Tells of Fire

Buffery Boggs, a steamfitter, was at work in the basement store room of Cleveland Clinic when the fire started that caused several explosions and caused the death of 123 persons. Boggs, above, had been sent into the basement to fix a leaking steam pipe. He found the pipe too hot to work on and went to ask the engineer to shut off the steam. When he returned the basement was full of yellow smoke (poison gas) which choked him. During all this time, he said, the fire door to the store room containing X-ray films and chemicals was open.

TUNNEY HOME ATTACHED AS SUIT IS FILED

STAMFORD, Conn., May 21.—The old colonial home in which Gene Tunney intended to make his home with his bride, the former Mary Josephine Lauder of Greenwich, was attached by a deputy sheriff today in connection with a $300,000 breach of promise suit filed against the retired heavyweight boxing champion by Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty, of New York and Fort Worth, Tex., a divorcee.

The complaint attached to the writ of attachment alleged Tunney proposed to Mrs. Fogarty in the spring of 1925 but afterwards married "a certain other person."

Copies of the writ of attachment were filed with all Stamford banks in case Tunney had any money on deposit here. Mrs. Tunney charged Tunney proposed to her June 3, 1925, a week after she was divorced from John S. Fogarty, Fort Worth business man, that she accepted, and that later Tunney married a "certain other person." The deputy sheriff was instructed to attach all of the defendant's property in Stamford at least 12 days before the first Tuesday of June, when Fairfield county superior court will convene. The papers were brought here from New Haven by Deputy Sheriff John J. Maley and Attorney John R. Thim, the latter representing Colonel Lewis L. Field of New Haven, Mrs. Fogarty's lawyer.

Sudden Death of Oil Worker on Rig Near Albany Sunday Caused by Heart Failure, Coroner Says

Heart failure was ascribed in a coroner's verdict as the cause of the sudden death late Sunday evening of Jesse Waters, 51, tool dresser, while at work on the Gilman and McMurray-J. B. Matthews No. 2 drilling well about five miles northwest of Albany. The inquest was conducted by W. L. Manning, justice of the peace for precinct No. 1 of Shackelford county.

William H. Rees, driller, was the only other workman on the rig at the time. Mrs. Rees, who lived with her husband in a tent on the lease was called by her husband when Waters became ill and went for a doctor returning a short while later with Dr. Buchanan, who examined the body and, according to evidence presented at the inquest, pronounced death due to heart failure or high blood pressure.

Rees, testifying at the inquest, said that Waters had been at work with a sledge hammer and that he sat down saying he was not feeling well. Rees said Waters acted "rather strange." The driller called his wife from their tent and the two of them laid Waters out on the derrick floor, chafing his arms and wrists. Rees then sent his wife in their car after a doctor.

After Mrs. Rees had gone, Mr. Rees said, Waters felt lifeless and he could detect no pulse or circulation. The doctor arrived a short while later and examined the body, stating his opinion that death occurred as stated in the verdict at the inquest.

No funeral arrangements had been made today.

YOUTH SLAYS SCHOOL BOY AT STAMFORD

STAMFORD, May 21.—Police of half a dozen west Texas towns cooperated today in their search for Dave McCauley, Stamford youth, charged with the fatal shooting last night of Paul Glenn, high school student, in the basement of the Stamford sanitarium where McCauley was employed.

Both boys were known to have been intimate friends and this fact baffled the authorities in their attempt to assign a motive for the killing. After the shooting, McCauley disappeared and officers in all parts of west Texas were notified to be on the lookout for him.

The boys had attended a theater last night and after the show went to the basement of the sanitarium where the shooting occurred. One bullet from a .38 caliber revolver, fired at close range, struck Glenn between the eyes, penetrating his brain. Death was instantaneous.

McCauley hastily sought to obtain a small loan from other employes at the institution and falling in this remark "Well I am gone."

He has not been seen since. The mother of the slain youth and close friends of the two families advanced the theory that the shooting was accidental.

McCauley was employed at the institution and falling in this remark "Well I am gone."

TABLE 3,000 FEET LONG IS BEING BUILT

Speakers Stand to Be Erected Upon Eastland Square.

A dining table 3,000 feet long and 3 feet wide is being built in White Way Park, near the Texas & Pacific depot at Eastland upon which the thousands of visitors for the dedication of the county's new courthouse to the veterans of the World war on May 30 will spread the basket lunches which they will bring with them.

More than 4,000 cups of coffee, 10 or 15 barrels of lemonade and an abundance of ice water are also being provided.

The formal program for the dedication services was adopted by the general program committee Monday night at a meeting at the courthouse, at Eastland, of all committees connected with the affair.

The speakers' stand for the occasion will be erected at the southeast corner of the square in front of what is commonly known as the Charlotte hotel building. On this stand will be provided room for some 200 people including the Gold Star mothers of the county, of which there are 75, the distinguished visitors, newspaper men, Civil war veterans, and others. Loud speakers will be provided for carrying the voice of the speakers to the audience.

The parade, which will form at 9 a. m. at the Prairie Oil & Gas company building on South Gasman street, will begin moving at 10 o'clock sharp. Major Harry Breckford of Eastland will be the marshal in charge of the parade.

Five Bands. In the parade will be the five band organizations and such commercial and civic organization floats as may be entered. It was decided by the committees that entry to the parade would be free and open to all, the only requirement being that all entries must be decorated to represent something. The schools, Boy Scouts, and various civic organizations of the county will be in the parade.

The finance committee, which is headed by John M. Mouser of the Prairie Oil & Gas company, of Eastland, announced that the money for the expenses of the program had been raised. Gorman, Carbon, Rising Star, Pioneer, Cisco, Ranger and Eastland all reporting they had raised their quotas. These funds are to be sent, at once to Mr. Mouser in care of the Prairie Oil & Gas company, Eastland, in order that he may know just what the finance committee may expect in the way of cash for meeting the expenses.

CASING BLOCK FALLS; CISCO MEN ARE HURT

J. Y. Stock, Cisco oil operator and a brother of H. I. Stock, and his son, Buster, sustained serious injuries yesterday shortly after noon when a casing block on a well which Mr. Stock is drilling on the Ogle lease in Calihan county fell to the derrick floor. Buster's foot was crushed while the calf of Mr. Stock's leg was torn away at the bone.

They received no other injuries. Mr. Stock was reported resting well at his home while Buster is in the hospital where he is receiving treatment.

New Hazard for Peanut Pusher

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., May 21.—A four-footed obstacle stands in Bill Williams' way as he laboriously pushes his peanut up Pike's Peak. The hazard to Williams' nose pushing endeavor is decidedly. It consists of squirrels.

Williams started out yesterday to win a bet that he could push a peanut to the summit with his nose. He believed himself familiar with all of the difficulties that might be encountered in such an undertaking. But he has never before pushed peanuts in squirrel country.

Today's push extended through thickly wooded, picturesque mountain country, the inhabitants of which consist for the most part of squirrels. They seem to think the performance was being staged entirely for their benefit.

The first of the sprightly denizens of the Ute Pass trail leading up the 22 mile trail of the cloud-shrouded, snow-capped peak, sprinted shy along beside Bill and then fled into the thickets and up into the tall trees in open embarrassment.

But today, a mile higher toward the goal, the squirrels were of a more brazen and decidedly more inquisitive clan. They threatened to take undue liberties with Bill's imported Columbus, Ga., trade-marked goobers.

At times Bill's progress was impeded as he warred off threatened invasions with dextrous flourishes of his two-foot propeller, as he calls it. It is not that Bill hasn't enough peanuts to last to the top of the peak, but as he plods along on hands and padded knees, he is trying to establish some records for the durability of the tread of the peanuts as well as his own constitution.

Williams wore out six peanuts traveling 13 miles yesterday and was forced by rain to quit for the day.

80-ACRE LEASE IN TURNER OIL POOL IS SOLD

Sale of the lease on a block of 80 acres out of the Lon Palmer tract in the Turner pool, four miles south of Eastland, to J. M. Hickey, was learned today. The sale was made by J. E. Spencer, Cisco oil operator. Consideration in this transfer was unannounced.

The sale was made with contract specifying that a well must be drilled upon the tract within 30 to 90 days. The deal was closed yesterday.

This tract is the north end of a block of 160 acres upon which Mr. Spencer owned the lease and the south half of which he sold about 10 days ago to Frank Kirk, this deal including a similar drilling contract.

Mr. Spencer retains one-half royalty interest in the block. Some 20 to 30 locations are reported to have been made in and about the Turner pool with the prospect for an active drilling campaign heightened after the cheering increase in the price of mid-continent oils posted yesterday by the Prairie Oil & Gas company and other crude oil purchasers.

Other Prominent Boston Families Receive Letters.

WESTWOOD, Mass., May 21.—Reports that Constance Morrow, 15-year old daughter of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, had received a letter threatening her life unless she placed $50,000 at a given spot, were confirmed by Police Chief Peter Driscoll here today.

He stated that this was the latest of a series of blackmail attempts made in the last four months against wealthy residents of greater Boston.

The case of Miss Morrow still is being investigated with the aid of Burns detectives, the chief said.

Besides Miss Morrow, who is a student at Milton Academy near here, others who received blackmail letters were Mrs. Charles Sumner Guild of Boston, widow of former Governor Guild of Massachusetts, the chief said.

The letter addressed to Miss Morrow specified that the $50,000 should be placed last Saturday night at a point on the estate of Joseph Balch here.

Nearly a score of private detectives, concealed in the surrounding woods, watched for hours in vain for the appearance of the author of the blackmail letter, the chief said.

"We have reached the conclusion," Chief Driscoll said, "that the person who wrote the blackmail letter to Miss Morrow never intended to collect the money. Why he wrote the letter, we don't know. We're still investigating the case of course."

Saturday night, when investigators had hoped to capture the blackmailer, a young woman operator of the Burns agency took a bundle supposed containing the $50,000 to the Balch estate and placed it behind a stone wall, as the letter had directed.

Far into the night, the chief said, detectives and police waited in the woods, but no one appeared to take the valueless package.

"We were not greatly surprised that the virgins in vain," the chief said, "for we had gone through the same performance on three other occasions in connection with similar blackmail letters without ever seeing the author of the letters."

DEATH BY TORTURE THREATENED

BOSTON, May 21.—The Boston Post said in a copyrighted article today that blackmailers, under threats of death by torture, have demanded the payment of $50,000 on behalf of Miss Constance Morrow, youngest daughter of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and sister of the fiancée of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Constance is 15 years old and a sophomore at Milton Academy, near Boston. The Post said that the blackmail and death threats prompted Lindbergh's flight from New York last Saturday.

Lindbergh flew to North Haven, Me., with Mrs. Morrow, his fiancée, Anne, and her sister Elizabeth. The article said that at the same time secret service men and private detectives were hurried to Boston to protect Constance.

A young woman operative impersonated Constance at her school and tried to trap the extortionists. No arrests have been made, so far as could be learned.

The Post story was in conflict with the reasons previously given for the Lindbergh flight to North Haven. It was generally believed that the Morrows were gathering for the wedding of Anne and Lindbergh, expected to take place next month at the Morrow estate at North Haven.

THE FIFTH HORSEMAN OF THE APOCALYPSE!

Washington Letter

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NFA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Co-operative effort, such as this administration proposes to encourage as a partial remedy for agricultural ailments, seems to be more or less responsible for the fact that the farmers of Canada have been able to worry along without depending on Parliament for extensive help.

The relative concentration of the Canadian wheat fields and the fact that there are so many producers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta who grow wheat alone has enabled the growers of these three provinces to accomplish what American farmers have been unable to do by themselves.

Saved Huge Sums. Her wheat pool officials are convinced that they have saved and earned substantial sums for Canadian farmers while influencing the world market, though they don't believe they are getting a fair price. It ought to be mentioned in this connection, that the Canadian grain grower gets the benefit of a lower freight rate schedule.

Canada's post-war wheat control board of 1919 was so beneficial to grain growers that they tried to persuade the government to re-establish it, but soon realized that they themselves would have to organize any centralized control over their crops. What they did, beginning in 1923, has been detailed before the Senate Agriculture Committee by A. J. Mc-

Terms of Chicago Gangland's Peace Pact Are Revealed

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN, United Press Staff Correspondent. CHICAGO, May 21.—The "fourteen points" of the gangland peace pact, designed to dissolve the overlordship of "Scarface Al" Capone and to terminate the bloody gang war by the incorporation of all warring factions in one syndicate, were revealed today to the United Press.

Most important from several viewpoints in the agreement is a clause which gives to the "executive committee" of the organization the sole right to use machine guns and requires that the gangsters refrain from carrying guns. The council would put the machine guns to use only to carry out "punishment" for violations of the pact. The recognized czar of Chicago's gangland will be Johnny Torrio. The pact by which Capone and his rivals agreed to the rule of the powerful Torrio and "his executive committee" was proposed in Chicago and signed at a meeting in Atlantic City, within a fortnight after the massacre of three Capone bodyguards and two days before Capone was sentenced to prison for "gun-toting" in Philadelphia.

Capone remains with "Bugs Moran" and George "Turk" Moran as the "big four" of the new syndicate whose vice, gambling and liquor business, it is claimed, will net approximately $16,000,000 annually. Torrio as head of the new syndicate will control single handedly between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000 annually, reports estimate. He will collect annually from the following: Hawthorne dog track, $1,000,000. Fairview dog track, $1,000,000. Thornton dog track, $1,000,000. Cicero gaming, $3,600,000. Chicago gaming, $3,000,000. Vice, $2,000,000. Beer, $3,000,000. Unione Siciliano, $500,000.

OIL NEWS OF SOUTHWEST

FORT WORTH, May 20.—Five hundred delegates were here Monday for the two days session of the National Oil Scouts of America. G. R. Nicholson, Amarillo, is president of the association.

HOUSTON, May 1.—Steel storage stocks in the gulf coast increased from 16,169,635 barrels on April 1, to 17,312,059 barrels on May 1, while earthen stocks showed little change during the period. Miscellaneous stock in the tank farms in the coastal area adjacent to refineries and to shipping facilities on May 1, were estimated at 7,769,479 barrels, increasing 1,478,414 barrels from April 1.

Stocks of crude oil in storage in Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas on May 1, were estimated at 131,018,941 barrels, an increase of 2,950,553 barrels from April 1. Stocks the first of the present month were 18,393,467 barrels greater than on May 1, 1928, when the total estimated crude in storage amounted to 112,024,474 barrels.

Instead of recording the usual monthly increase of two or three million barrels, crude stocks in the northern district which includes West Texas, showed little change, being estimated at 76,312,117 barrels on May 1, as compared to 76,668,253 barrels on the same date of the previous month.

In Arkansas, crude stocks on May 1 were 16,447,430 barrels as compared to 15,442,217 barrels on April 1.

The average daily output of the coastal oil fields in Texas and southern Louisiana last week was estimated at 187,523 barrels, decreasing 594 barrels from that of the previous month.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 20.—Leathery has struck Texas oil producing centers. Winkler county, Texas, had only one outstanding well during the past week.

It was the Humble Oil & Refining company's well No. 11 in the northwest section. The hole encountered top of the pay at 2,919 feet and is flowing 469 barrels of pipe line oil an hour.

Yates pool, Pecos county, recognized as the most important development in Texas and perhaps in the whole midcontinental field, is experiencing the same stillness.

In the Oklahoma City field, No. 1 Fortson test of the Mid-Kansas Oil & Gas company was drilling below 6,176 feet today, with prospects of reaching 6,409 feet where the discovery well topped the big pay in the next two weeks.

The Stamper test was delayed by difficulty in mudding off a big gas flow last week.

Many new locations are awaiting the outcome of these two tests. During the past week Kansas completed 28 wells. Fifteen were oil wells and 13 dry holes.

Empire Oil & Gas company Fish in the northeast section of the Wewoka field, Seminole county, Oklahoma, has sandy shale from 2,840 to 2,847 feet. The well is making 7,000,000 cubic feet of gas and a show of oil.

The apathy of oil men to western Kansas has been disproved with location of the Wilcox sand north-east of Riga & Trego county.

"A friend of mine recommended Cardui. I began taking it and saw quite an improvement in my condition. I kept it up until I felt strong and well."

About a year ago, Mrs. Nichols says, she found herself in a nervous, run-down condition. "I took Cardui again," she adds, "and it helped me wonderfully. It is a splendid tonic."

BROWNING TO ESTABLISH FOUNDATION

By PAUL FREDRIX.
United Press Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, May 21. — Edward W. "Daddy" Browning has a whopping bid idea. He is going to auction off some $6,000,000 worth of his skyscrapers and apartment houses and establish the Browning Foundation for his "young friends."

Browning got the idea last Christmas when scores of children attending his annual toy party craved through plate glass windows in their eagerness for candy harps and toilet sets, and were sent to the hospital.

"Why not," said Daddy, "move my charity closer to the hospitals so the kiddies won't have so far to go?"

With Daddy, to think was to act—and in terms of millions. So on June 11, when Prof. Milton H. Crandall's dance marathon supposedly will have ended and moved out, Browning will stage a great show of his own in Madison Square Garden.

Three auctioneers will sell to the highest bidders 60 parcels of property which Daddy has been accumulating for 30 years. They range from a 16-story mercantile building in the Canal street section to one-story "taxpayers" and include apartment hotels and elevator apartments the length and breadth of Manhattan.

The buildings to be sold cover 268,000 square feet, with a total content of about 20,000,000 cubic feet, and Daddy expects to get about $6,000,000 for the lot.

With a part of the proceeds, Browning will establish his foundation and put his big idea into effect. The foundation will operate and maintain playgrounds for children in various parts of the city, "preferable near hospitals," and endow hospitals with expensive permanent toys and play things for child patients.

Large doll houses, mechanical railways, model farms, race courses and anything else that Daddy can think of will be furnished to make sickness a pleasure. Many East side urchins would gladly fall ill for less.

ENDURANCE FLIER REARED IN STEPHENS

BRECKENRIDGE, May 21. — Stephens county citizens are watching with much interest the refueling endurance flight started Sunday morning in Fort Worth by Reg Robbins, pilot and Jim Kelly, co-pilot and mechanic.

Robbins and Kelly, flying a rebuilt Ryan plane, will attempt to better the 151 hours of continuous flight in the air recently established by the Army's "Question Mark." The Fort Worth couple took off Sunday at 11:33 a. m. They made their first refueling connections this morning at 6 a. m.

Jim (Cowboy) Kelley is the cause of the Stephens county interest in the flight.

Jim Kelley is a Stephens county youth, having been born and raised on the Joe Winston ranch east of Caddo. He is well known by citizens of Breckenridge and over the county at large, especially by "old timers" who had known his mother and father for some 40 years.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kelley, parents of the young aviator, are now dead. Mr. Kelley had been superintendent of the Winston ranch for 30 or 40 years. Jim had been born there and continued to live on the ranch with Joe Winston until about a year ago.

Jimmy, as he was known by his friends, was a "kid" that liked to do things. He raised prize cattle; he was "nervy" and adventurous. About a year ago, he began to get interested in aviation. Joe

Boozer a Boozer but a Good One

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21. — George Boozer, 52, is proud of his name. Accused of stealing a number of automobile tires from an accessory store, Boozer appeared in police court.

After being sentenced to serve 90 days for the theft, Boozer was asked by the judge:

"With that name, do you ever take a drink?"

With considerably more pride than reticence, Boozer assured the judge that he did.

"And it never gets me into trouble—'I'm a good drinking man!' he added.

Keeps Teeth White

Recall Milk of Magnesia Tooth Paste does these two most essential things.

As a rule, people who marry enjoy a good health. Weakness—and from a medical standpoint that is—and people suffering from diseases frequently do not marry. Now it must be taken for granted that of the latter category more are at an earlier stage of life than the healthy—that is those who marry. Hence it must also be taken for granted that this fact has, or at least might have, an unfavorable influence on the statistical life-index of unmarried people.

In another sect of this latest publication of the German statistical bureau are presented death-rate figures of the last six decades which show that man has gained twenty years of life during the 60 years.

LARGEST CODFISH.
PROVINCETOWN, Mass., May 11.—What was believed the biggest codfish ever caught in Massachusetts waters was brought in by Captain George Brier of Truro recently. The giant weighed 99 pounds, measured four feet in circumference, and had a mouth large enough to accommodate a board one foot long. Unfortunately, the monster cod was too big to make good eating.

The new $20,000 city hall and station at Alice, Jim Wells said, now occupied by municipal officials.

American Relates Story of His Narrow Escape While Serving as an Aviator for Mexican Rebels

BIG SPRING, May 21.—How the last three American flyers with the rebels rode through Pulpito Pass in a Model T Ford and survived two ambushes was related in Big Spring by Pete Stanley, one of the trio.

Stanley is on the way to his home in Arkansas from Tucson, Ariz., where he was released last week of charges of violating the arms embargo.

He must report to the department of justice every two weeks, he says.

Last of the rebel planes, a Voight corsair, became useless at Casas Grandes, April 22 and was burned, said Stanley. Al Coenan, El Paso plane mechanic, had repaired the plane but its valves were burned by too much taxiing over the rough ground at Casas Grandes, Stanley said. Coenan had returned to the border so the ship had to be abandoned.

"General Caraveo then gave Phil Mohun and myself 50 pesos each and, with Capt. R. H. Polk, we confiscated the only Ford in Casas Grandes and started for Agua Prieta," said Stanley.

Attacked

"We were attacked by agrarians twice during the three days we were in Pulpito Pass. The first time, there were only a dozen in the party and we jumped behind the Ford and routed them. We killed at least six.

"The last day the way was blocked by a larger party. A bullet through the windshield was the first warning we had. We quit the car, ducked behind boulders and began to shoot back. The agrarians didn't give an inch.

"We'd have been there yet if General Medina and a detachment of rebels, traveling about 15 minutes behind us, hadn't come up. Medina sent his men up the almost perpendicular walls of the pass and outflanked the agrarians.

Stresemann Gets His "Face Value"

BERLIN, May 21.—Dr. Gustav Stresemann, Germany's foreign minister recently tried in vain to be taken at "face value." He was a witness at the civil ceremony of the marriage of the Austrian minister in Berlin, Dr. Felix Frank.

When the magistrate asked the couple as well as the two witnesses—the other witness was General von Seekt, former commander of the German Reichswehr—to prove their identity, it turned out that Dr. Stresemann had forgotten to bring with him anything in the line of an official certificate. The magistrate refused to accept the foreign minister as a witness.

Finally, however, he was persuaded to accept Dr. Stresemann, but not until General von Seekt, who could duly prove his own identity, had vouched for his friend.

Does your MOTOR SING or POUND?

STOP in the middle of a good substantial hill and listen to the various sounds coming from motors which are climbing it. Some glide along like song birds—others bellow forth like jazz-crazed saxophones. Why the difference? Simply this—the fuel.

With Conoco Ethyl Gasoline in the tank, your motor literally sings along because Conoco Ethyl delivers a steady, even flow of power—up hill or on the level. It won't knock. Hence, it eliminates that pounding noise—so hard on the ears as well as on the motor.

Being a proper admixture of Conoco, the extra miles motor fuel and Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound, Conoco Ethyl is the acknowledged pace setter for summer driving. It keeps the engine cool at all speeds—delivers maximum power and assures smooth, quiet running.

And best of all, it more than saves its slight extra cost by reducing wear and tear and by giving you the greatest motoring satisfaction you have ever enjoyed.

Fourteen of the people in the building were dragged to the roof by heroic physicians and nurses, where every effort was made to save their lives. This picture shows victims being brought down ladders by firemen.

CROWDS FLOCK TO CASINO AT LAKE WORTH

Attendance records at Lake Worth Casino near the city of Fort Worth have thus far shown an increase of better than one hundred per cent over the same period last year. The Casino, with its brilliantly lighted board-walk and games and rides of all kinds, has been open every day of the week since May 1st. The bathing beach will open its season Sunday, May 26th, with a water circus and the Majestic bathing revue girls as a free attraction. Along with new management, many changes and alterations have been made at the park this year. Casino ballroom has had the addition of a huge bowl-shaped sounding board, built in the form of a stone balcony with the blue sky in the background and wild rose vines growing over the stone wall. A beautiful crystal ball is used with colored spotlights to produce a scintillating light effect during moonlight dances. Girls in unique uniforms of black and white are employed as ticket takers. Hyman Maurice and his seventeen piece orchestra plays for dancing each night and broadcasts over WBAP four nights each week. Many new games have been added, funhouses have been remodeled, and many of the rides have been altered. Practically all park equipment has been freshly painted, and drinking fountains have been installed along the boardwalk. Latest reports indicate that the new bridge over Lake Worth will be ready for use about July 10th. Early in June Lieut. Toncray will arrive at Lake Worth with three aeroplanes for passenger flights. Toncray plans to use two Stinson-Detroiters and a Sikorsky hydroplane. The regular weekly program at Lake Worth Casino includes an old-timers dance on Monday night, a big carnival dance with plenty of noise and fun on Wednesday night, and a balloon dance on Friday night. Lucky Spot dances, during which beautiful prizes are given away, have also been inaugurated. Convention groups totaling seven thousand persons will hold entertainments at the Casino during the next two weeks.

Do Women Make Good as Flyers?

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., May 21.—Do women make good flyers? Chief Instructor Clyde E. Brayton of Parke Air college says "No." Lady Mary Heath, British aviatrix says "Yes," and makes it clear she doesn't mean maybe. When Lady Mary was here recently to address the student body of the Parke School, students looked forward to an argument—for Brayton had put himself publicly on record in a newspaper interview as believing that "women as a class" were incapable of learning to fly. Brayton failed to show up. But Lady Mary stated her case as follows: "I quite disagree with his naturally. We have found in England that the women who are athletic, who have trained the eye and hand with tennis, rowing and other sports are ideal flying material, and learn to handle a ship quite as well as men. "On the other hand it's true as Mr. Brayton says, that women who haven't that background are poor material for flying pilots. But so would the men be; they had no training."

O. HENRY TALE OF LOVE TOLD BY HIS WIDOW

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., May 21.—Memories of the romance of "Will" and Amaryllis Porter, a romance as real and tender as those that brightened the pages of "The Four Million," are cherished by a patient of a local sanitarium. The patient is a slender, bright-eyed old lady known to the world as Mrs. William S. Porter. She is the widow of O. Henry. Although the years have passed slowly since O. Henry turned to her and whispered: "Turn up the light, I don't want to go home in the dark," her hushed existence at the sanitarium has been cheered by the memory of her romance with "Will." With a trace of the story-telling genius of her husband, Mrs. Porter hesitatingly and almost reverently recounts the details of that romance. "Years and years ago there was a girl of 13 and she was mad about a boy of 19 who lived not far from her in a sleepy, lazy, lovely little town in South Carolina," she began. "That little girl was I and the boy was Will Porter. "Oh, dear, what dreams a child will dream! But dreams so seldom come true," she sighed. "The boy, the big, gentle, sweet-eyed boy went out into the world to make his golden fortune. And the years went by and the little girl grew up and she waited and waited—and there wasn't any letter. Time moves so slowly, but so swiftly, too, down there in the Carolinas. "I read a lot, I loved to read. One day I read a story written by a man named O. Henry. It was such an odd name. I remembered it and looked for other stories by him and when I found them I was so happy. He seemed to know the hearts of men and women and to be tender and wise and kind. I used to wish I could meet him. "And then one day there came a neighbor who said: 'What do you think? This O. Henry, the writer, is nobody but Willie Porter.' "Oh, how my heart leaped. I sat down later and wrote him. It must have been a funny, stilted, crazy little letter, trying to be formal and neighborly and old pally and—well, he answered. Right away he answered. I was going to Boston in a few days to visit some relatives and we arranged to meet in New York on my way north. "We met and loved and—he followed me back home. He was shy and afraid of me—I mean in the way lovers are afraid—and I guess

I must have helped him just a wee bit. For two weeks there were walks on the mountainside and dreams dreamed out loud and then we were married." Mrs. Porter paused. Her face brightened again as she continued. "You will find that story, our story, made funny and happy and full of sly humor in 'Let Me Feel Your Pulse.' At least the ending is happy."

NEWSBOY GETS VOYAGE

BOSTON, May 21.—The warning "All ashore that's going ashore" fell of deaf ears as far as Armand Kasterian, 15, was concerned. He was so busy selling his newspapers on the steamship City of Chattanooga that he realized too late the vessel had set sail. He left the boat at Savannah, Ga., returning to his home here by train.

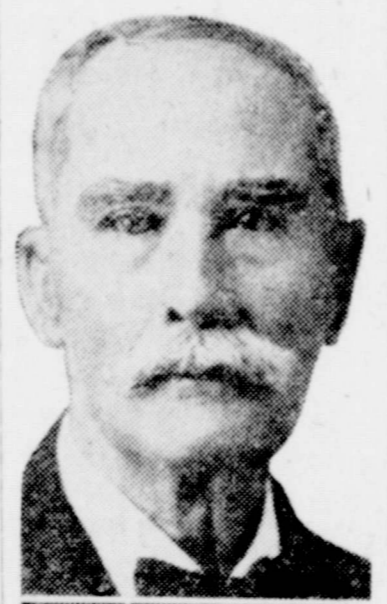

President Hoover Has a Black Eye

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Hoover is suffering from the most prosaic of human afflictions—a blackened eye. While rambling through the woods at his camp in the Shenandoah National Park during the week end, he was struck by a branch of a bush that whipped back as he passed. The injury is not serious but the eye is thoroughly discolored. Dr. Joel T. Boone, the president's personal physician who accompanied the party, treated the eye immediately.

During the official destroying of several hundred bottles of home brew at Galveston, a deputy sheriff was slashed on the hand, when they fell among broken bottles.

NOW FEELS 30 YEARS YOUNGER

"There is no question in my mind that any medicine that takes hold of a case of years standing, with a man of my years—I am 78—sands builds up his strength and energy to a gain of ten pounds is a remarkable medicine."

MR. O. BLANCHETTE.

"Before I started the Sargon treatment, I was so weak and run down, that I could hardly get around. I had suffered with chronic constipation and stomach trouble for years. My digestion was poor, my appetite failed me, and severe constipation brought on biliousness. "I tried medicines that gave me temporary relief, but that was all, and I was never more surprised, soon after beginning the Sargon treatment, than to find my appetite had returned, and to find myself eating and enjoying my food, and feeling better in every way. Then, as my strength and energy came back, and I commenced to feel alert, to take a new interest in things around me, and really enjoy life. I was convinced I had at last found the right medicine. "I feel thirty years younger than when I started the treatment. "Sargon Soft Mass Pills ended my constipation and my biliousness is gone. They don't shock the system like other laxatives I have used, but are mild and act surely and naturally. I am certainly grateful to this wonderful treatment for all it has done for me." The above statement was made recently by O. Blanchette, of 1513 Victoria St., Beaumont, a pioneer citizen of that place. Sargon may be obtained in Cisco at Elliott Drug Store and Corner Drug Store.—Adv.

Oil Belt Elks Join Hands to Make State Convention a Big Success

VISITORS TO BE IN CISCO NEXT SUNDAY

Hospitable Reception to Greet Them in This City.

Elks of the entire oil belt district are joining hands with the Breckenridge Elks in a concerted effort to make the annual convention of the State Elks association at Breckenridge on May 23, 24 and 25 a great success. Cisco Elks are doing their part in this work not only by rendering such assistance to the Breckenridge Elks as possible in preparing a hospitable reception for the visitors when they visit this city on Sunday, immediately after the close of the convention on Saturday.

The Elks will arrive in Cisco about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, after leaving Breckenridge at 9:30 Sunday morning and visiting Ranger and Eastland. After a driver for the city they will be taken to Lake Cisco for an outing and picnic lunch. Swimming and boating will be enjoyed. There will also be a band concert by the high school band, according to present arrangements.

The transportation of the visitors to and from Breckenridge is another big problem into which the Cisco Elks are entering heartily. Many of the visitors will come from Breckenridge by train to Cisco and go to Breckenridge by car. Of those who will travel in pullman sleepers a large number are expected to leave their pullman parked in the local yards, going to Breckenridge by automobile.

As far as possible the Cisco Elks plan to transport these visitors to and from Breckenridge without cost. Large numbers of these cars have been pledged to go to Breckenridge Sunday morning, pick up parties of the visitors and transport them on the tour through the oil belt placing them upon their trains here when the tour is completed.

A caravan of Breckenridge automobiles was through Cisco this morning in a westward tour to divert the convention. The caravan, about 10 in all, were profusely decorated and the caravan led by two motorcycles. Circulars, programs and posters advertising the convention were distributed. Committees of local Elks met the caravan and welcomed their brother Elks and assured them of the full cooperation of the Cisco lodge in assisting over the "big show."

Among those here on the tour were Oscar Glickman, who was in charge of the caravan, Ex-Senator R. Smith, Mr. McClaren, Norman Harper, Mrs. W. C. Casper, Mrs. Kate F. Lacey, Mrs. C. Lanchford, Miss Margaret Macintosh.

The itinerary of the caravan from Breckenridge to Eastland, Cisco, Putnam, Baird, Clyde, Abilene, Anson, Albany and back to Breckenridge.

Meeting at Eastland.
This evening at 8 o'clock committees from the lodges at Cisco, Eastland and Ranger will meet at Eastland to perfect the plans for the oil belt tour Sunday.

The Breckenridge club is hard at work upon its convention program. It is preparing entertainment that will make the event

Papa Must Have His Beauty Aids

Here at last is the truth about the well-groomed man and how he gets that way!

He does it by spending some $30 per year—or, speaking collectively, about $1,050,000,000—for the enhancement of his manly beauty, as against the not so much larger sum of $1,825,000,000 ascribed to the so-called vainer sex. Even this does not nearly tell the tale, according to a survey made by Dorothy Gray, the beauty specialist, covering trade statistics, Department of commerce figures and sales reports from the toilet goods field, as it does not include the various cold creams, emollients and other toilet preparations whose purchase is charged against the feminine beauty bill, but of which the man of the house makes an increasingly generous use.

Facial massages give father an estimated annual beauty bill of $100,000,000, with a steady increase in the number of men who use this method of retaining the school boy complexion. Hair tonics and other hirsute preparations double this amount and add $200,000,000 to the budgets.

Then take barber shops! There are estimated to be no less than 80,000, employing in round numbers 240,000 men. Not to mention the safety razor investment for home use, the men of America are listed as spending $750,000,000 a year to keep shaven and shorn—and trimmed.

ZOO LOSES RHINO.
CINCINNATI, O., May 21.—Run by the only rhinoceros the Cincinnati zoo has had in 49 years, is dead. She was valued at $20,000 and was one of the main attractions at the zoo, especially to the children, who named her in a contest.

ROYAL BEDROOM PEACH PINK.
LONDON, May 21.—The bedroom of the Duchess of York is being redecorated in peach pink. The w-dwork has been treated to resemble silver, while further color in the chamber is obtained by vermilion pottery.

one long to be remembered by the many hundreds of visitors who will be in the oil belt for the three or four days of the session. Horse races, for which some of the best houses in the southwest have been secured, dances, a midnight frolic, boxing bouts and various other features of a paramount character have been provided. Insofar as possible these events are being made free to visiting Elks.

Miss Letha Maude Eager to Be Presented in Senior Recital at High School Auditorium Thursday

Mrs. Paul M. Woods, teacher of expression, will present Miss Letha Maude Eager in a senior expression recital, assisted by Miss Francis McGinnis, soloist, at the high school auditorium Thursday evening, May 23, at 8:15 p. m. Miss Eunice Cooles will be accompanist for this recital.

Miss Eager will open her program with the presentation of "The String of the Samisen," a Japanese play of the 18th century period by Rita Wellman. This number will be presented in a charming Japanese setting while Miss Eager will wear for the number an imported Japanese gown of rare charm. There are five characters in this play.

Her last number will be another play, with three characters, entitled "The Finger of God," by Percival Wilde.

The public is cordially invited to attend this recital.

The program is as follows:

CATECHISM IS CELEBRATED BY LUTHERANS

The 400th anniversary of the publication of Luther's catechism is being celebrated this year by the Lutheran church throughout the world. This book has been used as a religious primer in the Lutheran church for 400 years. In the 16th and 17th centuries many catechisms were printed, but most of them were but short lived. They have long since been discovered. But Luther's catechism is as much beloved by the young and old of the Lutheran church today as when it was first published. There are few text books either religious or secular that have weathered the changes of 400 years.

The local Lutheran church is joining its sister congregations throughout the world in commemorating the publications of this little book in which the great truths of the Bible are presented in a simple childlike language. Not only is the pastor, Rev. H. F. Peiman, preaching every Sunday morning on some great spiritual truth found in the catechism, but there will also be a special program commemorating this event Tuesday night, May 21 at 8 p. m.

This program will be given by the children of the Lutheran school. In songs, recitations and answers they will tell of the purpose and contents of the book. They will also tell of praises accorded the catechism by prominent educators throughout the world. To this program the public is cordially invited. To make the catechism known also to such as are not connected with the Lutheran church the local church will gladly give free a copy of the catechism to anybody interested, says the pastor.

PARISIENNES USE GARTERS TO HOLD DRUGS

By N. REYNOLDS PACKARD, United Press Staff Correspondent.
PARIS, May 21.—Fancy garters, worn just above the knee, are being utilized by women drug-peddlers of Paris and other French cities in their illicit traffic. Small tubes of cocaine, morphine and other drugs have been found attached to fluffly blue and pink bands of rubbered silk.

Several women who have been arrested here in connection with the selling of such contraband declared they imported this method from America. They said that this ruse has been worked successfully for sometime past in France, enabling elegantly dressed women to meet liners at the port and carry the drugs to various cities throughout the country.

It is estimated that enough phials of drugs can be carried in these garters to supply the demands of a popular opium den for several weeks. The facility with which the tubes can be detached also makes the sale of dope to transient buyers extremely easy.

As a result of this discovery special attention will be paid the garters of women suspects in the cafes and cabarets of Montmartre. Peddlers of drugs are often found in the centers of Parisian nightlife.

According to the police these dope-garters are often used in taking quantities of drugs from one country to another. The most usual method is to have tiny tubes carefully hidden within the fluffly folds of the silken material; but more audacious women have been found with larger drug-containers dangling on the outside of the garters, often in the shape of bells or curious ornaments.

PIPS BAN ON BAGPIPE.
LARGO, Ayrshire, Scotland, May 21.—The town council of Largo has ruled that there shall be no more playing of bagpipes on its beach.

The councilmen in issuing their decree said they held no animosity toward the pipers but the notes of their instruments added to the noise of motor traffic produced "a conglomeration of jarring sounds." Silver and brass bands can play on the beach, ruled the city fathers.

Greater Productive Efficiency!

LOWER cost—greater productive efficiency. These are vital factors to the manufacturer who is planning to move his factory away from congested centers of population.

—Widespread power distribution and improved transportation facilities have fitted the smaller cities and towns for industrial purposes. Where living costs are lower, a lower wage scale is as effective as high wages in the large cities. Where living conditions are pleasant and home owning within the reach of moderate incomes, workers are conservative, productive, permanent. Where getting to and from work is un-hurried and uncongested, valuable human energy is conserved.

THE cities and towns of West Texas have all these advantages to offer. With its 70,000 horsepower of electricity available, its three great generating stations and 15 auxiliary plants, this company insures industries abundant uninterrupted service, similar to that enjoyed in the great metropolitan cities.

RICH GIRL - POOR GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED MILDRED LAWRENCE falls in love with STEPHEN ARMITAGE who is lured away by PAMELA JUDSON when she tells her Mildred is trying to marry her brother for money. HAROLD leaves HUCK CONNOR, who is black-mailing him over a forged check. Huck is infatuated with Pamela and when she announces her engagement to Stephen, frames him for stealing an auto and causes his arrest. Pamela drops Stephen but Mildred tries to get him out of jail. Harold had once told her he feared Huck, who had threatened to get rid of Stephen to keep him from marrying Pamela. Mildred determines to force Harold to help her, and is shocked to hear of his apparent suicide. She tells Stephen her suspicions, but they have no proof. Finally she goes to MR. JUDSON, who takes her to headquarters to tell her story. Judson tells Stephen out and Pamela begs forgiveness. After his release, Stephen narrowly escapes being shot by a thug. He reports to Mr. Judson and is horrified to hear that Mildred has been wounded by a gangster shot. His concern over her causes Judson to doubt his love for Pamela and he forbids his daughter to "buy her man." She reminds him that his money has bought her two step-mothers and pleads until he gives in. Next day she takes Stephen to call on Mildred and tortures her by saying they are to be married at once and sail for Africa. Connie tells them Mildred is to marry a TOMMY MITCHELL and Stephen believes her. Meanwhile, Huck is not enjoying his enforced seclusion. He quarrels with his gangsters. One of them tells him that the police are looking for him, and he plans to kidnap Pamela and leave town from there on with the story. From the side entrance, where he passed through the revolving doors at the moment the carriage driver was engaged in giving an address to a chauffeur, he made his way to the mezzanine floor and from there up the stairs to the room occupied by Palcoff. He was forced to risk being recognized by the room clerk, but as he'd never been on that particular floor before he felt fairly safe. He stopped at her desk without a sign of nervousness and asked her to ring Palcoff's room. She did, and told him Mr. Palcoff was in, giving him the number of the room. She noted that Huck had come up the stairs instead of using the elevator, but men, visiting each other from one floor to another often did that. She did not consider it a suspicious circumstance. Huck's appearance, favored him. He looked like one of the hotel's best dressed guests. Among the instructions given Palcoff had been one to the effect that he must get a room on the 18th floor. "Look here, Huck," he said when the latter reached his room. "I don't know what you're here for but I got it from Gus that this is that Judson girl's floor." "Tell Gus to quit and get out," Huck snapped back without an instant's hesitation. "How about me?" Palcoff asked. "If you're getting ready to pull anything raw..." "Pack your key and take a trip," Huck advised abruptly. "Work a boat." "Come through," Palcoff said with sudden earnestness. "If you're fixin' to make a fall guy out of me..." "Take it easy," Huck broke in. "You're clean in this. Some time today I'm going to walk out of the hotel with Miss Judson..." "Straight from my room?" Palcoff sneered. "Well, what of it? I'm going to marry the girl. After that there won't be any squawking." Palcoff gave him a hard, searching look. He had his own opinion of Harold's death—Huck's going into hiding so soon afterward told him the story—but he knew nothing of the other events with which Huck had been connected. Had he known that the police wanted Huck he'd have left him flat. Even Gus, the waiter in their pay, did not know. He reasoned that Huck was laying low until it was pretty certain there was no evidence against him. If he got the Judson girl—that might make it nice for his partners. "All right," he said, smiling crookedly. Huck glanced at his watch. "Order up some breakfast," he said. "We've got a long wait. And you'll have to see Gus." "He's serving this floor," Palcoff replied. "I figured you'd want him. One of the regular waiters became suddenly indisposed," he added with a knowing smile, "and Gus, being a good fellow, offered to take his shift." "Fine," Huck approved; "ring for him."

Then she turned back to Mr. Judson and he saw that she was embarrassed. "Pamela suggested that I give you a traveling case for a wedding present," he went on, a trifle at a loss for an explanation of Mildred's attitude. "But of course you know that it wouldn't be advisable for you to leave the country before..." He paused, remembering Mrs. Lawrence's presence, and added, "before Stephen's case is settled." "Inspector Marbleson has told me that," Mildred asserted guiltily. "But you will tell me what you'd like to have most, won't you?" Mr. Judson went on. "I'd like to make you very happy, Mildred." "Oh!" the girl exclaimed. "It's all a mistake, Mr. Judson. I'm not engaged to anyone." "Thinking it over later, Mr. Judson realized that he hadn't been at all surprised. And before he left he knew that his first conclusions in regard to Mildred's affections were correct after all. She had proved it by trying to win his promise not to let Pamela and Stephen know what he'd just learned. "See here, my dear," he had answered, taking her hands in his and speaking firmly, "do you think this would make any difference to Stephen?" Mildred did not answer for a moment, then, "No," she said, "I'm sure he isn't marrying Pamela because he can't have me, if that is what you mean." "Then why did you tell him and Pamela such a thing?" Mrs. Lawrence came to Mildred's rescue. "My daughter Constantine," she explained, "it was a poor joke but I let it go." "I'm afraid I don't see," Mr. Judson replied. But he did. He saw very plainly. Someone else knew that Mildred loved Stephen Armitage—someone who loved her too much to want him to guess it, because he was going to marry another girl. Mr. Judson felt himself suddenly torn two ways. Pamela was his own child; he couldn't rob her of happiness. There was nothing that he could find against Stephen. The young man's family was respectable. Stephen didn't appear to be a fortune hunter. Mr. Judson was convinced that he would make his own way in the world without looking to anyone for help. No, he couldn't withhold his consent if Armitage loved his daughter. IF HE LOVED HER!

Mr. Judson looked at Mildred and recalled the thought that had once flashed through his mind about Stephen. The thought that he didn't love either one of them, this gray-eyed girl or his own irresistible daughter. His heart ached for Mildred. There was nothing he could do for her—nothing except to make certain that Stephen would not realize too late that he had made a mistake. Mr. Judson made up his mind to settle that point as soon as possible. He looked over Mildred's head at her mother. "You'll let me know if there is anything I can do for you?" he asked and Mrs. Lawrence thanked him hurriedly. She was beginning to wish the Judsons, both father and daughter, would stay away. For half an hour after he was gone Mildred was too upset to eat or start downtown. Finally, when Mildred had bathed her face and powdered it afresh, tucked an extra handkerchief into her bag and put on her hat, the telephone rang. Mrs. Lawrence hurried to answer it. She instantly recognized Pamela's voice. Mildred heard her tell a direct falsehood. "Why mom," she protested as her mother banged up the receiver, "how could you say I'm not here?" "It's that Pamela Judson," her mother explained, "and I'll not have them bothering you any more today!" "Mom! Mr. Judson has been most kind to me. Didn't you hear him say he'd leave his car for me and take a taxicab back to the hotel?" "Yes, I heard him, but considering you've done so many favors for his daughter I guess that isn't any too much on his part." Mildred laughed at her a little and kissed her gently. She found, when she reached her employer's office, that Mr. Judson had been there and explained enough to absolve her from blame in any way. She went immediately to work, but the thought that Pamela might have wanted to speak to her about something important nagged at her mind until she decided to call her up. She glanced at her watch. It was after two. Pamela might be lurching at the hotel. She got up to go to a pay telephone in a booth. There was another girl in the office at the time and Mildred thought Pamela might want to talk to her about something private—something in connection with the police, perhaps, though it was more likely just some trivial matter. Still, Mildred thought it best to be careful. There was a slight wait and Pamela herself answered when her room was called. She had come in late from a shopping tour and was waiting for her maid to come and take her dress for lunch. Mildred explained that she knew Pamela had telephoned her home and inquired what she wanted. Pamela was about to answer that she had intended to ask Mildred to recommend a portable typewriter because she wanted to get one for Stephen when she heard a stealthy sound at her door. She thought it was her maid—who was being detained in the servants' dining room by Gus—but through a crack in the screen behind which she sat at her telephone desk she saw a man enter her sitting room. The fleeting glimpse she caught of him failed to reveal his identity to her. She remembered that she had again forgotten to bolt her door—a habit she'd been trying to acquire since Harold's death. But she had locked it! This man had entered with a key. He could not be a hotel servant. These thoughts sped so quickly through Pamela's head that she forgot Mildred and quickly put the receiver down, off the hook, and peered out from behind the screen. An instant later her voice shrilled a name that brought the intruder facing her with a start. She saw that he held a gun and terror froze the shriek that rose in her throat. But his name had been heard. At the other end of the wire Mildred stood momentarily paralyzed. Then she began to call, "Pamela! Pamela!" An instant to late she realized that Huck might hear her too, and stopped. A Mildred's voice came to the terrified girl at Huck's mercy Pamela opened her mouth to shriek his name again, but Huck was close to her now. He clapped a hand over her lips and held her there with brutal force. "Keep quiet," he ordered, "if anyone interferes it's the end for both of us." Pamela stared up at him from horror-filled eyes. "Your only chance to live is to listen and do as I say," Huck whispered, "and there was death itself in his voice." "You're going with me," Huck told her in that same monotonous semi-whisper. "I'm going to take my hand away now and if you scream, you'll be dead the next second." A tremor of nervous agony ran over Pamela's body as Huck moved his hand from her bruised lips and pressed the revolver deeper into her side. "The hat and ensemble coat she had worn that morning lay on a nearby chair. Huck grabbed them up and thrust them toward her. Under the coat he found her keys and gave her that, too. Over his own arm he carried his own topcoat. It was unnecessary as a garment but it served to hide the gun that Pamela had thrust into his pocket. "Take my arm," Huck directed, and Pamela obeyed like an automaton. "If you can't think of anything else say the Lord's Prayer, and say it fast," Huck said to her as he led her toward the door. "It's going to be unlucky for you if anyone discovers that you're not enjoying this little excursion."

ABILENE MAN WORKS ALL DAY WITHOUT TIRING

Gets Up Every Morning Now Feeling Fine—Gains Daily on Orgatone.

"I actually don't remember when I ever felt as strong and well as I do now, said E. A. Craig, caretaker of the Ed S. Hughes estate, living at 2050 N. First St., Abilene, Texas, in a statement regarding the benefits he has derived from Orgatone.

"For twenty years, 'he continued,' I had been in a general rundown condition. I had no appetite and never enjoyed the little I did eat, there were very few things I could eat without suffering afterwards and I was badly constipated and felt sluggish and tired all the time. I couldn't get any sound sleep and would start my work in the morning feeling as tired and worn out as if I had worked hard all night. I was losing ground continually and had so little energy it was hard for me to take proper interest in my work. I wasn't sick enough to stay in bed, but I felt miserable all the time and was in just that condition that makes work a burden.

"I have taken three bottles of Orgatone and I couldn't begin to figure the good they have done me. I sleep as sound as a dollar every morning feeling as fresh as a young boy, and my day's work every day don't tire me a single bit. My appetite is so big I can hardly eat enough to satisfy me and it seems to me every thing tastes better than it ever did. I'm not constipated any more and all my no-account, tired-out feelings are gone. I have gained in strength and feel so much better than I have in years that I hardly know how to tell it. My friends have noticed my improvement and are asking me what did it and I just come right out with the fact and tell them Orgatone. I am glad to endorse Orgatone and I will tell anybody what it has done for me.
