Hays steps down as panel chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays stepped down today as chairman of the House Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee until the investigation of his role in a payroll-scandal is completed.

Hays said he was relinquishing control of the committee to avoid putting "an unnecessary and unwarranted burden on my fellow Democratic candidates."

The congressman said he is confident he will be vindicated.

But the Ohio Democrat said he did not want "to have my name on a check which might be used as a campaign issue against any Democratic candidate." The committee distributes campaign funds to Democratic congressional candidates around the country.

Stepping down marks the first serious blow to Hays' leadership position since a woman charged that he put her on his House Administration Committee payroll to be his mistress.

In making his announcement, Hays also said, "I have also decided to call a meeting of the Committee on House Administration to discuss with them any questions concerning my role as chairman of the House Administration Committee."

He said he will call a meeting of the campaign committee next Wednesday for the election of a temporary chairman to replace him.

"Although the charge against me has yet to be substantiated by credible evidence, I am confident that when all the facts are presented at the proper time and in the proper forum, it will be obvious that the charge against me will be shown to be false," Hays said. He accepted no questions from reporters.

Meanwhile, the woman who made the charge against Hays, Elizabeth Ray, denied a Chicago Tribune report that says she told federal agents she tape recorded bedroom intimacies with 13 congressmen and two senators, and that she dated official White House photographer David Kennerly.

"I did not make any accusation like that at any time," Miss Ray told CBS

Wayne Hays, in a copyrighted story, said the recordings included: —A well-known senator whose pillow talk in Miss Ray's apartment revolved around the adventures of his grandchildren. —A congressman whose name is a household word who talked compulsively while he was with her. —One House committee chairman who asked the 33-year-old woman to submit to bondage during his liaison.

Cash register looted

Armed bandit strikes, clues tough to find

By DANNY REAGAN

For the second time this week, the Big Spring police were called to the scene of an armed robbery of a 7-11 store.

Jerry Fisk, the employe on duty at the time, alerted local police that at a few minutes past 11 Wednesday night a white male about 5'9" tall, approximately 180 pounds, with black bushy hair and about 30 years old walked into the store located at 2310 Wasson Road and pointed a gun at him.

"Take the money out, put it in the sack and open the safe," the robber is reported to have said.

Fisk was unable to open the safe, leaving the bandit with merely the money in the cash register, estimated at $100-$150. The suspect then took Fisk to the back room, where the attendant remained for three minutes before notifying the police.

The escape route taken by the gunman was undetermined. Police have no fingerprints or definite leads at this time.

In the previous armed robbery of the 7-11 store on 902 Willia early Tuesday morning, detectives are investigating possible prints taken from a magazine the suspect handled during the robbery.

Chief of Police Stanley Bogard, in discussing the holdup this morning said, "We are fortunate that we don't have as many armed robberies as Midland and Odessa."

Bogard was referring to the fact that Big Spring has a number of vulnerable sites located on the outskirts of interstate 20 and on Highway 87 that could be inviting to armed thugs.

Capt. Sherrill Farmer, in the same conversation said, "Midland and Odessa have them (armed robberies) practically every day and night."

Bogard noted that "We've had a pretty good batting average on catching armed robbers." Farmer added that he feels the Big Spring police's past clearance record on armed robberies is "about 98 per cent."

Lt. Jim McCain advised that Detective J. D. Carter would probably be assigned to the investigation, and that Carter would not doubt be looking for a suspect unconnected with the first holdup.

"This is definitely a different person from the first one," stated McCain. "The descriptions from the victims indicate that this would be the case."

In discussing the fact that the employes of 7-11 stores do not have the combination to the store safe, and that they are not allowed to keep more than about $150 in the register, McCain observed, "I just can't see why a man would take a chance on going to the penitentiary for life for a mere $150."

But if the local police maintain their "batting average," the armed suspect, along with his compatriot in crime (the first armed robber), will no doubt see the inside of the "pen."

1,501 residents prohibited from casting votes Saturday

The 1,501 Howard County residents who voted Republican in the May 1 primary are prohibited from casting ballots in the Democratic runoff Saturday.

Trying to cross party lines in this manner during one year is a misdemeanor punishable by up to a $2,000 fine, one year in jail or both.

The 4,770 Democrats voting May 1 and those not voting in either primary may cast ballots Saturday. But, if absentee voting totals are indicative of the interest, not many will.

Of the May 1 Democratic ballots, 338 were cast absentee. With 44 ballots mailed but not returned only 37 had voted absentee this morning in the runoff, County Clerk Margaret Ray said.

State Rep. Jon Newton, Beeville, and Jerry Sadler, a former state land commissioner from Austin, face each other in bids for nomination to the Texas Railroad Commission.

W. T. Phillips, a Waco attorney, and Carl Dally, a commissioner for the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, are seeking the nomination for this appellate court.

There will be four polling places

Saturday, one in each county commissioners precinct. Look on your voter registration certificate for your box number:

COUNTY PRECINCT ONE — North Side Fire Station; includes voting boxes 1, 8, 12, 13 and 17.

COUNTY PRECINCT TWO — Washington Elementary School; includes voting boxes 2, 9, 10, 15, 18 and 21.

COUNTY PRECINCT THREE — Eighteenth and Main Streets Fire Station; includes 3, 16 and 19.

COUNTY PRECINCT FOUR — Fourth and Nolan Streets Fire Station; includes 4, 6, 7, 11, 10 and 22.

The polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m., and punch-card ballots will be used.

Local tax appraisal agency model for state legislation

The tax appraisal agency which serves local governments in Howard County is the prototype of appraisal agencies required in proposed legislation.

This information came from John R. Kennedy, a research analyst employed by the Texas Research League, a private, nonprofit organization in Austin.

The Peveto bill, named for Rep.

Wayne Peveto, calls for a "unitary approach of all taxing jurisdictions in the county," Kennedy said. All Howard County-based local governments, except the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1, participate in the tax appraisal program here.

Tax appraisers all over Texas would use the same manuals and schedules in setting property values under the proposed legislation, Kennedy said.

Boards of equalization could appeal values set by the countywide appraisal office to a state agency, the Austin man said.

The state comptroller opposed assigning the property tax administration functions to his office, Kennedy said. Kennedy thought the idea of establishing a new state agency for this work might be developed at the next session of the legislature.

Kennedy, who met with County Commissioners Court Wednesday, said he has interviewed Carlton Harry, senior appraiser for the local tax appraisal office. He planned to meet with various local tax assessor-collectors before leaving today.

The researcher is collecting information for the Property Tax Recodification Subcommittee of the Texas Legislative Council, the research arm of the Texas Legislature.

In meeting with the court, which was sitting as the board of equalization, Kennedy offered several observations:

— Stocks, bonds and bank deposits ("intangibles") could be taxed on the basis of income easier than as a property. "If you go to an income-type tax on intangibles, it wouldn't make any difference where the investments are placed."

— Do many local governments tax individuals' automobiles? "Not very many, no."

— Recreational vehicles and boats are taxed few places, also. Many of the local governments which do tax this kind of property have resort areas and lakes within their boundaries.

— And the Texas Research League is the organization which conducted a study of consolidating local government functions in Howard County in 1971.

Commissioners informed

County oil roll value due to increase $2.5 million

County Commissioners Court was told the total oil roll value will increase by about $2.5 million ("true market value") this year over last.

James Rapier of Pritchard & Abbott, the evaluation engineer firm which prepares the mineral tax roll for Howard County, made this estimate Wednesday.

The court was meeting as a board of equalization for oil properties but heard no complaints from any oil firms about the values set by Pritchard & Abbott, Odessa.

The 1975 county tax roll reflected a 100-per-cent or "true market value" for taxed property here of $436.5 million. Of this amount, more than half of the value, $225.3 million, was listed on the oil roll.

The rest of the taxed property is appraised by the local joint tax appraisal office. Carlton Harry, senior tax appraiser for this real and personal property, was unable to estimate how much these tax values would total.

Tax appraisers set values parcel by parcel, Harry said, and keep no running total. But he believed new construction would push the total of this taxable property up a "pretty nice chunk."

Texas Rangers hunt 'cowboy'

SAN ANGELO (AP) — A Department of Public Safety helicopter joined a search today in the hilly country of Coke County for a parole violator believed to be armed and on horseback.

A DPS spokesman identified the man as Charlie "Cowboy" Wall, who was convicted of a felony theft here in 1975.

Sheriff deputies from Coke and Tom Green counties and Texas Rangers were participating in the search.

Big Spring building permits valued at $3,131,929 issued

Building permits in Big Spring for the month of May were down almost 50 per cent from the corresponding month a year ago but value of permits for the year remained well above the figure for the first five months of 1975.

Construction costs for May of this year were set at $294,059, compared to $382,060 for the same month last year.

because of the start of construction of the new coliseum at Howard College.

A total of 25 building permits were issued last month, compared to 36 in May 1965. Through five months this year, a total of 160 building permits had been issued, three fewer than for the same period a year ago.

The May figures include three new residences. Carlton Harris is building a $49,000 residence at 705 Capri. Jack Gotcher asked for a $55,000 permit for a new home at 801 Scott. A new home being built by Roy C. Brooks at 1603 Phillips Road will cost $33,689, according to estimates.

Wayne Baden applied for a $23,000 permit to build a new commercial building at 608 Gregg St.

The Baker Methodist Church applied for a $17,000 permit to remodel its building at 911 N. Lancaster.

Reporter near death after auto bombed

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The condition of a newspaper reporter injured in what police said was a gangland-style attempt on his life was reported deteriorating early today.

Don Bolles, 47, an investigative reporter for the Arizona Republic, was injured critically Wednesday when a bomb exploded in his car, police said. Bolles' right leg was amputated above the knee during five hours of surgery.

Police said there was no doubt the explosion outside the Clarendon House Hotel in north-central Phoenix was a deliberate attempt to murder the reporter. Paramedics, who rushed to assist the injured man, said he told them he was "working on a Mafia story."

The Republic and the Phoenix

Gazette offered a $25,000 reward for information about the incident, and the state put up another $1,000.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Babbitt said he interpreted the bombing as an act by someone trying "brazenly to intimidate the entire community."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Truck parking

Q. Is there a city ordinance prohibiting tank trucks from parking in residential areas? With numerous truck explosions reported in the United States, it's kind of scary.

A. "Vehicles over 21 feet long are not permitted to park in residential areas," said James Gregg, city attorney.

Gregg also explained that no vehicle is permitted to park on any city street for over 72 hours. Other than these ordinances, there are no other residential parking restrictions.

Offbeat: Tourist course

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland State University is offering a course this summer for persons interested in becoming successful tourists.

The course, titled "Traveling Abroad," is explained this way in the school's brochure:

" Oftentimes tourists are classed along with those who travel in their own country. That could be anyone from politicians or judges to bill collectors or bandits. Tourists are still thought of as foreigners even though they may be well accepted."

Best bet on TV: Bond spoof

A classic in comedy can be seen on the independent channel 11 tonight at 9. The 1967 release, "Casino Royale," starring David Niven, Ursula Andress, Woody Allen, Joanna Pettit and Peter Sellers, is a James Bond comedy spoof written by Ian Fleming concerning the efforts of a semi-retired Bond to crush a SMERSH plan to take over the world. Bond finds an ally in his daughter by Mata Hari, and a foe in his nephew, Jimmy Bond. Meanwhile, spies and gags run rampant until the surprise ending.

Tug sinks during storm

HOUSTON (AP) — A search was to resume today on the Houston Ship Channel for a tugboat captain.

Don Henderson, 36, was swept down the rain-swollen channel Tuesday when the tugboat Sheryl sank in 30 feet of water during thunderstorms that lashed the area. An all-day search Tuesday failed to locate the missing crewman.

Two other men aboard the 41-foot vessel, owned by Bacon Towing Co., of Houston, were picked up by other barges.

Deaths

Mrs. Helen Gill

Mrs. Helen K. Gill, 83, formerly of Big Spring, died in the Southmore Hospital in Pasadena, Tex., May 26, word here has been received.

Mrs. Gill had made her home with a niece, Mrs. Lorena Brown of 1509 Willowview Drive, La Porte, Tex.

She was preceded in death by four brothers and a sister. Her sister, Mrs. T. B. Smith of Abilene, succumbed only two weeks before Mrs. Gill died.

Other survivors include three other nieces and five nephews. Her husband, C. L. Gill, died in December, 1970.

Eulogy was said by Eugene Cardinal, a Church of Christ minister, at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home in Big Spring. She was buried in Trinity Memorial Park in Big Spring Thursday, May 27.

Wanda Wood

LAMESA — Services for Wanda Lou Wood, 42, of Lamesa were held at 10:30 a.m. today in Crestview Baptist Church here.

Officiating were the former pastor, the Rev. Dorman Kinard, and the Rev. Buster Griggs, pastor.

Burial followed in Lamesa Memorial Park under the direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Wood died of an apparent heart attack Monday in Frio Hospital in Pearsall.

A native of Robert Lee, she lived in Dawson County many years prior to moving to Pearsall five months ago.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Lieta Wilson, Andrews, and Mrs. Linda Moore of Denver City; a son, Dale of Andrews; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Schooler, Lubbock; a sister, Mrs. Bobbie Love, Lamesa; a brother, J. L. Schooler, Morton; and two grandchildren.

nasty over the past 24 hours. A bellicose man was reported to be causing a disturbance at the College Park 66 Service Station a little after midnight Wednesday.

Officer Raymond Hall went to the scene and promptly cooled off the sanguine man by arresting him on a traffic warrant.

Shortly after that incident, unknown criminal mischiefs drove by R. J.'s Lounge in a tan vehicle and threw a rock through the front window. The hole was not large enough for entry to be made.

Within the next thirty minutes, two rowdy Big Springers were arrested for public intoxication.

Earlier in the night, another disturbance was broken up by police in the 100 block of Lockhart.

In a reported theft, Joyce E. Alexander, 1507-A Lexington, notified police that someone had broken down her backyard fence and stolen two dogs.

Taken was a six-month-old female Samoyed named "Chako," valued at $150, and a six-week-old male German Shepherd, valued at $50.

Truman Jones, manager of Park Hill Terrace Apartments, reported that his office had been broken into for the second time in a week.

It is unknown at this time if anything was taken.

Commissioners, civic chiefs mull airport

County Commissioners Court discussed denial of a lease at Howard County Airport and local airline service with the Chamber of Commerce transportation committee Wednesday afternoon, spokesmen said.

County Commissioner Ikie Rupard called it a "free discussion of business people" about airport issues.

Rupard, County Judge Bill Tune and Commissioner William B. Crooker Jr. said they did not get any consensus of opinion from the civic leaders.

"We just kind of kicked it around and didn't reach any agreement, of course," said Commissioner Jack Buchanan. Also, the county officials and chamber officials discussed the possibility of the county taking over airport management and terminating the only present lease, Buchanan said.

Commissioner Simon (Cy)

Terrazas, the only member of the court to favor granting Louis Rosenbaum a lease, said "no comment" to a reporter's questions today.

Rosenbaum, the El Paso resident who is president of Trans Regional Airlines, protested to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) when commissioners court denied him a fixed-base operator's lease. Big Spring Aircraft Inc. has been granted "exclusive rights" as the only fixed-base operator, the FAA has ruled.

The FAA is preparing a letter notifying county officials of this "non-compliance" with FAA grant agreements. From the date of this letter until and unless the court complies with FAA regulations, Howard County will be ineligible for FAA grants and surplus property.

A notice of the meeting Wednesday was not posted as required by state law.

MECHANIZED BATH — Frances Doshier, R.N., prepares to give patient John W. Adams, Jr. from Winters a bath in the fully automated bathtub in the new nursing unit at the Veterans Administration Hospital. At no time during the process does the patient have to be lifted by personnel.

New 40-bed unit at VA Hospital draws praise

Solarium provides breathtaking view

By DANNY REAGAN
The Veterans Administration Hospital has opened a new 40-bed unit on the sixth floor which will house patients requiring skilled nursing care who have rehabilitation potential and who will need the services offered on the unit only for a preplanned length of time.

A 30-bed nursing home care unit was closed last June when renovation began, and the new unit, costing $327,000, was constructed by the firm of Allied Steel Erectors Company of Abilene.

It features modern facilities such as patients' intercom system, piped in music, dining room, physical therapy unit, an open sun porch and a closed-in solarium. All new furnishings were purchased with the objective of creating a home-like atmosphere.

Staff for the unit includes a physician, registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses, nursing assistants, and a social work associate. In addition, all the services of the hospital will be offered to those patients who can benefit from them.

The emphasis in the new nursing facility is on color and ample space. Each of the different rooms is decorated with different colored furniture, curtains and bedspreads. Tests have shown that people respond positively (both psychologically and physically) to bright colors, and older people, especially, as the colors become more vivid.

Many of the rooms are extra large, much larger than any ordinary hospital room, to allow more than adequate space for personnel to handle each patient.

The unit has a linen-mobile, a new cart exchange system whereby clean linen is brought more promptly to the various rooms.

The hospital personnel, in planning this new facility, had one thought uppermost in mind. Chief nurse Verona Niegel expressed it most clearly when she said, "We wanted to make it less of a hospital."

Macrame wallhangings, hanging plants, pots, flowers, clocks, and "the little homey things" that add to the home-like atmosphere were donated by many concerned citizens.

Kay Boadle, an administration spokeswoman, said that the cash donations poured in as well from local citizens.

The entire sixth floor complex was furnished in new modern furniture, including the spacious TV lounge and large dining room. The lounge is even equipped with exercise bars, wall pulleys and an exercise bicycle, so that physical therapy can be continued even in leisure time.

A unique item of the new facility is the mechanized patient's bath, a powered chair that lifts the patient up and over into the bathtub where he remains until the bath is completed, and he is lifted out again. Staff members never have to lift the patient during the process.

Perhaps the most impressive feature of the new nursing unit is the enclosed solarium on the east end of the sixth floor. It would definitely be the best moral-boosting area of the ward. The view from the large plate glass windows is breathtaking early in the morning as the sun is coming up.

And throughout the day and night the panoramic scene of Big Spring and the surrounding foothills will no doubt be as good as medicine to the sick.

To date, 10 patients have been brought up to the unit for potential rehabilitation. Each applicant is screened before a committee, and their needs are met individually.

The new nursing unit is one of the best and most modern of any VA hospital in the nation, and the many long hours put in by the staff and personnel of the hospital and the money and services of numerous Big Spring residents has added another fine service for the people of the surrounding area.

Farm Cattle outlooks sometimes vary

COLLEGE STATION — The outlook for the cattle industry varies somewhat depending on the source you wish to pursue.

Two varying viewpoints on the cattle situation are offered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Dr. Ed Uvacek, a livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Both the USDA and Uvacek predict that cattle prices will continue to go up through the spring. It is on the degree of price rise and the length of the price rise upon which they differ.

Uvacek says an increase in marketings and slaughter of calves, yearlings and cull cows will begin in late June or early July, thus putting more beef on the market and resulting in lower fed cattle prices by late summer or early fall.

"Both fed and feeder cattle prices will turn downward toward the end of the April to June period after early spring gains. Further drops are expected between July and September," believes Uvacek. "The last quarter of the year should find prices averaging somewhere in the $38 to $42 range."

Contrary to this view, the USDA is predicting a decrease in the slaughter of cows, heifers and non-fed cattle which, officials say, would cause a reduction in total beef output and would push fed cattle prices into the mid-to-upper $40's this summer. Prices would continue in the mid-$40's for the last quarter of the year as well.

Furthermore, the USDA is predicting possible increases in cow and feeder cattle prices because of a smaller cow herd.

Farm markets

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Cattle quotations Thursday. Not enough sales carcass beef to establish price trends.

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were lower in midday dealings today.

Profit taking following recent advances depressed futures prices, brokers said.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16 inch spot cotton advanced 63 points to 65 1/2 cents a pound Wednesday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday prices were 95 cents to $1.25 a bale lower than the previous close: July 48.74, October 49.66, and December 48.50.

Magna Carta displayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An original copy of the Magna Carta, the 761-year-old document that marked an early triumph for individual liberty over big government, is going on display in the U.S. Capitol. A delegation from the British Parliament planned to deliver the document to Congress today as a loan in honor of the Bicentennial. The Magna Carta will be displayed in the Capitol Rotunda for one year, then returned to the British Library.

Admiral defies chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's top civilian cost specialist says Adm. Hyman G. Rickover is "openly defying" the secretary of defense and should be disciplined for "working to torpedo" a Pentagon plan to settle about $1.5 billion in claims by major shipbuilders. "Adm. Rickover has so arrogantly abused the power ... that has been reposed in his high office that he has forfeited the right to hold that office," said Gordon Rule, director of Navy procurement control.

Martha buried today

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — The secrecy Martha Mitchell fought as one of President Richard M. Nixon's most outspoken critics enveloped her in death today at the request of her estranged husband, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. Services were planned for today for Mrs. Mitchell, who won the nation's attention as a colorful, sometimes caustic critic of Nixon's administration. She lay in state in a covered casket, but hundreds of residents of this Arkansas River community were kept outside the locked doors of the funeral home at Mitchell's orders.

Reagan sends troops?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Ronald Reagan says that if he is elected president he might send American troops to white-ruled Rhodesia if the government there asked for help to preserve peace. Reagan also said that as chief executive he would propose legislation to prevent forced busing of students. The former California governor, challenging President Ford for the Republican presidential nomination, responded to questions about Rhodesia at an appearance Wednesday before the Sacramento Press Club.

Syrian invasion stalls

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops who invaded Lebanon two days ago to stop the civil war and preserve a Christian-Moslem balance of power were reported marking time today. The main Syrian armored column on the Damascus-Beirut highway was stopped at the Dahr el Baidar pass 20 miles east of Beirut. Lebanese Moslem forces with tanks were massed along the highway west of the pass, but there was no report of an attack by either side. Fighting between Christian militiamen and their Moslem and Palestinian foes continued in Beirut Wednesday.

Chapman, Webb airman, forming Big Spring Racing Association

Nathan Chapman, an airman at Webb AFB, is a man with a dream.

He wants to develop a really good auto racetrack near Big Spring and try to set up a top race for the area, "which could really turn into a tourist attraction."

He has obtained permission from Ike Robb to asphalt the dirt road race track at the former drive-in if he can obtain the funds.

The pharmacy technician, long interested in car racing along with his father, is hoping for the help of local businessmen and clubs in the project.

He is forming a Big Spring Racing Association and will take calls at 263-2740 in connection with the possibility of helping obtain a track.

Davis earns USU degree

LOGAN, Utah — William O. Davis Jr. has recently completed requirements for a master of science degree in political science at Utah State University.

Davis, son of Mrs. Marie Davis and the deceased Rev. William O. Davis, Reform, Ala., previously earned a bachelor's degree in political science in 1960 at Houston-Tillotson College. To complete requirements for the advanced degree, he wrote a thesis entitled "From Demonstration to Power: A Study of the Black Revolution in Greene County, Ala., from the mid 1960's to the early 1970's."

He is married to Lillie Pauline Newton, Big Spring, and they have two children. Davis plans to enter graduate school in political science at Texas Technical University, Lubbock.

Spanish king lauds constitution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spain's King Juan Carlos I said the strength of the U.S. Constitution lies in the "profoundly religious principles" upon which it rests.

"It is often because those principles were not respected that so many political regimes in the Old World, which took their inspiration from your model, did not survive for any length of time," Juan Carlos said in a toast at a White House dinner in his honor Wednesday night.

Juan Carlos, who addressed a joint session of Congress during the opening of his four-day Bicentennial visit Wednesday, planned to salute both American and Spanish heroes here today.

His schedule included laying a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

Later he and Queen Sofia planned to attend the opening of a Smithsonian Institution exhibition on Christopher Columbus and to dedicate a statue to the Spanish hero Bernardo Galvez.

Church trial

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Time Magazine's biannual essay on the vicissitudes of the Roman Catholic Church is launched with an epigraph attributed to an elderly woman parishioner of St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Ames, Iowa, "— I hope I die soon so that I can die a Catholic." The lady expresses the misgivings of many Catholics, here and abroad, though the statement of her frustration is philosophically perplexing. Rather like the story of the man whose doctor informs him that he has terminal cancer, and asks what he proposes to do. The patient reflects for a moment, and then says he will join the Communist Party. "Better one of them should go than one of us."

THE TRAVAIL of the Catholic Church is of continuing interest to non-Catholics, for reasons analogous to the curiosity Republicans feel about Democratic sentiment, in the historical knowledge that their own platform of a few years hence is being written. As Catholicism is, so is Protestantism. If you find Catholics wondering out loud about the doctrine of the Trinity, you will find more Protestants like the famous Unitarian who believes in "at most one God." At the same time, you find a growing hunger for the formal stuff of Christianity. That formal stuff is really quite simply stated in the Apostle's Creed, or whatever they decided to re-name it at Vatican II when on a rainy afternoon they ran out of more subversive ideas. It is of course the notion of the Incarnation — that's about it; all the rest is derivative, and interpretive.

Much has been written about the Christianity of Jimmy Carter. Everything evil is being imputed to his Christian belief, short only of the allegation that he is a secret Catholic. Ten years ago, they'd have been saying that about him. But nowadays to be a secret Catholic is no more arresting politically than to be a nonsecret Catholic. People do not seem to care, because Catholicism has lost so much of its distinctive flavor. "The Catholic Church of today," Clare Boothe Luce says, resignedly, "isn't the same church I joined." That is certainly true, and as its moorings weaken, so, pari passu, do the dogmatic moorings weaken of the coordinate Christian religions. Again, with the exception of fundamentalist Christianity, which it is widely assumed is what Jimmy Carter subscribes to.

What are the implications of that faith? For a President of the United States? It is very difficult to say. Consider the most pressing question: whether to use nuclear force to defend the independence of the United States. How would a Christian answer that one differently from a non-Christian? Well, we all know that there are Christian pacifists. But there are also non-Christian pacifists.

SPEAKING FOR what was in those days a fairly dutiful flock, Pope Pius XII said that some things were of "such great value" — for instance, the freedom to worship — that they could be defended "at any cost." That was interpreted as a papal blessing on the use of the atomic bomb under certain circumstances. It is not recorded that the Pope's sanction affected in any way American policy on the use of the bomb.

Suppose that the Soviet Union succeeded with a first-strike against our counterforce weaponry, leaving us merely with nuclear submarines which could potentially dump on the Soviet Union killing off 50 million Russians, but leaving us then exposed to a retaliatory strike against our population centers?

IS THERE A distinctively Christian response? Or is it unfair to construct the deductions after positing a successful first-strike by the Soviet Union? Would the Soviet Union risk a first strike if they knew the American president would instantly put his submarines into action? Is it possible for a President to do, to convince the Russians that that was exactly what he intended to do, while he secretly committing himself not to initiate mutual slaughter, if it came right down to it?

OWNERS WERE recently able to get the dilapidated old thing torn down, and once a final bit of clean-up work is completed, the area is going to look very nice.

Those old drive-ins are a plague not only upon this town but on many others in West Texas.

The drive-in theater craze began following World War II when just about everyone began purchasing automobiles, and it died in the later-1950s when almost everyone had a television set.

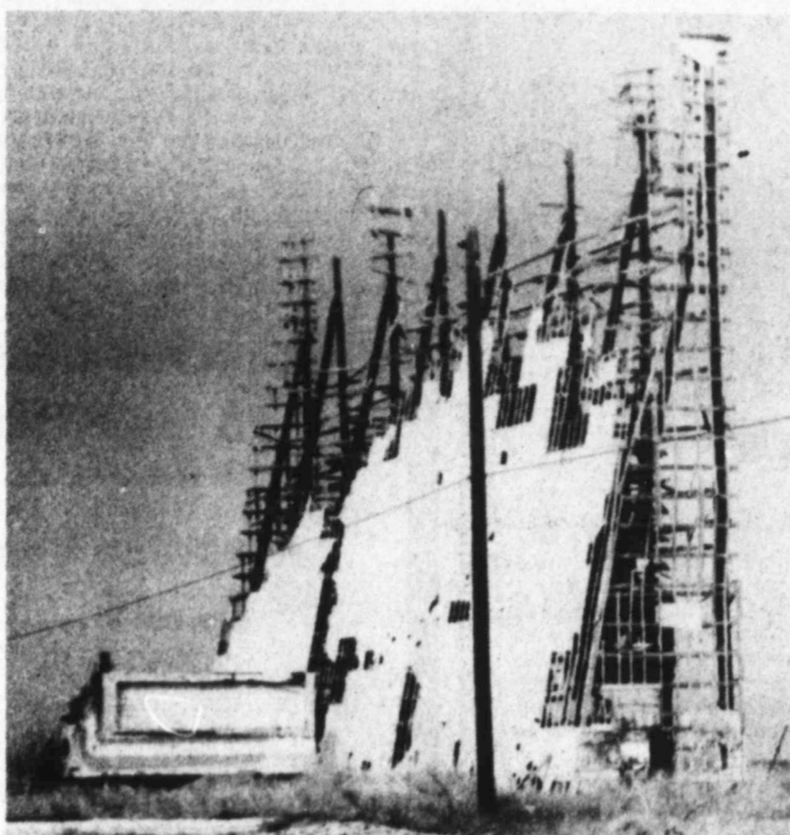

Most of them have been closed up for more than a decade, and some for as many as two decades, and they are beginning to need the attention of demolition teams.

Driving around West Texas, one sees a number of these outdoor theaters which should be removed. As an investment, they are gone. The drive-in craze will not come back to the extent that every small town can have one, and even if it did, most of the abandoned drive-ins are too far gone for any salvage effort to succeed.

THERE ARE several of them along the interstate highways, including one on Interstate 20 at Colorado City.

But at least there's no longer one at the west entrance to Big Spring.

SHELL OF OLD THEATER IS GONE

Nerves can tip allergy scale

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In the last year I have had swellings on different parts of my body, especially the face and lips. I was in a hospital for a week with a bad swelling. Tests showed nothing, but it was diagnosed as an allergy.

I have to eliminate certain foods, (chocolate, nuts, eggs, fish, citrus fruits) from my meals.

The day after I was released from the hospital the swelling appeared again. I don't know what I'm fighting. Can you give me any advice? I'm 47 years old. — Mr. A. J.

It certainly sounds like an allergy. Rather than eliminate all those foods at once, it might be best to do it systematically through an elimination diet. That is where one food at a time is left out. In this way you may be able to track down the specific offender.

You may also have to check out other notorious allergy-producing foods like wheat and milk. And you can't overlook drugs.

Allergies are pretty tricky things. Nerves can be a factor. It's not uncommon for nervousness to tip the scales and allow an allergy to specific food to pop up.

You are probably a breadwinner and understandably concerned about how all this is going to affect your work. You may have been in a nervous state when you came home from the hospital.

All of that is just guesswork, but with allergy guesswork often pays off. If you are a nervous type perhaps a mild tranquilizer will help you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 20 years old and I was 140 pounds, but went on a low-calorie diet and lost 40 pounds. I am still eating less than 1,000 calories a day. But I just can't seem to lose any more. What seems to be wrong? — S. G.

Soft-line out west

Robert Novak

LOS ANGELES — President Ford lulled Southern California audiences into stupefaction and boredom with droning platitudes this week, demonstrating a political reality of far-reaching consequences: hard-liners who wanted to lunge at Ronald Reagan's throat in his home state have lost inside the Ford campaign.

That helps explain why Mr. Ford totally ignored Reagan's challenge as his campaign limped through Orange and Los Angeles counties, the heart of Reagan country, Sunday and Monday. But Mr. Ford will not be alone on the high road. A decision late last week determined that the President's radio and television commercials would be pro-Ford rather than anti-Reagan. Moreover, local Ford supporters hitting the campaign trail as "advocates" are instructed to take the same position.

IF THIS soft line is maintained right up to the June 8 primary, California Republicans will avoid a recurrence of the 1964 bloodbath here when Nelson Rockefeller and Barry Goldwater spared no excess in assaulting each other.

But the cost of peace for the President may be losing any chance to overhaul Reagan's lead in a state Reagan must win to contest the presidential nomination at Kansas City. If this week's campaigning by the President is a fair sample, the high road may lead only to oblivion against a popular ex-governor. After watching Mr. Ford's soporific performance, some supporters here advised a second trip to California would be a wasteful big bite into the spending limit.

Scrapping the anti-Reagan theme runs counter to the view by Californian Stuart Spencer, national political director of the Ford campaign, that eight tumultuous years as governor have made Reagan highly vulnerable enclosing 25 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

in his homeland. Spencer a crafty political pro who managed Reagan's first campaign for governor in 1966, used anti-Reagan testimony by Californians in other primary states and felt it would be dynamite here at home.

EVEN AFTER Ford himself stopped assaulting Reagan following four consecutive primary losses early in May, campaign planners prepared to hit Reagan hard in California. National campaign press secretary Peter Kaye, another California with no love for Reagan, and California state coordinator David Liggett, a Spencer protege, publicly declared their intent to zero in on Reagan's record.

They envisioned, for example, several 30-second television spots with state legislators and other prominent Republicans testifying to their close association with Reagan and their belief that he is not qualified to be President. The cumulative force would dramatically align the Republican establishment against the former governor.

But a backfire ignited here in recent weeks, typified by one prominent Ford backer who told us: "I think Reagan would be a 9-to-5 president who couldn't get along with Congress — a disaster. I'm not sure I could even vote for him. But to say these things would wreck what's left of the Republican party out here."

The reason for this opinion: the party's rank-and-file, unlike the establishment, still love Ronnie. Accordingly, advice poured from Ford supporters here — including state Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger and Assembly minority leader Paul Priolo — to soft-pedal attacks on Reagan. Younger asserted a few television spots would not overcome voter impressions gleaned from eight Reagan years.

Glamor of city

Around the rim

James Werrell

There is, admittedly, a genuine excitement to living in a big city. It is an excitement born of speed and maybe danger. There is a certain thrill to being able to survive in a teeming metropolis, a pride of knowledge of a precarious existence in the concrete jungle.

THIS WAY of life, or of "getting by" in the city has been much romanticized in movies, books and songs. New York City dwellers swear by this romantic ideal. A friend of mine who was there recently said a real esprit de corps is developing in floundering Gotham.

Residents now sport signs on their cars proclaiming, "We must be great or why would they have named us twice?" or "The Big Apple isn't rotten yet."

Not to mention that New York, New York has more than its share of fine restaurants, glitter and neon, museums, colleges, entertainment, ad infinitum.

Norman Mailer in his book, "Some Honorable Men," wrote, "In American life, the unspoken way of the century has taken place between the city and the small town: the city which is dynamic, orgiastic, unsettling, explosive and accelerating to the psyche; the small town which is rooted, narrow, cautious and planted in the life-logic of the family. The need of the city is to accelerate growth; the pride of the small town is to retard it."

I have admitted to an attraction to city lights. But I think Mailer's fervent paean to the city at the expense of the small town is more or less bunk. His attitude is typical of the metropolis-dweller whose knowledge of the world ends at the city limits, who thinks everything "out there" is hicksville.

Americans are now falling over themselves to leave the cities. They have learned that neon lights go hand in hand with carbon monoxide and muggings.

The cities, unfortunately, are dying, left in the hands of those who can't afford to break out.

America is forming itself again into small communities. The rootless are searching for roots, or the illusion of roots, after years of disavowing a need for them.

But, at their best, these are not "narrow" or "cautious" roots. Potentially, any growing community will allow room for that which is "explosive and accelerating to the psyche." There is no reason why they shouldn't.

The potential of growth, not in size but in character, within the small community is great. All it takes is imagination and willpower.

MAILER IS right in some respects, though. The cities are a necessary, and often rejuvenating organism in the body of America. It would be a shame to let them die.

And Mailer is right when he says that nothing is more stifling than a small town that smothers the growth of the new and vibrant idea. Let's not allow that to happen in Big Spring.

Oil barons' legislation

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — With the arrogance of men accustomed to getting their way in Washington, the oil barons have written legislation to award themselves billions in offshore oil.

Their friends in Congress have introduced the giveaway bills as their own, often without changing a single word. We have compared legislation prepared by the oil industry with the actual bills in the legislative works. In some cases, not a comma has been disturbed.

THE GREAT offshore oil grab got as far as the House Outer Continental Shelf Committee. There, Chairman John Murphy, D-N.Y., tried to head off the oil companies. He drafted a bill which would give the taxpayers a greater share of the offshore oil revenue and would protect the sea and shore life.

But he was deluged with amendments, which tied up his bill inside the committee for months. The amendments were introduced by Representatives Hamilton Fish Jr., R-N.Y., Edwin Forsythe, R-N.J., Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., and to a lesser extent Don Young, R-Alaska.

We have now learned that many of the amendments were prepared by the American Petroleum Institute and the oil companies it represents. A sheaf of amendments was quietly delivered to the committee's GOP staff by an Institute courier. Thereafter, Republican committee members dumped the amendments upon the committee, without a word to Chairman Murphy about their oily origins.

We have obtained copies of the amendments as they came out of the typewriters of the petroleum companies. It can be seen that some of the Republican congressmen, in their haste to oblige the oil crowd, submitted the legislation without even rephrasing it. In other cases, a word or two was changed, but the pro-oil slant was left intact.

During the wrangling behind closed doors, the committee accepted some of the crippling amendments and defeated others. But the effect was to weaken the bill, which finally was forwarded to the House Rules Committee.

The oil moguls, not satisfied with the sabotage job they had already achieved, sought to torpedo the Murphy measure entirely and thus eliminate the remaining pro-consumer features. This time they lined up the Ford Administration itself to work against the bill in the backrooms.

BUT A conscientious Administration official, who believed he should serve the public and not the oil industry, tipped off Murphy's staff as to what was happening. The secret plot was spelled out in a memo, written for Murphy's eyes only. The official, whose name we have withheld to save him from reprisals, stated "that the Administration had made a definite policy commitment to try to keep the Rules Committee from granting a rule."

Without a rule, the bill couldn't be taken up on the House floor. But there might be enough pressure from consumers to force the bill out of the Rules Committee in an election year. In this case, the official warned that the Administration planned to slap backs and twist arms in the House cloakrooms.

The object is to get enough votes against the measure on the House floor that "President Ford... could veto the bill without fear of it being overridden."

One of the oil industry's most powerful backstage allies, said the memo, was Interior Secretary Thomas Kleppe. Warned the memo: The Administration has been merely "stringing us along, trying to appear cooperative. But when passage of the bill appeared imminent, they decided to make the all-out effort to kill it."

Thus, the Ford Administration has made a secret pact with the American Petroleum Institute to block the bill, which would safeguard at least some of the public rights to be offshore oil billions. Their lobbyists, joined by lobbyists from Atlantic Richfield, Exxon, Mobil and offshore drillers, are busy buttonholing congressmen on Capitol Hill.

The oil lobby has also demonstrated its power on the Senate side of the Capitol. At the instigation of the oil boys, six senators huddled to hatch a "compromise" on natural gas price deregulation.

THE OIL states were represented by Senators Henry Bellmon, D-Okla., Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., and James Pearson, R-Kan. Representing the consumers were Senators Fritz Hollings, D-S.C., Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., and Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill.

They emerged from the secret huddle with legislation that would permit the natural gas companies to triple the regulated price of newly drilled gas.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you believe America could actually be turned around spiritually? It seems to me that, like Sodom and Gomorrah, this nation has gone too far astray to ever find its way back. I have listened to you for years, and I believe you must share my view that our nation stands upon the threshold of judgment. — L.T.U.

DEAR L.T.U.: Did not the Lord say to Israel long ago: "If my people which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray... and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, will forgive their sin, and will heal their land" (II Chronicles 7:12).

I see encouraging indications that spiritual and moral revival could come to America. There is a greater searching for the reality of the supernatural in our nation than I have ever seen. Church people, once apathetic, have somehow become interested in Bible study, prayer groups, witnessing, etc. People in all churches, including Jewish and Catholic groups, have become dissatisfied with the spiritual status quo.

Even Margaret Mead said recently on a national radio forum that people are finding that a vital, meaningful faith helps to enrich their lives and helps them fight the battle of life more valiantly.

Christian groups are being formed among professional football players, on the golf tour, and in the baseball leagues. Let us hope that all this points to the possibility of our nation finding some of the spiritual resources that made our land great.

Women lend more than just money

Security State Bank's women do not live on bread alone. When they are not taking care of your financial concerns, they take time to prepare easy-to-cook lunches that can be taken to work as well as eaten at home.

Their busy day lets them indulge in such riches as nut-filled fudge for dessert without counting the calories. And any small oven will reheat the main-dish casseroles that can be prepared ahead of time. It sure beats a bologna sandwich and can feed the entire bunch.

These recipes come from the kitchens of several of Security State's accomplished cooks.

BANANA PUDDING

By SADIE WALLACE

2 eggs, separated
1 1/2 c. milk

SIX DIE IN CRASH — Fire and rescue workers inspect the burning wreckage of a light plane that crashed into the mountains south of Carlisle, Pa., Tuesday during a severe thunderstorm. Six members of the Edward Keegan family of Milford, N.J. were killed.

State attorneys too busy with Fed suits?

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. Department of Justice should make a greater effort to negotiate settlements before filing lawsuits against the states, says the president of the National Association of Attorneys General (NAAG).
Mississippi Atty. Gen. A.F. Summer says the modern attorney general is spending an inordinate amount of time battling the federal government.

"The office of the state attorney general has been transformed over the past few years from an agency handling the state's legal affairs into the storm center of federal-state litigation," he said.

Summer spoke in an interview as attorneys general from the states and U.S. territories gathered for their annual convention which begins here today.

From being just a state's lawyer, he said, the attorney general is now the state's "troubleshooter, defender and advocate in practically all matters that affect state government."

"We sometimes are fighting just to maintain our status as states, it appears," said Summer. "And we're trying to get the idea across in Washington that we are one country and that we are brothers and that it's not necessary for the multitudinous amount of litigation and orders and decrees."

One of the topics to be discussed at the convention is joint state action "to stop the federal intervention into the affairs of our states and the personal lives of our citizens," he said.

The Mississippi Democrat said the federal government is "preempting and taking control of the state's prerogatives to pass and administer its own laws and spend its own money as it sees fit without direction from the federal government or the federal courts."

He said the suits against the states are largely the result of an explosion of bureaucratic rules and regulations which are often misunderstood or misinterpreted by the states.

Summer said this "states' rights" viewpoint is shared by most of the state attorneys general and is not just a regional, Southern stand.

He cited federal lawsuits against states concerning pollution, welfare, prison reform, mental health treatment, education and tax structures.

The attorneys general at the convention will discuss problems common to their states, advise and consult each other on pending lawsuits and discuss how to improve their effectiveness in office, Summer said.

"We are all concerned about the rising crime rate and how we can help bring it to a halt," he said.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi will be the featured guest at a reception tonight. Business sessions and committee meetings begin Friday and continue through the end of the convention Sunday.

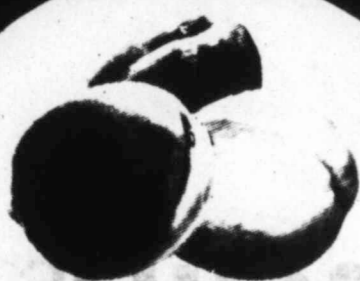

About 350 persons are expected to attend the meeting, hosted this year by Texas Atty. Gen. John L. Hill.

Birchers backing 1st District candidates?

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP) — One political observer said recently, "It's a choice of two John Birchers."

He referred to the runoff Saturday for the Democratic nominee in Texas' 1st Congressional District.

The contest marks the first time in almost half a century that there is a question as to the nominee.

Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana was often challenged but never beaten in those years and became a political way of life in this East Texas district.

Patman died earlier this year after announcing his retirement from Congress, and 10 Democrats jumped into the race. Several of them had been beaten by Patman in previous contests.

Now there are two. They are Sam B. Hall Jr.,

52, a Marshall lawyer once beaten by Patman, and Glen Jones, 35, a college professor and Methodist minister from Jacksonville, who also failed in an effort to unseat the veteran lawmaker.

Both have waved the conservative banner in the runoff campaign as they toured the sprawling 23-county district that stretches from Texarkana south to San Augustine and west to Athens.

Political observers told The Associated Press the June 5 runoff contest was too close to call. Hall apparently had the early lead, but Jones has surged in the past few weeks.

The winner of the runoff will have Republican opposition in November but a GOP victory in these parts would be close to a miracle.

There is another twist to this voter search for a Patman replacement.

A special election is scheduled June 19 to fill the unexpired term and both Hall and Jones are entered.

The possibility exists that one could win the Democratic nomination, the other the special election, and the incumbent couldn't get on the ballot in November as the party nominee.

During a recent debate in Marshall, supporters of both candidates were whispering that the opponent was receiving financial backing from the John Birch Society.

Conservatism long has been the by-word in this mostly rural area, where the largest cities range from some 35,000 residents in Marshall and 25,000 at Paris.

In the Marshall debate, both Hall and Jones criticized big government excessive spending, foreign aid and a declining military posture.

These were the things the voters wanted to hear.

Jones said the federal government "has taken away the rights of the people. As an ordained minister, I would like to restore a balance in government and have someone to speak for the people."

Hall repeated the theme, saying, "We have excessive government spending, too much centralization of government in Washington, and we have spent money in foreign fields when it should not have been wasted. We also must realize we no longer are the strongest military nation in the world."

Hall led the ticket in the first primary by about 2,500 votes over Jones. Eliminated was the third-place man, Gilmer Dist. Atty. Welby Parish, who had the support of organized labor.

Where those 23,000 votes go Saturday is the answer to the runoff election.

There also is a geographical consideration. Texarkana, the largest city in the district, voted for Jones the first go-round.

Marshall, the second largest, supported its hometown candidate.

The key now apparently is Paris and possibly Bonham.

Jones, who lives in the southern tip of the district, is expected to carry his area.

In the swim of things

Despite the town's name-sake, Big Spring is not known for its abundance of swimming areas, natural or otherwise. And in semi-desert terrain which often reaches 100 degrees or more, swimming pools can easily become a popular center of activity.

Although the real Big Spring is no longer fit for swimming, residents here will have an olympic-size pool to take its place. The Comanche Trail Park opened its pool for swimming May 22.

"It was only crowded on weekends because school was still in session when we first opened. But now that school is out, it's really beginning to pick up," said Randy Schrecengost, manager of the pool area.

The pool, which at times has about 200 persons swimming in it, has been known to have as many as 250-300. "That's when we use four lifeguards at a time," Schrecengost said.

However, not everyone wants to swim. Some come there just to lie out and get a tan, the manager added.

The pool is not only a refuge for local residents, but draws people from as far as California and Florida. "We have people from all over the state. Last week we had a couple of girls from Missouri," Schrecengost said.

Two diving boards are at one end of the pool for the more active and adventurous. At the other end is a shallow area for children who cannot swim or those who just want to cool off.

Five lifeguards are employed to supervise the swimmers and there is no age limit for children allowed to swim. "Most parents with two or three-year-olds come sit and watch but it's not required because we always have a lifeguard on duty," the manager said.

"Most mothers with very little ones will come anyway, and that helps," he said.

The general pool rules include no running, shoving or pushing. A new rule is also in effect. "We allow beach balls but no tennis or soft balls in the area. We had too many accidents as a result of them last year, so we're not having them anymore," he said.

The swimming area opens on weekdays at 1 p.m. and closes at 8 p.m. On Sundays it opens at the same time and closes at 6 p.m. The daily charge is 25 cents for children under 12 and 50 cents for adults, although a membership season pass can be purchased — $5 for children and $8.50 for adults.

Lifeguards are Denise Crenwelge, 17, Jim Bob Carpenter, 20, Curtis Mullins, 22, and Ronnie Mullins, 18, who is also assistant manager under Randy Schrecengost.

The pool is "in good shape" Schrecengost said, and will go a long way toward putting residents in the same condition if they take advantage of it.

Plastic surgery not busybody's business

DEAR ABBY: I am going into the hospital for four or five days to have silicone breast implants. A good friend of mine who is also my neighbor has offered to look after my two children during the day in her home.

My problem is another neighbor who is in and out of my house several times a day. She is quite a busybody, and I don't want her to know where I am and why.

I've thought of telling her I'm going to visit my mother who lives out of the state, but then she's wonder why I wouldn't be taking my pre-schooler. I could also tell her I'm going to the hospital for a D and C.

Or I could just leave and not tell her anything, but she would see my husband taking my kids to my neighbor's house and back, and she'd be sure to ask him where I was.

The neighbor who is caring for my children knows the facts and can be trusted not to say anything, but I don't want Mrs. Busybody to know. What should I tell her?

WANTS PRIVACY

DEAR WANTS: Tell her you're going to the hospital for minor surgery. Period. (P.S. And if she presses for more information, tell her it's a personal matter.)

DEAR ABBY: In response to DISGUSTED IN CHICAGO, who complained about the service in a restaurant: No! Walking toward the door without paying will not do it.

Last year, my husband and I waited one-half hour for the bill in a fashionable Palm Springs restaurant. In desperation, my husband finally went to get the waitress himself. She said she'd be "right over."

We waited for another 15 minutes, and he again went looking for her and saw her through the kitchen window talking to the help. Finally, after waiting for another 15 minutes, we got up and stood by the exit door for five minutes. Everyone was looking at us and knew what we had in mind, but when the waitress still didn't come, we walked out without paying our bill for $26.

It was not even a busy evening. I hope she had to pay for our bill. What would you have done?

Woman honored

Miss Rhonda Ownbey, bride-elect of Floyd Bone Jr., Odessa, was an honoree at a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Ronnie Richard, 1800 Duquoin, May 29.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Ownbey, 1609 Oriole, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bone Sr., Lawton, Oklahoma.

The honoree and her mother were presented with pink carnation corsages.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace table cloth over an underlay of green. A silver candelabrum with white tapers centered the table. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Costesses for the event were Mrs. Wallace Spraberry, Mrs. Olen Grimsley and Mrs. Terry Wilson.

The couple will be married June 19 in the Evangel Temple Assembly of God Church.

Mrs. Grifford graduates

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Clayton announced the graduation of their daughter Mrs. Jim Grifford, the former Kay Clayton on May 15 from Central Texas College in Killeen.

Mrs. Grifford previously earned her LVN in January from the same college and has now received an associate degree in applied science. She graduated from Big Spring High School in 1973 and plans to join her husband this August in Miantz, Germany.

Bar from the maddening crowd

"I'll walk you home," she says, kidding to man who pretends to have had a few too many. Joyce Schiele is the sole barmaid working at the Holiday Inn here, a job she's had for one year.

Not only does she serve drinks, but gives directions, advice and offers an atmosphere of general camaraderie to all who come in.

As many women know, working behind a bar can be an ordeal or a pleasure. It's obvious that Joyce has made her job the latter. There's almost the feeling that she'd be there whether she was working or not.

"I have a jolly good time. People are usually real nice and I think basically you have to enjoy people or you can't do this sort of work," Joyce says.

Surprisingly enough, she doesn't feel that she ever has any really bad days, because it's the people that make those days bad and few of those types come into a small bar like the Holiday Inn.

Mostly, the small, dimly lit bar is frequented by local workers from Cosden, bankers, insurance men, salesmen and travelers. Even when they get a little tipsy, she said, they're still gentlemen.

"A lot of girls moan and groan about men getting fresh. I don't think it will happen unless you ask for it. I may smash somebody on the foot once in awhile, but you have to overlook them," she said.

"I tried working in an office. I like to type and four years ago I took a refresher course for typing and English. But I found that I didn't care for it because I felt too cooped up."

People behind bars seem to be renowned for their listening ears. "Everybody sits and talks to bartenders. It's a natural thing. It seems like sometimes you're supposed to be a psychiatrist," she said laughing.

"And then a lot of guys will come in and be very quiet, but I'll usually get them to perk up." She is, in fact, a very unusual person. When a good TV game comes up, Joyce turns up the sound and sits with the customers.

The hours, usually about four to ten, depend most often on the number of customers. "If they want to stay until 12, I just keep the door open," she added.

Joyce, who comes from North Dakota, used to manage a large night club which seated 600. Included in that was responsibility for the banquet hall, bottle shop and restaurant. "I enjoyed it but it required a lot of time. If somebody didn't show up, I had to hop around doing it all myself," she said.

She doesn't seem to be bothered about the hours, or the sometimes-packed room. "You can put yourself in with people more easily in the evenings. I've had it so crowded at times that people were standing behind the bar. They'd be squeezed in like sardines and it might get a little hard to serve, but they never seem to mind."

One time she took a customer out to show him her new car. "I just yelled back to one of the old-timers and said, 'take care of the bar,' and they did."

With one eye on the customers, one eye on their glasses and amid cheers for the current basketball game, Joyce tends a pretty friendly bar.

A TASK that must be repeated many times during the day is drawing the beer for customers at the Holiday Inn bar. Joyce has been with Holiday Inn for one year.

JOYCE SCHIELE gestures in answer to a question as she carries a couple of beers to customers seated at the bar.

Judicial panel recommends Carrillo removal

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Texas judge should be held accountable for his actions off the bench as well as his official duties, a state attorney argued in the appeal of deposed Judge O. P. Carrillo of Duval County.

The appeal Wednesday before the Texas Supreme Court was taken under consideration for a decision later.

Carrillo's lawyer, Arthur Mitchell of Austin, insisted that Carrillo cannot be stripped of his office for acts that occurred before he was re-elected in November 1974.

But Asst. Atty. Gen. Max Flusche said courts in Texas and other states had removed judges for non-judicial misconduct and for acts occurring prior to their re-election.

The judicial qualifications commission recommended that the court remove Carrillo as judge of the 229th State District Court — something already done by the Senate, which also barred him from future officeholding.

Carrillo is appealing the legality of his removal through the Senate impeachment action. He also faces a number of charges in Duval County and is appealing a federal income tax conviction.

Senators convicted Carrillo on Jan. 23 of taking part in a scheme to steal county funds by obtaining rental payments for equipment the county never received. The money was funneled through Benavides Implement & Hardware.

Mitchell asserted that none of the acts alleged by the commission, including the phony rental scheme, occurred after Carrillo's most recent election, nor did they involve misconduct in performing his duties as judge. Texas law and the state constitution do not allow removal through judicial qualifications commission and supreme court action under such circumstances, he said.

"If a judge commits murder or rape or defrauds his old lady aunt, there are no grounds for removal?" queried Chief Justice Joe Greenhill.

"There are no grounds for judicial qualifications commission proceedings where the act was non-judicial," Mitchell replied.

"We take the position that if the acts are conspiratorial, secret and not generally known (to the voters), that is the same as acts committed after he began his present term of office," Flusche said.

He said California removed a judge for sexual misconduct and a Louisiana judge lost his job for hobnobbing with gamblers and showing lewd movies.

"It would be terrible public policy to hold that only acts of misconduct while performing the duties of judge can be the basis for a removal action," Flusche said.

Ford may ask Congress for deseg panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford may ask Congress to create a national council that would negotiate local school desegregation plans in an effort to avoid court-ordered busing. The proposed legislation also would place new restrictions on federal judges and could rule out citywide integration plans in some cases. Ford expects to decide "as soon as possible" on details of the legislative proposal he has promised to send Congress. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Wednesday. The President, his key aides and three Cabinet members discussed the legislative plan in a 90-minute session Wednesday. "There were no decisions made at the meeting," Nessen said. Nessen said Ford plans to talk with civil rights and congressional leaders before reaching a final decision. The Wednesday meeting focused on draft legislation prepared by Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi and the Justice Department and other proposals offered by David Mathews, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Labor Secretary W.J. Usery also attended the session. The legislation would establish a national council to mediate desegregation disputes in local communities, a Justice Department official said. The make-up of such a council was not learned but at least some members would be appointed by the president. The proposal is designed to help community leaders reach voluntary desegregation plans before a federal court imposes a mandatory plan. Without disclosing details, Nessen said Mathews outlined for Ford several approaches to help local school districts "avoid reaching the point at which the court steps in and orders massive busing." The other major feature of the proposed legislation is the new restriction on federal judges. The plan would require the courts to determine how much segregation was caused by official government acts, such as maintaining separate schools for black students or drawing district boundaries in a way that guarantees segregated schools. Official government acts of discrimination are clearly illegal. The courts would be free to use whatever remedies they considered necessary to correct any segregation caused by official acts. This would include busing, which the Supreme Court listed as a "permissible tool" of desegregation in a landmark 1971 decision.

The plan would allow a court to impose desegregation remedies, including widespread busing, throughout a city and its suburbs only if the court concluded that illegal government discrimination caused a statewide segregation. But the court could not impose citywide desegregation plans to correct segregation resulting from housing patterns. The department proposal would apply this rule whether or not busing was involved.

Registration continues at UTPB

ODESSA — Summer term late registration began Monday at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin. Late registration continues through today, registrar A. W. Keith said. Not included in the 612 total are the Midland and Big Spring off-campus course registrations. They also continue this week. First term summer registration at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin reached 612 Friday and Keith said it probably equaled the best day ever for summer enrollment. Total for the first summer term last year was 763, he said. In Big Spring, classes are: Theories Systems of Behavior, Tuesday and Thursday, 2 to 5:45 p.m.; Sources of Abnormal Behavior, Tuesday and Thursday, 6 to 9:45 p.m.; Western American History, Tuesday and Thursday, 5:30 to 9:15; Industrial Sociology, Monday and Wednesday, 5:30 to 9:15; and Managerial Accounting, obtain schedule by calling Virginia Smith, Webb AFB Education Center, or 267-8360.

Alpine lists show dates

The Brewster County 4-H Club will be sponsoring three Open Youth Horse Shows this summer in Alpine. Two handmade saddles will be awarded at the conclusion of the third show. One saddle will be awarded to the high point junior (9 yrs. to 13 yrs.) and one saddle to the high point senior (14 yrs. to 19 yrs.), ages of riders determined as of January 1st of this year. Also a High Point Pee Wee buckle will be awarded. Show dates are June 19, July 17 and August 28. Books open at 9 a.m. and the shows start promptly at 10 a.m. For additional information one can write Joe Winstead, County Extension Agent, Box 67, Alpine, Tex., 79830 or call 915-837-5155 or 837-3579 at night.

Pot gadgets confiscated

COLORADO CITY — The biggest haul of marijuana paraphernalia ever found in one place in Colorado City was seized when three arrests were made Friday. Arrested were Johnny Lee Williams, 20, Loraine, Sam Steven Williams, 19, Loraine and Jesse Rene Garcia, 17, Colorado City. All three were charged with theft over $20 and under $200. Confiscated were two tubs of growing marijuana plants, nine pipes, three holders and a gadget used to separate the marijuana leaves from stems of the plant.

Civil suits set Tuesday

STANTON — District Judge Ralph W. Caton plans to try one of several scheduled civil suits in a 118th District Court jury trial next Tuesday. Judge Caton also held docket call in Stanton Tuesday. He will convene court at 10 a.m. June 8.

County Judge contest

Mathis, Decker race to up Martin turnout

STANTON — Martin County voters have a hotly-contested local race to get them out to the polls Saturday for the runoff in the Democratic primary.

County Judge Jimmy Mathis and W. S. (Bill) Decker are seeking the office of county judge.

Mathis led the ticket in the original primary, but did not have enough votes to claim a majority. L. D. Snell was the third candidate in the race.

Absentee voting in Martin County indicates that there will be a heavy turnout. Some 111 Martin Counties had voted by Tuesday afternoon, which was more persons than voted absentee in the first primary.

Mathis was named judge when Judge Carol Yater resigned. Mathis who had served as city manager since 1973, resigned that post to accept the judgeship.

"From the first week I arrived in Stanton, I liked this community," Judge Mathis stated recently. "I had several opportunities to accept a city managership in other places, but I stayed because I really like it here."

"When the judgeship opened up and I was asked to take it, I thought it would be a good chance for me to serve the entire county. I like to work for people. I understand government and the problems involved through my years of experience in working at administrative posts."

Decker said, "I ran for this job because I thought it would be a challenge to me. My son could run my present business and I would like a chance to serve the county."

"I think I would try to make some changes, but I don't know yet what they are. I wouldn't want to elaborate until I learn all the facts."

Permian Basin health agency money approved

Official approval was announced for the Health Systems Agency in the Permian Basin. Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex.) announced this week the designation agreement with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The health systems, designated as area 12, serve the 17 counties in the Permian Basin Planning Council Region. This includes Andrews, Borden, Crane, Dawson, Ector, Gaines, Glasscock, Howard, Loving, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler.

Initial funding of $79,000 will be used to begin developing the plan for health services in the area. Harley Reeves, health planner for the planning commission, will be executive director of the agency.

The agency has already been organizing in anticipation of the agreement. The governing body is composed of consumers and providers of health services in the region.

Girls run away from Roloff children's home

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Authorities were searching the Plano and Longview areas today for four juvenile girls who ran away from evangelist Lester Roloff's children's home here Tuesday.

The four girls, who ranged in age from 13 to 15, were believed to be headed for the Plano or Longview areas, authorities said. According to officials of the Rebekah School for Girls, the girls were reported missing about 6 a.m. Tuesday.

The runaways apparently hid in a prayer room and broke a window to escape.

Roloff Enterprises, Inc. and Nueces County Sheriff's officials refused to reveal the names of the girls.

UH optometry degree gained

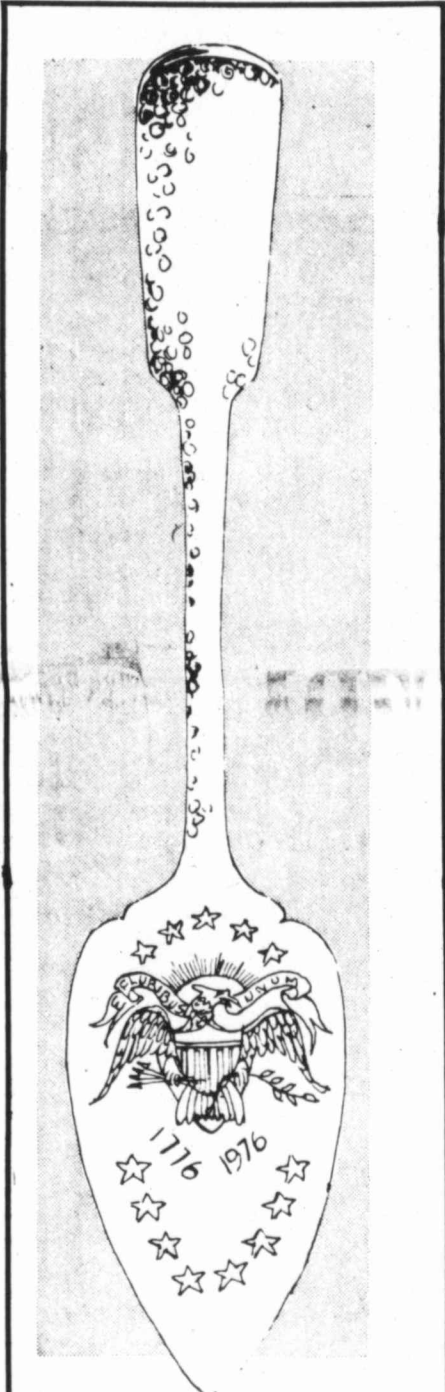

Some 3,500 students, candidates for degrees or diplomas from the University of Houston for the Fall 1975 and Spring 1976 semesters, celebrated their graduation at commencement ceremonies recently in Hofheinz Pavilion on the UH Central Campus.

Randall Meyer, president and chief executive of EXXON, U. S. A., delivered the commencement address.

Dr. Philip G. Hoffman, president of UH, presided, conferred degrees and diplomas, and presented teaching excellence awards.

Dr. Ronald F. Bunn, UH acting vice president and dean of faculties, presented candidates for degrees and recognized honor graduates.

Candidates for degrees or diplomas include the following from Big Spring, Robert F. Polk III, Doctor of Optometry.

Ten scoreless innings

Pitchers duel it out

CHICAGO (AP) — Bart Johnson said it was the best he'd pitched all year, and Jim Umberger said the same thing about his own performance. Yet Johnson didn't figure in the decision and Umberger took the loss.

Johnson and the White Sox battled Umberger and the Rangers through ten scoreless innings Wednesday night before Jorge Orta singled with the bases loaded in the 11th to give Chicago a 1-0 victory over Texas.

It was the third time in the five meetings this season between the two clubs that the game was decided in extra innings.

"I guess that means these must be two pretty good teams," Sox Manager Paul Richards said afterwards.

Johnson went nine full innings, giving up just three hits and one walk and striking out six before Dave Hamilton came on to pitch the last two innings and earn the win, his second of the season against two losses.

"I think I'm getting stronger as the year goes on," Johnson said after the game. "I was out all last year and people seem to forget that. I'm not making any excuses, but it takes a while to get back in shape... I think it was the best I pitched all year."

Umberger had thrown 24 consecutive innings without giving up a run before Orta's gamewinning single, and he had won his last two decisions by shutouts.

"I'm disappointed that we lost because I was pitching real well," Umberger said. "But the guys have been hitting real well for most of the year, so I can't get down on them for tonight."

Texas Manager Frank Lucchesi was more distressed about Umberger picking up the loss. "He pitched a super game, and any young pitcher who throws like that deserves to win," Lucchesi said of his second-year left-hander.

Umberger, 4-5, surrendered just three hits in the game, and not one before the sixth inning. He walked four and struck out six.

The Rangers' first hit came on Juan Beniquez' single in the third, but he was stranded at first. Lenny Randle singled to center to lead off the fourth for Texas, but he was unable to move off first base.

Texas catcher Jim Sunberg, became the first man to reach second when he doubled with one out in the sixth, but Gene Clines followed with a line drive straight to second baseman Bill Stein, who doubled up Sunberg at second.

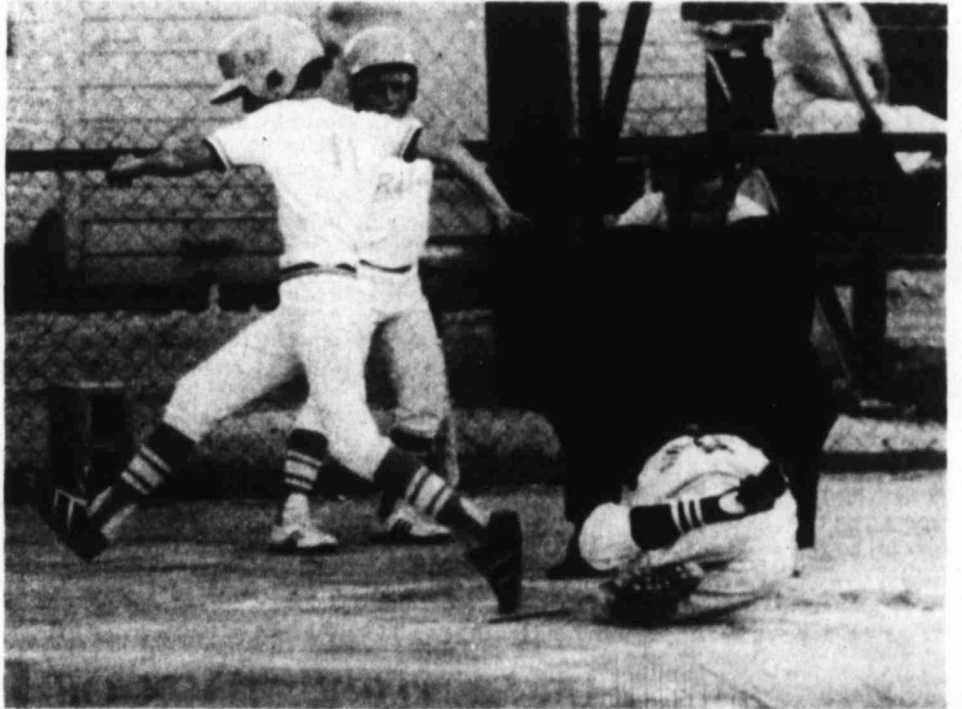

The White Sox didn't get a hit until Ralph Garr smacked a bounce over third base with two out in the sixth. Garr stole second, but Bucky Dent flied out to center to end the inning.

Catcher Jim Essian led off the Chicago 11th with a double and Pat Kelly was brought in to run for him. Stein was walked intentionally before Garr's bunt moved Kelly to third, though Stein was forced at second. Dent was walked intentionally to fill the bases for Orta's single.

Hawks sweep Cabots

The Hawks flew past the Cabots for a 7-4 victory in American Major League action. Winning pitcher was Tom Cudd with a 4-0 record for the Hawks.

The Hawks dominated with a 5-0 lead in the third inning, followed by one run in both the fourth and fifth.

The Cabots started a comeback in the fifth with four runs but went scoreless in the sixth.

Leading Hawk hitters were Steve Rodricks, with an in-the-park home run, Gregg Franklin, with a double, and Blake Rosson, with three hits.

Losing pitcher was Johnny Hatch.

Comets knife Sabres

In International Little League play, Tuesday night, the Comets knived the Sabres with a final score 7-3. The Comets played an almost error-free game.

David Anguiano, the winning pitcher, allowed no hits and no walks. Greg Turk, the relief pitcher, allowed three walks, giving the Sabres the only scores allowed by the Comets. Cary Wiggins, of the Sabres, was the losing pitcher.

Highlights of the game were three home runs for the Comets by James Woodard, Carl Davis, and Jimmy Johnson. David Anguiano and Jimmy Johnson also scored runs on doubles, while single hits were made by James Strowd, Marx Warren and Greg Turk. Current standing of the Comets is 5-5.

Eagles kidnap Colts

In National Little League action, the Eagles nipped the Colts to remain undefeated at 9-0 in their divisional race.

Kevin Watson was the winning pitcher and John Tenstate was the losing hurler.

Randy Easterling for the Eagles went two for two, hitting for a single and a home run. His teammate Richard Goff had three base hits.

Kevin Haygood had a triple for the Colts.

Teen-Age League

Rebels slam Lions

The ABC Rebels, on the strength of a grand slam home run by Ricky Cluck, defeated the Lions in Junior League action, 15-2.

Cluck was also the winning pitcher and Wesley McCurtain was charged with the loss.

Rebel Eugene Boadle also had two base hits.

Orioles tarnish Angels

The Angels are no longer perfect. In Teen-Age League action the Orioles knocked the Angels from the ranks of the undefeated 4-3.

Bear Mathews and David Howell combined to pitch a five-hitter. Mathews hurled two and a third innings before Howell came in to go the rest of the way and pick up his second win against no losses.

Mathews doubled in one run and Dennis Christich knocked in the winning run in the fourth.

Mike Gomez (1-1) pitched well, holding the Orioles to five hits, but still took the loss.

Yankees topple Knights

The Cain's Yankees jostled with the Knights and came out on top, 6-3, in Junior Teenage League action. Billy Ray Johnson's three-hit, 15 strikeout, pitching saved the day for the Yanks.

Johnny Hernandez led off the scoring for the Yankees with a two-run triple in the first inning. This was followed up with a two-run double by Greg Jones in the fourth.

Freddie Martinez, the losing pitcher, Mark Knight and Rick Meyers each hit singles for the Knights.

Misfits embarrass Flasher

In a totally lopsided contest the Forsan Oil Well Service Misfits whipped a team called "Flasher" 31-1. "Flasher" did have three hits. The misfits had 30.

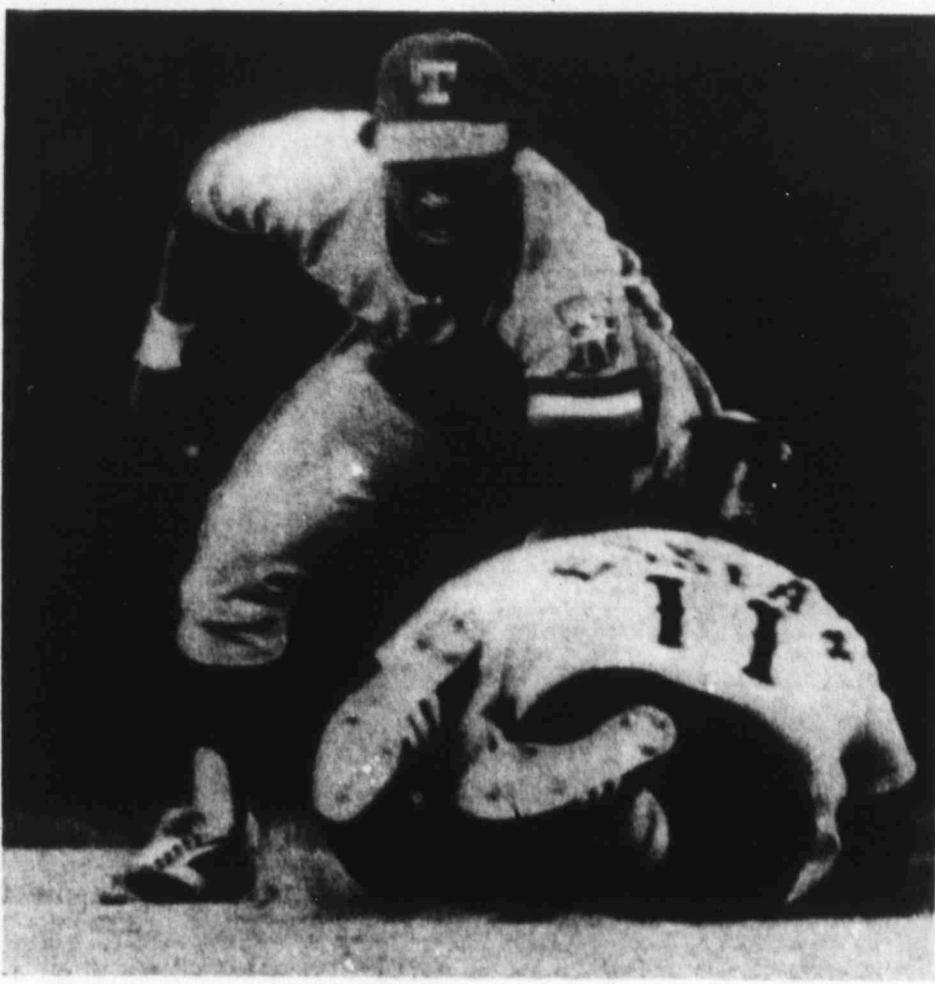

Karla Cregar remains undefeated at the mound. She improved her pitching record to 3-0. Sherra Bennett was charged with the loss.

Lori Calhoun, Karla Cregar, Cynthia Riliberto and Dana Thomas all had four-baggers for the winning Misfits.

The Misfits are now 5-3 in league play.

Angels sink Carriers
 The Angels won a 7-0 forfeit decision from the Carriers in league action Tuesday night. The Angels are now 4-3.

GOTCHA!—Jim Essian (11) of Chicago White Sox finds Texas Rangers second baseman Lenny Randle waiting for him as he slides in an attempted steal in eighth inning of Wednesday night's game at Chicago. Randle got throw from catcher in time to catch Essian in the act.

Heavy hitting

Reds win

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson put it this way: "It was a long night."

Indeed it was. The Reds and the Houston Astros collected 26 hits and 17 walks between them as Cincinnati outlasted the Astros 8-7 Wednesday night.

Despite all the hitting, it was Joe Morgan's seventh inning sacrifice fly that proved to be the difference as Reds reliever Will McEnaney blanked the Astros over the final three innings to pick up his first victory against two losses.

Houston reliever Ken Forsch, the fifth Astros pitcher of the evening, took the loss. He also is 1-2.

"That was a wild one," said Anderson. "You see ball games like this where nobody can do anything and the ball bounces crazily."

The ball began bouncing in the first inning as Houston batters greeted Cincinnati starter Jack Billingham with four straight singles but could manage only one run.

The Reds used two-run singles by Tony Perez and Dave Concepcion and an Astros error to take a 5-1 lead in the top of the third, but Houston came back in the bottom of the inning to score three times and cut the lead to one run.

Cincinnati added a sixth run but Houston scored three times in its half of the sixth to go ahead 7-6. Houston's three runs came on a bases-loaded walk to Cliff Johnson and a two-run single by Enos Cabell.

The game was won in the seventh, however, as an RBI single preceded Morgan's game-winning sacrifice fly. "It was just one of those games," said Astros

Manager Bill Virdon. "The pitching wasn't good but bouncing back twice like we did was encouraging. We just needed to bounce back one more time and we didn't do it. There sure were a lot of pitches thrown."

"Jack Billingham threw 57 pitches in his two innings of work," Reds Coach Russ Nixon said. "But after that, the pen ran out of ink."

GOLF
 EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Tech's Mark Hargrove leads a one-shot lead going into today's second round of the 56th Southwestern Amateur Golf Championship at the El Paso Country Club.

Hargrove fired a 66 to lead current NCAA champion Jay Haas.

The field of 216 amateurs will be pared to 90 after today's round.

Underdog Suns win, tied 2-2 in playoffs

PHOENIX (AP) — Ricky Sobers, Phoenix' "other" rookie, played like number one in Game Four of the National Basketball Association championship series.

And because of his performance, the underdog Suns, the longest shot in the 10-team field that began the NBA playoffs this season, beat the Boston Celtics 109-107 Wednesday night and tied the best-of-seven series 2-2.

Surprisingly, Sobers credited Boston's John Havlicek with helping him perform well... not because of anything the Celtics' captain did in the game, but because of something he remembered the 36-year-old star saying on television.

The incident occurred during a telecast of a Boston game that Sobers was watching while he was at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas.

"I remember Havlicek saying that defense is the key to the game of basketball," said the 23-year-old Sobers, a defensive specialist. "He said the best way to get into the NBA was to know how to play defense, and ever since then I've been stressing defense."

Sobers took charge in the third period of Game Four. With Boston leading 71-70 midway through the quarter, the Suns reeled off 12 consecutive points, eight of them by the embattled rookie. Sobers also fed Keith Erickson for another basket during this spree.

The streak put the Suns ahead 82-71—and they never trailed after that.

However, they did experience some scares. Eight times in the last period, Boston drew within two points—but each time, the inexperienced Suns, the team expected to crack under the intense pressure of a championship series, repulsed the threats.

"Pressure is a thing you put only upon yourself and you have to be oblivious to it," said the fiery Sobers, who has been involved in one fight in each of Phoenix' three playoff series this year. "I love pressure."

Game Five will be Friday night in Boston and the sixth game will be in Phoenix Sunday. A seventh game, if necessary, will be at Boston next Wednesday.

For those of you who went out over the holiday, you probably had more luck than at any other time in the season. The weather cooperated for the most part and the big fish were biting.

On with the news:

LAKE THOMAS
Mrs. Tidwell at the Lake Thomas Lodge reported that the fishing is "hot," in more ways than one.

The weather seems to be bringing the fish to the hooks of many lucky fishermen. "The fishing was real good this weekend," said Mrs. Tidwell, "and the lake was very crowded over the holiday."

Trotline fishing is bringing in some pretty good size catfish, and a lot of pan-size bass are being caught, but the fish of the week is the crappie.

"I saw a number of big strings of some pretty huge crappie," Mrs. Tidwell exclaimed, "the fishing is picking up really something."

A break in the good weather meant damage for many people at the lake last week. Golfball size hail fell in the lake region, causing broken car windows, damaged roofs, stripped trees and minor property damage.

But the lake is back to normal and is fishing extremely well now. The only fish that is not biting well on the rod and reel is the yellow cat, but all other fish are straining at the bit.

LAKE COLORADO CITY
Lake Colorado City has not been as fortunate as Thomas this past week. Luie (I've been misspelling his name), from Luie's Lakeside Lodge, had a rather bleak report this week.

"It's spawning season, they should be blowing and going," Luie said, "but this is the sorriest I've seen it in 15 years."

Luie advised me that every three or four years the fishing slacks off considerably and the Fish and Game Department just can't figure it out.

Luie things that the weather has had a great deal to do with the "sorry" fishing so far this season at Lake Colorado City. "The wind has blown more than usual, especially the northerly."

The largest fish taken from the lake over the past week have only been about seven to eight pounds, and skiers have been dominating any serious fishing lately.

LAKE SPENCE
This is the place to be. The angler, veteran and rookie, are pulling the big fish out of the lake as fast as they can.

The strippers and the blacks are going strong. The whites are good and are improving. The catfish are also good. They are about everywhere, but mostly in or near shallow coves. The fishermen around the area are having great luck with a slab called "The Lake Spence Special."

The slabs can be purchased at any marina around Lake Spence. (Also Hillside Grocery.) The best colors would be chartreuse, white with black spots, or solid silver. The slab was used to catch the 23-lb. stripper that Cecil Cherry of Odessa caught this past week.

There have been some crappie catches made, so the crappie fishing is holding its own. The strippers and whites are schooling and this makes for some great fishing.

Here are a few of the lucky fishermen: Cecil Holden and Fred Parker of Odessa reported catching a strippers totaling 30 lbs. with the largest at 8 1/2 lbs and 35 catfish totaling 135 lbs.

Ronnie Scott of Lamesa took a 7-lb. stripper trolling with a

By Danny Reagan

Hell Bender. There have also been reports of good-sized channel and yellow cat strings. Lonnie Keith, Jimmy Needham and party of Odessa took 4 yellow cat to 14 lbs., 6 strippers to 8 lbs., and 13 channel cat to 5 lbs. Henry Howell of Abilene caught 1 stripper at 5 1/2 lbs. Mr. and Mrs. A. T. White and Charlie Williams of Big Spring caught 1 stripper at 10 1/2 lbs. Ike and Bernie Bailey of Jati, N.M., took 30 whites (total weight about 45 lbs.) and 2 strippers to 7 lbs. J. W. Purser of Big Spring took 1 stripper at 8 lbs. and 4 channel cat.

Bill Schwager of Odessa took 1 stripper at 5 lbs., and 10 blacks to 2 lbs. R. L. Flanagan of Robert Lee, took 1 yellow cat at 12 lbs. Wallace Langley of Monahans took 4 blacks to 6 1/2 lbs. Mike Miller of Big Spring took 13 channel cat to 2 lbs. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Morris of Robert Lee took 7 crappie and catfish (combination). LOOK! Darrell Nowlin and family of San Angelo caught 76 catfish with a total weight of 327 lbs. Tony Flores of Bronte took 3 catfish 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 lbs.

W. W. Morris, Robert Lee, 4 1/2 lbs. catfish; E. G. Duncan, Slaton, 10 catfish, 1 1/2 lbs.; Larry Linley, Johnny Nicklaus, George Olesh, Odessa, 19 blacks to 3 lbs.; John Hotz, Midland, 13 lb. stripper; 7 crappie to 1 1/2 lbs.; Judge Parker, Garden City, 5 yellow cats up to 12 lbs., 2 channel cat, 10 lbs.; R. L. Flanagan, 4 channel cat to 9 lbs., 3 yellow to 11 1/2 lbs.; J. W. Purser and party, 14 strippers to 9 lbs.; Ike and Bernie Bailey, 6 strippers to 8 lbs., 12 whites and 8 crappie.

And repeating what may be a new Spence record for a stripper caught on a rod and reel, Cecil Cherry, the perennial Lake Spence fisherman caught a 23-pound stripper on the "Spence Special," the lure fishermen are having very good luck with lately.

And now a word from Kountry Girl reporter Konny Service:

Konny says

There are two marinas at Lake Spence. These marinas are Y. J.'s Marina and Wildcat Fish-A-Rama. Here you can launch your boats and find fishing equipment, along with refreshments and clean facilities. There are also two stores other than those near the lake.

They are Hillside Grocery and Bait Stand and Triangle Grocery and Bait Stand. At these stores you can buy groceries and bait. All of these shops are on the southwest side of the lake and can supply almost all of your outing needs.

If you have any problems at the lake we have a very good lake patrol and game warden. (A healthy tip to all those interested.)

Almost all of your questions can be answered by a service here in Robert Lee called "Lake Spence Vacation Service." Reservations to the motel in town can be made through this service along with helpful tips about Lake Spence.

FISH TALE OF THE WEEK
I had one fisherman this week who paid more attention to the cork in the bottle than he did to his cork in the water. As a result he fouled his line and broke it with a fish on it.

Back at camp he was bemoaning the "monster" that broke his line and got away. About that time a friend of his came into camp with his broken line, cork and about an 8-inch fish still on his hook. Upon observing this the "monster" catcher grinned, hesitated, and remarked, "Well, I'll be darned, he got away, but left my bait."

K. S. So, to wrap it up, it looks like Lake Spence is the place to be at this point in time. The strippers are biting like they have been ordered to do so by Neptune.

And Lake Thomas is the "hot" spot for pan-size crappie and bass. Even though Lake Colorado City is in somewhat of a slump right now, it is still a scenic place to visit, and it has a great little restaurant called "Sportsman's Club." (See more about this in Sunday's "Two for the Road" column.)

See you at Spence this weekend.

Master of moon-ball Irks opponents

PARIS (AP) — His last match produced one thrown racket, a beanballed ball boy, three soda bottles smashed in rage and an official dumped into the hedges. Harold Solomon still is driving opponents crazy, but now he says there's a new line to his routine as tennis' premier torturer and mindbender.

The master of the moon-ball and junk shot, who has driven enough opponents deep into trembling frustration to rank No. 7 in the United States, thinks he can win his first big tournament at the French Open.

"This is the place," said Solomon, the 23-year-old from Silver Spring, Md. "I like everything about it."

Everything means the slow, de-pressurized balls that just about remove the top spin from the big hitters' drives, and the equally slow red clay that dulls their services and weighs down their legs.

Solomon, who entered the third round of competition today against Sashi Menon of India, just smiled when he heard that Kim Warwick, the Australian, got a little upset about losing to him Tuesday and was fined $100 for his self-control problems.

"I don't deliberately set out to drive a guy crazy," said Solomon. "But I understand it. I work them so hard. It's a cumulative process. They do most of the running. The big guys know with me that they have to stay out there all day. They've got to work and work and work. They say they've got to bring their lunch and bed roll to the court. A lot of guys don't want to pay the price to beat me. You need an unbelievable amount of mental determination to do it."

At 5-foot-6, Solomon says his technique developed from his size, which eliminated any chance at the Arthur Ashe-John Newcombe-Smith type big game.

Solomon beat Ashe in the World Championship Tennis tournament in Dallas, has done in Ilie Nastase, and went out to Bjorn Borg here in the semifinals two years ago.

Other matches involving seeded players today include Borg against Hans Kary of Austria, Eddie Dibbs of North Miami, Fla., the second most irritating player after Solomon, against Hans Pohlmann of West Germany, and Adriano Panatta of Italy against Jun Kuki of Japan.

American League action

Davis debuts

Maybe Tommy Davis can't roll out of bed on Christmas morning and swing a mean bat, but he wasn't too bad on the evening of June 2 after two months of idleness.

The 16-year major league veteran, released by the New York Yankees just before the season started, signed on Wednesday with California. A few hours later he made his 1976 debut with a tie-breaking two-run pinch single in the eighth inning that sparked the Angels to a 5-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

"I hadn't worked out since spring training until this weekend after they called me about the possibility of coming back," the 37-year-old Davis said after collecting the 2,059th hit of his career. "I figure my days are numbered, but I thought I could do the job for four months."

In other American League action, the New York Yankees whipped the Boston Red Sox 7-2, the Baltimore Orioles outlasted the Cleveland Indians 2-0 in 14 innings, the Kansas City Royals edged the Oakland A's 4-3 in 12 and the Detroit Tigers downed the Milwaukee Brewers 6-4.

Davis was supposed to start work with a record promotion company in Los Angeles this week. However, he received a call from Angels general manager Harry Dalton last Friday and decided to resume his playing career.

"It wasn't tough coming back to baseball," he said after delivering his clutch hit on a 2-2 curve from Minnesota relief ace Bill Campbell.

Dave Chalk drove in the other three California runs with a two-run single in the second inning and a sacrifice fly following Davis' hit.

Yankees 7, Red Sox 2
Ed Figueroa hurled a four-hitter and the Yankees chased Boston starter Dick Pole in piling up a 6-0 second-inning lead. The Yankees scored five times in the second on four walk, a hit batter, a run-scoring wild pitch and only two hits, one of them Chris Chambliss' two-run single. Cecil Cooper accounted for Boston's runs with a sixth-inning homer.

Orioles 2, Indians 0
Lee May crashed a two-run homer in the 14th inning of Cleveland reliever Tom Buskey following a single by Reggie Jackson. Jim Palmer and Wayne Garland combined for an eight-hit shutout, the first against the Indians this season. The drive by May negated a two-hit pitching performance by Cleveland's Jackie Brown, Dave LaRoche and Buskey through the first 13 innings.

Royals 4, A's 3
John Mayberry's sacrifice fly in the 12th inning scored Amos Otis with the winning run. Otis opened the 12th by drawing a walk off Rollie Fingers and George Brett singled for his fourth hit of the game, moving Otis to third. Mayberry then hit a long fly to score the run.

Kansas City had tied the game in the ninth on a walk to Fred Patek, a sacrifice by Frank White and a long sacrifice fly by Tony Solaita that scored Patek all the way from second base. The A's had taken a 3-2 lead in the seventh inning on Sal Bando's two-run homer.

Tigers 6, Brewers 4
Willie Horton drove in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly and Ben Oglivie hit a two-run inside-the-park pinch homer as Detroit posted its fourth consecutive victory over Milwaukee in the five-game series. Oglivie's home run came in the eighth inning and provided Detroit's winning margin. Brewers starter Jim Colborn, 2-7, lost his sixth straight game while Detroit starter Vern Ruhle raised his record to 4-1.

SPORTS BRIEFS

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson will no longer allow networks to wire him for sound during televised baseball games.

Anderson said he is inclined not to watch his language and his coaches avoid him during the games fearing their words will be picked up.

Anderson said he uttered a few expletives during Saturday's game with Los Angeles. He did it again Monday during the game with the Astros at Houston, but fortunately the microphone had gone dead. "Klu (batting coach Ted Kluszewski) was standing next to me and was afraid to say anything and George Scherger stayed down at the other end of the dugout like I had the plague," Anderson said.

ATLANTA (AP) — Former major league pitcher Larry Jaster has been hired as a pitching coach for the Atlanta Braves' farm club at Savannah.

Jaster pitched six seasons in the major leagues with St. Louis, Montreal and Atlanta. His hiring was announced Wednesday.

Fishing hints

Hopefully, this feature will appear on the fishing page from time to time. It depends on you the reader. If you have any hints of your own, send them to me.

Every now and then, certain short news items or hints come across my desk, and I think most of them are of interest to the serious fisherman.

Here are six of the better ones that have come my way recently. I hope you will find them informative. Remember, you are the one who will make this feature. Send one of your favorite hints in, get your name in the paper, and help your fellow angler.

HOW TO LAND A FISH

When fishing from a gently sloping bank, gravel bar or beach, the best way to land a fish (especially a large one) is to do exactly that — land him. Don't use a net or a gaff. Simply guide the played out fish toward you. Keep your rod tip high and the line taut.

Essentially, the fish will land himself. Since he can't swim backwards, every move he makes will put him farther up on shore. Once he is high and dry, keep your rod high and reel yourself down to him.

— Sports Afield

TACKLE BOX HINT FROM A MOTHER

A large-sized trash bag folded and tucked in the corner of a boy's tackle box makes a handy emergency raincoat. When a summer storm catches the fisherman by surprise, he can just unroll the trash bag, punch a hole in the bottom and pull it over his head. He can wait out the rain, or punch his arms through and row for home. — Aileen Gultch, Hales Corners, Wisconsin.

BARBECUED FISH STEAKS

If you like broiled fish steaks and haven't tried preparing them over charcoal, you're in for the taste treat of your life. Since fish becomes flaky as it cooks, however, it tends to stick to the grill and might fall apart when you turn it.

Solve this problem by brushing a layer of butter onto the steaks with a pastry brush before putting to the coals, brown the steaks well on each side. Then move the grill to a higher position, where the steaks can broil slowly and completely — about ten minutes on each side for steaks 1/2-inch thick. Coat with liberal amounts of your favorite barbecue sauce and season with lemon pepper and salt.

Don't count on any leftovers.

— Sports Afield

BEEBLE BAITS

One type of live bait often overlooked for trout and bass is the variety of beetles available during summer months. Many hardshelled beetles like the big stag, and others referred to as May or June bugs, are excellent baits. Admittedly, it takes courage to pick up and use the stag with its formidable pincers, but smallmouth bass have courage to spare in their eagerness to grab this terrestrial insect.

Most of these beetles develop from grubs found in stumps and recently felled logs and they, themselves, are great live baits. Gather and use both beetle stages for river smallmouths and trout. Often big stag beetles are just what lunkers have been waiting to eat.

STORING PLASTIC WORMS

Avoid ruining expensive enameled fishing lures and hard-plastic tackle boxes from contact with plastic worms and similar soft-plastic baits. A chemical in the worms leaves fishing lure enamel a gooey mess and can eat holes through the clear, hard plastic of utility boxes.

Soft-plastic utility boxes — some designed specifically to hold plastic worms and the hooks and sinkers used with them — are the routine way to segregate these baits from the other kind, both of which have their places.

Plastic sandwich bags, plastic quart milk bags and similar soft plastic bags and pouches will also do carry plastic worms in tackle box or pocket. A 5x5-inch reusable pouch of soft plastic which sometimes contains panty hose is about the right size for an angler's pocket.

DRY FRY

Everyone has a pet method for keeping fish fresh and most of these methods are wrong. The standard seems to be to toss the fish into a plastic bag and forget them; or let them die in the bottom of a boat and lie in the sun for a few hours.

Here's the right way to do it: The sooner you kill the fish, the better they will taste; do not let them die on the stringer. Some fish biologists say a "horsed-in" fish will taste better than a "played-to-belly-up" one. The theory being that the latter pumps more adrenalin into its bloodstream which robs it of flavor.

2. Once the fish has been opened and cleaned, it should not be allowed in the water again. Letting fish lie in water, particularly after the cavity has been opened, is asking for a flavor loss.

3. The fish should be wrapped in an absorbent material — newspapers or paper towels work fine. Now you can put it in a plastic bag, but one that is dry and waterproof. And you can return it to your icebox for keeping cool.

4. When you get home, the fish can be frozen without further ado. After you thaw them out prior to cooking, some of the absorbent material may cling to the fish, but this can be wiped off.

You will not have to be a connoisseur of fish flesh to taste the delicious difference. — James Tallon, Phoenix, Arizona.

YMCA providing wide variety of fun, games

The Big Spring YMCA has programs to cover almost any recreational activity under the sun. For local residents who intend to head for the water this summer, the Y offers a variety of swimming classes. All age groups can learn to swim in either the Adult Class, the Youth Class, for ages three to 18, or even the Infant Class, for ages six months to three years. YMCA classes also teach skills in such activities as gymnastics, volleyball, tumbling, trampolining, karate and archery. For the Fred Astaires and Ginger Rogers in town, the YMCA holds tap dancing and ballet classes. For a cleaner bill of health, the Y sponsors fitness classes for both men and women. These classes offer a variety of exercises, body building, and fitness oriented games. In addition to these many activities, the YMCA also sponsors a Mini-Kinder Camp for youngsters, a Cheerleading Camp with a baton twirling instruction, fencing classes, macrame, basic skin diving, and a swim team. To take advantage of the many activities offered by the Big Spring YMCA, call 267-8234 today.

Orientation For VA vols

The information office at the Veterans Administration Hospital announced today that orientation for summer youth volunteers will be held Friday, June 4, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Volunteer openings are available in nursing service, laboratory work, library, and clerical duties. The jobs are open to all interested young people between the ages of 14 and 19. A free lunch will be provided Friday during the orientation.

Lions give tips on fishing for bass

Tips on bass fishing were given the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday by two members of the Big Spring Bass Club. Tom Henry and Wayne Henry demonstrated basic gear used by bass fishermen, along with an assortment of lures ranging from plastic worms to spinners and top water rigs. Bass fishing, they said, is the nation's fastest-growing sport. Today there is a regular tournament circuit, much like the golf tournaments. Prize money available on these approximates a quarter of a million dollars a year. Tom Henry touched on various fishing spots. Lake Thomas, he said, is a good fishing spot when not muddy. Lake Spence is good for striped bass, but he thinks they have cut down on the supply of black bass there. Colorado City, he added, is much too crowded for the fisherman. Hottest baits currently are the plastic worms, the Hell Benders, and a Balas Bee, along with a plastic "nasty." At the meeting, presided over by Gary Bradbury, Joe Pond was presented with his Old Monarch, a pin and certificate for 50 years' membership in Lions International. He joined first in Colorado City, where he served in various capacities, including president. The year he moved to Big Spring, he was governor of District

2-T (not TA-1). He has remained extremely active in club and district affairs since then, noting that "Lions have been a lot more service to me than I have ever been to Lionism." Other tenure awards went to Russell Dorsey, 10 years; Roy Hughes, 15 years; and Gilbert Gibbs, 35 years.

Big Springer awarded $350 scholarship

LUBBOCK — Richard P. Martinez, Texas Tech University architecture senior, has been awarded the $350 Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company-Texas Tech Dad's Association scholarship for 1976-77. The scholarship has been established by the Tenneco Foundation for Tennessee Gas Pipeline

Company by an endowment fund contribution to the Dad's Association. The Dad's Association is an organization of fathers of Texas Tech students and is active in supporting scholarships and other academic and enrichment programs at the university. Martinez has a 3.49 grade point average at Texas Tech and is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, men's freshman honorary; Tau Sigma Delta, Alpha Phi Omega and All University Recognition, Architect Society. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Martinez of 427 Hillside Drive, Big Spring.

Burleson provides information on Academy Nominations

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Omar Burleson reminds young persons who are interested in competing for nominations to the service academies, for the class entering July 1977, they use a competitive method of selection so that all young persons who meet the necessary requirements may be considered. The service academies are the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland; the Military Academy at West Point, New York; the Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs, Colorado; and the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, New York. These institutions offer a fine education and a great opportunity for service to their country by young persons who wish to follow a military career. In order for Congressman Burleson to consider applicants, a candidate must meet these requirements: (1) Must be a U.S. citizen; (2) Must be over 17 and a legal resident of the 17th Congressional District; (3) Must be under 22 years of age on July 1, 1977; (4) Must never have been married; (5) Must be physically fit, including excellent eyesight; (6) Must have a good high school record. Burleson stresses that political influence is not a factor in his nominations to the academies. The important thing is not who you know but what you are. Interested young persons who meet the above requirements should write Congressman Omar Burleson, House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515, no later than July 16. Examinations will then be scheduled as a rating device to set up slates for nomination. The competition is keen but Congressman Burleson wants to assure that all young persons who are interested in a military career may have an opportunity to compete for nomination.

HONEY CUSTARD

1/4 teaspoon salt • 3 eggs, slightly beaten • 1/4 cup honey • 2 cups milk, scalded • nutmeg
Add salt to eggs. Beat eggs just long enough to combine whites and yolks. Add honey to milk. Add honey and milk mixture slowly to eggs. Pour into custard cups. Top with a few gratings of nutmeg. Set custard cups in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (325° F.) about 40 minutes, or until custard is firm.

Energy How must Texas meet its future energy needs?

How must Texas meet its future energy needs? Top graduating seniors from almost 100 of the state's high schools agree on the complexity of the problem. They differ greatly in solutions.

The essay judged best of all, written by 18-year-old Peter Hale Kesser of St. Thomas High School in Houston, summed up the Texas energy problem as follows:

"The question of how to fill Texas' future energy needs is a complex problem, and one that presents very few workable solutions at this time. Our dwindling fossil fuel supply makes it clear that the answer to our long-term needs lies in developing new forms of energy.

"Solar energy systems must be made more compact and economical. Some way of safely storing the highly radioactive wastes produced by breeder reactors must be developed before environmentalists will end their opposition to nuclear fission. Finally, an efficient way must be found to control thermonuclear fusion, the energy source which most scientists feel will be the ultimate phase of power development."

For his top essay, Kesser received a $500 check from Texas Chemical Council, an association of 72 chemical manufacturers in Texas. Another $500 check was presented to his school for purchase of laboratory equipment.

Five other students were judged runners-up, and received $50 checks and calculators. They were: Barry D. Luskey, 17, of Paschal High in Fort Worth.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Marine recruiter who signed up a mentally deficient young Texan who was beaten to death during a training exercise will be asked to explain why the man's mental problems were not detected.

Harold Faulkner, now retired, is to appear today before the House Armed Services subcommittee on military procurement to explain the circumstances surrounding the enlistment of Pvt. Lynn E. McClure.

A subcommittee staff member said the panel would ask Faulkner about discrepancies in the scores of two mental tests given McClure, who died last March.

Oil patch

Amoco staked a well in Glasscock County and three sites were made in Scurry County.

Amoco Production Co. staked No. 2-C.E.L. Powell in the Blalock Lake South (Wolfcamp) field 14 miles northwest of Garden City.

Having a proposed depth of 8,450 feet, it spots 1,650 feet from the north and 968 feet from the east lines of Section 21, Block 35, T-3-S, T&P Survey.

Pearson-Sibert Oil Co., of Texas, a Midland firm, staked location for No. 6 Carey in the Sharon Ridge Field six miles west of Ira in Scurry County.

Having a proposed depth of 2,598 feet, it spots 810 feet from the north and 330 feet from the west lines of the southwest quarter of Section 143, Block 97, H&C Survey.

The same firm will re-enter to 2,900 feet on No. 2-D Burney, six miles northwest of Ira in the Sharon Ridge pool.

Site is 330 feet from the north and 1,650 feet from the east lines of Section 144.

Carl M. Russell of Lubbock will re-enter to 3,175 feet a project three miles west of Ira in the Sharon Ridge Field. It is No. 2-Lindsay.

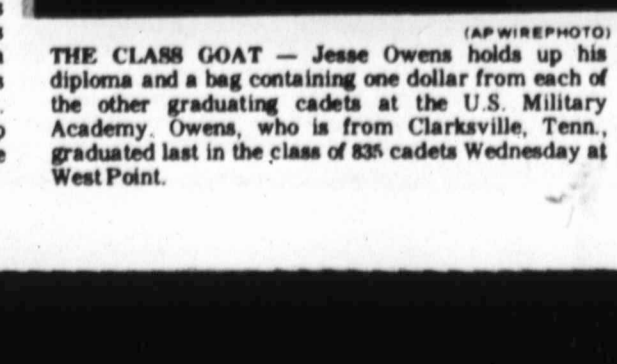

Drill site is 990 feet from the north and west lines of Section 122, Block 97, H&C Survey.

Gulf Oil Corp. will re-enter and plug back to wildcat depth of 5,000 feet, apparently for tests of the San Andres, at its No. 1-CG W. Glass, ex, former producer in the Martin County portion of the Spraberry Trend Area, five miles southeast of San Andres production in the Mabee multiphase field and 11 1/2 miles southwest of Tarzan.

Originally drilled to 9,780 feet, it was completed Nov. 6, 1974 for 12 barrels of 39.6 gravity oil, plus 31 barrels of water, through perforations at 8,691-9,704 feet.

Military Recruiter to explain 'mistake'

Other witnesses have said recruiters were under pressure and even falsified police records to enlist men who were not eligible.

THE CLASS GOAT — Jesse Owens holds up his diploma and a bag containing one dollar from each of the other graduating cadets at the U.S. Military Academy, Owens, who is from Clarksville, Tenn., graduated last in the class of 835 cadets Wednesday at West Point.

Earl makes chief

Claiming that his position as the 78th Flying Training Wing Senior Enlisted Advisor "had something to do with it," SMSgt. Samuel R. Earl reflected upon his selection to chief master sergeant and five months as the top NCO on base.

Ridin' fence

See the Indian fires?

with Marj Carpenter

There's Lone Wolf Mountain. There's Lone Wolf Electric Co-op. And the athletic teams at Colorado High School are Wolves. Why?

Lone Wolf was a chief of a Kiowa tribe located in what is now Oklahoma.

In the old days, the Kiowa and Comanches, living in the Indian Territory never had enough horses, enough goods to trade, and sometimes not enough food.

So they did what they could do best. They raided the land. They would ride by horseback through the day, camping at night until they got all the way down to Old Mexico.

Their trail took them to the water holes and one of these was the Colorado River. They also stopped at the Big Spring and probably crossed at Horsehead Crossing near Iraan. Then they headed for Mexico.

They would raid the herds of wild horses in Mexico, fight when necessary and flee back toward the Territory.

On one of those notorious raids, Lone Wolf's son was reported killed by the angry Mexicans. They tried to carry the body of the son to return to their special burial grounds.

But the Mexicans were reported to have pursued the Indians. The Indians fled their usual route, staying near water because they were trying to drive horses ahead of them.

With their pursuers close on their heels, they camped on the mountain near Colorado City. They apparently decided to bury the son, according to the tales of the old-timers. A battle was reported to have taken place, and the Indians fled hurriedly back to their territory.

An old-timer near Sweetwater recalls that two or three weeks later, there were Indian fires all over the mountain. The tale is that they returned and dug up the son of Lone Wolf and took him back to Indian Territory. The early settlers recalled that they could see the fires and hear the Indians on the mountain in the night.

True or not, it makes a grand tale and the early settlers named the mountain Lone Wolf Mountain around 1890.

The name has stuck and other things in the area have been named for the mountain and the chief.

This year a picture of Lone Wolf has been obtained to be placed in the museum at Colorado City. It's a wonderful museum and has one of the most amazing collections of early history in all of West Texas.

The picture shows Lone Wolf in all of his finery. He has a medallion around his neck of some early vintage coins. He has earrings with long leather thongs and in his pocket, what looks like a sack of Bull Durham tobacco.

It's one more wonderful story about a very historic area around Colorado City. The old-timers declare that on a very dark night, sometimes it appears that there are fires on the mountain and you can hear the Indians in the wind as it howls across Lone Wolf.

Me? I believe it. That's the way it is on Lone Wolf Mountain — when I was out ridin' fence.

Nation going broke?

'Sunset' legislation might be catching on

By OMAR BURLISON

WASHINGTON, C.D. — Remember Mehtabel, the fun-loving cat who claimed to be Cleopatra in an earlier existence?

It seems Mehtabel was perpetually producing kittens which were promptly forgotten about. An inquiry made as to the well-being of her offspring was met by blank stares of innocence, "what kittens?"

Like Mehtabel, the Congress has for years been happily producing programs — health programs, education programs, energy, environmental, transportation, welfare of one kind or another — all sizes, shapes and prices.

These trends came out of a time when the horn of plenty seemed inexhaustible. Like Mehitabel, the Congress never checked very far into the success or well-being of its progeny. Each new program is sent into the world to fend for itself and grow willy-nilly. During the last dozen years the number of Federal domestic programs multiplied from 50 to nearly 1,000. The Federal budget climbed from $158.2 billion in 1967 to an estimated $413 billion for the coming fiscal year of 1977.

It is being recognized that the good old days are over. Vietnam, inflation and recession and all these programs have gotten the Federal budget all out of shape. There is no longer money in the treasury to feed all the ambitions of a Congress bent on taking care of everybody and everything.

Now there are moves to look into every program to see what they are accomplishing, rather than to continue to pour money on failures to try to make them work. Proposals are in motion to look into this vast bureaucracy; to look at performances and to try to evaluate what is being accomplished under them. All programs would be reviewed every three years and automatically abolished unless specifically reauthorized by the Congress.

All expenditures would be brought under budgetary controls with a limit on how much could be spent. This would force the executive branch and the Congress to examine the total Federal effort and when an evaluation is made, the government would apply what is called "zero-based budgeting" which is a fancy way of saying the program managers would be required to explain what would happen if no funds were provided for its continuation.

This legislation has been dubbed "sunset" meaning at end unless found justified for continuance — a concept which has the prospect of catching on across the country.

Some states are already in the process of looking at their regulatory boards and commissions for the same purpose. If they make it work it should be a pretty good signal to Washington that it better work here before this country goes totally broke. By this it is meant, before the nation's credit runs out.

Federal agencies have never been required to justify their existence and they never will unless forced to do so. When this effort is seriously under way, special interest groups with a stake in their existence will descend upon Congress to plead their cause. One needs only to look at the protest presently under way in opposition to efforts to cut down on the food stamp program. Suits have been filed in the courts to prohibit reforms and we will see whether the courts will run the country or if needed changes can be effected in this particular area.

Martha Washington's Baked Pears

- 1 can (about 1 pound) pears, drained
- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- 1 cup crumbled macarons (about 8 cookies)
- 1 tablespoon Imperial Brown Sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup whipping cream
- 1 tablespoon Imperial Powdered Sugar

Butter one-quart baking dish lightly. Arrange drained pear halves in baking dish. Sprinkle orange juice over pears. Mix Imperial Brown Sugar with macaron crumbs (or vanilla wafers) and distribute over pears. Dot with butter or margarine. Bake in a 325°F. oven about 15 minutes or until crumb topping is golden. Serve warm with topping of cream whipped with Imperial Powdered Sugar. Serves 4 to 6.

This is one of a series of 13 new "Revolutionary Recipes" appearing on Imperial Sugar packages and in this newspaper. If you would like a free booklet with all 13 recipes, send in the coupon below.
