

Lebanese chief flees palace

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Suleiman Franjeh fled under Moslem bombardment from the badly damaged presidential palace early today.

A pro-Franjeh radio station called the move a "temporary transfer of the seat of the presidency," however, indicating Franjeh still considered himself president.

The leader of the largest Christian militia broadcast a call for an all-out crusade to return the 65-year-old Christian president to the symbolic seat of power.

But Beirut Radio, controlled by Moslem army commanders, reported the hilltop palace four miles east of Beirut was wrecked.

"The whole place was a shambles," said a photographer who visited the palace. "Chandeliers were all down on the floor, broken to smithereens. The main two salons on the ground floor were black, totally black. Nothing in them was left intact."

Franjeh, who defied two weeks of threats by Moslem military leaders to bomb him out, left before dawn with his wife and two sons in a bulletproof limousine, a palace spokesman reported.

Beirut Radio said the president and his aides took refuge in Jounieh, the major Christian stronghold on the coast 12 miles north of Beirut. Its harbor is guarded by two pro-Christian army garrisons and a naval base, and it is the chief port of entry for arms for the rightwing Christian militias battling the leftist Moslems in the 11-month-old civil war.

"He fled after a barrage of 155mm artillery tore to shreds the presidential palace's two main wings and destroyed its water reservoirs," the broadcast said.

A TV station 700 yards from the palace received 35 direct mortar hits, a member of the staff reported.

Meanwhile, the Moslems and Christians hammered at each other with mortar and artillery fire and fought close-contact battles. Police said at least 126 persons were killed and about 200 wounded in Beirut and the summer resorts in the hills east of the city.

This incomplete toll raised to 814 the total reported killed since the last cease-fire ended March 11, when the Moslem commander of the Beirut garrison proclaimed himself provisional military governor of Lebanon and demanded Franjeh's resignation.

Fires spread from shop to shop in the city's shuttered, deserted commercial center as the street battles raged without letup there and in the hotel district. Syrian fire engines sent from Damascus were unable to reach the city because of fighting along the roads.

As news of Franjeh's flight from the palace spread, another Christian leader, Pierre Gemayel of the rightwing Phalange party, broadcast an appeal to "every Lebanese, every Christian man, woman and soldier to join me at once in a last-ditch heroic battle to defend and save Lebanon."

Syrian officers still were trying to restore the cease-fire, but the country's leading Moslem leftist, Kamal Junblatt, rejected their efforts.

While Syrian President Hafez Assad has been trying to arrange a face-saving method of resignation for Franjeh, Junblatt wants clearcut guarantees that the Moslem majority will have equal power with the previously-dominant Christian minority, that the country's free-wheeling capitalist system will be moved to the left and that Franjeh, the symbol of Christian opposition to the Moslem demands, will step down as soon as parliament elects a new president.

May be scorned by Ford

Senate passes FEC bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a week of debate, the Senate is sending the House a bill that would restore the powers of the Federal Election Commission, but the measure may be scorned by the House and by President Ford.

The bill, passed by a 55 to 28 vote Wednesday night, alters the FEC to meet the major objection that led the Supreme Court to order Congress to revamp it. The court ruled that all members of the commission should be appointed by the president and none by Congress.

When the court's Monday-deadline for congressional action passed, the FEC lost its power to disburse millions of taxpayer dollars to the campaigns of presidential candidates and to their parties. The FEC had distributed more than $12 million before its powers were curbed.

Candidates urged Congress to simply pass a bill that would put the commission back on legal ground so it could again begin distributing the campaign funds. Ford indicated he would veto any bill that went much further than that and threatened election year confusion.

But the Senate bill makes other changes in the 1974 campaign finance law that established the FEC in the wake of the Watergate scandals.

Its fate in the House, which is expected to consider its own FEC bill next week, and with Ford, is in doubt.

Before receiving the Senate bill, the House already was embroiled in its own controversy. House Minority leader John Rhodes of Arizona said Wednesday there has been no movement in the house toward a compromise between those who simply want to restructure the FEC and those who envision great changes in the election law.

Although the bill passed by the Senate goes far beyond what Ford recommended, it was a compromise shaped by leaders of both parties and some of them said they felt Ford would find it acceptable.

The Senate made only a few relatively minor changes in the final compromise, except for inclusion of an additional financial disclosure amendment that would require Congress members, candidates for federal office and all high-level government officials to make public their assets, liabilities and income each year.

Republicans said the compromise met some of their principal objections. They won deletion of provisions they said would cripple the FEC's independence and modification of others they feared would give unions an advantage over business in soliciting political funds. Still, 19 Republican senators voted against the bill and only 14 for passage. The Democratic line-up was 41 for and nine against.

Las Vegas pickets clash with cops

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — More than 70 pickets have been arrested in two days as striking bartenders, waitresses and other service employees blocked traffic on the Las Vegas Strip in front of two casino-hotels trying to stay open despite their walkout.

While negotiations in the two-week-old Strip strike remain at a standstill, contract talks now have begun between the union and casinos in "Glitter Gulch," the downtown gambling district four miles from the Strip.

Panel urges Carrillo's removal

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Judicial Qualifications Commission has recommended that the State Supreme Court remove impeached and convicted District Court Judge O.P. Carrillo from office.

The commission filed its recommendation with the high court Wednesday afternoon.

Carrillo, of Benavides in Duval County, has not performed the duties of judge since early August, when the House impeached him and suspended him from office. The Senate convicted him Jan. 2, removed him from the bench and decreed that he may never hold public office again.

Removal by the Supreme Court would, however, provide a backup if Carrillo's lawyers are able to secure reversal of the Senate action through an appeal to the courts.

Carrillo also has been convicted of filing a false federal income tax return. Several state charges against him resulted from a sweeping investigation of Duval County in South Texas by the local district attorney, the state attorney general and others.

The commission specifically found that Carrillo 51, had:

—Conspired with his brother, Ramiro, a Duval County commissioner, to obtain $300 in goods and merchandise each month at county expense from a store in Benavides.

—Appropriated money from the Duval County treasury on several occasions, totaling more than $17,000. Most of the transactions listed are among those for which the Senate convicted Carrillo. Testimony before the Senate indicated they involved a scheme in which Benavides Implement & Hardware billed the county for equipment rentals, the county paid, and the store owner, Rodolfo Couling, funneled the money to the judge.

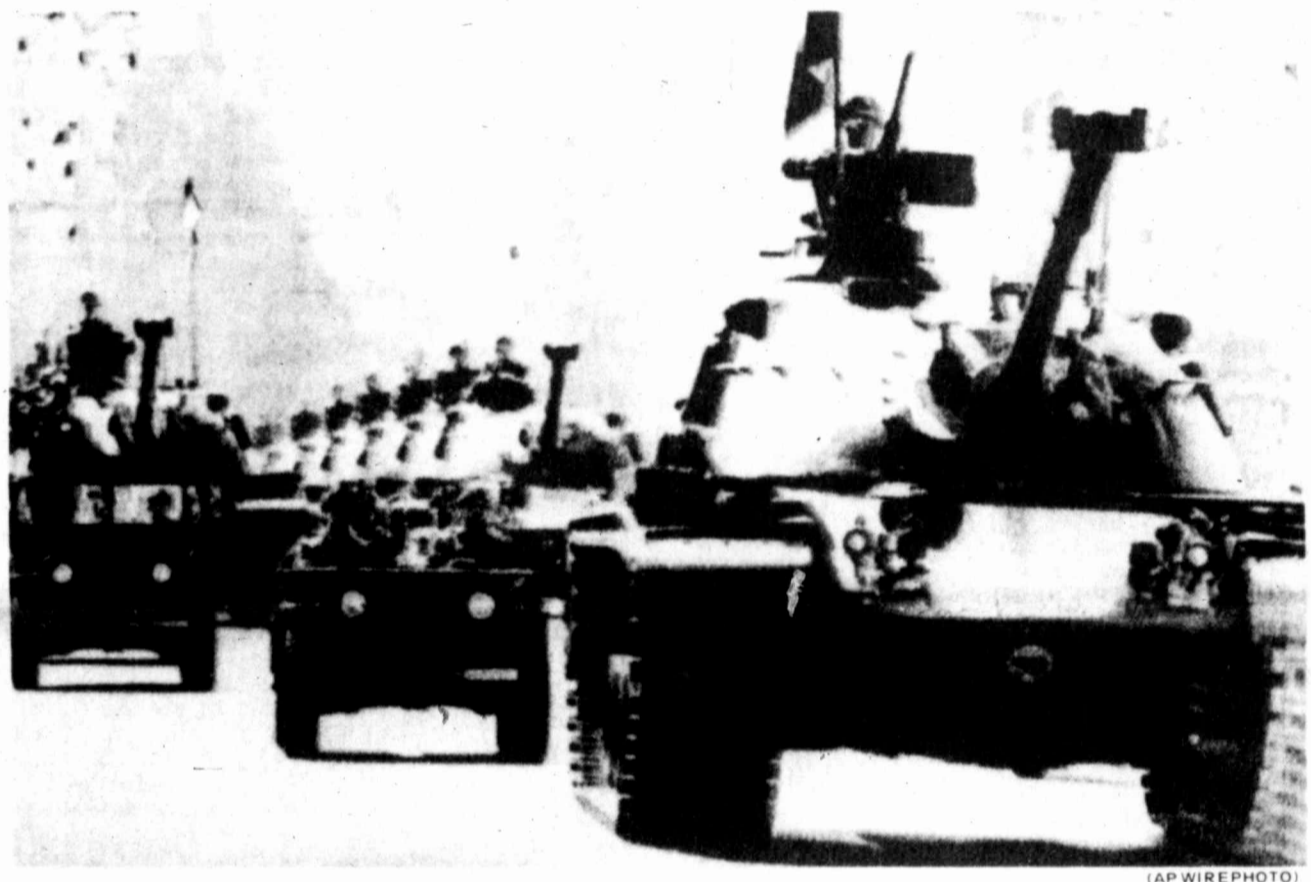

—Seen to it that the county paid Roberto Elizondo $225 a month from its road and bridge fund to attend a court reporting school.

—Used county equipment and employees on his ranch and in the Farm & Ranch Store that he and Ramiro Carrillo owned in partnership.

—Used a backhoe belonging to the Duval County Conservation and Reclamation District to construct the foundation of a building on his ranch.

Each of these alleged acts, the commission said, was "clearly inconsistent with the proper performance of his duties as a district judge and was clearly of a nature to cast discredit upon the judiciary."

The commission began investigating Carrillo after the House impeached him, and the Senate trial was delayed while a commission-appointed master, District Court Judge Jim Meyers of Austin, conducted hearings in Corpus Christi.

Junta's money policy unclear

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Military rule in Argentina has begun with the usual flood of restrictive decrees but no indication of what the three-man junta plans to do about the nearly bankrupt economy.

After sending President Isabel Peron off to house arrest in southern Argentina early Wednesday, the commanders of the army, navy and air force issued decrees suspending political parties and labor unions, setting up "special war councils" to judge subversion cases and imposing censorship on the Argentine press.

No armed resistance to the new government was reported, and censorship muted criticism.

The junta, headed by the 50-year-old army commander, Gen. Jorge Videla, said it was banning political activity "while the process is carried out for the recuperation of the state in all its levels and functions."

But it said it would return Argentina eventually to "republican democracy" and would align the country with "the Western and Christian world."

Gun control bill okayed by panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — A revised gun control bill may have a new lease on life in the House Judiciary Committee.

Chairman Peter Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said the full committee may vote again on the bill, which was revised and approved by a subcommittee Wednesday.

Rodino cautioned, "I would have to be convinced that it is not an exercise in futility." Proponents were seeking to line up enough votes to guarantee passage in the committee, he added.

On March 2, the committee voted 17 to 14 to return to subcommittee a gun control bill banning the so-called Saturday night specials. That bill foundered over a provision that would have banned handguns that were small enough to be concealed.

Gun foes felt that defeat scuttled the issue for this year.

But the new measure, which the subcommittee approved 5 to 2, has modified the size factor and substituted a point system that has been in effect since 1968 to regulate the importation of handguns into this country.

This system gives a point value to specific parts of the weapon, including its caliber, weight, safety features and methods of construction. A firearm must receive a certain number of points to be legal.

Pistols still must be at least six inches long and also obtain 75 points, and revolvers must have a barrel length of at least four inches and receive at least 45 points.

The new bill would still ban Saturday night specials. It contains all other provisions of the original measure.

These included: licensing of pawnbrokers; mandatory penalties for federal crimes of violence involving a handgun; a waiting period before a handgun purchase can be completed; congressional review of handgun regulations written by the Treasury Department; and the establishment of a national handgun tracing center.

Rep. James Mann, D-S.C., and Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, cast the negative votes in the subcommittee.

Action/reaction: Baby case closed?

Q. Has everything been done that is going to be done to bring to justice the woman who threw her baby in the garbage and the people who were heard placing bets at the time of the big gambling raid last year?

A. The four men arrested in the gambling raid last year, which was conducted by the Criminal Intelligence division of the Department of Public Safety, have already been indicted by a grand jury. Three were indicted for misdemeanors, and one man, Ronnie Moser, was indicted for a felony.

As to the baby case, both District Attorney Bob Moore and Police Chief Stanley Bogard agree that every clue and lead offered, or discovered, has been followed as far as they have been able to follow it.

The information gathered was taken to a grand jury last fall and the jury determined there was not sufficient evidence for an indictment. The case was left open and if new hard evidence or additional information develops it can still be pursued. Law enforcement officials point out that rumors are not evidence.

50 pounds of pot recovered

Search by state trooper illegal?

By JOHN EDWARDS

Justice of the Peace Bob West Wednesday afternoon postponed ruling whether two men accused of possessing more than 50 pounds of marijuana should be bound over to the grand jury.

Wayne Basden, defense attorney, said the search, which uncovered the marijuana, was illegal.

State Trooper Billy Jack Priest said he stopped the two defendants at an IS-20 railroad overpass at 1:50 a.m. March 12.

Charged with the felony were Charles A. Shelton, 27, Canutillo, Tex., and Donald S. Smith, 26, Carlsbad, N. M. They are out of jail on bonds of $25,000 each.

Priest, the only witness testifying, said he stopped the two for speeding and discovered Shelton, the driver, did not have a Texas driver's license.

After interviewing the "very nervous" driver, Priest said the passenger gave him a handgun.

Priest said he then got in the car and searched with his flashlight, finding a large suitcase, which was heavy.

"I asked the passenger in the vehicle what was in the suitcase," Priest continued. "He said 'clothes.'"

"I asked him if it was kilo bricks of marijuana out of El Paso," Priest said. "He became even more excited and nervous. He said he was not hauling marijuana."

Police Patrolman John Burson watched the vehicle while the others were inside, the highway patrolman said.

Inside the car, Priest said he discovered that not only the large suitcase but also a smaller suitcase and cardboard box contained kilo bricks of the illegal weed.

Did Priest obtain consent to conduct the search? Basden questioned. "No sir, I did not."

Priest said he did talk to Justice of the Peace West about a search warrant.

"I felt that I didn't need one," Priest said.

"He (West) advised that I probably had enough probable cause based on the weight of the suitcase and the way the subjects were acting," Priest said.

Basden did not agree. The defense attorney earlier objected to introducing evidence about the marijuana "on the ground that the search was unlawful at the time."

But West allowed District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III to offer the marijuana as evidence.

Moore noted Basden did not question that the substance was marijuana.

Moore and Basden are to submit briefs to West.

Carter leads Ford

Demos get more votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Popular vote totals in the nation's first six primary elections hold an ominous message for Republicans: more than two-thirds of the 5.96 million votes cast were on Democratic ballots.

And although President Ford has been the choice of 55.6 per cent of Republicans voting in these primaries, his popular vote total of 1.06 million is less than the 1.53 million polled by Jimmy Carter, who is one of a stable of Democratic candidates who at one time numbered as many as 12.

Carter was the favorite of 37.9 per cent of Democrats voting so far.

The popular vote totals may come in for study by party strategists since they may indicate that more people are voting as Democrats than generally tell pollsters they consider themselves to be Democrats.

In the primaries so far, about 68 per cent of the voters have marked Democratic ballots, although the Gallup Poll showed last fall that on a nationwide basis only 44 per cent of the American voters considered themselves to be members of the Democratic party.

That poll last September also showed only 21 per cent thought of themselves as Republicans, the GOP's lowest point since the Depression. The other 35 per cent told Gallup they were independents.

Some primaries in the past have been prone to crossover voting where a member of one party votes on the other party's ballot. But there has been little reason this year to suspect crossover voting because every primary has been contested except the GOP balloting in tiny Vermont and because Democratic party rules now do their best to bar Republicans from getting Democratic ballots.

States voting so far are New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Vermont, Florida, Illinois and North Carolina. All except Massachusetts went for Republican Richard Nixon in the 1972 presidential election.

But in this year's primaries, more Democratic votes were cast in all those states except New Hampshire, a traditional Republican state.

Of course considerations will be far different in November than in primary balloting. For example, a voter who favored a conservative Democrat in a primary might vote for a Republican in November.

Voting by candidate is subject to qualification because every candidate except Carter has skipped active campaigning in one or more primaries, although their names were sometimes on the ballot.

On the other hand, candidates sometimes skipped primaries in states where they believed they would do poorly.

Can't put much stock in claim

One question being asked about the Air Force's proposed closing of Webb Air Force Base is: How political is it?

THE QUESTION was pointedly brought to the public's attention last week when Texas backers of presidential candidate Ronald Reagan raised the contention that the base closings were only a political game.

Although I wish this were true, it is not a thought that Big Spring can put much stock in.

Separating the politics from anything that is done in Washington, even in the Pentagon, is difficult, no impossible. Some military bases are clearly "untouchable" in terms of closing because of the strength of certain politicians.

So politics are bound to be some part of any decision. When the Air Force announced that it was "studying" Webb for possible closure, most journalists and retired career military officers thought that this meant the base would be closed for certain. In years past the closings happened quickly after the anouncement. But because of the National Environmental Policy Act, this tradition may have changed. The law requires the Air Force to make its studies public before the final decision has been made. The timing, at least, is different.

Officially, the Department of Defense has not yet reviewed the decision on Webb, and neither has President Ford "for the record."

This leaves plenty of chances for politics to get into the picture if there is sufficient public interest and pressure over Webb. Big Spring has some good things going for it politically in Washington. Cong. Omar Burrell is working hard. Sen. John Tower has repeatedly renewed his pledge to fight for Webb all the way, and his office is leading the attack. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has put an aide on the task virtually full time. Cong. George Mahon has given his unqualified support. Cong. Dick White wants to help, as do others.

With this kind of clout, Big Spring must feel it is still in contention.

HOWEVER, IT should be noted that there is not yet any cause for optimism. The batting average of towns that have tried to save their bases after the closing announcement is lower than the right fielder on a Little League team.

Many have tried to save their bases; few, very few, have succeeded. Nevertheless, it is an election year, and politics are even more sensitive than usual. The nation's defense and the question of detente is an increasingly discussed issue on the national level.

Reagan's win this week in North Carolina puts even more emphasis on the Texas primary in early May as the key head-to-head decision between Reagan and Ford.

The issues in the Republican primary in Texas will be that of oil and defense. The President is vulnerable on both of those, and some polls are showing that Reagan may have the edge in this vital contest.

Ford must know that he could win a lot of votes in Texas by standing stronger on the defense issue, and to be believable, he would need to translate that into bases and military manpower.

WHILE BIG SPRING must continue to write letters to Washington and work in support of our Texas delegation's efforts on behalf of Webb in the political arena, Webb's case should be made on its merits:

1) Webb has proven over the years much too valuable to be abandoned as a military base, and

2) The closing would have an unfair and devastating effect on one small town, and

3) Closing Webb would actually cost the government (though not the Air Force) much more money than operating it for several years to come.

These arguments are all true and valid, and while we are forced to debate them in the political arena because of the nature of our system, I think the case for Big Spring and Webb can stand on its own merits if it is objectively viewed.

This community is not asking for any consideration that is not both our legal right and the correct and proper course for our nation as a whole.

More about films

Around the rim

Marj Carpenter

When I read James Werrell's column about the ten best war movies, I got to thinking about movies. And I started trying to think which ten movies I have enjoyed the most — in all these 49 years.

I DON'T mean what are the ten best shows I have seen — but which ten did I enjoy the most and why. When you really enjoy a movie, often the circumstances that surround it help make it enjoyable.

Immediately, I recalled, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown." My three kids and I had a fantastic trip in 1964 when we had a whole month and visited New York City, many Broadway musicals, the World's Fair, Washington, Philadelphia, and New Orleans.

We hardly slept on that trip because we wanted to see and do everything and we'd start early in the morning, go all day long and then go out again that night. And if the evening ended and we still wanted to go, we'd go to a late show.

Well we went to that particular movie at Radio City and before the show there were songs, and dances and all kinds of good things. When we got to Washington, one night late, the kids wanted to see the show again.

And in New Orleans after we'd made Canal Street, Bourbon Street and been up the Mississippi, the crazy kids wanted to see the show again. We literally had it memorized and laughed and sang all the way back to the motel. No other family would pick that show as one of the best.

When I was in college, I remember studying for an examination in music appreciation. I had listened to classical records until they all started to sound alike. We had to be able to recognize them when played. I finally took off and went to the show and got in and sat down before I realized it was Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." I had to laugh at getting away from classics by going to a classic.

Also in my college years, I remember going to the naval base theatre with an ensign and seeing Red Skelton's first show. I can't remember the name of it. But the crowd laughed so hard that night that there were tears running down their faces. This past summer, I went to a casino dinner theatre in Reno that featured Red Skelton. And he still has the art to make people laugh.

I'D HAVE TO add "The Music Man" that my children and I went to see one night in Austin when they were small. Jim Bob went to sleep and we couldn't get him awake to take him out. We pushed and prodded him up the aisle. Years later he saw the end of the show.

I went to see Tyrone Power in "Brigham Young" after I had gotten to dance with Power one night at the O Club at the Naval Air Station in Corpus Christi during World War II. And a few years ago I went to see Robert Mitchum in "The Sundowners" after I met Mitchum in Ruidoso. I have to admit I enjoyed both shows more for having met the stars.

For my other four, I'd have to include "The Lady and the Tramp" which the children and I went to see one Thanksgiving afternoon on what was a somewhat perfect day.

I'd include "Gone With the Wind" which I saw so many times that I can't remember the first time and "Boomer Town" simply because I really enjoyed both Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy.

For the other two, I'd want to include "The Sound of Music" which the children and I saw both as a movie and as an outdoor musical at Breckenridge Park in San Antonio.

For the last one of the ten, I'd pick "Nashville." Not because it was that good a show, but simply because it was a hilarious evening. Most of the shows I have enjoyed the most I've seen with my children (attention Ann Landers: I love my children).

THIS ONE we went to in San Francisco last summer. The night before we'd eaten seafood and heard jazz. That night, we ate Italian food, walked through Chinatown and went to the late show. We knew we had to leave just as soon as the show ended and literally ran two blocks to catch the last street car at 1:30 a.m. up 17 blocks of hills to our hotel. We laughed all the way. The show is bound to have been good. Otherwise, why were we so happy?

But I'm such a movie lover that ten's not enough. I'd have to include James Cagney's "Yankee Doodle Dandy." My Dad loved both George M. Cohan and James Cagney and I went to that show with him.

I'd have to include my favorite star of many years, John Wayne. It would either be "True Grit" which I saw with friends in Raton or "Chisum" which I saw in Odessa and then went up to Lincoln County, N. M. to visit the site.

And I liked "Mary Poppins" which I saw in Harlingen, and both "Godfathers" and "The Sting" and "The Good Ship LollyPop" and "The African Queen" and "Mrs. Miniver" and "Patton" and ... oh, shut up, Marj. Enough's enough.

Could take fields

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Secret intelligence reports warn that the shah of Iran, if he wanted to, could land his army in Saudi Arabia and annex its oil fields.

This possibility worries high-level U. S. officials. The shah, they realize, is living beyond his means. For all his vaunted riches, he is deeply in debt. Iran owes several billion dollars in bilateral and multilateral loans. The outstanding debt to the United States alone is over $1 billion.

Iran's oil reserves, meanwhile, are expected to last no longer than two decades. World demand for Iranian oil, at the same time, has fallen off sharply. This has left the shah embarrassingly short of money to pay for his grandiose dreams of a modern Persian empire.

HE IS burdened down, heaviest of all, with expensive armaments. The United States has sold him $8.6 billion worth of weapons during the past three years. The purpose has been to make the shah the protector of the Persian Gulf, the source of oil now needed to run America's factories and automobiles.

But some Arab nations, particularly Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, are beginning to wonder who will protect them from their protector. Intelligence reports tell of mounting tension in the vital Persian Gulf area.

The Pentagon's intelligence estimates, stamped "Secret-Sensitive," indicate that the shah's military machine could overwhelm Saudi Arabia. According to these documents, Iran has an Air Force of 75,000 men, including 645 pilots of whom 450 are trained to fly jets.

Saudi Arabia, in contrast, has a far smaller 15,000-man air force. Of these, 200 are pilots and only 90 are jet-trained. The Saudis' 114 fighter planes would also be no match for the shah's 338 planes, which include 162 super-sonic F-4 Phantoms.

Iran also has a fleet of 483 helicopters, many of them suitable for airlifting troops. Saudi Arabia has but 35 helicopters, all of them described as "utility" aircraft.

On the sea, the shah's 18,500-man navy is training to man three destroyers, four frigates and three submarines recently purchased from the United States. Saudi Arabia's insignificant 1,500-man navy doesn't possess a single warship of any size.

The shah, meanwhile, has established peaceful relations with neighboring Iraq, a traditional enemy of Iran. If the shah should move against Saudi Arabia, however, some analysts believe the Iraqis would break their agreement with the shah and support the Saudis.

THIS WOULD involve a 15,000-man air force, with 358 jet fighters and 171 helicopters, plus a 3,000-man navy, with 11 missile boats. And from a greater distance, Egypt and Jordan would also be expected to back Saudi Arabia. This would add another 628 fighter planes, 37 jet bombers, 5 destroyers, 12 submarines and 14 missile boats to the Arab forces.

SCREW SCANDAL: In a classic case of a battle being lost for want of a horseshoe nail, shoddy screws have cost the government billions and have contributed to air crashes.

Metal screws hold together everything from computers to high-stress airplane parts. When screws snap or loosen, the equipment may cease to function or may even self-destruct.

Yet unscrupulous manufacturers have produced screws that have caused costly accidents. The nut-and-bolt industry could have avoided these disasters by manufacturing more craftsmanlike products. But the specifications for screws and nuts are fixed by industry-run "standards committees," which have been more interested in profits than in safety.

These are the disturbing findings of investigators for the Senate Antitrust subcommittee. In a staff report, they have put it bluntly:

"The present specifications for screw-threads," they charge, "allow manufacturers and distributors to dump millions of worthless fasteners into the market each year."

"Screw thread failures have cost the government billions of dollars and contributed to the loss of aircraft and human life."

Although manufacturers and distributors are fully aware of this, the report adds grimly, they "have continuously blocked the development of new standards."

OUR OWN investigation supports the subcommittee findings. From Army studies, we have learned of screws and nuts wearing out or snapping off in vital parts of planes in flight.

One unpublished lab report tells of a helicopter blade whirling off in midair. The wreckage was inspected by Army experts who determined that faulty screw threads were "a probable contributing factor in the failure."

Another crash study reports that a helicopter suddenly lunged crazily at 126 miles an hour. "The tail rotor separated from the aircraft at 800 feet," states the study.

The mouse that (finally and at long last) roared

Schemes surveyed

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The word nonprofit often is associated with public service, which is why it is all the more disillusioning when some institutions of that kind are found to be schemes for personal profits.

Fortunes are sometimes made in nonprofit organizations. While the entity itself might effectively stay within the meaning of the word, it takes a closer look at its activities to determine why no profit was earned. Was it because of services rendered? Or big paychecks?

Two Columbia University sociologists recently completed a study of the situation and concluded it was time to clamp down hard on the offenders through tougher state and federal regulations.

Rake-off schemes, self-dealing, unconscionable real estate profits and excessive fees are among the offenses, says Amitai Etzioni and Pamela Doty, of the university's Center for Policy Research.

While their targets are principally abuses in the health care field by hospitals, nursing homes and prepaid medical and health insurance plans, the sociologists suggest the abuses are more widespread.

Personal gains, they say, often are at odds with the underlying rationale of not-for-profit corporations, which enjoy tax benefits and often receive government grants because of the presumption that theirs is a selfless service to the community.

The authors, whose paper is entitled "Profit In Not-For-Profit Institutions," examine the presumption and find too often it has no basis in practice, as these findings indicate: —In many voluntary hospitals some medical specialists, especially pathologists and radiologists, received all or part of their remuneration in the form of a share of their department's gross receipts.

What difference did this make? First, an ethical one. If the goal was public service, why should personal incomes be equated with the size of receipts resulting from this work?

It makes a financial difference too. Whereas pathologists may work for salaries of $28,000 to $40,000 in some hospitals, some of those working under per cent-of-revenue schemes were found earning $200,000 or more.

—Self-dealing seems to be a great temptation, occurring when the same persons appear on both sides of a transaction. Consider, for example, the hospital administrator who hired a data-processing firm he founded himself.

Consider also the hospital official who placed institution funds in an interest-free account in a bank of which he was vice president.

Or the Blue Cross-Blue Shield officials who channeled federal and private funds entrusted to them through banks whose officers also served on the boards of the health organizations.

Art Buchwald

Isn't our fault

WASHINGTON — Just when I get my latent male chauvinist pig feelings under control the new fashions come out and I'm back to where I started. Last week's cover of Time magazine of a girl in a black bathing suit made me forget the intensive consciousness-raising sessions I had attended all winter.

The trend for this year, if I understand it, is toward the pajama look with see-through fabric placed in areas you're not supposed to see. The backs are bare and in many cases the midriffs are exposed. There is even a rain suit that zips down to the navel.

ONE HAS to assume that these clothes wouldn't have been designed unless the manufacturers thought women would buy them. And, if this is the case, where do we men who have been trying to stop thinking of women as sex objects stand?

It is a terrible dilemma and one I don't think the Women's Lib people are facing up to. For example, the other night I went to a dinner party in Washington prepared to behave as the perfect liberated male. I was going to treat my dinner partners as human beings who had minds of their own and opinions on the subjects of the day that should be listened to.

Unfortunately, the person on my right was wearing a black net pajama top with a neckline that plunged down to heaven knows where. The blouse was held up by two tiny straps that looked as if they would break at any moment.

THE PERSON on my left was wearing what appeared to be a sheer scarf wrapped in such a way that her bosom was pushed up and out halfway across her soup plate.

Now you have to admit it's pretty difficult to discuss President Ford's tax-cut plans when you're faced with this kind of situation.

My heart said, "These woman have brains. Find out what they're thinking." But my eyes kept wandering down to areas other than their heads.

I wanted to talk about Jimmy Carter's chances in California, and Scoop Jackson's hopes for New York with the person on my right, but all I kept thinking was "I wonder what would happen if one of those tiny straps broke while she was reaching for a piece of roast lamb from the tray."

I then turned to the person on my left to get such evil thoughts out of my head. I was going to ask her if she thought we should send wheat to Russia but I noticed that the scarf she was wearing had shifted and there was even more cleavage showing than when she had sat down.

I WAS SO ashamed of myself, because I forgot all about Russian wheat which I'm sure she would have been delighted to talk to me about.

I turned back to the person with the two itty-bitty straps. She had her back to me which was bare all the way down to her lower spine. It just didn't seem to be the right time to talk about food stamps.

"How," I pondered, "can I show these people that I am interested in their minds when I have so little to work with?" I would have given anything to have Gloria Steinem at my table to tell me what to do.

As I looked around the room I noticed that all the men seemed to be having the same trouble. We were trying to make up for years of injustice and ignorance in our male attitudes toward the opposite sex, and they were doing everything to thwart us.

God knows we've all been sinners and most men are trying to change their attitudes toward women. But when you have nothing but bare backs and cleavage to stare at during dinner, how on earth can any man keep his mind on Henry Kissinger?

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What do you think about some of the Hollywood movies that are based on Bible stories? I recently saw one on television and it seemed a bit artificial. —Mrs. P. J.

DEAR MRS. J.: Movies based on Biblical stories are often embellished and dramatized to achieve alleged box office success. There is usually no real desire to convey a true Biblical message. In fact, the story is often greatly distorted, or may even contradict the version found in the Bible. It is sad that many people leave such movies with a warped view of what the Bible really teaches.

However, motion pictures can be a powerful means of conveying the Gospel message. As you perhaps know, I have been deeply interested in using films for evangelism since almost the beginning of my ministry. We have seen countless thousands come to Christ through the aid of films, since people who would never ordinarily go near a church, will often attend a Gospel film in a theater.

We must never, however, allow films to take the place of God's Word. God has given us the Bible and every Christian should seek to know it and love it better. God uses the Bible to thrill us and challenge us in a far greater way than all the Hollywood movies combined.

A devotion for today

"Isn't he the carpenter, the son of Mary, and the brother of James, Joseph, Judas, and Simon?" (Mark 6:3, TEV)

PRAYER: Eternal God, we thank You that we can be members of Your family, with Jesus as our brother. Help us to listen to Him so that we may know His truth and share it with others. Amen.

What others say

When office machinery first came into being, it was the person, rather than the device, that was termed a typewriter. For reasons that have since been lost, or perhaps misfiled, the term shifted to the typewriter itself from the writer who typed. This was no simple matter because there were no automatic shifts back then.

Since then the typewriters (mortal model) have progressed through a variety of job-related appellations — typists, retypists, secretaries, executive secretaries, secretaries to the executive secretaries and so on.

With such an advance it is probably not seemly that the same old machine be stuck with the same old name, typewriter. That is why, we suppose, a new model, electrically motivated, with a power return, a paper injector, a touch selector and a carriage loading ribbon, is not a typewriter at all any more. What is it? It is a "Communicator," with a Capital C.

We await personnel department's search for an Executive Communicator.

Swim classes set by YMCA

Soon the weather will be warm enough to enjoy swimming. The YMCA offers programs to train children proper swimming techniques before the summer begins.

A series of progressive swim lessons will begin Monday at the YMCA. Beginners will meet on Monday and Wednesday each week. Advanced swimmers will meet on each Tuesday and Thursday.

Classes will be one-half hour sessions from 4-4:30 p.m. and 4:30-5 p.m. lasting for four weeks.

Children will progress from level to level with new sessions meeting every four weeks.

A new session of swim lessons for children ages three to six years will begin on Tuesday.

Classes will meet for four weeks on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Children may participate in the 1:30 p.m. or 2 p.m. classes.

Basic breathing, floatation, water safety and swimming skills will be taught by a qualified instructor.

Children six months to three years will have swimming classes on Mondays and Fridays for four weeks. The sessions will be from 11-11:30 a.m. beginning April 5.

One parent is required to be in the water with the child.

The water babies are instructed in the Dora Roberts Training Pool where water is 36 inches deep and at a constant temperature of 88 degrees.

YMCA memberships are required for the swim lessons. Registration is on a first-come-first-served basis.

Call the YMCA at 267-8234 or visit the facilities at Eighth and Owens for registration and more information about the classes.

Faculty Ma'ams elect officers

Officers for the Howard College Faculty Ma'ams were elected at the Tuesday afternoon meeting. Women met in the home of Mrs. Larry Reese.

Mrs. John Freeman was cohostess. Mrs. Harlan Huibregtse presided.

Mrs. Kenneth Sprinkle was elected as president. She will preside at the April meeting. Other officers elected were Mrs. Freeman, vice president; Mrs. Charles McCamant, secretary; Mrs. Tony Ortiz, treasurer; and Mrs. Leslie Lewis, reporter.

The next meeting will be at 4 p.m., April 20 in the home of Mrs. Ortiz, 1733 Yale.

Deadline extended

The FDA has extended the deadline for filing comments on the drained weight of canned fruit and vegetable products labeling proposal. The deadline is now May 5, rather than February 5, reports Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

NYLON was the first of the man-made fibers found to be ideal for carpeting, and it is still the largest-selling of all the "miracle fibers," since it is in everything from toothbrushes to stockings to drapery fabrics.

Nylon carpet fibers come in two forms. The "continuous filament" nylon you've heard about uses long, smooth continuous lengths of the fiber. These longer fibers have the advantages of reducing pilling or fuzzing. "Staple" nylon fibers are simply shorter fibers, usually about six inches. These are used effectively in the twisted yarns in cut-pile or mixed cut-and-loop nylon carpets.

The greatest plus of nylon is its resistance to abrasion (or wear), which is the highest of all fibers. For this reason nylon is often coupled with other fibers to give extra abrasion-resistance.

Nylon fibers offer great versatility in color and texture. While less soil-resistant than some, it cleans very easily, resisting water-borne stains especially so they can just be wiped up.

You'll love the way the new nylon carpets take to colors both brilliant and subtle. Look over our big displays, and let us help you choose the right color, texture, and style that's perfect for your home... and your budget.

Slide program depicts Howard County history

Mrs. Gerri Atwell, curator of Heritage Museum, gave a slide presentation during the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Center Point Home Demonstration Club.

Members met in Kentwood Older Adult Center.

Mrs. Atwell's slides depicted life in Howard County from 1876 to the present time. She told the club members of some of the struggles and hardships Howard County citizens overcame to settle the area.

Mrs. Atwell said that drought, sandstorms and hard weather forced several towns to fold. She said the lower part of Big Spring currently where the T&P Railway Co. is located was washed away by a flood in 1902.

The town of Coahoma used to be located at the base of Signal Mountain. It failed and was later re-established in its present location. Mrs. Atwell said that Coahoma is an Indian word for Signal Mountain.

Mrs. Atwell also showed slides of the inaugural gowns of America's First Ladies.

Members discussed plans to attend the District VI convention in El Paso. A bus will leave at 7:30 a.m., April 5 for El Paso and will return on April 7.

At present, 43 women from the Big Spring area HD clubs are registered to attend the conference.

The City of El Paso will be the host on a tour of Juarez for shopping and sightseeing.

Mrs. N.E. Holloway, District VI director, asked that HD members turn in all names of the women belonging to area clubs for the longest period. These names will be turned in at the El Paso conference. She also asked for names of 4-H members that have received scholarships from local HD clubs.

Members are to report about the most interesting program of their clubs during the conference.

Pennies for friendship are due at the spring conference.

Members discussed plans for the bicentennial home-makers tea for Howard County HD club members and guests. The tea will be held May 27 at Kentwood Center.

Mrs. K.J. Neilsen and Mrs. James Petty were hostesses.

Mrs. Homer Haygood won the door prize.

The HD Council will meet at 2 p.m., April 12 in the county extension office.

The Center Point Club will meet with Mrs. C. K. Orr, 2906 MacAuslan, at 2 p.m., April 13. A program on safety will be featured.

Dear Abby

Hospital should advise kin on kidney donation

DEAR ABBY: Our son, David, was recently killed in a car accident. He was taken by ambulance to a hospital where he died five hours later.

A state trooper removed David's wallet at the scene of the accident, and we recovered it at the local state police post two days later.

David's wallet contained a UNIFORM DONOR CARD issued by the Kidney Foundation and signed by him. In our grief we had forgotten about our son's desire to donate his kidneys at death. How we wish that his wallet could have been examined at the scene of the accident so that his wishes could have been carried out!

It's too late for David, but my purpose in writing is to ask you to please remind all police and hospital personnel to examine the victim's wallet or purse for such documents. Had this been done, perhaps a life could have been saved through our David's death.

MRS. R.D. WATT, BLOOMINGTON, IND.
DEAR MRS. WATT: I am informed that in your state, the officer who arrives first at the scene of an accident must collect the victim's personal property and immediately turn it in to headquarters — WITHOUT even opening the wallet. However, the hospital personnel should have advised you that if you knew that your son had signed a donor card, a form was available at the hospital for the next of kin to sign, granting permission for a transplant.

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns my husband and our sex life. He won't have sex with me since I had our baby five months ago. He was with me when the baby was born, and he said watching the birth made him sick and he can't get it out of his mind. We have had sex only twice since and he acted like he was doing me a favor.

If I am aggressive toward him he just pushes me away. Whenever I bring up the subject, he tells me to shut up. We've been married for two years and always got along great. I am loving to try anything. I truly love him and I know he loves me. He's a good father and provider, but our sex life is zilch.

I don't want to get a divorce over this, but I sure feel cheated.

FRUSTRATED IN FLORIDA

DEAR FRUSTRATED: If your husband really loves you, he will want to get over this hang-up. Ask your doctor to talk with him. He needs some sessions with a professional to straighten him out. He's being unfair to you as well as to himself.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (26¢) envelope.

Working women of Dunlap's share dessert, salad, main dish recipes

The employees of Dunlap's are not only good saleswomen, but also good cooks. Their favorite recipes range from a Party Cheese Ball to Apple Muffins. Jenny Bartlett commented that all the employees agreed that Mrs. Willie McClain was their favorite cook at the store. Featured here is one of her most delicious cake recipes. The Fudge Cake is a rich concoction with a delicious icing of chocolate chips, marshmallow creme and nuts. Other recipes featured are special favorites of the individual cooks.

FAVORITE COOK — Dunlap's employees voted to feature Mrs. Willie McClain's recipe for Fudge Cake in the collection of recipes of the employees. Mrs. McClain displays the cake just before she cuts it for all the employees to sample.

FUDGE CAKE

By Willie McClain

2 1/4 c. sugar
1 c. butter (2 sticks sweet cream butter)
2 eggs
1 c. buttermilk
2 1/2 c. flour (sift before measuring)
1 tsp. soda
1/2 tsp. salt
2-3rd c. sifted cocoa
1 c. hot water
1 tsp. vanilla

Cream together sugar and butter. Add eggs one at a time. Add flour, soda, cocoa and salt mixture alternately with buttermilk. Add vanilla. Last add hot water.

Bake in three greased and floured 10" pans for 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Let cool 10 minutes before removing from pan.

ICING

1 stick butter
3 c. sugar
3/4 c. evaporated milk
1 1/2-oz. pkg. chocolate chips
17-oz. jar marshmallow creme
1 c. nuts
1 tsp. vanilla

Combine sugar, milk and butter; bring to a rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil 5 minutes over medium heat. (Mixture scorches easily.) Remove from heat; stir in chocolate chips until melted. Add marshmallow creme, nuts and vanilla, beating until well blended. Smooth on cool cake.

LONDON NUT COOKIE BARS

Prepare Dream Whip as directed. Cream powdered sugar, cream cheese and Dream Whip. Pour into completely cooled crust. Chill. Spread on top one can cherry pie filling.

APPLE MUFFINS

By Margurette Wooten

2 c. sifted flour
1/2 c. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1 egg
1 c. milk
1/4 c. shortening or oil
1 c. diced apples

Sift together flour, 1/4 cup sugar, salt, baking powder and cinnamon.

Blend in one well-beaten egg, milk, and melted and cooled shortening or oil.

Stir just enough to moisten ingredients.

Carefully fold in apples sweetened with 1/4 cup sugar. Apples may be fixed the night before and allowed to set.

Pour into well-greased muffin tins. Bake 20-25 minutes in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees). Makes 12 medium-sized muffins.

GREEN BEEF ENCHILADAS

By Debbie Sparks

1 pkg. corn tortillas
1 lb. ground beef
1 lb. grated longhorn cheese
3 cans green chilies, diced
2 med. onions, diced
4 cans cream of mushroom soup

Brown meat and drain. Heat tortillas just until soft. Cover bottom of 13x9" pan with 2 cans of soup.

When tortillas are soft, put ground beef, cheese, and onions in the center and roll up. Then place them in the pan. Cover them with the other 2 cans of soup, the rest of the cheese, onions, and green chilies.

Cover pan with foil and bake for 30 minutes in 300 degree oven.

For Chicken Enchiladas, use chicken instead of ground beef and use cream of chicken soup instead of cream of mushroom soup.

Texans killed in Colorado

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — K.D. Kuhn Jr., 27, of Longview, Tex., and Jimmy Ralph Brown, 24, of Atlanta, Tex., died Wednesday as their truck overturned in Rabbit Ears Pass.

State troopers reported Kuhn, at the wheel, lost control of the tractor-trailer at a curve and the vehicle skidded 1,000 feet before it overturned into a ditch. Officers said Kuhn was hurled from the truck and Brown was pinned inside. The accident occurred on U.S. 40 about five miles east of here in western Colorado.

Concert sparks loud applause

Community Concert Association members were treated to an entrancing performance Wednesday evening by the Franz Liszt Chamber Orchestra of Budapest.

The concert was the last in the 1975-76 season for the Big Spring Community Concert Association.

The performance of Henry Purcell's "Suite for Strings" made one wonder why it had ever been referred to as incidental music in 17th Century England. The master of the organ composed this beautiful number which featured an expert harpsichordist in the presentation here. Zsuzsa Pertis captivated the audience with her perfection in the performance.

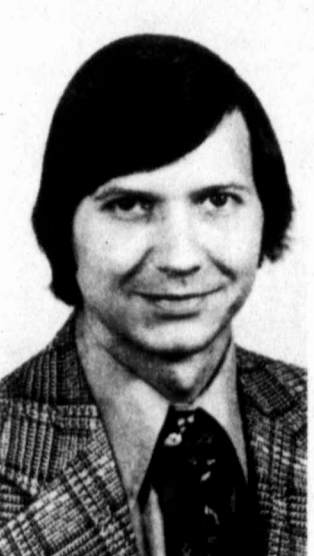

Johann Sebastian Bach's "Concerto in D minor for Two Violins" was a favorite of the Big Spring audience. The nostalgic effect of the strings in this number was especially apparent during the Largo. The audience broke into applause as the last notes died away, cheering the solo violinists, Janos Rolla and Kalman Kostyal.

The perfection of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's "Divertimento in F major" allowed the group to display their professional expertise, especially during the Rondo. Of course, the music of Peter Ilich Tchaikovsky is supreme in the field of string orchestras and his "Serenade for Strings in C major" was handled with the

Kozma named manager of Thornton's store

Paul Kozma, who has been with the firm since 1965, is the new manager of Thornton's Department Store in Big Spring.

PAUL KOZMA

Kozma started in the Men's Department at the Fourth and Oak Store in Abilene. He was promoted to assistant manager of the suburban store at Merchant Park Shopping Center in Abilene in 1968.

In 1970, he was transferred with the same position to the new Brownwood store. He remained there until August, 1972, when he returned to the 4th and Oak Street store in Abilene as a buyer of the Gift and Household Department.

Kozma graduated from Cooper High School in Abilene and attended McMurry College in Abilene. He married Miss Deidra Adams in 1965. They have two daughters, Tammy 9 and Paula 3. The family makes its home here at 2309 Allendale.

E. L. Thornton, founder of the chain bearing his name, began merchandising in 1919 with a fruit stand on South 2nd St.

Thornton's was first with the "city within itself" concept and the use of trading stamps. He traded his fruit stand for a grocery store on Oak Street. Thornton had come to Abilene from Arkansas in 1919.

In 1922 Thornton moved his store into a larger building at Oak and South 5th, south end of the present South 4th and Oak store. The big store currently has 250,000 square feet. The Thornton's department store operation is now the largest retail merchandise operation in the city, as well as in West Texas, and employs 550 people. In September, 1970, Thornton's opened a store in Brownwood and another store was opened in Sweetwater in 1974. In 1965 Thornton's Department Stores were bought by St. Louis-based Interco (formerly International Shoe Corp.)

Richard Hood came to Abilene in May 1967 as assistant general manager of the local Thornton operation for the new owners, Interco Inc. He was promoted to executive general manager August 31, 1968. The late E. L. Thornton subscribed to the creed that the satisfied customer is the most important factor in a successful business, and Hood says that "57 years later we feel this is still the secret to our success and is the reason we have grown to be the largest regional department store in West Texas."

Number of rigs producing dips

The number of producing oil rigs in Texas continues to drop. The number of operating wells as of Monday was 607, down from 621 a week earlier. The figure is well below the number of working rigs a month ago, 645, and March 24 a year ago, 647.

The number of rigs making holes in the entire United States rose this week from 1,520 a week ago, to 1,526 as of Monday. The total is still down from that of Feb. 23 which was 1,601, and that of March 24, 1975, which was 1,651.

WELCOME HOME — Smiling St. Louis Cardinal Lou Brock is greeted at home by Detroit Tiger Bill Freehan in Wednesday's game. Brock's long hit had centerfielder Ron LeFlore stumbling, so Brock tried to make it an inside-the-park homer.

Phenoms in bloom, tra la

Unknowns clout Cards

Since Wednesday was the first full day of exhibition baseball, this will be the first story of the year about the flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la.

They're known as phenoms and they were out in force... Jason Thompson, John Valle, Phil Mankowski, Chuck Scrivener, Bob Molinaro, Cleon Jones, Bob Oliver.

Cleon Jones? Bob Oliver? Those other folks all starred for the Detroit in the Tigers' 8-6 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals, but only two of them have ever appeared in a major league game and the numbers aren't very high — six games for Molinaro, four for Scrivener.

But Jones was in his 10th big league campaign and Oliver his seventh when they were cut adrift suddenly last summer. Jones by the New York Mets and Oliver by the Chicago White Sox this spring and both hit home runs — Jones also had a run-scoring double — as the Chisox defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-1.

"I should be worrying about getting my timing and stroke down, but instead I've been worrying about getting hits," said Jones, 33. "I have to, though. I ain't got a job here. If I don't hit now it's all over. If I didn't hit with the Mets — and usually I didn't in the spring — I knew I still had a job. Until last year, that is.

Recuperating slowly from a knee injury, Jones compounded his problems last spring when he was picked up by St. Petersburg, Fla., police after being found in a state of undress with a young lady in a parked van. Then he had a fatal run-in with Manager Yogi Berra and no one seemed to want him after the Mets dropped him.

Oliver, also 33, doesn't see himself going head-to-head with Jones for a spot on the White Sox' final roster.

"This club needs right-handed hitting and I think we can do it," he said. "I don't think that it's an either-or situation with Cleon or me. He's mainly an outfielder. I can play first or third and, in a pinch, the outfield."

The big blows by the Tigers' rookie contingent came in the late innings. A home run by outfielder Valle produced a 6-6 tie in the eighth and, after a triple by veteran Mickey Stanley in the ninth, Thompson, a non-roster first baseman, homered off Mike Wallace.

Meanwhile, third baseman Mankowski played well defensively and delivered two singles, one driving in a run. Shortstop Scrivener also did well in the field, singled and walked. And Molinaro singled in two trips.

Elsewhere, the Los Angeles Dodgers sent 14 batters to the plate against three Montreal pitchers in the eighth inning and poured across nine runs on nine hits and two walks in routing the Expos 13-4. The outburst included Bill Buckner's two-run triple and Manny Mota's two-run pinch single.

Bob Bailey's two-out, two-run double in the 10th inning sparked the world champion Cincinnati Reds over the Baltimore Orioles 4-1 and Graig Nettles drove in two runs with a pair of singles as the Yankees trounced the Mets 7-1.

Carlton Fisk's tie-breaking single in the seventh inning gave the Boston Red Sox a 7-6 victory over the Houston Astros. Five Atlanta errors and Tommy Hutton's two-run single helped the Philadelphia Phillies defeat the Braves 6-1 while Lee Stanton homered in the California Angels' 4-1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

The San Francisco Giants downed the Milwaukee Brewers 3-1 on Von Joshua's three-run homer and the Chicago Cubs scored three runs in the 10th inning, two on a dropped fly ball by San Diego's Bobby Valentine, and beat the Padres 9-6.

Newly acquired Dave Nelson singled twice, drove in a run and stole home to lead the Kansas City Royals over his old club, the Texas Rangers, 8-3.

Center fielder Dave Stegman led the University of Arizona's 17-hit parade with five-for-five, including a home run and a triple, as the Wildcats overpowered the Oakland A's 12-5. And Larry Hise's two-run double highlighted the Minnesota Twins' 6-2 decision over the White Sox' 'B' squad.

In other developments, Ron Swoboda, who turned from baseball to broadcasting in 1973, will try to make a comeback with the Mets while free agent pitcher Andy Messersmith turned down a new and final offer from his old team, the Dodgers. The club said it was "slightly higher" than the $540,000 three-year package previously offered.

Midwest Division of NBA so bad . . .

The Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association is so bad it seems the only way for someone to win a game is to play another member of the division.

That's what happened Wednesday night. The Detroit Pistons whipped the Kansas City Kings 130-117 since the NBA insists on playing to a decision, but the Seattle SuperSonics drubbed the Milwaukee Bucks 135-110 and the Boston Celtics downed the Chicago Bulls 94-87. That left 31-41 Milwaukee two games in front of 29-43 Detroit, which moved into second place by one-half game over 29-44 Kansas City. Chicago, 22-50, is nine games from the top.

In the only other NBA action, the Philadelphia 76ers trounced the New York Knicks 118-100.

Bob Lanier's 29 points sparked the Pistons past Kansas City both on the scoreboard and in the standings. The Kings stayed even until Lanier, Curtis Rowe and Eric Money combined to shoot Detroit into a 69-60 halftime lead.

In the third period, Lanier scored 14 to give the Pistons a 22-point lead. Money finished with 19 points, Rowe 17 and George Trapp 15. Nate Archibald had 26 for the losers.

SuperSonics 135, Bucks 110

In a rare starting role, second-year forward Talvin Skinner grabbed 13 rebounds and scored a career-high 26 points. Skinner was pressed into service to replace Leonard Gray, who injured a knee Tuesday and is out for the season. At one point, he sank nine shots in a row.

Milwaukee led 18-13 with five minutes to go in the first quarter but Seattle began to dominate the backboards and outscored the Bucks 18-4 for a 31-22 edge. The Sonics eventually opened a 28-point bulge and took undisputed possession of second place in the Pacific Division, one-half game up on idle Los Angeles. Bruce Seals paced Seattle with 27 points while Brian Winters topped the Bucks with 20.

Celtics 94, Bulls 87

Dave Covens ignited Boston's fast break in the third period and John Havlicek finished it off with 12 points in the session. Charlie Scott followed the third-period outburst with five long-range bombs in the fourth quarter that cut off Chicago rallies. Chicago held a 54-49 lead in the second period when the Celtics ran off 13 straight points for a 62-54 advantage. Havlicek led all scorers with 20 points.

76ers 118, Knicks 100

Philadelphia was paced by Doug Collins with 26 points in defeating the Knicks for the first time in five games. The 76ers made 15 of 25 shots in the third period in boosting a 12-point halftime lead to 90-71. Fred Carter added 24 points for the 76ers and Lloyd Free had 22. Spencer Haywood led New York with 22. The Sixers lead idle Buffalo by one-half game in the Atlantic Division's second-place race.

Johnson on AA, Region V teams

As announced here yesterday, Marvin Johnson, the high-scoring ace of the Howard College Hawks, was selected as an All-American and All-Region V by the National Junior College Athletic Association for their 1976 teams.

The NJCAA has eight members on each of its first three teams and 29 on honorable mention. Joining Howard's 6'5" sophomore on the first team are: Jerry Luckett of Southeastern CC, Burlington, Iowa; Ron Bell of Cayuga CC, Auburn, N.Y.; Robert Gunn of Bacone College, Bacone, Oklahoma; Marvin Johnson, 6'5", Howard College, Big Spring, Texas; Jarvis Reynolds, 6'8", DeKalb Community College, Decatur, Georgia; Kenny Davis, 6'8", College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls, Idaho; Russ Oliver, 6'5", Parkland College, Champaign, Illinois; Karlton Hilton, 6'6", Anderson College, Anderson, South Carolina.

The only player from a Texas school, other than Johnson, to make one of the top three teams is Mike Schultz, 6'8", of San Jacinto College, Pasadena, who made the second team.

Two players from the Northern Conference of Region V made honorable mention. Vinnie Johnson of McLennan CC, Waco and Gary Reese of Henderson County Junior College, Athens.

Marvin Johnson made the All-Region V team for the second straight year. Lawrence Butler, second to Johnson in the Western Conference in scoring, of Western Texas and Alonzo Campbell of Amarillo also represent the Western Conference on the All-Region V team.

Vinnie Johnson, Most Valuable Player of the Region V Tournament, and his teammate John Derrick, both of McLennan, represent the Northern Conference.

Butler and Vinnie Johnson are freshmen and the rest are sophomores.

Pearl 'The Earl' sparks Wayland toward AIAW title

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — A stomach virus had kept her from solid food for two days, but Lusia Harris ate up the defense set for her by Penn State's women's basketball team.

"We didn't come all this way to lose," the 6-foot-3 Miss Harris said Wednesday after her 29 points helped Mississippi's Delta State open defense of its women's college basketball title with an 88-46 victory over Penn State.

Second-seeded Immaculata College of suburban Philadelphia and third-seeded Cal State-Fullerton also advanced to today's quarter-finals in the Association for Inter-collegiate Athletics for Women tournament.

Marianne Crawford-Stanley had 16 points and nine assists to help Immaculata beat Long Beach State 84-65 and move the Macs a step closer to regaining the title they held three years before losing to Delta in 1975.

Cal State-Fullerton, the West Coast champion, tied up the highest point total of the first round, beating Wisconsin-Lacrosse 103-85. Nancy Dunkel, a 6-2 center, had 27 points for the winners.

Delta was a heavy favorite against Penn State, which got a berth only because it was the host.

But after 4½ minutes, Delta led only 7-6 and the virus-stricken Miss Harris, also playing with tape around a ring finger she jammed a few games ago, had missed her first several shots.

After one miss, Miss Harris ripped off the tape, tossed it off the court and led Delta to 19 straight points, scoring 13 herself.

"The tape was more trouble than anything else. I felt better without it," said the 185-pound Miss Harris, who uses her inside power to gain position for soft jump shots.

Delta State, which has a 30-1 record, was joined here by more than 300 fans from Mississippi. They waved pompons, hoisted a Confederate flag and sang "Dixie."

Immaculata, 22-2 including a split of two regular-season games with Delta, brought a cheering section that included students, nuns and priests from the small Catholic women's college.

The Delta and Immaculata fans tried to chant one another down during the Immaculata game.

Crowds were sparse for the other six first-round games in which fourth-seeded Queens College of New York was beaten 91-80 by unseeded Mississippi College. Fifth-seeded Wayland Baptist of Texas beat Utah 85-46 with the aid of 16 points by Pearl "The Earl" Worrell, and sixth-seeded William Penn, a Quaker school in Iowa, gained a 78-70 victory over Tennessee Tech.

Other games saw seventh-seeded Montclair State of New Jersey defeat Portland State of Oregon 86-49, with the help of 25 points by Carol Blazewoj, and Sue Snider scored 33 points to help Baylor overcome a halftime deficit and down eighth-seeded Southern Connecticut 76-72.

THE UNDEFEATED MAY — Indiana's All-American Scott May (42) is shown in action in the Hoosiers' victory over Marquette 65-56 in the Mideast final. Now the Hoosiers, undefeated the last two regular seasons, meet UCLA, the last team to go undefeated two straight regular seasons.

Undefeated Hoosiers vs. defending champs

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Only two basketball teams ever have entered NCAA tournament competition undefeated for two straight years — and they play each other Saturday.

Indiana's No. 1-rated Hurryin' Hoosiers, unbeaten in regular-season competition since early 1974, and the fifth-ranked UCLA Bruins, undefeated in 1972 and 1973, collide in a nationally televised NCAA semifinal game Saturday afternoon in Philadelphia.

The winner will face either No. 3 Rutgers or No. 9 Michigan, the other tournament semifinalists, for the national championship Monday night.

The Bruins, led by Bill Walton, surged to a 20-point lead and withstood a frantic Indiana comeback to within two points before Hoosier center Steve Downing fouled out.

UCLA eventually beat Indiana 70-59 and went on to the national championship.

Then, in the season opener last November, again at St. Louis in front of a national television audience, Indiana pounded UCLA 84-64 behind All-American Scott May's 33 points.

The Hoosiers have won 29 straight since then, while the Bruins take a 26-4 mark into Saturday's heralded rematch.

"My concern earlier in the first-round (NCAA tourney) game (against St. John's) and the regional (against Alabama and Marquette) was that something might happen to deny our players the chance in the finals," Knight said. "What they have done in representing this university and our basketball program over the past four years has just been tremendous."

In those four years, the Hoosiers have won 106 games while losing just 12 — going 22-6, 23-5, 31-1 and 30-0 with two games left this year.

Indiana also won its fourth straight Big Ten championship this year and extended its conference record to 37 straight league victories. The Hoosiers also have won 57 consecutive regular-season games and 34 in a row at home.

"I'm just delighted that we're here and with the opportunity of winning the championship," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight, whose Hoosiers have won — either individually or collectively — nearly every college honor except the national title.

"I've said all along that my philosophy is the hope that all the teams play their best, that injuries or other such factors play no part," Knight said.

"We can accept the results of that with no regrets."

The Indiana-UCLA rivalry covers just seven previous meetings between the two Big Ten and Pac-8 powers. But the last two games have had tremendous intensity.

In the 1973 NCAA semifinals at St. Louis, course, there are twice as many turns "and it requires much more concentration and experience," says Daland.

Southern Cal's Steve Furniss, titlist in the 200-yard individual medley, would have three pages in the record book but for his one big mistake at the 1975 World Aquatic Games last July.

Racing the third leg on the men's 800-meter freestyle relay team, Furniss dove into the water too soon and the team was disqualified, depriving the foursome of Robin Backhaus, Jim Montgomery, Tim Shaw and American record holder Lee Engstrand of Tennessee are the favorites.

The most exciting race of the day loomed in the expected duel between Southern Cal's John Naber and Tim Shaw of Long Beach State in the 500-yard freestyle.

Naber has won the NCAA title in this event the past two years, while Shaw, a freshman and the 1975 Sullivan Award winner, owns the world record in the 400-meter freestyle — the metric equivalent of the 500-yard freestyle.

Also scheduled today at Brown University's pool are preliminaries and finals in the 50-yard freestyle, the 400-

NCAA swim meet Bad moment forgotten

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The only thing that bothers Bruce Furniss is last week's battle with the flu, which robbed him of six pounds. Any scars from his traumatic night in Cali, Colombia have long since healed.

Furniss, world record holder in the 200-meter freestyle and 200-meter individual medley, would have three pages in the record book but for his one big mistake at the 1975 World Aquatic Games last July.

Racing the third leg on the men's 800-meter freestyle relay team, Furniss dove into the water too soon and the team was disqualified, depriving the foursome of Robin Backhaus, Jim Montgomery, Tim Shaw and American record holder Lee Engstrand of Tennessee are the favorites.

Daland says the top five schools of Southern California, Indiana, UCLA, Tennessee and Alabama are bunched tightly in talent, but "if we swim a really good meet, there could be some distance between us and the rest of them."

To protect U.S. from deadly flu

Ford asks for vaccine money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fearing an epidemic of flu deaths next winter, President Ford is asking Congress for $135 million to finance production of enough vaccine to protect 200 million Americans against a new outbreak of swine flu virus.

The President said he wants the supplemental appropriation passed before the lawmakers' April recess so that by the end of November nearly every American citizen can be protected from the virus, which took 20 million lives around the world in a 1918 epidemic.

Ford said he wants the supplemental appropriation passed before the lawmakers' April recess so that by the end of November nearly every American citizen can be protected from the virus, which took 20 million lives

The vaccine will be available in September, October and November in schools, hospitals, doctors' offices and public health facilities in the largest mass immunization drive in U.S. history, Ford said.

The government will pay for production of the vaccine by private drug companies, but patients will have to pay for the flu shots themselves unless they are covered by government or private insurance.

Ford announced his decision to go ahead with the immunization campaign after a meeting Wednesday with 35 leading scientists, public health officials, drug executives, physicians and politicians.

"I've been advised that there is a very real possibility that unless we take effective counteraction there could be an epidemic of this dangerous disease next fall and winter here in the United States," the President told reporters.

"No one knows exactly how serious this threat could be," he said. "Nevertheless, we cannot afford to take a chance with the health of our nation."

Federal health experts said $135 million would produce about 200 million doses of swine virus vaccine, which would, in most cases, produce reactions no more serious than a sore arm.

About one out of every 100,000 persons is allergic to eggs and will not be able to take the vaccine, which is grown in fertilized chicken eggs. Health officials said those persons will be at a reduced risk of infection, however, if the rest of the population is immunized.

The virus, dormant nearly half a century, killed an estimated 548,000 Americans in 1918, more than died in World War I combat.

Early last month, a swine-like strain reappeared at Fort Dix, N.J., killing one trainee and infecting several hundred other personnel.

Virtually every American under the age of 50 is susceptible to swine virus infection when the new flu season begins this fall, the White House said. About 80 per cent of Americans over 50 have swine virus antibodies, indicating they had been exposed previously and developed natural immunity. But experts said those persons cannot be assured of protection without the vaccine if the disease reappears.

Air Force Association faces 'critical year'

The Big Spring Chapter of the Air Force Association faces "a critical year ahead," said Ralph Brooks Wednesday night after he was elected to a second term as the chapter's president.

Brooks, owner of Blum's Jewelers, said supporters of America's military are up against a tough program with the liberal element in Congress.

This element, Brooks said, wants to shift defense dollars into the Health, Education and Welfare Department budget.

"Our problem is getting behind Congress and letting the Congressmen know what we think," he said.

With the growing Soviet strength, the boiling situation in South Africa and the Mideast hotbed, Brooks said that more cuts in defense are not in the best interest of the U.S.

Other officers elected Tuesday to serve with Brooks are Ray Williams, vice president for command support; Mel Prather, secretary; and George Zachariah, treasurer.

Brooks appointed the following persons to head Air Force Assn committees: Ed White of Midland, area coordination; Jack Alexander, manpower support; A. J. Statser, awards; and J. Tom Graham, publicity.

Col. Robert Owens, wing commander at Webb, will serve as liaison officer.

Brooks said membership is being emphasized this year as Texas attempts to surpass California. Texas currently has 15,000 members to California's 18,000.

The local chapter hopes to grow from 550 members to as many as 750.

Brooks also announced he would form a past president's committee to brainstorm ways to help Webb remain open.

Brooks outlined to the membership the contents of a letter he had written to President Ford which contained five points about why Webb should remain an Air Force Base, and he urged members to write their own letters to the President.

WHICH ONE ALMOST BECAME AMERICA'S OFFICIAL FLAG?

The "Pine Tree Flag", a simple but dignified flag bearing the device "AN APPEAL TO HEAVEN" appeared as early as 1775 in Boston, and later in 1775 on the sea, the ensign of cruisers commissioned by George Washington. It was both beautiful and popular — but the pine tree had been so long connected with New England that it was not entirely acceptable as a symbol common to all the colonies.

AN APPEAL TO HEAVEN
PINE TREE FLAG

The "Rattlesnake Flag" was derived from Benjamin Franklin's famous political cartoon, published in 1754: a rattlesnake, severed in 13 pieces, each bearing the initial of one of the colonies, wriggled over the warning, "Unite or die." Twenty years later, the colonies were united into one fighting unit; the serpent was coiled for attack, hissing the defiant "DON'T TREAD ON ME." While the hissing reptile fit the colonial mood of revolution, it was felt that later, the snake symbol would be offensive.

DONT TREAD ON ME
THE RATTLESNAKE FLAG

The "Grand Union Flag" was raised on January 2, 1776, at Cambridge, Massachusetts, where the militia troops of the colonies gathered to form an army under the command of General Washington. It was raised, in Washington's words, "in honor of the united colonies." But it showed double allegiance - loyalty to Great Britain as shown by the presence of the "Union Jack"; and devotion to the cause of the American colonies, represented by the stripes — "thirteen lists symbolizing the number & union of the colonies."

Miners claim owners responsible Killer mine safety equipment modified?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Safety equipment that should have detected a buildup of volatile methane gas was tampered with prior to explosions that killed 26 men at a Kentucky coal mine, two miners charge.

The men, who formerly worked in the Scotia Coal Co. mine at Owen Fork, Ky., also told a Senate subcommittee Wednesday that company officials took steps to mislead federal inspectors who were checking safety standards in the shaft.

The mine's owners called the allegations "completely groundless."

Testimony was to continue today in the investigation by the Senate labor subcommittee of the March 9 and March 11 methane blasts at the Scotia mine.

The first explosion killed 15 miners. The second explosion took the lives of eight miners and three federal safety officials repairing and assessing damage from the first explosion.

Everett Boggs, 20, and Glen Sturgill, 24, both of Pound, Va., charged that methane monitoring devices designed to shut down equipment when methane reached near-explosive levels were deliberately tampered with to keep the equipment running.

They also told the subcommittee that when mine foremen learned that a safety inspector was on his way, they ordered temporary steps to make the air quality appear better than it was.

This was done by moving "curtains" designed to channel fresh air to the site of the expected inspections, they said. The air-ventilation curtains, which diverted fresh air from another part of the mine, are supposed to be used all the time, they testified.

But Boggs, whose brother, Dennis, died in the first explosion, said, "as soon as the inspector left, you would never see a curtain again."

Frank Thomas, executive vice president of the Blue Diamond Coal Co., Scotia's parent firm, told the senators, "Rumors and speculation that air was diverted from one part of the mine to another in anticipation of air checks by inspectors are completely groundless. This was not done."

Thomas and R.D. Cornwell, the general manager for the Scotia mine, said they made all efforts to comply with federal safety standards. They said the mine had experienced few methane problems in 14 years of operation and had a good safety record over-all.

But Committee Chairman Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., said the mine had "a history of ventilation problems." Since 1974 the mine was cited for 62 violations related to poor ventilation or excessive methane concentrations, said Williams, adding, "You have to wonder what the conditions were like between inspections."

Small earthquakes shake Mississippi valley area

By The Associated Press
It was a night of wonder and fright throughout the Mississippi River basin as the New Madrid fault came briefly to life, shaking tables and rattling dinner plates with two moderate earthquakes.

The quakes Wednesday night were measured at between 4.5 and 5 on the Richter Scale by the National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo. Damage was limited to downed power lines and disrupted telephone service in most areas, and no injuries were reported.

The tremors were felt from southern Illinois through Missouri and Arkansas to northeast Mississippi. They spread across Tennessee and as far south as Birmingham and Tuscaloosa, Ala.

A Richter reading of 4 can cause moderate damage in some cases. Each higher full step on the scale — which measures ground motion — represents activity 10 times greater. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906 was 8.25.

The New Madrid fault, named for New Madrid, Mo., begins north of Memphis and runs along the Mississippi River north to Ste. Genevieve, Mo. New Madrid was the scene of major quakes in 1811 and 1812 which altered the course of the Mississippi and formed Reelfoot Lake in northwest Tennessee.

Both Wednesday quakes, the first recorded at 7:41 p.m. EST and the second 20 minutes later, were centered in northeastern Arkansas.

State oil net decreases

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas' crude oil production in January was estimated Wednesday at 99,430,058 barrels, a decrease of 2,304,341 from January a year ago, says the railroad commission's oil and gas division.

The preliminary figures for January indicate that production was 15.31 per cent under the oil allowable for that month, the division said.

Texas' statewide oil allowable has been set at 100 per cent — with the exception of some fields — each month since April 1972.

Gupton named appeals judge

AUSTIN (AP) — Dist. Court Judge Thurman M. Gupton, 64, a veteran of 26 years on the 23rd Judicial Court bench, has been named a judge of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, effective April 1. Gov. Dolph Briscoe announced Tuesday that Gupton would succeed Judge W.A. Morrison on the state's highest criminal appellate court. Morrison resigned after serving since 1950. A lifelong resident of Brazoria County, he previously served as Brazoria County judge from 1947 to 1950, when he was appointed to fill an unexpired term of the 23rd Judicial District.

'Early Day Churches' exhibit opens April 1

The Heritage Museum plans to open an exhibit on "Early Day Churches" on Thursday, April 1.

The museum is still seeking a picture of the Church of Christ Tabernacle that was located on Fourth and Gregg Streets in the early years. They are also hunting a picture of the 1885 First Christian Church located on 4th and Gregg Streets.

The photographs will be copied and returned to the owners, according to museum officials.

The museum board reminds members of the annual Chuck Wagon party. It will be held in the near future and members are urged to renew their current memberships. Mrs. Walter Wheat, general chairman, and her committees are planning big things for the annual event.

The museum also reminds people that Bicentennial coins and historical calendars of early Big Spring are being sold at the museum.

Sunday will be the last chance to see the Pre-Colombian Art Exhibit, the beautiful old Indian baskets, and the art show by the Big County Art Association.

Wildcat action

Fisher Webb, Inc., Abilene will drill the No. 2 N. H. Reed Estate, an 8,400 foot wildcat 12 miles northwest of Sterling City. The well is one mile south of the one-well Sterling Northwest (Fusselman oil) field.

It is separated by the firm's No. 1-94 Reed, an 8,740-foot failure. It is 2-1/4 miles north of upper Cisco gas production in the Crede, East (upper Cisco gas and Wolfcamp oil) field.

Location is 990 feet from the north and east lines of 101-2-H&C.

The failure was abandoned April 9, 1974. No test shows were reported.

The discovery Sunset International Petroleum Corp. now operated by Crown Central Petroleum Corp. No. 1-94 Nick and John Reed, was finished Nov. 14, 1966, for 125 barrels of 52 gravity oil plus 22 barrels of water. Gas-oil ratio was 4,150-1, through a 16-64 inch choke and perforations at 8,654-62 feet.

THEY'RE YOUNG AND BEAUTIFUL — "Livin' On" performed by one of the international casts of "Up With People."

'Up With People' booked at Municipal Auditorium

A group of 50 exuberant men and women between the ages of 17 and 25 will come to the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium, 8 p.m. April 2 to do their best to make people happier. The name of the group is "Up With People". Most of those who watched this season's Super Bowl X have an idea of what the group is all about.

While here they will perform two hours of songs and dances, almost all original material composed by the "Up With People" members. They will do a "global medley", celebrating world brotherhood; several special Bicentennial numbers; and a medley of American songs dating to the time of the pilgrims, the only unoriginal selections.

"Up With People", an independent, nonprofit, nonsectarian, and apolitical organization, is celebrating its 10th anniversary. The group now numbers 450, divided into nine sections of 50 each. Members come from all parts of the U.S. and 17 foreign countries. They will spend a year, from July to July, performing in the Americas, Canada, the Far East and Europe.

Carol Armstrong, a 20-year-old member from Santa Ana, Calif., is now in Big Spring touting the group, and searching for housing for others in the cast. While here Ms. Armstrong will stay with Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Thomas Jr., 400 Washington. She hopes that other members of the community will volunteer to house cast members.

She tells of the selection process for joining "Up With People".

"Each year there is an almost total turnover. Only about five per cent of the cast is asked to stay on to help the new members," she said. "There are thousands of people interested in joining. After each show, those who want to apply come down and talk to cast members. That way everybody gets a personal interview," she added.

Selection is used entirely on one's ability to "get along with other people," according to Ms. Armstrong. Those selected are required to pay $3,500 for expenses for the coming year. This is supplemented by a large scholarship program, though, said Ms. Armstrong. "Once new members have been chosen, the cast spends five weeks in intensive rehearsal at "Up With People's" home base in Tucson, Ariz.

"Practice runs six days a week, 12 hours a day. And it's really hard," said Ms. Armstrong. "It is a very rewarding experience, though," she added.

From Big Spring, the group will travel to Kerrville, and then to San Antonio. Those interested in offering lodgings for cast members may contact the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and ask for Ms. Armstrong.

Tickets will also be available at the chamber. Prices are $2 for children and students, and $3 for adults.

Bergman tax charges dropped

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The prosecutor in the tax evasion case against Ingmar Bergman says all indictments against the Swedish director have been dropped.

"Bergman has not made false statements in his income tax return of 1971 and consequently there has been no crime committed," County Prosecutor Anders Nordenadler said Wednesday.

Soviet envoy leaves hospital

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet U.N. Ambassador Jacob Malik has left Glen Cove Hospital, 10 days after being involved in an auto crash that killed a mother of six. Malik, 70, wearing a neck brace, was discharged Wednesday. He had suffered cuts and bruises, two broken ribs and a contusion of his kidney.

Church 'buried' in rubble

Can faith move this mountain?

SEATTLE (AP) — The Holy Temple Church of God in Christ wanted to fill in a sloping area so it could build a new place of worship. But dump trucks carrying landfill kept coming, and now their slope runneth over.

Some 18 feet of broken concrete pavement, steel reinforcing rods and just plain rubble have buried the property. There have been floods in surrounding homes.

The lot used to slope. In November 1974, the church decided it needed about two feet of landfill, 1,500 cubic yards of dirt. But before the parade of trucks stopped this month, at least 17,000 yards were deposited.

Who's going to haul away the mess? "We aren't," said the City Hall bureaucrats who issued the landfill permit.

"We won't," says the contractor charged with illegally hauling in some of the excess.

"We can't," say the people who own the property.

Contractor Gary Merlino said his trucks dumped about 350 yards of dirt at the site last August and September at the invitation of the church. Since then, he said, at least 50 other contractors, spotting the pile of rubble, have dumped material there.

Church leaders asked the trucks to stop. They didn't. A Building Department inspector ordered the contractor to dig a ditch alongside the fill to catch drainage water that the landfill had begun diverting into the basements of nearby homes.

He did. But the dumping went on.

Neighbors complained and threatened lawsuits against the city. Two more stop work orders were added to one already posted at the site. The last two apparently did the trick. The trucks stopped.

Seattle, meanwhile, has filed a criminal complaint in Municipal Court against Merlino Construction Co., charging it with violation of the fill permit.

As for the Building Department inspector who allowed the dumping to continue in the face of stop work orders, Supt. Lester Gillis said: "He's got his years in this July and will be leaving so I'm not really raking him around."

Meanwhile, the Holy Temple Church of God in Christ is continuing to meet in an old house at the corner of what grew into a small mountain.
