Ford, Reagan in standoff

Carter widens delegate lead

By The Associated Press

The heaviest presidential primary day in American history is over with President Ford holding off Ronald Reagan on what might have been a big Reagan day and Democratic front-runner Jimmy Carter increasing his delegate lead.

There were six primaries on Tuesday, three in Southern or border states and three in the Far West, areas that are the cornerstone of Reagan's Sun Belt strategy.

Ford managed a split in the popular vote, winning as expected in Oregon and beating Reagan by narrow margins in Tennessee and Kentucky. Ford picked up 76 delegates in the six contests, but Reagan's bigger wins in Nevada, Idaho and Arkansas gave him 100 additional delegates, a net gain of 24 delegates on the day.

With Tuesday's contests included, the President still leads, 777 delegates to 644 for Reagan in the race for the GOP presidential nomination.

Carter won Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee, but lost Oregon, considered the day's main event, to Sen. Frank Church. Church also won in his home state of Idaho. California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. easily captured the Nevada primary.

But Carter, despite the mixed results, won a total of 137 delegates, combining those picked up in primaries with 28 more in district conventions in Missouri and two in an Alabama runoff. That puts the former Georgia governor past the halfway mark with 877 of the 1,505 delegates needed for the Democratic nomination.

Carter picked up an added boost today when Mayor Abraham D. Beame of New York endorsed him for the Democratic nomination.

Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, who picked up a scattered six delegates Tuesday, remains second with 298.5. There is also a bloc of 399.5 uncommitted votes.

Reagan had predicted he would win at least four of the six and it looked for a while like he might squeeze out a win in Tennessee to make his prediction good. Ford's margin was narrow through much of the evening, and Reagan pulled to within 123 votes with about 50 precincts left to report.

But those precincts were in the Knoxville area, where Ford had done well all night and when they were finally counted, the President had squeezed through to a 1,500-vote victory, although he lost the delegate race 22-21 because of weighting by congressional districts.

Stuart Spencer, Ford's deputy campaign manager, said the President was happy with the results. "This is the night Reagan had to make a big comeback," Spencer said. "He didn't do it."

Reagan said he was pleased with his wins in Arkansas, Idaho and Nevada. He said of Kentucky and Tennessee, "I feel good doing as well as I did in these border states."

Church called the Oregon and Idaho wins "a quantum leap forward for my campaign." And he added: "The results tonight show people are taking a second look at Jimmy Carter."

But Carter emphasized his delegate harvest and that he has won half the primaries he has entered in May.

Udall, who won only six delegates Tuesday, said he was still in the race. "I won delegates in Arkansas and Kentucky," he said. "Mo Udall is a national candidate."

"Obviously I like to win," said Brown, a winner last week in Maryland, of the results in Oregon, where he was a write-in candidate. "But a write-in requires a commitment far greater than just punching a hole by the candidate's name."

He added: "If tonight means anything, it means the process is continuing to expand and open. The California primary is critical."

Here are the returns from

Tuesday's contests:
Oregon
With 100 per cent of the precincts counted:

Ford 146,940 or 52 per cent and 16 delegates.
Reagan 133,198 or 48 per cent and 14 delegates.

Among the Democrats:
Church 143,096 or 35 per cent and 15 delegates.
Carter 113,281 or 28 per cent and 12 delegates.
Brown 86,917 or 22 per cent and 7 delegates.
The rest were scattered.

Tennessee
With 99 per cent of the precincts reporting:
Ford 120,557 or 50 per cent and 21 delegates.
Reagan 118,451 or 48 per cent and 22 delegates.
On the Democratic side:
Carter 256,941 or 78 per cent and 36 delegates.
Wallace 36,397 or 11 per cent and one delegate.
The rest of the vote was split seven ways and nine uncommitted delegates were chosen.

Missouri
In Democratic district conventions in Missouri, Carter picked up 28 delegates, Udall 3, Jackson 1, McCormack 1 and 21 were uncommitted.

Alabama
In runoff elections for eight Democratic delegate seats, Wallace won four, Carter two and two were uncommitted.

WIRED FOR SOUND — Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter sits patiently as he has a microphone attached to his lapel prior to a television appearance in New York this morning. Carter is fresh from three primary victories in Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Hays admits having affair

Liz paid to clerk or flirt?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following Rep. Wayne Hays' admission that he had a "personal relationship" with a woman employee, the question remaining is whether she received $14,000 a year as taxpayer expense to be his mistress or whether she was a productive employee of Congress.

The Justice Department is trying to resolve that question and the little-used House ethics committee may make an effort, too.

Hays, in an emotional speech before the House on Tuesday, admitted he lied when he denied having a relationship with Elizabeth Ray, a shapely clerk on the payroll of his House Administration Committee. But he contended he was telling the truth when he said he did not keep her on the government payroll at $14,000 a year just for her sexual services.

Today, novelist Robin Moore, who helped Xaveria Hollander with her book, "The Happy Hooker," was quoted as saying Miss Ray asked him last winter to help her write her memoirs and "from what I could tell, she had considerably more ammunition than what has come out yet."

AS SHE POSED FOR PLAYBOY — Elizabeth Ray, who says she was the mistress of Rep. Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) poses bare-breasted for a shot by Playboy magazine for its layout on "The Girls of Washington," scheduled to appear in the September issue. Hays admitted to having a "personal relation" with her.

Moore, who lives in Westport, Conn., was interviewed by the Washington Star, which said Miss Ray's "bare-it-all memoir ... is to be published as 'The Washington Fringe Benefit' in paperback by the Dell Publishing Co. perhaps as early as this summer.

Moore, whose novels include "The Green Berets" and "The French Connection," said he was at work on another book at the time of Miss Ray's request and telephoned her to decline, the Star said.

The newspaper quoted Moore as saying: "She (Miss Ray) never mentioned a specific name (of any man involved) but her letter was very straightforward. I remember that my very straight New England secretaries were impressed with the letter. I personally believe every word she said."

"In a way, I wish I'd followed up. Her letter was quite enticing."

The Star reported Moore as saying he received Miss Ray's letter six or eight months ago, but that he can no longer find it.

The newspaper said Dell counsel Stephen L. Bair declined to comment on contractual terms for Miss Ray's book, on whether she has a collaborator or on whether the publishing company knew of her purported affair with Hays when it signed her contract.

FBI agents were reportedly continuing their investigation for the Justice Department of Hays' relationship with Miss Ray as the House ethics committee was receiving strong pressure to open its own probe.

Twenty-eight House members, in a letter to ethics committee chairman John J. Flynt, urged the panel to launch an investigation "in order to guarantee the integrity of the House of Representatives, its members and its committees."

Flynt was campaigning in his home state of Georgia as Hays made his speech admitting his relationship with Miss Ray, but said he was flying to Washington immediately. He said all of the requests for an investigation, including a telephoned request from Hays himself, were "informal," noting his panel could act only on a formal request.

Four of the 28 members who signed the letter asking for the ethics committee investigation also sent a letter to Speaker Carl Albert. Albert and other House leaders were in London to accept a loan of the Magna Carta for the Bicentennial celebration.

Prejudice, racism, favoritism denied

Airport allegations answered

Allegations over the proposal the county assume management of the Howard County Airport were answered today in a reconvened meeting of County Commissioners Court.

The proposal was made Monday to avoid granting Louis Rosenbaum a lease at the airport, commissioners indicated.

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) ruled denial of the fixed-base operator's lease violated FAA grant regulations.

Some members, however, felt termination of the lease with Big Spring Aircraft Inc. would avoid the dilemma: grant Rosenbaum a lease or risk loss of federal grants.

Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas, who made a series of allegations and objections over the county-management proposal Monday was the lone dissenter in a 3-1 vote today.

While County Judge Bill Tune votes only to break ties, the other three commissioners agreed to authorize the county attorney to approach Big Spring Aircraft officials about termination of its lease and to investigate granting Rosenbaum a second lease.

COMMISSIONER IKIE RUPARD said his decision relative to Big Spring Aircraft and Rosenbaum, an El Paso businessman, was not based on "bigotry or prejudice."

"It was based on whether we want to go into business with a convict and nothing else," Rupard said.

Rosenbaum served probation for a federal gun-sale violation. Terrazas had questioned whether the proposal the county run the airport couldn't be ruled discriminatory under FAA or revenue sharing regulations. Revenue sharing funds were used to build 10 airport hangars.

"He (Rosenbaum) failed to give us some information we asked for," Rupard said. "He elected instead to give his information to the FAA in Albuquerque (N.M.)."

Rupard made the motion to authorize County Attorney W. H. (Bill) Eyssen Jr. to contact Big Spring Aircraft officials and study the feasibility of a FBO lease to Rosenbaum "if it comes to that."

COMMISSIONER WILLIAM B. CROOKER JR. seconded the motion, and Commissioner Jack Buchanan voted with the majority.

Crooker said he also was not guilty of prejudice, racism or "favoritism" in denying Rosenbaum the lease and advocating the county takeover.

"I'm looking at the security of the airport and the future security of Howard County," Crooker explained. He mentioned the felony and other related indictments which were dismissed.

"I don't know if he has paid his debt to society," Terrazas said. Terrazas referred to the FAA decision the county did not have grounds to deny Rosenbaum a lease and praised Bill Howard and another FAA official.

"All in the world they have ever done for Howard County is do the best they can for Howard County," Terrazas said.

The county airport management proposal has "already been decided," Terrazas said.

"No sir, nothing has been decided," Rupard said, with Crooker agreeing.

COUNTY JUDGE BILL TUNE said, "All four commissioners received the same agenda (for Monday's meeting). I didn't talk about this with any of them (before)."

Terrazas objected to delegating authority to Eyssen to discuss the lease termination instead of the commissioners court presenting the idea.

"I've been in hopes that every time we meet we'd have some inclination of trying to resolve this, but it seems we're getting farther away as we go," Terrazas said.

Rupard said the lease was the only thing commissioners court has denied Rosenbaum, the president of Trans Regional Airlines.

Rupard mentioned allowing Trans Regional to buy fuel from a distributor instead of from Big Spring Aircraft and sending a letter to the state supporting the local airline's bid for new flights.

"We've sat here and been abused by them," Rupard said.

Terrazas noted the letter of support was requested by the Chamber of Commerce.

Concessions by commissioners court were "peanuts compared to what they've done for us at the airport with the service they're trying to give us," Terrazas said.

"Lowering the cost of fuel is fairly substantial to them," Crooker said.

BUCHANAN HAD LITTLE or nothing to say about the airport lease, but opposed paying a controversial bill from the State Department of Public Welfare protective services office.

"Based on the information you presented us, I don't think we ought to pay this (second foster care bill) at this time," Buchanan told the county welfare director.

Ronald Sweatt, supervisor of protective services for children here, sent the commissioners a $366 bill for foster care provided the children of Maj. and Mrs. Harold Freeman. The Freemans are charged with family sex crimes.

RUBY PHILLIPS, director of county welfare, said the county paid hospital bills for the boy and girl and $288 in foster care costs for the children while they were in Howard County.

The state has moved the children to two separate homes in San Angelo, Mrs. Phillips said.

The children's natural father has been sending money, Mrs. Phillips said, but she lacked much other information about financing for the children this morning.

She was instructed to obtain more information for the next meeting of commissioners court.

Judge Tune noted the state has $13,392 budgeted for foster care.

"Essentially, this is what they asked us to sign a contract to do," Rupard said. "I don't want to shuck our responsibility to the children," he said. Neither did he want to duplicate funds being provided possibly by the natural father and stepfather.

Offbeat: Why bother?

Texas Highway Patrolman Kenneth Joyce arrested a New York man to no avail Tuesday.

The arrest took place 5:30 p.m. at a roadside park on IS 20 West. Patrolman Joyce pulled into the park and noticed a 1973 Volkswagen with New York License plates.

Running a routine check on the car, Joyce learned that it was a stolen vehicle.

"I just walked up and arrested the guy. Then I found out that he is wanted in New York for burglary," said Joyce.

It was learned this morning, however, that authorities in New York would not extradite the man, so he was set free. Officers here will hold the stolen car until its owner retrieves it.

Trans Regional fighting Chaparral routes 'win'

Trans Regional Airlines in Big Spring has filed an exception to a recommendation that Chaparral Airlines of Abilene be given permission to fly commuter routes to four Texas airports.

A copy of the 11-page exception was received Tuesday by Chaparral Airlines in Abilene, said Chaparral executive vice president Clark Stevens.

Stevens said the document contended that John G. Soule, an examiner for the Texas Aeronautics Commission, was not impartial in deciding between Chaparral and Trans Regional.

Soule has recommended to the TAC board, which meets June 16, that Chaparral be permitted to serve Midland-Odessa, Lubbock, Austin and Houston with direct flights from Abilene.

Both airlines were seeking TAC permission to serve the routes. A hearing was held by Soule on the requests in March. Soule made his decision earlier this month.

The Trans Regional exception said, "Trans Regional excepts to the proposal for the decision in its entirety for the reason that it was not written from a fair and impartial point of view. The lack of impartiality on the part of the examiner is evident from a reading of his discussion of the evidence."

The exception listed 31 reasons why Trans Regional was protesting Soule's recommendation. The exception was filed Friday at the TAC office in Austin by Austin attorney Donald F. Nobles.

Stevens said Chaparral has 15 days in which to reply to Trans Regional's contentions and that its attorney, C. G. Whitten, is studying the exceptions and preparing answers to them.

In Austin, TAC examiner Soule said he would have no comment, "not until the commission has acted." Then he said, "I heard the evidence and rendered the recommendation based on the evidence that was presented to me."

Don Nobles, Trans Regional attorney in Austin who filed the action said that the exceptions stem from actions taken by the examiner Soule, who took testimony from the persons involved and wrote his own recommendations to the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

Robert McClure, director of Trans Regional in Big Spring said, "We'll go to the Supreme Court on it."

Intelligence panel okays release of Oswald motives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee tentatively decided today to make public a report dealing with Lee Harvey Oswald's motives in shooting President John F. Kennedy.

Vice Chairman John Tower, R-Tex., said he voted against release of the report because it "might raise more questions than it answers."

Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., a co-chairman of an intelligence subcommittee probe of Kennedy's assassination, said the report would "raise some very serious questions ... about the relationship of (U.S. intelligence) agencies to the Kennedy assassination."

An aide to Schweiker stressed that the report would contain no suggestion that the CIA or FBI was involved in the assassination. But he said it would focus on the performance of those agencies after the November 1963 killing. The aide, Paul Wallach, said the report would go into Oswald's motivation.

Tower, who has seen the report, said, "I don't think the Warren Commission was wrong about who pulled the trigger."

The commission headed by the late Chief Justice Earl Warren concluded that Oswald was the lone assassin and it found no evidence that he was part of a foreign conspiracy.

The intelligence committee, meeting in its last scheduled session, voted 8-2 to release the report. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., joined Tower in voting against the proposal. The report is to be made public within a week or two unless a majority of the committee decides by Friday to suppress it, the senators said.

Tower said he did not expect a majority vote against release of the document.

Schweiker said the delay in releasing the report was necessary to give the CIA and FBI time to review the document for disclosure of intelligence secrets.

The pay scale offered to teachers ranks in the top four per cent among Texas school districts.

For teachers with a bachelor's degree, salaries under the approved schedule will range from $9,000 on a nine-month contract for teachers with no experience to $13,800 annually on a ten-month contract for teachers with 16 years experience or more.

Selective burning of tobosa grass helps save songbirds

LUBBOCK — Spare my nest, and burn the rest.

So says the lark sparrow.

Like most songbirds, this species nests in areas with a mixture of bare soil and fully grown tobosa grass, a coarse growth that grows on clay soils and has a high tolerance for wind and dry weather. Scientists at Texas Tech University have discovered that selective burning of semi-grown tobosa stems and mesquite brush increases lark sparrow's nest density. The semi-grown tobosa is not suitable for nests, and, along with mesquite, is not used by cattle.

Research in the Texas Tech range and wildlife management department was aimed at developing a prescribed burning method that did not disturb the songbird's nesting habitat. Resulting from the research were burned areas offering more open space to the lark sparrows who prefer to walk around and pick up small insects, leaves and seeds. The burning also makes ideal grazing grounds for cattle, which relish the young tobosa shoots that grow after the burning.

Mesquite, a thorny leguminous shrub common to the Southwestern United States, poses a problem to livestock operations because it obstructs the view of cowboys when rounding up cattle. Mesquite also is not palatable for cattle.

Tobosa usually grows up to ten inches high and accumulates dead plant material. The growth of the tobosa causes loss of open space.

The Texas Tech study was conducted by Dr. Henry Wright, professor of range and wildlife management, and his research assistant J.

David Renwald. It was undertaken for the U.S. Forest Service.

The most recent selective burn was conducted in March 1975, prior to the nesting season. It resulted in an interspersing of burned and unburned areas.

Nests were found in tobosa cover averaging at least 33 per cent density, but not more than 55 per cent. After increasing fourfold, next density gradually declines until the fourth year after burning. Dr. Wright said that it usually takes that long for the tobosa grass to deposit litter over all bare soil. Cattle eat not more than 20 per cent of the full grown tobosa.

Results of the study have been published in the "Noxious Brush and Weed Control Research Highlight — 1975," an annual publication of the Texas Tech college of agricultural sciences in cooperation with the Texas Department of Agriculture.

A similar study was also conducted in 1974 and '75 to determine the importance of woody plants such as lotobushes for nesting by non-game birds. Cardinals, cactus wrens, mockingbirds, lark sparrows, brown towhees and road runners were found to nest in these.

After a "patchy" burn in 1975 nests were found in single-stem lotobushes. of the 97 lotobushes in all study areas which contained nests, 60 per cent were the single stem type. This according to the study, indicated a strong preference by non-game birds for the taller, denser growth form of this bush.

Based on the findings, the study recommended that, unless lotobushes posed a serious problem to livestock operations, these plants should be spared during burning because they afford ideal cover for nesting non-game birds. This study, also conducted by Renwald and Dr. Wright, considered lotobushes as well as honey mesquite, algerita, salt-bushes and acacia. These species, however, carried fewer nests.

Former town marshal will face murder trial

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Frank Hayes, former Castroville town marshal, is competent to stand trial on charges of capital murder in the shotgun slaying of Richard Morales.

A seven-woman, five-man district court jury deliberated 43 minutes Tuesday before finding Hayes sane after two days of testimony. No trial date has yet been set.

Morales, 29, was killed Sept. 14, 1975, while allegedly in the custody of Hayes, and his body was found buried 300 miles away on an East Texas farm owned by Mrs. Hayes' family.

State Dist. Court Judge Earl Smith ordered the sanity trial after a hearing April 6. The trial was moved to Tom Greene County on a change of venue.

District pastoral appointments for the United Methodist Church announced Tuesday night include very few changes in the Big Spring area.

Most of the pastors in this area were changed last year. District superintendent is J. Walter Browers, who is returning for the second year.

Other changes include a new lay pastor at Ackerly, Ray Forbes. He has been at Estelline-Tell and replaces Wilbur Gaede after one year.

At the Lamesa First Associate Church, a new position is filled by W. L. Armstrong Jr., who comes from the Board of Global Ministries.

Two new associates are at Midland First United, replacing J. B. Stewart, who served four years. They include Bill Weir and Jerry Wyatt, just out of Perkins School of Theology.

In Seminole, Weldon Rives, after four years at Clarendon, replaces Henry Salley, who after two years is going to Paducah-Cee Vee-Dumont.

Few area pastor changes announced by Methodists

Remaining in Big Spring will be William R. Fleming at First Church; Jene Greer at Wesley Methodist and Homer Salley in the Coahoma-Westbrook area. At Colorado City, Robert D. Ford remains at First Church. Fred Witt is at Garden City and Alvis

Body of man identified

SWEETWATER — Sweetwater police officials Tuesday tentatively identified the body of a man found dead Saturday near the Texas and Pacific Railroad tracks as that of John E. Perry, 51.

The badly decomposed body had been dead from one to two weeks. However, Sheriff Joe Slater said the cause of death remains unknown as no autopsy report has been made available.

The victim was barefoot and was wearing a maroon shirt and dark trousers, police said.

The body has been taken to Renfro-Falcon Funeral Home in Jacksonville.

More killed in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Police today reported at least 44 more persons killed and 77 wounded during another night of fighting in Beirut and eastern and northern Lebanon. Raymond Edde, the unsuccessful leftist-backed Christian candidate in the recent presidential election, was recovering from a foot wound suffered in an attempt by Christian foes to assassinate him Tuesday.

Consul's daughter nabbed

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Kidnapers of the Belgian ambassador's daughter left a communique from the Communist 23rd of September League demanding a ransom of 10 million pesos ($800,000), newspapers reported today. Nadine Chaval, 16, daughter of Ambassador Andre Chaval, was kidnaped two blocks from her home Tuesday as she was being driven to school by a chauffeur, police sources said.

Hometown undisturbed?

FLUSHING, Ohio (AP) — This is a town in eastern Ohio where cows graze in pastures, the local restaurant sells Mail Pouch and Red Man chewing tobaccos and country fresh eggs are 75 cents a dozen. Flushing, population 1,200, is the home town of Wayne L. Hays, the Democratic congressman who local Mayor Willis Davis says nobody likes but everybody votes for. There is a nostalgia of the small town here and outwardly Wood Street remains undisturbed by Hays' admission Tuesday that he had a "relationship" with Elizabeth Ray, a 33-year-old staff assistant.

Many sue Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than half the states, 53 labor unions and 22 church groups are joining 73 food-stamp families to sue the Ford administration in an attempt to stop a sharp cutback in the food stamp program. Ronald Pollack, director of the private Food Research and Action Center who will argue the case for almost 200 plaintiffs, said the suit will be filed in U.S. District Court today. The new rules would sever over 5 million persons from the program Tuesday.

Heavy damage caused by winds, hail

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes, boiling thunderstorms—often laced with riddling hail—and flooding rains kept a broad expanse of Texas as target today, with the savage weather gradually shifting southward.

It was a continuing siege by the elements which ravaged Graham in North Central Texas with winds up to 110 miles per hour Tuesday, inflicting property losses estimated up to $15 but few injuries.

More than a dozen tornadoes whirled across one part of the state or another, also causing damage in a number of places.

At the same time the marathon rains, falling on already saturated soil at many points, posed threats of flash flooding, mostly in low areas. Official forecasters kept a flash flood watch in force today for the central and east parts of North Texas, generally east of a line linking Gainesville, Mineral Wells and Lampasas.

Rainfall amounts before the added downpours during the night ranged up to an unofficial 10 inches outside Mineral Wells in the north central part of the state.

Hail accumulated more than a foot deep in Mineral Wells, where it shattered windows at the Palo Pinto General Hospital and two convalescent homes. Occupants were moved into hallways for protection from the falling chunks of ice.

As late as 5:15 a.m. today Navy observers spotted a funnel cloud four miles northwest of the Naval Air Station at Corpus Christi, but it apparently caused no harm.

Sheriff's officers reported another twister spun harmlessly across the countryside 13 miles northwest of Hondo in Southwest Texas shortly before 1 a.m.

Capping a series of other tornado and severe thunderstorm alerts, the National Weather Service kept 51 counties across the south part of the state under a tornado watch until 8 a.m. today. It covered a 140-mile-wide belt centering on a line from 30 miles west-northwest of Laredo on the Mexican border eastward to 50 miles southeast of College Station.

A rash of twisters whipped through the area around Abilene in West Central Texas—three around Hamby and others at Elm Dale, Clyde, Baird and Ft. Phantom Hill Lake. Two others swung near Crowell, which is west of Wichita Falls, and hail the size of baseballs battered Seymour and Olney in the same vicinity.

State police placed damage at $700,000 in an area north of Abilene, where Hamby suffered worst. There was damage to 26 houses and three mobile homes at Hamby, and a driving education trailer and demonstrator was wrecked at Baird. A small factory at neighboring Clyde also suffered damage.

Farther west in West Texas, winds estimated at 85 to 100 m.p.h. destroyed four trailer homes and toppled a radio transmitting tower. Four persons were treated for injuries and dismissed.

As the powerful storms progressed downstate, still another tornado ripped through China Springs, in Central Texas northwest of Waco, destroying a house, a dairy barn and a garage.

Three other funnel clouds were sighted around Waco. Special marine warnings against hazardous seas went up as the turbulence reached the coast, particularly from San Antonio Bay southward to Baffin Bay.

At the same time storms dissipated by early morning in Northwest Texas and skies cleared over much of that section.

Forecasts promised even more thunderstorms. Turbulence was expected to spawn some of the most severe weather from the east edge of West Texas eastward across the central and east parts of the state.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 78 degrees at Brownsville in the extreme south down to 52 at Dalhart in the Panhandle.

Local Demos seek state panel posts at confab

At least three Howard County delegates to the State Democratic Convention in Houston June 17-19 will seek positions on state committees.

Among the duties of the convention will be the selection of 32 delegates and 70 alternates to the National Democratic Convention.

James Baird will seek a place on the Committee to Nominate Presidential Electors, Larry Shaw will seek a place on the Resolutions Committee, and Rafoed Dunagan, County Democratic Chairman, will seek a place on the Committee to Nominate At-Large Delegates.

A topic expected to be discussed at the convention is the nomination of Houston attorney Don Yarbrough as the Democratic candidate for a place on the Texas Supreme Court.

Yarbrough, whose name is similar to Don Yarbrough, another Houston attorney who ran unsuccessfully for governor several times, defeated the incumbent judge in the May 1 primary.

He also is plaintiff in at least 15 civil lawsuits, many of them alleging failure to pay promissory notes on time and contending Yarbrough participated in fraudulent acts in connection with banking activities.

Dunagan said that he has no knowledge of any planned action by the delegates at the convention, but delegations from other counties indicated they would seek to have Yarbrough's name removed from the November ballot.

He has no Republican opponent.

Georgia Governor Jimmy Carter is expected to gather the largest portion of the delegates to the National Convention because most of the delegates elected at county conventions are committed to him.

Statewide, there is a moderate block of uncommitted delegates and small numbers of delegates committed to California Governor Jimmy Brown and Arizona Rep. Morris Udall.

Eleven of the 16 Howard County delegates are committed to Jimmy Carter, including Larry Shaw, Delano Shaw, C. E. Gressett, D. A. Brazel, Baird, Dunagan, Harvey Hooser, Jim Baum, John Roemer, Mrs. Ray Echols and Bill Tune.

Uncommitted delegates are Kenneth Howell, E. O. McNeese, Mrs. Ray Bedford, Clovis Phinney and Troy Bryant.

Dunagan said that of the sixteen delegates, only one, Mrs. Ray Echols, has notified him that they won't be able to attend. She will be replaced with an alternate.

The Howard County delegation will be headquartered at the Sheraton-Houston Hotel, downtown.

Military

Filling quotas cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine recruiters have been pressured into filling their enlistment quotas with unqualified men whose shortcomings quickly make them targets of abuse from boot camp drill instructors, according to testimony before a House subcommittee.

The villain of this scenario, the House panel was told Tuesday, is the concept of an all-volunteer military that forces recruiters who must meet quotas to cheat on standards when signing up enlistees.

Marine Commandant Louis H. Wilson and his manpower deputy, Lt. Gen. Robert H. Barrow, were scheduled to testify today before the House military subcommittee conducting the probe.

A former Marine recruiter from Detroit told the panel Tuesday that recruiters cheat and sign up men who do not meet the corps' mental, moral and physical standards in order to get enough volunteers.

And a former recruit told the panel he tried to commit suicide because his learning disability and slowness made drill instructors in San Diego so angry that one threatened to kill him.

The former recruit,

Ronald Bannister, 17, of Mill Valley, Calif., said a drill instructor threatened to dump him in San Diego Bay and report him absent without leave. He said drill instructors called him crazy when he was unable to do simple jobs like bringing them coffee.

"It made me feel very put down, like dirt," Bannister testified. "It was not my fault I could not bring the coffee back. It was not my fault because the mess hall was closed and the dishes and everything were put away."

Bannister's uncle, Preston Bannister, said he asked the subcommittee to let his nephew testify because the young man's case was similar to that of Lynn E. McClure, a mentally deficient recruit whose death in a mock bayonet exercise at the San Diego Marine Training Center touched off the probe.

Former Marine recruiter Kenneth Taylor said, "I would have signed Bannister up in a minute and I would have signed McClure up in a flash." Taylor said he bent rules to sign up unfit recruits and that he "maneuvered" police records.

"I would say that to succeed as a recruiter in today's environment, you have to cheat," Taylor testified. He cited "tremendous pressure" the all-volunteer military has put on recruiters to meet their quotas now that there is no draft to motivate men to join the Marines before being called into the Army.

"The real problem began when the all-volunteer force began," Taylor said. "The real problem began when Vietnam ended."

Boll weevil imposing menace

For the first time ever, the Big Spring area has a bug man. It's a signal that the cotton farmer's battle with the boll weevil is intensifying in this part of West Texas.

THE NEW entomologist (a specialist in insects) is named James Lee. He will be working out of Stanton and serving five area counties: Howard, Martin, Glasscock, Reagan and Upton.

Howard County Agent Bruce Griffith brought Lee by the Herald a couple of days ago, and I had a chance to visit with the farm boy from DeQueen, Ark.

The thing I wanted to know was: Why all of a sudden does the Big Spring area need an entomologist?

The answer is that the famous foe of the cotton farmer, the boll weevil, is always "looking for a home," as the song goes, and he has been migrating westward.

I knew this. The cotton country of the upper Brazos Valley around Knox City where I was raised has almost completely gone to winter wheat now because of that dastardly weevil.

But I thought the boll weevil thrived mainly in rainy humid climates and needed quite a bit of cover for surviving the winter. So what's it doing out here in West Texas?

There are many possibilities. Perhaps, suggested Lee, the weather is changing out here. This area has had several years of improved rainfall.

But most likely, the weevil is becoming more acclimated to West Texas.

Man, in his attempts to control the weevil, has accidentally speeded up the natural selection process. The weevils who survive the winters and the pesticides are a heartier breed, and they in turn produce a heartier weevil.

Insects, said Lee, have a great capacity to adapt, which has allowed the weevil to migrate westward increasingly toward Big Spring.

Is man's efforts creating a super-weevil that will be uncontrollable?

NOT YET, BUT in the war of man versus the insects, man doesn't necessarily have the upper hand.

Right now, allowed County Agent Griffith, the weevil is winning.

Griffith pointed out that there is no longer any talk of eradication. This is both for environmental reasons and simply because of truth. Man is not going to eradicate the screwworm or the boll weevil.

Now the term is management, instead of eradication. This means the effort is to control bugs, not wipe them out. With the term pest management has come a new concept of seeking to coexist with the insect world, a kind of farmers' detente if you will.

This management concept involves more than just spraying chemicals on the weevils in summer. It is a total program of control by managing all phases of the insects' life cycle.

Can the boll weevil be managed to prevent the insect from taking over the Big Spring area as it has many others?

In Thursday's Herald, this column will deal with the question as Lee's program of work for the first year is outlined.

—J. TOM GRAHAM

How much?

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Without going onto the detail of the proposed new law governing the activities of our intelligence agencies, it is reasonable to say that it is designed to bring under representative scrutiny a) what our intelligence agencies are doing; and b) how much money they are spending.

It is critical to ask whether that scrutiny is to be exercised by a committee of legislators who can be counted upon to prefer the public safety to the satisfaction of their own political vanity, but that gets you into problems. How do you say in constitutional language: We are going to set up an oversight committee which will exclude Michael Harrington of Massachusetts? The dear old Constitution prohibits bills of attainder, so you have to come up with legal ways of describing Michael Harrington, and that is a tough one.

THEN, AS A practical matter, you need to ask whether that oversight committee is going to stop, automatically, drastic covert actions of the kind that tend to win popular favor, and professional criticism.

The distinction is best drawn from the work of our novelists. I have drawn attention before to The Day of the Jackal. Here the protagonist is a hired killer, and his assignment is to executive Charles de Gaulle. The suspense is very great, and the huge best-seller owes that success to the narrowness of de Gaulle's escape. But do you know how the French intelligence people managed to save his life? Well, to begin with they kidnapped somebody from Rome. Getting him to Marseille, they tortured him, and got from him a couple of words — a clue. Oh yes, he died from the torture.

Then the chief of police (of police, mind you), without any authority from anybody, undertook to tap the telephones not of Joe Kraft, but of every member of the French cabinet. And lo, one of these telephones yielded a yummy conversation between the minister of something and his mistress, who, when the minister was snoring, got up and telephoned her contact within the resistance group that had hired the assassin.

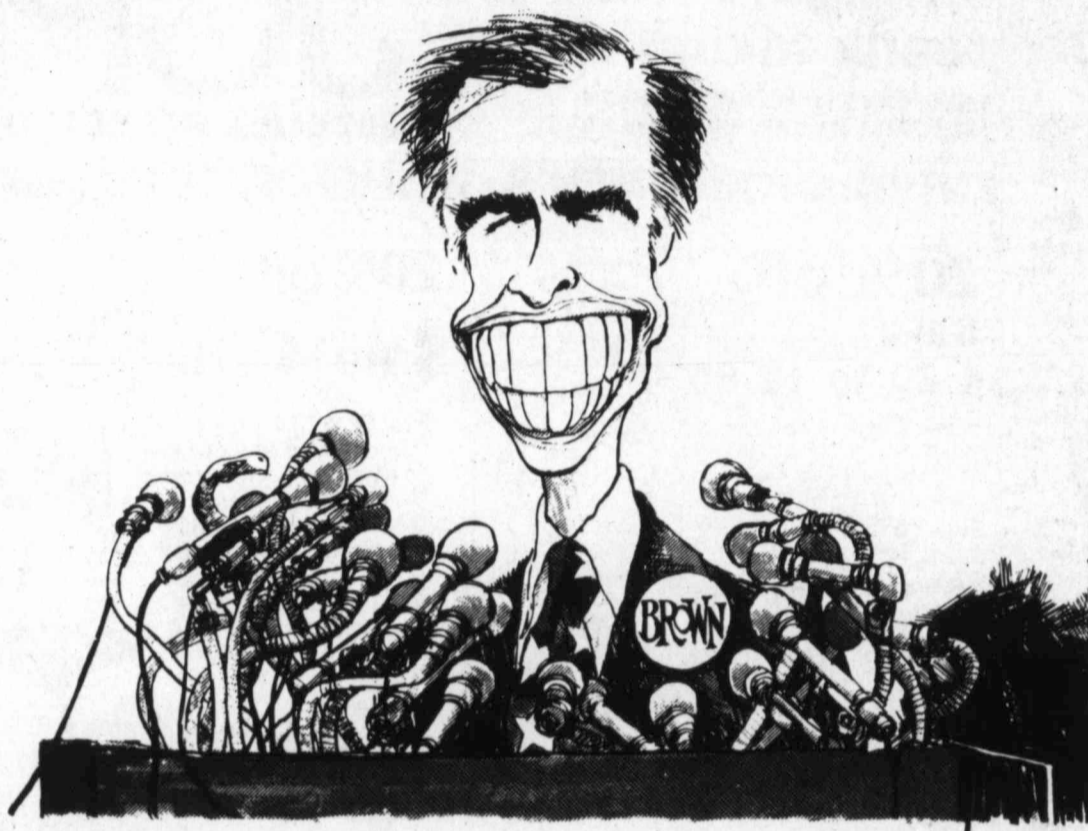

All it took, in other words, to protect the life of the President of France was one (1) kidnapping, (1) torture, (1) death, and eleven (11) tapped telephones of the French cabinet. The reading public loved it, and Senator Frank Church or Teddy Kennedy have never held up the book as a reason to deny aid to France.

John Ehrlichman, former aide to Richard Nixon, has written a novel in which President Kennedy orders, at the last minute, the assassination of a priest traveling with the invading army to the Bay of Pigs. The idea is that Kennedy discovered that the Russians would counter our invasion of Cuba and come back at us with nuclear ferocity. On the other hand, the invasion was already launched, and could not be aborted.

THE PRESIDENT hit on the idea of destroying the spiritual force behind the military mission: the equivalent of slipping Joan of Arc a mickey finn just before she took on the British. It is not projected that the admirers of President Kennedy will cavil at the action he (allegedly) took, under such circumstances.

The new oversight committee is on the one hand desirable — we do need protection against capricious use of intelligence capabilities; on the other hand, it is a schematic example of efforts by lawyers and jig-saw makers to pin down with exactitude the rules by which we govern ourselves in a spontaneous world substantially dominated by tryants. If we go down, they are saying, it will be with punctilio.

W. F. BUCKLEY, JR. BY GUY WATSON

Breast-feeding, dieting won't mix

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Since the birth of my son, I've gained weight. I'm about 20 pounds overweight now and want to make an effort to lose the extra pounds.

But I'm nursing my child. Is it possible to go on a diet while lactating? — Mrs. P.F.

Depends on what you mean by "going on a diet."

The baby comes first, so let's look at his needs. If you are an average nursing mother, you are producing (and your baby is taking) about 30 ounces of milk a day. Each ounce represents about 20 calories. So you need approximately 600 calories a day (30 times 20) just for the milk. Body functions to produce that amount of milk require another 400 or so calories. That's a thousand calories a day just for successful lactation.

Three eight-ounce glasses of whole milk provide about 75 grams of protein, plus the calcium needed for the milk. It also provides about 500 calories, a good start.

You don't give me any statistics concerning your actual weight, height, frame, so I cannot say how many calories you need daily for your own non-lactation needs.

I suggest that you consult a weight-height chart to find out what your normal weight should be. From that you can estimate the food you need to maintain a normal, healthy weight. Add to that the thousand calories you need for lactation. This should represent a fair figure for total calorie intake.

Stick to that and you should not have to "diet."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know if you can tell me why a child would rock all the time while standing. A friend of mine has four children, and three of them rock all the time, and now the baby is starting to rock.

Could there be something wrong in the family, or what? — Mrs. R.R.

Rocking is not uncommon. It is usually nothing more than a release of energy. Some youngsters just find the rhythmic motion pleasurable, similar to that they enjoy on a swing. It can be a carry-over from being rocked in a chair or cradle.

I wouldn't dwell on this with your friend, nor would I make an issue of it with the youngsters.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband and I are in our 60s and we have always had a good sex life. My husband had a heart attack about three years ago. He has gotten slow on his sex life.

Is there anything he could take or do to help? He is in good health now. — Mrs. J.N.

Medications such as sedatives, tranquilizers or those for high blood pressure can reduce desire for sex. If your husband is taking any of these you can suspect that as a partial cause of his lessened sexual activity.

Three years should be sufficient for your husband to have regained his abilities. If he has no symptoms from usual daily activity (as from a brisk walk) he should be able to handle sex.

There is no denying that blood pressure and pulse do increase during sexual activity, and your husband can have a natural concern about this. You should not expect a 100 per cent pre-heart-attack performance.

His physician should be able to put his mind at ease about this matter. There is no medication to otherwise boost his sexual interest.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is olive oil considered high in cholesterol? It is vegetable, and vegetable oils are supposed to be preferred to animal oils. Should one look for less cholesterol avoid olive oil? — A.E.T.

Vegetable oils are lower in saturated fats than are animal substances like lard or butter. But of the vegetable oils, olive oil contains a higher percentage of specific fatty acids (oleic). These can contribute to cholesterol in the body. Thus, a person on a cholesterol-lowering diet should stick with the substitutes — the corn, safflower and soybean products.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are venereal warts? What causes them? What is the best method of getting rid of them? Are they serious? How do they differ from warts on the hands? — Mrs. C.N.

Venereal warts are moist growths on the skin in the genital and anal areas. They are caused by a virus, and as the name implies they are related usually to sexual contact.

They can spread or can grow in clusters resembling cauliflower. They differ from warts on the hands and feet, where they appear smaller and more dry.

Treatment is not a do-it-yourself matter. The warts are either cauterized (burned out) or treated with a solution of podophyllum applied at weekly intervals. They may recur if they are not completely eradicated. Extra cleanliness of the moist areas is important.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm a 27-year-old female who has been troubled with rectal itch for years. You have mentioned that some of the conventional wipes can cause irritation. What can I use instead? — R.P.

There are several after-stool wipes on the market. They usually come as cotton flannel pads containing witch hazel and glycerine preparations. The name of one of these products is Tucks. Any well-stocked pharmacy should have a selection or be able to tell you where they can be obtained.

They are also helpful in relieving hemorrhoid discomfort, and, incidentally, it might not be a bad idea to investigate hemorrhoids as a cause of your rectal problems. Alcoholic drinks, condiments and other food allergies can cause rectal itching.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My concern is that when I am in a dark room and start to cough sparks fly from my mouth. People with whom I have discussed this think it most unusual. — Mrs. P.C.

Me too.

I suspect you have an active imagination. If not you are most certainly a medical "first."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a very embarrassing problem and my doctor never mentions it when I have a Pap smear. The problem is that around the lips of my vulva I have dozens of little white, hard lumps which range in size from a pinhead to a BB shot. Sometimes one will get sore and I can squeeze out a substance.

I want to know what this is called and if there is any treatment, and if they might be cancerous. I am 57 and am too shy to ask my doctor about them. — Mrs. B.R.

These are sebaceous cysts that can form in any mucous membrane as well as in the skin. Not cancerous. More thorough cleansing of the area might reduce the tendency of the sebaceous gland openings to become plugged. That is the basic problem causing them. Why the embarrassment? It's your body.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

What others say

Over and over it is being told how the United States is shortchanged in trade deals it makes with the Soviet Union and other Communist countries. A report from the General Accounting Office notes the monolithic configuration of the Russian economy and helps explain why Americans take a beating. The Russians, according to the GAO, capitalize on the nature of private enterprise to play one firm against another. They take advantage of the openness of U.S. society to gain secrets whose exportation is forbidden by law.

The U.S. should not allow itself to be helpless in the face of Soviet wheeling and dealing, not when it occupies a position of basic strength as opposed to basic weakness.

To secure the benefits of a strong position U.S. businessmen may have to subscribe to government guidance and regulation more freely than they do at the present time, and accept governmental trade policies as binding, rather than trying to escape them. Any suggestion that government regulate foreign trade deals Julie Simmons, former women's news editor for the Herald, is well on her way to becoming Mrs. Steve Bailey.

Lots of preparation goes into planning a wedding, and Julie had to do hers long-distance. She will be married Saturday in Dallas.

JULIE'S LAST day at work was Monday. She was going to use her final rim to introduce the new women's news editor and her assistant to the public. That's where I come in. Since I make up half of that team, I'll do the introducing. Julie had to leave without getting a chance to write the rim.

Taking over duties as women's news editor will be Candy Smith, a recent University of Texas at Arlington graduate. Candy is now in Huntsville preparing to move to Big Spring. She will arrive at work May 31. I haven't yet met her, but a few people in the office have met her and talked to her by phone. All reports say that she sounds eager to start work at the Herald. She will get a formal introduction soon.

In the meantime, that leaves me as temporary women's news editor (and future assistant). For those of you who don't read the Megaphone (news from the schools), that's what I have been doing at the Herald for three years. I've been around here longer than that, though. Yes, my father is Tommy Hart, and I have been a familiar fixture at the Herald for years. The Megaphone was my first job here, though.

Now is my chance to move to bigger and brighter things. Working in society is really a good opportunity for me, because I am majoring in journalism. I must admit I am getting off to a shaky start though.

I HAVE BEEN helping Julie Simmons on and off for several months, but Tuesday was my first effort at a temporary take-over. The first thing I did was lose Julie's wedding information. I ran all over the office, asking everyone if they knew where the information was. I was getting desperate after a while. I kept thinking of Julie half-way down the road to Dallas. I finally found the notes. They were where they should have been, which is why I didn't look there.

There have been a few other problems, but nothing serious. I am in a process of catching up.

One thing I have discovered is that most people I talk to are very helpful. I have to ask lots of questions when taking reports, but no one seems impatient.

Now, if I can just last until Candy comes. Hopefully, when she arrives, I won't be ripping up a report and screaming into the telephone. If people stay as nice as they have been, then I think both Candy and I will enjoy this summer working at the Herald.

Worse days ahead

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — In the cluttered, overcrowded office of Rep. Andrew Hinshaw, R-Calif., there is a sign that sums up his philosophy: "Why worry about tomorrow? We may not make it through today."

Andy Hinshaw, a short, assertive, Napoleonic man with large wide-rimmed glasses, has reason to be fatalistic. Although he keeps a game politician's smile on his round face, as befits a congressman running for reelection, he knows worse days are ahead.

THE CALIFORNIA conservative, who was elected to office in 1972 with a personal push from Richard Nixon, has been convicted on two bribery counts. A second trial, on conspiracy charges, is pending.

The House Ethics Committee, so loath to look into the ethics of congressmen, has found nothing unethical about Hinshaw's crimes. The same committee has delicately avoided passing judgment on him, his days that the charges go back to his time as Orange County assessor.

But we are always happy to help the Ethics Committee make a case against an errant congressman. We have dug up evidence of unethical conduct by Hinshaw since he came to Congress. Here are our findings:

—Hinshaw put through government raises for staff aides who, in turn, contributed to his legal defense fund. Two top aides in his district, Chip Cleary and Geraldine Ford, conceded that they had contributed.

—Hinshaw prides himself on a "Watchdog of the Treasury" award presented to him by businessmen. Yet he put his office manager, Joan Smith, on the payroll for $22,000 a year, although she often doesn't show up for work. He is also paying her daughter out of the taxpayers' funds. Ms. Smith told us that illness had kept her from the office and that she was not favored because of her close personal relationship with the divorced Hinshaw.

—Most outrageous of all, Hinshaw has used his membership on the House Post Office Committee to squeeze information helpful to his legal defense out of the Post Office and the FBI.

He used his congressional power, for example, to compel the Post Office to send the committee a 14-page breakdown of all mail covers requested by California authorities from 1968 through 1975. This happens to include the period when the state was investigating him.

HINSHAW WOULD like to prove that his mail was tampered with, which would give him legal grounds to overturn his conviction. Thus the data he requested from the Post Office could have been vital to him.

Our study of the committee transcripts also shows that Hinshaw used his right to cross-examine witnesses to discover whether his mail has ever been opened.

On October 1, he asked James Adams, assistant to FBI chief Clarence Kelley: "Now, would you personally be in a position to know whether or not there would be a type of no-file system for mail openings or mail covers or mail surveys on prominent government officials?"

Adams tried to assure Hinshaw that his mail had not been tampered with. Hinshaw then tried another approach and pressed him for names of all those who had ordered mail covers.

Still not satisfied, Hinshaw demanded related information three more times when the committee questioned Adams and Deputy Attorney General Richard Thornburgh behind closed doors.

On November 5, Hinshaw used his congressional clout again to seek information which might have helped his trial, then only two months away. On this occasion, the witness was the chief postal inspector, Neil Benson.

"Can you tell me," inquired Hinshaw, "what the actual procedures are... if a local district attorney, for example, were to ask for a mail cover?"

Benson did his best to give straight answers, but Hinshaw buzz-sawed him with continued questions. He inquired about mail covers requested by state agencies and suggested that those whose mail was "covered" should be informed of it.

The congressman from California also speculated grumpily whether "mail covers by state and local law enforcement officers are really helpful" and suggested that the California authorities who requested mail covers should be investigated.

At one point, Benson answered Hinshaw's barrage of questions by telling him bluntly that mail covers had been provided to California authorities "for investigating a felony-type crime." He didn't say whether he was referring to Hinshaw's own case.

FOOTNOTE: HINSHAW didn't return our telephone calls and wasn't available when we visited his office. But after we began our probe, he sent around a note to his staff saying "under no circumstances is anyone to reply to any oral or written inquiry requesting items of a personal nature without personal clearance from me." Both Cleary and Mrs. Ford said they saw nothing wrong with their contributions.

CONFIDENTIAL CABLES: The U.S. embassy in Nassau has sent confidential warnings to the State Department that the Bahamas government has arrested 100 young Americans on drug charges.

Many more may wind up behind bars in the Bahamas, the cables warn. Most of those now in jail "are inexperienced travelers who are generally young, naive and astonished to find that current American attitudes about marijuana are not reflected in the Bahamas," states one airgram.

"Nearly all of them are arrested by Bahamian Customs at Nassau airport," adds the airgram. "In almost every case, a few marijuana cigarettes are involved."

The embassy urges that warnings be posted at airports and ports of embarkation for the Bahamas.

Weather modification evidence

Area clouds have 'silver lining'

Never in Big Spring's recorded weather history had five consecutive years shown above average rainfall.

Never, that is, until the last five when the Colorado River Municipal Water District began its weather modification program, said CRMWD Manager Owen Ivie Tuesday.

But Ivie stopped short of saying that the district's cloud seeding program is responsible for the above average rainfall in this area during the 1970s.

"Whether or not we've had any influence on it, we're not saying," the district's manager told the Big Spring Rotary Club at its noon meeting in the Settles Hotel.

Ivie said the program will be evaluated through 1980. If the district is successful in showing records to prove that eight out of the ten years the rainfall in the project's target area was above the historical average of 18.45 inches per year, then Ivie said it would be a pretty good layman's indication that the project was having an effect.

The manager presented some preliminary evidence which might be termed encouraging toward weather modification.

He noted that three other areas had been measured to compare results with the project's target area. These were Midland, Lubbock and Aspermont. None of the other three had five consecutive years of above average rainfall, and in the years when these areas were above average, their percentage was less than half the Big Spring increase.

Ivie said the aim of the project from the water district's point of view is to increase rainfall by such quantities that runoff will help fill reservoirs.

But he noted that the potential for farmers and ranchers goes far beyond runoff for lakes.

Ivie said that the last five years, with the possible exception of one, had seen above average agriculture yields as well.

By 1980, the water district hopes that records will show that rainfall increased by 10 to 15 percent during the growing season.

But he noted that the project is confined by the Texas Water Quality Board to a 14-county operating area with the target area being even smaller.

Ivie said that the last five years, with the possible exception of one, had seen above average agriculture yields as well.

By 1980, the water district hopes that records will show that rainfall increased by 10 to 15 percent during the growing season.

Ivie said that experiments were being done in many places to find a winter method.

Also addressing the Rotary Club was John Girdzus, meteorologist and project manager, who explained the technical aspects of how seeding cumulus clouds with silver iodide works.

Coahoma swim pool application discussed

COAHOMA — A discussion of an application to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for a swimming pool in Coahoma will be held at the council meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Jerry Tschauer, representing the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council, plans to be on hand to assist the city councilman with their application which they hope to get into Austin during the month of June.

Even if all of the reviews of the application are approved, it would be the summer of 1977, or possibly later before it could be completed.

Mayor Joe Swinney has been to Austin this week to talk to the State Utilities Commission in connection with filing a service area request. All cities were required to present maps and listings of all utilities allotted by the city to the commission. It was not known at City Hall if this was the sole purpose of the mayor's visit to the commission, but the item is included on the agenda.

Other items include a discussion of an arson reward and a fire marshal ordinance, both of which would reduce fire insurance rates.

The council plans to discuss a rural sewer system ordinance and need for iron porch braces at the American Legion Hall.

New Mexico Military Institute

Four local cadets home for summer

Four Big Spring youths are among the cadets of New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell, N.M., who are home for the summer after concluding the 1975-76 school year as members of the Corps of Cadets. They are Cadets Nathan Hart, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hart of 502 Washington; Lloyd S. Hunnicutt, the son of Mrs. Charles S. Hunnicutt of 610 Highland Drive; Vernon A. Blewett, the son of Mrs. Pat Blewett of 610 W. 16th Street; and Bruce K. Christich, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Christich of 1307 Colby Avenue.

The corps participated in the Institute's 83rd commencement exercises for 238 graduating cadets on Saturday, May 15, and the traditional final week activities, which are noted for their military pomp and circumstance as well as for their emphasis on academic achievement. Highlights of commencement week included ROTC and academic scholarship awards assembly, the final ball, a final review and parade of the year, and the final formation on Saturday morning for commencement exercises.

Featured speakers for the graduation exercises were the Honorable Jerry Apodaca, governor of New Mexico, Captain Alva D. Brownfield III, class of '66, and Texas State Senator H.

Tati Santiesteban, class of '56. Baccalaureate speaker was the Rev. Roy Wheaton Cole III, associate pastor of St. James Episcopal Church, Woonsocket, R.I.

Cadet Hart, a President's List scholar and Eagle Scout, was a member of Phi Theta Kappa and the boxing team, and a Best Cadet in drill competition. He will be a college sophomore in the fall, having completed his first year at NMMI.

Cadet Hunnicutt was named to the Commandant's List and received the Basic Physical Fitness Test Award. He will be a high school senior in the fall, and has just ended his second year at NMMI.

Cadet Blewett, a President's List scholar and member of the Chess Club is a Speech Club officer and participated in several speech tournaments the past year. During the three years he has attended NMMI he has been a member of the Student Publications staff, was named to the Dean's List and was recipient of the NMMI Foundation Scholarship. He will be a high school senior in the fall.

Cadet Christich, a President's List scholar and member of the National Honor Society, received the Jesse Mechem Memorial Scholarship and was a Bronco tennis letterman. He will be a college sophomore in the fall and has attended NMMI one year.

Carson talks to hometown graduates

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP) — Television talk show host Johnny Carson told graduating seniors at his high school alma mater that he came to town for several reasons.

"And the most important was to see if they changed the movie at the Granada Theater any more often than they did when I was here."

Carson, host of NBC's Tonight Show, was the principal speaker at commencement exercises Sunday night for 120 Norfolk High School seniors.

A 1943 graduate of the school, Carson said, "I think there's a great advantage in growing up in a smaller community because you have a lot more personal relationships." Norfolk is a northeast Nebraska farming community of 16,000.

HOW TO COUNT KILOWATTS AND CONSERVE POWER

Average KWH used monthly.

Energy conservation is difficult without some idea of how much electricity is required for each appliance. While there are ways to save money on almost any appliance by judicious use, heating and cooling offer the greatest potential for saving. Setting your thermostat at 78 degrees in summer and 68 degrees in winter can mean a very substantial saving on your power bill.

Your member-owned Electric Cooperative offers this reminder. If we each use electricity carefully, there will be enough for us all.

QUERETARO, Mexico — One of the most Americanized of cities in interior Mexico, if that is an asset, is Queretaro — situated northwest of Mexico City on a modern, toll road. Heavily industrialized, Queretaro is located on flat land and boasts wider thoroughfares than most Mexican cities.

Not far from downtown Queretaro, the gentle, aristocratic Emperor Maximilian was dispatched by Mexican patriots. The armies of the revolutionaries had chased Maximilian's troops out of Mexico City and caught up with him here. Benito Juarez, president-in-exile of the Mexican republic, did not specifically decree that Maximilian be shot but Gen. Mariano Escobedo, who took him prisoner, used a liberal interpretation of the law that the nobleman had violated the rights of Mexicans and ordered that he forfeit his life before any of Escobedo's superiors could rule otherwise.

QUERETARO'S CHAPEL ON THE BELL'S HILL. Maximilian was killed near spot

A great statue Juarez, complete with a marble base and an esplanade, dominates a Queretaro park. A small chapel built by, of all people, the Austrians and donated to the Mexicans, is located immediately below Juarez's statue and contains pictures of the events that led to Maximilian's demise.

Griffiti on the walls of a school located nearby, scrawled by students, protest the 1968 arrest of demonstrating students who are still in Mexican prisons. If Mexico has a better guide than Bernard Forat, a native of France, I would like to meet him. Bernard, employed by the Mexican Travel Bureau, spent a week with a group of travel writers who toured central Mexico recently. He appeared better versed on Mexican history than most college history professors. Forat is paid approximately 90,000 pesos a year by the bureau, which amounts to about $7,200 in American money. He lives quite well. Divorced, he lives in a small apartment close to his work. His salary enables him to maintain a cook-housekeeper, an ancient who herself is not covered by Mexico's excellent Social Security plan.

Forat, possessed of a charming Charles Boyerish accent, keeps a small car, which he used occasionally to slip out of town for some fishing. Forat has tremendous respect for Charles DeGaulle, leader of the French resistance forces during World War II, mainly for the way he handled himself and won over the Mexican people on a visit there not long before his death.

The travel group also was privileged to benefit from the services of perhaps the greatest bus driver in Mexico, if not the world. He is Abraham Vasquez Rodriguez, who handled a 32-passenger bus on the narrow, winding streets of some of Mexico's smaller towns as if it were an economy car. After a 500-mile trip, some of the writers were willing to bet that the bus bent in the middle when it had to.

San Miguel de Allende, named for one of the heroes of the Mexican revolution, has a sizeable colony of artists. One of them is Harold Black, who with his wife, moved to an hacienda high above San Miguel's town square, years ago from New York City and likely never will return. Black's style reminds one faintly of Picasso. He is also one of the Western Hemisphere's leading teachers of horsemanship, perhaps is better known in Europe than in Mexico for that reason.

Black's wife, Lois, is a writer, having authored nine books. A former editor of Glamour Magazine, she stays busy these days operating a small shop in downtown San Miguel. Diego Riviera, perhaps Mexico's best known muralist, is from Guanajuato.

The swankiest hotel in San Miguel is owned by the famed Mexican comedian, Cantinflas (he played in "Around the World in 80 Days"). If there was ever much doubt, there are pictures of him all over the walls of the hotel's foyers to remind visitors.

Trees located around Hotel Jurica outside Queretaro are painstakingly groomed by gardeners who know their business. They're trimmed in the shape of stage coaches and horses, flamingos, birds in flight, elephants, men and etc.

Most of the hotel rooms in this particular area of Mexico benefit from electricity but each is equipped with a candle, just in case. Carry your own matches, however. Not many hotels furnish either matches or wash rags to customers.

Lots of American students have been seen in Mexico and it's obvious many are on marijuana and some of them thrive on the excitement smuggling is supposed to offer. If more could get a look at the inside of a typical Mexican jail, they might not be so bold, however.

Many of the shops in Mexico do a lively business in little silver ornaments shaped like various parts of the human anatomy — the liver, heart, an arm or a leg. Many of the Mexicans buy them and take them to a church to hang on an ornamental appointment, reasoning an ailment concentrated in that part of the body can be cured through prayer.

Civil War relic returned

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — A bit of Civil War history is being returned to the Spotsylvania, Va., courthouse thanks to a Gonzaga University law professor. Gerard Magavero, a professor and law librarian at the Spokane university, said he's returning a law book pillaged from the courthouse 113 years ago by Union soldiers. The book was published in 1820 and deals with state laws enacted from 1756 to 1763.

Don't let lips decide feelings

DEAR ABBY: I must take exception to your statement: "The mouth is an erogenous zone, reserved for one's lover—or for mouth-to-mouth resuscitation."

The mouth is an erogenous zone ONLY if one wants it to be. Otherwise it has no more emotion than the back of your hand. My family is not what might be called a family of kissers. However, I've kissed my sisters, father, mother and even my daughters on the mouth, and none of us ever regarded it as anything other than a warm greeting, which was the way it was intended.

Now, I have kissed many girls (and of course my wife) on the mouth when I had amorous intentions and found that they can respond as they feel. It has nothing to do with the "lip contact"—only the intentions of the two parties, which must be mutual and simultaneous.

I trust that you will give this further thought and agree with my view.

KISSIN' PHIL

DEAR PHIL: A kiss is just a kiss, unless it is otherwise intended. But the erogenous zone is a dangerous place to decide which is which.

DEAR ABBY: My father says that I have to ask you what you think the punishment should be for the crime I committed. I stole some money from my parents.

So whatever you say, I will have to do. I am 12 years old. GUILTY IN CLIFTON, N.J.

DEAR GUILTY: Pay back the money out of your allowance or work for it. Ask the Lord's forgiveness and write, "I will not steal" 100 times. And vow NEVER to steal again.

DEAR ABBY: We recently announced that our daughter is being married at a large church wedding on June 26th. A friendly neighbor phoned and asked at what time our wedding was scheduled. I told her 2 P.M. Then she told me that HER daughter was being married the same day at 5 P.M. and asked if she could use our flowers.

I didn't know what else to say, so I said yes. When I told my husband, he said I should have told her if she wanted to use our flowers, she should pay half the florist bill. They are just about as well off financially as we are. Now my husband wants me to ring the lady up and make that suggestion, but I haven't the nerve.

WASN'T THINKING

DEAR WASN'T: The time to have made the suggestion was when she asked to use your flowers. Although it would be rather awkward to suggest it now, do so. But remember, you already said yes.

DEAR ABBY: It tickled my funnybone to think that with all the uproar from Women's Libbers, they neglected to change MENopause to peropause.

J.E. INEL CAJON, CALIF.

DEAR J.E.: MENopause is strictly for women, and I seriously doubt if any man would insist on getting a piece of the action.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

HISTORIC CHRISTMAS TREE — The people of Borden County traditionally gather around a community Christmas tree on Christmas eve in some building in the county. The tradition was begun in the early 1900's in the Community Church, which burned in 1936. Children receive a gift during the gathering. Mrs. Christine Cunningham made a square representing the tradition. The square is one of many on the Bicentennial quilt which will be given away during the celebration in Gail May 29-30. Grandma named Coahoma?

By MARJ CARPENTER
 "Grandma probably named Coahoma," Leroy Echols said quietly this week. "There are a lot of different stories about how the town got its name but, of course, we believe the one that Grandpa Echols told."

The 80-year-old member of one of the earliest families in the area added, "Nearly everybody called him Grandpa Echols. His name was James Harvey Echols and he arrived in 1891. He went exactly two miles east of Signal Mountain and set up the Coahoma Post Office in his general store."

"When the post office needed a name, Grandma recalled Coahoma, Miss., which was the area from which they came, and they selected that name. There are a lot of people who believe it is an Indian name and it may have been — back in Mississippi," Echols continued.

Echols lives on part of the same land that was homesteaded by his grandfather and his son. "I have cleared the trees out back so that I have a good view of Signal Mountain. I think it's one of the most beautiful views in the world," Echols added.

The dignified Coahoma-area native recalled that "Grandpa played the fiddle. He'd stand on the downtown streets of Big Spring and make music. Dad played the guitar, but the musical talent ran out when it got to me."

He and his wife, the former Amy O'Daniel, have four children, including Ray Echols and Mrs. Janie Phinney, both of Coahoma, Mrs. Amy Lee Purcell of Big Spring and Mrs. Judy Lazarus of Columbia, Md.

They also have a dozen grandchildren, of whom they are very proud. Mrs. Echols comes from an interesting early family herself, and was the daughter of the late M. H. O'Daniel. Her sisters are Mrs. Mary (J.E.) Brown and Mrs. Udonia (A.C.) Bass of Big Spring and brothers were the late E. T. and O. D. O'Daniel, both of Coahoma.

The history of her father, who died in 1965 at the age of 88, includes the fact that he probably drove what was believed to be the first stagecoach between Abilene and San Angelo in 1887. He was born in Flatonia on March 31, 1867 and moved to San Angelo in 1887. Two years later he married Miss Alice Dunlap in Lytton Springs.

They ranched at Bronte and then in 1901 moved 15 miles west of Gail in Borden County, driving their cattle ahead of the wagons. In 1910, he settled on the ranch that he was to keep the remainder of his life — the home place southeast of Coahoma.

He was reported to have possessed a sixth sense when it came to judging cattle and he had an encyclopedic mind, keeping all of his records in his head. His cattle drives to railheads at Coahoma and Iatan in the old days were colorful affairs.

O'Daniel was reported to have been intimately acquainted with John (Eighty John) Wallace, legendary Negro rancher in Mitchell County, for they had been reared together. When the slaves had been freed, John Wallace's mother came to live with the O'Daniels. Later their paths crossed when they both ranched in Mitchell County. O'Daniel used to be fond of saying that after the historic drought of 1917-18, "I was worse than broke." However, he held on to his ranch and was rewarded when the Snyder oil pool was found in eastern Howard County.

O'Daniel was also one of the mainstays of the Coahoma Baptist Church and was reported to have matched each dollar of contributions when the church was built.

On the other hand, the Echols family is a mainstay of the Coahoma Presbyterian Church.

Fire kills man
 LUBBOCK (AP) — The body of P.J. Hughes, 62, was found by firemen in his burning house here Monday. Officers said he was Lubbock's fifth fire fatality of the year.

Leroy Echols and May O'Daniel were married at the Big Spring Presbyterian parsonage 55 years ago. Leroy was one of four class members in the first graduation class at Coahoma High School in 1915. The others were Vernon Guthrie, Gladys Sullivan and Ruth Shives.

During his life, he was a cowman and farmer, and at one time, from 1923-30, owned a share of the Coahoma Mercantile along with W. W. Lay and R. E. Marshall.

The family has had their moments of tragedy and their high points, but they are good solid pioneers in the Coahoma area — a combination of two of the finest pioneer families.

They go to the Presbyterian Church on Sunday. They enjoy their children and grandchildren and look out the back door toward Signal Mountain and know that life is good — in the Coahoma area.

THIRD GENERATION — Leroy Echols, 80, is the third generation of his family living near Coahoma and there are now two more generations of the same family in the area. Look closely above the horizon to the right of the gentlemanly pioneer and you see Signal Mountain, which he loves. He cleared the trees to be able to see the mountain from his back door.

Absentee voting begins for local Democrats

Today is the first of four days of absentee voting in the county clerk's office for the June 5 Democratic runoff.

The county clerk's office, along with other county departments, will be closed Monday for Memorial Day. And 5 p.m. Tuesday is the last time Democrats and those who didn't vote in the Republican primary may cast ballots in the office, County Clerk Margaret Ray said.

The office staff has mailed 54 ballots to men and women in the armed forces because of applications filed before the first primary.

Mrs. Ray said no one had voted absentee yet, and 1 p.m. election day is the deadline for mailed ballots to arrive and be counted.

Republicans do not have any candidates for state or local office here in a runoff. Democrats will be choosing between candidates for the Railroad Commission and for Court of Criminal Appeals.

Today and Tuesday also are the first and last day local opposed candidates in the first Democratic primary may file their latest campaign financial report, Mrs. Ray said.

FRED YORK

Four Coahoma old-timers were in the rear of a downtown building. "How in the world did you get in here?" one of them queried as they looked up and saw this fence rider, complete with a camera.

"I walked in," I answered. "I'm hunting an old-timer named York."

"That's me," Fred E. York stated, "I'm 80. Is that old enough?" The game reached a stopping place and he pulled a chair across the room.

"What in the world could I know?" he asked, smiling. Well for one thing, he arrived in 1919 just 55 years ago. Because of the fact that he arrived right after World War I, a lot of Coahomans call him "our sergeant York."

He moved to Coahoma from Frost. "That's near Kilgore," he explained. "I came to pick cotton for Jim Denn," he recalled. He hastened to add, "But I was a barber by trade."

"There were six barbers here in the old days. I don't know if people got more haircuts, or whether it took us longer," he mentioned.

He married Grace Westfall. They raised four kids of their own and two orphan sons of his brother. "Half a dozen," he smiled.

They include Mrs. Fred Greenfield, Mrs. Lee Millican and Ansel York, all of Coahoma, Mrs. Nelda Jo Millican, Midland; Kenneth York, a retired colonel in Montgomery, Ala., and Donald York, who lives in Spain.

York barbered some in Mitchell County at Colorado City, he barbered in Coahoma and he barbered in Big Spring. "Coahoma felt more like home to us and we ended up here," he added.

Two of his children graduated in Coahoma and four graduated in Westbrook.

York recalled that in the years when he first arrived in the area, Coahoma was mainly settled around the cattle pens by the railroad.

"People came west for various reasons, but everybody that came worked hard," York said. Then he added, "Coahoma had some shuffled the dominoes. For another game. That's how it was in the back room at Coahoma — when I was out ridin' fence this week.

Presentations were made by John Allensworth and Carla Small, co-chairmen of the BASIC group. The 30 students in the group set plans to complete their time capsule project and have delegates present it at the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

Big Springers excel at UT

Karen Gay and Sharon Kay Jenkins, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jenkins of Big Spring, are among the 391 freshmen recently initiated into the University of Texas chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, a scholastic honorary society at Austin.

The national organization chooses freshmen women who have attained a scholastic average of 3.5 grade points per semester hour in 15 hours of course work or 4 grade points per semester hour in 12 hours of work (A equals 4 points).

The organization's purpose is to recognize scholastic achievement early in a student's career and encourage further academic excellence.

Enrollment sag recorded

The final week of school continued the downward trend in enrollment, which is usual for this time of year. The total enrollment was 6,159, which is 25 fewer than the previous week.

There was a loss of 15 at the high school level and one at Goliad Junior High for a total of 16 at the secondary level. There were three fewer students at the Big Spring State Hospital.

A total loss of six in all elementary schools included a gain of four at Cedar Crest, loss of three each at Boydston and College Heights, two at Marcy and one each at Bauer and Lakeview.

Juiced-up Giants squeeze Astros

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Montanez and Bobby Murcer, two San Francisco Giants veterans suffering through a power failure, finally turned on the juice Tuesday night.

Murcer belted his third career grand-slam homer and added two singles, while Montanez cracked two singles, a double and a two-run homer, the latter in the bottom of the eighth for a 7-6 victory over the Houston Astros.

As a result, the Giants have a three-game winning streak for the first time this season as they conclude the home stand today against the Astros.

"I just tried to hit the ball hard, but I had no idea it was going out," said Montanez, who followed Murcer's one-out single with a two-out homer off relief ace Ken Forsch, 1-1, to push the Giants ahead.

Seaver gets no respect

Red hot Phils pulling away

By The Associated Press
Tom Seaver has learned how to pitch to the Philadelphia Phillies — very carefully.

"They're an extremely hot team — as hot as they can be," said Seaver. "That's about as hot a club as I've seen in a long time. Everything they hit was in exactly the right place."

The Phillies' victory was their 24th in 30 games and boosted their lead to 5½ games in the National League East over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Seaver, a three-time Cy Young winner, continued to be treated with little respect by Tommy Hutton. He had three hits Tuesday night to boost his lifetime mark against Seaver to 424.

Hutton has 14 career hits in 33 appearances and 11 RBI against the right-hander. While the Phillies continued to roll, Seaver continued to reel. The loss was his fourth straight after four victories at the start of the season.

In the other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds whipped the Atlanta Braves 10-4; the San Diego Padres stopped the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2; the Montreal Expos trimmed the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 in 11 innings; the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-2 and the San Francisco Giants beat the Houston Astros 7-6.

Hutton shared the offensive load with Jay Johnstone, who slammed four hits, including a home run, drove in two runs and scored three. The Phillies rallied from a 3-0 first-inning deficit to help unbeaten Jim Lonborg earn his seventh victory. The Phillies raked Seaver for seven runs on 14 hits before he left for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Reds 10, Braves 4
George Foster homered twice and drove in five runs for the second straight game, helping unbeaten rookie Santo Alcala win his fourth game in Cincinnati's victory over Atlanta. Foster had a three-run homer in the seventh, a solo shot in the third, and a run-scoring single in the first.

Money brings college presidents out of ivy

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — For years, the odds of a college president surfacing at an NCAA convention rivaled those of Slippery Rock winning the national football championship.

But, alas, that was before inflation and Spiro Agnew became household words. "In the last 18 months," says Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, "in the terms of a phenomenon, we actually have as many as 90 to 100 college presidents attending our meetings."

The reasons, Byers said, are twofold, which translate into money and money, but the presidential presence is of more than passing concern to coaches and athletic directors here for an NCAA media seminar.

Whether rightly or wrongly, many athletic officials fear that most conscious, uninformed university presidents will unconsciously or otherwise torpedo football, basketball and other sports programs. "The new interest by chief executives in athletics stems from two things," Byers said in an interview. "One is the economic pinch that all institutions of higher learning are experiencing. Athletic expense is part of the total institution expense, therefore they're looking at means of reducing those expenses."

Byers said that other than some 65 universities, which generate enough revenues to meet those expenses, the athletic costs have got to be met one way or another, none necessarily pleasant.

"The other reason for their intense interest in athletics is that they're having to make substantial adjustments of Title IX, which is that part of the equal rights legislation that requires equal treatment of the sexes ... equal expenditures for men's and women's athletics," Byers said.

Indy 500

Two Dragons and a Kingfish can become a royal pain

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Grant King figures his chances of winning Sunday's Indianapolis 500 are 11-1, but his odds are also three times greater of blowing an engine or crashing.

King, whose three-car team is the largest in the race, said: "Having three cars in the field is a lot harder on me, but it's also very rewarding."

Even if all three of his machines — two 1976 Dragons and a 1974 Kingfish — fail to complete even one lap, the Clermont, Ind., car builder and mechanic figures the least he can collect in prize money is $45,000, since even last place in the 33-car field pays a minimum of $14,000.

"My chances of winning are something like 11-1, but we also have three times the chance of crashing a car or three times the chance of blowing engines.

"I've spent the last couple of days just working on fueling systems — new hoses, couplings, valves, nozzles, everything. Each one of the cars has a lot of stuff that needs to be gone through — engines, radios and so forth."

"I've got to find fire clothes, pit crew uniforms, tickets, pit passes ..."

As for pit crewmen, "I have to have 33 people just to service the three race cars, you know, three scorers, three signalmen on the wall, three holding the fuel vent valve ... it just goes on and on."

Two qualify for skeet

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Brad Simmons, a Yale University sophomore, has qualified for the U.S. skeet shooting team that will go to the Summer Olympics, a Yale spokesman said Tuesday.

Simmons, of Tyler Texas, recently tied with John Satterthwaite to top 160 other competitors for the two team positions.

No tomorrow for Aeros

Jet scores in every period

WINNIPEG (AP) — Center Ulf Nilsson has played some super hockey games for the Winnipeg Jets, but perhaps none as impressive or as important as Tuesday night.

The Swedish-born Nilsson scored three goals, one in each period, to spark Winnipeg to a key 6-3 triumph over the Houston Aeros and a commanding 3-0 lead in the World Hockey Association championship.

The Jets can capture their first-ever playoff title with a victory at home Thursday night.

"It was a super performance," Winnipeg Coach Bobby Kromm said of his forward. "You couldn't ask a player to do anything more than he did tonight."

"He played super hockey, offense and defense, killed penalties, scored goals and hit people. What else is there to do?"

Nilsson victimized Gordie Howe on his first two goals and scored the vital third-period goal to give Winnipeg a four-goal lead that enabled them to coast home. Anders Hedberg, Veli Ketola and Peter Sullivan scored the other Winnipeg goals with Don Larway getting two and Mark Howe one for Houston. Winnipeg held period leads of 4-1 and 5-2 and outshot Houston 25-18 before a capacity crowd of 10,384.

Nilsson not only scored, but he also played one of his strongest defensive games as a Jet and handed out some crushing body checks not expected of him. And on more than one occasion he glared steadily into the eyes of Aeros' players, prepared to drop the gloves if necessary.

"That's not usually my game but it's all part of the game, the hard checks," the soft-spoken playmaker said of a tremendous body check he leveled on Houston captain Ted Taylor with in the first period. "He had his head down and I got my shoulder into him."

That check knocked Taylor off the puck and led directly to Hedberg's goal at 8:49 to give Winnipeg a 3-1 lead and send them on their way. "The thing about Ulf is that he seldom, if ever, misses a play," veteran linemate Bobby Hull said of his center. "The reason we come out of our own end so easily is because Ulf gets himself into position to get the puck and then never gives it away."

"Anders and I work ourselves into position and he always finds a way to hit us with the pass."

It's that type of play that makes the Winnipeg break so effective and part of the reason why Nilsson is leading all playoff scorers with 23 points, including a record-tying 16 assists.

Houston Coach Bill Dineen said puck control and conditioning were becoming the key factors in the series. "You simply can't afford to get down three goals to a team that plays as strong a defensive game as Winnipeg," Dineen said. "They have such excellent puck control. 'Tonight they were just a better team all the way around.'"

READY AND WAITING — Willie Randolph of the New York Yankees has the ball in his glove and is waiting for the sliding Charlie Moore of the Milwaukee Brewers at second base in the second inning of Tuesday night's game at Yankee Stadium.

The 'other guy' blanks Yanks

By The Associated Press
Dock Ellis gave up only four hits, struck out four and walked just one ... but

"I'm paid to win, not just to pitch well," the New York Yankees righthander said. "Tonight, the other guy was better."

The "other guy" was Milwaukee lefthander Bill Travers. He limited the Yanks to four hits, struck out seven and walked two as the Brewers nipped New York 1-up a run-scoring single to Dan Ford.

Bando's sixth homer of the season in the second inning and Williams' single with the bases loaded in the third were more than enough for the Oakland lefthander. Phil Garner had three of the A's 11 hits while Twins rookie Butch Wynegar had two of the hits off Blue, 4-5, to raise his batting average to .300.

White Sox 5, Angels 1

Pat Kelly smashed a two-run homer and Rick Gossage limited California to just six hits as Chicago won its ninth straight game, the White Sox' longest winning streak since 1973.

Brian Downing's two-out single in the eighth snapped a 1-1 tie and Chicago added four more runs in the ninth to hand Angels starter Gary Ross his sixth loss in seven decisions.

Indians 3, Orioles 1

Pat Dobson's nine-hit effort lifted Cleveland to its fourth straight victory. The Indians' defense helped seal the win as they turned in four double plays.

Lawn weeds! Who needs 'em?

It happens every year about this time in southern lawns. The weeds start coming on strong. Weeds like chickweed and bur clover. Matchweed and henbit. They can make a lawn look bad in just a matter of weeks.

But now, thanks to Scott's new Turf Builder® Plus 2 you can clear out 47 kinds of lawn weeds easily and surely. Just spread it on your lawn, and it goes right to work on weeds. Makes them curl up and gradually disappear — roots and all. At the same time Plus 2 gives your grass a full Scott's feeding. It's a prolonged feeding too, the kind that lasts for weeks and weeks. Result? Weeds fade away as your grass grows greener and sturdier. And you suddenly become proud of your lawn once again — without those weeds that no one really needs.

Air Show features aerobatic pilot

The first local Jaycee Air Show will be held May 30 at the Howard County Airport, featuring Lowell Haack, well-known aerobatic pilot who has been actively flying airshows for the past five years.

The event is scheduled from 2-5 p.m. Sunday with June 13 set as an alternate date in case of adverse weather. Admission is $1.50 for adults, $1 for children under 12 and children through six are admitted free.

Haack's airshow routine has been characterized by past and present masters as showing a 'daring style similar to that of the Europeans and our own early barnstormers in America.

Lowell will be accompanied by Sam Burgess, a retired colonel and ex-fighter pilot who has been actively engaged in sport aerobatics since leaving the Air Force. He is the 1972-73 Ontario, Canada and AAA aerobatic champion.

The duo will perform one solo act each, one dual act and a possible surprise act. Two trophies will be awarded at the Air Show. One will go for a flour bombing contest which will be held at 10:30 a.m. and one will be awarded in the paper cutting contest during the afternoon.

In the first contest, the pilots drop small sacks of flour at an oil drum. In the second contest, they drop out an unrolled roll of toilet tissue and see how many times they can cut it before it hits the ground.

A hot air balloon will be on hand and Fred Stella of Midland will take it up, if the weather allows. Hi-Sky Radio Control Club will bring model airplanes which will be flown between other acts. E. J. Gardiner of Midland is president of this group.

There will be door prizes for both pilots and visitors. The Jaycees-ettes will have a concession stand at the event. The public is urged to attend, according to the Ken Johnson, general chairman. "The success of this show will help us decide whether to hold one each year," Johnson added.

HEADING FOR BIG SPRING — Lowell Haack, labeled by his peers as the "Young Prince of Aerobatics" will be at the Big Spring Air Show Sunday. The Jaycees are sponsoring the event with the main show between 2-5 p.m. at the Howard County Airport.

Blessed singleness

By WILFRID M. CALNAN, DIRECTOR
Howard County Family Service Center

Do parents, and does our culture, always offer the choices of family life to our children as they mature? Sometimes, it seems to me, that there are pressures placed upon young people to marry, rather than to show them that they have a choice that can be healthy and good. That choice I suggest, is marriage or a "blessed singleness." Note the choice of these words and the order in which they are placed.

During my counseling experiences, I have seen many couples who, at first, could not say why they had married. As I persisted with my question, one spouse, usually the wife, would respond, "I was expected to marry", or "All the other girls were getting married", or "I was afraid that I would lose my opportunity", or some of the responses that I have received. And now, a decade or so later, the couple would be unhappy, perhaps even miserable.

Sometimes, there have been stigmas to being single. A stereotyped view that remaining single is not natural, not healthy, has tended to prevail. People over thirty and still not married might be viewed with prejudice. Indeed, until a very short time ago, it was difficult for a single woman in Texas to acquire real property. Likewise, single women have often found it difficult to secure credit. It is good that some of these attitudes are being moderated.

Some of the happiest people I know are single. I have known men and women who have chosen the celibate life of the priesthood or the sisterhood. In their own way, they had a family life—their associates and the people they served in their mission. Frequently, they had developed enviable relations as adult children to their own parents.

Beyond these people, I have single friends in the secular world who have rich family lives. There is Marie, a dedicated social worker, who would not leave the community where she works because it would mean leaving her "family"—close friends with whom she shares her life and who share their lives with her.

Until recently, I did not know that Isabel had ever been married. After her marriage failed, obviously, without bitterness or rancor, she accepted the possibilities of the single life. She lives a full existence. There are her professional interests. She is influential among political figures. Her leisure-time pursuits are varied and fulfilling. Most of all, she has relationships with dozens of friends. They accept that they are her family.

K. A. is another friend of mine. He has dedicated himself to a life of service to his fellowmen, is energetic and enthusiastic. At least twice a year, he flies off to be with his family many thousands of miles away. They are not related to him, but they are his family. I find him most personable. It is good to be around him.

I have noticed with all these people their happiness, their freedom, the constructiveness of their lives. It is refreshing to be around them. They always give so much and I find myself responding in kind.

As the years go on and as we grow wiser, I hope mothers and fathers will offer to their children the options of marriage or "blessed singleness." There are signs that our society will confirm this option and all of us will be better for it.
