

Carter chooses Sen. Mondale

NEW YORK (AP) — Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter acted today to complete the Democratic ticket by designating Sen. Walter F. Mondale as his choice for the vice presidential nomination. Carter's decision will be ratified at tonight's closing session of the Democratic National Convention.

Asked why he had settled on Mondale, Carter said he had found "a remarkable compatibility between his stands on the issues and my own."

Mondale described Carter as "an uncommon man, terribly gifted, committed, experienced, ready, but, above all, a good man and I'm proud and honored to be a part of this team."

Carter kept his choice a secret until the moment, a few minutes after 10 a.m., EDT, when he strode into the Royal Ballroom of the Americana

Hotel to make his announcement.

It was the only suspenseful moment in a convention that belonged totally to the man from Plains, Ga., whose capture of the nomination the night before represented one of the most remarkable coups in American political history.

About an hour before Carter left his suite for the press conference, he received a telephone call from President Ford, who is fighting to be the Republican nominee whom Carter will run against.

According to White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, Ford told Carter he hoped the campaign could be conducted on "a high level" and "I look forward to a good contest this fall."

The vice presidential selection process was drawn out over 30 days during which Carter said he changed his mind three times.

"This has been, as you can well imagine, one of the most difficult decisions I have had to make," he told the news conference. "But I have absolutely no doubt that this is the right decision."

Carter called the Minnesota senator "the best person to lead this country if something should happen to me." He added that Mondale has "a very clear concept of what the presidency should be."

Mondale arrived at the Americana during Carter's news conference. He was accompanied by his wife, Joan.

Carter said Mondale had suffered from mild hypertension, but that

"since he has been taking medication he has had no problem."

Carter said Mondale's medical records had been examined by a doctor and they showed nothing unusual for a 48-year-old man.

With his wife at his side, Mondale joined Carter at the ballroom podium and said, "I am proud and honored to be a part of this team."

Asked about his trip to Plains where he was interviewed by Carter, Mondale said they had a long talk about the role of the vice president in a Carter administration.

"I was not interested in a ceremonial post," the senator said. "I was pleased to see he plans to use his vice president in a broad range of responsibilities."

"I am determined to put major responsibilities on the head of the vice president," Carter told the news conference.

'Making friends' in big city

Carter clambake turns into love-in for Shaws

Special to The Herald

NEW YORK — "New Yorkers love Delano and Larry Shaw." This was proclaimed by three signs on the floor of the Democratic National Convention Wednesday night.

Several signs blossomed for Delano Shaw, Carter delegate and Cosden Oil Co. employe in Big Spring, Tex., and his brother Larry Shaw, Howard County farmer, after they told the "whole world" in the New York Times how wonderful New Yorkers have been to them.

While many of the Democrats were crowning Jimmy Carter "King," the Shaws were busy "making friends" with delegates who read the story on the front page of the "Times."

The signs were made by a woman professor at New York University, Larry explained. "She also helped me round up some extra copies of the paper to take back to Big Spring."

Delano said he doesn't think Jimmy Carter will have any trouble carrying Texas with Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., on the ticket.

John Hill, Texas' attorney general, who was seated next to Larry Shaw and Gordon Zeigler, former Big Spring Herald reporter, at a press conference today in the Essex House, agreed.

"Mondale has been labeled liberal," Hill said. "I feel that after the people in Texas hear him and get to know him this will be no problem."

Zeigler, former area editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, is studying for his master's degree at New York University. He contacted the Shaws after spotting the story in the Times.

"I've got my foot in the door," Larry said. "I've managed to get me an honored guest ticket for tonight and I've got a Gordon a guest ticket. He's going to play hooky."

"The honored guest tickets are supposed to be selling for $500," Larry noted.

The Shaw brothers are "very happy" about Sen. Mondale being selected as vice presidential nominee. Many delegates continue to discuss bus service to Madison Square Garden, good places to eat and the next party.

"A cup of coffee costs 75 cents at most places," Larry observed. "And a refill is extra."

"Delano and I got free coffee, hot rolls and Georgia peaches at the Carter headquarters this morning," he added.

When will the Shaws return to Big Spring?

"We want to see at few of the sights in 'fun city,'" Larry said. "But with most everything so high I guess we'll leave tomorrow afternoon."

Hoffa dead, killer known

DETROIT (AP) — The FBI has proof that former Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa is dead and knows who killed him, the Detroit News said today.

"The evidence is growing every day," and "major progress" has been made in the case, the newspaper quoted a confidential source as saying.

"We believe we now know all the significant details of the case and who killed Hoffa," the News quoted its source as saying. The source said indictments will eventually be issued in the case.

On Wednesday, the son of a reputed Mafia figure was given immunity from prosecution to testify before a grand jury probing the disappearance of Hoffa, who vanished nearly a year ago.

Joseph Giacalone, 23, son of reputed Detroit mobster Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone, spent nearly 90 minutes before the grand jury Wednesday after U.S. District Court Judge John Feikens signed an immunity order.

Revenue sharing helps meet county expenses

Raises for all and then some?

By JOHN EDWARDS

While department heads outlined reasons for budget increases Wednesday, members of County Commissioners Court dwelled on the amount of total appropriations and revenue.

Without revenue sharing, which is expected to be re-enacted, expenditures would exceed current revenue, County Auditor Virginia Black said.

"We have always tried not to use revenue sharing for our ordinary day-to-day operating expense," Mrs. Black said. The court discussed communities and other counties which had and might be unable to sustain their current level of operations without revenue sharing or other additional receipts.

But Mrs. Black noted a number of operating expenses which are to be paid through revenue sharing here.

Commissioners, who had planned tentatively to grant all county employes a 5-per-cent raises, grappled with additional individual pay increase requests until Wednesday night.

In doing this, the equity of salaries of comparable county employes came under questioning.

Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas mentioned efforts several years ago to create fair salary classifications and increase pay across the board rather than individually.

"But I don't think we ever got it level," Terrazas said. "I don't see how you can give one a raise without giving it to all of them," Terrazas added.

"There ought to be some way we could equalize the amounts of work that gets done with equal amounts of pay," Commissioner Ikie Rupard said.

"You can bring any officeholder up here, and their office does more than any other one," was the response.

Commissioners voted to request department heads and elective officials to provide job descriptions of their subordinates.

In addition to considering pay for justices of the peace and the adult probation officer, the court heard a number of requests to promote employes to higher salary classifications. Not until about 5 p.m. did the court start tentatively trimming requests item by item.

In earlier conferences, Sheriff A. N. Standard suggested two women deputies be paid the same amount male deputy sheriffs are and wanted to hire an additional deputy.

Standard wanted the additional deputy for patrolling the Midway, Sand Springs and Coahoma areas from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. "We could probably work it without another car," the sheriff said.

"We do have a blind spot in some hours that we are trying to fill in on," Standard said.

German chief welcomed to White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — To a 21-gun salute, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt was welcomed to the White House today.

"I can say without exaggeration that bilateral relations could not be better," Schmidt told President Ford at the start of a two-day Bicentennial visit.

Ford, in turn, praised West Germany as a "true friend and ally which shares our deep commitment to peace and democracy." He said since the end of World War II, West Germany has achieved "stability, social justice and economic well-being."

Several hours also have been set aside for talks with Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Zirah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector, wanted the chief of the vehicle registration office paid a first deputy's salary.

District Clerk Peggy Crittenden asked the court to consider paying her newest deputy at the second deputy rate.

Ed Cherry, juvenile probation officer, wanted his salary to be equal to that of the sheriff.

And librarian Susan Conley suggested employing an additional worker in the library and increasing allocations for books and other materials loaned to patrons.

IOC may abandon Olympics

MONTREAL (AP) — The International Olympic Committee is ready to take drastic action, probably withdrawing sanction from the Montreal Olympic Games, if Canada does not permit a skeleton team of Taiwanese athletes already in the country to march under their national colors in Saturday's opening parade, the president of the U.S. Olympic Committee said Thursday.

"I was with Lord Killanin (president of the International Olympic Committee) until late last night and I know that the IOC delegates voted unanimously on such action," Philip O. Krumm told an informal news conference in the lobby of his Montreal hotel. This is direct confrontation with the Canadian government. If the government it down, the IOC is ready to make this drastic move. You can say the monkey is now on the back of COJ (the Montreal Olympic Organizing Committee).

"The details of this plan were worked out in the IOC council without opposition last night and the IOC today is considering the manner in which its stand is to be presented to COJO."

Siamese twins undergo tests

HOUSTON (AP) — Siamese twin girls, whose joining was detected prior to birth by sound waves, began five days of tests Thursday to determine the feasibility of separation surgery.

"In so far as we can determine, this was the first time for Siamese twins to be diagnosed prior to birth through use of sonography," said a spokesman at the University of Texas Medical Branch.

The twins were delivered by Caesarean section Wednesday to Mrs. Barbara Ann Jones, 24, of Beaumont.

No firm date set

Impact study delayed again

The release of the first draft environmental impact statement on Webb Air Force Base has apparently been postponed for a third time.

This time, according to an Air Force spokesman in the Pentagon, no firm date has been set for when the statement might be finished.

The comment from the Pentagon came in response to a Big Spring Herald inquiry about rumors that the impact statement may be delayed indefinitely.

IN A letter to the Herald last weekend, Cong. Omar Burteson stated that none of the impact statements of proposed base closings announced earlier this year had yet been released.

"I am advised that all will be released together," the congressman wrote, "and the time will probably be some time in the fall."

When the proposed closure of Webb was announced March 11, the Air Force said the first draft of the impact statement would be available to the public by June 1. This date was later moved to mid-June, and later to mid-July. When asked about a new date, the Pentagon spokesman said:

"I DON'T really have a firm answer. In fact, I don't have an unfirm answer... It (the impact statement) is going throughout the air staff, and it depends on what various agencies say about it when a date could be set."

The spokesman said that by Friday he hoped to have a "ballpark" date that would at least indicate what month the impact statement might be released.

He said the impact statement is being prepared by the Air Force and has been written by the Air Training Command in San Antonio. He added there "may be some civilian contractors involved in gathering information."

The spokesman said it was not abnormal for an impact statement to take "quite a while" because one agency will comment that a particular part needs to be redone or more research added, and it must be rewritten.

A NUMBER of on-going environmental statements are being done, he said, and each will be released when it is ready.

The spokesman said he "suspected" that the Air Training Command impact statements would be released at the same time if both are ready. Craig Air Force Base at Salem, Ala., is a second ATC base being considered for closure.

About 45 days after the impact statement is released, a public hearing is to be held in Big Spring on the statement. At that time, local citizens will be given an opportunity to testify.

All testimony and information is incorporated into a final environmental impact statement. At that time, a final decision on the future of Webb will be made by the Air Force.

THE AIR FORCE

had originally announced a possible target closing date of Dec. 31, 1975. Officials later indicated that any possible closing might come next spring. It is not certain how delays in the release of the Webb impact statement might affect this timetable.

The Air Force spokesman could give no specific reason for the delays.

Action/reaction: Handwritten will binding?

Q. How binding is a handwritten will? My father has one that I'm worried about. Does it need witnesses? Would it help if it is notarized?

A. An entirely handwritten will does not have to be witnessed or notarized, a courthouse source said.

"Holographic (handwritten by the one making the will) wills are legal, but they're foolish," the source said.

"So often the layman gets to dabbling with legal theory, and he's wrong, and it creates a Frankenstein monster."

The source suggested paying an attorney a relatively small fee now rather than later paying one a larger fee to untangle the legal problems with a poorly prepared will.

Jimmy half way to White House

HALE AND FAREWELL — U.S. Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, nominated during the convention, saluted the delegates Wednesday night. During his speech he released his delegates.

NEW YORK (AP) — When he was governor of Georgia, he appeared on "What's My Line" and nobody could guess what his line was.

When he was governor of Georgia, his mother asked what he expected to do after leaving the state house and he said:

"Run for president."
"President of what?"
"President of the United States. And I'm going to win."

Today, Jimmy Carter was half way there, while many people in his party were still wondering what his line was.

He reached the half-way point at 11:15 p.m. (EDT), July 14, 1976, in the fourth day of the second week of the third century of the Republic and the 19th month of Jimmy Carter's quest, begun at ground zero.

It went this way Wednesday night, a sequence of events which somehow combined tedium, comedy and poignance....

At 9:10, Carter's name is placed in nomination by Rep. Peter Rodino, unknown beyond the pizza parlors of Newark, N.J., until he became a hero of Watergate. His eloquence goes unattended.

Among the seconds, Rep. Andrew Young, first black man elected to Congress from Georgia, says:

A moment to remember, a black man from the South nominating for president a white man from the South....

The name of Ellen McCormack of Merrick, N.Y., is placed in nomination and the crowd sinks into a new level of indifference.

Archibald Cox, another hero of Watergate, rises to nominate Mo Udall of Arizona and the cheers for a loser seem more spontaneous and more reluctant to end than the cheers for the winner.

"If this goes on much longer I might accept the nomination," says Udall from the platform.

Udall releases his 348 delegates, a graceful, witty withdrawal by the wittiest Democrat since Adlai Stevenson....

The name of Jerry Brown of California, the Huck Finn of mystics, is placed in nomination by Cesar Chavez. Small ovation.

It is now 10:57 and the roll call begins and Brown has still not released his delegates to the inevitable.

The aisles are more crowded than a Cook County ballot box.

Alabama begins with a long speech about the glories of Alabama and the virtues of George Wallace. The crowd boos the rhetoric. Alabama pushes on. The crowd tries to clap the speaker into silence.

Alabama tries again. The chair pleads. Alabama finally votes 30 for Carter, five for Wallace....

"California casts 205 votes for Jerry Brown, 73 for Carter and...."

Mississippi goes for Carter. Among the delegates are a white man named Ross Barnett Jr., and a black man named Charles Evers.

At 11:15, Ohio, "Ohio, in a spirit of love and unity, is proud and honored to cast 132 votes for...." Jimmy Carter is over and the im-

Court split over wages of 'justice'

A proposal to increase salaries for two justices of the peace by an estimated 50 per cent resulted in a 3-2 vote over a counter proposal in County Commissioners Court Wednesday afternoon.

The matter is to be resolved Monday when county commissioners resume discussions over the budget for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

County Auditor Virginia Black had figured a $10,000 annual salary for Justices of the Peace Bob West and Gus Ochotorena Jr. This would be in addition to their $1,200 in yearly car allowances but the $10 allowed for each inquest was to be deleted.

Commissioner Jack Buchanan opposed this much of a raise and suggested $7,320 and $1,500 in car allowances. Ochotorena and West are making $6,948 yearly now, "and let them continue their weddings (tips) and inquests," Buchanan said.

Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas seconded the motion by Buchanan, and Commissioners Ikie Rupard and William B. Crooker Jr. voted no. County Judge Bill

Tune cast the deciding vote against the lower salary raise.

Buchanan said both men were appointed to the positions and sought (or are seeking) re-election, knowing the salaries and irregular hours.

"I'll tell you what," Judge Tune said, "We have about the lowest paid JPs in the state."

"We're actually paying our county trapper more than our JPs," Crooker said. "I'm not saying our trapper isn't worth it."

"He's been working for the county about 30 years," Buchanan said.

Praising the late Jess Slaughter, Terrazas said other peace justices were not granted large pay increases.

Work done by the two justices collecting on worthless checks for merchants was mentioned.

Buchanan spoke of secretaries and Manpower Program workers who helped the peace justices. Judge Tune noted the large amounts of fines collected through Texas Highway Patrol citations for traffic violations.

Buchanan said the engineer nobody knows w effect of reorganization v experts have tes least 10 to 20 y certainty and la follow at a tin nation is facti energy needs.

Lamesa FFA leader wins scholarship

Seventeen Texas Future Farmers including Button Senter of Lamesa are winners of college scholarships and achievement awards provided by Santa Fe Railway, J. A. Marshall, director of agricultural education, Austin, has announced.

J. E. Wark, Santa Fe assistant manager-sales at Dallas, presented the winners with award certificates during the 48th annual Texas FFA convention in Dallas Memorial Auditorium today.

Wark also presented the railroad's check for $3,125 to help support FFA during 1976 to Mark Ellison, FFA state president.

Justice 'quick' at Webb, but thefts still numerous

By MARJ CARPENTER Webb Air Force officials report that 145 cases of theft on the base last year showed a total of $15,476 worth of property stolen.

Broken down, $10,530 of the amount was personal property, $4,636 in government property and $319 in non-appropriated funds.

So far this year, there have been 58 thefts valued at $6,058 personal property and $7,608 government property.

Col. Harry A. Spannaus, wing commander, said "Recent happenings again must remind us that our security blanket cannot possibly cover everyone and all situations."

Recently an automobile parked at the Auto Hobby Shop was stripped of all loose parts. The transmission was even removed.

Tires have also disappeared on the base "like magic." However, Webb Security has had some success in catching the tire thieves and the military quickly takes care of its own.

A recent editorial in "The Prairie Pilot" tells of two recent court-martials at Webb. Both court-martials involved the theft of tires from two separate automobiles.

One individual, on three separate occasions, apparently decided that it was cheaper to steal the tires. Twice, he was reported to be assisted by another airman.

The first airman was convicted by a special court-martial and sentenced to serve six months confinement at hard labor, forfeit $150 per month for six months and be reduced to Airman Basic.

The second airman received a lighter sentence, but still will serve 100 days in confinement.

One local city law enforcement officer, upon reading the editorial in the military newspaper, said wistfully, "I wish there were some way that we could see our in-town thieves put to justice so quickly."

Residents and occupants of the base have been reminded by top officials at the base that "Living and working on a military installation with armed guards at the gates and roving police patrols tends to give one a false sense of security."

They are being urged to put quality locks and hasps on all lockers, lock up all valuables, lock cars when parked, fail to keep large amounts of cash and to avoid walking alone, especially in dark, deserted areas.

Breaking up big oil firms would drive gas costs up?

A bill now before Congress which would break up the major oil companies would drive prices higher on just about everything, a Midland oil executive has said.

Ken Terrill, engineering manager for the Permian Basin operations of Atlantic Richfield, said the short term effect of the so-called "divestiture" legislation would be confusion and shortages.

But, he added in the talk to the Big Spring Rotary Club meeting at the Settles Hotel at noon Tuesday, "the long-range effect would be to drive prices higher."

Terrill said oil industry does not believe that the bill will pass, but it is taking nothing for granted. He noted that the last vote on the measure in the U.S. Senate is expected later this month.

Terrill said the bill would dismember oil companies into their four functions: 1) exploration; 2) refining; 3) transporting; and 4) marketing. Each of the 22 largest companies would be required to become four companies, or 80 in all, should the bill become law.

The engineer said that nobody knows what the total effect of such a reorganization would be but experts have testified that at least 10 to 20 years of uncertainty and lawsuits would follow at a time when the nation is facing increasing energy needs.

Terrill said oil companies are organized in the manner that they are because they are most efficient that way. Breaking them up would make operations more expensive, he said.

He contended that the oil industry is more competitive than most major U.S. industries with no company controlling more than 8.2 per cent of gasoline or 9 per cent of refinery capability, and he said it was becoming more competitive among the 10,000 companies since independents were increasing their share of the market by 8 per cent in the last seven years.

The Atlantic Richfield executive said oil company profits were only 2 cents a gallon, close to the average for most American industries. Most of the profits are paid, he contended, not to rich people but mostly to typical middle-class American investors, most of whom have incomes of under $20,000 a year.

Terrill said the U.S. consumer is paying less for gasoline than any other consumer in a major country. If the price of gasoline had only kept up with inflation over the past 30 years, it would now cost 80 cents a gallon, he said.

Terrill was introduced by Jim Baum.

Highlights of the colorful Lions International Convention in Honolulu were detailed to the Downtown Lions Wednesday by Dan Conley.

Conley, with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Schley Riley, were among the plane load of Texans who went to the islands the last week in June. Conley described as unforgettable the "Flags of Nations" presentation in which more than 110 nations and free territories having Lions Clubs participated.

He also described the four-hour parade, including 1,600 Brazilians, on hand to celebrate the installation of Joa Fernando Sobral as Lions International president.

The group also made an extended tour of the islands before returning home. This was the sixth international convention for Conley, who has been a member of the Downtown Club for over 40 years.

Grady Bradbury, president, and Joe Pond, past district governor, was in charge of the program.

Colorado City paving shapes

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Council Tuesday night agreed to use $80,379 of recently-voted bond money to build 22 blocks of new paving in areas with chronic drainage problems.

Only three blocks will have curbs and gutters with the other 19 to be what the council referred to as "farm-to-market" style.

The paving will be built without cost to adjacent land owners since the council considers it to be a major benefit to the city since it will solve many drainage problems.

Prison farm in WT eyed

The Texas Department of Corrections, the state prison system, is considering a prison farm in West Texas.

One reason for this, I believe, is that the TDC has been criticized by groups from El Paso and other far-flung West Texas towns for having their prisons clustered around Huntsville and Houston in East Texas.

The distance alone makes traveling to see family in the TDC most difficult for West Texans.

ANOTHER REASON is that the prison population is growing at staggering rates. The count is now over 20,000. Only two years ago it was less than 18,000 inmates.

The new prison unit at Palestine is being filled as quickly as it is completed, and the outlook is for more and more inmates to keep arriving daily at the TDC.

The TDC has no control at all over how many inmates it must house. The courts across the state send the prison system its criminals; the prison must house them. The Board of Pardon and Paroles decides which inmates can get out on parole, and this board is very conservative.

AS A RESULT, 50 per cent of the inmates simply serve their time before being released. The law dictates when the TDC must release them.

Although Texas' "good time" law is quite liberal in allowing inmates who are doing well to earn two days for every one served, most inmates still serve the majority of their terms before being eligible for release.

As TDC Director Jim Estelle said, the citizens of Texas are tired of crime. Juries are sending more people to prison for longer time periods.

AUSTIN WAS shaken by the size of the TDC's request. Correction officials estimated that $99 million will be needed to build the new prison if it is contracted. It can be built by inmate labor over a longer period of time for $67 million.

Because the Texas prison system is a so-called "conservative system" where inmates still work 40 hours a week to help support themselves, this state is not accustomed to seeing the huge prison budgets of other large states like California and New York.

Texas prisons keep an inmate for about $5 a day cost to the taxpayer, where in other large states the costs per inmate day run $20 to $30 to taxpayers.

BUT CONSERVATIVE is definitely not bad as far as Texas goes. The prisons of this state are clean and modern — so much that Hollywood declined to film movies in them because they "don't look like prisons."

And the recidivism rate (the number who return to prison) in Texas is about 20 per cent, the lowest of the nation's major prison systems.

The Texas prison system has been the pioneer in education behind the bars. Until very recently, more of its inmates were enrolled in college courses than all the rest of the nation's prisons combined. Every inmate must go to school until his or her education reaches a certain level. Thousands graduate from the prison's high school every year. Inmates learn skills by hands-on work, too, and many do come out qualified masons, printers, vehicle body repairmen and a variety of other tradesmen.

TWO MAJOR criticisms of the TDC have been that they are 1) farms in rural settings for the most part and 2) large institutions housing 2,000 (sometimes up to 4,000) inmates.

There are other alternatives. One is community-based corrections where only the persons who are dangerous to society would be sent to prisons. The TDC has supported this concept.

BUT TEXANS are not yet ready for that, and in states where community-based corrections have been tried, the prison population has not been greatly reduced.

So the only choice for Texans is a new prison farm, even though it will be expensive.

Texas has the best, the cheapest and the most effective of the major prison systems. A West Texas prison farm will help it stay that way.

J. TOM GRAHAM

'Clean Gene'

Around the rim

James Werrell

On a recent "Issues and Answers" program Sen. George McGovern was asked a question about former Minnesota Senator Eugene McCarthy. McGovern prefaced his answer with the statement that "the Democratic Party and the nation owe a lot to Senator McCarthy" for being one of the first to speak out against the Vietnam War, and moving the party in a progressive direction.

I was very happy to hear someone mention this. Though too young to vote, I went door to door gathering signatures for petitions to get "Clean Gene" on the primary ballot in Ohio in 1968. In the Republican stronghold of Cincinnati I was met mostly with slammed doors.

But I was undismayed. Even the small part I played in trying to "dump the Hump" was an exciting one.

AND MCCARTHY is still exciting. He is still a rarity on the political scene; a man with wit and vision. Though quixotic, his bid for the presidency on an independent ticket should be watched if for no other reason than he is saying something different.

But there are other reasons. Amidst the cliches and homilies spouted by the major party front-runners, McCarthy's opinions ring clear as a bell. He has a way of avoiding the obvious and safe, and of outflanking and pinpointing an issue.

Examples of this were presented in a recent copy of the newspaper supplement "Family Weekly" in which McCarthy was questioned about several of this election year's major issues.

On the vice presidency, the Senator said, "Personally, I'd like to do away with the office altogether. The Vice President has no real function.

"BUT, PERHAPS if a candidate picked a running mate that he was in agreement with on major issues and purposes, rather than some mediocre but agreeable character from a different region of the country, then the office of Vice President could be made useful."

On the topic of presidential wives, McCarthy said, "If they don't want to be ridiculed by the press, and if they really want the respect of every citizen, First Ladies should leave politicking to the Chief Executive."

"Maybe we ought to entertain the idea of celibacy for our President. Look how well it has served the Papacy for centuries!"

On rising crime in the country, McCarthy said, "Severe punishment seems a poor solution. The record shows absolutely no relation between suppression and the degree of crime."

"I particularly object to the severe sentencing for auto thieves. Why not punish them by giving them cars and making them pay for the upkeep?"

ONE LISTENS to rank and file politicians gave the same, safe answers to the same questions for so long that it is easy to forget that there is different approach. The situation is much like that of the learned scientist who has dealt with a complex problem in one way for so long, that he fails to find the simple solution right under his nose.

This is not to suggest that answers to all of the country's problems are simple. It's just that most of the old answers are growing stale. Eugene McCarthy may be the man to blow the dust off of some of them.

No Cartermania

Robert Novak

NEW YORK — The downbeat mood at the Democratic National Convention despite its exceptionally bright prospects can be partially explained by the unwillingness of Jimmy Carter, aloof and stiff-necked in victory, fully to embrace old rivals including Hubert H. Humphrey.

Sen. Humphrey, in the front ranks of the party for a generation, confides that published stories about Carter's frequent telephone talks with him are simply untrue. Those reports, Humphrey feels, have been leaked by Carter's staff to benefit Carter.

THIS IMPLICIT estrangement between Carter and Humphrey promotes growing worries among many Democrats that Carter does indeed possess a streak of vindictiveness. He turned on Humphrey by condemning him as a has-been when Humphrey was being pushed, unsuccessfully, to enter the New Jersey primary, and he has failed to use the past month to heal the wound.

Such an attitude by the victors explains the mood reflected by one small but revealing incident Sunday night in the wee hours of a Pierre Hotel party for the Black Caucus — an incident which exactly expresses the querulous mood that surrounds Carter. A liberal congressional leader asked an East Coast black how she felt about Carter. "I'm hoping for the best but I have my fingers crossed."

THAT "SHOW ME" attitude of veiled criticism has deepening roots in nearly every part of the national Democratic party, not just among Northern blacks, nor just among liberals worried about Carter's ideology.

A case in point is Carter's strange handling of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, similar but more politically damaging than his coolness toward Humphrey. As of Monday morning, neither Carter nor his political aides had bothered to get in touch with Brown, who beat Carter in five-out-of-five primaries, to arrange for Carter-Brown harmony here.

THE RESULT: some Brown advisors say he might actually make a quixotic race for the vice presidential nomination. At the very least, his name will be put in nomination for President with a seconding speech, perhaps, from Gov. Edwin Edwards of Louisiana who, alone among Democratic governors, has flatly refused to endorse Carter.

Such game-playing by Brown in the face of Carter's lock on the nomination tells much about the deep-seated animus Carter has allowed to develop out of Brown's madcap campaign. All this could have been avoided by a more traditional Carter attitude as a gracious winner.

Other examples abound. A top activist in the liberal Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) wonders out loud why Carter should have leveled a public attack on Joseph P. Kamp, a longtime liberal leader but these days a relatively minor figure in party politics. Down in Alabama, Carter has not asked Gov. George Wallace to campaign for him, though key Alabama delegates here say a Ford-Reagan ticket might defeat Carter there if he picks Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota for Vice President.

SIMILARLY, CARTER has made no effort to give Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona a place on the convention program. Although Udall was Carter's only competitor over the full spring primary route, his only chance to get to the rostrum here may come when he withdraws his name and endorses Carter. Again, Carter is scarcely in the posture of a gracious winner.

Less important, imminent Carter decisions will infuriate various factions of his party, but this is the normal routine of politics when any new leader takes command. For example, powerful forces in the Black Caucus are angry that Carter wants to dump Basil Paterson, the New York City black leader, as vice chairman of the party in favor of Coleman Young, the black mayor of Detroit.

EVEN THOUGH any new nominee will make changes like that, the Young-for-Paterson switch "is generating some anti-Carter animus based on the same perception of vindictiveness which is coloring so much other sub-surface criticism of Carter: he is dumping Basil Paterson because Paterson was late getting on the Carter bandwagon."

Thus, at the moment of triumph in capturing the world's oldest living political party, Carter is confronting a largely unspoken vein of hostile resentment which could in time undercut his ability to draw the best effort from his party. For now, Carter is still held in minimum high regard by many party leaders, no matter how brilliant his drive for the nomination.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: A recent move to another city has brought us to a church with unusual teaching. We are advised not to give too much prominence to the Bible, lest we worship it. And many of the miracles, like Jonah, are treated as fables. We don't want to be contentious, but how do sincere Christians handle such a doctrinal drift? — A.M.

DEAR A.M.: It was said of Queen Esther (Esther 4:14) that perhaps she had "come to the kingdom for such a time as this," so important and timely was her presence and her influence in the house of King Ahasuerus.

It occurs to me that in many of the churches across America where traditional Biblical views are ridiculed, there may still be Bible-believing people. I don't think these folk should necessarily leave such congregations, however their witness for Christ may be ordained of God to accomplish His purposes in keeping alive the Good News of the Gospel. Stand up for Christ and God's Word, and dare to be a modern Daniel. Your influence will make a mighty impact.

But there also needs to be compensating measures to keep personal faith vital. Try to find fellowship among those of like persuasion. Pray for the pastor and the church leadership. Make sure you don't develop a critical spirit, but practice love for all. And when you have the opportunity, share your views candidly.

Do everything possible to stay with the group, but if and when you're losing more than you're gaining spiritually, find another church home.

Garage sale

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The Democratic Party is holding its super garage sale at Madison Square Garden this week, and there are many items of interest for the collector as well as bargain hunter.

Some of the bargains include:

Sen. Hubert Humphrey's acceptance speech as the presidential candidate. The speech, written in February, 1976, is an emotional one, promising to bring all the elements of the party together, and telling why the senator has decided to reluctantly accept the draft of the Democrats to avoid a stalemate in New York. It is 200 pages long and typed, double-spaced, on white paper. It is brand-new and never been used.

A PRESS RELEASE from Sen. Teddy Kennedy saying, although he had vowed he would never be candidate for President in 1976, he has never committed himself on being Hubert Humphrey's vice presidential candidate. He agreed to accept President-elect Humphrey's invitation to serve on the ticket only to prevent a Republican victory and for the good of the party. The press release goes on to state that "no deals have been made with President-elect Humphrey for Teddy" to be the presidential candidate in 1980, if he agrees to run as Vice President this time.

One hundred thousand copies of "The Wit of Henry Jackson." These paperbacks, which the publisher printed in January, are available at 10 cents a copy and are all autographed by Sen. Jackson. They make marvelous gifts for birthdays and other joyful events.

THE GARAGE SALE is also offering campaign buttons from the primary. There are 700,000 "Fred Harris, the People's Choice" on sale; 200,000 "Milton Shapp, Everyone's Favorite Son," and "Go to Church for Your President" buttons in various barrels.

Other items of interest are photographs of Mo Udall in front of the Lincoln Memorial, and Sarge Shriver standing outside a factory gate shaking hands with a worker in Massachusetts. Because of the heavy demand for them, only one photograph can be sold to each customer.

Another item which could go for a big price is the straw mat Gov. Jerry Brown slept on when he campaigned in Maryland and New Jersey.

And still another interesting bit of memorabilia is the china plate with the governor of Maryland's seal on it. This is the very plate that Gov. Marvin Mandel ate crow from before he stood up to endorse Jimmy Carter for President last week in Hershey, Pa.

Sen. Birch Bayh's TV commercials are on sale for $1.50 a minute. He is also offering his endorsements from various labor unions for 50 cents each, which he has now concluded was exactly what they were worth.

Another highlight of the garage sale has been contributed by Democratic congressmen. They are the various reform packages submitted in the House after the recent sex scandals. Nobody knows what is in the packages, and people will bid on them blindly. The reason they have been put on sale, a congressman told me, is that is the only way they could get them out of the committee.

Three months is too soon

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 23 years old, the same age as my husband. I have been trying to become pregnant for three months now. My periods are regular. Now I know that conception takes place when the egg is fertilized, but is it true that it may take a day or two for sperm to travel to the ovary? If so, then in order to conceive would you have to have sex a few days before ovulation? Mrs. J.V.

Once sperm enters your body it completes the "voyage" to the Fallopian tube in less than an hour. Some authorities say the sperm can remain active in the tubes (capable of fertilizing an egg) for up to 72 hours.

The egg's life is a bit more tenuous. It enters the tube almost immediately after ovulation, but unless impregnated it usually deteriorates within a few hours.

But this is all such an uncertain matter that it can't be said when the best time for intercourse would be for any individual couple. You could become pregnant if you have intercourse a day or two before ovulation. You might not if you had it a few hours after the precise moment of ovulation.

In any event, three months is a bit soon to be pushing any conception panic button. You should wait at least a year before suspecting an infertility problem.

One bit of advice that might help is not to have relations often at non-ovulation time of the month. This would help conserve your husband's sperm supply for when it would have most effect.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain the difference between arthritis pain and the pain in the arm related to a heart problem. — R.A.

Arthritic pain is pretty distinctive — a stiffness in the joints, usually with some swelling. In the arm it can be at the shoulder, elbow, wrist or fingers, and it is usually "bilateral." That means it occurs in the same joints on both sides of the body.

The heart-related pain usually occurs on the left side — from the shoulder down, and it usually follows a heart attack, persisting for some time after the attack. It can be confused with angina pectoris, which is pain caused by blood supply "starvation" of the heart muscle itself, an important distinction.

With the post-heart attack

Blackmail on tube

William F. Buckley, Jr.

In March, the Reagan people asked to buy a half hour's prime time and the networks said No. That struck the Reagan people as unreasonable — he had, after all, established that he was a serious contender for the presidency; in due course, NBC relented. Reagan went on to prove that he is the most serious challenger of an incumbent president in this century. He has out-poled a sitting President, and at this writing is only 37 delegates behind him. Indeed, if President Ford had not appeared over the weekend cradled in the arms of the Statue of Liberty, with Roman candles spouting from both hands, the general migration of Republican sentiment might have moved decisively to Reagan.

IN ANY EVENT, once again Reagan approached the networks and asked to buy a half hour. He went first to CBS, that being the largest network, and got from CBS a flat No.

The implications of that decision should, really, be considered. The discussion is endless on the matter of the responsibility of networks and broadcasters, and the regulations of the FCC, acting on legislative mandate, and confirmed (unanimously) by the Supreme Court, call for making room for matters of urgent national business. I should like to know what half hour devoted to the political business of the nation could better serve the public interest than the opportunity to listen to the case of the contender who has already defied American habit by bringing an incumbent president in his own party to his knees?

ONE CANNOT hold Eric Sevareid responsible for the decision (indeed, I have no doubt that if Mr. Sevareid were in command, he'd have instructed the network to release the time). But Mr. Sevareid's voice is, in a way, the public voice of CBS: the strict, moralistic, duty-oriented "shoulder-hand" pain, simple pain-relieving medicine usually helps. Relief from the angina requires different treatment.

I can't tell whether you have arthritis or heart-related pain (or both). It's quite difficult (almost impossible, in fact) to describe differences in body pains of this kind. That you should consult a doctor goes without saying. If you have pain, other symptoms and simple tests will be clues as to the cause.

That his own network should refuse Reagan, under these circumstances, one half hour will encourage smirks when time comes for the daily homily from CBS about good citizenship.

Inevitably the question arises: Would CBS have given over the time to someone else, in other circumstances? As a rule, the networks haven't sold time to primary candidates. But what is a "rule" in the circumstances? Obviously if Harold Stassen were to present himself with eighty thousand dollars, CBS would suggest he give it, and himself, to the Red Cross. But some primaries are of national importance. Thus the critical debate between Humphrey and McGovern on the eve of the California primary was broadcast as a public event, at no cost to the candidates.

And, a few weeks ago, NBC sold a half hour to Governor Jerry Brown of California — after he had pulled out of the race. The governor obviously had money left over and, like a true son of Keynes, resolved to spend it for the multiplier effect.

INEVITABLY, as I say, distrust is aroused. Is it because Reagan is the unfashionable candidate, scorned in the bunker of Eastern Seaboard liberalism? (James Reston fever, as of this morning, is running high. About Reagan he says he will say nothing, "out of respect for the laws of libel.") A simpler way to put it is: Could you imagine CBS having said No if the candidate requesting time had been Eugene McCarthy, on the eve of the Chicago Convention?

I confess to having set up an ambush. Because, in 1968, CBS did sell time for a program by McCarthy. And in 1964, it sold time to William Scranton, the liberal alternative to Barry Goldwater, when he was situated to come into the Convention with less than a third of the votes Reagan has. Let's leave it that ABC, like NBC, last March, behaved responsibly.

Will vigil end Friday?

GRANNIS, Ark. (AP) — Will lightning flash across the sky and Satan be bound for a thousand years? Or will the bureaucrats have their way?

One way or another, the vigil for the second coming of Christ and the end of the world will be over Friday.

At 9 a.m., U.S. marshals are due to begin evicting the 24 vigil members from the three-bedroom brick home where they wait for Christ to return nearly 10 months ago.

"We expect no problems," a spokesman for the marshal's office said. "Everything should go very quietly."

Vigil members disagree. They believe the world will have seen nothing like what will happen Friday. They have read their Bibles where it says: "For as the lightning flashes and lights up the sky from one side to the other, so will the Son of man be in his day." — Luke 17:24.

"I am really excited, thrilled about what will happen — we all are," vigil spokesman Elizabeth Nance Bard said. "I feel like I do when I'm getting ready to go away on a trip.

"We can't help but think it will be the end. We can't believe anything else."

Mrs. Bard, 45, said the vigil members believe God won't let them be separated. She said God has chosen the eviction as the time for His Son to return to rule the world.

What will happen if the marshals arrive and the world hasn't ended?

"We have no idea," Mrs. Bard said. "We haven't made any plans, or discussed any what ifs. We've not made a single plan. None of us believes we will leave here."

The vigil began Sept. 29, 1975, at a family meeting in Gene Nance's home on the outskirts of this community of 177 persons in Southwest Arkansas.

Viola Walker, 67, Mrs. Nance's maternal aunt, said she received two messages from God — that the end of the world was near, and that they must remain together in the house until He came.

So the vigil members stayed in the house, never returning to their jobs, keeping their children from school and — at first — not telling anyone what they were doing.

The vigil attracted widespread public attention when a Polk County juvenile court judge ordered six school-age children removed from the house and returned to school. More news coverage followed when a chancery court judge ordered a 14-year-old girl taken from the vigil and placed in custody of her father in California.

Six cars belonging to vigil members were repossessed. Four houses, including the $15,000 vigil place, were deeded back to the Farmers Home Administration.

In April the FHA ordered the vigil members to leave the house. They ignored the order and eviction proceedings were started.

U.S. District Court Judge Paul X. Williams said he had no choice but to order the marshals in. He said he was sure the vigil members were "good people."

Military

Ford signs B1 authorization

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has signed a $32.5-billion weapons-procurement bill that authorizes production of the B1 bomber and earmarks a record $6.7 billion to expand the Navy's fleet.

In signing the measure Wednesday, Ford criticized Congress both for rejecting "a number of essential defense programs" and for funding other programs he said were not needed at this time.

Ford also signed two other major spending bills on Wednesday. One appropriates $8.3 billion in fiscal 1977 for the Treasury Department, Postal Service, General Services Administration, the Civil Service Commission and the Executive Office of the President.

The other earmarks $6.6 billion in 1977 for the State, Justice and Commerce departments, the federal judiciary, the Small Business Administration and the U.S. Information Agency.

The huge weapons-procurement bill permits spending $1 billion for the first three operating models of the B1 bomber, provided Congress appropriates the money in a future bill.

The bill also eliminated a one per cent "kicker" in cost-of-living increases in annuities for military retirees.

The Associated Press reported last year that the "kicker," designed to keep federal pensions in step with inflation, actually propels them ahead and gives federal retirees billions of extra dollars at taxpayer expense. AP calculations showed the unintended bonus for federal retirees including the military could cost taxpayers $100 billion or more by 1990.

Ford's criticism of Congress' defense spending centered on two ship building programs that were shelved.

RECOVERY WORK STARTS — Recovery team workers assembled Wednesday in the staging area of Scotia Coal Co.'s sealed No. 1 mine to begin their efforts to remove 11 bodies entombed there since last March when an explosion rocked the mine. Two days earlier, 15 other men were killed in a similar blast. The recovery effort is expected to take at least 60 days.

Takes fifth amendment

FBI agent won't talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lawyer rattled off the questions:

Did the witness know about burglaries against the Socialist Workers party? Did he participate in them? Did he know about wiretapping? Mail covers? Trash covers?

In response to those questions and scores of others, the witness took the Fifth Amendment. What made the proceeding unusual was that the witness was an FBI agent, Joseph Furrer of New York.

Several longtime FBI officials say they can recall no previous case in which an FBI agent has refused to answer questions in a public legal proceeding on grounds that he might incriminate himself. Furrer cited his Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination in refusing to answer about 80 questions asked by a Socialist party attorney Wednesday, said Cathy Perkus.

She is a spokeswoman for the Political Rights Defense Fund, which is financing the party's multimillion-dollar lawsuit against government agencies for alleged illegal harassment of political activities.

Furrer's attorney, Andrew

Schaffer, and two other lawyers involved in the case were present during the questioning in New York. Schaffer could not be reached. The others declined comment.

Ms. Perkus, who prefers that designation, said the party lawyer asked Furrer about FBI burglaries at the New York offices of the party and its affiliate, the Young Socialist Alliance.

The agent also refused to answer questions about a wide range of other FBI intelligence operations that may have been directed at the Socialist Workers, she said. These included wiretapping, monitoring and opening mail to party officials, and pawing through trash cans.

Ms. Perkus said Furrer responded only to a few questions about his employment record with the FBI and to two questions dealing with the FBI's use of public campaign finance reports filed by the party.

On those points, Furrer said he had no recollection or knowledge of any FBI use of those records, Ms. Perkus said.

An FBI source said Furrer is the agent in charge of the New York office's continuing probe of the Socialist Workers. The FBI has said that agents conducted 92 burglaries at party offices and two at the homes of party associates from 1960 through 1966.

The Justice Department is investigating FBI burglaries conducted since 1971 to determine whether charges should be brought against agents or officials for violating the civil rights of Americans. It could not be determined whether Furrer is a target of the probe. But sources say at least 20 agents, most from the New York office, are under scrutiny.

Teams try to retrieve bodies

OVEN FORK, Ky. (AP) — Shirley Barker stood quietly in front of the Scotia Coal Co. mine while her mother-in-law spoke above the loud rumble and clanking of a tall coal tippie in the background.

"I want no more anger in my heart than what I've already got," Loretta Barker said. "We've been lied to from beginning to end. Personally, I believe my son was alive when they sealed that mine."

Shirley Barker said nothing. She was looking at Big Black Mountain, where three rescue teams have begun trying to retrieve the bodies of her husband, Glenn, and 10 other men. Like his wife, Barker was 29 when he died in an explosion last March.

A similar explosion at the mine two days earlier killed 15 men. Their bodies were recovered, but the mine was sealed after the second explosion.

The explosions came from the ignition of methane gas, a naturally occurring product of coal seams. The source of the ignition spark is not yet known.

Loretta Barker was still talking.

"It seems to me nobody cares," she said. "I asked the Scotia people today if they would call us when the bodies were found or would we have to hear it on the radio like the last time?"

Shirley Barker spoke up. "I heard the report that day but didn't make it to the mine until the following day. My father was killed in a traffic accident while bringing me here."

When she did make it to the mine, she found plans were going ahead to seal it. Wednesday, after nearly four months of waiting, the company — along with the Kentucky Bureau of Mines and Minerals and the federal Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA) — began reopening the No. 1 mine.

Missiles for Jordan?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Jordan are expected to agree within the next few days on a multimillion-dollar missile sale, U.S. officials say. While details are still being worked out, the discussions center on 12 to 14 American-built Hawk air defense missile batteries and some limited support equipment. State Department officials were cautious Wednesday in discussing the Hawk deal but several sources confirmed that the basic agreement will be reached in a matter of days, perhaps within a week.

Money-saving plan halted?

WASHINGTON (AP) — An arbitrator's ruling may halt a plan designed to save the financially ailing Postal Service hundreds of millions of dollars each year by improving employee productivity. "This is an outstanding victory," said Mozart Ratner, attorney for the letter carriers' union, which contends the efficiency plan amounts to a speed-up. A Postal Service spokesman declined to comment Wednesday.

Hughes Texas resident?

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill says he is confident the late mystery billionaire Howard Hughes was a legal resident of Texas and will oppose efforts to have the residence established anywhere other than the state. "We're confident of the facts in the case we're developing," he said. "Hughes was a legal resident of Texas."

Hill commented Wednesday on will contest filed here and in Las Vegas by Hughes aunt and closest living relative, Annette Gano Lummis of Houston. Mrs. Lummis and her son, William Lummis, a Houston attorney, are temporary co-administrators of the Hughes estate in Texas.

Taiwan training stopped

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Massachusetts Institute of Technology has ended a program of training engineers from Taiwan because, a federal government official says, the State Department feared they could learn to build missiles that could be used against mainland China. The $917,000 program, paid for by the National Taiwan University, began in January 1975 to teach 15 engineers to design and produce aircraft navigation systems.

KILLING SUSPECT ARRAIGNED — Edward C. Allaway, the alleged killer of 7 persons at California State University at Fullerton on Monday, is led into the Orange County courthouse Wednesday morning. Allaway, who was arraigned on 7 counts of murder, was held with no bail and the prosecutor asked for the death penalty under a special California provision covering mass murderers. The two officers escorting Allaway were not identified.

The bad news comes with the good, according to James E. Lee, county extension entomologist for Martin, Howard, Glasscock, Reagan and Upton Counties. Cotton insect activity is likely to increase following the recent rains. The wet, cloudy, and cool weather that the area has had is very favorable to the buildup of cotton insect pests. Besides being good for the cotton insect, it is harmful to the cotton plant and production. Prolonged cloudy weather can contribute to pin point square shed, thus causing a delay in fruit set.

Fields that are blooming during this rainy weather will have considerable small boll shed, according to Lee. The boll shed is caused by the bloom getting wet and sticking to the immature boll. Also, in connection with the wet, cloudy weather, there is likely to be an increase of angular leaf spot, a bacterial disease.

This disease will cause the infected leaves to drop off the plant. It can be identified by the red to purple spots on the upper surface of the leaves. The lower surface of the infected leaves will have numerous angular-shaped, water-soaked areas. This disease usually does not cause much yield loss.

The weather the area is experiencing is very favorable to the increase of cotton fleahoppers, bollworms, and boll weevils. Cotton producers in the area should be on the lookout during the next five to seven days for an increase in bollworm activity.

Cotton fields should be checked twice a week on a three to four day schedule for bollworm activity. Plant terminals of at least 100 plants selected at random throughout the field should be examined for bollworm eggs and small larvae.

Producers in areas where the boll weevil has been a problem in recent years should expect slightly earlier and heavier numbers this year. The current weather is just right for the development of the first generation of boll weevils.

Beneficial insect numbers are light to medium in the cotton fields. The weather is also favorable to their buildup. Bearing heavy bollworm egg laying, the beneficials might be able to keep things under control.

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is forecast Thursday from the Midwest to the Northeast. Cool weather is expected for Michigan and the upper Great Lakes but warm weather is forecast for most of the country.

WTCC issues paper on agri-chemical bans

The Board of Directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has adopted a position paper regarding use-bans placed on agriculture chemicals recommending that use-bans be made only after sufficient evidence of detrimental effects has been firmly established by a viable data base to justify the ban and not before.

Faced with an ever increasing cost of production, the farmer and rancher must constantly seek chemical materials to be used in the production of food and fiber that will help hold costs to the consumer as low as possible.

"Use of agri-chemicals has become a necessity in today's agriculture," says Dick Yeager, chairman of the Agriculture and Ranching Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and Farm and Ranch Manager for the W. T. Waggoner Estate headquartered in Vernon. "We are alarmed by the policies followed by government agencies in imposing use-bans on increasing numbers of chemicals used by the agri-producer prior to development of enough facts to indicate that harm would actually result from their use."

"Prior to placement of an agri-chemical on the market," says Yeager, "large amounts of capital have been expended in research and development. Indiscriminate banning results in cost increases to the agri-producer and to the consumer."

In its position paper, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce points out that there are cases warranting the removal of chemicals from the market in order to protect consumers and the environment, and WTCC is in complete accord with such action when it is based on facts and not suppositions, hysterics and other motives.

Powder Puffs discuss new Air Race Classic

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The 29th annual Powder Puff derby, a cross-country race of women pilots, ended what has been billed as its final race with awards to pilots from California in the top three positions.

But the dust had barely settled before a new group announced plans Wednesday to bring back the event next year under the name of the Air Race Classic.

Upward Bound at Howard College

Howard College was the scene Thursday evening for the Upward Bound Awards Banquet to climax the six-week summer program. Upward Bound's objective is to prepare students to continue their education beyond high school by motivating students, developing their academic skills, self-confidence, and social personal growth. Participants attend a six-week summer program enabling them to live on the college campus and take part in a variety of academic, cultural, and social activities.

Master of ceremonies for the banquet was Herb Johnson who is the director of the program. The banquet, held in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building, began at 7:00 p.m. Invocation was delivered by Andrew Gonzales. Dr. John Boelter was the main speaker for the evening and spoke of the makings of a champion in life. Dr. Boelter is a professor at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin. The student speaker for the evening was Diann Scurlark. Many of the students from the Upward Bound program participated in a talent show at the conclusion of the meal.

Mr. Johnson, assisted by Gloria Guevara, program Assistant, handed out the awards. Awards presented included:

Frankie Rubio — Bib Spring High; Irma Sanchez — Colorado City High; Benny Arispe — Colorado City High; Emma Campos — Colorado City High; Rosemarie Garcia — Big Spring High; Maggie Gonzales — Big Spring High; Titeo Jones — Stanton High; Albert Macha — Midland High; Frank Parras — Big Spring High; Larry Porras — Big Spring High; Rose mustering enough volunteers and enough sponsors to keep the all-women transcontinental race going, according to Bernadine Stevenson, a pilot from North Hollywood, Calif., who is head of the newly formed group.

"There will be another race next year. I'd say 90 percent of the girls say they want to race again," she said after a meeting held during the concluding events Wednesday of the Powder Puff Derby.

The Powder Puff Derby is sponsored by the Ninety-

Nines, Inc., an international organization of women pilots. Spokeswomen for the derby have said economic problems primarily led to their decision to end the cross-country competition but also conceded that some questions have been raised over whether it might be considered discriminatory to exclude men from the race.

The Powder Puff Derby officially ended Monday evening when 175 of the 199 entries met a contest deadline for arrival here after a 2,916 mile race that started four days earlier in Sacramento, Calif.

Winners were not announced until Wednesday after a meeting of pilots to settle any last minute challenges. Results were not based on over-all speed but on a handicapping system to adjust for differences in the light aircraft flown by the women.

Trina Jarish, a 34-year-old Irvine, Calif., pilot won first place and the top $10,000 prize after completing the transcontinental flight solo in 13.9 hours air time. It was the second consecutive year Miss Jarish won the derby.

Miss Jarish flew an average of 28.7 miles per hour better than the 181 mph handicap assigned to her Beechcraft A-36 airplane.

Two sisters, Shirley Cote of Newport Beach, Calif., and Joan Paynter of Bakersfield, Calif., shared second place winnings of $5,000 as a pilot and co-pilot team.

Solist Helen McGee of Sonora, Calif., finished third and set a record in the 29 year history of the race by averaging more than 225 m.p.h., according to race officials.

Marian Jayne and her 24-year-old daughter Nancy of Palatine, Ill., finished fourth and also won competition among the mother-daughter teams competing.

Government fraud is a serious offense

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is married, has four children and was separated from her husband when she went to live with a divorced man. (I'll call him John.) She lived with him for 14 months, then he was killed.

After John died, my daughter claimed that she was his widow, and now she is receiving his Social Security, which amounts to a lot of money.

I am worried sick about this. Doesn't the Social Security Office check these claims? And if they do, and it becomes known that she was never married to John, what can they do to her?

NO NAME OR TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: The Social Security Office requires the birth certificates of all the children if the woman is claiming benefits for them, plus a marriage certificate to prove that she is indeed married to the man. Your daughter must have forged these documents.

If the S.S. office discovers a possible fraud, they turn it over to the District Attorney's office for investigation and possible prosecution. If found guilty, the accused must repay all the money and possibly face a fine and/or imprisonment.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to give my girlfriend a diamond soon, but here's the problem:

Her father is in the jewelry business, and I don't know whether I should buy the ring from him or not. I'm afraid if I go to him, he might think I'm expecting a better price, which I assure you I am not.

If I buy the ring from a competitor, I'm afraid my girl will be hurt.

What should I do?

BUYING A DIAMOND

DEAR BUYING: Buy the diamond from your future father-in-law. If he offers you a special price (and he probably will), don't be a school — accept it.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 19, I married a man who was 27, and we were so much in love we never thought we would have any problems. We have been married two years, and I am miserable.

He is a professional man, and I never got past the ninth grade. He is always correcting my English and has even suggested I go back to school and graduate.

Abby, I feel that he thinks I am not good enough for him. If he loved me as I was, why is he ashamed of me now? What should I do?

UNEDUCATED

DEAR UN: Get in touch with your public education system and resume your schooling where you quit. It can be done by mail or in evening classes with other adults. Your husband loves you, or he wouldn't encourage you to graduate. There is no shame in not knowing — only in refusing to learn.

DEAR ABBY: WANTS EQUALITY maintains, "It's still a man's world," and she lists some reasons why, but she forgot to mention one.

If a man is outside on the sidewalk (just walking by) and he happens to see a woman undressing through a window, he's a peeping Tom.

However, if a woman sees a man undressing through a window, HE'S an exhibitionist!

J.E.E.

DEAR J.E.E.: Not exactly: If a person happens to come upon a view of someone undressing, and he or she hangs around to enjoy it, that person is a voyeur.

Miss Bennett honored at shower

Miss Debbie Bennett, bride-elect of Benny E. Parker, Lubbock, was honored with a lingerie shower Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Mickie Herron.

The table was laid with white linen cloth. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Special guests were the groom's mother, Mrs. E. D. Parker of Tyler and the bride's grandmothers Mrs. R. W. McNew and Mrs. J. R. Bennett, Sr.

Hostesses were Mrs. Mickie Herron, Mrs. John Turner and Mrs. Pat Myrick.

Siamese twins are in serious condition

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Tiny Siamese twin girls were reported in serious condition today at John Sealy Hospital here.

Barbara Ann Jones, 24, of Beaumont gave birth to the twins Wednesday. She was reported in satisfactory condition. Her husband, Freddy Jones Jr. is a bricklayer.

Hospital authorities said the twins, delivered by Caesarean section and joined at the abdomen and chest are the first Siamese twins delivered at the hospital. They weighed a combined nine pounds and eight ounces.

A hospital spokesman said studies will be made to determine the feasibility of separation of the twins.

The couple have three other children, two boys and a girl.

Kitchen shower given July 7

A kitchen shower was given July 7 at the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas company for Laura Bickford.

Hostesses were two sisters, Jana and Nancy Porter.

The table was decorated with cloth of white lace and a hurricane lamp for a centerpiece surrounded by flowers. The table was also decorated with pink umbrellas.

Sally Kitchen registered the guests.

Miss Bickford is the bride-elect of Tommy Billalba. They will be married July 24 at the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bald eagle, which fledgling new country in that the bird was a natural was virtually the entire Franklin himself preferred 1782. It was generally felt choice because its habitat United States, although the turkey.

Interior Department officials are proposing that the bald eagle be listed as endangered in 43 states and as "threatened" in the other five.

The eagles have been shot, poisoned and chased from their traditional nesting grounds by the bulldozing progress of modern America, Interior Department officials said Wednesday.

"In some areas of the country the noble bird can't even hatch its own eggs. Pesticide residues have so contaminated its body that egg shells become thin and break when it tries to hatch them," said Keith M. Schreiner, associate director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Animals listed as endangered are protected by law from being killed, placed into commerce or possessed, except with government approval. A southern subspecies of bald eagle has been on the endangered list since 1967.

Interior officials said that in states where eagles are classified as a threatened species, controls can be either as stringent or more relaxed than in endangered-species states, depending on local conditions.

The bald eagle once ruled supreme in the United States and was chosen as the centerpiece of the seal of the Quality Chekd Sherbet.

There are a lot of ways to enjoy it.

Everyone loves a dish of luscious sherbet for dessert. But sherbet by itself is just the beginning of a lot of great desserts.

Try a scoop of sherbet over a slice of melon or fresh berries.

Make a festive party punch by floating an iceberg of sherbet in a blend of Quality Chekd fruit drinks.

Combine ice cream and sherbet in a delightfully different sundae.

Or, dream up something completely original. All it takes is imagination and Quality Chekd sherbet.

Where are the pennant races?

Now that the All-Star Game is out of the way, it would be time to resume the pennant races...if there were any.

Major league baseball's four division races are so one-sided at this point that they make Jimmy Carter's race for the Democratic nomination look like it was a cliff-hanger. Unless some of the front-runners collapse and some of the followers pick up the pace, the second half of the 1976 campaign will have them yawning in the aisles before long.

There will be other events, of course, to stir interest. Will San Diego's Randy Jones win 30 games? Will the New York Mets' Dave Kingman hit 61 home runs? Will the Montreal Expos finish the season?

But without a legitimate pennant race or two, baseball could be bad box office over the second half of the season.

At present, the best record in baseball belongs to the Philadelphia Phillies. The Phils, often maligned in the past, have steamed out to a 56-25 mark and a whopping 10-game lead over the formerly mighty Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East.

Is the pennant assured or will the 1976 Phils manage a collapse like their 1964 ancestors who dropped 10 straight games over the final two weeks of the season and blew a 6½-game lead?

In the NL West, the world champion Cincinnati Reds are six games ahead of the runnerup Los Angeles Dodgers. The Reds have come through the first half of the season in fine shape despite injuries to second baseman Joe Morgan, catcher Johnny Bench and pitcher Don Gullett. The Reds have started the eight-man lineup that opened the World Series against Boston last October in only 17 games this season, winning 13 of them.

The Reds are 53-33. Last season they were 56-29 at this time.

In the American League, the rebuilt New York Yankees are the only club in the East over .500. They lead the second-place Boston Red Sox by a comfortable 9½ games and, at this point anyway, have nothing to fear but fear itself.

And in the AL West, the Kansas City Royals boast a seven game lead over the second place Texas Rangers.

Sory takes post at Midlothian

Jody Sory has resigned as head basketball coach at Coahoma High School to accept a similar position with Midlothian High School.

JODY SORY

Sory, 31, coached the Bulldog basketball team for five years winning an even 100 games against 42 losses. Coahoma won two District 6AA titles during his tenure (1972-73 and 1974-75).

He was also an assistant football coach and head of the girls track program which won district championships in 1974 and '75.

Sory came to Coahoma from Center, where he was an assistant basketball coach for three years after graduating from Stephen F. Austin in 1968. He played basketball for the Lumberjacks on a scholarship he earned playing for Nacogdoches High School.

Sory's wife Carol and their two-year-old daughter Kelly will accompany him to Midlothian, a school in 12AA with an enrollment of 480 in the top four grades.

Last year for Oiler stalwart?

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler stalwart defensive end Elvis Bethea, a key factor in the Oilers' defense last season, says this may be his last year as an Oiler.

Bethea is one of three Oilers who still have not signed their 1976 contract. The other two are brothers Bubba and Tody Smith.

"I might be going my way after this year," Bethea said. "Anybody could live on $81,000." A salary of $81,000 this season would mean Bethea earned $90,000 last year. Under National Football League rules, a player who plays out his option receives 90 per cent of his contract during his option year.

"I asked for what I thought was a fair figure," said Bethea, who helped the Oilers develop from one of the worst teams in the NFL to a 10-4 record last season.

"I've saved my money and I'm not hurting," Bethea said. "But that's not the point. I'm taking into consideration all those dull years."

Oiler Assistant General Manager Tom Williams said he is only "a few thousand dollars" away from signing the Smiths.

Tody indicated otherwise.

Chinese or not Chinese? Taiwanese dig in heels

MONTREAL (AP) — Whose word will be law in Montreal's Olympic Stadium when the Games open Saturday?

"That is our territory," say members of the International Olympic Committee. "We decide what happens there."

But what will the government of Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau do if the IOC defies its wishes and has two Taiwanese yachtsmen parading under the name of the Republic of China?

The U.S. Olympic Committee intervened in the dispute and indicated Wednesday it might withdraw its team from the Games if Taiwan's rights are not respected and the Olympic charter is not honored.

The Americans are "seriously considering withdrawing from the Montreal Olympic Games," said Philip O. Krumm, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The Taiwanese, encouraged by the American stand, dug in their heels and said they would not march in the parade under the Olympic flag instead of their own, one compromise plan suggested by the IOC.

The latest ruling by the IOC is that two Taiwanese yachtsmen, already in this country, march in the opening parade under the banner of the Republic of China.

The yachtsmen, brothers named Lim, got around Canada's entry ban because they have dual nationality and have U.S. passports. They have been training at the Olympic yachting center at Kingston, Ont., for two weeks.

Canada refused to allow the rest of Taiwan's team in because they use the name "The Republic of China," which is offensive to Canada's trading partner, Communist China.

But refusing to let 40 athletes in is a different proposition than ordering two yachtsmen out.

And in Ottawa, a spokesman for Prime Minister Trudeau said

"there is no spirit in the prime minister's office" to give in to pressure on the issue.

Shoulder pain benches Bench

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds catcher Johnny Bench, troubled the past two seasons by shoulder miseries, is expected to miss the weekend series with Montreal due to a bruise suffered when struck on his right shoulder by a foul tip in Tuesday's All Star Game at Philadelphia.

Manager Sparky Anderson said X rays Wednesday did not reveal anything serious. "I don't think there was any internal damage," Anderson said.

Shirley takes on East Germans

MONTREAL (AP) — Shirley Babashoff has blond hair. But that's where the similarity to Joan of Arc ends. She doesn't ride white horses and she bristles at the suggestion that she is America's last line of defense against the East Germans.

"That stuff about me being our only hope for a gold medal is just a dumb remark," said Miss Babashoff, America's only legitimate hope for a gold medal. "Everybody on our team is capable of winning a gold medal."

That was the party line echoed by four American women swimmers and their coach, Jack Nelson, at a press conference on Wednesday. Only it didn't take into account that some swimmers are more capable than others.

The East Germans, owners of world records in 12 of the 13 Olympic events, are the most capable bunch of female swimmers in the Games' history. In almost every race, they have one super athlete who seems to have found a short cut to the finish line.

The list of them goes on and on and where it stops everybody knows. Shirley Babashoff in the freestyle races.

Miss Babashoff, the 19-year-old Olympic veteran, holds the world record in the 800 freestyle and American marks in the 100, 200 and 400 freestyles. She'll be swimming in all these races, plus the 400 individual medley and two relays.

Her best gold medal shots are in the 200 and 400 freestyles, although she wouldn't say so. With a certain amount of smugness, she merely said her best chances were in the freestyles. "One of those events," she said.

Miss Babashoff, chosen the homecoming queen at Golden West Junior College, is 5-foot-11, 150 pounds. She can be very attractive when she smiles, but most of the time, around newsmen, she acts bored.

At the one-hour news conference, the only time she has made herself available to reporters, she smirked a lot.

She was asked which of her events she enjoyed the most.

"I like the 100 because it's short, and I don't like it because it's short. The 200 is the perfect distance. I like the 400 because I can go easy for part of it. And I like the 800 because I can go easy for most of it."

Miss Babashoff, 19, from Fountain Valley, Calif., said her goal was "to try my hardest, try to win a gold medal. I'll be disappointed if I don't try my hardest."

She downplayed her rivalry with East Germany's Kornelia Ender, world record holder in the 100 and 200 freestyles.

Harris (7-0) also accounted for the winner's extra base power ripping losing hurler David Howell for a double and a triple. Ben Watson and Carlos Mata each registered a hit for the Knights.

Howell pitched well in a

As the worm turns Area fishing news

Catfish at Thomas

By Danny Reagan

Fishing in area lakes has suffered another week of wet setbacks... that is, all except Lake Thomas. There, the rains and run-off into the lake has made for excellent angling. Here's the good news out at that lake:

LAKE THOMAS

Mrs. Tidwell said that CRMWD officials were out at the lake Tuesday morning, measuring the rise in the water. They told her that the lake had come up nine feet, and would come up some more.

She said that "a lot of people are driving around the lake, just to see the effect of the run-off on the lake."

She also noted that the rain did not keep fishermen from taking to the lake, and many are still taking advantage of the droves of catfish who gang up in the clear water running into the lake from Bull Creek.

"We've already lost a few of the islands," the lady said, "and the fishing and skiing should be good from now on."

Local anglers seemed to bear her statement out.

Randy Wallace and Morris Robertson of Big Spring caught a 22½-lb. yellow cat on their trotline. They used shrimp for bait.

One Big Spring man that Mrs. Tidwell did not get a name for, caught 50 catfish on his rod and reel, averaging between five and eight pounds.

O. S. Priest caught an 11-lb. yellow cat on his trotline. He used shad for bait.

Reginald Taylor and his wife, from Webb AFB, frequent visitors to the Tidwell Lodge, caught a 15-lb. yellow cat on a rod and reel. The bait used was a Taylor-made special dough bait, made of bran flakes, molasses, cinnamon and vanilla.

"It smelled good enough to eat," said Mrs. Tidwell.

M. W. Chaney caught a 23-lb. channel cat, and "a bunch more" in the 1½ to 3½ lb. category.

So if you go to this lake, you should have at least one catfish tug on your line. They're all biting like mad.

LAKE COLORADO CITY

Lute Luttrull reports another dismal week, due to the bad weather. "The drizzle is just keeping the fishermen away," said Lute. "We just got too much rain."

"Ironically, with all the rain, the lake still hasn't received any run-off, according to Luttrull.

Besides the booming carp fishing that still flourishes at the Fisharama, nothing is being caught but "little stuff," and Lute says "nobody's even trying to catch that."

MOSS CREEK LAKE

Mrs. McCain, out at the nearest lake to Big Spring, says that "it was real good over the weekend."

"Nice" bass and channel cats are being brought in. One man, fishing early in the morning, caught 10 channel cat in the 2½-3-lb. variety, using big bass minnows for bait.

Mrs. McCain also says some of the four and five-pound bass are being caught on jules.

She also indicated that the lake has received about three inches of rainfall since the Fourth of July. And, the Walleye are still getting bigger. Try your luck with live bait.

In Texas now

Walleye and Musky

By DANNY REAGAN

Two fish that are in the conversations of local fishermen more and more are newcomers to the fresh waters of Texas.

And I'm not talking about the striped-bass hybrids either; although the stripers are certainly on most angler's minds.

No, the two fish that raise as much excitement as the warlording stripe is the "Stizostedion vitreum" and the "Esox Masquinongy Immaculatus," more commonly known as the "Walleye" and "Musky" (or "Tiger Muskellunge"), respectively.

The "Walleye," commonly called the "Walleye Pike" although it is in the family of Perches (Percidae), is not that recent a newcomer to the waters of the state, but the "Musky" is. By the way, the "Musky" is a member of the Pike (Esocidae) family.

"Walleyes" are being caught in two West Texas lakes regularly now. Lake Thomas produces a fair size "Walleye" from time to time, some up in the four and five-lb. class, and Moss Creek Lake has had over 10,000 "Walleye" fingerlings stocked in it in the past year and a half.

Increasingly, the fish are finding themselves dangling from the hooks of Moss Creek fishermen, and they are already legal size (12").

The "Tiger Musky" is not as yet in any of the nearest lakes, but plans are in the making for them to be soon.

"TIGER MUSKY (MUSKELLUNGE)" (Esox Masquinongy Immaculatus)

"WALLEYE" (Stizostedion vitreum)

A Texas Parks and Wildlife spokesman indicated that stocks of fingerlings were being produced for distribution in Lake Spence sometime in the near future, as well as other lakes.

"Tiger Muskys" have been stocked in Lake Copper Breaks near Quanah, (about 220 miles northeast of Big Spring). That lake was just opened for fishing two weeks ago, and there is no size or bag limit to the fish.

The "Tiger Musky" is similar in appearance to the Great Lakes Muskellunge, but the "Tiger" is distinctly barred.

The "Musky" are native to the lakes of northern Wisconsin, Minnesota and southwestern Ontario, but they have shown success in being transplanted to Texas waters.

The "Musky" reaches a length of seven feet and a weight of 110 pounds. It is one of the most prized game fishes, owing to its reputation as a fighter.

The "Walleye" is one of the most important game and food fishes of the United States and Canada, widely introduced into areas as they did not originally occupy.

Night usually spawn at night in 1-5 feet of water. The "Walleye" can reach a length of three feet and a weight of just over 22 pounds.

If you journey to one of the many Texas lakes, ask one of the locals if the lake is stocked with "Walleye" or "Musky."

If they are, also inquire as to the best bait to use, (probably live). Then go after them. You have a treat in store for you if you latch onto one of these fighters.

Konny says

"In case you fishermen who enjoy tournaments didn't know, there is a fishing tournament going on right now.

"It's the first annual Texas State Catfish Tournament, sponsored by the Abilene Jaycees. It is a statewide tournament that started July 1 and ends July 31.

"There are four divisions. The first division is the 'total pounds division.' This includes all types of catfish caught in the month of July. The first-place weight will receive $1,000, second place will receive $500, and third will receive $250.

"The second division is the 'largest yellow cat' division, with the first prize of $300, second, $200, and third, $100.

"The 'largest channel cat' division is the third category. The top winner in it will receive $300, second, $200, and third will take home $100.

"The final division is the 'largest blue and Mississippi Humpback' division. Cash prizes are $300, $200, and $100 for first, second and third, respectively.

"You can get your entry blanks at the designated official weigh-in station at the place you are fishing. (At Spence, entry blanks are available at Hillside Grocery and several other area marinas).

"Along with your entry blanks, you will receive the rules and regulations for the tourney. There is a $15 entry fee that has to be in by midnight, July 31, if you want to be eligible.

"If you decide to try your skill in this tournament, Lake Spence is an excellent starting spot. Spence has every type of catfish that is required in the tournament, and has produced quite a few large cat catches recently.

"If you have any questions about the tournament, call me at 'Lake Spence Vacation Service' in Robert Lee, and I'll see if I can answer all of your questions."

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK
"Competition is the hard way, but the rewards are usually greater."

Your Kountry Girl,
Konny

You might as well enter the tournament, it looks like more catfish are being caught presently at the lakes than anything else.

If you get a chance, why not go look at the new face that Lake Thomas is sporting. The lake may still be far below full, but the nine-foot rise is something to see.

Stripes alter complexion of fresh water

By JOHN THOMPSON

SCOT WILDLIFE NEWS

Staring intently into the face of his Hummingbird depth finder, Tom Murski held the boat wheel in one hand and a marker buoy in the other.

Suddenly he tossed out the marker and shut back on the throttle. "This is it," he announced, "all we have to do now is catch them!"

Tom had located a ridge of the shoreline below the Katy Bridge at Lake Whitney. It was a spot well-known to him because over the past couple of weeks he had spent a great deal of time on that ridge.

The object of his search was stripers, Striped bass. Stripers.

end of a trolling run. We had just shut back the motor to reel in and make another drag down the ridge when the fish broke next to the boat. Tom saw one striper come completely out of the water after a shad.

I tossed in a little maribou jig and felt a fish take it. Just as quickly the hook pulled out and the fish was gone.

For jiggling, Tom has been using a heavy silver spoon, or a one-half ounce green and white Betts jig.

I have an idea the reason more stripers are not taken on jiggling baits is due to two factors. First of all, the fish are not present in large numbers, even in areas such as Tom's ridge.

Tom has been using white, and chrome with a black back, in the Magnum-size Hellbenders. Others have used large Bombers Water Dogs with good results in the shad colors.

These BIG trolling lures are preferred because they get deep, and a good many of the stripers being hooked are in 20 to 30 feet of water. On our last trip Tuesday their best color seemed to be a gray with silver flecks.

The important thing seems to be locating an underwater ridge or long point — then working this underwater ridge until you prove to yourself that it does or does

Recipes with Reagan

All across Texas, summer cooks are looking to fish for meals to interest hot-weather appetites. Fish salad in cantaloupe rings serves as the entrée in any outdoor-oriented meal. Gulf Coast fish species can be interchanged as the main feature of this recipe. Drum, croaker, shark, mullet or sheephead are all excellent choices. For this area, use bass, catfish, walleyes, and other perch.

FISH SALAD IN CANTALOUPE RINGS

- 1½ pounds fresh fish
- 2 cups brown rice, chilled
- 1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple tidbits, chilled and drained
- 1½ cups sliced celery
- 6 to 8 cantaloupe rings
- 1-3rd cup sliced green onions and tops
- French dressing or dressing of your choice
- 1 cup quartered cherry tomatoes
- crisp salad greens

Cut fish into one-inch chunks. Simmer fish in small amount of salted water until it flakes, about five minutes. Combine fish, rice, pineapple tidbits, celery, onion and half cup dressing. Mix lightly and chill for at least one hour. Fold in tomatoes. Serve in cantaloupe rings on salad greens. Pass remaining dressing. Makes six to eight servings.

Boating Tips...

VENTILATION
Gasoline fumes, being heavier than air, can collect in any confined space. While most outboard craft are open enough for natural air circulation to carry fumes away, ventilation still requires some attention. An electric blower is recommended for ventilating closed areas, particularly after fueling or when the boat has been idle for a considerable length of time.

BS Bass tourney begins Saturday

The Sweetwater Lake is the site for the Big Spring Bass Club's July tournament to be held July 17 and 18.

The tournament will begin that Saturday at 6 a.m., with the first round concluding that night at 12 o'clock. The second round begins Sunday at noon, and continues until 3 p.m. Headquarters for the tournament will be the boat ramp.

Entry fee is $3 a day, or $5 for both days.

This tournament will be the last club tournament this year for the Club Champion competition, but it will also be the first in the new "Top Six" tournament competition for the year.

Lake Sweetwater has been producing big bass this year, and the fishing should be excellent. Maxey Ware recently caught an 8-lb. bass at the lake.

Cash prizes will be paid for 1st, 2nd and 3rd places. New officers were elected to the BSBC for the coming year, and they will take office August 1.

The new officers are president — Jerry Dudley; first vice president and tournament director — Bob Nobles; second vice president — Jerry Avery; secretary-treasurer — Wayne Henry; program director — Donny Baker; and reporter — Luan Touchstone.

The results from the June tournament at Twin Buttes in San Angelo are in and they stacked up as follows:

- HUSBAND AND WIFE
1st place — Jimmy and Wanda Lockhart.
2nd place — Larry and Marie Layman.
3rd place — Ken and Sylvia Patterson.

INDIVIDUAL

1. Ed Hall — 7 lbs. — 12 oz. string.
2. Jim Crenshaw — 6 lb. 9 oz. string.
3. Gaylord Crenshaw — 5 lb. string.

The big bass caught at the June tourney weighed in at 5 lb. 11 oz., and was caught by Ed Hall.

All sincere anglers interested in joining the BSBC, please contact one of the officers.

THOSE ELUSIVE salt water battlers promise to change the entire fresh water fishing scene in Texas.

Murski, a fishing tackle rep. who lives in Cleburne, has been hitting the stripers at Whitney with good consistency.

Tom and I have now made two trips to Whitney in search of striper, and have scored both times with three stripers to the boat on each trip.

After our first trip with three stripers landed, Tom totaled 41 stripers which had been brought to his boat in the previous two weeks. All but four of these were released. The daily limit is one.

ABOUT ONE-THIRD of these had been taken by jiggling spoons and jigs off the bottom, the balance had gone for Magnum Hellbenders. Tom isn't too crazy about trolling as a regular means of fishing, but he admits that for some reason it produces a lot more stripers than any other means he has found.

The ridge which Tom has been working runs from about 15 to 28 feet in depth. At various time the stripers seem to work along this ridge after shad. Sand bass also hang out around the area. In fact Tom said the sandies were what led him to the stripers.

"We picked up five stripers that first evening after spotting the sandies and working on them a while," Tom said. "Since that time I've been coming back and usually at one time during the day the stripers will be on this ridge."

Most of Murski's action from the stripers has come in the late afternoon — the last two hours before dark.

AT THIS time on both days when we caught stripers, we would notice feeding fish breaking the surface. Sometimes they were sand bass, sometimes stripers.

I have no doubt that being in the right spot at the right time, we could catch some stripers on top-waters or shallow running plugs or jigs.

On our second run at the fish, I actually hooked a striper on a light jig at the

OUT BACK in West Texas

By TIM LEIFESTE

SAN ANGELO — In years to come, the year 1976 may be looked back upon as the turning point in the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's fresh waster fisheries management program.

Big things were predicted from the inland fisheries division this year and so far it has surpassed all expectations.

Boostered by its successful striped bass, striped-white bass hybrid and walleye stocking programs, P&WD seems to be a step closer in controlling the rough fish populations which are so abundant in many of our Texas reservoirs.

In survey work at Pat Mayse and Spence Reservoirs, P&WD found that when striped bass and striped-white bass crosses were introduced into these lakes that the rough fish populations were significantly affected. According to Bob Kemp, director of fisheries for P&WD, stripers have been stocked annually at Spence and the rough fish population there has been reduced by some 58 per cent since 1972. So natural predation through the stocking of such introduced species as striped bass looks very good as an additional control on rough fish populations.

In addition to this significant turn of event, P&WD has also been extremely successful in producing saltwater fish such as redfish, flounder and black drum with an eye on stocking these species in our fresh water reservoirs, that is if research indicates stocking will not harm existing freshwater game species.

So, big things are happening this year as P&WD continues to improve the lot of Texas fresh water fishermen.

LAKES SURVEY SET

Again this year, biologists and hatchery personnel of P&WD will be intensively studying several area lakes to recommend habitat improvement, fisherman information, fish population manipulation, vegetation control, pollution control, fisherman access and facility development and fishing regulations in the department's ongoing effort to increase the fisheries potential of each lake.

Area lakes to be studied this year include Fort Phantom Hill, Lake Stamford, Hords Creek, Lake Colorado City, Brady Lake and Ascarate near El Paso.

Energy

Candidates' energy policies outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Do you prefer controlled or uncontrolled oil prices and imports? Mandatory or voluntary energy-saving standards? Federal back-up or federal re-upt of big energy companies? Take your choice and look closely at this year's presidential candidates. The energy policies of Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter differ sharply from those of President Ford and his rival for the Republican nomination, Ronald Reagan. For example, Carter favors oil price controls and import quotas, mandatory energy conservation standards and trimming the power of large energy companies. Ford and Reagan favor an unregulated oil market, more voluntary energy conservation steps and federal support for energy companies. Carter has more faith in solar energy, less in nuclear power, than Ford or Reagan. All three favor removal of interstate natural gas price regulation, but Carter would make it temporary — a five-year test of the theory that it would bring forth new gas supplies as producers claim. All three also favor greater reliance on coal, but Carter questions Ford's push to develop federal coal in the west as a move that might short-change the existing coal area of Appalachia. After two years in the White House, Ford has spread his energy views all over the public record. As former governors of Georgia and California, respectively, Carter and Reagan had neither Ford's federal resources nor his responsibility to develop national energy policies. But Carter has developed a fairly comprehensive and specific set of energy policies, including an original proposal for a World Energy Conference to foster international cooperation in energy research, investment, data-gathering and conservation. Reagan's published energy views have mainly been general attitudes, illustrated by criticism of policies already enacted by Ford and Congress. He shares Ford's "free-market" approach, but seems to feel it should be even more free than Ford would demand. Here is a run-down of major energy issues as viewed by Ford, Reagan and Carter: —Oil Prices: Ford urged an immediate end to oil price controls, but he signed legislation permitting only a gradual phase-out. Reagan says Ford should have vetoed it. Carter says prices of U.S.-produced oil should be controlled, at least $3 per barrel below world prices set by the OPEC foreign oil cartel. —Oil imports: Ford has made the reduction of oil imports a policy goal but wants to rely on rising prices and eventual improvement of U.S. production to stem the flow. He warns of a possible new Arab oil embargo but has not predicted a U.S. reaction. Carter proposes a quota system to limit oil imports to their present levels; this could create domestic shortages, and Carter says fuel allocation and rationing plans should be kept on standby status. Carter says a new cut-off of oil shipments to the United States would be "an economic declaration of war" and that he would "instantly and without further debate" suspend U.S. exports of oil, weapons, spare parts, oil drilling rigs and oil pipes to the offenders. Reagan apparently has not taken public positions on these issues. —Energy conservation: Ford prefers voluntary measures but signed an energy act mandating automobile mileage standards; Reagan said he would have vetoed it and blames such moves on "elitists, some of whom feel guilty because Americans have built such a prosperous nation." Ford has proposed building insulation standards and tax credits. Carter wants mandatory conservation standards for major appliances, automobiles and buildings; revision of electricity rates, a ban on promotional advertising and standby excise taxes on selected fuels.

Two gas processing units placed in operation

Perry Gas Companies, Inc., an energy related holding company, located in Odessa, announced that its unit, Perry Gas Processors, Inc. has recently completed and placed in service two major gas processing plants located in South Texas.

According to Charles R. Perry, president, the Pawnee Plant located in Bee County, Tex., was recently placed in operation processing up to 14 MMcf of Edwards formation production from the Pawnee field.

The company's other plant is located in Dimmit County, Tex., near Carrizo Springs. This plant was placed in operation with initial loading of approximately 5 MMcf of gas and later increased to 15 MMcf. The Dimmit County plant also includes a 35-ton per day Claus sulfur recovery plant.

The company simultaneously announced the formation of an area office at the Dimmit County plant, to be in charge of all the company's South Texas operations. This will include the Pawnee Plant, the Dimmit County Plant, and the company's Thompsonville Plant, located near Hebbbronville. Joe Bob Jenkins has been transferred to this office from Monahan to assume the position as Area Superintendent.

"The completion of these two new major treating plant facilities represents the company support of the growth in production of the sour Edwards formation production in the South Texas area," according to Charles R. Perry, president.

"This Edwards formation production represents a new development of old reserves, the presence of which has been known for some time, but were not economical to produce at old gas prices," Perry continued.

Revenues, debt service costs of CRMWD soar

Revenues to the Colorado River Municipal Water District were up by $486,000 for the first half of 1976, but operational and debt service costs also rose for the period.

Revenues for the initial six months of 1976 amounted to $3,071,347, up from $2,584,929 for the same period a year ago. Most revenue came from sale of 8,766,360,000 gallons of water, of which 5,594,320,000 gallons went to cities.

The overall gain in deliveries billed during the first half was 510,593,000 gallons, that of the cities was 573,450,000. Thus, oil companies and other customers actually used less water in the first half. Cities contributed $1,849,196 in the initial four months, or $349,226 more than for the period in 1975. A substantial portion of the gain was in higher rates occasioned by a sharp increase in debt service requirements for this year. Other water sales revenues were up by $30,000. Recreation permit fees for the first half stood at $42,158, or up $6,000.

Operating expenses stood at $1,081,368 for the first half, a gain of $162,332 over a year ago. Most of this was in higher energy costs, which amounted to $500,143 for the six months, up by $123,554.

Other deviations included supervision labor $4,650, up $2,000; operating labor well fields $1,055, down $3,000; general maintenance $19,374, up $8,000; water quality control $8,287, up $2,000; pumping labor $58,949, up $6,000; repairs and supplies $9,780, up $2,000; maintenance labor $76,505, up $12,000; general maintenance $44,418, down $6,000; administrative and general expense $174,098, up $6,000.

The surplus of revenue over operating expense was $1,995,000, and all but $5,024 of this was transferred to debt service and their indentured funds.

Briscoe staff to release tax values

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Dolph Briscoe's education staff is about 60 days away from releasing its first estimates of taxable values in all 1,100 Texas school districts, director John Poerner said Wednesday.

Poerner and his staff held a 12-hour briefing for reporters, lawmakers and legislative aides—motivated in part by a desire to meet criticism that the market value study was dragging.

The study, mandated by the 1975 legislature and financed with a $5 million appropriation, is designed for use in determining each district's need for state aid.

The initial figures will be released around mid-September, the audience was told, with districts allowed to lodge appeals between Nov. 1 and mid-December. The final report, accompanied by recommended school finance formulas, will be released on Jan. 11, first day of the 1977 legislature.

It could result in more aid for some districts, less for others.

Poerner said the study is costing $3 million, well below the amount appropriated for it.

He said 10 school districts had refused to cooperate in furnishing data, and legal action is being considered.

Poerner said a district's assessed values were likely to be closer to market values if it was growing and had to issue bonds for new school construction to house a rising student population.

Analysis of property values was done district by district by certified tax assessors (CTAs), who checked assessed valuations against actual sales appraisals or estimates by local experts, Poerner's staff said.

Estimates of oil and gas property values were made in cooperation with the railroad commission and the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology.

Hula Hoop, Frisbee meets

Just ignore any reports of UFOs Saturday morning in the area of The University of Texas at the Permian Basin. Because they really will be identified Frisbee Objects.

Saturday at 10 a.m. the Odessa Frisbee Championships will be held in the university gymnasium and lots of youngsters will take part. Competition is divided into two groups: children 11 years old and younger, and children ages 12 through 15.

And in the afternoon, the Hula Hoop Odessa Championships will begin at 1:30, similarly divided by age.

Winners in both age groups and both events will be eligible to take part in the State Championships in Longview on July 24, according to UT Permian Campus Recreation Coordinator Woody Kupper, official in charge of the Odessa contests.

Ultimately the nationwide competition will end at Six Flags Over Georgia in Atlanta where both events will crown their champions and present awards of U.S. Savings Bond scholarships.

Harris said courteous, inept thieves

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five prosecution witnesses have portrayed William and Emily Harris and Patricia Hearst as inept but courteous car thieves, brandishing machine guns and promising to return the autos.

In prosecution testimony at the Harris' trial Wednesday, the three were characterized as clumsy at crime, leaving a trail of stolen cars and eyewitnesses across Los Angeles as they fled the scene of a May 16, 1974, shooting.

The Harris are charged with kidnaping, assault and robbery. Miss Hearst, also a defendant in the case, will be tried later.

The star prosecution witness, alleged kidnap victim Thomas Dean Matthews, began on Wednesday to tell the story of his encounter with the three. He was to resume his testimony today.

Each car-theft victim said that Harris announced boldly, "We're from the S.L.A.," the Symbionese Liberation Army, which had kidnaped Miss Hearst Feb. 4, 1974. All said they called police, who arrived minutes after the Harris and Miss Hearst left. Nevertheless, the fugitives remained at large nearly two more years.

Thomas Patin Jr. remembered the newspaper heiress standing in front of his house on a spring afternoon, holding a machine gun.

"The lady was wearing a black natural wig, very pale and thin in appearance and very quiet," he said. His elderly father, who turned over the keys to his station wagon, said the three frightened him — "I was scared and afraid of getting my stomach blown out to pieces."

But, he said, Harris told him, "Don't worry about the car. We'll drop it off." Then, he said, Harris let him remove the car keys from a key ring and pull an electric grass edger from the back seat.

The Harris, who did much of their own cross-examination, said they intended only to "borrow," not steal, the cars.

According to testimony, the Patin home was the second stop in a race across the city after Miss Hearst fired shots to rescue the Harris from a bungled snuffing attempt. She said she fired the shots.

The witnesses said the three stopped first a mile from the store, ditched their van and ordered Kenneth Claude Pierre and his sister, Marva Davis, out of their car.

Pierre said he didn't tell Harris his car had a faulty carburetor. A few blocks later it sputtered and died in front of the Patin house.

Later, miles away, the three allegedly traded Patin's car for Matthews' van and took the teenager on a ride.

The Harris demanded earlier Wednesday that Miss Hearst be granted immunity from prosecution so she could testify about certain evidence in their trial, but the prosecutor would not agree to the move.

Miss Hearst, 22, is awaiting sentencing on a San Francisco bank robbery conviction and is undergoing psychiatric tests. She is scheduled to go on trial here July 26 but is likely to ask for a postponement.

Cadets file request to halt proceedings

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of cadets plans to file with the U.S. Court of Military Appeals a request to suspend legal proceedings in the West Point cheating scandal on the ground that allegations against them came from an illegally constituted panel.

"It's kind of a long shot," one of their lawyers, Capt. Thomas Fritz, conceded Monday night.

Fritz and attorneys for the 37 cadets said the request was being flown to Washington for filing late today. The foot-high paperwork is a petition for extraordinary relief in the form of a writ of prohibition, which is similar to a temporary restraining order.

Fritz said the writ was a long shot because the tribunal has weighed only criminal cases. Honor proceedings are considered administrative actions.

Judges eye probation department overhaul

County Judge Bill Tune and District Judge Ralph W. Caton debated what kind of department to establish following the pending retirement of John Dibrell, adult probation officer.

Dibrell, who has been serving as probation officer part-time, is due to retire because of his health.

Judge Caton proposed replacing Dibrell and his part-time assistant, Guy Talbot, with a full-time probation officer and secretary.

"Couldn't we combine this with juvenile probation for a while since we're trying to get our expenses down?" Judge Tune countered.

Judge Caton said fees charged probationers exceed the expenditures proposed for a separate office. Also, Judge Caton referred to state law which recommended one adult probation officer for each 75 probationers.

There are 416 adults on probation from county and district court, including 84 who have not kept current with monthly fee payments. Judge Tune suggested a full-time probation officer "contact them and get them on the track and get them started paying."

"You wouldn't want to go on a trial basis?" Judge Tune asked.

"I don't know really what there is to try," Judge Caton said.

The county judge questioned if he and the district judge couldn't appoint two different adult probation officers.

"I guess if you want to do that," Judge Caton said. "But I suggest you don't."

Judge Caton proposed paying the adult probation officer $925 monthly (before the 5-per-cent raise) and $125 monthly car allowance, as compared to the $972 monthly and $125 auto pay allocated the juvenile probation officer.

For the secretary, a former deputy district clerk, the district judge proposed the $491 monthly paid third deputy after six months of service.

The salaries paid county secretaries range from $597 to $491 monthly now, Judge Caton said. "I don't know how they got out of step so much," Judge Caton commented.

Whatever is established here may be changed soon by state legislation, Judge Caton said. "The big move is on with this session of the legislature to make probation officers state-funded."

Neither judge nor County Commissioners Court took any action on the probation office question Thursday.

DELEGATE HUNT — Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan and his wife Nancy wave to supporters as they leave a meeting with Republican delegates in Elizabeth, N.J. Wednesday night. Reagan headed for Pennsylvania today in the search for uncommitted delegates.

Carter-Mondale ticket old hat

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — seven delegates in what previously had been considered a 67 to 0 Ford slate.

After meeting the entire delegation at a reception, Reagan had a private dinner with six New Jersey delegates.

Today, Reagan planned a similar series of private meetings with uncommitted and Ford delegates in Harrisburg, Pa., another state where Ford holds a lopsided majority.

Ford leads Reagan nationally 1,032 to 999, with 1,130 needed for the nomination, according to an Associated Press survey.

Ford has the edge in Pennsylvania by a 72 to 5 margin, with 25 uncommitted delegates and one backing Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee for president.

Again Wednesday, Reagan predicted victory. But he said he is sure the nomination will not be locked up by either himself or Ford before the GOP convention convenes Aug. 16 in Kansas City.

In a brief Newark news conference, Reagan placed unusually strong emphasis on his lack of interest in the second spot on a Ford ticket.

"Under no circumstances whatsoever will I accept the vice presidential nomination," Reagan said.

After meeting with Reagan, Thomas Kean, Ford's campaign chairman in New Jersey, was friendly toward the challenger.

"I think a number of people like him, and they like him even more after today. But it won't change their votes," said Kean, who predicted a New Jersey split of 60 to 7 or 62 to 5 in Ford's favor.

Most of the delegates interviewed by reporters after the meetings said they were impressed by Reagan, but that they hadn't switched.

Reagan described his talk with the Ford delegates briefly, "I simply talked about the record in California and my views on electability — that I am more electable."

Drew Lewis, Ford's chairman in Pennsylvania, predicted Reagan would come away with no more than eight delegates today, and no more than 11 by convention time, for a 21 to 11 Ford edge.

Reagan's press secretary, Jim Lake, said those figures were "not unreasonable."

STILL, WONDERS WHY — RoxAnn McMillian poses in her wheelchair in San Jose, Calif., with her son Leon and tells an interviewer she still wonders why she was one of the San Francisco shootings which came to be called the Zebra killings. The shooting took place two and a half years ago when her son was only four months old. Of the four men involved she says: "None of them will ever suffer as much as I did."

Successful Fourth

with Marj Carpenter

One thing about it, Big Springers will take up for Big Spring. I think that's wonderful. I love it, as a matter of fact. A good example was the quick response to a recent letter severely criticizing the Fourth of July in Big Spring. A number of people put a lot of work in on the big weekend. It's a shame the fireworks couldn't have gone off — on at least the 5th, but this doesn't bother Big Springers as much as somebody severely criticizing the entire event.

I couldn't believe that somebody also hopped on Danny Valdes for failing to get a picture of one of the events in the park. Danny took pictures on both Sunday and Monday afternoons on his time off and had many wonderful pictures that did not get in the paper, due to shortage of space. One of these pictures is shown above.

Anyway, I feel sure that most people who took part in activities over the July Fourth weekend did not do so for the publicity involved, but rather to provide something special for Big Spring during the Bicentennial.

There were a lot of wonderful activities that weekend. And everybody that worked on them should be commended.

I went to all of the activities on the third and fifth and a few late on the Fourth, just about the time the rain hit.

On that Sunday, I was one part of the day since I was asked to talk at the 85th anniversary of the First Presbyterian Church in Pecos. That was quite an event for a lot of us because people returned from as far away as Georgia and Iowa for the occasion.

We talked a lot and laughed a lot, mostly about what the children in that church pulled off through the years.

Even there, I kept touching base with Big Spring. My good friend, June Bond Jones from Atlanta, Ga. said she used to room in college at one time with the former Ann Talbot of Big Spring and later with Murlene Grigsby of Big Spring.

She was one of the ones in the group who really recalled a hilarious story about her two children. Her daughter, Mickey, just graduated from college magna cum laude, but she's the victim of the tale. Her brother, Craig, is now in law school in Houston.

But one Sunday when she was quite small, on the way to church, Mickey said ex-

LOOK AT THAT — Mike Cox and Deke Willard look in amazement at some of the proceedings in one of the Fourth of July events that were held in Big Spring. This particular picture was made at the Highland South parade. The entire weekend was a big success.

Minutes that day. Billy went home and reported happily. "Mrs. Carpenter's tough." As I journeyed back from Pecos this year on the Fourth of July afternoon, I observed traffic coming in and out of six towns. Believe it or not, the most traffic was around Pecos, where the final night of a rodeo was in progress and Big Spring, where many Fourth of July events were scheduled.

So don't knock the people that worked on the project. Thanks bunch. It was bringing the people into town or at least that's the way it looked to me from where I was ridin' fence way off down the road.

He was about in the sixth grade and a member of the youth choir at the First Presbyterian Church in Pecos and he could sing like an angel. He was a natural boy soprano at that time.

But that's all beside the point. The kids were on a picnic in the Monahans Sandhills lined up to take a jeep ride. They had waited patiently for their turn.

About the time, they were to get on the jeep, two big boys from Monahans came pushing up and climbed in. Betty recalled that I asked them nicely to get out. I don't remember whether I was nice or not.

When they simply sat there, I suddenly grabbed them by the shirt fronts and tossed them out in the sand. All my patient hours of working with that youth choir failed to earn me the respect I gained in five

Woman lives six days with a heart pump

HOUSTON (AP) — A 44-year-old woman who had been kept alive six days with the aid of a mechanical heart pumping device is dead.

Officials at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital announced Monday the woman died of kidney failure.

The hospital declined to identify the woman, saying only she "live out of town."

A left ventricular assist device was implanted in the woman June 30 at the Texas Heart Institute. The device was removed six days late and at that time her condition was described as critical.

The woman had undergone a triple coronary artery bypass operation and when surgeons had difficulty getting her own heart to function after taking her off the heart-lung machine they implanted the mechanical heart assist device.

"Her heart had recovered," the brief hospital announcement said. "The cause of death was persisting renal failure (kidney failure)."

St. Luke's officials had reported that four previous attempts to use the device at the hospital had ended with deaths of the patients, with three deaths on the operating table and the fourth surviving the implant eight hours.
