The company required that 40 citizens sign to be responsible for the sale of 15 season tickets at $2.75—or $41.25—and but one above that number was obtained.

CISCO NATIVE STONE USED IN DALLAS JOBS

Cisco native stone is being used by Dallas builders. Jim Boggs is leading out a car of the stone for Dallas, to be used in buildings in that city. The car is intended as a sample, and, if found satisfactory, Boggs said, he will ship out ten additional cars. This contractor is evidently a new builder in Dallas, for the famous Cisco moss covered building stone has been previously used in Dallas, where it has given the best satisfaction. This stone is in a class to itself as building material. It is a surface stone, the exterior covered with a moss that is as permanent as the stone itself, which hardens with age and the stone retains its native coloring permanently after being placed in the walls of a building. Boggs says he will be ready for the repeat orders, which he is confident of receiving.

ABOUT CRAZY CRIMINALS.

Anyone who commits a vicious crime, then attempts to conceal his act or identity, has enough sense to be held responsible for what he has done, no matter how crazy the hired alienists say he is; that is our personal opinion.

An individual, insane or not, who has sense enough to realize that what he has done is wrong, and who schemes around to escape the results of his act, has sufficient reasoning power to be held to accountability for his deed; that is what we believe.

We have not much sympathy with all the tricks and devices worked by lawyers and experts at so much per trick and device, in order to get criminals shunted into some channel which will enable them to cheat justice.

We in the United States have gone crazy about craziness. It has become a fad with us. Whenever a person does something that is extraordinary he is insane, unless he has done something extraordinarily desirable.

Of course the person who has in any way seriously violated the code of good behavior is not right; he has at least a wrong point of view. No one who commits a crime has sound reason. His mental outlook is distorted. He has used rotten judgment to say the least. But there is no reason for getting silly about him and putting him in an insane asylum until public opinion has grown indifferent to his crime and wires can be pulled to get him free.

Constantly crimes are committed by persons whom anyone would know to be insane. The very nature of the deeds and the subsequent behavior of the perpetrators indicate insanity.

There are ways of finding out if any man is so crazy as not to be responsible for his deeds. But those are not through a jury composed of the butcher, the baker, the candlestick-maker, and a lot of other laymen who have had no experience in the matter of insanity tests and who have given the question of insanity little or no thought; and whose decisions cannot help but become confused by the mixture of scientific technicalities and hired tears and sobs of histrionic attorneys.

If we are going to be really consistent about this insanity business we should class all law-breakers as insane, because any man who turns his toes into a path of crime is in some degree off above the eyebrows.

EXERCISE.

The intelligent portion of the world was saddened the other day to hear that Prof. Albert A. Michelson of the University of Chicago, one of the world's foremost scientists, was in the hospital and near death.

SWIMMING SAFETY.

Drownings are increasing among the news items of daily news. From city beaches to rural swimming holes, accidents and carelessness take their toll of human life. The fact that many of these tragedies could be avoided by the practice of sane precautions should be voiced repeatedly. In addition to such safeguards as protected beaches and education in life saving methods, there should always be individual caution on the part of the bather.

TERRIBLY ILL

Kentucky Lady's Health Was Very Bad. Had Severe Pains and Could Not Sleep.

Lexington, Ky.—Mrs. J. H. Nichols, who lives at 513 Elm Tree Lane, this city, says that Cardui has been of valuable assistance to her on two occasions, which she tells about below:

"Some few years ago, my health was bad. I had very severe pains in my sides. My nerves were in a terrible condition. I could not rest. The lower part of my body was very sore. I could hardly stoop over to lace my shoes. I would have to put my foot on a chair. I did not feel like eating, and did not sleep well at all at nights."

"A friend of mine recommended Cardui. I began taking it and saw quite an improvement in my condition. I kept it up until I felt strong and well."

About a year ago, Mrs. Nichols says, she found herself in a nervous, run-down condition. "I took Cardui again," she adds, "and it helped me wonderfully. It is a splendid tonic."

"Thousands of women have written to tell how Cardui helped them to get rid of pain and suffering. Cardui is a mild, medicinal tonic made from purely vegetable ingredients. At all drug stores. NC-191"

As the last vestige of Rose disappeared up the stairs, Mug heaved a sigh of relief and took out his hip flask. Silently he drank and passed the container on to Lefty, who followed suit, and then turned it over to Molly. The woman gulped, swallowed, and then passed the flask on to Chuck, lighting a cigarette. The boy shook his head and handed it on to the professor, who waved it away and rose, facing his now opponent belligerently.

"Well, what have you got to say for yourself?" he demanded. "Nothing," Chuck thrust his hands deep into his pockets and returned the professor's stare coolly. "Nothing? "Ah, since when has Mr. Charles White become a Squire of Dames?" Heminway sneered. "I ain't got nothing to do with dames," Chuck exploded, his face flushing angrily. "There's only one dame I'm interested in, and that's this Rose Shannon. Now get this!" He pounded his fist on the table to emphasize his statement. "This dame don't know a damn thing about that jack. We was dead wrong. She's straight through and through."

"Say, how ja git dat way!" The Mug took a step forward, his lower jaw thrust out in scorn and disbelief. "Be quiet, all of you!" Heminway held up a warning hand. "Now, Mr. Chuck White, will you explain yourself?"

Ban Johnson, Veteran Fighter of American League, Is Battling for Life Against Disease and Winning

By JACK JAMES

SAN JACINTO, Cal., July 10.—Byron Bancroft Johnson, stormy petrel of baseball, deposed president of the American League, known throughout baseballdom for his fighting qualities and firmness of his convictions is making a characteristic fight to regain his health. In Saboba Hot Springs, a spa in the San Jacinto hills, miles away from the crack of the ball on the tip of the bat and the resounding smack of the sphere after it strikes the glove, Ban Johnson, who is accredited with fathering the American League is making a grim stand to restore himself. He fought for his own way—his own beliefs and ideals—for thirty-five years. He lost a few decisions—what fighter, who is incautious in his choice of opponents does not? But he kept on fighting just the same! That's a part of the rules of the game—the game which demands the last out in the ninth inning. Ban Johnson was struck out once. He was sent back to the bench, put tinged with a certain grudging admiration. And now medical men know that same Ban Johnson, who split with Comiskey of Chicago, his close friend, after the world series scandal of 1919; who lost his power following the appointment of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis as czar of the diamond, as a fighter. That same "confounded ball-headedness" so called by his enemies, he used to carry into the council chambers of the American League he now carries into the physician's consultation room. And by waging a slow but winning fight he is causing to be shelved the numerous "bits" prepared by enterprising sports editors when he resigned as president of the American League in 1927. These summaries of the life and battles of the most colorful career in baseball dealt with his career from the time he organized and assumed control of the Western League in 1893 and carried on this work to the organization of the American League. One day I met Mr. Johnson at Saboba Hot Springs where he is "taking the waters," as they call it, and with the waters the bath and manipulations that customarily go with such treatment. When he quit the American League he was a very sick man. The nervous strain of holding office and the rigors of his illness—diabetes—had proved almost too much for his constitution. He was failing in health so fast that his friends feared life's sun was setting. Although he has lost some 35 pounds he looks the better for it. The skin is clear, the carriage erect, the step firm, though deliberate. Exigencies of the treatment demanded that the patient carry with him in his travels a dietitian who has supreme charge and control of the culinary department. He is somewhat impatient of this guidance—a natural and healthy reaction. But anything to beat his illness. Although Mr. Johnson has plenty of time to review his baseball activities the past is gone. The present is his only thought. He made baseball what it is today and he is perfectly satisfied to let the other fellow run it. There is still a lively interest in the game, however. Particularly in mid-afternoon around game times. And scores are a long time coming through, way out in the wide open spaces. But it is an interest in the game itself, not its side issues—in players and base hits rather than in deals and political alignments. He flatly refuses to discuss baseball politics but was free and open to conversation regarding past and present players and umpires. Inquiring as to the whereabouts of Hal Chase, who is connected with an outlaw baseball league down Arizona way, Mr. Johnson praised his athletic ability. "Hal Chase—there was the greatest first baseman that ever lived—no doubt of it," he said. "He could make the most difficult plays. There is still a lively interest in the game, however. Particularly in

FEW CIRCULATION WORKERS OBTAIN SUBSCRIPTION QUOTA

Time Extension Until Saturday Night Gives Contestants Chance to Double Points on Past Work

The quota of new subscribers given to the workers in the Cisco Daily News and Weekly American and Roundup subscription drive last week was secured by comparatively few and the offer to double the 600,000 extra points for each year to the Daily or Weekly is extended for this week and the offer is good until Saturday night. The workers who secure their quota will be given double points for the subscriptions they set for the two weeks and also double points for the 600,000 points for each year to the Weekly American with the Daily News with the American counting as two years will be issued for all subscriptions earned in the previous weeks of the drive.

The statement for workers will not be made up and sent out this week on account of the extension of the offer but will be made up the first of next week for the two weeks.

This week will also be known as "second payment" week. Subscribers who have paid three and six months to the Daily News will be asked to move up their subscriptions for one year. Subscribers who have paid one year to the Weekly American can give their favorite worker a very high number of points if another year is paid and their dates moved up for a second year. "Second Paid Subscriptions" will secure all the points that were issued for the first payment plus 600,000 extra points. If a subscriber was a new one at the time the first payment was made same will count on the quota of new subscribers for the workers securing same and will be given extra double points offered for new yearly subscriptions.

A few subscriptions secured this week will give the worker a great many points. This week is the last opportunity to secure so many points for subscriptions. The next week and the last week of the drive the points will be for less.

The last coupon will be published in the Weekly American and Roundup this week. All coupons that are out will be good for points up until Thursday night, July 19. The drive will close Saturday, July 21.

NORRIS' AIDE SPENDS FIFTH NIGHT IN JAIL

DALLAS, July 10.—Rev. Earl Anderson, pastor of the Fundamental Baptist church here, spent his fifth night in jail after his attorney, Henry C. Wills, failed Monday to secure a writ of habeas corpus from the supreme court at Austin.

The pastor was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to jail for obeying a temporary restraining order against construction of a tabernacle in a Dallas residential section. District Judge Towner Young expressed determination not to release him until he posts $1,000 bond as a guarantee that the injunction will not be violated again.

Meanwhile members of the church congregation awaited the coming of Wednesday, when Judge Young is expected to decide whether the injunction shall be made permanent. Dr. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth is conducting a series of meetings in the partly finished tabernacle.

which has been condemned by the city building inspector.

Even if the injunction is withdrawn, members of the church will have to get another permit to continue work on the structure. A permit was revoked Saturday by the city building inspector.

Wills withdrew his oral request for institution of habeas corpus proceedings at Austin after an informal conference with members of the supreme court. This action was interpreted to indicate the court had refused to entertain a motion for a writ of habeas corpus.

$420,000 ASKED FOR 2 YEARS BY WATER BOARD

AUSTIN, July 10.—The board of water engineers Monday asked the board of control to recommend appropriations aggregating $420,000 for two years for field activities. Of that amount there would be $100,000 each year for stream measurement, $100,000 for topographic surveys and $10,000 for the investigation of underground water. The board asks $7,500 each year for duty measurement and in other respects its amounts are practically the same as for this biennium.

The larger amounts are for topographic surveys, locating reservoir and dam sites in the streams and canyons in the reclamation and conservation program started several years ago and which has been at low ebb for four years because of small appropriations. It is proposed to revive the work on a large scale to meet the demands for irrigation power and water supply. Stream measurement and topographic surveys are the basis of this work and the amount appropriated by this state for these purposes is matched by the federal government.

The $10,000 each year for underground water investigation is new. It was inserted to meet the demands of the shallow irrigation districts, where the water level has been sinking and exhaustion is said to be imminent. Wells are running wide open every day and others are not cased properly, with the result that large quantities of water escape.

HYPODERMIC OUTFIT IS STOLEN FROM AUTOMOBILE

Presumably some "dope head," in need of a "hypo," appropriated the hypodermic outfit of Dr. I. L. Vaughan, veterinary, he reported to the police this morning. The outfit was taken from the car of the veterinary while parked near his office. The loss of the outfit will inconvenience Dr. Vaughan in treating animals until the loss can be replaced.

INJUNCTION IS GRANTED AGAINST FILM COMPANIES

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 10.—A temporary injunction preventing fourteen film production companies from enforcing the "block booking" system of distribution of motion pictures was granted in federal court here Monday by Judge Paul Jones upon application of George Schade, Sandusky (Ohio) theater operator.

Schade contended that he was forced to accept pictures that he did not desire by the film companies' insistence on contracting for pictures on a group basis rather than individually.

IMPEACHMENT OF MOODY IS HAWKINS WISH

AUSTIN, July 10.—In a written statement here Monday William E. Hawkins of Breckenridge, candidate for governor, asserted that Governor Dan Moody "deserves impeachment" for his alleged failure to enforce state election laws.

Hawkins referred to the movement in at least two counties, to keep his name from the Democratic primary ballot, as well as those of State Senator Thomas B. Love, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Mrs. Edith Wilman, also seeking to dispossess Moody from the executive's chair.

Reciting that the constitution charges the governor to cause law enforcement, Hawkins added:

"Within the knowledge of Governor Moody a widespread movement of his political henchmen is under way in Texas to strike from the official July Democratic primary ballot, in various counties, the names of several duly certified state candidates, two being rivals of the chief executive, one such being a woman."

"Yet to prevent that revolutionary violation of our primary election laws, Moody has not raised his voice or moved his hands."

30 BOYS ARE ENJOYING OUTING AT CAMP MARTIN ON LLANO

Eastland County Youths Have Full Program, Regular Hours and Proper Supervision Daily

Reports from Camp Martin, the permanent camp grounds of the Eastland county Boy Scouts, are to effect that the youngsters are having a most enjoyable outing, and that they are proceeding according to the program of discipline. There are 130 boys at the camp, including eight scouters and assistants, according to reports from G. Gray, Scout executive, who spent several days with the boys there on the Llano river. Camp Martin was named for the name of the land on which the camp is situated, Gray said. "I am sure every mother and father who has a boy in this camp could go on and spend at least one day, and why not? The outing would be most enjoyable and beneficial. They certainly would endorse the splendid discipline exercised by the boys. Everything is done according to a regular clock-work precision. A time for everything, and everything done at the proper time. Following is the program for each day of the camp. Breakfast is served at 7:30, followed by inspection of the boys at 8, to see that all beds have been made up and all Scouts are in good shape. The Scouts are called out for drill from 8:30 to 9:30; 9:30 to 10:30 is devoted to cleaning up the grounds, after which the Scouts go for a swim in the river for not longer than one hour. They lounge and rest till luncheon at 12 o'clock. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon the Scouts are divided into fishing and hiking parties, under the supervision of those experienced in fishing and hiking. Those who do not go on the hiking and fishing expeditions are permitted to remain in camp and are not allowed to leave except with the permission of a scoutmaster, and then must be attended by a scoutmaster or assistant. "The Scouts are required to report for retreat at 6 o'clock and then swim till 7, when the colors are lowered preparatory for supper. After supper the Scout council or pow-wow is held, where the day's experiences are gone over and plans made for the next day's program, with suggestions from Scouts. The time is also spent in relaxation, stunts, jokes and other amusements till 10:30, when lights are out and the boys are in bed. "All is perfectly arranged. There is a man for every department. One Scout is designated to answer all questions. If he is absent the question must remain unanswered till he returns. One executive is designated to grant or deny any requests Scouts may make. His answer is always yes or no, and there is no argument. He either grants or refuses the request, and the Scout knows his answer is final. If all homes were under such perfect discipline there would be much less delinquency among juveniles—both boys and girls. That's why I say every parent could learn much by spending a day at Camp Martin."

BLANTON SAYS HE HAS FOUGHT WASTE 11 YRS.

YOAKUM, July 10.—Congressman Thomas L. Blanton, candidate for the United States senate, delivered an address here Monday and gave an accounting of his services as congressman. In event of his election to the senate, he said he would continue such service, eliminating graft wherever possible. He emphasized the fact that a senator should not be a "social butterfly" and yoke-bound, but should be sober, honest and conscientious, willing to fight a man's fight uncompromisingly when fight only will protect the public. "During eleven years in the house," Blanton stated that he had helped pass every good law and had fought hard measures. By close study and application he had mastered the rules of both the house and senate, he said, being intimately familiar with business functions, scope and history of all departments, bureaus, commissions and independent offices of the government.

He is in position to find circumflaged legislative riders in appropriation bills, he said, and how, when and where to make proper points of order to eliminate them. He said he is making a determined fight against waste and extravagance "beyond computation" and graft. He said millions have been saved by knocking out unauthorized riders with proper points of order.

He favored requiring government officers to give their full time to the people, consolidating war and navy departments, prohibiting the president from invading foreign countries with our fighting forces to collect debts for Wall street bankers, suspending all immigration until 1935, requiring registration of resident aliens, deporting all who fail to become citizens, low freight rates, prohibiting gambling in farm and ranch products, creating an embargo against jute, thus requiring cotton wrapping, sacks for sugar and cement to be made of cotton and creating a market for 3,000,000 bales of low cotton, perfecting and stopping abuses in the Federal Reserve system.

There are no tricks in plain, simple faith.—Shakespeare.

BANDITS GET $1,000 IN KANSAS BANK HOLDUP
KANSAS CITY, Kan., July 10.—Two men held up and robbed the Muncie State Bank, at Muncie, Kan., near here, late Monday and escaped with about $1,000. A posse was organized to search the hills north of the town. The men were believed to be on foot. Roy Wheat, cashier, was alone in the bank when the men, dressed in overalls, entered. No one noticed which way the bank has been robbed they departed. It was the fourth since 1921.

BAN JOHNSON

look easy. Most graceful infielder—covered more territory than any other player—had competitive temperament—too bad he couldn't play the game straight.

I asked if he would class Chase ahead of Ruth as the greatest all-around player of all time.

"Different type of players," he countered. "Can't rightly compare a great hitter with a great fielder and say which was the greater. Each stands out in his particular line."

I offered some remarks regarding Willie Keeler.

"None like him today," he smiled reminiscently. "I remember the day I signed Keeler for the New York club when we organized the American League. The salary was agreed upon, the contract read, accepted and signed and then I proffered him a check for $1500."

"What's this for?" he asked.

"That's just a little advance to bind the bargain," I said.

"Thank you, Mr. Johnson, for this offer," he said. "But I can't take it. I don't believe in taking money until I've earned it."

"Can you imagine a ball player refusing an advance? That's the one and only instance of such a thing I can recall in all my experience."

Speaking of umpires:

The talk turned to umpires. Mr. Johnson was interested in hearing of the veteran Hank O'Day, now pensioned, much against his will, as chief scout of umpires and players for the National League, a position created especially for him.

"A fine man and a fine umpire," was Mr. Johnson's comment.

O'Day was one of the greatest umpires of all times but, in the opinion of Mr. Johnson Jack Sheridan was probably the greatest. A memorial stone erected by the American League stands guard over Sheridan's grave in a quiet cemetery at San Jose.

"I remember well when Billy Evans first broke in as a youngster," he said. "He was inexperienced, of course, so I paired him with Jack Sheridan that he might learn the business. He was with Sheridan for a year and a half, and when he left Billy was a finished product. Now Evans is doing very well. I understand, as

FAIR DEAL FOR FARMING, PLEA OF CALLAWAY

COMANCHE, July 10.—Addressing a crowd of his neighbors that overflowed the district court room in Comanche Saturday afternoon, Oscar Callaway formally opened his campaign for congress from the Seventeenth congressional district. Mr. Callaway, who is a farmer, addressed the crowd as his fellow farmers and began his speech by discussing farm problems which he says are as vital to him as to his hearers.

After discussing the conditions that take the young people away from the farm Callaway charged that financial America, and industrial America had had legislation business manager of the Cleveland club. I'm glad for him. Fine fellow."

"As the sun was setting over the verdant hills and dusk was commencing to fall on the old fighter said:

"I do miss the associations, the society, the friendships—but then, I'm glad to be through with it all. I've had enough of baseball administration. Now I'm a fan."
