Ford passes Reagan

By The Associated Press
President Ford predicted a first-ballot victory at the Republican National Convention after moving ahead of challenger Ronald Reagan in GOP delegate votes on Saturday.

With presidential primary elections scheduled Tuesday in Oregon, Nevada, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas and Idaho, both Republican and Democratic aspirants campaigned during the weekend in the Northwest and the South.

Democrats chose delegates in Vermont, Washington State and Virginia while Republicans selected delegates in Vermont, Kansas, Alaska and Pennsylvania.

The biggest gain for Ford came in Pennsylvania, where Sen. Hugh Scott said "88 people came down hard in support of President Ford." Nine Pennsylvania delegates refused to support Ford, five declined to vote on the resolution and one was absent from Saturday's meeting.

The President swept 18 Vermont delegates and out-pollied Reagan at the state convention in Kansas, where Ford now has 28 delegates to 4 for Reagan.

In Virginia, Reagan collected 11 GOP delegates to President Ford's three. Delegates selected in Virginia, like those in Pennsylvania, are officially uncommitted but have expressed their preferences.

"I'm very, very pleased," Ford told reporters after learning of early delegate selection results on Saturday. He predicted he would do well in Alaska and said he was optimistic about gaining 120 of New York's uncommitted delegates when they meet on Monday.

In a speech to the World Affairs Council of Oregon in Portland, Ford defended his position on Soviet relations, saying Reagan's charge that the United States is not taking a tough enough stand with the Soviets "is so much nonsense."

"We are as tough as anyone can be without junking the possibility of an agreement," the President said. "Whenever I get a good agreement for a safer world, you can be sure I won't pass it up for any political advantage or disadvantage."

In a broad review of U.S. foreign policy, Ford said he will continue working toward a strategic arms treaty with the Russians and for a mutual reduction of forces in Europe.

It was the first day of Ford's longest campaign trip so far in 1976, a five-day journey with stops in Oregon, California, Nevada and Ohio.

Meanwhile, Reagan campaigned in Arkansas, accusing Ford's political managers of pressuring uncommitted delegates in the Northeast to support the President.

At a breakfast rally in Fort Smith, Ark., Reagan charged Ford campaign officials with "political bossism" and said the Ford officials were trying to get uncommitted delegates to come out now to create a steamroller appearance for the President.

The former California governor said Ford spokesmen are also trying to create the image that Reagan is too narrow ideologically to appeal to a wide cross-section of American voters.

Reagan was scheduled to arrive in Oregon on Saturday night for a day of campaigning there on Sunday.

In other political developments Saturday:

—Campaigning in Portland, Ore., California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. said the country needs a president who has the ability to scrutinize agencies such as the CIA and FBI and not be hoodwinked by their secrecy.

Asked about what he would do with the intelligence agencies that have come under fire, Brown said he has shown in his term as governor that he has the ability to scrutinize and cut the frills from all government programs.

GOP may sue to get Yarbrough opponent

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State Republican Chairman Ray Hutchison says he hopes to know Monday whether the GOP will file suit to get a candidate on the ballot against Democrat Don Yarbrough for the Texas Supreme Court.

"Frankly, I am impressed by the preliminary review of the legal situation," Hutchison said Friday. Yarbrough upset San Antonio appeals judge Charles Barrow for the Democratic nomination for the high court in the May 1 Democratic primary. No Republican has filed for the office. The filing deadline was in February.

Yarbrough, a Houston lawyer, has been sued more than a dozen times in recent years over alleged financial irregularities. He also is being investigated by the State Securities Board, and a grievance has been filed against him with a State Bar committee in Houston.

"I hope to have something definite by Monday," said Hutchison. He denied a rumor that he may be the GOP candidate if an effort is made to get a Republican on the November ballot.

Pentagon aide at Webb, closure possible topic

By DANNY REAGAN
An assistant secretary of the Air Force was at Webb Air Force Base Thursday for an orientation visit, but the possible closure of Webb was probably a topic of discussion, a Webb spokesman said.

Webb's office of information released the information Saturday. Capt. Richard Risk, information officer at Webb was asked if the visit had any bearing on the possible closure of the base.

"I wouldn't want to comment on that at all, except to say that his main purpose in being here was an orientation visit," Risk said.

Risk, in his reply, wanted it understood that J. Gordon Knapp's tour of the base should not be construed as a sign either way on the closing issue.

Knapp visited the base here for about four hours Thursday and received briefings on the wing mission and operations. His tour of the facilities included a stop at the squadron building, the new dining hall and the dormitory which is currently under construction. "His itinerary also included a stop at the hospital," said Risk.

Knapp was appointed to his position as assistant secretary of the Air Force for Installations and Logistics in March of this year. "He's new at his job," commented Risk, "and he is interested in logistics."

When asked if the assistant secretary discussed the proposed closure, Risk replied: "I don't believe it is appropriate to answer a question relating to that definitely. There was some discussion of the current status of the mission, but it would be safe to say that the closure was probably mentioned. "But," Risk hastened to add, "the primary purpose of his visit was that of orientation."

To lend credit to Risk's statement, the assistant secretary also visited three other bases in Texas and one in Oklahoma, two of which are large centers for maintaining and transporting materiel and personnel, two of the five largest of the Air Force has.

In visiting Kelly AFB in Texas and Tinker AFB in Oklahoma, Knapp was getting acquainted with installations that are known for their logistics and are in close proximity to Webb.

Knapp also visited Carswell AFB in Texas, a well-known Strategic Air Command base. None of the other bases are candidates for closing, although Kelly AFB is having a reduction in civilian personnel.

They won't die

Bonnie, Clyde still cause trouble

ARCADIA, La. (AP) — Bonnie and Clyde ran into a wall of bullets near here 42 years ago Sunday. But they're still causing trouble for residents of this northern Louisiana community.

The back-country outlaws, accused of killing 12 people, nine of them policemen, were cut to pieces in an ambush on a lonely gravel road in northern Louisiana. For their trouble, they've become folk heroes.

In 1934, Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway transformed "rat-faced" Clyde and the tiny, hard-looking Bonnie into a winsome, winning pair of kids out to find themselves in backwoods America.

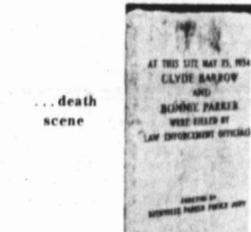

Ever since, moviegoers have been wandering into Arcadia, wanting to get a look at the kind of folks who would gun down such beautiful people without giving them a chance.

Bonnie Parker — the real one — pumped two bullets into the head of a dying Texas lawman lying helpless on the ground, police said after examining fingerprints at the scene. "Looka" there, his head bounced just like a rubber ball," she squealed in delight as the bullets banged against the skull.

And Clyde Barrow? He was the fellow, police said, who once jammed a gun into a storekeeper's stomach during a holdup. When the man backed away in pain, Clyde roared with laughter, then shot him twice.

Then, as now, townsfolk had just about enough. The bandits had been seen around Arcadia and law officers began closing in.

Early Wednesday, May 23, 1934, the two had coffee and doughnuts at Rosa Canfield's cafe at Gibsland, then went tooling along Ringgold Road in a stolen 1934 Ford Deluxe V-8, Clyde at the wheel.

... death scene

Down the road were six lawmen, who'd been waiting all night. Frank Hamer, an ex-Texas Ranger who'd been tracking the pair for months, heard a sound like a sewing machine. It was the Ford.

In the movie, the car stops, Clyde gets out and the rifles bark.

Hamer told a different story. He remembered stepping into the road as the car slowed and telling the pair to "stick 'em up." When he found himself looking down Bonnie's sawed-off shotgun, Hamer fired his Browning automatic rifle and Bonnie "screamed like a panther."

That was the end of Bonnie and Clyde — or so everyone hoped. Word spread like brushfire across the plains and the curious came to see the remains. A souvenir hunter had to be restrained from cutting off Clyde's trigger finger.

At Conger's Funeral Parlor, gawkers elbowed their way in, standing on chairs and tables to get a look. One sightseer sawed a hole through the floor of a room directly over the embalming tables.

Bonnie and Clyde, have been a top attraction ever since.

"It's a nuisance, just a plain nuisance," said Sidney Conger, mortician. "These were terrorists. For them to be glamorized and made to look like misunderstood kids... they were terrorizing a six-state area."

As for the movie: "It upset this whole area. It made our police officers look like they're stupid."

Sheriff Henderson Jordan "turned gray overnight," says his son, Larry Jordan. "It was the only thing of consequence he ever had to do," says the son. "He was just a typical country sheriff."

Several years ago, the Bienville

Parish Police Jury — the Louisiana equivalent of a county board — put up a granite marker, now pocked with bullet holes, at the site of the shooting. It would give the visitors something to look at and get them out of town, it was hoped.

Not far away, a small farm road turns to the left, going to the W. B. and J. C. Long farm, identified in one version as Bonnie and Clyde's goal the day of their misfortune.

The farm gate is plastered with "no trespassing" signs. The Longs won't talk, but others say souvenir hunters tried to carry the place away, stick by stick, before the signs and big fences went up.

For 42 years, they've been trying to kill Bonnie and Clyde. They still won't die.

Q. If the weather is bad, where will the Big Spring High School graduation exercises be held Thursday? Will there be special tickets issued to parents?

A. John Smith, high school principal, said, "We plan to have the exercises at the stadium. If weather becomes too bad, it will be moved to the auditorium. We do not plan to issue tickets. We tried that one year and it didn't work because many empty seats were left in key spots. We will put in chairs and accommodate as many as possible if it has to be moved. The construction of the Howard College Coliseum is going to solve this problem for us in future years and we are extremely grateful for that. Cross your fingers one more year."

Congressman keeps $14,000 mistress?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post reported today that Rep. Wayne Hays, chairman of the House Administration Committee, has kept a woman on his staff for two years who says she is his $14,000-a-year mistress.

Hays, 64, denied the allegation and said he would fire the woman, whom he described as being under psychiatric care.

Elizabeth Ray, 27, told the Post, "I can't type. I can't file. I can't even answer the phone." She said she does no congressional work, and told the Post that Hays visits her apartment once or twice a week for several hours.

"It's not true; it's just not true," Hays told The Associated Press through an aide late Saturday. "The girl is under psychiatric care."

Declaring he would fire Ms. Ray, who prefers that designation, Hays said, "This is my reward for trying to help somebody who's sick."

In the Post story, Ms. Ray says she shows up at her Longworth House Office Building desk once or twice a week for several hours, but does no work, and describes her evenings with Hays, who she said always is home "by 9:30."

Hays, who was married five weeks ago following a divorce from his first wife, denied the allegation and told the Post: "Hell's fire! I'm a very happily married man."

Hays has almost total control over the allocation of office space to House members. Ms. Ray's office — described by the Post as spacious and luxuriously appointed — is next to that of Rep. Bella Abzug, in which the Post said a dozen or more staffers are "shoe-horned into as many desks piled with office work."

Amtrak comes to town—temporarily

By DANNY REAGAN
The hot, gleaming rails of the Texas and Pacific system rang to the sound of Amtrak trains today in Big Spring as a number of freights and at least one passenger train were rerouted through the local tracks.

A San Antonio spokesman at the Southern Pacific Railway Co., the line Amtrak uses in Texas, discounted earlier reports that the change in course was due to the wash-out of Devil's Creek Bridge.

"There was a derailment just east of Sanderson on the bridge, but the bridge wasn't washed out," said the man.

Reports from the scene indicate that one man was killed in the seven-car derailment, when five of the cars plunged 25 feet into a gulch. Terrell County Sheriff deputies are still seeking identification of the man.

Sheriff Dalton Hogg, speaking from the small West Texas town of Sanderson, said that a load of large pipes apparently shifted as the train went over the 200-foot iron bridge, with the pipes striking the bridge and causing it to collapse.

Railroad officials in Houston said the accident would disrupt service on a large part of Southern Pacific rails, possibly through Tuesday. Company officials inferred that in addition to Amtrak, SoPac would also have to make arrangements to use other company's tracks while the derailment site was being repaired.

R. F. Handfeld, a Texas & Pacific trainmaster out of Odessa, said that he expects "20 or 22" Amtrak trains to come through the Big Spring station, "although we don't have a specific number."

The westbound trains leave the Southern Pacific system in Sweetwater, entering the T&P railway and continuing on it until they again re-enter their own tracks in Sierra Blanca, N.M., about 80 miles west of El Paso.

At 1 p.m. Saturday an Amtrak passenger train pulled into Big Spring for about a 40-minute layover as Amtrak crews were changed with local personnel.

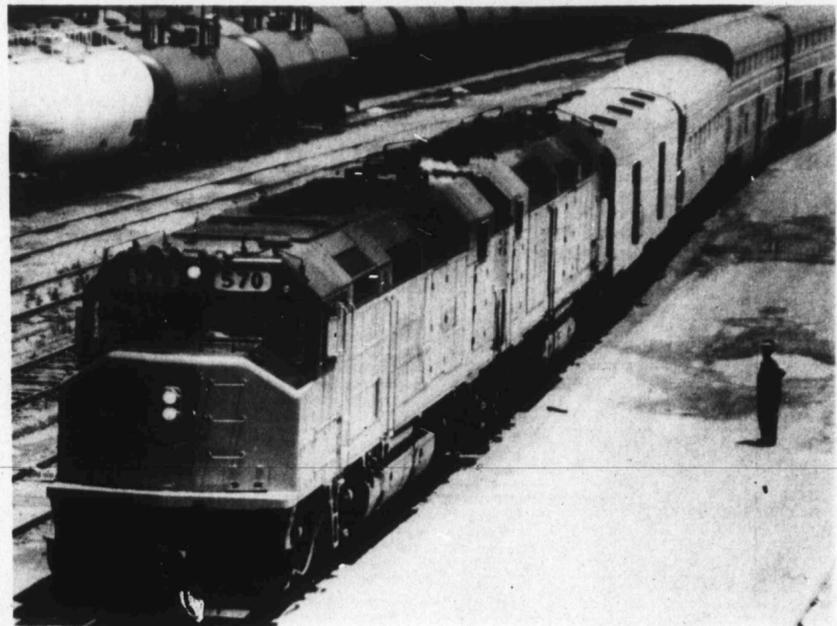

A Texas and Pacific engineer, head-breaker, conductor and rear-breaker are needed on every Amtrak train that comes through.

Handfeld stated that there would be another Amtrak passenger train coming through Big Spring about midnight. He was unsure as to the number of other possible passenger trains. Officials at the local station had no idea how long the substitution of train crews would continue. Arrangements for use of the tracks were not given.

When asked how long the Amtrak service would be detoured, the spokesman in San Antonio said, "We're still looking over the situation, and haven't come up with a definite opening figure for the railway."

Until the derailment problem is repaired, Big Springers will be welcomed with the sound of rumbling Amtrak line locomotives, perhaps as many as one an hour, bringing east coast and west coast visitors a glimpse of a "real" West Texas town, that they will no doubt remember as "Big Springs."

IT'S A BIG ONE — A lone Texas Southern-Pacific railway employe contemplates the enormity of the Amtrak passenger train that rolled into Big Spring at 1 p.m. Saturday.

'WELCOME TO BIG SPRING' — H. E. Latta, Big Spring road foreman seems to be saying to engineer W. E. Lee of Sanderson, Texas, as he pulls his Amtrak train into the local yards. A train derailment Saturday caused Amtrak service to be rerouted through the city.

Police beat — Restaurant gun play

At 6:03 p.m. Friday, officers were called to the scene of a major accident involving a motorcycle. David Kenedy Brown, 16, 1512 Sycamore, was taken to Hall-Bennett Hospital by Alert Ambulance personnel after being in collision with a car driven by Robert Kevin Mills, 1206 E. 17th. As of late Saturday afternoon, Brown was in satisfactory condition.

police received a call of a man with a gun at Denny's Restaurant. On arrival officers Gary Porter and V. Y. Garcia contacted Linda Foresyth who stated that a man had been standing outside the northeast corner of the building pointing and waving a pistol around.

Four other persons witnessed the erratic display and thought the man was going to fire the weapon. They took evasive action by crawling under tables. The man entered his car and left the scene before the report was made.

A local woman reported that her seven-month-old baby had possibly been beaten by a 50 to 65-year-old female babysitter. Black bruises were found on the baby's legs and upper body. Police officers are investigating.

Deaths — Lucy Marshall

Mrs. Lucy Marshall, 88, died at 1 a.m. Friday in an Abilene hospital where she had been for the past five weeks.

Services were at 2 p.m. Saturday at the graveside in Mount Olive Memorial Park, with Byron Taylor, a Church of Christ minister of Abilene, officiating.

Mrs. Marshall was born Lucy Moore Feb. 6, 1888 at Batesville, Ark., and married Daniel D. Marshall in 1919 at Oklahoma City, Okla.

She had been a resident of Sweetwater for the past seven years, but lived in Colorado City prior to that.

Mr. Marshall died Sept. 25, 1958.

Survivors include a son and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Joe Marshall, Abilene; three grandchildren, Mike Marshall, Pam Marshall and Julie Marshall, all of Abilene; and one great-grandchild, Leslie Ann Marshall, Abilene.

Bill Estes, 1609 Osage, told police that an adding machine valued at $50 was stolen from his car when it was parked at the Reeder Insurance Agency.

Anna A. Green was named the Psychiatric Aide Award winner at the Big Spring State Hospital Ninth Annual Awards Banquet Friday night.

Don Wright, vice president of the Abilene Association for Mental Health, presented the certificate of commendation and gold pen to Mrs. Green on behalf of the Texas Association of Mental Health.

"The aide or attendant in the long run is the person who has the closest daily contact with the patient, and can do much to make him feel comfortable, wanted and hopeful regarding his future," Wright said. "For this reason, the Mental Health Association draws attention to the important role of the psychiatric aide in the therapeutic process."

The Mental Health Association is a voluntary organization dedicated to informing the public about mental health and emotional disturbances while helping the mentally ill and their families.

Mrs. Green was employed in 1969 as an attendant. She has become one of the outstanding attendants on the Nursing Service staff. She is assigned to the Behavior Modification Unit and has advanced to the position of Mental Health-Mental Retardation specialist I.

Mrs. Green was nominated by the Unit Government of the unit and then was selected from a group of ten nominees to represent this hospital.

Mrs. Green attended high school in Poteau, Okla., and was graduated in 1962. She did factory work and took care of her family of three until 1969.

Mrs. Green had always wanted to be "a nurse" and still has plans to complete the necessary education to be a professional nurse.

RICK HAMBY, the Democratic (and only) nominee for district attorney, delivered a humorous speech about "things that irritate me."

Confusing restroom signs were first on his list. Hamby complained about steak-house restrooms with "Bulls and Heifers" for labels and a fried chicken place with rooms for "Roosters, Hens and Capons."

A stuffed, 200-pound marlin pointed to the most confusing signs of all, "Clams and Oysters" in a seafood restaurant, Hamby said.

Hamby also attacked astrology, supported smokers as intelligent — "Did you ever notice there are no directions on a pack of cigarettes" — and griped about income taxes.

ADOLPH SUPAK, assistant superintendent of the hospital and the master of ceremonies, already had told all his jokes, Hamby said.

Janet Frizzell, Janice Pringle and Daury Torres sang for the group of about 300 with Gail Sutphen accompanying on the piano. The banquet was in the Allred Building auditorium at the state hospital.

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — "When I saw that busload of happy kids, I thought they were all winners," a mourning Carol Randolph reflected Saturday.

Mrs. Randolph had watched her teen-age sons, Bob and Tom, board a bus Friday morning with nearly 50 other Yuba City High School youths for a high-spirited choir trip to another school. Within hours, Bob was dead and Tom was recovering from shock and minor injuries in a hospital.

Twenty-seven students and an adult chaperone were killed when the bus smashed through 90 feet of guardrail on a curving highway exit ramp and plunged to the concrete 36 feet below, landing on its roof.

The accident occurred near the community of Martinez, across the bay from San Francisco.

SCENE OF TRAGEDY — At least 28 persons were killed Friday at this scene where a Yuba City high school bus crashed through an off ramp guardrail at the Marina Vista exit of Interstate 680 at Martinez, Calif. Here rescue workers administer aid to some victims as others removed dead and injured from overturned bus. Bus crashed through rail at upper right.

that state and federal investigators will be examining as they try to determine what caused Friday's crash.

Herb Brown, operator of the charter bus company, told the California Highway Patrol the bus had been used very little in the past year, and then "strictly as a backup bus," Capt. Roland Udovich said.

Brown also said it was an "excessively good bus for its age," Udovich said.

The choir was on its way to sing at a high school in Orinda, where members were to spend the night with local students. They had planned a sightseeing excursion in San Francisco before heading home Saturday night.

"It's hit this community pretty hard," police officer Francis Adams said Saturday. "But everybody is going to pull together. They do that when the community is hit pretty hard."

Yuba City, an agricultural community of 14,000 on the banks of the meandering Feather River, has been hit before.

In 1955, there was a flood that left 40 residents dead and hundreds homeless. Then in 1971, a man named Juan Corona killed 25 drifters and migrant laborers and left their bodies in shallow graves in the fertile fields around the town.

Now parents and pastors are making plans for funeral services for the victims of the latest tragedy.

A memorial service is planned for 11 a.m. next Friday in the town's 4,500-seat football stadium, with ministers, students and teachers taking part.

High school Principal George Zerkovich said school will be held as usual Monday, but a moment of silence will be observed for the victims.

When news of the tragedy spread through the school Friday, students wept openly in the halls and classes were adjourned abruptly.

Bishop Paul Sorenson, a local leader of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, visited Bernie Engle on Saturday morning to discuss a mass funeral for 11 Mormon victims of the crash.

Two of the 11 were Engle's 17-year-old twin daughters, Carlene and Sharlene.

"I was up in the Yuba Hills when I heard about it," said Engle, assistant county agricultural commissioner. "My wife got ahold of me. We didn't learn they were dead until six o'clock last night, when we drove over there."

Mrs. Harry Rosebrough said her son, Seth, died on his 16th birthday. "We hadn't planned any celebration," she said. "He'd been planning this trip for months. He's been in music all his life."

Fred Preston offered free drinks to anyone who would contribute to an emergency fund his bar was considering setting up.

"I've been to 'Nam," he said. "I've been around, but a kid's thing really gets to you."

There were a few lucky teenagers.

Dorian Kephart, 15, had planned to make the trip with other members of the choir, but decided at the last minute not to go.

"She'd been on a trip to Portland with the orchestra six months before," said her father, Ralph Kephart. "And she had gone just recently to San Leandro with the school choir."

On the advice of one of her teachers, Kephart said, "She decided to stay home and do some catch-up work on her math."

Six out of seven like Ron

Reagan favored in Tuesday primaries

By The Associated Press

Two months ago, a loser in his first five primaries, Ronald Reagan predicted that he'd recoup in the South and West and win the Republican presidential nomination. He's been right about the region so far and this week he gets a chance to emphasize his point.

There are six primaries Tuesday. All but the one in Oregon are in what should be prime Reagan territory. Together they provide the former California governor with an opportunity to extend the lead he built with an accumulation of delegates from the Sun Belt.

The Democrats have primaries in the same six — Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Nevada, Idaho and Oregon. But they provide a graphically different scenario, a chance for one or another of five candidates to prove that Jimmy Carter can be stopped on the way to the nomination.

Reagan led Ford in the delegate count going into this weekend's conventions and caucuses. But Ford is expected to get something like 120 of the 154 uncommitted votes in New York when that delegation announces its choice Monday and the President may have a slight lead in actual committed delegates going into Tuesday's primaries.

Theoretically, Reagan should have the edge Tuesday, and he has predicted he will win a sizeable majority of the 176 GOP delegates at stake. But theoretical advantages often haven't worked this year, particularly on the Republican side, and Ford predicted Friday that "out of six we'll end up with a few more than my opponent as far as delegates are concerned."

Ford, who ended Reagan's winning streak with a landslide in his home state of Michigan last week, has been presidential this week, staying in Washington and attending to the nation's business.

But he has still found time to meet with reporters from Kentucky and Tennessee, two of Tuesday's critical battlegrounds, suggesting to the Tennessee reporters that either of the state's two senators — Howard Baker or William Brock — would make suitable vice presidential candidates.

Moreover, the Ford administration's attorney general, Edward H. Levi, chose the week to announce that the Justice Department is considering taking a bus case to the Supreme Court. One of those reportedly under consideration is the one in Louisville, Ky., where antibusing sentiment is high going into Tuesday's primary.

Reagan, meanwhile, continues his attack on Washington. On Friday, he suggested in Tennessee that he would consider selling the hitherto sacrosanct Tennessee Valley Authority to private interests and suggested that federal aid to education be halted. "If we have Washington out of the classroom, maybe we could have God in," he said in a speech at a fundamentalist Bible college.

The situation among the Democrats is simple. There are 191 delegates at stake Tuesday and a variety of candidates and party leaders are hoping to keep as many as possible away from Carter, who with 714 committed delegates is nearly halfway to the 1,505 needed for nomination.

Carter has predicted he will win 100 or more of those 191 and charged that the other candidates are ganging up on him. That's a hard charge for them to rebut.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, who defeated Carter last week in Maryland, is taking him on in Nevada and has a write-in campaign going in Oregon, and Sen. Frank Church, who beat Carter in Nebraska, is favored in his home state in Idaho and has an active campaign in Oregon.

Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona has discontinued active campaigning in Oregon, but has worked actively in Kentucky and Arkansas and hopes last week's razor-thin loss to Carter in Michigan has made him more viable. And there is the ever-present George Wallace, who still has the potential to take delegates from Carter in Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas.

Guam disaster area, typhoon kills three

WASHINGTON (AP) — The territory of Guam in the Pacific was declared a major disaster area Saturday in the wake of a typhoon which caused at least three deaths, damaged 80 per cent of the island's buildings and reduced the water supply to a critical situation, federal officials announced.

A spokesman for the President's Disaster Relief Fund said the full extent of the damage is not known because most of the island's communications facilities have been knocked out of action and most roads are impassable.

More than 1,000 military families were homeless and no estimate was available on civilians who lost their homes, the spokesman said. He said at one point 30,000 people were stranded by flooding.

The typhoon, Pamela, struck Thursday, the spokesman said.

Robert C. Stevens, Federal Disaster Assistance Administration coordinator, is meeting in Hawaii with the joint military Pacific commanders to arrange for relief materials for the island.

A spokesman for the FDAA said there are three confirmed deaths in the storm and 50 to 60 serious injuries.

He said the island's water supply, from wells, has been reduced to a 12-hour supply and water is being dispensed in the streets from trailers provided by the Navy.

Food is being supplied from disaster relief supplies stockpiled in Guam by the State Department and originally intended for foreign use, FDAA said.

Parks pro recalls monkey business

Johnnie Johansen has had more than 34 interesting years as superintendent of parks for the City of Big Spring, but the most interesting was that monkey business.

For 15 years, Johansen had the monkeys in Comanche Trail Park on his back, and they were always getting into something.

THE MONKEY cage, which housed four or five monkeys for visitors to the city park to see, was located where the jungle jim now stands.

Those monkeys kept the park superintendent's job from ever getting dull.

For one thing, they were drunk a lot. Beer drinkers would open cans, drink just a little and then throw them up on top. The result was a cage full of drunk monkeys.

Despite a sign that warned folks to stay away from the "vicious" monkeys, people insisted on getting close and trying to feed them.

TYPICAL WAS one man who called Johansen late one night and asked him to come down to the monkey cage and get his glasses and fountain pens back.

The man explained that he had just wanted to feed the monkeys a little, but one reached and snatched everything out of his pocket.

Anytime they were able to grab someone's glasses, Johansen said, they loved it. The monkeys would sit back and laugh teasingly.

Another time a monkey snatched a dress completely off a little girl, leaving her standing there in her underwear.

Once the monkeys all escaped, and the parks crew chased them up and down the mountain most of the day until the monkeys finally got tired and returned to their cage.

BUT JOHANSEN said the monkeys were good in that they attracted a lot of attention for Comanche Trail Park. When they died of old age, they were not replaced.

Johansen became park superintendent immediately following his discharge at the end of World War II. He had worked briefly for the city prior to the war.

"When I first came," he recalled, "I knew everybody in town, but I don't anymore. The town doesn't look the same. We used to go rabbit hunting where Howard College is now."

JOHNNIE JOHANSEN

COMANCHE TRAIL Park wasn't much when Johansen started, but it is now. The city has made many improvements, he said.

The improvement Johansen is the proudest of is the free tourist parking spots. Before the overnight trailer park was put in, travelers would ask Johansen if they could stay in the city park, and he would line them up in area near the amphitheater. When the Parks and Recreation Board for the city was created, Johansen approached the board with the suggestion of free overnight facilities.

The board went for the idea with more enthusiasm than the park superintendent had imagined. Rest room facilities had hot and cold water. Electrical outlets were installed.

The city receives dozens of letters each year from travelers who praise the facility. Many call it the best place to camp between the East Coast and California.

JOHANSEN, who lives with his wife Elizabeth on property which adjoins Comanche Trail Park, will retire in August. The couple has a son John, who works in the out-patient program at Big Spring State Hospital; a daughter, Dr. Betty Johansen of Plainview; and a son Carl, who has just been discharged from the Air Force and plans to attend Texas Tech. Though he will retire, Johansen is not through growing things. He plans to go into the nursery business at his home.

But he won't be raising monkeys. —J. TOM GRAHAM

Eskimo anguish

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — There is a poignant story behind the oil boom in Alaska. It's the story of the proud Eskimo people who, for centuries, had been left alone in their frigid, forbidding homeland. Now their way of life, harsh though it was, has been cruelly disrupted.

We sent our roving reporter, Hal Bernton, into Eskimo country to get the story. He spent a week with the Eskimos, hunting with them on the Arctic ice pack and relaxing with them afterward in their shanties.

THE DISCOVERY OF OIL in Prudhoe Bay has brought prosperity to the Eskimos. But it has also brought great anguish.

With the millions in taxes they have collected from the oil companies, the Eskimos have built a fancy hotel for the white businessmen and bureaucrats who get as far north as Barrow.

"It's a honky hotel," groused a young Eskimo woman. "Our people need a place for the old folks to stay, an alcoholic treatment center, a recreation center for the young."

The Eskimos themselves live in clapboard shacks alongside the multimillion-dollar hotel. They used to dwell in sod huts, which were extremely cramped but easy to keep warm. Their new clapboard houses, built of giant wooden packing crates and junked lumber, are more spacious, more cluttered and considerably more drafty. Bernton was invited into the two-room home of a family of six. The living room, kitchen and bathroom were crammed into one minuscule room; the other room was jammed full of beds.

ASEVIDENCE of the Eskimos' new prosperity, their yards are littered with broken-down automobiles, abandoned snowmobiles, empty Coke cans and other debris of the encroaching modern civilization. This is mingled with the debris of the old civilization — caribou hooves, walrus heads, dead seals on parked sleds and caribou skins flapping in the Arctic wind.

The oil millions have also gone to build a luxurious office building, with flush toilets and running water, for the town officials. But the townspeople still haul their water in the form of huge ice chunks from a frozen freshwater lagoon.

The water from these ice blocks, which should be but usually isn't boiled before it is used, is jealously rationed in each household. For toilets, most Eskimos use "honey buckets" which are dumped outside. The raw sewage remains frozen in the winter. But in the summer, the snow and sewage melt, giving off an awful stench. This creates a serious health problem for the children who play near the thawing sewage.

REMEMBERING...

By BILL D. BROOKS

Decoration Day Most every community had one, though some went out more for it than others, and some called it by other names. Usually held in the month of May, it was a big affair where my grandmother lived and we went almost every year.

The purpose of the special day was to honor the dead. In the small communities there was usually only one church building and most likely the cemetery was located somewhere nearby. Decoration days were on Sundays, but out-of-town folks started arriving late Friday. Saturday would be a work day — hoeing weeds around the graves, mounding up the dirt to the correct shape and resetting the tombstones if they were leaning any. Wooden grave markers got a fresh coat of white paint and flower urns a good cleaning.

The activities started the next morning with a song service for folks who liked to sing or a leisurely stroll through the graveyard for those who wanted to visit with family and friends. "Store-bought" wreaths or cut flowers from home were placed on the fresh-worked graves and people would stand near their family plot awhile thinking and talking about those who had departed this life. Then they would stroll through the rest of the graveyard to recall others whose names were recorded there. An important thing, particularly for the older people, was to look for new graves, graves put there since last decoration day, to find out if acquaintances were among them.

Later that morning a sermon was preached, usually by a previous minister of the church, invited back for this special event. Just about everyone went up to the church house for the preaching and there were usually so many people that some had to stay outside, listening to the speaker through the open windows.

After the sermon there was dinner on the ground. A table would be set up under a shade tree and each family would bring a dish of something. Everything was spread out and the people would go by the table, filling paper plates to overflowing with things like red beans, fried chicken, mashed potatoes, potato salad, garden vegetables of every kind and fresh cobbler. They would eat wherever they could find a spot. Many brought quilts to spread out on the ground for the youngsters and womenfolk but most of the men stood under trees and on the porch of the church to do their eating.

With the meal finished and the spread put away there was a time of more visiting, then the singers assembled once again inside the church. Before the assembly broke up most of the songs in the old hymnals would have been sung or at least attempted. People from the congregation would each get a chance to request their favorite hymn and willing, but tired, vocal cords would peel forth the harmony. People would leave late in the afternoon to go to the homes for more conversation and to reflect on the day's happenings.

Decoration day was to honor the dead, but it went further toward honoring the living, people got together to renew friendships, relatives were reunited, sharing love and remembering...

DECORATION DAY

Don't try removing tattoos

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I foolishly put a tattoo on myself about two years ago. I would like to know if there is a possibility of my removing it.

I have heard of a solution made with salt that will bleach the ink, but I don't know if it is true. Please let me know the best way? — Mrs. C.M.

There are several ways: skin planing (dermabrasion), relatooning, skin grafts, and the method you mention — called salabrasion.

I'm not about to describe to you how salabrasion is done. Why? Because I don't want you (or other unhappy tattooed readers) trying it. It must be done very carefully by one skilled in it. You could make a real mess of yourself by going the do-it-yourself route.

There can be bad scarring and infection from any of the methods if not done carefully.

The effects of the salt method depends on the deepness of the tattoo coloring, the deeper the less effective. See a dermatologist or a plastic surgeon to find the best method for you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I went to a clinic for a checkup. I checked out okay. Then I asked my doctor, "Okay, doc, how come I get these chest pains, and sometimes pains in my left arm?"

He asked me how long this had been going on. I said since 1964. When I overdo things it comes on. When I rest it goes away. The doctor gave me some nitroglycerine pills. But I'm afraid to take them. Will they help me from getting a heart attack? — Mrs. T.C.

Angina pectoris (your pains are symptoms of what is likely wrong. Symptoms don't show up on routine heart examinations, the type you most likely got at the clinic. You had to tell your doctor about them.

Your pains only "come on" when, as you say, you "overdo things." When you overdo your heart needs more blood and oxygen to compensate. If there is a circulation problem the heart won't get enough of either to meet its needs.

The heart produces pain, a way of "crying out" for help.

The pills you mention should help in these moments by dilating (expanding) the blood vessels serving the heart muscle. This provides the extra spurt you need at such times.

Now I suggest you return to the clinic or to your doctor and see if they can't give you some good tips on how to use such medicine effectively. There are some ways more helpful than others. My booklet on angina pectoris has some ideas on this. If you'd like a copy, send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Herald. It's possible to lead a reasonably active life with care and proper use of such medicine.

Dear Doctor: My husband is 60. A year ago he had a prostate operation. Can you tell me if he is able now to get me pregnant? I am 52 and in menopause. — C.B.

The chance of pregnancy is practically nil. One reason is your age. You are very likely infertile. Also, the prostate surgery usually makes the patient sterile, either by severing the duct that transports sperm from the testicles or by "reverse ejaculation" of the fluid and sperm in intercourse. It is directed into the bladder instead of directly to the urethra (the opening of the penis).

Thus, even if you were not in menopause the chances of pregnancy would be quite low. The surgeon would be able to tell you, from his knowledge of the type and extent of surgery done, whether your husband is still fertile.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Many women nowadays are wearing men's clothes — even to church. Doesn't it say in the Bible (Deuteronomy 22:5) that a woman should not be clothed with man's apparel, and furthermore, that those who do this are abominable before God? — K. E.

DEAR K. E.: God created men and women to be different (Genesis 2). Generally, those ideas and practices that compromise a man's masculinity, or minimize a woman's femininity, are to be avoided.

But having said that, let me explain something about the reference you make to Deuteronomy. This book is a rehearsal of the principal laws the Hebrew people needed to know before the entrance into Canaan. However, chapter 18 explicitly states that the originally organized system would be superseded by another, namely Christianity. The law, with its limitations, was replaced by Christ's grace, with all its liberty (Romans 6:14). This means that all the rigid regulations were overtaken by higher virtues — mainly that of love.

St. Peter's emphasis is clear in 1 Peter 3 (RSV) where he says a woman's real beauty is the "hidden person of the heart." Thus, it is not essentially anything exterior.

Today, as you know, the casual, relaxed styles are in. I think women can go along with this emphasis on functionalism without reflecting unfavorably on their femininity or, more importantly, on their commitment to Jesus Christ.

Judge lets Nowlin hunt for 'missing' cotton

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — A federal bankruptcy referee agreed Friday to allow Vaughan Nowlin to go on a two-month computerized search for more than $370,000 in missing cotton.

Nowlin has been sued for that amount by more than 30 West Texas farmers, including some in Howard County, who claim Nowlin paid for cotton warehouse receipts with worthless checks.

The 33-year-old Childress businessman appeared before federal bankruptcy referee Frank Murray in connection with a bankruptcy petition filed by Nowlin. Nowlin told the court he thought he had lost between $300,000 to $400,000 worth of cotton due to bookkeeping errors.

Tom Johnson, one of Nowlin's attorneys, said the cotton had not been lost but there could have been misplacements during the paperwork involved in the buying and selling process.

Under the Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceedings, Nowlin is supposed to list all assets and debts and to come up with a plan to pay creditors.

Nowlin has listed debts of $2.5 million and assets of $2.1 million while pointing out that his debt list is not complete.

Nowlin told the court his main hope of paying off his creditors is in pursuing the development of an area at Lake Montezuma, Ariz., where he has the lease on a country club and golf course. He said he would need $1 million dollars to develop fully the area.

Murray ordered the bankruptcy receiver, Bill Brister, to visit the property in Arizona to investigate the possibilities of success in the land venture.

'Nice fellas' shoot, injure college trio

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — Two men who shot three college students and threw a fourth over a cliff were "real nice fellas, right up until the time one of 'em pulled a gun."

James MacCabe, 19, of Rolling Hills, Calif., survived his forced tumble off a cliff and recalled how one assailant smiled and bragged of being a murderer as the students' outing ended in horror.

The other three students, all from the University of California's Santa Cruz campus, were taken to Northern California hospitals, each with one .22-caliber gunshot wound. All were expected to survive, hospital officials said.

They were shot while tied together on the ground at Antlers Campground at Lake Shasta on Thursday night.

Two men were arrested Friday night near the Siskiyou County community of Yreka and booked for investigation of attempted murder and robbery. Police identified them as Steven H. Caswell and David A. Englund of Central Point, Ore., both 20.

MacCabe said his feet were tied and he was thrown over the 40-foot cliff. He was stopped by rocks and brush 15 feet down.

He hid behind rocks as the assailants tried to get him by rolling down big boulders.

Then, he said, there were four shots, first two, then a pause, and two more.

MacCabe and his classmates — Jeremy Grainger of San Gabriel, Calif., Laura Goldman of San Francisco and Evan-smyth Leicester of Pacific Palisades, Calif., all 19 — were driving to Crater Lake, Ore., when they stopped to fix dinner at the campground.

MacCabe said that after eating they met the men and asked them about swimming conditions at the lake. One of the men said there was a good spot several miles north, then asked if they could ride there with them.

Suddenly, MacCabe said, one pulled a gun, and marched them to the picnic area. MacCabe said his classmates were forced to disrobe and they were tied together, but there was not enough rope for him to be tied with them.

He said his feet were bound and he was struck in the face with the butt of the pistol.

Before he was picked up and thrown over the cliff, MacCabe said, one man said: "I've killed three or four people."

"The guy looked proud of the fact that he had done that."

Aging constable never shot at?

LADONIA, Tex. (AP) — People here and in nearby Bug Tussle and Wolfe City apparently like a man of maturity for their constable. In H.H. "Mutt" Milford they've got it — 85 years worth.

Milford has been pinning on his six-star badge, serving court papers and warrants and cruising this area of Northeast Texas since the 1950s.

In the recent Democratic primary Milford faced his first opponent for the office of constable. The voters went two-to-one for Milford over a much younger opponent. There is no Republican candidate for the November general election.

"I didn't want to run this time, but Sheriff Raymond Taylor wanted me to run," Milford said. "I'm getting too darn old."

Milford's police cruiser is his 1962 pickup.

"I don't do a regular patrol," the six-foot-three Milford said.

But the local police often call him when they need him. And when they call him at night, Milford said, "that's the hell of it."

Things are quiet now around Ladonia. But they weren't always that way around this town of 757, Milford said.

Once, he said, the town had 3,500 inhabitants.

"Gradually, people just went away," Milford said. "I couldn't explain it."

Law enforcement activities quieted down even more when the sale of alcoholic beverages became legal.

"There was bootlegging before that," Milford said. "Corn squeezings came down from Oklahoma. Sometimes we'd catch them on the road. Sometimes we'd catch them at home. Sometimes they were my friends."

Today Milford's biggest headaches are caused by vandalism, break-ins and burglaries. "There's just more meanness today," he said.

Milford said he's never had to shoot at anyone. "Never had anybody to shoot at me that I know of," he said.

Quake frequency 'not unusual'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five big earthquakes have rattled the earth so far this month, falsely giving some people the impression there were more quakes than usual lately, U.S. Geological Survey scientists say.

"Everyone is trying to say there is unusual earthquake activity, but there is not," said Waverly Persons, a geophysicist with the USGS National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo.

"We've had normal activity for the first half of the year," Persons said in an interview. "Actually, if you look at the average predicted earthquakes for a year, we are slightly behind."

Persons said there have been 17 quakes classified as major or significant so far this year. People are paying more attention to them recently because several have occurred in populated rather than remote areas, he said.

"People are looking at where there has been damage and loss of life," he continued. "This stays in their minds more than a non-destructive quake."

Hundreds of lives were lost in the May 6 quake that struck northeastern Italy and an undetermined number of lives also were lost in the destructive May 16 shock in Soviet central Asia.

A USGS spokesman said that almost 1,000 deaths worldwide could be attributed to earthquakes this year.

There have been five earthquakes classified as "major" and 12 called "significant" this year.

Persons said. A major one has a magnitude of 7 or greater on the Richter Scale, and a quake is classified significant if it either measures 6.5 or stronger or causes extensive damage and death.

In the Richter scale, every increase of one number, such as from 6.5 to 7.5, means the ground motion is 10 times greater.

In populated areas, an earthquake of 3.5 on the Richter Scale can cause slight local damage, 4 can cause moderate damage, 5 considerable damage and 6 can be severe. A 7 reading is a "major" quake capable of heavy damage and an 8 is a "great" earthquake capable of tremendous widespread damage. The Italian quake measured 6.5 and the Soviet shock registered 7.2 on the Richter Scale, a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs.

Persons said about 16 to 18 quakes in the major category are expected each year, but for the last three years only about 12 were recorded annually. With about half of 1976 gone, only five "majors" have registered since January, he added.

Persons said approximately 6,000 quakes of various magnitudes register each year on existing equipment and "thousands more go unlocated because they are very small."

Scientists say earthquake activity tends to be episodic, with periods of relative quiet — such as the last three years — alternating with periods of more disturbances.

Legislation blocking turnpike toll promised

AUSTIN (AP) — State Rep. Doyle Willis of Fort Worth says he will introduce legislation blocking the continuation of tolls on the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike.

Willis said Friday in Austin that he will take that step if the Texas Turnpike Authority (TTA) continues levying tolls after construction bonds are paid off next year.

Willis said he "wouldn't have any trouble at all" winning support for antitoll legislation. "I'm going to have favorable support from legislators all over this state whose constituents travel up here and have to pay that toll."

Drivers of passenger cars currently pay 60 cents for a complete trip between Dallas and Fort Worth and proportionately lower tolls if the motorist leaves the turnpike between the two cities.

Willis said his own Tarrant County constituents are "sick" of the tolls. He blasted the nine-member TTA as a "real country club outfit" which spends too much money running the 35-mile long roadway.

"Every time somebody throws out a piece of litter on the shoulder, there are two maintenance men who run to pick it up," Willis declared. "I bet if you looked at the money spent on that turnpike, it would be three times higher than the State Highway Commission spends" to maintain toll free roads.

Three of the nine TTA members have indicated they will support continued tolls when the panel conducts a hearing on the matter in Arlington Wednesday.

The Dallas Chamber of Commerce wants to extend the tolls to pay for road widening and interchange improvements.

Willis said the 1953 statute authorizing the turnpike "plainly said when the debts are paid out, it'll be turned over to the state."

Concorde service begins Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger refused on Saturday to stop the controversial Concorde from landing at Dulles International Airport, clearing the way for the supersonic jet's first commercial flights to the United States starting Monday.

Two needle-nosed Concorde, one from British Airways and the other from Air France, are scheduled to land at Dulles airport near Washington within minutes of each other Monday morning, less than four hours after leaving Paris and London.

Burger rejected a last-ditch request by officials of Fairfax County, Va., where Dulles is located, to stay an order by Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman permitting Concorde flights for a 16-month trial period.

As is customary, the chief justice gave no explanation for the decision.

The board of supervisors of Fairfax County had asked that Burger stop the flights until the full Supreme Court reviewed an appeal of a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision upholding Coleman's order.

A group of Fairfax County citizens meanwhile said they intend to stage a protest at the airport when the superfast Concorde lands.

HE GOT WET, BUT — An airport employe braves a rainshower to take a snapshot of the French supersonic airliner Concorde as it took off from New Orleans Saturday with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing aboard. Meanwhile in Washington Chief Justice Warren Burger refused to interfere with Monday's scheduled commercial service of the big bird to Dulles International Airport.

The Virginia protesters, and a number of environmental groups opposing the Concorde, say they think the plane is too noisy and might damage the stratosphere. They add they believe the government has failed to fully evaluate potential safety problems connected with the 1,350-mile-an-hour jet.

They were not appeased by the relatively quiet landing and takeoff of the Air France Concorde used by French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing on his Washington visit last week.

Air France announced last week that it will cut the number of Concorde passengers from the maximum 100 to 80 and British Airways will go from 100 to 71 to allow a greater safety margin of fuel capacity for the flight. The need to fly the plane at subsonic speeds over land to avoid sonic boom effects in residential areas substantially increases fuel consumption, the French airlines said.

The passenger limitation may be modified or lifted later "in the light of experience," it added.

Coleman's Feb. 4 order authorized the two European airlines to operate two Concorde flights each daily into New York's Kennedy airport and one daily flight each into Dulles for up to 16 months.

The secretary said the government would then determine whether the Concorde was environmentally acceptable and he would decide whether it should be given permanent landing rights.

No date has been set for the start of Concorde service to Kennedy.

British Airways and Air France have filed suit in U.S. District Court, Manhattan, to overturn a ban on Concorde flights to Kennedy airport imposed by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

The Port Authority has filed only routine answers and court sources said the suit was dormant pending Supreme Court action in Washington.

There was no immediate indication what effect Berger's decision would have on the action here.

Denton places backing behind candidate Sadler

Rep. Lane Denton, the third-place finisher in the Democratic primary race for the Texas Railroad Commission May 1, said Saturday he will vote for Jerry Sadler in the runoff.

Sadler led in the first primary and is matched against Rep. Jon Newton, D-Beeville, in the June 5 runoff.

Denton said Newton, "both by his sworn financial statements and his public statements, shows himself to be the adopted son of the big oil and gas companies."

Denton, D-Waco, added in a statement, "The election of Jon Newton will continue the control of the railroad commission by the oil and gas industries."

Newton, 34, admitted spending more than $225,000 in the first primary, including heavy infusions of oil money.

Sadler, 68, making his 10th statewide race since 1938, spent some $2,000 — and half of that was for the filing fee to get on the ballot.

Sadler led the eight-man race with 394,984 votes. Newton trailed with 339,876. Denton was third with 246,093.

The fifth-place finisher, Robert Wood of Pampa, who got 110,552 votes, has endorsed Newton.

Campaigning in Grapeland on Saturday, Sadler said "oil and gas people put up their money" for Newton, then voted in the Republican primary so they could support Ronald Reagan for president.

"No one who voted in the Republican primary can vote in our runoff," said Sadler.

DRAMATIC RESCUE — Nine-year-old Susan Cady of Denver screams in terror and clutches tightly to unidentified member of the Bancroft Fire Department in rescue from rain-swollen Clear Creek west of Golden, Colorado, Friday. Susan, her mother Leslie, 34, and sister Jane, 6, were trapped in creek in their car which had rolled over a 30-foot embankment into the water. All three were rescued uninjured. Delegate survey shows

Carter could face rough going

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Associated Press survey demonstrates how front-runner Jimmy Carter may face difficulty nailing down the Democratic presidential nomination if the national convention goes past the first ballot.

Interviews with nearly one-fourth of the delegates who will pick the nominee in New York show very few supporters of other candidates who identify Carter as their second choice for the nomination.

About two-thirds of the delegates decline at this point to name a second choice. But among those who do, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey is the choice of about 40 per cent, more than six times the number who would pick Carter as an alternative.

The continuing survey by AP bureaus across the country seeks to reach all 3,048 delegates to the convention. Only about half have been picked so far, although primary election results already have determined how some delegates yet to be selected will vote.

Forty-one per cent of the delegates surveyed thus far are declared supporters of Carter on the first ballot. That's just slightly higher than the 38 per cent support he claims among all delegate votes either so far declared or set by law.

Besides being asked their first and second choices for the presidential nomination, delegates are being asked who they would like to see as vice presidential nominee if their first choice for president is nominated.

Here, a striking affinity for Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California emerges among government officials, a number of whom may be influential in back-room bargaining.

Less than one-fourth of the 146 delegates in that occupational category support Carter, markedly lower than his overall 41 per cent standing.

By contrast, Carter is the pick of half the 220 professional persons who are delegates and of half the delegates who are homemakers, students, retired or otherwise not employed.

Despite some theories that organized labor is for Jackson or Humphrey, one-third of the 142 delegates who are members of labor unions are Carter supporters.

These kinds of indicators will probably change as additional delegates are selected and polled, as continuing campaign events change minds, and simply as the convention draws near.

For Carter, however, they are a caution sign that getting that last several hundred to votes to win the nomination may not be easy.

More than one-third of the 11 Carter delegates who expressed a preference on a running mate named Brown. Brown is the vice presidential pick of nearly one-fourth of all the delegates expressing a view, receiving half again as many mentions for the No. 2 spot as Carter.

The greatest share of those mentioning Carter for vice president comes from the Illinois bloc, which is nominally supporting favorite son Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III for president.

Of the 64 Stevenson delegates reached, 39 declined to state their choice for the nomination after Stevenson. But of the 25 who did, 19 name Humphrey.

The bulk of delegates favoring Sen. Henry M. Jackson or Rep. Morris K. Udall also didn't want to name a second choice yet. But among 49 who did, the ratio of Humphrey picks to Carter picks was nearly 5 to 1.

Another possible hint of trouble for Carter if the convention goes past the first ballot is his relatively smaller support among elected or appointed

Candidates to attend Demo dinner

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — At least four active candidates for the Democratic nomination for president and one possible candidate will attend the pre-convention dinner June 17 in Houston, Gov. Dolph Briscoe said Saturday.

Briscoe said confirmed guests include Jerry Brown, Jimmy Carter, Frank Church, Morris Udall and Hubert Humphrey.

The dinner, called "A Salute to Bob Strauss," will be at the Summit, downtown hotel and sports events center.

Scientists develop 'super slurper'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of government scientists is getting one of the Agriculture Department's highest citations for developing a chemical "super slurper" which can help dry up dripping baby diapers, soggy kitty litter and football coaches' crying towels.

The chemical is a starch-based product developed by the department's eight-member Absorbent Polymer Research Group at Peoria, Ill., headed by Dr. William N. Doane.

The super-slurper is not sold in stores but is added to other materials in the manufacturing stage so they can sop up liquids more readily. It can absorb up to 1,400 times its weight in water.

"Super slurper can be mixed with or coated on all kinds of materials, including, for example, sand, straw, sawdust, seeds and roots, natural or synthetic fibers, and flour gelatin and starch," the department said Saturday. "It can hold water in soils, animal bedding and kitty litter, taveling and diapers, bandages, surgical pads, and dental absorbents."

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller will address the Synagogue Council of America here Sunday in commemoration of the council's 50th anniversary.

Rockefeller, serving as a stand in for President Ford, will make his speech at the Touro Synagogue, the oldest Jewish synagogue in the United States.

The ceremonies will include the reading of a letter from George Washington to the Touro Synagogue in which the nation's first President pledged "to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance."

Brigitte scares burglar

ST. TROPEZ, France (AP) — An angry Brigitte Bardot intimidated a burglar into returning stolen property as he fled from her walled villa outside this Riviera resort last week, police reported Saturday.

The film star surprised the young man Thursday as he was climbing a roof to escape with a purse containing money and jewelry he found in the garden.

Police said Miss Bardot's "resolute attitude" forced the man to return the purse before he fled. Miss Bardot alerted police but the man has not been found.

Leadbelly kin file suit

HOUSTON (AP) — A $16.5 million federal damage suit has been filed by the family of Huddie Ledbetter — the famed black song writer and singer known as "Leadbelly" — against Paramount Pictures Corp.

The suit, filed Friday by John Ledbetter of Houston, said the movie "Leadbelly" embarrassed the family. The suit was filed in behalf of family members in Houston and Louisiana.

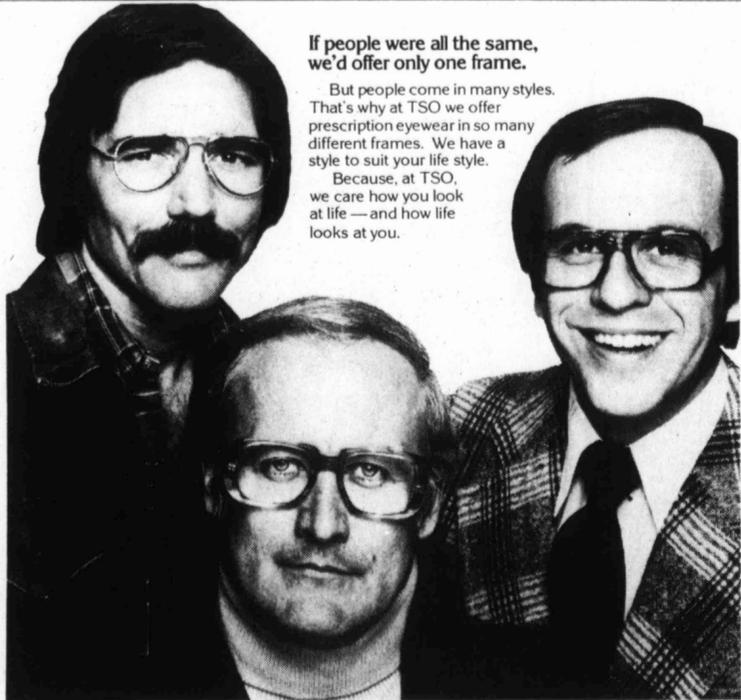

Ledbetter wrote "Good Night, Irene," "Midnight Special" and other songs. The suit claimed the movie is false and portrayed him in a "vile and rude manner which would shock the conscious."

Stassen tries again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Harold E. Stassen says he is considering another try at something he failed to accomplish in 1948, 1952, 1964 and 1968 — capture the Republican presidential nomination.

"I could unite the Republican party, unite the country and provide the essential leadership to lift America with full employment, without inflation, and establish conditions of peace with justice and freedom," Stassen, 69, said Friday.

There were four reporters and 26 empty chairs facing Stassen as he made his announcement.

Congress eyes uranium bill favorably

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's bill to end the 30-year government monopoly on production of enriched uranium is being considered in Congress after clearing its first committee hurdle May 11.

The Joint Committee on Atomic Energy emerged 14-1 from committee "mark-up" session when the decision was made on what provisions to offer for floor debate and voting.

Robert C. Seamans Jr., head of the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA), said he thought there was "a reasonable chance" the bill will pass.

But a committee source says Chairman John O. Pastore, D-R. I., warned President Ford last year and that the bill, if submitted in its original form, could provoke major floor battles in the House and Senate.

Some committee members, including Pastore, have sharply questioned provisions allowing extensive government support of private ventures, particularly in connection with the proposal by a group called Uranium Enrichment Associates (UEA).

UEA has proposed building a $3.5-billion, uranium enrichment plant near Dothan, Ala., in place of a proposed $2.8-billion government addition to an existing ERDA plant at Portsmouth, Ohio.

The huge UEA plant, using current gaseous-diffusion technology, would be powered by two 1,000-megawatt, nuclear electricity-generating stations, at a total cost of perhaps $5 billion.

The administration, which favors the UEA project, says such a large investment would demand government guarantees to assure financing. That would limit the chances of anyone else building a similar plant.

But Ford's bill also would authorize federal support for three other private enrichment proposals, differing sharply from the UEA project.

They involve a new technology that would require a plant one-third the size of the proposed UEA plant and would use one-third as much electricity for the enrichment process.

Called the gas centrifuge, the new technology is commercially untested, but its smaller plant size and lower cost make it easier for private firms to try it. Each such plant might cost $1 billion and would require no satellite power plant to provide its energy.

Three private groups have made gas centrifuge proposals. UEA is the only one seeking the older "gaseous diffusion" system.

Seamans has urged Ford to approve construction of a federal gaseous-diffusion plant, and to move toward private uranium enrichment later, through development of the new centrifuge technology.

Said recently that even after UEA submitted an improved proposal last May 30, Seamans told Ford it still would be simpler to build a government plant.

But Fri said Ford decided to seek private development immediately, in effect endorsing the UEA proposal.

Seamans, who has since supported Ford's position, said Friday that congressmen who have studied the issue "are behind the concept of moving to private uranium-enrichment operations, particularly the gas centrifuge technology. They can see that there would truly be competition there, and it is a new technology, with risks warranting government guarantees."

In public hearings on Ford's proposal, committee members expressed concern as to whether the UEA gaseous-diffusion project meets the tests for government assistance — competition and new technology.

Ford's bill, sent to Congress last June 26, would authorize ERDA to provide to private uranium enrichers: — Technical aid, information, inventions and discoveries, enriching services, materials and equipment, charging them costs and royalties.

— Guarantees that new plants using government technology would work.

— Commitments to purchase enrichment service from the private ventures, if necessary to help them get started.

— An obligation on the government's part to take over and complete the project if the private venture faltered.

These were among specific support measures requested by UEA last May 30 that caused Pastore to wonder aloud whether the venture would really be "private enterprise" or "another big giveaway program."

The bill would authorize ERDA to guarantee up to $8 billion in loans to private enrichment ventures, although the administrations aid probably little or no government outlay would materialize.

In Alaska pipeline Disputed welds could cost $55 million

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — It will cost trans-Alaska pipeline builders up to $55 million if the Interior Department orders repair of 1,700 pipe welds whose quality is disputed by the builders and federal and state monitors.

And major repair work on pipe already installed could delay the project which now is scheduled to be completed in July 1977.

The repair cost estimate was made in an interview Friday by Edward L. Patton, president of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co.

"We can get all those welds so that they satisfy everybody by spending the $55 million," Patton said. "That is the total maximum it could cost to correct the deficiencies turned up in the audit."

He said the estimate includes the possibility that federal officials may order Alyeska to make new X of 360 welds whose radiographs were missing when Alyeska conducted its audit of the inspection.

"If we had to dig up to get a radiograph, that estimate includes that cost," said Patton.

Alyeska last week released a summary of its $4.5 million audit of 35,600 radiographs of pipeline welds made to date.

The 800-mile pipeline eventually will carry oil from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez. Installation of the 48-inch-wide pipe is about half complete.

A spokesman for the Interior Department said in Washington Friday that the department has ordered an independent accounting firm to verify results of the Alyeska audit.

"These people are not experts in radiography," the spokesman explained. "They are authorized to retain experts in those fields to do whatever is necessary to validate or find out which welds cannot be satisfactorily validated."

Earlier Friday Patton said it would cost a minimum of $5 million to $10 million to repair 28 of the 1,700 disputed welds which it voluntarily offered to fix. Those 28 welds were cracked, according to Alyeska's radiographic audit.

Alyeska is the consortium formed by eight major oil companies to build the pipeline at a cost now estimated at $7 billion. It was not known whether the repair cost estimate was included in that total.

USDA-USSR talks won't include grain dealings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says talks here early next week with high ranking Soviet Union trade officials are not expected to include new negotiations for further sales of U.S. grain.

Butz said Friday the meetings will involve "primarily an exchange of information" about the mutual grain situation and details of a long-term agreement signed last fall.

The pact calls for the United States to sell Russia six million to eight million metric tons of wheat and corn annually over five years, beginning with deliveries this Oct. 1. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

"We'll be discussing their own situation in Russia, hopefully to get as much we can about their stocks, their needs, the condition of their crop this year," Butz told The Associated Press.

"We have a pretty good estimate of our own of their crop condition, but we want to get their input into it," he said.

The Soviet delegation is expected to include Victor I. Pershin, chairman of EXPORT-KHLEB, the state trading agency, and Boris Gordeyev, deputy foreign trade minister. The delegation will meet with Butz and other high level U.S. government officials.

Under the long term grain agreement, "consultation" meetings are specified every six months. Butz said, "This is the first semi-annual consultation" under the agreement.

While the agreement will enable Russia to buy six million to eight million tons of grain annually on a routine basis with no further discussions, it also will let sales rise above eight million if the Russians choose and if the United States has enough to sell. But in that case its specifies further U.S.-Soviet consultation.

"My own personal opinion is that we're going to have the supplies available, based on bountiful harvests in 1976, and if they want to go beyond that, I think we'll have it for sale," Butz said.

The Soviet Union, including a round of purchases last month, has brought 16.5 million tons of grain from the 1975 U.S. harvest. It also has bought 2.2 million tons for delivery after Oct. 1 under the long-term agreement, meaning that the 1976 wheat and corn harvests will be available for those shipments.

Ford at the White House. He said Ford "was delighted" to hear that prospects look good for bumper harvests and that food prices would rise slowly this year.

Approval needed for rural sewer

Families in Howard County often build homes or move in mobile homes outside the city on small tracts of land and do not realize that they need approval of water and sewer systems by the Big Spring-Howard County Health Department.

The two most important items concerning health in rural living are the water and sewage disposal.

Spokesmen from the Health Department said that the distance of the well in relation to the sewage system is very important.

"The well should be properly constructed with a vent, which can be closed, providing for sanitation procedure, when or if necessary," the health department officials maintain.

Well water for domestic use should be checked at least once a year for bacteria with the health department offering this service. Stuart I. Draper M.D., M.P.H., is director of the local health department. The department reminds rural residents that "Sewage is one of the most dangerous pollutants and can contaminate the water supply."

A proper rural sewage disposal system, according to the requirements of the department, consists of a tank impervious to water, a properly constructed subsurface drain field with approved material and proper elevation. The size of the tank and drain field are determined by the size of the dwelling.

Rural landowners may call on the health department for advice on any of these items, or any other environmental health problems in the area. The department is located in the Dora Roberts Health Center, 201 Lancaster. Its telephone number is 263-7261.

Underwood elected chief of HC Cotton Producers

Lloyd Underwood has been elected president of the newly organized Howard County Cotton Producers Association, which will administer a new program on cotton problems. Vice president is R. C. Thomas; Gene Perry is secretary and Delbert Donelson will serve as treasurer.

Directors include Donnie Reid, Rodney Brooks, Bob Wegner, Bob Adkins, Larry Shaw, Clay Ingram, Delbert Stanley, Johnny Anderson, Mike Moates, Jack Wolf, David Barr, M. A. Snell and Billy Bryant.

The organization was initiated by the Crops Subcommittee of the Howard County Program building committee. Larry Shaw was chairman of this committee. Howard County Agricultural Producers now have a county entomologist who will serve Howard County as well as Glasscock, Martin, Midland, Upton and Reagan counties.

The county entomologist is funded by appropriations from the state. He will coordinate survey teams in each county which are to be financed by funds raised locally.

The tentative proposed budget calls for $6,000. Preliminary plans call for

Lee named area entomologist

James T. Lee has been hired by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service to work as a county extension entomologist. He will be headquartered in the courthouse in Stanton and will be assigned to work in cotton pest management in Howard, Martin, Glasscock, Reagan and Upton counties.

Lee was raised on a farm in southwest Arkansas. He attended Southern State College at Magnolia, Arkansas and has a B.S. and M.S. in entomology from the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville.

Before his employment with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, he was employed with the Arkansas Cooperative Extension Service as a county extension agent, agriculture in Chicot County, located in the Mississippi delta. There he worked with cotton, rice and soybean production. Also, he worked extensively with the 4-H program there.

Lee is married to the former Patricia Young of Port Arthur. They will be making their home in Big Spring.

producers to pay 20c per bale on the 1975 crop. The program is voluntary. It is hoped that all producers will participate.

Other tentative plans include: Hiring two survey teams for Howard County. One will survey Cotton for early season insects and one for the boll weevil.

The Board of Directors will determine acreage to be checked at locations that will give an idea as to the general insect situation.

The cotton will be checked weekly and results will be disseminated weekly. Included in the report will be beneficial, as well as harmful insects and fruiting progress of the cotton.

Provide technical assistance to producers on insect identification and recognition of insect damage.

Information which can be gathered in this survey is necessary for any control program for the boll weevil. This insect is more of a problem each year on the Eastern and Southern edges and threatens the whole county. Scurry, Mitchell, Glasscock and Martin counties are activating programs.

For further information, contact the officers and directors or the Howard County Extension Office.

Letters have gone out to growers urging participation in the program. Farmers may contact any of the following to pledge their portion. These include David Workman, president of Western Production Credit Association; J. D. Nelson, Security State Bank; Bill Read, president Coahoma State Bank; M. A. Snell, vice president First National Bank and Delbert A. Donelson, vice president of State National Bank.

Stubborn sap causes small syrup crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sap didn't flow well in many areas last winter so the 1976 output of maple syrup will be the smallest in three years, according to the Agriculture Department.

Syrup production is estimated at 927,000 gallons, down 23 per cent from last year, says the department's Crop Reporting Board. That is the smallest output since 856,000 gallons were produced in 1973.

Officials said that in New England "many long time producers reported this was the poorest season of memory" for syrup production. Output in all producing states except Wisconsin declined from a year earlier.

The increase in Wisconsin was attributed to more taps being used to gather the maple sap.

Two for the road

Colorful Bend, Texas

with Danny Reagan and James Werrell

There's a place not too far from Big Spring, about 240 miles, that is well worth the trip. It's a community of about 80 homes placed scenically on a majestic curve in the Colorado River called Bend, Texas.

For the scenery that abounds on the way to the small hamlet, the trip is really not that far at all, once you get to San Angelo that is. We all know what the scenery between here and San Angelo looks like, but from San Angelo to Bend the hill country in the spring and summer make sand-land folks like us drool on our road maps.

Bend is located midway between San Saba and Lampasas, deep in the heart of tall trees and rolling hills. Just follow the road signs.

The catfish thrive in the river running through Bend during June, July and August, and recreational facilities and fishing camps with such colorful names as Gorman Falls, Sulphur Springs, Lemons Camp and Star Camp are situated precisely on the most sightly of arches in the Colorado.

In Bend, the people make the town the friendly and comfortable place it is to visit. Two such people are Mutt and Mildred Patterson. The couple live down on the river and have a 40-foot trailer that they rent to out-of-town visitors, many of which are newlyweds.

Mildred's grandfather was the first settler in Bend in 1872. His name was Seth Moore and he was the first surveyor of San Saba County. Mutt is a really likeable old salt who knows just about everything there is to know about fishing.

He has a score of great fishing tales, the best one is of the 75-100-lb. yellow cat that almost tipped over his boat as he tried to get it off his trot line one summer morning.

In the backyard of the Patterson home, between the house and the river, grows the biggest pecan tree in the nation. It is named "The Jumbo Hollis Pecan" and is featured in the 1971 publication "Famous Trees of Texas." The tree is estimated at about 700 or 800 years old, and around the turn of the century it produced over 1100 pounds of pecans.

Mutt and Mildred are just

two of the friendly people in the town. Olan Polk, who runs the Bend Store, is very helpful to anyone he meets and has just about anything you would need at his store.

Jerry Lemons, his wife and mother-in-law run a store and a cafe that features tasty home-smoked barbecue.

There are three active churches in Bend—Methodist, Church of Christ and Baptist, and reunions are a common sight on the large hill that overlooks the picturesque town.

There is even one lady who lives in a cottage at Lemons Camp who receives the Big Spring Herald, a Mrs. N. R. Smith.

Up the road a piece (approximately six miles) is another unique spot... Gorman Falls. The place is almost indescribable, but comparable to a small piece of the Grand Canyon transplanted into Texas, with the added bonus of the green of south-central Texas.

Gorman Falls is one of the most isolated resort areas in the state. Almost no one out of the region has heard much about it. Personally, that's great! It is unspoiled, quiet, breathtaking in scope—the falls cascade over a 100-foot cliff from a small bowed rivulet that runs among the cabins at the site, mingling down into a broad stretch of the Colorado River that winds away into the distant hills, seemingly forever. It is unbelievable.

Bend and Gorman Falls make for an experience on the road that is personally satisfying for the few that find it. If you search for peace and solitude, and yearn to break away from civilization every now and then, get on the road and see it. But if you go, please have respect for characteristics that make it such a paradise.

Commissioners mull airport takeover

County Commissioners Court will consider the county assuming responsibility for managing the Howard County Airport in lieu of continuing a fixed-base operation lease.

County Attorney W. H. (Bill) Eysen Jr. will discuss terminating the lease with Big Spring Aircraft Inc.

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has ruled that the commissioners court granted Big Spring Aircraft "exclusive rights" to the airport, a violation of FAA grant agreements.

Louis Rosenbaum, the El Paso president of Trans Regional Airlines, had protested the commissioners court denial of a second lease.

In other business, the court will:

Defense rules first half

Steer offense goes on tear

By FRED BREWER

According to Big Spring football coach Don Robbins the Steers' main worry this spring was to find a defense that could stop the other team from scoring. Then, they would consider finding a scoring punch in the offensive unit.

Well, his team copied that philosophy Saturday night in the White-Gold spring practice scrimmage game with the defense dominating proceedings the first half and the offense running roughshod over the defense in the second half. The score, for whatever it's worth in this type of game, was Offense (white) 32, Defense (gold) 8.

The White or offensive team had the ball all night so the score doesn't mean much. Especially since interceptions and recovered fumbles put the defense in worse field position than they would've been if they hadn't recovered the turnovers.

The only score the offense managed in the first half was set up in this manner. The defense had the offense deep in its own territory when it intercepted one of quarterback Bubba Stripling's passes. After the ball was placed down the offense now had good field position.

The offense should be given credit for taking advantage of the break. They worked the ball down to the Gold's 20-yard line. Greg Adams took it in from there on a nice bit of broken-field running. They missed the extra point run and that's how the first half ended, 6-0.

The highlight for the offense in the first half was a 64-yard punt by Ricky Cluck, but the White teams didn't punt too often the second half.

Minutes after the second half began Johnny Abreo scamped in from the 32-yard line and it was all downhill for the offense after that.

Later Bubba Stripling went in from nine yards out, Ricky Myers shook off tacklers and went in from 20 yards out and Stripling scored again from the 15. After the game was over they kept practicing from near the goal line and Stripling hit Mike Harris with a pass in the far left corner of the end zone.

The only score by the defense was an intercepted pass by tackle David Kinman in the fourth quarter.

The defensive coaches had plaudits for: Tony Mann and Steve Wolfe on the line, Young at linebacker and Billy Hayes and Tommy Churchwell in the secondary.

The offensive coaches praised the play of: the entire line the second half, but especially Tony Partee and Jack Buchanan, Bubba Stripling and Ricky Myers at quarterback, Mike Abreo and Mitch Harris at running back, Ricky Cluck at tight end, Mike Harris and Larry Duron at flanker and Kenneth Coffey at split end.

SMITH BREAKS AWAY — In one of the few highlights enjoyed by the Big Spring Steer offense in the first half of the Steer scrimmage Saturday night fullback Maury Smith breaks into the clear for a short gain in the first quarter. The offense opened things up in the second half scoring frequently.

An eagle ignites charge

Gilbert sweeps into lead

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Gibby Gilbert, four strokes back at one time, started his charge with an eagle three, swept past faltering Fred Marti with a solid 66 and established a three-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $200,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

Gilbert, who's twice quit the tour in disgust, made up three strokes on the front-running Marti on the seventh hole, played the back nine in 32 and put together a 54-hole total of 201, 15 under par on the 7,193-yard Colonial Country Club course. Dr. Gil Morgan, a nonpracticing optometrist, flashed out of the pack with a seven-under par 65 that put him in second place at 204.

The veteran Marti, who held a two-stroke lead at the end of the first and second rounds, improved his margin to four shots after six holes and, at that stage, appeared in fine shape to make a run at his first victory in 13 long years of tour activity.

But the big, rangy 35-year-old journeyman blew to a 74 that left him six big strokes back at 207 going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $40,000 first prize.

Forrest Fiezer came on with a 67 in the almost ideal playing conditions—warm, hazy with just a gentle breeze—and claimed third at 206.

The bitterly disappointed Marti was tied for fourth with Bruce Lietzke, who shot a 68.

Al Geiberger matched the course record with a 64 that put him in contention at 208, seven strokes off the pace.

South African Gary Player shot a solid 67 for 210 while Lee Trevino, a two-time Memphis champion and the winner last week in Fort Worth, Tex., lured a huge gallery to watch his two-under-par 70. Trevino, however, was out of title contention at 213, 12 strokes back.

ChiSox whip A's, Brewers triumph

The Kansas City Royals had their five-game winning streak snapped Saturday but the skid of the Oakland A's reached six in a row.

Jim Spencer hit a tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning and Bucky Dent drilled three hits and drove in two runs in leading the White Sox to a 7-2 victory over Oakland, which extended the A's losing streak to six games, their longest since August 1970.

Spencer's second homer of the year and first since opening day broke a 2-2 tie and came off starter and loser Mike Norris.

In the only other American League afternoon game, Bill Sharp and Don Money combined for seven hits and three runs batted in as the Milwaukee Brewers handed the Cleveland Indians their fourth straight setback, 6-5. The Brewers broke a 4-4 tie with two runs in the sixth on two-out singles by Sharp—his fourth of the game—Money, Darrell Porter and Hank Aaron.

In National League daylight contests, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 16 innings and the Atlanta Braves defeated the San Francisco Giants 3-2.

Mario Mendoza's sacrifice fly scored Willie Stargell from third base in the 16th inning, pulling Pittsburgh past Chicago. Left-hander Roger Moret posted his first National League victory and Jimmy Wynn homered for the go-ahead run to lead Atlanta over San Francisco.

American League night action had Detroit at Baltimore, Boston at New York and California at Texas.

In the National League, St. Louis was at Philadelphia, New York at Montreal, Houston at Los Angeles and Cincinnati at San Diego.

Tommy Rawls came through again for the Giants to get their only run on a out-of-the-parker.

Danny Wise had a double and Robert Murdock had a single.

The losing pitcher was Craig McKenzie, (1-2), and winning hurler was Bruce Strickland (3-0).

Cabots break Colts

The Cabots of the American Little League skunked the Colts 9-0 in a shining hitting display.

Dwayne Hodnett for the Cabots smacked a double, and brother Russell Hodnett kept the big hits in the family by bruising the wood for a triple.

Pink Panthers keep winning

The Pink Panthers kept their winning ways by downing the Patriots with a score of 22 to 9, respectively. The big hits came off the bats of Pat Bender and Ruth Knight who hit back-to-back home runs. The Pink Panthers got a total of 19 hits for the game. Jan Harrison (4-0) was the winning pitcher, giving up only 8 hits and striking out two batters. The Patriots' 8 hits were all singles so they couldn't get much in the way of runs across the plate.

Charisma downed the Sand Dusters with a score of 22 to 7, respectively. The big hitter for Charisma was Tisha Quince who had two home runs and a double. Karen Sanchez had a home run, triple, and a double for the game to help the Charisma attack. They had 22 hits in total. Faye Ashley was the winning pitcher giving up only 5 hits and striking out three batters. Lowana MacNear was the only one with a big hit for the Sand Dusters, getting a triple in the second inning.

Miss Softball America

The Gibson Gals of the Miss Softball League had the winning suit Friday night when they whipped up on the Cardinals 18-3.

The winning pitcher was Selena Harris and the losing dealer was Starla Mize.

Angels shatter Crystal

The Blue Angels went blue bananas all over the place Friday night as they broke, dropped and kicked the Crystallets 50-2.

Peggy Calhoun was winning pitcher for the Angels and Sylvia Fernandez was the loser. Charlotte Croft and Karla Frieson had home runs for the Angels and Debbie Puga had three hits, while her teammate, Valerie Burns had two.

The highlight of the game was the strong pitching by Peggy Calhoun and Lenie Flores, and near perfect defensive play.

The Blue Angels are now 2-2, and the Crystallets have to shore up their service, as they are 0-4.

Misfits spend Greenbacks

The Misfits of the Forsan Oil Well Service beat the State National Bank Greenbacks in an exciting contest, 14-9.

Lori Calhoun beat out Shana Hohertz for winning pitcher honors. Both pitchers' records are now 1-1.

Home runs for the Greenbacks included Shana Hohertz, Laura Croft, Michelle Tarleton and Paula Hughes.

Hitting for the Misfits shaped up thusly: Vicky Baggett — two hits; Dana Thomas — one hit; Tina Nix — one hit; Karla Cregar — one hit; Cynthia Diliberto — one hit; Donna Anderson — two hits; Karla Nix — one hit; Angie Lee — one hit; Lori Calhoun — one hit; Susan Farquhar — one hit.

Greenback hitting follows: Shana Hohertz — two hits; Sherri Rich — three hits; Laura Croft — two hits; Michelle Tarleton — one hit; and Tracy Scholar — one hit. Greenbacks are now 3-1, and the Misfits 2-2.

Battle signs with LCC

Big Spring's Dick Battle, who was selected as one of the two pitchers on the All-District 5-4A team, has signed a letter of intent to attend Lubbock Christian College.

Battle was one of the Steers' best players this year in the best Steer season ever (21-7 and 11-3 in district). Battle won 9 and lost 2 as a pitcher and led the team in hitting with four homers and a .376 batting average.

Probably Battle's most impressive statistic was his 96 strike-outs in 74 innings, especially compared to his 24 walks. His E.R.A. was 2.93.

SAFE, BY GUM — Russell Hodnett looks grim as he arrives safe at first base on a ground hit in the second inning of the Cabot-Colts game Friday night. George Solis is wanting that ball to get there for an out. The Cabot team won 9-0.

Broyles says SWC has closed case

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Arkansas football coach and athletic director Frank Broyles announced Saturday that the Southwest Conference's investigation of the Razorback recruitment of former Dallas schoolboy football star Roderick Gerald is closed.

Bobcats win bi-district

FORT WORTH — San Angelo's Bobcats jumped on Haltom City for three runs in the opening frame, and John Jeschke blanked the Buffaloes on just two hits, as Central captured its first bi-district title by a 5-0 score here Friday.

The victory gave Harvey Reeves' team a 2-0 sweep in the best of three series. Central won the opener 5-4 Tuesday in San Angelo.

The Bobcats now take a 21-5 record into next week's Regional action against defending state champion Duncanville, which carries a 22-7 standing.

Tuesday, the two teams will meet in the series opener at 4 p.m. in the Duncanville High School field. Second game will be Friday at 2 p.m. in San Angelo, and if a third game is needed, it will follow on Friday.

SWC Executive Secretary Cliff Speegle said, "I'm unable to give you any more information regarding the case. I can't even say whether the case was closed."

Arkansas was under investigation of Gerald, a Dallas South Oak Cliff quarterback, who later transferred to Ohio State.

The tight-lipped Speegle said the SWC reviewed a number of investigations concerning SWC institutions. Other investigations believed included on the agenda of the SWC spring meeting were payments made to Texas athletes for work not done in the state capital and charges by suspended Texas A&M basketball players Karl Godine and Jarvis Williams that Texas Baylor and Houston offered them illegal inducements.

Seagle underwent a withering barrage of questions about the Arkansas matter.

RICK HOGUE SCOTT BLAKE JOHNNY JAMES

Hawks sign Louisianan, Hoosier and Seminole

Three more athletes have been signed to letters of intent to play for Howard College's 1976-1977 basketball team. According to basketball coach, Harold Wilder, Rick Hogue, Johnny James and Scott Blake will don the red and gray of the Hawks.

The 6'0" Hogue is a two-time Mid-Southern All-Conference point guard from Charlestown, Indiana. He averaged 13.8 points per game while leading the team to the regional finals and a 20-5 record. Hogue was all sectional, all regional, and honorable mention all state. He also played football and baseball and was named all conference in football. Hogue was a member of the student council and was elected Mr. C.H.S. by his senior class.

James is a 6'7", 195-lb. center from Richwood High School in Monroe, Louisiana. He averaged 16.6 points per game and pulled down 12.4 rebounds per game. Coach Hershel Kiest of Richwood believes James has great potential as he is only 17 years old and a hard worker.

The 6'2" Blake is a three-time 2-AAA All-District pick from Seminole. He was selected to the AAA All-

South Plains Teams as a junior and senior. Blake was selected as All-Tournament in all six tournaments Seminole entered the last two seasons. Blake averaged 18.3 points per game his senior year. He was Seminole's Most Valuable Player two years and captain of the team last season. He was a member of the National Honor Society and the Student Council. Blake graduated with a class rank of 18 out of 125 students. He is the son of James Blake, former Sands and Seminole High School basketball coach.

Hogue, James and Blake join Eugene Williams and Jim Ray as freshmen members of the Hawks.

Big Spring's Carter has fine year at LCC

LUBBOCK — Dave Carter, a 1972 graduate of Big Spring High School, finished his senior campaign at Lubbock Christian College by going seven-for-17 in the District 8 (NAIA) Tournament at Arlington last week.

Yet, Lubbock Christian College saw its three-year domination over the district ended by Texas Wesleyan and ended the season with a 49-17 record.

Carter, who hit in the No. 2 position as both a junior and senior, finished the year with 75 hits, 73 runs scored, 13 stolen bases, four doubles, five triples, three homers, 22 RBIs and only seven errors in 124 chances at the hot corner.

THREE TIMES he drove in the winning run and compiled a .469 slugging percentage and had an on-base percentage of 49.8 for the year, drawing 50 walks during the campaign. He made three relief mound appearances also, allowing only three hits and one run in eight innings, saving one victory and posting a 1.13 ERA, lowest on the team.

5th-ranked heavyweight Boxer slain in brothel

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Oscar Bonavena, a 33-year-old Argentinian boxer who was a top heavyweight contender, was shot and killed Saturday in front of the Mustang Ranch Brothel, sheriff's deputies said.

Bonavena, a native of Buenos Aires, became the heavyweight champion of South America and was fifth-ranked by the World Boxing Association at the time of his death. He fought most of the big names in boxing but none for the world title.

Booked for investigation of homicide was Willard Ross Brymer, 31, of Lockwood, Nev., said a spokesman for the Storey County Sheriff's Department. Brymer was being held without bail, the spokesman said. No details on what led to the shooting were available.

The Mustang Ranch Brothel located about eight miles east of Reno, is owned by Joseph Comforte. Neither he nor Mustang Ranch spokesmen could immediately be reached for comment.

Brothels are legal in Nevada except in the counties which include Reno and Las Vegas. Bonavena began his professional boxing career with six consecutive knockouts and eight straight victories before he lost to Zora

Twins cool off Royals

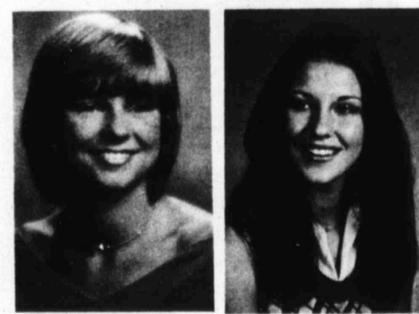

BLOOMINGTON (AP) — Lyman Bostock drove in three runs, two with a tie-breaking triple in the fifth inning, and Dave Goltz hurled a seven-hitter as the Minnesota Twins cooled off the Kansas City Royals 5-3 in a nationally televised baseball game Saturday.

The Royals had won five games in row, 10 of their last 11 and 16 of 19. Minnesota snapped a three-game skid.

Bostock, who also singled home the Twins' final run in the seventh inning, ripped his two-out triple down the right field line off previously unbeaten Al Fitzmorris, who was saddled with his first loss after five victories.

The three-base hit scored Craig Kusick and Bob Randall and gave Minnesota a 3-1 lead. Bostock then came home on a single by Larry Hisle. The rally started after Fitzmorris retired the first two batters.

DEBORAH MEYER MARYLYNN RICH

According to Howard College Athletic Director Harold Wilder, Marylynn Rich and Deborah Meyer are the first players to sign letters of intent for next season's women's basketball team.

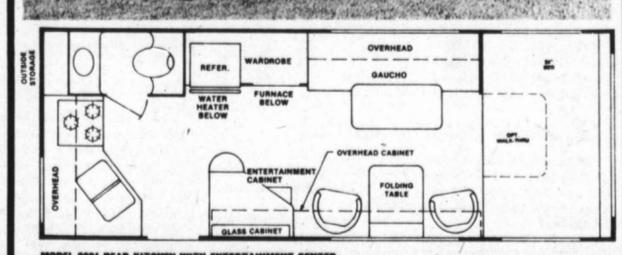

Rich, a 5'4" guard from Sterling City, was named 11-B All-District her senior year. She was named All-Tournament forward at Sands Invitational her junior year and All-Tournament guard at Sterling City Invitational her senior year. Rich has been cheerleader for four years. She is the salutarian for the 1976 class, president of the senior class, and Miss SHS. Crisp Williams coached Rich her senior year.

Meyer, a 5'7" forward from Coahoma, was named 6-AA All-District her senior year. She scored 506 points for an average of 17.4 points per game. She hit 49 per cent of her field goal attempts and 66 per cent from the free throw line. She is a three-year letterman at Coahoma which resulted in a 72-19 record and three district championships. Sonny Barnes coached Meyer all three years.

Citizens urged to act against game thieves

AUSTIN — If a burglar were rifling your possessions, would you help bring him to justice? Most homeowners would be only too glad to assist police in this regard. Yet many Texans make no effort to stop wildlife cheaters from getting away scotfree.

Game Warden Captain Bob Cross of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department points out that in this state, all wildlife — birds, mammals, fish — are by law the property of the people. The legislature acts for the people by making laws protecting this valuable resource and it is in the interest of each individual citizen-owner to help see that these laws are obeyed.

"The game warden," says Captain Cross, "is really a referee to see that everyone gets a fair share."

P&WD biologists do constant research to survey and improve wildlife populations and habitat in the counties under regulatory authority of the department. Their recommendations for seasons and bag limits insure equal distribution of the surplus animals, birds and fish to licensed hunters and fishermen.

Sportsmen help pay the cost of this resource management with their license money. And their opinions, expressed at public hearings, also are taken into account in the formulation of game and fish laws.

Overall, this is an equitable system for handling the public trust, with every citizen due a uniform allotment in the state's wildlife harvest.

But, just like anyone who shoves ahead in a line or grabs more than his ration, the chiseler can upset the balance considerably and deprive others in the long run.

In Texas, where there always has been a plentiful supply of game, people traditionally have not taken poaching very seriously. Nowadays, game is as abundant as ever, or more so due to scientific methods, but human population has risen in greater proportion.

As competition increases, the job of trying to give as many people as possible a chance becomes more important; and this is where citizens can perform a valuable service.

When in the field, if you see anyone breaking the game laws or acting suspiciously, report it preferably to the nearest game warden or else the sheriff's department. These officers work together closely, but the warden is more able to get on to the case immediately. Provide as much information as possible, such as descriptions of the violators, their automobiles, boats and license numbers, as well as times and locations.

The informant should not feel uneasy in any way about this. Remember, these people are doing something criminal, stealing what rightfully belongs to their fellow hunters and fishermen. If unchecked, their selfishness can have far-reaching effects on the balance of wildlife.

Public attitude in other states has long favored such dutiful action and condemned game outlaws. If more Texans could realize the seriousness and cost to them of this type of crime, the impact would be considerable.

If game wardens are alerted quickly enough they normally can follow through and make a case promptly without the witness having to testify, in which case the source is never divulged.

Captain Cross says game wardens already do receive a good amount of cooperation from the public and that the officers hardly could operate without it. However, as time brings growing problems, citizen assistance becomes more and more needed. The department never could hire enough wardens to do the entire job alone.

If just 10 per cent of the state's outdoorsmen would be extra observant and alert authorities when violations occur, within a few years there could be a sharp dip in this type of theft, to the benefit of the wildlife of Texas and all of its people-owners.

Fish bulletin

Joe Pickle, out at the Colorado River Municipal Water District, reported the latest in catches out at Lake Spence.

At Y. J.'s Marina, Jess Ritter, Lubbock, had a 5½-lb. striped bass and a 3-lb. black bass. Ralph Woods and Linda Harris, Odessa, reported 30 white bass to 2½ lbs., eight channel cat to 2½ lbs., and a 7-lb. striper and five crappie.

Bunky Burrow, Midland, brought in 30 white bass at Wildcat Fish-A-Rama, along with a 9-lb. striper and nine crappie.

David Schaffrina and Tony Smith, Midland, landed a 11-lb. striper, according to Hillside Grocery reports.

Flounder frustration eased by sandy bottom

PALACIOS — A flounder's first instinct when threatened is to bury itself in the sandy bottom and depend on his camouflage to protect him.

Imagine the consternation of the flounder dumped in the fiberglass tanks at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Palacios Marine Research Station.

The fish were part of P&WD experiments on rearing the popular game fish. Once in the 5,000-gallon tanks they headed straight for the bottom and tried to burrow into the fiberglass, working themselves into a frenzy and developing belly sores in the futile effort.

P&WD coastal fisheries workers at the research station eased the flounders' frustrations by dumping a couple of inches of sand into the bottom of the tanks. By controlling light and temperatures in the tanks, biologists hope to convince both flounder and redfish they are living in a perpetual spawning period.

Such techniques were successful in rearing redfish last summer and fall at the nearby Port Aransas National Marine Fisheries Laboratory.

Editor's note: Saltwater redfish and flounder have been stocked in two Texas freshwater lakes, Long Lake near Austin, and Lake Creek near Waco.

Not only are the fish surviving, they are doing exceptionally well. Plans are in the offing to stock the big game fish in other Texas lakes. Lake Spence might be one of the lucky lakes.

WHITE BASS FEVER — Two fishermen tow stringers of white bass caught in the Wolf River in the Fremont, Wis. area. The run of white bass has been at its peak on the river, and there is no bag limit or size limit on this fish.

APRIL ON THE RIVER — A barge passes on the Mississippi River at New Orleans while 24-year-old April Garcia enjoys the sun on some driftwood. April is the president of a trucking company, and it is not known whether she enjoys fishing.

Spit on your bait

What smells good to a fish?

A great deal of research has been done on the question of whether fish smell, how they smell, and how acute is their sense of smell? The answers are known, and the fishing experts at Mercury outboards are using the knowledge gained by scientific studies to improve their fishing success.

A simple comparison between catfish and northern pike will demonstrate the difference that a well developed sense of smell makes in the way a fish behaves. Catfish prefer streams that are murky or muddy. They feed mostly at night, are bottom feeders and can be caught on some of the smelliest concoctions this side of the skunk works.

Contrast this to the northern pike which almost never feeds at night, prefers clear water, and is most frequently taken on minnows or lures that resemble bait fish. The reason for the difference in behavior is the highly developed sense of smell which catfish have, and the poor sense of smell which laboratory experiments have proven for the pike.

Fish detect odors with extremely sensitive olfactory chambers connected to their nostrils. To function correctly, the olfactory chambers must be supplied with fresh water at all times. To accomplish this, fish that hunt by smell have a special mechanism that pumps water in and out of their nostrils, even when the fish is resting.

Some fish use their sharp sense of smell to track prey, then attack by sight when the target is in range. Black bass are one kind of freshwater fish that uses this dual perception technique to find food.

Spitting on the bait can work. In one experiment, it was learned that human saliva was the third most attractive substance to catfish. The first two were worms and liver, in that order.

The boys of KC to battle Rangers

ARLINGTON, Tex. — A rivalry is beginning to simmer with the Kansas City Royals, the team who will make a four-day stop at Arlington Stadium on May 24 through 27.

Although the rivalry has yet to reach the three-alarm stage, the Rangers' closest geographical opponent in the American League is breeding intense emotions among fans in the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex.

The Royals, who figured to be contenders in pre-season crystal balls, brought home 14 winners in 18 starts against the Rangers in 1975.

JOHN MAYBERRY, who has already nicked Rangers' pitching for a run-scoring double this season, banged out seven homers and 17 RBIs against the Rangers last year.

Mayberry set an Arlington Stadium record by hitting three homers in one game off former Ranger hurler, Fergie Jenkins.

Kansas City is off to an excellent start in 1976 and just completed a two-game sweep of the Rangers in Kansas City to wrestle the Western Division lead from Texas for the first time since April 18.

Despite losing both contests with the Royals, the Rangers continue to keep their fans in a state of cardiac arrest.

The Rangers' games against the Twins in Minnesota next Saturday and Sunday will be televised on the Ranger Network (channels 9 and 13 on the Big Spring cable and 4 without the cable). All Ranger games can be heard over KFNE-FM 95.3 on the FM dial.

IN THE OPENER, Dennis Leonard was cruising along with a 7-1 lead in the top of the ninth and was all set to record his third win of the year. But consecutive singles by Jeff Burroughs, Roy Howell and Tom Grieve plus a walk to Bill Fahey let the cat out of the bag and sent Leonard to the showers.

Eleven hitters and six runs later, the Rangers tied the game. A double by Tom Poquette in the bottom of the twelfth inning scored Al Cowans with the winning run, but the Rangers continued their reputation for unprobable endings.

THE SECOND OUTING was won by the Royals, 3-1, and was dominated by pitcher Al Fitzmorris and outfielder Amos Otis.

Fitzmorris, who seems to carry the Rangers in his pocket, has a career mark of 10-3 vs. Texas and was equally brilliant with a seven-hitter in the Royals' second win of the season.

Happy grad signs with WTC Dusters

SNYDER — Pam Tatum, 5-9, of Happy has signed a basketball scholarship agreement with Western Texas College, Dr. Sid Simpson, Athletic Director, has announced.

A spring graduate of Happy High School, Miss Tatum lettered three years in basketball and four years in track. She averaged 38 points per game in district play her senior year and scored a total of 1,044 points. She played in the East-

West All Star Game in Amarillo and was named to All-Tournament teams at the Amarillo American Legion Tournament and at Kress.

Miss Tatum is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Ratjen.

Dr. Simpson said he had seen Miss Tatum play and was impressed by her quickness and aggressiveness on the court. "We feel she will fit into the Duster fast break pattern very well and be an asset to the team."

FCA chapter seeking members

By MARJ CARPENTER
The adult chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes is making an effort to obtain additional members backing their project.

The group is a non-denominational movement to confront athletes and coaches with the challenge of accepting Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord in their service and activities.

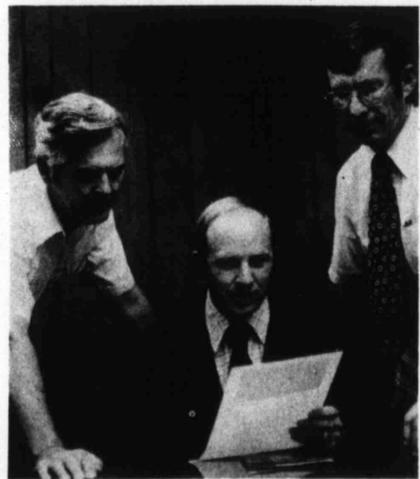

Locally, new officers include Craig Fischer, president; Hayes Stripling, vice president and Ray Lawlis, secretary-treasurer. Nationally, the effort is headed by John Erickson who headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

LOCALLY, THE GROUP sponsors two youth groups at the high school. One group is the boys' Huddle group and the girls' organization is called the Cuddle group. An FCA award is presented each year at the high school sports banquet in the spring to the outstanding youth involved in FCA work for the year.

The local chapter also helps send youths to the numerous summer conferences held by the national association throughout the nation. Last year's youth attended the conference in Ft. Collins, Colorado. There are also workshops and retreats throughout the year.

Membership in the organization is open to all adults interested in supporting youth in all sports. Members receive two national publications, "The Christian Athlete" and "The Widening Circle." They meet at 7 a.m. each Monday at Coker's Restaurant. Anyone desiring to join may contact the officers or high school coaches.

Psychologically speaking, Jets have edge on Aeros

HOUSTON (AP) — Coach Bobby Kroomm of the Winnipeg Jets says the Jets will have a psychological advantage going for them when they meet the Houston Aeros Sunday night in the second game of their World Hockey Association (WHA) championship series.

Kroomm was referring to the 4-3 Jet victory Thursday night that gave Winnipeg a 1-0 lead over the defending World Cup champions in their best of seven series.

"We're one up and we have three at home left," Kroomm said. "Plus, by beating them here we have a great psychological advantage going for us now. They'll have to beat us in our building if they're to come back. I'd say we're in pretty good shape."

Bobby Hull scored the winning goal for Winnipeg Thursday night with 3:17 left in the game and he says the victory gave the Jets a big lift.

"It's bound to be good for our confidence," Hull said. "We hadn't played in 18 days and you're bound to get a little rusty over that much time. I'm confident we'll get better as the series progresses."

The Aeros also are confident, however, pointing out that they overcame a first game loss to New England in the United States title round. And they mention their success over the last two seasons in Winnipeg, where they have won three of five games.

"At this point, I can't say we're depressed or ready to hit the panic button," said Houston goaltender Ron Grahame.

State champ leader edged out for top

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Houston Worthing's Albert Jones is the top vote getter on the Texas Sportswriters Association Class 4A all-state basketball team.

Jones edged out Jim Bowden, the playmaker for El Paso Eastwood's state champs.

Bowden was one of three players who led their teams into the state tournament to be named to the first team. Also named were Tyler John Tyler guard Dennis Gordon and Houston Milby scoring ace Chuck O'Neill.

O'Neill, who averaged 24 points during the season, was the only junior on the first unit. At 6-10, Alton Lister of Dallas Woodrow Wilson was the tallest player on the first team.

He also averaged 24 points and almost 19 rebounds per game.

Jones had a 20.4 average, Bowden had 13.7 and Gordon 22.5. Billy Bailey of San Antonio McCollum, with a 26.1 average, narrowly missed first team selection. Others on the second team were Ronny Newton of Arlington Sam Houston, Anthony Lee of Tyler John Tyler, Charles Tyrone of Corpus Christi Moody and Mark Davis of North Mesquite.

Lee was the only sophomore selected to the first three teams.

Days of yesteryear return at Gail celebration

By JULIE SIMMONS

Get your gear packed for a fun-filled weekend in Gail, Texas!

You don't hear that said too often considering there are no motels, movie theaters, night clubs or many hot spots of entertainment located in Gail, population 196.

What Gail does have this next weekend is a Bicentennial Celebration organized by the total population of Borden County.

Such attractions as a Country Store stocked with handmade crafts and baked goods, an old-fashioned parade led by a WBAO County Gold Stage Coach, a Wild West Show and artisans displaying their handwork will provide entertainment for young and old alike.

The Bicentennial Celebration will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday after almost a year's preparation. The Country Store and arts and crafts displays located in the 4-H Fair Barn on the school campus will open at 9 a.m.

The WBAO County Gold Stage Coach from Fort Worth will bring in a load of saloon women and gamblers at 10 a.m. for the Wild West activities scheduled that day. Children and adults will be able to take a jolting ride on the stage coach and have the moment recorded for posterity by a photographer. Rides will be offered both days of the Celebration.

Behind the stage coach will come a long line of floats, Spanish bands, cattle drives and Indian performers. Cash prizes will be given for the three best floats.

Anyone wishing to enter a float from out of town is welcome to join in the parade.

The Fort Hood Mounted Calvary platoon will be one of the featured performances during the day.

At 11:30 guests and Gail natives will sit down to a barbecue dinner catered by Vann's Catering of Lubbock. For the strong-of-stomach, buffalo barbecue will be available.

Borden County residents including 65 students will present a historical pageant "America's Birthday," at 1:30 p.m. The musical will chronicle America's history in song and dance routines and short skits. The musical will be performed in the Borden County School auditorium.

Ginger Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brooks of Big Spring, will open the pageant with a song and dance routine.

The Wild West Show will begin at 3:30 p.m. in the rodeo arena. One of the most exciting attractions will be an Old West hanging.

During Sunday activities settlers and pioneers of Borden County will be honored.

An outdoor church service at 10:30 a.m. will be led by Grant Teaff, Baylor University football coach. An awards ceremony will follow worship services.

The Borden County Bicentennial quilt will be given away at this time.

A barbecue luncheon will be served at noon.

Afternoon activities will feature old-fashioned games for children and visitation and singing for adults. The Borden County Museum will be open to the public on Sunday as well as on Saturday.

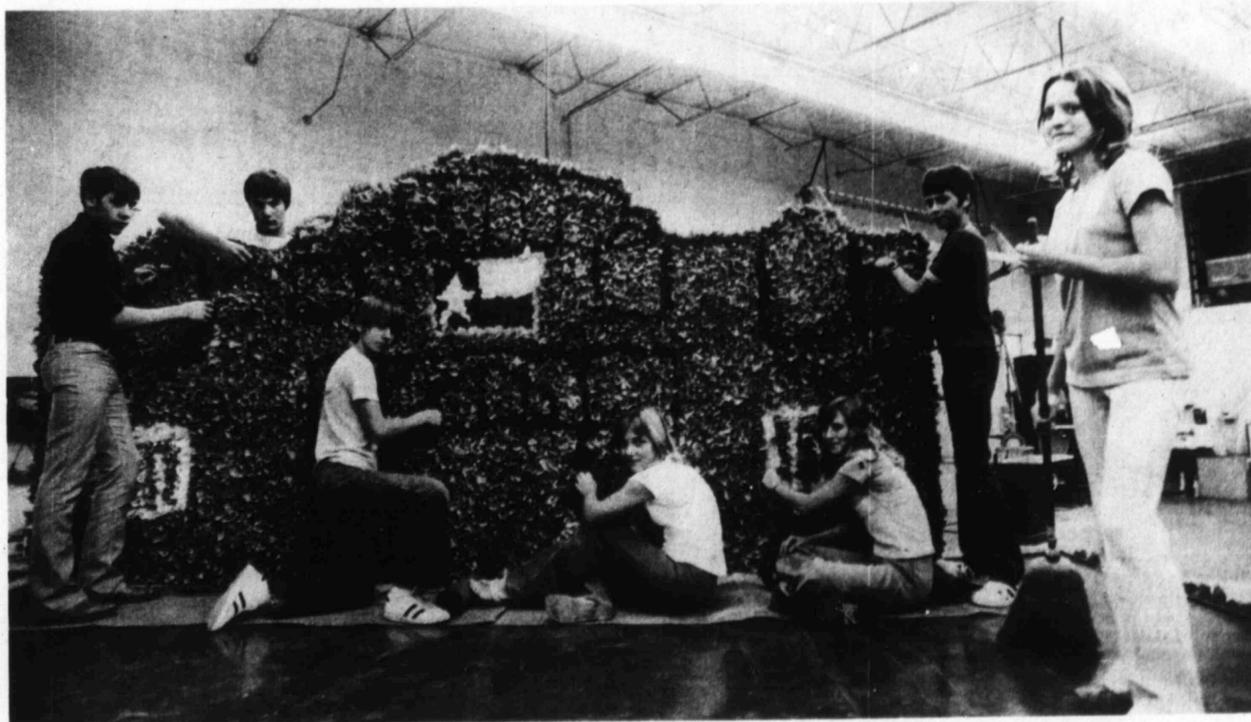

Borden County residents have worked diligently to provide parking areas and locations for overnight.

The residents of Borden County invite all former residents, friends and visitors to attend the Bicentennial Celebration for a good, old-fashioned weekend of fun for the entire family.

Abused, neglected children find love in foster homes

Foster family care is a protective service which provides a child with a substitute family during a planned period while his parents are unable to care for him.

With these words the Texas State Department of Public Welfare defines foster care. But the love, kindness and careful nurturing given to an abused, abandoned or neglected child is the heart of foster family care.

Big Spring has eight families who are licensed to care for children who are removed from or given up by their parents. Three more couples are in the process of being licensed.

ALL EIGHT COUPLES have natural children but have volunteered their time, money, love and concern for the foster parenting program in Big Spring.

THE PROTECTIVE SERVICES staff makes it clear to foster parents that the home is a temporary one. Children have been placed in foster care for as short a time as a few days or as long as a year or more. They stress that the foster parents be able to give love and understanding to a child, and yet be able to let him go when the time comes.

Following are some case histories of children who have been placed in foster care. Under the guidance and care of their foster parents, the children have regained a healthy physical and emotional status. All names have been changed.

ANDY, AGE 13, came to Big Spring from a nearby city after his mother turned herself in as a child abuser and asked for help.

His parents were also negligent in regard to their children's supervision. Andy's oldest brother is now in Gatesville and another brother is on probation for theft.

Andy was in and out of trouble for truancy and fighting at school. The day he was removed from his home, he had pulled a gun on one of his classmates and threatened to shoot him.

Child Welfare authorities anticipated that Andy's placement would be difficult, but the foster family with whom he stayed proved to be just what he needed. He even offered to give his foster parents half of his allowance for keeping him, and when he and another foster child accidentally broke a window while wrestling, he volunteered to save his money to pay for it while the other boy remained silent.

Although Andy is now back in his own home, he still keeps in touch with his foster parents here.

THE NEGLECT of eight-year-old Shelly Tigger was brought to the attention of the department when she was left in a store by her mother.

Ms. Tigger simply forgot the child while shopping and didn't realize she was missing until she was contacted by the DPW. A Protective service worker had been called in by the police who were contacted by the store manager.

The child remained in foster care until the mother could be investigated and contact could be made concerning the care of Shelly. It was found that Ms. Tigger was a prostitute and was inadequately providing for Shelly, physically, emotionally, and socially. Shelly's father had deserted her at an early age and was not paying support.

Through counseling, Ms. Tigger was worked with and it was discovered that she had been brought up by a mother who was also a prostitute and knew no other way of providing a home for a child. Through the help of many counselors and workers, Ms. Tigger was able to realize that there were other means of providing for a child and she became employed, after some training.

She was also worked with concerning her parenting skills and was better able to care for Shelly and also offer her a more acceptable home. Shelly was finally returned to the home and to a mother who was better able to care for her and provide her with the needs that she deserved.

THE CASE OF 18-month-old Chad Little was brought to the attention of the Department of Public Welfare when he was given up by his father who didn't want him and placed him in foster homes for one year until his mother could be located.

The mother was very excited at the thought of having her child returned to her as her husband had deserted her and had taken the child. All those contacted related favorably to the mother and the child was returned.

Chad was very withdrawn as a result of being moved so often and seemed to fear becoming attached to anyone. Due to his age, he didn't remember his mother and therefore did not respond to her. The mother, feeling rejected did not make allowances for Chad's withdrawal, behavior and displayed her hurt by strict discipline.

The whippings were undetected as they left no bruises and this continued until one day when the mother became drunk. The pressure of the child's rejection together with a feeling of failure was too much and Ms. Little beat the child for no apparent reason until his body was swollen with bruises. The protective service worker was summoned and the child was hospitalized.

Chad was soon released and placed in foster care. Due to the foster family's love, patience, and understanding of the child's problems, Chad began responding to caring, to almost forgetting his recent abuse.

At this time, the child is awaiting adoption and the chances are extremely good that he will be placed in a home within a short length of time, as he is a very healthy child and seems to have suffered no trauma from the abuse due to his age.

However many success stories there are some children do not have such happy experiences.

THE FAMILY CONSISTS of a natural mother of a five-year-old boy residing in another city with her paramour, Ray, and two other children. The natural father and his wife reside in Big Spring, and have no children, while the natural mother has two other children by other men.

In the course of a child custody hearing, the district judge examined the child and in conference with both attorneys and the department, the court requested a home study be done on both the natural mother and the natural father.

When the child came to our attention, he exhibited scars and wounds of varying ages, and degrees of healing all over his body. In addition, the entire top of his head was covered with infectious ringworm which had eaten through the top layer of skin and caused there to be no hair present about the head.

Numerous reports were received by the department with references the child while he was in the care of his natural mother in another city. The father, on recommendation of his attorney, picked up the child and brought him to Big Spring. The father, while not the most upstanding of characters, nevertheless, appeared to have genuine affection and concern for the safety and well-being of his son. The child was fearful of any individual, his father, his step-mother, his mother, and workers in the department. The child was placed with the natural father on a temporary basis while a home study investigation was initiated.

While the child was in the care of the father, several complaints were received by the department with reference to a child having been beaten by the father; however, none of the complaints could ever be substantiated.

After the child had been in the care of his father for approximately seven weeks, the child was taken to the hospital by city police officers; the child had sustained internal injuries as well as eye damage and other emotional injuries as a result of a beating inflicted by the natural father.

Because of the presence of the old scars, it would appear that the child has suffered numerous beatings over the years while he was in the care of his mother. While in the care of his natural father, the child received at least one, if not more, physical attacks at the hands of the natural father. The child is withdrawn and fearful of adults and other larger children.

A YOUNG GIRL was brought to the attention of the department by Department of Public Safety personnel.

The child's mother had been living with her mother in another state since birth. The whereabouts of the father were unknown. The child's mother was in her early 20's who "lived around" and when arrested was accompanied by two male companions.

The child was picked up at the police station by a worker who then bought her adequate clothing for the evening, in as much as no children's clothing was found in the mother's automobile. The child was placed in foster care as she had no known relatives other than those who were incarcerated.

The particular child adjusted well to foster care and demonstrated no real adjustment difficulties, although she continued to wish to see her mother, this was impossible due to the mother's being in jail.

The mother eventually plead guilty to the reduced charge; the child was returned to the mother from foster care and the mother and the child left Texas for California.

Several prerequisites are required of foster parents. The Protective Service requires that the foster parents should be emotionally stable. There should be a steady income in the foster family.

The organization prefers to accept married couples who have stable home lives and mature marriages.

The program requires that the foster mother should not work outside the home. Exceptions are made when the mother works during school hours while the child attends school.

Foster parents should be able to accept a child's relationship with his own parents.

Foster parents should be able to accept help from the caseworker.

The program requires that no more than a total of six children is allowed in a foster home at one time, including the foster family's own children.

The procedures for becoming a foster parent involve filling out an application and having an interview in the home. Fire and health inspection of the house and health cards on all members of the family living at home are required. After these procedures have been followed, the Protective Services Department will issue the foster family a license providing all requirements have been met.

Once a child has been placed in a foster home, the Protective Services Department takes responsibility for medical, clothing, and school expenses. In addition, the foster family receives approximately $75.00 a month.

Persons interested in becoming foster parents should contact a Protective Service worker in the basement of the Howard County Courthouse at 267-8098 or 267-2565.

Budget decorating will be held June 7-11 from 1-4 p.m. and June 14-18 from 9 a.m.-12 noon.

Drapery construction will be taught June 2 through June 9 from 1-4 p.m. and June 14-18 from 9 a.m.-12 noon.

For more information or registration for the classes, call 267-7461, ext. 48.

Officers were installed at the Wednesday meeting of the Texas Bouquet African Violet Club.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. O. S. Womack. She reported on the dedication of Cottonwood Arbor.

Mrs. C. Y. Clinkscales reported that she delivered cookies to the State Hospital, and Mrs. A. C. Moore said she took an African violet plant to the Big Spring Nursing Inn.

New officers for the club are Mrs. Clinkscales, president; Mrs. Womack, vice president; Mrs. Bill Edwards, secretary; Mrs. Allie Moore, treasurer; and Mrs. Paul Guy, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Moore gave a program on fertilizing. She said that the three essential elements in fertilizer for violets are nitrogen, phosphorous and potash. Phosphorous is the most vital element, and should be contained in larger amounts.

According to Mrs. Moore, foliar feeding is more important than root feeding. Variegated foliage does not require as much nitrogen. Hot water should be used for misting the plants. Hairy foliage, such as supreme strains of violets, should not be misted.

The club will have a garage and bake sale May 28-29 at the home of Mrs. Clinkscales.

The group will hold regular meetings again in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Tonn of Big Spring announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Gena Kay, to Gary Dean Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy Daniels of Sand Springs. The couple plans a July 16 wedding in the Baptist Temple Church. The Rev. Bill Hatler will perform the ceremony.

Dear Abby

She wants his wife to sign 'release'

DEAR ABBY: I met a man at work, and we hit it off right away. He's married, but says his wife doesn't care if he goes with other women.

I guess it must be true because he never has to hurry home when we're together, and he can get away to see me whenever he wants to.

This seemed too good to be true, so I told him that I wouldn't see him anymore unless he brought me a note from his wife saying it was okay with her if he went out with me. He said he'd put her on the phone, but she's not in favor of putting anything in writing.

What do you think, Abby? I'm 42 and divorced, and I don't want any trouble.

LUCKY

DEAR LUCKY: Note or not, if you don't want any trouble, find yourself a single man. His wife could suddenly change her mind—and your luck!

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you made a big fuss because a teacher asked her students to make a "family tree." You said it was an invasion of privacy.

You sure tipped your mitt on that one, Abby. I'll bet you've never traced your family tree because you're afraid of what they might find.

KURT

DEAR KURT: No, I'm afraid they might send me back a bunch of bananas.

DEAR ABBY: Last November I became very much attracted to a guy. There was only one problem. He had a 9-month-old baby. He's not married to the baby's mother, and he says the only reason he stays with her is because of the baby.

I am almost positive that he is interested in me. He gives me a ride to school every morning, and we have a lot of fun laughing and talking together.

He says that he and his boyfriends like to go to small towns near here and pick up girls. I'm afraid if I ever went out with him it would lead to something like that, and he would have no more regard for me than he does for the girls he picks up.

I like this guy a lot, but I'm terrified at the thought of having a relationship with him. Yet deep down I would like to. I am 15 and he is 17. Maybe if you print this, he will know I am talking about him and he'll talk to me about it.

DISTURBED IN WISCONSIN

DEAR DISTURBED: A 15-year-old girl needs a relationship with a 17-year-old unwed father like a giraffe needs a sore throat! The word from here is, find other transportation and put as much distance between you and this mixed-up kid as possible.

DEAR ABBY: My husband also has his ear pierced and he wears a small musical note in it to symbolize his profession. I don't particularly like it, but I'm sure I do a lot of things he doesn't particularly like, either.

If we bickered and quarreled over things so trivial, we wouldn't have much of a marriage. So tell MONTANA WIFE to accept her husband for what he is—a unique individual with the courage to do what he wants to do for his own reasons.

Avoid homemade look by attention to details

By SHERRY MULLIN
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Home sewing is a good way to use creative energy and have clothes just right for you without paying designer prices. But nobody wants to wear clothes that look homemade. You can avoid the homemade look, even if you aren't an expert seamstress.

Be frank with yourself about your figure. Have you checked your measurements with the size charts in the pattern books recently? Measurements are best taken by another person, so enlist the help of a friend who sews. And treat yourself to a new tape measure (they do stretch). Be realistic about your abilities and the time you can spend too. Tailored patterns require more skill, more time and are more likely to look homemade. If the store is out of the pattern size you request, order it or select another. Don't settle for an incorrect size.

Be a fussy fabric shopper. Less expensive fabrics are not always good bargains. Many home sewers prefer to buy expensive fabrics on sale rather than cheap ones at regular prices. Look for wearability and easy care features. Overall prints help hide little imperfections.

Check the grain of the fabric before you buy. Some are impossible to straighten, for instance, fabrics may be bonded or printed off grain. Copy and file the fiber content and care instructions. This will save time and maybe disappointment on the first wash day or dry cleaning.

When you match fabrics, remember that artificial light is tricky. Ask to match them in daylight. Sales people are usually willing to cooperate especially once they see what a difference this makes in the results.

Buy lining, thread, zippers and notions when you purchase the fabric — you get the best matches this way. Test fabrics and linings for shrinkage. Some washable fabrics are guaranteed to shrink less than 1 per cent. For others, it's best to shrink the fabric before you cut it. Many of the advanced seamstresses I've visited prefer to shrink wool fabrics before cutting them, too.

Press before cutting — center folds in some fabrics are impossible to remove. If you find this out beforehand, you can cut around the folds. Match plaids, patterns, and naps. If the grain line is off, the garment won't hang right.

When you use a tracing wheel and dressmaker's carbon paper, choose the paper color carefully. Heavy-handedness on the wheel and over-pressing (especially without a cloth) may bring the coloring right through. Press as you sew. Pressing as you go makes the difference between the homemade and a professional look.

Use a press cloth and, whenever possible, press on the wrong side to keep fabrics from getting shiny. To prevent darts, pleats and seams from making an impression on the right side, use brown wrapping paper (double thickness) to separate the layers of the fabric, then press.

When zippers start too high (or low) garments look homemade. When a neckline closing with a zipper doesn't meet, it looks even worse. Plackets should be smooth, flat, stitching straight.

Facings should never roll to the right side. This will show "homemade." Clip and understitch and they'll remain flat. Tack to seams. Outline of facings should not show through on right side, either. To reduce bulk of facings in heavy fabrics, substitute a lighter weight fabric.

When you set in sleeves, stitch a gathering thread on the seam line. Pin sleeve in place, ease in fullness. Stitch directly over the gathering thread to get a smooth sleeve cap, avoid pleats, puckers.

If you can't make good buttonholes, select a pattern without them. Professional looking bound or tailored buttonholes are narrow (no wide "lips" please), evenly spaced, centered and all the same size. When you cover your own buttons, do it neatly, otherwise get the job done professionally. When covering buttons with a lightweight or filmy fabric like silk or voile, use a double thickness or plain fabric backing so the metal of the button won't shine through.

Select braids, trim and buttons with discretion. Don't over do. Handle contrasting touches (collars & cuffs, for instance) carefully. They can easily look homemade. Give your garment a final press. You may want to take some garments (coats or pleated skirts) to a responsible dry cleaner for this.

Film depicts Jesus as gimmicky martyr

JERUSALEM (AP) — An angry revolutionary with a keen sense of politics stages his own execution to win martyrdom. He talks in street slang and dazzles the populace with artful gimmicks that are taken for "miracles."

It's all part of "The Passover Plot," a new American film about Jesus Christ that is being shot in Israel.

"This is not a film about Jesus Christ," insists the producer. "It's a film about Yeshua, a Jew fighting the Roman occupation."

But the controversial content of the movie is nonetheless not to the liking of some believers.

The Lutheran Redeemer Church in Jerusalem, where Jesus' trial was to have been filmed, refused permission.

"That's the kind of problem we're often running into," said Wolf Schmidt, the producer.

"The Passover Plot," is not just another telling of the greatest story ever told. In this version Jesus is a streetwise agitator dedicated to expelling the Romans and restoring Jewish morality, and he orchestrates his own crucifixion with the calculated aim of attaining martyrdom.

Biologists, 'gas' pumpers need books for job plans

By REBBECA TAYLOR
REFERENCE LIBRARIAN

Many young people are facing decisions on what to do with their lives after high school or junior college.

Go to college? Take the first job offered? Get married and let the spouse make the living? The Howard County Library has a wide variety of advisory information for arriving at an intelligent decision rather than leaving this important moment to chance.

Whether you want to be a service station attendant or microbiologist, there are "right and wrong" ways to go about it. There are ways to do more than "just barely get by."

The "Careers Monograph" series has a collection of almost 300 job information booklets, which can be checked out. The data includes: where one works, what he does, advantages of the job, unattractive features, personality requirements, education, how one starts, how much he'll earn and what chance one will have getting and keeping a job in that field.

These booklets cover professional, technical and commercial careers, from "Medical Doctor" to "Business Machines Sales and Service" to "Clothing, Fashion Shop Retailing."

The "Occupational Outlook Handbook," which summarizes availability and future outlook for several hundred jobs, does not check out. The articles are brief, however, and one could spend five to ten minutes finding out whether the prospects in a certain job field are good.

Do you need a summer job? Would you like to work in another town, another state?

The "Summer Employment Directory of the United States" is available each year at the library. Information on 90,000 summer jobs is given this year. The jobs range from summer camps to vacation replacements in business and industry.

For college-bound individuals, with or without a definite goal, the new 1976-77 catalogs are arriving almost daily at the Howard County Library.

More than 40 new catalogs from all over the United States are available to check out.

"Lovejoy's Career and Vocational School Guide" gives information about formal training available in technical fields, business and trades.

This and the summary guides to colleges and universities can help you find the schooling that best suits your needs.

'Barry Lyndon' called 'cinematic wallpaper'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The movie "Barry Lyndon" has won the least coveted entertainment award: the Harvard Lampoon's selection as the worst film of 1975.

The college humor magazine called "Barry Lyndon" a "cinematic wallpaper catalogue."

The movie's male lead, Ryan O'Neal, won the Kirk Douglas Award for worst actor.

"Facial paralysis has proved to be no stumbling block to his career's movement from Peyton Place ingenu to Harvard student to simpering 18th Century coman with an Irish accent that wouldn't fool Fernando Lamas," the Lampoon said Tuesday.

The annual Natalie Wood Award for worst actress went to Diana Ross for "Mahogany." On her citation, the Lampoon pleaded: "Stop, in the name of love," the title of one of her songs when she was one of The Supremes.

The movies ranked after "Barry Lyndon" on the 10 worst list included: "The Hindenburg," because "the only impressive special effect was getting it off the ground"; "Mahogany," which "should have stayed in the woodpile"; and "Once Is Not Enough," about which the Lampoon commented, "We beg to differ."

Others on the 10 worst list were "Tommy," "At Long Last Love," "The Other Side of the Mountain," "Day of the Locust," "Story of O" and "Shampoo."

The Lampoon chose Madeline Kahn as worst supporting actress for "At Long Last Love" and "Sherlock Holmes' Smarter Brother."

Willie 'can't go against the law'

GONZALES, Tex. (AP) — Country and western entertainer Willie Nelson says he will not contest a ruling which prohibits his Fourth of July music festival from going on as planned.

A spokesman said Thursday that Nelson has cancelled the three-day affair because he "can't go against the law on this thing."

The Gonzales County Commissioners Court voted Wednesday to deny permits allowing the mass gathering for the concert July 2-4. They did so at the request of a group of citizens calling itself CLOD, or Citizens for Law, Order and Decency.

Nelson is on a fishing trip in South Georgia but said through a spokesman in Atlanta that he will not move it to another site at this late date because "there is too much invested on the present location to make it that feasible."

Threat noted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marine biologist Jacques Yves Cousteau says extensive development of nuclear power will require a "worldwide police state" to protect power plants from terrorists.

Cousteau on Friday endorsed California's nuclear safeguards referendum item, Proposition 15, as "an extremely reasonable" step toward protecting the public.

"The nuclear system is vulnerable to social disorders because reactors cannot be dissociated from bombs," he said at a news conference.

Texas art, folk festivals will begin summer activities

Today at the First United Methodist Church in Lubbock, "Americana," a Bicentennial musical and multi-media presentation by the combined choirs of the church will be presented in the church sanctuary at 5 p.m.

Next Saturday in the Ector County Coliseum and Exhibition Center a Starving Artist Group will be held in Building "A" at Odessa.

Artfest '76, a two-day Dallas arts festival at the city's Fair Park, will be held May 29-30. The purpose of the event, which is expected to draw a crowd of at least 50,000 Texans, is to raise monies for the arts in Dallas.

Just one day of the Kerrville Folk Festival provides more good listening than most people could ever expect, and for those who can take off from home on Thursday and stay right on through the four days of the festival, May 27-30, and the extra day where the May 29-31 Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair overlaps, a fantastically rewarding five days is awaiting.

While more than 200 musicians, singers, yodelers and song writers are involved in the Kerrville Folk Festival, another 200 craftsmen and artists are involved in the fair. The two events compliment each other with most of the fair in the daytime and most of the Folk Festival at night with some festival events in the day right on the fair grounds. And, the fair and the festival are less than 10 miles apart and both are in the beautiful Texas Hill Country 60 miles west of San Antonio.

Highlights of the Folk Festival, which celebrates its fifth anniversary this year, include the National Yodeling Contest, the annual Folk Mass, four big evening concerts, workshops and New Folk Concerts in the afternoons featuring 40 writer-performers. Camping right on the Quiet Valley Ranch, within walking distance of the stage, makes it an ideal family outing and children under 12 are admitted free when accompanied by their parents. Outstanding Texas performers are included in the roster of stars which lists Steve Fromholz, Carolyn Hester, Bobby Bridger, Kenneth Threadgill, Rick Stein and many more favorites.

Complete fair and festival schedules, motel lists, and other information is available by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Rod Kennedy, Box 1466, Kerrville, Texas 78028, or by calling (512) 896-3800 in Kerrville during Monday through Friday business hours.

Cover girl people with Marj Carpenter

Has anybody in your family ever been featured on the front of a magazine — any magazine? Not in my family. I can stir around and dig up ancestors of whom I am very proud.

I can hustle around and throw in names of famous people that I have met. I can claim to have danced with Tyrone Power, sneered at Elizabeth Taylor and ridden the rapids with Ladybird, but there are no models for magazine covers in my history.

Some families must just be a natural for that type of thing. Do you know Glenn and Mary Pruddy Brown in Stanton?

If you're from Martin County you do. If you've ever stopped at Stanton Drug, you've seen them.

Stanton Drug is located across from the bank, in the spot where the earliest county bank was years ago. It is the community gathering place. All day long their fountain is filled with people talking about their favorite topic — Stanton and people in Stanton.

Mary's family is deeply imbedded in Stanton and it will be the topic of a later column. Glenn came to Stanton after marrying Mary and stayed because he liked it.

Their entire family is interesting, and they do interesting things. They are not a typical small town family. Or maybe they are.

It is now becoming increasingly apparent that the cream of the crop is attempting to drift out of the cities and back to the small towns. Looking at it from this angle, they are typical.

The closeness of their family, the success of their children, the decor of their home, their concern for history, their closeness to their community — all of these things reach out and grab you when you visit in their home.

Their home depicts their family. They like pictures on the walls of the last generation and the present generation. They enjoy remembering how their children looked when small.

But what struck my fancy was the fact that it seemed nothing to them to be on a magazine cover. In the master bedroom are six covers of McCall's and Vogue with the same beautiful model. "Who's that?" this nosy reporter asked. "Oh, that's Glenn's niece. She started out to be a veterinarian but ended up a model."

In the living room near the piano, I saw a copy of the magazine put out by the state Federation of Music Clubs. I recognized it because I used to be active in music clubs. On the cover was Mary Pruddy Brown. Which means that she has been state president of TFMC.

She's one of those people — who whatever they tackle, they do it "to the hilt." And that has included her work with music.

But to me the funniest of all — and it shows that even fate is on their side, is the cover of Newsweek Magazine during World War II. It's hanging in the den.

Marching briskly up the street are troops from the Pacific. And right in the middle of the group is Glenn Brown. If he has something hiding in that drugstore that would keep all of us looking just like we did during World War II, he really ought to break down and sell it.

Because it's very obvious that one of those soldiers is Glenn Brown. He's still easily recognizable. Absolutely disgusting.

And if you're cover girl material, fate obviously will help you along. Who else around in West Texas has seven magazine covers with pictures of their family?

I loved making that discovery — last week — while out ridin' fence.

Waits for master

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Duke, an aging mix-breed dog, is maintaining a long vigil at an animal hospital-motel here, apparently awaiting the return of his master.

In recent months, four persons from different parts of the city adopted Duke but each time the dog found his way back, according to Dr. Hiram Pritchett, a veterinarian and the owner of the establishment.

Dr. Pritchett said Duke's owner began boarding the dog at his place two years ago. He came regularly every week. One day, however, he stopped coming and Duke was put up for adoption.

"This time I'll keep him until he dies," said Dr. Pritchett when the dog came back from his fourth adopter. "He's a fixture around here, and he likes it."

Big Springers' kin gets Texaco Scholarship

MIDLAND — William W. (Sketter) Overman, a student in the senior class at Andrews High School, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Underwood of Big Spring, has been designated a Texaco Merit Scholarship winner. Presentation of a Merit Scholarship Certificate was made today by L. W. Calahan, vice president, Producing-Central U.S., at an award dinner held at the Petroleum Club in Midland.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dwayne Overman of Star Route, Box 60, Andrews. Overman is a gasoline plant operator at the Mabey Gasoline Plant in Midland.

The Texaco Merit Scholarship Program was established to help Texaco employees provide college educations for sons and daughters with outstanding high school records. The awards can be applied toward the cost of four years of undergraduate work at any recognized U.S. college or university selected by the recipient.

Texaco underwrites the entire cost of Texaco Merit Scholarships, but they are granted on the basis of nationwide competitive examinations. The National Merit Scholarship Corporation, an independent, non-profit body, selects scholarship winners and determines the amount of stipend.

William, who will graduate from Andrews High School in May, will enter Texas A&M University this fall. He plans to major in nuclear engineering. While a student at Andrews High, William was named valedictorian of his graduating class, member of the National Honor Society and received the four-year academic award. In 1975 he was selected to attend the National Science Foundation

Work to begin on U.S. 87 retopping in Tom Green

SAN ANGELO — State Department of Highways and Public Transportation (DHT) District Engineer D. R. Watson of San Angelo has announced that work is due to begin Monday, May 24, on some portions of U.S. 87 in northern Tom Green and southern Coke Counties.

The work to be done is the application of approximately 3/4 inch of skid-resistant asphalt pavement to the northbound lanes of U.S. 87 in Tom Green County, beginning approximately 1 1/2 miles north of the Cactus Patch Truck Stop and continuing north to San Angelo Center, a distance of 5.3 miles. Also, beginning at the Sterling-Coke County Line, 2.9 miles of southbound lanes in Coke County will be resurfaced. Total cost of the project is $116,058.

The work will begin on the south end of the project and proceed northward in the direction of traffic. The surface course will be laid in only one lane at a time in order to allow a smooth, orderly flow of traffic through the construction area. The areas where work is actively in progress will be barricaded and flagged by the contractor.

After completion of the northbound portion in Tom Green County, the work will begin on the southbound lanes at the Sterling-Coke County line and proceed in the direction of traffic, again using the one lane at a time construction method. The new surface will not only preserve and strengthen the existing surface, but greatly increase skid resistance for the safety of the public. This type of surface is very porous, allowing rain water to dissipate through the mix and prevent hydroplaning.

Sgt. Halley has money-saving idea

TSgt. Charles F. Halley topped all suggestion money winners last month with a suggestion that will save the Air Force $5,000 per year.

Sgt. Halley received $320, more than four times that for any of the other suggestions, with his idea of using lug nuts on refueling units. Sgt. Halley is from Supply Squadron.

An additional cash award of $600 went to TSgt. Larry E. Mack, shift chief of Recovery Branch, Organizational Maintenance, when his suggestion for a warning sign was adopted Air Force-wide. His signs, "aircraft on jacks," are mounted on cone shaped pylons that don't tip over as easily.

Sgt. Mack received $400 when the idea was approved by Air Training Command.

Another cash winner was 1st Lt. Billy J. Cox, Civil Engineers, who received $75. Fifty dollar winners were: Sgt. Richard L. Burlingame, Field Maintenance Squadron, Reba Moss, Supply and TSgt. William R. Fuhr, 2050th Communications Squadron. TSgt.

Alberto Salas, FMS, received $40.

Earning $30 awards were: SSgt. David A. Naillon, FMS; SSgt. Robert W. Benzie, Supply and SSgt. Jack W. Thrift, Supply. Franklin D. Shaw, Supply, and Sgt. Adrian L. Brown, 2050th Comm., rounded out the money winners with $25 each.

Those receiving certificates included Phyllis A. Jones, CE; AIC Robert P. Gregowicz, Hospital; AIC Anthony O. Huito, Organizational Maintenance Squadron; MSgt. Patrick Kelly, Supply, and AIC Armando A. Ramos, Air Base Group.

Combined, the civilian and military suggestions netted the Air Force $7,847 in savings with $775 awarded for the suggestions. A total of 17 suggestions were adopted last month. According to Tom Orenbaun, who heads the base suggestion program, "We are well on our way to being the best in ATC, but we need to continue our efforts. Civilian suggestions are lacking over all."
