Payroll-sex scandal figure

Hays drops re-election bid

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays, whose relationship with Elizabeth Ray sparked a congressional payroll-sex scandal, today dropped his bid for re-election, citing health reasons and "harassment."

On Thursday, he said he was considering ending his campaign if he thought it would wipe out Miss Ray's chances for more publicity.

The 65-year-old Democrat submitted his campaign withdrawal statement to the Columbiana County Board of Elections here.

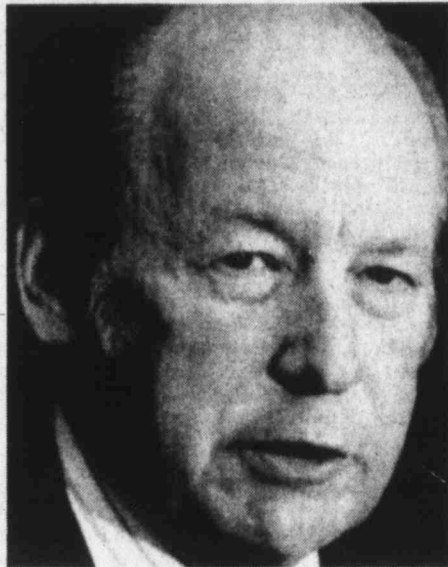

In a statement released in Washington, Hays said "I do this with a heavy heart" and said he had planned to retire in 1978.

"However, the current state of my health coupled with the harassment my family and I have taken from the Washington Post have led me to conclude that I should step down at the end of my current term," he said.

The Post broke the story on Miss Ray's charges that Hays kept her on a House committee payroll at a $14,000 a year salary solely to provide him with sex.

"The polls show I'd win, but I don't want to give that woman another chance to make an appearance," Hays had said Thursday in an interview.

The resignation means Hays, the former chairman of the influential House Administration Committee, will leave office when his term expires in January.

Despite the publicity of his relationship with Miss Ray, Hays defeated four-time challenger Nick Kannick in the June 8 primary in his bid for a 15th term in office.

Two days later, Hays was hospitalized for an overdose of sleeping pills which he said were taken accidentally. He returned to Washington July 19.

House Democrats deposed Hays from the committee chairmanship after Miss Ray charged that Hays kept her on the payroll in a clerical position although she said she couldn't type and the only work she did was as Hays' mistress.

Miss Ray is currently covering the Republican National Convention in Kansas City as a correspondent for Genesis magazine. She also has written a book and magazine articles that benefitted from the publicity generated by the scandal. And she has posed for nude pictures which were published in two men's magazines.

Hays acknowledged that he had an affair with Miss Ray but denied misuse of the payroll, saying she did committee work for her pay.

Hays has asked for a House Ethics Committee investigation which he says he is confident would vindicate him.

But Hays said Thursday he would not want the investigation to give Miss Ray an opportunity to make a public appearance and get more publicity.

ELIZABETH RAY

Miss Ray reportedly testified before a federal grand jury last week on her charge against Hays.

Hays said there is no truth to speculation that he has been plea bargaining to settle her accusation quickly so that he could decide by Saturday to stay in his re-election race.

"I'm not plea-bargaining," he said.

Webb statement delayed again

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon's Environmental Impact Statement on the possible closing of Webb Air Force Base has been again delayed, according to Rep. Omar Burleson, (D-Tex.).

The new date set for the release of the statement is Sept. 15, according to the statement issued by Burleson's office shortly after 1 p.m. today.

The impact statement has been received by the Pentagon and is under review, Burleson said.

The date for the impact statement's release was originally set for the first part of July, but has been delayed several times before.

Construction of $450,000 inn planned in Big Spring

A city building permit has been authorized for the construction of a new inn here.

The permit was issued Thursday to Rip Griffin of Lubbock for the construction of the Big Spring Inn on a vacant lot directly east of his truck stop on I.S. 20 and U.S. 87. The projected cost of the two-story, 64-unit inn has been estimated at $450,000. Construction will begin almost immediately, according to Joe Wofford, vice president of Rip Griffin Truck Centers.

The inn itself will be part of the national franchise, Mid Continent Inns.

THE CONTRACTOR for the project, which will include a circular swimming pool, is Bill Averett of Lubbock. The 287-by-84-foot, brick structure will be designed to offer a $12 room rate, according to Wofford. Areas of the existing truck stop and its adjacent restaurant will also be remodeled, he advised.

Doesn't the possible closing of Webb AFB affect the decision to build in Big Spring?

"No, we paid $3,500 for a survey and appraisal of the property, and the appraisal indicated that the demand is here for an inn of this size despite the (possible) closing," said Wofford. "Of course the interstate (IS 20) is the most important element in our decision. There are enough traveling people to support a motel," he added.

THE SURVEY by a Dallas branch of a New York firm included an estimate of potential business from travellers from Dallas to El Paso. This was narrowed to an estimate of Abilene-Odessa traffic, and then to traffic in the immediate area.

Appraisers also took note of the high rate of occupancy of nearby hotels and motels in the city, according to Wofford.

"We think this is a good town to invest some money in," concluded Wofford.

Airlines deadline sparks negotiations

A deadline for Trans Regional Airlines to pay increased rent to Big Spring Aircraft passed today without a threatened eviction being carried out.

Robert D. Miller, attorney for Trans Regional said, "We are negotiating but we'd rather not discuss what it is we are negotiating."

Miller indicated that the two companies are "in contact" and are "communicating," but "there is no ultimatum now."

"We have made a proposal and they are deciding on a reply," concluded Miller.

Big Spring Aircraft officials had earlier threatened to evict Trans Regional Airlines from the terminal if a higher rent was not paid and if fixed base operations were conducted elsewhere. Today was the date Trans Regional was to comply with the increase.

Action/reaction: Concerts answer

Q. Why doesn't Big Spring have any concerts? Why is it that whenever there is a concert it's always in Midland or Odessa and people from Big Spring going to such things waste gas just to get there? Couldn't you please find a way to make some concerts in Big Spring?

A. There are numerous kind of concerts and you didn't specify what kind you prefer, but I think you'll be able to see all kinds once the Howard College Coliseum is finished. The target date is late 1977 or sometime in 1978.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — President Idi Amin of Uganda has been challenged to a duel with pistols while hanging from parachutes. The challenge came from a Danish journalist who says Amin insulted him during a July 5 telephone call after the Israeli raid on Entebbe airport.

"Amin used four-letter words and bawled me out in a way that did not correspond to his high office. Now I have formally challenged him," newsman Jens Thomsen, 51, said Thursday.

Bible Fund gifts spiral

Gifts for the Howard County Ministerial Alliance's annual Bible Fund cascaded into The Herald today, with the result that the total soared past $1,000 mark.

The campaign is still far short of its $6,500 goal but Dr. Kenneth Patrick, coordinator of the drive for the alliance, expressed confidence that the push would go over the top within a relatively short time.

Among recent donors are old friends of the campaign, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brown of Wichita Falls, formerly of Ackerly, who forwarded a $25 check.

Expenses for the Bible courses offered in high schools at Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan must be sustained by free-will offerings, since they cannot be sustained by tax money.

GROWING PAINS — The First Baptist Church, located at 705 Marcy Drive, will shortly undertake a $500,000 building program. Plans, as prepared by the architectural firm of Gary and Hohertz, are pictured here. The additions would be to the left of the lower and back south to the enclosed courtyard.

$500,000 building program at First Baptist takes shape

The membership of the First Baptist Church has approved a plan in a secret ballot to undertake a $500,000 building program, dependent upon a fund-raising campaign which will be launched in October.

The master plan includes provisions for a chapel, a family life center, a new suite of offices and additional education space — all to be located east of and attached to the present church complex.

The new structures would embrace 40,000 square feet of space. The architectural design will be similar to that used in construction of the sanctuary.

The architectural firm of Gary and Hohertz, Big Spring, has been commissioned to prepare plans for the additions. The debt on the present complex is scheduled to be retired in October. The present buildings cost $1 million and were occupied in 1965, at which time the church moved from the 600 block of Main Street.

The membership is planning a note-burning ritual in November to signal the retirement of the old debt.

Managers say advance VP pick is poor politics

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — President Ford's convention managers contend it would be poor politics for him to tip his vice presidential hand in advance, despite signals of Republican unrest about some of the names in his catalogue of prospects.

They're seeking to calm those concerns, while citing the President's insistence that he won't name a running mate in advance, and won't try to bargain for delegates with the vice presidency.

A Southern GOP leader said a White House official told him not to worry, that the eventual choice will have mainstream Republican credentials and won't alienate conservatives.

John Linnell, the Maine chairman, said eight Ford delegates there were considering withholding their support from Ford unless they are assured he won't choose John B. Connally for the vice presidency.

Baker said he talked to Linnell, who confirmed the statement but also assured him that Ford will get his Maine delegate votes in the end. "He didn't tell me he would not abstain," Baker said. "He told me 'You can count on 15 solid votes from Maine on the first ballot.'"

Baker said he wouldn't try to explain away the apparent contradiction. He said he didn't want to speak for Linnell.

The manager of Ronald Reagan's campaign argues that there is growing pressure on Ford to disclose in advance who will be his running mate if he wins the Republican presidential nomination.

John P. Sears said it is increasingly likely Ford will have to do so.

Dean Burch, a top convention strategist for Ford, said he won't. "I simply don't think the delegates to this convention are in the business of wanting the President to play poor politics," Burch said.

But that was only a warm-up for the real contest, for the nomination.

Coal, rubber work normal next week?

Despite a return-to-work movement in the coal fields and a wage breakthrough in the rubber workers' strike, it will be next week at the earliest before things are back to normal in the two industries.

He said he would not ask union members to go back to work while the noneconomic issues are hammered out.

Thousands of miners in the Appalachian and Midwestern coal fields were back at work today after being threatened by United Mine Workers officials with expulsion if they continued their month-long wildcat walkout.

Wages and cost-of-living issues have been delaying the settlement of the strike by more than 60,000 employees of the Goodyear, Firestone, Goodrich and Uniroyal rubber companies.

But it will be nearly a week before the coalfields are back to normal, Harry Patrick, a UMW vice president, said Thursday. Safety crews must still inspect the mines, he said, and many local union presidents, mainly in southern West Virginia, have called meetings to discuss the strike's end.

The wildcat coal miners' strike began fading Thursday after costing the nation more than $130 million in lost production. As many as 100,000 miners in eight states had honored the picket lines.

The United Rubber Workers and the Big Four of the U.S. tire and rubber industry still have to negotiate noneconomic issues in a new three-year contract to settle the 115-day rubber workers strike.

The coal strike, which began in West Virginia, was a protest against what the miners said was the propensity of coal mine operators to go to federal courts to settle disputes the miners felt could be handled by union grievance procedures.

Most local police activity Thursday centered around the perennial problem of automobiles running into each other.

The air brakes failed on a 2½ ton, driverless truck belonging to the City Lumber Co. of San Angelo, allowing the truck to roll into a parked car owned by Roy Hoggard, 1604 E. 17th. The incident occurred at 800 Scott, 10:48 p.m. Thursday.

Clark, 801 Marcy, and Arita Calley, Forsan, collided at 200 W. 6th, 12 p.m.

Gary Don Stevens, 2908 Navajo, was hospitalized following a collision at the 800 block of E. 3rd, 10:54 p.m. Stevens' car was westbound on 3rd when it collided with another westbound auto driven by Larry Author Woolsey of Odessa.

Two hit-and-run accidents were reported Thursday.

Registration for the Big Spring Head Start Program will be held 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday at Kate Morrison School, 600 N.W. 6th. Registration will continue through the week if necessary.

Following the impact, Stevens' car left the road, travelled 288 feet, and ran into the Western Building. Stevens is reported to be in good condition at Malone-Hogan.

A car driven by Ernest Rice, Chaparral Trailer Court, was struck by an unidentified vehicle at the 1600 block of E. 4th, 10:36 p.m.

Carter only one able to lead nation

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. says Jimmy Carter is the only person who can give the nation leadership and that he intends to play a strong role in Carter's presidential campaign.

"I want to assure him of my help and all the energy I have in making sure that he wins in November and gets a good start in January," Brown told reporters Thursday.

The governor of the nation's most populous state flew to Plains on Thursday to be Carter's overnight house guest. The two were to appear at a news conference today.

On Thursday, Brown sidestepped reporters' questions on whether he might challenge Carter for the presidency in 1980 if Carter wins the White House this fall.

He said he feels Carter still has real but surmountable problems among Catholics, ethnic groups and large segments of the population in the Northeastern United States.

Asked about differences between himself and Carter, Brown implied that Carter believes the nation can maintain its energy and resource base at its current growth rate.

"I tend to incline to the view that we do not have the resources to continue the rate of economic growth that we have known in the past.... Because of that I believe there will be really profound changes in this country between now and the end of the century," Brown said.

Carter had a busy Thursday as he and his running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., were briefed by CIA Director George Bush, talked with Brown and heard a delegation of Italian-Americans demand more say in government for 25 million Americans of Italian descent.

Earlier in the day, Carter said he is eager to debate the Republicans' nominee if the details can be worked out.

He said that holds true even if the GOP candidate is former California Gov. Ronald Reagan. Carter said Reagan might have a head start in any debate because he is "a former movie actor who is a master of television media."

Two bodies were unearthed Tuesday in the cellar of Pesquet's house. He was arrested August 1 in connection with the slayings of three people. Ford crony gets Postal Service 'plum job'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A real estate developer who serves as a campaign fundraiser for President Ford is being handed a "plum" job on the Postal Service board of governors, five years after politics was supposed to have been eliminated from the Postal Service.

Hung Wai Ching, finance chairman for Ford's campaign in Hawaii, is being named to the board at least partly because of his efforts on behalf of the Republican party, according to Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, who recommended him for the post last week.

The post could pay Ching, a Honolulu developer, up to $13,600 a year for attending 12 meetings. Ching was confirmed by the Senate without debate last week.

Fong, asked about his part in the Ching appointment by Ford, said, "I did recommend him. That's politics. I have known him since high school and I know him to be a man of integrity."

Fong, who five years ago was one of the supporters of a bill designed to remove the Postal Service from the influence of politics, was asked if politics had anything to do with the selection of Ching as a member of the board of governors.

"Oh, yes," Fong replied. "He's worked very hard for the party. That was one of the things I thought of, along with his other activities."

Fong, in urging Senate approval of the bill to reorganize the Postal Service in 1971, vowed in an Aug. 30, 1970, Senate speech that "this bill will eliminate politics from the Post Office Department as we have seen it operate."

Since then, Fong, the ranking Republican on the Senate postal committee, has acknowledged selecting White House nominees to the board and to the Postal Rate Commission.

Fong, in a January speech, boasted of "recommending and helping place qualified people from Hawaii in high government posts."

He included in this group Dr. John Y. Ing, a Honolulu dentist and real estate developer who served two stints as a Postal Service governor. Ing failed to attend 17 of the 20 board meetings during his tenure, board records show. The meetings he did attend totaled 14 hours and 15 minutes, for which he was paid $17,066, records show.

Ching replaces Ing on the board.

One of the stated goals of the postal reorganization of 1971 was to remove politics from the mail service. Previously, members of Congress controlled appointments of postmasters in their districts and the job of postmaster general frequently was a reward that went to the president's campaign manager.

The Postal Reorganization Act also established the board of governors. The governors meet once a month. They are paid $10,000 per year, plus $300 for every monthly meeting attended.

Vandalism costing billions

Vandalism, or the willful destruction of private and public property is rapidly becoming one of the most expensive crimes occurring in the United States. It is estimated that it is costing taxpayers about $5 billion per year just to replace and repair damaged public property.

No figures on the destruction of private property are available. However, losses of this type may be as large as those in the public sector.

Buck Luttrell, Crime Prevention Coordinator for the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, reports that there are several programs available for both children and adults designed to aid in reducing vandalism.

Luttrell further suggests that with the beginning of a new school term is an opportune time to present these programs. School administrators and other public officials are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to participate in attempting to save tax dollars.

To book these programs, contact your local Law Enforcement Agency or Buck Luttrell, P.O. Box 6391, Midland, (915) 563-1061.

Farm safety book not funny

GEORGE MAHON

Cong. George Mahon of Lubbock got upset recently when he read a government booklet which he considered a ridiculous waste of taxpayers' money.

THE BOOKLET concerned safety on the farm and contained such gems of wisdom as:

"When floors are wet and slippery with manure, you could have a bad fall."

"You can get too tired when working with cattle."

I, for one, was not surprised to see the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) folks getting deep into the farming business.

They've gotten into everything else, so why shouldn't they propose that toilet and handwashing facilities be located within a five-minute walk of the fields?

I think the farmers haven't seen anything yet. I lived on a farm as a boy, and I know what the potential is there for OSHA regulations.

Unless Mahon and a few others like him in Washington can turn this trend around, here's what I predict OSHA farm regulations will require within a few years:

The mooing of a full-grown cow can produce a noise which might go beyond the allowed decibel range. Therefore, any cow 10 hands tall or taller must have the decibel readings of her moo checked twice a year. If the decibel ratings of more than two cows in a single lot are over 90, the farmer is required to wear earplugs, or earmuffs, of industrial specifications.

APPROACHING a horse from behind can be dangerous. Therefore, every horse must be fitted with a free-clearance hoop around his hind legs side. Therefore, each cow should be tested by a research team from Texas A&M for its most amiable side. When the best milking side is determined, a lighted sign of at least four candle power must be posted on the rear of each animal. Because a cow's tail can sometimes sweep around and swat the farmer instead of the flies causing a stinging sensation, each cow must be fitted with a tail retainer contraption which limits the cow's swatting capability on the milking side.

Bending down in front of a billy goat can be particularly hazardous. Care should be taken to see that all billy goats are fitted with special plastic ram helmets and that the pants seats in all overalls are foam rubber cushioned a minimum of three inches thick.

Snakes often appear in fields where farmers are at work. Therefore, to guard against bites boots must be worn with the steel toes extending up to the knees. The steel should be at least one-quarter inch thick, and it may be jointed one time at the ankle for flexibility providing a joint does not expose more than one-fourth of an inch.

The shovel can be a particularly dangerous tool with its sharp edge on the digging side. Therefore, each shovel must be kept in its own fire-proof case except for the exact seconds when the instrument is in use.

BARN CAN be fire hazards with all that dried hay inside. Therefore, no smoking signs must be posted every 10 feet. Fire extinguishers must be placed ever 20 feet at exactly one inch above shoulder level of the farmer's tallest bull. Tractors must not be driven into barns since a spark might ignite the hay. Each bale of hay must be wrapped in its own covering of plastic.

Chewing tobacco presents a natural hazard to farmers should something suddenly happen which might force large amounts to be swallowed. Therefore, chewing tobacco is to be taken in thimble-sized amounts and only in certain restricted farm zones which are roped off and posted as "chaw areas — do not disturb." Penalty for violation of this regulation is $10,000 fine and loss of license to purchase tobacco for two years.

Of course, I am only able to give you highlights of the regulations which will, no doubt, be 1,789 pages long and will cost each farmer $375 just to purchase the book.

Farmers will be allowed to hire safety consulting firms at $1,000 a day to deal with such specific problem areas as tractor exhaust, smell pollution from the chicken house, sanitary hog wallows, cattle guard pipe reinforcement, barbed wire blunting, life guard services for farm ponds, and especially to have the boards on their lot fence inspected so none will collapse should a farmer rest his foot on them.

Don't laugh. That's where we're headed.

As Cong. Mahon notes: Those responsible for the regulations "do not have to answer the public for the outrages they perpetrate in the name of administering the law. By their actions they bring contempt on the government."

We must declare war on such ineptness if respect for government is to be restored and maintained," Cong. Mahon concluded.

Around the rim

John Edwards

When District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III leaves office Dec. 31 for private practice, a new prosecutor with different attitudes will be installed.

RICK HAMBY, the only nominee for district attorney, and Moore explained differing thoughts about wiretapping in this column last week. Hamby opposes it. Moore favors it as a way of fighting organized crime, but he has reservations.

What about the indeterminate sentencing law?

Hamby explained this provision: "There's a top limit you can serve, but if you show signs of suitable rehabilitation prior to the maximum length of time you can serve then indeterminate sentencing allows those who are supposed to be experts to say this man is rehabilitated."

In other words, the jury or judge sets the maximum time a defendant will spend in prison. Given evidence of good behavior, the Texas Board of Pardons and Parole may parole a prisoner in less than the maximum time.

"Any additional time would be useless and might even do the man harm to say nothing of the additional expense it would bring on the taxpayer," Hamby commented.

"And indeterminate sentencing, as I understand it, gives the authorities enough leeway to act in the eventually the man is ready to rejoin society prior to the maximum limit."

"Although not entirely, I am coming in disfavor with the indeterminate sentencing law."

"In explaining the way I think, you have to examine what I believe to be the underlying philosophy which prompted the law in the beginning," Moore began.

"That is that if a convict is sentenced to a range of confinement from two to 10 years rather than a flat five to do period, his chances of speedy rehabilitation may be enhanced by his knowledge that he himself by his own conduct can expedite his release and return to society."

"ON THE OTHER HAND, I can understand how one sentenced to a flat and sure five years confinement no matter what his conduct may have less incentive to conform his conduct toward early release," Moore observed.

"Both viewpoints have their merits. My disfavor with the indeterminate sentence law centers around our great number of repeat or recidivist criminal offenders who upon release from the penitentiary, aware of the way pardons and paroles are governed by behavior, do not view their potential return to prison as a deterrent to criminal behavior."

"They know that if caught again and sentenced to five years that they could serve a five-year sentence in less than two years," Moore said.

"WHEREAS IF they thought whatever sentence they received would be what they served, the deterrent effect might again come into play."

"Possibly the best solution and one allowing for a spectrum of considerations — that is rehabilitation, deterrence, punishment — would be to apply the indeterminate sentencing law only to first offenders who haven't yet shown themselves unable or unwilling to reform. And then apply a sentencing procedure of a sentence sure and certain to repeat offenders as a deterrent," Moore concluded.

Reds pamper athletes

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Confidential intelligence reports explain how the athletes from the communist bloc made such a spectacular showing at the recent Olympics.

The documents claim that communist countries have been force-training athletes for the Olympics since at least 1960. The star performers not only are subsidized but are pampered with luxuries in flagrant violation of Olympic rules, the documents allege.

This supports the frequent charge that communist governments develop professional athletes to compete against amateurs. One intelligence report quotes a past defector from the Cuban gymnastics team, Zulema Bregado Gutierrez, as stating: "All the athletes are professionals since athletics is their main employment."

SHE EXPLAINED that Cuban athletes draw no salary but "receive other privileges which are tantamount to salary." She cited "free room and board and clothing." They get "much better food" and clothing "of the best materials available in Cuba," she said. These special advantages, she told U.S. intelligence men, "are not available to the rest of the population."

Another Cuban defector, Hector Rodriguez Cordoso, told about being sent to Russia to study physical education. Summarizes an intelligence report:

"For a classless society, Rodriguez said, Soviet athletes not only enjoy special class privileges, but they are actually segregated into categories according to their performance in competition."

"Most Soviet athletes who have won medals in competition of world significance, such as the Olympic Games, rank as first class athletes and receive a monthly stipend of 400 rubles in addition to other privileges such as automobiles, housing and the opportunity to travel abroad..."

"For every new world record a Soviet athlete sets," continues the intelligence report, "he receives a bonus of 1,000 rubles and other benefits." The document adds that lesser athletes also "receive considerable recognition, monetary and otherwise, above and beyond what an ordinary worker would receive in the Soviet Union."

According to the document, "Rodriguez was emphatic in stating that the Soviet athletes with whom he came in contact made no secret of the fact that their efforts to excel were spurred primarily by the promise of material gain."

For communist athletes, the political indoctrination is as intensive as the physical training. The Cuban gymnast, Zulema Bregado, reported that "at least 30 minutes of political indoctrination is mandatory before every daily training session." Thereafter, she was required to train for four hours "every day of the week except Sunday, year round."

The athletes are carefully coached on how to react at the Olympics. States an intelligence document: "The Cubans make a special effort to orient their athletes so that once they come in contact with foreigners, they have a preconceived party line which they are to use."

"EVERY EFFORT made by the members of the team, individually and collectively is oriented to put the communist regime of Cuba under the most favorable light. For this reason, the Cuban athletes are considered one of the best means of conveying that message."

Some of these confidential documents date back to the 1960s. Yet they accurately forecast the behavior of the Cuban athletes who performed at the 1976 Olympics in Montreal.

The indefatigable Cuban runner, Albert Juantorena, dutifully dedicated his racing triumphs to Fidel Castro and the revolution. The formidable Teofilo Stevenson, the gold-medal heavyweight boxer, also always said exactly what Castro would want to hear.

Indeed all of Castro's athletes arrived in Montreal with a full repertoire of Cuban revolutionary slogans. Not one of them expressed a thought of his own.

There could be no denying, however, that the Cuban athletes put on a tremendous performance. Hector Rodriguez told in an intelligence interview how they were groomed for their triumph. Relates the report:

"Rodriguez revealed that every Cuban province had a Training Center for Athletic Initiation in the schools. The main purpose of these centers is to recruit promising youths as young as 11 years of age... (and) train them politically and technically until they reach the age and necessary capability to enter another similarly specialized school."

"The latter is at the university level and is known as Superior School of Athletic Preparation... The school is located in the former Cubanacan Country Club, one of the most luxurious of Havana, and the students receive privileged treatment with regard to food, clothing and housing."

The athletic triumphs are used, according to the intelligence documents, to divert public attention from "other failures" and to demonstrate "the superiority of Marxist-Leninism ideology in sports."

The Castro regime also inflates its triumphs by counting separately all the medals awarded to team members instead of the single award to the team.

Sears ploy

Evans, Novak

KANSAS CITY — The possibility of success for the latest audacious maneuver by Reagan campaign manager John Sears, remote though it is, underscores the chronic weakness of President Ford's candidacy and nearly obliterates hope for a quiet convention.

The Sears proposal to require Mr. Ford to name his running mate in advance of presidential balloting was clearly a ploy to set up a test of strength on the convention floor most advantageous to Ronald Reagan. Thus, that the rules change has any chance whatever points up this gloomy fact of political life for Mr. Ford: even though he needs only a handful of votes to clinch the nomination, a substantial number of delegates think twice about giving the President a totally free hand in picking his running mate. That displays astounding weakness for an incumbent President.

WHILE MR. FORD almost certainly will be nominated, the hope for a quiet and easy victory — so high two weeks ago when Reagan appeared to have destroyed himself by selecting Sen. Richard Schweiker for Vice President — is gone. The Sears ploy may insure a ferocious floor fight next week, extending the bitter struggle between the Ford establishment and Reagan's outsiders through at least Tuesday night.

Sears has confided to friends that his proposed vice presidential rules change is the delayed second stage of his Schweiker rocket. But others high in the Reagan campaign, having learned of the rules proposal only late last week, see it as a desperation move by Sears after Schweiker's failure to unlock Reagan delegates in the Northeast.

Sears, notorious for shielding his moves even from colleagues, may well have had the second stage in mind without telling anybody. Whether he did or not, however, there is no doubt that some maneuver was essential to maintain any hope for Reagan. Our count shows Mr. Ford about 80 delegates ahead of Reagan with only about 80 uncommitted delegates left.

ACCORDINGLY, SEARS had to concoct a test vote, with two goals: first, to show Reagan sentiment among conservative delegates bound by primary election laws in North Carolina, Kentucky and other states to vote for Mr. Ford in presidential balloting; second, to provide a rallying point bringing the wavering Mississippi delegation — and its wavering chairman, Clarke Reed — back into the Reagan camp.

Blood pressure individual matter

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please tell me what is normal for blood pressure? I am 75. The last reading I had was 180 over 65. Although the doctor said it was all right, I am sure that is too high. Will you please comment? — Mrs. A.W.

I can comment, but I can't tell you whether your blood pressure is "all right" or not.

Why? Because there are so many factors that enter into such matters — age, heredity, your background, other physical conditions such as weight, and so on.

Your age could be the most important consideration of all. The pressure tends to increase as we grow older. In a young adult a reading of 120 over 80 might be "normal." Later on the same individual might come up with a reading of 140 over 90 and that might not mean anything significant. The upper reading (pressure during the heart's pumping phase) is usually of less concern than the lower one. That represents pressure during the heart's resting phase.

Your physician has taken account of your total physical status and is not concerned with your 180 over 65 pressure. If you are not bothered with headaches, flushing, ear noises, and if your kidneys, for example, are function-tioning normally for your age, I would accept his verdict.

Blood pressure is on a lot of people's minds these days, and for good reason. It is probably the best single indicator of how well (or poorly) we're treating these bodies of ours. But sensible concern should be the guide — not anxiety. Anxiety as much as anything else can give you a reading that will raise your doctor's eyebrows.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I want to know something about trichinosis, treatment, etc. — A.J.B.

I can't tell from your letter whether you have trichinosis (trik-a-NOE-sis) or are just curious.

The disease is rare in the U.S. today because of better hog-raising standards. It results from eating pork or pork products that are raw or insufficiently cooked. The cause is a worm that encases itself in the pork flesh. The symptoms are muscular aches, swelling of the eyelids and fever. The symptoms can be mild and go unnoticed.

The last case of trichinosis I saw was years ago. It was referred to me as an "industrial backache." A telltale rise in a certain type of white blood cell raised suspicions. During questioning the man told me he had eaten undercooked hamburger (containing pork) at a picnic.

If you have it, you may need medical treatment. Local health authorities would want to know about it, also. Not all cases require treatment. Skin tests would confirm it whether or not you have it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a skin condition, photosensitivity, which appeared three years ago. It is unpleasant on the neck area and the right side. It is red and looks like "goose bumps." Can you please give me some suggestions about this condition? — Mrs. A.C.

Sun sensitivity is one of the "physical" allergies similar to allergic reactions to cold, heat, water, etc. It can follow the use of certain drugs, particularly antibiotics. Antihistamines help reduce the effects, but little else can be done. Sometimes such conditions are related to other ailments. Lupus erythematosus is one, and if it is the type that affects the skin, medication used in malaria may help it.

Otherwise, keeping exposure to a minimum is about all one can do.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 67 years old and am troubled with a tingling sensation in one hand during the night only. My doctor says my circulation is good. I eat a well-balanced diet. Is there any explanation for this condition? — Mrs. G.H.

Your circulation is good — normally. However, it is easy, especially when lying down in bed, to disturb it. The position of the arm — overhead or lying on it — can produce these symptoms. Adjusting the sleeping position to avoid interference with circulation may solve the problem.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Billy Graham

My answer

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I don't understand why you sometimes quote from several versions of the Bible. — H.H.

DEAR H.H.: The Bible was originally written in the ancient languages of Hebrew and Greek. However, Christians have always known that the Bible can be translated into other languages and, if it is a faithful translation, it is still the Word of God. In fact, many of the early Christians we read about in the New Testament used a translation of the Old Testament known as the Septuagint.

We should be thankful for the many fine English translations of the Bible we have today. Many people have come to faith in Christ through reading one of these. I often use several translations in preparing my messages, since no one translation can exhaust fully the original meaning of some of the richest parts of the Bible. Often one translation will give me new insights on a Bible passage. Your pastor may be able to suggest the translations that will be most helpful to you.

Whatever translations we use, we should always prayerfully seek the guidance of the Holy Spirit as we read. An accurate translations is important, but unless the Holy Spirit opens our spiritual understanding to see what God is saying to us, it will not accomplish God's purpose in our lives.

Agreement creating Hercofina disclosed

Hercules Inc., and American Petrofina, Inc., have announced approval by their respective boards of directors of an agreement creating Hercofina, a joint venture company with assets of $362-million, for the production and marketing worldwide of terephthalates, basic raw materials for polyesters.

At the same time, the Wilmington, Delaware-based chemical company and the Dallas, Texas-based energy and petrochemical company announced that Duard H. Little is named general manager of Hercofina, T. Edward Powers is named assistant general manager and Jerry G. Jenkins of Big Spring is named resident manager, American Petrofina.

Little, a 35-year veteran with Hercules, was most recently general manager of the Synthetics Department, the operating group responsible for Hercules' polyester raw materials business. Prior to that position, he was the company's chief engineer. Earlier assignments have included senior management positions relating to polypropylene and to the company's space and defense activities.

A 28-year veteran with Hercules, Powers was most recently assistant general manager of the Synthetics Department. Prior to that he held several operating and marketing management positions relating to the company's polyester fiber business and its organic resins activities.

Why not energy stamps?

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — The idea came during a sleepless night. Food stamps help people who can't eat, reasoned Charles Hopkins, but what about people who go cold because they cannot pay fuel bills?

The answer was "energy stamps," and the Lorain County Community Action Agency, which Hopkins heads, now is taking applications.

business, and technology in the production and marketing of DMT (dimethyl terephthalate), TPA (terephthalic acid), and related raw materials. In addition to its cash contribution, American Petrofina will transfer to the joint venture the right to use its facilities for making mixed xylenes — raw materials for para-xylene used in the manufacture of terephthalates — thereby assuring Hercofina sufficient quantities of feedstocks.

Low income residents pay $25 for stamps worth $75. The money comes from a $7,500 trial grant from the federal Community Services Administration. The grant will provide stamps for 150 to 200 persons.

Fifteen people signed up Thursday, the first day of the program. Quite a few other "obviously ineligible" people showed up, said Hopkins.

To be eligible, one first must meet the federal low-income standard, an income of less than $5,500 a year for a family of four. The next decision is whether an actual emergency exists, Hopkins said.

For example, he said, there is an actual emergency when a family has shut off notice in hand or a major overdue gas bill that means shutoff is just around the corner.

Farm Nearly $100 million buried beneath soil of Texas Plains

HALFWAY — Nearly $100 million get buried beneath the soil of the Texas High Plains each year. The money is in the form of fertilizer, some 650,000 tons of nitrogen, phosphorus and occasionally a touch of potash.

Soil research scientists will tell field day viewers of Halfway Tuesday, Sept. 14, what happens to the fertilizer under cotton, sorghum, corn, millet and sunflowers and how environmental factors influence fertilizer and crop interaction.

Dr. Art Onken, soil chemist with The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock, and Kenneth Banks, research associate for the Experiment Station at Halfway, say the chemistry of the High Plains soils is changing "continuously and irreversibly" as fertilizer is applied and used up by crops.

The extent of this change and what farmers can do to assure that it continues to be beneficial are the topics of a four stop near soil fertility research plots at which Onken and Banks will be stationed during the field day.

Service; Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Dept. of Agriculture; National Weather Service; and the High Plains Research Foundation.

Experiment Station soil research efforts are aimed at fertilizer use efficiency, says Inken. Based on research data accumulated from test sites on farms throughout the High Plains as well as from the Lubbock and Halfway research sites, correlations are made between fertilizer use and plant growth. Recommendations are then made for fertilizer applications under given soil and crop conditions.

Other attractions besides tours of research plots at the Halfway Station include farm implement displays and audio-visual programs. Texas Agricultural Extension specialists will be on hand for individual conferences about production practices and problems.

Howard cotton farmers nab tenth spot in '75

Howard County farmers placed tenth in 1975 Texas cotton production with a crop of some 75,000 bales, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has reported in Austin.

County farmers harvested 83,900 acres averaging 429 pounds per acre.

Planting for the state reached completion in late June about two weeks ahead of schedule, and excellent moisture and good growing conditions promised an outstanding crop in the southern part of the state. Relatively cool, cloudy weather kept growth and development behind schedule in the rest of the state, and by early September, stands in the north and western areas were two to four weeks behind schedule.

In mid-September, a cold, wet front followed by rapidly rising temperatures shocked most fields on the High Plains causing widespread defoliation. This effectively stopped growth and development and resulted in one of the poorest quality crops in recent years.

Texas regained their position in 1975 as the top-producing cotton state with a crop of some 2,382,000 bales. Season average price was 44 cents a pound and the 1975 crop was valued at $503,147,000.

Lynn County led the state in cotton production with 144,800 bales.

Complete figures on the 1975 cotton crop have been compiled in the "1975 Texas Cotton Statistics." Copies may be obtained by writing Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P. O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Mitchell, Scurry gain extension entomologist

David H. Kattes, a native of Garland, has been named county extension entomologist for Mitchell and Scurry Counties effective Aug. 10, according to Mitchell County Extension Agent Bob Benson.

Kattes is a 1974 graduate of Texas A&M University with a B.S. degree in entomology. He received his M.S. degree in entomology also from Texas A&M University in 1976. While attending Texas A&M he was president of the Entomology Club and a member of the Entomologist Society of America. He is a member of the Baptist Church.

He is available to assist producers in both Mitchell and Scurry counties with insect problems in all agronomic crops. He will be in charge of a full season scout program to check producers' fields on a weekly basis beginning with the 1977 crop, states Benson.

Kattes will be located at the County Extension office. His telephone number will be 728-3111.

Farm Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were higher in midday dealings today.

A lower than expected government cotton crop estimate of 10.7 million bales prompted buying of futures, brokers said.

The average price for strict low middling 1-1/4-inch spot cotton advanced 32 points to 73.03 cents a pound Thursday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday prices were $6.50 to $10 a bale higher than the previous close. Oct. '78, 30, Dec. '77, 20, and March '78, 00.

Political mate turns talk into debate

DEAR ABBY: I'm married to a very intelligent, informed and well-read man. The problem is that whenever we are out socially, he gets on politics and always manages to get into a shouting match with somebody.

We are practically without friends at this point because most of the people we know don't share our political views. I have asked my husband to please stay off politics when we're socializing, but it's in one ear and out the other. He has very strong feelings about the way our country is being run, and he's very outspoken.

How can I get him to keep his mouth shut when he knows he's confronting someone who is just as loyal to his political party as he is?

LEVITTOWN, PA.

DEAR LEV: You probably can't. A lively political debate can be stimulating, informative and fun, but when it becomes a shouting match, it's a waste of energy for the combatants and an embarrassment for the witnesses.

DEAR ABBY: My son-in-law thinks it's great fun to trip his little 3-year-old son when the child walks past him. Then he laughs loudly when the boy falls flat on his face. Meanwhile, the child ends up crying, not so much from the physical hurt as from humiliation and the feeling of betrayal.

When they were visiting us last Christmas, my husband asked our son-in-law to please desist from this practice as long as they were in our home. Angry words followed and they left immediately, not even bothering to stay for the Christmas Eve festivities.

We haven't heard from them since, and they haven't answered our letters. They feel that we were trying to tell them how to raise their child, but we felt it was our right to reject unacceptable conduct within the confines of our home.

In other words, isn't a man's home still his "castle," or has that, too, been scrapped?

CHILDLESS GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: You haven't asked for any advice, so I won't offer any. But if you want to know whose side I'm on, it's yours.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are going to celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary soon, and we're planning a dinner dance for about 200 guests.

Would it be proper for me to wear my original wedding gown and veil for the first dance, and then change into something else?

We've been to other silver wedding parties, but the bride wasn't able to get into her wedding gown, so someone else modeled it for her. Some have said it wouldn't be proper for me to wear my own wedding gown. What do you say?

R.I. READER

DEAR READER: Wear the gown and veil for the first dance, then remove the veil and wear the gown for the rest of the evening! Why change?

Recipients of food stamps on average are younger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proportion of elderly persons buying food stamps dropped during a recent survey period while the proportion of younger, unemployed purchasers increased, the government reports.

A new Census Bureau study on social and economic characteristics of families participating in the federal food stamp program shows that in July 1975 about 17 per cent of households buying food stamps were headed by persons 65 or older, compared to 24 per cent in May 1973.

At the same time, the food stamp households headed by persons under 35 increased from 30 to 39 per cent, the report shows.

John Coder, a statistician in the Census Bureau income branch, said, "There is no question that some of the increase (in food stamp use by those under 35) is because more of them are unemployed."

Coder added that another reason why the proportion of food stamp purchasers dropped may be because there were substantial increases in Social Security payments in 1974. That would have raised the monthly incomes of persons 65 and older, meaning some of them would have qualified for fewer stamps.

A household's eligibility to buy food stamps is based on monthly, not annual income. For this reason a household with a relatively high annual income may be eligible to purchase food stamps if its monthly income drops below a certain level.

For example, the report shows that while 60 per cent of those households purchasing food stamps had annual incomes below $4,000, there were 5 per cent with annual incomes of $10,000 or more.

The government defines a household as a person or group occupying a single room or group of rooms constituting one housing unit.

Food stamps are coupons that can be purchased by economically needy households and redeemed for more than their purchase price at retail food stores. Eligible persons, such as those on welfare, can purchase for about 40 cents a coupon worth $1 at grocery stores. The federal government picks up the other 60 cents.

Other aspects of the report show:

—About one in five black households — or 1.6 million — purchased food stamps in July 1975.

—About one in 25 white households — or about 2.8 million — purchased food stamps during the same time period.

—About one in seven Spanish households — or about 423,780 — purchased food stamps in July 1975.

—More Southerners purchased food stamps than persons from any other region of the country. About 8 per cent of all Southern households purchased food stamps, compared to about 6 per cent nationwide.

The report shows 4.4 million of an estimated 71.4 million households purchased food stamps during July 1975. It said this is about 42 per cent higher than the 3.1 million households buying stamps in May 1973 when the first Census Bureau food stamp survey was taken. The jobless rate in May 1973 was 5 per cent. It was 8.4 per cent in July 1975.

The Census Bureau says the main reason for the increase is that an amendment to the Food Stamp Act expanded the program to the entire nation in 1974. But the report adds that higher unemployment and food prices in late 1974 and early 1975 also contributed to the increase.

Dust on Mars like San Francisco smog

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Martian skies over the Viking 1 lander are laden with dust that blurs the sun, much like smog over a large city on earth, scientists report.

Pictures taken by the lander's cameras, gazing skyward like an observatory telescope, were exhibited Thursday at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory to show how the sun looks to a viewer on Mars.

The bright disc appeared smaller than from earth, said Dr. James Pollock, because Mars is half again as far from the sun. Mars is the fourth planet out from the sun. Earth is the third.

As the sun got lower in the sky in successive pictures, it became fainter because its rays were passing through increasing quantities of dust. The dust, made of fine red particles blown from the surface, tinted the sky a pink color.

"The amount of obscuration is something comparable to what you might get on a smoggy day on earth," said Pollock. "More like the (San Francisco) Bay area than Los Angeles."

With Viking 2 orbiting the planet on a scouting mission to find a landing place, the Viking 1 lander continued its analysis of Martian soil.

A long-delayed organic analysis was carried out. The instrument for this test detects organic molecules in vapor given off by an oven-baked sample of soil. Last week Viking's lab oven baked the sample at 392 degrees Fahrenheit and apparently did not find any organic molecules — simple chemical compounds that could be related to life.

On Thursday the sample was heated to drive off any heavier organic compounds still in the soil. The results of the experiment were being radioed to earth and a report is expected Saturday.

First flu shots set for September

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first vaccine in the government's swine-flu inoculation program will not be available until late September, about two months before the peak of the next flu season, according to the director of the national immunization program.

Dr. W. Delano Meriwether, director of the program, said Thursday that when the immunization program is in full swing, more than one million Americans a day will get shots.

Vaccinations will be given on a first-come, first-served basis. They will be voluntary and the vaccine itself is free, but private doctors can charge for their services in giving the shots.

President Ford on Thursday signed a bill clearing the way for the immunization campaign and directed authorities to move quickly to make the vaccine available to all Americans. Four drug companies already have produced about 120 million doses of flu vaccine in bulk form. The federal vaccine program, stalled for several months, now faces a race against time as the flu season approaches.

In a signing ceremony in the Oval Office, Ford called swine flu a "potential public health emergency."

He thanked Congress for responding to his pleas to pass the legislation, which provides insurance for the drug companies manufacturing the vaccine.

"Scientific and medical evidence continues to support the need for a national influenza immunization program," Ford said.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Drewry Little, 55, wants justice. He says his 150-poune pet pig, "Sweet Lips," is cleaner than some of his customers. But the city is standing by its eviction order.

Little was fined $25 in June for violating a city ordinance. He keeps "Sweet Lips" at his combination home, restaurant and marina, which is zoned for commercial use to attract tourists.

Judge Constantine A. Spanoulis, who usually hears traffic cases, told Little,

"The law is the law." The regular presiding judge had disqualified himself. He knows "Sweet Lips."

Defense attorneys argued that the purpose of the law is to protect citizens, too. Mr. Little is keeping a household pet, not raising livestock.

Little is appealing the eviction order for Sweet Lips to a higher court. His attorneys, who are working without pay, had considered seeking a change of venue, possibly to Smithfield, but they said late Thursday they had abandoned those plans.

The attorneys said they have appealed to Virginia Beach Circuit Court and a trial date has been set for Sept. 20. Little will ask for a jury trial, lawyers said.

"I'm hell-bent for justice," said Little. "The whole thing boils down to a matter of principle. It's not a joke."

The principle he intends to fight for — "to the Supreme Court, if I have to" — is that while other residents of the area can have pet dogs, cats or even snakes, the city feels his pig, well... stinks.

"I give him three baths a week and put after-shave lotion on him," he said. "He's cleaner than a lot of people I know and he doesn't bother anyone. He doesn't bark, he doesn't run loose."

To Little, married and the father of three grown children, Sweet Lips is like a child — "I love him. I really do. He means everything to me. I'll never let anyone take him away or kill him."

Louisiana refinery explosion kills at least 11

CHALMETTE, La. (AP) — An explosion ripped through a 30-story tower at the Tenneco Oil Co. refinery, mashing the men and metal inside it. Eleven workers were killed and at least 10 injured.

Authorities said they believed two more men were dead in the wrecked tower after the Thursday night explosion, but their bodies had not been recovered. A crew worked through the night moving metal plates by hand, searching for the bodies.

A spokesman for Tenneco said the cause of the blast was not known. One workman said welding was being done and there might have been a gas leak.

It was the second explosion in the tower within a week. An explosion last week caused no injuries, but damaged the tower. At least two dozen men were working in and around the tower Thursday night, repairing the damage, a spokesman for the St. Bernard Parish sheriff's office said.

"There's no way of telling what happened to the guys inside," said Larry Cupit, who was working in the area of the explosion. "It looked like it blew at the top and everything just came down inside it."

The shock of the explosion was felt as far as two miles away. There was no fire.

"Some of the victims were just blown apart," said Dr. Hewitt Thian, chief of surgery at Chalmette General Hospital. "It was impossible to identify some of them."

The victims were employed by Tenneco and Delta Field Erection Co., a subcontractor at the plant.

The silo-like tower, or "vessel," is used in the refining process to separate petroleum into heavy lubricating oil and lighter fuels.

The refinery is about 10 miles down the Mississippi River from the center of New Orleans.

The tower in which the men died is one of a field of similar structures jammed together and linked by catwalks and pipes in a complex that stretches a half mile along the river.

The tower was partitioned by 200 metal plates 18 inches apart like the floors of a hotel. Men were working from the top to the bottom of the tower repairing and replacing the plates when the blast occurred.

Paul Montelepre, administrator of the Chalmette hospital, said the names of the dead would not be released until positive identification could be made of all of them. He described that task "almost impossible."

"Their clothes were blown off. Many of them are barely recognizable as human," he said.

Dr. Thian said three of those brought to Chalmette General were in critical condition with burns of the lungs.

"Apparently something in the tower ignited," he said.

Neil Diamond has pot trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pop singer Neil Diamond faces trial next month on a misdemeanor charge of possession of marijuana. He was cited June 30 after sheriff's deputies allegedly found an ounce of the drug in his Bel Air home.

A lawyer entered an innocent plea for Diamond on Wednesday in Municipal Court, where trial by jury was set for Sept. 27.

Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beil, Mr. and Mrs. Oakes Hagood, and Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Stripling, Jr. They will be joined in New York by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dorsey. Big Spring has 12 delegates in all. Dr. and Mrs. Walter Browers will also be attending the conference.

From London they will go to Dublin for the sessions of the conference. This group will return to the USA and to Midland on August 31 arriving at the Midland-Odessa Airport at 11:07 p.m. on that night.

The above mentioned persons were appointed as delegates to this conference by Bishop Alsie H. Carleton. This is the 13th World Methodist Council and Conference with the theme "The Day of the Lord." Some of the speakers will be Bishop Earl G. Hunt, Jr. (U.S.A.), Bishop Lawi Imathiu, (Kenya), Dr. Bolaji Hown (Nigeria), Dr.

Thorvald Kallitad (Sweden), Dr. Joseph Quillian (USA), and Bishop William R. Cancon (USA). A Bible Study will be conducted each day by Rev. Donald English of the United Kingdom. Themes for each days sessions are: August 25 "A Day of Judgment;" Aug. 26, "A Day of Mission;" Aug. 27, "A Day of Understanding;" Aug. 28, "A Day of God's Power;" Aug. 29, "A Day of Celebration;" Aug. 30, "A Day of Brotherhood;" Aug. 31, "A Day Yet To Dawn."

Delegates to the conference will come home with a broader vision, a deeper faith, a clearer understanding together with a determination to put into practice the new insights they have received. In the words of Charles Wesley, "To serve this present age My calling to fulfill; O may it all my power engage To do my Master's will."

Dr. Fleming leaves church here

By JERRI DAVEY
William R. Fleming, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Big Spring, has been assigned to the St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Lubbock, by action of Bishop Alsie H. Carleton and the Northwest Texas Cabinet. Dr. Fleming came to Big Spring a year and two months ago. He had previously served at the St. Stephen United Methodist Church in Amarillo. He is a graduate of Lubbock High School, and received a B.A. from Texas Tech University. Dr. Fleming also attended Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

Dr. Fleming has served as associate pastor of First United Methodist Church in Austin, pastor of Highland Terrace United Methodist Church in San Antonio, and at St. John's United Methodist Church in Corpus Christi. He also served as pastor at five other churches in Texas.

Fleming, who left Monday for a conference in Dublin, Ireland, said, "Big Spring is a beautiful town with wonderful people. My family and I have enjoyed it here." Dr. Fleming married Idalou Owens, July 1, 1947. They have three children Mrs. Barry Haenisch (Linda Jane) of Van Horn; Mrs. Wayne Wells of Ralls and Miss Teresa Ann Fleming, a freshman at McMurry College. The Flemings have one grandson, James Kyle Haenisch.

Dr. Fleming is licensed to preach in April 1944, admitted on trial at the Northwest Texas Conference in 1949, and admitted into full connection at the Southwest Texas Conference in 1952. At the Highland Terrace Methodist Church in San Antonio, a new educational plant and fellowship hall were constructed and completed while he was pastor.

Ackerly hosts Gospel singer

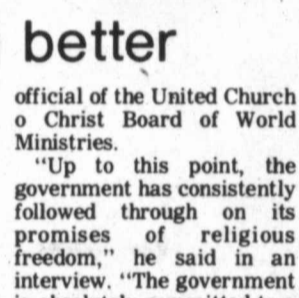

Mary Lou Boggus, a gospel and evangelistic singer from Corpus Christi will be in concert Thursday, Aug. 19, at the First United Methodist Church in Ackerly at 7:30 p.m. She is a dedicated Christian, singing her testimony for Christ, and has sung at more than a score of different churches in Texas.

She has recorded a sacred album entitled "One Day At A Time," and has other albums forthcoming. Her recordings are usually made available to the public at her personal appearances.

The Rev. Jimmy Turner from the First Baptist Church in Tahoka says, "It seems to have been predestined that Mary Lou Boggus bless the world with her songs of Jesus. From her very first concert given in our church I have followed with great appreciation her singing career."

A pastor in Dallas had this to say: "God is using Mary Lou Boggus to His glory. More and more churches are inviting her for concerts and are being blessed by her singing."

She was born in Lubbock, and was reared near the small community of Wilson. She has four children.

Angola churches faring better

NEW YORK (AP) — An American churchman back from a fact-finding trip to Angola says its churches are faring well in areas firmly controlled by the new government, but are in distress in the most populous, productive region of central Angola where the civil war continues.

"I was not prepared for the level of military activity still going on there," says the Rev. Lawrence W. Henderson, adding that it has not generally been reported because of limitations on news reporters. "There's a lot of fighting and it has increased considerably in recent weeks."

He says that in that central region, agriculturally the most productive "breadbasket" of the country, forces of the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola — UNITA — led by Jonas Savimbi, still are in open struggle with those of the Movement for the Popular Liberation of Angola — MPLA — headed by Agostinho Neto, which claimed victory last February.

It has set up the new government at the capital at Luanda, and in that area, there is a general mood of church confidence and vitality, and of cooperation with the government, says the Rev. Mr. Henderson, an official of the United Church of Christ Board of World Ministries.

"Up to this point, the government has consistently followed through on its promises of religious freedom," he said in an interview. "The government is absolutely committed to a Socialist society, but I found no reason to believe its leaders intend to carry out any war against religion."

He said the government's political position of "scientific socialism" holds that religion is "just an appendix, a leftover from feudalism and capitalism" that needs to be replaced by a scientific outlook, but that so far, no attempts had been made to restrict religious teaching.

Missionary speaks at First Assembly of God

Mrs. Sandra L. Goodwin, an Assemblies of God missionary to Tanzania, East Africa, will be guest speaker Sunday 11:00 a.m., Aug. 15, at the First Assembly of God, 4th and Lancaster, according to the Rev. W. Randall Ball, pastor.

For four years, Mrs. Goodwin has been ministering in Tanzania. She was involved in full-time Bible school teaching and evangelistic ministry throughout Tanzania. Mrs. Goodwin conducted seminars for the youth, pastors, and members of the Women's Missionary Council, the Assemblies of God organization for women. On her return to the field, Mrs. Goodwin will again be involved in full-time Bible school teaching and related ministries.

Tanzania is situated between the great lakes of Central Africa and the Indian Ocean. It is the home of Mt. Kilimanjaro, Africa's highest mountain and its economy is largely based on agriculture. Located along the slopes of Kilimanjaro are numerous coffee plantations. Over 14 million people live in Tanzania. The indigenous population consists of 120 tribes, each having its own language and customs. There are also communities of Europeans, Indians, and Arabs. Swahili is the official language.

Mrs. Goodwin has one daughter, Gwenda, who will be entering college in the fall of 1976, in the United States. A picture display presenting the tribes of Tanzania will be featured at this special missions rally. The public is invited to attend.

Presently doing graduate study. Prior to her missionary appointment to Tanzania, Mrs. Goodwin ministered in Ghana, West Africa. Before going overseas, she and her late husband pastored churches in Canutillo and Hart, Texas. She has also worked for two years as a social worker and director of volunteer services for the Amarillo State Center for Human Development in Amarillo, Texas.

Soon... the Explosion

According to pessimists it won't be long before the world blows itself up. Now that man has the capability to wipe out civilization, they say, his unrestrained instincts will drive him to do just that.

But are man's instincts unrestrained?

The principles of law, morality, responsibility are the foundations of an orderly society. They have their roots in religion.

In the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount, the life and message of Jesus Christ, the hopes and destiny of mankind are expressed. Earnest men have been channeling instincts and spiritual energies to positive purpose for generations.

Next time someone says "soon — the explosion" . . . invite that person to come to church with you and your family.

Big Spring's Betsy Ross

with Marj Carpenter

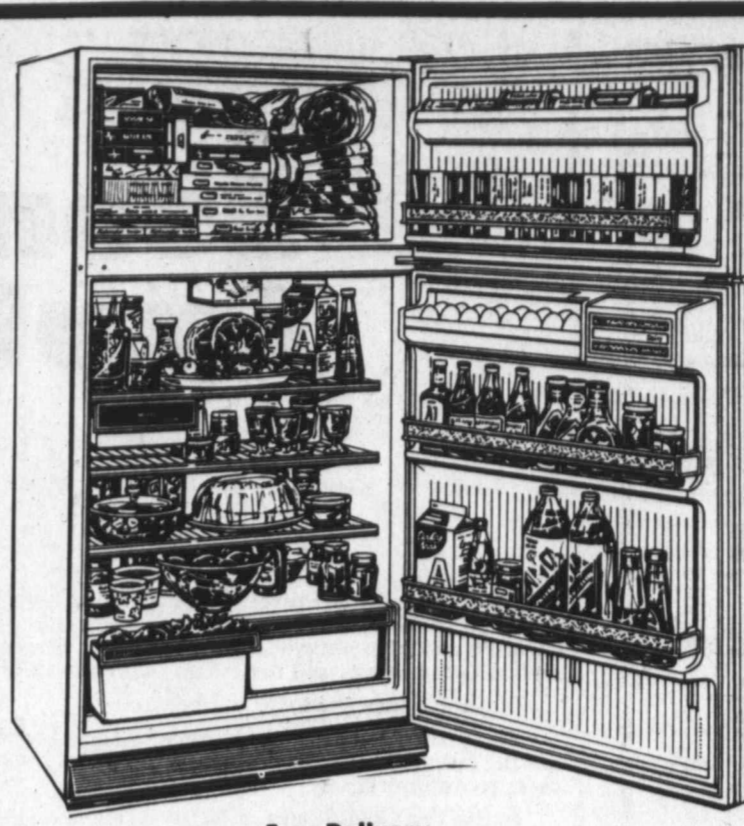

Hana Baker is making flags again. Big Spring's Betsy Ross started making flags last fall for the Campus Revue in January. Hana is not yet a citizen but she married an American citizen and came over from Japan. She was a neighbor of band director Bill Bradley and so she ended up sewing all of the flags for their flag Hall of Fame. It included every type of American flag in the history of America. It had flags which originally had up to 15 stripes before they decided to quit adding a stripe with each state. It had the various flags with the different number of stars that were official flags as the state were added. The display also had flags such as the Don't Tread On Me and other early American flags. You would have thought that would have been enough offered to purchase a set of flags for the Shriner Hall. So Hana is sewing flags again. The strange thing about it is that she probably knows more history about the American flags than nearly any American, even the good History students. She has studied the charts and pictures of the various flags and even knows the position of the stars as the various states were added. For instance, one of the flags she made for the historical survey group had 45 stars. The five states that were not yet states were Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Alaska and Hawaii. Most people cannot even name the first 13, much less know the sequence of the rest of them. But Hana even shows you how the stars were placed in the continuous growing blue field. She has almost become a custom flag maker as she has tried to help out everybody that needed special flags during the Bicentennial. And there might ought to be some sort of special salute to Hana. That's the way it looks when I was out ridin' fence.

FIRST DAY LEADER — Tom Weiskopf chips to the 15th green during the opening round of the PGA Thursday at Bethesda's Congressional Country Club. Weiskopf finished with a 5-under-par 65 and is the leader after the first day of play.

Weiskopf stalking PGA now

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf said he was stalking off the course in the Westchester Classic last month — his fourth pullout of the year — when his attention was arrested by a small boy walking behind him.

"There was this kid — it wasn't anything he said or did," explained the talented but highly volatile pro from Columbus, Ohio, "but I made a vow to myself right there I would never walk out of another tournament unless I was very ill or badly injured."

"I thought of my two kids — 5 and 3 years old. I realized I was a man in a fishbowl. I am in the public eye. I have to be careful what I say and do."

"I made another resolution — I would never backhand a putt again as long as I live."

It's a new Tom Weiskopf — all the tempests, temper tantrums and blowups behind him, he says — who carried a one-stroke lead into the second round of the 58th PGA Golf Championship today over the long and exhausting Congressional Country Club course.

"I don't know whether I will win or not," he said. "But I assure you I am playing this tournament with an entirely different attitude. I have prepared in a different way. I have not practiced much. I have worked on my concentration, armed myself with positive thoughts."

Playing brilliantly but making a couple of what he called "silly shots," the 6-foot-3 former British Open champion fired a five-under-par 65 to edge young Tom Kite of Austin, Tex., and little known optometrist Dr. Gil Morgan from Wewoka, Okla., tied at 66.

On a muggy day which saw Congressional's par 70 broken 11 times and tied by nine men, Lee Elder, the first black to play in the Masters, pleased his sometime golfing partner, President Ford, by tying Charles Coody and Jerry McGee at 68.

Five players were at 69, including rookie Jerry Pate, the reigning U.S. and Canadian Open champion; former U.S. Open king Hale Irwin; Mark Hayes, and rank outsiders Bob Zender and Mike Morley.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, gunning for his 17th major crown, shot a 71 as did the man he succeeded at the pinnacle of the game, 46-year-old Arnold Palmer, who has never won a PGA title.

"Seventy-one is not a bad score for the first round," Nicklaus said philosophically.

"My mind went blank," said Palmer, describing a double bogey six on the 14th hole that robbed him of a sub-par round. "I find myself having doubts that I never had when I was winning. I am too cautious. I can't hold my momentum."

Palmer hasn't won a major title since the 1964 Masters and his last tour victory was the 1973 Hope Classic.

Bombers in state tourney tonight

BROWNWOOD — Cotton Mize's Big Spring Bombers, coached by Bill Battle, play their first game in the State Class A Fast Pitch Softball Tournament here tonight 8:40 versus Waco.

Mize (15-4) and Jim Allen (15-3) will see to most of the mound duty for the local nine with Sam Kirby (7-2) standing by for relief chores. These three registered all the Bombers decisions this season as the team enters the tourney with a 37-9 record.

There are 31 teams entered in the around-the-clock, double-elimination tourney. Mize said it was a tough field, but he didn't believe the Bombers were in over their head.

"I feel like we'll be in the top five," he said, "with an outside chance of winning it."

"I think we're stronger now than we've been all year. We picked up Freddie Koonz (of Midland). He's one of the top hitters in the state. Jim Roger has been hitting the ball real well and our catcher Richard Townsend is ripping the cover off the ball."

"Roger Battle has been a standout player for us. He's not only a top-notch shortstop, but he's been hitting real well to boot."

Mize thinks, with a little luck, the Bombers have a good shot at being in the top three. But, he found out Thursday night, at a managers meeting, that only the winner will go to the Nationals in Hamilton, Ohio. There will be no regional tournaments this year.

If Big Spring beats Waco its next game will be 4:40 a.m. Saturday, but if the Bombers lose, their next game would be 10:20 Saturday morning.

'Mad Bomber' blow a 'gutless deal' says Staubach

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach says reserve quarterback Clint Longley is "gutless" and an "outright liar."

Staubach, with nine stitches over his left eye after he was hit Thursday, said he was putting on his pads before a training session when Longley walked up and slugged him.

Longley and Staubach had clashed briefly Tuesday after a passing drill, but the pair had said that incident was forgotten.

Longley, who left camp after the Thursday clash, gave this version: "Nothing was said. He leaned over, got his pads and pushed a chair in my direction. I had a second to think and I swung. It (the fight) would have happened again. There was bad blood between us... I knocked him cold... If he didn't think he got a fair deal, I'll meet him in Madison Square Garden for three rounds."

The Cowboys were expected back in Dallas later in the day to prepare for their National Football League preseason game here Saturday against the Denver Broncos.

Staubach said he reeled against the standup scales in the training room and sustained a gash requiring stitches over his eye. He called Longley's assault "a gutless deal."

"He waited 'till I had my shoulder pads up over my head and couldn't even see him," recalled Staubach from Dallas' National Football League training camp. "He hit me over the eye... I got the cut when I hit the scales. I was stunned, then some teammates held me back from going after him."

Staubach said Longley's frontal assault was strictly a hit-and-run affair.

"The 'Mad Bomber' immediately left camp and Cowboy officials said he was suspended 'without pay or benefits.' "It was his way of saying goodbye for now. He had his bags already packed and all his money with him," said Staubach. "It's unbelievable and it was premeditated. He had refused to attend a team meeting earlier and had refused to answer any questions."

Longley had been quoted as saying Staubach provoked Thursday's one-punch fight by pushing some chairs at him.

"That's a complete lie," responded Staubach.

The two strong-armed quarterbacks had also engaged in a round of fisticuffs Tuesday, with Staubach declared the winner. He was on top of Longley when assistant coach Dan Reeves intervened.

COWBOYS FACT SHEET

THIS WEEK — The Dallas Cowboys (0-2) host the Denver Broncos (1-2) on Saturday night in the annual Salesmanship Club Charity Game at Texas Stadium. It is the pre-season home opener for the Cowboys, who will break camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., Friday and jet to Texas. The Cowboys dropped their second straight pre-season game to Los Angeles Saturday, 26-14, and the Broncos lost, 17-7, to San Francisco Sunday.

SERIES STANDING — The Cowboys and the Broncos have never met in pre-season. In the one league meeting at Denver in 1973, the Cowboys won, 22-10.

KICKOFF — 8 p.m. CDT Saturday at Texas Stadium. Crowd estimate: 40,000 to 45,000.

RADIO — KRLL (1080 in Dallas), KFJZ (1270 in Fort Worth) and the Cowboys Radio Network with Frank Gieber and Chris Needham.

THE COACHES — Tom Landry of the Cowboys ranks seventh among the NFL's winningest coaches. He now is second only to Don Shula among actives. In 16 years, Landry has a 126-90-6 mark but 101 of those victories have been in the past 10 years.

John Ralston is starting his fifth season at Denver and has a 25-28-3 record.

HOW IT SHAPES UP — "Naturally I'm concerned because we have looked bad in our two games to date," said Coach Tom Landry. "But I think it should be remembered that two very good teams made us look bad."

"The Rams made two big plays that let the game get away from us. The long pass to Ron Jessie that set up a touchdown was made against double coverage. Jessie just split 'em. On Harold Jackson's touchdown catch, I thought Beasley Reece had good position on him but he returned and looked over the wrong shoulder, got twisted up and missed the ball when he slapped at it."

Landry still is experimenting with his linebacking corps, trying to find a replacement this year for strong sider Dave Edwards' slot and, for next year, a replacement for middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan.

Jets open long NFL weekend with second game in three days

By The Associated Press

The long NFL weekend begins tonight when the New York Jets play their second game in 48 hours, taking on the Oakland Raiders at Yankee Stadium. The Jets, 0-2, lost 16-14 to the New York Giants Wednesday night on a 34-yard field goal with 16 seconds remaining in the game. The contest had been postponed from Monday because of Hurricane Belle.

The Raiders will continue to trot in their stable of quarterbacks against the Jets. Starter Ken Stabler will begin, but Oakland will take long looks at Dave Humm, Larry Lawrence, Mike Rae and Jeb Blount. The Jets will start Joe Namath, who went all the way in the loss to the Giants, but Coach Lou Holtz says rookie Richard Todd will play "90 percent of the game."

New Orleans Coach Hank Stram got his first victory at the helm of the Saints and a slap on the wrist from owner John Mecom for his liberal spending on "non-football related items." The Saints are looking for their first preseason victory over the Bills, who are still looking for someone to replace O.J. Simpson at running back.

Pittsburgh and Washington will square off in NBC's nationally televised game Saturday night. The defending Super Bowl champion Steelers are 3-0 while Washington is struggling with a 1-1 mark after losing to Baltimore last week.

The Los Angeles Rams, fresh from their 26-14 victory over Dallas, will take on Seattle in the Seahawks' Kingdom. Rookie quarterback Pat Haden may see duty after Ron Jaworski and James Harris tore apart the Dallas secondary with their pinpoint accuracy. The expansion Seahawks have yet to win in two games.

Barring a tie, at least one undefeated team will not be that way when the Baltimore Colts and Chicago Bears finish their game. Both teams have perfect 2-0 records and the Colts have yet to surrender a touchdown.

Cincinnati has won five straight preseason games from Detroit and carries a 2-0 record into their encounter Saturday. Detroit is 1-2, but is delighted with the performance of top draft choice James Harris, who ran a kickoff back 97 yards for a touchdown in last week's loss to Miami. The Bengals are equally delighted with running back Archie Griffin, the two-time Heisman Trophy winner from Ohio State. Griffin scored on a 49-yard run against Buffalo last week.

Tampa Bay and Atlanta both are seeking victory No. 1.

Bumbling Indians rally over Texas

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians didn't do anything right Thursday night—except win.

Their performance was fraught with shoddy fielding, poor bunting, and untimely hitting, but they managed to score two runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to overcome the Texas Rangers, 5-4, in spite of themselves.

Manager Frank Robinson, who pinch-hit a long single off Mike Bacsik, to win the game, said, "These are the kind of games you see yourself losing. We just didn't do any of the little things."

"Just once I'd like to see us get out to a big lead and have a cake-walk victory," he said.

Moments before his game-winning hit, Robinson attempted a suicide squeeze bunt with Larvell Blanks cruising in from third. The bunt was nearly perfect, and the Rangers had no choice but to hope the ball would roll foul, which it did—by inches.

"That's the first time I ever tried a squeeze bunt in 21 years," Robinson recalled.

Prior to their last-minute heroics, the Indians graciously handed the Rangers a 4-3 lead in the top of the sixth.

Errors by Larvell Blanks and Pat Dobson gave Texas two runs and the lead without the aid of a base hit. Blanks made an errant throw, but Dobson's misplay was out of the ordinary.

He ran to first when first baseman Boog Powell fielded a grounder, anticipating a relay throw from second. Powell pivoted towards second, but changed his mind, and as if making a pump fake, pitched the ball back to Dobson.

"I thought the ball was in left field," Dobson said.

"The last place I was looking for it was from Booger."

And then he praised, "Some strange things have happened this year in Cleveland."

The Rangers mounted a legitimate rally in the second, bunting four hits off Dobson for two runs. But the Indians came back in the third when Powell hit a three-run homer over the center-field wall, only his third of the year.

In the ninth, John Lowenstein broke a personal 0-23 stretch with a leadoff pinch-double, and Blanks and Rick Manning followed with a single and a double respectively, setting the stage for Robinson.

Dave LaRoche, who pitched three solid innings, won his first game of the year. "I'm glad I finally got one," he said. "Some guys were giving me a hard time for making the all-star team without a win."

The teams meet again tonight, when Jim Umberger and Dennis Eckersley take the mound. Both pitchers are 7-9.

Designated hitters okayed for '76 World Series duty

PHOENIX (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn cast the crucial vote in a decision to permit use of designated hitters for the first time in the 1976 World Series.

Then Kuhn came up with an encore later Thursday with another tie-breaker vote at the summer baseball meetings here to endorse bonus payments for the players, "subject to discussion with the Players Association."

Kuhn's first shot came when American and National league club owners emerged from their separate caucuses with opposite views on use of designated hitters. The AL, which has used an extra hitter for the pitcher since 1973, wanted to use them not only for the series but for all post-season, all-star and exhibition games with NL clubs. NL owners opposed it altogether.

Kuhn couldn't buy the whole AL platform, but he went along with the DH rule for the World Series in alternate years.

"I cast a vote with the American League proposal to use designated hitters in alternate years in the World Series, beginning in 1976," said Kuhn.

Kuhn named a six-man committee consisting of the league presidents and four others from both leagues to "come up with a formula for uniform use of the designated hitter throughout both leagues."

The AL owners had proposed using the designated hitters in World Series games in their own parks.

"Designated hitters will be used in every game of the 1976 World Series," Kuhn declared.

'Feeling good,' is swimmers reward

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — After beating Olympic hero and Southern California teammate John Naber in the 200 meter freestyle, Mark Greenwood felt good. And that's the big reward for any swimmer.

"Swimming, if you don't do good, is a waste of time," the 20-year-old Greenwood said. "It's only good when you do good because so much sacrifice is involved."

Greenwood's sacrifice paid off Thursday night at the AAU National Swimming Championships at Kelly Pool here. He swam the 200 in 1 minute, 52.21 seconds in the outdoor long course championships to make up for a dismal performance in the Olympic trials.

Only one championship record fell. The Central Jersey Aquatics Club, clocked in 4:22.99 in the women's 400 medley relay, erased Misson Viejo's old mark of 4:24.07 set in 1975.

Olympic Kim Peyton, competing in her last national tournament, won the women's 200 freestyle and 14-year-old Jesse Vassallo defeated Brian Goodell to win the men's 400 individual medley.

But Greenwood's defeat of Naber was the biggest surprise of the night as times again were well below the world record paces.

Greenwood, swimming seven-tenths of a second faster than he had ever done before, turned in a 1:55 in the Olympic trials and failed to make the team.

"I bombed out at the trials," said Greenwood. "I just wasn't mentally prepared. I was thinking too much about the other swimmers and not enough about myself. Tonight I swam my own race."

Bulldogs in pads

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs issued equipment this morning and will begin contact work-outs this evening, 6:00.

Coach Charles Lynch said all his players passed their physicals and except for some minor injuries are in good shape to begin their contact work.

The Bulldogs will hold their first inter-squad scrimmage Saturday morning, 9:30.

CLOWN PRICE — Tennis player Jimmy Connors complained he was tired returning the high serves of Victor Amaya during the second round of the U.S. Open Clay Court tourney in Indianapolis Thursday so he sat on the lap of an unidentified line judge. Connors, the top seed, won his match, 6-2, 7-5, with an ailing back that slowed his serve.

Entire Astrodome complex to be sold

HOUSTON (AP) — T. H. Neyland, president of Astrodome Corp., has confirmed negotiations are under way with Houston developer Gilbert Gertner to purchase the entire Astrodome complex, including the National League Houston Astros.

The Houston Post quoted a source Thursday night as saying the complex soon will be purchased by a syndicate headed by Gertner for $45 million.

"Mr. Gertner has shown some interest in buying," Neyland said. "But whether that closing will ever come to pass, I just don't know. We have talked to a number of people who have shown the same interest."

Neyland added, however, that Gertner's group is the only group currently engaged in negotiations. Astrodome Corp. has been under the control of seven creditors for more than a year. The creditors include four banks, and the General Electric Credit Corp. and the Ford Motor Credit Corp.

The reported purchase price of $45 million is substantially higher than one mentioned last May when it appeared oilman John Mecom Jr. was nearing completion of a similar deal.

Astrodome's original debt of $38 million was reported at that time to have been reduced by the sale of the Astroworld Hotel Complex to Servico, Inc., and the leasing of the Astroworld Amusement Park to the Six Flags Corp.

The reported purchase price is believed to include about 260 acres of undeveloped land surrounding the complex, which also is owned by Astrodome Corp.

"For that price, it would have to include a lot more than was involved in the talks with Mecom," Neyland said. "It is easy for me to deny at this time that $45 million is anywhere near the actual figure under discussion."

The developed area of the Astrodome complex now includes about 50 acres.

Gertner moved to Houston from New York in 1964 and quickly became Houston's second largest apartment operator. At one point, he reportedly owned 4,000-5,000 apartment units, which holdings extending throughout the state.

Gertner is past president of the Houston Apartment Association and director of National Living Centers Inc., a Houston-based health care firm.

LUCK IN REVERSE — Cincinnati Reds shortstop Dave Concepcion winks as he poses with bat at Wrigley Field in Chicago before game with the Cubs. Concepcion, in a reverse of the popular superstition, wears the number 13 for good luck. This should be his day — Friday the 13th.

Rebel coach to Snyder

SNYDER — Sam Stephenson, assistant basketball coach at Midland Lee High School, has been named head basketball mentor at Snyder High School.

Stephenson succeeds Bob Moore, who resigned recently for the head coaching job at Dalhart High School.

Stephenson graduated from Sul Ross State University. He has had 14 years of teaching and coaching experience, most of it in the Midland school system.

Comanche Trail Municipal Golf Course

HOLE 7
404-YARDS FOR MEN
345-YARDS FOR WOMEN

Par four, 404-yard, hole seven's fairway slopes up to a hill about 55 yards in front of the tee then slopes gradually down to the flat, tree-encircled green, sitting in a slight roll.

This is one of the trickiest holes on the course. The tee-shot is blind, most drives bounce to the right and the back of the green slopes down about six feet.

If you play for the rightward bounce by aiming to the left and the ball doesn't take you're in the left rough. And, if you hit the ball right of center you'll usually wind up in the right rough.

Most golfers use a wedge for their second shot when the wind is with them and a four-iron when it's against them.

The main concern is not to put the approach shot behind the green. The combination of the six-foot slope and the flat green makes a chip-shot from behind number six one of the toughest shots in golf.

Try to place your drive a little to the left and your approach shot to the front of the green.

Oilers report no ?? at cornerback

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers will have question marks at other positions when they host the New York Giants in a National Football League exhibition game Saturday night, but apparently not at cornerback.

At least it's down to four names, Zeke Moore and Ken Ellis on one side and Willie Alexander and Greg Sternick on the other.

When training camp started, there was a plan to move either Moore or Ellis to safety, depending on whoever won the cornerback job. Now the coaches say both have been playing too well to move.

Alexander will start on the left side and the only question remains at the right corner.

"There's a good battle, but a friendly battle, going on with those cornerbacks," Oiler Coach O. A. "Bum" Phillips said. "When the season starts, it looks like all four of them will still be at cornerback. I don't think we'll be moving any of them to safety."

Oilers secondary coach

Rich Petibon says the Oilers actually are much better off at all four secondary positions this season.

"A year ago, somebody could have gone down and I wouldn't have known who to put in," Petibon said. "We don't want any injuries this year, but we can afford one or two."

C. L. Whittington, Bob Atkins, rookie Bobby Byars and free agent signee Mike Weger and Willie Germany all are solid entries, Petibon says.

Quarterback John Hadl, acquired in the off-season from Green Bay, will start at quarterback against the Giants instead of starter Dan Pastorini. Former Canadian League quarterback Karl Douglass also is slated for action.

Trapshoot Sunday

ANDREWS — The Western Sportsman Club will hold a trapshoot Sunday, August 15th at 2:00 p.m. at their range on the Andrews Highway. All shooters and spectators welcome.

Card of Thanks

THE FAMILY OF MRS. BUD (OPHELIA) TUCKER EXPRESSES A Card of Thanks

Perhaps u sang a lovely song Or sat quietly in a chair; Perhaps u sent beautiful flowers,

If so we saw them there. Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words

As any friend could say; Perhaps you were not there at all,

Just thought of us that day. Perhaps you prepared some tasty food,

Or maybe furnished a car Perhaps you rendered a service unseen

Near at hand or from afar. Whatever you did to console the heart

We thank you so much Whatever the part.

Especially thanks to the Nurses and doctors of Cowper Hospital and Nalley-Pickle for wonderful service rendered.

DEMONSTRATORS at SOUTH AFRICAN VIOLENCE - Black women demonstrators sing an African freedom song during disturbances at Guguletu township, near Cape Town, Wednesday. Black unrest exploded in Guguletu and Langa black townships, just north of Cape Town, Wednesday night and Police Commissioner Prinsloo announced Thursday that 33 blacks were killed.

Violence breaks out for third day in South Africa

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) - Gunfire was heard today in nearby Nyanga township and dissident blacks tried to set fire to a clinic and a recreation hall as racial violence broke out in the Cape Town area for the third straight day, police said. At least 29 blacks have been killed and some 100 injured in rioting that began Wednesday in three segregated black townships around Cape Town. Later today, police said quiet had returned to the townships. The disturbances have been the worst since bloody riots in mid-June throughout South Africa took at least 176 lives, almost all of them blacks. Black demonstrators have been protesting the white government's apartheid policies of racial segregation. Police said crowds had gathered at a clinic and recreation hall in Nyanga and tried to set them afire but were dispersed by police. Gunshots were heard in the area, they said. One black youth was arrested in Nyanga after a stone-throwing incident.

Trial cost $2.1 million
Three of San Quentin Six guilty

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — The State of California spent 16 months and more than $2 million to convict three men who were already imprisoned, two with life sentences.

Three of the San Quentin Six were found guilty Thursday in connection with an Aug. 21, 1971, escape attempt at the prison that left six persons dead.

Johnny L. Spain, who is serving a life sentence for murder, was convicted of killing two prison guards and conspiring with black revolutionary George Jackson to escape. Jackson was shot dead by a guard during the incident.

David Johnson and Hugo Pinell, who acted as his own attorney, were found guilty of assaulting prison guards during the 20-minute melee. San Quentin's bloodiest escape attempt. Pinell is serving a life sentence for rape. Johnson is serving five years to life for burglary.

Three other men, Louis Talamantez, Fleeta Drumgo and Willie Tate, were acquitted of all charges.

Sentencing for those convicted was set for Sept. 30. Maximum punishment for each would be life in prison.

The Marin County auditor is still compiling the bill for what was the longest criminal trial in California history. It has reached $2.1 million and will probably increase by $150,000.

More than $200,000 was spent on reporting and transcribing 22,000 pages of testimony. Jury fees — including 24 days of hotel bills during the sequestered jury's deliberations — came to nearly $100,000. Eighty-three witnesses were called.

All six defendants were accused of killing three guards and two inmates and conspiring to escape. Spain was convicted of the shooting deaths of guards Frank DeLeon, 44, and Jere P. Graham, 39.

None of the defendants was convicted of the slayings of guard Paul E. Krasenes, 52, and inmates John Lynn, 29, and Ronald L. Kane, 28. Pinell was found guilty of cutting the throats of guards Charles Breckenridge and Urbano Rubiacio Jr., both of whom survived and testified against him. Johnson was convicted of assaulting Breckenridge.
