Hijackers facing murder charges

NEW YORK (AP) — The Manhattan district attorney moved formally today to bring murder charges against five Croatian nationalists whose bomb killed a police officer on the ground here while they were hijacking a passenger plane across the Atlantic.

The accused hijackers, who apparently carried out their 30-hour capture of a Trans World Airlines 727 jetliner without actually being armed, were brought to the federal courthouse in Brooklyn by the FBI this morning.

As they awaited arraignment on federal air piracy charges, an assistant from Dist. Atty. Robert Morgenthau's office filed a complaint with the U.S. marshal asking that the prisoners be turned over to local authorities to be arraigned for murder of the police officer, a capital offense.

The hijackers, who demanded and won wide publicity for their cause of Croatian separation from Yugoslavia, surrendered in Paris on Sunday and were returned to New York. They had taken over the plane by threatening to blow it up with what they said were "explosives" wired to their bodies but which turned out to be modeling clay.

The prisoners, four men and a woman, were taken into custody by the FBI at Kennedy Airport and held overnight for arraignment today in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn on air piracy charges.

The offense carries a minimum 20-year prison sentence, but if a death results from the piracy, life imprisonment can be imposed.

Paris police said that just before they gave up, the hijackers learned that a policeman was killed and three others injured in New York City while trying to dismantle a bomb they had planted in Grand Central Station in mid-Manhattan.

The leader of the hijackers said they were "proud" of what they had done.

French authorities said they had told the hijackers they would be executed if any passengers were harmed. They said they gave them a choice of being sent either to the United States or Yugoslavia.

All 53 passengers still held hostage on the hijacked plane were released unharmed, and most of them also flew back to the United States on Sunday. Thirty-five passengers had been released when the plane landed in Gander, Newfoundland, early Saturday, the second stop in the hijacking escapade.

The hijackers were identified by the FBI as Zvonko Basic, 30, his wife, Julienne, 27, and Petar Matovic, 31, all of New York City; Frane Pesut, 31, of Fairview, N.J.; and Mark Vlasic, 29, Stamford, Conn. The four men were born in Yugoslavia and Mrs. Basic is a native of Eugene, Ore., the FBI said.

Dist. Atty. Mario Merola of the Bronx said he would seek first-degree murder indictments against them from a grand jury in the policeman's death. The slaying of a police officer in the line of duty is a capital offense in New York State.

The hijacking, which spanned four nations, was the first in the United States since April 1973, and the first successful one since November 1972, before federal officials instituted tighter airport security.

A spokesman for TWA said Sunday night that officials were attempting to find out whether Mrs. Basic had been employed at one time as a stewardess for the airline.

If she were, he said she might have been aware of airport procedures that would have helped in smuggling the "explosives" — a belt the hijackers said was a bomb in a metal pot six inches in diameter wired as a makeshift detonator — onto the plane.

The involuntary odyssey from New York to Paris — with refueling stops in Montreal, Newfoundland and Iceland — began Friday night about an hour after the New York-to-Chicago flight had taken off.

In Gander, Newfoundland, the 727 was joined by a TWA 707 jet flown from New York on the hijackers' orders to guide them across the ocean. The 727 lacked navigational facilities for the flight.

On orders from the hijackers, four major U.S. newspapers had printed lengthy manifestos found in the Grand Central station locker along with the bomb. The hijackers had told authorities where to find the locker and warned that unless the documents were published, another bomb would go off in some busy spot.

Arm sticks on Viking

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The mechanical arm of the Viking 2 lander is stuck between the openings of two small laboratories, preventing, at least temporarily, the beginning of experiments to determine whether organic matter is present at the Martian landing site.

Viking project manager Jim Martin said early today that the scoop on the end of the arm had successfully picked up a sample of soil and delivered part of it to the area inside the lander where three biology experiments were to be conducted.

But as the arm moved to another area where the rest of its load was to be deposited for X-ray tests the scoop failed to rotate, stopping dead in its tracks.

The first indication of trouble came when the collecting head of the arm failed to appear in a photograph Viking had taken to show scientists that the apparatus was moving in its correct sequence. Another photo showed that Viking had completed a foot-long trench and had a soil sample in hand.

The lander is programmed to halt the moving arm whenever something goes wrong. There was no way of knowing this morning what the malady could be, and Martin said it probably would take more than a day to be certain.

The next possible step will come during the next communications link around 1 a.m. (PDT) Tuesday when scientists will send the lander an order to let them know what went wrong, probably through more photographs, Martin said.

Taking three proposals

Kissinger on way to Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Haunted by dangers of Soviet intervention, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is flying to southern Africa with three proposals for dousing the rising flames of a black-white war.

The short-term goals he has defined for himself both publicly and privately are: —To set up a negotiating forum in which Rhodesia's white rulers would arrange peacefully to transfer power to the black majority within two years.

The United States, working with a consortium of allied, commonwealth and other friendly nations, will be ready to underwrite this process with multibillion-dollar offers to guarantee Rhodesia's 270,000 whites against loss of assets and to help the six million black Rhodesians with a huge program of investment after independence.

—To organize a constitution-writing parley for the Namibian people, formerly known as South-West Africans, in which exiled as well as authorized political groups would take part. South Africa, which still rules that one-time German colony, already has accepted that the mineral-rich land can become a state by the end of 1978.

But South African Prime Minister John Vorster's government would like to hand over power to a group of its own pet tribal chiefs. The United Nations, including the United States, say the banished South West African People's Organization, SWAPO, must be allowed to participate as authentic representatives of the Namibians.

—To urge the Vorster government to recognize that its policy of apartheid, or separate racial development, is "incompatible with any concept of human dignity." Kissinger, struck by the turmoil that has swept South Africa since June with a known death toll exceeding 300, has said, "No system that leads to periodic upheavals can possibly be just — nor can it last."

He will be pressing Vorster as he has done before "to take account of the conscience of humanity even while recognizing that the process of evolutionary and peaceful change will take time."

BS aircraft about to fold?

Hangar construction topic of discussion

County Commissioners Court this morning considered repair or replacement of a house at the road department barn and granting permission for construction of a hangar at the airport.

Bill Jiles, a pilot employed by D. L. Dorland, presented the proposal for allowing construction of a metal hangar "immediately north of the Cosden (Oil & Chemical Co.) hangar."

Cosden built its own hangar and pays $120 per year for use of the county land there.

County Judge Bill Tune mentioned making a provision in the lease for the structure to become county property after a number of years.

Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas wanted to require Dorland to keep current with property tax payments on the building.

"We might be starting something here that might be pretty popular," Commissioner Ikie Rupard said. "We better go into this pretty slow and cautious."

Commissioner William B. Crooker Jr. suggested studying the provisions of the Cosden contract before establishing terms for Dorland.

Jiles also wanted authorization for installation of an aviation fuel tank. "I believe it's just a matter of time before Big Spring Aircraft folds out there," Jiles said. "For purely personal reasons, I'd rather not buy from Trans Regional Airlines."

It was proposed Dorland pay the county 3 cents for each gallon purchased with 4-per-cent shrinkage on fuel volume being allowed. These are the terms approved for fuel sales for the two fixed-base operators, Trans Regional and Big Spring Aircraft.

County Engineer Neel Barnaby pushed for a quick decision on replacement or repair of the house damaged by fire at the road department barn.

George Snowden, a road department employe had been living there and had been available for emergencies. Snowden now is commuting from a house at Lake J. B. Thomas, Barnaby said.

A prefabricated structure, mobile home and rebuilding the burned house are the alternatives being considered.

An insurance adjuster estimated repair would cost $6,500, Judge Tune said. The house was insured for $6,000 and was given a depreciated value of $5,843 by the insurance company, Judge Tune added.

In other business, the court: Heard Barnaby explain 44.8 miles of county roads had been seal-coated this summer. With some hot, dry weather, Barnaby said some dips could be paved before winter.

Learned the temporary facility being provided as a terminal to Trans Regional Airlines had been completed with all security requirements met.

Heard fencing around the airport had been improved to keep a bull from breaking through to greener grass by the runways. Barnaby mentioned County Commissioner Jack Buchanan assisting with this work.

And considered the temporary employment of Ruth Mitchel, while Gail Earls recovers from hospitalization. Mrs. Earls is secretary in the county extension office.

Kennedy conspiracy just idle, drunk talk?

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Three persons charged with conspiring to murder Sen. Edward M. Kennedy pleaded innocent today to an alleged plot that investigators say may only have been idle talk.

All three had lawyers appointed for them, and their cases were continued in Springfield District Court until Sept. 20.

One of them, David J. King, 31, of Springfield, was almost an hour late for the court session, and before he appeared Judge George Bregian threatened to issue a warrant.

On Sunday, King told reporters that he had been offered $30,000 to help kill the sole remaining Kennedy brother at a Springfield hotel where he was campaigning for renomination in the Massachusetts Democratic primary on Tuesday. King had been released on personal recognizance Saturday by a District Court clerk.

The two other defendants were Sandra R. Rondeau, 37, of Westfield, and Robert E. White, 42, a resident of a Salvation Army Rehabilitation Center.

Policemen said Sunday that there was a possibility the whole affair was a hoax. One officer, who asked not to be identified, said it might have been "idle, drunken talk."

King, in an interview, said he met White on Aug. 8 at the Salvation Army Center and two days later was offered a chance to make "big money."

He quoted White as saying: "You can make $30,000 altogether. All you have to do is kill U.S. Sen. Kennedy... You get $5,000 down and after the job you get $25,000."

Kennedy appeared Saturday at a fund-raising breakfast at the Oaks Inn. Mrs. Rondeau worked there as a waitress for six months until she quit about a week ago, according to a hotel spokeswoman.

King said Mrs. Rondeau "was supposed to serve breakfast, and Mr. White was supposed to walk in right behind her. He was going to shoot Kennedy while he had breakfast," King said.

"We checked out the story and information we received implicated all three persons. Whether this was a prank or a serious threat is still under investigation," said Detective David Minor.

The report of the money was still being checked, police said. King refused to say in the interview where the money was coming from.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Who pays?

Q. Who picks up the expenses of the Big Spring delegation when it makes a trip like the one planned this week to Washington for the Environmental Impact conference, surely not the taxpayers?

A. Nope, although the tax payers should feel a sense of obligation — the delegation is trying desperately to accomplish something that would benefit the community. The money comes from Century Club coffers. The Century Club, of course, works to promote relations between the community and personnel at Webb AFB.

If you have a question for Action-reaction, call 263-7334.

Forsan Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Offbeat: Wanted: One lizard

COHOES, N.Y. (AP) — A local savings bank is looking for a Lizard to give $150 to.

The Military Order of Lizards, a special group of Spanish-American War veterans, has $150 deposited at the Cohoes Savings Bank. But no Lizard has been seen in these parts since 1965, and, unless one shows up by November, by law the money reverts to the state as an unclaimed account.

The bank says all known officers and members of the club are dead. Nevertheless, it took out a legal ad in local newspapers asking that information on any surviving Lizards be sent to Mrs. Doris Schramm, Cohoes Savings Bank, 75 Remsen St., Cohoes, N.Y., 12047.

TV's best: Take your choice

For the kids, the comedy, "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," will air at 6:30 p.m. on CBS. Then for sports fans, ABC will present Monday Night Football at 8 p.m. The battle is between the Dolphins and the Bills (and the "Juice" is back).

Speaks of 'Forgotten Americans'

Wallace at Carter's side

Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter campaigned in Alabama today with Gov. George Wallace, a former political rival, at his side and told a group of small businessmen they are "the forgotten Americans" of the Republican administration.

Wallace said he was "very proud" to have the Georgian, with whom he had vied in the election primaries, in Alabama.

As Carter began the second week of his campaign with a tour of some Sunbelt states, President Ford remained in Washington. He is to make his first campaign foray on Wednesday.

Carter told the small business gathering in Birmingham that the Republican administration had bogged down hopelessly in red tape that complicated life for small businessmen. He promised that he would improve government small business aid programs if elected.

En route to Birmingham from his home in Plains, Ga., Carter also signed a statement accepting the endorsement of the Liberal party of New York. The endorsement, voted by the party in a convention Saturday, means that Carter is assured both the Democratic and Liberal slots on the New York ballot.

Meanwhile, Ford will be in the public eye today with bill-signing ceremonies. One measure would require about 50 federal boards to conduct most of their business in public, while another measure would protect livestock producers against packing companies.

that go bankrupt.

Presidential approval of these bills ordinarily would be handled by routine printed announcements, but today they merit separate ceremonies in the White House rose garden.

Meanwhile, GOP vice presidential candidate Bob Dole has a 17-hour day that takes him to Lexington, Ky., Milwaukee, Salt Lake City and ends in San Francisco. Sen. Walter F. Mondale, his Democratic counterpart, begins his campaigning today at a registration booth in Alexandria, Va., just across the Potomac River from Washington and then heads south for appearances in Florida.

Carter launches a 12-state swing, with stops today in Birmingham, Ala., Oklahoma City and Phoenix, Ariz., after spending the weekend at home in Plains, Ga. Carter scheduled a fund-raising dinner appearance tonight in Phoenix for Rep. Morris K. Udall, another former opponent.

He said he wants to remind voters that his opponents in the Democratic primaries this Spring were calling him the conservative in the field.

Attempting to counteract GOP charges that he is a big-spending liberal, Carter said he is stressing conservative positions such as "balanced budgets, strengthening local government, maximum of personal privacy, minimum of government secrecy and that kind of thing."

With 10 days remaining before the first candidates' debate, the campaign is about to take on a new look, Ford, who has been spending most of his time in the White House, will carry his election bid to his home state for an address at the University of Michigan, his alma mater, on Wednesday.

Carter won't be far away Wednesday. He has scheduled what aides said would be a major address to the Michigan AFL-CIO convention in Dearborn, about 30 miles from the university in Ann Arbor.

Citing some new poll results, Ford told reporters Sunday, "We're coming on. You'll see us around here another four years."

James Baker III, Ford's campaign manager, said on CBS' "Face The Nation" that Ford and Dole were ahead of the Democrats in "a dozen to 14 states," including Michigan and Dole's home state of Kansas.

A new poll by the Detroit News showed Ford ahead of Carter in Michigan by seven points, 41 to 34, a gain of three since the last sampling in July. The number of undecided voters stayed at 23 per cent.

Baker said Ford was doing better than expected in the South, but he declined to say where he was ahead there. He did say that Ford was only "four points behind" in New York and results were encouraging in two other pivotal Eastern states, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Ford's strategy calls for him to spend most of his time in the White House at least until Congress adjourns in October. This approach has been attacked by Carter, who has remarked that Ford found time to get around the country in his race with Ronald Reagan but now claims that duty keeps him at home.

Carter's campaign week, his second, will also include stops in Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Michigan, Indiana, Maryland, Washington, D.C., and possibly Ohio and Arkansas.

He and Ford will meet face-to-face on Sept. 23 in a televised debate in Philadelphia.

Dole, retracting some previous mild criticism of Ford, said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press" that for the President "it may be good politics to stay in the White House. Let's face it. The President, whoever he might be, has an advantage if he uses the incumbency properly."

But Dole added that "we are going to see President Ford in the field."

Republicans "are perceived at times as antipeople and I think we have to take the offensive, dispel that image if there is one — and I think there is."

Mondale is tacitly acknowledging that the Democrats, though favorites now, are in for a close race. He is stressing the need to register voters if the Democrats hope to convert a lead in the polls into an election victory, telling party chairmen, union leaders and Democratic officials to concentrate on registration and getting voters to the polls.

Mondale also said Sunday that if elected he would like to revitalize the Peace Corps. He said that the Nixon administration had undercut the agency "partly because it has this idealistic tone to it that they found offensive."

CARTER AND WALLACE CAMPAIGN — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter and Alabama Governor George Wallace greet well wishers at the Birmingham airport Monday. Carter is campaigning in the area today.

Police beat Two crimes are interconnected

Two interconnected crimes resulted in the burglary of Lillian's Yarn Shop, 606 Matthews, 3:30 a.m. Sunday.

The incident began when police received an early morning call of an attempted break-in at the Settles Hotel, 200 E. 3rd. According to reports, intruders climbed to the top of a parked Dempsey Dumpster, lowered a fire escape ladder and climbed to the roof of the hotel.

Once atop the Settles, the thugs prised loose the hasp of a roof door, but were unable to gain entry. Then, according to reports, they dropped a 100-pound block of cement from the roof and began their getaway.

Shortly thereafter a report of a burglary at the yarn shop was called in. According to the report, the cement block struck the sidewalk outside of the shop, bounced, and broke the show window. Before the window could be repaired, an Afghan and shawl were heisted.

Total loss was estimated at $75.

In what police reports call a domestic squabble, a northside woman was struck over the head with a rock, and then lost her purse to the assailant. Officers are investigating the incident.

Officers Jimmie Hensley and Allen Parrish arrested a local man 11:14 p.m. Saturday at the carnival in College Park Shopping Center. According to reports, the man was intoxicated and making "terroristic threats."

Curtis D. Macomber, 1402 Stadium, reported the theft of his motorcycle sometime between Sept. 6 and Sunday. The dirt bike, which was parked at 2400 Birdwell, was valued at $300.

Carroll Kohn, 624 Tulane, reported the theft of a girl's bicycle from his front yard sometime between 1 and 5 p.m. Sunday. The bike was valued at $50, and may have been lifted by two men driving a blue pickup truck, according to reports.

A window at the Northside Fire Station was broken 2:40 a.m. Sunday. Damage was estimated at $30.

Two mishaps were reported Saturday, and none Sunday.

Cars driven by Walter Nichols, 906 N.W. 3rd and Carlos Montanez (parked), 606 N.W. 11th, collided at 606 N.W. 11th, 11:09 p.m.

A car driven by Richard Parker, Route 1, was struck by a hit and run driver in the Safeway Store parking lot in College Park Shopping Center, 11:19 p.m.

May have to be banned Rap is put on sprays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fluorocarbons from aerosol spray cans have damaged the earth's protective ozone shield and will have to be selectively regulated or banned, the National Academy of Sciences said today.

But two academy panels which studied the problem said any ban or regulation of aerosol sprays should be delayed one to two years until completion of further studies on the ultimate effects of the reduction in the protective shield of ozone in the atmosphere.

The panels said the reduction in ozone, which shields the earth from dangerous ultraviolet radiation, could lead to increases in skin cancer and potentially great changes in the earth's temperature and climate.

The reports were designed to resolve the controversy over the relationship between fluorocarbons and the earth's ozone layer. The panels said there was insufficient evidence to state precisely the extent of damage to the ozone shield.

Philip Handler, NAS president, said in a letter to the White House "that a one or two year delay in actual implementation of a ban or regulation would not be unreasonable."

However, he recommended the government begin immediately to establish the regulatory machinery that will be necessary to either reduce the use of fluorocarbons or ban them completely.

The reports said if fluorocarbons continue to be released at 1973 levels, "an ultimate reduction in ozone of about seven per cent" would result. Half of this loss would occur in about 50 years, the panels said.

The panels expressed particular concern about climate changes that might result from a slight reduction of the protective ozone shield. Temperatures could increase on earth. This, in turn, would affect rainfall and evaporation of moisture. "Such changes could lead initially to a general shift of the earth's climatic belts, and ultimately to a significant melting of polar ice and a worldwide increase in sea level," the reports said.

Any weather changes pose particular problems for agriculture.

The report stresses that fears of climate changes are only possibilities at present, and that more research is needed before the effects of ozone reduction can be determined.

Police hope to arrest 1,000 2nd boycott under way

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police fired birdshot and tear gas at demonstrators today in the segregated township of Soweto and launched a "clean-up" sweep through another black township, arresting many residents, as the second black work boycott in less than a month began.

Gen. D.J. Kriel, deputy commissioner of police, said police fired on demonstrators in Soweto after several buses were set ablaze. It was not known if anyone was injured.

Kriel refused to comment on the house-to-house sweep in the black township of Alexandra, in northeast Johannesburg, by 300 to 500 police. The South African Press Association quoted sources as saying police hoped to arrest about 1,000 persons in the sweep by Monday night.

Many Johannesburg businesses reported an absentee rate of 80 per cent as blacks began another three-day boycott to protest the racial policies of South Africa's ruling white minority.

"Soweto looked like a graveyard this morning," one resident of the vast black ghetto eight miles south of Johannesburg reported.

Police also said there was little black commuter traffic out of the Alexandra township in northern Johannesburg.

Business firms in the city reported "fair" to "rather bad" attendance by black workers. One company reported that only 30 per cent of its black work force showed up.

Southward to the Alice area, and drizzle fell in the Texas Panhandle west of Amarillo around Vega and Adrian.

In Wichita Falls the rain measured 1.55 inches from 1 to 2 a.m., and the amount reached 3.3 inches by 5 a.m. Police reported most intersections and underpasses were flooded for a time.

Tax bill near okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is about to pass a tax bill that will affect everyone who files a federal income tax return. It continues this year's reductions for most Americans and offers new cuts for millions of others. The bill continues through 1977 this year's individual tax credits, providing a tax reduction of $35 for the taxpayer and each dependent, or 2 per cent of his first $9,000 of taxable income up to $180.

Viet hard line damaging?

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The U.S. government's hard line toward Vietnam is a major foreign policy blunder that is allowing Soviet influence to strengthen its roots in Hanoi and is forfeiting a chance to maintain a balance of power in Southeast Asia, a number of senior diplomats, Thai officials and other experts on Indochina say.

Washington's repeated insistence that Vietnam account for Americans missing in the Vietnam war before normalization of relations can take place is regarded, in the words of one senior Western diplomat, as "window dressing" to soothe American public opinion the presidential election year. "It's obvious that an American presence in Indochina will be an important equation in the balance of power in the region among the Soviet Union, China and the West. And it will be welcomed by the Vietnamese, although on a controlled basis," the Western diplomat said. "But the West is losing time."

Trinidad holds election

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Veteran Prime Minister Eric Williams and his People's National Movement (PNM) faced eight opposition parties in a general election today on the islands of Trinidad and Tobago. Political observers said Williams' forces had the edge because of the multiplicity of opposition parties ranging from moderate right in political complexion to far left. The voting is being held amid an economic boom, with oil production at 225,000 barrels of crude per day. But the anti-Williams parties claim the oil money hasn't filtered down to the people; that roads, hospitals, transportation, electricity, water and housing are bad, and that the PNM has done nothing to improve them.

Guerrillas killed 12?

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Leftist guerrillas were blamed for 12 killings in Argentina Sunday, right-wing terrorists for two, and the toll of political violence rose to at least 947 this year. An army communique said leftists blew up a busload of police in Rosario, 180 miles north of Buenos Aires, and then sprayed them with machine-gun fire, killing nine policemen and two civilians in a car behind the bus. Leftist guerrillas also were blamed for the killing of Chief Inspector Carlos M. Baldovinos, who was hit by gunfire from a passing car as he and his young daughter left their home in Buenos Aires. The girl was unhurt. The bodies of two lawyers alleged to be leftists were found in La Plata, 30 miles south of Buenos Aires, and their families said they were kidnaped last Friday by men who claimed to be police.

Cloudburst leaves Wichita Falls awash

By The Associated Press

Street-filling rain left Wichita Falls awash before a big thunderstorm moved on toward the southeast today, and lighter showers developed in that area soon afterward.

There were heavy thundershowers also from around Victoria and Corpus Christi on the Coastal Bend northward toward San Antonio and southward to the Alice area, and drizzle fell in the Texas Panhandle west of Amarillo around Vega and Adrian.

In Wichita Falls the rain measured 1.55 inches from 1 to 2 a.m., and the amount reached 3.3 inches by 5 a.m. Police reported most intersections and underpasses were flooded for a time.

Jaworski points finger at Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — Only former President Richard Nixon or his personal aide could have erased an 18½-minute segment in a key Watergate tape, former Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski implied in an interview.

Jaworski, in a taped interview shown on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" Sunday, was asked if he knew who erased the crucial segment of a conversation between Nixon and his chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman. The conversation took place several days after the June 17, 1972 break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington at the Watergate complex.

"In my own judgment, it came down to three people," Jaworski, a Houston lawyer, said. "I will not mention their names because it would be unfair for me to do so since we didn't have enough proof to indict any one of them."

Interviewer Dan Rather then asked: "Well, you can't mention the names, but it's obvious that it's Richard Nixon, Rose Mary Woods (Nixon's secretary) and Steven Bull (Nixon's personal aide). Now you say you don't want to mention the names, but are you certain in your own mind that only one of the three people could have done it?"

"I'm not certain, but it's my judgment that only one of them did it," Jaworski replied.

He then suggested that Miss Woods probably was not the one.

Jaworski pointed out that during court hearings on the tape gap, the secretary had acknowledged erasing an early portion of the gap, "but she said it couldn't have taken over four or five minutes."

"Very frankly, the first few minutes was not the most damaging part as we constructed the event," Jaworski said he had a suspicion of who erased the rest of the tape, but he refused to specify the person, since he said didn't know for sure.

Nixon resigned the presidency on Aug. 9, 1974 after the House Judiciary Committee voted articles of impeachment.

Jaworski said there would have been no case against Nixon without the tapes, but he said he believed Nixon refrained from destroying them because he hoped someday to sell them for "large sums of money."

Paper misrepresented point, says Tom Ray

Big Spring Industrial Manager Tom Roy told the Herald Monday that a San Angelo Standard-Times article misrepresented a point he made in an interview.

Roy was quoted by the Monday morning Standard as saying that although he "hates to say it," he predicts Big Spring would be "better off" without Webb Air Force Base.

Roy told the Herald that while the quotes themselves were accurate, they were separated by a number of other sentences which changed their meaning considerably.

The industrial manager said that he did not intend to leave the impression that Big Spring would not be seriously hurt by the possible departure of Webb.

It will hurt us bad for at least two years, he said.

But his point was that Big Spring can recover, as other towns have, if the decision is made to close Webb, Roy said.

Roy said the misunderstanding apparently occurred when he was being questioned by Standard staff writer Jeannette Stephenson. Roy said he basically was talking about leaders from other towns who have gone through base closings who now say that they feel the town is better off in the long run.

"The industrial manager said he did not intend to apply that to Big Spring as the situation is right now."

Even if Big Spring is able to attract industry and recover from the closing within a few years, and Roy believes that it can, he said he emphasized to the Standard reporter that no one in the town wants to go through that trauma unless necessary.

Mayor Wade Choate also phoned the Herald to say that the Monday morning San Angelo article did not reflect entirely what he said about possible legal action.

The mayor said he had emphasized to the reporter that this only was being viewed as an "alternative" and that he would want much thought and discussion, along with a poll of the people of Big Spring, to be done before serious consideration would be given to this "alternative."

World

Washington (AP) — Congress is about to pass a tax bill that will affect everyone who files a federal income tax return. It continues this year's reductions for most Americans and offers new cuts for millions of others. The bill continues through 1977 this year's individual tax credits, providing a tax reduction of $35 for the taxpayer and each dependent, or 2 per cent of his first $9,000 of taxable income up to $180.

behalf of all cities affected by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's proposed $298.3 million rate increase.

The Public Utilities Commission has indicated that cities may not be allowed to participate in statewide rate proceedings. But, if allowed, municipal governments will be required to present a consolidated case on issues of common interest.

"This would mean that each city that participates would pay three cents per person to help with the cost of the case," said Harry Nagel, city manager. "We have already filed a letter with TML saying that we intend to participate. This had to be done before the deadline (today). But it will be formalized Tuesday (at the city council meeting)," Nagel added.

The council will also make final decisions on the annual budget and tax assessment in the city at Tuesday's regular 9 a.m. meeting.

Councilmen will consider the second and final reading of ordinances setting each. First readings were considered at the council meeting of Aug. 24.

A second reading of a provision to revise the current retail zoning ordinance will also be considered. The provision will, if enacted, allow for certain minor auto repairs in zones which are now strictly retail.

Other business, councilmen will:

—Consider the first reading of a resolution authorizing participation in a multi-agency crime prevention project.

—Enter an emergency reading of a resolution showing intent to file preliminary application for Community Development Block Grant Funds.

—Consider approval of a

Tax Appraisal Budget for 1977.

—Discuss two claims for damages.

—Present a final contract for ambulance service in the city with Alert Ambulance Service.

—Consider a revised budget for the Big Spring Industrial Growth and Development Council.

Connally is running Ford's Texas campaign

"John Connally's running of President Ford's campaign in Texas is going to be a big asset to the Republican party," Winston Wrinkle, newly-elected member of the state GOP committee said here today.

Wrinkle and four other delegates, Mrs. Polly Mays, Mrs. Mary Joy Cowper, Bill Sheppard and Ben Bancroft, returned Sunday from the state meeting in Austin.

Wrinkle was elected state committeeman from the 30th Senatorial District, a position he had held once before. Sen. John Tower was named permanent chairman of the 30th District Caucus and Judge Barbara Culver of Midland was permanent convention chairman.

"Dole came over real well at the convention," Wrinkle stated. "He has a good sense of humor. He is a conservative and has the record to back it up."

The newly elected committeeman said that "The Republican party is growing in Texas, as evidenced by the primaries this year and we need to become better organized and continue a good flow of candidates in order to provide the choice for Texans that they obviously desire."

'Politics' charge is hurled by two

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two top klansmen were booked with inciting to riot after a weekend convention of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

State police arrested David E. Duke and Dr. James K. Warner on warrants issued after an altercation with a camera-wielding police intelligence squad.

Duke, national director of the Knights, one of several Klan groups in the nation, labeled the charges "political harassment." He told a rally Sunday that the arrest would not have happened if the group involved were not the Klan.

"They didn't have any statement from anybody that I incited a riot. There was no riot," Duke said.

About 100 marchers attended the peaceful rally here Sunday to lay a wreath at a Reconstruction era monument to white supremacy.

were arrested midnight Saturday near a cross burning at a rally in St. Bernard Parish.

An incident 11 hours earlier led to the arrests. Jefferson sheriff's deputies said klansmen got into a shouting match with intelligence officers at a meeting in a Metairie hotel that afternoon.

All of the Klan gatherings were part of the Knights' national convention here.

"When we were coming out of the hotel, some so-called police intelligence officers were shoving a camera in people's faces and taking pictures," Duke said.

"That's a form of intimidation and harassment. Our people went over and told them they were traitors to their own race."

Vegetable crop up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production this year of six selected vegetable crops bound for the fresh market should be significantly higher this year than last, but the major vegetable crops contracted for food processors to can are way down, the Agriculture Department reports.

That could mean a small price break for consumers and more demand from them on the fresh produce side of the supermarket in the coming months.

But in the canned-goods aisles, such may not be the case as processors try to improve their cost-and-profit margins by reducing the new supply after a bountiful year. Prices to the farmers who produce for the canners presumably should also improve with the smaller harvest.

The USDA reports late last week showed that the national output of the seven major vegetables under contract for canning and other processing is forecast as of Sept. 1 at 10.6 million tons, a drop of 15 per cent. Only 1.4 million acres of contracted vegetables will be harvested, a decline of 16 per cent, it said.

Those vegetables include lima beans, down 37 per cent in harvested acreage, canning beets, down 21 per cent, sweet corn, down 13 per cent, and canning tomatoes, down 17 per cent. Others are snap beans, green peas and spinach.

In the fresh-market report, artichoke production came out 4 per cent above the 1975 crop, with the asparagus crop up 10 per cent, brussels sprouts acreage down 9 per cent because of a shortage of irrigation water, onions up 8 per cent and summer storage onions up 18 per cent.

The final 1976 estimate of the strawberry crop in major producing states was pegged at 5.1 million hundredweight.

Farmers urge Ford to boost loan rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., urged President Ford to boost the wheat production-loan rate to $2.50 a bushel.

The rate is now $1.50 a bushel. Farmers borrow money under the program to finance growing or marketing their crops, using the grain as collateral until they sell it or default it to the government, which then sells it to cover the loan.

A higher rate would allow them to store their 1976 harvest, without selling at a loss, and get new financing, the congressman said.

About the same time, the American Waterways Operators announced the formation of an emergency task force of the domestic water carrier industry to work with the Army Corps of Engineers to deal with a water shortage that has cut barge capacity in half on the Mississippi River.

The AWO group said that the water level is the lowest in 16 years and the corps has suggested the river could be closed to navigation temporarily if the situation persists.

Farmers from the so-called breadbasket states of the Midwest normally ship about 80 per cent of their export grain by barge to Gulf ports.

The winter wheat harvest and shipment is winding down, but corn and soybeans start coming in in significant amounts in two weeks. The peak of the shipping season hits in early October, the group said.

The aim of the task force, chairman Tom Gladders said, is to help the corps get dredging equipment operating in the river to facilitate barge movements and to help coordinate efforts to assure "that rules on loading and size of flotillas and special traffic regulations are efficiently communicated to operating personnel."

The congressmen organized by Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Tex., said the $2.50 loan level — recommended in a farm bill Ford vetoed in the spring of 1975 — would "provide immediate relief to farmers and provide some insurance to the banks that finance their operations."

Hightower said that the National Association of Wheat Growers had told him that Ford last week rejected its request for a $3 loan level.

The congressman wrote Ford that wheat prices now — an average of $2.97 on Aug. 15 — are about 25 per cent below a year ago, and smaller banks are "dangerously" extended awaiting payment for loans granted to produce the current crops.

That would bring immediate relief, they said, while "active advocacy" of Food for Peace shipments and more wheat exports "could help reverse the decline in wheat prices" over the longer term.

Chilling analysis of obligations

The Wall Street Journal had an editorial earlier this year which might do a great deal to explain the problems of runaway federal government.

The editorial, in part, read:

"We've just been looking at two studies, one by an economist and the other by an actuary. The first estimates the total net wealth of the American people at $5.7 trillion. The second, we suppose by coincidence, shows that the federal government would need that much or more to meet all its obligations if they all came due at once.

"NOW, THEY will not all come due at once, of course. Most, such as the benefits the government has promised anyone holding a Social Security card, are long-term obligations. But the fact that Congress has made promises to pay out a sum equivalent to all the stocks, bonds, bank accounts, land, buildings, highways, machinery, gold or what have you in the country is of more than academic interest.

"First, it is added evidence, if any is needed, of federal profligacy. Second, it helps explain why the United States economy has developed a disturbing bias towards inflation. Those obligations don't all come due at once, but they do come due, and government characteristically meets them partly by inflating the currency."

This represents a chilling analysis of the government's obligations, and it suggests some not so pretty possibilities of what might happen should the government need to back out of them.

When the debt becomes too burdensome, the temptation to socialize will be strong indeed.

SO THE DEBT does matter, and very much. Like New York City, the federal government cannot continue to pile up commitment after commitment as if the nation's resources are unlimited — even if the government can water down the money by printing more and more.

—J. TOM GRAHAM

Big, bad labor
William F. Buckley, Jr.

In the heady hours right after the nomination of George McGovern for President, the speculation was on the subject of whom would he select for vice president. His campaign manager, Frank Mankiewicz, appeared on the Today show. One could tell from the expression on his face that he knew who was about to be named, but wouldn't, of course, tell. The journalists surrounding him probed. One of them asked, "Might it be somebody like Leonard Woodcock?" "Well," said Mankiewicz drily, "there's nobody more like Leonard Woodcock than Leonard Woodcock."

OF THIS WE were all reminded a few days ago when Mr. Woodcock, head of the United Automobile Workers, blamed the Republican Administration for the scale of unemployment in this country. Now the automobile workers, like the steel workers, are the highest paid artisans in the country, and that is okay by me — theirs is highly skilled work. But Leonard Woodcock is more merely than a bargainer for his automobile workers. He is a cranked-up salesman for the whole package of social benefits and union preferences and deficit spending which are directly responsible for the inflation of which he now complains, and the unemployment the causes of which he ascribes to the policies of President Ford.

Ask Leonard Woodcock whether he would favor a reduction in the minimum wage. Ask him if unemployed workers should be allowed to bargain in San Francisco if they are willing to sweep the streets for less than $15,000 per year. Or if unemployed teenagers should be permitted to hose down cars at union garages for less than seven dollars per hour.

The immunity for the large, corky, monopoly labor unions from social criticism is one of the great embarrassments of the age. It is said that Watergate was required before the Executive could be given a real going over. One wonders what is required to give labor union musclemen — both those who bargain with employers, and those who clobber other workers who wish to bargain for themselves — the kind of exposure that would bring on total public scrutiny. Would bring on, say, a book by Arthur Schlesinger Jr., called "The Imperial Organizers"?

THE DAY Leonard Woodcock was issuing his strictures against Ford, Jimmy Carter was struck almost, though not alas totally, dumb with dismay at the refusal of Ford to fire FBI Director Kelly because some of his subordinates had hung a curtain in his house. The same day, a judge sentenced the third of the three hired killers who a few years ago went into the house of a man contending for the office of president of the United Mine Workers, and shot him, and his wife, and his daughter. It transpired that the killers had been hired by the president of the UMW, who has gone to jail, though the preference of the jury was for the electric chair.

The UMW is one of the half dozen most illustrious unions in America. So is the Teamsters, whose first major president went to jail, as did his successor who, having got out of jail, was scooped up by some of the boys and dropped in cement somewhere. And not, so far as we know — although we have not seen the fall line of books by Mark Lane — on instructions of Richard Nixon, Bob Haldeman or John Ehrlichman.

"Hey! Watch it, you idiot! Y'want me to freeze to death?"

Tots are notorious 'reactors'

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My seven-month-old son is in apparently good health, is normally active and has regular check-ups.

I took him to his doctor, and at that time he was given a TB patch test on his right arm. The doctor told me that I could start feeding him mashed, hard-boiled eggs the next day.

I fed him the egg yolk for breakfast. At lunch, after having eaten his regular solid baby food, he took only two ounces of milk, and then he spit it up.

At supper he refused most of his food. I also noted that he was unusually hot. His temperature was 102. We called the doctor and were told to give him baby aspirin and wash him down with rubbing alcohol and water.

The next day his fever was down, but his right arm had broken out in a red rash. Later a rash appeared on his left arm.

The doctor instructed us not to give him any more yolk until the rash subsided. The rash lasted four or five days.

Does it seem to you that he had a reaction to the TB test? Is it a coincidence that the rash appeared first on the right arm, where he had the test? — E.A.

I can only speculate. Youngsters are notorious "reactors."

A reaction to egg yolk is highly probably, particularly if this was his first use of it, which I assume it was. The rash also suggests this. If you or your husband are allergic, more reason to suspect it. Egg is a common food allergen.

You might try again with a small portion of egg yolk. If he blossoms out you have a diagnosis. The pediatrician will tell you how to approach that.

I believe the TB test connection was coincidental.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our 21-year-old son has had allergies all his life. Now sometimes he drinks socially. When he does his personality changes completely. He is usually very mild and quiet-natured. He becomes aggressive and it sometimes takes hours to calm him down. Could this be related to his allergies? — N.H.

His apparent intolerance to alcoholic beverages could very well be associated with his allergies. There are many ingredients besides alcohol in alcoholic beverages — residue of grain, flavorings and additives.

Then, too, the allergic person can have a personality that is hypersensitive to the effects of alcohol itself. Alcohol is a sedative and can remove inhibitions, revealing an entirely different person. He should learn to avoid it altogether.

If he needs to drink socially, let him sip a glass of cola or some such drink. So-called "social drinkers" aren't the ones who cause problems — it's the "anti-social" ones.

Dr. Thosteson: My husband has two hard knots on the palm of his hand. They are not calluses.

I seem to recall reading something back in your column about this. Could you please jog my memory? — Mrs. M.S.

Very likely it was a discussion of Dupuytren's contracture, a disorder of the tendon passages in the palm. If it progresses, the victim is unable to straighten the fingers (the contracture). Cause is unknown, but it may occur with diabetes or gout. Treatment is usually by surgery to loosen the tendon sheaths.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis," write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: You quote Ephesians 2:8-9 to show that faith alone can provide for our salvation, but I believe that Scripture teaches that good works are also necessary. There are various Bible passages that indicate this, including Ephesians 2:10, James 2:14-26 and Galatians 6:1-2. I would appreciate your comments on this matter. — F.J.

DEAR F. J.: Two very important doctrines are justification and sanctification, and you would appear to be confusing the two as though they were one and the same. Justification comes first and that is by faith alone: "By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: not of works lest any man should boast" (Ephesians 2:8,9).

Once we are truly justified in God's sight by a combination of His grace and our faith, then the process of sanctification begins whereby the Holy Spirit leads us into good works and equips us for them. There can be no sanctification without first there is justification. The Holy Spirit has no control over our lives until first He has gained an entry as we are justified.

If you look again at the passages you quote you will find that Ephesians 2:10 refers to those who are "created in Christ Jesus unto good works" — that is a reference to Christian people, to those who have been justified. The Lord cannot create us unto good works until He has entered our lives. The passage in James 2 refers to the man who says he has faith — in other words his faith has already justified him and he can now go on to good works. Galatians 6 refers to "ye which are spiritual." If they are spiritual then they are already justified and therefore can go on to good works.

Let us get ourselves right with God first, with our sins forgiven and our lives cleansed, and then let us go on to the good works to which He leads us.

Fill in spaces

Around the rim

Danny Reagan

I hate to do this, because I consider the rim one of the few places in the paper that is free of sex, violence and politics, but I just have to bring up the subject of the latter.

AS YOU ALL know, this is the political season, and politico-orienter letters are beginning to crop up in the paper. And so far they have been from Republicans or "I-am-really-neithe-party" people. (Yeah, we know who they really are.)

Anyway, I would never be so bold as to declare my affiliation. I have nothing against the Democrats or most Republicans. Except I wouldn't want a man from Mars to visit here and ask a Republican if there was any life on Earth. He might not know the answer.

No seriously, I joke about the Republicans, but what better subject to joke about is there? No really, I think our present President is a nice guy, but when was the last time we needed a nice President? Right?

Actually, Ford is trying to be a good President. He's started smiling lessons. His advisors assured him that he had just as many teeth as Carter, but there's one problem. Every time he tries to smile big, his socks sag, and his football helmet slips down over his chin.

Hey, get off my case okay. I'm not biased. I can make jokes about Democrats too. Watch this.

"What has one brain, sixteen legs, and lives in the forest? Snow White and the seven Democrats."

"A DEMOCRAT farmer wrote to his government's agricultural bureau with a problem. 'Gentleman,' he wrote, 'every morning when I check the coops, I find several of my chickens on their backs, with their feet in the air. Can you tell me what is wrong?'

"After several months, he received a reply from the Democratic head of the agency: 'Sir, Your chickens are dead.'"

Then now, it's all even. And to keep it even, here are some jokes that you the reader can finish yourself. Just fill in the empty space with Democrat, Republican, Independent, Commie, Fascists, anything at all. You see, I have remained neutral.

New Conflict

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — President Ford's former campaign manager, Howard "Bo" Callaway, lost his job over a conflict of interest. Now he's involved in another apparent conflict.

THE IRREPRESSIBLE "Bo" has an incurably friendly nature. He considers it unneighborly to turn down a friend in need of a favor. While he was Secretary of the Army, he intervened with the Forest Service to help gain a favorable land ruling for a friend who had opened the Crested Butte, Colo., ski resort. It turned out that Callaway had a financial stake in the resort.

This cost him the campaign manager's job. He gave it up, protesting his innocence to the end. Now we've learned that he helped another friend, Jay C. Tapp, fight a dam that would have flooded his vacation home. Again Callaway is protesting his innocence with all possible vigor.

He comes across as a rustic sophisticate, with a blend of shrewdness and amiability in his Georgia twang. But the facts speak for themselves.

Callaway became acquainted with Tapp through the Young Presidents Organization, which is made up of corporate heads who are under 50 years old and whose companies have an annual business volume of more than $2 million.

The Army Engineers planned a dam at Clopton Crossing, Tex., which would submerge Tapp's vacation home under 30 feet of water. Tapp, therefore, put up a fight to block the dam.

In a January, 1975 letter to Callaway, Tapp complained about the Clopton Crossing project and suggested the creation of an advisory committee to oversee the planning of the Army Engineers. As Army Secretary, the obliging Callaway created the Army Civil Works Advisory Committee and appointed Tapp to head it.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., is investigating the case. He found that Tapp used his position on the committee almost exclusively to fight the project that threatened his vacation home.

Footnote: Tapp told our associate, Jack Cloberty, that he gave priority to the Clopton Crossing project because it is located in his region. He denied this was a conflict, contending that the dam would leave him with valuable lakefront property.

Callaway admitted that he took a special interest in Tapp's committee. This was not to help Tapp, he insisted, but to provide the Army with "free business expertise." Callaway said he didn't even know about Tapp's apparent conflict.

HEAD HUNTING: As each Congress fades into history, it leaves behind a few more lame ducks who don't want to go back to Pocatello. They remain in Washington and take up a life of lobbying.

ONE LEGISLATOR-turned-lobbyist, who preferred not to go back to Evansville, is ex-Rep. Roger Zion, R-Ind. He solicited clients by direct mail, citing his special qualifications to win friends, influence legislation and pull strings in the Capitol cloakrooms.

"Since I will continue to be active in the Congressional Prayer Breakfast group, in the House gym, the Members' Dining Room and the House floor," wrote Zion, "I will maintain contact with my good friends who affect legislation."

He is now signing up his friends in Congress for the gun lobby at $100 a head. He has cajoled more than 50 of them to join the Citizens Committee to Keep and Bear Arms.

All told, more than 150 members of Congress belong to the organization's advisory council. Of these, Zion bagged between 50 and 65, executive director Alan Gottlieb conceded.

Zion refused to say how much he was paid for his headhunting efforts. But Gottlieb confirmed that Zion received $100 maximum for each congressman enlisted on the council. For both his recruiting and lobbying duties, Zion has collected about $12,000 from the gun group.

Footnote: Several Democrats who support Jimmy Carter for President signed on to advise the gun lobby. Apparently, their political advice was ignored, since the group wound up endorsing Ronald Reagan for President. Zion recruited one congressman, Edward Pattison, D-Y.Y., who voted to end the sale of those cheap, unsafe street pistols known as "Saturday Night Specials." He was unceremoniously kicked off the council. Zion was not asked to refund the $100 he had collected for Pattison.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor: On a recent Sunday, we arrived in Big Spring about 6 p.m., having driven about 425 miles from Taos, N.M., while pulling our 23-foot travel trailer.

Our directory listed no private travel trailer park, so we spent the night at Comanche Trailer Park. We want to thank the people of Big Spring for providing such a facility for recreational vehicles.

While we did not pay a motel bill, we did make purchases of more than equal value which contributed to the local economy. Furthermore, having already driven ten hours, I likely would have been a traffic hazard had it been necessary to drive on to San Angelo.

I enclose an article which appeared in the latest issue of Travel Life, largest publication of its kind, with several million readers. I share the comments of the Pinnells.

Charles Neathery
5407 Maple
Houston, Tex. 77096

Editor's note: The magazine article Mr. Neathery enclosed offered ecstatic praise for Comanche Trail Park's tourist facilities and the treatment Ealon and Harold Pinnell of Hemet, Cal., received while guests here. "For RV caravans or reunions," the Pinnells wrote, "we have seen nothing like this. There are accommodations for any sized group, and beautiful shade trees and grass, hiking and bike trails. . . . These Texans are not only friendly, but really do it up in a big way to make it pleasant traveling through their state." It's hard to buy favorable publicity like that.

'Free Men': George Washington: "The [American] army may expect an attack as soon as the wind and tide shall prove favorable. . . . Industry at the crossroads

Economic shift to South

by Tom E. Roy

Industrial Manager, BS Ch. of Commerce

It has been over 100 years since the end of the Civil War, so I guess that prompted Business Week magazine to compile a 19-page report on a new "war" developing between North and South. The title of the special report carried May 17, 1976 is "The Second War Between the States" and I think it is of interest locally. The report deals with an economic shift from North to South and the implications of such a movement. Now, I've known for years how lucky we are to live in this area, but it seems to be dawning on quite a few people "up there," so to speak. Big Spring can benefit greatly from this movement, as can the entire state, and the northern states will suffer. Let's compare figures for a better picture. In the last 15 years, population in the Southwest (Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Arizona) has increased 29.4 per cent; the national average was 18.4 per cent. In that same period real personal income rose 105.8 per cent and manufacturing employment rose 67.3 per cent for the Southwest, compared with the national average of 77.3 per cent and 9.2 per cent respectively. This reflects a large outmigration in the northern states, and has created quite a concern among lawmakers from that area of the U.S. The concern is compounded by the following figures. In 1975, the Southwest received approximately 15 per cent more direct federal outlays per capita than was contributed by taxes, while the northern states experienced a loss of about 5 per cent, i.e., they contributed more than they received. The study further points out that the federal payroll as a share of total personal income in the Southwest was 150 per cent, or 40 per cent larger than the national average while the northern states share was 75 per cent, or 25 per cent less than the national average. These figures may explain why there is a mood in Congress to restrict federal outlays to the Southwest.

Revenue sharing bill

Congress mulls money this week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Money is the big item before Congress this week, with decisions on how much will be collected in taxes and how much will be spent by the government as the lawmakers push to adjourn Oct. 2.

First on the agenda is Senate action on a $41.9-billion revenue-sharing bill that would extend for five years and nine months the program that allocates federal funds with no strings to localities throughout the country.

The extension bill before the Senate would allocate $6.9 billion the first year and increase the amount by $150 million each year after that. Unless it is extended, the program expires this Dec. 31.

When action on revenue-sharing is completed by the Senate, the measure probably will have to go to a conference committee to resolve differences with the House version. The House passed last June a three-year extension of revenue sharing that would continue the payments at the current $6.65-billion annual rate.

Also scheduled for action in the Senate today is the $104.3-billion defense appropriations bill, as approved by a House-Senate conference committee.

A key provision of that measure would defer a decision on full-scale production of the B1 bomber until next February. Opponents of the controversial bomber succeeded in winning the delay so that whoever is elected president in November would have the opportunity to make the final decision.

with a deficit of $50.6 billion. President Ford's budget proposal for the coming fiscal year called for $13 billion less in spending. But Ford also estimated revenue would be $10 billion less. The Ford deficit would be $3 billion lower than the congressional figure. The figures finally adopted by Congress prevail.

Ford signed day-care bill

Today President Gerald Ford signed H.R. 12455 — Child Day Care and Social Service Amendments.

In a signing ceremony held in the Rose Garden, the President said, "Insuring adequate day care for children is an important social service. It protects the well-being of thousands of American children — and the economic independence of their working parents."

On April 6, the President vetoed H.R. 9803, an earlier child care bill because it perpetuated rigid Federal child day care standards for all the States and localities in the Nation, with the costs to be paid by the Federal taxpayer.

It also invested the responsibility in the Federal government and not in State-local government. The early bill made day care services more costly to the American taxpayer by demanding the expenditure of $125 million over the next six months, and could lead to $250 million more each year thereafter.

Further, it specified that a portion of Federal social services funds be available under Title XX of the Social Security Act for a narrow, categorical purpose.

Today's legislation is said to be the result of compromise and cooperation between the Congress and the Administration. H.R. 12455 postpones until October 1, 1977, the Federal standards for child care services required by Title XX of the Social Security Act. It also encompassed a provision of the President's Federal Assistance to Community Services proposal by providing group eligibility.

This provision would avoid subjecting individuals, particularly senior citizens, to possibly demeaning income and assets tests in order to qualify for social service.

Dear Abby

Forget the noose and cut him down

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a man I thought was together. He's 29, handsome, a smooth talker and single. The relationship went fine until I caught him in a few lies, then I did a little detective work.

I became suspicious when he told me he had a "weekend" job. I discovered that he is engaged to another woman. He told her if anyone contacted her and asked her any questions about him, not to give out any information because some "nymphomaniac" was chasing him!

Meanwhile, he checked up on me to find out what my assets are. (I'm a widow and well enough off, so I don't have to work, but I'm not rich enough to support him, which I'm sure he had in mind.)

Should I let him know I am on to him? Or give him enough rope to let him hang himself?

DISGUSTED IN DIXIE

DEAR DISGUSTED: Never mind the rope. He's already hung himself where you are concerned. Cut him down.

DEAR ABBY: My 13-month-old child, Pam, is teething, and she chews and bites everything in sight. Pam was crawling around on the floor with my sister's little boy who's 8 months old, and she bit him. Naturally the boy was frightened, so he screamed.

My mother-in-law who was there at the time became furious and ordered her 9-year-old to bite Pam. The girl bit Pam on the arm, leaving teeth marks, and Pam screamed so hard, she nearly went into hysterics. (Pam didn't leave any teeth marks on her cousin.)

When I told my husband about this, he sided with his mother, saying it was an old-fashioned remedy for breaking children from the habit of biting.

My mother is old-fashioned in many ways, and she said she's never heard of this remedy. Have you? Thanks for your opinion.

PAM'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: No. But I have heard that a human bite can be more dangerous than an animal bite if the skin is broken. Teething children should be provided with teething rings — not cousins.

DEAR ABBY: My youngest daughter is going to be married soon. Her father is completely paralyzed and can't give her away. I was teasing her and said that I would give her away, and she said she would love it because she has two brothers and she would rather not choose between them.

The lady who directs weddings said it would be all right. I need your opinion. Should I give my daughter away? Or would it look silly?

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER: It's your daughter's day. Let her do as she wishes. I think it's a wonderful idea.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Few divorcees get child-support

Only 44 per cent of divorced mothers are awarded child support and only 47 per cent of these women regularly collect it. This alarming fact is found in the October Family Circle which tells of a report by the National Commission for the Observance of International Women's Year. The report, entitled To Form a More Perfect Union, is available for $5.20 form: Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Oakland has new hero in rookie

By The Associated Press
George who?
If there was any sentimentality lurking around the Oakland Coliseum Sunday—diehard nostalgia freaks dreaming of all those games when of No. 16, George Blanda, plunked his helmet over his greying hair, trotted on the field and kicked a winning field goal—it was washed away by a kid less than half his age and only a quarter of his number.

Fred Steinfort, a soccer-style kicker from Boston College, a rookie not even born when George was already a quarterback and kicker in the National Football League, did with ultimate cool what Blanda did for those many years.

He won a game.

And he did it in a moment of drama that only a Hollywood script-writer would appreciate, making his first official NFL field goal—a 21-yard chip shot with 18 seconds to go—the winner in the Raiders' 31-28 victory.

George who?
Oh, George Allen, of course.

He's been getting grey hairs for a lot of years now, watching his Washington Redskins play brinkmanship with the rest of the league. They were at it again Sunday, playing tantalizingly lousy defense when it meant the most, then turning around and beating the New York Giants 19-17 anyway.

Steinfort had a happy welcome to the NFL. The Seattle Seahawks and Tampa Bay Buccaneers—well, that's another matter. Both lost, although Seattle gave St. Louis a fight before falling short 30-24 while Tampa Bay was a punchless 20-0 loser to Houston.

Hank Stram, a long-time pro coach with Kansas City, returned as the head man in New Orleans—and the Saints got their heads handed to them, getting whopped 40-9 by Minnesota.

In Grand Tournament Play is under way

Play gets under way today in the annual Grand Tournament, climactic event of the Big Spring Golf Association's 1976 activity at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Gary Grissam is the defending titlist in the tournament, which likely will be completed somewhere around Oct. 3. Entries have until Sept. 19 to complete first round matches and must complete second round play by Sept. 26.

Among players considered threats for the championship are Bob Waters, Charles Bailey, Mark McCraney, Bernard Rains, Royce Cox and Grissam.

In all, 59 players are in the field, enough for five flights.

First round pairings (all matches determined in matched play):

Next Steer opponent Snyder line awesome

Snyder, next football opponent of the Big Spring Steers, fields a club that isn't particularly flashy—all it does is win.

The Tigers, always 'up' for Big Spring, opened the 1976 campaign with a 14-7 victory over respected Monahans, then humbled Class AAAA Borger last week, 14-6.

The Tigers field a big line which, combined with their pony backs, get the job done. Defensively up front, the Tigers average 188.9 pounds per man.

Mike Jenkins, coach of the Tigers, discounts any weight advantage the Tigers might have as psychological.

Linebackers Ricky Beard and Greg Tavitt give the Bengals lots of muscle where it counts. Beard, who plays a very respectable fullback on offense, tips the scales at 202 pounds and is very mobile.

Tim Falls, quarterback, Snyder operates from the Veer and Falls is prone to rely more on the run than the pass. He threw only 11 aeriels against Borger and completed only two of them. The Tigers gained 271 yards on the ground, however.

Falls himself picked up 59 yards in rushing plays against Monahans. The Steers can expect him to pull out and run a lot.

Clay Peterson is Snyder's tailback and proved nearly unstoppable in the Monahans game. Against the Lobos, he averaged seven yards a carry.

Alvin Ollison, 145, will be at flanker back for the Tigers. Operating at that position, he can be expected to catch his share of passes.

The Steers did very well defending the option play against Hobbs last week but containing Snyder's speed may be something else.

In Snyder's offense line, David Rice, 201, or Tracy Witherspoon, 177, will open at tight end; Darrell Lester, 220, at left tackle; Doug McGee, 198, at left guard; Sam Kitching, 182, at center; Greg Early, 172, at right guard; Greg Pavlik, 204, at right tackle; and James Wells, 175, at right end.

Rice and Kitching are the only lettermen on offense back from the 1975 season.

On defense, the Tigers will have Ricky Fritz, 172, at left end; Randy Collum, 225, at left tackle; Pavlik at one linebacker spot; Lester at nose guard; Beard at the right linebacker position Richard Willis, 245, at right tackle; Tommy Smith, 200, at right end; Doug Morrell, 160, at monster; Ollison, at one corner; Ramsey Terceiro, 155, at another corner spot; and Brent Terry, 150, at safety.

Pavlik, Lester, Beard, Willis, Morrell and Terceiro lettered last year for the Bengals.

Kickoff time Friday night is 8 o'clock.

Houston triumphs

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers got both satisfaction and vindication Sunday from their National Football League season-opening 20-0 shutout of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Satisfaction came from watching a pair of 1974 free agent signees, running back Ronnie Coleman and safety C. L. Whittington, provide key performances in the victory.

Vindication came for the team after losing all six preseason games and for kicker Skip Butler, greeted by a chorus of boos each time he took the field Sunday.

"You kind of look forward to that first game at home after the preseason," said Coleman, who rushed 25 times for 142 yards to mark the third straight year he's rushed over 100 yards in the regular season home opener.

"I was just taking the seams the whole game."

Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini, resisting the urge to go for the bomb, connected on scoring shots of 13 yards to fullback Fred Dillis and 42 yards to Kenny Burroughs. Butler booted field goals of 33 and 44 yards to complete the Oilers' scoring.

Whittington, who earned a spot on Houston's specialty teams in 1974 as a free agent from Prairie View, worked himself up to a starting safety position and Sunday proved he deserved it.

Whittington returned pass interceptions eight and 50 yards to thwart Tampa scoring attempts.

"I'm just glad I could show everyone what I could do," Whittington said. "Coming in as a free agent, I'm trying real hard to prove myself."

Connors regains net open crown

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The sun finally set on Sweden's Bjorn Borg, the crown prince of world tennis.

And it was James Scott Connors, the pugnacious lefty back in the limelight after a year in the shadows, who turned out the lights.

Connors regained the title he lost last year and vaulted back into the international spotlight Sunday when he beat Borg in the finals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships. The match lasted three hours, 10 minutes, the scores were 6-4, 3-6, 7-6, 6-4, and when it was over, Connors had sweet revenge against those who branded him an also ran after his second-place finishes at Wimbledon, the Australian championships and the Open last year.

Sunday's match began in bright, late afternoon sunshine and ended under the lights at the West Side Tennis Club. It was a curious contest, full of errors by both players. There was no tempo. No one really took command. In the end it was the third-set tiebreaker that determined the outcome.

Connors and Borg split the first two sets and broke each other almost at will as the third set went to 6-6. Borg missed several opportunities to win the tiebreaker as Connors fought off four set points. He saved the first one with a short volley and the second one with a stinging forehand down the line.

"I was very surprised he played so well," said Borg, calm and expressionless even in defeat. "This is the best he's played against me."

Connors collected $30,000 for his efforts—the same prize money Chris Evert picked up when she beat Evonne Goolagong to win the women's title Saturday.

The doubles championships were also decided Sunday. Marty Riessen and Tom Okker knocked off Australians Paul Kronk and Cliff Letcher 6-4, 6-4 to win the men's doubles; South Africans Linky Boshoff and Ilana Kloss whipped Virginia Wade and Olga Morozova 6-1, 6-4 to take the women's crown, and the mixed went to Billie Jean King and Phil Dent, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5 winners over Betty Stove and Frew McMillan.

Blalock is low in meet

DALLAS (AP) — Richer by $7,000 as winner of the 21st $50,000 Dallas Civitan Women's Golf Tournament and buoyed by her consistent shooting, 31-year-old Jane Blalock heads this week for Portland, Ore., with her eyes set on the $100,000 plateau in Ladies PGA tour winnings.

"Sure I'm thinking about $100,000," said Miss Blalock after her second Civitan triumph and her second tour win of the season that boosted her year's checking account to $70,826.

"The LA tournament pays $35,000 for first and we'll be shooting for $25,000 in the Colgate Far East series in Hong Kong, Manila and Tokyo. I could make it easily with a couple wins," she said.

Miss Blalock shot super rounds of 67, 67 and 71 to win the Civitan with a 205 total. She took the opening round lead for a four-stroke margin, increased it to nine the second day, then breezed in.

Veteran Kathy Whitworth, 10 shots to the rear, going into the final round, carded a two-under-par 72 Sunday to finish second with a 54-hole total of 214, worth $5,200.

Runnels wins consolations

Runnels Junior High volleyball girls won the consolation division in the Lamesa Middle School Tournament over the weekend.

The Runnels eighth graders first lost to Lamesa, 15-8 and 15-6. They then defeated the Snyder Black team, winning handily by a 15-7 and 15-2 score.

In their third contest, they defeated Big Spring Goliah the best two out of three in a hard fought series. Runnels won the first game 15-2, but Goliah came back and won 14-6 with the final game 15-7 in favor of Runnels.

Goliah had gotten into the consolation finals after it lost to Denver City and beat the Snyder Gold team.

In the freshman division, Big Spring lost to Plains and Snyder Gold in the double elimination event. All three teams play at Snyder today.

SMU shares SWC lead

By The Associated Press
Southern Methodist and Houston are leading the Southwest Conference race, Texas is no longer in the top 20, Texas Tech can play defense, and the Texas Aggies own an aerial circus.

The above paragraph is NOT fiction. Repeat: These are cold hard facts. The above paragraph is NOT fiction.

It was SHOCK SATURDAY in the SWC with upsets and other assorted pyrotechnics sweeping the scene in one of the wildest opening weekends in years.

Seventh-ranked Texas lost 14-13 to Boston College on a two-point conversion gamble that failed and a field goal after time had expired that was 36 inches wide of the upright.

Southern Methodist stunned Texas Christian 34-14 in new Coach Ron Meyer's debut and Houston joyously celebrated its entry in the SWC with a 23-5 thumping of favored Baylor.

Texas Tech's much-maligned defense put the clamps on Colorado in a 24-7 Red Raider victory and the Texas Aggies gained 186 yards passing in a 19-0 shutout of Virginia Tech.

Arkansas checked in with a sluggish 33-16 thumping of spunky Utah State.

Simpson ready to play against Miami tonight

BUFFALO (AP) — O.J. Simpson is back with the Buffalo Bills, ready to play against the Miami Dolphins tonight and saying he'd never ask to be traded again.

The superstar running back rejoined his National Football League teammates Sunday night after a flight from his home in Los Angeles.

He was in a sweat suit about an hour later, working out in Rich Stadium where the Bills open their NFL season against the Dolphins in a nationally televised game (ABC-9 p.m., EDT).

Simpson watched his teammates run through punting, kickoff and offensive drills, then stepped into his old slot and carried the ball seven times.

"He looked in good shape and still has his same old speed," Coach Lou Saban said.

Simpson's separation from the Bills ended officially Sunday morning when owner Ralph Wilson announced that he and Simpson had reached agreement on a "long-term understanding during two days of talks on the West Coast this past week."

It was on June 12 that Simpson asked to be traded to a West Coast team, preferably the Los Angeles Rams, because of family and business considerations.

Wilson was unable to make a deal with the Rams and the trade deadline passed at 4 p.m. last Wednesday.

Wilson flew to Los Angeles Friday, talked with Simpson and his wife, Marguerite, that day and again Saturday.

After long discussions with his wife and the Saturday negotiation, Simpson told Wilson he would return.

"It was a difficult decision to make and Marguerite pushed me, knowing I wanted to play football," Simpson said.

He said he had a three-year commitment to the Bills.

Under a five-year contract Simpson signed following his 2,003-yard rushing performance in 1973, he reportedly was paid $250,000 a year.

Wilson said on June 12 he was prepared to offer Simpson a contract of $500,000 a year for the next two years.

Pokes toy with Eagles in NFL opener, 27-7

DALLAS (AP) — Dick Vermeil knew it wasn't going to be any rose garden and was he ever right.

The National Football League head coaching job with the Philadelphia Eagles has turned out to be the house of horrors he thought it would be.

Dallas brought that point clearly home Sunday with a 27-7 victory over the Eagles that could have been worse—much worse.

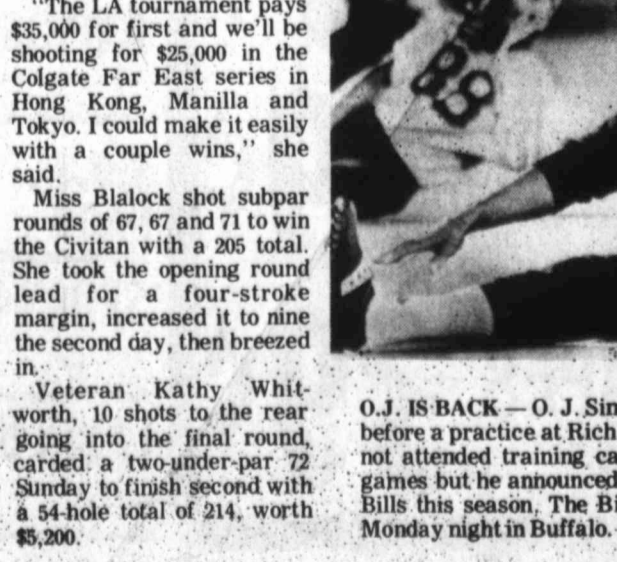

Cowboy Coach Tom Landry let the clock run out with the ball on the Eagle two-yard line as the Super Bowl X runners-up opened the season with a laugher.

Vermeil, who last January took UCLA to an upset victory over then No. 1 ranked Ohio State, signed a five-year contract with the Eagles and noted "I know it won't be easy. All the jobs with winners are taken."

He said Sunday "Dallas is a class football team. When I was at UCLA, I was in the same position Dallas is now. I had a lot of good football players. But I think we can play with anyone if we just keep our poise and play up to our capabilities."

It was Vermeil's seventh straight loss at Philadelphia counting the preseason games.

Quarterback Roger Staubach authored touch-

O.J. IS BACK — O. J. Simpson warms up Sunday night before a practice at Rich Stadium in Buffalo. O. J. had not attended training camp or any of the preseason games but he announced Sunday he will play with the Bills this season. The Bills meet the Miami Dolphins Monday night in Buffalo.

For their efforts, each of the players earned $10 in merchandise awards.

Second place, paying $6 each in merchandise, was won by a foursome consisting of Buddy Clinton, Tano Chavarria, Mayberry Williams, B. H. Lee and Bill Crane. That group was only one shot off the winning pace.

In third place, with a 65, was a team consisting of James Petty, John Newton, J. D. Campbell and Pete Anderson.

In all, 33 players took part in the BSGA's final tournament of the year before the Grand Tournament.

KNOW YOUR FOOD

MILK GROUP

Many of today's diets are low in calcium because we don't use enough calcium-rich foods, such as milk and cheese, in our diets. Growing children need calcium to build bones and teeth, especially during teen years, when children are growing fast. Adults, too, need calcium even though they're not building bones and teeth. Each day, adults lose some calcium and must replace it. Calcium helps clot blood when you cut or injure yourself; it helps keep all your muscles in good shape so they can work for you... especially the heart muscles. Milk is our leading source of calcium. It also provides high-quality protein, riboflavin, vitamin A (if milk is whole or fortified), and other nutrients. Protein in milk builds and repairs body tissues, helps the body fight infection, and supplies energy. Eight ounces of fresh whole milk has about 160 calories; the same amount of skim milk has only 90 calories.

Foods Included in the Milk Group: Milk: fluid whole; evaporated, skim, dry, buttermilk. Cheese: cottage, cream, cheddar type, natural or processed. Ice cream, Yogurt.

Recommended Amounts: Some milk daily is urged for almost everyone. Recommended amounts in terms of 8-ounce cups (or glasses) of whole fluid milk are: children under 9, 2-3 cups; children 9-12, 3 or more cups; teenagers, 4 or more cups; adults, 2 or more cups; pregnant women, 3 or more; nursing mothers, 4 or more. Part of all the milk may be fluid skim milk, buttermilk, evaporated milk or dry milk.

Cheese, ice cream and yogurt can be used in place of part of the milk. The amount of any of these it will take to replace a given amount of milk is figured on the basis of calcium content. On this basis, examples are: 1-inch cube cheddar-type cheese equals 1/2 cup milk; 1/2 cup cottage cheese equals 1/2 cup milk; 2 tablespoons cream cheese equals 1 tablespoon milk; 1/2 cup ice cream equals 1/2 cup milk; 1 cup plain yogurt equals 1 cup milk; 1 cup fruit-flavored yogurt equals 1/2 cup milk.

Ridin' fence

Ghosts riding the range

with Marj Carpenter

A former night watchman who died several years back wrote quite a recollection of early Big Spring in an old Big Spring Herald.

His name was J. W. Carpenter and he had been born in 1867 in a home 20 miles west of Ft. Worth. His parents had migrated from Georgia and he spent practically all of the early part of his life working among cattle and horses.

When he was 17, he hit the trail for Double Mountain in Haskell County. He got a job riding line and keeping cattle from wandering south off the range. He was alone for 30 days, assigned to stop the drifters and brand all the cattle that had been missed in the spring roundup.

He didn't like that lonesome job so he went back to Ft. Worth. The second time he left, in the spring of '87, he got his first glimpse of Big Spring while headed for Pecos.

Big Spring at that time, he recalled, was only a few shacks where the workmen for the railroad and their families lived. There were a couple of saloons and a general merchandise store.

He worked as a cowpuncher out of Pecos for a while and got tired of that and returned to Big Spring. All of his life he had heard of the Slaughter Ranch so he went straight to its headquarters at German Springs and applied for a job.

He was assigned seven or eight horses out of a bunch of 500 kept at headquarters, was issued a six shooter, bedding and a heavy piece of tarpaulin to cover it. He also had a good saddle and a lasso.

Slaughter owned a vast expanse of territory and had all the principal water holes leased. There were no fences and when a man wanted to settle, he just picked him a good watering place and took out a lease.

Round-up began each March and concluded in November. Then they would go into winter camp on the southern part of the range. They would watch for drifters and rustlers. The chuck wagon was filled with enough food to last for 30 days and all bedding was piled on top of it.

The outfit would start out with 15 men and stray men would be added on as they progressed. A round-up got its name by the way it was conducted. Men would circle out from the chuck wagon as much as six miles and work inward.

Each outfit was extremely proud of their cook if they had a good one. Every now and then the cook would stir up sour dough biscuits and there would be a riot to get a portion of the food.

At night, after all the yarns had been spun, the stock tales had been retold and the fire had died down until nothing remained but a few glowing coals, the men would roll out their tarp and let the stars sing them to sleep.

Once in a while, there was a killing, but usually between ranch bosses over a cow or doggie, Carpenter recalled. They knew no other way to fight except to a clean finish.

You know, these things occurred out between Big Spring and Lamesa. It's hard to realize that now when we drive out there and see all those cotton fields, but the memories and the ghosts of those cowhands are still there.

Carpenter in 1894 married Miss Winnie Barnett, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Barnett and they settled down in Big Spring. He used to recall that the really truly old settlers were the Barnetts, Joe and Benard Fisher, Bud Brown, Bud Roberts, Slaughter and J. L. Boydston.

There's people who would recollect others, but that's the way his memory recalled them — while he was still alive.

And the memories of those really hardy early settlers were here — back before there were any fences to ride.

Benefit plans due discussion

Individual and group retirement counseling for Teacher Retirement System members in the Midland-Odessa area will be available in meetings conducted by TRS staff Friday and Saturday, October 22-23, at Sam Houston Elementary School, 2000 West Louisiana, Midland.

TRS members planning to retire in 1977 may attend individual sessions with TRS retirement counselors by requesting an appointment by September 20. Counselors will have a complete retirement estimate for each member at the individual meeting and will be able to discuss the retirement options available and application procedures.

Proposed retirement benefit improvements to be considered by the legislature in January, along with the present retirement information, will be presented at the group meeting which will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, October 23.

This is one of a series of 15 area retirement counseling sessions scheduled by TRS across the state in an effort to make retirement information more readily available to members.

Son of black sharecropper returns home to East Texas

CALVERT, Tex. (AP) — A half century ago young Tom Bradley, son of a black sharecropper, left his native farmland in Central Texas as the family moved west in search of a better way of life.

Tom Bradley, the mayor since 1973 of Los Angeles — the nation's third largest city, returned to his birthplace Sunday.

He visited with relatives and walked the main street of this town of 2,072. He shook hands with the few persons who strolled the streets on a quiet and sunny afternoon. He was taken to the place where his home once stood. The shack has long since been torn down.

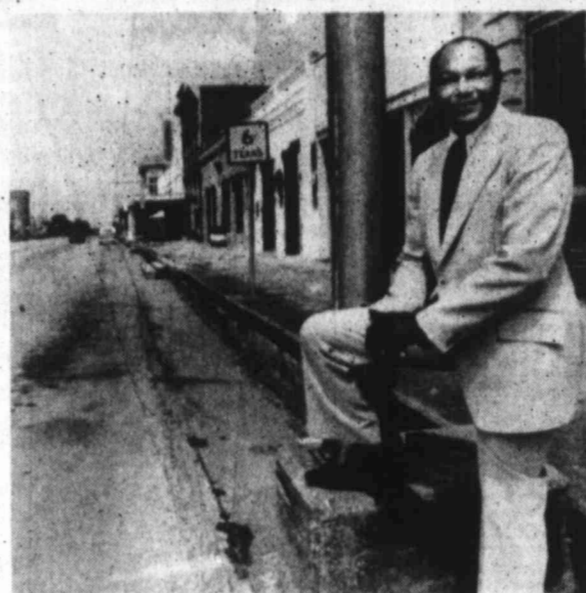

"It is something else to remember the people where I grew up as the son of a sharecropper," said Bradley.

Walking with him past the downtown cafe and antique shops of this old farming and cattle raising community were his aunt Bertha Woods, who last saw Bradley 51 years ago, and the white mayor of Calvert, Cooper Wiese.

Aunt Bertha, hobbling with a cane, said, "I've kept up with Tom and all the things he has done since leaving Texas. We are mighty proud of him and it is sure good to have him home, even if it's only for one day."

Bradley left Calvert at the age of 7, when his family moved first to Arizona and then to Los Angeles. He became a track star at UCLA and joined the Los Angeles police force in 1940, retiring as a lieutenant in 1961. He took his law degree from Southwestern University.

After winning a Los Angeles city council seat in 1963, he ran for mayor in 1969 and lost in a runoff.

MAYOR BRADLEY RETURNS HOME — Tom Bradley, mayor of Los Angeles, stands on Calvert's Main Street Sunday as he returned to his home town to help celebrate Tom Bradley Day. Bradley was born in the small East Texas town 58 years ago. His parents were share croppers. The town proclaimed Sunday Tom Bradley Day and threw a barbecue in the Los Angeles mayor's honor.
