THE WEATHER.

WEST TEXAS: Tonight and Saturday generally fair.

ALBERT KUTER, FORMER CISCOAN, BURIED HERE

TWILIGHT MUSICAL TO BE PRESENTED SUNDAY

TEL. TUL CLEAN AND DYE 609 AVENUE D

With the opening of the preliminary schedule of the Oil Belt football teams looming less than two weeks away, gridiron enthusiasm is beginning to mount rapidly and interest is growing all over the district.

Football camps were opened in all the cities of the district Monday, and coaches unanimously report larger squads out than ever before.

Coach Dewey Mayhew of Abilene met a large squad, the largest in the district, by the way, at Abilene Monday, with plenty of letter men, captained by the great end, Shulkeid, to rapidly break in the few substitutes from last year's team needed to fill in the gaps made by graduation.

Coach Chapman of Cisco is working a large squad, with a nucleus of letter men, and looking forward to a great season.

Breckenridge and Angelo have new coaches, both beginning in Oil Belt Class A football, but both have large squads with plenty of veterans and will supply any team in the district with a busy afternoon whenever one of these teams takes the field.

Coach Shugart of Breckenridge did not have too successful a season last year, but everyone here remembers what he did when at Abilene a few years back, and word leaks out of the Buckaroo camp that he has plenty of material this year, is well fortified with coaches and substitutes material, and the Breckenridge supporters are expecting a great season under this competent mentor.

San Angelo and Big Spring have gone the other teams out better by opening up out of town training camps—San Angelo on the Concho river near San Angelo, and Big Spring near Post City, on the edge of the cap rock.

San Angelo has never been a factor in the district, but Coach "Chuck" Bassett has more material this year than San Angelo has ever turned out before, and with interest rising rapidly in this city may spring a surprise or two before the season is over.

All the signs point to the best season ever in the Oil Belt, and when one remembers the time when the colorful Lobos, headed by the great Wilson, Abilene, Irving, and Gray, combination, used to overtake every stadium in the district with fans from everywhere, this is saying a great deal.

Any fans of this district may be sure that this year, as for several years back they will be treated by the close competition, hard fought games, and maybe a district champion undetermined until Cisco and Abilene meet in the Oil Belt classic, the final game of the Oil Belt season.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

...The Emperor reared up by his snuff, spilling it from his nervous fingers. He strode up and down, up and down, twisting his hands behind his back, and chin up on his breast.

...What do you mean, he began finally. "What is it that interests you?"

BLANTON WINS DECISION IN U. S. PROBE

FT. WORTH, Sept. 7.—Another bit of service has been performed by Thomas L. Blanton, retiring congressman from the 11th district, supporting his 11 years public career.

Washington dispatches say that J. R. McFarli, comptroller general of the United States, has handed down a "sensational" decision in his investigation involving the administration of the government's great hospital for the insane, St. Elizabeth's of Washington.

Carl has informed the secretary of the interior that Dr. William A. White, superintendent, and many employees, have been drawing "exorbitant" sums from the government which they should be compelled to refund.

White, the report said, instead of receiving $1,500 per annum as superintendent, should be paying the government $3,500 a year for the luxurious home on which he is living at the cost of the government.

He is living in a six-room, 18-room apartment maintained by four servants, the annual value of which is estimated by the comptroller general at $11,000. McFarli also recommended that living allowances to 121 employees of the hospital be deducted from their salaries.

The hospital investigation was launched by direction of congress under a resolution introduced by Congressman Blanton and passed in the latter part of 1926. It was a part of Blanton's determined fight against Frederick A. Penning, commissioner of the District of Columbia, which forced Penning's resignation.

Blanton charged mismanagement of the hospital, declaring he had found many ex-service men of sound mind confined there as insane, including Texas boys whose parents did not know of their whereabouts. Blanton secured release for 46 men under habeas corpus.

CISCOANS IN COLORADO FIND SNOW AND SLEET

After Sunday it will be generally known how many of the Cisco citizens have church affiliations, and just what denominations they are associated with if the plan for taking the religious census of Cisco is brought to a successful termination by those sponsoring it.

The religious census, which will be made at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning, should receive the hearty support of all our people. A little thoughtful consideration will very materially assist the enumerators at that time.

One of the problems of the growing town is to make proper contact with our newer citizens. There is always a tendency for them to think of some other place as home. Nothing is of greater value in overcoming this feeling than proper connections with the church of their choice.

BOGEY MAN IN EASTERN FOOTBALL

Here's "T. N. T." Loosman, captain of New York University football team, juggling two of his squad, "Soapy" Sauters and Henry Herbold, just to show how easy it is. Warra, warra! What a headache he is going to be for opposing linemen.

Southern Baptists Cleaned Out by Absconding Board Treasurer But Creditors to Be Protected

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 7.—C. S. Carver, missing Atlantic treasurer of the Southern Baptist Home Mission board, "has stolen virtually all the assets, invested funds and trust funds" of the board, Dr. C. E. Madry, board member, said here today.

"We wait every bank and creditor in the South to know that the Southern Baptists are going to pay every dollar of this fearful loss," Madry said.

Shortly before his disappearance the board of Atlantic apparently became suspicious of Carver. They had been giving him almost unlimited credit in his official capacity, carrying on his authority notes to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars, but for reasons of their own they decided to carry this large sum no longer and at the time of Carver's disappearance were carrying no more than $45,000.

6,000,000 FEET BEING MADE BY CISCO GASSER

Rust & Field, well known drilling contractors of Eastland, have retrieved another well in the Cisco gas field when they drilled in the well on the H. L. Hart lease Wednesday. This well is three miles east of Cisco and responded to a log quarry shot of 2,000 feet on Wednesday by registering 6,000,000 cubic feet of gas and 96 barrels of oil. Reports this morning from the well was that the oil production had steadily increased at the rate of 50 barrels a day since it was shot, and was making 150 barrels. It is in section 42, block 4, H. & T. C. survey.

This well was drilled in three years ago as a gas well, making 11,000,000 feet of gas at the time, but had ceased producing in profitable volume. The original gas production was from the Lake sand at 2,000 feet. After being drilled 1,500 feet deeper into the Marble Falls sand, the well was shot and began producing gas and oil. Indications are from the increased oil production, it will make a splendid producer. It is near the Kirkland well, which came in a few days ago for 300 barrels from the same gas level.

To say that a man has initiative is usually thought to be saying something good of him.

According to Webster's Unabridged, initiative is "energy or aptitude in the initiation of action, especially of action that tends to develop or open up new fields."

We see, therefore, that the man who has initiative is the man who has self-reliance; who not only feels competent to go ahead on his own judgment but goes ahead.

Folks who have initiative are valuable if their judgment is good, but if their judgment is bad they may not be so valuable. For instance, a woman hired a laborer to cut the grass around her flower beds.

"As soon as you get that done," she said, "I'll show you what else to do;" then she went to town.

She had not returned by the time the man had finished cutting the grass; but he possessed initiative; he looked around for something to do and decided that the flower beds needed weeding; so he went to work, energetically, and by the time the woman returned he had pulled up a bed of phlox, a bed of sweet Williams and a bed of young oriental poppy plants, started after a lot of trouble. The woman was angry, furiously angry, and fired the man on the spot.

That fellow had plenty of initiative but not plenty of judgment. The weeds he decided should be pulled up, and in that he was right. The woman wanted the weeds pulled up, but she didn't want her fingers pulled up. That fellow had the something to make him go; he had a good self-starter, but his steering apparatus wasn't so good. He didn't know certain plants when he saw them; and he didn't know enough to know that he didn't know. "The weeds should be pulled," he thought; but it never entered his head that the things he thought weeds might be flowers that had been sowed and tended with great care and expectation. So this fellow's energy, coupled with his self-reliance, unguided by knowledge, led him to destroy valuable plants and lose his job.

"Too bad," you say. Yes, that was too bad, but "too bad" often punctuates a lesson.

If you had to choose between an employee who has plenty of initiative but little judgment, and one who had plenty of judgment but little initiative, which would you take? Well, it all depends. Both have their uses but in different places. The enterprising man, not over-supplied with gray matter, can do splendid work if he be put to shoveling snow, hoeing cotton, or shoeing cows out of a corn field, or at anything where his initiative is not likely to get him in trouble. And the less energetic man with more brains is valuable in places where it is necessary that the right thing be done right.

One reason that some employers have trouble with some employees is that the employer so often fails to comprehend what the employee can do or can't do or is fitted for or is not fitted for, or is likely to do or is likely not to do. The woman never thought of the laborer's pulling up her flowers; and there is where the trouble came in. Had her imagination been working she would have reasoned: "Now this man may have initiative and he may get through cutting this grass before I return; then goodness knows what he may do." Whereupon she would have instructed him something like this: "If you get the grass cut before I come back, sit down in the shade of a tree and keep cool. Whatever you do, don't pull a thing out of those flower beds."

THE CALLES MESSAGE.

Few messages of presidents to assembled congresses are as important as was that of President Entarco Elias Calles to the Mexican congress on September 1. In that message the retiring president announced in unequivocal words the fact that his retirement is to be permanent. He also sounded an earnest call to his fellow citizens to the highest sort of patriotism.

President Calles urged the Mexican congress to be calm and wise in its selection of a provisional president to take office December 1. He urged leaders of all different groups and factions to conduct themselves with sober restraint for the best interests of the country as a whole. He stated his belief that the time has come when Mexico can abandon its old idea that only strong military leaders can rule the country. Instead, the time has come to govern by laws and institutions which will command respect for any man that is chosen president. He called on his people to give representation in congress to all minority and reactionary groups, "even the clerical reactionaries."

His whole plea was for an era of true democracy in Mexico, with all men, civilian and military alike, having an equal political opportunity.

If Mexico is able to live up to these ideals, set forth so earnestly by President Calles, it will truly mark the dawning of a new day for that troubled country. It is possible that the shocking assassination of President-elect Obregon has had a sobering effect on some selfish groups and has awakened many Mexicans to a deeper patriotism than they have ever known before.

ROADSIDE MARKETS.

While the politicians are trying to figure out what they can do to help the farmer, Mrs. Henry Ford is busy helping the farmer's wife. The first problem she has tackled is that of marketing the little crops from which the farm woman often derives her own pin money.

Mrs. Ford had an odd job man gather up stray boards on the Dearborn farm and build them into the sort of market stall she wanted, always keeping in mind that it was to be the sort of thing any farm wife could assemble on her own place. When the carpentry was finished, the roof was painted green and the rest of the little building was whitewashed inside and out. This model roadside market also had a small porch to add to its attractiveness to passing eyes.

Everything was then set forth in this market from dry navy beans, green and red tomatoes, small pickles, green and ripe cucumbers, hickory nuts and walnuts, fresh eggs and gorgeous yellow squashes to jars of bright jelly and garden flowers. Most farms have all these and other products, but often farmers consider them as too trifling to try to sell. All of this she displayed at a flower show in Detroit.

If the stuff is all good, genuinely fresh, clean and attractively displayed, and if the prices are right, such a roadside market is bound to appeal to passing motorists. Farmers' wives will do well to study Mrs. Ford's example.

FOR THE TOWN.

Thousands of people who want to Cisco yesterday to hear Senator Joseph T. Robinson make his speech for the Democratic national campaign will remember the day for two reasons—for the speech and for the whole-hearted brand of hospitality put out by the citizens of Cisco.

The value of indulging in civic hospitality is so often urged on us that we sometimes have a tendency to feel that the act is becoming mechanical, is a forced move done because such things "are being done" and we must keep up with the procession. The fact that it is of real value is brought home to us when we go some place else and experience it. We realize once again that it is of true worth.

And a detail of Cisco's hospitality yesterday offers fine example of how worth while it is for the people of a community to work together in such a way.

The day was a political day. Its main purpose was to promote the cause of Democracy—and this year, of course, the cause of Al Smith. Now it is no secret that even in Texas, the backbone of the Democratic South, Al Smith has his opponents among the electorate. Even in Cisco there are people who are not for Smith, although one could not tell yesterday what Cisco would vote for him 100 per cent.

But to get to the point aimed at. On the women's committee in particular which had charge of the finely appointed, planned, and executed reception for Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sewer and the thousands of visiting women, there were women who do not favor Governor Smith—a minority it is true, but they were there. They did not stand back, withdrew themselves behind their personal views and the general political antagonisms of the day and refuse to act.

"This is a big day for Cisco," they said. "The city is acting as host to our friends and neighbors of the West." The task of seeing that the women are properly entertained and cared for has been assigned to the federated clubs of the town of which we are members. It is for Cisco and we are glad to do it.

That is the spirit that should prevail and which puts things over.

SEVEN OUT OF TEN CALLS ON DOCTORS DUE TO FOOD HABITS

Seven people out of every ten who visit a doctor's office go because of some error in their food habits, it has been estimated by those who made a study of causes of illness.

It is quite obvious that many forms of stomach trouble are brought on by diet indiscretions, says Dr. Hannah K. Lions of the Philadelphia unit of the National Daily Council, in commenting upon these facts. "And when we further consider, we realize that kidney troubles and intestinal disorders, diseases of the skin, headaches and rheumatism, all find their real source quite often in mistake of diet. One of the contributing causes of tuberculosis has been admitted to be malnutrition, or the lack of nourishing foods, such as milk, butter and eggs in combination with fresh fruits and vegetables. Any physician will tell you that palpitation of the heart is often due to indigestion, and nervousness and a neurotic appetite go hand in hand."

"To keep from being one of the seven out of ten build up positive health so that we will feel fit for every day's work and enjoy the opportunity of using our body and mind for its share of the world's work. This is an ambition worth a little care in our food and eating habits," continues Dr. Lyons. "A sane health diet includes a quart of milk a day, plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grain bread and cereals. Butter, which is one of the best sources of Vitamin A foods, should be eaten liberally, since Vitamin A is most important in building up our body's resistance to disease and infection."

186 TEACHERS CLOSE INSTITUTE AT LUBBOCK

LUBBOCK, Sept. 7.—Nearly 1800 teachers left for their homes Wednesday to take up their work of teaching schools over the South Plains following a three-day South Plains Teachers' Institute conducted at the Texas Technological college. The institute is declared to be the best ever held here, with about 825 teachers enrolled from 18 counties and 30 independent school districts. Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the college; D. A. W. Evans, of the college; and C. I. Stone, superintendent of the State Normal school, were in charge. Dr. J. B. Edmondson, professor of education of the University of Michigan, was the principal speaker at the institute, speaking twice daily. Group meetings of county teachers, district teachers and other groups were held daily.

SCROGGINS WELL LOOKS LIKE A NICE PRODUCER

RISEING STAR, Sept. 7.—The Scroggins well on the O'Gear place, near the Mon-Tex Gasoline plant, and about six miles east of town, has all the earmarks of a nice producer, according to latest reports. A nice flow of gas was struck early in the week and since then it has been spraying oil. It is likely that it will be given a shot if it does not come in naturally.

Riders No. 1, two miles north-west of town, drilled by Lowe, DeLaney and Carter, proved to be dry after a hard shot Tuesday just before noon. A light flow of gas resulted from the shot.

CHOIR IS BEING PERFECTED IN UNION REVIVAL SERVICES HERE

Audience of 2,000, Including Many from Nearby Points, Hear Inspiring Hogg Sermon, "Who Is Your Boss?"

An audience of 2,000 people which filled the big pipe tabernacle last night enjoyed the most inspirational and effective service of the series thus far. Well over 100 were present in a special delegation from Hanger and many more to miles from Columbus to enjoy the service. A poll of the audience also showed a good sprinkling of out-of-town visitors from Eastland, Brown Star, Abilene and other points.

The work of the music committee which was organized by Chorale Rodgers on Wednesday night was clearly evident after the 12th hymn and the big choir platform was practically filled by 7:30 with the chosen spiritual talent of the city. Only a few songs on the program are left and these will be sung for good service which are on the list of chorale members.

Following the service last night Rodgers enabled the entire chorus and order to sing a song in each hymn which will be observed that period throughout the campaign with the various services to be held in the near future.

Several new chorales were introduced and delivered with wonderful effectiveness in the service last night and the congregational singing was also splendid. The E. C. Jones pastor of the First Presbyterian church, introduced the musical program with a beautifully rendered solo. There is no Love Like His Love to Mr. Dr. Johnson, pastor of the Christian church of Hanger, led in the opening prayer.

A unique feature of the service last night was that the large crowd was directed to the center for many songs and hymns as well as singing the hymns of the service. Dr. Hogg preached a powerful message on "Who Is Your Boss?" denouncing a devil who ruled the nation of the world in the home rather than the nation in his dominion to illustrate the spiritual dominion between the two worlds. Hogg said that the world is ruled by the devil and the devil is the boss of the world. Hogg said that the devil is the boss of the world and the devil is the boss of the world.

Sidelights On Union Revival

Brother, I heard tonight in being a slave of Jesus Christ.

I believe Satan has a scheduled program just like the Sunshine special. It is to keep you from being saved, or if you are saved, to nullify your testimony.

The worst tragedy in the world is someone passing as a soldier of Jesus Christ and wearing His uniform while in reality he is serving His Satanic Majesty.

If you walk with Jesus, the thorn that crowned His brow will scratch your own. If you stay close to Jesus, the scold of the rabble will spatter on you. They killed Jesus and they will crucify you.

You will have to smile and be bright as you live in Christ Jesus. A merry heart doeth good like a medicine. The unvarnished hills of heaven will not be without laughter.

I believe sometimes it would be good to read the Bible about 10 minutes and then let the people go home. There is no more in the word.

I believe God always has an emergency use with enough grace in it for the prodigal son to get back home.

The black heavy waste of the world are scattered with bones of men who have missed their appointed time with God.

Do you know how to find out if a person has religion? Ask them to make a sacrifice.

How many blessings have you missed because your prayers have been "tick" and you haven't prayed them?

We spent so much time making a house we have no time to live.

Some of us follow Jesus so far off that we cannot tell whether we are in the presence of or in the street looking on.

You need the expert to be deeply spiritual without being criticized.

We occasionally want to begin a revival with the other fellow when it ought to be under our own "fifth rib."

Hell with a lot of people is a place to send the folks they don't like.

I am going to hit up Jesus Christ to Cocco, that is my business.

I would rather be the narrowest saint in heaven than the broadest sinner in hell.

There is only one thing that can solve the problem of youth today and that is the religion of Jesus Christ in their own souls.

BROWN COUNTY TO VOTE ON $1,650,000 BONDS

ANSTON, Sept. 7.—Brown county proposes to issue $1,650,000 in county-wide bonds, the highway department and attorney general were told Thursday by a delegation from that county. The election is to occur Oct. 1.

Under the plan the bond proceeds will provide for the improvement of 200 miles of highway, 100 miles being hard-surfaced for trucks, and 200 miles of rural roads.

Usually a sense of humor is an ability to enjoy the other fellow's bad time.—New Castle News

PITHY PARAGRAPHS FROM HOGG.

Abilene folks have sent word to campaign headquarters that they expect to be present in large numbers at the service tonight. Dr. Hogg is to preach on "The Jonah Story of the Bible," one of his outstanding messages, and it is expected that the big tabernacle will again be packed to hear him.

Fully 300 out-of-town people were present in last night's service with Ranger leading the representation with well over 100.

The big chorus choir, which practically filled the platform last night, got right down to business and gave a little taste of what may be expected of them when Chorale Rodgers has welded them together and rehearsed with them for a few days. The music was inspiring last night and promises to become nothing short of thrilling. Pianist Treadway is rendering splendid support to the chorus by his effective handling of the instruments in accompaniment. Rodgers is to assign seats on the platform to the singers tonight promptly at 7:30 and urges all singers to be present on time.

Dr. Hogg's interesting recital of the story of Pedro Bandanelli, the man whom Leonardo De Vinci chose as his model for the Christ in his famous "Last Supper" because of his perfect face and pure expression, only to find that nine years later sin and dissipation had so changed that classic face as to make it the ideal model for Judas in the same picture, brought out an interesting point in artistic history with which many were not familiar in addition to driving home a vital lesson in connection with the sermon.

A poll of the audience last night showed about 25 ministers from the surrounding section to be present in the service.

Plans for the taking of the city-wide census Monday morning are going forward rapidly under the direction of Rev. S. J. T. Williams and his cooperating census committee. The town has already been divided into sections and placed under twelve captains and over 150 workers to assist in the actual taking of records are now being mobilized. Rev. Williams plans to complete the task in thirty minutes, completely covering the city.

"Dat's a Nice Monk" was an original story in last night's sermon and the phrase will easily be recognized by all who heard it. It may not be an altogether pleasant memory with everybody for the story had a way of stirring the conscience.

GRAFT ISSUES TO BE STRESSED IN DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

Corruption Charges, Including Two Former Cabinet Members, to Be Capitalized by Smith Forces

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. — Increasing emphasis by Democrats on the issue of "corruption" is forecast by politicians, following Senator Joseph T. Robinson's address at Hot Springs, Ark.

Robinson, accepting the vice presidential nomination, devoted the final 1,000 words of his speech to this issue. He tersely reviewed the cabinet, oil and election scandals during the last two Republican administrations and summarized by asserting "corrupt elections breed dishonest public officers."

Other Democratic orators following suit may make much use of the slogan "drive the rascals out" which Senator Reed of Missouri employed so often in his pre-campaign tour.

Robinson, in treating the corruption subject, cited the court cases involving James A. Hoge, General Dougherty, former Secretary of Interior Fall, former Veterans Bureau Manager Forbes, and former Alien Property Custodian Miller. He referred pointedly, though without mentioning names, to Frank L. Smith and William S. Vane's large senatorial election expenditures.

Smith sought incidentally to capitalize the disclosures made in the federal trade commission's investigation of public utilities publicity methods by promising the Democrats would substitute "truth" for "propaganda." He spoke of the presidential and vice presidential nominees made reference to the utilities investigation.

The fact that the commission will resume its inquiry soon and again command public attention after a summer recess, is expected by Smith's followers to aid his campaign.

Appointment Attacked
Meanwhile other factors enter the situation. President Coolidge has named Roy O. West, associate of the utilities leader Samuel Insull, as secretary of interior to supersede many of the nation's resources. Certain senators have attacked the appointment.

Senator Thomas Walsh of Montana, who attacked the oil scandals, strongly supports Smith. He and Senator Wheeler will try to carry Montana for the New York governor on the corruption issue.

Whereas Robinson said that "hostile scrutiny" the governor's Tammany backing has been made a target by such men as Dr. John Roach Strain, William Allen White and First Assistant Postmaster General Borah.

Blames Leaders
Robinson, following Governor Alfred E. Smith's lead, sought to blame the Republican leaders directly for corruption. He declared "this record could never have been made if the watchmen on the towers had not fallen asleep."

Previously Herbert Hoover, in his speech accepting the Republican nomination, maintained that Republican administrations, in which he served as a cabinet officer, could not be held responsible for the scandals. He laid emphasis on "individuals within both political parties" and said there was corruption in municipal and state as well as national affairs.

Smith assailed this interpretation. In his acceptance address, he said "the Republican party today stands responsible for the widespread dishonesty that has honeycombed its administration. The question of personal guilt has been disposed of, and in its place the unquestioned evidence of party guilt."

LANDLADY OF HOOVER WILL VOTE FOR AL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. — Mrs. Francis Berger Moran, 83-year-old society woman and Herbert Hoover's landlady, is going to vote for Alfred E. Smith for president.

When Mrs. Moran recently rented her mansion on Massachusetts avenue to be used as the Republican nominee's personal headquarters, her friends wondered whether she was no longer a Democrat.

She explained at a meeting of 200 Democratic women last night that she let her house to Hoover because her grandson, a real estate man, wanted the chance to "swing a deal."

It was intimated she might possibly contribute some of the rent money to Smith's campaign.

Youth of Today May Be Rather Irresponsible But Parents Are Far Wilder, Says Woman Judge

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 7. — Youth may be irresponsible and at times a bit wild, but the dangerous age is nearer 40 than 14, in the opinion of Judge Camille Kelley, second woman juvenile judge in America and the first in the south.

Judge Kelley, who in her seven years as judge of the Memphis juvenile court has heard thousands of cases, believes the youth of today better disciplined and more law-abiding than ever before.

"We talk about youth being lawless and parents are miles ahead of us," Judge Kelley said. "Why the dear children are mere stragglers compared to their elders," Judge Kelley said.

A new world has been opened to the youth of today. Most cities know more of it than their mothers did at 17. Youth is going through a period of adjustment. We cannot blame the child for the fast machine-age world that he is born into and that he must learn to live in.

Tragedy at Forts
There is nothing so pitiful as the man or woman whose penitentiary childhood breaks out in a new place at 43," she said. "They have learned the path of crime by playmates of their children."

that the younger generation never dreamed existed.

Feeling parties, drinking and automobile rides into the country have not been responsible for one-fourth as much juvenile delinquency as the lack of proper home influences.

Modern youth has been labeled wild, and they come to believe that they really are wild. Why the dear children are mere stragglers compared to their elders," Judge Kelley said.

A new world has been opened to the youth of today. Most cities know more of it than their mothers did at 17. Youth is going through a period of adjustment. We cannot blame the child for the fast machine-age world that he is born into and that he must learn to live in.

Youth Must Be Led
Youth cannot be left to fall into the path of crime or temptation. It is led and influenced and if the parents have been good they will have learned the path of crime by playmates of their children.

the blame is theirs, not the child's.

"It may be an old story, but the greatest source of delinquency is the broken home and the separated mother and father. If parents thought less of their own selfish desires and more of the happiness of their boys and girls there would be fewer juvenile delinquents," Judge Kelley said.

No Excuse

There isn't a single excuse for doubtful brakes in this city. We have installed a Jumbo Giant Brake Tester on every car owner can test his brakes free in two minutes. The "Jumbo" has a gauge for each wheel. A record is made of exactly what each brake will do at different driving speeds.

If the test shows that adjusting is needed, that adjusting should be done right on the machine. When it is finished you drive away with perfectly equalized brakes which will answer in an emergency.

The feeling of security you have when your brakes are right will make the Jumbo test a regular habit with you. It is just as important as oiling and greasing and should be done every thousand to fifteen hundred miles.

Mild enough for anybody ... and yet they Satisfy*

* A PLAIN, unvarnished statement of fact: "Mild enough for anybody and yet they satisfy". If you will light a Chesterfield and smoke it critically you will find no hint of harshness, but a certain mildness, with a rich, wholesome flavor. Chesterfields satisfy without being harsh. They're mild without being insipid or tasteless.

Lightly and pleasantly
