ZEPPELIN STARTS FLIGHT THURSDAY

6 A. M. IS HOUR ANNOUNCED FOR VOYAGE TO U.S.

Ship Pledged Not to Fly Over French Army Works.

FRIEDRICHSHAVEN, Germany, May 15.—The Graf Zeppelin, under pledge not to fly over any French munition factories or military works, will start its second trans-Atlantic voyage at 6 a. m. tomorrow, it was announced today.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible, in setting the hour of departure, emphasized the necessity for a prompt start, because of the regulations placed on the flight by the French government.

The start was delayed 24 hours by difficulties over crossing French territory, and under the present arrangement, the Zeppelin must be over the border before 9 a. m. tomorrow or she will have to turn back.

The permit received from the French government allows the airship to pass the border on May 15 at 6 a. m. between the hours of 7 and 8 a. m. A flight on any subsequent morning may be made only if the French minister of war, navy and aviation are notified in advance. Eckener must give his word not to pass over stipulated military works.

RIVER BOTTOM IS SEARCHED FOR VICTIMS

LIVINGSTON, May 15.—A continued search was under way through the Trinity river bottoms today for persons still clinging to tree tops from the flood which hit this area Monday. Five bodies have been found. A report from the weather bureau indicated the entire section from Riverside to Liberty along the Trinity may experience a flood menace in the next few days.

Over this area, a distance of more than 100 miles by the winding river and affecting five east Texas counties, the muddy stream was reported running close to the top of its banks in many places. Near Goodrich, where the five bodies, all negroes, were recovered, the Trinity river and Long Chana creek, still were so high that motor boats were needed to face the swift current and effect rescues. Though water did hundreds of thousands worth of damage to cotton, corn and other crops, danger appeared to have passed, except from the Trinity river.

RECORD ALTITUDE FLIGHT

Lieutenant A. Soucek, upper right, has seen more of this earth at one time than any other man. For you see him here being congratulated by David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aviation, upon establishing a new world's altitude record. The plane, before which they are standing, is a Wright Apache powered with a Wasp motor and a super charger. Just before his take-off, the navy flyer is shown, lower left, wearing the goggles, oxygen helmet and heavy clothes to protect him at an altitude of nearly eight miles. Ice formed on the goggles and he had to remove them at the top of his climb, when the temperature was 76 below zero. At the right he is shown nursing a bleeding nose, caused by the great height, after having been helped from the plane.

Former Governor Joseph D. Sayers, Most Affectionately Regarded of Texas Chief Executives, Is Dead

AUSTIN, May 15.—Former Governor Joseph D. Sayers died here today, aged 88 years.

He had been too ill for more than a month to come to the capitol where he has served as a member of the state pardon board since Governor Moody's first administration. He was the oldest state official having been born Sept. 23, 1841. He had served as lieutenant governor, congressman and governor of Texas.

Joseph Draper Sayers held an eminent position in public life distinguished by at least three unusual circumstances.

He was a veteran of the gray-clad Confederate forces, and was personally commended and raised to the rank of major by President Jefferson Davis.

He was the most affectionately regarded of any governor in the state's history. He brought to public office a deep religious atmosphere. Newspapers during his administration as governor, 1899-1903, frequently referred to him as "our beloved governor," and often attested tributes of unusual devotion and esteem by the people of the state.

He returned, 24 years after having retired from the office of governor, to another period of distinguished service to his state. The oldest living governor was called back to public office by Dan Moody, youngest governor in the state's history, and from the beginning of Gov. Moody's administration until the end of Gov. Sayers' life, the venerable former

FORT WORTH ATTORNEY IS OUT ON BOND

FORT WORTH, May 15.—V. K. Wedgeworth, Fort Worth attorney, is at liberty today under $1,000 bond on an assault to murder charge growing out of an altercation Tuesday with Judge S. D. Shannon in the latter's office.

Witnesses separated the men after Judge Shannon had been slashed with a razor.

The trouble started over a negro probate case which Wedgeworth had tried in Judge Shannon's court. At the hospital where Judge Shannon was treated for his wounds it was said his condition was not serious. Wedgeworth was treated for a bloody nose.

OVER 200 AT BANQUET IN BRECKENRIDGE

Successful Financial Campaign Reviewed at Gathering.

"The city of Cisco is behind Randolph college," Dr. S. J. Shettlesworth, who is in charge of the financial campaign of the Cisco institution told a get-together banquet given at Breckenridge last night in connection with the Texas Christian Missionary convention now in progress in that city. More than 200 people of Cisco, students of Randolph, members of the faculty of the school and delegates to the convention of the Christian church, under whose auspices Randolph college is conducted, attended this event. Its purpose was purely one of bringing the junior college, the only co-educational institution of its type maintained by the church, into a more intimate touch with the denomination in Texas.

The banquet took place in the banquet room of the Breckenridge Y. M. C. A. This space was inadequate to take care of the attendance and some tables had to be placed in the hall.

Dr. Shettlesworth presided. He told of the cooperation which Cisco is manifesting through the contribution of $50,000 to the support of the school, reviewed his own successful campaign among the churches of West Texas and presented a rosy prospect for the college supported by this splendid cooperation.

Other speakers on the program were J. E. T. Peters, of Cisco; F. U. Jones, of Texas Christian University and Dr. T. T. Roberts, president of Randolph.

Randolph college orchestra played for the banquet while two Thomas Reid, dean of the fine arts department of the college.

More than 50 students and members of the faculty were taken over in Cisco cars shortly before the hour for the opening of the banquet at 5:30 p. m. Many other students and faculty members had preceded this caravan.

Among the Cisco people present at the event were: E. P. Crawford, J. E. T. Peters, Charles Fleming, Mrs. J. A. Bearman, Mrs. E. H. Varnell, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Johnston, Rev. Acker C. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. West, Mrs. Bob Winston, Mrs. M. E. Holcomb, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cate.

Rev. Thomas Lenox, former pastor of the First Christian church at Cisco, now of Corsicana First church, was also present, as was Rev. Keevil, formerly of Cisco, now of Reading, Ohio.

EXTORTION BY OFFICERS IS INVESTIGATED

DALLAS, May 15.—Alleged extortion by Dallas county deputy sheriffs will probably be reported to Judge C. A. Phippen of the criminal district court, by a grand jury, it was learned here.

The investigation was ordered by William McCraw, criminal district attorney, following reports that deputies in certain rural sections had extorted money from persons on highways. Fifteen witnesses have appeared before the jury this week.

All constables and county justices of the peace will be interviewed by the jury. Officials reported today. Alleged "six-shooter" deputies have been employed in at least one rural precinct, according to other charges. This also will be probed.

Grand jury probes of deputy constables in Dallas county last summer resulted in two being indicted for extortion and two for aggravated assault.

26 Bodies Removed From Building Wrecked by Blasts and Fire Just Before Noon; Others Being Sought

CLEVELAND, O., May 15.—Twenty-six bodies were recovered and many others were believed dead at Cleveland Clinic hospital, wrecked by three explosions and swept by fire today.

More than 100 persons were believed injured.

Flames which swept through the five story building immediately after the explosions were believed to have trapped many others.

It was said 200 persons were in the structure when the blasts occurred.

The dead and injured were taken to nearby hospitals. Mt. Sinai hospital reported 15 dead, Huron Road hospital seven dead, while four other bodies were at a building adjoining the clinic.

Unofficial reports said the explosion was caused by an X-ray machine in the basement. Chemicals in the pharmacy exploded, spreading flames and deadly fumes.

The first explosion occurred shortly before noon, another followed in fifteen minutes and a third shook the structure several minutes later while firemen and police were in the building on rescue work.

ADVENTURER'S DREAM RUDELY INTERRUPTED

DENVER, Colo., May 15.—A dapper young collegiate who left the fashionable St. Johns military academy at Delafield, Wis., a month ago with the announced intention of living a wild life of adventure in the golden west, had his dream rudely shattered today by a chilly cell in the Denver jail.

Alone, after hours of questioning, the youth, Richard Nash Burrows, 20-year old foster son of a prominent Chicago family, awoke to a realization that he had confessed to a murder in Arizona which might lead him to the gallows or prison for life.

Burrows was arrested by chance yesterday as a suspected automobile thief.

Tired of discipline at St. Johns, he said, he left with another student, Milton Drucker, also of Chicago. Together they went to Los Angeles.

In Phoenix the two wanderers were arrested as vagrants. Drucker's mother came and took her son home, leaving Burrows alone.

"That was the break that hurt," the youth said, "my family deserted me and I didn't care what happened."

"High-kicking" eastward, Burrows was given a lift near Wheelersburg, Ark., by a kind motorist named Jack Martin, he said.

Martin resisted when Burrows decided to rob him, and had to be slugged. Later Burrows told police, he shot the motorist and hid the body. Taking the machine the youth drove on to Denver by way of Albuquerque.

Phoenix authorities reported that a Jack Martin had been missing with his automobile since March 28. His body had not been found and Burrows will probably be taken to Arizona to help locate it.

Investigating further, police found that the youth was the foster son of Walter M. Burrows, a trader on the Chicago live stock market and foster grandson of Frederick R. Burrows, superintendent of Swift Packing company, Chicago, a former president of the Omaha Packing company.

Young Burrows went to live with his foster parents ten years ago from an aged grandmother in St. Joseph, Mo. His real name was Richard Merle Hicks and both parents are dead.

AGED WOMAN ARRESTED ON DRY CHARGE

Mrs. M. McElroy, 70-year-old Eastland widow, who, when officers some time ago found a quantity of liquor in her home, readily admitted that she was selling it and stated that the reason she was doing so was to provide funds necessary for taking care of her son ill with tuberculosis and who has since died, is again facing charges of violating the liquor laws.

Sheriff Virge Foster late Tuesday arrested the woman on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Jim Steele of Eastland. She was lodged in the county jail and later released on $500 bond.

When the officers went to Mrs. McElroy's home in the outskirts of Eastland Tuesday they found a quantity of beer and two or three men seated in a room drinking. Money was lying on a table, according to Sheriff Foster.

Sheriff Foster stated that the grand jury had never taken any action on the former charge against the aged woman. He also stated that he talked to her after the first offense and elicited a promise from her that she would not handle any more liquor.

"I received a complaint that she was again handling liquor and investigated and found that she was. I didn't know what else to do so I locked her up," Sheriff Foster said today.

EDUCATION UNIT NOT NEEDED.

First inkling of the attitude of the Hoover administration toward the proposed federal department of education was given by Sec. Wilbur who informed the annual meeting of the American Council on Education that an adequate position for education within a department and with sufficient financial support was all that was needed.

Secy. Wilbur is an educator, having made it his life work and having resigned as president of Stanford University to enter the cabinet. He was very emphatic speaking of this proposed federal department of education with a cabinet official as its head.

There is a distinct place for this sort of thing but it should not be recognized as an administrative position with large funds at its disposal. A department of education similar to the other departments of the government is not required.

Fair enough. A federal department controlling the school life in 45 commonwealths would be very much out of place.

Washington Letter

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEX Service Writer

WASHINGTON. — Looking forward optimistically to a day when cabinet officers will all be more or less efficient, Congressman Andrew Jackson Montague of Virginia is preparing to push his bill providing for the frequent presence of heads of the executive departments on the floor of the Senate and of the House.

Montague's bill proposes that the cabinet members occupy seats on the floor at the opening of the Senate's sessions on Tuesdays and Fridays and at the opening of the House proceedings on Mondays and Thursdays, with the right to participate in debate and under compulsion to answer such questions as members might put to them.

Should be Left to Congress. In the shadow of the Alamo, the San Antonio Express prints this startling observation, "States are repelling and not enacting income tax laws." This is another shot at the Mauritz income tax bill.

Eight Wells Are Under Way in Turner Shallow Pool District Now

SIXTY BARREL WELL LATEST COMPLETION

Revival of Drilling Activity Highly Encouraging.

Eight wells are under way in the Turner shallow pool, between Eastland and Carbon, where the latest completion is the 60-barrel well of Kirk & Whitesides, at a depth of around 1,300 feet.

No area in the county is witnessing activity that rivals the Turner pool development which includes three wells started by Hickey; a well by Davis & Stiles on the Craig; a well by Crabb & McNeel on the Turner; a well by Grant & Reynolds on the McInosh; and a well by Marrs et al on the Byrd.

Besides the No. 1 Turner recently completed by Kirk & Whitesides, the pool has a number of producers that have been in for a considerable period. One of them is a 13,500,000-foot gasser in the shallow sand. Incidentally this gasser is less than a thousand feet from the well of Davis & Stiles, Eastland operators.

These operators plan two more locations but are not yet ready to make public where the wells will be drilled.

The revival of drilling activities in this territory—notably in the Turner pool—is highly encouraging. The Moore & Garrett-Chestnut & Smith well south of Olden which has opened up a new section for deep production will result in activity in that area.

The well yesterday was flowing by heads and gave promise of being good for several hundred barrels daily when completed.

Also the center of interest is the 720-barrel well of T. G. Shaw on the Manning, a mile and a half east and south of Caddo in Stephens county. Eight locations were reported around this well yesterday.

CISCO ABOVE AVERAGE, SAYS FIRE MARSHAL

State Fire Marshal Lee D. Olive, who has been in Cisco this week, says that he finds Cisco far above the average in cleanliness and with very few fire hazards.

Each year that Mr. Olive comes to Cisco he finds fewer hazards, and a better class of improvements taking the place of the old, he says. He also states that as a whole, he finds the business people anxious to cooperate with his department in every way. He wants to express his appreciation for the cooperation and commend them for their civic pride.

chief executive served on the state pardon board.

Kindly, humanitarian, charity and the ripe wisdom of old age guided his recommendations in dealing with imprisoned people.

Gov. Sayers was 87 years old. He was born in Grenada, Miss., in 1841. In 1861, at the outbreak of the Civil war, he was a student in the Bastrop Military Institute, Bastrop. He quit his studies to enlist as a private. He served under Col. Tom Green, and was recommended by Green for promotion for bravery in his first battle, near Fort Craig, during which he assisted in the capture of the famous Val Verde battery.

He was wounded in service and for months was on crutches, but continued on active duty until the end of the war, coming out of the war as a major.

Major Sayers returned to Bastrop, which had been his home since he was 10 years old. He practiced law there, and was elected state senator in 1875. He was elected lieutenant governor in 1879, and after one term was elected to congress.

While still a member of congress, he was elected in 1898 as governor of his state. He left Washington just a few days before his inauguration as governor, Jan. 17, 1899. He served two terms as governor, then resumed his practice of law. Until called by Moody in 1927 to the pardon board, he daily kept regular hours in his law office in Austin.

An auto, which went over a fifty-foot bluff near Roma, Starr county, was demolished, one of the three occupants suffered a broken hip, and the other two were only slightly injured.

OIL NEWS OF SOUTHWEST

HOUSTON, May 15.—The average daily output under prorotation of Pecos county last week was 29,950 barrels as against the previous week's 27,000 barrels.

Gulf Production company completed No. 2-A George E. Smith at High Island in Galveston county, flowing 200 barrels from a depth of 2,971 feet. In the same field Marrs McLean's No. 11 Acadie after working over, is good for around 250 barrels at 3742 feet.

The Yont-Lee Oil company's No. 48 McFadden at Spindletop, a work-over, is good for 500 barrels.

SEMINOLE, Okla., May 15.—"Rained out" was the notation of many scouts in the greater Seminole oil area Monday. Many producing leases were under water and no complete production gauge was obtained. The field produced 255,281 barrels Sunday and 239,243 barrels Monday from 1,559 wells.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 15.—Production of crude oil in the Seminole oil field will be unrestrained from now on. The Oklahoma corporation commission's pro-ration order expired yesterday.

The maximum daily average production of the state was set at 725,000 barrels a day. Two of the commissioners signed the order substituting the prorotation order setting maximum Seminole production at 350,000 barrels a day. Operators say the new maximum figure is beyond production possibility.

TULSA, Okla., May 15.—Oklahoma's daily average crude oil production last week was 671,550 barrels, the Oil & Gas Journal reported Tuesday. This was a decline of 3,670 barrels from the week before.

Mid-Continent field average was 1,461,348 barrels, a decline of 2,500 barrels. West Texas was down 4,941 barrels to 352,617 barrels. Kansas increased from 111,285 barrels to 113,845 barrels.

California increased from 738,500 to 761,500 barrels. National daily average was 2,636,898 barrels, a general decline of 10,896 barrels and a decrease of 4,810 barrels in light gravity crude.

Gorman Farmers Sell Much Cream

GORMAN, May 15.—Last week Gorman shipped 410 gallons of cream through the local express office. Over three hundred gallons was shipped on Saturday. This went to various cream buyers over the state and was all our cream. The cream was bought by local grocers and turned loose several hundred dollars among the producers.

Along with this was the cream sold on the sweet cream route running from Gorman to Ranger which puts out about three hundred dollars per week among its patrons.

The small start made in the dairy business in this section is already a paying proposition, putting a little money in the hands of the people. It means that the feed stuff formerly wasted in this section is being turned into money.

Most of the Texas honey crop comes from cotton blossoms and the millions of acres of cotton put Texas in second place in honey production, excelled only by California.

Chrysler 7-bearing counter-weighted crankshafts are tested exactly for accuracy of both dynamic and static balance. This is only one of the many reasons for the smooth performance of every Chrysler motor.

HAIRBREADTH precision and custom care

A demonstration reveals surpassing results due to Chrysler's finer standards

CHRYSLER, by applying new and ingenious methods of scientific efficiency, introduced to volume production the fine precision standards heretofore associated only with hand-built cars.

THE "75" ROYAL SEDAN, $1535. Wire wheels extra.

The man who buys a Chrysler Imperial, a Chrysler "75," a Chrysler "65," gets a car that is held to hairbreadth limits in every specification.

From raw material to finished product, Chrysler is applying to all phases of manufacture the custom care and accuracy formerly possible only in costly hand-built cars. An elaborate system of inspections and tests safeguards the finest kind of craftsmanship, and makes certain that every part scales to the ultimate decimal of its prescribed weight and dimension.

The extreme to which Chrysler invariably goes in protecting quality and accuracy is something unique in the field of big production. Care guides skill in every move. Infallible instruments eliminate chances of human fallibility.

So it is that Chrysler cars, as they take to the road, are in every particular as fine and fault-free as modern science and expert human craftsmanship can make them.

And as the natural outcome of all this standardized care and precision, plus the genius of Chrysler engineering, there is a distinct difference in Chrysler performance that is wholly and lastingly delightful. We invite you to take a demonstration and learn the difference for yourself.

RUTH DEWEE GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED MILDRED LAWRENCE falls in love with STEPHEN ARMITAGE who is lured away by PAMELA JUDSON when she tells him Mildred is trying to marry her brother, HAROLD, for money. Harold fears HUCK CONNOR, who is blackmailing him over a forged check. Huck is infatuated with Pamela and when she announces her engagement to Stephen, frames him for the theft of an auto and causes his arrest. Pamela drops Stephen, but Mildred tries to get him out of jail.

Harold had once told her he feared Huck, who had threatened to get rid of Stephen to keep him from marrying Pamela. Mildred determines to force Harold to help her, and is shocked to hear of his death—apparently accidental. She tells Stephen her suspicions but they have no proof and it seems hopeless.

In desperation, she goes to MR. JUDSON, who takes her to headquarters to tell her story. Judson tells Stephen out and Pamela begs forgiveness. On the way from the jail to the hotel Stephen narrowly escapes a shot from a thug in a passing taxi. The license number reveals that it was a stolen car. He reports to Mr. Judson and learns that it was Mildred and not Pamela who had worked for his release.

Judson tells him that Mildred also had been injured by a shot from one of the gangsters and his concern leads the elder man to doubt Stephen's love for his daughter. She sends Stephen to the room and asks to speak to Pamela alone.

"I see," Mr. Judson returned. "You resent authority but you're ready enough to accept what a parent can give you in the way of sapphire necklaces and nice looking, penniless young men."

Pamela sat up, interested at once. "What do you mean by that?" she asked meekly.

"I mean that I shall buy the necklace for you."

Pamela stared at him wide-eyed and scowled.

"If you apologize for your impertinence," Mr. Judson asked firmly.

Pamela shrugged. "Oh, well, of course, daddy, but you KNOW that you have the upper hand. You want me to admire you, don't you?"

"It isn't sporting to use your wealth to tyrannize me," Pamela went on, in appealing accents.

"I am not trying to bribe you to be courteous," her father denied coldly.

"But you expect me to lie down and roll over when you say 'Roll over'?"

"Pamela!"

Pamela jumped from her chair, ran over and reached her arms up around his neck.

"You're a holdover from days that are gone forever," she laughed. "You send my man away and expect me to say, 'thank you father dear.' It isn't being done."

Her father loosened her arm, and put his hands on her shoulders, holding her off from him and looking at her unsympathetically.

"Your man," he said, and there was an edge of scorn in his voice. "Why don't you say 'my man and my necklace.' They're both things I am expected to pay for."

"Father!"

Pamela's indignation expressed itself in a stamp of her foot. She jerked her shoulders free and glared at her parent with open hostility.

"I'm disappointed in you," he told her frankly. "You spoke of admiration for me. Don't you think I want to hold you in equal esteem, Pamela?"

"Falling in love hasn't degraded me, has it?" she retorted.

Her father met her gaze unswervingly. "But buying your 'man' has," he answered steadily. "You know he doesn't love you, Pam. Anyone can see that. You're not a fool. You know what attracts him."

Pamela winced.

"I'm sorry dear," her father exclaimed quickly, "but I can't permit this engagement to continue any longer."

"You don't know what you're talking about," Pamela cried. "You've only met Stephen. Just today. How can you judge him?"

"I'm not blind. He scarcely knows you're on earth, Pam."

Pamela surprised him. "What of it?" she asked. "Wouldn't you be thinking of other things too if you were in his position? I don't expect him to think only of me. But if you had seen the way he behaved in . . . in jail this afternoon . . ."

Mr. Judson shook his head. "And if you, my dear, had wit-

Pamela made a swift, impatient gesture with her hands.

"Why shouldn't he be upset? He's a friend of her family and he was more loyal to him than I was—but of course she knew about Huck Connor. But he's not in love with her, dad. I know he isn't. And you're wrong about his caring for your money. Why, he expects me to live in an apartment and do my own work!"

"Have you told him you would do that?"

"I'd tell him anything. But what is the difference? If we know that he doesn't expect to live on your money that's all that matters, isn't it?"

She looked at him beseechingly and Mr. Judson softened.

"You know you will be the chief sufferer if you make a mistake about this," he warned her soberly. "Surely you've noticed how unhappily certain misalliances among people you know have turned out."

Suddenly Pamela regarded him wickedly. "Please don't think I am trying to be offensive," she began innocently, "but I've haven't any money, has she?"

"My wife?"

"That."

"I really don't know," very stiffly.

"Oh yes you do," Pamela said hastily. "And how would you like it if I suggested that she had married you for your money?"

"Absurd!"

"Is it? Then don't buy her any jewelry for a while and find out I hope you'll be lucky, but anyway, I have as much right to take my happiness where I find it as you have. We both think we're loved for ourselves. Why should I give up because there's a chance

"I'd lose the bonds I've put up for his reappearance."

"You don't care about that, do you?"

"Now see here, Pam." Mr. Judson was serious. "There'd be a warrant out for his arrest. Don't you go putting any foolish notions into his head."

"But if they couldn't catch him we could stay away until Huck Connor is found, and that would be much safer for Stephen, wouldn't it? I'm sure there's something going on that you haven't told me about."

"Mr. Judson" considered. Perhaps it would be best for Stephen to tell Pamela what had happened that afternoon.

"You wouldn't have asked him to stay here except for some good reason," Pamela went on. "After all, it's not you who is in love with him."

"No, it wasn't love for him that induced me to keep him here," her father agreed. "Frankly, he is most unwelcome and I shall have a talk with him before I accept him as my future son-in-law."

"Then why HAVE you asked him to stay?"

"We hope to DAVE Connor with in our reach."

"How ridiculous. Huck Connor wouldn't come here."

"No, I don't believe he would enter the hotel. But he may try to get to Armitage outside and we'll have a better chance of apprehending him or some one who knows where he is hiding if we keep a strict watch on Armitage, we believe."

"I don't see what Huck would want to do to him now."

"We think he doesn't want him to marry you, Pam, and that he will go to any length to prevent it. You've got to be very careful."

Pamela was frightened. "Please call up Stephen," she said nervously.

Her father stepped to the telephone and asked for Stephen's room.

VOLUME OF COTTON GOODS SHOW INCREASE

BOSTON, May 15.—The volume of cotton dress fabrics finished by mills during the first three months of this year showed an increase of 21 per cent, compared with the corresponding period last year.

Ernest C. Morse, head of the new uses section of the cotton textile institute, told the advertising club of Boston, in a speech here Tuesday.

"Consumption of cotton is increasing," he said. "The per capita consumption in 1927, the latest available figures, was 71.9 square yards and 29.9 pounds of raw cotton. In that year American cotton manufacturers produced 9,000,000,000 yards of woven goods which had an aggregate value of more than $1,500,000,000. The per capita consumption of cotton has increased steadily over the last 10 years. The increases, we believe, are undoubtedly due in a large degree to the greater use of cotton in industries."

Cotton airplane fabrics in the aircraft industry, cotton fabric letters as traffic guides on the surface of highways in place of paint and heavy cotton fabric used in a new type of asphalt road construction, are among the new uses to which cotton is being put.

"A potential market of at least 5,000,000,000 square yards of cotton fabric exists annually for the use of cotton fabric letters in place of paint on the surface of highways for traffic guides," he said. "We have studied the use of a heavy cotton fabric used in a new type of asphalt road construction in the south. This method of road construction is successful, as evidenced by the fact that South Carolina has undertaken the improvement of 70 miles of roads in this way during the next two years; each mile requires at least 3,500 square yards of fabric."

"At least 500,000,000 square yards of narrow sheetings, print cloths and osenaburgs are used annually for bags and containers. There is an economic gain to the individual consumer as they can be purchased at the same price and also they remain a piece of cloth which can be utilized in many ways. Packaging at their source, products such as potatoes, in individual cotton containers has large possibilities and advantages as enabling those products to be properly marked as to kind, quality and source."

In addition to the public schools and state-supported higher institutions of learning, there are in Texas more than 100 educational institutions of university, college and sub-college rank supported by churches, private individuals, and endowments.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLII

Mrs. Judson left the piano when she saw her husband join Pamela and Stephen and came to the door of the dining room.

An amused smile played on her lips as she watched Pamela lose her battle to keep Stephen there. For battle it was, but this time the father won.

Then he turned to his wife. "Will you please leave us alone for a while, my dear? I've something very important to say to Pamela."

Mrs. Judson came up and kissed him softly on both cheeks.

"You aren't going to let her keep that sapphire necklace," she whispered, "it's positively a horrible thing for a young girl to have."

Mr. Judson patted her on the shoulder. "You shall have one too, my dear," he answered from the fullness of his wisdom.

Mrs. Judson smiled and trailed away.

"Well," Pamela said with a very disagreeable inflection and seated herself in a hall on a satin damask chair. "Shoot!"

"Pamela!"

Pamela answered with an impatient toss of her head. "You had no business to send Stephen away. I'd a thousand things to say to him."

"Pamela, I won't have you speaking to me in such manner."

"Then don't be a parent!" Pamela flung back at him.

Hard and timely hitting enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to beat the Detroit Tigers, 10 to 8, and regain the American League lead. Al Simmons hits a home run and Joe Boley clouted two triples.

Fred Marberry stopped a Saint Louis rally in the ninth after four runs had crossed the plate and the Washington Senators won from the Browns, 9 to 7.

Bill Cissell's home run in the seventh broke a 2-2 tie and the Chicago White Sox went on to win from the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 2. Bob Weiland, White Sox recruit southpaw, held the Red Sox to five hits.

No other games were played.

Watch 'Em Is Right

MR. E. S. BARNARD, president of the American League, has seen all his clubs in action this spring and he advances the opinion that there are two clubs who ought to be watched in particular.

Getting a Heart AFTER the first series between the Yankees and the Athletics there are any number of experts who think more highly of Connie Mack's chances to win than they did when they looked over the clubs in the southern training sector.

Already the A's have won half as many games from the Yankees as they did through the entire course of the 1928 season and young Henry Johnson hasn't been able to handle them as he did last year.

Giants Couldn't Get Away THE reformation of the spirit of Mack's club and the failure of the Giants to get started have been two interesting features of the early season.

John McGraw, in San Antonio, made no secret of the fact that he was depending a whole lot on getting the jump at the start. He wanted a good lead before he had to meet the strong western clubs.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

GUS WALDRON, a referee, was knocked out in Trenton, N. J. . . . One of the fighters let go with a wild swing and clipped him right on the jaw. . . . The Brooklyn have four first basemen. . . . They are Bissnette, Herman, Bressler and Hendrick. . . . And they have a pitcher. . . . His name is Dazzy Vance. . . . And they say he's worth 50 grand a year instead of 25. . . . Ed Walsh, coach of the White Sox, said he would be the happiest man in the land. . . . If Notre Dame would beat Holy Cross. . . . Mel Ott, young Giant outfielder, has had trouble with his legs ever since he came up as a great prospect. . . . Chick Meehan, N. Y. U. football coach, saw him in a recent game and told McGraw he knew just what was the matter with him. . . . "He stops too quick after a sprint. That's the best and easiest way in the world to get a charley-horse." . . . He said. . . . And McGraw went to work on the young man. . . . Willie Strickling has taken an examination to become a shave tail in the U. S. Reserve Air Corps. . . . Herr Schmeling sent postcards from Germany to all the New York boxing writers. . . . And they were all in Billy McCauley's handwriting.

easier than the western clubs. The Giants have been kicked around considerably by the Phillies, the Braves and the Robins. And the Giants did not have the cherished lead when they met the western clubs. But in the long run it may equalize itself. Perhaps the Phillies, the Braves and the Robins will be an inconsiderate of reputations when they meet the Cubs, the Cards, the Pirates and the Reds as they were when they were playing the Giants.

CAN YOU DO THIS? Can you multiply 71395 by 597 in fifty seconds? If you are a woman, you will probably do it in less than fifty seconds but you won't get the right answer. If you are a man, you will take more time but may get the right answer, according to tests made by the Monroe Calculating Machine Company, Inc. with a large number of men and women. The figures used in this problem are psychologically the most difficult ones to "handle" and "remember" for that reason for this test which was made for both speed and accuracy. The average time for the entire group was fifty seconds. The women averaged 47 seconds but obtained no correct answers. The time average for the men was fifty seconds and several of the group got the correct answer. To compare the human brain with a mechanical one, the problem was worked on an adding calculator. Seventeen seconds was necessary. Try a Daily News classified ad.

CITIZEN TALKS OF ORGATONE AT ABILENE

Suffer for Two Years With Catarrh - Gains on Orgatone.

"When I tell you I have been relieved of two years' awful suffering and have gained in weight and strength besides, you can readily understand why I'm so strong for Orgatone."

"I had a number of troubles," he continued, "and it's the first time in several years I have been rid of rheumatism. Before I began taking this Orgatone, the joints in my arms and legs were so swollen that sometimes I could hardly walk. The pain was something awful and I was so nervous and miserable I didn't know what it was to get a good night's sleep. I had no appetite and nearly everything I would eat disagreed with me. A hard knot would form in my stomach and cause me intense pain, and the gas would press on my heart so I could scarcely breathe. Besides my terrible suffering, I had an awful tired feeling and would wake up in the morning feeling so no account I could hardly get out of bed."

"I tried every kind of treatment and medicine I heard of, but got no relief until I began taking Orgatone, but two bottles of the medicine have made me feel so good that I am now able to go back to work again for the first time in three months. I sleep all night long without waking and my nerves are as steady as a clock. All those aching joints and pains have left my arms and legs entirely and I'm never bothered any more with gas on my stomach, shortness of breath or other signs of indigestion. You may count me among the many Orgatone boosters and you are welcome to this statement, which I hope will be the cause of others finding relief."
