WHAT AILED HIM? Sometime ago a man was seen sitting back in the corner of a depot waiting room; he had pulled his hat down over his eyes, and was holding a newspaper in front of his face; plainly he was trying to escape detection. Looked suspicious, didn't it?

Was the man an escaped criminal? Was he trying to get out of town before his creditors could stop him? Was he dodging his wife? Or what in the world was making him act in such a questionable manner?

No, the man hadn't committed a crime; neither had he done anything for which he felt guilty. He was Will Rogers, trying for a moment to keep out of the public eye; Will Rogers, tired of being recognized as the most popular man in the United States; Will Rogers, weary of having folks point and say, "That's him!" And it wasn't the ungrammatical construction of the observation that bothered him, either, Rogers was wanting to be let alone; to be a private citizen, just for the time being. He was endeavoring to forget that he is a celebrity, and to keep those around him from finding it out. But every now and then someone would peek through the screen and go up and say familiarly, "Hello, Will!" And every time that happened Rogers looked as though he wished it hadn't.

There isn't much fun being in the limelight, so say the folks who, like Calvin Coolidge, have had their fill of limelight. Most limelighters get tired of that sort of thing after a while. They get weary of the ingratiating grins; of the high-up society handshakes; of the up-and-down-pump-handle handshakes. They get fed up on the stares of the curious. They grow tired of the same old comments.

Of course, where a man's personal publicity is making him money, that is some compensation for belonging to the public, for being on exhibition all the time, like something in a show window. But any person with any sense who belongs to the public gets tired of being looked over.

"No more privacy than a gold fish," said Cobb. A gold fish doesn't care; privacy doesn't mean anything to him. He is shut off from the mentalities of those around him because he has no mentality of his own. But the human being who is a subject of public inspection has a soul, m., free.

The thought and behavior of being looked over and fingered. No matter how much he loves his public, he just a plain, unrenowned name. That is why Will Rogers, in the corner of a depot waiting room over his eyes and held his face.

ENDOWED Stephen Vincent Benet coming home modestly from and not need it than to need it passenger, landed in New York famous. He learned for the first time, from a reporter who came aboard at quarantine, that his Civil War poem, "John Brown's Body," had become a best seller, with a first edition sale of 70,000. That is quite unusual for an epic poem.

Two things about this are noteworthy. One is that evidently the Civil War is not far enough in the past to be a suitable subject for epics. The other is that it may really be worth while to endow young and struggling poets. Benet went abroad as a protegee of the Guggenheim Foundation, with the specific understanding that he was to write a long poem on an American subject. He seems to have made good, and so has the idealistic Foundation.

SANE CITY HOMES. City streets become roaring speedways, perilous alike for grown-ups and children. The children have nowhere to play. The air of leisure, comfort and pleasantness that once pervaded urban thoroughfares is gone. There is no quiet, no space. There are hardly any trees or green spots. There are no secluded nooks where the elderly or sickly may sit happily in the sun or rest in the shade.

Yet these boons are not necessarily lost. They may be regained in a different form. Albert W. Atwood, in the Saturday Evening Post, noting the revolution in streets now given entirely to utilitarian traffic, wants to know why we still feel obliged to turn our houses to the street, instead of following the custom prevailing in some other countries for ages, and facing away from the street into pleasant seclusion.

This would not be inconvenient for anybody, he thinks. The garage would join the house. The service end of the house would be on the street, giving easier access to the postman, milk man, ice man, delivery boy, etc. The space in the present back yard would become a garden, playground or park. A whole block of houses, if the owners desired, might be grouped around such a space, large enough to accommodate all the families, or divided up if they preferred. Why not? It would be hard to change old, settled streets; but enterprising allotment people might try it in new developments. Building codes would have to be changed, but that is not impossible. This might be one way to keep city people from moving out into the country.

LIFE WORK. Here's a new idea for young men puzzling over what career to choose. Dean Woods of the University of California says: "The greatest vocation is that in which we reach the top latest in life." Young men usually want quick success. Mushrooms grow quickly to maturity, and oak trees take a long time. Yet mushrooms are not preferred to oaks. The puglist, the dean observes, reaches his zenith at 30, the banker at 60, the statesman at 70, the scientist sometimes later than that.

To the Voters of Eastland County!

We are supporting Elmer Collins for the office of County Tax Assessor for the following reasons:

- He has had five years experience as Deputy Assessor of Eastland County.
- He is otherwise well qualified to perform the duties of this important office.
- He is a life long citizen of Eastland County.
- He is worthy of your support.
- He has conducted a clean campaign with fairness to every one.

(This advertisement paid for by friends of Mrs. Fannye Burkett).

THE RECORD

Since my opponent and his strongest supporters have vigorously denied and now branding as false, the statement that he was a deputy under Sam Nolley from the day Nolley took the oath of office as sheriff of this county until the day he was ousted as sheriff, I take the liberty of publishing a certified copy of the record of Eastland County reflecting what the record shows:

The following is a certified copy of the deputation of my opponent showing that he was sworn in on December 1st, 1920, which was the day Mr. Nolley was sworn in as sheriff and that the deputation was not filed for record until February 1st, 1922, the time Mr. Nolley was ousted as sheriff. If Mr. Foster resigned as Deputy Sheriff between the day of his appointment and the day of the ousting of Nolley, the records do not show it.

Most of the citizens of this county are familiar with the administration of the sheriff's office when Nolley was sheriff and my opponent one of his deputies. If my administration as sheriff has not done more to suppress crime and aid law enforcement, than the administration of Mr. Nolley, then I am not entitled to your vote. If it has, then I am entitled to your vote. We both have a record as peace-officers in Eastland County. I am willing to stand on mine. He ought to be willing to stand on his.

I am entitled to the vote of every man and woman in Eastland County that is interested in law enforcement. I will appreciate your support tomorrow.

Respectfully,
JOHN S. HART,
 For Sheriff Second Term.

DEPUTATION OF FOSTER BY NOLLEY

THE STATE OF TEXAS
 COUNTY OF EASTLAND

I, S. E. Nolley of the County of Eastland and State of Texas, having full confidence in VERGE FOSTER of said County and State, do hereby nominate and appoint him, the said VERGE FOSTER my true and lawful deputy, in my name, place and stead, to do and perform any and all acts and things pertaining to the office of said Sheriff of said County and State, hereby ratifying and confirming any and all such acts and things lawfully done in the premises by virtue hereof.

Witness my hand, this 1st day of December, A. D. 1920.

S. E. NOLLEY, of Eastland County, Texas.

NOTE:

Here follows the statutory acknowledgement of S. E. Nolley, Sheriff of Eastland County:

Following the acknowledgement of Mr. Nolley is the oath as administered to Verge Foster by E. Lanham Brown, Notary Public, Eastland County, Texas, dated December 1st, 1920.

(This deputation shows to be filed for record February 1st, 1922 at 11:30 o'clock a. m. and recorded the 2nd day of February, 1922, in Vol. 5, page 169 of the deputation records of Eastland County, Texas.

SMITH AND HOOVER TRY TO CUT INTO EACH OTHER'S RANKS

O. P. Leader's Chief Appeal Is to Democrats While Democratic Nominee Seeks Support of Farmers, Business Men, Vets

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—A war of political maneuvering between Herbert Hoover and Alton B. Parker is being waged here today. Hoover has attracted Democrats to his Republican ticket in his address Wednesday night. He indicated his belief, however, that the "government might retail its hydro-electric power through private distribution agencies."

Hoover's political theories against which the party liberals like Roosevelt and La Follette and their party insurgents have rebelled, and he advocated government ownership and control of public utilities, including electric power. Hoover has attracted Democrats to his Republican ticket in his address Wednesday night. He indicated his belief, however, that the "government might retail its hydro-electric power through private distribution agencies."

Smith's stand on amending the Volstead law and the 18th Amendment drew less fire here than was expected. Senator Fess, Republican regular, alone criticized it severely. Senator Snoot, also Republican, did not refer to it. Senator George, dry Democrat, admired Smith's "courage and sincerity" though disagreeing with him on the prohibition question. Senator Caraway was silent on that phase of Smith's speech.

The Anti-Saloon League issued a statement by its general superintendent, F. Ross, Michigan, as follows: "I prefer to make no comment on Governor Smith's speech until I have read for myself just what he has to say. I think it might be possible that he will stand for full enforcement of the 18th Amendment."

Josephus Daniels, North Carolina leader, announced from station that he would support Smith because of his stand on Muscle Shoals and public ownership.

THREE TEXAS CONVICTS ESCAPE FROM PRISONS

HOUSTON, Aug. 24.—Escape of three convicts, two of whom had been convicted of murder, was reported Thursday from state penal institutions. Elias Villanueva, serving two years for burglary from Hays County, escaped from the state penitentiary at Huntsville; Elmer Benson, convicted of murder in Wichita County and serving 10 years, and Jack Shaw, serving 20 years for murder in Gregg county, fled from the Darlington state farm in Brazoria county.

COUPLE HELD AFTER POISON KILLS MATE

BERMANN, Mo., Aug. 24.—Mrs. Blanche Richardson, 25, mother of two children, and W. J. Crider, 30, laborer, were held in jail here Thursday charged with the murder of Mrs. Richardson's husband, Oliver, who died of poison at the Richardson home in Canaan, Feb. 14. Officers said both prisoners had admitted an illicit love affair but Richardson steadfastly denied any guilty knowledge of the manner in which prior to Richardson's death, but Richardson died.

REMEMBER HOW THE HOME FOLKS VOTED!

In the 1922 run-off campaign with James E. Ferguson for an opponent, Earle B. Mayfield in a campaign speech boasted of beating Ferguson in Bell County, and exclaimed: "Think of it. I beat him in his home county." What does he say about the following home county votes in the July 28 primary?

Boque County (Mayfield's Legal Residence)	Falls County (Connally's Home)	Bell County (Former Home of Mayfield and Jim Ferguson)	McLennan County (Connally's Former Home)
Tom Connally . . . . . 1,820	Tom Connally . . . . . 3,492	Tom Connally . . . . . 5,452	Tom Connally . . . . . 8,762
Earle B. Mayfield . . . . . 763	Earle B. Mayfield . . . . . 358	Earle B. Mayfield . . . . . 933	Earle B. Mayfield . . . . . 1,481

THEIR HOME VOTING PRECINCTS

Mayfield's Home in Meridian	Mayfield's Home in Austin	Connally's Home in Marlin
Tom Connally . . . . . 260	Tom Connally . . . . . 320	Tom Connally . . . . . 423
Earle B. Mayfield . . . . . 209	Earle B. Mayfield . . . . . 236	Earle B. Mayfield . . . . . 20
