Smith on Last Lap of Campaign Tour; G. O. P. Lacking Badly in Leadership, He Says at St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 28.—Governor Smith left on the last lap of his presidential campaign tour today, departing for Milwaukee where he is to speak Saturday night. A great crowd gathered at the station at 11 o'clock to cheer his departure. In another assault on his Republican opposition, Governor Smith at St. Paul Thursday night held that the "fundamental weaknesses" of the Harding and Coolidge administrations had been a lack of leadership. The Democratic presidential nominee touched on the farm problem, again assailing the Republicans for a failure to work out an effective relief program, and declared that there was a whispering campaign to misrepresent his stand on inland waterway development and immigration. Smith recalled that as governor of New York he had favored, like his Republican predecessor, the so-called all-American route through the state for a waterway between the Great Lakes and the sea. He reiterated, however, the readiness expressed in his acceptance speech to be guided by the finding of engineering experts as between this route and the proposed St. Lawrence River waterway. As for immigration, the Democratic candidate declared "there is no issue between either the parties or the candidates on the question of sustaining and keeping in full force and effect the restricting features of the present immigration laws." "Where they are to be amended for the relief of hardship," he said, "we are in accord."

As in his speech last week in Omaha, Governor Smith endorsed the principle of the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill and contended that "if there was any division of opinion in the United States with regard to the policy of putting agriculture on an economic equality with industry, it was the duty of the president to iron out that difficulty." "The congress, speaking for all the people, offered a program," he said. "The president vetoed it and offered nothing in its place."

MEN PREFER BLONDES—BUT U. S. PRESIDENTS MARRIED BRUNETTES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—They prefer blondes—and 32 First Ladies of the Land stand arrayed as witnesses to the fact they marry brunettes. There has been but one husband in the white house, President Buchanan. Of the remaining 28 men who have served as president of these United States, 27, when they picked the "one and only" married a dark haired dame. The one exception was Dolly Madison, wife of President James Madison, who before she married the young patriot was the "fair young Todd." Another blonde has been mistress of the white house, Harriet Lane, blonde niece of the bachelor Buchanan, served as hostess for her uncle. She is described by a stout encyclopedia as having "fair skin, light hair and violet eyes." But not only is there history in which to base the conclusion that presidents prefer brunettes. When either Al Smith or Herbert Hoover is inaugurated March 4 next, he will take with him into the white house a brunette wife.

WHENCE COMES FAME.

Who was Nathan Hale? Or rather who is Nathan Hale? For Nathan Hale "is," not "was."

But why should Nathan Hale live on Earth after he has left Earth? Nathan Hale is immortalized in lyric and legend and marble and bronze because he failed.

If Nathan Hale had successfully carried through the mission which occasioned his death, it is likely that you and I never would have heard much about him, if anything; but he failed, so we know all about him, or should if we have kept up with our prominent patriots.

Had Hale succeeded in getting the information about the enemy for which he went into Long Island and New York disguised as a Dutch school teacher, probably nothing would have happened except that his commanding officer would have shaken his hand and said "Great stuff" or words to that effect.

But Hale didn't get back with the information. The British caught him and killed him ignominiously; hung him like a dog, denying him the comfort of the Bible and the presence of a minister, and burning before his eyes his farewell letters to his sweetheart and mother.

Thousands of other spies have done more than Nathan Hale did, for they succeeded. Other spies just as courageous as Hale, and perhaps more clever, have gone after the bacon and brought it home.

And other spies for our country have been captured and executed by the enemy and no noise made about them. They sleep in unknown graves, unpraised and unsung. Why is that? Why the distinction? Why pay perpetual tribute to the memory of Nathan Hale and completely ignore the other spies who likewise tried and died?

No, the other spies did not do so well as Hale, for Hale capitalized his failure. As he faced eternity, he did something that caught the fancy of the nation. At the psychological moment, just before the English bumped him off, Hale said, or is said to have said: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

HEIGHT AND PERSONALITY.

School boards are always letting themselves in for trouble. Now it is reported that the guardians of the educational system of New York City have announced that women under five feet in height will not be accepted as teachers because they are not likely to have the right kind of personality.

FRUIT KEPT FRESH.

that eats. It may be the second great step in the preservation of foodstuffs in general. The first step, which keeps food unspoiled by sealing it up after it has been cooked or sterilized by heat, is only half the problem, because it is of no avail with fresh, raw food.

THE BARON FLIES AGAIN.

Baron Gunther von Huenfeld is on his way to California by air. Starting from Berlin he is proceeding across Europe and Asia to Tokio.

BARE FEET BANNED.

There is consternation in Portugal over a new law which provides that everybody must wear shoes. A cable from Lisbon says: "This statute not only threatens the democratic equality of the citizens, but disregards national traditions and customs to such an extent that another revolution may easily be provoked."

The Brown Derby

Governor Smith has practically made the brown derby. Herbert Hoover has done nothing for it, despite the fact that, as Secretary of Commerce, he could have slipped in a word now and then, and possibly persuaded C. A. Coolidge, Andy Mellon and Senator Borah to adopt it.

Governor Smith will naturally get the support of the brown derby interests. Hoover to date has utterly ignored this important element, which has made them very mad, and any Presidential candidate who thinks he can enrage the brown derby growers of the West and get away with it, is to put it kindly, crazy.

Now the brown derby people are rolling in wealth. They roll for miles in wealth and it is very good exercise, too, although apt to make a sheep slightly dizzy if overdone.

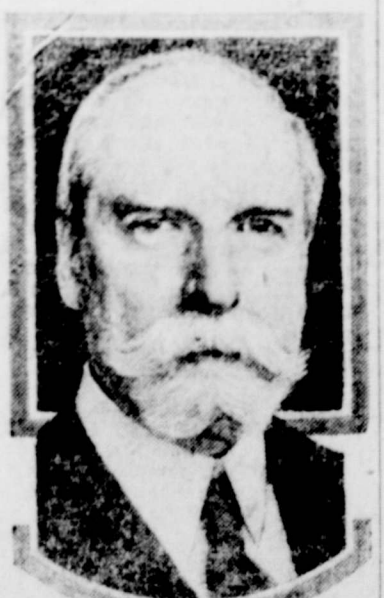

Smith will wrest Utah from its Republican boss, Senator Smoot. Smith is a very good State wrester and Smoot is not in as good condition as he was.

of rather an unusual explosion Tuesday, and as a result is suffering from painful burns about the face and eyes. The child had struck a match and placed it in the engine of an old motor truck, which was near the house when the residue of gas remaining in the engine exploded. It was not thought that the child is seriously injured, though his face is quite badly swollen, and it will not be able to see until the inflammation is reduced.

TRANSFER OF STUDENTS IS HELD CONSTITUTIONAL

AUSTIN, Sept. 28.—The forty-ninth legislature's law providing for transfer of common school district students to adjacent districts to get high school work with tuition paid, was declared constitutional by Mrs. Ethel Hilton Johnson assistant attorney general, in an opinion to L. H. Welch, district attorney at Breckenridge.

"POWDER MY BACK," starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. picture.

Adelle Dayton, famous musical comedy star playing in "Powder My Back," has numerous photographs made of titled men powdering her back, to be used for publicity purposes. One of these pictures appears in her home town paper in Brookton, Iowa. Mable, her married sister, sees it, and is horribly shocked. She writes to Adelle, inviting her to visit Brookton, suggesting that some purifying country air might do her good. Adelle is amused and accepts. On the way to Brookton a young man boards the train and recognizes the actress from her photographs, introduces himself as Harry Stark, a friend of her sister's family.

In his excitement Harry had caught Adelle's hand, and for once, she made no move to withdraw from such a familiar situation. It seemed rather nice, in fact, moving along through these green and yellow plains, hand in hand with this excited person whose eyes sparkled and became so bright when he talked of his plans, his hopes and his ambitions. Adelle, herself, became somewhat excited, and sat up and talked, and asked questions, and showed an interest. Forgotten was the fact that the young man had called her school-mate an old fossil; forgotten the idea that she was to meet Mable very shortly, and go through this routine of catching up on the family history. She was talking Broadway—the Broadway she loved; the life she had made a part of her. "I think that's a splendid idea," Adelle was agreeing with Harry. "It's the sort of thing Ben—that's the manager of our show—might be interested in. He always does musical reviews but I think you have a good plot there for a sketch, and one that might work out for a comedy, and one that would be good drama. I could help you see our manager, of course, and I know most of the people who would be interested in your work. Perhaps the best thing to do—"

But Adelle's eagerness was suddenly put to a stop. Jouson, feeling that he was not receiving the attention due him, applauded with his tiny paws and chattered as loud as he could. Adelle and Harry laughed at the funny little creature, but Adelle felt that, after all, here she was, talking, sharing ideas, just as she had when she was eighteen and twenty, with the others in her profession who had made great plans, and never accomplished them. And she reached into her bag and took out a tiny gold powder compact and scanned her face carefully. She touched the tip of her nose and chin daintily with the puff; added a faint bit of rouge to her lips, and was once more the sophisticated actress.

Harry seemed slightly disturbed for the moment. He had not quite realized how much he had been talking; how he had been confiding his dearest aspirations and plans to a practically unknown person.

"I'm terribly sorry," he apologized. "I didn't mean to talk you to death that way—especially the first time I met you. But you seemed so interested, and so sympathetic."

Adelle had heard that story, too, before. She was always sympathetic, whether she had even been listening to a conversation or not. She was the sort of person to whom all come to confide their troubles as well as their joys, knowing that they will have a willing ear into which to talk, and at the same time a tongue that will not repeat their confidences.

"I take it, then, that you have not what you might call a circle of the—the intelligencia in Brookton." Her tone was almost sarcastic.

STIRRING PLEA FROM DR. HOGG CONVERTS 40

'Unpardonable Sin,' Rejection of Holy Spirit with Attendant Loss of Salvation, Touches His Hearers

Some 40 public decisions for Christ resulted at last night's tabernacle service following Dr. Hogg's clear-cut message on "The Unpardonable Sin." The message was a frank study of that body of scripture which warns against the danger every man faces of trifling with the Holy Spirit and with the fearful consequences which follow such an in a hardened conscience, an ultimately closed heart and eternal banishment from God after death.

Dr. Hogg pointed out that the unpardonable sin was not simply one act, but rather a long series of rejections of the workings of the Holy Spirit with the will of man. Each presentation of the claims of the Christ upon a life, Dr. Hogg asserted, placed the responsibility of acceptance or rejection upon the hearer from which position there is no neutral ground of evasion. An acceptance of the Christ as savior and public confession before men, accompanied by full surrender of heart and life, results in the regeneration of the soul which places the resources of heaven at one's command and assures the forgiveness of every past sin and the promise of an omnipotent God to provide for the future of that soul's eternal welfare. Rejection of the inner voice that urges a yielding of the will to Christ, results in a hardening of the heart which would leave a person less able to be impressed by the gospel message, a second rejection intensifies this hardness and a soul can continue to reject Christ until finally the heart has become so hard that there is no faint desire to hear or accept the gospel, for which some evangelist stated no hope is offered. There always comes a final and last appeal, he claimed, before the Holy Spirit definitely ceases to strive with an individual and an unswayed man is always in danger of rejecting that last appeal. Dr. Hogg illustrated his message in this connection with the recital of several impressive and gripping illustrations of the truth from his own experience.

At the conclusion of the message Dr. Hogg stated that he was not going to beg or plead, but would leave his hearers face to face with the pleadings of the inner voice of the Spirit and asked all who felt the slightest desire to yield to Christ to come forward making public profession of the acceptance of His salvation. In a brief after-service characterized by a death-like stillness all over the audience, broken only by the singing of appropriate invitations, hymns by the choir and an occasional plea of some person urging friends to make their decision, some 40 persons quickly found their way to the front of the building where they made their decision and stood was composed almost entirely of favorite old songs offered in the gospel appeal, the service being featured by an impressive solo "Come Ye Sinners Poor and Needy," sung by Mrs. G. M. Stephenson, supported by the choir in the choruses. Envelopes for the free-will offering for Dr. Hogg which is now being taken under the supervision of a local committee were again distributed and later in the service plans were passed for the collection of those which were ready to turn in. The offering for Dr. Hogg was processed by a brief address by Rev. A. C. Miller, pastor of the First Baptist church, who voiced appreciation of the pastor and of the citizenship for Dr. Hogg's untiring efforts here and urged a liberal response on the part of every person in liberally contributing to Dr. Hogg for his labors here. The final week-end service of the campaign was held this morning with the stores closing for the last time and Dr. Hogg spoke victoriously on "Witnessing for Christ." Quite a number of decisions for Christ have been received at the morning services this week.

'I Stood on Brink of Hell Tonight and Looked Down Inside,' Says Aimee McPherson in Describing Paris Tour

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Aimee Sempie McPherson has deserted Paris for the more placid city of Geneva, but the Montmartre is still stunned after her whirlwind "sin tour" of the gayest streets in the world.

Up the hill that is the Montmartre went the California evangelist, shuddering as she traveled a trail thick with champagne corks, recently clad girls, and laughter.

In some ways it was similar to the "sin tour" that Mrs. McPherson made in New York, except that she found Paris far more wicked than the American metropolis and was "happy to be an American."

Accompanied by an American newspaper correspondent, she entered the "Dead Rat" cabaret, where waiters rushed up with trays of champagne, only to halt with a perplexed expression on their faces as she waved for them to take the wine away.

Gigolos, the dancing men of Paris, bowed low and asked her to foxtrot with them, but Mrs. McPherson begged the men to forsake their colorful living and embrace the greater pleasures of religion. They turned away.

"Heaven and Hell" was her next stop, and from there she went to "Pigalle," "Russian Caviar" and "Backstage." In each cabaret she sought to convert the waiters and entertainers.

Came midnight at the "Tabarin," and made girls rofe charades through the swirling crowd.

"What a pity, what a pity," said Mrs. McPherson. She left immediately for "Josephine's," formerly owned by Josephine Baker, darling of New York's Harlem. The low-roofed at "Frenchie's."

My heart nearly stopped when I saw girls unclothed, or nearly so, dancing, singing, or playing their charades, all for such paltry sums of the flesh," Mrs. McPherson said.

Arriving at her hotel she wrote the following impression of her tour:

I stood on the brink of Hell tonight, and looked down inside. Can Paris be wicked on the outside, but it is the roughest city in the world at the core.

I went to cry from the highest point in Montmartre.

This city is a veritable Eden and Gomerah but it seems to me that God's sentence is being vented and Paris is doomed to certain destruction. Your revelry will burst like the bubbles in your champagne glasses; like your toy balloons you burst with cigarette tips.

Satan has blinded you.

You are very mad.

You have forgotten civilization.

You have reverted to animals, but I know you are luxury for religion, and some day I will come back to save a few souls."

T. C. U.-SIMMONS TICKETS GO ON SALE IN CISCO

Tickets for the Texas Christian University - Simmons University game at Breckenridge next Saturday, October 4, have been placed on sale at the City Drug store in Cisco.

The postboards call for reserved seats near the middle of the Breckenridge stadium around the 40 and 50 yard lines.

This is the first game in several years where a football team of a Southwestern conference member has played anywhere near Cisco. It also marks the breaking of another tradition—that of the teams not playing on a neutral field. The only times that Southwestern conference teams have played on neutral ground have been at the Texas State Fair at Dallas, where Big Six university eleven, such as Texas and Vanderbilt, have pitched. That more games may be played in suitable cities is indicated by the fact that the M. U. club at Wichita Falls on October 13.

That quite a few fans from Cisco and neighboring communities will attend the big game at Breckenridge is probable. Both T. C. U. and Simmons have former students here and this city is sending several boys and girls this year to the Fort Worth and Abilene schools.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Quantity plays a small role in feminine shoes these days but the same cannot be said of quality.

There is so much cut out of what little leather it takes to make a shoe because of decorative purposes. Sometimes it is around the instep that cut-out motifs appear. Or else

Shoes also feature very near the Opera, are in light as a feather, and yet will wear for a lifetime. This well known leather is a Scotchman who came to the French capital almost "unknown" but in far from that way. Most of the smartest feet in Paris step out of his shop nowadays.

This year he is making some stunning models of lined combined with patent leather with lovely interlaminated work. Cannon tops of grey and beige are used with and more direct models have them in pebble tops and silver leather.

For afternoon wear he is showing broad and certain in all colors with satin and colored polished leather for evening capotes. Heavy crepe de chine is also much used in tennis to match the look.

Builders of a Greater Southwest

Commercial Aviation

Fast and safe transportation in which the modern airplane is proving itself pre-eminent, is destined to play an important part in the growth of the Southwest. Distances are great, the preparation of a line landing field near any community is a simple matter and weather conditions are most favorable for completely safe flying with the dependable ships developed in recent years.

Passenger planes make any city in the United States only as far from you in hours as it is in units of one hundred miles. Scheduled lines in operation and in prospect will cross the Southwest with Air Transport lines for passengers, express and freight, placing the borders of the United States and points in Cuba, Canada and Mexico within a few hours flight of your home. Commercial Aviation is ready to help us build a Greater Southwest.

Hoover Leading Smith But Solid South and New York City Not Yet Returning; Former G. O. P. Switch

Hoover again leads Smith in the second week's returns from twelve states in the Literary Digest's 19,000,000 ballot presidential "straw" poll.

Smith is given 92,855 votes, or 31 per cent, and Hoover has 198,292, or 67 per cent of the total of 291,147 votes reported received. The 2 per cent remainder is distributed among the three minor candidates. A significant feature of the poll is that over one-half of Smiley's votes to date have come from former Republican voters while Hoover has gained only about 12 per cent of his strength from erstwhile Democrats according to an analysis of "how the same voters" voted in 1924.

No returns are scheduled as having been received yet from any of the states in the "Solid South." Maryland shows 11,256 votes for Hoover as against 7,395 for Smith.

The Democratic strength in this 1928 poll is twice that of the 1924 poll at the same relative time and with comparative returns, the Literary Digest points out.

Cedricage was then leading Davis by a margin of over 1 to 1, it is said, while Hoover now leads Smith by 2 to 1. In the final returns the Cedricage lead was reduced to less than 2 to 1. If the Democratic aspirant now gains similar strength as the present poll progresses it is suggested that the contest will be closely fought.

While Hoover is leading Smith by 20,814 to 12,822 votes in the latter's native state of New York, it is indicated that these votes are only a fraction of the total to be received and include as yet none from New York City.

Several details combine to temper the strongly Republican suggestion of this early vote, the Literary Digest states. Perhaps the most significant is that Governor Smith seems to be drawing more than one-half of his total vote from sources which were Republican in 1924, for in his total of 92,855, it will be noted, 33,817 Republicans as of 1924 are represented as available only 38,954 Democrats. Nor is this a drifting of Republicans interspersed by the Democratic tilt to the Republican candidate.

An important factor in the first voting vote from New York is shown as 20,814 for Hoover 12,822 for Smith, in the fact that ballots thus far tabulated came entirely from districts outside of New York City.

This more than two-to-one vote in favor of the Republican candidate may be compared with analogous figures from the second week of the Literary Digest poll in 1924, when 17,529 New York voters were shown for Cedricage as against 2,791 for Davis, a preponderance of more than five to one as against two and a half to one in the present poll.

The actual election vote in New York state in 1926 gave Davis 950,795 to 1,830,018 for Coakley, while in the same election, Smith ran ahead of Roosevelt by 1,677,111 to 1,512,552. The vote of New York City, generally admitted to be strongly for Smith, will begin to appear in these columns in the near future, together with the vote of the "Solid South," as yet unreported.

"These factors, judging on the basis of the 1924 poll, may be expected considerably to cut down the Republican lead, if not to bring the two candidates to a practical parity."

"In all considerations of the Literary Digest poll at the second week's stage, it must be remembered that it shows approximately twice the Democratic strength shown by the 1924 poll at the same stage."

26,998 OKLAHOMANS SEEN IN HOOVER POLL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 28.—D. J. B. Curtis, Republican presidential and vice presidential nominees.

Mussolini Wills D'Annunzio Must Remain in His Crazy Castle; No One Knows Why; Afraid to Crush Him

ROME, Sept. 28.—Mystery surrounds a strange ban that has been placed on Gabriele d'Annunzio, the famous Italian poet and soldier.

For some reason Mussolini has forbidden him to leave his estate on Lake Garda. The poet is now virtually a prisoner in the castle of Montenevoso, near Milan.

The restoration of d'Annunzio's movements began a short time ago when he announced that he was going to fly to Naples to attend the marriage of Anne of France to the Duke of Poitiers, nephew of King Victor Emmanuel. Just as he was about to step into an airplane he was stopped by some mysterious order.

A short time later he accepted an invitation to fly to Paris to see the Comedie Francaise present his new play, "The Light Under the Bushel." Again he was stopped at the 15th minute, and to see dared to ask why.

He has never forgiven Mussolini for not making him into the Fascist movement, and the reports of reconciliation between the two men are untrue.

He is the potential leader around whom all the enemies of Mussolini would rally, and he is one of the three men—the Pope and the King are the other two—whom the Dictator can't dare to crush.

The castle of Montenevoso, where the poet lives, is more like a crazy dream than a human habitation. Some of the rooms are fixed up as shrines, with paintings showing d'Annunzio himself as a saint.

One big salon he has statues of all the gods and goddesses of every religion that ever existed.

D'Annunzio's favorite diversion is to go out to the destroyer Puglia, which is mounted up in his garden like a statue, and fire off salutes in honor of anyone or anything that appeals to him.

Mussolini has given him a detachment of a dozen soldiers to keep the castle warship in order. It was taken overland to his estate a party—and also all the blast contraption he can use.

TEXAS TECH SETS STUDENT RECORD AS 1927 REGISTERS

LUBBOCK, Sept. 28.—Texas Technological College broke all records for enrollment of an educational institution in its fourth year when 1,627 students registered this week, officials announced. The total represents an increase of 413 students over last year's initial enrollment.

The consumption of tin has increased enormously with the popularity of silk and artificial silk. Ten years ago British silk companies were using 80 tons of tin a year; now they are using 8,000 tons—for washing and dyeing purposes.
