and I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it, so I began on a course of the "Home Treatment." "It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly, for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable, that my family and friends were delighted. "Cardui has no equal, in my opinion. I gladly recommend it to others."

HE PAYS AND PAYS

Recently a man was notified by his seventeen-year-old daughter away at school that she had married.

"Dad," she said, "my husband (she used the word 'husband' with emphasis and dignity) will not go out of college for two years; so I want you to keep on looking after me until I get through school and he does, too.

"That's a pretty how-d'ye do!" snorted her father. "So I'm expected to support another man's wife? What sort of husband have you got anyway? I want to see him."

So the daughter brought her husband to visit her father.

"It's a fact," admitted the groom, "I shan't be through college for two years, and I haven't a dime. I am having to work my way through."

"You're a pretty sort of bird," snapped the father, "to come along here and take possession of my daughter and expect me to pay for it."

"I can't help it," said the groom. "We fell in love and couldn't live without each other. I don't see why the same financial arrangement can't go on since we are married as would have gone on had we not married. You were willing to give Mabel an education. Why shouldn't you still be willing to give it to her? She wants to continue studying, and so do I."

"You are impertinent!" raged the father. "Even if I should take care of her until you get through college, how do I know you could make enough to support her then?"

"I shan't be able to," admitted the son-in-law, "because I'm going to take a medical course and that will take me three years more."

"Do you mean to tell me," yelled the exasperated father, "that just because your wife happens to be my daughter I've got to support her for at least five years while you are monkeying around trying to learn something?"

"I'm afraid so," said the son-in-law.

"Well, I won't do it. My daughter isn't of age. She married without my consent. I'll have the marriage annulled."

"Well, if you do," calmly replied the groom, "we'll live together anyway, won't we, Mabel?"

"We will," declared Mabel.

"Well, I'll be doggoned!" shouted the father—only he didn't say "doggoned." "If you do," he said, glaring at the groom, "I'll have you put in jail."

"You can't have me put in jail unless you have her put in too," said the groom. "She'll be as guilty as I."

"Get out of here!" raved the father. And he closed the interview.

How did it turn out? Oh, you know how it turned out. The kids are going on as they wanted to. And the old man's holding the bag. This is the age of expression in children and repression in parents.

POLAR ROMANCE FADES

General Umberto Nobile sails from Spitzbergen and cruises comfortably around the North Pole, taking observations and sending daily reports to the rest of the world by wireless, returning to his base quickly and easily when he has finished the job. It is all incredibly simpler than it was in the days of Perry and Cook, when men toiled over the shifting Arctic ice with dog sleds, and took months after their discoveries to make them known to civilization. It is still interesting, but the novelty has gone out of it already. Never again may man feel, as Dr. Cook says he felt on approaching the Pole:

"We were lifted to the paradise of winners as we stepped over the snows of a destiny for which we had risked life and willingly suffered the tortures of an icy hell. The ice under us, the goal for centuries of brave, heroic men, to reach which many had suffered terribly and terribly died, seemed almost sacred. Constantly and carefully I watched my instruments in recording the final reach. Nearer and nearer they recorded our approach. My heart filled with a strange rapture of conquest. At last we stop over colored fields of sparkle, climbing walls of purple and gold—finally, under skies of crystal blue, with flaming clouds of glory, we touch the mark! The soul awakens to a definite triumph; there is sunrise within us, and all the world of night-darkened trouble fades. We are at the top of the world! The flag is flung to the frigid breezes of the North Pole!"

That will be something to remember, as we dimly remember the romance of medieval times, when we ourselves shall fly over the Pole on vacation tours.

DRAMATIC STANDARDS

The Pulitzer prize for the year's best play has been awarded, as the world knows, to Eugene

O'Neill's "Strange Interlude." This drama is best known for its length, which makes it necessary to begin in the afternoon and run through the evening, with time out for dinner. It is, as most of the critics admit, a great play. But some of them are puzzled by its winning the Pulitzer award. That honor, according to the rules laid down by Joseph Pulitzer, is supposed to go to the "original play performed in New York which shall best represent the educational value and power of the stage in raising the standards of good morals, good taste and good manners." As a brutally truthful critic points out: "The play's heroine is an introspective, neurotic woman who proffers her person promiscuously in some vague idea of sacrifice, marries a well-meaning booby and has a child by another man. With all due allowance made for its high literary quality, it is probably true, as this critic observes, that the donor of the prize would have found the play 'immoral, in bad taste, ill-mannered and of no educational value whatever.' Our culture juries render as queer verdicts as our law juries.

WITNESS IN JAIL

Somebody discovered the other day that a 16-year-old boy named Robert Lewis of Buffalo was in jail there, and had been for two months. All that Robert had done to get himself in that predicament was that he knew, or was supposed to know, something about a pending immigration case. He was arrested as a material witness regarding the alleged smuggling of an alien into the country. Bail for him was fixed at $2,000. Robert didn't have the money, and apparently had no friends willing to put it up, so he went to jail and stayed there. "It was simply a routine matter," explains a United States commissioner, interceding in Robert's behalf, "but I am surprised to find that he is still in jail." Merely showing one of the curious things that can happen in a free country.

ELECTRICAL STUFF

A bulletin from the department of the interior strayed onto the desk of the woman editor. It was not very new when she found it, and she turned it over idly before she dropped it into the waste basket. The editor it was intended for would scorn it as news by this time. It was full of figures about electrical output. Thousands of thousands of kilowatt-hours had been produced by this state and that state and the other, some using water-power, some fuels of various sorts, some using all means of production. She found herself a little surprised that neither North Dakota nor Mississippi used any water power, and decided that she had better borrow a geography from the neighbors' children. Children nowadays seem to know reasons for queer things like that. She was not surprised to see that East North Central and Middle Atlantic states running up into millions of thousands of kilowatt-hours, but she was surprised to find that they not only used fuels but had lots of water power. She was interested to see that in the month of January, for all states, water power made about 37 per cent of the whole amount of electric power used. All this was casual. Then she found a human fact, and human facts are the job of the woman editor. "The curve of average daily total output of electricity on page 7 shows a steady increase from July to February, apparently indicating favorable general business conditions throughout the country." That meant something. And beyond that, as she studied the curves from 1919 to 1928, she thought of electricity as the great general servant of mankind — taking away slavery and drudgery, supplying willing service, lightening the humble labor as well as adding to the luxuries of the rich man's abode.

CHAPMAN WILL COACH LOBOES ANOTHER YEAR

W. B. Chapman will coach the Lobos again during the 1928-29 school year. The announcement was made after the meeting of the board of trustees of the University of Texas at Austin, which took place last week at the first of the convention to his home city almost singlehanded. Thursday was read by admirers into the resolutions adopted Wednesday at the state Democratic convention at Beaumont.

The language of the resolutions, as interpreted by W. L. Dean, chairman of the state convention, at his home here makes the presentation of the Houston man's name mandatory on the Texas delegation of 40.

After expressing appreciation of Jones' "conspicuous accomplishment in behalf of his state and country," and recognition of "the qualities of leadership among men," the resolutions left the actual presentation of Jones to the national party, commending him "as suitable for the highest office in the gift of the people," and endorsing him "as the choice of the Texas Democracy for the presidency."

The Texas delegation, Dean said in a statement, will present the name of the party treasurer at the Houston convention and make a determined fight for his nomination.

Such action, he said, will be in obedience to the will of the convention as expressed in the platform and resolutions adopted.

Jones, he explained, is in full sympathy with the prohibition principles enunciated in the platform, asserting further that the Houston man "is a successful business man who can put business principles into government without putting the government into business."

Cisco schools, now superintendent of that city.

Other matters transacted at the board meeting included the election of Miss Daisy Caldwell as a teacher in the grade schools. The resignation of Miss Ingovar Leighton, home economics teacher, was received and accepted. No successor to Miss Leighton has been named. Miss Cora Lee McCall, grade teacher, was advanced to the high school. No other teachers have been announced, though it is stated that the teachers' committee has made its report, which has been adopted, recommending the re-election of all the old teachers, except those who have married or moved away. This report, however, has not yet been made public.

At a previous meeting the board set aside 33 1-3 per cent of school revenues for the sinking fund, and 66 2-3 for local maintenance fund. The 1927 rolls show the property valuations in the Cisco independent school district, rendered and unrendered, amounted to $6,791,430.

SPECIMENS OF SHARK CAUGHT BY CISCO MAN

A man eating shark, shovelbill shark, huge stingere and two huge red fish were the trophies of a fishing outing enjoyed by Henry Benjamin, of Cisco, and his brother, M. P. Benjamin, of Breckenridge, who returned Thursday from Port O'Connor where they have been enjoying deep water fishing.

These specimens of the gulf were being shown to many Cisco people at the Cisco ice factory Thursday afternoon just before their departure for Breckenridge. The fish were being used to show Breckenridge folks some of the deep water specimens.

These fish were all caught with line and reel, Henry Benjamin said. The man-eater was about four long, the shovelbill shark was a small specimen, about 14 inches, but it was a curious object to many of the dry-layers of West Texas. This fish's bill was about four inches broad, with the eyes set in each side of the bill. The stingere was a splendid specimen, being near 18 inches broad and near three feet from tip to tip. The red fish, the only edible fish brought home, were nice specimens, weighing about 10 pounds.

RICHER FABRICS FOR FASHIONABLE GOWNS

PARIS, May 25.—"Modern decoration of houses, paneled walls and austere and sanitary appearance call not only for rich stuffs in hanging, but also richer fabrics in women's clothes," says Jean C. Worth, head of the well-known Parisian dressmaking establishment in the rue de la Paix.

"It is not gold and silver that we want—nothing that shines and glitters, but a feeling of depth, soft colors of deep richness and a fullness in the silhouette which make for dignity and pose."

And so lovely old tulle silks in rich reds, blues, yellows and greens, brocaded satins and heavy flowered tafetas are the order for the moment.

Black glace chiffon with flowers in lavender, yellow and blue scattered through it makes a charming evening gown with fitted bodice, high waistline and full-tiered skirt with uneven hemline.

An evening wrap from Charlotte's comes in gray and gold lame lined with blue velvet.

Ducharme satins in a new "blush" rose tint, a pink with no tinge of blue or mauve is very becoming to blonde or brunette. Bianchini brocades come in dull tones of gold, silver, and copper, and supple satins have gorgeous designs of color or metal.

SEVEN STORES BURN IN WINK; LOSS $100,000

WINK, May 25.—Seven store buildings were destroyed here by fire Wednesday night with a property loss estimated at nearly $100,000.

Because of the lack of a fire department, citizens volunteered to fight the flames, which were put out after they had burned through more than half of the town's one business block.

The fire is believed to have started from a cigarette tossed into some rubbish at the rear of a cafe. Dynamite was used to halt the spread of flames at one end of the block.

No insurance was carried on the buildings, which were of a flimsy structure.

Extra Point Offer Is Nearing End

Opportunity to Get Big Lead in Circulation Drive by $10 Clubs Will Close at 11 Saturday Night

The workers in the Cisco Daily News and the Weekly American and Roundup will no doubt make every effort to finish up their $10 Clubs in subscriptions by Saturday night, the offer for 1,500 extra points for the $10 Clubs ends Saturday night at 11 o'clock. Subscriptions secured late Saturday or Saturday night can be sent or mailed to the Daily News on Monday and they will count for the high points when they reach the office.

The offer for the 1,500,000 points for $10 in subscriptions made up with three or six months or yearly subscriptions to the Daily News with the American or for subscriptions to the Daily News or the Weekly American is limited to one club to each worker. No one can have the extra points for more than one club.

The ladies who have made up or received a portion of their club will no doubt make every effort to get the $10 or more by Saturday night. If there is a balance over $10 same can go on the offer next week which will be 900,000 extra points for one or more $10 clubs.

Three months to both papers is $2 and secures 40,000 regular points and same will apply on the club. Six months to both papers, which gives the subscriber a paper every week, is $3, secures 100,000 regular points. One year to both papers, $4, gets 250,000 points and goes on the $10 Club for the 1,500,000 extra points. The Daily News is $4 the year with 225,000 regular points, and the Weekly American and Roundup is $1.50 a year, 30,000 regular points and same will apply on the club.

The regular clubs will be less next week as well as the special points for a $10 Club. Get an even start this week by making up a $10 Club as far as subscriptions are concerned. There is no limit to the number of points any one worker may secure for the extra coupons clipped from the two papers. A coupon is good for 17,500 points at this time.

Workers who send in the names and addresses of their friends to have free sample copies sent them and secure the coupons can build up a high number of points. There is no limit to the number of names that can be sent in. One issue of the Daily News and one issue of the Weekly American will be sent as free sample copies. Some of those who receive the sample copies will no doubt subscribe.

The race for the most points is a very close one so far in the big country wide subscription drive. There is a prize or cash award for every one. A few subscriptions and coupons this week will gain a lead that will be hard to overcome the remaining weeks of the campaign.
