Transport crashes claim 39 lives

By The Associated Press

Thirty-nine persons were killed Saturday when two U.S. Air Force C141 transports from McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., crashed about three hours apart, one in England and one in Greenland.

The Military Airlift Command said 21 persons died in the Greenland accident at 10:50 a.m. EDT. Six others survived, although they were burned severely.

The Pentagon said there apparently were no survivors among the 18 persons aboard the plane that crashed in England at 7:45 a.m. EDT.

Military authorities said there was no apparent connection between the crashes of the large four-engine transports.

The crash in England that took the lives of 14 crew members and four passengers occurred during a thunderstorm, and one eyewitness said he thought lightning hit the plane.

Unofficial reports said the victims of the Greenland crash included 13 Americans, 5 Danes and 3 Greenlanders. Weather conditions at the time of that accident were not known.

Pentagon officials said the six survivors of the Greenland crash would be flown to the Army burn center in San Antonio, Tex. They were identified as two Americans, two Danes and two residents of Greenland, a possession of Denmark.

Officials at McGuire said the plane that crashed in Sonderstrom, Greenland, had left the New Jersey base at 8:45 a.m. EDT Friday. The plane that went down at Peterborough, England, had left at 12:30 a.m. EDT Saturday.

"It is believed there is no connection between the two" crashes, said Lt. Col. John B. Richmond, a spokesman at McGuire. And in Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said there was no indication of sabotage.

Authorities launched investigations into both crashes.

The Pentagon said names of those aboard the planes were being withheld until their families could be notified.

In the accident in Greenland, the plane reportedly skidded off the runway while landing and burst into flames.

The crash in England involved a C141 Starlifter en route to Mildenhall

Royal Air Force Base, about 35 miles from the crash site.

Police cordoned off the crash scene, and firemen and emergency workers stood by waiting for the smouldering wreckage to cool. It was not known immediately whether the four passengers were military or civilians.

"The plane is completely burned out and there could not possibly be any survivors," said one witness to the accident.

Reports from the scene said the plane nosedived into a field.

SHADES OF THE OLD WEST — Downtown Dallas, more used to cowboys than to Indians, got a look at some native dress and not-so-native sunglasses Friday during a parade to celebrate American Indian Week. Bob Hooks of Dallas sported shades that would have made life in the Old West a little more bearable. Proceeds from an all-Indian rodeo will go to a local alcoholism program for Indians.

TESCO, former Big Springer cleared of slush fund

A former Eastland man, J.T. Carter, recently withdrew his petition in Fort Worth's 17th District Court which, in effect, absolves Texas Electric Service Company and three of its officials of blame in a case in which Carter originally maintained had led to a decision to terminate his connection with the firm.

Don Womack, former Big Spring district manager for TESCO, was one of the three TESCO officials mentioned in Carter's original action.

Carter said that TESCO terminated his employment as the Eastland division manager for the firm after he (Carter) refused to contribute to a political slush fund set up by company officials.

Carter sought to have 17th District Court Judge Charles Murray to question the three TESCO officials. One of the trio was W.C. Marquardt, TESCO president.

Womack is now a lobbyist for TESCO assigned to Washington. Carter decided to withdraw his petition after his attorneys had questioned two TESCO employees. The TESCO attorneys, in turn, had directed questions at Carter.

Witnesses said Carter refused to answer the questions, after which the TESCO lawyers took him before the judge. Judge Murray directed that Carter answer the questions, be held in contempt or withdraw his petition. Faced with a decision, Carter reportedly withdrew the petition.

TESCO attorneys, immediately after Carter's charges were made known, had filed papers with Judge Murray denying Carter's allegations and asked the court's permission to put Carter on the witness stand.

Carter had contended that Womack, then based in Fort Worth, called a meeting in May, 1973, of division managers and other high ranking TESCO officials wherein he outlined a plan for them to contribute two per cent of their salaries to a political slush fund.

Carter further maintained that the money was paid in cash to Marquardt. Attorneys for Carter also alleged that in January, 1974, Carter became dissatisfied and started resenting the coercion and pressure applied and decided that the practice was illegal and possibly dangerous to him.

Carter ended his association with TESCO Aug. 22, 1974.

Attempts to save dad end in death for boy

Two people drowned Saturday afternoon at Lake Champion just east of Colorado City.

Richard Ybarra, 47, and his son, Richard Joe Ybarra Jr., 9, both of Snyder, were pronounced dead at the scene by Judge Doss of Mitchell County.

Marie Ybarra, 12, daughter of the dead man, was taken to Root-Memorial Hospital where she is listed in satisfactory condition, after sustaining injuries from the same incident.

Reports from the police dispatcher indicate that the father was fishing from the bank, tripped and fell into the lake. The two younger children then went in after him.

The Colorado City police were notified of the incident at 3:44 p.m. Friday, and by 3:51 an ambulance was taking the surviving daughter to the hospital.

Texas Park and Wildlife personnel aided in the recovery of the bodies, assisted by Colorado City Police Chief Jesse Browning.

The Mitchell County Sheriff's department investigated the accident.

County fair plans firming

Howard County Fair plans are progressing for Sept. 20-25 in Big Spring.

Again this year, the opening night will feature the Shrine Circus and there will be a carnival on the grounds all week. There will be a barrow show, junior steer and heifer exhibit, and a tractor pull.

The annual agri-business barbecue on Friday will include the county farm tour this year in the morning. There will be a pet show on Friday and a horse show and jackpot roping on Saturday.

Neil Fryar, president, and Skipper Driver, general superintendent, said that all signs point to a big week this year at the Howard County Fair. Arnold Marshall is in charge of display spaces and Delbert Donelson heads special events.

Anyone with questions about this year's show should contact one of these individuals for information.

Banks honored

With Tommy Hart

It's entirely possible that no winner will emerge from the upcoming Gerald Ford-Jimmy Carter debates.

Ford may not be articulate enough to impress the public. Carter may not have done enough research on the chosen subjects to sway the yeomanry.

Jay Banks, the former Big Spring chief of police, now holding down a similar position in Gladewater, recently spoke about one of his favorite subjects — the Texas Rangers — in the newly opened Llano Estacado Museum on Plainview's Wayland Baptist College campus.

Banks spent 13½ years with the elite Texas group of lawmen. Prior to his Plainview appearance, a group of former lawmen surprised him with a dinner in Amarillo and presented him with a plaque for his encouragement of their formal academic education through the years.

Banks was cited for having encouraged his officers to continue their education through the years and often worked out schedules which permitted his troopers to attend classes.

Glenn Hunsucker, Wayland's Criminal Justice Department head who offered the tribute to Banks, worked with Jay when Banks was chief of police in Big Spring.

Another former Big Spring police officer, John Scott of Amarillo, introduced Chief Banks as "the most progressive and aggressive police administrator" in the state. Scott currently is director of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

The Ranger Hall-of-Famer, in police work over half a century, started as a deputy constable.

Mondale rips GOP 'issues'

By The Associated Press

Saturday was a day of relaxation for the presidential candidates. President Ford spent the day at Vail, Colo., working on a speech he will deliver Sunday at Yellowstone National Park, and Jimmy Carter was at his family home in Plains, Ga.

But the No. 2 men on the presidential tickets were busy, each criticizing the other party's records and programs.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, addressing a Democratic rally in Morton Grove, Ill., attacked the issues on which the President said he would campaign — jobs, housing, health care, education, crime prevention, recreation and peace. The list is one of failures, not achievements, Mondale said.

"If he (Ford) campaigns on that, the election is over and we have won," the Democratic vice presidential candidate said.

In eight years of the Republican administrations of Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon, unemployment has tripled, the housing market has fallen into a depression, crime has gone up and "their health program is a disaster — they have none," Mondale said.

Sen. Bob Dole, as he prepared to leave Colorado to return to Washington, said Saturday "there is a lack of information about Carter."

Carter, meanwhile, rested at his Georgia home after a hectic week of campaigning which saw him cheered by farmers at the Iowa State Fair, booted by veterans at an American Legion convention in Seattle and raising hundreds of thousands of dollars for Democrats and drawing commitments from party leaders in three states.

In Chicago, Lester Maddox, segregationist and one-time governor of Georgia, was elected Friday as the presidential candidate of the small, conservative American Independent party.

Q. Why are people still being allowed to turn left off of Main Street onto Third? The signs are plain, yet I've noticed numerous violations of the new law? Why don't the cops do something about it?

A. The police have repeatedly stated that if an officer of the law observes an infraction of that law, he will stop the vehicle and give the driver a ticket. So many times, however, people who are not ignorant of the sign's existence in the first place, tend to watch to see if a policeman is around. If one is not, they will turn left.

Officials pointed out that tickets are being given for that street misconduct, but they also said that they don't catch most of the offenders.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — A mock Wild West gunfight at the Six Flags amusement park turned out somewhat real Saturday afternoon when a bystander was wounded by a shell casing.

Park visitor Gilbert Garza, 25, of Amarillo, was struck in the shoulder by the shell. He was treated and released at Arlington Memorial Hospital.

Arlington police gave this explanation: The guns used in the shootout are .45 caliber revolvers that use blanks. At one point during the show, to portray the act of reloading, the actors slip in empty .38 caliber shell casings. The shells are then removed.

However a shell lodged in the barrel of one gun, and when it was fired, the force of the blank's powder charge caused the shell casing to be fired, much like a real bullet, striking Garza.

Park spokesman Bruce Neal said it was the first time anything such has that has happened in the gunfight show in the park's 16 years of operation.

Public colleges and universities charge an average $563 for tuition and fees for state residents and another $1,191 for room and board. The five-year increase is 24 per cent and the end is not yet in sight.

The Air Force's "Tops In Blue" musical program offered in the high school gymnasium the past week was wall-to-wall noise, with minute perforations of silence.

The aficionadoes of swing found it a delight. Some of the older listeners, especially those sitting close to the stage, would have appreciated it more had they been able to relocate somewhere nearer the sidewalks lining the building.

The native talent of the singers and the musicians (Air Force personnel all) is amazing, the energy they expended could have built the pyramids.

The show was better than it was a year ago due, partly because the performers have had all season (something like 144 performances) to polish their act. The specialty acts came off especially well.

The angels must have loved it. They no doubt, heard it.

The Shriners also "played" during their three-day stop in Big Spring, in which they completely filled several motels and also parked campers at a number of locations in the community.

Jury says it's worth $375,000

Permian building value set

By JOHN EDWARDS
A 118th District Court jury apparently was swayed by the arguments of defending tax attorneys in a suit over taxes on the Permian Building.

At about 9:30 p.m. Friday, the jury returned with a verdict setting the fair market value of the six-story office building at $375,000 in 1974 and 1976.

At 5:15 p.m., District Judge Ralph W. Caton instructed the jury to begin deliberations or postpone its discussions until Saturday. They stayed to deliberate, breaking for an hour to eat.

Foreman Bert Hilliger signed the verdict indicating the decision was unanimous.

AN APPRAISER HIRED by Flato Realty Investments, a Corpus Christi trust, estimated the value of the building at $200,000 on Jan. 1, 1974, and $225,000 on Jan. 1, 1976.

Carlton Harry, senior tax appraiser for local governments, computed the structure's value at $460,000 with $80,000 in repairs.

G. Ben Bancroft, who represented the Big Spring Independent School District and Howard County, directed the jury's attention to documents predating the lawsuit.

One was a depreciation table Bancroft identified as "apparently" part of a 1975 income tax return.

IT INDICATED a true market value, after depreciation, of $480,000 for the structure built in 1952.

Also, Bancroft pointed to 1973 renditions prepared by Flato representatives. These bear the taxpayer's estimate of his property's value.

Using tax assessment ratios of the city, school district and county, Bancroft showed how each was based on a true market value of $430,000.

The values of W. M. (Mike) McClellan, a Dallas appraiser, were based "almost entirely on facts and figures of Flato personnel," Bancroft said.

CITY ATTORNEY James W. (Jim) Gregg Jr. argued Flato Realty officials were not "prudent record keepers."

Gregg pointed to variations in the rendition amounts specified by Flato over the years.

Gregg criticized office building management which lost tenants and allowed an air conditioning tower to overflow so long the building wall was stained.

William W. Wilson, the Dallas attorney representing Flato Realty, defended the management.

"UNFORTUNATELY, it's (criticizing management) sort of like challenging a woman's chastity. It's very, very hard to deal with."

It was easy to be an "arm chair quarterback" for the Dallas Cowboys, he said, making another comparison. Income figures the Dallas appraiser used to compute the structure's value were prepared by independent auditors, Wilson said.

As for varying rendition amounts, Wilson noted the trust owns several properties.

"SOMEBODY WOKE UP and said 'hey, that property's not worth that,'" Wilson said.

Wilson attacked the appraisal of the local government representative on several grounds.

Harry had said he used $3.87 per square foot in annual rent to figure the building's value, but did not add value for the sixth floor. The highest rate charged is $3 per square foot, Wilson said.

"I know of no way you can bring in all these new people (additional tenants) and raise the rent," Wilson said.

"OBVIOUSLY, SOMETHING was wrong with the property or they (local governments) wouldn't have reduced it (the fair market value on the tax rolls) to $295,000," Wilson said.

Earlier, the trust's attorney testified in response to statements made by County Judge Bill Tune about an alleged agreement.

"I guess the best that can be said about this is that there was apparently a discussion about an agreement that was never in effect," Bancroft said. Wilson agreed.

It had been alleged Flato representatives agreed to pay taxes for 1974 on the basis of the $430,000 value. In return, the local governments were to reduce the value used in 1975 to $295,000.

"I DON'T really know whether you (Wilson) agreed to this or not," Judge Tune said.

Wilson produced an unsigned proposed agreed court order for reducing the 1974 tax value to $295,000 also.

D. A. Brazel, a member of the board of equalization for the city and schools, also spoke about the alleged agreement.

"WE DID IT (reduced the tax value on one year) with the understanding they would pay both (tax bills) with one reduced," Brazel said.

Brazel was asked if the building was worth an amount.

"I'm not a real estate investment man," Brazel said. "I don't know whether it was or not."

"We tried to equalize it (the property value) with property of comparable type in the neighborhood," Brazel said.

HARRY, THE LOCAL appraiser, was questioned whether he could sell the building for $460,000. "Given a reasonable length of time, I could find you a buyer," Harry said.

Harry, a government tax appraiser for about 15 years, told Wilson he was not a certified tax appraiser. Member of the Appraisal (MAI) Institute nor Senior Real Property Appraiser (SRPA).

McClellan, who testified for the trust, is a MAI and SRPA. Wilson contended McClellan is bound to value property objectively, subject to review of his peers and possible loss of his designations.

If three MAIs appraise a piece of property, "they should be in the same ball park figures," Harry said.

Testifying briefly was Tom Ferguson, city tax assessor-collector and finance director.

The two-day trial followed a similar suit in U.S. District Court which ended with an appellate court in New Orleans dismissing it.

Suit filed over leaky Malone-Hogan Hospital

ABILENE — A dispute over a leaky exterior at Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big Spring has resulted in a suit in federal district court here.

Hospital Corporation of America (HCA), which owns the hospital, and Joe M. Rodgers and Associates, Inc., both with headquarters in Nashville, Tenn., are defendants in the suit filed by Dugger Plastering Company, Inc., headquartered in Springfield, Mo.

Rodgers and Associates was the prime contractor with HCA for construction of the hospital, the petition states. The construction firm then subcontracted with Dugger Plastering to construct the exterior walls which were completed in October 1974.

The petition filed by Dugger Plastering also states HCA took possession of the hospital in 1975, after which leaks were discovered. Dugger Plastering, in its petition, states that Rodgers and Associates said the responsibility for the leaks falls on the plastering company.

The petition claims, however, that Rodgers and Associates actually is at fault and requests the court to declare the "rights, obligations and legal relations" of the contracting parties and to assign responsibility for the repair costs.

Herald photographer takes second, third

Danny Valdes, staff photographer for The Herald, accumulated 70 points for second and third-place finishes in the National Press Photographers Association newsphoto spot news contest for July.

Valdes' second-place finish, good for 40 points, was for pictures he took of the Cosden fire. His third-place finish, which gave him an extra 30 points, was for the two-page layout the Herald ran on the same fire.

First place in the spot news division, good for 50 points, went to Peter Ashkenaz of the El Paso Herald-Post for photos taken of a semi-trailer accident.

Three employees of the Nashville Tennessee served as judges in the contest.

Al Panzera, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, won a first place in sports photo com-

Police beat Burglars net $2,600 haul

The residence of Dr. C.B. Marcum, 1506 Dayton, was hit hard by burglars sometime during the past week, while the house was unoccupied.

Officer Allen Parrish took a report from the local physician shortly before 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Items taken included six rifles, one pistol, a color television, assorted jewelry, 25 business suits, medals, ammunition and a doctor's bag.

Value of the stolen merchandise was placed $2,600.

Det. Avery Faulkner, and other law enforcement officials are investigating the crime.

Burglars also hit the residence of Claudio Rodriguez, 502 NE 9th, gaining entry through a front window. They took a color TV, a tape case, 24 tapes and three records.

The plant bandit struck again for the eighth and ninth times this week.

From the front porch of the residence of Richard Wright, 1501 Rummels, the green-thumbed bandit took a hanging pot valued at $15. No plant was in the pot.

Douglas G. Cheney, 2308 Brent, reported to police that someone took an asparagus fern from his front porch. The value of the missing plant was placed at $10.

caster, according to police reports. Value of the radio was listed at $200.

Two male subjects drove off from the Quick Store Grocery, 410 March, without paying for $1 worth of gas. Police are looking into the incident.

Sandy Allen, 2503 Carlton, reported a case of criminal mischief to police. According to the offense report, as she was driving around a local drive-in restaurant someone threw a beer can at her car and kicked the door of her car, placing a dent in the vehicle.

Cold front prompts flash flood watches

By The Associated Press
A cold front pushing deep into Texas from the Panhandle touched off high winds and thunderstorms Saturday, prompting flash flood warnings.

The National Weather Service Saturday afternoon posted a flash flood watch through the night for persons in the Lower Pecos Valley and Big Bend counties of West Texas. These include Jeff Davis, Presidio, Brewster, Pecos, Terrell, Crockett, Sutton and Schleicher Counties.

Three Americans killed in guerrilla ambush

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Urban guerrillas ambushed a car carrying three Americans and killed them with a barrage of automatic weapons fire in a Tehran suburb Saturday morning, Iranian officials said.

The Iranian government blamed the killing of the three civilians on the same "Islamic Marxists" who have killed three U.S. military officers since 1973.

The U.S. Embassy said the dead men, all from California, were employees of Rockwell International working on a research project for the Iranian government. A spokesman for Rockwell, a U.S. defense contractor, declined to disclose the nature of the project.

The embassy said Ambassador Richard Helms conveyed his deepest condolences to the families of the dead, saying, "This brutal and mindless crime serves no cause and demonstrates the heartless cruelty of the perpetrators."

All three were 43 years old, married and had their families with them in Iran, the spokesman said. Cottrell sincere regrets, the embassy said.

A spokesman for the Autonetics Group, a Rockwell division in Anaheim, Calif., identified the dead as William C. Cottrell Jr. of Los Gatos, Autonetics' overseas manager; Robert R. Krongard of Sunnyvale, engineering manager; and Donald G. Smith of Yorba Linda, acting logistics manager.

The Iranian government said several guerrillas blocked the Americans' automobile in the suburban area of Tehran-nou as they drove to work in morning rush-hour traffic. They sprayed the car with machine-gun fire and then fled, a statement said.

"It all happened in one or two minutes," the newspaper Kayhan said. It printed a drawing and a map showing how the killers blocked the Americans' car as it turned into a side street.

The "terrorists got out of their Volkswagen, pointed a machine gun toward the car in which the Americans were, fired and then disappeared," the paper said. A witness said there were no more than three gunmen.

Iranian officials said clues found at the scene and the similar tactics used indicated the killers were members of the same insurgent group that assassinated Army Col. Lewis Hopkins in early 1973 and Air Force Lt. Col. Paul R. Schaffer and Jack J. Turner in May 1975.

Iranian authorities convicted and executed 10 persons for those killings and the deaths of five Iranians, including a police brigadier general. Officials say police and security forces killed 17 terrorists in three separate shootouts earlier this year.

Callers identifying themselves as terrorists told the Associated Press after the 1975 killings they made Americans their targets to make headlines in U.S. newspapers.

We should undertake project

The Air Force's B-1 bomber is a controversial plane. Not even every Air Force man is certain it should be built. The bombers will cost a lot of money when they go into production, and there is no getting around it. But it seems to me that the B-1 is a project which the U.S. should undertake.

WHY? Gen. Russell E. Dougherty, commander of the Strategic Air Command which would employ the B-1, gave his opinion on "What the B-1 Represents to the World" in a recent Air Force policy letter. Gen. Dougherty said: "The B-1 will make a contribution quality that is unequalled — but its contribution to the perception and visibility of our national determination to keep our strategic forces modern and capable is highly significant. "It represents to the world that determination of the U.S. not to slide to a second-best position — and it is the most highly visible demonstration of that determination that I know.

"Making the quality improvement in our strategic forces is a visible expression of national will to reverse the increasing trend of imbalance in our strategic forces with those of the Soviet Union," the general concluded. To me, what the general said is that the keeping of the peace is the most important reason to go into production of the B-1. This is right. But I am inclined to support the B-1 because I still think the manned aircraft would be the most significant factor in any major war for decades to come.

I HAVE AN inherent distrust of all the technology of missiles and the like. If World War III should ever come, my guess is that Mexico and Canada, Turkey and New Zealand are just as likely to wind up destroyed by missiles as is the U.S. and Russia. The difference in winning any war, or more importantly in preventing one, may well be the B-1 bomber. If that should prove true, no cost measured in dollars would prove too dear for the B-1.

Bella's world

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Rep. Bella Abzug of New York rose on the floor of the House July 21 to dramatize a remarkable world view which makes her Senate primary duel with Daniel Patrick Moynihan a test of opposite poles in the Democratic party. That day was the annual observance of "Captive Nations Week" during which Congressmen denounce tyranny by Communist governments, a ritual that Mrs. Abzug has disdained in the past. This time, obviously because of New York's Sept. 14 primary, she participated. The heart of her remarks follows:

"WE MUST not forget the suffering generated as a result of the totalitarian regime gaining control in Germany in the 1930s. We should not forget the lesson of Vietnam, and the suffering caused by support for a totalitarian regime there. We should also not forget the lesson of India, and the recent events of this past year, during which individual rights were virtually abolished."

Mrs. Abzug mentioned no other country, ignoring the entire record of Communist oppression in Eastern Europe, Asia, the Soviet Union itself. The omission shocked not only conservative Congressmen but her fellow liberal Manhattan Democrat, Rep. Edward Koch, who that same day called "50 million killings in the U.S.S.R. equal to Nazi genocide."

The reticence of Mrs. Abzug to criticize Communist governments has been a characteristic of her six years in Congress as her vote against every single defense bill during that time. Thus, as the Democrat most conspicuously on the extreme left, she is the antithesis on national security questions of her principal opponent in the primary, the equally flamboyant Moynihan. Since the five-way Democratic race has now boiled down to an Abzug-Moynihan dead heat, their struggle defines the basic polarity within the Democratic party that was fissured by the party platform and Jimmy Carter's candidacy.

ALTHOUGH SHE has restrained her usual bravado in campaigning for the Senate, Mrs. Abzug's recent public utterances reflect the same pattern of the past six years: ignoring the fact of Communism rolling over the globe, but playing the alert watchdog on behalf of human freedom everywhere else (while maintaining a jaundiced eye toward U.S. defense expenditures).

On May 19, she criticized military aid for "authoritarian regimes" in South Korea and Chile. On May 26, she attributed the Navy's planned increase in shipbuilding to a "well-financed Pentagon public relations effort" that claimed rising Soviet strength. On June 2, she attacked the moderate post-Franco regime in Spain as "oppressive" and boycotted King Juan Carlos's address to Congress that day.

Shortly thereafter, Mrs. Abzug played a leading role in drafting the Democratic national platform's foreign policy plank, successfully helping defeat a declaration favoring U.S. defense as "second to none" and unsuccessfully attempting to limit the platform's criticism to pro-Western South Korea, not Communist North Korea.

DR. MOYNIHAN, an old-fashioned anti-Communist liberal, cannot say much about his opponent's refusal to criticize Communist oppression, lest he be accused of "McCarthyism," an unpardonable sin to New York liberals. Nevertheless, he is harping on Mrs. Abzug's astonishing failure ever to vote in favor of defense spending. To key Moynihan supporters, this constitutes a test of whether a headline defense stand can survive in the nation's most liberal Democratic state primary.

DRIED, PRESSED FLOWERS

Few things gave us kids more pleasure than for Grandmother to say, "Get that step stool and reach me those big books in the top of that closet." The books she pointed to were family Bibles and picture albums, most of which dated way back. She would turn through them while we sat on the arms of her big chair. She would stop at various places, telling who the people in the pictures were, where they lived, or maybe when they had died. She read to us from the Bibles. She loved to look through the old books and remember.

In almost every one of the books there was, pressed between the pages, a flower. It would be tied with a yellowed satin bow, pressed carefully between folds of tissue paper. The flower would be very dry and fragile. Grandmother said we could look at them but not to touch them. Each flower carried a special remembrance of an important part of her life and she would tell us about each one. One made her smile.

She would say, "This flower came from the bouquet when your Grandpa and I got married." Another she had picked from her garden the day before our mother was born. One had been saved from her 25th wedding anniversary. Another one had been taken from a spray at Grandpa's funeral. She would stop talking then. She would rock slowly back and forth looking into the distance. Tears would come in her eyes. She would take her apron and wipe her eyes and say, "My goodness me, look at the time, we must put the books away, I have mending to do!"

Oldster airs growing sex problem

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm a regular reader of your column. Some of the very intimate things you discuss would curl your hair. Well, here's one to curl your toes.

In this day of liberated sex and all the freedoms society accepts today, we hear of the "terrible teens," but how about the "sizzling seniors," who are without mates and who don't want to marry yet find themselves in the mood for love?

How do you feel? And what is the modern medical theory on self-release? Is it neurotic or wrong? I've never seen this discussed in your column. Yet in talking with other oldsters there is this concern in their lives. The desire is almost unbearable with these people.

What do you advise? This group is a "forgotten lot." — Mrs. E.

The problem you discuss is not an uncommon one. It is a growing one, too, as more and more wives lose their husbands at younger ages. Unfortunately, these women find it difficult to find new mates, even if they desire remarriage. Why? Because the available men usually have wives who in turn survive them. And so it goes.

Your term "self-release" is a euphemism for masturbation, but it can be an appropriate one. My only comment on that is that it is not inherently harmful, and I personally would not frown on it. It is a highly personal matter and is, and always will be, a matter of the most individual choice. I only comment on your letter because I do get so much mail on the matter. If I commented on each and every such letter I would be justifiably accused of writing a "sex column." That is not my purpose.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am having trouble urinating. Sometimes I go for several days without any problem, but it seems to be worse. My doctor said I had a "median bar" in my urinary tract, but did not think it was bad enough for surgery.

That was five months ago. I am 48 and in reasonably good health. What should I do? — Mr. L.F.

After five months you are due for an appointment to see whether this prostate obstruction is becoming worse. One of the consequences could be increased retention of urine in the bladder. Surgery is usually the ultimate answer.

The term "median bar" refers to an obstruction caused by enlargement of the central (median) lobe of the prostate gland. There are two other lobes, one on each side of the median. Enlargement of the median is most troublesome, for through this runs the urethra (you-REE-thra), the tube in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently in your column you urged someone to go to church. You must be joking. The churches I know about are so dull, I can't imagine them helping anyone. — C.D.

DEAR C.D.: I'm sorry you feel this way, because I know that millions of Christians would strongly disagree with you. There are literally thousands of churches in our nation that proclaim Christ and are centers of vibrant Christian living.

I believe any church that seeks to preach and practice the Word of God is not dull — in fact to the believer it is a place of joy and inspiration. The primary task of the church is to "declare . . . all the counsel of God" (Acts 20:27). If a particular church fails to do this, I understand that it will be lifeless. But wherever above, surgery is more often the real answer.

At 48 you are at an age when some enlargement might be expected. It is rare before the 40s. For further reading, including the matter of surgery, see my booklet on the prostate. If you'd like a copy, send 25 cents to me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

believers get together to worship and hear His Word, there will be comfort and challenge for them.

Remember, the Bible specifically tells us that we need the fellowship of other believers, and we are not to cut ourselves off from them. "And let us consider how we may spur one another on toward love and good deeds. Let us not give up meeting together, as some are in the habit of doing, but let us encourage one another" (Hebrews 10:24, 25 New International Version).

If you are a Christian, you need to pray that God will lead you to a church where Christ is preached. Then begin looking! The reason you have found church dull is that you have never really accepted Christ and been spiritually reborn. If this is true, I urge you to repent of your sins and receive Christ into your life.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: In comment to the letter in last Sunday's paper about the Westside Community Center:

If we let teenagers in the center, it will go down the drain. I work down there. I feel as the committee does. If we let the teenagers in, they will take over and the next thing you know we won't have a Westside Center for anyone.

All those people — all they're trying to do is make a lot of trouble. As for the people that run it, if it wasn't for them we wouldn't have a center. And their apartment is right at the end of the hall. Surely after we get finished cleaning, we all like to go to our homes and relax.

The main reason we don't allow any teens in there is because they will most likely have wild parties and that means pot and beer. If that happens we will not have a Westside Center at all. Then where would our little children go to play and watch cartoons. We don't have anything to really interest the teenagers.

I just wonder what their teenagers did before we moved to the West Side. Just this past Tuesday I had to get on two teen-age boys. We have tried letting them in and it just won't work. One of the boys was using bad language and the other one, whose parents' names were on the list, decided he would smoke a cigarette right there in front of the little children.

And I am not afraid to tell those people that I ordered him out if he was going to smoke. We have asked these people that wrote the letter to come and help us with the center, but they act as if we weren't here.

Fed aid sought

WASHINGTON — Congressmen who vote against programs for the poor, invariably, seem to be the same ones who support benefits for business.

The are usually the first, for example, to demand that the taxpayers bail out faltering corporations. No small companies, mind you. Congress seldom rushes to the rescue of small mismanaged companies. These are allowed to sink into bankruptcy as casualties of the free enterprise system.

THE CORPORATIONS must be giants, their mismanagement massive, before Congress will intervene. Food stamps may be cut back for the poor, but millions are available for Penn Central Railroad and Lockheed Aircraft.

Mississippi's 30-man congressional delegation, for example, has been outspoken against government spending to help the poor. But the Mississippi congressmen have been maneuvering behind the scenes to save the state's huge Bankers Trust Savings and Loan empire from financial collapse.

The Mississippi delegation has brought pressure on the Treasury Department and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to aid the failing financial empire. This could cost the taxpayers as much as $100 million, which would buy a lot of food stamps for the hungry.

The congressmen from Mississippi have been huddling privately with Treasury officials to seek federal funds to bail out Bankers Trust. At these closed-door meetings, two of the most persuasive pleaders have been Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., and Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., who happen to have a personal stake in the outcome.

Montgomery owns 2,760 shares in Bankers Trust and has $7,937 on deposit. Lott owns 500 shares and has $4,000 in savings. A third member of the delegation, Rep. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., owns 300 shares and has about $6,500 in savings. Other prominent politicians are reported to have far greater holdings in the faltering Company.

Bankers Trust is Mississippi's largest state-chartered, privately insured savings and loan association. It began to flounder earlier this year. There were charges of gross mismanagement.

Not only politicians and fat cats have money in Bankers Trust. Some 60,000 ordinary Mississippians, including many elderly, stand to lose millions.

BECAUSE THE SAVINGS and loan combine isn't federally insured, the depositors must depend on the private insurance company which insured Bankers Trust.

But unfortunately, the insurance company is largely owned by Bankers Trust and, therefore, is mired in the same financial bog.

The insurance company also insured other savings and loan associations. This precipitated panic withdrawals, which force a rare moratorium on withdrawals.

At this point, the political pressure began, appears have been made to Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, Treasury Secretary William Simon and the White House itself.

The entire Mississippi congressional delegation, led by the venerable Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., called on Simon, Montgomery and Lott made the strongest pitch for federal aid.

Meanwhile, Garth Martson, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, flew to Mississippi. After his return, he confided that he hoped to "expedite the timely processing of applications for insurance" from Mississippi's savings and loan association.

This means that the taxpayers, in effect, will co-sign the insurance that the failing Bankers Trust will soon attempt to collect.

MEANWHILE, NEITHER the federal nor state governments are trying to find out what caused the financial fiasco. The state legislature enacted a conservatorship for Bankers Trust but specifically voted down a detailed inquiry.

Footnote: Federal officials have confirmed that they have been besieged by Mississippi politicians about the financial debacle but have denied the proposed federal aid is a political bail-out.

It should be noted that Mississippi's Bankers Trust is unrelated to the better-known Bankers Trust in New York City.

WATCH ON WASTE: The federal government's curiosity is insatiable. Forms are constantly going out from Washington demanding answers to endless questions.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department, for example, requires every college and university to fill out several annual reports. One of the questionnaires, a 50-page document entitled "Degrees and other Formal Awards Conferred," was dispatched this year to every one of the nation's 3,055 institutions of higher learning.

But unfortunately, 37 of the 50 pages didn't apply to the 1,141 community colleges, which got the full, fat forms anyhow. These colleges, of course, returned the 37 pages absolutely blank. Since the forms came in triplicate, this amounted to about 120,000 pages of blank paper.

Footnote: An HEW spokesman insisted it was cheaper to send a single report to every institution than to prepare separate reports.

Energy cut

NEW YORK (AP) — Mobil Oil Corp. reports it has reduced energy consumption in its American refineries by 15 per cent in the past four years.

In 1975, according to Alen E. Murray, president of Mobil's U.S. Marketing and Refining Division, the company saved 2.5 million barrels of crude oil, a saving of 8.7 per cent from 1974.

Big Spring State Hospital, an overview

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of 13 articles about the Big Spring State Hospital. In this initial segment, such questions as patient's rights, a synopsis of future articles, and general background information will be offered.

By DANNY REAGAN

In 1937, the City of Big Spring purchased and gave to the State of Texas a tract of land for the construction of a mental hospital.

The Legislature appropriated funds for Big Spring State Hospital, and it opened June 15, 1939, to serve the western fourth of Texas. The late George T. McMahon, M.D., was the first superintendent.

At that time, the hospital provided treatment facilities for less than 400 patients. Subsequent construction and remodeling programs have increased the capacity to 900 living units; however, thanks to the successful endeavors of the Out-Patient and Out-Patient Departments, patient population has dropped to below 500.

The Big Spring State Hospital is just one of the eight state hospitals, 14 state schools and 26 Mental Health-Mental Retardation centers in the state.

The first hospital in this country exclusively for the "insane" was built in Williamsburg, Virginia in 1773, but not until August 28, 1856, did the Governor of Texas sign a bill providing for the establishment of the first Texas institution for the "insane."

In the over 200-year span in the history of the mental health treatment, state hospitals in Texas and the rest of the country have evolved from almost permanent homes for the mentally ill to therapeutic environments. No longer are they referred to as "retreats for the demented."

THE LOCAL facility is one of the smaller institutions in the state, but it has a reputation as being one of the best state hospitals in the nation. Department heads indicate that any praise directed at the hospital is because of the high quality of staff and personnel that come to the hospital from all over the country.

The Big Spring State Hospital is almost a community within itself. At least for the patient, in addition to treatment for mental and physical problems, every other possible need can be met at the hospital.

There is a Canteen on the campus where patients can find refreshments and socializing. Of course there are dentists and medical doctors ready to meet any physical problem. Educational services are offered to all patients, and a staff of almost a dozen teachers, many of them Big Spring ISD teachers, enhance the educational potential of people otherwise restricted from furthering their education.

There is a fashion shop, where patients can receive clothes usually donated by citizens. A laundry and mailroom offer patients the same services as anyone in the community could receive.

In the continuing increase in quality and professionalism that is bettering such institutions, a landmark decision was enacted in 1973, a "Patients' Rights" bill, that guarantees the patient many protective rights.

THE MOST important of these rights is listed under the "Legal" category of the lengthy order. There are seven rights under this listing, and they must all be guaranteed under the threat of law suits, which are most prevalent in this day and age.

Many of the rights guaranteed to patients fall under the medical category, the most important of which is the right to be evaluated within 24 hours following his admission and to receive emergency psychiatric services and care as indicated by sound medical practice.

And of course the patients have complete religious freedom, the right to proper food, clothing and shelter, political freedom, (the right to vote), educational and recreational opportunities, and many other personal rights. Patients also may not be required to perform labor which involves the operation and maintenance of the hospital or for which the hospital is under contract with an outside organization.

Just what has the "Patients' Rights" movement contributed to the operation of a facility such as the Big Spring State Hospital?

Adolph Supak, assistant superintendent at the institution, stated that the new bill has guaranteed rights and privileges that the local hospital has always followed.

"Our philosophy has always been that the patient has a right to be told the reason for his admission, and the plans to be implemented in the treatment of the individual," Supak said.

A substantial increase in the amount of paper work has also accompanied the new ruling.

"WE DOCUMENT everything," Supak said, "much more than in the past. It's not enough to do something, you have to prove on paper that you have done it."

"Patients' Rights" is only one of the many factors that has changed the face of mental hospitals in recent years, as this series of articles will strive to show.

The entire scope of a major complex such as the BSSH cannot of course be covered in a mere 13 article series. Many people and a few departments will have to be viewed in some future date.

There will be 12 other articles concerning 12 major aspects of the hospital operation, interwoven into each, related activities and services that fit into such departments.

In chronological order, the articles will concern:

1. The Out-Patient Clinic — This department was first started at the BSSH in 1963, originally designed to serve in a follow-up capacity for patients who have left the hospital.

But more and more the Clinic, headed by Dr. Ron Cohorn, is serving people before they ever become patients, with the intended purpose of preventing them from ever needing to be admitted.

2. The Admissions Unit — Program Director Charles (Chuck) Condray heads this unit which serves a dual purpose; one, it provides the admissions process of patients to the hospital, and two, it makes available to patients on a short term basis, treatment on the unit itself.

This article will try to give the typical procedure a patient goes through in being admitted to the hospital. General procedures and treatment backgrounds will also be covered.

3. SOCIAL SERVICES — The main task for the people in this department headed by Jake Glickman is to be a liaison (a go-between) for the patient and everyone else who comes in contact with him — that includes family and staff.

The routine, and not so routine, procedures utilized by Glickman's staff will be explored. The job entails a humanist-detective sort of work, and it will be followed in a day by day program.

4. Volunteer Services — "What the state and family cannot provide for the patient, we do," so says Margaret Baum, head of the volunteer service program at the hospital.

The exact "what" that the volunteers do is the subject of this article. Goals set up by each of the volunteer programs will also be studied.

5. Psychology — In this article, Dr. Harry Davis, head psychologist, gives insight into the various duties of the hospital's 10 psychologists.

Various treatments and tests given to the patients will also be discussed. The "Standards" of the highly professionalized group will also be explored.

6. Rehabilitation Services — "Everything that's done outside of chemo-therapy and counseling is done by this department," stated A. L. Gatewood, head of the department.

THE ULTIMATE goal of this division of the treatment team is to develop an independent living style for the patient. The various adjustments and routines made by the patients will be analyzed in this article.

7. Vocational Rehabilitation — Closely related to, but not associated with the Texas Rehabilitation Commission, this service offered by the hospital provides on-going services heretofore provided by the TRC.

Dr. Ray Tatum is head of the department, and Jim Thurman gave an account of the processes the patient has to go through to be able to enter a half-way house or job situation after release from the hospital.

8. Behavioral Modification — W. A. (Woody) Mann, head of units 5 and 6, explains the complicated process of modifying through a token system, a person's behavior so that it is more acceptable.

This article deals with the "treatment failures", patients who have failed all other treatments in the hospital. These patients are mostly chronic schizophrenics, mentally ill or mentally retarded.

9. Adolescent Unit — Dr. Gary Zimmerman is the new head of this unit, and he explains the procedures patients 13-17 years of age undergo who have emotional problems too great to be treated as out-patients.

THIS HIGHLY specialized treatment unit has slightly different procedures than most of the other units, and they are analyzed.

10. Alcohol and Drug Abuse Unit — Robert von Rosenberg and his staff treat alcoholics and other forms of drug abusers in this department.

The plight of the alcoholic is surveyed, and the interesting and sometimes disheartening procedures a person with a drug problem must fight in himself is also explored.

11. Psychiatry — Dr. Robert Tinley, a physician at the hospital, gave an insight into the procedures of unit 10, geriatric and general psychiatric illnesses, and the role of the psychiatrist in the framework of the hospital. Dr. Maurice Watts is clinical director of the unit and head psychiatrist.

A discussion of hospital procedures and related activities will also be included in this article.

12. Outreach Services — Jack Stoval heads the department that "spans the vastness", bringing mental health care to outlying regions of the hospital.

Each of the articles in this series attempts to give an idea of the role each of the services provides in the "treatment plan."

The Big Spring State Hospital is composed of many departments and services, made up of over 500 staff members and employees. The articles will try to show the complexity of the operation that combines to service the needs of each patient.

If there is an underlying motive for the series, it is to get the reader to more fully understand the "mysterious" workings of an institution that plays an important role in this community.

Y-Indian Guides will organize Monday at YMCA

On Monday, Sept. 13 at 7:30 p.m., the Big Spring YMCA will hold an organizational meeting for Y-Indian Guides.

program designed for boys in the first, second and third grades and their dads. The program is unique in that it is the only movement to which a dad and his sons over 6 years of age can belong together. No dad may join without his son, and no boy can come into Indian Guides without his father.

The program centers around the use of Indian symbols and ceremonials. Dads and sons carry out rituals and programs of lasting character-building influence with basic Christian teachings as a natural part of the program.

Activities during the year include campouts, athletic hunting, cookouts, and many other exciting activities. Interested dads and sons may contact Bill Etchison, YMCA director, at the YMCA, or simply be at the organizational meeting on Monday, September 13.

The Y will offer a class in macrame, beginning Sept. 16. Macrame is the art of tying coarse thread into knots to form geometric designs.

The class will meet for 8 one-hour lessons on Thursday evenings from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m. Class orientation meeting will be on the 16 and interested individuals are invited to attend.

Cost for the program will be $4 for Y members and $8 for non-members. For more information, contact the YMCA at 267-8234.

PBRPC plans recruit course

MIDLAND — The Permian Basin Law Enforcement Academy has announced the eighth session of basic recruit training, commencing Monday through Nov. 19.

This course of training is offered to all recruit law enforcement officers in the Permian Basin region. The school will be funded through a Criminal Justice Division grant through the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

Accountants group chartered

MIDLAND — A new Permian Basin chapter of the National Association of Accountants will receive its charter Wednesday, Sept. 15, at a dinner meeting at the Hilton Inn.

The NAA is the world's largest accounting organization, with more than 70,000 members of 300 chapters around the world.

The association, through its educational programs, research activities, publications, conferences, local organizations and other methods of information exchange, is devoted to the better understanding of the major use and purpose of accounting.

For further information, contact R.D. Harder, 682-5201, or Blaine Schrag, 682-5311.

FHA office to close

The Farmers Home Administration, Room 220, Federal Building, Big Spring, will be closed Monday, and will remain closed until 8:00 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 2, in order for all personnel to attend a training meeting in Dallas.

Carter aide welcomes it

Ford expected to narrow gap

ATLANTA (AP) — Jimmy Carter's campaign manager says he expects a further decline in his candidate's lead in the polls, but welcomes a narrowing margin between Carter and President Ford as an incentive for harder work by the campaign staff.

Hamilton Jordan added that the planned debates between Carter and Ford, now under discussion, will probably not be as crucial as many people think.

The 31-year-old aide was interviewed in his spacious but bare office in the new Carter-Mondale national headquarters on the top floor of a modern Atlanta office building.

Jordan said he was not surprised by the latest Gallup polls, which showed Carter with only a 49-39 per cent lead over Ford, compared with a 62-29 per cent margin after the Democratic convention in late July.

"It's not pleasant, but we knew it was going to happen," he said. "Our poll figures after the Democratic convention were artificially high. We were never really in the 60s."

The decline in the polls, however, has had a positive effect, Jordan said, because "it will get people working harder."

Patrick Caddell, Carter's chief pollster, agreed, saying he was "really glad" to see the drop in the polls.

"It's hard to run a campaign when you try to say to people that 25-point leads are not really going to exist," Caddell said in his little cubicle of an office. "Intellectually, the staff agrees with you and nods their heads. But emotionally, they look at these things and feel very good."

"It's good it happened sooner than later because it makes people realize there's a campaign. It's nothing we didn't expect. I'm not worried about it."

Officials seek identity of woman with no memory

MILWAUKEE (AP) — She believes her maiden name was Kay Johnson, and that she arrived here from Alaska after stops in several other cities. She thinks she has a husband and four children.

But none of her leads have panned out, so one has claimed her as their own, and authorities seeking more clues to her identity say they have reached a dead end. Even truth serum hasn't helped.

"Living an existence as a nonperson is a terribly trying experience," Miss Johnson said last week after another visit to the Milwaukee Police Department for a fingerprint check.

"I guess going through all these procedures is designed to help me, but it also constantly reminds me that I don't know who I am," she said. "It's very hard on a person to live like this. It's a heartbreaking and lonely existence."

"This is a severe case of amnesia and so far we have nothing to help us help her," Edward Andrzejewski, a

WHO IS SHE? county caseworker assigned to the woman, said. "The situation looks bleak, but we are doing all we can for her. We need help from somewhere."

Miss Johnson, poised, soft-spoken and articulate, appears to be about 40. She is 5 foot 5 and 126 pounds, has medium-length auburn hair and hazel eyes.

She says her life before May 25, the day she was brought to Milwaukee County authorities from a downtown bus depot, is a virtual blank.

Authorities have pursued the leads she has provided, but without success. The county, meanwhile, provides her with living quarters in the county institutions complex.

She thinks she arrived here from either Fairbanks or Anchorage, Alaska, with intermediate stops in Chicago, Salt Lake City, and Oshkosh, Wis.

Andrzejewski said the woman apparently passed out at the bus station and was found by police. She told authorities she had been on a bus, but they could not determine which one she was riding.

"I think I have a family somewhere," she says. "I believe my husband is an aviator in some branch of military service. I remember having four children, all of whom I missed dearly."

Andrzejewski has contacted the Alaskan missing persons bureau and law enforcement authorities in Alaska, and copies of the woman's fingerprints have been sent to police departments in several cities.

But the contacts produced no new information.

"Our greatest hope in finding a positive lead fizzled," Andrzejewski said. "Kay was administered truth serum. We were initially pleased with the answers we got, but unfortunately none of the leads panned out. We got a lot of information, most of it disorganized."

Miss Johnson said she gets lonely and depressed, but most of all frustrated.

"Frustrated at not knowing what my family is doing without me, who I am and when this dreadful experience will end," she said. "I can only hope my nightmare will end soon."

Tom Green jail opened Saturday

SAN ANGELO — Tom Green County's new $1,500,000 jail was formally opened here Saturday with a ribbon-cutting ceremony.

The jail houses the offices of the sheriff's department, as well as the offices of Precinct 1 peace justices and constable.

The new facility replaces a structure used 94 years. The old building is to be torn down.

Farm

DROUGHT DAMAGE — Ken Virgil who farms near Raymond, Neb. compares damaged dry land corn with an ear of corn from an irrigated field on another part of their farm. Virgil will not pick the corn from the damaged fields but will cut it for livestock feed.

Boll weevils still damaging area cotton

Boll weevil activity is on the increase in Howard County, according to James Lee, County Extension entomologist. Approximately 35 fields have been located that have from 3 to 97 per cent boll weevil damage.

Fields receiving the heaviest damage continue to be in the Coahoma — Sand Springs area. These fields have had boll weevils present all season. During the past two weeks the scout team has been finding boll weevils in other parts of the county. Four fields in the Fairview-Knott area have been found to be infested. Producers can expect more fields to become infested, but at this late date it is doubtful if economic damaging levels will build up before frost.

During the remainder of the season, the survey scout will concentrate on locating as many fields as possible that are infested with boll weevils. This information will give an approximate distribution of boll weevils in Howard County.

Egg prices due to rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers can expect further increases in retail egg prices the rest of this year and then some slight easing during the winter and early spring, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

"Egg prices in recent months have been stronger than expected and well above 1975, despite larger production," the department's Outlook and Situation Board said Friday.

"In late August, wholesale prices for Grade A large eggs in New York averaged 67 cents a dozen, six cents above last year," the board said in a preliminary report.

"Although seasonal rises this fall likely will be less than usual, prices should remain strong and average in the mid-to-high 60s."

A chart in the report showed that New York wholesale egg prices in the April-June quarter averaged 57.6 cents a dozen, down from 61.9 in the first three months of this year.

Prices are expected to average 64 to 66 cents in the current quarter and then rise to a 65-to-67-cent range in the fourth quarter. In the first quarter of 1977 eggs could drop back to around 60 to 62 cents a dozen, the board predicted.

Wholesale prices of broiler chicken, however, are on their way down with the fourth quarter average estimated at 37 to 39 cents a pound, compared with 42 to 44 cents expected in July-September. Last year broilers were 50.3 cents in the third quarter and 45.1 in the fourth.

"Broiler meat production continues at record levels," the report said. "First-half 1976 output was up 14 per cent from a year earlier and nearly 9 per cent above the previous record first-half output of 1974."

Turkey prices have been lower this summer because of a predicted record output this year. Wholesale prices are expected to be 47 to 50 cents a pound through the rest of 1976, compared to about 57 cents a year ago.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of American cotton experts is scheduled to arrive in Moscow this weekend for a three-week inspection of Russian cotton fields.

Officials said team members are: Hosea S. Harkness, Cook Industries, Inc.; Memphis, Tenn.; Jake S. Stephens, a cotton farmer from Buckeye, Ariz.; Robert W. Johnson and Angel O. Byrne, both of USDA; and Robert H. Squires, Southwestern Irrigated Cotton Growers Assn., El Paso, Tex.

WHAT IS IT? — Steel yourself for the answer. It's part of a shipment of 1,200 miles of steel cable being prepared for shipment to the Soviet Union at a steel factory in Amsterdam.

Would solve energy problem

Retiree lauds passenger trains

By MARJ CARPENTER

"I think the answer to the energy crisis is really simple. Reactivate the passenger trains with really fine service and you'd get a bunch of cars off the roads," J. C. Pierce said here this week.

Pierce, like many of the "old rails" as they call themselves, really hated the day that the passenger service began to slip away from the railroads.

He retired August 14 after 38 years with Texas and Pacific. He went to work for the railroad on August 13, 1942 when Gus Hart helped him get a job. "I had applied at Cosden that morning and went to work for the railroad that afternoon," he recalls.

Many of the longtime railroaders look in wonderment at the fact that European railroads make millions of dollars a year off American tourists as they ride on Euro-rail tickets all over the continent.

"We made a mistake taking out the passenger trains. They really would solve a lot of our traffic ills today," Pierce added. Born in Cross Plains, Pierce started and finished school there. He lived in Plainview for a few years in between. His father, Joe Pierce was a farmer and at one time was sheriff around Baird for a decade.

When he got out of school, Pierce went to work for Higginbotham Brothers Implement and Furniture store for three years. Then he went to work for the Missouri Valley Construction in Texarkana helping build the ordinance plant there from May 1941 to August 1942.

Then, he said, he came to

J.C. PIERCE ... on the final run

Big Spring hunting work and ended up on the railroad, thanks to "Gus Hart and George French."

His brother, D. W. Pierce, was already working for the railroad at that time.

J. C. began as a fireman and was promoted in June 1945 to engineer and continued in that position until he retired. He was engineer on both steam engines, and starting along about 1948 the diesels.

"The biggest challenge was learning that no two trains handled just alike. Braking and all are different on each one. A lot of people think you can drive a freight train as easy as an automobile, but that is far from true," Pierce recalls. He admitted that he had remained one of the engineers who would wave back at children who wave at trains. "I always told my buddies I was waving at the children's mother," he laughed, "but I always waved at the kids." He said that his own two grandchildren, Robbie, 7 and Mark, 2, would come down to the tracks in Midland occasionally to "wave Grandpa through town."

His daughter, Mrs. Carla Seidenberger lives in Midland and his son, Jimmy lives in Knoxville, Tenn. The Pierces lost another son, when he was 17 from injuries received in a fall.

Pierce and Chloe, his wife, plan to travel some now that he's retired. They were thinking about going to Tennessee to visit their son and then going on to Florida.

$1.6 billion sought

Lo-Vaca suit hearings resume

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A committee of approximately six, including representatives from San Antonio, Austin and Corpus Christi, will resume negotiations to try to settle more than $1.6 billion in lawsuits against Lo-Vaca Gathering Co.

The decision to try to work out an out-of-court settlement was made Friday in a two-hour closed-door hearing in Atty. Gen. John Hill's conference room.

Hill was not present, but Asst. Atty. Gen. Frank Cooksey represented him. Mayor Lila Cockrell of San Antonio arranged the meeting, which was attended by Mayors Jeffrey Friedman of Austin, Jason Luby of Corpus Christi and representatives of other Lo-Vaca customers.

Friedman told reporters the deadline for settling the suits is Sept. 27—the date San Antonio's $400 million suit is to go back to trial.

Mrs. Cockrell said before the private meeting, "As far as we're concerned, this is it—the last effort."

Asked how many more meetings would be needed to prepare a settlement offer, Friedman said, "I won't even guess. There will be more meetings than anyone will want to attend."

Asked why it seemed to be so difficult to work out an acceptable settlement,

Friedman said, "Everybody has a different problem."

San Antonio's city council already has rejected one settlement offer, and Mrs. Cockrell said "substantial improvements" would have to be made to keep the city from pressing its case in court.

Councilman Henry Cisneros of San Antonio said the "tone and mood" in his city "is that grievous damage has been done and people have been hurt very badly and justice needs to be done."

Luby said some Corpus residents could not make their house payments because utility bills were wiping out so much of their income.

Needs tranquilizer

Car troubles plague Dallasite

DALLAS (AP) — Bill Freeman had an automobile accident last fall. Although the mishap wasn't his fault and he was carrying good insurance coverage, Freeman lost his car, $3,000 and his temper.

The man who hit Freeman did not have insurance. His own car was barely scratched and his only expense was a ticket for causing the accident, which cost him a total of $25.

For six of the 10 months since the accident, Freeman says he has been on tranquilizers.

"The accident has demolished my bank account and my temper," he says. "The disgusting thing is that it isn't unusual. The same thing happens to hundreds of people every day. I start telling my story and there's always someone around who's been through the same thing."

Freeman says a man driving a 5-year-old Mercedes ran a red light and slammed into his 3-week-old Chevrolet.

First Freeman had to pay the $100 deductible for his own car's repair. He is a salesman, requiring a car for his work, so rental for the two weeks it took to fix his car cost him $200.

When he picked up his car, it ran well for three days and then sort of fell apart. Every red light in the car turned on. He had to have it towed away.

"I went back to the body shop and demanded that they pay. They said the car ran when I left, that it wasn't their fault and they refused to pay," he said.

He took his problem to small claims court because it requires only a $5 fee and you don't need a lawyer. But he took a week off his job to research the case.

"I was that mad. But I had to get another salesman to fill in my territory for me. It was a slow time so I doubted I would lose much new business. Was I ever wrong! An account I had been hoping to land came in that week. The man who was filling in for me probably picked up an extra $2,000 a year off that account. I almost died."

Freeman's car problems never stopped. "I became obsessed. I tried everything. All I got was a case of nerves. My doctor finally put me on tranquilizers. I kept thinking I was going to win, but I didn't."

After selling the car two weeks ago and replacing it with a used one, Freeman decided there was one thing left to do — track down the man who hit him and make him pay. But the man's girlfriend explained that he had sold his Mercedes.

"He had to," she said, "because you filed some papers on him that says he can't drive until he pays up."

But she said Freeman could not talk to her boyfriend. He took some of the money he got from the car sale and went to Hawaii for his vacation.

Largest Permian Basin oil show is sellout

ODESSA — The 1976 Permian Basin Bicentennial Oil Show is a complete sellout and this year's biennial exposition will be the largest on record for Odessa and the Permian Basin because of additional space made available this year.

Earlier this year the oil show board of directors opened the Ector County Coliseum to exhibitors and the additional 125 exhibit spaces were sold out in short order. The directors then were forced to open the last remaining building at the coliseum complex and now those 45 additional spaces are gone.

When the oil show opens Oct. 20 it is anticipated approximately 500,000 visitors will view the displays of goods and services of the 500 exhibitors during the four days of the exposition. The attendance record of the Permian Basin show was established in 1974 when more than 400,000 visitors passed through the main gates of the Ector County Coliseum grounds in Odessa.

Exhibitors for this year's exposition came from virtually every oil-producing center in Texas as well as 23 other states and Canada.

Odessa, the technological center of the Permian Basin oil industry, is the best represented city in Texas with 130 companies on hand for the oil show. There will be 55 Houston-based companies in the October show, as well as 32 from the Dallas-Fort Worth area, and 33 from Midland.

If the oil show visitor is an Okie he will have plenty of company in Odessa during the four days in October because there are 51 Oklahoma companies which will be displaying their goods and services. Those companies are based mainly in Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Other states represented in Odessa during the Per-man Basin Oil Show include Arkansas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Michigan, Minnesota, Massachusetts, New Mexico, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, South Dakota, Tennessee, and Wisconsin.

One of the highlights of the biennial oil show will come on the final day when the Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang will serve its world-famous barbecue to approximately 12,000 persons. The Chuck Wagon Gang is a good will organization of Odessa oilmen and businessmen which travel throughout the United States serving barbecue to large crowds while promoting Odessa and the Permian Basin. The Gang will travel to Stavanger, Norway, in September to serve barbecue to approximately 5,000 persons attending the Norwegian North Sea Offshore Oil Show.

Dallas triumphs 20-10

DALLAS (AP) — Quarterback Roger Staubach winged two touchdown passes and Dallas' determined defense put on a stirring goalline stand Saturday night to propel the Cowboys to a 20-10 National Football League preseason victory over Pittsburgh.

In a nationally televised Super Bowl-X rematch between the world champion Steelers and the runner-up Cowboys, Staubach was superb in the clutch.

And Dallas' young defense outshone Pittsburgh's famed "Steel Curtain" with five quarterback sacks as the Steelers appeared to be troubled by intense heat and humidity in Texas Stadium before a sellout crowd of 64,261 fans.

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw and two other Steelers left the game with heat exhaustion in 85-degree temperatures.

Pittsburgh, now 4-2 in preseason, stormed to the Dallas two-yard line after the opening kickoff. Steeler Coach Chuck Noll gambled on fourth down, when middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan stopped Franco Harris cold and the tempo was set for the night.

After Roy Gerela hit a 30-yard field goal in the second period, Dallas scored 10 points in 18 seconds.

Toni Fritsch kicked a 26-yard field goal and Dallas' Pat Donovan recovered Mike Collier's fumble on the ensuing kickoff. Staubach struck on first down, rifling a 16-yard touchdown pass to Drew Pearson.

Staubach whipped Dallas on a 73-yard drive after the second half kickoff, climaxed by a two-yard touchdown pass to Billy Joe DuPree.

With Bradshaw in the dressing room because of the heat, rookie quarterback Mike Kruczek of Boston College engineered a 70-yard drive in 13 plays. On fourth and two from the Cowboy 3, Kruczek coolly drilled a touchdown pass to rookie wide receiver Theo Bell of Arizona.

Dallas put the game out of reach on Efen Herrera's chip shot 17-yard field goal with 7:19 left in the game.

The Cowboys also had one player to suffer from the heat as cornerback Mark Washington was sidelined in the first period.

The Steelers also lost rookie running back Jack Deloplane with a thigh injury. Deloplane is the Steelers' leading rusher in preseason.

Pittsburgh scored all 10 of its points after fumbles by Cowboy tailback Charley Young.

Defensive lineman Ernie Holmes recovered a Young fumble early in the second quarter to set up Gerela's field goal.

With Dallas leading 17-3, Young again fumbled and John Banaszak recovered to put the Steelers in position for their touchdown drive.

Rookie Cowboy cornerback Aaron Kyle of Wyoming intercepted two passes, one on the Cowboy 20-yard line with seven seconds to play, to spearhead Dallas' secondary.

The results are as follows:

First scrimmage for Big Spring

Steers, 'Stangs fight to standoff

SWEETWATER — Varsity football troops representing Big Spring and Sweetwater fought to a virtual standoff in a scrimmage here Friday night.

Sweetwater scored the only touchdown of the night but it was by the second team against Big Spring's second unit. The Big Spring regulars, although they couldn't mount any kind of an offense, were cactus-tough on defense.

Sweetwater was 0-10 last year and is being rated at the bottom of District 3-AAA this year but there is no way this team can keep from winning several games. The Mustangs have better team speed and are big. Their tackles, both juniors, each go about 230. The two Pony quarterbacks who divided time against Big Spring were very impressive.

Coach Don Robbins of Big Spring was far from discouraged with what he saw.

"It's just going to take time for our offense to jell," Robbins said after the game. "We stopped ourselves with foolish infractions (four major ones), something that I understand plagued the team last year."

"We didn't execute well, and there are a lot of rough spots we intend to work on in practice this week. With our quarterbacks (Bubba Stripling and Ricky Myers), it's just a matter of getting some experience."

Robbins singled out running back Mike Abreo for his play on offense and had praise for tackle Sammy Ortega, linebacker Tony Mann, strong safety Steve Hughes and end John Birdwell on defense.

The coaches are carrying 50 on the varsity squad and all got in some work against Sweetwater.

Sweetwater's junior

Permian tops in area poll

The Big Spring Steers will have something to prove this season. The team was rated dead last in the 5-4A District Coaches and Sportswriters Poll.

Eight head coaches in the district and five newspapers covering the league were polled. Coaches were not allowed to vote for their own teams, and points were allotted beginning with one point for last place, two points for next to last and so on, with eight points going to the first place pick.

The results are as follows:

First downs: Steelers 18, Cowboys 15

Rushes yards: 40-148, 40-141

Passing yards: 121-120

Return yards: 19-52

Passes: 13-26, 7-18, 0

Punts: 6-40, 7-39

Fumbles lost: 2-2, 3-2

Penalties yards: 6-65, 8-75

varsity scored twice against the Big Spring JVs while holding the Steers scoreless.

The Mustangs, having reported for drills earlier than Big Spring, is farther along in play execution and has better timing.

"There were bright spots for Big Spring," Robbins commented. "We saw boys who will be real assets to our program."

Among Big Spring JVs who excelled were QB Billy Ray Johnson, fullback Larry

Smith, defensive end Steve Bryant and defensive tackle Johnny Hardemann.

Both were controlled type scrimmages, which means there was no punting. The teams started on their own 35 and had only three downs to make a first down. Inside the opposition's 30, the elevens had four plays in which to work for a down renewal.

In the JV scrimmage, Big Spring used about 65 boys and the enthusiasm of the Steers was most impressive.

Don Childs heads the JV coaching staff. He is being assisted by Ben Neel and Tommy Collins.

Big Spring coaches have watched next Friday night's opponent, Andrews, in two scrimmages and have exchanged films with the Andrews staff. The Andrews film had Seminole as an opponent in a scrimmage.

The movie the Steers forwarded to Andrews for review was taken at last spring's intra-squad game.

The Steers now have just four days to get ready for what looms as a very tough opener. So very much remains to be done.

The Steers may be far closer to being ready for football battle than the fans, who can't quite grasp the fact that the season is at hand until September arrives. But only two days of August remain after today. The frost is not yet on the pumpkin but football season is here.

No time to celebrate

Billie Jean doesn't rest

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Billie Jean King has won another championship, but she doesn't have time to celebrate. Friday Ms. King helped the New York Sees win the World Team Tennis Championship with a 31-13 triumph over the Golden Gaters, giving the New Yorkers a 3-0 sweep in the best-of-five championship final.

Today she's in Philadelphia trying to help the United States team win the Federation Cup.

"No, I don't think that's too much tennis," said the 32-year-old Mrs. King, who has cut down her tennis competition in recent years. "Actually, I love it. Pressure."

pressure. Of course, I'm a good deal more up now than I would have been if we had lost his one. It's been no secret that I wanted the WTT title badly," she added.

Ms. King and teammate Sandy Mayer were named the most valuable players in the playoff. Mayer earned the recognition for his mastery of Tom Okker.

Ms. King got New York going by teaming with Phil Dent for a 4-6 decision over Betty Stove and Frew McMillan in mixed doubles.

Mayer followed by routing Okker 6-1, losing only 10 points.

Mayer's mastering of Okker helped avenge a first-round Wimbledon loss, which contributed to coach Fred Stolle not having him

ITA isn't dead, but it's ailing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The International Track Association isn't dead, it's just looking for someone with money who appreciates professional track and field.

Wednesday's announcement that ITA was suspending operations for 1976 was met in some quarters by skepticism that the pro track tour would ever be resumed. But Mike O'Hara says he is pointing for 1977.

"We are searching for a backer who believes in the same concept we do—that pro track has a place," said ITA's president and founder. "Our thrust this year was that ITA was going to put on quality meets or wasn't going to put them on at all."

O'Hara had visions of signing a handful of top-name track stars after the Montreal Olympics which ended Aug. 1, but the string of European track meets, with their lucrative "under the table" money offers, torpedoes his chances of signing the stars.

"Without more quality athletes, we were not able to put on quality meets, and I just thought it would be better for our image to wait until 1977."

He said that the bulk of the world's track talent went to Europe after the Games and will compete there through September. He said the lure of high expense money cut into his signing plans.

Top ten in each class

Brazoswood tops 4-A poll

Baumont Hebert in Class 3A and Rockdale in 2A, both newcomers to their classifications, joined Brazoswood in 4A, Alejo in A and Groom in B to earn preseason No. 1 tags in the Associated Press Schoolboy Football poll.

Baumont Hebert, which narrowly missed the Class 4A playoffs last season with a 9-1 record, dropped back into Class 3A this year under University Interscholastic League (UIL) guidelines and is an impressive preseason choice.

Rockdale, which advanced to the Class 3A quarter-finals last season, also dropped back one classification to 2A along with 14 lettermen and 12 starters from its 11-2 team from 1975.

The top billing in 4A is a familiar position for the Brazoswood Buccaneers, who won the state title in 1974 under Coach L.Z. Bryan, whose six-year record includes five district titles and a 73-7-1 record.

Alejo returns 15 starters to a team that finished second in its district last season with an impressive 9-1 record.

Groom, which has been a bridesmaid to perennial Class B kingpin Big Sandy, gained the No. 1 billing in B this year after Big Sandy, the defending state champion, moved up to Class A.

Bryan's winning touch was displayed in 1975 when the Bucs had only one returning starter and 10 lettermen from the state championship team. The Bucs finished with a 10-2 after losing to McAllen in the regional playoff round.

Baumont Hebert, which returns 20 starters and 33 seniors, already has won a victory by just being able to field a team.

The Justice Department had threatened to close the school if it did not comply with integration guidelines but a ruling last week by U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Fisher apparently will allow Hebert to field a team.

Nod goes to Texas Longhorns

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The easy way out would be to pick the Texas Longhorns to stampede to the Southwest Conference football title.

The Longhorns are blessed with perhaps with the fastest backfield veteran Coach Darrell Royal has eyeballed as he entered his 20th campaign at Texas.

The defense under the charge of salty Mike Campbell is experienced.

The schedule has arch foes Texas A&M and Arkansas visiting Austin, where Texas hasn't lost since 1967.

The kicking game, always vital to the ultimate success of a football team, is superb behind Russell Erxleben, who was simply phenomenal as a freshman, who averaged 41 yards punting the ball and kicked six field goals over 47 yards.

If graduated senior quarterback Marty Akins was back, the Longhorns could invade Russia in the winter.

But, alas, that's the cockroach in the puddin' as DKR might put it himself.

"Losing all of that experience in Akins has got to be a blow to us," says Royal.

Ted Constanzo, the sophomore from San Antonio and supposed heir to the Akins' throne, is not without talent. He's just with playing time amidst shot and shell.

"Our young quarterback stands a chance to suffer a little by comparison and it's not right because Marty Akins as a sophomore couldn't compare with Marty Akins as a senior," Royal reasons.

But Royal, a superb quarterback himself at Oklahoma, has a reputation of teaching signal callers a Midas touch.

Arkansas and Texas A&M, who shared the 1975 SWC title with Texas, are again loaded. But they've got quarterback problems, too. And they don't have a homefield advantage when they meet the 'Horns.

Baylor and Texas Tech could very well ambush any of the Big Three because both teams possess explosive offenses and have sound senior quarterbacks in Mark Jackson and Tommy Duniven, respectively.

Houston, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist and Rice will be fighting for cold

- scrap.
- Of course, this prognosticator took the easy way out in 1975 and selected prohibitive favorite, Texas A&M. Being one-third right beats a stick in the eye.
- And, you guessed it, the nod—in a bold rush of calculated analysis—goes to Texas in 1976, but not by a stampede. Make it by an eyelash.
- The finish (unguaranteed):
- 1. Texas (If the jockey doesn't fall off).
- 2. Arkansas (Defense could carry the 'Hogs into high Cotton again).
- 3. Baylor (If the Bears quit treating the football like a watermelon seed).
- 4. Texas A&M (Watch out if the offense ever matches the toughest defense in the country).
- 5. Texas Tech (A prairie
- fire offense but an unproven defense).
- 6. Houston (Some hard lessons for the SWC's newest member).
- 7. Rice (A new coach, a new offense but the same old numbers on the scoreboard).
- 8. TCU (Better than a year ago but so's everybody else).
- 9. SMU (With sympathies for the bare cupboard to likeable new Coach Ron Meyer).

Competition gets tougher

Pressure builds for Dr. Richards

The pressure continues to build for transsexual Dr. Renee Richards and the competition gets tougher as she moves ahead in the Tennis Week Open at South Orange, N.J.

"I wish this was all over. I feel the pressure tremendously," the 42-year-old said before today's semifinal match with 17-year-old Leah Antonopolis, ranked third in the nation in her age group by the United States Tennis Association.

The fifth team to withdraw from the competition.

Great Britain eliminated South Africa and the Netherlands topped Denmark, both by 2-1 scores.

At the U.S. Pro tennis championships at Brookline, Mass., Paolo Bertolucci of Italy, rated only third in his country, ousted Wojtek Fibak of Poland, 6-1, 6-2 in third round action Friday. It was the second surprise by the Italian, who eliminated 1975 U.S. Open champion Manuel Orantes earlier.

Harold Solomon, who defeated Australia's John Alexander, is Bertolucci's foe in the quarter-finals. The tournament was delayed yesterday when a rainstorm halted a match between Mexico's Raul Ramirez and Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. It will be completed today. Earlier, thirdseeded Guillermo Vilas eliminated Jaime Fillol of Chile 7-5, 6-4.

Fifth-seeded Beth Norton of Fairfield, Conn., Janet Newberry of La Jolla, Calif., Mary Carrillo of Douglaston, N.Y., and Ruta Gerulaitis of New York advanced to today's semis in the Women's Tennis Association Invitational tournament at Harrison, N.Y., which was hastily produced when the women decided to boycott the Tennis Week tournament due to Dr. Richards' participation.

Cornhuskers number-one pick

Sooners to be dethroned?

The Nebraska Cornhuskers are the preseason choice to dethrone defending champion Oklahoma and prevent the Sooners from winning an unprecedented third consecutive national college football title.

In a nationwide Associated Press poll of 59 sports writers and broadcasters, nine different teams earned at least one vote for the No. 1 spot. Nebraska, which finished ninth a year ago, received 25 first-place ballots and 961 of a possible 1,180 points.

Oklahoma, last year's No. 1 pick in both the preseason and final polls despite a drop to seventh during the campaign, was No. 5 this time behind Michigan, Arizona State and Ohio State. Rounding out the Top Ten are Alabama, Texas, Southern California, Pittsburgh and Penn State.

The Second Ten consists of Notre Dame, Maryland, Arkansas, Texas A&M, California, Georgia, UCLA, Florida, Kansas and Miami of Ohio.

Michigan, which lost to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, received 10 first-place votes and 918 points while Arizona State, runnerup to Oklahoma in 1975, had seven first-place ballots and 780 points. Then came Ohio State with three votes for No. 1 and 749 points and Oklahoma with six first-place votes but only 683 total points. Alabama and Texas also received three first-place votes while Southern Cal had two and one went to Pitt.

"I guess I have mixed feelings about the No. 1 ranking," said Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne. "It's nice that people feel we're a good team and, hopefully, where there's that kind of confidence there might be some reason for optimism."

"But on the other hand, a No. 1 ranking leads to great expectations. I hope we're as good as people think we are."

Oklahoma's Barry Switzer wasn't surprised by the preseason ratings.

"I'd have been surprised if we had been No. 1," he said. "I look at it like it is. If we had the players returning that we lost, then we should be No. 1. I'd have picked Nebraska right there at the top, too."

Ruidoso Downs action brewing

Dash for Cash faces major test

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — Dash For Cash, a colt who seems destined to become one of the greats in quarter horse history, faces the roughest challenge of his career in today's All-American Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

The gross purse of the 440-yard Derby is a staggering $566,042, and that makes it the second richest event in turf history — surpassed only by Ruidoso's world-famed $1 million All-American Futurity on Labor Day. The Derby winner earns $188,491.

Twelve races are on tap today, starting at the regular 1:30 p.m. Next week, Ruidoso Downs will wind up the most successful season in its 30-year history with a five-day stand stretching from Thursday through Labor Day.

Dash For Cash, trained by Bubba Cascio for Anne W. and B.F. Phillips, Jr. of Frisco, Texas, was derailed during his two-year-old season with intestinal problems. That kept him out of the big-money Triple Crown races — the Kansas, Rainbow and All-American futurities.

But he came roaring back with a vengeance during his three-year-old season, and has now earned $227,514. His racing record stands at a shimmering 15 wins and two seconds from only 18 starts. That means he's been out of the money only once. "He's one of the best horses I've ever trained," Cascio summed up. "He's close to perfect."

If fans were looking for perfection in Dash For Cash, they got it last week in the trials. The Rocket Wrangler colt shot out of the gate in an arrow-straight course and streaked under the wire with a devastating three-length lead. Much impressed with his credentials, the mutual patrons turned him loose as an overwhelming favorite.

And speaking of perfection, Dash For Cash's '76 record is pretty close to that. He's been out eight times this year, and hung up seven wins and a second. That lone defeat came at the hands of I'm Gorgeous in the $338,208 Rainbow Derby on July 4. So Dash For Cash had to be content with the runner-up purse of $53,313.

Earlier in the season, he won his trial spin in the Kansas Derby, but just missed the qualifying cutoff point. Then came a bulging five-length win in the Rainbow Derby trials. Following the Derby setback, he chalked up a half-length allowance win.

At one point, Dash For Cash interrupted his Ruidoso campaign for a spin to the West Coast, where he won a trial and the finale of the Los Alamitos Derby. The spoils in that one came out to $9,600.

Last week, when Dash For Cash won his All-American Derby trial by three he did more than chalk up another eye-popping win. He also came away with the top qualifying time of 21.71 seconds.

Here's the way the rest of the field checked in: Reller's Image, 21.91; Mito Wise Dancer, 21.91; I'm Gorgeous, 21.95½; Hyjonijet, 21.96½; A Zure Request, 21.97½; Speckled Trace, 22.05; Southern Gentlemen, 22.08; Azure Fair, 22.08½; Miss Hay Bug, 22.10.

Jerry Nicodemus, one of the top quarter horse pilots in the business, was named by Trainer Cascio to handle Dash For Cash once again. Cascio will also be sending out Hyjonijet and A Zure Request.

Mito Wise Dancer, who set the third-best time, will also carry quite a record into the Derby. The gray colt has won eight races in a row — and that could well be the longest quarter horse win streak of the year. In last week's trials, Mito Wise Dancer poured it on at the end to nip I'm Gorgeous by a head. So far this year, Mito Wise Dancer holds five wins from five starts, which interpolates into $64,259. Last year, he finished up his juvenile year with three straight wins and boosted his '75 earnings to $46,437.

Trainer Bubba Werner will have J.C. Wiley calling the shots, once again, on Mito Wise Dancer. Werner also has another contender in Reller's Image, a filly who won her trial heat by a neck as a 7-2 shot. Willie Lovell will be aboard.

I'm Gorgeous has a '76 record of 4-1-0 from six starts. Thanks to that Rainbow Derby win, her current money line is $117,719. Last year, she earned $22,546.

Hyjonijet finished second to Reller's Image last week. Last year, the filly earned just over 50 grand. She's collected $18,238 so far this year. A Zure Request recently won the $84,000 World's Championship Classic at Ruidoso, and that helped put his current earnings up to $79,602. Terry Lipham will do the riding.

Speckled Trace wrangled his way into the finale by finishing third last week as a 99-1 outsider. Southern Gentlemen holds career earnings of almost $45,000. Azure Fair earned $3,260 from three spins this year. Last year, he raked in over $61,000. Miss Hay Bug, the bottom qualifier, sped to a 1¼-length win in the trials, and this put her '76 earnings up to $19,253.

Great Britain, the Netherlands and Australia advanced to the semifinal round Friday when politics again crept into the tournament as Indonesia became Mourning doves at 42 million, but...

AUSTIN — Based on banding and harvest information, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials estimate some 42 million mourning doves will be available in Texas when the North Zone opens, Sept. 1.

It's just a matter of being in the right place at the right time.

Contacts with P&WD wardens, biologists and other field personnel throughout the state indicate generally a good mourning dove outlook as of late August.

Department dove project leader Jim Dunks said early summer rains forced many Texas farmers to plant grain fields late, which means more grain will be available for birds on opening day.

And dry conditions during late July and August have concentrated birds at remaining water holes, which should help late afternoon hunting when the season opens.

Dunks also said the dry weather allows birds to get into grain fields to feed.

West Texas wildlife regional director Jack Parsons at San Angelo said the overall dove picture was good. Many birds are to be found in the eastern part of the region, with fair numbers in the High Plains and Permian Basin.

Brown County game warden Roy Tucker said Comanche and Erath Counties have higher numbers of birds this year and should have better hunts.

Although the South Zone does not open until Sept. 25, Jim Dunks said early concentrations are developing in the southern part of Texas, especially along the upper coast and extreme South Texas.

Hunting hours are noon to sunset in the Sept. 1-Oct. 14 North Zone and Sept. 25-Nov. 7 South Zone fall seasons. All-day hunting will be allowed when both zones reopen for a Jan. 1-16 season.

Fall hunting ends Nov. 2 in those South Zone counties along the Rio Grande which are open to whitewing hunting.

Bag and possession limits on mourning doves remain at 10 and 20 respectively. Hunters are reminded that shotguns must be plugged permanently to a three-shell capacity.

...Whitewing doves just a mere 125,000

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Recent rains and the opening of the Rio Grande Valley Floodway System is dampening the outlook for white-wing dove hunters in this area.

More than 50,000 hunters will visit the valley during the five-day dove season, pouring more than $3.5 million into the area's economy, say Chamber of Commerce officials.

But Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TP&WD) officials say decreased bird population, combined with "game hogs," point to a disappointing whitewing dove season.

A TP&WD spokesman said the count of this year's dove crop is "about 125,000 compared to 169,000 last year which was a poor crop."

Wildlife officials and area businessmen who lease hunting rights for the season in early September blame the rainy weather and flooding for the bleak outlook.

"The birds have a limited food supply due to the rains, and the best hunting areas are not easily accessible due to the opening of the floodway system," said Ed Dutch of the TP&WD office in Edinburg.

The Rio Grande Floodway System was opened earlier this month by the International Boundary and Water Commission as part of their annual preparation for the hurricane flooding season. Water from Falcon Dam was released into the system forcing the closing of several roads along the river.

"I don't want to slight the situation," said Kemper Glick of Pharr, whose family leased land to white-wing dove hunters. "I think they (TP&WD officials) are 100 per cent right. But if we can keep the game hogs off the leases, just about every hunter should have a pretty good season."

"Game hogs" are hunters who kill more than the legal limit of 10 doves per day.

"You always have some hunters who kill 100 to 200 birds a day," said Glick. "The game wardens just can't keep up with all of them."

Glick said some hunters will combat the high water by using boats to attain favored hunting spots.

"A little water isn't going to keep some hunters from shooting dove," he said. "Some of them would stand out in a hurricane if they thought they might get a shot."

The season runs Sept. 4-6 and Sept. 11-12.

FIRST DAY, FIRST CATCH — Tony Smith, 2, Columbus, proudly holds the first fish he ever caught. He landed the foot-long catfish on the first day of the Ohio State Fair at the fish pond of the Department of Natural Resources. At the opposite end of the pool while he fished was Gov. James A. Rhodes. Rhodes was unsuccessful.

Limited use system studied for parks

AUSTIN — With an estimated six million people visiting Texas' state parks this summer, parks personnel of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department have prepared for overcrowded conditions and the possibility of turning away visitors.

Altogether, some 15 million people will visit Texas state parks this fiscal year, according to P&WD projections. Inherent problems in coping with overcrowded camping grounds at many parks during the summer have resulted in the implementation of controlled and limited visitation at many units of the state park system.

Not many years ago, it would have seemed inconceivable to deny people access to a state park because of overcrowding. That is no longer the case.

Overuse of both facilities and natural resources in parks has led to a procedure to limit and control the number of vehicle and — or camping units to the number of designated campsites.

This summer parks division personnel instituted such controls at some of the parks where use exceeds capacity. Included are Pedernales Falls, Inks Lake, McKinney Falls, Galveston Island, Huntsville, Stephen F. Austin and portions of Bastrop State Parks.

Bowhunters prepare for antlerless deer

AUSTIN — Bowhunters in seven Central Texas counties this year will be required to have permits to hunt antlerless deer, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials remind.

Permits will be issued at the following locations: Burnet, County courthouse; Gillespie, county courthouse; Llano, Parks and Wildlife Department office; Mason, chamber of commerce; McCullough, chamber of commerce; San Saba, county courthouse; and Travis, county courthouse. Landowners in those counties may secure their permits Sept. 10, from 8-12 a.m. and 1-5 p.m.

Some 2,000 antlerless deer were harvested by bowhunters during the 1975 season, and P&WD officials expect several thousand permits to be issued this year.

Although season dates for the special season vary across the state, most bowhunters will have October 1 through 31 to stalk deer and turkey. Bowhunters in the southern half of the state also may take javelina.

Archery dates in the Trans-Pecos, Panhandle and some Northeast Texas counties vary from five to 30 days.

For special requirements or bag limits in specific counties, persons should contact their local Parks and Wildlife Department office or consult their Hunting and Fishing Digest.

Hunting for a spot to hunt?

By TIM LEIFESTE
SAN ANGELO — Hunting for a place to hunt has become a real challenge these days; perhaps more so than the actual hunting of wild game.

Hunting leases are getting harder to find — competition is keen and leases are generally going at a premium. In fact, the asking prices for some choice leases may be considered by some to be downright astronomical. But that's the way it is and the way it will probably stay for some time to come.

Unless you plan to hunt on your own land, hunting in Texas means having a lease. If you don't, the time to begin looking for one is now. In fact, it probably wasn't too soon to begin at the close of last year's hunting season since finding a lease requires initiative, some luck, good timing, and, of course, money. The latter requirement may be the most important since most landowners will be asking whatever the market will bear. Commercial leasing has become big business.

Generally speaking, leases in Texas fall into four categories: day hunting, year-round, limited duration and guided hunts of a few days.

The enterprising hunter in search of a lease should probably start by talking to people and friends who already have leases. Or, you might check with chamber of commerce offices in the county seats where you would like to hunt. In most high-deer population areas, chambers maintain lists of landowners who accommodate hunters. The Parks and Wildlife Department can be of little help in finding leases since leases represent income to ranchers and the department cannot make recommendations for private contracts.

You might also check the want-ad section of newspapers.

If all else fails, you may have to physically tour the countryside. If you should see a place you would like to hunt, find out who the landowner is and ask his permission to hunt the property. The land may already be leased, but you'll never know until you've asked.

Good hunting!

SAFETY COURSE
New Mexico now requires that anyone under 18 years of age who handles a firearm must have a hunter safety certificate. Texans who plan to hunt with their children in that state this year should arrange for them to take the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Voluntary Hunter Safety Course before they go. Such instruction will not be available in New Mexico.

This summer would be a good time for this safety training since too often people wait until August or September when most classes are full. Fee for the course is $1. Interested persons should contact their local game warden for P&WD office for information.

OUT BACK in West Texas

By TIM LEIFESTE
SAN ANGELO — A special hunter safety course, sponsored by the Parks and Wildlife Department in cooperation with the San Angelo YMCA, will be held Sept. 7-9 (three days) from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the YMCA building, 305 San Randolph.

Attendance at all three sessions is required for certification.

All hunters from San Angelo and the surrounding area who need to take the course to meet requirements for hunting in Colorado or New Mexico can register by calling the San Angelo P&WD office or the YMCA. Those wishing to register should call as early as possible so arrangements can be made for teaching materials.

Fee for the course is $1 and covers the purchase of teaching materials, shoulder patch and wallet certification card. Persons must be at least 12 years of age to participate in the course.

Instructors for the course will be Darrell Holt, statewide hunter safety coordinator from Austin, and yours truly.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer hunter safety instructor is also urged to attend.

Parents, this may be a good time to enroll your youngsters in the class as well. They'll certainly receive some good instructions on the proper handling of firearms.

You only have a few more days before mourning dove season opens Sept. 1 to purchase a new hunting license. They're on sale right now. Also available at local P&WD offices are the new dove maps, listing regulations and hunting hours, for both white-winged and mourning doves.

Governor Dolph Briscoe has designated Saturday, Sept. 25, as Texas Hunting & Fishing Day. Several mayors in West Texas have also proclaimed the day for their particular locales. All citizens of Texas are urged to participate in these local hunting and fishing day activities in their particular areas. The special day is set aside each year to draw attention to the contributions hunters and fishermen have made to the conservation effort.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens in Comanche arrested and charged two men from San Antonio with selling water hyacinths, classified under state law as potentially harmful, noxious aquatic vegetation.

At the time of their arrest, some 180 plants were confiscated from the men by law officers. Retail outlets in Comanche, Eastland, Brownwood, Abilene, Haskell and San Angelo so far have been traced as having bought plants from the suspects.

P&WD's wildlife exhibit will be in Snyder Sept. 16-18. If you're up that way then be sure and visit the exhibit, one of the premier exhibits in the state.

I am in the process of putting together a 30-minute weekly or monthly (haven't decided which yet) outdoor television program jointly produced by P&WD and San Angelo's KCTV television station. We've already taped the first show and if everything goes well many more could follow. It is, of course, entitled "Outback in West Texas" and will feature news and topics of interest to all West Texans.

Lakes recap

Handsome specimen of the unusual varieties highlighted fishing catches at Lake J.B. Thomas and Lake E.V. Spence during the past week.

Astros edge Cardinals 4-3

By The Associated Press
Shortstop Dave Concepcion, part of Cincinnati's hard-hitting infield, ripped a two-run single in the bottom of the ninth inning, boosting the Reds to an 8-7 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in Saturday's nationally televised game between National League division leaders.

Meanwhile, Oakland's Vida Blue pitched 8 1-3 innings of no-hit ball before Detroit's Mickey Stanley homered and the A's fast-balling left-hander wound up beating the Tigers 5-2.

The Reds, raising their West Division lead to nine games over Los Angeles, overcame a 7-6 Philadelphia lead in the ninth on singles by Johnny Bench and Tony Perez, a walk to Cesar Geronimo and Concepcion's hit.

Concepcion drove in a total of four runs, while third baseman Pete Rose and second baseman Joe Morgan produced the Reds' other runs with two-run homers.

Jay Johnstone, the NL's leading batter, hit a two-run homer for the Phils in the eighth, and Philadelphia took the lead with three runs in the ninth, Garry Maddox tripling in two, then scoring on Mike Schmidt's sacrifice fly.

Blue, in pitching the third one-hitter of his major league career, was nicked for a run in the eighth when his infielders committed two errors, but he didn't allow a hit until Stanley drilled his homer with one out in the ninth.

Joe Rudi drove in three Oakland runs with a single and a double.

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1, the Houston Astros defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 and the Chicago Cubs beat the Atlanta Braves 5-2.

Rick Dempsey rapped a two-run double later in the inning, giving the Baltimore Orioles a 6-4 victory over the Texas Rangers Saturday night.

It was the sixth consecutive loss for the Rangers, who have dropped eight in a row to the Orioles since winning the first three meetings of the season.

Dempsey, who entered the game with a .182 batting average, had three hits in three trips, including a single when Baltimore scored two runs in the seventh and chased Texas starter Tommy Boggs.

Felix Millan's infield single drove in the Mets' winning run and handed the Dodgers' only their second loss in the last 12 games. Jon Matlack limited Los Angeles to three hits for his 14th victory.

Rick Monday and Jerry Morales paced the Cubs' attack against Atlanta. Monday collected three hits, including his 24th homer of the season, and Morales drove in three runs with a single and his 15th homer.

Three hits by Jim Wohlford, two each by Amos Otis, Fred Patek and Cookie Rojas, and a homer by Buck Martinez led Kansas City's AL West Division leaders past Boston. Carl Yastrzemski was 3 for 4 for Boston and Fred Lynn homered.

BUDDING ENGINEER

Can't tell yet whether my son will follow in his Dad's footsteps. Toys don't make an engineer.

But he's learning some of the basic principles of physics with which many professions deal.

On the way home from Church, when he talks about his lesson, I recognize familiar signs... character is still in the mold. Deep conviction, bold dedication come later. But he's grasping those basic truths on which great living rises.

For a busy engineer who used to be hit-or-miss in his church attendance, fostering the growth of a soul is a fascinating experience... especially as I find my own faith deepening with every reverent day!

Can't tell about his following my footsteps. But I've discovered new dimensions in life following his.

'Red tape' prevents correction

Hattie Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — the Department of Public Welfare — a state agency well known for its multi-layered bureaucracy — has apparently become tangled in its own red tape.

An advisory committee on child care licensing has discovered a misprint of adoption regulations, but a division of the welfare department says the mistake can't be corrected without going through lengthy "public notice" proceedings. The problem involves placing children in homes for adoption. In regulations it suggested recently, the advisory committee intended to say that children should be placed in homes which are in different regions from their biological parents.

The committee reasoned that separating adoptive and natural parents would be easier on children. Only in the case that no other home could be found would a home in the same area as biological parents be permitted.

But somewhere in the printing process, a "not" or an "only" got left of the regulation and it reads, as published, "A child shall only be placed outside of the immediate area of the biological parents' residence when no other placement is possible."

Since the regulation came out exactly opposite from what was intended, the obvious remedy was to publish the fact that a mistake had been made, a licensing director Richard Orton told the committee.

Not so, said the welfare department's "Systems and Procedures" division. Rewording the regulation to achieve the original intent would amount to changing a regulation, the division said. That means a 60-day public review procedure would be required.

Some advisory committee members expressed wonder that a division of the welfare department can't correct its own mistake, but Orton explained, "We do have to get the official legal judgment of the department on that."

Committee members, some of whom place children in adoptive homes, said the regulation as it stands could hurt their chances of finding parents in some cases. Department of Public Welfare placements themselves could be "significantly affected," one member said.

Orton, however, told the committee the misprinted rule would not be actively enforced and would be changed as quickly as possible.

"I assure you all of it will be taken care of," he said.

Military Vietnam 'ace' to address Webb gathering

America's only Vietnam ace, a true hero with a storybook background, will address officers of the 78th Flying Training Wing when the Webb AFB Junior Officers' Council sponsors a "dining in" Oct. 1 in the officers' club.

AF Reserve Maj. Steve Ritchie, only American pilot ever to shoot down five Soviet MIG-21s, has so many heroic deeds to his credit that it would probably make the "Six Million Dollar Man" envious.

His background reads like a classic novel of the "all-American boy."

Teacher sought for ATC course

An instructor is sought by the University of Albuquerque for a 16-week seminar course in academic skills to be offered primarily to air traffic controllers. The course is expected to begin here by the end of September.

Qualifications of the instructor request a master's degree, but a bachelor's degree is acceptable, along with teaching experience in English, speech, research and writing. For more information, contact MSGT. William A. Root, 267-2511, ext. 2270, Communication Squadron course coordinator at Webb AFB.

months... 39 of the nation's highest military decorations. A celebrated hero in a controversial war. A guest at a George McGovern fundraiser in Hugh Hefner's Playboy pent-mansion. Continent spanning lecturer. Candidate for Congress. A special public relations assistant to the Adolph Coors Company.

A reserve pilot ready to answer the call if it ever comes again.

Major Ritchie has been and is all of these.

The major's character showed early while playing football for his high school in Reidsville, N.C. After breaking two legs, he was told by a bone specialist that he would never play again.

He not only played again, but was a starting halfback on the Air Force Academy eleven that made it to the 1963 Gator Bowl and pinned the only loss of the season on the Orange Bowl-bound Nebraska Cornhuskers at Lincoln.

After graduating tops in his pilot training class at Laredo AFB, Tex., he served a combat tour in Vietnam and later became an instructor in the Fighter Weapons School at Nellis AFB, Nev.

As the Vietnam War dragged on, he volunteered again for combat. Major Ritchie was granted his request in January 1972. That's when his heroics began.

After flying regular missions into the most heavily defended areas of North Vietnam, the major shot down his first MIG on May 10, 1972, while in the cockpit of the F-4 Phantom.

STEVE RITCHIE
His second "kill" came 21 days later. His third and fourth victims met their fate in a two minute dogfight over Banana Valley on July 8. Major Ritchie notched his spot in aviation history on Aug. 28 when his AIM-7 "Sparrow" found its target. He received a hero's welcome when he touched down at his home base, Udorn RTAFB, Thailand. With his fifth "kill," he became the 43rd American ace and the first and only one since the Korean War. That mission was his 339th and last in combat.

Seven get early pay increases

Seven Webb AFB airmen are wearing new stripes today after receiving early promotion to senior airman.

The quarterly "below the zone" hikes were announced Tuesday by Col. Harry A. Spannaus, wing commander, at the weekly meeting of the wing staff.

The seven were selected by a wing board headed by Lt. Col. Stanley C. Hanson, deputy commander for resource management. They were also screened by their various squadrons before they were nominated to the wing board.

The promoted airmen first class are: Frederick C. Bowman of the 3389th Flying Training Squadron; Thomas R. Brown of Student Squadron; Charles R. Chapple of Air Base Group; Timothy M. Donovan of Supply Squadron; Jimmy W. Jennings of Civil Engineering Squadron; Alfred Joseph of Communications Squadron; and William R. Palmer of Field Maintenance Squadron.

COL. ROY D. DAYTON TO RETIRE

Colonel to spend time in Hawaii, Angel fire

After he retires from the Air Force next week, Col. Roy D. Dayton and his wife plan to divide their time between homes in Hawaii, a condominium at Angel Fire, N.M., a new home he will build in the Ft. Worth-Dallas area and a 32-foot motor home in which to tour the vacation spots.

The 42-year-old colonel has served as deputy commander for maintenance at Webb AFB since May. Prior to that he was deputy commander for Resource Management, wing executive officer and inspector.

Beginning his military career in the enlisted ranks, Colonel Dayton entered aviation cadet training a year later. He received his commission and navigator rating first and then completed pilot training in 1959.

In Southeast Asia during the Vietnam conflict he implemented the 5th Psychological Operations Squadron and flew 233 psychological warfare missions. He has more than 5,000 hours in various types of aircraft as a pilot and about 1,400 hours as a navigator.

Prior to coming to Webb, Colonel Dayton spent about five years on the operations staff at Pacific Air Forces (PACAF) headquarters at Hickam AFB, Hawaii. He was chief of standardization and evaluation as well as air crew training for 18 different types and models of aircraft.

While in Hawaii he attended courses during off-duty time which enabled him to obtain his bachelor's degree in business management from Chaminate College of Honolulu in 1973. Other courses of study he has completed include the Squadron Officers School and Air Command and Staff College in residence as well as the Air War College seminar course.

His hometown was Myrtle Point, Ore., and his wife, Johnnie Sue, is from Lubbock.

KNOW YOUR FOOD

YOUR FAMILY NEEDS ALL 4 BASIC FOODS DAILY

1. Meat, Fish, & Poultry
2. Fruits and Vegetables
3. Dairy Products
4. Bread, Cereal Products

MEAT GROUP

Principal nutrients in food are proteins (amino acids), fats, carbohydrates (sugars and starches), vitamins, minerals and water. Protein is made up of amino acids, which are put together as important building blocks of body tissues. The main structural units of the body are the many different protein molecules that the body makes from the amino acids it has obtained from the proteins of foods.

Major sources of protein are the Meat Group and its alternates. Foods included are: beef; veal; lamb; pork; variety meats, such as liver, heart, kidney; poultry; eggs; fish and shellfish; alternates — dry beans, dry peas, lentils, nuts, peanuts and peanut butter. Foods in the Meat Group contribute the protein, which is needed for the repair of body tissues — muscle, organs, blood, skin and hair. These foods also provide iron, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin.

Two or more servings of protein foods should be eaten every day. Count as 1 serving: 2 to 3 ounces (not including bone weight) cooked lean meat, poultry or fish. Count as alternates for 1 serving of meat, poultry or fish: 2 eggs; 1 cup cooked dry beans, dry peas or lentils; or 4 tablespoons of peanut butter.

Animal proteins are considered high quality while proteins from vegetables, grains and nuts are generally considered lesser quality. This lesser quality can be upgraded so that sufficient quantity of all essential amino acids is provided to the body. This can be done by combining a little animal protein with the lesser quality protein. For example: dry beans with cheese or a little meat; peanut butter sandwich with a glass of milk. However, in proper combinations, lesser quality proteins can be used as the only protein source. For example, beans with corn tortillas.

Atomic extortion plotted in novel

The possibility of a theft of nuclear material and subsequent creation of an atomic bomb by a clandestine group has been a matter of national concern lately. Could it happen? Could it be stopped? Could it be prevented? It is to be hoped the current concern will prevent the possibility.

Meanwhile, Leonard Sanders has put together a thriller based on the frightening idea that it could happen. His work involves an international, super-secret group that finances the theft of materials and construction of the bomb as part of an elaborate extortion plot.

The plan involves detonating a bomb assembled in a major Caribbean island city and then telling the United States government that a second bomb will be exploded in a major American city unless demands are met.

The scheme is complicated by a revolution under way on the island nation and fighting which has reached a peak in the city where the bomb is to be detonated.

A former American soldier of fortune-type, whose latest venture is playing right-hand man to the island's dictator, is the key man in the plot. The United States hopes to use him to find the bomb and keep it from being detonated. First, the war has to be stopped — a ticklish problem.

There are a few flaws in the basic premise of the book, such as having to accept the position that a ship believed carrying the bomb makings from Lisbon to the island can't be stopped because of potential "international repercussions."

But that and one or two other far-fetched suggestions aside, this is the latest fodder for a current craving for thrillers, and it is a story well-written and one that can be easily enjoyed.

Have you ever wanted to be able to just get inside someone's head and make them do the "right" thing? Ian Wallace has written a science fiction book titled "Pan Sagittarius" in which "Pan" gets such an opportunity.

Working with several different people in situations that are tantalizingly familiar, Pan tries to influence the mind of an individual at the critical moment without over-correcting and destroying the person's individuality.

It is more difficult than one might think. Follow Pan through his efforts to master this intricate business.

The science fiction field has been producing an increasing number of books dealing with the inner space of the mind.

Texas wants money for handicapped

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — This state will have to make higher payments to a Texas institution to care for handicapped children from Louisiana although a federal judge says they shouldn't even be there.

The Dyer Vocational Training Center of Leona, Tex., told the state to come up with more money or take back the children — about 100 of them.

Dr. Thomas Clausen, in charge of placement under the Louisiana Exceptional Children's Act, said he approved the $260 increase to $860 a month.

However, the higher rates have not yet been approved by the State Division of Family Services, which refers children to the Dyer facility under a different program.

U.S. District Judge Alvin Rubin of New Orleans ruled July 26 there is evidence the Dyer center does not provide adequate treatment for its children although treatment appears to be humane.

Rubin said no more Louisiana children should be sent to Dyer, and those already there should be removed as soon as possible.

He instructed Louisiana officials to present a plan to remove the children.

Rubin noted that he did not intend to require the state to develop an entirely new system of facilities for the children, but said he would insist they receive proper treatment.

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Patrick Curley, an 80-year-old retired subway motorman, won a car in a fund-raising raffle at a high school here, but he had no use for it.

During 45 years of driving subway trains in New York City, Curley never learned how to drive an automobile.

"I wish I won it 30 or 40 years ago," he said. "I'm too old now to fool around with that kind of car."

He arranged to sell the car.

Crime, punishment

with Marj Carpenter

"Would you watch my tote bag and packages for a few minutes? I've watched them all day long," a sweet-looking grandmotherly type said to me at Terminal Sunday afternoon.

"Certainly," I said, "What is the trouble?" I was surprised because most people rush into the airport barely in time to board their flight.

"Well, I missed my morning flight," she stated, "and the people who had brought me to the plane were already gone. I thought I would check my parcels, but there are no lockers. So I've been clutching and carrying them all day."

I told her I'd be glad to watch them and she went away for a while. When she returned, she began to ask questions about crime in West Texas towns.

"I'm on my way to Arizona," she related. "My name is Myrtle Critchfield. I have a daughter that lives in Arizona and I'm thinking seriously about moving to a retirement area near here."

She continued her tale, "I'm from California. I've lived most of my life in San Francisco and Los Angeles, but you just can't live out there anymore."

I looked blank and said, "I went to San Francisco last summer and it was beautiful."

"Oh yes, she said, it's beautiful. But you're not safe on the streets." I thought — what am I doing defending California?

She sat there a moment quietly and then said, "I'd lived in the same neighborhood in Los Angeles for a long time. I was always going down the street to this same little store. I did for years. And then one night, I got hit in the head."

I said again, "You got hit in the head?"

"Yes," she answered quietly. I cashed a check and without thinking much about it, I just stuffed the bills in my purse. I had my little sack of groceries and was walking home and apparently this fellow followed me out of the store."

"Well," she continued, "when we got to the darkest part of the block, out of the corner of my eye, I saw this pipe coming down at me." She shuddered in recalling the incident. "I woke up in the hospital. The police told me that when these people need money for narcotics, they just have to have money right now."

"It's hard to understand," she said. "I've never hurt anybody. All I want is a place to live where I can go out in the yard and keep a garden and go to the store if I feel like it. In recent weeks, I have spent so much of my time looking over my shoulder."

Then she added, "In my short visit to West Texas, I find your towns fairly free of crime. My friends were trying to tell me how much crime you have, but it's not much compared to Los Angeles."

"I don't know about here, but out there if they catch them, they just turn them loose. They give them probation or put them on welfare or babble about their rights. When are we going to start worrying about the rights of the law-abiding citizen again?"

"It's frightening to think that we have become a country where you aren't safe going from your house to the store and back. I hope I find a place," she ended.

She gathered her packages and went over to the security area to clear for her flight.

I sat waiting for my son to arrive on the next flight, and thinking about her words.

As she went out the door toward her plane, she turned

Snyder man

suffers burns

SNYDER — A Snyder resident, Bobby Frank Roemisch, 44, was taken to a Dallas hospital after he had been badly burned here Friday.

A backhoe he was operating struck a gas line, starting a flash fire. The mishap occurred 25 miles northwest of Snyder. Roemisch is employed by Holder Construction Co. He sustained second and third degree burns over more than 50 per cent of his body.

Mule, oldest rider lead race

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The Great American Horse Race, 55 saddlesore riders and their well-worn mounts, is approaching Reno — led by a mule being ridden by the oldest man in the race.

Viril Norton, 60, of San Jose, Calif., astride the big old mule, was in the lead Friday. Close behind him were Juel Ashley, of Ada, Okla., and 18-year-old Valerie Briggs of Corvallis, Ore.

The riders are expected here Sunday to start the last leg of their 3,200-mile cross-country ride to Sacramento, Calif. The trek began May 31 in Frankfort, N.Y., with 97 riders, 168 animals and a support crew of 320 persons. Almost half of the riders have dropped out.

The entrants, about half of them female, quit jobs and headed west to take a shot at the $25,000 first prize. The youngest is Dan Dailey, 17, of Calaway, N.Y. "It looks like only the winner will make any money on the deal," said advance man Ron Coppage. "It's costing each entrant about $10,000 to make the trip and second place only pays $7,500."

The riders are averaging about 35 miles a day. They camp each night, make a campfire and rest up for the next day's ride, which starts at 6 a.m.

The first days away

One of the great events in a child's life, after learning to talk, is learning to read and write. Partly because it involves going to school.

There are always a few who cry at first, a few that hide behind skirts or balk at the idea of leaving home without mama. But most children's fears are fears of the unknown and quickly dissipate as the child gets used to the new faces and different surroundings.

Often if a mother is anxious about the first day at school, the feeling will unconsciously pass to the child although the mother may do nothing overt to communicate her anxiety.

"It doesn't matter what you say, it's how you feel," said one educator.

Regardless of the initial qualms, only in rare instances do anxieties last. New problems with school may develop again in high school or college, the difficult years for many parents, but not the grade school years.

Enjoy it while they are just beginning.

The system is still too new to bore them and they are still too little to buck the system.

Kempers celebrate 50th year Pat Adams honored

MR. AND MRS. J. J. KEMPER — 1976

The children of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kemper; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence (Joyce) Ditto, Mr. and Mrs. Jack (Marvelene) Mundell, Mr. and Mrs. Hershell (Lou Ellen) Romine, will honor their parents with a reception in observance of the couples 50th wedding anniversary, Sunday, August 29, 1976 from 2 to 5 p.m. in the honored couple's home in Ackerly, Texas.

The former Grace Lee Bayes, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Bayes of Knott, Tex. married her husband, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kemper, also of Knott, on Sunday, August 29, 1926. They were married in the home of a preacher, Brother Walters, who lived on 10th Street.

The couple left two days later for Los Angeles, Calif. with some friends, the Henry Brownings, also of Knott and Big Spring. After one year and four months in California they moved back to the Knott area and began farming. After retiring in 1967, the Kempers moved into Big Spring and lived there for eight years before moving to their present home in Ackerly, Texas.

Although a farmer most of his life, Mr. Kemper worked for Howard County in 1926, just before he married. He moved the first oil rig boiler to the Forsan oil fields, then the Fred Hyer Oil Co. The boiler came into town by train. Mr. Kemper hooked on to then the boiler, which was already on wheels, with a County Catapillar and pulled it to the Forsan oil patch. The boiler furnished the steam to power the drilling action on the "sputter rigs" as they were called back then. They were equipped with a cable which ran through a pulley at the top of the rig and the drill moved up and down much like a churning action. There were no rotary drill stems as there are today.

The wedding was delayed for a couple of hours because of an incident with Mr. Kemper's car. He wanted his car nice and clean and proceeded to the local car wash, (an earth tank). He drove the car up as close to the water's edge as possible and by the time the car was washed, the surrounding area became so wet and slippery, the car slipped into the tank. Mr. Kemper borrowed a team of mules to pull the car out, but the motor was wet and the car would not start.

Giving up on getting his car to run, he borrowed a car from Bog Turner. What was the bride-to-be doing all this time? Waiting at home, and being teased by her family that the groom was not going to show. She didn't lose faith, however, and he finally arrived, two hours late but none the worse for wear and the wedding took place as planned.

A floral arrangement will decorate the reception table from which the granddaughters will serve. Registering guests will be Jan Romine, Tulsa, Oklahoma and Toni Mundell, Big Spring, Texas, granddaughters of the couple.

Serving will be Mrs. Larry (Sue) Eaton, Gravette, Arkansas, Mrs. Donnie (Teresa) Richter, Big Spring, Mrs. Ronnie (D'Aun) Taylor, Elbow, Texas, Mrs. Bill (Phyllis) Romine, Gravette, Arkansas, Mrs. Mike (Debbie) Mundell, Odessa, Texas, Mrs. Kyle (Valencia) Ditto, Big Spring, and Mrs. Steve (Beverly) Mundell, also of Big Spring, granddaughters-in-law of the Kempers. All friends and acquaintances are invited to attend.

Miss Pat Adams, bride-elect of Dick Snyder, was honored with a bridal tea on Saturday afternoon, August 21 in the home of Mrs. J.C. Pickle, 415 Hillside Drive.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Bill Bradford, Mrs. Ernie Boyd, Mrs. David Taylor, Mrs. Bill Irwin, Mrs. Sherman Smith, Mrs. Mabel Norrell and Miss Peggy Irwin.

Miss Adams greeted guests in a long floral dress complemented by a yellow daisy corsage. Her mother, Mrs. Bennie Adams of Mt. Pleasant, S.C., and the prospective groom's mother, Mrs. R.H. Snyder of Big Spring, were presented with white daisy corsages.

The tea table held a branched silver candleburn decorated with nosegay arrangements of orange tipped carnations and baby's breath (gypsophila) with yellow ribbons. Miss Irwin served orange punch from an Early American cut-glass bowl. Other accessories were of crystal and silver.

Miss Adams is a former resident of Big Spring. The marriage vows will be exchanged on September 4 in Kerrville, where the couple will live.

MR. AND MRS. RASKY — Sandor Rasky and his bride, the former Elisabeth Ritter, a pair of 40-inch tall Hungarian circus performers, cut their wedding cake on Thursday in Oakland, Calif., after they were married in the Oakland Coliseum Arena where Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Baily Circus is performing.

Transsexual should lose to 17-year-old

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Leah Antonoplis says the best way for Renee Richards to gain acceptance from other women tennis players is probably to lose a match to someone like her.

Miss Antonoplis, 17, of Glendora, Calif., was slated to face the controversial eye surgeon from Newport Beach, Calif., who last year underwent a sex change operation, in today's semifinals of the Tennis Week Open.

"I can't say for sure, but Dr. Richards would probably gain more acceptance if she lost to a player like me," said Miss Antonoplis, a high school senior.

"Then she won't be known as a world beater."

Miss Antonoplis said she accepted Dr. Richards as a woman "tennis-wise, but not physically. She was a man for 40 years. There's no way she could deteriorate that fast muscle-wise."

MRS. JOHN D. EVANS

Dodson, Evans vows exchanged

Barbara Gay Dodson became the bride of John D. Evans during a double ring ceremony Wednesday evening in the First Church of God of Big Spring. The church pastor, Rev. Alan Tinnerstret officiated.

Mother of the bride is Mrs. Gerry Robertson of Big Spring. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Evans of Houston.

The bride wore a full-length gown of pale blue organza, trimmed with white lace. Her veil was of blue net, centered with pearl clusters. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, stemmed with streamers of white satin ribbons.

The maid of honor was Mrs. Tommy Williams sister of the bride. Her floor-length gown was of blue dotted Swiss with matching cape trimmed in white lace.

Ringbearer was Miss

Tiffany Sue Jackson, daughter of the bride. She was attired in a long gown of white satin covered with lace.

Best man was Michael McGee. Serving as usher was Eddie Williams, Michael Williams registered guests. Robert Williams nephew of the bride served as her escort.

Margaret McGee, accompanied by her brother Michael McGee, sang "It's only just begun."

Organist was Mary Jones. A reception was held at the church fellowship hall. Cake and punch were served. Serving were Mrs. Nolan Stanley, Mrs. Ed Fickling, Mrs. Pat Stanley. Approximately forty people attended.

Mr. Evans is employed with Prudential Life Insurance Co., and Mrs. Evans is employed as a secretary at the Big Spring State Hospital.

After a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev., the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

Dear Abby

Tell boy's parents about stolen money

DEAR ABBY: Here's a tough one for you: Some friends came to visit my husband and me the other afternoon, and they brought their 13-year-old son along to play with our son, who's about the same age. After they left, our son discovered that a $5 bill was missing from his desk drawer. He said he was sure it was there that morning. We are almost positive this visiting boy took it, but of course we can't be sure unless he confesses. Should we mention this to the boy's parents? There is more than just the $5 loss involved here. If the boy is a thief, I think his parents ought to know, don't you? What should we do?

DEBATING

DEAR DEBATING: If he were your son, wouldn't you want to know that he was suspect? After a thorough search for the $5 has been made to preclude the possibility of a false accusation, I think the boy should be questioned. And in the absence of any real proof that he is guilty, he should be presumed innocent.

DEAR ABBY: I have a son-in-law who is so money-hungry it's positively disgusting! Two days after my husband died, he went to our lawyer and asked, "How much is there in it for me?" Every time my daughter comes to visit me, she asks if I've decided what I'm going to do with my jewelry when I die, and if I have put it in writing.

My daughter changed completely after she married this nut. He's a schoolteacher, and he either hypnotized her or brainwashed her. She never lacked for a thing before she was married. What on earth causes such greed? I hardly know how to handle it.

DISGUSTED IN ARIZONA

DEAR DISGUSTED: In your daughter's case, it obviously wasn't poverty. And if I were you, I wouldn't go boating or mountain-climbing with this pair. And if they invite you over for dinner, better take a food-taster along.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about a widow who makes a practice of calling on bereaved families every evening when close friends and relatives come to pay their respects? This woman has little more than a nodding acquaintance with most of these people, but she shows up night after night as long as others come.

She probably figures it's a good way to get into homes where she'd never be invited. Also, there are always plenty of good eats and people to socialize with, and she likes to talk.

Since it's kind of an open house for a week after the funeral, I don't suppose anybody can keep her out, but it seems to me that there should be some way to keep people like her from taking advantage of other people's sorrow.

This is a small town, so please don't say where this letter is from.

FRIEND OF THE FAMILY

DEAR FRIEND: I know of no way to turn away even a nodding acquaintance who comes to pay a condolence call, but anyone who is so desperate for company and a cup of tea has my sympathy.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FOURTEEN AND WORRIED STIFF": Tell your mother today. I promise you she will not kick you out of the house. If you just can't tell her, please send me your name and address. I think I can help you.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Howard College expands data processing program

Howard College has recently updated its computer center to include one of NCR's latest Century 101 Computers, according to Jim Rackley, data processing instructor. The computer will enable the curriculum and courses to be updated accordingly to allow students an expanded employment opportunity.

The computer field is one of the newest and fastest growing of the job market, according to Rackley. Students completing the two computer program courses at HC can expect careers rewarding both personally and financially. The job market in the computer field is expanding rapidly with prospects for a promising outlook for the foreseeable future, said Rackley.

Students at Howard College may choose between the one semester course in keypunch for quick access to the job market, or they may choose the two year computer programming course of study.

Rackley is the instructor in the data processing center at Howard College. He has been with Howard College since Aug. 23.

He and his family came to Big Spring from Vernon, where he was employed as director of data processing at Wilberger General Hospital. Rackley and his wife, Alice, have four children. They are Beth, 14, Robert 12, Kyle, 10, and Toby, 7. The family makes their home in the Coahoma district.

Rackley is the only instructor in the HC data processing department at present. He lists his duties as teaching and promoting the Man loses car, temper

DALLAS (AP) — Bill Freeman had an automobile accident last fall. Although the mishap wasn't his fault and he was carrying good insurance coverage, Freeman lost his car, $3,000 and his temper.

The man who hit Freeman did not have insurance. His own car was barely scratched and his only expense was a ticket for causing the accident, which cost him a total of $25.

"The disgusting thing is that it isn't unusual," Freeman says a man driving a 5-year-old Mercedes ran a red light and slammed into his 3-week-old Chevrolet.

"My only consolation was that if he was driving a fancy car like that (Mercedes), he was bound to have insurance. How naive I was."

Two days later, Freeman learned the bad news from his insurance company. The man who hit him had no insurance. He also was unemployed.

First Freeman had to pay the $100 deductible for his own car's repair. He is a salesman, requiring a car for his work, so rental for the two weeks it took to fix his car cost him $200.

When he picked up his car, it ran well for three days and then sort of fell apart. Every red light in the car turned on. He had to have it towed away.

"I went back to the body shop. They said the car ran when I left, that it wasn't their fault and they refused to pay," he said.

He took off work and took his problem to small claims court.

students are invited to attend. The Hi-Y and its sister club, the Tri-Hi-Y, are for Howard County high school students.

The purpose of the clubs is to lead students to a better understanding of Texas government. Since doing is the best method of learning, preparation of bills and trials are taught and used at state conferences, a member said.

The Texas Congress halls and Supreme Court are used and students act as attorneys, judges and legislators to create realistic models of government.

The Y clubs also sponsor ski trips to Ruidosa, dances and a spring trip. Service projects are performed monthly.

Satisfaction is lowest

According to one researcher, marital satisfaction is lowest for couples when their children reach and progress through the school-age years. Couples indicated a decrease in satisfaction with finances, task performance, companionship, sex and relationships with children. The adolescent stage was considered to be the most problematic, reports Debby Johnson, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Store unwashed

Berries and cherries keep best when stored unwashed in the refrigerator in a shallow container to allow air to circulate around the fruit, advises Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Should be washable

Fabric-stuffed dolls, animals and pillows for infants should be washable. Check for holes or weak seams and repair them before laundering. These kinds of toys absorb much moisture during washing and require a long drying time. If items are machine dryable, use the highest drying temperature setting. Stop the appliance occasionally and shake toys to redistribute stuffing — the items will then dry more evenly, says Mrs. Linda McCormack, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Knee-highs popular

Knee-high socks are popular for the young set. Favorites are bright space dye patterns, ethnic embroidered looks and heat-transferred prints, reports Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Kids may benefit

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — The children may benefit when their mother is happily employed, says Lynda Harriman, University of Illinois Extension family life specialist. As the quantity of time the mother spends with her family decreases, the quality — or how the time is used — may increase as she strives to compensate for her absence during the day. Thus, the employed mother may be involved in more activities with her children than a mother who is always home, Mrs. Harriman says.

Crowd jeers, taunts girl into jumping

SEATTLE (AP) — "No Jump Julie" finally jumped, not from the Tacoma Narrows Bridge but from a 45-foot platform at a county fair. She is in the intensive care unit of a hospital today. Julie Kellum, 24, three times has gone to the Tacoma Narrows Bridge, saying she would leap into the swirling channel below. In the 24 years since the 202-foot-high bridge was built, 32 persons have jumped from it. All died.

Miss Kellum's first attempt, which attracted headline attention last spring, was stymied by a morbidly curious crowd. The second was thwarted by poor weather, and the third was prevented by police.

On Wednesday night, Miss Kellum, a part-time cocktail waitress from Port Angeles, Wash., climbed to the top of a 45-foot pole at the Kitsap County Fair. Taunted by the crowd's cries of "No Jump," she leapt toward a 10-foot-deep water tank.

"She told me, 'I'm tired of being called No-Jump Julie.' She ran off the spar instead of dropping. She overshot the tank," said Stan Johnson, manager of the fair at Bremerton.

Miss Kellum struck one side of the 10-by-12-foot tank and bounced off into the water, suffering a broken leg and other undetermined injuries. Johnson said the crowd continued to shout and jeer after Miss Kellum hit the water.

She was reported in fair condition today at Harrison Memorial Hospital's intensive care ward.

"Some people have to learn the hard way," Johnson said.

Everything you always wanted to know about everything.
Volume 1, only 49¢.

Introducing the Centennial Edition of Funk & Wagnall's New Encyclopedia.

The best way to get information is to go to the source. And that's exactly what Funk & Wagnall's has been doing since 1876, when they began publishing reference books.

Their sources for this new Centennial Edition include hundreds and hundreds of prominent people. Each a recognized authority in his, or her, field of knowledge. Many with Nobel and Pulitzer prizes to their credit. And while they're too numerous to list here, you'll find they're all listed in Volume 1.

The result is a comprehensive, accurate home reference center with over 193,000 indexed subjects. (That's as many subjects as encyclopedias costing hundreds of dollars more contain.)

And each article is written in clear, simple English that gets to the heart of the subject without going over your head.

Try Volume 1 for 49¢. It'll sell you the rest of the set.

To introduce you to Funk & Wagnall's New Encyclopedia, we sell Volume 1 at the remarkable introductory price of only 49¢.

So instead of going through a salesman's sales pitch, you just go through Volume 1 and let it convince you to buy the rest of the set a volume or two a week.

That way, you find out if it's the right encyclopedia for your family before you pay for the whole set. And you save two ways. First, because Funk & Wagnall's sells their encyclopedias through supermarkets instead of through salesmen there's no commission to pay. Second, because supermarkets can sell in great volume, Funk & Wagnall's can afford to charge you less per volume.

So stop by the Funk & Wagnall's display in any of our supermarkets and pick up Volume 1. It's one of the smartest purchases you can make these days.

Buy Vols. 2 & 3 and get a free dictionary in the bargain.

You get Funk & Wagnall's 2-volume Standard Desk Dictionary free when you purchase Vols. 2 and 3 of the Encyclopedia.

Going home

By SHERRY BOSWORTH

I'm going home to Appalachia where I came from. Some of my fondest memories as a child were given their birth in "them thar hills."

When I was a little girl, my 25 cousins and I would make our Sunday afternoon playhouse in the pine thicket on Granny's "back 40." The tangy scent of pine still arouses clusters of stick dolls, tepees made of pine needles, and country cousins.

On the porch of the original, but long since abandoned log cabin homestead was stored a cotton, hand picked cotton, piled ten feet into the air. The huge piles of cotton were waiting until the day of rest was over, then they would be baled. With pointed index fingers, squinted eyes, and a tight-lipped mouth, Moms and dads warned us, "Don't ever go near the cotton piles." But, of course, we did. No pillow fight could ever match the dexterity we accomplished in "cotton fights." Cotton filled the air like snow on Christmas eve, until one piercing scream of delight was picked up by a Mom's cocked ear.

By SHERRY BOSWORTH
I'm going home to Appalachia where I came from. Some of my fondest memories as a child were given their birth in "them thar hills."

When I was a little girl, my 25 cousins and I would make our Sunday afternoon playhouse in the pine thicket on Granny's "back 40." The tangy scent of pine still arouses clusters of stick dolls, tepees made of pine needles, and country cousins.

On the porch of the original, but long since abandoned log cabin homestead was stored cotton, hand picked cotton, piled ten feet into the air. The huge piles of cotton were waiting until the day of rest was over, then they would be baled. With pointed index fingers, squinted eyes, and tight-lipped mouths, Moms and dads warned us, "Don't ever go near the cotton piles." But, of course, we did. No pillow fight could ever match the dexterity we accomplished in "cotton fights." Cotton filled the air like snow on Christmas eve, until one piercing scream of delight was picked up by a Mom's cocked ear.

It was an alarming sound in the earlier days to hear a bell ringing in the dead of night, my Granny Freeman told me. The bell in her front yard is 150 years old. It is in its third generation in the Freeman family. This was the means by which neighbors who sometimes lived miles apart summoned friends when help was needed.

The clapper was removed to keep me and my cousins from ringing the bell. But Granny says there was a time when it called the men in from the fields when dinner was ready. It rang the old year out and the new year in. It called for help, summoning the neighbors with its alarming clang. People didn't live back then as close as they do now. When a neighbor died, the bell rang.

Granny Freeman, who will be 80 her next birthday, has lived 65 years in three houses in the same yard. The bell is a symbolic family treasure. It is a piece of metal that has been quieted through the years.

But, if it could talk, it would tell some great stories of pioneer life in Appalachia. It had eyes, it would have seen the women working in their homes, the men in the fields plowing from sunup to sundown digging out a life for their family.

If it had ears it would have heard the cries of newborn babies, tears shed for the dead, heard the laughter of children playing in the yard, the distant echo of men hunting in the woods, and dogs baying at their prey.

Granny spent most of her time cooking on an old wooden stove. She used to have so much company that she would cook fifty pounds of flour in three days.

I'm going home. I bid farewell to the prairie lands of West Texas and to those my friends who stay behind.

I'm going home where life remains much the same today as I remember it as a child. I'm going home to cook for company, to hear children playing in the yard, and to watch men dig out their living for their family in the plowed earth.

I'm going home to climb that mountain and hear the Floor care

A bit of Bicentennial perspective on floor care: Early American settlers commonly had dirt or clay floors and covered them with straw, says Dorothy Humphrey, Johnson Wax consumer information specialist.

When one layer of straw became soiled, more was added without regard to what we would now consider sanitary precautions. When the whole business finally got too deep, it was removed and the process started anew, she said.

Arnold's return from Northwest

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Wash accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Arnold of Sweetwater have just returned from a thirty-one day tour of the northern United States. They traveled by car to Van Couver, British Columbia. There they boarded The Sun Princess Ship. They were on board this ship for a thousand miles. Their first Port O'Call was Ketchikan, Alaska. They stayed there for a few days and their next Port O'Call was Juneau, Alaska. They left the ship at Skagway, Alaska where they took the narrow Gauge Railway train across to White House. There they boarded a bus to Alas-Kon Highway to Fairbanks Alaska. There they saw the new pipe line that is being built all across the United States. Then they traveled by railway train to Anchorage, Alaska where they saw the Great Glacier. They then flew to Seattle, Washington, then on to Van Couver, B.C. where they left their car. Then they took the upper route to Idaho, Salt Lake City, Utah and to the Wash's cabin at Lake Vallecito, Colorado where they rested for a few days before continuing on their trip. Then they drove to Hobbs, N.M., where they visited with Mrs. Arnold's sons and the families Harold and Delano Shaw. The boys are graduates of Forsan High School. They then drove to Forsan on August

What to call in-laws poses problems for some COLLEGE STATION — What to call their parents-in-law after marriage makes some couples highly ill-at-ease. Debby Johnson, a family life education specialist, says.

 "The term, 'Mr.' or 'Mrs.' used before marriage may continue, or another means of address may be substituted. But some simply do not know what to call their parents-in-law — so they do not call them anything," she said.
 Miss Johnson is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Penalties levied for tickets

Insurance companies profiting from regulation?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The West Texan was tooling down the desert highway, making 65 miles an hour, when two red lights started to blink at him from his rear view mirror.

He had seen their like before. Twice, in fact, in the past three years.

This time, they meant more than just a speeding ticket.

A few months later, his insurance agent gave him the bad news from over-70 friendly folks in Hartford. His car insurance would not be renewed this year.

In vain, he sought a company that would insure him. At last, he obtained a policy, but as an "assigned risk" with only liability coverage. Where he had paid only a 15 per cent penalty on his old policy because of two speeding tickets, he now paid a 45 per cent "surcharge" for the three tickets.

Needless to say, the man was most unhappy.

The 55 m.p.h. speed limit, too slow for travel in Texas' wide open spaces, is making the insurance companies rich, he thought.

Many Texans would agree. Last session a band of West Texas legislators fought unsuccessfully to prohibit insurance penalties for speeding between 55 and the old 70 m.p.h. limit. There might be a bill next year to keep such tickets from appearing on Department of Public Safety records—the source of the insurance companies' information.

Insurance companies say that far from getting rich, they're paying out more for losses than they're taking in.

"Assigned risk does not carry its own load... Those surcharges have not been a source of significantly increased revenue for the insurance business," says David Irons of the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office.

Nobody can say for sure, however, how much additional income the 55 to 70 speeding tickets have brought the companies.

"It's hard to separate over-55 tickets from over-70 tickets," said Gaylon Daniel, State Insurance Board statistician.

Daniel said penalties for accidents and traffic violations increased total premiums last year by 1.59 per cent for drivers who obtained coverage through normal channels and by 22.4 per cent for assigned risks.

The surcharges amounted to 1.35 per cent for normal risks and 21.28 per cent for assigned risks in 1973, the last year of the 70 m.p.h. top limit.

The Department of Public Safety also says its computers aren't programmed to regurgitate that kind of data.

What it can say is that 381,816 speeding tickets were issued on the highways between January and June, an 18 per cent jump from the same period of 1975. Only 150,053 such tickets were issued in the first six months of 1973—the last year before the new limits took effect.

So it's clear that the 55 m.p.h. limit—breaking it, that is—has more than doubled the number of speeding tickets Texans receive.

And in many cases, that has meant trouble with their insurance companies. Worse trouble than higher premiums. Like refusal to renew a policy.

It comes at a time when, for a number of reasons, insurance companies are balky about insuring automobiles.

The number of cars placed in the assigned risk pool in the first seven months of this year was 80,463—a 60 per cent increase over the same period of 1975.

"My judgment is that they are coming in here because the companies have tightened up on their underwriting and have been more selective ... I don't think the change in the speed law had very much to do with the increase in these assignments," said H.L. Begeman, director of the pool.

The pool divides up drivers who the companies have labeled poor risks so that no one firm has to cover more than its fair share of them. It provides only liability insurance, at normal rates. But surcharges amounting to 15 per cent of the basic premium are added for every traffic violation—from running a stop sign to speeding.

Daniel said he could understand the companies sending a man with three tickets in three years to the assigned risk pool.

"I would say three speeding tickets in three years would be enough for the underwriters now ... A person with three tickets is more apt to have an accident," he said.

The 55 m.p.h. speed limit and the insurance availability crunch have produced some interesting responses.

Ken Gilmore, a Lubbock agent and a director of the Texas Association of Insurance Agents, said the situation is making more business for lawyers.

"I am finding more and more people who turn over every ticket they get to an attorney either to keep their record clean or clean enough to stay insured," Gilmore said. Dick Marks, president of the Houston Association of Insurance Agents, said the companies are starting to catch on to the fact that Citizens Band radios enable drivers to speed with impunity.

"I was told by an insurance company underwriter that they are going to seriously consider non-renewing anyone who has a history of maybe one ticket a year for speeding and he buys a CB radio and his tickets stop," Marks said.

UNDERCOVER BUST—Jeff Gyde, 11, of Oak Harbor, was arrested by agents of the Department of Natural Resources wildlife division for selling crayfish, as bait, without a license. New security service opens

A new security service recently opened in Big Spring, according to its owner, Yndalecio S. Gonzales Jr.

Titled the Uvalde Security Service, the business is headquartered at 403 Lancaster. The security service here is a second such business for Gonzales, who owns a security agency in Uvalde.

Supervisor in the Big Spring branch of the Uvalde Security Agency is Glenn Thompson. Thompson has been working with the agency in Uvalde, but will now make his home in Big Spring.

According to Gonzales, the service in Uvalde has three officers working at present. The agency provides security services for 50 businesses in Uvalde, a number Gonzales hopes to match here.

Security officers will be armed and uniformed, according to Gonzales. He added that anyone with the service must attend a training program before working in the field. The number Gonzales will employ in Big Spring will depend on the number of businesses serviced.

Pony express faster than today's mail?

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) - The Pony Express was faster than today's U.S. Postal Service, says federal Judge Ben Dawkins. And he has the postmarks to prove it.

The postal service took six days last month to deliver a letter to his office from a building three blocks away, Dawkins said in a letter to postal officials Thursday.

In six days on the Pony Express, a letter could have gone from Fort Kearney, Neb., to Fort Churchill, Nev., he said.

Dawkins said delivery from one federal building office to another routinely takes three to four days here, making a private delivery service necessary.

WHAT'S THE WORD, DOC? — Dr. Allan Frank, 33, examines dog belonging to an Uptown youth in Chicago. In honor of the Class of '77

By WILFRID M. CALNAN
Director, Howard County Family Service Center

Last semester a teacher who is a Future Homemakers sponsor asked me to send her some material on adolescence for her members to use in preparing for a state convention. I want to share "some thoughts about adolescence" as I salute the high school class of '77.

As I view adolescence, I see it as a normal stage in the life process in which the individual is maturing so that he might take his rightful place as a member of society. Only in contemporary times has adolescence been truly recognized and identified as a specific growth period invested with purpose and function.

It is important to consider the various components of adolescence so that we can better see the whole. We need to see these components as inter-related. These components I would list as physical, emotional, and intellectual.

Physical maturation that comes with adolescence confers upon the individual the right to give, or withhold life. Compared with only a generation ago, the emerging man or woman may anticipate a significant opportunity to become the parent of a physically and intellectually healthy child and remain healthy himself or herself.

Diminution of the incidence of severe childhood diseases has enhanced the possibilities of fertility. Advances in medical science have increased the chances for healthy childbirth. At the same time, medical science has made it possible to control conception to a remarkable degree so that we can plan our families, and have children when we truly want them.

Some veils that have hitherto concealed the reasons for certain behaviors have been torn away. Likewise, certain prejudices are fading. With new understandings available and with services to help us understand ourselves, we can develop healthy emotional health. Adolescence is particularly a time to acquire this emotional health.

We can believe and know that we are loveable. The Judao-Christian heritage which is at the foundation of our country teaches us that we, as human beings, were created out of love. True self-love is not only permissible, but essential to our well-being. When we love ourselves, we are confident and secure, love others unselfishly, and respect them. In turn, we are loved and respected.

Nor do we have to be ashamed of our limitations. They are part of the gift of our life which we need to accept. The fact that we have negative feelings is not bad. It is how we handle these feelings that is important.

Everybody, for example, experiences anger. When we acknowledge "I am angry," we are getting in touch with ourselves and beginning to find a constructive expression of that anger. The new concept of human sexuality is also an aid to good emotional health. When we see sex as a complimentary function of male and female, life improves. No longer does one sex dominate the other. There is the possibility of emergence of true personhood in both male and female.

Harding Lawrence is a well-recognized corporate executive being President of Braniff International Airways. His wife, Mary Wells, has attained equal prominence in the business world, holding a seat on the New York Stock Exchange. This kind of co-equal status in marriage is a possibility that lies ahead for almost all youth.

The youth of today have the advantage of examining marriage to see what it is all about. Preparation for marriage is as live an option as preparation for a career in the business or professional world.

No generation ever had the opportunities to enhance intellectual endowments as the youth of today. Virtual eradication of major illnesses makes possible full-fledged development of our intellectual powers. The knowledge explosion makes available knowledge beyond all previous imagining. Despite the current recession, there are still more university scholarships available than is generally realized. Men and women of tomorrow will have equal status as doctors, engineers, attorneys, business executives and administrators.

Youth of today have the advantages of having the present and almost a limitless future. The prospect is hard work, study and enjoyment.

Carter worker speaks in Odessa
