Robinson's Speech Here to Be Broadcast

Big Radio Hookup through Station WBAP Being Arranged; Committees Named to Plan for 20,000 Visitors

New York will broadcast the speech of Senator Joe T. Robinson, who will speak in Cisco Sept. 4 according to a telegram from Harold Hough, vice president and manager of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and manager of WBAP, Star-Telegram broadcasting station, Hough's telegram stated.

"In connection with a conversation with Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, we advised that New York is now arranging a hook-up of Texas stations for Senator Robinson's speech at Cisco, Sept. 4. They will pay for it."

This arrangement relieves Cisco of the expense of broadcasting the speech of the vice presidential nominee, which was being arranged through the Cisco chamber of commerce by Secretary Peters, who ascertained that the charge for broadcasting political speeches by WBAP was $300 per hour, plus the standard expense of wiring the grounds, etc.

After conferring with the broadcasting officials, Peters got in touch with Wade who had good offices with the west coast.

In the meantime local committees have begun work on arranging the local details for the coming of Senator Robinson, Democratic vice presidential nominee. The central committee, of which Judge Eugene Lanford is chairman, held a meeting this morning in Judge Lanford's office. Local committees were named and it was determined that the senator would speak at Chesley field, where a throng of 20,000 is expected to see and hear the distinguished speaker. It is thought that the stadium and grounds will afford ample room for the crowds that will come from all parts of West Texas. Loud speakers will be installed at the stadium which will carry the speaker's voice to every part of the grounds. In addition to the large seating capacity of the stadium the football field will accommodate several thousand, and the grounds surrounding the field will accommodate several thousand more. The West Texas Utilities Co. has agreed to light the stadium and grounds. The following committees were named this morning:

Grounds and place of speaking—Dr. Charles Hale, W. J. Armstrong and A. L. Mayhew.

Concessions—Mayor Williamson and Secretary Peters of the chamber of commerce.

Entertainment—W. W. Walker, Luther H. McCrea, Mrs. W. W. Wallace, Mrs. R. Q. Lee, and Mrs. Eugene Lanford.

Publicity—A. B. O'Flaherty, J. E. T. Peters, Cisco, Max Bentley, Aldene, E. H. Whitehead and Silman Evans, Fort Worth.

Executive committee—Eugene Lanford, A. B. O'Flaherty, Dr. Charles Hale, J. M. Williamson and R. Q. Lee.

The entertainment features will include a reception to Mrs. Robinson at Green Lantern Inn by the committee of ladies, and a dinner for Senator Robinson at the Cisco Country club house, at which will be the leading men of West Texas as invited guests.

The vice presidential nominee's appearance here will be one of the only he will make in Texas, on the succeeding day, Labor Day, he will speak at Dallas.

Delivering stirring appeal for modification of Volstead act and a change in Eighteenth Amendment, Governor Alfred E. Smith is shown here addressing the Democratic nomination for president. Rain halted plans for acceptance speech on Capitol steps, but it failed to dampen spirits of ardent Smith boosters, who huddled under umbrellas and listened to the party's standard-bearer. #### WATERMELON TREAT FOUND TO BE ON LEE

While R. Q. Lee, winner in Saturday's primary of the Democratic nomination for congress to represent the 17th congressional district was celebrating his political victory Saturday night, the watermelon patch at his farm was raided and many of his choicest melons removed from the vines. Probably some of his juvenile supporters concluded that it was Lee's treat and proceeded to enjoy a feast without his consent.

HOOVER MAY TRY TO GAIN LABOR VOTE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Republican leaders may decide it is best for Herbert Hoover, presidential nominee, to appeal for the labor vote in his address on Labor Day. Plans for campaigning in the eastern seaboard states also are being considered.

Majorities of Runoff Primary Winners Are Increased as More Complete Returns Are Received

Additional returns from the Democratic runoff primary of Saturday failed today to change the results of any of the contests. In most cases they only served to increase the majorities of the winning candidates.

The margin of R. Q. Lee for congress from the 17th district approached the 5,000 mark, according to figures of the Texas election bureau at noon. He then had 25,518 votes to 20,990 for his opponent, Oscar Callaway.

O. C. Funderburk maintained a comfortable lead over E. W. Patterson for associate justice of the court of civil appeals, 11th district. Their votes were 23,990 and 20,941, respectively.

Tom Connolly continued to pull away from Earle B. Mayfield, incumbent, in the senatorial race. The Martin congressman had 292,677 votes to 236,961 for his rival with returns from 219 counties, 85 of which were complete. In the other two state races Marrs was piling up a big lead over Garner for superintendent of public instruction, 291,143 to 217,103 and Robinson was overwhelming Terrell for commissioner of the general land office, 317,079 to 179,362.

The two Eastland county offices were definitely decided Saturday night, Virge Foster beating John S. Hart, incumbent, for sheriff and George Bryant, defeating Elmer Collins for tax collector.

According to figures compiled at Lee's headquarters here the Ciscoan had carried 16 of the 19 counties in the district. These returns accounted for 24,900 voted for him and 20,658 for Callaway, being slightly behind the figures of the Texas election bureau. The official and incomplete vote was as follows by counties:

The following gives the incomplete returns from the 19 counties: Eastland—Lee 3222, Callaway 1854; Jones—Lee 1857, Callaway 1394; Callahan—Lee 1042, Callaway 593; Comanche—Lee 1322, Callaway 2947; Stephens—Lee 1711, Callaway 1380; Llano—Lee 347, Callaway 101; Lampasas—Lee 1123, Callaway 941; Nolan—Lee 1726, Callaway 1230; Burnett—Lee 702, Callaway 355; Taylor—Lee 1798, Callaway 1345; McCullough—Lee 506, Callaway 343; Coleman—Lee 1764, Callaway 1274; Brown—Lee 1584, Callaway 2483; Concho—Lee 748, Callaway 555; Shackelford—Lee 379, Callaway 123; Runtels—Lee 1298, Callaway 993; Palo Pinto—Lee 1850, Callaway 982; Saba—Lee 807, Callaway 718; Mills—Lee 613, Callaway 738.

Two-Thirds of World's Fighting Power Agree to Maintain Peace and Remainder Asked to Take Pledge

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Through the signing of the multi-national treaty outlawing military forces and the instrument of national policy, 15 nations, representing two-thirds of the world's fighting power, agreed today never again to go to war. The rest of the world was invited to take the same pledge.

The scene of the historic event was the Salle Des Horloges in the French foreign office where the League of Nations was born under the sponsorship of Woodrow Wilson. It is regarded in Europe as the most powerful and far-reaching step yet taken to abolish war and insure universal peace.

Frank B. Kellogg, American secretary of state, was the outstanding figure of the conference. Next to him stood Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, who had originally proposed the anti-war treaty. The pen that was used 130 years ago in signing the treaty of friendship between France and the United States was used to sign the treaty.

Germany was the first to sign. Secretary Kellogg signed for the United States. Representatives of the following countries also signed: Belgium, France, Great Britain, Japan, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, United States, Africa, Free State, Italy, Japan, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

EXAMINATION OF PRE-SCHOOL TOTS FRIDAY

The summer health roundup committee, of which Mrs. M. B. Bailey is chairman, has plans and preparations under way for the coming year of Miss Celia Moore, state health nurse, who will conduct a free children's clinic at the city hall next Friday.

"It's a loss of time and energy to send a child to school who is suffering from some physical defect, such as poor vision, bad teeth, adenoids, and various other ills," Mrs. Bailey said. "All these may be corrected before the opening of school September 1st."

"In order that parents may know whether their children need correction of the above defects, Miss Moore will conduct a free examination for the pre-school children at the city hall from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Miss Moore especially wants to see those children who were examined last spring."

ACCIDENT MAY COST CISCOAN SIGHT OF EYE

Martin Farmer, who has recently moved back to Cisco, is gradually recovering from a rather serious injury which he sustained last Thursday in which he has probably lost the sight of his left eye. Following the heavy rain which fell here, he attempted to start his car to convey a lady visitor home, but the generator failed to work on account of the ignition having become wet from the downpour. Farmer primed the spark plugs with gasoline, and in doing so some of the fluid leaked down under the engine and when he placed a lighted paper underneath to dry the parts, this spilled gas exploded, blowing off the lubricating pipe which struck him in the eye. He was at once rushed to Dr. Charles Hale's office for treatment. Dr. Hale stated this morning that his patient was somewhat improved, but thought probably that he would lose the sight of his eye, though the ball was not burst when the injury occurred.

Mr. and Mrs. Farmer had only returned to Cisco where he has been re-employed as garbage collector for the city, a position he previously held, but lost the contract a year ago when it was awarded to N. J. Tarver. After losing this contract Farmer removed to Lubbock county where he planted a crop this year.

Invasion of New York and Other States Considered Favorable to Al Smith Is Planned by Hoover

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Herbert Hoover will begin his fight to capture northeastern and other Atlantic seaboard states when he inaugurates a series of campaign speeches here, with leaders from the Democratic opponent's own battleground.

Back in the capital after his six weeks' trip west the Republican presidential nominee has turned his thoughts to the East. Sure of the West and confident that the anti-party issue has been laid to rest, he plans to whip the New York, New Jersey and New England organizations into shape for the fray.

Complete satisfaction political conditions in the Hoover looks for a hard fight. Leaders from many sections have presented reports of unusual Democratic strength and enthusiasm. Hoover has told them that continuous and aggressive warfare must be the watchword until November 6, and said he would set an example in his own handling of the campaign.

SMITH PLANS TO WAGE FIGHT IN NORTHEAST

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 27.—Following a conference with Democratic leaders of New Jersey, Governor Al Smith will return today to New York and tell his party leaders that he intends to concentrate his campaign in six western states. He thinks the real battleground is in the east and will not wake an intensive campaign in the middlewest. He will not campaign in the border states.

GLORIOUS BETSY

NOVELIZED BY ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

GLORIOUS BETSY, starring Dolores Costello, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel. Based on the play by Rida Johnson Young.

SYNOPSIS Captain Jerome Bonaparte, brother of Napoleon and his ambassador to America, masquerades as a tutor and wins the love of the beautiful Betsy Patterson. At a banquet in her home his identity is revealed and they become public enemies. News is brought that Napoleon has been made Emperor. Betsy and Jerome stand rigidly tense, clasping each other's hands. "From the Emperor!" Betsy cried. "Oh, Jerome, they have come back. They have come back! It's all right. Everything is all right! Oh, I must run below and make myself pretty." She ran her hands through her damp curly hair.

CHAPTER XII—Continued "No, Betty dear," Jerome tried to explain. "It is just that I am afraid my brother has set his heart on this project, and that you will be bitterly awaiting you. And I never want to bring that sorrow to you. You should always have confidence and loveliness about you. Do not know Napoleon. He is as determined as you, when he sets his mind upon anything."

CHAPTER XIII St. Pierre threw a heavily booted leg over the side of the boat and stepped onto the deck, closely followed by Dufresne. Two soldiers fell in behind them. Far below, working on the water, rested a small boat. In its prow huddled a closely muffled figure, guarded by two more soldiers. At the appearance of Napoleon's aides, Jerome clicked his heels and came to attention.

"My service, Captain Bonaparte," St. Pierre saluted. "One moment, by your leave. Word to the Captain of the ship." The Captain, standing back near the cabin, kept to attention. St. Pierre handed him one of the huge white envelopes affixed with the familiar Napoleon's insignia.

"Now, Captain Bonaparte," St. Pierre turned to the brother of Napoleon. "The Emperor has sent us back to conduct you to his presence, sir. On landing we found that he had condescended to come to Bordeaux where he expects you to join him immediately."

"To join him immediately!" Jerome frowned. "Napoleon has reserved for you one of the richest honors in his power to give." St. Pierre watched the effects of his remarks upon his charge. He but waits your landing to bestow upon you the crown of Westphalia.

"What! He dared—" Jerome's face flamed with anger. He dropped his hand to his sword and started forward threateningly. "Then tell him," he began, "that I have received his message and tell him also that my reply is that until Napoleon accepts my wife, I myself, will never set foot in France."

"You are commanded to come to shore immediately and alone," St. Pierre returned severely. "Monsieur Patterson," he bowed, "I trust you will pardon what I have returned to say, and believe me, I am only trying to the best of my ability to execute the will of him who sent me."

"Before you go any further, sir," Patterson said truthfully, "I may tell you at once that however strong may be Napoleon's objections to this marriage—as I judge they are by your apology—they cannot be stronger than were my own when the news was so suddenly brought me."

"I beg your pardon, Monsieur," St. Pierre looked questioningly at the Major, scarcely understanding the meaning of his words. He did not know whether to believe that Patterson had objected to Jerome as a son-in-law or whether he actually understood the political significance of such a union.

"I mean what I say," Patterson explained, realizing what St. Pierre was thinking. "What has this alliance with Napoleon, or rather the brother of Napoleon, to offer me for the loss of my daughter? Do you think that anything but my Betty's happiness could prevail with me to embark upon this strange expedition? No, gentlemen, no. It was for my Betty's happiness that I came. It was for her happiness that I myself acknowledged this marriage. It is for her happiness that I live. When she finds it I shall be content and God may sign my discharge. Now, proceed, sir."

STYLE HINTS By ALICE LANGELIER International News Service Staff Correspondent. LACES FEATURED IN DRESS COLLECTIONS PARIS, Aug. 27.—Large amounts of lace are a noticeable feature of all the smart dress collections now being shown in the French capital, and seem to mean that lace frocks will be as popular this winter as they have been all summer. Black lace over metallic cloth in gold and silver is shown with slim lines and floating skirts. In some cases the order is reversed and the metallic lace is used over a satin background.

Nicole Groult is using a new kind of woven lace for pretty daytime jumpers and there are exquisite frocks in crisp lace sprinkled with tiny rhinestones, one of which in pale pink is certainly fit for Queen Mab. Others come in tulle embroidered in hands, ankles or silver beads and paillettes. A long-bodied frock in black has a full flourish of crisp lace at the bottom which sways in most graceful manner. A robe de style in black chiffon and tulle has wide insets of lovely fine lace.

Organdie is also blossoming out for late summer wear in frocks of delightful crispness and ravishing colors. One with a tight-fitting bodice has a demur little cape in the back and the skirt is made of petals and petals of black organdie edged with white thread in sprays of lily flowers. The silver slip which is worn beneath gleams and shimmers in lovely fashion.

There are frocks of tulle, lemon and Empire yellow organdie, of perverche-blue, turquoise and lovely rose tones. They are perfect for the summer garden-party or the week-end at a chateau in France.

The attorney general's department has started an investigation of the recent increase in the price of gasoline.

30 LEGIONAIRES WILL AID DEAN FOR HIGH POST

BRECKENRIDGE, Aug. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Dean, and a number of Dean's supporters left Breckenridge Saturday and Sunday for Teasakana to attend the annual state convention of the American Legion, which convenes there today for a three day session. Breckenridge is especially interested in the state convention this year as Dean is making a fight for the commandership of the Texas Legionnaires. Some 29 or 30 members of the Bernice Oules American Legion post, of which Dean is commander, are attending the convention and boosting the candidacy of the local legion commander. Balloting for the commandership will be Wednesday. Approximately 2,000 ex-service men will be in attendance at the convention. Legionnaires from Arkansas have been invited to attend the sessions and enjoy the entertainment jointly with the Texas men.

80,000 WOMEN WORK IN U. S. CIVIL SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—A recognition of woman's new place in the business world, the federal government is taking the lead. The United States civil service commission reports there are now about 80,000 women employed in the executive service. The number employed and the importance of their duties are both increasing rapidly, it finds. Woman's advance in the biological, economic and physical science branches of government work is noted particularly. The 80,000 women now employed by the government constitute one-seventh approximately of all persons holding positions in the classified civil service. More than half of the positions for which men and women are equally suitable are held by women, the civil service commission reports. During the fiscal year 1927, 32,113 women took civil service examinations for a wide variety of government positions. Of these 15,614 or 48 per cent, were successful. The total number of men examined in the same time were 219,561 and 91,223, or 41 per cent, of them passed. Although the work of a letter carrier is one of those listed by the commission as not suitable for women, 97 women successfully passed the examination for rural carriers.

Nineteen women qualified as biological aides, one as associate architect, one as medical artist, 14 as assistant surgeons. One woman showed herself an able astronomer, and another a meteorologist. One passed the examination for engineering draftsman, two for business economists, three for financial economists, one for forest ecologist. A woman qualified as scientific illustrator, another as immigration inspector, and two as naturalization examiners.

About half of those examined were, however, trained as clerks or stenographers. No invasion by women of the fields of men's work was more remarkable than an attempt by one man to reverse the procedure. He took an examination for the position of mistress, but failed.

THE MODERN TREASURE CHEST

By KATHERINE G. CORNELL Director of the Kelmator Domestic Institute

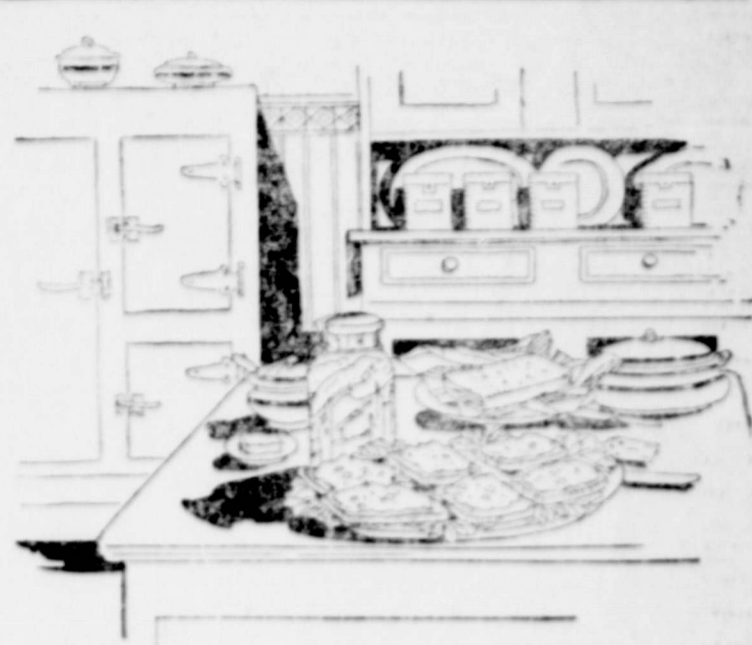

WHAT has become of the emergency chest, once so important in the housewife's estimation? That chest, whose boxes and tins and jars and bottles were dedicated to the day when company might descend upon us unexpectedly and find us with a cupboard as bare as Old Mother Hubbard's, has gone the way of the horse and buggy and the tallow candle. In these days of electricity and swift travel, company is never unexpected. In place of the emergency chest we have that modern treasure chest of the up-to-date housewife, the perfectly constructed electric refrigerator.

Within the cool depths of this reliable aid to good housekeeping such a supply of good things may be kept all so fresh and inviting that were a queen to come visiting unheralded some fine day, her hostess would be in no way disconcerted.

Hospitality is no longer the stilted, formal thing it once was. Casual entertaining is far more delightful and more suited to our modern way of living, and only on high days and holidays does the old elaborate entertainment which entailed so much anxious preparation now prevail.

Always Ready for Guests There are no anxious moments about refreshments when friends drop in for an evening at bridge in the household which has installed one of these modern treasure chests in the kitchen. In store of good things is always ready for just such occasions, and almost at a moment's notice the hostess is ready to set forth a feast of delicious and appetizing delicacies and fruit punch on the porch while her guests listen in to some radio program.

Sunday evening supper, too, in the treasure chest home, becomes one of the most delightfully informal affairs one could wish to give or attend. There are always a few cold, cooked vegetables which may be quickly transformed into a tasty salad with the aid of the mayonnaise jar and a few leaves of lettuce, and cheese omelet, or a fish Newburg, or chicken à la King, each a feast in itself, is a small matter when it is so convenient to keep the electric refrigerator stocked with the ingredients for making these tempting dishes.

Saves on Food Bills It is an economy, too, to have a supply of easily and quickly prepared foods on hand. One may buy with so much better judgment when not hurrying to meet an emergency, and often it is possible to pick up bargains or to buy more cheaply in quantities.

The electric refrigerator provides a place for everything that one may require for emergency repasts—a can or two of fish, or chicken—or mushrooms; a jar of pickled lamb's tongue; a small bottle of maraschino cherries and one of pimiento; an extra bottle of cream, which you can keep fresh and sweet for a week; a package of cream cheese, and one of two small jars of some more pungent variety—all these and other handy staples may be given a corner in that modern treasure chest, à la King, each a feast in itself, is a small matter when it is so convenient to keep the electric refrigerator stocked with the ingredients for making these tempting dishes.

Fish Newburg Recipe Fish Newburg is one of the tastiest of hot dishes. To make it use a can of tuna fish, crab meat and shrimp, or lobster, crab meat and shrimp, or any combination of fish that you prefer. Open the cans, drain and flake the fish in not too small pieces. Make a white sauce a little richer than usual, and tarts in the fish, simmer till hot, then fold in a well beaten egg yolk, a dash of Worcestershire, and if you have it, two tablespoonsful of sherry sauce. Do not cook after the sauce has been added. Serve hot on toast or in patty shells. Lemon juice may be substituted for the sherry sauce, adding just a tablespoonful of it after removing the fish from the fire.

NATIONAL GUARD TRAINING AIDS CIVIL LIFE ADVANCEMENT

Intensive Courses Given in Radio, Electricity, Sanitation, First Aid, Hygiene as Well as Military Drills

(By PAUL WAKEFIELD.)

It is safe to say that the average citizen knows less about radio, electricity, sanitation, first aid, hygiene and military drills than he does about any other branch of his government. The writer has just completed the annual two weeks' training with the 56th Cavalry Brigade as an officer on the staff of General John Watson, brigade commander.

The type of young men who make up the commissioned and enlisted personnel of the 56th Cavalry Brigade speak for themselves. The majority of the cadets are high school graduates and many more with one and two years college training in their credit. At Camp Wheeler, situated on a beautiful hillside two miles east of Mineral Wells, for the week a year the brigade is indoctrinated in the program of training as laid out by the war department.

Under the direction of highly trained regular army experts in radio, wireless communication, motor mechanics, sanitation, hygiene, first aid, care of wounds, and other lines, officers and men are given schooling which is highly valuable to their progress in civil occupations.

As one lady put it who visited the camp and was shown about by the writer: "I thought almost all the National Guard organizations amounted to was to drill men and prepare them for a national emergency, but here I find young men working very seriously at learning highly successful trades. I think citizens should know the importance of the work being accomplished by the National Guard and its training schools."

In addition to the intensive training the men are assigned in 1918 membership of the field day exercises, having rifle, machine and other work which is physical and mental relaxation from the working program given under supervision of instructors. Specialists of all kinds emerge from the ranks equipped for their present and previous for their job in civil life.

Officers and men of the brigade work hard at their home stations during their spare time. Many of the year training in their local level competitions at the local level, drill and best of all around units houses.

A true reflection of what the brigade is doing can be found in the words of General A. J. Barker:

These men, during the annual indoctrination, are given instruction in the use of their own rifles and in the use of their own brains. I have very frequently a military organization which is efficient, but which is not so well equipped as they are. They are being indoctrinated in the use of their own rifles and in the use of their own brains. And this, we must take into consideration, is the purpose of the largest camp area in the United States.

The National Guard is an organized body of citizens with a dual status subject to governmental and civil control, and when called to the colors becomes a part of the government. It is a national organization, and its training is given by the war department.

A cadet who has just finished his military training and has been ordered to go to the front, will find that the National Guard is a body of men who have been trained in the use of their own rifles and in the use of their own brains. They are being indoctrinated in the use of their own rifles and in the use of their own brains.

RAIL UNIONS REFUSE TO ABIDE BY LAW, EXECUTIVES DECLARE

Congressional Act Ignored by Labor Organizations After One Pay Increase, Owners Explain

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. — In connection with the announcement made public by the officers of the American Railway Union and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen that the members of those organizations in the western district have refused to take a strike because of the failure to make factory wage agreements based on the organization's demand for a 7 per cent increase, the following statement of J. W. Higgins, chairman of the conference committee of the managers of the western railroads, briefly details the reasons for the refusal to make such agreements.

The statement says that the railroad labor act was passed only two years ago to settle a long-standing dispute between the railroads and their employees. It was drafted by the railroads and approved by the Senate and House of Representatives. It provided for a 7 per cent increase in wages for the railroads and their employees. The railroads have paid this increase and have also paid a 7 per cent increase in wages for their employees. The railroads have also paid a 7 per cent increase in wages for their employees. ## BRECKENRIDGE IS TRYING NEW IDEA IN TAXES

BRECKENRIDGE, Aug. 27. — Working for the past two months on a property valuation system, known as the standard unit system, an expert in his line reported that such a system would value Breckenridge property for this year at $2,000,000, according to an announcement made Saturday by Mayor Chas. H. Clark.

This scientific method of valuing real estate increased property values in Breckenridge from approximately $1,500,000 to the $2,000,000 valuation, Mayor Clark stated.

These figures do not include the valuation of personal property, which amounted to more than one and one-half million dollars last year.

A budget system, to be inaugurated for the first time this year in Breckenridge, is being worked out on the basis of this valuation and will in turn be used as a basis for the city's budget.

basis of fixing the tax rate for the city. A board of equalization, composed of three men, has been organized by the mayor, and it is figured that if the equalization board approves of at least seventy-five per cent of the real estate values fixed under the unit system, the tax rates will be set at around $2.20 for this year, a reduction of about 30 cents, Clark stated.

"We are hoping that the tax rate can be further reduced," Mayor Clark said, "but this cannot be decided definitely until after the board of equalization completes its work and the budget is worked out in detail."

ISMAEL, YOUTH OF TODAY FORM SERMON TOPIC

"We had a most wonderful and inspiring service last night," reported H. F. Freeman, pastor of the Lutheran church. "The house was filled and the congregational singing was hearty and soul-stirring. In his sermon on Ismael the pastor said in part: 'In the life of Ismael and his mother Hagar, we see the waywardness of man. Man prone to plan and choose his own way without inquiring if his plan be the plan of God? Will God's blessing rest upon us if I follow the course that I have outlined? But we live in the life of Ismael also now. God sees after His wayward children, following them, as the poet says: 'O'er vale and hill, o'er desert waste and wild,' leaving as Jesus says, 'the safety and mine in the wilderness and going out and leading the way which is straying away.' But above all, do we learn from the life of Ismael the power of God's word and of His holy spirit. Abraham planted the seed of the word into the troubled heart of Ismael. Yet when the youth left his father's house he was seeking, not a Christian. But there in the wilderness the holy spirit touched his heart, germinated the seed that Abraham had implanted into Ismael's heart, and this seed brought forth, fruit unto eternal life.

And the lesson that we should learn from the life of Ismael, is to diligently and prayerfully sow the seed of the word into the hearts of men, and above all into the hearts of the youth, and then trust that the spirit will also do its part and in its own mysterious way and at its own time change the heart and turn it to God."
