EASTER SIMPLIFIED. The British house of commons, after rejecting the revised Church of England prayer book again, goes further in ecclesiastical legislation by adopting a bill for stabilizing Easter. That festival, as everybody knows, has long been determined by the phases of the moon. The rule has been to celebrate Easter the first Sunday after the full moon on or next after March 21. That has brought Easter Sunday anywhere from March 22 to April 25. The house of commons measure simplifies that by making Easter always the Sunday after the second Saturday of April. That makes the date still variable, but leaves the average position of Easter on the calendar about the same while avoiding extreme variations. This change will apply only to Great Britain. If the proposed thirteen-month calendar so widely urged is adopted, it will go further and definitely fix Easter on the same day of the week and month every year. Which would doubtless be appreciated by the dressmakers, milliners and florists, at least.

FIRE PREVENTION. The fire insurance companies have made a remarkable record in their attempt to give the public the best possible protection at the lowest possible cost. In 1905, the average rate of premium per $100 of insurance was $1.16. In the last year a gradual reduction in cost started, until in 1927 the rate had fallen to $0.86. Since 1915 the rate has declined over 15 per cent, a striking showing, as it includes the war period when practically all prices went skyrocketing skyward. It is logical that such a record can be maintained only if the American people take it upon themselves to prevent fire. During the period when fire losses were gaining each year, reaching in 1926 the peak loss of $560,000,000, insurance profits decreased below the zero mark, and an underwriting loss was experienced for several years. Last year a substantial falling off in losses allowed an underwriting profit to be shown for the first time in six years. But we are not yet out of the woods. The National Board of Fire

Underwriters, in conjunction with other organizations, has long strived to inculcate in the public a sense of the menace of fire and how to prevent it. Our yearly total is still far too high. The insurance companies have given the public full benefit of every possible saving, but low rates can only be maintained by our following the 1927 example and continuing to reduce our dangerous fire waste.

AN INDUSTRIAL FARMER. A northern business man, suddenly turned farmer in Georgia because he inherited a big farm and wanted to make it pay, has been astonishing the natives of that state and is going to have an influence on southern agriculture. He is D. J. Carrison of Macon. His innovation consists in running his farm like a factory. He knows nothing of farming, but he knows machinery and factory methods. Getting what information he could from agricultural bulletins and adding his own ideas, he started in working his "plant" to capacity. He plows with a six-plow tractor. He hitches a roller, fertilizer and seeder together, or in harvest time, a tractor, reaper and thresher, and goes pounding over the hills 22 hours a day, operating at night by the aid of automobile headlights. He has just harvested his spring wheat and cleaned up $4,200 from 350 acres. Three-fourths of his farm is still to be developed. He is not asking for farm relief.

PROSPERITY AND HORSEPOWER. The daily wage scale and the consequent standard of living, in any country is directly proportionate to the amount of developed horsepower per wage earner, according to Dr. Henry Mace Payne of the American Mining Congress. Where in Japan the horsepower development per worker is .8, and in Great Britain 1.66, the United States shows a development of 4. The result has been a similar wage ratio between these and other countries, and ours. A number of causes have contributed to this epochal development. The solving of many of our industrial problems by use of power, growing extension of electric service to rural sections, and great increases in recent years in the amount of power used on the farm, have all raised the status of the worker. American engineering and invention have found means for him to increase production, often with less physical work. Electricity is the laborer for the laborer. And the progress continues. We are far from having exhausted its potentialities.

NEWS WRITERS GO ON ASSUMPTION SMITH TO WIN

Plans Already Are in Making for Formal Notification and Campaign Tour as Soon as Hot Weather Ends

HOUSTON, June 23.—Newspaper men from the east have piled questions at Smith headquarters the past few days based entirely on the supposition that Gov. Alfred Smith will be the presidential nominee and George R. Van Namee, who answered them as the campaign manager, assumed the position.

Correspondents asked all about the governor's method of campaigning and where the notification of his nomination will take place.

Van Namee told them that Governor Smith will conduct a very dignified campaign and that he would probably pursue the same policy as he has followed in his successful gubernatorial contests. "The governor has more political acumen than all of us put together," Van Namee said enthusiastically. "And he will adopt a campaign program to his own liking."

Not to Speak in Hot Weather
"In his races for governor he has made one speech a day and each day he has considered in detail a different subject until the entire state knew his exact position to the minutest point on every public question he discussed," Van Namee elaborated, "and that may be his presidential campaign method. But certainly he will not make any speeches during the hot weather for he will spend a short vacation in the Adirondacks and his speech making will probably not start regularly until about September 1, though he may make a few addresses in the interim."

"Will he visit the western part of the country in his speaking tour?" was asked, and Van Namee replied that he believed Governor Smith would visit the various sections of the United States during his campaign.

Formal notification of the nomination will take place at Albany, the capital city, where Governor Smith resides as the state's chief executive. Van Namee said it would occur there.

Mr. Van Namee was asked if the New York delegation will attempt to insert in the platform a modification of the dry law along the lines suggested in his statement of Thursday which had been called forth by

Norman E. Mack's Houston pronouncement that Smith favors such modification. Van Namee replied, "I am not able to answer that because I have not been in connection with Governor Smith. The New York delegation was not to leave until Saturday and Gov. Smith no doubt will let them definitely know what he desires done and when the delegation arrives here Monday his real position will be known."

Tell Funny Story
"I can tell you a funny story," said Van Namee. "The basis of which I saw in a newspaper. It was that the manager for Senator Reed claimed that Governor Smith would get 663 votes and no more; that his progress would there be halted and his campaign will."

"I have always said that he would receive more than 650 votes and this man raised me ten. Well, I have played in greater games than that and Governor Smith will hold the winning hand."

"That's not your maximum?" queried the newspaper man, and Van Namee shot back "not at all, not at all. I said more than 650. This man who made the guess is evidently what one of these psychoanalysts would say is suffering from delusions de grandeur."

It was said by Van Namee that the New York delegation would arrive in Houston at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon and held its caucus at 9 o'clock that night at which time it would select the various New York committee representatives, pass around the convention honors coming to that state and also indicate Governor Smith's wishes if the governor has made any request. The proverbial late mayor of New York, Jimmy Walker, came in for part of the discussion in the question as to when he would arrive. Some one suggested that he would not be with the delegation as he had stopped off in Chicago and Van Namee laughingly remarked, "yes, he would probably be a little late."

No Fight in Houston
It developed that Mayor Walker went to Chicago to see a fight, a prize fight, and this prompted Van Namee to make an assertion of some significance that "it is well that the mayor remain in Chicago, if he had to see a fight, because there will be no fight here as peace and harmony will prevail in this fair city."

An article booklet was distributed by Van Namee giving details of past national elections and those of New York state, also a list of the New York delegates, a picture and brief sketch of Governor Smith and general political information. "There is very little in the volume about Governor Smith," commented Van Namee, "for he needs little advertising." Van Namee said a copy of this booklet is going to be placed in the hands of every delegate and alternate to the convention.

There was much hustling around the New York-Smith headquarters upon the arrival of Judge George R. Oliveau, grand sachem of Tammany Hall. He is regarded as an astute leader and looked to by the New Yorkers as a bulwark of strength.

Sam Houston, Favorite of Texas, Offered to Democrats of U. S. in 1852; Union Views Defeated Him

PORT WORTH, June 23. — Re-reading the time when Texas seriously offered the Democratic party of the United States a candidate for president of the person of Sam Houston, the person of Sam Houston, the person of San Jacinto, Dr. Joseph B. Dawson of Baylor university writes a very timely article on "Sam Houston for President" in the July number of Bunker's Monthly of Port Worth, which is just from the press.

Dr. Dawson includes the text of a campaign song "Old Sam Houston" sung to the tune of "Oh, Hannan!" and printed in the Red and Herald, of San Augustine, Texas, in its issue of October 12, 1850. It then tells how the proposal was warmly commended on by newspapers in other states.

When the Democratic state convention assembled in Austin, January 8, 1852, writes Dr. Dawson, "it was in its platform as its fourth concluding plank the following: 'The Democracy of Texas do hereby consider the person of the late General Sam Houston, hero of San Jacinto—as a paragon and statesman eminently worthy to be the standard of the party in the approaching presidential election; and we would hail his nomination with proud satisfaction, we pledge warm and hearty support to the name of the Democratic national convention.'

There were cheers for old Sam, by General Hatch. It was ordered that an address to the Democracy of the Union should be prepared and widely circulated. A committee of nine, composed of L. Hatch, F. H. Merritt, W. Henderson, P. DeCordova, J. Hamilton, George W. and John D. McLeod, was appointed to attend to the address.

It appears that the movement culminated in 1856. New Hampshire Democrats urged him as "People's Candidate" on the platform of his opposition to the tariff and the repeal of the Missouri compromise. A popular biography, based on "Life of Houston," which had been published in 1846, now was put in circulation.

Dr. Dawson concludes his article with the following: "It was really Houston's merits which defeated the Democratic party in the presidential election. His proposal to secede and his enemies in Texas and the South were all for that reason called him a traitor. In the convention of the 'American' party in Baltimore, February 22, 1856, which nominated Millard Fillmore for the presidency, Houston received three votes. Aware of the fatal cause which cost him the presidency, Houston nevertheless by sheer force of his personality achieved the governorship of Texas in 1859 on a Union ticket. And if in 1861 he was deposed from the office on account of his views, he never gave up the Union, and almost alone in his position on July 26, 1862, died of a broken heart."

COOLIDGE O. K.— DRY FLIES ARE HIS FISH BAIT

SUPERIOR, Wis., June 23.—The first definite accounts of President Coolidge fishing—showing him wearing a typical mid-Western 10-gallon hat, rubber boots and a slicker over his khaki shirt and using dry flies as his bait—both puzzled and delighted this town of ardent fishermen.

Coolidge's 10-gallon felt hat gave rise to the puzzlement, while the news that he did not use worms for bait caused much relief among the easily touched sporting sensibilities of the habitual trout anglers.

Coolidge's tall hat, apparently the same one he wore last summer in the Black Hills of South Dakota, was a strange sight in the timberland of this Northern lake region. It caused much wonder among guides and workmen at Cedar Island lodge, who saw Coolidge wearing it, and who had previously only seen such headgear in the movies.

The wonder increased further when it was learned that while lounging on the little island in the Bruie, in addition to the 10-gallon hat, Coolidge also habitually wears the high heeled boots customary in the cattle lands of the West. These boots, of very soft black leather, reaching half way up the calf, were worn by the chief executives with his long trousers tucked into them. The boots were recognized as those which Coolidge wore last year in South Dakota.

Recollections of reports from Rapid City last year, that Coolidge had lunched there with worms, had troubled local anglers who said that the waters of the Bruie river had always been reserved exclusively to fly fishermen. The late Henry Clay Pierce, who built Cedar Island lodge, had even gone so far, they said, as to prohibit any but habitual fly users to step on to his estate. The announcement that the chief executive had no intention of shattering the tradition of the Bruie was therefore received with pleasure.

SUPPER LATE AT GORMAN DUE TO GAS TAMPERING

GORMAN, June 23.—Unknown parties tampering with a gas well shut off the gas supply of both Gorman and Desdemona for a few hours on last Saturday afternoon. When the pressure began to fall here the manager started out to the well to see what was the trouble and when he got there found where some one evidently had been trying to get some drip gasoline and when they opened the valve they could not close it. They then went to the well and shut off the two towns to stop the drip from leaking. Supper was late all over both towns and there was lots of complaint but it was something over which the local company had no control.

CHIROPRACTIC IS RIGHT

When bones of the spine are in such position as to impinge (pinch) spinal nerves, the condition will CAUSE sickness and "disease." When CHIROPRACTORS locate and properly adjust such nerve-pressure conditions—NATURE can make you well.

Constipation is always the result of paralysis: Generally CAUSED by bones of the spine impinging nerves. By locating the exact nerve-pressure condition and adjusting it properly, NATURE can then produce normal action.

Hogs May Be Raised Almost as Cheaply in Texas in Winter as in Summer, Shown in Contest

COLLEGE STATION, June 23.—When it comes to hog raising, H. N. Hay of Waco, and his son Hardy Hay, Jr., both have winning ideas, as disclosed by results of the 1927-28 winter ton litter contest for Texas, the first such winter contest ever held in the United States. Mr. Hay with eleven Duroc Jerseys, aggregating 2,293 pounds, took first place for litter with highest total weight, while Hardy Hay, Jr., his son, with eight Duroc Jerseys, averaging 212 pounds, took two first places in the boys club division, for litter with the highest total weight and with the highest average weight.

Other winners in the contest, as announced by E. R. Eudaly, swine specialist of the extension service, A. & M. College of Texas, who directed the contest, include: For litter with the highest average weight: First, J. E. Rigler, Plainview, with eight Poland Chinas averaging 225 pounds; second, G. R. Pratt, Comanche, with ten Poland Chinas, averaging 218 pounds. Pratt with his Poland China litter that totalled 2185 pounds, also took second place for litter with highest total weight. Other awards were made for the best weights obtained with different sized litters.

The winter ton litter contest was held by the extension service in cooperation with the Progressive Farmer, of Dallas. Fifty-one farmers and club boys of the state participated.

An outstanding disclosure of the contest is the fact that hogs may be raised in Texas almost as cheaply in winter as in summer, Eudaly pointed out. Winners in the contest produced pork at an average cost of 6.7c a pound as compared to 6c a pound for winners in last summer's contest, and feed costs were higher during the winter than for the preceding summer. The average weight of pigs at the end of the winter contest was 200 pounds as compared to 194.9 pounds at the end of the 150 days in last summer's contest. "This shows," said Mr. Eudaly, "that hogs can be raised economically in Texas the year around and that 150 days is time enough to produce a hog that will meet the ideal of the packer for a 200 to 225 pound hog." The winter ton litter contest was suggested by Eudaly to demonstrate the all-year-around farming possibilities of Texas.

Awards were hung up for the contest winners by Fort Worth Stock Yards, Armour & Co., Swift & Co., and the Universal and Purina Mills of Fort Worth.

Boy Who Made National Capital Acquainted with Horned Toads to Be Page at Houston Convention

HOUSTON, June 23.—Wiburn McCarthy of Eastland, page in the United States senate, will be the personal page to Col. Ed A. Halsey, sergeant at arms of the Democratic national convention. The young Texan named a page of the senate at the request of Senators Earle B. Mayfield, made a record for his home town and state at the national capital.

When the country was amused by the story that a horned toad had lived for thirty-one years in the corner stone of the Eastland county court house without food or water, McCarthy's page colleagues doubted that toads had horns. All they knew was the slick-skinned individual inhabiting the edges of ponds. McCarthy stood his ground and, in order to refute the slander upon Texas, asked a boy friend in Eastland to ship him a consignment of the horned variety. They reached Washington by express.

Immediately every boy wanted to possess one of the unique specimens. The supply was disposed of in short order.

Young McCarthy is something of an orator. So marked is his ability that it attracted the attention of Vice President Dawes. The former A. E. F. general made it a point to have McCarthy perform, and when Mayor Jimmie Walker of New York reached Washington and called on the vice president, the latter called McCarthy in to make the address of welcome. He did it in a style that met the approval of the New York mayor.

He will have the freedom of the convention floor in Houston, with credentials and a badge that will carry him to any portion of the large building at any time.

The appointive officers, senior and junior deacons, two stewards and the finance committee will be named.

TWO HOMES AT RANGER VISITED BY BURGLARS

RANGER, June 23.—A 20-year-old watch with an estimated value of $1.50 and a pair of shoes, constituted the loot of a burglar who entered the home of Roy Acrea Thursday afternoon.

Rings, a jar containing money, silverware and good clothes were thrown idly aside by the burglar, who went into every trunk and cabinet in the house.

A suit of clothes was stolen from the home of Tom Carroll and was later sold to a local tailor shop for $1.50. The suit was recovered.

Many of the largest ranches in the Lone Star state are located in Brewster county.

An Amazing Public Tribute!

- two thousand carloads of General Electric Refrigerators delivered to users since April first

The General Electric Refrigerator has now been on the market just one year. From the day it was first announced, it was accepted by the public with truly amazing enthusiasm.

Since April first, more than 2000 carloads have been delivered to American homes. This is a gratifying tribute to the General Electric Refrigerator—a true achievement in electrical engineering. It is the worthy product of the Research Laboratories of the world's largest electrical manufacturer.

Nine factories working at top speed

The tremendous demand for these "years ahead" refrigerators has made it necessary to increase production again and again—just as rapidly as is consistent with General Electric standards of quality. Now nine factories are working at top speed to take care of the increasing volume of business.

Just as soon as each refrigerator has passed its many rigid tests, it is shipped to a waiting customer. We are assured by the factories that all orders now on file will be filled within the next few weeks

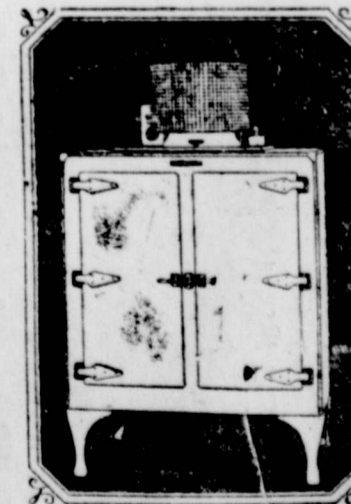

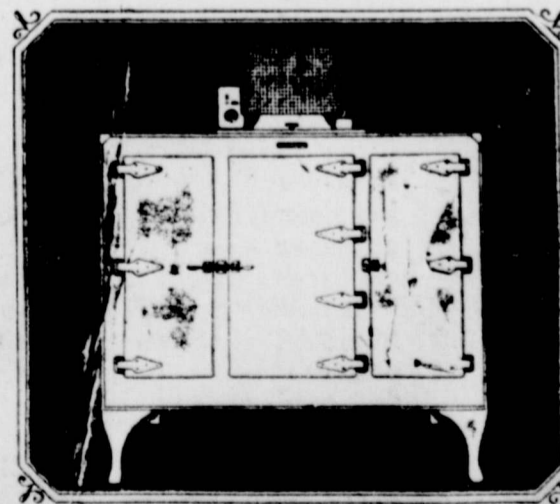

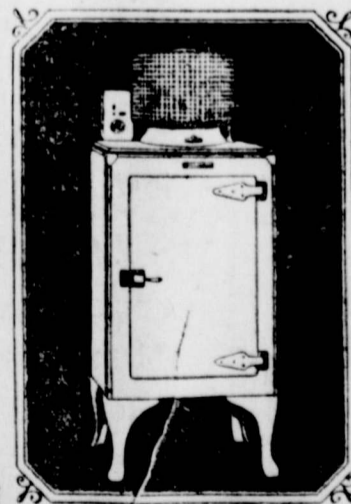

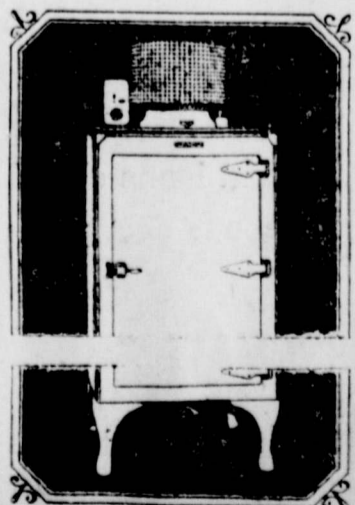

We suggest that you place your order now

If you are planning to purchase a refrigerator this summer, we strongly advise you to come in at once and place your order. Then you will be sure of having your refrigerator just as soon as you are ready for it.

The first 100,000 discriminating American women to choose this revolutionary refrigerator have been its best advertisers. They have pronounced it unusually quiet, economical in operation, easy to keep clean and worry-proof. It is their verdict which, in a large measure, is responsible for this hearty nation-wide acceptance!

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

The General Electric Refrigerator is entirely different from all others. All its mechanism is safely stowed away, on top, in an airtight steel casing.

These refrigerators are unusually quiet, and they need no oiling, made and guaranteed by General Electric.

Eubank Pool Promises to Connect Up with Line of Producing Wells; Cross Plains Activity Continues

CROSS PLAINS, June 23.—With the addition of a 400 barrel producer to the northwest extension of the Eubank pool and with the general trend of drilling activity southward, it seems that the Eubank pool proper will be connected up with a line of producing wells ranging from 90 to 1000 barrels each in the initial daily output.

The Sinclair company touched the sand at 1233 feet and drilled 19 feet sand in its J. B. Eubank No. 3 which is located 690 feet south of the Bradstreet-Mahlsleit discovery. With very little agitation the well placed 225 barrels in storage the first 24 hours and increased to 35 barrels the second day. A light hot was given Wednesday and cleaned the flush production could be 400 barrels or better.

Three locations have been made the south and east of the newer on which two machines moved and are now nearing all way mark toward completely south Sinclair Oil company is drilling on its No. 4 J. B. Eubank and a location has been 300 feet of this test further east.

To the east of the Sinclair's 4 Eubank, Cranfill & Reynolds drilling on their No. 6-A. The same company is also pulling preparatory to drilling in on No. 5-A J. B. Eubank which is the farthest northeast extension should production be obtained. Bradstreet & Mahlsleit are drilling 800 feet on their No. 3 J. B. Eubank, which is located 300 feet north of their original discovery extension.

Two wildcat tests are on the sand and a third expected to reach the end this coming week. F. D. Hamilton is only a few feet from expected Cross Cut sand. The line in line with the Eubank pool has northeast extension and will extend production at least one-half mile southeast should oil be found. It is 565 feet from the west and 150 feet from the north line of the R. L. Edgington tract, Robert Mitchell survey No. 141.

The Henshaw Oil company has touched the sand on a wildcat location one and one-half miles southwest of Cross Cut on the R. W. Pentecost 230 acre tract, Stephen Jones survey No. 282. The sand was touched at 1375 feet and reports state that a small trace of oil is evident in the top of the sand.

Pitts and Henderson are drilling near 1300 feet on the Dancy tract three miles south of Cross Plains after finding a lime formation at 880 feet in the top of which several barrels of live oil was bailed. The test will be continued to 1700 feet if pay is not obtained in either the Cross Plains or Cross Cut sands.

Five miles south of Cross Cut Sawyer and Shad are rigging up for a test in the northeast corner of the C. D. Stone land.

Tom Bryant is temporarily shut down at 2240 feet on his deep test three miles northeast of Cross Plains.

"TENDERLOIN," starring Dolores Costello, is a Warner Bros. picture adaptation of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
A satchel containing $200,000 has been stolen from the Mercer National bank. Rose Shannon, escaping from the unmerciful attentions of Chuck White, finds the satchel in the street. The professor, leader of the gang of crooks to which Chuck belongs, is furious that his scheme for stealing the money has been foiled. Meanwhile, on her way to return the satchel, Rose is met by a policeman, who marches her to the station house. The satchel is opened and it is found that the contents have been stolen and iron washers substituted. Refusing to believe her innocence, the sergeant places Rose in a cell.

The matron opened the door to the room and Rose, with lagging steps, entered the bar, forbidding enclosure. She shuddered as she heard the door clang behind her, leaving that grim room to the unadorned, gray walls unbroken even by a window. The monotony of the ceiling was relieved only by a grating opening that allowed for ventilation. A heavy oak table, a few chairs, and those shaded flood lights, grouped about a stationary seat in the middle of the floor, arranged so that they fell directly upon the occupant of the chair, lent a sinister atmosphere to the place. Slowly Rose moved towards the center of the room, shading her eyes with her hand, and seated her self in that diabolical chair, and waited. At last the door opened.

"I'm beginning to think, little girl, that we've been pretty hard on you."
Rose looked up to see Sergeant Cassidy coming towards her, kindly smile on his hardened face. It was almost as though a ray of sunshine had entered the den, and for the first time since her incarceration the girl felt her heart warming with hope. To her simple, unsophisticated mind it seemed that a promise of friendship and help. It was the only smile she had seen not given in cynicism or derision through all those lonely hours. She never realized that it was all a part of the same; a skillfully manipulated situation carefully calculated to break down her wall of resistant silence. "Hello, Rose," Sergeant Cassidy greeted the girl as though she were a friend. "I dropped into Kelly's this evening to see the show, and Kelly tells me they all miss you up here." The tears blurred like a mist over Rose's eyes as this piece of outside news brought back a flood of memories. "You know, I'm beginning to think, little girl, that we've been pretty hard on you." Cassidy drew up a chair and sat down beside her with the air of an old friend. "I'd like to go over this situation again and see if we can't do something for you. Now suppose you tell me just how everything happened." "Oh, Sergeant Cassidy," Rose exclaimed, catching hold of the man's arm. "I'll tell you everything—everything if you'll only let me go." "Now that's a good girl." The sergeant patted her hand and pricked up his ears, hoping now to get what he was after. Quickly Rose was launched upon her story, telling it in fullest detail, not even omitting, this time, the part that Chuck had played in the night's experience. "Now, why didn't you tell me all that before?" Sergeant Cassidy interrupted. "I might have been able to understand why you were so frightened." "Oh, I wish I had—but I was afraid that man might come after me, and, oh, Sergeant, I was so scared—honest." Rose pleaded. "Sure, I see." The sergeant nodded. But what he thought he saw was something entirely different. He didn't explain that he had come to the conclusion that Rose was

Women's Committee Discusses "Labor Saving Devices;" One Time President Is Club Guest

Like those on previous occasions the last monthly meeting of the Women's Information committee, of the West Texas Utilities Co., was a pleasant and instructive session, during which the subjects on the program were discussed in a manner that denoted painstaking investigation and serious thought. The meeting was held Friday evening in the directors' room of the chamber of commerce, and at the conclusion of the business session refreshments were served at the Elliott drug store.

The committee had as a guest its former president and co-worker, Mrs. P. W. Campbell, of Abilene, who was accompanied by Mrs. C. C. Sellers, of that city. Both made interesting talks that added inspiration to the occasion, and brought pleasure to their hearers.

"Labor Saving Devices" was the subject for the meeting, which with its subdivisions, were handled ably in the following program:

"The Electric Washer: What its Time and Labor Saving Qualities Bring to the Home"—Mrs. Arthur Mitchell, Moran.

"Care of the Washer"—Mrs. A. J. Moffitt, Cisco.

"History of Ironing"—Mrs. G. C. Hornsby, Cisco.

"Ironing: Ways and Means"—Mrs. R. A. Williams, Cisco.

"Frigidaire for Convenience, Economy and Sanitation"—Mrs. C. W. Delmar, Rising Star.

"The Electric Sewing Machine"—Mrs. Carl Baird, Cisco.

"Comparison of Old and New Methods of Doing Household Duties"—Mrs. C. W. Delmar, Rising Star.

The following were in attendance: Mrs. Arthur Mitchell, Miss Fern Scott, Moran; Mrs. C. W. Delmar, Rising Star; Mrs. T. C. Yeager, Miss Bobbie Dawn Yeager, Cross Plains; Mrs. George Scott, Mrs. Terrell Perdue, Putnam; Mrs. Monroe Lane, Mrs. J. T. Asbury, Mrs. H. M. WAVE OF MODESTY SWEEPING ENGLAND

LONDON, June 23.—A wave of modesty seems to be sweeping over England, if one can judge by the models of fashionable gowns that have been ordered for the great social parade at Ascot.

Whilst at tennis or golf Miss 1923 will continue to appear in sleeveless frocks and knee-length skirts, dress designers are insisting that when she "dresses herself up" for more formal occasions she shall appear with sleeves reaching to her wrists and with a skirt of such length that when she sits down the hem of her gown shall cover at least four inches below the knee.

Most of the diaphanous frocks of printed georgette are provided with long coats of the same material. Whether this is for reasons of modesty or the keen winds of the typical English summer day remains to be seen.

Lace, to judge by the number of orders placed, is to be more popular than ever at Ascot this year. Quite a number of the gowns are destined with hems longer at the back than at the front, but the ankle-length picture frock is entirely absent.

MILLER, Pastor.

Morris' selections on the Pledge program will be "Bessie's Prelude in B," Beethoven's "Andante," Schuman's "Traumerei," and Labitzky's "Odeurion." BAPTISTS HERE PREPARING FOR LEUDERS CAMP

Cisco Baptists are getting ready for the big annual camp meeting to be held at the Leuders camp ground, on the Clear Fork of the Brazos river, July 11 to 22, according to Rev. Acker C. Miller, pastor of the First Baptist church. Millard A. Jenkins will be the principal speaker for the first week and T. L. Holcomb, pastor of the First Baptist church, Sherman, will be on the program for the second week. Mrs. J. E. Leigh, corresponding secretary of the women's work of Texas, will deliver several addresses and teach during the entire meeting. Mrs. F. Herrin, of Rochester, Texas, 29 years a missionary to China, will teach the mission class. Dr. E. B. Atwood, of Simmons university, is on the faculty, and will teach a class in the New Testament. Other prominent teachers and speakers are on the program, which is divided into two periods of five days each. Classes will be taught in Sunday school, D. Y. P. U., and Women's Missionary Union work. The improvements on the camp grounds include the Young Women's auxiliary hut, which is being built to house 72 members of the Young Women's auxiliary. Miss urged to attend the other churches this evening.

At the evening hour 8 o'clock Rev. Lenox will answer the question, "Does the Bible teach miraculous healing for today?" GRACE LUTHERAN Corner 16th Street and F Avenue. Services tonight at 8 o'clock. Sermon topic: "Abraham, a Priest of God." St. Peter calls every Christian a "royal priest." Good congregational singing in which all will enjoy worshipping the Lord with us in song. What do you value your soul at? If you are not a Christian you are selling your soul for something far beneath its true value. What does Jesus value your soul at? Sunday school at 9:45. Morning service at 11. Young people's meeting at 7 o'clock. You are welcome at all services. JOHN W. BATDORF, minister.

Virginian, Veteran Doorkeeper, Will Attend His 11th National Democrat Convention at Houston

HOUSTON, June 23.—One of the most interesting spectators at the Democratic convention next week will be Joe Sinnott of Virginia, veteran doorkeeper of both the house of representatives and conventions, who is coming to witness his eleventh Democratic convocation. The Virginian is approaching 70 years and has not missed a convention in forty years. Gate crashers will hold no fear to Mr. Sinnott this year, however, as he will attend merely as an observer, declining his old post under doctor's orders. He went through the Madison Square Garden gate-crashing experience four years ago and was doorkeeper at the San Francisco convention. He was doorkeeper of the house under President Wilson's administrations. Conventions are a disease to many, and Mr. Sinnott admitted that he was no exception, explaining that he just could not break his forty-year record.

Mr. Sinnott's advice will be sought by R. Lee Barnes of Alabama, doorkeeper of this convention, who worked under Mr. Sinnott as his assistant four years ago in New York. Mr. Sinnott knows the faces of about all the important politicians who attend these conventions regularly like himself. He will probably help his successor a great deal in that big bear of every doorkeeper, remembering people.

A doorkeeper's greatest enemies are his friends, Mr. Sinnott said. Every friend has at least a dozen other friends, he said, and thus it goes without end.

Mr. Sinnott does not expect a repetition of the gate-crashing of four years ago at the Houston convention. He said he was convinced that the people of Houston would not permit any such tactics here this year. Doorkeepers at this convention should have a comparatively easy time of it, Mr. Sinnott thinks. The Virginian has come prepared to thoroughly enjoy the convention and watch other people work. He said he expects to have the time of his life here. Few people at the convention will know more persons attending than this veteran of ten political shows.

NOBILE, CREW ABOARD BOAT REPORT SAYS

Five Nations in Search.
KING'S BAY, June 23.—Five nations joined today in the search for Captain Roald Amundsen, famous Arctic explorer, who left Tromsø, Norway, almost five days ago, accompanied by Major René Guilbaud and three others in a seaplane and have not been heard from since. Majors Magdalena and Pengo, the Italians who flew over Nobile's encampment yesterday and dropped additional supplies in a parachute, intended to scour the northern wastes for Amundsen.

Stamford has the city manager form of government, with mayor and council.

reached 134 with an average daily attendance of 90. The faculty and helpers numbered 25 with an average attendance of 12.

The school was announced to continue for four weeks, but because of the shortage in volunteer workers, it was decided to close this year with a two weeks' session.

On Thursday, Dr. Homer L. Grice, of Nashville, Tenn., stopped over and looked in on the school. He expressed himself as being pleased with the progress made and with the fine spirit and attendance of the boys and girls.

Those in charge are expecting a greater school next year.

DAIRY INDUSTRY IN TEXAS DAMPING AFTER LONG NEGLECT

Bankers, Once Reluctant about Loans, Now Extend Service Same as in Other Lines of Business

HOUSTON, June 23.—The dairy industry in this state was long neglected, but is now receiving encouragement, and should receive continued support and encouragement from credit sources.

M. H. Gossett, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, when interviewed today, said:

"The many creek and river bottoms covered with bermuda and other nutritious grasses, the various forage crops raised, good roads and easy access to the markets, should make the dairy industry a profitable business.

"The greatest handicap in the way has been the lack of facilities for financing. Commercial banks, as a rule, have not catered to such loans.

"Following the organization of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, we suggested a plan of monthly payments on dairy loans, and a company organized in Houston for the purpose of redesigning eligible loans with the bank adopted our suggestion, and while it confines its operations to Harris and adjacent counties, it is steadily increasing its volume of such business until now, it is thought, the dairy industry in the immediate vicinity of Houston is satisfactorily financed, and it is our hope that other loan companies, serving other sections of this district, may extend their service along similar lines to the industry throughout the state.

"Dairy loans made through local companies and rediscounted with the Intermediate Credit Bank were nearly trebled in the last four years. This places the Intermediate Credit Bank near the top, if not at the top, of the list of 12 such banks. Since organization it has discounted approximately three quarters of a million dollars of dairy loans. It is one of the most satisfactory forms of credit to farmers where the local lending agency pays careful attention to the details of the loan and the selection. In fact, it is the only amortized loan which we make to date. Probably that accounts in part for its popularity, for the farmers find it is easy to acquire a few additional cows, or indeed to build an entirely new herd under the arrangements worked out, when adopted by the local lending companies, such as agricultural credit corporations, livestock loan companies and banks, utilizing the facilities of the Intermediate Credit Bank.

"The loans are repaid by monthly installments, extending for 18 to 24 months. Each month the borrower pays a sufficient part of the loan so as to wipe it out entirely within the given time. In addition, of course, the borrower pays interest on the loan which does not at present exceed 7 per cent. Of this amount 4 3-4 per cent is paid to the Intermediate Credit Bank when the farmers' notes are rediscounted with it.

"Ordinarily, loans are made up to 50 to 75 per cent of the value

Thursday I. O. Jones, Jr., Dallas youth dealer in phrynosoma cornuta, was as wise as the wise old toads that he was taking to Houston to sell as souvenirs to delegates attending the Democratic national convention.

The same 1200 frogs caused his arrest at Ranter and did result in his becoming a defendant in a civil suit for damages. Here's the story of Jones and his frogs:

The youth, a student at A. & M. College, advertised in a Ranger newspaper that he would be in Ranter Wednesday to purchase all the horned frogs offered for sale. When he arrived in Ranter numerous boys of that city swamped

Sublet is considered by the woman who seeks perfection in her costume accessories. Considered, too, by the designers of the Gordon Narrow Heel. For its form repeats in a lighter-tone the slender heel of the spring shoes for street and afternoon wear.

The exclusive Gordon colors, Haze and Cloud, are required with grey and grey-beige costumes; while Street and Tans, spring browns for street wear, are especially lovely accompaniments to the new brown suede and snakeskin shoes.

SATURDAY IS BUSY DAY FOR CISCO STORES

A busy, bustling appearance was manifest in Cisco Saturday, with many farmers on the streets, and the stores enjoying a nice trade. The past week farmers have been staying in the fields, cultivating their crops while the weather was favorable, and Saturday was traded day with them. Merchants report one of the best days of the month. A visitor arriving early Saturday evening stated that the town presented a more business like appearance than on any previous visit to Cisco; that he found it difficult to locate a parking place on any of the streets, so congested was the daily traffic.

man the manager for the next year will be elected and his assistants confirmed. At this meeting the directors will hear the annual report of the manager, adopt the financial budget and arrange the program of work for the next twelve months. The resolutions passed by the state convention will be considered and the most feasible ones incorporated in the program of work. The newly elected delegates will also be installed at the Coleman meeting. Cisco will be represented on the new directorate by R. Q. Lee and B. S. Huey, who were re-elected at Fort Worth. And another absolutely baseless and apparently deathless newspaper fiction is that the telephone goes, "Ting-a-ling-a-ling" — Nashville Banner.

GRACE LUTHERAN Corner 16th street and F avenue. Services tonight at 8 o'clock. Sermon topic: "Abraham, a Priest of God." St. Peter calls every Christian a "royal priest." Just what obligations rest upon the Christian because of this "royal priesthood?" Plain and concise answer is given us in the life of Abraham. There will be no morning service. CHURCH OF GOD. F avenue at 11th street. "The value of a Soul" will be the subject of the pastor's sermon in the evening service. This service starts promptly at 8 o'clock.
