TEXAS

By WILL H. MAYES, Austin.

TEXAS INVESTORS ASLEEP—Not long ago this column quoted an Eastern capitalist as saying that the failure of Texas capitalists to put money into Texas industries indicates to Eastern investors that Texans haven't that confidence in the future of Texas industries that their talk indicates. In other words, this capitalist said in substance: "If Texas industrial investments are as good as you claim they are, why don't you invest more in yourselves before asking us to put our money into them?" This apparent indifference of Texas capitalists to assist in the industrial development of the state puzzles most of our visitors. Texans seem willing enough to put money into going concerns, but they are slow to start things new. Nathan Adams, president of the Exchange National Bank of Dallas, agrees with this view. In a recent statement he said: "Texas is asleep to its possibilities in the financing and marketing of livestock and farm products, as well as in developing the state industrially." As chairman of the Texas Safe Farming association, Mr. Adams has been studying the weakness of marketing methods in the farming and livestock business. He favors an intermediate credit association, representing Texas as a whole, with sufficient capital to loan the livestock and farming interests of the state whatever may be needed to maintain prices, the loans to be available on long-time credit at low interest.

PULLMAN SURCHARGE—General Passenger Agent Adams of the Santa Fe informs me that it was wrong in a recent statement that the Pullman 50 per cent surcharge is an unjustifiable hangover from the war. He reminds me that the surcharge as a war measure was cancelled in November 1918, "primary for the reason that collection of the surcharge was extremely burdensome." He said that it was established again by the interstate commerce commission "as necessary means of adding to the inadequate revenue of the carriers." I am glad to correct an erroneous impression. The Pullman surcharge is not now a hangover war measure, except in the sense that it gave the railroad the suggestion on which it is still imposed on the travelling public. Mr. Adams says: "It was instituted on the part of the interstate commerce commission that the travelling public desired preferred service such as is obtained in a Pullman car as compared with every day chair coach chair car, then an additional charge should be made." In that sense it is correct. The public has never complained of the additional charge for Pullman service; it did not even complain of an increase of 25 per cent when an advance seemed justified by higher prices for other things; but when in extra 50 per cent was added to it as a railroad surcharge of a kind for which even the Pullman company apologizes with every receipt issued, the public began a loud complaint which even Mr. Adams could hear if he would listen. The public does not object to paying for the extra Pullman service, but does object to paying too much for it. Since the railroad will not listen to public protest, but justify the surcharge through resort to the interstate commerce commission, the public is turning as far as possible from railroad travel to bus travel. There are limits to public patience.

REDUCING BUS RATES—The bus company operating between Dallas and San Antonio, having recently acquired ownership of competing lines and reduced the number of daily trips to meet the requirements of travel, is asking the railroad commission to permit to reduce bus fares.

WANTS DALLAS' HELP—Southern Methodist university at Dallas funds that it needs $3,000,000 for its graduate schools, and the chamber of commerce of that city will not have to give the $500,000 it offered Baylor university to induce it to move there from Waco, the Methodist school is rumored, will ask that it be given that sum, agreeing to raise the rest throughout the state. It is stated too, that Baylor Medical college, located at Dallas, will ask that city for a $1,000,000 fund, higher education comes high—for Dallas.

HOUSTON IS READY—Houston is all ready and set for the Democratic convention. Announcement is made that 22,000 people can be cared for outside of hotels, and they will all be furnished with comfortable beds. Arrangements can be made on short notice to handle 5,000 automobiles. Texans who have been hesitating about going to the convention for fear they might not get beds or food are being advised that they will be well cared for during the convention and that exorbitant charges will not be asked.

McALISTER, Okla., June 2.—A wide search was being made in the mountains of Pittsburg county near here today for Ed Jackson, mountaineer, wanted in connection with the mysterious deaths of his 15-year-old wife, Myrtle Jackson, his son, Orville, 16, and daughter, Addie, 16.

Two other children at first reported missing were discovered at the home of relatives. The children are by a former wife. Jackson has been missing since Tuesday.

The body of the 10-year-old girl was found today in a cornfield by B. A. Hicks, prohibition enforcement officer, near the place where the other two bodies were found Friday. Jackson was under indictment for cattle theft and was out on bond awaiting trial. The Jacksons made their home in the mountains, which can be reached only by a tortuous route.

Rude coffins were made of boards for the three bodies as the farm was 30 miles from the nearest town where coffins could be bought.

Lyon (left), navigator, and Kingsford Smith, pilot, both Australians, and Capt. C. T. P. Um, relief pilot, and James W. Warner, radio operator. Um and Warner are Americans.

"NOT GOOD IF DETACHED" IS MAN OR WOMAN WHO REMAINS ALOOF FROM FELLOW BEINGS

"Not Good If Detached." This was the heading of the Go to Church page in Thursday's Cisco American. It dealt with the fact that a person was at great disadvantage unless attached to some church or organization having for its purpose the cooperative service that one should give his Creator.

It is no less true from the standpoint of citizenship. The man or woman who tries to live his or her life alone, in a detached way from all other citizens, is merely committing suicide so far as growth is concerned. "No man liveth to himself," is certainly true and to attempt it is sheer folly.

The man who takes no interest in community activities, serves on no committees looking to the upbuilding of his town or community, is not tasting life, nor is he offering any excuse for his existence here. He is not a part of the great world that is adding to man's accomplishments and is not serving his God really and truly because he is not adding to God's glory by using the powers with which that God endowed him.

The man who says to his neighbors: "That's fine, boys; go on with your work and I wish you well so long as it does not cost me anything," is thoroughly detached and offers no reason why he should be allowed to enjoy the blessings of civilization, which are all the result of cooperation and community work, often times at the cost of great self-denial by the few, that the masses may enjoy the fruits of these organized efforts.

No great structures could have ever been built by one man alone; no great reservoirs of water for irrigation, bringing untold fertility to the soil, could be constructed by one man, unaided by others; no great railroads, the implements for the spread of civilization in our own land, have ever served as arteries of commerce, without cooperation of men and the pooling of the wealth of many; the fine highways were never built by man detached and alone.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES The people who object to the investigation of campaign expenses of presidential candidates on the ground that it is undignified are just a little bit amusing. Surely the man who has nothing to hide need not hide behind the face of dignity.

proved themselves honorable in public service. But manners are one thing and principles another. Government can only be kept clean by keeping the white light of publicity steadily on it. And real cleanliness can only be hoped for when some ultra-violet rays shall be able to penetrate the inner workings. No high candidate, apparently, has objected to the principle of light, though Hoover became slightly peeved. Manners and methods may lack perfection. But when politicians begin to seek immunity for their prestige on the ground of dignity or any other ground, the common man is reminded of a line from that playwright made famous by his fighting devotees: "The lady doth protest too much!"

A SUPER PARACHUTE A new device to make for safer flying was tried out recently in Tracy, California. It is a giant parachute designed to bring a whole plane safely to the ground. In making the experiment, the pilot flew to an altitude of 4,000 feet. There he cut off the engine, released the controls and pulled the cord to open the parachute. For 2,000 feet the airplane fell at an alarming speed. The parachute had begun to open before that level was reached. The last 500 feet, it is reported, the plane fell as gently as a feather and touched the ground so lightly that the pilot was not even jarred. "It's a success beyond my expectation," the pilot said, "and I had faith in the thing or I would have leaped before the 1,500-foot level." According to the inventor of this particular parachute, "It is practicable for use on any plane. It means absolute safety for passenger planes of any type or size. Only a few trifling improvements are needed to make it perfect." Something of the sort was bound to come. The public should rejoice if it has really come so soon. In the meantime, planes are being made safer in themselves. The parachutes will not be needed often, but they should be ready for the occasional emergency.

GOLD IN THE SEA Some Germans had hope of paying their country's war reparations bill with gold extracted from sea water. Now that hope is dashed by Prof. Fritz Haber, a high chemical authority. He tells the Oceanic Congress in Berlin that there is no chance of extracting enough to make it worth while. There is plenty of gold in the sea. The Swedish chemist, Arrhenius, estimated that all the oceans together contained 8,000,000,000 tons of the metal. There are 30 known ways of extracting it. But enough of gold contained in any given quantity of water capable of being handled by chemical processes is so slight that it wouldn't pay. That is just as well. If the sea were a practicable gold mine, everybody would start mining it. If Germany could take out of it enough gold to pay her debts, other nations would start doing likewise and produce so much gold as to destroy its debt-paying value. Better keep to the present limited sources of supply, maintain the gold standard reasonably stable, and be thankful for the sea's wealth of fishes and seaweed.

Girl Offers Her Body To Find Radium Cure But Mme. Curie, Noted French Scientist, Says There Is No Hope

WHEN pretty Katherine Schaub, of No. 123 South Seventh Street, Newark, N. J., offered her living body to scientists in the hope of discovering a cure for the dread radium poisoning, she pre-empted a niche in the medical fraternity's hall of fame especially reserved for those who give their lives in humanity's cause. One of five young women who are slowly disintegrating from the radium poisoning, Miss Schaub had read the appeal of Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, noted toxicologist, for one of these "living dead" to make certain experiments to be made while she was yet alive. Only this was there a chance that other sufferers might be saved.

MME. CURIE (International News)

There is no cure for one who has taken the poison into his system. There can be only one result—a lingering, disintegrating death. The girl who offers her own life in order that other sufferers may have a chance for theirs, was an instructress in a radium dial-painting plant in New Jersey. There the girls were told to "point" their brushes with their lips in order to save the precious radium. Little by little they took in the deadly poison, which manifested itself months, in some cases years, later. Now the five girls with most advanced cases of poisoning are seeking to recover will be its own reward, for Mrs. Curie, noted French scientist, who, with her husband, Pierre, discovered radium in the uranium mineral pitchblende in 1898, has stated that

WEST TEXAS COLLEGES DUE FOR MORE STATE AID

Board of Control Chairman Will Seek Liberal Support for Schools at Lubbock, Canyon, Stephenville

AUSTIN, June 2. — With the board of control now in the midst of making up its legislative appropriation budget, R. B. Walthall, chairman, this week declared that he intended to give liberal support to all West Texas colleges seeking funds for new building projects.

This program will include new structures for the Texas Technological college, Lubbock; Sul Ross college, Alpine; West Texas Teachers, Canyon; North Texas Agricultural, Arlington; College of Industrial Arts, Denton; North Texas State Teachers, Denton; John Tarleton, Stephenville.

$35,000,000 Requested

The total appropriation requested by educational institutions will approximate $35,000,000. Walthall said, this after a survey conducted by Dr. H. H. Herrington, board member, and W. T. Gaston, board statistician. The fortieth legislature's appropriations to all educational institutions reached $17,000,000, this coming after the board sliced the requests in half.

"With the state growing and prospering it is certainly up to us to let our colleges and universities share in this advancement," Walthall said, "and I am confident the board will grant, or recommend many new buildings, especially for West Texas, since it is growing more rapidly. The Tech college at Lubbock has enjoyed such unusual progress that I am heartily in favor of supporting its regents' plan to ask $2,000,000 for structures. This college is anxious to complete its quadrangle and I shall do what I can toward this end.

Other Schools Growing

The schools at Canyon, Denton, Arlington, Stephenville and Alpine

also are growing healthily, and since their expansion means a great deal to Texas industrial and educational life, they will obtain my cooperation, and I believe that of the other members.

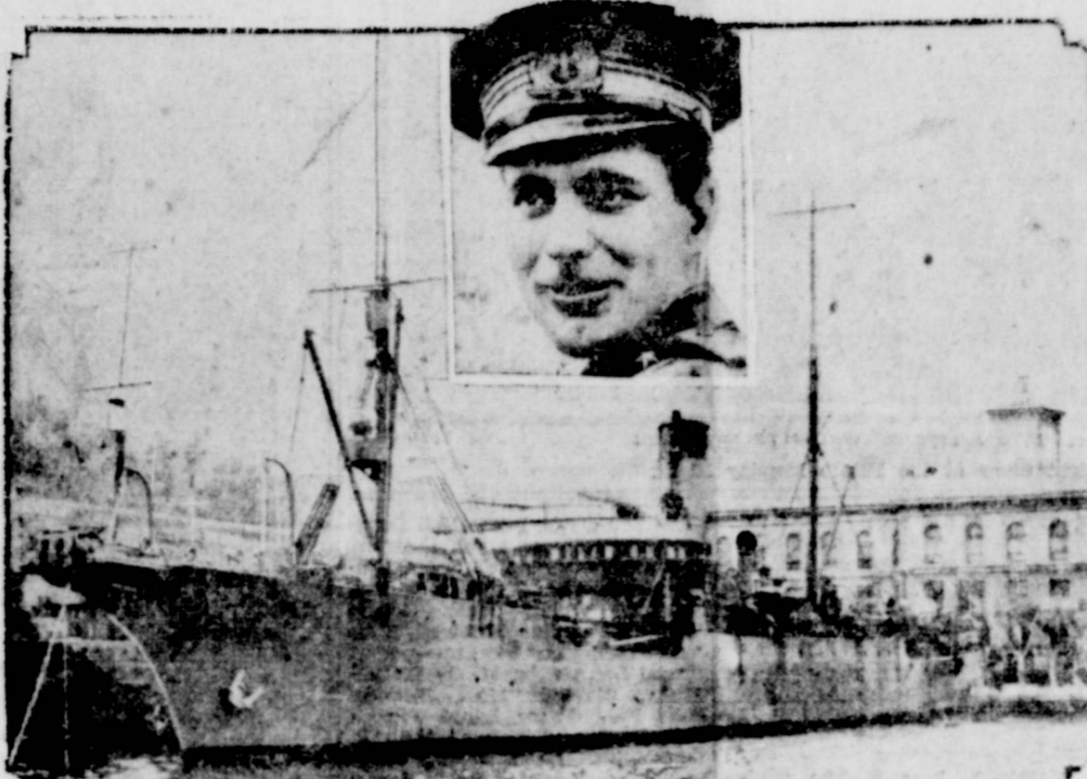

Legislative appropriations depend in a large measure upon the total property valuations and their ad valorem tax rate and this year, according to W. Gregory Hatcher, state treasurer, there will be an increase of about $200,000,000. For the 10-year period up to 1928, the annual increase in valuations was $75,000,000, but the gain in 1927 leaped to $273,000,000 unprecedented in Texas history and sending the total to $3,899,958,000. This year valuations will exceed $4,000,000,000. The general revenue fund now is more than $5,000,000.

For School of Mines.

The state university regents plan to ask the board and legislature for $600,000 for the school of mines in El Paso, a branch of the main university. If granted, it will be used for new buildings and the amount is $400,000 less than anticipated. Sul Ross and John Tarleton are badly in need of additional buildings. The latter college this fall will spend $125,000 for an auditorium and class rooms, granted by the Fortieth legislature, but even then the institutions will be handicapped for room, Dean Davis says.

The C. I. A. was allowed $150,000 for dormitory equipment and furnishing but the student body so increased that new buildings are necessary. Sul Ross got no building appropriation from the last legislature, while the Canyon building fund was $275,000. The state university is asking to increase President Benedict's salary from $10,000 to $12,000.

Salary Increase Uncertain.

"If this is granted we will have to grant increases to the heads of all the other institutions," Walthall said. "I don't know what we will do about salary increases but I am in favor of the new buildings. Also, I am opposed to establishing any new state colleges. We have enough already, and with hard-surfaced highways and automobiles it is no hardship to reach any of them. It will improve the institutions we now have and we will be doing well, and if we add more it will mean lessening the improvements all around."

At the last session the state university was given more than $3,000,000 for the biennial, leading all other institutions, A & M, coming second with $1,985,000, Texas Tech third with $1,640,000. The C. I. A. obtained $941,000. West

WARDLAW BACKED BY LARRY MILLS

AUSTIN, June 2. — Larry Mills of Dallas, one of the lieutenants in State Senator Thomas B. Love's ultra-dry Democratic camp, announces he will support Louis J. Wardlaw of Fort Worth for governor.

"Out of all the duplicity, insincerity, criss-crossing and double-crossing at the state Democratic convention at Beaumont, to my mind one thing stands out in bold relief," Mills said, "and that is that the Democratic party of Texas is sorely in need of more mature and experienced leadership—a leadership with more ability and more dependability."

3rd Prize Ballot	3,250,000 Points

14th Prize Ballot	2,100,000 Points
15th Prize Ballot	2,000,000 Points

These Ballots will be doubled to the workers who finish up their Ten Dollar Club by Tuesday night, June 9.

Workers in the Cisco Daily News and the Weekly American and Roundup country wide subscription drive who finish up their second $10 club, or more, made up of all classes of subscriptions, Monday and Tuesday, and bring mail or send them to the News office by late Tuesday or Wednesday morning will receive double points for subscriptions secured last week and for the coming week. The thirty prize ballots and extra points for one or two $10 clubs, will end Saturday at 11 o'clock, June 9. To secure these points will be a big advantage.

A number of the workers secured a portion of their club last week and in order to give every one an opportunity to have all their points doubled the time is extended until Tuesday night so that every one can have the double points for the subscriptions they may secure for the two weeks.

Securing subscriptions is a difficult task, money is tight, but it is just as hard for one worker as for another and those who are able to secure the few subscriptions necessary to make up a $10 club are the ones who will have the best opportunity to win one of the automobiles and all of the valuable awards that will be made Saturday, June 9. There are only four more weeks of the drive and no worker has accumulated or built up such a high number of points but that a few subscriptions and coupons would change the standing of the leaders in either of the districts.

THRILLS FROM "THE WIZARD"

Scene from 'The Wizard' a William Fox attraction. Midnight Show at the Palace Monday Night.

"THE WIZARD" SENSATIONAL FILM OF THRILLS, MYSTERY

"The Wizard" a mystery photodrama with Edmund Lowe of "What Price Glory" fame is the feature role at the Palace theater's Monday night show for Monday night at 10:30 o'clock.

With Leila Hyams in the feminine lead and such well known screen actors as Gustave Von Seyffertitz, Harry Newton, E. H. Calvert and Norman Trevor in the cast, Richard Rossen, the director, has produced an exceptionally fine entertainment.

"The Wizard" is based on the sensational French play "Baloo" by Gaston Leroux and is the story of an eccentric scientist who humiliated an ape to do his bidding and to revenge him for lauded wrongs. Thrills, mystery, suspense and a fine love story held the audience every moment during the showing of the picture, while the company relief furnished by the two darlings in the role of house servants brings much laughter which relieves the tension of the more sombre moments of the picture.

3,760 BARRELS IN HOUR FROM SIMMS' WELL

SAN ANGELO, June 2.—Gauging 3,760 barrels of oil in one hour, a rate of 90.240 barrels a day, from only 1,280 feet, Simms Oil company's No. 5 M. A. Smith, in section 103, T. C. Railway company survey, has set a new production mark not only for that field, but possibly for the United States at such a shallow depth. The record heretofore was 2,678 barrels, saved from a 50 minutes flow the first week in May by California company's No. 15 Yates, lease 1, a rate of 77,126 barrels daily. Allowing for oil lost, its rate was estimated at 4,000 barrels hourly.

drilled in January, since which time it has been pinched. Section 103, with five wells in production, is Simms' only producing lease in Fecos county, but to May 26 the tract has produced 690,064 barrels, despite prorations in effect several months and a daily pipe line allowance of only 3,100 barrels. Production by the 31 Simms wells on 13 leases aggregating 1,480 acres in Crane county to May 28 had amounted to 7,000,392 barrels.

Frank Lowden Is Political Example of "Self-Made Man"

Former Governor of Illinois, Son of Minnesota Blacksmith, Beaten in 1920 by Queer Twist of Fate

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles dealing with candidates seeking the presidential nominations of the Democratic and Republican parties. The fifth, telling of the career of Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, will appear in this week's American and Roundup.)

Frank O. Lowden probably is one of the best examples extant of what Americans mean when they speak of a "self-made man." Lowden is just that.

It is truism, of course, that any conspicuously successful man in his modern age of intensive competition must have had his fair share of good fortune, and in this Lowden is no exception. But not even Frank Lowden's enemies dispute the fact that he owes his present eminence to his own individual efforts—his business judgment, his undoubted all-around ability, his political sagacity, and a tenacity of purpose that was never better exemplified than in his quest for the presidency this year.

Fate has played queer tricks with the life and career of this Illinois executive, who was born the son of a poor village blacksmith in Sunburg City, Minn., 67 years ago.

Probably the queerest, and certainly the most cruel, was in 1920 when he had the presidency of the United States almost in his grasp, only to see the great prize slip by him because of the stupid handling of a few thousand dollars in campaign funds by one of his friends, that almost broke Frank Lowden's heart, but he never "squawked" to make a colloquial expression, and after the election was over and Harding was in the white house he resumed the Washington trail with that tenacity of purpose which has ever marked his career.

Friend of Farmer
Lowden campaigned in 1920 and again in 1928 as "the friend of the farmer." There are those who have accused him of "playing the farm name" for purely political reasons, yet it is hardly a fair charge, the record discloses.

Frank Lowden was born in the back country of Minn., a some 67 years ago. His early childhood was spent in agricultural communities, as a boy of seven he played about his father's forge where the farmer-pioneer of the west used to bring their horses to be shod, their poverty and their grueling toil was ingrained in him as a boy, and soon after he was seven he traveled across the bleak plains of Iowa to other farming communities where conditions were the same. He became a part of the grim struggle against poverty himself, he knew what it was to cling to the oblong handles of a plow for long hours a day; he knew what it was to do two days' work of "chores" as sort of appetizer and dessert along with the day's work in the fields.

At the age of 15 he decided he had enough of it. He had some schooling, not much, but enough to be eventually hung out his shingle, and he was forced to quit at the end of the first year. Later he returned and graduated at the head of his class, but that is another story.

Became a Lawyer
He decided he wanted to be a lawyer. So he studied law at night and eventually hung out his shingle. He was a successful lawyer. His abilities attracted the attention of some large Chicago corporations and they retained him. From then on his advancement was rapid. He earned and got big fees, he invested them with the shrewdness born of what he had seen of life's struggle as a boy and ultimately he conducted a successful and advantageous marriage with the daughter of George M. Pullman, the sleeping car magnate.

His first plunge into politics, that his first real-plunge was in 1900 when his oratorical abilities and his acquaintance dragged him from the law practice into the McKinley campaign. Probably Charles G. Dawes, one of McKinley's Illinois managers, and his life-long friend, had something to do with it. Anyway, he took a modest part in the campaign.

Six years later he came to Washington as a congressman. He served three terms. This was in the days when "Uncle Joe" Cannon was running the house of representatives with an iron hand. There isn't much opportunity for the individual member, and a young "un" that to display much initiative ability. So he tired of congress and went back to his law practice. At this time, too, he had some ideas that he was experimenting with, and they interested him more than did being a very small cog in a very big wheel of congress.

Elected Governor
He made friends. In 1916 he ran for governor of Illinois and was easily elected. Then, being his boss and having no "Uncle" to cramp his style, Lowden began to put into effect some of his ideas of government. When he took over the governorship there was approximately one hundred state boards and bureaus of various kinds at Springfield. They were the pride of the politicians' hearts, for they furnished the jobs that are the sinews of politics. Lowden abolished them. He reduced the administration of the state to less than ten departments, he installed a budget system, and he reduced state taxes—all this at a time when federal and local taxes were on the upgrade toward the war summit.

He was a vigorous wartime governor. When Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson of Chicago, one of his fiercest bitter enemies, planned mass meetings in Chicago to protest against the war—after the United States had entered it—Lowden threatened to send troops into Chicago to suppress them. The troops did not have to go.

How successful the Lowden administration was may be best gauged by the fact that in 1918, Roger Sullivan, the Democratic boss of Illinois, put a plank in the Democratic platform that year, specifically praising the administration of Lowden, the Republican!

It was inevitable then that with such a record Lowden should appear as a presidential candidate. He came up to the Chicago convention with approximately a third of the convention's delegates, after a series of sanguinary primary struggles with the Wood and Johnson forces.

Losses Nomination
The convention was to meet on Tuesday. On the preceding Thursday two Missouri delegates, Moore and Goldstein by name, testified before a senate investigating committee that they had received $2,500 from Lowden's manager. Lowden himself said he knew nothing about it; L. L. Emmerson, his manager, said the money was given to devote to organization work in Missouri, and was wholly ethical. But the affair, on the eve of the convention, created a bad impression and the power of the convention decided that Frank Lowden was "unavailable." Warren G. Harding was nominated on the following Saturday, and subsequently elected.

There never has been any doubt but had it not been for the unfortunate occurrence of the Missouri incident, Lowden would have been the nominee of that convention, and of course president. Lowden retired to his model farm in Illinois. Naturally, he was disappointed over the tragic trick fate had played on him. Then the plight of the agricultural masses began to interest him, and in that question he found a new interest in life. He went about it with characteristic thoughtfulness and application making several trips to Europe to study the cooperative marketing system of the Scandinavian countries. Hence, in the course of time, he became the primary advocate of cooperative marketing among the farmers in the United States. For the past eight years he has given unstintingly of his time and his fortune to the pursuit and development of farmers' societies and agrarian cooperative organizations.

Refused Vice Presidency
His opponents said he was doing it for political reasons. He threw the accusation back into their teeth in 1924 by refusing the nomination of vice president on the Coolidge ticket, when it was well known that nomination was equivalent to election. Lowden warned the Cleveland convention beforehand that he would not accept the nomination. When the convention went ahead and nominated him anyway, on the theory that no man had ever rejected such a nomination, he declined it. The convention then selected Dawes.

Meantime, the condition of agriculture showed no improvement, or not much, at best. So Lowden continued his hobby, and for the last four years he has traveled extensively over the entire United States, counselling, advising and encouraging the farmers to demand their full share of the nation's income.

His activities were looked upon with considerable disfavor by the Coolidge administration because they "stirred up discontent." Lowden was an advocate of the McNary-Haugen bill which President Coolidge vetoed. He didn't think it was a perfect piece of legislation, but he did think it was worth a trial. As a matter of fact, Lowden said he agreed with President Coolidge in some of the points made against the bill in his veto message, but he did believe that the basic features of the bill were sound. In such a situation, and with Coolidge not running again, it was inevitable that Lowden's candidacy should again become prominent in 1928. His platform, if such it can be called, has been based almost entirely upon the agricultural problem and its solution.

RIISING STAR WOMAN HIT BY ABILENE AUTOMOBILE

RIISING STAR, June 2.—Mrs. G. E. While crossing a street she and Miss Marietta Poindexter, of Abilene, were struck by a passing car. An ambulance conveyed them to a hospital. Mrs. Bowers suffered a wrenched shoulder, bruises and cuts. Miss Poindexter received a scalp wound and minor bruises.

WEST TEXAS' CRUDE OUTPUT CLIMBING UP

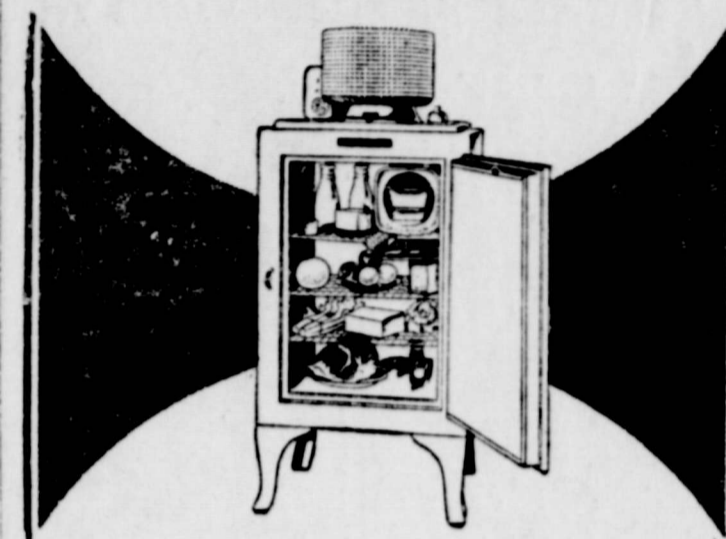

WASHINGTON, June 2.—According to reports received by the bureau of mines, department of commerce, from companies which operate gathering lines, the production of crude petroleum in the United States during April, 1928, amounted to 72,127,000 barrels. This represents a daily average of 2,404,900 barrels, a decrease from revised figures of the previous month of 15,000 barrels. With the exception of West Texas, where the full effects of proration agreements were not felt, there was a very noticeable slowing down of activity in April throughout almost every major district in the country. Daily average production both in Oklahoma and California again fell off but Texas established a new high record of 733,000 barrels. Total stocks of all oils in April amounted to 612,674,000 barrels, but the total increase over the revised figures of the previous month was only 2,468,000 barrels compared with the 6,453,000-barrel increase in March. Of the April increase 1,771,000 barrels, or the major portion, was crude petroleum. With regard to total stocks of refined products, the greater demand for gasoline because of increased motoring was offset by increased throughput at refineries and by the usual falling off in demand for fuel oil. Stocks of crude petroleum held in the Seminole field fell off for the first time since the field was discovered, but stocks in West Texas continued to rise rapidly. Stocks of light and heavy crude in California declined in April due in the most part to an increase in the number of wells shut in.

Increased demand for gasoline and a general stiffening of the price structures were the chief incentives for refiners to greatly increase throughput in April. Runs to stills of domestic and foreign crude petroleum for that month amounted to 72,979,900 barrels, the daily average of which, 2,433,000 barrels, was the highest figure ever recorded.

FISHER COUNTY PRODUCTION IS 1,000 BBL. DAY

HAMLIN, June 2.—Northeastern Fisher county oil field, production passed the 1,000 barrel daily production mark Friday morning when the pipe line runs on the Steel No. 1 of Sinclair Oil company gauged 820 barrels for the last 24 hours. The Steel well reached the pay last Saturday morning and was drilled in Tuesday.

The pay was struck at 3,210 feet and the well has been drilled 17 feet into the lime. The Fisher county field was discovered by the Texas company, when it struck the pay at 3,240 feet in the Stephens No. 1 in January of this year and has been averaging a daily production of 175 barrels on the electric pump.

The Cranfill & Reynolds J. A. Young No. 1 was drilled in in March this year and reached the pay at 3,110 feet. This well is producing 50 barrels daily on the pump. It is three miles east of the Stephens and Steel wells.

The Steel well is a gusher, and has caused considerable interest in oil circles, as the oil is high gravity, and the gas pressure is greater than any other wells in this vicinity.

The territory has an abundant water supply for development, having access to surface tanks and Hamlin's lakes. The wells are from five to eight miles west of Hamlin.

MANAGER SHIFT WELCOME

BILL CARRIGAN

ROGERS HORNSBY

When Rogers Hornsby was traded by the Giants last winter to the Boston Braves for Catcher Frank Hogan and outfielder Jimmy Welsh, baseball piscarers asked themselves the question: "How long will Jack Slattery manage the Braves with Hornsby captaining the team?"

So the promotion of Hornsby to the management of the Braves wasn't entirely unexpected. It simply had to come. There was no friction between Slattery and Hornsby, according to Boston writers and Judge Emil E. Fuchs, president of the club. But the Braves had not shown as well as the Red Sox under Carrigan's mentorship; ergo Beantown's interest in the National team dwindled to an alarming degree.

Bill Carrigan's success in building up prestige for the Red Sox undoubtedly hastened the Hornsby-Slattery deal. The largest crowds seen in Fenway Park in more than ten years witnessed the Red Sox triumph over Western teams. Indeed, many dopsters believe Carrigan will either finish well up in the first division or cop the pennant.

Just how the Braves play ball under Hornsby's peppery leadership remains to be seen. The ex-Cardinal, ex-Giant leader takes hold of the same men who couldn't win more than one-third of their games. Will he inspire in them his own fighting spirit? Or will the Braves' owners seek to belch up Boston's chances by parting with thick slices of their bankroll?

These are questions which fans are eagerly asking themselves following the deal; and upon the conclusions they reach will depend, in large degree, which of the two leaders—Carrigan or Rajah—gets the break in the matter of attendance.

For there's no use beclouding the issue—Beantown is that way about its ball clubs.

MANY MOVING TO CITY, SAYS CISCO REALTOR

"From the number of inquiries for residences in Cisco it is indicated that many people are coming to Cisco," said E. P. Crawford, real estate man Saturday. "Quite a number have sought houses to rent at my office, in fact there has been a greater demand than the supply, as I have a call every day for rental property. I only have one house on my list at this time. During the past week I have rented four houses, three of these were taken by new citizens."

"Those who have closed rental contracts the past week are as follows: The Houston family, of Cross Plains, is moving here. Miss Lavada Houston was in Cisco. Miss Watson received her A. B. degree with high honors. For three years she has served as a reader in the educational department, and next year will teach English in the Quannah high school. She is a sister of Sherman Watson, formerly associated with the T. L. drug store here, but now of Moran.

Miss Latch majored in English and minored in Spanish. She has been teaching in the high school at Wilson, Texas, this past year, but completed the requirements for a degree by correspondence. She will return to the Wilson school as Wilson as Spanish teacher next year. Miss Latch is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Latch, of 402 East Sixth street.

Miss Edith Turner completed her work at mid-term and became Mrs. Gerald Wren. Her home is now at Kaufman. She is a daughter of Mrs. Ellen Turner, and niece of Joe Wilson.

Miss Wilson, president of the student body for 1927-28, majored in English. She has not yet accepted a position for the ensuing year. She is a cousin of Mrs. Wren, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson.

Miss Rucker, daughter of Rev. S. J. Rucker, former pastor of the First Methodist church, will head the biology department in the Port Arthur high school next year.

Miss Bowman received her B. M. degree and is teaching in a private studio at her home in Fort Worth. She also is the daughter of a former pastor of the First Methodist church, Rev. T. C. Bowman.

CUT IN COTTON ACREAGE IS DUE TO BOLL PEST

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Boll weevil damage to cotton in Texas in 1927 caused a 20 per cent reduction from full yield per acre, which was the next highest among the cotton belt states, according to the agricultural department. Oklahoma was first with a damage of 31 per cent accredited to this pest. The reduction from full yield per acre from boll weevil for the entire cotton belt in 1927 was 19.4-16 per cent. Boll weevil damage in 1927 was the fifth largest since information of this character was first gathered by the department in 1909. New Mexico, Arizona and California were excluded from the thirteen states covered by the department in its survey of the extent of damage.

Only once since 1920 has Texas cotton suffered a higher reduction from full yield per acre from boll weevil and that was in 1921, when the reduction was 34 per cent. It was 26 per cent in 1920 and never has been above that since except for 1921. Since the year when it was 34 per cent, the reduction in yield per acre due to boll weevil has been respectively as follows: 1922, 16 per cent; 1923, 10 per cent; 1924, 8 per cent; 1925, 2 per cent; 1926, 11 per cent, and 20 per cent again in 1927.

The average reduction from full yield per acre due to boll weevil damage for the 13 cotton belt states has been about the same as for Texas, the peak being reached in 1921 when it was 31.2-10 per cent. Like Texas, the damage had decreased since then until 1927.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN OF CHURCH GET TOGETHER

At the men's fellowship meeting at the First Presbyterian church Friday evening the entertainment features were supplied by Mrs. Ben McClinton and Miss Frances McGinnis, accompanied by Mrs. Ernest Hittson, and the hearty response to each selection showed the high appreciation. Mr. J. B. Garrett, newly elected president of the Men-of-the-church of the local church presided, and W. T. Graham, who was elected secretary secured the names of a number of new members who were at the meeting. The assembly voted to take up and adopt their constitution and by-laws at the meeting in July. It was revealed at the meeting that any man was eligible for membership, and all were invited to link themselves with this movement for finer fellowship in the community.

40 ENROLL IN PRESBYTERIAN BIBLE SCHOOL

Word was received from Miss Stella Hovey, of Fort Worth, who will conduct the school, that she would not arrive until Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at which time she desires a meeting at the church of all those who will compose the teaching staff. In addition to those who have heretofore been mentioned, E. H. Varrell and Ernest Lenson will have charge of the Intermediate and junior boys' handwork department. Owing to the fact that Miss Hovey can not be present Monday morning the school will not begin until Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

STUDEBAKER

wins automobile dealers as well as public with CHAMPION CARS

26% more Studebaker Dealers this year than ever before

40 miles per hour even when NEW!

Studebaker's sensational proofs of speed and endurance come from engineering genius, quality materials, precision manufacture and rigid inspections. Because of these, any Studebaker may safely be driven 40 miles an hour the day you buy it. Motor oil need be changed but once in 2500 miles. The President, Commander and Dictator require chassis lubrication only after each 2500 miles.

Today in Studebaker and in Studebaker alone, you can buy the utmost in every phase of motoring—and behind it a name that for 76 years has meant dependable transportation. Come in, and drive a champion!

FOR nine consecutive months retail deliveries of Studebaker-built automobiles have increased over those of the corresponding months of a year previous—this in face of a decrease in sales for the industry as a whole.

The swing toward Studebaker is the inevitable result of adding spectacular performance to One-Profit value—and then proving the stamina and speed of the cars by severe tests under American Automobile Assn. supervision.

All official records for fully equipped stock cars are now held by Studebaker. Never before has one manufacturer thus swept the boards.

When such performance can be bought at Studebaker's remarkable One-Profit prices, why be content with less than a champion?
