Seeking 26 electoral votes

Candidates to swarm state

HOUSTON (AP) — Politicians will be swarming across Texas this weekend, attending football games, Halloween parties, visiting the Alamo, and other things near and dear to the heart of Texans in an effort to win this pivotal state in the Nov. 2 presidential election.

Most of the Jimmy Carter family will be at one place or another in the sprawling expanses of Texas, from the arid lands of the west to the rich vegetable and fruit growing acres of the south.

President Ford will center on the state's largest city — Houston — and attend a high school football game — a Friday night tradition for most Texas folks — at the nearby city of Baytown.

Not to be outdone, Rosalyn Carter, wife of the Democratic presidential nominee, will attend the Grambling and Texas Southern University football game at the Houston Astrodome, make a few brief remarks and flip the coin for the kickoff. Grambling and TSU are two predominately black schools with outstanding football reputations.

While Ford is centering his appeal to the Houston sections, where one-sixth of the state's voters live, Carter will be touching base in McAllen, a couple of miles from the Mexican border, and in San Antonio. Both of these cities have a strong Mexican-American vote, which has been in past year a Democratic stronghold.

Political observers say the election in Texas, with its 26 electoral votes, is too close to call. How Texas goes, so may go the election.

Not only are Carter and his wife barnstorming the state this weekend, but so are his son Chip and son Jeff and daughter-in-law Caron.

Mrs. Carter and little Amy, 8, will be in Houston for an airport news conference and then attend a Halloween party at Poe Elementary School, located in a middle-class neighborhood.

Caron Carter is going to appear in El Paso and at Midland-Odessa; while Chip hits Fort Worth and Austin and Jeff in Wichita Falls, San Angelo and Waco.

Ford, a former captain of the Michigan University football team, will watch Baytown Lee play Aldine McArthur High, with Lee attempting to stay on top of the league standings.

He will get a first-hand look at all the razzamatazz and emotions that Texans display every Friday night during the fall months when their hometown teams butt heads for glory and spots in the state playoffs.

Paul Morgan, a senior offensive lineman for Lee, said when informed of the president's visit:

"I just registered to vote. I'm not really sure how I will vote. I watched the debates and was impressed with both. I think I will be influenced by the appearance of the president. We're going to put on a good show for him. We'll show him what Texas football is all about."

The Baytown Lee Stadium seats 16,250 and about 10,000 attend the games. School officials said many more tickets were sold Thursday after it was announced that Ford would attend the game.

On Saturday, Ford will appear at an outdoor rally in the spacious Sharpstown shopping center.

Baytown is an industrial section of the greater Houston area where Democrats have long been strong. This year, however, Democratic Rep. Bob Eckhardt, seeking a sixth term in the U.S. House, is facing his strongest challenger ever from Nick Gearhart, a former television news director.

The Sharpstown shopping center is in Southwest Houston, an area of fine homes and nice apartments, and a GOP bastion. Rep. Bill Archer, a Republican, is unopposed in the general election.

Houston and the nearby suburban communities are a land of oil, gas, big banking and medical facilities and could tip the scales in the Tuesday election.

As the Carter family is blitzing the state, two influential Texas Republicans—Sen. John Tower and former Gov. John Connally—were shaking hands and calling news conferences from the far west to the far east.

Both Tower and Connally were telling voters Ford would win if the Republicans and the Independents and the conservative Democrats got out and voted.

Crucial week coming up for Webb hopes

Next week is shaping up as an important one for the future of Webb Air Force Base.

In addition to the public hearings on Webb which are scheduled to begin Nov. 4, Sen. John Tower has planned a meeting with Secretary of the Air Force Thomas Reed in Washington.

Sen. Tower has requested the meeting with Secretary Reed to discuss the Webb situation.

The public hearing for Webb will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the auditorium at Big Spring High School. The hearing will last until 10:30 p.m. If more persons want to testify, the hearing will be continued Nov. 5. The auditorium also has been reserved for Nov. 6 should the hearings last that long.

Mayor Wade Choate, chairman of the Legislative Action Committee which is fighting to save Webb, urged citizens to attend the hearings as a means of showing concern about Webb.

The Air Force will be represented by a team from the Air Training Command in San Antonio. Also coming are two officials from Washington.

The Air Force representatives will arrive here Nov. 3. They have asked to hear statements from congressmen and local officials in the afternoon before the Nov. 4 hearing.

Cong. Omar Burlison will meet with the Air Force at 1 p.m. Other officials will meet later that afternoon.

The Air Force has been conducting hearings at all six of the Air Training Command bases being studied for closure. The hearing at Laughlin AFB in Del Rio was conducted this week, and the hearing at Craig AFB (Alabama), another candidate for closure, is two weeks away.

After all the hearings are concluded, the Air Force will prepare a final environmental impact statement. The Air Force has said it hopes to have this done by early February 1977. The document then will go to the Secretary of the Air Force for a final decision, expected by March 1977.

Rain totals topping two inches for week

Rain continued throughout West Texas Thursday with 8 recorded in Big Spring and up to 1.1 in other parts of the county.

This made a three-day total of close to two inches of a slow, cold rain. It failed to ice over although four inches of snow were reported in Lubbock early today.

The most rain ever recorded in Big Spring during the month of October was in 1907 when 11.87 fell, which is the next to highest amount in a single month since 1900.

A 50-year average for the month of October is 2.02 and Big Spring passed that average just this week.

The cotton yield has not been hurt by the cold, wet weather, but the quality of the cotton may be damaged if the sun doesn't soon come out strong and hot, according to some of the area cotton experts.

Coahoma recorded, 1.1 during the past 24 hours with Sand Springs and Luther each reported an inch. Elbow had one inch during the past 24 hours and 1.2 the day before.

Ackerly recorded 1.4 on Wednesday and another inch on Thursday.

But all of this looks like just a light shower compared to the rain that fell on Big Spring back on Oct. 3, 1907 when it rained 5.08 inches in one day.

Nude female body harmful?

George Gilkerson, defense attorney of Maj. Harold Roy Freeman, continued his questioning of H. Guy Talbot, former special investigator for the district attorney's office, about evidence found in the Freeman home on a January 23, 1976 search and seizure.

Freeman is accused of family sex crimes.

Talbot has been on the stand since Wednesday recounting the seizure of 23 items in the early morning search of the defendant's home.

At one point in the questioning today, Gilkerson asked Talbot, "Do you consider the nude female body harmful to minors?"

Talbot required, "It was my opinion that these photos were, yes."

Gilkerson asked Talbot if he would have seized Playboys, had they been found on the premises. Talbot said he could not answer that at the present time.

Talbot testified Thursday afternoon in the pretrial hearing.

Gilkerson questioned Talbot extensively about where various items were found in the defendant's Sand Springs house.

Evidence found included books, magazines, slides, film and negatives.

One item "appears to be a script for a movie," Talbot said.

District Judge Ralph W. Caton recessed the hearing Thursday to conduct another pretrial hearing in a civil suit. The State of Texas is suing Price Construction Inc. over allegations of air pollution.

Absentee voting tops '72 total

According to County Clerk Margaret Ray, Howard County absentee ballots have already exceeded last election's totals. In 1972, 1,106 ballots were cast absentee. At 11:30 a.m. today, 1,114 ballots had been received. Although personal absentee voting ends at 5 p.m. today, mail ballots will be received by the clerk's office throughout the weekend which should make the total even higher.

Haunting set for both nights?

"When is Halloween?" telephone callers were asking the police dispatcher this morning.

Police requested that something be run in the newspaper to the effect that many area cities are encouraging trick-or-treaters to use Saturday night as their collection night since the holiday falls on Sunday.

There is no official designator of Halloween in such a case. However, most small children are expected to observe the holiday on Saturday.

The law enforcement officers plan to be out in force on both nights "just in case."

Caution is urged for motorists to watch for young goblins Saturday and parents are asked to use discretion if how far afield they send their trick-or-treaters from the immediate neighborhood.

David N. Sternlicht, an attorney for the Texas Air Control Board, said the pollution case had been slated for a jury trial in December.

Paul Gosselink, an assistant state attorney general, also was present at the hearing. Roger Brown represents

New firm locates here

The Big Spring Industrial Foundation this morning announced that an agreement has been signed by Highwood Products Company to purchase the 60,000 square foot Intech Building located in west Big Spring. Rene Brown, president of the Industrial Foundation, said this action was a result of several weeks of hard work by a lot of people to arrive at an agreement beneficial to all concerned. The sale price was not disclosed.

Highwood Products Company, a subsidiary of a Michigan-based firm established in 1918, is a manufacturer of decorative wall clocks and accessories. Their plans call for the Big Spring plant to be in production by January, 1977, and employment is expected to eventually reach 150 people.

J. D. Nelson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said, "According to figures prepared by the Texas Industrial Commission, the annual economic impact on the community of a firm this size would exceed $8½ million dollars. This is the type of economic growth that makes our efforts to attract industry worthwhile."

Ken Perry, president of Cosden Oil and Chemical Co., complimented the company by saying, "This firm has been a very good customer for some time. Our dealings go back to 1964 and we have enjoyed an excellent working relationship with them." Perry added, "I would consider this company to be in top 25 per cent of its field."

Tom Roy, industrial manager of the Chamber, commented on how the initial contact was made. "Ken Perry called me one day and said that in a phone conversation he had with the company, he had learned that they were looking for a location for a branch plant. We immediately followed up on that information and soon learned that the Intech building fitted their needs perfectly." Roy added, "This is a good example of what can happen when concerned citizens hear of opportunities for Big Spring and let us know about them. We really appreciate Ken's support in this endeavor."

Roger Brown, industrial team captain, commented on the company. "We have met several of the top management people and have worked closely with them. I have been very impressed with all of them. They are top-notch people and it's been a real pleasure to deal with them. I think they will be a fine asset to the community."

Anyone interested in future employment at the plant can contact the Texas Employment Commission office in Big Spring for details. All applications will initially be handled by the local TEC office.

Action/reaction: Not first

Q. Why did the Big Spring Herald say that the Young Democrats was the first political organization in the county, when this is not true?

A. This statement was made in error. The West Texas Republican Women's club is the longest continuous political organization here. Also, many times in the past, there have been active groups of both Young Democrats and Young Republicans.

If you have a question for Action-Reaction, call 263-7331.

New faces to come out of Texas races

By the Associated Press
There will be some new faces in the 1977 Legislature but no matter how the voting goes next Tuesday most of the 1975 Senate and House leaders will be back in Austin on Jan. 11.

Sixteen Senate seats will be on the Nov. 2 ballot along with the 150 House places.

Gov. Bill Hobby, Democrat, presiding officer of the Senate, is in the midst of a four-year term so he will not be up for a vote.

Speaker Bill Clayton, D-Springlake, has already won reelection in his West Texas district with no general election opponent. He is expected to be re-elected speaker of the 1977 Legislature with little or no opposition.

Eight of the 16 Senate seats have already been settled in the primaries and of the eight remaining contests the seven incumbents involved are favored.

Sen. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, 1975 chairman of the power State Affairs Committee, is home free in the Tuesday election. Sens. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, chairman of the Jurisprudence Committee; Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells, Economic Development, and Max Sherman, D-Amarillo, National Resources, also get a free ride Tuesday.

A Senate newcomer is Rep. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, who was promoted in the primaries. He takes the place of retiring Sen. Roy Harrington, D-Port Arthur.

Another new face will come out of the race between Rep. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, who defeated Sen. Mike McKinnon, D-Corpus Christi, and now is opposed by Republican James T. Smith of Ingleside.

Massey, D-San Angelo, Public Education; Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, Health and Welfare; Bill Sullivant, D-Gainesville, Environmental Affairs; Tim

Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, Judicial Affairs, and Craig Washington, D-Houston, Criminal Jurisprudence.

Two 1975 House committee chairmen were defeated in the Democratic primaries — Reps. Ben Bynum, D-Amarillo, chairman of the Insurance Committee, and E.L. Short, D-Tahoka, Intergovernmental Affairs.

More bad news for Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government index designed to predict future economic growth declined for the second month in a row in September.

The Commerce Department said today, bringing more bad pre-election news for the Ford administration.

The decline in the index of leading economic indicators was seventh-tenths of a percent in September, the same as in August. It indicates that the economic slowdown may continue.

Economists say they are not certain that the index points to an economic decline until it has gone down for three months in a row.

But the latest report seems certain to raise new questions about the strength of the economic recovery, since other recent statistics on economic growth and unemployment have also been disappointing.

However, one Commerce Department analyst said it wasn't clear from the index whether the decline reflected the slowdown in economic growth that has already occurred, or whether it pointed to a further slowdown in the months ahead.

The Commerce Department revised upward the decline in the August index, which originally was reported to have dropped 1.5 percent. However, the decline of seven-tenths of a percent for the month still is considered substantial.

The August decline was the first in 18 months since the nation began to pull out of the deep recession of 1974-

The index stood at 107.9 in September, compared with the 1967 base index figure of 100.

The major factor contributing to the September decline was a drop in new orders for consumer goods and materials.

Also contributing to the decline were the average work week, down to 39.6 hours from 39.9 hours the month before; the manufacturing job layoff rate, up to 1.5 percent from 1.3 percent in August; vendor performance, change in liquid assets; changes of sensitive prices, and the money balance.

'The Fairy Tale' featured Orchestra applauded

Steady rain which fell into the night, no doubt, reduced the size of the crowd but didn't dent the enthusiasm of those who did attend the first of four programs offered by the Community Concert Association in the municipal auditorium Thursday night.

The Polish National Radio Symphony Orchestra opened the program without an introduction, bringing rounds of applause from a throng entranced by the music written by the masters.

The orchestra opened with Stanislaw Moniuszko's Concert Overture: "The Fairy Tale," then brought cellist Roman Jablonski to center stage for a rendition of Franz Josef Haydn's Concerto in C major.

Jablonski may not have been born to play the cello but he responded to the challenge early and has been doing his home work. He made the instrument do everything but acknowledge

Daniel Schorr is 'write-in'

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — A group of Schenectady area residents has launched a campaign to enter the name of former CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr as a write-in candidate for the congressional seat held by Samuel S. Stratton.

Stratton led the recent unsuccessful fight to have Schorr cited for contempt for leaking a secret House report to the Village Voice, the newspaper which published it.

Stratton, who faces only token opposition for reelection next week, has dismissed the write-in campaign as "just a gag. Nobody in this district is going to seriously vote for Mr. Schorr."

Schorr, however, isn't even eligible to represent New Yorkers, since he is not a resident of the state.

Food show in Dawson County big production

LAMESA — The annual 4-H club food show in Dawson County is quite a big production.

The four clubs, Caprock, Klondike, Lamesa and Welch will hold weekly food show competition during the month of November.

Winners will then compete in the big countywide event on Dec. 4. The four senior winners and four junior winners will then go to the district competition in Lubbock on Dec. 11.

Mrs. Mickey Crump, home demonstration agent, said the girls really have a challenge this year since Cari Griffin, junior at Lamesa High School, went all the way to the state finals last year in the snack group vision. Her food prepared was muffins.

The girls not only prepared a special food, but they also prepare a table setting that fits that food in the contest.

In the near future, the HD office also is planning a microwave oven seminar to be held in Lamesa on Nov. 16. Texas Electric Service Co. representative from Big Spring will assist with that event.

U.S.-China computers 'deal'

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say the Ford administration will allow the sale of two "relatively advanced" computer systems to China as a symbol of support for the new government consolidating its power in Peking.

The Chinese say the first of the $2-million Control Data Corp. computers will be used to aid in oil exploration. The second, to be delivered later, is to assist in the detection of earthquakes which regularly plague the country, the Chinese said.

A knowledgeable U.S. official said "conceivably it has defense uses." However, informed sources said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger overcame skepticism within the Pentagon and among some intelligence specialists with the argument that the sale has international political value.

In his third debate with Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter last Friday, Ford was asked whether he would sell military equipment to China.

"I do not believe that we, the United States, should sell, give or otherwise transfer military hardware to the People's Republic of China, or any other Communist nation, such as the Soviet Union and the like," he responded.

With Hua Kuo-feng, the new premier, succeeding the late Chairman Mao Tse-tung and gaining the upper hand over so-called "radical elements," the State Department was said to be eager to demonstrate friendship for the new regime.

The deal still must be approved by "COCOM," an association of NATO allies and Japan, that monitors the supply of sensitive equipment to the Soviet Union and other Communist countries.

AF not living up to promise

With the presidential election running hot these days and the political fever refusing to be broken by ordinary pain killers, it seemed a good time to throw some cold water. Such a shock treatment was last week's Kiplinger Washington Letter, a weekly newsletter which has been mailed to subscribers from the nation's capital since 1923.

LOOKING BACK on the coverage of 14 elections, Austin Kiplinger noted how many political issues of decades ago are still with us now in principle, of how many "solutions didn't always solve." He remembers that two basic themes have run through most of the past 13 elections his newsletter has covered: 1) cutting government expenses; and 2) getting government out of business.

Kiplinger says that one issue in Coolidge's day was the number of government forms businesses had to fill out which were said to be repressive and costly. Sound familiar?

"Franklin Roosevelt had a cure for the Depression. Cut government, get rid of the waste, the swollen bureaucracy, reduce the budget," Kiplinger recalls. "He ran an 'economy' campaign in 1942, attacked Hoover as a spendthrift."

Kiplinger says that in some years, such as the early Eisenhower Administration, there has been fierce determination to slash spending. But then the effort was relaxed, and back to the deficits went the federal government.

KIPLINGER'S COMMENTS were not intended to add any apathy that the voter might have. Nor is my quoting from it. There are differences between the two major party candidates. It does make real differences in several areas who is elected to lead our nation at this time.

But whether the winner is President Ford or former Gov. Carter, we certainly shouldn't get too hopeful that the problems will all go away.

Though both candidates have promised to balance the federal budget, we should remember that history is against them.

'Not a factor'

Evans, Novak

RICHMOND, Va. — When President Ford's political managers arrived here late Friday night after the third debate in Williamsburg, their obvious relief that their candidate for once had taken their advice pointed clearly to Republican strategy for the campaign's final week.

Except for one instance, Mr. Ford had curbed his natural inclination, born of 25 years of combat on the House floor, to personally attack Carter. "I just hope it lasts," one senior aide told us late Friday night. On the state capitol grounds here Saturday morning, the President remained under control — reading his brief, bland prepared speech without improvisations of any kind, much less impromptu darts against Carter.

BUT MR. FORD taking the high road does not mean a free pass for Carter. Rather, a late television blitz of paid commercials is attempting to capitalize on public misgivings about Carter. The most valuable help the President can give is just not to attract much attention on the campaign trail.

"Putting it quite frankly," a key Southern operative for the Ford campaign told us after the President's Saturday swing through Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, "the President is not a factor down here." He meant that the Southern vote will hinge on approval or disapproval of Jimmy Carter — a situation that prevails only to a lesser degree in the rest of the country.

Polls that show Carter with a precarious lead in all high population states one week before the election reflect substantial erosion of his once overwhelming support. Behind that erosion is a hostility to Carter by Democratic politicians that they are careful to keep from public view.

ACCORDINGLY, Mr. Ford's media blitz — charted long ago by John Deardourff of Baily, Deardourff, and Byre campaign consultants, who joined the Ford strategy board after the Kansas City convention — intends to fortify doubts about Carter. The ingenious television spot (conceived and produced by Deardourff's partner, Doug Baily) of man-on-the-street interviews with anti-Carter comments is saturating the country.

This strategy was very nearly undone prematurely by Mr. Ford himself. Acting on both his own instincts and advice from some White House aides, the President followed his dismal performance in the second debate by launching personal attacks on Carter. That performance hit its depths during barnstorming in New York and New Jersey Oct. 13 and 14 when Mr. Ford was at his non-presidential worst, shouting extemporized denunciations of Carter.

That produced pleas from his political aides, headed by campaign manager, James Baker, to stress his own accomplishments and ignore Carter. On the eve of the Williamsburg debate, Ford insiders were uneasy. "You better believe that the President is a very, very stubborn man," one aide told us.

STUBBORN OR NOT, Mr. Ford did what he was told this time. His advisers winced when the President, visibly irked by Carter's assault on his administration's economic record, snapped that Carter "tends to distort on a number of occasions." But the rest of the time at Williamsburg he kept to the script.

Angina, arthritis pain distinguished

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had angina pectoris several years back, but it seemed to be getting better. Now for the last few months it is bothering me again. I have the chest pains which seem to radiate to my shoulder blade and arm.

My doctor seems to think it is arthritis. Can you comment? — Mrs. A. B.

The symptoms you describe are certainly classic ones in angina pectoris. In angina poor blood supply to the heart results in radiating pain such as yours.

BUT THIS should not be too difficult to determine. Arthritis pain should persist and be evident on the use of the limb. Rheumatoid arthritis is usually bilateral (that is, occurring in a two-sided manner — in both arms, both hands, etc.). Angina pain would become apparent after physical exertion generally, after a heavy meal, or perhaps even during emotional stress.

The conditions that cause angina, chiefly a narrowing of the arteries serving the heart muscle, don't usually correct themselves, but require lifelong attention. If you have changed doctors, you should tell your present one about your past angina treatment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am an 82-year-old lady. I have cataracts on both eyes which seem to be getting worse all the time. Is there any truth in the rumor that you can get your eyes operated on before the cataracts get ripe, as they call it?

I have to use a magnifying glass for reading my newspaper. That's how bad they are. — Mrs. E. B. W.

The term "ripening" has been discarded. Today, cataract removal (which is actually removal of the clouded lens) is done when vision becomes impaired to the point where one's normal activities are affected.

MODERN SURGICAL techniques permit removal of the cataracts at any stage of development. Readers will find a fuller discussion of cataract surgery in my booklet on the subject. For a copy, send 25 cents to me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 20-year-old woman to be married soon. My period will start the day before the wedding or on the wedding day itself. What can be done about this? I have heard there is an injection you can take to stop the menstrual flow. Is there such a thing? — J. B.

Yes, there is. Large doses of estrogen and progesterone (hormones involved in regulating the menstrual cycle) may be used. Not all obstetricians and gynecologists agree about this method, though. You will have to consult one of these specialists.

Birth control pills started a month in advance will not stop the period but may shorten the flow. Unless your present wedding plans are "set in concrete," I suggest you try to adjust the date rather than use hormone therapy frivolously.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you explain what nasal cautery is? I may have it done in the near future because of my frequent nosebleeds which last an hour sometimes. — T. C.

The membranes inside the nose are especially rich in small blood vessels. Bleeding usually occurs in vessels at the lower end of the septum. That is the hard partition separating the two nostrils.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: A question came up in our Sunday school class that baffles me. What happened to Christ's earthly body when He ascended into heaven? I have discussed this with several Bible scholars but still have no answer. — B.G.

DEAR B.G.: Christ did not have two bodies according to the Scriptures. When He came forth from the grave the body He had lived in for 33 years had been transformed by the power of His Father, and this is the body that ascended into heaven. It was the same body, but changed for immortal existence.

This glorified body was not limited to time and space like His fleshly body. He was able to pass through closed doors (John 20:19). His glorified body bore the marks of His suffering on the cross (John 20:20), which indicates that, in appearance, the glorified body is recognizable. Then, of course, the glorified body of Christ was not restricted in movement, nor subject to gravity (Acts 1:9).

The exciting thing about the glorification of our Lord is that our bodies, at the resurrection, will also be changed into the same glorified state. "It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body... in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump... the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall all be changed" (1 Corinthians 15:44, 52).

Of that day the Bible says, "The dead in Christ shall rise first... and shall never be with the Lord" (1 Thessalonians 4:16, 17).

Nothing changed

Around the rim

John Edwards

As I prepare to move to El Paso, I don't know what I regret the most: the women I didn't know or the stories I didn't write.

SORTING THROUGH papers, photos and personal artifacts has made me nostalgic this week and incredulous about the amount of useless junk one house, one office desk and two filing cabinets could hold.

The first time I left a newspaper was different. All those politicians, who had been so friendly, started ignoring me when they learned I was leaving Alice, home of infamous box 13. (My old voter registration certificate shows I lived in voting precinct one, I was discouraged to learn.)

When I returned to the Howard County Courthouse and everyone knew, I expected to find out whom my friends were again. I did.

Nothing seemed to have changed. My "friends" still liked me, it seemed, and my enemies did not.

As the chamber cleverly proclaims on match books, "you can't match Big Spring for friendliness." (What I still want to know is why local civic leaders couldn't think of something more scenic than the city police department and jail to advertise on post cards?)

I will miss other things, too: The regular Thursday morning headache from spending all my money at a disco.

Playing pool without fear in some of the most run-down bars in the world.

LIVING IN A $65-per-month home overlooking the city. It was $55 monthly until inflation caught up with decay.

Women who wanted to be just friends.

Friends who just wanted my women.

Calls from friendly women after midnight.

Answering personal questions from members of County Commissioners Court during "war-story" sessions.

Having single females attending these sessions offered as prospective wives by thoughtful commissioners.

Trying to stay awake when members of the court weren't telling jokes.

Watching Yankees try to teach me how to drink tequila and sending them get-well cards the next morning.

And learning about politics in the courthouse and in the office.

Then, there are those tasks which remain to be done. The city still closes one of the finest tennis centers in West Texas Sunday nights and Mondays, despite my periodic suggestions to the contrary. And publicity hasn't touched a number of more important government operations which could be improved.

Then, there was this girl with long black hair...

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

With the election only a few days away, it appears that many people have not decided how they will vote because of the claims and counter claims, charges and countercharges. Most people seem to vote out of feeling rather than logic. Here is a little logic to consider.

First, remember that the Republicans were handed a balanced budget, low inflation and low unemployment when they took over from the Democrats.

Since the Republicans took over, we have developed a large budget deficit, high inflation and high unemployment. They refuse to take the blame for this, blaming our woes on a big-spending Congress.

Now here is something to remember. Almost all the laws that this administration blames for the deficits were in effect when they took over and had been for several years. Yet there were no large deficits nor high inflation under the Democrats even though we were fighting a war a half a world away.

President Ford's main claim to fame seems to be that he has vetoed 59 measures while having only six overridden. How, then, can he blame Congress for our bills when he was able to block any legislation that didn't suit him?

Something else to remember is that an employed person pays taxes and is in effect a paying customer of the government. When he or she loses that job, he or she becomes a dependent of the government, thus helping to create a deficit which in turn creates inflation. So it would seem that unemployment is a bad thing.

Note this! Not even Arthur Burns, chief economic adviser for this administration, would deny that the Republicans deliberately set out to create unemployment. That was their formula for "cooling off" the economy. Remember their statements that some unemployment was tolerable or even desirable in order to combat inflation? The formula worked too well. Unemployment soared, inflation soared, budget deficits soared, and they found they had a tiger by the tail. So how do they propose to correct their error? Simply by using the same formula that caused the problem in the first place. Meanwhile they use as a scapegoat a Congress they have veto power over.

The only field to which the Republican can point with pride is foreign policy. Some good has been done and some bad (Helsinki agreements an example), but no one in his right mind would deny that the foreign policy is and has been a Kissinger policy. Now remember this! Kissinger is not running for President and it seems unlikely that he will be around much longer no matter who wins the election.

When we look at things as they were when the Republicans took over and consider what has happened since, we have to agree that their administration has been a disaster and that things have not been better under Gerald Ford than they were under his predecessor. In order to elect Mr. Ford, you have to accept his excuses. In other words, his only hope of returning to office rests in his ability to "pass the buck."

It would seem unlikely that the American people would let this happen even though they have been brainwashed for eight years. Our situation now is not new. It is an historical fact that Democrats have had to clean up messes created by Republicans many times in the past.

We think that on Nov. 2, they should be given a chance to do this again and that Mr. Ford and his cohorts should be relegated to their traditional role of complainers without the power to be the spoilers that they have been for the past eight years.

Dear Editor:

It is my belief that unless Texans give solid support to the Water Amendments in the November 2 vote, we may have to revive the aged poem, "The Ancient Mariner," as our state song.

The arguments being advanced by opponents are pointless when they say, "There must be a specific plan before we vote to tackle the water problem." You do not sit down and draw up a 25-year water plan for the southwest as you would for a 10-story building.

Before any master plan can be considered, we must have studies and conference with various states, with dozens of federal agencies, and even international bodies. These studies cannot be even started until money is made available by citizens of the southwest who have everything at stake and absolutely no lead time to spare.

The irony of it all is that when time runs out in the 1990s, and we have done nothing, the entire southwest will go down like the Titanic because of lack of vision and wisdom on the part of us now enjoying all the bountiful blessings of the present day.

From Houston, to high lonesome New Mexico, this is by far the biggest question facing the southwest today. Think it over.

R.B. McAlister
State Representative
Austin, Tex.

Dear Editor:

The issue before the next U.S. Congress which poses the greatest threat to our Texas economy is the prepared repeal of federal right-to-work laws.

Our state has benefited greatly from this law which frees workers from mandatory union membership and promotes economic growth. We have an unemployment rate little more than half the national average. New businesses from all over America are relocating in Texas and providing unparalleled opportunity. Our cost of living is nearly 10 per cent lower and real income is rising faster than in union dominated states. But all that could change after November.

Union bosses have had their eyes on Texas for a long time. Forced unionism in the now right-to-work states would give them a stranglehold on the entire U.S. economy. To that end, unions have contributed over a million dollars this year in hopes of controlling two-thirds of Congress. Jimmy Carter has already sold us out and agreed to sign the repeal measure if elected President.

Our own Sen. Lloyd Bentsen who tried to downplay the issue has nevertheless received over $35,000 in union money.

President Ford and U.S. Senate candidate Alan Steelman stand by the wishes of Texas in support of right-to-work. Please consider the future of our Texas economy when you vote November 2nd.

Ray Van Burskirk
9660 Forest Lan No. 188
Dallas, Texas 75243

Dear Editor:

What about Eugene McCarthy? In talking with his headquarters, I discovered that Sen. McCarthy has made many campaign stops in major cities in Texas; yet he has not been adequately covered by the news media, either pro or con, just basically ignored. This tactic is biased and therefore undemocratic publishing.

McCarthy is a serious candidate for the presidency. He has solid political views on the issues, and is fighting an uphill battle with the government and a press which refuses to recognize the valid proposition of an alternate vote.

A vote for McCarthy is not a wasted vote as some contend. A vote for McCarthy is a vote for those who feel that neither major party candidate can provide strong leadership.

MUZOREWA BRIEFS PRESS — Bishop Abel Muzorewa, one of the four black African leaders participating in the Rhodesia conference, gives statement outside the Palais of Nations today after the conference was adjourned until possibly Tuesday.

Black leaders call for elections

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Black Rhodesian leaders called today for elections that would effectively freeze whites out of a two-year interim government designed to pave the way to black rule.

White Rhodesian sources said Prime Minister Ian Smith reiterated his position that the conference's sole purpose was to ratify a plan under which whites would lead the interim government's ruling council and head the police and army ministries.

The plan was presented to Smith and black leaders last month by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. But Kissinger and Britain say the plan was a basis for discussion, not an agreement to which the blacks were committed.

Today's session recessed after 80 minutes for what its British chairman called "a period of informal consultations."

The four black Rhodesian leaders at the conference say they want power transferred immediately to the 6.4 million blacks in Zimbabwe, the African name for the British colony whose 278,000 whites declared independence from Britain 11 years ago.

"We have come here to do one thing, and that one thing is to work out the mechanics for the transfer of power from the colonial administrator (Britain) to the people of Zimbabwe," said Joshua Nkomo.

The other black leaders are Robert Mugabe, head of the guerrilla forces fighting from bases in Mozambique, and two Methodist clergymen, Bishop Abel Muzorewa and the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole. Nkomo and Mugabe have formed a "Patriotic Front" alliance for the talks and rebuffed overtures for unity from Muzorewa and Sithole.

The opening conference session Thursday was delayed for more than two hours while the British chairman, Ivor Richard, Britain's ambassador to the United Nations, got his government to agree to a demand by Nkomo and Mugabe that Richard be given cabinet rank.

Nkomo told reporters his side had "gone a long way toward... getting the British to accept their responsibility" as the legal sovereign authority in Rhodesia.

Bell rates hike deadline posted

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Utilities Commission announced Thursday it has received cases from seven of the intervenors in the Southwestern Bell rate case. The deadline for filing was noon on Tuesday.

Houston recommended a revenue increase of $60 million for the phone company. It also recommended approval of the firm's proposed "411" charge for calls to information. And Houston asked that it be combined with Dallas in the lower cost Rate Band 9, and that there be no increases in local rates.

The federal government, represented by the General Services Administration, recommended a revenue increase of $29 million, based on a rate of return of 7.62 percent. Neither Texas Retail Federation and nor Texas Alarm-Signal Association filed alternative dollar figures to Bell's request for $298.3 million, but the former attacked Bell's proposed business rates as unduly discriminatory toward business, and the latter opposed any increase in private line service used by the alarm and signal industry.

Dallas recommended a 4.5 per cent increase from the Dallas metropolitan area. The city agrees with Bell's request for directory assistance charges but says it should be pegged to cost of service rather than value of service.

Fort Worth also supports the "411" charge, with a base of five free calls.

Abilene, Burkburnett, Midland, Odessa and Tyler say Bell's present rates provide a fair rate of return. They also urge future telephone cases be considered on a regional rather than a statewide basis. The Bell case opens before the commission Monday.

Border town blues mounting

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The disease which has ravaged Mexico's economy is infecting Arizona's border towns.

The struggling peso plunged in value Wednesday for the second time in two months, and hovers at less than half of its August value. A peso was worth about 3 cents Wednesday. For 22 years, it had been worth 8 cents.

"This means disaster for Nogales (Ariz.) businesses," said Charles Fowler, executive director of the Nogales Chamber of Commerce. "Of course the people who are going to suffer the most are the Mexican people who are paid in pesos and buy their products here."

Mexicans had to shell out more than twice as many pesos Wednesday for each dollar's worth of product as they did before August 31, when the peso floated from 8 cents to 5. The situation makes shopping north of the border impossible on most Mexican pocketbooks.

In Nogales, where a majority of businesses are supported by Mexican customers, stores have reported drops in sales from 70 to 90 per cent.

But Fowler said nobody is ready to close.

"The main effect will be additional layoffs in employes," he said. "The peso is still floating and we really don't know yet what's going to happen."

Others echoed Fowler's opinion.

"It's up to the Mexican government now," said a Phoenix banker. He also pointed out that capital has been flowing out of Mexico for years and the August devaluation, possibly designed to stem that flow of foreign investment, apparently was unsuccessful.

Merchants in Tucson and Douglas said the timing could not have been worse for the peso's drop, because ordinarily early Christmas shoppers would be crowding the stores.

"They're good friends of ours and good customers (the Mexican people)," said Henry Jacome of Jacome's Department Store. "But we here in Tucson are going to have to learn not to depend on their business so much any more. They just can't afford to come up here to shop."

Many border merchants, until Wednesday, felt that Mexican citizens were beginning to adjust to the first devaluation of their currency. Sales figure, which dropped drastically at first, were creeping back up.

"After the first devaluation, business was gradually increasing daily so we hoped it would level off," Fowler said. "And now this happened."

Pat Shannon, executive director of the Douglas Chamber of Commerce, said that once Mexican nationals feel some basis for security of the peso, its value will return. But that may take months.

In San Luis, 90 to 95 per cent of the town's retail sales are to Mexican citizens. The Yuma County Chamber of Commerce reported that since the August devaluation, sales in San Luis have dropped from 25 per cent (hard goods) to 70 per cent (groceries).

Dora Roberts Rehab officers elected

Big Spring attorney Ben Bancroft has been reelected president of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center Board of Directors for the coming year.

Bancroft, who became president in January after Tom Locke moved to Wichita Falls, will be serving his first full year as head of the board which operates the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, 306 W. 3rd St.

Other officers elected are Al Lain, construction businessman, vice president; Maxwell Green, CPA, treasurer; and Tom Ross, First Data Processing, secretary.

New directors named to terms that will expire in 1977 are Dr. Gerald Moore, Rena Brown, Cassie vice president; Jere Sink, Security State Bank vice president; Dub Moore of First Federal Savings and Loan; Mrs. Myra Robinson, Robinson Drilling; and Andy Swartz, Swartz retail clothing.

At a meeting of the board Monday, the center's executive director Jack Davis presented the year end financial report which showed income of $239,108 and expenses of $220,231.

Davis noted that fees collected for rehabilitation services had gone beyond the $60,000 budget. The $74,700 actually collected had almost doubled from $38,000 in a two-year period, he said.

In discussion, board members noted that the percentage of fees being collected was still small, and the center still had a far way to go before it could be self-supporting.

Audiometric screening due

The Texas Department of Health Resources will conduct Audiometric Screening Techniques workshops at the St. Nicholas Episcopal Church in Midland Nov. 16, 17 and 18. These will be one-day sessions designed to train school personnel in techniques used in screening school children for possible hearing problems.

A calibration survey will also be conducted to determine if audiometers used in the schools meet national standards.

Persons desiring to attend one of these one-day sessions should contact the Texas Department of Health Resources, Division of Maternal and Child Health, Hearing and Vision Screening Program, 1100 West 49th, Austin, Texas 78756, no later than Nov. 9.

Plans for county barn at Lenorah discussed

STANTON — Plans for an addition to the county barn at Lenorah were talked at the Martin County commissioners court meeting this week.

Plans are for a 25 by 50 foot addition to the barn to house a fire truck for the Tarzan-Lenorah area.

The new addition will be on the east side of the building. In other action, the commissioners approved a pipeline crossing over a county road for Phillips Petroleum, interviewed engineers for the Martin County Fresh Water District project and listened to a request by Mrs. Kathryn Burch, extension service agent, asking for a new home economics building.

The water district project, will entail the installation of new main lines for the district in the northeast portion of the county. This project is financed by $100,000 Housing and Urban Development community development funds approved last year.

Engineers that appeared were from three firms including Harrison Engineering, Andrews; Willis Environmental Engineering, Lubbock and Freese; Nichols and Esmond Engineering in Odessa. No action was taken.

BISHOP ADAMS

Baker's Chapel sets dedication

Baker's Chapel A.M.E. Church will hold its dedication service of their new sanctuary on Sunday, Oct. 31 starting at 3 p.m.

The Rev. John Hurst Adams, presiding prelate of the Tenth Episcopal district of Texas along with the Rev. A.J. Davis, presiding elder of the Northwest Texas Conference, will lead the dedicatory service.

Bishop Adams, an educator, minister and speaker, is known throughout Texas as well as nationally within his denomination. He will speak in the afternoon.

Some of the capacities in which he has served include president of Paul Quinn College, president of the Ministerial Alliance of the African Methodist Episcopal Church and in many other positions.

He is presently serving as president of the Bishop's Council of Churches. He is also known for having improved the building program and beautification of Paul Quinn College.

Rev. W.G. Gilbert, pastor of Baker's Chapel, will deliver the first sermon in the sanctuary during the 11 a.m. service.

The members of the church, along with the pastor, extend a public invitation for the afternoon service.

Pastor named at St. Thomas

Although it is not uncommon for religious people to leave family and friends to enter foreign missions, it is certainly uncommon for one to start at 12 years of age.

However, Father Alan Brelivet, O.M.I., new pastor at St. Thomas Catholic church here did just that.

Father Brelivet was the last Frenchman recruited by the Oblates of Mary Immaculate for their Southern U.S. Province. He left his native Brittany at 12 years of age. He was tutored in French and Spanish as well as in English when he arrived in Texas.

To date he has 50 years as a professed Oblate and 44 years a priest. He is also an American citizen by choice.

Prior to his new pastorate here, Father Brelivet assisted at Colorado Springs, Colo. in Sacred Heart Parish. Prior to that he was in the Diocese of Corpus Christi.

He has spent 20 years in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas and seven years in Central Texas where he was a circuit rider for seven counties.

Father Brelivet is not new to this section of the country; he spent two years at Brady missions during the period 1933-34 when that area was under the Diocese of Amarillo.

Halloween insurance plan told

The young people of the First Pentecostal Church are currently selling Halloween insurance for this coming holiday.

For the nominal fee of $1, the youth group will insure that any windows that are soaped, any debris that might be left in your yard will be quickly and efficiently removed. This insurance protection will not cover any acts of vandalism.

All proceeds will be given to the Christian Youth Fund of the local church with tentative plans for a youth coffee shop to be opened in the city.

You may support this endeavor by calling "Insurance Headquarters," 267-8702 or 263-0615 and a policy will be delivered immediately.

Pentecostal Church announces revival on Nov. 2-7 here

The pastor and congregation of the First Pentecostal Church announce a one-week revival with Evangelist and Mrs. Ron Ramey from Houston.

This will be the second week of special services that Evangelist Ramey has held with the local congregation this year and Pastor M.J. Mullins relates that the effects of the first revival are still being felt within the church.

Mullins says, "Ramey's message and life speaks to the young people of this world and yet is also able to inspire and strengthen the adult generation." The church cordially invites all to come and share this special week of praise, prayer and preaching.

The revival will be November 2, 3, 4, 6 and 7 at First Pentecostal Church, 1010 West Fourth Street, and nursery service will be provided.

On Friday night, November 5 the local congregation plans to attend the Lanny Wolfe Trio "Praise Gathering" that will be held at Lubbock's Municipal Auditorium.

Be Subject To Government

Divisive 'pull on the purses'

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — A Baptist World Alliance leader says that non-denominational groups are exerting a divisive "pull on the purses" of the churches.

The Rev. Dr. Carl W. Tiller, associate secretary of the alliance, said many people are responding to "expensive advertising and promotional efforts" of nondenominational faith missions and relief organizations "seemingly unaware that our own Baptist denominational bodies are doing effective work toward accomplishing the same objectives."

Let every person be in subjection to the governing authorities. For there is no authority except from God, and those which exist are established by God.

Therefore, he who resists authority has opposed the ordinance of God; and they who have opposed will receive condemnation upon themselves.

HIM...

They call him a problem child. "Can't reach him," say some. "He won't respond," echo others. Young as he is, he's already been in trouble with the police.

Why? There are lots of words, lots of phrases, to describe youngsters like this. The papers are full of them every day. There are lots of excuses given — for him, and for society. Are they valid?

This boy has parents. Why can't they reach him? Is it, perhaps, because they can't really reach themselves? Because they've never found themselves?

Self-discovery takes courage. It doesn't come easily. It takes help. It demands faith. The starting point for a quest of this kind is in the Church. This boy needs the Church. So do his parents. So, for that matter, do we all!

Halloween cookies

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you are planning to bake cookies for a youngster's Halloween party, or to give to neighborhood doorbell ringers as a treat, you might like to use the following recipe.

We chose this recipe because it is made with peanut butter, a flavor that children favor, and because although these cookies are thin, they are not fragile. A friend who lives in the country took some home for her two sons and reported that even the broomstick shapes, with their thin handles, arrived without a crack.

To shape the cookies we borrowed a set of Halloween cutters from another friend. These come five to a box in bat, owl, cat, pumpkin and the broomstick shape. Our friend tells us she bought the cutters in a variety of hardware store — she can't remember which!

The bat shape is 2 inches high and 4 inches wide. The owl is 3 inches high and 1 1/2 inches wide. The cat is 3 inches high and 2 1/2 inches wide. The pumpkin is 2 1/2 inches high and 3 inches wide. The broomstick is 5 1/2 inches high and 1 1/2 inches wide. When we say "high" and "wide" we mean of course at the highest and widest points. With these cutters we managed to achieve 18 bats, 20 owls, 19 cats, 27 pumpkins and 17 broomsticks — over 8 dozen cookies in all.

The reason we give you these details is that if you haven't a set of Halloween cutters or can't acquire one, you may want to cut the shapes out of cardboard, flour them and cut around them on the cookie dough.

NO TRICK TREATS — Made with peanut butter, this treat was designed for youngsters. Oldsters may be interested to know that the can in the picture, used as a flower holder, was a container for peanut butter in the late 1920's and '30's and that similar cans are now collected.

HALLOWEEN COOKIES

- 3 cups flour, stir before measuring
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 c. butter or margarine
- 1/2 c. creamy peanut
- 2-3rds cups sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 c. molasses

On wax paper thoroughly stir together flour, salt, baking powder, baking soda, cloves, ginger and cinnamon.

In a large mixing bowl cream butter, peanut butter and sugar. Add egg and molasses and beat until blended. Add flour mixture and beat until blended. Chill dough, covered, until firm enough to roll — about 1 hour. Dough may be chilled longer; it keeps for weeks in the refrigerator.

Cut dough into fourths and work with 1/4 at a time, keeping remaining portions in the refrigerator.

On a floured pastry cloth, with a floured stocknet-covered rolling pin, roll out one portion of the dough as thin as possible — about 1-16-inch thick. With floured cutters, cut into desired shapes. Place 1/2-inch apart on ungreased cookie sheets.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until lightly browned around the edges — 6 to 7 minutes.

Yield will depend on the size of the cutters used.

400 recipes are given in the illustrated "Cecily Brownstone's Associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to "The Associated Press") to this Big Spring Herald in care of AP COOKBOOK, Box G4, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

Clubhouse Girlstown in Forum project

The Modern Woman's Forum met Friday, Oct. 22 to tour the campus of Girlstown U.S.A. located near Whiteface, Texas. A shower of gifts was taken for the home. Lunch was served to the club at noon.

Girlstown is a project of The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Girlstown U.S.A., founded in March of 1949 at Buffalo Gap, moved in July to 1,425 acres of land near Whiteface given by a Lubbock attorney.

Since that time Girlstown has expanded to three campuses licensed to serve 125 girls. The home at Whiteface serves 64 girls, 16 of whom live in a cottage given by Harry W. Halton. A dormitory houses the remaining 48 girls. The dining hall is used also for vespers and group sessions.

A large fireplace adds cheer and warmth on cool days. A gym and swimming pool have been provided for recreation. Offices are in the Administration Building.

House parents live in the dormitory and cottage with

Want to 'hide nudity' from 10 year old

DEAR ABBY: Our 10-year-old daughter (I'll call her Mary) has been bathing her 5-year-old brother for two years. She does a good job, and it's a big help to her mother's aching back.

Last week Mary's little girlfriend, whom I'll call Amy, slept over. Mary let Amy help bathe her little brother. You won't believe this, but the next day Amy's mother phoned me to say that she and her husband were "furious" because we allowed Amy to see a naked male! She said they hadn't planned on telling Amy the facts of life until she reached puberty, but since she saw a naked boy, she's asking lots of questions they aren't prepared to answer. She also said that Amy could not stay overnight at our home again.

Abby, Mary's bathing her little brother was so normal and innocent for this household that I never gave it a second thought. How can I explain to Mary why Amy can't sleep over again? I don't want the girls to think they've done anything wrong, because in my view they haven't.

FLABBERGASTED

DEAR FLABBERGASTED: Tell Mary the truth, that not all parents handle nudity and sex education the same way. And without putting Amy's parents down, explain that they prefer the hush-hush, dress-in-the-closet approach, while you take the more casual, open, no-big-deal attitude. (P.S. I think your approach is healthier.)

DEAR ABBY: I like this guy who lives near me (we're both juniors in high school) but he calls me his "buddy." I would like to be closer than that but can't seem to get him to realize it.

He always tells me his troubles, talks about other girls and asks for my advice, but when it comes to a school dance or a movie on the weekend, he asks somebody else.

Should I drop him?

ONLY A BUDDY

DEAR BUDDY: Face it, rarely does a romance bud between a young man and a girl he calls his "buddy." Enjoy your relationship on a platonic plateau and don't hope for anything more. Don't drop him because the more buddies a girl has, the better are her chances for a boyfriend. Every buddy has a buddy, and one of those buddies can become a boyfriend.

the girls, one parent for each eight girls.

The goals of Girlstown are to provide residential care, group programs and activities to aid girls in overcoming inadequate social skills and wayward behavior, also to develop new interests and to provide setting for education or vocational training for each girl. Girls who have been abused, neglected or who are potentially delinquent are given care, love and the chance to have a good life.

Natural gas firm befuddles Socialist

By JIM DAVIS
 Harle-Hanks Austin Bureau
 AUSTIN — Pat O'Reilly, Socialist Workers candidate for the Texas Railroad Commission, Monday called for nationalization of the troubled Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. but he had problems making clear exactly what he meant.

ownership. He also talked about ownership by the workers.
 "Are you saying the U.S. government should own Lo-Vaca?" a reporter asked. "Yes," O'Reilly said, finally resolving the matter.
 As a first step toward ending what he called "complicity between the Railroad Commission and Lo-Vaca extortion," the candidate said the financial books of the company should be opened to the public.
 "Let us open Lo-Vaca's books to public inspection. If the company is unable to continue enriching Mr. Wyatt and friends, they should apply to the Department of Welfare, not the Railroad Commission, for aid," O'Reilly said. He was referring to Oscar Wyatt, founder of the Coastal States oil and gas group that includes Lo-Vaca.

 Asked about a proposal that the customers of the firm purchase the operation, O'Reilly said the customers "already have bought Lo-Vaca 10 times over."

Lo-Vaca received Railroad Commission approval to pass on higher gas costs directly to customers and that led to prices much higher than provided under long-term contracts.
 "Both my Democratic and Republican opponents promise a continuation of the 85-year history of the Texas Railroad Commission helping to increase the profits for the industries it is supposed to regulate," he added.
 O'Reilly is not considered by most observers as a likely winner in the Nov. 2 election. He is a 31-year-old Houston resident and employe of Southern Pacific Railroad. He said he can campaign only on weekends of days he manages to get off.
 "Win or lose this election, I will continue to support consumer protests directed against the utility companies," he said.

Six HC students attend OEA confab

Six students and two sponsors from Howard College recently returned from attending the OEA Officer Training Conference held at the Shamrock Hilton in Houston on Oct. 21-23. Attending were Bruce Campbell, Becky Blalack, Bobby McCracken, Patty Self, Sonya Worthan, Lupe Morales.

Margaret Mead in Hall of Fame
 NEW YORK (AP) — "My two interests in awards," said anthropologist Margaret Mead, "are to publicize an institution that's important or to accept a tax-free gift I can then give to some other good cause."
 So saying, she was inducted Thursday into the Woman's Hall of Fame, in Seneca Falls, N.Y., site of the first Women's Rights Congress in the late 19th Century.
 In the ceremonies at Carnegie Recital Hall, two women were named posthumously to the hall of fame: Abigail Adams, wife of President John Adams and mother of President John Quincy Adams; and athlete Babe Didrikson Zaharias.

(AP WIREPHOTO) ATTENDS FUNERAL SERVICE — Melvin Lane Powers, nephew of Mrs. Candace Mossler, leaves funeral service for her Thursday on Miami Beach. Powers and Mrs. Mossler stood trial for the murder of her husband in 1966 and were acquitted. Mrs. Mossler died in her Miami Beach hotel suite Wednesday. Powers' companion is unidentified.

Rites for Candace Mossler held

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Candace Mossler, acquitted in a sensational trial of the murder of her wealthy second husband, was to be buried beside him today in Arlington National Cemetery.

Services for Mrs. Mossler, an apparent victim Tuesday of what medical examiners said was accidental suffocation, were held here Thursday with more than 100 friends and business associates present.

The mourners included Melvin Lane Powers, Mrs. Mossler's nephew and co-defendant in the 1966 trial. Mrs. Mossler and Powers were accused of being lovers who plotted to kill Jacques Mossler. He was bludgeoned and stabbed to death June 30, 1964, in the Mosslers' expensive Key Biscayne apartment.

Acquitted, Mrs. Mossler and Powers lived together for a while but eventually separated. She later married and then divorced Barnett Garrison in Houston.

Garrison said in Houston this week that property from their 1975 divorce decree was never divided. He thus laid claim to part of her estimated $33-million estate, which she inherited from Mossler's Houston and Miami financial empire.

Officials at Arlington National Cemetery said a plot had been reserved for her beside Mossler, a World War I veteran who married her in 1948.

The casket was closed at services for the blonde socialite, who claimed to be 55 but was believed to be 62.

"Pray for the good and compassionate side of her life," said Dr. John Lancaster, pastor of Mrs. Mossler's Presbyterian church in Houston. "We give thanks that the trials and pains and sorrows have ended."

Medical Examiner Joseph

Davis said his autopsy showed a non-lethal level of sedatives in Mrs. Mossler's body. Dr. Davis said this probably caused her to suffocate when she rolled over in her sleep and buried her face in a pillow.

Cry against porno helps sales, sociologist says

HOUSTON (AP) — A University of Houston sociologist and sex researcher says recent studies show pornography has no effect on a child's sexual adjustment.

But its absence, said William Simon, is usually indicative of a repressive environment that may produce disturbed adults.

Simon, 46, a former senior research sociologist for the Institute of Sex Research at Indiana University, said Houston parents who want tighter controls on pornography sales may be doing their families more harm than good.

"The present hue and cry make pornography appear wildly seductive, wildly exciting and are only helping pornography sales," he said.

Besides, he said, children are not the major consumers of pornography.

"The purchasers are the kids' fathers," he said. "The fathers are so hung up because they grew up in a world without pornography."

Simon was referring to a proposal that City Council adopt "community standards outlawing" pornographic materials.

An organization known as Citizens Against Pornography has presented the proposal to council, which referred it to the city legal department.

Jury deliberating fate of brothers

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Two brothers charged with murder sat in a courtroom crowded with friends and relatives this morning as a jury continued deliberations.

Defense lawyer Percy Foreman and Hidalgo Dist. Atty. Oscar McInnis finished their final arguments Thursday afternoon before the seven-man, five-woman jury which listened to 14 days of testimony.

Juan Daniel Moreno Jr., 31, and his 25-year-old brother, Francisco, are charged with murder in connection with the pistol-and-shotgun slaying of Alfredo Tirado, a Mexican national, on the parking lot of a McAllen cafeteria the afternoon of Aug. 8.

If convicted, the brothers face a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

he thundered. "Is that fair play? Is that cricket? Is that kosher?"

McInnis countered by telling the jurors Foreman "followed a familiar and well-known tactic — attack the police. That takes the heat of your own clients."

He also said if there was "any rabbit on a string it was Alfredo Tirado ... a man being shot at by three people with no way to defend himself."

The jury began deliberating at 5:19 p.m. Thursday as Foreman, the 67-year-old Houston lawyer, told them the Moreno boys were indicted by a jealous McAllen police department.

"Who ever heard of a Chicano living in a home like this?" he asked referring to a picture of the Moreno residence. "Who ever heard of one driving a Cadillac?"

"This was supposed to make all of you resentful because they have more than you do," he said.

"All of you are equally guilty or could be if anyone in the McAllen Police Department chooses to name you as a defendant."

Celtics unbeaten

Knicks knocked

By the Associated Press

Before meeting the New York Knicks, the Cleveland Cavaliers gave them great respect.

"We figured the Knicks were the best team in the league ... we lived in fear of their fast break," said Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch.

After beating the Knicks, the respect was reversed.

"They didn't allow us to run as well as we did in the past," said New York Coach Red Holzman after his team lost a 114-90 National Basketball Association decision to the Cavs Thursday night. "We didn't play well and they did. They are a good ball club."

Good preparation was the key to Cleveland's victory.

"We had to stop their fast break," said Fitch, "... and we did. They just got one out of their system. We played well with the lead tonight—unlike our first two games."

The loss was the first after three victories for the Knicks while the unbeaten Cavaliers won their third game.

In other NBA games, the Boston Celtics whipped the Buffalo Braves 112-105, the Denver Nuggets stopped the Milwaukee Bucks 119-100, and the Golden State Warriors trimmed the Portland Trail Blazers 112-92.

Bobby Smith scored 23 points and Campy Russell added 18, leading Cleveland's victory. The Cavaliers went on a 31-11 tear in the second quarter to break open the game.

The Knicks played without guard Walt Frazier, who was out due to a death in his family. Austin Carr came off the bench to score nine points and ignite the Cavaliers' second-quarter burst as the Knicks never got within 14 points after that.

Celtics 112, Braves 105

Charlie Scott scored 31 points, pacing Boston over Buffalo. The unbeaten Celtics, who won their third game, had a 14-point lead by halftime and maintained an 11-point bulge at the close of the third period. The outcome never was in doubt after that.

Nuggets 119, Bucks 100

Dan Issel poured in 26 of his game-high 30 points as Denver, also unbeaten in three games, jumped to a 60-51 first-half lead and cruised past winless Milwaukee.

Warriors 112, Trail Blazers 92

Rick Barry scored 34 points with the help of a newly developed set shot in leading Golden State over Portland. Rookie center Robert Parish and substitute Charles Dudley, along with Barry, keyed the Warriors offense in the third quarter when they went ahead to stay.

NOBODYS BALL — The New York Knicks center, Spencer Haywood reaches over his back and Cleveland Cavaliers players Jim Chones and Bobby Smith converse on a loose ball under the Knicks basket. Ford to watch Texas football

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP) — The coaches of two Texas high school football teams will have little trouble getting their players up for tonight's game. The President of the United States will be in the stands.

"We are going to show him what Texas high school football is really like," said one player.

President Ford, in a last minute offensive in Texas, decided to participate in the state's Friday night ritual by attending the annual high school football battle between Baytown Robert E. Lee and visiting Aldine McArthur.

Paul Morgan, an offensive lineman for the Lee Ganders who are currently leading their district with a 4-0 record, said the team "will put on a good show for the President."

"I think it is a great honor he picked our school," said Morgan, who is a registered voter and plans to go to the polls next week.

Morgan said he has not made up his mind on his candidate for president, but noted that "being close to the President" might have an influence on how he votes.

"I am looking forward to my first vote," he said. "I watched one of the debates and I thought President Ford looked good, but I was impressed by both."

Morgan said his parents usually vote for Republican candidates.

John Kenney, another offensive lineman who admitted he is a Ford fan, cannot vote because he missed the legal age by 20 days.

"But I worked for President Ford in the campaign," he noted. "I distributed propaganda material and talked to people."

Kenney said he was a volunteer for a Ford committee in Baytown and comes from a Republican family.

"I watched the debates and have followed President Ford in the newspapers. I read what he said and I agree with his views on different subjects. I find Carter kind of hard to understand on some issues."

Kenney said the players found out about the President's visit early Thursday and were "very excited."

"We are very honored that he is coming down here to watch us play. We are privileged to play before him. We will play in such a way that we will make him remember Texas high school football."

Coach Ron Kramer, in his 9th season as head coach of the Ganders, said: "Just think, the President of the United States... this is really going to be a thrill for a lot of young people and adults Friday night."

Gander Stadium seats 16,250 people and about 10,000 attend the games, but school officials said many more tickets were sold Thursday after it was announced that Ford would attend the game.

Former adviser to Nixon enters prison in Arizona

SAFFORD, Ariz. (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman, highest ranking member of the Nixon administration to go to jail, will be treated "no better or no worse than anyone else" at the Swift Trail Federal Prison Camp here, officials say.

The 51-year-old former No. 2 adviser to Richard Nixon spent his first night in a barracks-like dormitory at this minimum-security desert prison. There are no bars or fences here, and prisoners are called by their names instead of wearing numbers.

One of Ehrlichman's daughters drove him to the camp at the base of 10,000-foot Mt. Graham on Thursday, after he received judicial permission to begin serving sentences for two Watergate convictions.

He had decided not to wait for a review of his case by the U.S. Supreme Court, which he hopes will reverse the convictions. Unless he wins a reversal, or his sentence is reduced at the discretion of his trial judge, Ehrlichman must serve 2½ years before parole.

The balding Ehrlichman, who had grown a thick beard in the months after the Watergate coverup trial, arrived at the prison clean shaven. Federal prison rules prohibit beards.

Camp administrator John Haddin said Ehrlichman would be placed in the general work pool for two weeks, and then given an assignment that suits his qualifications. Prison factories make trousers and leather gloves, with glove sales reaching $970,000 last year.

Haddin said glove-making is a "pretty popular assignment here because men can earn money at the job. The 100 men who make the gloves sit at sewing machines to do their work."

The prison has a few private rooms, but most inmates live in dormitories with 55 to 60 beds, Haddin said.

Art Espinoza, community programs director for the

'Anastasia' calls book mess

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP) — For 56 years, Mrs. John E. Manahan has said she is Anastasia, grand duchess of Russia. A new book contains arguments that could help her claim, but she's having none of it.

"No, no, I don't like it. It's a put-together mess," the 76-year-old woman said about the book by two British journalists.

One complaint against "The File on the Tsar" by Anthony Summers and Tom Mangold involves a photograph which she finds unflattering.

Other complaints involve the authors' case. She says all members of the royal family — not just the women — survived an effort to kill them in 1918. She has not said how.

prison, said a third of the inmates are enrolled in college or vocational programs. Ehrlichman recently published his first novel, "The Company," and is said to be working on another.

Volunteers are trained in fighting forest fires, and more than 100 inmates fought fires in national forests in the summer of 1976.

Because the camp is minimum security, the walls are low and serve mainly for landscaping.

"If they decide to go, they go," said Haddin. "Then we apprehend them and send them to a tighter institution."

Ehrlichman, who was Nixon's domestic counselor, is serving concurrent sentences of 20 months to 5 years in the so-called White House "plumbers" case and 30 months to 8 years in the Watergate coverup. His codefendants in the latter, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, remain free pending appeal.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to get together with friends who mean much to you and to work out a plan of action whereby you can see them regularly in the days ahead. Also good for attending social gatherings where you meet interesting persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan some time to be with good friends who are devoted to you and can give you the relaxation you need. New aims can be gone after with good results following. Avoid one who does not really respect you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Consulting with influential persons can lead to advancement with little effort now, so get at this early. Become more interested in civic matters as this can help you get ahead.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A new plan you have in mind should be discussed with an expert. This can lead to a successful venture.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find the right formula to carry through with contracts you have made. Show more affection for a loved one and the evening is a happier one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study contracts with others and find out how they can be improved, worked out more satisfactorily. Use your smile more in order to reconcile with one who has opposed you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Doing whatever pleases associates and friends is wise today and tonight. First get some important work completed, though.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Ideal day to have fun at sports that you like and get relief from tension. Do whatever is dramatic in order to gain the affection of your mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Ideal day to take care of domestic chores. Study into some new projects that interest you. Avoid one who is tiresome and detrimental to your best interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Consider how to make your usual interests more successful and put brilliant ideas across nicely. Convincing a co-worker is wise in order to gain cooperation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put across those ideas that will help you to add appreciably to your present abundance. Make necessary repairs to property. Avoid one who has strange ideas and could get you into trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to gain the aid of influential persons you know so that you gain your aims more readily. Attending group affairs is wise since you meet interesting personalities. Avoid being extravagant.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Give some thought to what it is you want out of life and how best to attain it. Listen to what an expert has to suggest.

Happy Halloween

Conviction affirmed

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has affirmed the conviction of a Dawson County man accused of burglary.

Lloyd Wayne Swanson was appealing his conviction and five-year prison sentence on a charge of burglarizing a warehouse on May 19, 1975.

Swanson took the stand in the trial court to deny he participated in the burglary and said he had only agreed to sell some items without knowing they were stolen.

Among other things, the appeal claimed testimony implicating Swanson by others charged with the crime was insufficient. The appeals court ruled, however, there was sufficient corroborating evidence.

Drill bits said stolen

Drill bits worth $4,800 were reportedly stolen to the Howard County Sheriff's Department Thursday morning.

The bits, reported missing by Troy Harris of D. B. Drilling Co. in Abilene, were reportedly taken the night of the 24th from the doghouse at Haney No. 1, eighteen miles north of Big Spring. The three bits, one new and two used, were probably taken for resale, Sheriff Standard said. He said that there was an underground market for stolen oil drilling equipment.

Standard said his job was complicated by the lack of physical evidence available. The rig has been moved to Ira since the crime, and the Haney location did not provide much evidence. Standard did say that the lock on the doghouse had been forced.

Ridin' fence

What's in a name? with Marj Carpenter

First they said Emily Dolvin was coming to town. Then Ed Renner. And then somebody named Maddin. I tried to be excited.

However, even when I found out that those were Jimmy Carter's aunt who is for Carter; the Undersecretary of Commerce who is for Ford and the fellow that's head of the Texans for Ford committee, I had a difficult time being impressed.

The public has been absolutely deluged this election with people for people. They also have been deluged with debates and smiles and tears and innuendos.

Even way out in the pasture when I'm ridin' fence, people are sick of it all. I tell them if you think it's bad out here, you ought to be in there where I am.

Back earlier in the year, the Herald won a number of awards from the Harte-Hanks newspaper chain on Bicentennial coverage last year between July 4, 1975 and July 4, 1976.

I waited for days for that to be run in our newspaper and watched the Abilene newspaper brag on their wins. So I decided to include them in this column.

One of the three first places went to Joe Pickle for his Fourth of July editorial in 1975. I think this should be mentioned because he was Electronic media slammed Old style politicking best?

By SCOTT CARPENTER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Last week Alan Steelman was talking to about 100 students at TCU when a couple of maintenance men happened by.

"Who's that?" one inquired.

"Couldn't be anyone important," the other said. "I don't see any secret service."

Of course Steelman's Democratic opponent, Lloyd Bentsen, doesn't have any secret service either. He hasn't since he found out that he and the Texas Democratic leadership were about the only people in the whole world who thought he ought to be president.

The maintenance man's comments weren't aimed at Steelman. Rather they are a comment on what has happened to political campaigns.

Just about everyone has become blasé about those who ask to participate in the leadership of the nation and the free world. Television has brought presidential and vice presidential candidates into our homes nightly.

We are bombarded by expensive television and radio advertisements spouting the names and the beliefs of candidates at almost all levels of government. The process is so expensive that it has limited those who can afford to seek public office.

The presidential and other debates on television have at least allowed the contrived messages of candidates to be challenged to bring forth the complete answer.

But in making single appearances accessible to millions we have all but eliminated another more personal form of campaigning.

Fewer and fewer people are attending political gatherings. Crowds estimated at 50 to 100 barely fill 12 chairs. It has gotten to the point that unless there's another reason for being there — like a chili cookoff — people just don't go.

It may be that the voters are telling candidates what Rhett Butler told Scarlet,

"Frankly my dear, I don't give a damn."

The importance of political gatherings is that is where people can talk back to the television image they've been fed. That is where someone's question can be answered as they decide which candidate to vote for.

My first exposure to a political gathering came at a late age, after I moved to Texas from Washington, D.C., where no one was allowed to vote on anything until 1960 when they first voted in a presidential race. They now get to select a city council, but still don't have a vote in Congress.

It was a meeting at Blanco County where the county square was filled to hear all sorts of folks running for all sorts of things talking about how government should serve the people. More importantly, the people were telling the candidates how they wanted their government run.

One lady brought a platter of her special "no bake" cookies, a group of ladies brought gallons and gallons of coffee and there were lines of wash tubs with a red liquid the kids called "bug juice."

Those meetings still occur, but the crowds just aren't there. The electronic media has certainly made it possible for the candidate's voice to reach many more people, but I wonder if the old style didn't let the candidate hear from more people.

Shah's party is Saturday

Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, Shahansha of Iran, who turned 57 Tuesday, will be honored by about 500 celebrants Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Webb AFB Officers' Club ballroom.

Maj. Mehdi Arbabi, the Iranian country liaison officer at Webb, and students will host the gathering of invited base and townspeople.

Iranians annually pay tribute to their monarch who, since ascending to the throne in September 1941, at age 21, has led his country through a series of economic, social and administrative reforms, including a land reform widely considered to be one of the world's more successful.

The period since 1963, known as Iran's White Revolution, has been characterized by rapid modernization and economic growth, internal political stability and a dynamic foreign policy that has elevated Iran to a leadership role in the region.

Iran's success was symbolized by the coronation of the Shah in 1967 and the celebration of the 2,500th Anniversary of the Persian Empire in 1971.

U.S.-Iranian relatives have been close for many years. The United States has sought to cooperate with Iran in maintaining its independence and in making social and economic progress.

Baseball complex funding approved

The city of Big Spring received word at noon today that the Department of Parks and Recreation had approved $43,250 toward lights for the Roy Anderson Baseball complex.

Jerry Foresyth, assistant city manager, said that it is a matching funding and will have to be met by city funds. He did not know at this time if they are yet available.
