TWO CONFESS TO MURDER OF SHOOKS

West School Contract Let to W. W. Johnston

Ciscoan Is Low Bidder at Net Figure of $35,042; 110 Working Days Allowed for Completion

W. W. Johnston was the successful bidder for the new West Ward school building when the contract was awarded by the trustees of the Cisco independent school district Tuesday evening. Johnston's bid was $37,612, with allowance for the old building to be wrecked of $1,970, or $35,042, net.

Three bids were opened from Cisco bidders, the others being J. H. Larrison and E. W. Dolzener, each of which was lower than the bids from outsiders. There were ten bids submitted.

The brick that Contractor Johnston will use in the construction of the building was selected by the board from samples submitted by the Texas Building Supply, of Abilene, and will be light gray in color.

The contract for heating the building was awarded the Southwest Heating Co. of Fort Worth, for $2,275. This heating system is the same that is installed at the First Baptist church, in Cisco, and which has proven satisfactory since the building was erected about a year ago.

The board met at 9:30 last night and continued its deliberations until 1 o'clock this morning. There were some changes which were discussed and agreed to by the board and Contractor Johnston in regard to the plumbing and wiring. The electrician called for the gas pipe to be run under the building and the change was to have the pipes run under the floor, instead of through the walls as originally intended. There were some slight changes agreed to in the wiring for the electric lights.

A bond amounting to 50 per cent of the bid was required of the contractor, who was given 110 working days to complete the building, and providing for a forfeit of $25 per day for each day over the time specified. The bond was made by the Aetna Co. through the J. M. Williamson agency.

Johnston stated this morning that work would begin Thursday on wrecking the old building, as this must be done that the lot may be cleared away to make room for the new structure.

Following are those bidding on the new West Ward building when the contract was awarded by the trustees of the Cisco independent school district Tuesday evening.

J. H. Larrison, Cisco, $38,491; old building, $1,576; Payne Bros., Fort Worth, $38,850; old building, $850.

E. F. Hall Construction Co., Fort Worth, $42,800; old building $675; Thomas Sable Construction Co., Dallas, $38,500 net; W. W. Johnston, Cisco, $37,612; old building, $1,970.

Christy-Dolph Construction Co., Dallas, $44,345 net; J. B. Carney, Abilene, $38,660; old building, $1,600; L. M. Burford & Son, Dallas, $43,770 net.

NEW SUPERVISOR TAKES OVER WORK ON HOTEL
F. J. Brown, building supervisor of Cisco's new hotel, has been called to Fort Worth by the Bellows-Macley Construction Co., contractors on the hotel, and J. J. Taylor, of Dallas, has arrived here who will have charge of the construction work in the future. Brown stated he would return to Cisco at intervals to assist the new building supervisor until he got the details in hand. The new building supervisor is of long connection with the Bellows-Macley organization, and the departure of Brown will in no way retard or interfere with the building schedule now under way. Mrs. Brown and the children will remain in Cisco for the present, as both of the children are in school here.

Brown has been called to Fort Worth where he will take charge of the construction of the Blue Bonnet hotel, contract for which was recently awarded to the Bellows-Macley Co. There will be no change in the present organization of the construction force on the new hotel.

Lake Pauline Plant to Serve 104 Communities—More When Needed—Put in Operation by W. T. Utilities

ADILENE, Sept. 12.—Furnishing unlimited power to the 104 cities, towns and communities now served by the company, and providing a reserve supply of electricity to serve at least half a hundred more communities, the gigantic generating station of the West Texas Utilities Co. at Lake Pauline was put into operation late Monday night. It was announced from the general offices of the company here today. The new plant was tied into the Crowell-Quanah and Quanah-Vernon high lines, forming an inter-connection with the two other big generating stations of the company.

This is the first of three units planned at Lake Pauline, which is five miles northeast of Quanah. When the three units are completed this will be one of the largest generating stations in the southwest. The newly completed unit has a generating capacity of 20,000 horsepower, raising the company's available generating capacity to approximately 50,000 horsepower, an increase of nearly 50 per cent.

In addition to serving communities on the properties of the West Texas Utilities Co., the Lake Pauline station will transmit 6,000 horsepower to the properties in Oklahoma of the Southwestern Light and Power company of Oklahoma City.

What is considered by electrical experts as a record for construction was established in the building of the plant. It was completed in just a few days over 20 months and did not include night shifts. There were approximately 200 workmen on the job. Operation of the plant will require 50 men.

The building was awarded to Robert E. McKee, contractor of Abilene, El Paso and Los Angeles. The Mosier Steel and Machinery company of Dallas furnished 520 tons of steel for the plant and J. Lee Wilzig & Co. of Dallas was contractor for excavation work.

Machinery in the plant includes a 20,000 horsepower General Electric turbine and three 1,000 horsepower boilers. The turbine is of the latest design and operates on 275 pound steam pressure. The boilers operate on 300 per cent of rating. The plant will be known as the Lake Pauline Power Station, deriving its name from the fact that it is located upon that broad body of water covering 600 acres which once was used as an old irrigation project.

Pursuant to the policy of the West Texas Utilities Co., the lake will be fenced and landscape artists will convert the bald open prairie into a veritable flower land. Parks will be laid out and flower gardens will be planted around the plant. The company will erect 12 picturesque Spanish type homes for employees, with a new branch of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad, recently built to the plant and company employees making their homes near the plant. It is predicted that a thriving little town soon will be built at Lake Pauline.

LEGIONAIRES PLAN SPECIAL TO SANTONE

Legionnaires of the local post are planning to attend the national convention of the American Legion, which meets in San Antonio October 8-12, in a special Pullman train, said C. E. Yates, post adjutant. Yates stated that it was probable that ex-service men from Albany, Moran and Rising Star would join the Cisco party and go on the same train. He stated to secure this train reservations must be made through him, by September 26. He has already received 50 blank certificates, the procuring of which is required to secure the reduced rates on the railroads. The legionnaires of Ranger and Eastland probably have a separate Pullman.

Yates stated that the round trip, including the sleeper, will be approximately $30. The Pullman will be used for sleeping quarters while attending the convention. To secure the special Pullman for the trip it is necessary that reservations for 25 be secured. Those wishing to go may get the required certificates and all information by calling on Adjutant Yates at the Biase Motor Co., in Cisco. The trip will be made over the Texas & Pacific, leaving here October 6, and returning home October 15.

TRADE TRIP TO SOUTH TEXAS, IS C. C. PLAN

At the last session of the greater community conference, held in Cisco by Ben R. Vardaman, a Greater Cisco committee was appointed, consisting of A. D. Anderson, T. J. Dean, J. B. Cate and V. G. Locke. This committee has been functioning and is already planning some events that will work for a greater Cisco. At a meeting of the committee held at the chamber of commerce Monday the Greater Cisco committee decided to plan a "go visiting" trip, and Secretary Peters, of the chamber of commerce, was instructed to get in communication with W. G. Crush, general passenger agent of the Katy road for the purpose of ascertaining the cost of a special Pullman train for an itinerary to South Texas. It is planned to go to Brownsville, Cisco, on the early side of the Cisco-Brownsville highway for the past two years.

S. A. Davis was also arrested and taken to Eastland, but the alleged confession implicate him from connection with the crime. The elder Davis and his son, Tom, was arrested about 8:30 this morning, but were not brought to Cisco at once, as most of the afternoon was spent investigating the case in the vicinity of the crime. Thompson was arrested in Cisco.

Constable Looey stated that the cow that indicated a six shooter was used in the killing was the finding of three empty six shooter shells near the bodies of the Shook brothers. A young man by the name of Ellis who lives near the Davis home, told the officers that he hit Davis and Thompson on the railroad track Friday night and they told him they were going hunting.

These were not responsible for running down the alleged slayers of Loren and Leon Shook, attorney Walter Miller, Cisco chief of police, J. H. McDonald, justice of the peace, C. S. Looey, constable, Cy Bradford and Leo Reed, deputy sheriffs.

The bodies of Loren and Leon Shook were conveyed to Staghenville this morning by the hearse from the Green Funeral Home, for burial in that city this afternoon. Mrs. J. E. Shook and daughter, Miss Freda Shook who came here Tuesday after the bodies were found, accompanied the remains back to Staghenville. It is believed that the time of the tragedy immediately after Thompson and Shook are alleged to have confessed to the crime. Thompson was taken to Eastland by Marion Sealers, deputy sheriff, while Cy Bradford, deputy sheriff, and Walter Miller, Cisco police chief, took Davis back to the scene to get the clothing and other articles alleged to have been stolen from the Shook cabin Wednesday night previous to the murder, and also to get the six shooter which they confessed was wrapped in a blue cloth and secreted in the garage. Davis will be taken to Eastland immediately after his return to Cisco and complaints will be filed for murder on which they will be held for the grand jury of the 28th district court, officers said. The grand jury is now recessed, but probably will be ready to begin its session for investigation of Eastland county's latest murders.

Tom Davis and Clyde Thompson Admit Slaying of Brothers at Leeray Friday Night in Holdup

Two young men, living in the Leeray community, who were brought into Cisco early this afternoon by officers working on the murder of Lucius and Leon Shook, and shortly afterwards are alleged to have confessed to the murder of the brothers, Tom Davis, about 19, and Clyde Thompson, about 21, are the two arrested. Thompson is alleged to have confessed that he did the killing and his confession was said to have been corroborated by Davis. Thompson stated that he shot one of the Shook brothers, and when he did so the other started to run and he pursued him and beat him to death.

The Davis boy stated that he stole his father's six shooter and gave it to Thompson, who fired the shot that killed one of the Shook brothers. Officers who made the arrests stated that the shotgun stolen from the Shook cabin was found at the Thompson home, but the six shooter which one of the boys was shot could not be located.

A 12-year-old brother of Tom Davis is believed to have also been implicated as he was with the officers about the time of the tragedy. Immediately after Thompson and Shook are alleged to have confessed to the crime, Thompson was taken to Eastland by Marion Sealers, deputy sheriff, while Cy Bradford, deputy sheriff, and Walter Miller, Cisco police chief, took Davis back to the scene to get the clothing and other articles alleged to have been stolen from the Shook cabin Wednesday night previous to the murder, and also to get the six shooter which they confessed was wrapped in a blue cloth and secreted in the garage. Davis will be taken to Eastland immediately after his return to Cisco and complaints will be filed for murder on which they will be held for the grand jury of the 28th district court, officers said. The grand jury is now recessed, but probably will be ready to begin its session for investigation of Eastland county's latest murders.

Young Davis is the son of S. A. Davis, while Thompson is a son of Reese Thompson, who has lived about ten miles northwest of Cisco, on the east side of the Cisco-Brownsville highway for the past two years. S. A. Davis was also arrested and taken to Eastland, but the alleged confession implicate him from connection with the crime. The elder Davis and his son, Tom, was arrested about 8:30 this morning, but were not brought to Cisco at once, as most of the afternoon was spent investigating the case in the vicinity of the crime. Thompson was arrested in Cisco.

Eastland County Court House to Be Dedicated to Veterans Who Served in World War

Eastland county's new court house will be dedicated to the World War veterans of Eastland county and a bronze tablet, bearing the names of enlisted men from this county, will be placed in the building, according to an agreement between the commissioners' court and the representatives of the Legionists of the several cities of Eastland county, at a joint meeting of those concerned, held in Eastland Wednesday, according to C. E. Yates, post adjutant, of John William Botta Post, No. 123, American Legion, of Cisco.

W. E. Statham, Crigger Paschall, H. A. Bible and Yates, representing the local post, accompanied by Rev. S. J. T. Williams, attended the meeting of the commissioners' court Monday from Cisco, where they met Legionnaires Howard and Schultz of Rising Star, Earl Bender and Ray Owens, of the Eastland post; Felton Brasler and B. H. Peabody, of the Ranger post, and the matter of dedicating the court house to Eastland county World War veterans was presented to the court, which voted unanimously on both propositions, agreeing to dedicate the court house to Eastland county heroes and furnish the bronze tablet for the names of every ex-service man who enlisted from this county. It will be the duty of the several Legion posts to secure the names of all who enlisted, which will be quite an undertaking of itself. The court explained that the matter of placing the tablet will have to be taken up with the architect of the building and the interior decorator before it can be finally decided.

Constable Looey stated that the cow that indicated a six shooter was used in the killing was the finding of three empty six shooter shells near the bodies of the Shook brothers. A young man by the name of Ellis who lives near the Davis home, told the officers that he hit Davis and Thompson on the railroad track Friday night and they told him they were going hunting.

LIQUOR MONOPOLY. When Ontario adopted government control and sale of liquor, one of the arguments used to support that policy was that the legal sale of liquor would bring tourists from the United States in great numbers.

The Toronto Star, observing that our tourists are there in the numbers promised, doubts whether they have been lured by liquor so much as the government leaders expected, because so many visitors never seem to touch the stuff.

"If the sale of liquor will bring tourists here in vast numbers," says the Star, "and if we have the liquor on sale here, why would it not be good business for the government to shut down absolutely on the letting of liquor out of the province and across the border?"

Why sell and send liquor to the Americans when the Americans can be made to come here to consume the liquor? If, as claimed, liquor is the magnet that draws tourists, why not let the magnet draw? Why not make them come over here in millions to quench their thirst, or let their thirst go unquenched?"

This suggestion, made with evident sarcasm, might well be taken seriously. Both nations would benefit.

All along the international border there is a liquor traffic which demoralizes the people on both sides. Canadian liquor men export booze with the tacit approval of their own government, to a country whose government protests in vain.

It is a shame to Canada and an imposition to the United States to have the Canadian government conniving with that traffic. Let it cut off the exportation of liquor to the United States, on whatever grounds, and a serious evil will be half remedied.

Law-abiding Americans will not have liquor thrust upon them. Such Americans as feel disposed to visit Canada for drink, will do little harm except to themselves and their moats.

FIRES AND FIREMEN. The fire department chief of an American city spent a few weeks abroad this summer, taking in art and architecture and scenery and historical relics, but keeping a professional eye on foreign fire departments.

He found the firemen in Paris and other famous cities had snappy uniforms and marched very well in fancy drills. They march better than his own men would, he admits, but—they come down stairs to answer a fire alarm instead of sliding down a pole as firemen do in this country.

In spite of firemen's leisurely methods over there, there are fewer fires in European capitals than in our own cities. They use less flimsy and inflammable materials in their buildings than we do.

Here is an interesting question. Which is better, to have lots of fires so that firemen become human wonders at fire-fighting, or to have so few fires that firemen have to take up fancy drill to occupy their time? If it isn't unpatriotic to say so, we have a feeling that there's less economic loss and human peril involved in the European situation.

BOOTLEGGED MILLIONS. Yes, bootlegging pays. A bootleg ring in Philadelphia is credited with having more than 10,000,000 deposited in local banks. The revelation has unusually interesting features.

The district attorney, who has been on the trail of these millions, knows they are bootleg profits but has trouble finding whom they belong to. They have been deposited under fictitious names. The addresses of the depositors, when traced, lead the investigators to cemeteries, stables and factories instead of homes.

It is believed that some of the banks holding the funds were organized for that purpose by the bootleggers. It is a rare opportunity for detective work.

AERIAL TRESPASSING. People who expect to fly may take an interest in their air rights. "Free as the air" is a familiar phrase, but is the air really free?

The legal publication, "Cases and Comment," quotes an American decision, made by the Supreme Court of Georgia, which applies the old common law rule to the atmosphere, and holds that "any intrusion into the air space above the land of another amounts to a trespass." The question of the aviator's liability, however, remains vague.

A Pennsylvania decision, made in 1922, held that trespass by air over land marked "No Trespassing" is not punishable, as land trespass would be.

French decisions throw some light on the subject. A Paris court has held that a land-owner, while theoretically owning everything above and below the surface, cannot apply that principle literally in prac-lice, because otherwise "a landlord might claim even the stars in the sky."

French courts, however, have applied two practical principles tending to fix the responsibility of the aviator. One is that he must not fly so low as to endanger property and life unnecessarily, or frighten people. The other is that if he does any damage to property by a forced landing or otherwise, he must pay for it.

If individual land-owners have no right to prevent an aviator from flying over their property when he does no harm, have nations any such right? They act now on the assumption that they have, for reasons of national safety. Such procedure hampers aviation, and may have to be modified to some extent.

A SAFE VILLAGE. A small Ohio village in which a number of school children had been killed during several successive summer vacations decided to end that situation this year.

Before school closed for the long vacation, a special safety council was formed and a lively campaign was started for a record of no children killed by the time school opened again.

The schools in that village opened the day after Labor Day. But first the town had a big celebration, because it had made a perfect record. No child was killed in traffic during the past summer.

That's a victory worth celebrating. More towns should go after a similar record.

Hardly Worth While

Recently a colored boy beat a white woman to death with a piece of iron pipe, so he could rob her; but he said it had hardly been worth while, because he got only $1.19 off her corpse.

It would hardly seem worth while to rob a person for $1.19, which would buy him a few more of those birds and see what happens. After a few more have been made sick, would it be passed around to lay off.

And they lay off. They may be so hungry their little claws are collapsed like punctured balloons. They may be as eager for grain as human beings for gold, but they won't touch your doped seeds; they will let them lie there where you use them, swell up, mellow and rot.

Let it be said that the human being can't show as much intelligence in some respects as an English sparrow. Let it be deplorable that mighty man, with his mighty mind, who despises the poor little English sparrow, and not without reason, would permit himself to be outdone in common sense by that squabby pest.

No, Black Boy, it isn't worth while to rob and murder anybody for $1.19 or any other sum. And, White Boy, that goes for you, too.

Curious Facts About Your Car and Its Gas

For every mile of improved highway in the United States there is a gasoline pump, and for every two a gasoline station, according to a recent survey by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

A recent decree to abolish street service stations in Cuba has aroused such protest that it is believed that another decree will be issued temporarily suspending the former one and providing for a commission to recommend modifications as may be agreed upon, according to a statement made public by the Department of Commerce.

A report dealing with the automotive phases of carbon monoxide research particularly with reference to the public health hazard, has been prepared by the Society of Automotive Engineers, according to a statement made public by the Public Health Service. This statement, a review of the full report, explained that adequate ventilation appears to be superior to the use of ozone for the removal of carbon monoxide. The report also covers carbon monoxide poisoning.

There were 423 complete petroleum refineries in the United States, with a daily crude oil capacity of 3,250,350 barrels, on January 1, 1928, according to a survey conducted by the United States Bureau of Mines. Department of Commerce. Although the total number of completed refineries declined from 466 on January 1, 1927, to 423 on January 1, 1928, the total daily capacity increased from 3,661,667 barrels to 3,250,350 barrels, a gain of 6 per cent. California with 73 plants having a daily crude-oil capacity of 821,775 barrels, led all the states in the extent of its oil refining industry. Texas, with 71 plants having a daily capacity of 622,550 barrels, ranks second; while Oklahoma, with 56 plants and a daily crude-oil capacity of 291,150 barrels, was third. Other states notably active were New Jersey, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Kansas, Indiana, Illinois and Wyoming. The fact that refineries are located in 32 of the 48 states indicates the widespread activities of the industry.

This fall the stadium at the field is being enlarged to care for 165,000 persons. An early sell-out for the game is predicted. All of the high-priced box seats have already been sold.

POWDER ON MY BACK, starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

CHAPTER I
Adèle Dayton sped dizzily around a Plaza de l'Opera and swerved into a side street, barely escaping a passing bus.

light tan cream into her face. Then an even creaming of the soft tone; then the heavy blue over the eyelids; then the mascara and the slight darkening about the eyes, their corners, as well as her nostrils accentuated by a bit of red dressing powder. Then the powder—powder flying everywhere, and filling the room with its heavy, fragrant dustiness; and then the mouth, carefully pencilled in; rubbed, powdered about again; then more red, and Adèle Dayton, famous American star now appearing at the Palais Royal in Paris, faced herself in the mirror.

"You couldn't lose them if you tried," Adèle laughed.

note and a shower of sparkling, rhinestone tips, that fitted about the dark head like a halo.
Once more Adèle surveyed herself, this time in the long mirror that filled one wall and repeated all the jumbled scenery once again, as well as the startlingly white figure with the gardenia-colored face, neck, arms and hands, the halolike headpiece, the scarlet lips, the stockings, the shoes, and the tiny white shoes with the ostrich and rhinestone decorations.
"Now, we are ready, Renee," Adèle turned once more to her maid. "They have made all arrangements for the pictures?"
"I think so, Ma'mselle," Renee nodded.
A knock came at the door. Renee admitted a heavy-set man with gray hair and a kind voice. He looked his star over carefully and then nodded.
"You look splendid, Adèle," he smiled. "We're all ready for everything. The photographer has his machines up there just where that black streak crosses towards the corner." He pointed to the ceiling, and Adèle gasped as she noticed the tiny hole filled with a camera eye.
"Ah, I've been dressing right here—that man hasn't been making pictures of me, has he?"
"Nothing of the sort," Adèle's manager informed her. "He got all set before you came in. I explained to him that you'd have to dress first, and all that sort of thing. But I'll get him up there, now. You're quite sure everything will go all right tonight, Your Honor—your friends—the manager laughed heartily—"they'll be sure to show up, won't they?"
"You couldn't lose them if you tried," Adèle laughed. "They're always around. But they won't cause any trouble or bother to anyone?"
"Absolutely, no, Adèle," the manager informed her. "We just want to get some good publicity out to send back to the American papers before we arrive there, and it'll be nothing more than has been done right here in your dressing room before with the French photographers. It's just that we want to get some of these babies around here acting themselves. And we don't want the French papers in on it. We want some exclusive stuff for the dear old Land of Liberty. If we sent for one photographer, we'd have twenty, and I just want a good break back home. It won't be long, now, before we're there, and this advance stuff is going to do us plenty good."

LEGIONNAIRES TO HEAR HOGG TONIGHT

World War Chaplain to Deliver Special Message to Ex-Service Men; Revival Interest Growing

Interest in the union revival campaign continues to show steady growth and the largest attendance of the campaign is expected tonight when ex-service men from the counting of the American Legion headed by Charles Yates, adjutant, is in charge of arranging a delegation of ex-service men from the entire county and the occasion is expected to be a memorable one with Dr. Hogg dwelling at length on a recital of interesting experiences and the drawing of valuable lessons from the world conflict. The Cisco Lobo band will also be present as a feature of the musical program.

PITHY PARAGRAPHS FROM HOGG

You are living on a blasted, blighted world that has felt the thunderbolts of God's wrath. You are living on an earth with a bad record—it crucified the Saviour and it was the home of Satan—arch-enemy of God.
There is a great chasm of time between the first and second verses of Genesis. Geologists know this and intelligent Bible students know it. There is no way of definitely knowing the actual age of this earth. Man's history may be traced back some 6,000 years, according to the Bible—but before this the earth was first created perfect and then became waste and void. There is no knowing how long it lay in that waste condition before God's spirit moved over it to bring order out of chaos.

Sidelights On Union Revival

The largest delegation which has yet attended a service was present at the tabernacle last night from Eastland, some 200 being in attendance. The large aggregation from the neighboring city was accorded a hearty welcome both by Campaign Director Williams and Dr. Hogg with the entire audience giving them an ovation when the delegation was officially recognized. Mr. Williams stated that the delegation was one of the largest that has attended a service conducted by the Hogg party anywhere during this year.
Much interest is evident in the service for tonight when the American Legion and all ex-service men will be honor guests to hear Dr. Hogg's message on "The Sinner of the Doughboy." Dr. Hogg's frequent reference to his war experiences and the telling illustrations which he draws from the experience of the nation overseas have aroused great interest among his hearers and the knowledge that he will deal in detail with such subjects is expected to draw the largest attendance of the series at tonight's service. The Cisco Lobo band will be an added attraction at the service tonight and will give a 30 minute concert preceding the regular evening musical program.

OF A SOCIAL NATURE

Mr. Rainbolt and Mrs. Erwin, hostesses to Church Circle.
Mrs. G. P. Rainbolt and Mrs. Zed Erwin entertained the members of the South Circle of the First Methodist church Monday evening Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rainbolt on East Seventh street. Mrs. Rainbolt, chairman of the circle, presided during the business session. The devotional lesson was read by Mrs. E. O. Leveridge. The meeting was capped with a song "Count Your Blessings." The subject for the afternoon's program was an interesting paper entitled "History Way of Saving the South." A song was "Hail to the South." At the close of the program Miss Leola Maude Lager gave a very delightful reading. A social cheer was given Mrs. George Wooten in honor of her birthday. The hostesses served ice cream to 23 members and guests.

Wild Oil Wells Suggest Volcanoes

DRILLING oil wells to depths over a mile has suggested to at least one oil operator the possibility of going through the earth's crust and starting a volcano of great size. This worried operator says that the movement of portions of the earth, earthquakes and molten rock from volcanoes suggests that the crust of the earth certain localities as is evidenced by it very thin.
Authorities state that there may be some chance for drilling into something of the volcanic order in the presence of hot water and even steam in some holes that have been drilled. However, there is little danger of man penetrating the average crust, although there seems to be a consensus of opinion against drilling a deep hole close to a volcano.
According to Dr. William Bowie, of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, analyses of geodetic data and of tests involving the densities indicate that the crust of the earth is more than sixty miles thick.
A few years ago an oil well drilled to a depth of 4,000 feet was a novelty. Today wells are being drilled in Oklahoma and California to depths exceeding a mile as the regular order of the day's business. Drilling to depths exceeding 7,000 feet is occurring regularly in the Long Beach field and the Ventura Avenue field in California. Long Beach boasts the deepest producing oil well in the world with a depth of 7,409 feet with a fair chance of the record being broken by other wells drilling below the 7,000 feet mark.
Deep drilling has been a big factor in the finding of new sources of oil supply in recent years.
Great new fields have been discovered sometimes underlying oil sands that have been exhausted. This deeper drilling has, of course, increased the cost of finding oil. Holes drilled for oil have to be

Rigs, boilers, gas engines, drilling engines, tanks and every possible kind of lease and pipe line equipment have been improved. A modern lease in the Seminole field in Oklahoma, with its astounding array of compressors, its humming motors, centrifugal pumps, steel derricks, high-pressure traps and gas-tight tanks is indeed an impressive sight. It is, in truth, a million-dollar plant for the extraction of oil from the ground. And unfortunately this plant does not have the more permanent features characterizing other mining enterprises as the falling off of production means partial or complete dismantling."

SMITH TO MAKE STRONG BID FOR PENNSYLVANIA'S 38 VOTES

Democrats Feel They Have Good Chance to Carry Keystone State If Philadelphia Count is Honest

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Pennsylvania, heretofore regarded as a safely Republican state, is assuming the aspects of a doubtful state.

The Pennsylvania situation is encouraging Democrats and warning Republicans that the state can not be taken for granted this year.

For the first time since the Civil war, both Democratic and Republican national committees are planning to make a real fight in Pennsylvania. Because it has 38 electoral votes, both parties will find the state with speakers and literature. As is customary in Pennsylvania in close elections, it is expected that money will be spent liberally.

For months in advance of the Houston convention, former National Committeeman Joseph P. Guffey claimed that Smith, if renominated, would carry Pennsylvania. Since the convention, Guffey has repeated his prediction and other Democratic leaders, including National Chairman John J. Rankin, are beginning to take him seriously.

The only previous Guffey prediction was that there is an honest count in Philadelphia. Indications are that there will be an honest count in Philadelphia.

To offset the drift to Smith because of his modification views, Pennsylvania, as one of the major industrial states, has always wanted a highly protective tariff. But the Volstead law has been unpopular in Pennsylvania and William S. Vane was nominated for the senate against Governor Pinchot and former Senator Pepper on a "wine and beer" platform.

The Open Sesame of Licenses

Customs and immigration officials on both sides of the U. S.-Mexican border throw open the gates to the Oldsmobile with its unique license plate appears. The plate is one of seven issued by the Mexican government to the U. S. consular service. The 1927 Oldsmobile is owned by Henry C. A. Damm, U. S. consul at Nogales, Mexico, who is standing with his wife at the side of the Oldsmobile which has just taken them over a 600-mile tour of this country.

Henry C. A. Damm has an automobile license plate that is the envy of every tourist who crosses the U. S.-Mexican border. One glance at the plate and the customs and immigration officials on both sides of the line smile and wave their hands for the car to proceed. There are just seven licenses of this kind issued.

Damm is U. S. consul at Nogales, Mexico. As a result his Oldsmobile displays a small blue plate with white lettering reading "Official ERVV1, Sonora, Mexico."

1928, the "ERVV" is the abbreviation for the Spanish of United States. These plates are issued only to those in the consul service and are recognized by both U. S. and Mexican officials.

The unique license plate attracted much attention during the 8-900 mile tour of the United States just completed by Damm in his Oldsmobile. Damm is driving his fourth Oldsmobile and his itinerary included a visit to the Oldsmobile factory in Lansing, Mich. to see first hand the many progressive methods used there.

Appeal Is Made to 4,000,000 Baptists in South to Meet $1,000,000 Loss in Defalcation of Mission Treasurer

Appeal Is Made to 4,000,000 Baptists in South to Meet $1,000,000 Loss in Defalcation of Mission Treasurer

DALLAS, Sept. 12.—Appeal to Texas Baptists to make a special offering to replenish the $1,000,000 shortage recently discovered in the accounts of Clinton S. Carnes, treasurer of the Home Mission Board of the Baptist church, was received in a broadcast from Atlanta, which was to reach the 4,000,000 white Baptists of the South.

Texas churches already had pledged their resources at a meeting in Dallas Friday of the executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Details of the situation were offered the Texas board of the First Baptist church of Dallas and president of the Southern Baptist Convention and former Gov. Pat M. Neff of Waco, Texas member of the executive board of the Southern Baptist convention. They had attended the investigation meeting in Atlanta.

The general broadcast followed one made Friday to Atlanta Baptists in the name of the conference. The offer of Dr. L. S. Fulley, pastor of the First Baptist church, Atlanta, speaking for the board of deacons, to advance a loan of $40,000 to the Home Mission Board if necessary to pay current expenses was conditionally declined with thanks by Dr. Arch C. Cree, acting secretary of the board.

The board also declined any connection with an injunction suit filed by Col. Walter B. Brown by whom in which the board, the elder son of the missing treasurer, a bond firm and an auditing company were enjoined.

The assertion that that portion of the Home Mission funds accounted for and disbursed through the American Baptist association headquarters at Texarkana, would suffer no loss or injury because of the Atlanta "tragedy" was made in a statement Saturday issued by Rev. Edgar Parker, corresponding secretary and treasurer of the Baptist Missionary association of Texas.

Parker said that while indications were that the Texas Baptist association, composed of about 400 churches, and the American Baptist association might experience some regrettable reaction for a while, he believed "home missions or interstate missions will rebound strongly with the return-owing untrusted leaders checked by perfected safeguards."

The statement said that "one of the cardinal safeguards inaugurated when the Texas Baptist association was organized twenty-five years ago was that of publishing newspaper reports of finances and proceedings, and another effective check was that of equal representation of co-operating churches regardless of funds contributed, the larger churches being limited to only two messengers the same as small churches. Both were aimed at having watchmen over the treasury and watchmen over the stewardship of this part of the Missionary Baptist denomination."

MEDIAVAL LINES BACK FOR WINTER

PARIS, Sept. 12.—The princess silhouette interpreted in every type of garment and in every imaginable cut and fabric has brought back the medieval line for winter wear. The old idea is developed refined and translated into cuts that are eminently modern and tend to make the silhouette more and more feminine.

On some of the daytime dresses, the princess line is only suggested, although the costume has a full bodice, hip-yoke and skirt attached to this.

Coats are cut in the classic princess gores, but the fitting is very delicate and does not depart much from the vertical. Nicole Groult uses this line for silk as well as velvet making countless flares which make for a charming full line.

Pajama is using the medieval line for evening frocks of satin, chiffon or crepe with fitted bodice, high waist line lited in front and the circular skirt. Sometimes they are slit down the front in tune of effect laid over a contrasting foundation. Coats are heavy satin, plain and fancy ottoman and faille silk have the straight line at the back and the princess gores in the front flare.

Bose fronts are showing lovely lingerie frocks cut on medieval lines of finest mull delicately embroidered in white with insertions and edging of fine lace made over slips of pale pink blue or green with here and there a little nosegay of silk flowers on the bodice or skirt and with a chou or box of satin ribbon with long ends at the side or back.

Others in crisp taffeta have a deep border of the same delicate embroidery or a band of fine lace appliqued on the edge of the skirt. Afternoon frocks of taffeta or crepe de Chine have a fichu collar and cuffs of the daintiest embroidered mull.

OKLAHOMA OIL OPERATORS ARE FACED BY FLOODED MARKET

State Aid Is Sought to Prevent Over-Production and Lowering of Prices; New Fields Prove Worry

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 12.—Alarmed at the possibility that the recently discovered oil fields in that region may ultimately result in the over-supply of the market and the reducing of the price of all petroleum products, Oklahoma oil operators are asking their state government to grant them a permit to organize against such possibility of a lowered price.

Ray M. Collins, Seminole oil field operator, has filed with the state corporation commission an application for an order applying the Seminole curtailment program to every oil field in the state. The petition was first set for hearing Sept. 6 at the Tulsa city hall.

Curtilment Restriction

The move was taken as a result of the meeting of the operators of the Greater Seminole area, one of the largest producing fields in the country in Tulsa, August 21 to consider a further restriction program.

For some time the production of this booming field known as the Seminole field has been under the curtailment of such restrictive measure, the agreement of the operators in the field with the consent of the state government. For some time prior to the making of the curtailment program the heavy production of the field glutted the market and forced prices downward.

It is said that the new order of restricting the production is prompted by the discovery of a new field bordering the Texas Panhandle which threatens to place the entire industry in the United States in the predicament that it has undergone during the discovery of the Seminole and the Panhandle field property in the past few years.

The petition set forth the present daily production will exceed the demand on the oil industry in Oklahoma is approximately 300,000 barrels, and that with smaller competition in the common fall and winter the markets will dwindle to a point where the present daily production will exceed the market demand.

Limit Wildcat Wells

The petition asked that all wildcat wells hereafter drilled in the state be required to limit production to 100 barrels a day for the first thirty days and that no other wells be drilled in the vicinity without first obtaining a permit.

The proposed order would provide that in the event any pool in the state in which wells now produce an average of less than 100 barrels a day should increase its production to the extent that such wells would produce an average of more than 100 barrels a day, the field to be considered a "rush" pool and curtailed.

The petition declared the order restricting production in the Little River district to 125,000 barrels for the period extending to November 1 should remain in force.

358 PRODUCERS DURING AUGUST IS TEXAS MARK

KILL RODENTS, PLEA OF CISCO HEALTH CHIEF

"Now that we have successfully fought the fly, mosquito and politics, I want to appeal to the citizens of Cisco to exterminate the rodents," Dr. John H. Bruce, city health officer, said today, adding that rats and mice give more trouble in winter, as they seek warm places to hibernate.

"Rats," Dr. Bruce said, "the particular species that is giving the most trouble here, is the large brown rat. He is very large and very destructive. Aside from carrying diseases on his feet he is capable, when infected, of disseminating bubonic plague by the flea route."

"Every house constructed should be mouse and rat proof. This can easily be done by the builder, and if he doesn't, he is not doing his duty."

"Poisoning—There are numerous poisons for the rat, but the best is barium carbonate, as it is odorless, tasteless and produces a slow death, causing the rats to go to their dens to die and, ordinarily, will not die in the house from the poison. To administer it, use food that the rat is not already accustomed to. If he is in a grain house, use meal and bread, or use the reverse of the kind he is accustomed to. If bread is used, make a paste of the barium and add bacon grease. If meat is used, use 25 per cent barium and 75 per cent meat. Place the bait at the rat's entrance or egress of the building."

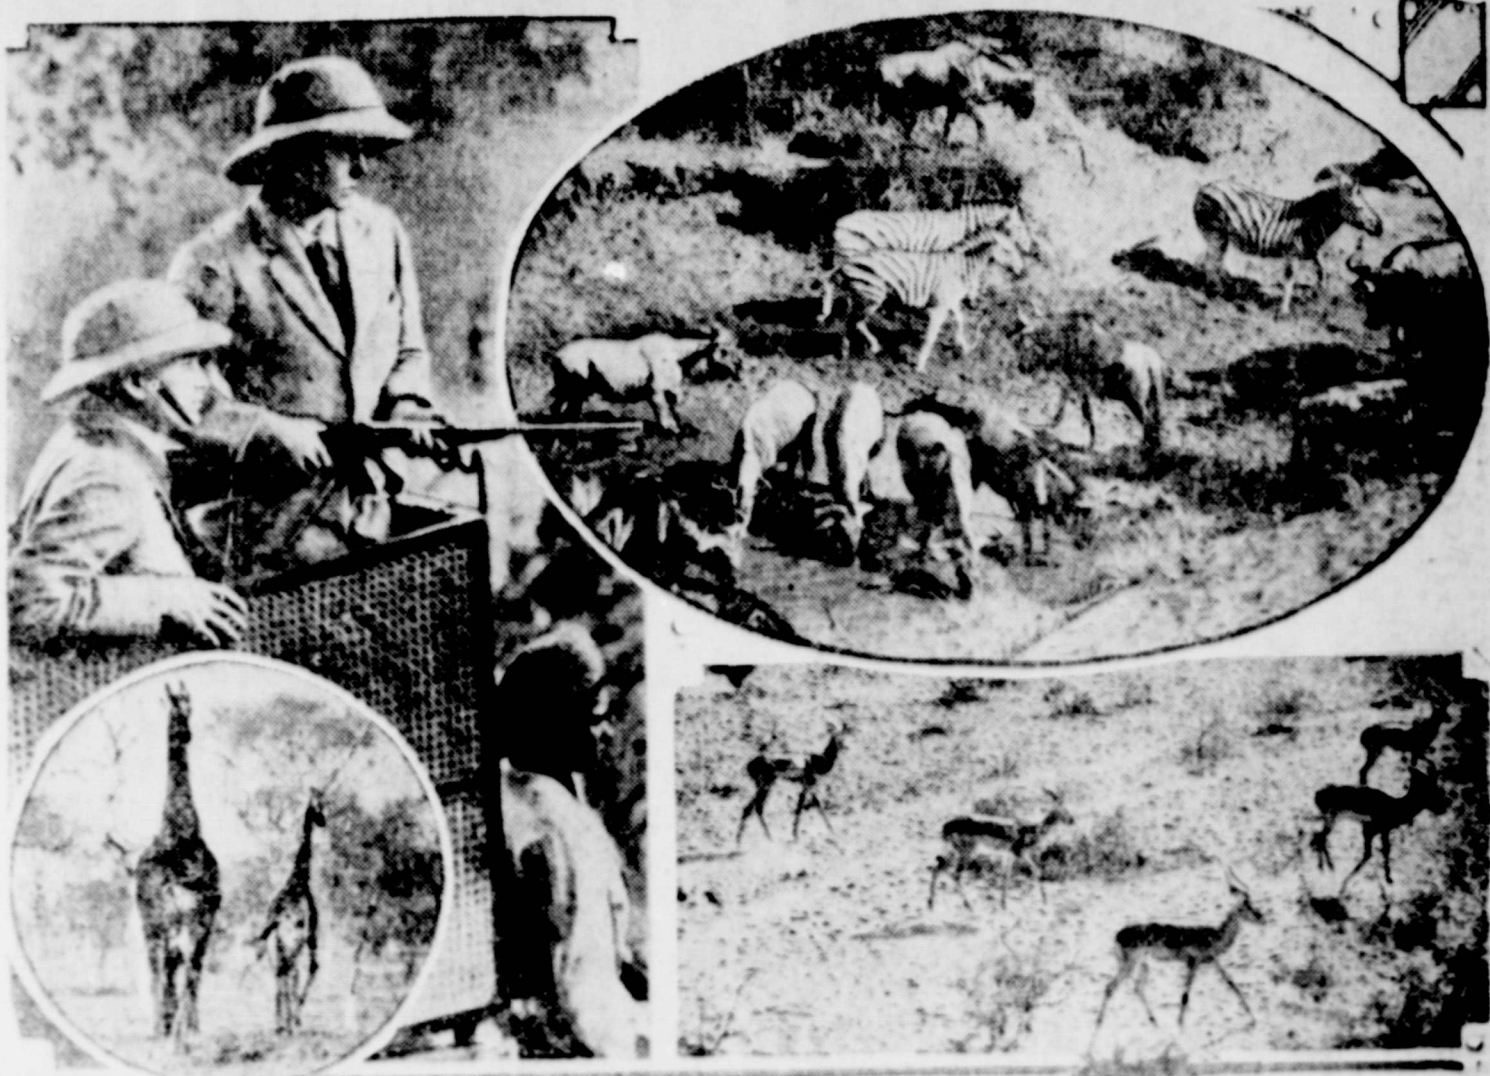

Traps—The only successful trap is the spring trap with proper bait. Cats cannot cope with these animals. The bait must be changed daily as they will soon get the rat will not eat it. Tubs of water with floating bait and a runway to the tub is another good way to get them.

Mice—Stop the holes with pieces of cigar boxes, use traps and the different poisons.

Cockroaches—Keep all food where they can't get to it, place baits of plaster of Paris, 25 per cent and cereal or meal, 75 per cent, or use a trap. The best kind I have seen has been invented by a Cisco man. These traps are clean and very effective. The cockroach is grown at one year of age, and will live thousands of eggs before she dies.

"I have been called for suggestions I've exterminating louse, bedbugs and red bugs or chiggers. Those wanting remedies for such insects should see me at my office."

BIG GAME COUNTRY THE PRINCE OF WALES WILL VISIT

Exclusive territory of Northern Transvaal in South Africa which has been turned into a sportsman's Paradise. Here is the most remarkable wild game preserve in the world. Two hundred and fifty miles long by one hundred and fifty miles wide, it contains more than 3,000,000 acres of virgin big game land over which roam hundreds of thousands of wild animals—elephants, lions, giraffes, water buffaloes, wildebeests, antelope, and a hundred other varieties—and it is through this preserve that H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, and his brother, Prince Henry, the Duke of Gloucester, will hunt upon their arrival in Africa. At the left, the Prince of Wales in his marchon waiting for his beaters to rout out a lion; right, an African water hole showing zebras and wildebeests frantically while they quench their thirst; below, impala, or African buck, in graceful sweep across the veldt, and, left, a close-up of a lion's grin.
