Chicago attorney not shy

Interested in ethnic composition of juries

An attorney representing a convicted robber wants the Howard County District Clerk's Office to do exhaustive research of grand and petty jury records back to 1950, correspondence indicates.

Mrs. Frances T. Freeman Cruz of the Prison Legal Services Project, Chicago, is interested in the racial and ethnic composition of these bodies.

Mrs. Cruz represents Allen Lamar, 36, a black man, who is serving a 25-year sentence for a June 1966 armed robbery.

"We don't have the manpower and the time," District Clerk Peggy Crittenden said. Mrs. Crittenden suggested offering the attorney the opportunity to conduct her own research.

"She wants a bunch of records that don't even exist," Glenda Brasel, deputy district clerk, said. "They just take a bunch of space, and no one wants them but her."

The district clerk's office has answered some of the legal and fact questions the Chicago attorney asked.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: You can't vote if...

Q. If a voter wants to ballot for a presidential nominee who won't be on the ballot in the May primary, how does he go about doing it? Also, how can he vote for an uncommitted delegate?

A. In the 30th State Senatorial District, which includes Howard County, you can't.

Nobody filed in this state senatorial district as a Republican uncommitted candidate for becoming a delegate before the deadline, G. Ben Bancroft, Howard County Republican chairman, said.

In the primary, only write-in votes for county and precinct chairman posts will be counted, Bancroft said.

Raford Dunagan, Howard County Democratic chairman, outlined the procedure for his party this way.

A Presidential candidate wanting to appear on the ballots in a state senatorial district had to obtain signatures from one per cent of the votes cast in the last gubernatorial election there.

The Presidential candidate, through a delegate selection committee, chose delegate candidates committed to the Presidential candidate.

The names of delegate candidates had to be submitted to the Texas Secretary of State by 6 p.m. Feb. 2 to be listed on the May 1 Democratic ballots in the senatorial district.

The same basic procedure applies to those wanting to have uncommitted delegates on the Democratic ballot. In some senatorial districts, uncommitted delegates met the requirements and time table.

None did in the 30th Senatorial District.

But only 75 per cent of the national convention delegates will be elected through the May 1 primary. The other 25 per cent will be named at the state convention.

Blames lack of money

Harris halts campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, unable to attract either enough money or public interest, announced today he would withdraw from national campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Harris said he would continue as a presidential candidate, seeking uncommitted delegates at the Democratic National Convention in July.

"I am still a candidate for president," Harris told a news conference attended by more than 100 supporters. "But our national effort in the primaries ends today."

Harris said it was useless to continue campaigning in the remaining primary campaigns "which have no serious prospects of success."

Harris is the sixth of the announced Democratic presidential candidates to partially or completely withdraw from the race.

For the past three weeks, Harris has campaigned almost exclusively in Pennsylvania, committing all remaining money, volunteers and other resources into that state's April 27 primary.

But money, a constant problem in the Harris campaign, has nearly run out, in part because of congressional inaction toward reassembling the Federal Election Commission, which dispenses matching federal campaign funds to candidates.

The Supreme Court struck down the commission's authority to disburse funds and proposals for reconstituting the panel still are pending before a House-Senate conference committee.

A Federal Election Commission spokesman said as of Wednesday Harris campaign had received $493,278 and had made claims for an additional $70,000 in matching funds.

But until Congress restructures the commission to meet the Supreme Court objections, no candidates can receive the federal funds.

Harris campaigned almost completely on economic issues, traveling cross country in a camper in the early days, seeking supporters over coffee in living rooms.

"The issue is privilege," Harris bellowed over and over in his gutsy, earthy 19th century speechmaking style. He called for price controls on the steel, auto and oil industries, breaking up corporate monopolies and higher taxes on big business and the wealthy minority.

Harris said only breaking up the economic giants could return true competition to the American economy.

But Democratic party regulars were wary. "The Democratic establishment sees another McGovern and this time they are thinking about winning," said one party pro.

Harris, whose wife, LaDonna, regularly campaigned with him, finished a surprising third in the Iowa delegate caucuses Jan. 20.

But since then he has picked up only a handful of votes in most of the primaries, including Massachusetts where a strong volunteer campaign organization raised hopes of doing better.

A month ago, Harris decided to ignore Tuesday's primaries in Wisconsin and New York and concentrate on Pennsylvania.

His withdrawal from active pursuit of the nomination marks the end of Harris' second run at the presidency. A similar effort in 1972 was even more short-lived.

In other political developments Wednesday:

—Rep. Morris Udall said he thought he had stopped the drive by Jimmy Carter, even though the former Georgia governor narrowly won first place in the Wisconsin primary on Tuesday.

Both Carter and Udall were in Pittsburgh where they appeared at a state AFL-CIO convention. Carter was booed by AFL-CIO delegates as he shook hands on his way through a hotel lobby. Shouts of "We want Humphrey" followed him.

Later, Carter told AFL-CIO leaders that "labor has, in general, been left out of the decision-making in the federal government." He promised to change all that if he is elected president and for the first time said jobs are "the No. 1 issue in this campaign and the No. 1 priority of my administration as president."

—Sen. Henry M. Jackson, who won a solid victory in New York's Democratic primary, turned his attention to the Pennsylvania primary. "I believe that we will carry Pennsylvania," he said.

—Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, who entered the Democratic field last month, was in Rhode Island where he said none of the candidates has momentum to win the party's nomination on the first ballot.

—Alabama Gov. George Wallace said he is determined to continue his campaign, despite poor showings in early primaries. He denied reports that his campaign is short of funds and predicted a deadlocked party convention at which his delegates "won't be ignored."

—Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., who is President Ford's chief campaigner in Texas, said GOP challenger Ronald Reagan will not win enough support in that state's primary to remain in the race. Tower said that "unless Reagan sweeps the Texas primary, his campaign is through."

But a Reagan spokesman discounted Tower's remarks and said the former California governor's campaign will carry the state. Reagan spent the day campaigning in Texas.

—Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller said talk of Ford dumping Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is an attempt to appease GOP conservatives. Rockefeller said in an interview with Gannett newspapers Kissinger will be secretary until he wants to leave.

—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, who is not an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination, said it appears unlikely that any of the candidates will reach the party convention with the nomination sewed up.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Secretary Thomas Reed sent letters of admonition, a mild form of rebuke, to 22 military and civilian officials today for accepting hunting invitations from Rockwell International Corp., a major defense contractor.

Shertz named city manager of Stanton

STANTON — Michael Rhea, currently assistant city manager at Shertz, has been named city manager of Stanton at an annual salary of $11,000.

At the council meeting Tuesday evening, Don Tollison was sworn in as new mayor of Stanton. He succeeds Cecil Bridges, who administered the oath of office to Tollison.

Councilmen Howard Jenkins, Bill Coggan and Jack Cook also took the oath of office.

Five suspected burglars charged

Two different groups of burglars were operating in the same part of town just 30 minutes apart Wednesday.

At 11 p.m., officers arrested Tim Donald Taylor, 17, Bx 722B, Rt. and Steve Garret Owens, 19, Rt. 1, inside Newsom's Food Center, 1910 Gregg. Stolen groceries valued at $173.43 were recovered.

The groceries included cigarettes, a turkey, two hams, assorted steaks, bacon, eggs and other items.

Thirty minutes earlier, police arrested Randy Russell Rhodes, 19, Box 370, Stanton; Guy Coleman Heffington Jr., 20, 1011 W. 6th, and Robert Wayne Phillips, 22, Southland Apartments, and charged them with a burglary at Super-Save Drive In Grocery at 1610 Gregg.

Police said the back fence at Super-Save had been knocked down with a vehicle and bottles removed from the premises.

Municipal Judge John R. Coffee set bonds at $5,000 each on the five youths.

Two defendants go free State police holding 50 pounds of pot

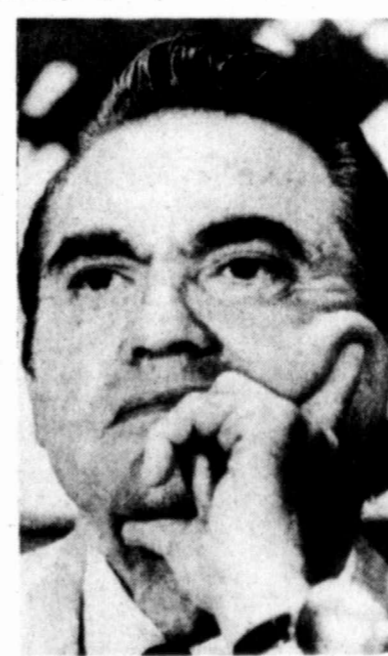

The felony complaint charging two men with possession of more than 50 pounds of marijuana is null, officials said.

Charles A. Shelton, 27, Canutillo, Tex., and Donald S. Smith, 26, Carlsbad, N. M., were arrested with "kilo bricks" of the illegal weed 1:50 a.m. March 12.

But Wayne Basden, local defense attorney, argued the search by State Trooper Bill Priest was unlawful. Justice of the Peace Bob West took the case under advisement and did not rule within 48 hours after the examining trial.

This, in effect, makes the complaint void, officials said. District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III and Basden promised but did not give West written briefs, West said.

Russian quake destroys nothing

MOSCOW (AP) — A strong earthquake hit the Kyzylkum Desert in central Soviet Asia today, and although tremors were felt in towns in the area, not a single building was destroyed, the news agency Tass reported.

The quake center was reported in Uzbekistan, 60 miles north of the ancient city of Bukhara. Tremors were felt there and in Tashkent, the official Soviet news agency said.

The U.S. Geological Survey's National Earthquake Information Service at Golden, Colo., reported the quake measured 6.9 on the Richter scale, heavy enough to cause serious damage in populated areas. The chief of the Tashkent seismographic station, Valentin Ulomov, said the lack of destruction and casualties was mainly due to "the profound investigation of the nature of earthquakes in Uzbekistan and other Soviet Central Asian republics," Tass said.

It added that information from seismic stations in the area is constantly processed to furnish a "seismic forecast" for the territory, and recommendations have been worked out for quakeproof houses, factories and dams.

Each jump of a full point on the Richter scale, say from 5.5 to 6.5, means a tenfold increase in ground motion. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906 registered 8.3 on the Richter scale.

Values of Dawson farm land raised for taxation purposes

LAMESA — Dawson County Commissioners, with the help of area farmers, struck a bargain with oil company representatives Monday, raising the values on farm land for taxation purposes.

Full values found acceptable by both groups were $100 per acre on irrigated land, $80 per acre on dry land and $25 per acre on grass land.

The agreement stipulates oil companies will be assessed on 20 per cent of their value as will all other property in the county.

Consequently the assessed value on farm land will be $20 per acre on irrigated, $16 on dry and $5 on grass land. The increase is substantial in light of existing assessed values being used for county taxation purposes.

Irrigated land is currently being carried on the county tax roll at approximately $10 per acre for irrigated, $6 for dry and $2-4 per acre on grass land.

The compromise figures came after commissioners proposed full land values be set at $75 for irrigated land, $65 for dry and $20 for grass.

These figures were rejected as being too low and V.H. Harris, representing Texaco, suggested the figures of $150, $130 and $40 be used. Both he and Ray Clayton, representing Cities Services, emphasized the Lamesa School District values are considerably higher and closer to being representative of the true market value of property.

Proposed bridge on Moss Lake Road topic of April 20 meet

ABILENE — The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation has announced that a public meeting will be held for the purpose of discussing the proposed construction of a bridge and its approaches on Moss Lake Road at Beal's Creek east of Big Spring. ## Flames kill 7,000 hens

LAMESA — Damage was estimated at $38,000 after a large chicken house containing 7,000 hens burned about 8 p.m. Monday south-east of Lamesa.

The structure, on the Sid Wriston ranch east of U.S. 87, burned so quickly that firemen just doused the blaze to keep it from spreading to the surrounding chicken houses.

The first fire truck on the scene stayed about an hour and a half and then other firemen kept a watch for two hours to make certain the other buildings would not be ignited by burning embers.

Reagan finances boosted by televised speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan's national television address may have been a failure in the ratings, but it was a good investment for his financially troubled campaign.

The appeal at the end of Reagan's speech last week was brief — an announcer's voice asking for funds to keep the former California governor's challenge to President Ford alive.

The A.C. Nielsen Co. figures that determine success or failure of a television show were dismal. Reagan's half-hour speech ran third in a field of three and had an audience of 6.5 million homes, while programs aired opposite the speech were being viewed in more than 27 million homes.

But according to Reagan campaign officials, the speech has brought from $450,000 to $500,000 into Reagan campaign coffers.

The network speech cost approximately $100,000 for production and air time. The return, according to general counsel Loren Smith, has been "a massive amount."

In addition, Reagan reported in Lubbock, Tex., that his campaign has received "thousands of wires and ten of thousands of letters" from supporters in response to his campaign speech.

Reagan, who temporarily broke off campaigning two weeks ago, reportedly to prepare for the speech, does not face a primary contest with Ford until May 1 in Texas, a key race on which the Reagan forces have placed heavy emphasis.

The new financial support will help fund his Texas campaign, as well as following races in the South and West.

Smith said Reagan's overall money situation is "fairly tight."

The fund shortage has forced the former governor to use commercial airplane flights and, on occasion, a small private airplane to reach campaign appearances, rather than the chartered airliner he used to fly around the country early in the campaign.

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission submitted an application to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Dallas Monday for the second year portion of the four-year Emergency Medical Services Program in the Permian Basin.

Federal funds requested total $586,745, which will be matched with local in-kind and cash funds of $614,192.

The second year objectives are to add eleven modern ambulances to the region's EMS organizations, bringing the total to 27; to train 371 additional Emergency Medical Technicians; to equip the hospitals with communications equipment so that the physicians can talk directly to the EMT's at the patient's side; and to improve the treatment capabilities of several of the hospitals in the region by increasing the amount of equipment in the emergency rooms. Two ambulances are expected to be included in the requests for Big Spring and Howard County.

As stated in the grant application, the overall objective for this second year is to establish a basic life support capability throughout the entire Permian Basin Region by July 1977, and to establish a capability that meets or exceeds standards for contemporary emergency medical services in similar settings in the United States.

Man fills in the blank, reveals he is red spy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Question No. 8 on the government form asked if he knew of any espionage activities on the part of a foreign government. James F. Sattler, a political scientist working in Washington for a foreign relations think tank, said yes — that he was an East German spy.

Sattler encountered Question No. 8 as he registered March 23 with the Justice Department as a person who acts on behalf of a foreign government. Such registrations are routine, required of lobbyists or others who are hired to represent foreign countries. But Sattler's reply to question No. 8 on the registration form was not routine.

Hospital won't appeal decision

DENVILLE, N.J. (AP) — The St. Clare's Hospital board of trustees has voted unanimously not to appeal a New Jersey Supreme Court ruling that allows Karen Anne Quinlan's father to have her life-support system disconnected, a spokesman said today.

A spokesman for Lawrence Stern, who represents the 21-member board, said the panel agreed after lengthy discussions with hospital attorney Theodore E. B. Einhorn not to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Miss Quinlan, 22, has been in a coma since last April after apparently drinking liquor and taking tranquilizers. She has been kept alive on a respirator at St. Clare's, but doctors have described her condition as "chronic" and "vegetative."

Her father, Joseph Quinlan, asked Superior Court for permission to disconnect the respirator and allow his daughter to die, but that court ruled she must be kept alive as long as possible.

In an appeal of the case, the state's highest court last week named Quinlan his daughter's legal guardian and said he could order the life-support system removed if competent medical authorities agreed there was no hope for recovery and if a medical ethics committee concurred.

The state Supreme Court ruled that doctors or the hospital involved in the decision would not be liable to prosecution if Miss Quinlan were allowed to die.

State Atty. Gen. William F. Hyland and Morris County Prosecutor Donald last Friday, after his employer learned of his answer to question No. 8, Sattler was fired.

Francis O. Wilcox, director general of the Atlantic Council, where Sattler worked as a consultant, said late Wednesday he had no idea why Sattler's response to the question was apparently so frank.

And Wilcox said he had no idea why Sattler suddenly decided to register with the Justice Department.

Sattler, 37, who lives in the Washington area, could not be reached for comment. Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel said it was unlikely that Sattler would be prosecuted for the spy activities he admits. Officials indicated there was an absence of essential witnesses.

The privately financed Atlantic Council publishes periodicals, issues position papers and holds seminars on foreign relations. Wilcox said Sattler's work included issues of East-West trade, mutual military reductions by Communist-bloc countries and the United States and topics relating to Canada and Germany.

In his registration form, Sattler admitted that he been paid around $15,000 and decorated by the East German government for his work in passing information to East German agents over the last nine years.

His spy career began, Sattler related, in 1967 when he was recruited by an individual named "Rolf." He said he later found out that "Rolf" was an East German official connected with the intelligence apparatus of the Warsaw Treaty Organization, the Communist equivalent of NATO.

Sattler said he was told to secure employment "in a position with access to information of value to the Warsaw Treaty."

However, Wilcox said he knew of no classified information that Sattler came in contact with during his work at the Atlantic Council, with which he has been affiliated as a paid consultant since 1972.

"The council has no classified information and our board has stipulated that we not use classified information to protect us against accusations of working with the government," Wilcox said.

Wilcox said Sattler had a doctorate in political science and had taught in Canada and Germany. He also said Sattler's job with the council was expiring and that he had told Wilcox he was looking for a new one, including some unspecified possibilities on Capitol Hill.

Student loses chance

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A Biblical education student expelled from Florida Bible College after becoming pregnant has lost her last chance to graduate next month, but not before telling a judge: "I made a mistake... I don't think I have bad morals." A circuit judge Wednesday dashed Deborah Jean Clayton's attempt to finish the last four weeks of classes needed for her four-year bachelor of arts degree. He denied her lawyer's request for an order allowing her to complete her studies. Miss Clayton, 22 and unwed, was expelled last month when administrators of the nondenominational school learned of her pregnancy. They called it "the ultimate sin."

Callaway tried expansion

WASHINGTON (AP) — While he served as secretary of the Army, Howard H. Callaway made repeated attempts to get the U.S. Forest Service to let him expand his Colorado ski resort on federal land, Senate investigators say. But, they found, there is "no positive evidence" Callaway's intervention made any difference in the decision paving the way for the expansion.

Census every five years?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans would be asked to fill out national census forms every five years in order to supply the government with more up-to-date population figures, according to legislation moving through Congress. Citizens who refuse to answer the census questions would not be subject to penalties under the measure, passed by the House on Wednesday.

Aid increase chance bleak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel's strong supporters in Congress are pessimistic about their ability to increase military aid to the Jewish state because of President Ford's threat to veto any increase in the foreign aid bill. The bill before Congress would raise the amount of military aid to Israel $550 million above what Ford says he will accept.

Project's first phase approved

The first phase of a three-phase project to improve the existing wastewater treatment plant in Big Spring was approved this week, according to the office of Congressman Omar Burleson.

The approval was for $55,560 in environmental protection agency funds to the City of Big Spring for the first phase of the project. The current eligible cost of the project is $74,200 so the city would be expected to come up with $18,550 in this portion of the project. The entire three-phase project for wastewater plant improvements, to bring them up to required standards, is approximately $550,000 with the city to provide 25 per cent of the project.

Earlier this year, Bill Brown, director of utilities; Roy Crim, city engineer; and Harry Nagel, city manager, went to Austin in behalf of these funds, needed to bring the local facilities up to standards set by the EPA.

He sounded like 'weapons man'

Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan is a charmer. During his four-hour visit in Abilene this week, the crowds seemed drawn to him as much because he was a movie star on the late television screens as they were to the political candidate.

REAGAN WAS asked almost as many questions about his movies ("who starred with you in...") as he was about the political issues.

The former governor of California did little either to discourage or encourage the movie-star adulation.

Reagan was received warmly in Abilene, and his supporters think he will be a big vote-getter in this area of the state when he competes head-to-head with President Ford for Texas delegates in the May 1 primary.

Big Spring businessman W. J. Sheppard, a Reagan delegate, noted that he was pleased to see people from Sweetwater, Colorado City, Snyder and all over his area at the airport to greet Reagan.

Reagan has a conservative political philosophy that is popular in West Texas, so he felt right at home. In Abilene he made no radical departures from any of his earlier stands, but he did have a chance to talk directly about the recently announced military cutbacks.

First he said he opposed cutting back militarily, but he added that he had no way to judge why the cutback decisions (such as the one that would close Webb Air Force Base) were made.

If the reasons for the cutbacks were lack of money, he said he would oppose them.

This, of course, has been identified by Department of Defense officials as the underlying reason for reducing bases and manpower.

REAGAN SAID he would oppose closing any base vital to the national defense.

No one base would be in itself vital to the national defense; the danger comes in a pattern of reduction of bases, manpower and traditional weaponry.

Reagan emphasized that the nation must get the most national defense for the dollar and must not maintain bases on tradition or to favor one particular area.

He did not get into the subject of new weapon systems, but he sounded like a "weapons man."

While I know this country needs to keep its defense hardware up-to-date and at least on a par with the Soviet Union, I am equally concerned about keeping our potential for rebuilding high. I am concerned that the military is RIFing too many good career men at this point. I am concerned that our number of bases may fall below the point where we can rearm quickly when (not if) a world crisis threatens our security.

I had hoped that Reagan would be a little less vague on the subject of manpower and bases.

I HOPE that he recognizes that the growing Soviet threat is only partly missile related. The masses of the Russian manpower and conventional weaponry may be the hardest threat for us to counter.

We must not allow our conventional weaponry and manpower to deteriorate to a point where our only counter to a Russian move is a nuclear one.

It is not difficult to imagine global situations in Europe or the Mideast where without a conventional alternative the U. S. could indeed find itself, as Reagan so aptly expressed it, "subject to Soviet suggestion."

Classified leak

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department has suppressed records that tie Commerce Secretary Elliott Richardson to the leak of highly classified documents to Daniel Ellsberg. Our investigation indicates that Richardson encouraged Ellsberg, in turn, to pass the classified material to the press.

The Pentagon's chief investigator was so incensed over the leak that he recommended to the Justice Department that Richardson and an aide be prosecuted.

White House records show that then-President Richard Nixon expressed his personal concern about the leak to aide John Ehrlichman. One cryptic note indicates that the White House was worried about the "E. L. R. implications," obviously meaning Elliott L. Richardson, who was then in the Nixon cabinet.

THE JUSTICE Department's refusal to lift the secrecy on his case comes at a time when Richardson is quietly seeking the vice presidential nomination on President Ford's ticket. The Richardson-Ellsberg leak clearly won't help his chances. But Justice insists the suppression has nothing to do with politics.

The evidence indicates that Richardson, working through an aide, used Ellsberg to leak a story helpful to Richardson. This occurred a year before the controversial Ellsberg was identified as the source of the more famous Pentagon Papers leak. Here are the details:

On March 26, 1970, the Washington Star published a story by its political reporter, James Doyle, revealing dates and details from classified State Department cables. The story told him terms favorable to Richardson, then Under Secretary of State, how he was trying to free a prominent South Vietnamese Assemblyman named Tran Ngoc Chau.

President Nixon was reported to be appalled over the leak, and the State Department was ordered to search for the source. The leak was traced to Charles M. Cooke, Jr., a former Air Force major, who had become Richardson's most trusted aide.

No action was taken against Cooke, and the incident was forgotten until the Pentagon's chief investigator, W. Donald Stewart, a dogged ex-FBI agent, began to poke into the files.

He described his findings in a Dec. 1, 1973, memo to the Senate Watergate Committee. "During the course of a series of Jack Anderson leaks in February-May, 1971," he wrote, "in search for a suspect, I came across Cooke's name. . . . He had access to such data which appeared in Anderson's column."

Cooke was not, we should interject, the source of our stories. But Stewart's memo continued: "In pursuit of Cooke, I reviewed his State Department security file and learned that he had been identified as the person who allowed Daniel Ellsberg of the Rand Corporation to review highly classified information concerning a Vietnamese named Tran Ngoc Chau."

This same information subsequently turned up in the Washington Star story. "The release of this date was of such embarrassment," wrote Stewart, "that then-Under Secretary of State Elliott Richardson ordered an immediate investigation."

Aspirin can be problem

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard or read recently about aspirin causing bleeding. I am an arthritic and have to take large amounts of aspirin to ease the symptoms. Can you comment? I have no bleeding problem that I know of. — Mrs. T. W.

Many drugs can cause increased bleeding among persons who are "free bleeders." Aspirin is one.

Most persons, like yourself, can take aspirin safely, but those who bleed more easily than others should be aware of the problem. A recent report in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Emily E. Czapek, M.D., of Children's Memorial Hospital, Chicago, states that a satisfactory substitute for such persons is acetaminophen. This drug, according to the report, can control the discomfort without the bleeding problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I live in an apartment building which has a whirlpool and a swimming pool. The lifeguard adjusts the temperature of both to suit us elderly tenants' preferences. The temperature of the whirlpool is usually about 107-109 degrees. But some of us feel that this may be too warm and might be harmful.

Can high temperatures be detrimental for persons with high blood pressure or heart conditions? We will appreciate your opinion as to the best temperature settings. The pool is usually 85 degrees. Oh, yes — does it make any difference whether you go from whirlpool to pool, or should this be reversed? — Mrs. J. X. A.

It is true that oldsters with high blood pressure or heart problems should not be subjected to high temperatures in baths or saunas. At 100 degrees your stiff muscles would readily relax.

The mid-80s is the temperature of most such pools, and there should be no problem there.

Going from the pool to whirlpool (at a higher temperature) would be preferred. If you whirlpool first, I suggest you wait a few minutes to cool off gradually before exposing yourself to a cooler temperature.

I must say I am envious of your pool. Swimming is a splendid exercise. The whirlpool is a dandy idea, too. You, as well as other readers who have recently written to me on hypertension, might find other helpful thoughts on this subject in my booklet, "How to Control Your Blood Pressure." A copy costs 25 cents, which you should send to me in care of the Big Spring Herald, closing a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the possibilities of a woman, 48, having a child? If there is a possibility, what are the disadvantages at such an age? Is it true that men can sire children up to the 70-year-old bracket? — I. E. J.

The late 40s is a gray zone. A woman's fertility decreases at such a time, but there is always a chance of pregnancy, especially if she is still having her periods. I cannot quote exact odds. The chance is nil if she has gone a year without a period.

Depending at least in part on the general health of the woman, uncomplicated pregnancies and healthy children are possible at age 48, but there is a greater tendency toward obstetrical problems as well as an increased risk of birth defects in the child.

It is true that most men remain fertile well into the 80s — and beyond, in some cases.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband's problem is constant thirst, frequent urination and tiredness. From the time he gets home from work he always has a glass in his hand (pop, tomato or orange juice, milk or water). Usually he falls asleep in front of the TV about 7:30 p.m., wakes up about 10 p.m., then goes to the bathroom, then to bed.

During the night he is up four or five times to urinate. This has gone on for two months. What can or should we do? — Mrs. R. T. R.

The sugar-containing pop is not helping a bit. Have him see a doctor at once. The symptoms you describe are classic in the diagnosis of diabetes.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Shangri-La

PROSPECT HILL, N.C. (AP) — For the past eight years, Henry Warren, 82, has been busy building his own Shangri-La.

Actually, it is a miniature village he has built of racks in his back yard. He calls it Shangri-La, N.C.

The village has a hotel, store, bank, theater, water tower, mill, dog house, cow shed, fire station, jail houses and a motel among other buildings. They are several feet high.

My answer

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband and I are so discouraged. We have both been unemployed for months, and I don't see how we can take our financial pressures much longer. We love God and have faith, but how can He let this happen to us? — A. J.

DEAR A. J.: It is natural for you to feel frustrated now. However, God can draw us closer to Him. Try not to feel bitter about your situation; instead ask God to use this time to strengthen you.

For example, if you find yourself with time in your hands, use some of it to become better acquainted with the Bible. You might ask your pastor if there is volunteer work you can do to serve Christ in the church or community. During this time, your marriage could be strengthened as you and your husband grow closer to the Lord.

The Apostle Paul knew what it meant to have nothing, especially when he was imprisoned for his faith. However, because he had learned to trust Christ, he could say: "I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content. I know how to be abased, and I know how to abound: everywhere and in all things I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need" (Philippians 4:11, 12).

'Friendly town'

Around the rim

Marj Carpenter

In the news business, coincidences are often ordinary. I ran into one this week that I thought was particularly ironic.

WHEN WE were contacting all friends in high or low places in the battle to keep Webb AFB open, one of the people I decided to write was Grant Salisbury at U. S. News and World Report. He's an associate editor in Washington and a good one. Back in 1964, he very kindly took me on a tour of the magazine and we sat around and discussed the old Billie Sol Estes case.

I had a letter from him Monday concerning my letter and he recalled a little bit of old times.

But the most interesting part of the letter to me was the paragraph, "Longer ago than I like to remember — about this time of the year in the middle of WWII — I had come back from overseas and was reassigned to Luke Field at Phoenix. I drove through from Ft. Worth, stopped and spent the night at Big Spring where one of my flying school buddies was instructing in twin-engine Beachcrafts. They used propellers in those days! We had quite a reunion and I remember Big Spring as a very friendly town."

The reason I considered this paragraph a coincidence is that right now — at the present time — when Big Spring is battling everyone trying to hang on to its Air Base, there is a group of citizens who have sued the federal government to please remove Luke Field and move it somewhere else.

Our publisher has already commented on the group that want to get rid of those "terrible" jets and their noise and pollution at Luke.

We have a lot of room and a lot of space and a lot of air out here and we want them. It's a strange world, Grant.

I guess when Luke went in, they also used propellers and in that area of the United States, they are not interested in defense so much as clean air.

I continue to get more and more alarmed at the trend we are taking toward cutting down on defense. I think we're backing ourselves into a corner where we may end up fighting windmills with broomsticks, and we are soon going to be way down the list on the "Who is the strongest nation in the world?" category.

I keep trying not to think about it, but it's frightening. Trying to think of something in a lighter vein, I've come up with a good Post Office story.

A WOMAN put a dollar in the "slot machine" in the lobby here Monday and got no change. She asked me what she should do and I suggested she go and tell them at the window. I went along and told them she had put a dollar in and received no money.

They hollered back into the inner-regions of the post office and announced the problem. A helpful postal employee shot the dollar back out the slot. Before the woman could get a dollar in and received no money.

The luckless postal employee got another dollar for the woman and had a few choice words to say about the honesty of John Q. Public.

But John Q. Public, who was probably walking by the machine when the dollar suddenly shot out, was long gone.

Longfellow couldn't have done better. "I shot a dollar into the air, and it fell, I know not where."

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

I could hardly believe the letter from TSgt. John Vining in the April 2 Herald.

We civilians are not uncaring at all at the inconveniences and hardships of the military community, but the military did choose to serve and the situation is sad that their lives are disrupted every three to four years, but they more or less expect it. I have one grown child who in 12 years attended 11 different schools. It was due to civilian life — not military.

As a citizen of this community, I'm proud of Mayor Choate for his dedication and efforts to help keep Webb AFB open. As for the "four unmentioned possible mission changes" I feel sure we will know about them soon. I disagree this base is useless and without virtue. There are far more possibilities for different Webb missions than four. Instructor pilot training, overhaul depot for aircraft or vehicles, tech schools, etc., for that matter one of the best arguments I can think of to keep the base in operation is our decreased military strength. Do you want the tax money you have paid to construct the new 2.5 million dollar hospital, cold storage plant, dining hall, barracks (under construction), non-destructive inspection building, to say nothing of the new refrigerated air conditioning each home in base housing is now equipped with to be wasted?

Take a look at Luke AFB. The military and civilian workers there would probably love to live in a town like ours who would not be trying to "boot" them out through the courts. I'll bet they would appreciate the base-community relationship we have. Glendale-Phoenix wants Luke moved and a new base built in the Gila area. Build a new base and close others? That's not "economics" I agree with at all. The DOD is not at fault completely — our elected congress is the primary culprit.

We are one of the 49 families who received a RIF letter at Webb this past week. My husband served the National Guard and USAF for over 22 years. We met and married here at Webb and when he retired in 1971 we decided to stay and make Big Spring our permanent home. TSgt. Vining will be facing retirement in from 2-12 years and we hope and pray for his family when they settle there will be available to them the post-retirement benefits he has been promised and entitled. There are approximately 700 retired military families in the immediate area who depend on the base for medical care, commissary, etc., this family included.

I for one appreciate the coverage the paper gives us and do not feel for one minute any thing published has been "anti-Air Force". That's what the upset is about. We are, for the most part a community that is PRO-Air Force. The DOD-Pentagon is not a super all-knowing body — they need to know how we think and feel out here. I never felt during the seven years I worked at Webb that my salary was a form of a handout or welfare. I worked hard and having worked 15 years in the civilian world I can tell you a job was never appreciated more. My husband started work at Webb in 1973. He works hard and every dollar he brings home has been earned. During my years at Webb I came in direct contact with a majority of small business men and women from Big Spring, Midland and Odessa and the base's business was always appreciated. Certainly Big Spring will continue to live, after all, it's been here since the 1800's, so you see, Sgt. Vining, the base came later and the town will still be here even if the base closes, but if it closes it will never be the same for thousands of us.

I sincerely hope the base remains in operation. It's difficult after all the past years of moving to think of giving up our home — a home we hoped to be our last, disrupting our high school age children and looking for employment again. We hope TSgt. Vining and all our military and civilian friends can find a more stable "retirement" than it looks like this family is to have.

Mrs. Sally Bristol
3805 Connally

Dear Editor:

This letter to the citizens of Big Spring is in response to one written by a military man stationed at Webb and published in the Mailbag column April 2.

The purpose of my letter is to say that we in the military community are not all insensitive to what is happening (or what might happen) in the lives of our friends here in Big Spring, should Webb close.

We first came to Webb in 1967, and except for a twelve-month hiatus that my husband spent in Viet Nam, we have lived the intervening years in Big Spring. I admit that the mud, dust and vast distances to "metropolitan areas" nearly overwhelmed me in the first years, but the warmth and friendliness of West Texans soon helped to bring things back into balance.

You have opened your homes, your hearts and your lives to us, and I for one, want you to know how much it means to us, who of necessity, and by choice, live a more or less nomadic life for a period of 20 or 30 years. Believe me, we have been stationed in places where the military presence was viewed only as a nuisance, a source of noise pollution, and a cause of housing shortage. This makes your hospitality all the more dear to us. We appreciate you. We care.

Mrs. Robert O. (Kay) Kaiser
97 Gunter

Dear Editor:

There have been many statements made pertaining to the closure of Webb, some misinterpreted and many misunderstood by reading only partial statements or by trying to read between the lines. There is not a citizen in this community that is not deeply concerned with the possible closing of this vital installation.

Let's look beyond the tremendous effects on our economy for a moment, and stop and think of the many wonderful friends that we have made with the military and civilian employees of the base, over the many years of their residence in our community. They have been outstanding citizens and neighbors and have contributed so much for so many years to every phase of our growth, prosperity and every endeavor. Just to name a few, their tremendous contribution to our largest drive each year, the United Way Campaign, the many qualified employees in banks, hospitals, the school system and practically in every phase of our economy.

We will have an unbelievable void in the possible loss of Webb Air Force Base and I know that I speak for every citizen in our community feeling just as I do. This letter is written to rectify any misunderstanding pertaining to this very vital subject confronting us at this time.

Food prices expected to stabilize

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail food prices have moderated more than expected and consumers may see only slight increases at least through midyear, according to the Agriculture Department.

Instead of going up 1 per cent during the first three months of 1976 as USDA experts had been predicting since last fall, food prices held steady, Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said Wednesday. That meant, on the average, that consumers paid about the same for food as they did in the final quarter of 1975.

According to USDA records, the January-March leveling off was the first on a quarterly basis since the price index dropped slightly from the third to the fourth quarter in 1971.

The price spreads are what middlemen tack on to food costs for transportation, processing and selling. Paarlberg said that if the trend to smaller spreads continues "it will limit retail food price increases" and help slow the rise in living costs.

Department experts said they cannot predict what will happen to food prices after midyear until more is known about 1976 crop prospects. The new food price analysis is scheduled by the department on May 19. By that time, officials will have a clearer view of how much corn and other spring crops farmers intend to plant this season.

Based on earlier department predictions for the first six months, food prices could be expected to gain an average of 5 to 6 per cent this year from their 1975 level, officials said. The 1975 gain was 8.5 per cent, compared with 14.5 per cent in each of the two previous years. The 1972 increase, just before food prices soared, was 4.5 per cent.

Depending on new 1976 crop information, it appeared that the first quarter leveling off will mean some scaling down of food price estimates to something less than a 5 to 6 per cent gain for all of 1976, one spokesman said.

Plan to drill near Fluvanna

It is two miles southwest of the Heather (lower Leonard) field, 2 1/2 miles south of the Hood (multipay Pennsylvania and Spraberry) field and 2 1/2 miles east-northeast of the Rafter Cross (Strawn and Ellenburger) field.

Location is 660 feet from the south and 467 feet from the west lines of 473-97-H&C.

The Rafter Cross field produces from the Ellenburger at 8,506 feet and the Hood field formerly produced from the Ellenburger at 8,631 feet.

Britton Management Corp., Midland, No. 2 Hill, 1/2 mile west of a long east extension to the Martin County portion of the Spraberry Trend Area, nine miles northeast of Lenorah, was finalized for 117 barrels of 38 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 1.222-1.

Production was through a 14-64-inch choke and perforations at 7,828-8,463 feet, which had been acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 120,000 gallons and 240,000 pounds of sand.

Check taxes before buying Mexican bricks

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Builders and developers had better add Texas sales taxes onto the cost of Mexican brick before deciding it is a good buy, says State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

As many as half the bricks in Texas homes may be from Mexico, Bullock noted Wednesday in warning that the sales tax must be paid on bricks brought in from Mexico.

"I can't send my auditors across the border," Bullock said, "but I am sending them out to pay calls on contractors, developers and builders buying Mexican brick to make certain the state gets its tax money."

Bullock added in a statement that Texas has lost millions of dollars in tax revenues and the Texas brick industry has suffered by the advantage gained by Mexican brick dealers in not paying the 5 per cent state local tax.

He cited statistics of the Brick Institute of Texas showing that 17 Texas brick plants have closed in the past decade, and 84 Mexican brick plants have opened.

The institute, Bullock said, estimates that 27,000 truckloads of Mexican brick roll into Texas each year, and that Mexican brick dealers have cornered 50 per cent of Texas' residential brick market.

"People buying Mexican brick had better tack on the state and local tax to the bottom of the ticket before deciding it's such a good deal," Bullock said.

REFUSED GARDEN — Mrs. Mary Summers, 78, says officials of the Trumann, Ark., Housing Authority are forcing her to level her vegetable garden.

Widow, 78, forced to level garden

TRUMANN, Ark. (AP) — "I'm just an old widow woman," says Mary Summers. "I'm 78 and just trying to get by. Now they say I got to level my garden. I can't even have my onions."

Mrs. Summers lives in a two-room apartment in a government housing project in this community 50 miles northwest of Memphis, Tenn.

"I ain't got much," she says. "But I got an old freezer. What vegetables I can't eat right away I freeze. Then I can have vegetables all winter."

Last month, the Trumann Housing Authority said she couldn't have a garden. Authority regulations specify that tenants of the housing project may not grow anything outside their domiciles.

Housing authority officials said the garden interfered with mowing, and meter readers complained that their feet got muddy because of water Mrs. Summers poured on her vegetables.

The garden, Mrs. Summers says, makes it easier for her to make ends meet on the $177 she receives every month from Social Security and state welfare funds. She said she has had a garden each of the six years she's lived in project housing.

The garden, she notes, is no bigger than a flower bed along the outside wall of her small apartment.

Earl Yarbrough, chairman of the housing authority, refused to comment on the situation, saying he had been misquoted by local reporters about Mrs. Summers' problems.

Mrs. Summers said she has had six heart attacks, adding, "I'm not supposed to have anything worry me — but this is breaking my heart."

"Besides, I've got to have something to do so I won't dry rot. Most old people just sit around and dry rot. That's what everybody thinks old people should do."

"I may not be alive tomorrow. I don't bother nobody and I don't want nobody to bother me. When the good Lord calls for me I hope I'm out working in my garden."

MOD Walkathon prizes include 10-speed bike

Thirteen miles of fun and a few new muscles are what's in store Saturday for walkers in the March of Dimes Walkathon.

Walkathon prizes include a 10-speed bicycle donated by the Big Spring Police Reserve, a transistor radio from Woolworth's, a $20 gift certificate from Montgomery Wards, a bundle of light sticks from Tom's Phillips 66, a gift from Zale's, plus several others.

First prize will go to walker earning the most money. Other prize categories will be walker earning second most money, fastest walker, walker with most sponsors, oldest walker, youngest walker, and tackiest walker.

Idea behind the Walkathon is for participants to collect pledges for each mile they complete in the event. Proceeds will be used for March of Dimes work against birth defects.

"The Walkathon is an event for young and old," said MOD chapter chairman Vaughn Martin. "Last year more than 50 walked raising $1,480. Ages ranged from grade schoolers to 70-year-old Lee Thackery."

Walkers should meet at the Comanche Trail Park pavillion by 9 a.m. Saturday to register. Martin reminds walkers to bring their sponsor forms.

The main push-off will be at 9 a.m. However, anyone not aiming for the fastest walker prize can start as late as 10 a.m.

Four rest stops will be manned by the 5-Watters Club, who will also patrol the 13-mile route. Rest stops will be set by Airport School, the Howard County Courthouse, KHEM radio, and at the corner of FM 700 and Birdwell Lane.

For anyone finding the 13-mile jaunt too rugged, a ride will be provided back to Comanche Trail Park.

Free Sno-cones or cokes will be on hand for cooling off walkers back in Comanche Trail Park at completion of the Walkathon.

Walkathon entry forms are still available at Big Spring schools, the Howard County Library, the Hobby Center on 11th Place and at the March of Dimes office in the Permian Building.

Customs men spot 'craze'

PRAGUE (AP) — Czech customs men claim the presents West German tourists carry across the frontiers are a sure indicator of the economic situation in their country, and that what the Czechs try to bring in reflects the latest craze.

Not so long ago West Germans were bringing their relatives expensive new clothes, electrical appliances and similar presents. Now they declare second-hand things and once in a while some chocolate.

A while ago Czechs were trying to bring across the frontier nylon coats and banion sweaters, but now the craze is minicalculators.

Health officials support plan

Gambling with flu — gambling with life

ATLANTA (AP) — Gambling with swine-like influenza would be gambling with human life, many of the nation's top state health officials say in supporting President Ford's unprecedented plan to immunize 213 million Americans.

Although the $135 million program announced last week and already approved by the House created controversy, a survey by The Associated Press showed most state medical authorities agree with the President.

Where objections exist, they mainly are technical. "You can't take chances

TRC candidate slates visit

Lane Denton, Democratic candidate for the Texas Railroad Commission, will visit in the Midland-Odessa area Thursday, it has been announced by Vernon Chandler of Midland area campaign manager.

Denton is a three-term member of the Texas House of Representatives from Waco. He is owner of a farm-ranch, an educator and school administrator and a graduate of Baylor University. He was a leader of the "Dirty Thirty" reform group which in 1971 exposed the corruption in the Sharpstown Bank Scandal. Denton also was a leader in creating a public utility commission legislation which passed the last session of the legislature.

The public is invited to visit with Representative Lane Denton at the airport at 10 a.m. Thursday. There also will be a reception that night in Midland at the upstairs banquet room of the Sheraton Inn, starting at 8:00 p.m.

with people's lives," said Dr. Maynard Mires, director of New Hampshire's Division of Public Health.

"You have to take drastic steps in dealing with drastic illnesses," said Dr. Herbert Domke, director of the Missouri Division of Health.

"Influenza is a bad disease. The possible pandemic would be a health disaster."

"We put $118 billion into our health system nationally," said Dr. Leonard Bachman, Pennsylvania's health secretary. "If we could put in $135 million and prevent 20,000 deaths, I think it's the right decision. What have you lost if you've done it?"

"Prevention aspects are so much cheaper than the human suffering," said Dr. Dwight Metzler, Kansas' secretary of health and environment.

A virus which scientists say had characteristics of the swine strain swept the world in 1918 and 1919, killing 20 million persons, including 548,000 in the United States.

By comparison, the Asian flu of the 1950s killed 80,000 Americans and the Hong Kong flu of the 1960s killed 33,000.

El Pasoan named ACTION exec

DALLAS — Manuel Villalobos, a former Peace Corps county director in Colombia, has been appointed ACTION's regional director here by the Agency's director Mike Balzano.

Villalobos, 44, of El Paso, will oversee and manage all ACTION projects in Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas.

Joe Garcia, his predecessor, has been re-assigned to Washington, D.C.

The swine-type strain in humans disappeared after the pandemic but researchers at the U.S. Center for Disease Control here suspect it or a similar type reoccurred recently at Ft. Dix, N.J., where one soldier died and many other persons became ill. Those exposed showed antibodies in their blood similar to the swine strain.

The researchers said they fear the isolated outbreak could be the first ripple of a new wave that could strike the nation this fall.

Asks legislature's help

Briscoe urges war against crime

COMMERCE, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe, urging Texans to wage a war against crime, says he will ask the legislature to approve tough new measures to deal with street violence and organized crime.

Briscoe said he and his staff have been developing a "sound, realistic crime prevention program to submit to the legislature" because violent street crimes and organized crime "have reached dimensions that require tough measures."

"I pledge to you and all of the citizens of Texas that I am totally committed to turning the tide against the criminal elements in our state," Briscoe said as he unveiled a series of proposals in a speech here Wednesday during a public affairs symposium.

Among the most important measures to be proposed, the governor said, will be one calling for the elimination of good-time credit for persons convicted of murder, aggravated robbery, aggravated kidnapping, aggravated rape or crimes involving the use of a firearm.

He cited statistics that indicate that 67 per cent of offenders released from prison were arrested for a new offense within three years of their release.

Current law allows a prisoner to receive up to 60 days of credit for each 30 days served based on good-time credit and also allows a prisoner to be eligible for parole after having served one third of his sentence, including good-time credit.

He said he also will ask for restrictions on the amount of good-time a repeat or habitual criminal may receive.

Briscoe also proposed: —Mandatory supervision for all persons released from the penitentiary including those who had served full time as well as those released on parole.

—A change in the bail system through a constitutional amendment that would give more discretionary powers to the judges.

—A chance to allow voluntary oral confessions to be admitted as evidence in trials.

—Legislation defining organized crime and making participating in organized criminal activities a felony.

—Legislation to permit court-ordered and court-supervised electronic surveillance in the investigation of organized crime.

—Legislation to remove drunken drivers, problem drivers and chronic traffic law violators from the streets and highways of the state because they are a major cause of traffic fatalities.

Referring to organized crime, Briscoe said that at least 200 residents of Texas have been identified as members or associates of the so-called Dixie Mafia.

Ford to stop at Abilene?

Reliable sources in Washington say that President Ford will stop at Abilene April 28 on his second campaign tour of the state.

Ford originally was to have stopped at Dyess AFB in Abilene this Saturday but those plans were changed.

If Ford does visit Abilene, it apparently will be the first time a president of the United States has visited the city while still in office.

Wind damages one million acres

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — Wind erosion damaged more than one million acres of land in Northwest Texas during the November through March period, soil conservation officials report.

Land damaged by wind erosion in the 68-county area totals 1,370,159 acres, the Soil Conservation Service reported.

Lack of rainfall and the resulting lack of cover on cropland was reported as the major cause of wind erosion. Many areas have reported little or no moisture since last summer.

The report was compiled by information assembled by Soil Conservation Service conservationists in the 68 counties with soil most susceptible to wind erosion.

The heaviest damage was reported in the Pampa district where 432,415 acres were damaged by wind erosion in the November-March period.

Armed Forces Week scheduled at Webb

Armed Forces Day this year is extended for a full week, May 8-15, due to the Bicentennial observance.

Webb AFB's project officer, Maj. A. Richard Meacham, is making plans for various activities in Big Spring and the nearby area to be topped off by a base open house.

Kickoff activities will begin May 8 with the open house set for May 15. This year's theme is "Honor America." The Wing Information Division is the office of primary responsibility.

Among the possibilities during the week will be burying a time capsule, formal flag ceremonies downtown, displays at prominent locations, speakers from the base to various groups, golf tournament and puppet exchange.

"The Country Critters," a component of the Air Force

Band of the West, is scheduled to tour high schools in the area during May 10-14.

Possible displays for the open house include representative aircraft from all services and commands along with antique and World War II aircraft.

Among demonstrations proposed will be flybys of T-38s and T-37s, parasailing, firefighting, parachuting, and model airplanes. Also busses may provide shuttle tours of various base areas such as the tower, Link trainers and base housing.

Another drawing card for the open house is the previously scheduled Explorer Olympics.

Wing Commander Col. Robert A. Owens asks that anyone with suggestions give them to the project officer or Information Division.

1/2 c. water
1-3rd tsp. rum extraction
Cream together shortening and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla, and lemon extract, beating to blend in flavoring.
Sift together flour, soda, baking powder, and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with buttermilk.
Pour into well greased tube pan and bake at 350 degrees for one hour.
While cake bakes, make rum sauce by combining 1 cup sugar and 1/2 cup water and bring to a boil. Remove at once from heat and allow to cool. Add 1 to 3 teaspoons rum extract as desired. Pour onto cake while still in pan. Allow to cool about 10 minutes before removing from pan.
Variations: Add to batter 1 teaspoon butter flavor and substitute 1 teaspoon rum for lemon or as desired to taste. Can use real rum.

Double duty

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Raking leaves has become double duty for W. A. Campbell.

He uses two rakes and two hands at the same time and this, he says, cuts in half the time he spends at the task.

"I've done some hard work in my time and I've used my left arm and hand about as much as my right," Campbell, 72, said.

After transferring the case from juvenile court to criminal district court, District Judge Ralph W. Caton set punishment at six years of probation.

The Moreland brothers, 1102 N. Main St., pleaded guilty to the burglary of County Judge Bill Tune's home.

In other action, Billy Norman Watkins, 47, Andrews, was given five years of probation for second-offense driving while intoxicated.

UP, UP AND AWAY — These four sixth graders from four different sixth grade rooms at Marcy Elementary represent 115 students in that grade who made Bicentennial kites emphasizing inventors. The kites featured such inventors as George Eastman and the Kodak, Alexander Graham Bell and the telephone, Robert Gatlin and the Gatlin gun and many others. Patrick McNeely, Tracy Scholar, John Anderson and Wayne Coffey show off the kites from the rooms of Mrs. John Kotzun, Mrs. David Morrison, Guy Griffith and E.C. Robertson.

Same rates for electricity users

Tough utility rules proposed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Public utility commission staffers have proposed tough regulations that would require electric power consumers to pay the same rate for fuel, regardless of their size.

Commission authority, however, will extend to electrical rates only in rural Texas and will not take effect until Sept. 1.

Under the proposed rules issued Wednesday, customers would get more time to pay their bills and a smaller penalty for late payment.

"One of the best in the country," commission member Alan Erwin said of the book of regulations.

Next step before the commission acts on the rules will be a series of hearings to begin in about a month.

It begins regulating telephone rates statewide, plus electric, water and sewer rates in rural areas, on Sept. 1. A year later, cities can turn over to the commission regulation of privately owned electric, water and sewer service within their limits.

The most dramatic proposal would require electric companies to bill customers uniformly for fuel costs on the basis of kilowatt hours of use.

Big users, such as industrial plants, now receive cheaper rates than homeowners in many areas.

The commission rules would put an end to that in regulated areas, at least as far as the fuel cost element is concerned. Utility companies, however, could continue to reflect in their base rates—excluding fuel—the lower cost of serving large customers.

Fuel costs would be shown separately on bills from base rates.

Utilities regulated by the commission would have to extend their billing periods to 25 days, instead of the average 15, and penalties for late payment could not exceed 5 per cent. They now average 10 per cent.

"This outlaws 'net' and 'gross' unless they are a true net and gross, and right now they are not," Erwin said.

Three commissioners — Erwin, chairman Garrett Morris and George Cowden

— in drafting the regulations. This would indicate the rules ultimately adopted by the commission will be little different from those that were drafted.

The commission said it

CHURCHVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Stephen Clarke, an English teacher, is a mystery fan.

At Spencerport High School, he teaches a course in detective fiction which he created a few years ago, and he has written a textbook on the subject.

Clarke said he used mysteries as a device for teaching the principles of logic and orderly composition.

will base rates of return for utilities on two standards: what other industries are making and what would enable the utility to maintain its credit and attract necessary capital.

Certain costs of operation cannot be passed on to consumers, the rules say. These include lobbying, support of political candidates or causes, membership dues in country clubs and other organizations, promotion of increased energy use and half of all ordinary advertising costs.

Judge expects Dallas to fully implement school busing

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge has told the Dallas Independent School District that he expects it to implement entirely a desegregation order that calls for the busing of more than 17,000 pupils and changes the racial makeup of the district's administrative echelons.

In a final order that questioned the district's good faith in carrying out the desegregation order, Judge William M. Taylor told the school system to implement the program by 1979 and spelled out the specifics of the busing plan.

"So that there be no mistake about this matter," Taylor said, "the court states once again: It has no interest in running the school district or in playing the role of dictator of the school board or Dr. (Nolan) Estes and his staff.

"However, the court will not stand aside where the DISD has been found to operate a dual system which discriminates between Anglo and minority school, as was found in 1971... the DISD must provide equal educational opportunity for all its students, in nonstudent assignment matters as well as in the area of student assignment."

The judge apparently was upset over a recent attempt by the school board to delete from the original desegregation order a provision calling for administrative changes.

The order had specified that by 1979, of the 142 top district administrators, 44 per cent must Anglo, 44 per cent black and 12 per cent Mexican-American. Those positions are currently 76 per cent Anglo.

Taylor's final order adhered to the busing plan submitted originally by the Dallas Alliance, a group representing different sectors of the Dallas community. It calls for the busing of 17,328 pupils in grades four through eight and spells out a series of programs aimed at providing equal educational opportunity.

The order essentially permits pupils to attend neighborhood schools from kindergarten through the third grade and from grades 9 through 12.

Hearing postponed

Board to mull uranium's efficiency

ST. FRANCISVILLE, La. (AP) — A hearing by the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board have been recessed until next month, when the board is to consider uranium's efficiency as a fuel.

The ASLB is considering an application by Gulf States Utilities Co. of Beaumont, Tex., to build the proposed River Bend nuclear power plant beside the Mississippi River near here.

But before the board adjourned its two-day hearing Wednesday, it refused to accept evidence questioning the safety of nuclear power plants.

Asst. Louisiana Atty. Gen. Richard Troy told the board that the Nuclear Regulatory Commission had recently disclosed a technical safety report compiled as an internal document.

Troy said at least 72 points are relevant to the reactors to be used at the proposed River Bend plant near here, and asked that the material

Animal health workshop set

AMARILLO — Feedyard animal health will be the subject of a workshop sponsored by the Allied Industries Committee of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association next Wednesday at the Holiday Inn-West in Amarillo.

The workshop is designed for feedyard employees and owners, but is open to allied industry people and others interested in the feeding industry's animal health problems.

be made a part of the public record.

But ASLB Chairman Thomas Reilly said the safety questions would not help the board in ruling on the construction application which was filed by Gulf States Utility Co.

Troy later said he will ask Atty. Gen. William Guste to appeal the denial.

He added that the law forces GSU to prove the facility will be safe, adding that the board's findings must be based on evidence instead of assurances of safety features.

James Champagne, the company's director of technical services, told the board that uranium sources in the United States would be sufficient to supply two reactors.

Champagne said the River

Bend facility would compete with 236 other reactors if it is fully operational within the next decade as planned.

He said the River Bend plant would use only 12,000 short tons of fuel, but that uranium reserves and probable resources are expected to yield 1.89 million tons of raw uranium.

He also said recycling the uranium would help to supplement the supply.
