accounted for Adole's saying "children" instead of "niece." And she did hope that Adole's visit would have no influence on Mildred—that would be the worst thing that could ever happen. If the child took after her and she waited a few days after day Mazie wanted to release the secret that was gnawing at her heart. She actually counted the house now until the meeting of the Literary Society. But her plans were forestalled the day before the awaited meeting. It was a warm day, not about the first of June when Mazie started down the street at her usual pace, with her market basket over her arm, on her way to do her morning's shopping. As she moved down the main street she noticed a small crowd of women gathered in a little group, evidently hard at the business of discussing something. Their heads were together, and now and then they glanced across the street at a sign poster who was pasting up some large billing on the great board that spanned the vacant lot between two stores. Mazie, wondering what was afoot, hurried up to the group. Suddenly all talking ceased. The women stared at Mazie, in doubt and almost fright. "Why, what's the matter?" Mazie turned to Mrs. Gordon. "Mamie what's happened?" (To be continued)

VAGRANTS TO BE KEPT GOING OUT OF CISCO

Two able bodied men were arraigned in city court this morning on vagrancy charges and each was fined $5 and costs. However, the defendants were told that if they could raise the money to pay their transportation to their destination they would be released. C. C. Langston, a youth, about 19 was one of the defendants, and L. Ash, apparently 40, and seemingly able to do a hard day's work at manual labor, was the other. They were on their way to the P. & G. store where he expected to get $2 in cash. Ash's finances amounted to $4, but his destination was Graham, to which place he purchased transportation while a patrolman detailed by Chief Miller saw that he left town. Both of these defendants claimed Mississippi as their home state. "I am looking for an epidemic of crime this winter in West Texas," said Mayor Williamson, and determined to keep this fleeing population out of Cisco. We must use every endeavor to prevent crime here, and one of the best methods is to see that the crime is committed. This can be done, I believe, by not permitting this band of idle vagrants to stay here. Winter is coming on and those criminals that have been operating further north will be drifting south pretty soon, and Cisco officials are seeing to it that they are not harbored here.

Stephenson, mother of Dr. Stephenson at her home in that city. Mrs. Stephenson was stricken with paralysis Thursday morning while at breakfast, and owing to her advanced age her condition was thought to be serious. Relatives here had no message from Dr. Stephenson this morning which was taken as an indication that her condition was improved. She is past 70 years of age, and is the mother of ten children, seven sons and three daughters, all living.

Thick, Sound-Proof Wall Stage Necessary in 'Talkie' Movies; Photographing through Window

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of a series of articles on "talking movies" an epochal scientific development in the progress of motion pictures. By H. L. WARNER, Production Executive of Warner Brothers, Pioneer "Talking Picture" Producers. Written Especially for International News Service. HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 21.—Few people outside the film industry can realize how completely the advent of the talking picture has changed the standards of screen production, or what a revolutionary effect the innovation has had upon the entire business aspect of film-making. The motion picture is in the throes of a mighty and sudden change. We are now able to approach the situation without the necessity of guessing at its outcome. Two years ago when Warner Bros. began along to pioneer in the field of the talking picture, we were sustained only by our faith in its future. Now we know that the sound film has been accepted by the public with an enthusiasm that definitely takes it out of the experimental class, and establishes it as the type of entertainment which fully meets the desires of the theater going public.

Indications Are Leniency Will Be Asked for Alleged Slayers of Shook Brothers Due to Age

ALLEGED BANK BANDITS GO TO TRIAL MONDAY

The Leary murder cases have been set for trial for Monday, Oct. 15 in the 88th court, according to a statement from the office of Grisham & Graham at Eastland, counsel for Thomas and Woodrow Wilson Davis. The case of Clyde Thompson, who is represented by Judge J. R. Stubbard, will likely be called first, but all three cases are on call for that date. The grand jury which was recessed until the first Monday in October, returned two true bills of indictment against each of the defendants charging each with the murder of Lucas and Leon Shook, whose bodies decomposed and mutilated bodies were found Sept. 11, after having been slain near Leary, Sept. 7. Thompson, who has confessed to the slaying, with Thomas Davis, is being held in the Eastland county jail without bond, while Woodrow Wilson Davis has been released on bail of $2,500, as he is said to be but 12 years of age, and will be tried as a juvenile offender. Judge Grisham stated that he could not give the line of defense in the case against Thomas Davis at this time. However, he stated that it had been determined that both Thomas Davis and Thompson were under 18 years of age. It is presumed that counsel for the defense will make an attempt to have all the defendants tried as delinquents. The case was not discussed with Judge Stubbard. R. L. Poe, member of the grand jury from Cisco, stated this morning that only two indictments were returned against these defendants by the grand jury, though there was evidence supporting the other charges of burglary, theft and felony theft.

FOUR COUNTY SEATS VISIBLE AT RANDOLPH

It is said that four county seats are visible, with field glasses, from the top of Randolph college—that one with a good 100 glass can see Eastland, Baird, Albany and Breckinridge. It is true it is possible that Cisco people can see those cities from the roofs of two buildings in Cisco, as the roof of the new hotel, when completed, will be about the same elevation as that of the Randolph administration building. And it won't be so long now before the eighth story of the new hotel will be reached by the construction crew, as rapid progress is now being made. Concrete on the fourth floor was poured Wednesday, and the carpenter crew is building the forms for the fifth floor. The steel reinforced concrete frame of the hotel is going up fast, and nearly every week another floor is added to the structure.

Nolan Co. Strip of Broadway of America Opened after Paving to Link Road from Coast to Coast

SWEETWATER, Sept. 21.—Nolan county's million dollar Broadway of America is now completed and open to the entire country for use. This last section, of 15.8 miles of highway is a Bates type reinforced concrete road that is acclaimed to be one of the best examples of the newest type of concrete road construction in the state and the first one of which was approximately $460,000. The Broadway of America is one of the most talked of highways in the country at this time and is 48 per cent paved and 90 per cent improved from New York to San Diego, and the completion of that stretch of road in Nolan county marks another step forward in making this the best paved road in the country. This road completes another gap, and within the next year there will be only one county between Texas and El Paso that is not paved. Sweetwater celebrated this new road with a 250-car motorcade from that city to Trent, which is just east of the end of the new pavement and were joined by visitors from Abilene, Colorado, Rouse, Snyder, Rotan and other parts of this section. Talks were made by Highway Commissioner W. R. Ely, H. W. Stanley, manager of the Broadway of America association, Dr. P. C. Coleman, president of the Colorado chamber of commerce, Mayor C. W. Bryant, County Judge A. S. Mauzey of Sweetwater, and the Sweetwater Gold Medal band and the Musical Gypsies helped out in the entertainment for the evening. This was a momentous occasion for this city and section, and the whole state for that matter, as it marks the completion of another gap in the top of Randolph college—that one with a good 100 glass can see Eastland, Baird, Albany and Breckinridge. It is true it is possible that Cisco people can see those cities from the roofs of two buildings in Cisco, as the roof of the new hotel, when completed, will be about the same elevation as that of the Randolph administration building. As for her friends, Mazie hesitated about confiding in them. Sometimes she felt that she must talk this matter over, or burst. It hung heavy on her mind and her conscience. If Adele did come, what would the people of Inosbrook say. If she didn't come, why, then, there would be nothing to worry about. But down in her heart Mazie wanted her sister to come—babe back and all. For then, although Mazie never admitted such a thought to herself, the Atkins house would be the center of all interest—a place to be pointed out and talked about, and Mazie, herself, would be in the limelight quite as much as her famous sister, for would she not be stopping at Mazie's house.

CHAPTER III—Continued. Suddenly Adele sat up straight. "Hence, will you please bring me a pen and ink," she directed. "But, Madame, the photographers—they are already waiting," Renee protested. "They can wait another moment. The pen and ink, Renee!" The maid ran to get the necessary articles from the closet in which such things were kept, and brought them to her mistress. Adele took the materials and, selecting the best white paper she could find, scrawled in her large, careless handwriting, in another moment she picked up the paper and read what she had written. "Dear old Mazie, thank you for the lovely invitation" (that was a bit of sarcasm, she told herself defiantly, but Mazie needed it) "do you know we haven't seen each other in at least ten years? The show closes for a month this summer, and I'll be with you the first of July. My love to John, the children, and you—Adele." She folded the paper and thrust it into an envelope and addressed it. "See that this is mailed tonight, Renee," she handed the letter to the girl. "Now, get my dress on me quickly, and then you can show the photographers in."

CHAPTER IV. Mazie waited rather anxiously for a reply to her invitation to Adele. She wasn't quite sure whether she had taken the proper stand or not, or what her sister might think of her, and she could seek no advice from any one. Mildred, who had been cautioned to keep the matter a secret, seemed infinitely glad that this famous aunt of hers might be coming to visit them.

"But you really don't know her, Mildred, dear," Mazie had attempted to make her daughter see the light in a very parental manner. "She is most certainly not a woman who, like me, or your father, would like you to follow."

"But what's the matter with her, mother," Mildred had retorted. "She's a famous actress, and I imagine she'll be perfectly lovely."

"I can't explain to you, dear, you're entirely too young," Mazie would return with a sweet, simulated patience. "I just don't want you to think of her at all."

John Atkins said very little to Mazie concerning the proposed visit. But then, he was an unusually silent man—having been married to Mazie for some twenty years. He merely expressed the sentiment that Mazie had best not get all worked up over Adele's visit before she heard whether she were coming or not. Personally, he hoped that he would not be let in for a lot of parties, and frolics, and that Mazie would keep expenses down as much as possible, as times were none too good.

LACK OF FAITH IS SCORED BY REV. HOGG

Scores Pass Down Aisles in Token of Reconsecration to Christ after Appeal of Evangelist to Big Crowd

Another high point was reached in the union revival services at the tabernacle last night when scores of men pressed down the aisles as a public expression of a desire to make their lives count for more service of Christ and in token of a reconsecration of their lives to Christ. In response to the brief appeal also made by Evangelist Will Hogg, several came forward accepting Jesus Christ as their Savior and signifying their intention to unite with some local church.

The demonstration followed a powerful sermon from Dr. Hogg on "Dry Nets and Empty Boats." A message that smacked of the sea and stirred the attention of any fisherman or sportsman. "Launch out into the deep and let down your nets for a draught" was the text and in the recital of the story of Simon Peter and his experience with Jesus, his lack of faith and his many excuses and his subsequent call for service as a fisher of men Dr. Hogg found opportunity to make telling applications to idle faithless, professing Christians whose lack of faith and aim was responsible for dry nets and empty boats in their Christian experience. The message constituted a clarion call to "launch out" into an active endeavor for Christ and the church.

Dr. Hogg announced that he expects to preach "for a verdict" tonight and has announced his sermon-topics as "Choose Ye This Day Whom Ye Will Serve—Women of the City are in sectional prayer services all over the city this afternoon and pastors and laymen met prior to the morning service for a special period of prayer. Morning services today were largely attended in spite of the sultry cold sun and Dr. Hogg brought a telling message on "The Lord of Dreams," reciting a large chapter of his own experience. In event of protracted cold weather, special provision will be made for the proper housing of the campaign. Character Rodgers stated this morning.

No service will be held tomorrow morning, but tomorrow night Dr. Hogg is scheduled to speak on "Prepare to Meet God." Sunday afternoon he will deliver his sermon lecture on "The Christian Home" at which time churches are asked to attend the service in church delegations with as nearly 100 per cent attendance of their membership as possible. Sunday night he will deliver spiritual experience was highly interesting to the audience and very consistent with their conception of the temperament of the "human disciple."

Dr. Hogg's gift Bible last night went to "my high school football boy who wants it" and one of the boys staged a 20 yard run in record time to get it. The crowd did good work as "rooters" during his run down the long aisle.

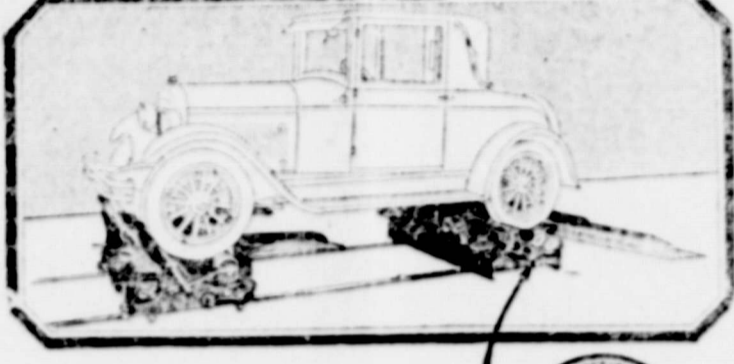

The big choir and the under force are faithfully on the job each night and the musical numbers last night were inspiring and effective with the audience coming in for plenty of good old time singing to put them in a receptive frame of mind for the gripping sermon of the evening.

Character Rodgers announced that he expects to dispose of the tabernacle this week and asks that all who expect to bid on the tabernacle have their bids in his hands by Saturday noon.

Sidelights On Union Revival

Dr. Hogg's imaginative abilities were in great evidence as he embellished the simple story of Simon Peter and Jesus on their fishing trip into a veritable sportsman's classic. His picture of the impulsive Simon's reaction to the call of Christ to become a fisher of men and his effort to tell his wife of his

South Carolina Lady Then Tried Cardui and Says She Noticed Remarkable Improvement.

Andrew, S. C.—I suffered a long time before I tried Cardui, and my only regret is that I did not know about it sooner. My little friend, 130 "E" Street, this city, had run down in health. My nerves went to pieces, and I had to go to bed. I was not able to do my house work for many months. I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had had pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild. One day I was reading and I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it, so I began on a course of the "House Treatment." It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable that my family and friends were delighted. BILL DOLLAR FINDS WORLD NOT SO BAD

Cisco, September 21, 1928. Cherish, Everybody!

Take it all in all, it's a pretty good old world. Nearly everybody is considerate and goes out of his way in order to do a kindly deed. I want to apologize. Even deities get hazy. Henry I complained the other day. Hate to trade with a grumbling business man. Fact of the matter, I can't. There are too many other fellows to greet you with a cheery smile; give you a warm welcome when you enter their door and wait on you with zeal, alert and anxious eyes. And that's the kind of dollar I'm going to be.

Since you last heard of me, I've been back to the Elliott Drug store—funny how some places just keep on attracting dollars; dropped in for a little while at the Red Front where I met a fine group of young fellows who are attending college. You never can tell. Mr. C. G. Gray is leaving us to go to San Angelo and I spent some time with Mr. C. M. Jenkins, who left San Angelo to come to Cisco and take over the Clarence Saunders grocery. All of us are going to miss Mr. Key at that corner.

Had a little visit with the Cisco Creamery. That's a local manufacturing plant that deserves and is receiving the support of our local people. City Grocery treats you mighty nice. Had a little visit with all those fine folks there. Cisco Ice Co. took me in charge for a while. My friend Russell and the whole crew are exceptionally on their toes. It's an inspiration to watch them work. From there I visited the Savoy. Nuck took me in charge and showed me the many improvements they have made there. That restaurant would do credit to any city in Texas.

Isn't the weather fine? Just ideal for football and good business and little deals of kinematics and the gam man. Rousingly yours,

BILL

Natural Gas

—and it's one of the cheapest necessities You Buy....

Have you ever stopped to consider just how much of a part Natural Gas plays in the life and growth of your community?

When your local community business and builders, your Chamber of Commerce workers, start "telling the world" of your local advantages, what usually leads the list?

Natural Gas! A plentiful, dependable supply of Natural Gas—the cheapest industrial fuel available anywhere!

Other points about your community may carry weight with manufacturers and other industries you desire to attract—but the greater is usually cheap fuel—Natural Gas. Taking the country over, there are comparatively few places that can offer Natural Gas—so it is a real advantage.

And what does it mean to attract new industries?

It means steady growth for the community—more people, more business, more prosperity, increased property values.

The increased property values resulting directly or indirectly from the possession of Natural Gas here or will, (depending on length of time you have had Natural Gas) more than offset the cost to the community of the Natural Gas consumed.

Though you may not own property now, you intend to do so, and the advantage of Natural Gas in your community is a real one to you, as you certainly want to know that your community has growth ahead of it when you put your money into property.

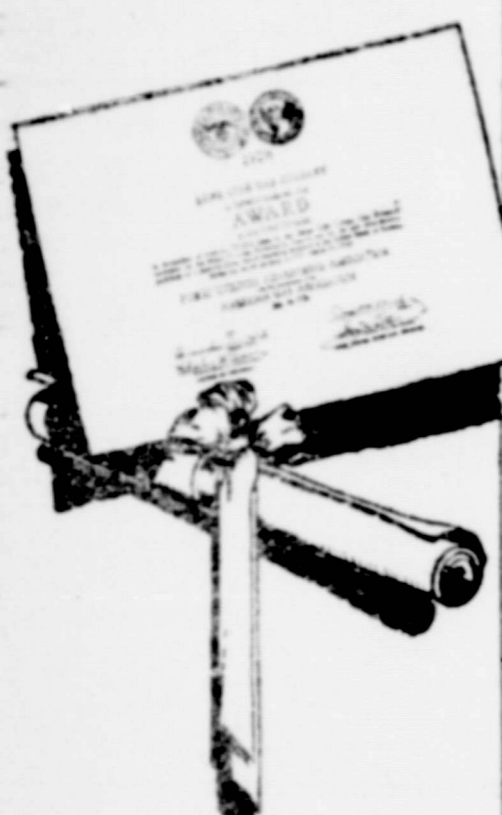

And, not to be overlooked, there are the convenience, cleanliness and cheapness of Natural Gas used in your own home for heating and cooking.

As one of the larger Natural Gas pipe line companies in the country, we are happy to be able to contribute something to the growth of your community and to your personal comfort, by rendering the type of service to your local gas company that makes Natural Gas a real asset to the community.

Lone Star Gas Company

The Lone Star Gas Company is a producer, purchaser, pipe line transporter and wholesaler of natural gas. It bridges the gap between the gas fields and your local gas company's lines and thus serves you by backing up the service of your local company.

ATTACK ON RELIGIOUS GROUNDS HIT HARD BY GOVERNOR SMITH

I repeat that I see in this not only a danger to the party but a danger to the country.

To such depths has this insidious manner of campaign sunk that the little children in our public schools are being made the vehicles for the carrying of false and misleading propaganda. At Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the public prints tell us that a number of school girls asked their parents if it were true that there would be another war if Smith was elected. When questioned by their parents as to how they came to ask such questions, one of the girls said, "We were told at school that Wilson started the war in 1917 and if Governor Smith were elected he would start another war."

As contemptible as anything could possibly be is an article on the very front page of a publication devoted to the doings of a church wherein the gospel of Christ is preached. I refer to the Ashland Avenue Baptist, a publication coming from Lexington, Ky., in which a bitter and cruel attack is made upon me personally and is so ridiculous that ordinarily no attention should be paid to it. It speaks of my driving an automobile down Broadway at a rate of 50 miles an hour and specifically states I was driving the car myself while intoxicated. "Everybody who knows me knows full well I do not know how to drive an automobile, that I never tried Wilson's car in my opinion, is as false as this part. On the inside of this paper the morning worship on the following Sunday gives as the subject, 'What Think Ye of Christ?'"

The man or set of men responsible for the publication of this wicked libel, in my opinion, do not believe in Christ. If they profess to, they at least do not follow his teaching. If I were in their place I would be deeply concerned about what Christ might think of me.

Another slander mentioned. A similar personal slander against me was dragged into the open about a week ago when a woman in the Southern part of the country read what purported to be a letter from a woman in my own state. Fortunately, the names of both women were secured. One of my friends interviewed the woman in New York state and she promptly denied having written such a letter. The woman in the southern part of the country refused to talk about it and refused to produce the letter.

I single out these few incidents as typical of hundreds. I well know that I am not the first public man who has been made the object of such baseless slanders. It was poured forth on Grover Cleveland and upon Theodore Roosevelt as well as upon myself. But as to me, the wicked motive of religious intolerance has driven bigots to attempt to inject these slanders into a political campaign. I here and now drag them into the open and I denounce them as a treacherous attack upon the very foundation of American liberty. A sin of commission is sometimes as grievous as a sin of commission. They may, through official spokesmen, disclaim as much as they please responsibility for dragging into a national campaign the question of religion, something that according to our constitution, our history and our traditions has no part in any campaign for elective public office.

Mrs. Willebrandt Exhibition. "Giving them the benefit of all reasonable doubt, they at least remain silent on the exhibition that Mrs. Willebrandt made of herself before the Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church when she said:

"There are 2,000 pastors here. You have in your church more than 600,000 members of the Methodist church in Ohio alone. That is enough to swing the election. The 600,000 have friends in other states. Write to them."

"This is an extract from a speech made by her in favor of a resolution offered to the effect that the conference go on record as being unalterably opposed to the election of Governor Smith and to endorse the candidacy of Herbert Hoover, the Republican candidate.

"Mrs. Willebrandt holds a place of prominence in the Republican administration in Washington; she is an assistant attorney general of the United States. By silence after such a speech the only inference one can draw is that the administration approves such political tactics. Mrs. Willebrandt is not an irresponsible person. She was chairman of the committee on credentials in the Republican national convention at Kansas City.

"What would the effect be upon the same people if a prominent official of the government of the state of New York under me suggested to a gathering of the pastors of my church that they do for me what Mrs. Willebrandt suggests be done for Herbert Hoover? It needs no words of mine to impress that upon your minds. "Dishonest Campaigning." "It is dishonest campaigning. It

The curious dress of the Beef-eaters at the Tower of London is said to be due to the desire of Henry VIII that they should look as stout as he did.
