Action/reaction: To hike city taxes?

Q. One of the city candidates in a radio program said that taxes may go up as much as 40 per cent after the election. Is this true, either through raising of taxes or re-evaluation of property?

A. A poll of the taxing agencies for the city, school, county and college brought identical answers among the four groups. There are no plans for a tax increase at this time. The evaluation firm, or appraising group, has no authority to raise taxes unless instructed by the individual taxing agencies. No major re-evaluation is being made at this time, officials say. A routine examination of all property improvements is under way in one section of town. These examinations are conducted at regular intervals, moving to different sections of town in different years.

The examination is for the purpose of determining if improvements have been made, or if property has been eliminated. In other cases, refrigerated air conditioning units may have replaced water coolers. Some owners may have enclosed a car port, built a fence, or converted a garage into a room.

These items change the value of property. In the particular area which has been checked this year, one home owner has become very concerned. It is a routine matter, since the taxing agencies cannot afford an over-all evaluation at this time and are simply checking one area of the town as is usually done each year.

Jack Watkins, a candidate, however, says this is not in keeping with the facts, as he understands them. Watkins maintains that the classification of these homes, which in effect is a re-evaluation, is being changed. A change in the classification, according to Watkins, represents an increase in the charge per square foot in arriving at the appraised value of the home.

Offbeat: 'Durn thing' stuck

One lady standing in the long line on the final day to obtain license tag stickers, sheepishly admitted that she was getting a second sticker. "I thought I'd try it out on the kitchen table and it stuck to the table. By the time I got the durn thing loose it was torn all to pieces," she added.

Scattered violence

Truckers' strike spreads

By The Associated Press

A Teamsters Union trucking strike spread across the country today, with scattered reports of violence, after negotiators failed to reach agreement on a new national master contract.

Negotiations, which continued unsuccessfully into the early morning, resumed shortly after 9:30 a.m. CST, with wages, fringe benefits and a cost-of-living clause still the sticking points.

The strike left the nation's economy facing a crunch because of the cut-back in the interstate flow of goods. The Teamsters haul about 60 per cent of the country's manufactured products.

The walkout was generally peaceful. But shots were fired at a trucker in Cleveland, in Detroit a 23-year-old man was beaten by several picketers when he tried to park his truck at a company lot, and rocks were thrown at trucks on a road in southwest Michigan.

In New York City, meanwhile, a strike by transit workers that would have affected about three million subway and bus riders was averted with the pre-dawn announcement of tentative agreement on a new contract for 34,000 transit workers.

But across the country, San Francisco faced a second day without public transport as a strike by about 1,900 of approximately 20,000 city workers protesting pay cuts continued. Labor leaders said picketing would spread to two city county hospitals.

Labor Secretary W. J. Usery Jr. and other federal officials had no comment on the Teamsters strike, and there was no immediate indication that the Ford administration would seek a Taft-Hartley injunction against the walkout.

The truckers' strike was building steam across the country even as Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons and William G. McIntyre, chief trucking industry negotiator, announced early this morning in a Chicago suburb that they had failed to settle on wages, fringe benefits and a cost-of-living clause in a new contract covering 400,000 members of the nation's largest union.

"There is a strike. Our people have walked off," said Fitzsimmons as picket lines appeared at truck depots from Connecticut to Georgia to Colorado and long haul drivers pulled their rigs off the road.

"We're in the ball park," the Teamsters leader said of a final industry offer made shortly before the strike began. He declined to elaborate. McIntyre told reporters the industry had substantially improved its offer in its final proposal.

Negotiators had worked feverishly through the night to hammer out a new contract for the New York City transit workers.

Transit Authority Chairman David Yonich said the pact calls for a cost-of-living hike of one cent an hour for each 3-point increase in the city's cost-of-living index.

There also is a wage-reopener clause to be invoked "in the event any city union receives benefits better than this contract" during the current fiscal crisis, Yonich said. The transit workers made an average of $16,541 a year under the old contract.

At the same time, the union agreed to a provision to increase productivity and worker efficiency, he said.

Texas teamsters strike

By The Associated Press

A nationwide strike by the Teamsters union has hit the major cities of Texas, threatening the supply of some grocery items and cutting sharply into interstate business.

William Baker, president of the Houston Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, said perishable items are hauled to that city almost exclusively by independent truckers and "the strike should have little effect in that area."

Spokesmen for major supermarkets said, however, that as much as 50 per cent of other grocery items are brought in by truck and this could have an impact if the strike is a long one.

Fred Pauly, president of Blue Ribbon Packing Co. of Houston, said worries about the strike probably caused the 1½ to 2 cents a pound increase in the wholesale price of beef during the previous three days.

Five interstate trucking firms were shut down in Austin with an estimated 65-80 Teamsters on strike. An official of Central Motor Freight, a nonunion company, said he expects business to decline by at least 25 per cent because of the loss of interstate shipments.

Pickets also were reported at trucking firms in Fort Worth, Abilene, Amarillo and other cities.

In Amarillo, about 700 truckers, warehousemen and office workers were affected by the walkout.

The number of workers affected throughout the state was not known at once.

The Teamsters struck early today in a dispute over wages, fringe benefits and a cost-of-living clause.

TAC rejects intervention

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Aeronautics Commission said today it had rejected the request of Chaparral Airlines Inc., Southwest Airlines Co. and Rio Airways Inc. to intervene in an application by two groups to serve Brownwood.

The commission said that Trans Regional Airlines Inc. and Gerald R. James, doing business as Eagle Commuter Airlines, would be the only parties in a consolidated hearing on service to Brownwood.

Webb AFB, new industry, utility rates, re-evaluation of property gain attention

City Council candidates discuss major issues

By MARJ CARPENTER

In the Big Spring City Council race, the issues have become hot and heavy during the two weeks prior to the election Saturday. But the issues are so numerous and varied, it has become difficult for the voters to determine who stands for what.

It was suggested each candidate select two issues which they consider of prime importance to Big Spring at this time. All of the candidates express hope that a large number of voters turn out for Saturday's elections. Polling hours will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Mayor Wade Choate, who was in Washington working in behalf of Webb Air Force Base and a possible industry for Big Spring, telephoned a Herald reporter in order to be included in the poll of candidates.

"The importance of the city election to the future of Big Spring at this time is so overwhelming that it is almost frightening," Mayor Choate stated. "Of top priority is the battle to keep Webb Air Force Base, coupled with an attempt to obtain additional industry. We have to have the contingency for a broad base of support from everyone in the community. Harmony and progress are absolute essentials at a time when we must work together for the good of all."

In selecting a second issue, the mayor said, "The second thing that immediately comes to mind has a wide scope. It is, of course, conservation in government within the realm of reality. By this, I mean that we will fight to keep taxes and costs down wherever possible. It's easy to say such things as 'keep down the cost of utilities,' but it is difficult when faced with the reality of higher gas costs paid by the company and higher cost of water, equipment and employees for the city. However, since I have spent so many hours in Washington and other places working for industry, I know that we must have a healthy economical tax base and financial structure to obtain that much needed industry."

H. V. (Burr) Crocker, retired fire chief, a candidate for mayor said, "Since I am a senior citizen, I am primarily concerned with the fact that the $3,000 homestead exemption granted to senior citizens has been eaten up by raises in water, sewer and garbage rates.

"I also am concerned with the city's financial responsibility. I think that the city commissioners should account to the public for every tax dollar spent in our community."

City councilmen and candidates also have firm ideas on the issues at stake in Saturday's election.

Harold Hall, incumbent in Place One, said, "Our number one concern in Big Spring at this time is industrial development. All of the things coupled with this concern, such as the approval of necessary state and federal grants, the need for government officials to be able to work together, the need for harmony and hard work instead of complaints and accusations, all back up this prime concern. We must have more industry for this community, which we all love, to survive."

"In keeping with this, my second concern would be the conservative operation needed at City Hall. Nobody wants higher taxes, which are not planned by the city and cannot be done in the city without the permission of the council. Our days of allotting revenue sharing funds for frills and extras are gone. The funds are going to have to be used for the general budget for expenses and we are going to have to pull in our belt. We will have to learn to deny requests that are considered good things, but not essentials."

"It has always amazed me that some public officials can sit at a meeting and happily tell whoever appears, 'Oh yes we will get that for you' and then say later, 'we must economize.'"

Eddie Acri, incumbent in Place Two who chose instead to run in Place One against Hall, said, "I think the proposed closing of Webb Air Force Base is of prime importance to this community. It could have a disastrous effect upon our economy."

"I personally feel that the elected officials in Washington, D. C., should have notified us sooner of this possible disaster. We have been close and had all these base-community relations and then the first news we hear about it is in a newspaper in Selma, Ala. I think our rapport with our elected officials should be better."

"The closing of the base would be a disaster to our citizens. It may be too late, but I think we should have had and need a paid lobbyist like the city helped finance when we were losing Texas International."

Acri, for his second area of concern, said, "I am deeply concerned with the high cost of utilities. I am concerned with the monthly gas cost clause and with the fact that our water increase is more than it should be to pay the rise in cost to the Colorado River Water Municipal District. I am also concerned with the double 50 cent increase in garbage rates and the promise of cleaner alleys that has not come about. The rise in sewer costs may be in line," he added.

Jack Watkins, first person to file as a candidate for Place Two, said that one of his two main concerns is "utilities and service charges. I propose that an extensive review be made of utilities. Our water, sewer and garbage rates have all increased, including two 50 cent increases for garbage pick-up, a $1 monthly increase for sewer service and water increases including 95 cents for the minimum rate and 20 cents a thousand gallons thereafter.

"I also am concerned with the rate (See Candidates, p. 2A, col. 1)

'Justice has been done,' says widow of Trooper Parks

Morales receives 10-year prison sentence

By JOHN EDWARDS
A two-day jury trial of a man accused of involuntary manslaughter of a state trooper ended with a verdict for the maximum 10-year prison sentence Wednesday.

Eusebio Morales, 27, who had pleaded guilty, flinched when the verdict of guilty was read.

Morales, Coahoma, continued staring at the floor — as he had through most of the trial — when District Clerk Peggy Crittenden read the punishment.

"Justice has been done," Mrs. Vicki Parks, widow of the trooper, said.

"Based on his (Morales') record, that was an appropriate sentence," District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III said. Morales served probation for driving while intoxicated twice and paid a fine for public intoxication once.

Morales shook his head when asked for comment minutes after the verdict was returned. And his attorney, Wayne Basden, advised Morales "not right now."

Morales was convicted of driving while intoxicated and accidentally killing State Trooper Jimmie W. Parks Aug. 10, 1975. Parks was talking to a motorist about a traffic violation on IS-20 at the time.

Morales left the courtroom with his arm over his wife's shoulder. He remains free on $15,000 bond, pending formal sentencing and a possible appeal. Basden said he had not decided whether to seek a new trial or appeal.

About 35 spectators waited until foreman A. C. Biby led the solemn jurors out about 6:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Among those watching were relatives of the defendant and victim, friends of the two and state troopers.

Phil Burleson, a special prosecutor from Dallas and Meridian, drew an objection from Basden when he challenged Morales' truthfulness.

Morales testified that he pleaded guilty to drunken driving twice and public drunkenness once although Morales did not believe he was guilty.

"We all know a plea of guilty is a technical plea," Basden said. The defense attorney said pleading was simply a means of "not contesting" a criminal case.

District Judge Ralph W. Caton overruled the objection.

Burleson called the objection an "attempt again to pull a sham before this judge and this jury."

"That's not my understanding of the law," Burleson added. "And I think it's just another effort to escape justice."

"Are we going to let him kill another Jimmie Parks before we send him to the penitentiary?" Burleson asked. "How many offenses does a fellow have to commit before he serves some time in the penitentiary?"

After hearing Basden call for compassion instead of the Old Testament "an eye for an eye" Burleson quoted the New Testament from the book of Galatians: "Whatsoever a man shall soweth that shall be reaped."

"I know some of you hate alcohol, as I do and as I know Eusebio Morales does now," Basden said.

Alcohol is "one of the most insidious substances invented by man," Basden said.

A newspaper story indicated 28 per cent of all youths "have a problem with drinking," Basden said.

"But do you hate the people that drink?" Basden asked. "No."

Morales has rehabilitated himself, the defense attorney said. "He is going to be a disciple, a person who goes out and says stay away from that stuff."

Morales, Basden said, "is a good man, not a thief, not a liar, not a burglar..."

"Is this the type of man you want to put in the penitentiary?" Basden asked. "What purpose could it possibly serve to send this man to the penitentiary?"

A government class taught by Mrs. Suzanne Haney at Coahoma High School listened to testimony in the trial Wednesday morning.

Watkins also expressed concern about the tax appraisal board re-evaluation of real property. This board is financed by all governmental agencies in the county, except one water district.

Watkins maintains that "The re-evaluation and re-checking that they are now doing in some of the residential areas is actually illegal because it will change part of the classifications of houses this year when others may not be changed until next year or the year after that."

He is especially concerned with the possible changing of classifications of homes on the tax rolls through what he refers to as spot checking by the tax appraisal office.

Ralph McLaughlin, the second candidate to file for Place Two, stated, "My main concern is to get new industry for Big Spring. To do this, we must have a favorable climate for industry and this would include a good tax base with no projected increases, and an economical operation of the budget. We need to actively solicit, fight for and work together to obtain industry."

"This brings up my other area of concern. City officials must be able to work together in close harmony and cooperation among themselves and with other governmental agencies within our county and the Permian Basin. It is basic and essential that we work for progress at this time in harmony."

Travis Floyd, a third candidate for Position Two, said that "One of my main concerns is that we have at least one meeting a month at 7 p.m. at City Hall so that the working man can attend."

"I don't mean that everybody should come up there and beef, but that if they have something they need to bring to the council, they can place it on the agenda two days ahead of time and appear."

"I think that we need to make a big drive to keep Webb Air Force Base and join together in community pride.

To do this, we must have harmony between our local enforcement agencies. I am extremely concerned that we have a loose connection somewhere between our local law enforcement agencies. Something needs to be done about this, if we are going to progress."

Kenneth Randall, the fourth candidate for Position Two, said, "My main concern is the economic activity in this community. We need to be getting industry. We need to be seeking industry whether the base is going to stay or go, because we cannot count on this one thing for such a big portion of our economy."

"City beautification is also an area that I think we should be concerned with in Big Spring. Our vacant lots are not only unsightly, they are also fire hazards and health hazards. I think we need city ordinances with teeth in them that can force owners to clean up their lots. I also think we need to tear down more abandoned and dilapidated buildings and do something about cleaning up and beautifying the edges of town, the west side of town and other areas."

Violated Texas Clean Air Act?

An assistant state attorney general filed a suit in 118th District Court Wednesday afternoon alleging Price Construction Inc. has violated the Texas Clean Air Act.

The firm constructed a portable asphalt-concrete plant without a permit from Nov. 9, 1975, to Dec. 4, 1975, the suit claims.

The equipment was operated without a permit until Dec. 18 when the construction permit was issued, the state official argues.

Being sought is a judgment fining the firm from $50 to $1,000 per day of violation and permanently enjoining construction of future facilities without a permit.

Homemade bomb blast kills 14-year-old maker

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — What was supposed to be a fizzling homemade smoke bomb exploded and killed its designer, Robert Scott Thomas, 14.

The tragedy occurred Wednesday when he made the smoke bomb from a bicycle handle bar stuffed with an explosive mixture of sulphur, sugar and salt peter. The device blew up, inflicting a massive wound in his chest.

A neighbor boy who saw the accident told police Thomas fashioned the bomb by hammering one end of the handle bar shut and stuffing it with the mixture.

"Then he lit the bomb and said it was a smoke bomb," said the boy who declined to be identified. "He started walking to the front yard and got about halfway down the

Duke of Duval 'took only what he needed'

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP) — A year ago today George B. Parr, the Duke of Duval, drove alone into an isolated area of the land he ruled, away from the people he had manipulated for decades and, at 74, looked at a bleak future in a federal prison.

The man who had controlled a large area of South Texas and had sent friends to Congress pondered over the events that had led to the practical dismantling of his political empire.

He reached for a pistol and shot himself in the head.

Texas Rangers found his body later.

His shadow still stands over Duval County and he is still remembered as a "benevolent dictator," a man who set his own rules, but let others share in the political spoils.

"I miss him a lot," said county auditor Walter Meeks, "we grew up together."

Meeks disagrees with those who saw Parr as an authoritarian ruler who imposed his will by force.

"His was a mixture of authority and benevolence," Meeks said. "He was generous, but in return he expected respect for his wishes."

Meeks said that although Parr took thousands of dollars from the various county agencies, "you can safely assume he died broke. It's hard to conceive of a man who had so much, yet had nothing when he died." Friends said that what little money Parr had was placed in a trust fund for the education of his daughter, Georgia, who was eight when Parr died.

"He never saved a dime," Meeks went on. "He didn't have to because if he wanted something, he could just reach out and get it. George never took more than he needed for the moment."

Meeks said the Parr authority so dominated county politics and county residents that he is still missed even though his political empire has been dismantled by a state investigation that has resulted in a long list of indictments of county officials, and by bickering among the political factions in the county.

By the time he died Parr was facing a federal indictment. His nephew Archer Parr was on his way to federal prison and the Carrillo family of Benavides, for many years a strong ally, had turned against him.

His death was believed to have opened a new era in county politics, but Meeks said it will be a long time before Duval County gets away from Parr's shadow.

"The people of Duval County are not yet ready for self-government," he said. Asked if he can visualize anyone else taking over the county in the manner in which Parr did, Meek replied "There's certainly no one in sight." The tall, slender, silver-haired auditor scoffs at reports that a new era in Duval County politics has dawned because 87 candidates filed for election to 30 elected posts up in the upcoming Democratic primary election.

"People outside the county are thinking that all the honest people in Duval County are now running for office, but everyone of them are running for office just so they can get a job in the courthouse," Meek said.

Meek said he believes the decades long control of the county by Parr will be replaced by a series of short term administrations who will stay honest because "no one administration will stay around that long."

Nothing was ever done locally to remove Parr from power, Meek said, because the people liked him, he was generous and "These people seem to take pride in a corrupt entity."

Several persons in the Mexican-American community of Duval County don't believe that Parr actually took his own life. They claim the body of a "wet back" (illegal alien) could have been substituted. One woman claims she knows the apartment building in Monterrey, Mexico, where the "Duke" now lives in exile. Another claims she saw him in a market at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico. Meek laughs at the reports. "That's a lot of bull," he said.

As for the immediate future, Parr's memory will have to be just that, a memory. Plans to hang his portrait in the county courthouse have been dropped. Meek says he is glad because "I was against it because it was instigated by the last man to stab him in the back politically, Manuel Amaya Jr. (a county commissioner)."

"He'll be missed by everyone around here. They knew there was a man in town they could turn to for help and he was generous," Meek said.

"I miss him. It was a comforting feeling to know that if I ever got into deep trouble, he'd stand behind me and pull strings to help me," Meek said.

Woman member resigns

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — The only female member of the Barbados parliament has quit her job and started the island's eighth political party — the United People's party.

O. Gertrude Eastmond, who resigned last week as junior health minister of the ruling Democratic Labor party — DLP — said her new party would make no room for "big shots" and would be structured to give people maximum participation.

Prices reverse downward trend

By The Associated Press
Supermarket shoppers who had been enjoying lower prices in the first part of 1976 found during March that the savings were too good to last, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

Increases for a wide range of items boosted the family grocery bill last month, although prices generally were lower than they were at the start of the year.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price in one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1976, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed a few price decreases during March — pork chops declined in eight cities, for example, and eggs in 10. But increases for butter, all-beef frankfurters and coffee offset the savings.

The marketbasket total at the checklist store was up during March in eight of the cities surveyed, increasing an average of 2.8 per cent. The total was down at the checklist store in four cities, decreasing an average 3.2 per cent, and was unchanged at the survey store in the 13th city, Miami. On an over-all basis, the marketbasket total at the start of April was a little less than 1 per cent higher than it was a month earlier.

During February, in contrast, the marketbasket total declined at the checklist store in 12 cities for an over-all monthly drop of

2.4 per cent. A comparison of prices now and at the start of the year showed encouraging news. The marketbasket total was down at the checklist store in 12 cities, with an average drop of about 3 per cent. The only increase was at the checklist store in Dallas, where the marketbasket total went up a little less than 1 per cent.

The March increases did not follow a consistent pattern in most cases. Items that were up in one city went down in another, reflecting local sales and specials rather than a general price trend.

Government officials have predicted that food prices will rise about 1 per cent during each of the first two quarters of this year, a smaller increase than in 1975. They are reluctant to forecast what will happen during the rest of 1976 since a lot depends on the size of summer harvests.

The lower pork prices in the latest AP survey reflect lower prices at the farm level. One reason is that the hog supply increased as the cost of feed grain came down.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

During February, in contrast, the marketbasket total declined at the checklist store in 12 cities for an over-all monthly drop of 2.4 per cent.

Ford should act, not talk

When a magazine has something exceptionally good, it often will re-copy parts of it or make an advance copy available to the press.

This advance publicity boosts news-stand sales. This is what Reader's Digest has done with an article written by James R. Schlesinger, former U.S. secretary of defense. The article will appear in the April issue, and it already is being widely quoted.

THE REASON is that Schlesinger was a defender of a strong American military. He lost a power struggle in President Ford's cabinet last year, and his departure was greeted with a great furor by those on the right who are urging a stronger America.

With the 40 military base closings that the Pentagon is announcing (including Webb AFB) and the 160 additional base cutbacks, the country should be interested in what Schlesinger has to say.

Although Schlesinger may have lost the in-fighting to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, he might not lose the battle for public opinion. He makes a lot of sense, whereas it's often difficult for Americans to follow what Kissinger is trying to say.

In the article Schlesinger asks: "Will the vitality of this nation be equal to the challenges of the future—as it has been to those of the past?"

Schlesinger notes that twice in this century the U.S. has been called upon to preserve the democracies of Western Europe.

"In both wars," he writes, "the United States could afford to wait—behind the protective screen of skirmishing free-world forces—and then mobilize at its own pace, intervening at a critical point."

"The situation has since dramatically changed. The decline of Europe and Japan means that there are no free-world forces to provide adequate protection or time for the United States to mobilize. "The steady rise to power of the Soviet Union and the immediacy of modern conflict mean that the United States now must depend, for both its own security and that of its allies, on forces in being."

SCHLESINGER NOTES that the world is now a single strategic stage. There are no "theaters" as in World War II.

"What is the American role in this changing power balance?" Schlesinger asks. "Put in the bluntest terms, it is diminishing. What is perhaps even more serious is that our nations' perception of American strength and steadfastness is shrinking even more rapidly than is our physical power."

Schlesinger contends that the American public is not really interested in the decline of American power and prestige, only uniformed. In polls the American people have overwhelmingly indicated that they are prepared to pay the price to maintain American power. But the public is given soothing stories which mask the underlying trends," Schlesinger writes.

I think Schlesinger is right. Vietnam was one kind of thing. Weakening American strength to the point where peace on the globe is endangered is another.

The cutback on the U.S. military should be reversed right now. Otherwise, Secretary Kissinger will rattle his sword at Cuba, only to discover that he has little sword left to rattle.

The real danger is that conventional American forces may become so drawn-down that the only response we have left is World War III.

If President Ford is really interested in keeping the U.S. the number one world power, he should begin to act and not just talk.

April Fool's Day

Around the rim

Marj Carpenter

Here it is April Fools' Day. It happens every year. I've always thought there ought to be some way to give a special April Fools' Day award to whatever public official contributed the most during the year to pulling the wool over the eyes of John Q. Public.

A lot of people think it ought to go to the Big Spring Herald this year because the general public has a deep-cut feeling that Webb is going to go.

HOWEVER, THE STAFF at the Herald is fully aware that Webb will probably go. But since we are the first base to have to include an impact study and a hearing, we don't intend to give up without a fight. So, with all clear conscience, I couldn't give the award to the Herald.

I gave some thought to awarding it to the school board candidate who appeared on one local radio broadcast and said that the superintendent of schools had told the candidate to pick another candidate to run against.

The patient superintendent of schools spent a great deal of time trying to explain that in the school board race, candidates do not run against each other, but simply at-large.

Then I thought about the city candidate that in February went around town with a picture clutched in his hand showing city trucks by the mayor's house. He was alleged to have been telling people that the city paved the mayor's alley.

The mayor's alley was paved when he thought the property several years ago, long before he was mayor. So I thought whoever was flaunting those pictures around might ought to be dubbed the April Fool of the year.

However, there were other candidates. There was the fellow who claimed that the entire answer to solving the city's financial woes would be to cut the high salaries of the top city officials.

But if you cut all of the top officials' salaries in half, you wouldn't save enough to pay the increase in the water bill to Colorado River Municipal Water District for more than two months. Then we could bring in idiots to take their places and pay somebody to lead them in and out the door.

I THOUGHT about giving the April Fool award to whatever individual went running to school administrators reporting that the coach's car had been taken to East Texas. The car was sitting in the school parking lot the entire time.

Or we might give the award to whoever was responsible for the wait of three days before burglary charges were officially filed on a man caught inside a building recently by city police. How could it possibly take that long?

Or we might seek out a winner for all of the gobbledegook that has surrounded the long battle about a fixed-base operation at the county airport.

There are volleyball players in the community who would like to give such an award to Howard College for their sudden announcement that volleyball had bitten the dust.

Some would definitely claim that the award ought to go to those who oppose setting up an Emergency Medical System in Howard County.

A strong contender for the award appeared Sunday when one councilman made the statement that he thought half the funds expended on the hike and bike trail should have gone to Moss Creek.

Because on April 4, 1974, the city council minutes reflect that the man making the statements made the motion to advertise for bids for bridges on the hike and bike trail.

Since the councilman was present when the revenue sharing funds were assigned for improvements at Comanche Trail Park and said nothing about Moss Creek at the time, he becomes an excellent candidate for an April Fool award.

IT'S KIND of like being in Congress when they declare war and after the armistice saying, "I'm against that war."

Come to think of it, there are so many candidates that there would have to be an awful lot of trophies. So I think I'll forget the whole thing.

But I will remember this. A wise old editor named Ed Erard once said, "The last three days before any election, don't believe anything you hear about anyone. Form your judgment before that time."

And, with the important city election here Saturday, I would say this. The future of Big Spring is crucial at this time. If we, the voters, do not get out and vote Saturday, the April Fool award definitely goes to us all.

No one bribes the U.S.

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON—One of the big problems in a national election is money. Most of the presidential candidates who have dropped out have said they did it because the well ran dry. Maccabee, a friend of mine, is very bitter about the system and blames our allies for this.

"Whenever a foreign country has an election the United States gives their politicians money. Why don't they give us money when we have an election?"

"Well, for one thing, Maccabee, it's against the law."

IT'S AGAINST the law in their countries, too, but that doesn't seem to stop the CIA from financing elections all over the world. Look at Italy. The CIA has poured millions of dollars into Italian elections. You would think Italy would show its gratitude by giving our politicians some money in exchange. After all, friendship isn't a one-way street.

"I don't think you understand," I said. "The reason we support politicians in Italy is so that the country won't go Communist. It's to our interest to see the wrong government doesn't get in. Italy has nothing to fear from us no matter which party wins, so there is no reason for her secret service to bribe any of our candidates."

"THAT'S JUST an excuse. I think the Italians are cheap. They don't want to spend a nickel on our elections. All their politicians know how to do is take money from us. But when the shoe is on the other foot and our candidates are going broke they look the other way. I think we should pass a law which says that we don't interfere in any country's elections unless they're willing to interfere in ours."

"That's not fair," I told Maccabee. "Most of the politicians we've supported in other countries have accepted money from the CIA on the condition they wouldn't have to give it back. How would we look if we went to a foreign dictator and said 'Look, we've put you in office. Now it's your turn to give us the wherewithal to put one of our people in power.'"

Maccabee said, "What's wrong with that? Look what we did in Chile. We made it possible for a bunch of unknown army officers to take over the country. Without our dough they might never have been able to do it. They're riding high now. The least they could do to show their gratitude is finance our presidential elections in 1976."

"But it would be wrong," I protested. "If Chile financed our presidential candidates they would be interfering in our domestic affairs. You don't want that do you?"

"WE INTERFERE in their domestic affairs. I'll bet you there hasn't been an election in the free world that the United States hasn't tried to swing with money. I'm not against it, all I'm saying is there should be a 'quid pro quo.' If we help them get elected they should help our people get elected. That's what allies are for."

"The only thing wrong with your argument," I told Maccabee, "is that intelligence agencies of these countries don't have money to throw around the way the CIA does. A million dollars to bribe one of our politicians is a lot of money for them to spend."

Tangled in barbed wire of realities

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's progress toward a cleaner environment seems to be getting tangled in the barbed wire of some physical, human and economic realities.

For some time, say the grimmer of the critics, the entire movement seemed capable of soaring over the obstructions. But now, they maintain, the environmentalists are being brought back to earth.

Just what the consequences will be isn't entirely clear, but lives, jobs, prices, profits and availability of products are involved, and there are plenty of people willing to stake everything on one or more of them.

A major paper and wood products manufacturer maintains "there is every possibility" its pollution-control measures will create even more damage, some of it not immediately seen.

A research organization finds that in order to comply with environmental requirements, some companies would have to make sizable increases in their use of energy, thus conflicting with another national goal.

The Environmental Protection Agency last month exempted eight steel plants from new water pollution restraints, saying compliance costs might endanger their existence and that of an entire local economy.

The goal of eliminating all pollution from a plant, said C. R. Dahl, president of Crown-Zellerbach Corp., which says it is spending $190 million to clean up the environment, is an "illusion."

In a talk to the Chamber of Commerce of Camas-Washougal, Wash., he stated: "If pollution control regulations remain unmodified, there is every possibility that the control measures will contribute more to the degradation of the total environment than to its improvement."

To seek total cleansing is to squander billions, he suggested, because the environment is capable of harmlessly assimilating some degree of pollution. And then there is the rule of diminishing returns.

In the field of air quality control, he said, "moving from 98 per cent to 99.8 per cent purity requires four times as much purchased energy as it took to get from zero to 98 per cent control."

It is clear, he said, "that quadrupling the output of power from an electrical station at another source will surely offset the benefits of removing the additional 1.8 per cent at the control source."

In the news also are some research reports that are said to show a direct conflict between pollution control and energy conservation.

Sonnefeldt ruckus

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON—Facing his toughest Republican critics across the breakfast table last week, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger tried—but failed—to deflect their wrath by attributing the Sonnefeldt doctrine to sloppy State Department notetakers without actually repudiating it.

MEMBERS of the Study Committee, a group of conservative Republican Congressmen, were up in arms over a secret briefing in London last December by State Department counselor Helmut Sonnefeldt. He reported last week that Sonnefeldt had told U.S. ambassadors to European nations that the U.S. should strive for a permanent "organic" relationship between the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe to avoid World War III.

Breakfasting with the Study Committee three days later, Dr. Kissinger suggested our column was based on inaccurate State Department cables. Trying to keep up with the Secretary of State's smoothly flowing prose, some present even thought he had totally rejected the substance of the Sonnefeldt doctrine. In fact, he had not.

"Henry's answer did not satisfy me or, I suppose, any of the others," one Study Committee member, a strong supporter of President Ford, told us. Therefore, the ruckus over the Sonnefeldt doctrine will continue until it is unequivocally repudiated by Kissinger or the President himself.

The breakfast meeting, sought for nearly two years by conservative Congressmen seeking a first-hand grilling of Kissinger, immediately

Nearly a year ago, a study by Arthur D. Little Inc. indicated that the steel industry would have to increase its energy consumption 11 per cent to meet the 1983 pollution-control requirements.

Now, says Business Week magazine, a study made for the Commerce Department concludes that environmental controls will force the iron and steel industry to use 10 per cent more energy.

With both energy and environment considered top priority goals, any reports of this sort are bound to be questioned and evaluated critically for months and perhaps years, but at the moment a first-class conflict seems to exist.

turned to the Sonnefeldt doctrine. Rep. Edward J. Derwinski of Illinois, one of Mr. Ford's most important conservative backers and a national leader in the Polish-American community, suggested the Sonnefeldt doctrine is "the straw that broke the camel's back" following U.S. acquiescence at Helsinki in Soviet control over the Baltic states.

DERWINSKI REFLECTED rising anger among ethnic nationality groups that could affect not only Mr. Ford's contest with Ronald Reagan for the Republican presidential nomination but the November general election as well. Accordingly, Derwinski told Kissinger, the Sonnefeldt doctrine must be disposed of as quickly as possible.

In reply, Kissinger said he had not read the State Department cable reporting Sonnefeldt's briefing and did not know what it contained until he read our column (though, in fact, he was in London for that meeting). Kissinger next went into what one Congressman called "a song and dance," describing how some junior foreign service officer takes notes on such briefings, from which another diplomat drafts the cable, typically leading to distortions.

Kissinger said he could not control every State Department employee—interpreted by some Congressmen as an abandonment of Sonnefeldt. More likely, however, Kissinger was casting blame on that nameless junior notetaker, because he reassured the conservative House members that Sonnefeldt is "a hard-liner just like you."

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

We recently had the pleasure of staying overnight at your Comanche Trail Campground, and even though we arrived too late at night to secure a water and electric hook up, we were delighted to find such a nice overnight spot. Never have we run across a campground that provided such facilities free of charge. Also appreciated was the patrol by the police car.

Big Spring is indeed a delightful area, and we were waited on by many gracious people in your stores and food markets.

RAY GOODRICH
Magolia, Calif.

Dear Editor:

As a service organization, the Jaycees perform many useful services for our community but that does not mean we must approve of everything they do under their name.

Like Troy Bryant, I feel any money gained from their Rattlesnake Roundup to be ill-gotten gains from an activity that shows very little sense of stewardship for our land and its creatures.

In an effort not to criticize without offering a constructive alternative, why not encourage the Jaycees to sponsor an annual Trash Roundup and Recycling Spree instead of the detrimental activity above? This would be an activity in which all could take part—even children and senior citizens. Prizes could be given for the greatest overall tonnage and for the greatest separate weights of recyclable paper, metal, glass, etc. It could even be surrounded with appropriate hoopla such as a Trash Parade ending at the sanitary landfill and/or recycling collection point.

Perhaps Big Spring's founding industry, the T&P Railroad, would make part of their rail yard available as a collection point and site for subsequent festivities. They might even provide a hopper car or two to transfer recyclable trash to some larger city for disposal! The parade would be led by (who else?) Miss Recycled Trash of 1977! She will be presented at a gala pageant the week before. The awards could be presented at the Trash Food Feast and Dump Dance the evening of the Big Collection. Once you start thinking about it, there's no end to ideas to create a whingdinger of an event. Why, we could eclipse Terlingua!

Surely such a proposal could create nothing but good feelings in and for town while at the same time providing ample opportunities for raising money and spirits at the same time. It even sets a good example for our youth instead of a questionable one. I

Britain's 'Great Soldier' buried

WINDSOR, England (AP) — With booming guns and muffled drums, Britain paid its last tribute today to Montgomery of Alamein. A black beret with two silver badges, the battlefield trademark of Britain's great World War II soldier, rode atop his flag-draped coffin between military pallbearers who included five field marshals and nuncios representing the Allied comrades in arms. Nineteen guns boomed a field marshal's salute and muffled drums rolled as six black horses slowly drew the gun carriage bearing Montgomery's coffin between more than 1,000 picked soldiers and thousands of ordinary Britons to a funeral service at Windsor Castle. There, in the 500-year-old St. George's Chapel where the exclusive Order of the Garter holds its ceremonies, a congregation of military and civilian notables from many nations sang, "The strife is o'er, the battle won. Then Field Marshal Viscount Bernard Law Montgomery of Alamein was taken to be buried beneath a yew tree in the country village where he died a week ago at the age of 88. Gen. Alexander Haig, supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, represented the United States at the funeral. The Soviet Union sent one of its own war heroes — Aviation Minister Sergei Rudenko — to the funeral along with a rare tribute that recalled Montgomery's leadership in the North African campaign of 1942-43. In all, 39 military attaches from foreign embassies, including West Germany's, attended.

GREAT SOLDIER BURIED — The Union Jack draped coffin of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery leaves St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle after today's funeral service. On top of the coffin are Monty's familiar black beret with its two badges — The Tank Corps and his insignia of rank — his Field Marshal's baton and sword. Monty, the nation's greatest soldier this century who died last week at the age of 88, will be buried near his Alton, Hampshire home.

All blemishes not acne

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What does an astringent do for an oily skin? Is it really good for the skin? Does it merely get rid of the oil or does it help get rid of the blemishes, too?

I have these bumps on my face. They are not yet pimples, but someday they will be if I don't take care of them properly. Will astringent help? I am 16. — Miss T. D.

An astringent is an agent that causes contraction of tissue. Preparations such as aluminum acetate solutions have an astringent and antiseptic action on the skin.

But I don't believe it would be wise for you to start doctoring yourself at this point. You may be panicking. Such "bumps" can be expected at your age. If they appear more prominent during your menstrual periods, the cause can be in the rise of hormonal activity at those times.

Lotions and creams of any type can plug up pores and provoke the very thing you want to avoid, a build-up of sebum in the pores. The best thing you can do at this point is to learn proper hygiene. I mean washing your face. Too many young people settle for a lick and a promise without even rinsing. Then they douse their faces with these various preparations.

Wash thoroughly with suds from plain soap. Take plenty of time. Then rinse completely and repeatedly with plain water, alternating hot and cold. Dry with a clean towel and don't scrub.

In acne, astringents are sometimes used to contract facial skin to discourage excessive oiliness. For now, stick with the hygiene method I outlined above and see if it doesn't bring improvement. (For a further discussion of other aspects of acne, write for my booklet, "Acne, The Teenage Problem." Send 25 cents to me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped self-addressed envelope.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would appreciate some information on the I. U. D. (intrauterine contraceptive device). I have been told that it should be replaced with a new one after five years, as it loses its effectiveness. A girlfriend told me every two or three years, and my sister's gynecologist told her it never has to be replaced, that it never loses its effectiveness.

How could there be three different views? Which is right? — S. C.

My consultant agrees with the third view. I. U. D.'s are removed or replaced only if they cause such symptoms as pain, excessive bleeding, discharge, or if they appear to be dislodged.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 62-year-old widow with diabetes. I gave up my before-dinner drink, stay strictly on my diet, and take no medication. My fasting blood sugar is 90.

On a recent TV program, someone said that falling in love would make the sugar go up. Really now, this is just too much. I wonder if I could afford a slight crush on some nice man before I die without my blood sugar going through the ceiling? — Mrs. C. E. W.

There's no medical reason why you shouldn't go ahead and get as sweet on some nice gentleman as you care to. I have never heard of the love-sugar theory. From time to time I've referred to diabetes as a "sneaky disease," but it's not quite that sneaky.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been in the habit of lying down after I eat in the evening. Can you tell me if this is a dangerous habit? — T. E.

If this is your habit, and makes you comfortable, I see no reason why you should forego it. In fact, it can be advisable for those who suffer anginal pain (angina pectoris), a condition that can be accentuated after meals, particularly heavy meals.

With or without angina, no harm. A brief rest after a meal is preferred to strenuous exercise.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped self-addressed envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Crocker opposes front-yard garbage plan

Candidate for mayor makes formal statement

In his first formal statement since he announced for the office of Big Spring mayor, H. V. (Burr) Crocker said he believes that a city council has the responsibility of keeping a municipality on a sound financial footing; he is still opposed to the idea of front-yard garbage pick up; he believes that the chief job of a city manager is to implement the policies and decisions of a council; and he thinks a rumored re-evaluation of taxes is going to pose difficulties for much of the citizenry.

Crocker's statement: "After careful consideration and encouragement, I have decided to seek office of mayor of the City of Big Spring. In addition to offering the citizens of this community the benefit of my 42 years experience in municipal government, I feel that I have a political philosophy consistent with the main stream of the people of this community.

"I do not wish anyone to have any doubts as to where I stand on what I consider to be the critical issues facing this city. These are matters which I feel very strongly about.

"(1) The matter of eventual implementation of front yard pick up: Over 3,000 citizens of this city signed a petition opposing this. The city has spent thousands of tax dollars on equipment which would seem to be inconsistent with the implementation of the proposed front yard pick up. I will vigorously oppose the front yard pick up. To suggest that we revert to this plan is to simply disregard the desires of the overwhelming majority of the people of this city. Besides being overly expensive, the plan is simply not practical.

"(2) Financial responsibility: While I am certainly in favor of a progressive forward community, we must proceed cautiously. I believe that the city commission has the responsibility of being able to account to the public for every taxpayer's dollar. This is the responsibility of the elected officials. It should not be delegated.

"Every city in the nation should heed the warning of New York City. It is important in these days more than at any other time in the history of Big Spring. Any new projects should be taken on with the greatest of caution and any new personnel added to the existing payroll only after much consideration. I am alarmed that the city budget has increased far out of proportion with the national rate of inflation.

"It would be my intention to use the office of mayor to bring a halt to this type of spending.

"(3) Function of the city manager: The office of the city manager plays an important part in our municipal government. We have been fortunate in the past to have some able men to fill this important position. However, the office of the city manager is simply to implement the policies and decisions made by the elected officials. It should at all times be completely responsive to the people. I do not feel that our city government has been at all times, responsive to the wants and wishes of the citizens. The purpose of the city manager is not to insulate the elected officials from the wishes and desires of the citizens but to implement the policies and decisions of the elected officials. If I am elected mayor, I will not pass the responsibility of my elected office to the city manager.

"(4) City rates: The $3,000 exemption extended to our senior citizens has been taken away due to the recent raises of water, trash and sewer rates. The last garbage rate increase which was passed was not justified. Our water rates have been increased simply to enable this fund to subsidize other operations. The property owners will soon have their real property evaluated for

Court reverses Scurry County conviction

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today reversed the Scurry County conviction of J.N. Scott for allegedly fraudulently misrepresenting and selling securities because the state waited too long to prosecute.

Scott had been sentenced to five years in prison and fined $2,500.

The indictment against him was returned Nov. 21, 1973, alleging that the offense occurred July 10, 1968, over five years before the indictment. The applicable period of limitations is three years, the appeals court said.

The appeals court rejected Scott's original plea, noting that his briefs were filed too late and there appeared to be no error "that we should consider in the interest of justice."

It agreed, however, after reviewing Scott's motion for rehearing, that it should have considered whether the state's suit was barred by the statute of limitation.

House kills Kennedy assassination probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Rules Committee refused Wednesday to send to the House floor a resolution asking for a new investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The committee, which schedules most legislation for House action, voted to delay indefinitely a proposal that would have set up a special committee to reopen the Kennedy assassination investigation.

The same resolution would also have reopened investigations of the assassinations of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., as well as the attempt on Alabama Gov. George Wallace's life.

Most opponents of a new probe argued it would serve no purpose.

Reps. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, and Thomas Downing, D-Va., sponsors of the resolution, contended the American people had a right to know the truth about the death of Kennedy, his brother and King and the attempt on Gov. Wallace. They said that there was sufficient new evidence to warrant reopening all of the investigations. A motion to put off a decision on their proposal was approved 9 to 6.

No-fault backers seek House help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of a national no-fault automobile insurance law are taking their battle to the House after a defeat in the Senate that may end all chances for the bill this year.

Many backers see little chance of success in the House, where a similar no-fault bill died in 1974.

"I don't think it's hopeless, but I must admit it's a difficult situation," Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said Wednesday. The Senate had just voted 49 to 45 to return the legislation to the Commerce Committee for further study, a move to effectively kill the measure.

No-fault had been seen by consumer groups as one of the major consumer issues of the year, but it was strongly opposed by lawyers, who saw it as a threat to their legal business arising from automobile accidents, and by the White House.

Moss' office estimated the lawyers collect about $1.8 billion a year in legal fees from accident cases.

Moss, the bill's floor manager, said the Senate vote places the fate of no-fault with the House Commerce Committee. But that panel has had no-fault before it since last fall and hasn't planned hearings on it.

"There's no way that committee's going to vote out the bill after the action the Senate took" said an insurance industry official who lobbied against the bill.

The bill would have directed states to enact no-fault laws within four years and would have set up federal programs in states failing to comply. Opponents of the bill argued that states should decide whether to enact no-fault laws and not be pressured by the federal government — basically the same position taken by the administration. Sixteen states now have no-fault laws.

Under no-fault, a motorist who has an accident collects benefits from his own insurance company, no matter who is to blame.

Sponsors of the bill said the unexpected setback was the result of a heavy lobbying campaign by the Association of Trial Lawyers. No-fault would have restricted situations in which accident victims could sue.

"They raised a large war chest and they have been spending it," Moss said. "I guess it just proves that lobbying still exists and still works." The Consumer Federation of America, a consumer group backing the legislation, said the lawyers spent $100,000 lobbying.

A number of major insurers, including State Farm, the largest, backed the bill. But other industry groups opposed it.

Autopsy shows Marine died from head blows

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. Ethel Erickson, an assistant Harris County Medical Examiner, says an autopsy on the body of Marine recruit Lynn McClure showed he died of a softening of the brain caused by at least one blow from an unknown instrument.

Dr. Erickson said an injury from such a blow could result in death even if the person were wearing a protective helmet. She said it could have occurred in early 1975.

McClure, 20 of Lufkin, Tex., died March 13 in the Veteran's Administration Hospital here after being injured Dec. 5 in recruit training at San Diego, Calif.

Marine Corps spokesmen say McClure was participating in a drill involving pugil sticks, long poles with padded ends, when he suffered injuries.

The Marines said McClure was wearing full protective gear including a football helmet and a mask at the time of the accident.

McClure's stepfather, Hubert Calhoun of Lufkin, doesn't believe the Marines' story. Calhoun has had a private investigator working on the case.

Dr. Erickson said she could not describe the injury that caused the brain damage because McClure had undergone brain surgery and several operations for removal of blood clots after the Dec. 6 incident.

Irving Richards, an investigator for John Gyorkos, the McClure family attorney in San Diego, said two other marine recruits present at the time McClure collapsed, told him McClure was beaten into submission while being forced to fight eight or 10 men.

Calhoun said he hired a private investigator because his questions to the Marines have not been answered.

In San Diego, a Marine Corps spokesman said a thorough investigation of the case still is under way.

New Jersey Supreme Court rules

Karen Quinlan may be allowed to die

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — "This is the decision we have been praying for," said Julia Quinlan after learning her 22-year-old comatose daughter may be allowed to begin the natural process of dying.

The New Jersey Supreme Court ruled Wednesday the mechanical respirator keeping Karen Anne Quinlan alive for nearly a year in a "vegetative state" could be removed if doctors agree her condition is hopeless.

In a 7 to 0 decision, the court appointed Joseph Quinlan legal guardian of his daughter and said he could let her die if competent medical authorities decide the girl's condition is irreversible and that there is no reasonable possibility of her recovery.

She has been in a coma at St. Clare's Hospital in nearby Denville since April 15, 1975, after apparently ingesting alcohol and tranquilizers.

The state attorney general's office said there would be no immediate decision on whether to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court, the only avenue of appeal. The Quinlans said they would give the state time to consider an appeal before asking to have the respirator disconnected.

"We hope at the last minute the Lord will take her and we won't have to remove her from her respirator," the girl's father said.

But, he added, they will order the life support treatment stopped if left with that decision.

The Quinlans, flanked by three Roman Catholic priests at their parish church in Mount Arlington, sat calmly and faced a room full of reporters on Wednesday night. They discussed the court's decision that their daughter and others who are beyond medical restoration have a right to die, based on the constitutional protection of personal privacy.

Two days earlier, they had observed their daughter's 22nd birthday at a private Mass.

"There is no hope and there hasn't been any," said Mrs. Quinlan, who told reporters she wept when the family lawyer, Paul Armstrong, telephoned from Trenton to tell them of the decision.

"I feel this responsibility has been put on us by God. We have to act on it. Once we made our decision, we never had any doubt," Quinlan said. The Quinlans said their daughter's condition has not changed since last October, when one doctor said she was in "a persistent vegetative state."

State Atty. Gen. William F. Hyland said he has never opposed appointment of Quinlan as his daughter's guardian "as long as there were adequate safeguards imposed by the courts on his powers. I think the decision accomplishes this."

Morris County Prosecutor Donald G. Colleser, who also opposed the Quinlans, said, "I am freed now from prosecuting people who act with mercy and love in accordance with the Supreme Court's standards."

In its landmark decision, the court rejected the Quinlans' contentions that constitutional protections of freedom of religion and against cruel and unusual punishment provided a basis for ruling in their favor.

The justices said they believed the girl's choice "would be vindicated by the law" if she could make it.

Since her prognosis is "extremely poor and she will never return to cognitive life," the court said, the decision must be made by her father as legal guardian.

the respirator conflicts with their professional judgment, but they agreed with her father that the apparatus "at best can only prolong her inevitable slow deterioration and death."

Thus, the court said, if a medical point is reached beyond which there is no hope, then an individual's constitutional right to privacy dictates that the privilege of choosing death takes precedence over the duty of the state to preserve human life.

"We think that the state's interests weaken and the individual's right to privacy grows as the degree of bodily invasion increases and the prognosis dims," the court said. "Ultimately there comes a point at which the individual's rights overcome the state's interest."

The justices said they believed the girl's choice "would be vindicated by the law" if she could make it.

Since her prognosis is "extremely poor and she will never return to cognitive life," the court said, the decision must be made by her father as legal guardian.

Future right-to-die cases should rely on the Quinlan ruling without a case-by-case judicial review, the opinion said.

BIG SPRING — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Send for this non-operating model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any hearing aid, this non-working model will show you how tiny hearing help can be, and it's yours to keep, free. The actual aid works less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Beltone Hearing Aid Service, 805 East Third Street, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Dial 263-6181.

Doctor claims people make themselves sick

DALLAS (AP) — What you eat, drink, breathe, think and do can prevent a heart attack, a stroke, maybe even cancer, says Dr. John C. McCamy.

McCamy is a physician who believes more in preventive medicine than in saying this is what you have, and here's how we're going to treat it.

McCamy, in an interview, said if individuals would follow a few simple rules they could avoid those hours of sickness and those days in the hospital, cut the nation's medical costs by one-half and have a better life.

He said it would be a good idea to charge those individuals who refuse to follow the rules more for medical insurance than those who do, and "maybe when it hits the pocketbooks people will begin to take care of themselves."

The author of a book called "Human Life Styling", McCamy said anyone "can choose to be well and more doctors should be interested in preventing illness rather than just diagnosing it and treating it."

As a practicing physician in St. Petersburg, Fla., the 38-year-old McCamy said he was treating 100 patients a day and "I decided to try to find a way to prevent a person from becoming sick."

He said there are things an individual can do to ward off illness and to start with "get away from the garbage foods, the stuff you buy from the vending machines. Those foods are filled with drugs and can be very dangerous."

Next, McCamy said reduce stress and the best way to do that is "never over-react to a problem and handle one thing at a time. You are going to have your deadlines, but take the work as it comes, one step at a time."

The doctor, a graduate of the Medical College of Georgia, said you need 30 minutes of exercise each day and it doesn't matter what kind, jogging, walking, tennis, pushups, just do something.

He also suggested no smoking, a daily limit on how many drinks of booze you gulp, and plenty of fresh air.

Asked if he believed the individualist American would ever accept the preventative rules, McCamy said, "When you tell a person that a heart attack or a stroke is up to him I believe he will listen. Tell him a brief walk at lunch, rather than sitting around, will save his life, and that an apple rather than a piece of candy, can save him from a stroke, I believe he will listen."

McCamy added, "I tell you a person can choose to be well or to be sick. If he becomes ill, it is his own fault. If every person took action and tried to prevent illness and every doctor suggested preventive medicine, we could change the entire concept of medical care."

NOISE POLLUTION is just one of the ways our modern society has found to keep our nerves on edge. Researchers are now saying that excessive noise has a great deal to do with health, fatigue, and frayed tempers.

If you've lived in a house without carpeting, you've been exposed to some of this excessive noise. Sound bounces off exposed floors and is increased. Whether it's a crying child or running footsteps, everything is magnified.

So just one of the easeful ways carpeting has in the home is its quiet beauty. Carpeting, especially installed over the proper padding, muffles all sounds, from footsteps to shouts. Many sounds, like dropped toys, disappear completely on carpeting. Others are toned down.

Carpeting has other quiet ways to make us feel more relaxed, more comfortable, the softness underfoot, the appealing color and texture, work its psychological wonders. So surround yourself with peace and quiet... with carpeting!

Right now you can have a deep, sound muffling, velvety plush nylon carpet installed in your home from our collection of captivating colors, for a square yard price you won't believe. Come in... compare. You can't buy better!

Granny says heartburn leads to early divorce

DEAR ABBY: If you want to know why so many teenage marriages go on the rocks, just stand around a supermarket and notice what those young wives put into their shopping carts.

Nothing but TV dinners, frozen chicken pies and boxes of mixes. Anything that's quick and easy. Don't they teach girls in home economics how to make spaghetti, roast a chicken and broil fresh fish?

It's no wonder so many young husbands would rather grab a bite with "the boys" than come home for supper. Somebody should tell those lazy wives that the way to a man's heart is still through his stomach.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: There are plenty of young wives who can't slice a salami straight, and their husbands love them to pieces between attacks of indigestion and heartburn. Then there are gourmet cooks who could win prizes for their souffles, but their husbands prefer other "dishes." And by the way, Grandma, there's more than one way to a man's stomach.

DEAR ABBY: After so many letters of response, I would think that the man who wants to sue his parents for having him circumcised feels like people are picking on him.

Well, buddy, I have one thing to say to you: Consider yourself lucky that you don't live in the 18th century. Back in those days, they castrated young males to combine the power of the adult male singer with the high range of the female alto or soprano. Compared to that, I'd say that you got off lucky.

IOWAN

DEAR IOWAN: That's news to me. I'm unable to document your statement but would appreciate it if you would.

DEAR ABBY: Every Easter since we have been married, my husband has bought me an Easter plant. I have told him a dozen times that I would much rather have a corsage, but he goes right ahead the next Easter and buys me a plant.

He says a plant is more practical because he can plant it in the yard later. I say if that is what he has in mind when he buys me an Easter gift, he is thinking of HIMSELF, not ME. What do you think?

PREFERS A CORSAGE

DEAR PREFERS: You should be glad he remembers you at all. When it comes to expressing gratitude for your husband's thoughtfulness at Easter, you certainly do lay an egg.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 80-year-old man who lost his wife last year. I'm in good health, but I am lonely. I have become attracted to my widowed sister-in-law. (She was my wife's younger sister.) I never thought I would consider marrying again, but lately I am changing my mind because of this lady.

Is it wrong to have romantic feelings about a sister-in-law? She's 74 and a lot of fun, and she reminds me of my beloved wife.

FEELING GUILTY

DEAR FEELING: When your wife died, her sister ceased being your sister-in-law. She is now as eligible as any other single woman. If the romantic feelings are mutual, proceed without guilt. Neither of you needs parental consent.

ONLY THE SECOND — Merlin Peterson, right, Hermiston, Ore., recently became the second civilian employe of the Savannah, Ga. Army Depot to receive the Meritorious Civilian Service Award. This is the second highest available from the Department of Army's Commendation. Consisting of a medal, rosette and citation certificate, the presentation was made by Col. George L. Ford, left, commanding officer, in a ceremony at the depot in the presence of Peterson's family and fellow workers. He is now Chief of Missions Division head at Umatilla Army Depot. He is the son of Mrs. Ilette Peterson, 611 S. Douglas, Big Spring and the late Perry Peterson. He is a 1953 graduate of Big Spring High School and served as drum major his last two years in high school. He attended the University of Texas.

Ford will visit Texas

DALLAS (AP) — Texas, considered a key state in the Republican battle for the presidential nomination, will be the object of some courting by President Ford this month during two quick visits to the state.

White House sources Wednesday said only that "there are reports" that Ford will come to Texas around the second weekend in April, but other sources in Texas said the President will be in the state April 9-10 and again April 28-29.

Ford's visits will be political campaign affairs designed to shore up defenses in the state to meet the challenge of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan in the May 1 primary.

"It is a campaign trip and the whole thing is being coordinated by his campaign headquarters," said Texas GOP chairman Ray Hutchison.

Reports published in Dallas said Ford will first come to Texas on April 9 for a speech at the Alamo in San Antonio and then fly to Dallas for a political rally.

The next day he will hold a news conference and then go to Abilene and Amarillo for speeches there and then return to Washington.

The tentative schedule for the second trip has Ford landing at Fort Worth for a speech there and then flying to Houston for a fund-raising dinner.

The President also will visit Lubbock on April 29 and then will fly East to Tyler and possibly Longview.

Leaders of Cubs, Scouts whittling pageant plans

Boy Scout troop and Cub pack leaders met Tuesday to get a grip on plans for their historical pageant scheduled April 30 at the Comanche Trail Amphitheatre.

Charles Burks, director, and Bill Priebe, assistant, checked with event directors on the various episodes which Cubs and Scouts will present. There are more than a score of these ranging from Columbus' discovery of the new world, to the landing on the moon, all with emphasis on the heritage of this nation.

Boys and leaders are working up their costumes and props for these acts, which will be woven together in a narrative with four parts. In addition, there will be a rousing opening and patriotic finale.

Cubs and Scouts also are selling tickets to this pageant, a Bicentennial production, for $1. Bill Bradford, general chairman, urged the public to plan to see this.

"It is not just to encourage the boys," he said, "but rather to stir a sense of re-dedication on the part of all of us for our great nation as it enters its 200th year."

Two receive minor injuries in accidents

Two persons received minor injuries in two separate accidents in Big Spring Tuesday.

Conrad Mezick, 2401 Alabama, was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital, checked and released for bruises and abrasions. He was riding a bicycle on Birdwell Lane in the 1500 block. It was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Morrison Lee Donaghe, Sterling City Route.

Henry Walter Bell, 1405 E. 6th, was admitted to Hall-Bennett Hospital Tuesday afternoon for observation.

He was injured in an accident in the 1400 block of E. 6th. He was driving one vehicle and Robert Lee Wood, 600 Holbert, was driver of the second vehicle involved.

The cyclist accident occurred at 7:30 p.m. and the other accident at 4:45 p.m.

Houston policemen found innocent of wiretap charges

HOUSTON (AP) — M.L. "Joe" Singleton went back to his job as municipal clerk today and nine Houston policemen got their badges back with joyful greetings after being acquitted of alleged illegal wiretapping charges in federal court.

"It's better to be tried by 12 good citizens of Harris County than under the secrecy of a grand jury," said Singleton, former head of the police department's Criminal Intelligence Division.

Singleton and the nine Houston officers were charged with using police-made wiretaps and a room bug to illegally monitor suspects during 1972-1973. Shortly after the verdict was announced in the court of U.S. District Judge John V. Singleton Jr., Houston Police Chief B.G. "Pappy" Bond said the officers could have their old jobs back "in five seconds if they want."

Acquitted were Singleton, 52 and officers J.D. Belcher, 47; John W. Allen, 32; George Barringer, 30; Robert G. Blaylock, 39; Lloyd O. Dollar, 31; Thomas A. Hoffpauir, 36; Leonar C. Kitzmann Jr., 32; J.J. Rose, 45; and Homer A. Stevens, 31.

"I never lost faith with the public or citizens of their area," an emotional Belcher said. "That faith and trust was upheld today."

Shouts of joy and a few tears came from the police department building when the verdict was announced over the central station's paging system. The news then was relayed to all officers in patrol cars.

"After 23 years I'm finally proud to be a police officer in Houston, Tex.," Det. Andy Geffert said. "I was about ready to quit."

Seven police officers who had been granted immunity from prosecution testified for the government that they observed and participated in alleged wiretapping.

Yanks, Rangers or who?

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees claim pitcher Andy Messersmith no longer is a free agent. Messersmith says he is. And both sides in baseball's latest dispute were to appear before Commissioner Bowie Kuhn today to present their cases.

Kuhn will attempt to resolve the question of whether the Yankees have a valid claim to the 30-year-old pitcher, who was declared a free agent last December in an arbitrator's ruling that rocked baseball back on its spiked heels.

Kuhn sent a teletype message to all major league clubs Wednesday informing them that the Yankees "have presented evidence to this office" that Messersmith may be under contract to them.

The Yankees claim Messersmith's agent, Herb Osmond, entered into a four-year agreement — for an estimated $1.5 million — on behalf of the former Los Angeles Dodger pitcher. But Messersmith said he would not sign because the agreement entered into by Osmond had been altered significantly when the club drew up a formal contract.

"I will not sign with them," Messersmith said. "I was really getting pumped up. I was all set to go. I was packed, had my shoes dyed and was damn near out the door. Then Herb called and said, 'Don't go.'"

Entering the picture on Messersmith's behalf was Dick Moss, attorney for the Major League Players Association. Moss charged the Yankees' claim was "totally without merit and it will be appropriately challenged."

Kuhn must seek the answers to three obvious questions:

—Did Osmond have the right to sign an agreement for Messersmith?

—If he did, was such an agreement valid without Messersmith's signature?

—Did the terms in the original agreement differ substantially from the formal contract?

On the first question, Messersmith told The New York Times that Osmond "has no right to sign anything for me. He has no power of attorney." If that's true, the Yankees' only apparent recourse would be to sue Osmond.

The final point should be easy to answer when the agreement signed by Osmond is compared with the contract Messersmith has rejected.

Gabe Paul, president of the Yankees, accused Messersmith of "attempting to void the terms of the agreement," and there were rumors, denied by the pitcher, that he had received a more lucrative offer, reportedly from the Texas Rangers.

'I'm just crushed,' says 'Flat Toes'

By STARBUCK WOOLF
Special Elephant Correspondent

TUSKALOOSA, Ala. (AF) — The new sporting craze sweeping the nation, Elephant Ice Hockey, has officially opened its 1976 season this week.

For those unfamiliar with the game, the rules are simple: 10 men on each team with 15-foot hockey sticks riding on the backs of ice-skate-wearing elephants playing on a regulation-size hockey rink. At the end of the first ten-minute quarter, the team with the most goals, or most elephant riders still in the saddle, wins. Due to the smell, most Elephant Ice Hockey games have not gone beyond the first quarter.

The favorite to win all the pucks this year in their division is the Alabama "Dermie Packs" of the Lower South Eastern Conference of the E.I.H. league. They have all but three of their last season's starters back. Out for the season are Eddie "Trunkful" Barbaroosa, out with two broken legs; Sigmor "Zits" Mabulfung, out with two broken arms; and last year's goalie, the late Junior "Elephant Stopper" Sagafolk.

Coach "Flat Toes" Framatz of the "Dermie Packs" seemed optimistic about his team's chances this year:

"Well, we've had a good clean spring training camp. We got two new fine ice sweepers and injuries are way down from last season, mainly because of the new rule that states 'when an offensive player rushes the opposing goal on his mount, the goalie is now allowed to skate like crazy out of the way.'"

As of yet, the "Dermie Packs" have not finalized their 1976 schedule. Being the only Elephant Ice Hockey team in the world complicates matters.

But Coach Framatz is philosophical. "We may be the only E.I.H. team in the world, but we're the best."

NOW EVERYONE KICK — Just like it was rehearsed actor Jerry Lewis and a companion carrying his umbrella kick up their heels trying to get the ball in the hole Wednesday at the Greater Greensboro Open pro-am tournament.

Cavs beat tough trio

Jazz, Pete & Superdome

Coach Bill Fitch of Cleveland knows how to motivate his players.

"When I heard that Washington had lost, I told the players at halftime that we were up against a better team than Washington," Fitch said Wednesday after his Cavaliers defeated the New Orleans Jazz 110-101 and moved into first place in the National Basketball Association's Central Division, percentage points ahead of the Washington Capitals.

Cleveland has a 45-30 win-loss record for a .600 percentage. Washington, which dropped a 95-88 verdict to Golden State, is now 46-31 for .597.

In other NBA games Wednesday, Philadelphia edged Buffalo 107-103, Boston crushed Phoenix 122-102, Detroit stopped Chicago 102-96 and Seattle rolled over Los Angeles 120-109.

"The Jazz are quite a ball club and this Superdome is a tough place to play, as a lot of teams have found out lately," Fitch said. "Maravich (Jazz guard Pete) is amazing, and he makes it look so easy. (Henry) Bibby came in to replace Pete in the fourth period... and he just about killed us."

Jim Clemons scored 18 points — 12 in the final period — and Jim Chones and Austin Carr chipped in with 17 apiece to pace Cleveland. Maravich wound up with 21 points although sitting out the last 10 minutes of the game.

Bibby replaced Maravich and led a Jazz rally that cut Cleveland's 10-point lead to 95-92 with five minutes left before Clemons scored six points to ice the Cavs' victory.

Warriors 95, Bulls 88
Phil Smith's 10-point spurge in the fourth quarter guided Golden State to its victory over Washington. Rick Barry paced the Warriors with 22 points while Charlie Johnson and Jamaal Wilkes added 18 each. Smith finished with 14 points, but his 12-footer in the final period broke a 79-79 tie and put the Warriors ahead to stay. High for Washington was Phil Chenier with 21.

Pacers 107, Braves 103
Fourteen points by George McGinnis in the final 15 minutes carried Philadelphia over Buffalo and into second place in the NBA's Atlantic Division. McGinnis finished with 26 points.

Randy Smith and John Shumate paced Buffalo with 28 and 25 points, respectively.

Sonics 120, Lakers 109
Guards Herm Gilliam and Fred Brown scored 22 points apiece as Seattle downed Los Angeles. Reserve Cazzie Russell and center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 32 and 30 points, respectively for the Lakers.

Pistons 102, Bulls 96
John Mengel's 23-point performance paced Detroit past Chicago as the Pistons posted their sixth straight victory. Tied 59-59 late in the third period, Detroit outscored the Bulls 16-6 to put the game away. Bob Wilson topped Chicago with 19 points.

Celtics 122, Suns 102
Boston snapped Phoenix' seven-game winning streak behind Jolo White's 22 points and Charlie Scott's 18. Nate Hawthorne led the Suns with 22 points, while Alvan Adams added 21 and Paul Westphal 18.

Dunking, not Etiquette, but now it is legal

By The Associated Press

"The dunk is the most exciting play in college basketball," said Michigan's Johnny Orr, the sport's coach of the year, in acclaiming the restoration of the stuff shot.

The National Basketball Rules Committee, which governs all amateur basketball in the United States and Canada, voted Wednesday in Philadelphia to allow dunking during games of the 1976-77 season.

"If it wasn't good, the pros would have outlawed it and they haven't done that," added Orr, whose Wolverines lost 86-68 to Indiana in college basketball's national title game earlier this week.

"I think that's great," said Robert Parish, Centenary College's 7-foot-1 center who'll be a senior next season. "When I'm close now, I'll just dunk it instead of laying it in. It's no easier, but you make certain it's in."

It had been outlawed for a decade for the colleges, junior colleges, high schools and YMCA leagues.

The rulemakers also decided that henceforth two free throws, instead of one, will be awarded when a coach is assessed a technical foul for his conduct from the bench.

"You're talking about a five-point play," said Randy Albrecht, St. Louis University coach, adding that this change could be more significant than the return of the stuff shot.

The dunk was outlawed in part to keep the big men from dominating the game in the 1960s.

But Dr. Clifford Fagan, secretary of the 23-member rules committee which wound up its two-day annual meeting on Wednesday in Philadelphia, recalled that "the practice and use of dunking sometimes pulls down baskets, bends rims and damages backboards."

With that in mind, the new rules say the dunk will be legal only during games. A technical will be called on any player who makes a stuff during pregame warmups or intermissions.

The vote for the dunk was large, but Fagan, from Elgin, Ill., didn't disclose how many of the 23 rules committee members favored it.

In another action, the rules committee voted that time be extended to rectify correctable errors in officiating. The extension of time will come when the ball is put back into play after the error.

Dr. Fagan said the extra time will mean the clock will be justified when a mistake is made.

Hawks split with NMMI

Howard College men's tennis team split a match with New Mexico Military Institute here Wednesday.

New Mexico Military's Ellis Kalaulau defeated Easterling, 6-0, 6-1; Pat Carrigan defeated Marcelino Chavez, 6-2, 6-1 and the team of Kalaulau and Walehcias defeated Brown and Chavez, 6-3, 7-6.

The team's next match is with South Plains College Tuesday in Levelland.

Who's that masked man?

CASH PROTECTS BROKEN NOSE — Dave Cash, Philadelphia Phillies second baseman, makes throw to first base in game with the New York Mets in Clearwater Wednesday. He is wearing a face mask to protect his nose that was broken in two places last Friday while fielding ground balls before a game.

Repaired Ryan — better than he was before?

By The Associated Press
Nolan Ryan is in mid-season form. The question is ... which season?
Is it midseason 1972-74, when Ryan posted 62 victories with an earned run average under 3.00 and more than 300 strikeouts each year?
Or is it midseason 1975, when injuries dropped him from a 10-3 start, including a record-tying fourth no-hitter against Baltimore, to a 14-12 log, a 3.45 ERA and "only" 186 strikeouts in 198 innings?
"That's as good as I threw all last year, including the no-hitter," Ryan said after allowing one run — Willie McCovey's homer — and striking out 10 in five innings as the California Angels won a 3-1 exhibition victory over the San Diego Padres Wednesday.
The 29-year-old right-hander had to be pleased with his control Wednesday. In his major league career, Ryan has walked 997 batters in 1,141 innings but this time he threw 72 pitches and 51 of them were strikes. He struck out the side in the first inning, mowed down two apiece in the second and third and fanned the side again in the fifth.

Terry Forster of the Chicago White Sox, who also missed much of 1975 with elbow miseries, allowed two runs and three hits in four innings in a 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh in the first game of a doubleheader. The Pirates took the nightcap 3-0 behind John Candelaria, Ramon Hernandez and Odell Jones.
Burt Hooton of Los Angeles was in midseason form, allowing five singles in seven shutout innings as the Dodgers whipped the Cincinnati Reds 6-1.

Hank Aaron, baseball's all-time home run king, made his spring debut. He singled, walked and reached on an error as the Milwaukee Brewers beat the San Francisco Giants 4-2 in 12 innings.
Rick Monday hit two homers, a double and a bunt single, leading the Chicago Cubs over Oakland 7-2 despite a pair of homers by Reggie Jackson of the A's.
The St. Louis Cardinals raked Catfish Hunter for all their runs and nine hits in five innings, including a three-run homer by Keith Hernandez, and downed the New York Yankees 6-2.
The Texas Rangers dropped a pair of one-run 11-inning decisions. Minnesota's Larry Hise singled, stole second and scored on Steve Braun's single as the Twins beat Texas 4-3. Meanwhile, Atlanta's Blue Moon Odom, Roger Moret, Max Leon and Ricky Camp held another band of Rangers to four hits and won 1-0 on three walks and an error.
John Vukovich's bases-loaded double capped a four-run seventh inning as the Philadelphia Phillies handed the winless New York Mets their eighth setback. Larry Milbourne's single drove in a 10th-inning run and gave the Houston Astros a 3-2 decision over the Montreal Expos.

Refs, they call 'em like they see them

Game officials are human and make mistakes, but their errors aren't from lack of training or desire.
Delnor Poss, who officiates in the Southwest, Missouri Valley and Lone Star Conferences, as well as the University Interscholastic League, gave Downtown Lions a backgrounder Wednesday on how officials are selected. Poss is president of the Southwest Officials Association.
Officials, he said, are "pros" who have an interest in young people, else they would not fight the problems of travel over long distances and absorb the abuse they sometimes get.
Training is intensive and continuing, he explained. Each October the national officials association gets the rules interpretation, which in turn is taken to the state level, then broken down to districts so that every official has the same interpretation. Officials also must master three manuals — one on mechanics (or floor-field position), one on cases (examples), and one on rules.
But, said Poss, it doesn't stop there. Each week officials must attend a district or local meeting, going over problems of the past week, getting interpretation and sometime demonstrations.
He complimented Texans in general for crowd control and contrasted this with one metropolitan area where only teams, coaches and officials are allowed at games. "Adults, acting like adults, can have a good influence for sportsmanship and crowd control."
No school or college has officials inflicted upon it. On the contrary, coaches make a selection from lists furnished by the association.
Texas (and the Southwest Conference) has come a long way in quality of basketball play, Poss declared. One reason is the UIL which has 2,760 schools affiliated; 1,126 boys and 900 girls basketball teams; 2,137 junior and senior high school track teams.
Wednesday was the last day for Capt. Howard Simmons, who is returning to his home in Virginia. Joe Horton, president, announced at a board meeting Thursday evening.

Brigham Young's Lythell leads Texas decathlon

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Brigham Young's Christer Lythell raced the 400 meters in 49.6 to take the lead on the final event in the first day of the decathlon at the 49th annual Texas Relays.
Lythell, who finished third in last year's NCAA decathlon, registered 824 points and overtook Gary Hill of Oklahoma Christian, who grabbed the lead after the first event and held it after four. Hill won the 100-meter dash, the long jump and the shot put, but could clock only a 51.7 in the 400 for 732 points.
Ed Miller of California was the only other winner of the day setting a new Texas Relays decathlon record of 6 feet-8 in the high jump. Miller finished the afternoon in third place with 3750 points followed by John Whitson of the Gulf Coast Track Club with 3633, Jimmy Mathews of Texas with 3587 and David Powell of Brigham Young with 3438. Billy Blackburn of Oklahoma Christian and Darl Locke rounded the final places with 3209 and 2536, respectively.

Steve Brittenham of Colorado scored 2669, but withdrew after four events because of a groin injury. Hank Gunlock, a Baylor-ex, was forced out of competition with the same injury after the 100 meters, the first race of the day.

Women's tourney has four upsets

GALLUP, N.M. (AP) — Four of the eight seeded teams in the AAU women's national basketball tourney won't be playing in today's quarterfinals, which feature the eight second round survivors.
The New York City Planters, Darlington, S.C., Seattle, Wash., and Detroit, Mich., pulled off upsets in Wednesday's second round to knock four seeded clubs out of the meet.
Top-seeded Wayland Baptist College of Plainview, Tex., second-seeded Fullerton, Calif., fourth-seeded Ankeny, Iowa, and seventh-seeded East Troy, Wis., showed their rankings were deserved, however, by grabbing the other second round victories.
Fullerton, last year's runnerup, will play East Troy at 7 (MST) tonight in the only quarterfinal encounter pitting two seeded teams.

Wayland, which is gunning for a third consecutive national title, was to open today's play at 2 p.m. against Detroit. The Planters were to face Seattle at 3:30 p.m.
Darlington and Ankeny will climax the third day of the five-day meet in a 9 p.m. clash.
Today's winners advance to Friday's semifinals where they will play for slots in Saturday's title game. Today's losers will drop into a consolation bracket playing toward the third, fifth and seventh place games that also are slated for Saturday.
Planters posted the biggest upset Wednesday by knocking off third-seeded Brownstown, Ind., 78-68 behind a 22-point scoring performance by Debbie Smith.

Southwest slant Revamping No. 1 defense

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — With five starters gone from last year's No. 1 college defense in the nation, Texas A&M football coordinator Melvin Robertson and his aides are rebuilding.
After two spring practice sessions, Robertson said Wednesday, "We're a good bit behind what we were at this time the past two years. We lost too many good players, and consequently we're having to go slower putting in our defenses."
Starters back for another campaign are end Tank Marshall, tackles Edgar Fields and Jimmy Dean, middle linebacker Robert Jackson, cornerback William Thompson, safety Lester Hays and Grady Wilkerson, who alternated with Jackson at middle linebacker.
Head Coach Emory Bellard said the Aggies will hold their first controlled scrimmage at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Error costly to Rangers

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An error by Texas first baseman Bob Jones on a soft grounder let the Atlanta Braves' Darrell Evans score their lone run in the 11th inning for a 1-0 decision Wednesday over the Rangers.
Losing pitcher Tommy Moore filled the bases on walks before the tap by Biff Pacoroba produced the winning tally.
Braves newcomer Roger Moret tossed three shutout innings for the victory, teaming with Blue Moon Odom and Max Leon.

Texas JV's vs. AC

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas' junior varsity instead of the senior crew will play a two-night doubleheader Saturday with Abilene Christian.
The change in schedule was made to keep Texas within the limit on the number of non-conference games it is allowed to play.
The Texas varsity will meet Lubbock Christian in a twilight doubleheader Friday and the Texas junior varsity will go against the Lubbock Christian junior varsity Saturday morning.

Big Spring and Howard County Citizens to Vote in the April 3, 1976 City and County Elections.

Good Government, which we sorely need, starts at the Local Level. We, as tax payers who pay all the bills, should consider each candidate for City or County office carefully. We must look at the incumbents' record on how they voted on important issues that affect not only the tax dollar itself, but issues that cost the tax payers in education of the young, the operation of our homes in utility and service costs, and the decisions they have made in the spending of our tax dollars.

Candidates for City and County offices should be questioned about how they would vote on these important issues.

Elected Public Officials are employees of the Tax Payers. When you vote on April 3, 1976, consider what kind of employee each candidate will be and what kind of employees the incumbents have been in representing your interests as Tax Payers.

Businesses may relocate because of liquor policy

AUSTIN (AP) — Strict new enforcement of Texas liquor laws is causing some businessmen and prospective businessmen to reconsider whether they want to spend money in Texas.

Luke Robinson, director of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission (ABC), has adopted a sharply defined attitude toward liquor law enforcement which some businessmen suggest may cost the state treasury thousands if not millions of dollars in liquor taxes and license fees, the Dallas Morning News said today.

Lou Neeb, operations vice president for Steak and Ale restaurants, told the News in a story from its Austin bureau the chain is reconsidering whether it wants to locate nine new restaurants in Texas. He said he is worried about beverage service at two other restaurants under construction.

A West Coast wholesale discount grocery chain is hesitant about moving three more stores into Texas because of Robinson's attitude toward enforcement of statutes requiring liquor licenses to live in Texas three years before licenses are granted, the News said.

Another statute requiring Texas-owned companies to be the only ones that can sell alcoholic beverages also is causing grave concern, the newspaper said.

"There have been several complaints and the commission in January announced that when permits came up for renewal they would be looked at closely to see if they comply with the law," Robinson said.

Commission citizen chairman Tom Gordon said, "All these out-of-state operators have excellent legal staffs, fine lawyers and if they want to take us to the state courthouse that's the best thing they can do."

But one chain store operator said the ABC has been uncooperative and has left it up to stores to determine by trial and error what is expected of them.

"We don't know, for instance, whether it will take two cash registers or separate checkout stands," said a lawyer for one chain store who asked not to be named.

Neeb said it was ironic that Steak and Ale, founded in Texas, became successful and sold its stock to the public, making itself no longer eligible to hold a state license to sell alcoholic beverages to its guests.

"Twenty-two of the firm's 112 restaurants are in Texas. 'I don't know what all the hullabaloo is all about,'" Robinson said. "Out-of-state corporations can't and never have been able to hold a permit. The problem is, 'Can they do indirectly what they can't do directly?'"

Japanese quints well and growing

KAGOSHIMA, Japan (AP) — All five of the Yamashita quintuplets are well and showing sound physical growth, doctors reported Wednesday, exactly two months after they were born.

Fukutaro, the eldest son and heaviest of the quints, weighed 3,170 grams Wednesday, doctors said. He was trying to move his head up from his bed, a sign of sound growth, they added.

Kennedy recovers

BOSTON (AP) — David Kennedy, son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, remained in satisfactory condition at Massachusetts General Hospital on Wednesday, recuperating from pneumonia, a spokesman said. Kennedy, 20, entered the hospital March 4.

He gave his last 25-cent haircut Wed.

HARRISONBURG, Va. (AP) — Strode M. Higginbotham, 68, a barber who says he's been "stuck in a two-bit rut" for 38 years, gave his last 25-cent haircut Wednesday.

He'll have to raise his price because the old building he works in is being torn down to make way for a driveway, and he'll move to a fancier barbershop.

"Higgle," as he's known to everyone in this Valley of Virginia city of 15,000, took over the ground-floor shop of a drab, two-story wood frame building from its previous owner in 1938, charged the going rate of 25 cents for haircuts, and hasn't changed the price since. His low rent has helped — it started at $10 a month, rose to $20 and has stayed there.

There's no telephone in his shop, no cash register — only a wooden tray for coins.

Cross denied parole again

AUSTIN (AP) — For a second time, James C. Cross Jr., has been denied a parole after serving 10 years of the life sentence assessed him in the strangulation deaths of two University of Texas coeds.

A statement from the Texas Pardons and Paroles Board said Tuesday that Cross, 33, was denied parole and received a "set off" for one year, meaning he will be eligible for parole consideration in 1977. The board statement said Cross was "considered a high risk case. The nature of his offense and a potential for assaultiveness were major considerations."

Cross also was denied a parole in 1975. If Cross is ever granted a parole he would not go free immediately. He was convicted in the slaying of one of the coeds, Susan Riggsby of Dallas, and local authorities have a "detainer" on him for possible trial in the death of her roommate, Shirley Ann Stark, also of Dallas.

Cross was arrested in July 1965 following discovery of the women's bodies in a north Austin field two weeks after they disappeared. Cross confessed to the slayings.

In the 6-3 decision said Texas an alleged father a hearing on his paternity was safeguard of his right.

Unwed father has no right to baby

AUSTIN (AP) — The U.S. Constitution does not give unwed fathers parental rights, the Texas Supreme Court ruled today.

In the 6-3 decision, the court said Texas law giving an alleged father the right to a hearing on his claim of paternity was sufficient safeguard of his rights.

The decision came on an appeal by a man identified only as S.D.A., a state penitentiary inmate, from lower court orders denying him parental rights to "K., a baby girl" born out of wedlock in April 1974.

S.D.A. sought voluntary legitimation of the child as his own and appointment of himself as her caretaker. Courts have the power to enter a decree after a hearing, declaring a child to be the legitimate offspring of a man asserting paternity.

S.D.A. claimed this should have been done automatically in his case since he was the child's biological father.

"The overriding interest of state and courts is the welfare of the affected children. We are not nearly so far down the road to unrestrained egalitarianism as to hold that the Constitution guarantees an unwed father parental rights in violation of the best interests of the child," the court majority said.

It said there was a rational basis for the state to "distinguish between the father who has accepted the legal and moral commitment to the family and the father who has not done so."

"The biological father may be a sperm donor or a rapist or someone as S.D.A. who has simply engaged in a single hit and run sexual adventure," the court said.

The court said that after learning of the mother's pregnancy, S.D.A. "showed no disposition to assist with her problem or expense" and within a month was arrested for interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle and a 14-year-old girl.

Thefts

Oscar Ovalle, 1305 Utah, reported a CB radio taken from his vehicle at that address.

Estate, gift tax issue

'Distribution of wealth' measure attracting fire

OMAR BURLESON, M. C. 17th District, Texas WASHINGTON, D. C. — The federal estate and gift tax has a long history. The first tax imposed was years before the "liberal" era and, in fact, the term liberal was really not in use at all. Nevertheless, it is admitted by most that the tax is a "distribution of the wealth" measure.

In the beginning the intent was to keep wealth from being perpetuated in the hands of the few rich. As it turned out in that early period the very wealthy were able to legally avoid the tax by creating private foundations and trusts of various kinds. The revenue raised was small.

In 1942 The Congress set a standard deduction of $60,000 which applied to the adjusted gross value of an estate after death of the owner. After that, a graduated scale of tax, similar to the income tax, was applied up to 70 per cent.

No one is sure just what rationale was applied to reach the $60,000 figure in 1942 but the intent of the tax remained the same — a distribution of wealth. To distribute that wealth, the Federal Government got the tax revenue and then through various programs, spent it back into the public sector. At least this seems the theory but the fact is, not much revenue is received because the very wealthy still have the legal means of providing trusts, gifts and foundations.

Up to that point of 1942 and in subsequent years before inflation, the average estate was not affected to any considerable extent. In the last ten years or so, and especially during the last five or six, farm owners, owners of small businesses and those who own any modest amount of property, are finding that they cannot afford to die.

Case after case shows that the surviving wife or husband cannot pay the tax without having to sell off all or part of the property to meet the assessed tax.

This is only the simplest part of the story. For instance, the method of evaluating the worth of the property by the Internal Revenue Service is up to them — not the survivors of the deceased owner. If land involved is near a town or city it can be classed as a potential site for a shopping center or an apartment house — not what the property produces as farmland or a small business to be operated as the deceased had done in the past.

These are only examples of what is involved. A volume two inches thick treats the subject in detail. Suffice to say, under present law modest estates can be practically confiscated through this system of tax because of the change in values and conditions in more recent years. Few people recognize until too late that they leave nothing but a burden to their survivors at death. The surviving spouse and children come to learn that nothing is left after the Government's icy hand reaches out.

Number One is, why should the wife or husband, left after death of their partner, have only a 1/2 interest? Corporations don't. If the $60,000 exemption was sound in 1942 it should now, based on values, be $210,000. Reaching for what is hoped to be the possible, we sponsor legislation to raise the exemption to $200,000 and the surviving spouse interest to $100,000, in addition to a 1/2 marital deduction.

The only real argument advanced during ten days of Committee hearings is loss of revenues to the Government. Taxes collected in 1974, the last complete figure, are about 5.5 billion dollars. If our proposal is adopted this figure will be reduced by about half.

Revenue effect in this matter is a poor argument. The argument is equity and what is right for a lot of people who have worked hard to accumulate a little something to leave to their families.

St. Lawrence students win at 4-H food show

The District 6 4-H Food Show was held last Saturday, at Monahans Junior High School. A total of 128 youths representing some 19 4-H county programs competed for one of the largest shows to be held in this district.

Denise Schwartz, St. Lawrence, won first place in the main dish division. Her "American Casserole" of chicken, squash and corn won over 18 other entries.

Another high point winner from St. Lawrence was Dorothy Schwartz. She won a blue ribbon and 1st place alternate in the senior breads and desserts division. Her winning entry was "Ole Southern Apple Cake." Her sister, Elaine Schwartz, won a blue ribbon in the junior breads and desserts division for her recipe of "Grandma's Banana Pudding."

Kathleen Frysak won a blue ribbon in junior snacks and beverages for a "Golden Glazed Pecan Cake."

Senior 4-her Theresa Schraeder was a blue ribbon winner in main dish. Our Mexican heritage was exhibited with her scrumptious Enchiladas.

Marianne Hoelscher was a junior side dish participant. Her recipe for Country Potato Salad won a red ribbon.

The district food show was sponsored by Morrison Milling Co., District 6 THDA and Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

WANTS CHANGE IN IMMIGRATION LAWS

Louis Leman, Houston, a candidate in the Republican primary for the U. S. Senate, at a news conference in Austin Wednesday Leman said he favored a change in immigration laws permitting Mexican Nationals to work in agriculture and domestic jobs in the U. S. for six months of a calendar year.

Seven candidates bid for Stanton school jobs

STANTON — Don Tollison is the only announced candidate for the office of mayor in Saturday's city council race here.

Howard Jenkins, Jack Cook and Bill Coggin will each be seeking re-election in the council race. None has drawn an opponent.

Douglas Church will be bidding for re-election to Place One on the Martin County school board. Daniel Cave is seeking re-election to the Place Four spot on the county board.

Neither George D. Sawyer nor Jacky Romine have drawn opposition after offering for positions on the Grady school board. Sawyer is an incumbent.

On the other hand, the race for positions on the Stanton school board is a spirited one. No fewer than seven candidates are in the running for three positions.

Seeking the Place Three spot are incumbent Gerald Hanson and Herb Sorley.

Incumbent J. N. (Pete) Woody is running against Terry Franklin in the Place Four race.

Three men are competing for votes in the Place Five race. They are Bud Glaspie, Larry Adams and Loyd Mims.

CHAMPUS rules listed for military retirees

Military retirees living within a 40-mile radius of Webb AFB, or other Uniformed Services medical facilities, need prior authorization before CHAMPUS will pay for their nonemergency inpatient care at a civilian source.

This new rule applies to any beneficiary of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) — dependents of active duty, retired, and deceased personnel as well as retired personnel themselves.

A nonavailability statement will be issued for authorized inpatient care that cannot be provided at the Webb hospital. Public Health Service hospitals are also considered Uniformed Services medical facilities and can issue the statements.

Under certain conditions a nonavailability statement can be issued to a beneficiary who lives within a 40-mile radius of a facility that can provide the required inpatient care. Such conditions include patients who may be unable to travel the distance easily or who began care at a civilian source and it is medically advisable that the care continues from the same place.

All beneficiaries who believe they might be affected by changes in CHAMPUS benefits should check with a CHAMPUS advisor. First Lt. Franklin Jones is the advisor at Webb AFB at (915) 267-2511, Ext. 2147 or 2174.

Lt. Jones also advises beneficiaries to make sure the physicians they use have agreed to participate in the CHAMPUS program or they could be paying a higher fee. When a physician is a participant he agrees to accept the patient's and the government's share of a reasonable fee as determined by CHAMPUS as full payment of his claim.

Local Draft Board 71 to be terminated May 8

AUSTIN — Col. Melvin N. Glantz, state director of Selective Service, said all local draft boards in the United States will be terminated May 8.

On Feb. 28, all draft board offices were closed.

Members of Local Board 71 serving Howard, Mitchell and Martin Counties follow: — John W. Hughes, Big Spring; R. Leonard Morris, Colorado City; Manuel Rivera, Colorado City; and Elmer J. Long, Stanton.

Texas has 525 members assigned to 96 draft boards. Board members, who served without pay, classified men registering for the draft.

Since all registrant processing has been halted, there remains no mission for the draft boards.

A small stand-by draft organization will maintain emergency plans and train a small pool of Reserve and National Guard officers to restore Selective Service for a national emergency.

Library service

The Texas Library Association holds its annual meeting April 7-10 in Houston. Attending the exhibits, seminars and meetings are Susan Conley and Rebecca Jan Stephenson from the Howard County Library.

Information exchanged here will stimulate ideas for even better library service and programs, Mrs. Conley said.

About 150,000 migrant workers will be jobless

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — About 150,000 Texans, mostly Mexican-Americans and practically all migrant workers, will lose the sources of what little income they have in the next 10 years because of advances in farm mechanization, according to labor experts gathered here.

The impact of the loss of jobs and the economic problems involved were the topic of a discussion here Tuesday by the Interregional Committee on Coordination of Migrant Activities of the Southwest Federal Regional Council.

According to a report submitted Tuesday, the typical person who will face loss of his job is "male and married, about 45 years old with two years or less of schooling, with a family of six-plus individuals and who is employed about 28 weeks a year."

Ruben Carranza, a council staff member, said about 300,000 or 60 per cent of the migrant workers in the United States maintain their homes in Texas.

Al White, director of the Midwest office of the Department of Labor noted that one of the more complicated questions evolving from the plight of migrant workers is that of jurisdiction.

For example, he said, a migrant who travels from his home in Texas to catch the harvest in Michigan comes under the authority of at least a half dozen agencies.

"What happens if the crop comes in two weeks late?" White asked. "We must provide food stamps."

He added that what is needed is a coordinated effort by the federal regions and states through which migrant workers generally travel.

But he noted that efforts to try to help the migrant workers prepare for losing their jobs and to keep them alive are often stymied by the fact that migrant workers "do not have any political clout."

"They are far down the list of priorities," White said. Also, he added, "Some migrants don't want to leave the migrant system. They think it will always be there. How do you explain that it won't?"

Oil executive urges selective school support

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The chairman of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio says the petroleum industry too often donates money to educational systems that "oppose our system."

"It's reasonable to examine and selectively support those we think are right and not support those we think are wrong," said Standard Oil chairman Charles Spahr during the annual meeting of the National Petroleum Refiners Association here this week.

Spahr said he would not attempt to dictate what educational institutions teach, but he added that Standard Oil of Ohio would be more selective about which institutions receive its support.

Spahr urged the same selectivity in backing political candidates.

"Each of us must become activists for private enterprise," he said.

Spahr said this year's elections could lead to government control of the oil industry.

Commenting on recent proposals to break-up oil companies, Spahr said those who propose such measures are "suffering from hallucinations."
