Although the Spearman 8th grade has lost a game this year, they are still strong contenders in the battle for the 8th grade championship of dis-trict 1-AA. To provide some folks a 3day weekend they otherwise would not have, the nation celebrated Columbus' question able discovery on the wrong day. Its a tempest in a teapot, but some know-it all now says the Vikings discovered America. (A Viking descendant probably.) I'm an old Columbus man myself. If historians are not even sure WFO made the Oct. 12th discovery, why celebrate it October 11th? I move we strike it off the calendar all together. Perhaps we should give all the credit to Queen Isabell anyway.

She's the old gal who pledged all her jewels to obtain the means by which to finance Columbus' wild dream to see if he could reach Asia by sailing westward. You see, old C.C. tried for 20 years to get someone to listen to his theory that by sailing due estward from Europe you would wind up on the eastern coast of Asia. Sounds rather stupid even yet, to me. Italian merchants were carrying on a rich trade with India; but they had to bring the silks, spices and dyestuffs of the E st overland by caravans and it was dangerous and expensive to transport their goods by this route; hence C.C. thought it would be a great thing if he could go to india all the way by sea. This lover-of the sea had his country in mind all the time. But it generally happens that those who make great discoveries for mankind meet with a cold reception from the very people they wish to benefit.

It turned out that old Isie didn't have to sachifice her jewels, because other means were found, and on August 3, 1492, C.C. fitted out 3 ships, Santa Maria, Nina and the Pinta and set sail, with 120 persons.

The sailors got scared because the compass pointed wrong, and they grew muti-nous and wanted to turn back several voyages to our continent soon after Columbus's discovery, pulled a few strings and got the new world named after him.

It was the lot of Columbus to receive injustice and neglect in return for the greatest benefits. However, who knows he might have been a sassy old soul. History books do not say just why, but he was de-prived of the government of the colony he planted in 1498 on the mainland of America, and was sent home in chains After his friend Queen Isie died, he was treated still worse and was allowed to die in poverty and neglect at the age

It ain't fair I tell you. We have all but done away with Columbus, what with all this Viking business on October 11th. We might change the holiday's name to "Indian Day." We truly give C. C. credit for naming the red men. All We these savages who thought the voyagers were spirits from another world, were called Indians by Chris. The poor soul thought he was in India. At least today we still call them Indians

At any rate, if you were lucky enought to celebrate the wrong holiday and wind up with a 3-day vacation, please remember that it was Oct. 12th when Columbus discovered the Indians. 1492 -- that's the year to bear in mind.

Old C.C. called them "scardy-cats" and he DID NOT say he would turn back if they did not find land in three days (as you may have read in some books.)

On the evening of Oct. 11th he felt sure he was near land and ordered the ships to 'lie by" (if we continue to celebrate Oct. 11th we should designate it "Lie by" day.)

So all the sailors, wandering just what gave old C. C. this hunch to lie by, pointed their beedy eyeballs in every direction, and sure enough, they spied land. Of course, this was in the dark of the night and how they spied it in total darkness no one knows but when the sun came up they were peering at solid terra firma. So they all shed tears of joy, manned and armed some boats, displayed their colors and struck up some war like music. With much pomp, the crews rowed to shore. Old C.C., in rich dress and with his drawn sword in his hand, was first to step ashore. He then caused the royal standard of the Spanish monarch to be set up, and thus took posses-sion of the land for the crown of Spain (October 12, 1492.) They were surrounded by natives who gazed with astonishment on the newcomers for they thought them to be visitors from some spirit world. Now, right here I'd like to make note that times haven't changed so much since then, for there are people today who think they have much to do with spirits from another world.

On his way back home, a terrible storm arose and C.C. thought his ships would sink for sure. So he wrote an account of his voyage on parchment, inclosed it in a cake of wax, put the cake in a cask --- which he threw overboard. This hasn't been heard of since.

But C.C. has, for we all know he made it in fine shape Furthermore, he made a second, a third and a fourth voyage back to the new land. But the poor soul didn't receive his just reward, for the new world was not called Columbia--as it should have been. Some smart-elek named Americus Vespucius who made

Bank Deposits Off Some

First State Bank figures on deposits and loans were released last week as the comptroller of the currency called for a report of conditions as of September 30, 1971.

Loans are up and deposits are down at the local bank over the last quarter which ended in June. This is a seasonal occurrence however, since at this time this is usually the case. With wheat pasture coming on, loans have increased due to cattle buying. Another differ-ence in loans for this quarter is due to farming operations money needed for the current milo harvest.

If moisture continues to be sufficient and wheat pastures are abundant, loans will stay high as cattle purchases continue.

Wheat harvest never reveals much change in deposits at the local bank, but htese always increase considerably at the end of milo harvest, which is currently underway. The Spearman bank reports deposits of $12079, 968, 54 as compared to $12, 184, 661, June 30th.

The September 30 loan figure of $7, 206, 090. is up as compared to the last quarter total of $6,607,585.11.

She started trying to draw and sketch at an early age. Being a tomboy increased her liking for horses and other outdoor related activities connected with riding and ranchwork. These subjects are the substance of most of her paintings. She finished high school at Dumas. Her art teachers at various called, but entries received by times were: Mildred Boyd. and materials to paint when there is any spare time. Her paintings are mostly realistic in style, with brush and palette knife technique. She uses oils and acrylics for materials. Her personal philosophy was that to get all the things she had planned she would to live to be at least 115: she would much rather wear out working than rust out sitting, and she came from a long line of "Do-it-yourself-

This year's cheerleaders are Donita Floyd and Amy Renner, Seniors; Sharon Lambert and Suellen Womble, Juniors; Kathy Brown, Sopho-more; and Debbie Gregg, Freshman.
