Gilmore executed by firing squad

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP) — Gary Mark Gilmore, the killer who demanded death and twice attempted suicide in prison, was executed by a Utah firing squad today, held to a chair by white nylon straps.

The 36-year-old Gilmore was the first person to be executed in the United States in nearly 10 years. His lengthy fight for the execution, which was stayed three times, drew worldwide attention.

Gilmore, sentenced for the shooting death of a Provo, Utah, motel clerk, wore a T-shirt and pants as he faced the five-man rifle squad in what was once the prison canteen. He died at 5:06 a.m. MST.

A witness said blood emerged through Gilmore's black shirt onto his white pants after the riflemen fired.

Some 40 minutes after a federal appeals court in Denver overturned the third stay of Gilmore's execution, a spokesman for the prison dictated a short announcement of the death. Outside the prison, some 60 opponents of capital punishment stood in silence.

GARY MARK GILMORE

"The order of the 4th District Court has been carried out. Gary Mark Gilmore is dead," the prison spokesman told newsmen.

Lawrence Schiller, who has the rights to Gilmore's life story, then described the execution. He said there were about 20 other people at the execution. Gilmore talked briefly with Warden Samuel Smith but Schiller could not hear what was said.

A prison employe passed out cotton to witnesses to guard their ears from the sound of the rifle fire.

Gilmore did not move in the chair. He spoke to his uncle, Vern Damico, to Schiller and to his lawyers, Robert L. Moody and Ronald Stanger. Stanger hugged him around the neck.

The warden then read a legal order. Gilmore looked directly at the warden without quivering.

"Gary looked up for an extended period of time and said, 'Let's do it,'" Schiller said.

"There were some emotional exchanges. A priest, a doctor and several other prison employes placed a hood over Gilmore's head. He was wearing tennis shoes.

"He did not move when the hood was placed over him," Schiller said. "We could not hear anything that was being said."

"All the prison personnel moved away. Father Thomas Mearnsman gave some rites to Gilmore before the hood was placed over his head.

"A circular target was placed on Gilmore's T-shirt. I think I saw the warden give the signal out of the corner of my eye. I heard three noises in quick rapid succession — bang, bang, bang. Gary's body moved. His head turned slightly to the left. Then slowly red blood emerged from under the black T-shirt onto the white slacks."

Moody, one of Gilmore's two attorneys, said Gilmore had asked to stand and face his executioners and to not have the black hood.

36 Persons crash victims

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A train struck an intercity passenger bus that tried to beat the train to a crossing, and 36 persons were killed, a Red Cross spokesman said Monday.

The accident happened Sunday morning in the industrial town of Tlanepantla, on the northern outskirts of this city of 12 million people. Most of the passengers were on their way to Mexico City market places.

The Red Cross spokesman said the dead included 11 children. Fourteen persons were injured, the spokesman said. Some Mexico City newspapers gave higher tolls of dead and injured.

"We shouted to the driver that he should stop, but he didn't pay any attention," said one of the injured passengers, Zenobio Hermengildo Trujillo, in an interview with the newspaper Excelsior. "He wanted to beat the train to the cross."

Damico, the uncle, told newsmen after the execution: "I would like to say at this time, Gary, my nephew, died like he wanted to die, in dignity. He got his wish to die. He died in dignity. That's all I have to say."

Gilmore's other lawyer, Stanger, said through tears that he spent the night with Gilmore. "He was even trying to teach us some western songs," Stanger said of Gilmore. "He made the statement that he had received a gift. That gift was he knew when was going to die and he was indeed fortunate. In the wee hours of the morning, he expressed thanks and some sorrow. He was a good man. He expressed love for children."

Schiller said that after he heard the report of the rifles, "The body still had movement for approximately 15 to 20 seconds."

He said that as he left the execution site, the stretcher to remove Gilmore's body was coming forward "and no one looked back."

"Gilmore seemed aware of everything that was going on," Schiller said.

A screen was approximately 30 feet in front of Gilmore. Behind it were the five riflemen, one of whom traditionally has a rifle loaded with blanks so none is certain that he fires a fatal bullet.

"He did not put up any kind of a fuss or argument to my knowledge,"

Schiller said of Gilmore. He said Gilmore did not try to reject the black hood, though he had asked earlier not to have a hood.

He said he thought Gilmore was "very satisfied" that he was allowed to be "for an extended period of time in that room without having the hood over his eyes."

Shortly after the appeals court ruling in Denver, American Civil Liberties Union lawyers in Washington again asked the Supreme Court to delay the execution. Justices Byron White and Thurgood Marshall promptly turned them down, in succession. The full court then turned down the ACLU request.

In overturning the order of Judge Willis W. Ritter that the execution be stayed, the circuit court accepted arguments from the Utah attorney general's office that the death penalty had not been held unconstitutional. It also held that Gilmore had waived his rights of appeal.

Attorneys for the ACLU argued that the execution would be an illegal use of taxpayers' money in view of the uncertainty over the unconstitutionality of Utah's death penalty.

Judge Lewis, in closing remarks prior to deliberating, said, "Among other people who have rights, Mr. Gilmore has his own. If an error is being made and the execution goes forward, he brought that on himself."

Ford's 1978 budget submitted to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford handed Congress today a lame-duck federal budget of $440 billion for 1978 that calls for a substantial increase in defense spending and permanent tax cuts totaling $47.5 billion over the next six years.

Ford, who has only three days remaining of his presidency, said his budget would "help us to fulfill the promise of America." But President-elect Carter's advisers already were at work on changes to fulfill the Democrat's own promises to the voters.

Ford's tax cut plans likely will receive little attention from both Congress and from Carter, who has his own tax-reduction plans and who wants to use any increased tax receipts to pay for new programs, such as health insurance, rather than turn that revenue back to taxpayers.

Carter plans to submit proposed changes to the Ford budget to Congress in mid-February, after which the Democratic-controlled Congress will hammer out a final budget for the year beginning Oct. 1 undoubtedly more to Carter's liking than to Ford's.

Ford's budget provides for a 7 percent increase in spending over the estimated 1977 budget expenditures of $411 billion. Since receipts are estimated at $393 billion, there would be a 1978 deficit of $47 billion, down from $57 billion this year.

Carter, however, already has said the 1977 budget deficit will have to be increased to between $70 billion to $75 billion if Congress approves his $30-billion tax cut-jobs program to stimulate the economy.

Ford gave up on his campaign pledge to aim toward a balanced budget in 1979. Even if all his recommendations were accepted for this year and next, there would still be a deficit of $11.6 billion in 1979, he said.

He said this was the fault of Congress for not approving his previous recommendations for spending restraint.

But despite the reasons he gave, it brought a sigh of relief from Carter's advisers who had felt the psychological impact of a Ford proposal for a balanced budget in 1979 could make it more difficult for Carter to get public acceptance of a bigger deficit this year.

Ford again asked Congress to approve some of the same spending restraints it had rejected in the past, including $2 billion from Medicare, $1.2 billion from child nutrition programs and $800 million from food stamps.

Jurek awaits electric chair

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Jerry Lane Jurek, whose case served as the U.S. Supreme Court test of Texas' death penalty, waited in his cell today for word on a possible stay of execution.

Jurek, 25, of Cuero, was sentenced to death in the August 1973 strangulation death of a 19-year-old girl.

Barring any stay of execution, Jurek is scheduled to die moments after midnight Tuesday in "Old Sparky," the Texas Department of Corrections electric chair.

Prison officials said Jurek was to be asked today to name the five persons he would want to watch him die.

Because of a ruling by U.S. District Court Judge William Taylor of Dallas, many Texans may be given an opportunity to view Jurek's death on television.

Judge Taylor, ruling in a suit brought by Dallas television newsmen Tony Garrett, said the state could not bar the filming of the execution. The film would have to be made available to any television station requesting it.

Two Texas television stations, both in the Panhandle city of Amarillo, have said they would show the last moments of Jurek's life on their station.

In making the ruling, Judge Taylor said it would be "dangerous" to allow the state to determine what events could be covered by the news media.

The only thing that can now stop Jurek from dying early Wednesday would be intervention by the U.S. Supreme Court or Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

A request for a stay is pending in the U.S. Supreme Court. In the request, Jurek claimed it would be morally wrong for his execution to be televised.

Other points cited in the stay request included claims that he was not adequately represented by counsel at his trial and that jurors were excluded from serving at his trial after they stated only general reservations about the death penalty.

Barring a stay, Jurek is scheduled to be strapped into the chair moments before midnight Tuesday night. An executioner, stationed behind a one-way mirror, will then throw a switch that will send a jolt of 2,000 volts into the slender body of Jurek.

20 U. S. servicemen killed

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — A U.S. Navy launch ferrying sailors and Marines back to their ships from weekend leave collided with a freighter and flipped over in Barcelona harbor early today, killing 20 American servicemen, U.S. officials said.

Nineteen other servicemen were hospitalized, six in serious condition, U.S. consular officials said. They were being treated for injuries and drowning symptoms.

Dozens of men had been trapped inside the overturned launch, but an even greater tragedy was averted when tugboats sped to the scene and quickly righted the boat.

The identities of the victims were not disclosed, pending notification of next-of-kin.

U.S. Navy officials said the 56-foot launch and 390-ton Spanish coastal freighter Urlea smashed into each other in the harbor darkness as they rounded a pier from opposite sides.

There were no reports of injuries on the freighter.

A U.S. consular official said the accident occurred at about 2 a.m. just after the launch picked up 110 servicemen and headed out toward the 6th Fleet helicopter carrier Guam and landing dockship Trenton.

About 40 of the Americans swam to safety, the news agency Europa Press said. U.S. consular officials said 19 of the victims were dead before they could be taken to hospitals.

Both the U.S. and Spanish navies began an investigation.

The Guam and Trenton were on a goodwill visit to Barcelona, a Mediterranean port and Spain's second-largest city.

The former counsel and close associate to President John F. Kennedy dropped his bombshell at the close of a lengthy statement in which he asserted he was qualified for the post and denied a series of what he called "scurrilous and unfounded personal attacks which have anonymously circulated against me."

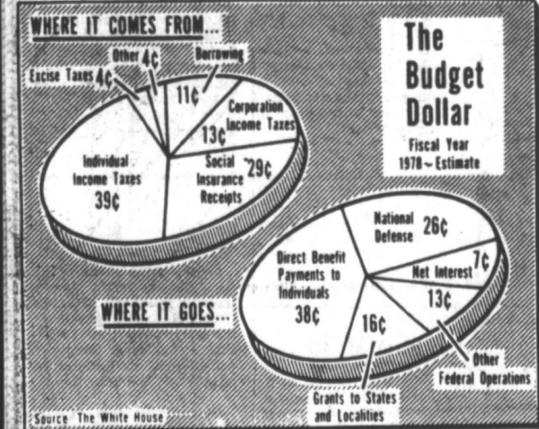

The allegations to which he referred were that he had mishandled and improperly used classified materials from the Kennedy administration, might have known of U.S. plots to kill foreign leaders, had taken a questionable tax deduction upon donating papers to a library, held pacifist views and tried to avoid military service and might be involved in conflicts of interest because as a lawyer he had represented several foreign governments.

In seeking to withdraw his name, Sorensen said it was clear that some senators and many members of the intelligence community were not ready to accept his views that the CIA should be subject to greater controls and should allow more information about itself to be made public and that the director's job was to provide "objective intelligence not policy to the President."

Sorensen did not say what Carter's response had been, but committee chairman Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, indicated that the committee would accede to Sorensen's wish to step aside.

ROSSELL, N.M. (AP) — If anybody is in line for a change in luck, it's Enrique Garcia. He has run into more than his share of bad luck.

It started in Roswell last week when Garcia went out for a night on the town.

The 25-year-old Mexican national told police he was attacked at a night club by three men who robbed him of his hat, coat, shirt and shoes. The bandits also cut his right forearm and left hand, he said.

If that wasn't bad enough, after Garcia reported the incident, he was arrested by the officers as an illegal alien. He was turned over to the U.S. Border Patrol to be returned to Mexico.

Base strength slips at Webb

The student pilot load and total base strength at Webb Air Force Base slipped again during the month of December.

According to figures released by the Air Training Command, the number of student pilots assigned to Webb for December was 176, the lowest in the command and three less than the November figure of 179.

The total base strength declined from 2,393 in November to 2,345 in December.

Webb, a "candidate to be closed" by the Air Force, has steadily declined since the proposed closing was announced in March. At that time, Webb had 281 student pilots assigned.

Air Force spokesmen say that the decline is because of a late 1975 decision to change Webb's mission solely to Security Assistance Training Program (foreign) pilots and phase out the Undergraduate Pilot Training Program (American students) during 1976.

The student pilot breakdown in the command by base for December was:

|--------------------|-------|
| Student Pilot load | 176 |
| Base | 2,345 |
| Laughlin | 280 |
| Reese | 269 |

Vance 243
Columbus 219
Craig 176
Webb 176

Craig AFB in Selma, Ala., also is a "candidate to be closed" by the command. The other bases have been listed as "alternates."

Webb also lost 48 persons in the total base strength column during the month of December. This followed a loss of 53 in this column during November.

The total base strength at the bases (excluding Vance which cannot be compared because of its civilian contractor status) was:

|----------|----------------|
| Base | Total strength |
| Laughlin | 2,806 |
| Columbus | 2,804 |
| Reese | 2,679 |
| Webb | 2,345 |
| Craig | 2,072 |

The figures were released by the Air Training Command in response to an inquiry by the Big Spring Herald.

In response to an inquiry about the drawdown at Webb, a separate letter from Brig. Gen. H.J. Dalton Jr., director of information in Washington, made this reply:

"We can assure you that the December 1975 decision to terminate Air Force pilot training at Webb AFB and devote the base to the SATP and Fixed Wing Qualification was not indicative of a decision to close the base.

"At the time the decision was made to make Webb AFB an exclusive SATP location, the base's training load was divided into three programs and was experiencing a significantly higher activity level than the Air Training Command (ATC) average.

"Partial reductions in Webb activities were considered in order to more closely align Webb with other ATC base loading; however, these alternatives failed to balance the load and the conversion of Webb AFB to an exclusive SATP location was a more practical solution. The USAF is presently continuing reprogramming actions that will maintain the level of activity at Webb within the ATC parameters," wrote Gen. Dalton.

Burleson named to committee

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Democratic Caucus of the U.S. House of Representatives has voted Congressman Omar Burleson (D) of Texas to a second term on the Budget Committee. Burleson was elected to serve on the Budget Committee as a representative of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Terms to the House Budget Committee are normally limited to one session of Congress. Although Burleson has already served for one Congress (the 94th Congress, 1975-76) he was one of seven Members of Congress designated for consideration to serve on the Committee for four years to maintain continuity.

Under the system of assigning Members of Congress to the Budget Committee, Ways and Means and Appropriations have three designated Members by reason of the importance of these committees. Even though the Committees may recommend the election of their Members to represent them in the budget process, they must be elected by the Caucus.

Espionage rap filed

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — A California man charged with conspiracy to sell U. S. rocket secrets to the Soviet Union was jailed without bond here today shortly after he was turned over to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents by Mexican authorities.

Andrew D. Lee, 25, of Palos Verdes Estates, was turned over to U.S. officials early today and was arraigned before U.S.

Magistrate Tom Goodwin who ordered him transferred to the Webb County jail without setting bond.

Lee and Christopher J. Boyce, 23, of Rancho Palos Verdes, were charged Sunday with "conspiracy to commit espionage against the United States on behalf of the Soviet Union," the FBI said.

A bureau spokesman said Sunday there was no estimate yet on what damage the alleged espionage might have caused U.S. defense.

Charges filed, fines paid

A Big Spring man was arrested Saturday after complaints forced sheriff's deputies to go to his house twice.

The first call came to go to Mountain View Trailer Park at 7:15 p.m. Saturday night. Deputies left thinking all was quiet, but they received another call at 10:30 p.m. The man was arrested for public intoxication, disorderly conduct, and possession of a controlled substance.

Fines have been paid on the first two counts and charges on the third have not yet been filed. Bond on the third charge has been set by J.P. Gus Ochotorena at $5,000.

'How Great Thou Art' highlights program

For an estimated 2 1/2 hours, J. D. Sumner and the famed Stamps Quartet entertained a small, chilled crowd in the Municipal Auditorium here Sunday afternoon.

If Sumner and his song birds were disappointed in the size of the turnout, they never betrayed their feelings. They stayed on long after the planned part of the program to sing requested numbers and exchange repartee with the gathering.

Someone by design or accident failed to turn up the heat in the auditorium and most of the audience sat through the program without removing their coats and often their gloves.

Sumner, who identifies himself as the "lowest singing base" in America, dropped the octaves on occasions to the extent that the equipment rattled.

Probably the highlight of the program occurred in a rendition of "How Great Thou Art," when the singing group's bus driver joined the regulars on the show.

Texas solon backs bill to wipe out pay toilets

By MARK BROWNING
 State House Reporter
 AUSTIN — Those who spend a lot of time in airports or bus stations will be relieved to know that Rep. John Whitmire of Houston has reintroduced a bill he first sponsored in 1975 to wipe out pay toilets in Texas.

The bill, phoned the expression, got flushed down the drain in the last session, but Whitmire, undaunted, is back with it again this year.

"If God had meant people to use pay toilets, they'd have been born with dimes or quarters in their hands,"

Whitmire said in justification of his bill.

The 1975 bill made it to the floor of the House last session on the local consent calendar, where any five representatives can "bump it off," Whitmire said. The Dallas-Fort Worth group did just that to protect the $60,000 or so that the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport makes a year off its pay toilets.

This year Whitmire plans to put the bill on the general consent calendar and thinks it will pass. He's even got special plans to draw attention to it.

In a few weeks, Whitmire plans to show a "clean, but very realistic" movie he found showing things that can happen in a pay toilet.

"First a guy can't get the dime in, then he tries to borrow a magazine from the guy next to him and a bunch of things like that," he said.

Response to his bill has been good, Whitmire said, and a few women's groups have specifically endorsed it. Others have suggested that Whitmire finally took the Texas Legislature out of the back rooms and put it into the bathrooms where it belongs.

Whitmire has one ally, at least, in Austin City Councilwoman Emma Lou Linn, who wants to do away with pay potties in the capital city.

"You don't have to pay to sneeze and you don't have to pay to spit, and you shouldn't have to pay to use the bathroom," she said.

Speaking of injustices, a Dallas group called the People's Bar Association claims that many legislators are "illegally" serving in the statehouse because they are lawyers.

A suit filed in an Austin district court by the group says lawyers are required to belong to the State Bar, which is officially part of the judicial branch of state government. Therefore, the association believes, for attorneys to also serve in the legislature violates legal restrictions against being a part of two branches of government at the same time. No ruling on the suit has been made yet.

In case no one noticed, the House Speaker's election was about as close a contest as the Super Bowl. Thanks to pledges made long before the actual election (and Bill Clayton claims he has enough to probably keep him speaker for the rest of the decade), convenient arrangements can be made like printing a "Welcome to the House" book signed by "Speaker Bill Clayton" before the opening day speaker's election is ever held.

Also, invitations to the traditional Texas Democratic Party fundraiser the night before the session begins can be sent out including the "Speaker Bill Clayton" designation.

That $25-a-head fundraiser, according to who's making the estimate, netted between $15,000 and $50,000. About 2,000 people showed up, which made the event quite a success. It also succeeded in irritating a few people, though, when the amount of food available didn't match the amount of guests.

Two women who finally made their way through the crowds around a table of appetizers, found that everything but a few pieces of fruit had been eaten.

One was heard to say to the other, "There's not much left. Would you like a $25 banana?"

Frank Hagen of Burton Abstract and Title Co. said, "I rather doubt that it's legal. There usually has to be a mutual agreement before property can be transferred."

Uncle Sam 'pirated' six trained dolphins?

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The owner of a Canadian marlinland accuses U.S. officials of "pirating" six trained dolphins in transit across Texas and releasing them into the Gulf of Mexico. He said he will sue the U.S. government for $3 million.

John Holer, owner of Marlinland at Niagara Falls, Ont., said the dolphins were to be the main attraction at his show next summer, and he may be unable to open because of their loss.

Holer was contacted by telephone at Ciudad del Carmen, on the Yucatan coast, where the dolphins were captured and trained.

The animals were confiscated by U.S. fisheries authorities under a law that classifies dolphins as an endangered species and forbids their movement within the United States, Holer's assistant, Milan Junc, said at Niagara Falls.

The seizure took place when the chartered DC3 taking eight dolphins to Canada was forced down by bad weather at Beaumont, Tex., Saturday. William Stephenson, regional director of the National Marine Hatcheries in New Orleans, said six of the animals were confiscated because the pilot did not have a permit to transport them. However, two other dolphins were not seized, and the pilot was allowed to take them on to Canada.

"The Americans committed air piracy of the plane and its cargo," Holer charged. "Under the Geneva Convention the plane had a right to land anywhere in the Western world with its cargo, in an emergency."

Stephenson said the six dolphins were released in the Gulf of Mexico at Beaumont because space was not available for all of them in a marine-life facility. Holer said the water there may be too cold for them to survive, and Stephenson said after they were released, it was decided it would be best for the health of the others to let them go on to Canada.

Have people in Northeast learned?

Remember the bumper sticker: "Let them freeze in the dark." It was a rather crass way of saying that if the people in the northeastern portion of the United States continued to insist that natural gas and oil prices be controlled at levels which made drilling unreasonable, then let them do without heat.

IF THEY demanded unreasonable tough environmental laws and refused to allow offshore drilling in their own areas, let them do without lights.

In other words, let them freeze in the dark.

Well, it's happening. After a couple of relatively warm winters, we have a cold one. It is being called the coldest in 30 years. The Ohio River is freezing over; energy curtailments are closing schools and businesses. And a number of persons have died as a result of the cold.

The problem is not all in the Northeast, as Lone Star Gas and its regulation by the interstate prices have demonstrated in North Texas.

Dearl Pittman, manager of Pioneer Natural Gas in Big Spring, said Lone Star's problems are caused because they are interstate (more than one state) and therefore under the government regulatory prices, which are simply too low to compete for what natural gas is being discovered.

Lone Star apparently drifts over the Red River into Oklahoma, and it cannot buy gas supplies that it needs in adequate amounts. The result was schools and industries closed in wide sections of North Texas.

The problem is the same all over the country where the government is regulating the gas price. Obviously, something has to give.

PITTMAN SAID that, while there was some curtailment here in heavy industry, Pioneer as an intrastate (within one state) system is in much better shape. He was optimistic that the company's supplies would be adequate through the winter.

The shortage in the Northeast does affect us though, he said, because it means there are no reserves that can be pulled in from the interstate systems.

What lessons will the people of the Northeast learn from this prewar-chilling?

They should learn that the government must let the market govern the price of natural gas. This valuable energy source has been depleted long before it should have been simply because the government regulated it at unrealistically low prices for the past two decades, almost destroying the coal industry, and wasting precious gas supplies.

But that's not the lesson the Northeast liberals will learn.

Instead, they will see their frosty toes as a sign that the major oil companies have failed, and that they should be made to divest themselves of various operational divisions; or even worse yet, they likely will draw the conclusion that the whole energy industry should be nationalized.

It wouldn't make them any warmer, of course, but it would soon make the entire country equally cold.

Need some help

Around the rim

Danny Reagan

Before I begin my rim today I would like to ask you the reader for a little assistance. I am trying desperately to find out the title to a song so that I can have Sam and Oscar at the Record Shop track it down for me so I can purchase same. No one that I have talked to so far has the faintest idea.

Here, let me sing a few bars to you and see if it rings a bell. It may be hard for you to imagine how I sing by reading a rim, but picture if you can a cross between Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby and Paul McCartney. That's the way I sing.

AT ANY RATE, here's the song. Urumph! (clearing my throat) "Wrong . . . could it be wrong to stay . . . here in your arms this way . . . dah dah dah dah, dah DAH . . . DAH!" That's about all I remember. I think it was one of Frank's first hits and I know Dean Martin sang it to Jerry Lewis' girlfriend in the movie "That's My Boy!" Anyone know the name of it?

Now, on with the rim. Last Thursday night I saw a very interesting movie down at the Ritz: "In Search of Noah's Ark". I know many of you saw it because the theatre was packed just about every night, and no doubt more people in Big Spring attended that movie than "Jaws" when it was here. It would be close.

After viewing the film, I would have to say that I am 99 per cent convinced that there is indeed something 14,000 feet up the slopes of Mount Ararat. Whether or not it is truly Noah's Ark still has to be proved to me. But it seems unlikely that a large ship resting on a mountain in Turkey could be anything else but the Biblical Ark.

Sometimes I give my mother-in-law fits in my columns, but she really is the sweetest lady around, and one of the few Christians I know who actually acts like a Christian should . . . without hypocrisy. There are others in town, I know, but the point is, she was an ideal person to talk to about the film. And I will in a couple of paragraphs.

If one believes in God, then any questions that arise after viewing the film can be discounted, as God is omnipotent. But, how the animals survived 13 months on the Ark, and how eight people fed an estimated 2,000 animals was investigated in the movie. One scientist theorized that many of the animals hibernated. That point seems moot to me. If God could guide Noah and his family in building the Ark, and make all the animals come to him willingly, then why worry about how they fared on the voyage? God could have certainly taken care of that.

The most intriguing aspect of the whole matter to me is that several cultures around the world, and all major religions, have the same story in their history, many of them, like the American Indians, developed the story completely independent of any outside influence. The similarity of these separate stories is amazing. How is that? Was there more than one Ark? If Noah and his family of seven were the only survivors in the entire world, then how did the other races and creeds survive? Is part of the Bible missing?

THESE ARE questions I discussed with my Christian expert. First of all, I pointed out that even though the Bible was the inspired Word of God, it was taken down by mortal men; holy though they may have been, they were not perfect, as the Christian belief has only one perfect being . . . God.

Therefore, maybe some of the Bible was misplaced or mistranslated from language to language. Perhaps that explains why no mention is made of where the wives came from for the sons of Cain and Abel, and why the Bible says "Thou Shall Not Kill", but also "An eye for an eye." I am by no means any type of Bible scholar so don't call me up and discuss interpretations. That's not the point.

My mother-in-law allowed that maybe some of the Bible was missing, but she pointed out that God may have left out some things or made others unclear to test the faith of those people who supposedly believed in Him. She also allowed that maybe that was the reason proof of the Ark has been so hard to come by, with earthquakes, murders, revolutions and now a ban by the government of Turkey. "Why does it have to be proved if you believe in God," she said. "Anyway, even if the scientific proof was positive there would still be people who would try to disprove it."

The true, actual, no-doubt-about-it discovery of an Ark that had hundreds of stalls and fitted exactly to the measurements in the Bible may not be that important of an event to those people who believe in the Bible and God, but just think what it would do to those who considered the number one selling book in the world nothing but myth and legend.

Regardless of your beliefs, if that movie ever comes back to Big Spring, you should go see it. It was very interesting.

More pay

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Mr. Peter Peterson, the superbright chairman of Lehman Brothers in New York and before that adviser in international economic affairs to President Nixon, headed up the quadrennial commission mandated by law to recommend the salaries for high government officials. Mr. Peterson was not satisfied merely to submit his report to the President, but now seeks to advertise its findings, to which end he has formed a "Citizens Committee for Restoring Public Trust in Government," with a steering committee carefully selected by Lehman Brothers' chief ideological taxonomist to include representatives of the left, center, and right, the latter post being, in this instance, my responsibility. Accordingly, a few observations:

1. The Commission is right: The pay of top officials in government is inadequate by the sole governing criterion, namely the Broken Rule. Professor Yale Brozen gave us this formula some years ago, as applicable to public employees and officials. If the turnover rate exceeds the turnover rate in related businesses, then the pay scale is too low; if the turnover rate is lower, then the pay scale is too high. For instance, city bus drivers in New York quit at a greater velocity than private bus drivers, they are being underpaid.

THE COMMISSION gives us a vivid taste of this . . . In the last three years, four of the eleven institute directorships at the National Institute of Health have become vacant and remain vacant — with 85 out of 87 candidates refusing the job because of low pay. The Social Security Administration lost nine out of 19 of its most senior civil service employees at one time last year, and was unable to fill the position of Chief Actuary for more than a year, during which time 30 candidates refused the job because of the pay.

2. The Commission is right that the reason these top executives are underpaid is that Congressmen and Senators, to whose pay scale their own is fixed, are underpaid. In eight years they have had a 5 per cent pay raise, while the cost of living has increased by more than 60 per cent. There is, to be sure, a sublime satisfaction in this: The malefactors of inflation are inflicting the ravages of inflation upon themselves. But human ingenuity is such that the average Congressman ekes out his living by doing other things.

3. The Commission is right in worrying about what those other things are. Because many of them, simply put, are unethical. Others are borderline. Let us take a brazen example: The congressman who sits on a committee that regulates the oil and gas industry and (the example is hypothetical) receives contributions of one sort or another from the oil and gas industry.

Take a slightly more difficult case: A Senator is invited by his friendly labor union to address a state convention, fee $5,000. For that, the labor union could have got Demosthenes. The lawyer whose name continues to reside in his home firm attracting business to it in virtue of said lawyer's notoriety as a Senator, with the result that at year end there are profits to distribute to the inactive partner-legislator.

Good reasons for tonsil removal

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am scheduled to have a tonsillectomy. I am 29 and have had trouble with my tonsils for years. This past summer I had six throat infections.

Is there a big risk in this operation at my age? Will there be a lot of bleeding? How long is recuperation. Are there stitches?

Everyone I mention the operation to gasps, "Oh, my God, at your age?" My doctor is very calm about it, but I am very nervous. I would appreciate your opinion. —P. P.

Tonsillectomy is traditionally a procedure done in childhood. The trend is to do fewer in youngsters unless the tonsils become badly infected or so large that they obstruct the breathing passages, which can happen.

Repeated severe infections such as you had last summer are a prime indication for removal. Kidney and even heart infections can originate in the tonsils, so age is not a factor, if they must be removed.

I had a patient who had his removed in his 50s — for cancer of the tonsil. Bleeding is readily controlled, unless you are a "bleeder" (hemophilia) or have a blood clotting deficiency. You would know this at your age.

Recuperation takes a few days. Suture (stitches) may be used to control bleeding otherwise. Tonsillectomies got a bad name a few years back, when it was suspected too many were being performed unnecessarily. That was soon taken by some to mean that any tonsillectomy was unnecessary. As you can see from what I've said above, this is a dangerous generality.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For the past five years I have been having a problem with my left eye. I lose vision for a period of two or three minutes. It is painless. I have been checked, and I have 20-20 vision. I might also mention that when I get headaches they usually occur in my left eye. This vision loss occurs about twice a week. —S. L.

Could be migraine, which is a one-sided headache that can be accompanied by vision changes, such as temporary loss. You can have perfect vision and still need expert attention for such symptoms. Suggest you see an ophthalmologist (eye specialist) to trace the cause of your vision-loss episodes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My grandsons, ages 10 and 11, were over to spend the night, and both of them had indigestion and bloating, and they burped. My husband and I ate the same things they did and it did not affect us that way. My daughter told me later that they often have that, as does their father. We never had this problem in our family. Please explain. —Grandma.

Your family probably didn't gulp food and drink at the meals, as I'll wager these youngsters do. Am I right? Burping, bloating and indigestion at their age is almost always a matter of the way food is eaten rather than the kind of food.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am six months pregnant. The doctor says my baby is turned upside down in my womb. Will this interfere with the delivery? I didn't have any trouble with the last one. —Mrs. T. T.

If the fetus remains in the reverse position, the delivery would be that way. It's called a breech birth. This might make delivery somewhat more difficult, but modern techniques take much of the worry from it.

Also, at six months, the baby still has time to change its position so that the head presents first, as is normal. I suspect that if you had a normal delivery the last time you will with this one.

Today, ultrasound devices allow physicians to detect such abnormalities prior to delivery so they can be prepared for them. The scans do not carry the dangers X-rays would.

To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, send for a copy of "Controlling Your Blood Pressure (Hypertension)" by Dr. Thosteson. Write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My son had a good friend who took his own life. Does God forgive such an action? This bothers me very much. —Mrs. R.W.

DEAR MRS. W.: There are few things sadder than a suicide. I read recently that this is now the third leading cause of death among young people.

One of the Ten Commandments is "Thou shalt not kill" (Exodus 20:13). Most theologians have understood this to prohibit not only murder, but suicide as well. Life is sacred because man is made in the image of God, and life is not to be taken away by unnatural or premeditated means. The Bible tells of a few cases of suicide, but with the exception of Samson (Judges 16:21-31), they involve people who had made a wreck of their lives and seemingly had no hope left (such as Saul or Judas).

We should remember, however, that God is the final Judge, and He alone knows all. We can be sure He will judge with a mercy greater than the measure of our minds. For some people, suicide is probably the last in a long series of steps whereby they have willfully rejected God's plan for their lives. They have learned the bitter truth of the Bible's statement, "Sin pays its servants: the wage is death" (Romans 6:23, Phillips Translation).

For other people, however, this drastic act may be the result of deep-seated emotional disturbances over which the person has little control. The person who has accepted Christ has the promise, "I give unto them eternal life: and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand" (John 10:28). I am sure that if there are Christians who have taken their own life in a moment of deep depression, they will be forgiven by God and we will see them in heaven.

Germ warfare

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Apparently, the United States and Cuba planned to wage germ warfare against one another's livestock a few years back.

The Senate Intelligence Committee is already investigating the startling charge that the CIA spread African swine fever in Cuba. The disease devastated the island's pig population.

Now we have learned that the Cubans had a scheme of their own to infect U.S. cattle with hoof-and-mouth disease. The idea eventually was abandoned, but in April, 1962, Cuban Politburo member Antonio Nunez Jimenez discussed the hoof-and-mouth plot with four top Cuban scientists.

THE AMAZING STORY has been buried in intelligence documents, which we have now seen. Nunez Jimenez informed the four scientists, according to an intelligence memo, "that Cuba was now ready to give the United States a 'dose of its own medicine.'"

"Nunez Jimenez further explained," continued the memo, "that Cuba had the ability, through specially trained agents, to destroy the cattle industry of the United States by spreading an epizootic fever known commonly as 'hoof-and-mouth disease.'"

A hoof-and-mouth epidemic would have forced the destruction of the infected cattle. An outbreak in the United States in 1929 and in Mexico in 1946 wiped out millions worth of livestock.

Federal agents, alarmed at the first-person account of Nunez Jimenez' threat, made further inquiries and found that "the Cuban government had opened a bacteriological laboratory in Soroa, Pinar del Rio Province."

This secret lab, "located in the former orchid gardens of Soroa," was run by a Spanish exile named Dr. Martinez Viera. He was assisted by a Cuban and a former American resident. The latter was a woman who washed the test tubes and vials used by Dr. Viera, reported the memo.

At the time of the memo, written in 1963, it appeared that "Nunez Jimenez had made arrangements for three Soviet bacteriologists to take over the laboratory."

One purpose of the lab, interestingly, was to "determine the cause of an epidemic which completely destroyed the birds of a turkey farm." However, we can find no evidence that the turkeys, like a reported 500,000 Cuban pigs, may have been the victims of CIA germ warfare.

ANOTHER COVERUP?: There is no longer any question about it: both the FBI and CIA withheld essential facts from the Warren Commission about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The FBI never allowed the commission access to its files, and the members were so intimidated by the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover that they never protested. Instead, they relied upon FBI summaries and Hoover's letters.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

On Monday morning, last Nov. 29, a policeman was patrolling the Baylor street, Moss School area. I wrote a letter to the editor thanking this policeman, as he was the first I had seen this school year, for being there and hoping that he may continue doing so.

The patrolling lasted approximately two weeks.

Today at 9:30 a.m., a wreck occurred in front of our home, involving a car and my husband's parked pickup, demolishing both vehicles.

Evidently the driver of the car was traveling at a high rate of speed on Baylor and thru the school zone, because on impact debris, including glass, metal tail gates, hub caps and ect. were thrown in all directions over neighboring yards.

What if this had happened an hour or so earlier, while our children were on their way to school? What if the children were playing in the front yard? Yes, they could have been injured or killed by flying debris or run over by this person that was in such a hurry.

If this area could be patrolled more often and tickets given perhaps these speeding drivers would slow down.

TAPS FOR ARMED FORCES BICENTENNIAL BAND — As the Bicentennial year came to a close the United States Armed Forces Bicentennial Band and Chorus also wound up its operations after appearing in 266 cities. The unique band, composed of handpicked musicians from five services, gave its final appearance in a brief Pentagon ceremony. Here Lt. Col. Richard E. Thurston, the commander and conductor, reports to top service officials that the Band's mission has been completed. The Band, based in Washington, D.C., was formed by the Department of Defense to celebrate the nation's 200th birthday.

1.6 million persons eye Bicentennial Band

The United States Armed Forces Bicentennial Band and Chorus which The Big Spring Herald sponsored locally in April 1976 moved close to history this week after appearing before more than 1.6 million people in 20 months.

Organized by the Department of Defense as a national Bicentennial project, it performed in 266 cities in 50 states, Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. It also appeared on national television three times and on many local television shows.

The band's handpicked musicians, representing the best musical talent obtainable from the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, performed music composed or arranged by Americans.

Apparently the combination of a big, brassy military band and a repertoire of all American music to celebrate the nation's 200th birthday was a good one. The thousands of pieces of fan mail and press reviews the band received often contained expressions such as "renewed my faith in America" "brought a lump to my throat" ... and "made me proud of our Armed Forces."

As diversified as its tours, the band's members came from more than 30 states, ranged in age from 18 to over 50 and had lengths of service from two years to more than 30 years. They are now being released to return to their individual services or to civilian life.

The band was managed by the Department of the Army and was based in the Washington, D.C. area.

Slowly but surely, inch by centimeter, the United States is going metric.

Liquor bottlers started introducing metric sizes last fall and will convert completely to six basic metric sizes within two years. Soda companies are testing one-liter containers. Almost half the states are using metric measurements on some of their road signs.

The metric system — used by almost all the rest of the world — has been a long time coming to America.

The federal Office of Consumer Affairs says that George Washington urged Congress in 1790 to adopt a uniform system for currency, weights and measures.

It was 1975 before Congress acted, passing the Metric Conversion Act establishing a 17-member U.S. Metric Board to coordinate a voluntary switch to the metric system.

The board has several duties under the law. It is required to make sure the public is represented fairly in the conversion process, to publicize proposed changes, to encourage the standardization of metric language in science and engineering and to consult with other countries to make sure that U.S. standards are in keeping with those in the rest of the world.

The Office of Education already has awarded $2.1 million in grants and contracts to state and local governments for metric instruction projects. The agency will start issuing similar grants to public and private nonprofit organizations this year.

The money covers four basic types of projects: — School programs operated by a local education agency.

— State and multistate planning programs. — Teacher training programs conducted mainly by colleges and universities.

— Programs providing technical support for national metric education. The switch may seem confusing for a while, but the Office of Consumer Affairs says: "When metrication is complete ... it should make little difference to consumers that gasoline will be sold by the liter instead of the gallon, that distance will be measured by kilometers instead of miles or that food will be packaged and sold by kilograms instead of ounces and pounds."

Consumers looking for more information about the metric system have several sources of information. The National Bureau of Standards provides a package of metric facts. Write the bureau's Metric Information Office, Washington, D.C. 20234 or telephone 301-921-2318. The American National Metric Council, a nongovernmental organization formed in 1973, provides information about the metric system in business and industry. Write ANMC, 1625 Massachusetts Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20036. Phone: 202-232-4545. The National Governors' Conference has set up an Interstate Metric Committee to assess the progress of the switch in each state and provide technical assistance if needed. Further information is available from Bud Thar, National Governors' Conference, 1150 17th St. NW, Suite 600, Washington, D.C., 20036. Phone: 202-785-5600.

Employers must make reports

Employers must report Social Security and withheld income taxes for the last quarter by Monday, Jan. 31, the Internal Revenue Service said today.

This deadline does not apply to those employers who make timely deposits in Federal Reserve or approved commercial banks of the full amount of tax due. They are allowed until February 10 to file Form 941, "Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return."

The IRS emphasized that employers who received the preaddressed Form 941 in the mail should use it to file their report. Those persons who did not receive the preaddressed forms can obtain forms from their local IRS office.

Any balance of Federal unemployment tax not over $100 for 1976 should be paid by January 31, using Form 940. Balances of tax due over $100 require the employer to make a deposit with FTD Form 508. As with Form 941, taxpayers who deposit the full amount of tax on time have until February 10 to file the return.

IRS Publication, "Circular E — Employer's Tax Guide," provides further information on these taxes and is available free from most local IRS offices.

School bus drivers learning sign language

DALLAS (AP) — A organization of Dallas school bus drivers is attempting to save enough money to purchase a hearing aid for one of their "adopted" deaf children.

The 25 bus drivers who transport deaf children to and from a Dallas elementary school have formed a club to aid the children. It is believed to be the first such organization of its kind.

Many of the drivers are also learning sign language on their own.

"We're with those children every day and we know what their needs are," said Mrs. Marty Davis, one of the drivers who organized the club. "We're just trying to help them out." Club members have "adopted" some of the children, giving them clothing, shoes and groceries, Mrs. Davis said.

The purchase of at least one hearing aid is the club's main goal. The drivers have $47 in their treasury now and a hearing aid costs from $300 to $800, but she said, "We're not going to give up."

The drivers contribute $1 per month in dues and have scheduled a bake sale and arts and crafts show Feb. 3 to raise more money.

Mrs. Davis said "When you get a letter from a child thanking you for a few groceries, it makes it all worth it."

Cash awards given four

Four people cashed in on their ideas last month in the suggestion program at Webb AFB with the largest award of $450 going to Betty S. Johnson. Now an employee at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Ms. Johnson suggested that two jobs she was doing in the supply area be combined.

The Air Force saved $7,976 as a result of Ms. Johnson's idea.

Mgt. Curtis E. Cross of services received $50 for suggesting that an ATC form be discontinued. Real savings of $250 as well as intangible savings will result.

Capt. David L. Davenport, of field maintenance, and Johnny T. Fowler, of civil engineering, each received $25 awards for suggestions with intangible savings. Captain Davenport's idea involved the safety-line-runway area while Mr. Fowler's was for fire protection crew identification.

Certificates went to the following for their suggestions: Amn. Thomas R. Brown, Joseph B. Daugherty, China E. Long, SrA. James E. Myers, Capt. Richard B. Risk Jr., AIC

KNOW YOUR FOOD

VEAL, CALF AND BEEF . . .

WHAT ARE THEIR DIFFERENCES?

These three names are basic official generic terms clearly defined by the USDA Grading Service. Although all bovine species fall into the three categories, there are several sub-categories of product, most of which are not defined by any official service. As a result, there is some confusion because of the various names in use. Names may vary from store to store — area to area. Most of us are familiar with veal . . . the tender meat that is such a delicacy. It has little fat and requires gentle cooking.

"Calf" is from young cattle, too old to be classified as veal but younger than the widely available mature beef. Calf is also sold under the name "Baby Beef" but according to USDA standards, it is properly referred to as "Calf." The primary guide for telling the difference between calf, veal and mature beef is by comparing the color of the lean meat. As noted by the USDA, calf is typically "grayish red" in color but may vary to "moderately red" in more mature calves. This contrasts with the bright cherry red of mature beef and the "grayish pink" of veal. The cuts are smaller than beef but somewhat larger than veal, have some marbling and a thin flaky layer of white fat on some cuts. (In some areas, "light beef" is sold — it's somewhat heavier than calf but lighter than mature beef.)

Cooking methods are a little different for calf (or Baby Beef). This week we have a free leaflet for you on cooking methods for this meat. Come and get your free copy at your nearest Safeway. No purchase required.

City gets rebate check

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday mailed city sales tax rebate checks totaling $23.2 million to 620 Texas cities and towns, and reminded quarterly sales tax filers of the Jan. 31 deadline for their returns. Big Spring's check this time was $34,606.13.

The January checks raise to $152.8 million the total in rebates received by the cities for the current fiscal year, compared to $115.3 million for the same five-month period a year ago. This is a 32.5 per cent increase.

Other checks distributed in this area of the state included a check for $953,54 in Coahoma; $7,177.36 in Lamesa; $1,163.55 in Stanton and $575.18 in Sterling City. The rebate checks, which are mailed monthly to the cities, are for the one cent city sales tax collected within their boundaries.

"State and city sales tax collections were up more than 16 per cent for fiscal 1976 and the indications are now that the increase will go even higher this year," Bullock said.

"It's always a good sign for the economy when the people have and spend more money."

Bullock also reminded those businesses which file their sales tax returns on a quarterly basis that they must have those returns in the mail no later than Jan. 31 to avoid possible penalties.

He noted that some 172,000 businesses which collect less than $750 a month in sales taxes file their sales tax returns and collections on a quarterly rather than a monthly basis.

Bullock said that anyone having any problems with preparing those returns should contact the nearest Comptroller's field office or call his toll-free Tax Information number, 1-800-252-5555, for assistance.

He says he prefers to remain mayor of Albany, the state's capital.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Mayor Erastus Corning, the longest-tenured mayor in the country, is hunting what he will seek a 10th four-year term.

The 67-year-old Democrat says he will make a formal announcement about his candidacy in a month or two. Corning has often been mentioned as a candidate for statewide office, but has always declined.

WASHINGTON (AP) — When a family enters the food stamp program, each dollar's worth of coupons the government adds to its grocery budget frees up to 43 cents of its cash for other needs, a new analysis by the Congressional Budget Office calculates.

CBO Director Alice M. Rivlin told reporters in releasing the study Saturday that Congress needs to understand that the 13-year-old program is a cash welfare program as well as a way to increase the amount poor people can eat.

"As the current program is expected to cost about $5.4 billion in fiscal year 1978, a key budgetary issue to be addressed is whether the program should be redirected to emphasize either of its two current goals of increased food consumption or income supplementation or whether the current mix or emphasis should be continued," she said.

Since $5.3 billion was paid out in the last fiscal year for food stamp benefits, the CBO's calculations would mean that recipient families had almost $2.28 billion to divert from groceries to other expenses.

Eligible families are charged a cash price, depending on their income bracket, for their coupons, which are allotted by household size.

About 5.38 million families are on the rolls now. G. William Hoagland, chief author of the CBO analysis and of options for revising the program, gave three examples of three-person families affected differently by the program's combined nutrition and welfare aspects.

Each of the three families has a gross income of $200 each month and deductions under the program rules of $20 for a "net income" of $180. In that bracket, the program's price table requires $46 cash a month for the $130 in stamps.

Once the stamps are in hand, he continued, Family A has $84 more in the form of coupons to spend on food but no extra money freed; Family B spends no more on food but has $84 freed to spend on other things. Family C has $50 more for food and $34 in its "old cash" to spend otherwise.

A total of 33,000 cotton samples were classed at the U.S.D.A. Cotton Classing Office at Abilene during the week ending January 13, 1977. This brought the seasonal total to 462,000 samples classed at the Abilene office. An additional 68,000 samples were classed this season at the temporary office at Munday.

Local cotton prices declined to seasonal low levels this past week, according to B. B. Manly, in charge of the U.S.D.A. Cotton Classing Office in Abilene. Market activity was slow to moderate early in the week at prices about 24 cents over CCC loan rates. Prices had declined to as low as 18 cents over loan rates by late in the week, and cotton markets were mostly inactive. Most available qualities of cotton brought from 49 to 58 cents per pound during the week ending January 13.

Cotton quality has declined only slightly for late season ginnings. Most remaining cotton is being ginned from ricks and modules in western counties of the Abilene classing territory.

Grade 42 continued as the predominant grade classed at 31 per cent. Seventeen per cent graded 52, 14 per cent graded 32, and 11 per cent graded 51. About 50 per cent was reduced in grade because of bark or grass content.

Micronaire readings were 66 per cent within the 3.5 to 4.9 range. Thirty-one per cent miked 3.4 or lower, and three per cent miked 5.0 or higher.

Fiber length was 51 per cent staple 32, 34 per cent staple 31, and 11 per cent staple 33. Fiber strength has been about average this season at mostly 82,000 pounds per square inch breaking strength.

Once accused killer saves life

GLASTONBURY, Conn. (AP) — Peter Reilly, once accused of killing his mother in one of the most publicized court cases in recent Connecticut history, has helped save the life of a Glastonbury woman.

Reilly, an emergency medical technician for an ambulance company, was called Friday afternoon to a laundromat where Dorothy Leach, 59, had suffered an apparent heart attack. He said she appeared clinically dead when he and his partner arrived.

They took over for police and a member of the local volunteer ambulance corps. Reilly and his partner, John Hire, administered cardiopulmonary resuscitation while they rushed Mrs. Leach to Hartford Hospital, where she was reported in serious and guarded condition.

Reilly was cleared of manslaughter charges in the 1973 stabbing death of his mother in November.

'Imperialist mercenaries' Capital of Benin put under curfew

NIAMEY, Niger (AP) — The capital of neighboring Benin was under curfew today after scattered fighting, but President Mathieu Kerekou of the former French colony said he had defeated an attempt by "imperialist mercenaries" to overthrow him.

Kerekou said a planeload of whites and Africans landed early Sunday morning at a military airport outside Cotonou, the capital of the Louisiana-size country, and attacked at various points around the city. But government troops drove them off and also forced their DCs to take off, the broadcast statement said.

An official at the U.S. Embassy in Cotonou reported by telephone that a curfew for everyone except military personnel was imposed at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. He said there was no indication when it would be lifted.

The city "was awakened by small-arms fire from the direction of the airport," the American said. The fighting was "scattered at best," and the city was "completely calm" all day, he reported.

He said he had heard no reports of casualties, "certainly not to Americans."

Benin, the former French colony of Dahomey, is on the underside of the West African bulge and is considered one of Africa's poorest countries. Largely agricultural, it has a population of about 3 million, more than 100,000 of whom live in Cotonou.

Personal and regional animosities have kept its politics unstable throughout its 17 years of independence. It has had at least eight coups or attempted coups since then.

Kerekou took over in a military coup in 1972 and established a Marxist-Leninist government.

Nader spoils comedy

NEW YORK (AP) — When consumer advocate Ralph Nader paid a visit to "NBC Saturday Night," it was supposed to be all fun and games. But before the show got as far as the first commercial, he had discovered a defective auto airbag.

In one of the first comedy routines, Nader, the guest host, was supposed to embrace Laraine Newman, one of the show's regulars, and whisper a veiled suggestion: "Does your car have airbags?"

At that point an airbag — a safety feature being pushed by some consumer forces — was supposed to balloon from Nader's shirt.

The airbag had worked perfectly in four rehearsals, but fizzled on the live show. "I think GM sabotaged it," Nader joked afterward.

General Motors is the most famous target of Nader's efforts for the consumer.

The show opened with Nader in cowboy hat and sequins, telling the audience, "For 90 minutes tonight I'm just going to cut loose. I'm here to have fun. I'm Ralph Nader, Mr. Goodtime."

Weekend NBA action, starters in longer

By The Associated Press
Sometimes it pays to buck a trend. Just when most coaches around the National Basketball Association are adopting a form of populism, using as many as 10 or 11 players per game and giving more and more playing time to their reserves, New York Knicks Coach Red Holzman decided what his team needed was a move in the opposite direction.

"We need continuity, and the way to get it is to leave the starters in a little longer," said Holzman, the dean of NBA coaches now in his 14th season.

The strategy worked. The Knicks' five starters meshed, turning in what Holzman called "the best game we have played in two weeks," as New York beat the Golden State Warriors 111-97 before a national television audience.

The Knicks had begun a six-game road trip with embarrassingly lopsided losses at Portland and Seattle, dropping below the .500 mark, and needed the win at Golden State to stop the slide.

Each of New York's starters played at least 40 minutes and the five accounted for all but seven of the team's points. Walt Frazier scored 24, Jim McMillian 22, Earl Monroe 21, Bob McAdoo 20 and Lonnie Shelton 17. McAdoo also had 17 rebounds.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Philadelphia 76ers routed the New Orleans Jazz 97-76, the San Antonio Spurs beat the Indiana Pacers 122-115, the Boston Celtics trounced the New York Nets 106-91, the Denver Nuggets defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 109-101, the Atlanta Hawks upset the Portland Trail Blazers 125-120 and the Chicago Bulls beat the Milwaukee Bucks 102-83.

76ers 97, Jazz 76
Henry Bibby scored 21 points and led a 26-4 second-quarter spurt that carried Philadelphia to its seventh victory in the last eight games. Bibby, playing nearly 45 minutes, held NBA scoring leader Pete Maravich to 22 points, seven below his average.

Spurs 122, Pacers 115
San Antonio jumped to an 18-point halftime lead and then held on to snap a four-game losing streak.

Larry Kenon scored 32 points and Coby Dietrick added 20 for San Antonio, while Billy Knight poured in a season-high 43 for Indiana.

Celtics 106, Nets 91
The Nets suffered their 10th straight defeat, a club record, as Boston took the lead for good with nine consecutive points during the second period.

Nuggets 109, Sonics 101
Denver raised its record to 29-12, tops in the NBA, by posting its fifth straight victory and snapping Seattle's six-game winning streak. Dan Issel and David Thompson combined for 30 points in the second half for Denver, Issel finishing with 23 and Thompson 22.

Hawks 125, Blazers 120
Atlanta scored its final 10 points from the free throw line in the closing 2:36. A pair on free throws by Ken Charles with nine seconds to go clinched the victory.

Bulls 102, Bucks 83
Mickey Johnson scored 27 points and Artis Gilmore 20 as Chicago overcame a 50-47 halftime deficit to beat Milwaukee going away.

'We're macho too,' say Odessa netters

DALLAS (AP) — West Texas has an image of being a stronghold of "macho" values, where any sport that isn't played with an oblong ball on a 100-yard field is for sissies.

But at Odessa College, in the heart of West Texas, tennis is not only the major sport but both men and women are coached by a woman.

Virginia Brown, who has coached the men's and women's tennis teams at Odessa College for 14 years, has built a junior college tennis juggernaut without the help of the Title IX ban on sexual discrimination.

"I've had tennis scholarships ever since I've been here," she said Thursday in a telephone interview from Dallas. "I get six full scholarships for men and five for women. I haven't had to be a women's libber because I have what I want in this program, so I can't complain about women being treated unequally. The men and women practice together and use the same court facilities."

The Texas Sports Writers Association has named Miss Brown Texas Junior College Coach of the Year in balloting in which four men also were nominated.

She won the honor after the Odessa men won their second straight national JC tennis championship and the women took the runnerup spot in their division for the second straight year.

At the national men's JC tournament last year, she was the only woman coach among the 60 teams entered. "Needless to say, I had a good time," she says.

ability to hold her own on the court with men players for her success in recruiting them and gaining their respect.

"Once they see you can play, they respect you," she says. "In practice, I can show them things rather than try to convince them by talking."

Although her name is far from being a household word, her coaching credentials include four national JC championships for men and two intercollegiate titles for women.

The intercollegiate championships were won before a JC division was created for women.

This national success has earned her a solid reputation in the tennis world and has made recruiting much easier.

"I've had a lot of foreign players on my teams, and they go home and spread the word about Odessa College. I get a lot of recruits through letters and word-of-mouth."

Her current tennis teams at Odessa include four foreign players.

In addition to her dual coaching role at Odessa, Miss Brown also coaches the women's team at the University of Texas-Permian Basin.

For her efforts, she's paid $15,000 per year by Odessa College and $2,000 by UTPB, where the women finished eighth in the nation although they competed against such giant, four-year schools as UCLA.

Is that all there is? Pro Bowl ends it

SEATTLE (AP) — After a week of leisurely practice and socializing in balmy San Diego, it's all business tonight when the National Football League's top stars from the National and American conferences meet in the Kingdome Sunday — after practicing for a week in San Diego — the league's owners huddled to try to keep the league together.

The NFC, which has lost the past five Super Bowls to its AFC rivals, has saved face by winning the past two Pro Bowl games to even the series at 3-3 since the all-star tilt was revised after the merger with the American Football League.

Either Pittsburgh's Chuck Noll or Los Angeles' Chuck Knox is going to have his perfect Pro Bowl coaching record broken in the nationally televised (ABC) 6 p.m. PST game.

It's Noll's second appearance as an AFC Pro Bowl coach. The other time came four years ago when the Americans beat the Nationals 33-28. On the opposite side will be Knox, who is making his third straight appearance as boss of the NFC. He coached the NFC squad to victory last year, 23-20, and in the 1975 game, 17-10.

With Fran Tarkenton of Minnesota and Ken Stabler of Oakland absent with injuries, the NFC and AFC teams will be quarterbacked by Dallas' Roger Staubach and Baltimore's Bert Jones. A sellout crowd of 65,000 — the first sellout in the 27-year history of the event — is expected for the game in America's newest domed stadium.

While the two 40-man squads held a final workout in the Kingdome Sunday — after practicing for a week in San Diego — the league's owners huddled to try to keep the league together. The owners and players have gone for three years without a basic labor agreement and now there is a danger that the annual college draft, from which the league stocks its teams, may also be in jeopardy.

But the legal questions take a back seat to the football game. Each year there is talk that the Pro Bowl, which follows the Super Bowl, is one game too many, that the fans, and some players, don't take it seriously.

John Madden, coach of the Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders, disagrees.

"I found that one thing every player has in common is a great deal of pride," said Madden, here for the NFL meetings. "Early in the week there's a lot of meeting old friends and socializing, but when you start bearing down on Saturday or Sunday in getting ready for the game, they're ready to play."

"They go all out. They really start getting intense. They won't give anything but their best."

High school star wants no fast cars

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP) — Billy Don Jackson, a highly recruited schoolboy football tackle, says he wants no part of illegal recruiting offers even if it means turning down fast cars, fast women, fast money, and easy grades.

The 6-3, 247-pound high school All-American, who supports his family by working part-time during pride. I can't take no handouts."

Added Jackson, who has received more than 1,000 recruiting letters, "It would hurt my pride as a man. And it would hurt Sherman as a school and a city. I will accept nothing from nobody."

Jackson, 18, who lives in a $57 per month housing project, has trimmed his prospective list to Southern Methodist, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Alabama, Texas Tech and UCLA. He has visited SMU and Nebraska and will visit the others before the Southwest Conference signing date of Feb. 8.

Dozens of recruiters have made the pilgrimage to the North Texas city and Jackson said some of them have indirectly offered automobiles.

"These guys won't tell you they'll give you a car. They'll be real subtle. They'll say they'll set you up with a car dealer, stuff like that," he added.

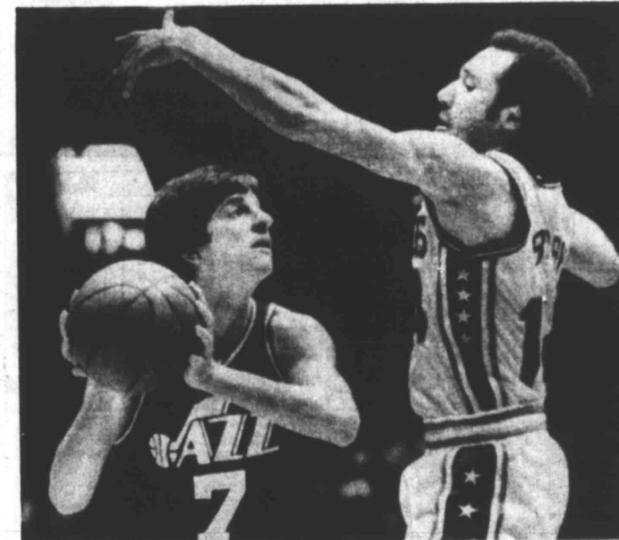

"A couple of them said they'd take care of my homework, give me a tutor, whatever. Make sure I don't have to go to class, things like that," said Jackson. "That ain't the life for me. Those schools are out of the running. I don't give them a second look."

He declined to reveal which schools made the offers.

"I've worked all my life. My father taught me to appreciate a hard day's work. He said if you work for it, the money's good," said Jackson, who averaged 20 tackles per game this year for the Bearcats.

Jackson's parents were divorced when he was three and for the past three years, Jackson has supported his family in lieu of his ailing mother by working full-time in the summer and part-time during school days.

"I make ends meet," said Jackson. "We may not have three meals a day but we have one good meal a day. We get food stamps, we get by. God blesses our household, I know. And he's blessed me with athletic talent, which I intend to use to the fullest."

Jenner not cut out for 'King of Apes' role

NEW YORK (AP) — "Me Tarzan, you Jane."

Famous Olympic champions — Glenn Morris, Johnny Weissmuller and Buster Crabbe — have made those words a part of American movie folklore for generations, but Bruce Jenner has no desire to perpetuate the tradition.

"It's not my image," the handsome 26-year-old decathlon gold medalist from San Jose, Calif., said as he reviewed his new role in show business.

"I was offered a role of 'Superman' in a film with Marlon Brando and Gene Hackman. It's not what I want. I turned it down."

tossed before the cameras at a price fit for a king.

Unlike many of his predecessors, Jenner brings with him an added dividend — his glamorous wife, Christi, not to mention a silver Labrador dog named Bertha.

"People are already talking to us about signing up Bertha to an exclusive contract for endorsements — dog food and stuff like that," said Christi. "After all, we are a team — a package."

They are indeed. Christi slipped Bertha past tough security guards last summer at Montreal to watch Jenner score his world record 8,618 points in running, jumping and heaving things.

After he clinched the decathlon with a gutsy, stirring run in the 1,500 meters, Bruce grabbed his sobbing wife in his arms and blurted, "We did it, honey, we did it — it was a team job."

However, the Morris Agency didn't include either Christi or Bertha when it signed Jenner to a potential million-dollar contract after the Games. Christi, a strong-willed woman, rectified that

Hawks at crossroads in tonight's battle

The Howard College Hawks host a must-game at Hawk gym, 7:30 p.m. tonight.

The hustling Hawks will face Frank Phillips Junior College, a team in the cellar of the WJCC race with a 0-5 record. With a record nearly as lousy at 1-4, the Hawks must take this one to stay alive in the Region Five bid for the bacon.

She began writing a book on her life as the wife of a famous athlete. Having met and married Jenner while the two were attending an obscure Mormon college in Iowa, Graceland College.

Although the Hawks' record is a weak one, this may not reflect the whole truth and nothing but. Most of their losses have been close ones, and the team threatens to turn the tables at any time.

The local favorites are hoping for a big turnout to cheer them on at tonight's game.

Marquette got shot in the arm

By The Associated Press

The Marquette Warriors needed a shot to cure their offense — and they got it from Bo Ellis.

The bony forward, reluctant to pull the trigger in the first half, turned into an offensive tiger in the second and led the 11th-ranked Warriors to a 78-69 victory over No. 19 Notre Dame Sunday.

"Notre Dame cut him off at the pass in the first half," said Marquette Coach Al McGuire, "but it's pretty hard to stop him for a whole game. When we're in trouble, we go to Bo. That's what we tell ourselves in the huddle."

Actually, it was what McGuire told Ellis in the dressing room at halftime that inspired his scoring efforts in the nationally televised game. In so many words, McGuire ordered his star forward to fire whenever he had the chance.

"I've been very violent with Bo lately," McGuire said. "Bo has been good for Marquette University and good for Al McGuire, but he hasn't been good for himself. He's too unselfish. It's a mortal sin. He's so talented, he has to score more points."

Ellis, shut out in the first half, scored 12 points after Warriors pull away from a close 31-26 halftime lead. His performance abetted the game-high point total of 27 by Butch Lee.

The Marquette-Notre Dame game was one of two Sunday involving ranked teams. In a contest Sunday night, the third-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats defeated the St. Louis Billikens 54-52 as Mike Jones and Eddie Lee scored four points apiece in the final six minutes.

In college basketball games on Saturday, top-ranked San Francisco blasted Los Angeles-Loyola 90-63; No. 2 Kentucky defeated Auburn 75-68; No. 4 Alabama whipped Mississippi State 65-63; No. 5 North Carolina defeated Duke 77-68; No. 6 Michigan routed Michigan State 83-70; No. 7 Wake Forest edged No. 17 Clemson 84-82; Purdue upset No. 9 Minnesota 66-64 in overtime, and Texas-El Paso shocked No. 10 Arizona 60-59.

Also, No. 12 UCLA out-scored Stanford 100-86; No. 13 Louisville walloped Marshall 104-85; 14th-ranked Maryland tripped Navy 62-54; 15th-rated Providence hammered Hawaii 94-76; No. 16 Arkansas walloped Rice 72-45; 18th-ranked Memphis State stopped Florida State 81-75, and Washington State upset No. 20 Oregon 49-45.

Bill Cartwright and Marlon Redmond each scored 22 points to power San Francisco over Los Angeles Loyola, the Dons' 19th straight victory this season. San Francisco went on a 12-0 streak late in the first half to put the game out of reach.

Jack Givens scored three key baskets in the final six minutes to spark Kentucky over Auburn. Givens, who had a game-high 20 points and 13 rebounds, got the clutch points when the Wildcats slowed down their offense after leading 66-62 with 6:43 left in the game.

An alert defense and a 21-point performance by Reggie King helped Alabama beat Mississippi State. Tommy La-Garde's 22 points and 10 rebounds led North Carolina over Duke.

The Tar Heels, who led 30-17 and then 43-32 at the half, had to turn back a late rally by the Blue Devils.

Michigan whipped Michigan State as Phil Hubbard scored 20 points and Joel Thompson 18. The Wolverines built a 52-30 lead at Wake Forest.

Wake Forest defeated Clemson on Rod Griffin's jump shot with one second remaining.

Stars whip Celts in Gra-Y action

The Gra-Y Stars took the Celtics in a thriller Saturday, 26-18.

In a tough all-around battle Star Pete Valenzuela Jr. took high-point honors for both the game and the league race. Valenzuela tacked up 15 points in the game, giving him a league-leading total of 27 points.

Top man for the Celts was Writsel with eight points, followed closely by McKenzie with six big ones. Pat Parris added the Star effort with five points, second highest shooting of the game.

Coaches report that all-out hustle was shown by Jamie Thompson of the Stars who leads the league in rebounds. The game gave the Stars a 2-0 record and the Celts a 0-2 ranking.

Millionaire rancher, wife disappear

BASTROP, Tex. (AP) — It has been almost a year since millionaire rancher John Whatley and his wife vanished from their home on a sprawling Central Texas ranch, but former Bastrop County Sheriff Jimmy Nutt says the disappearance still "bugs the hell out of me."

Nutt, who says investigators are stymied, said "I don't know a damn bit more than I did the first night I went out to the ranch."

The former sheriff has traveled to Mexico and even employed a psychic in his lengthy, but vain attempts to find the missing couple.

Nutt, 56, is so concerned about the disappearance that he almost backed out of his announced resignation from office to pursue the case and now says he will come out of retirement to work in the case if he can find a new lead.

Nutt, a deputy and a neighbor found the thick-walled home locked and silent last Jan. 31 after Mrs. Whatley's daughter reported the couple missing.

Investigators discovered what appeared to be a bullet hole in a bedroom window and found what was apparently a second bullet mark in the concrete tile interior of the window.

Inside, they said they saw an orderly bedroom with a spotless floor that appeared to have been recently cleaned.

A mahogany door to the bedroom was missing, having been lifted from its hinges, and the locks had been removed from every window. They were found in a jar in the house.

There was no trace of the reportedly eccentric 74-year-old rancher and his 68-year-old wife Fay.

Days of frustrating search followed. Searchers, sometimes numbering 100, fanned out over the sprawling ranch, dragging the nearby Colorado River. They found nothing, despite using a helicopter.

Texas Rangers combed the house, using chemical paper that changes color in the presence of the faintest trace of blood. It failed to react.

"You'd really have to clean it up good not to leave a trace that would show on that paper," Ranger Wallace Spillar said.

Nutt said a bullet hole in the window shade failed to match the trajectory of the slug that had penetrated the glass and window screen.

"Someone had pulled down the shade after the shot was fired," said Nutt.

No slugs were found, although authorities said they discovered some bullet fragments under a bed. The rancher's fully-loaded .22-caliber revolver was in a desk drawer. Nutt said Whatley's wallet, with $7 in it, was in the home and nothing of any value was missing.

After weeks of futile investigation, Nutt called in a psychic who told the sheriff that Whatley was buried near water, but not the Colorado River. The woman speculated that Whatley had been killed and his wife injured by three people, but provided no real clues.

On his vacation last year, Nutt expanded his investigation to Parral, a Mexican mountain town near the former holdings of the Whatley family, which fled the Mexican revolution.

Nutt said he came away from the area convinced that the elderly rancher, who spoke fluent Spanish, "could live forever down there if he chose without being identified."

Only a few days after the disappearance, officers questioned Whatley's only son and sole heir after hunters told Nutt they'd seen a van or camper go toward the ranch and return 45 minutes later on the night the Whatleys vanished.

Barney Whatley, 41, a $1,000-a-month weed inspector for the City of Austin who owned a van, denied being near the ranch that night. The younger Whatley retained an attorney and declined to take a polygraph test.

The younger Whatley, who said he was financially independent of his father, added that he refused to take the polygraph exam because of a "disagreement" with law enforcement officials.

Fay Whatley's 49-year-old daughter, Mrs. Bennett Blake, who visited the ranch house soon after the disappearance, said, "I think definitely that bedroom had been cleaned up. And there were things arranged on the dresser in such a manner that my mother would never have done. I knew my mother that well."

Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Whatley's daughter by a previous marriage, was named as the missing woman's sole heir.

The missing rancher, who had been married five times, had experienced domestic problems with his wife, who had been married twice before, since their 1973 wedding. Nutt said he found a bundle of legal documents in a dry well shortly after the disappearance.

He said they were unstained, indicating they had been placed there since the last rain, adding that they included divorce petitions Whatley had filed against Fay just 14 weeks after their marriage.

The difficulties had been worked out, Nutt said, and the divorce was dropped.

The wealthy rancher, Nutt said, was last seen by some peccan thrashers, who told officers he was accompanied by a man convicted of burglary. The man is wanted in Florida for violating his probation and Nutt never got to question him about the missing Whatleys.

Mrs. Blake has offered a $10,000 reward for information that would determine the whereabouts of the Whatleys. No one has come forward to claim it.

James Forney awarded badge of Eagle Scout

James I. Forney, 16, son of MSgt. and Mrs. Robert Forney of Webb AFB, received his Eagle Scout badge recently at the Webb Boy Scout Troop 146 quarterly Court of Honor. Col. Jerry S. Grimes, base commander, made the presentation.

James has been active in scouting for the past six years in the Gulf Coast and Buffalo Trail Councils. He is only the fourth scout to attain the high rank in Troop 146 since it was organized in 1955.

Guest speaker for the event was Capt. Jack Butcher of the 3388th Flying Training Squadron. A former prisoner of war in North Vietnam, Captain Butcher told of his experiences and how the ideals and skills he learned in scouting may have helped him during his two years of captivity.

Other boys advanced in rank were: Tim Dilley — to First Class Scout; Mike Barna — to Second Class Scout; Bret Crenweige, Jon Krug and Joe Krug — to Tenderfoot Scout; Mark Bailey, Gary Bailey and Thomas Nelson — to Scout.

In addition, 13 merit badges were divided among Kevin Crenweige, Randy Stukel, Alan Morris, Jon Krug, Jim Charlton and Bret Crenweige along with numerous skill awards.

'Busting Loose' very funny comedy

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Busting Loose," which premieres tonight on CBS, is a very funny comedy — but you wouldn't know it from the opening.

The new series, about a young man named Lenny Markowitz leaving the family nest, gets off to a slow start. But stick around for the fun. It's at 8:30 p.m. EST, in the time period formerly occupied by "Phyllis."

The early jokes, mostly about ducks on the wallpaper in his new apartment, are lame — lame-duck jokes, perhaps. Lenny's friends crowd into the apartment for a poker game and it's hard to tell one from another. Even the star, Adam Arkin, gets lost in the crowd.

It's not until Lenny is away from his friends that the show takes off. The scenes with his parents, who try to lure him back home, and on his first job come off well.

Young Arkin is a likeable, effective performer, much in the image of his father, actor Alan Arkin. Jack Kruschen and Pat Carroll play the parents to bewildered perfection. In all, the series has 10 regulars. It may take a while to get them all sorted out.

"Busting Loose," first called "The Last Markowitz," then "On Your Own," is taken right out of the lives of its creators, Mark Rothman and Lowell Ganz. It was only a few years ago that they busted loose. Rothman is 29 and Ganz is 28.

"It's thing that happened to us, our friends and things we fantasize," said Ganz. "It's very much about people at the crossroads of life, who don't know what they're going to do," said Rothman.

Despite their youth, "Busting Loose" is their second series. They also created and produced "Laverne and Shirley," which was an instant hit.

They're defensive about the criticism heaped upon "Laverne and Shirley." They see it as "an intelligent show about unintelligent people," in contrast to "highly praised unintelligent shows about intelligent people."

Ganz is a dark, intense, fasttalking man, while Rothman is calm and deliberate. They have been friends since they were 12 years old and partners since they wrote school productions at Queens College in New York.

They had never sold a script when a submission to "The Odd Couple" brought them jobs as staff writers. They went on to produce "Happy Days" and then "Laverne and Shirley." They're executive producers of "Busting Loose."

Chilly weather helps clip violent deaths

By The Associated Press
Texas recorded one of the lightest death tolls from violence in recent weekends, possibly because chilly weather kept many persons from stirring about as much as usual.

There were reports of eight fatalities — three in traffic, two in a private plane crash and three homicides — between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Among the victims were: Ascencio Gomez Nunez, 46, and Mario B. Cisneros, 26, both of Odem, Tex., were killed Sunday night in a collision of their car and a truck four miles south of Sinton on U.S. 77. State police said the truck turned in front of their car.

Police said Oscar Wadlington, 65, apparently shot and killed himself Sunday in Fort Worth after wounding his wife, Fay, 64. She died early today.

Cornell Wallace, 33, was shot and killed late Saturday in what police described as an argument over a dice game at a Dallas freight lines office where he worked. Burt M. Colbert, 33, was wounded. Officers arrested a 50-year-old man.

Two El Paso residents died when their small plane crashed in West Texas near Horizon City. The small plane skidded about 100 feet on the desert before bursting into flames. The victims were Ronald R. Hickman, a Civil Air Patrol pilot, and Nelson Ross, 16, a CAP cadet.

Charles Hinton, 24, of Cuneo, in East Texas, died after he was stabbed in an argument in a cafe at Cuneo.

Jimmy Jacobs, 28, of Burkburnett, died when his automobile hit a light pole at Wichita Falls. Witnesses said the automobile skidded on a patch of ice.

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — After weekending with ex-husband Andy Williams, Claudine Longet plans to return to her volunteer job teaching French to second-graders this week as her lawyers try to keep her from going to prison for killing her lover.

The 35-year-old French-born entertainer faces a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a $5,000 fine after being convicted Friday of criminally negligent homicide, a misdemeanor. State District Judge George Lohr, who presided over her trial, can reduce or suspend the prison term and fine or put her on probation.

You are probably the best authority in the building on who really knows the dance steps. It's the boy that hopes to resume giving French lessons at Aspen Elementary School "sometime this week."

She started the lessons before her trial began Jan. 3. "It's her option," said Nancy Wall, the regular teacher. "It's strictly a volunteer thing. She's a little low right now, and I'm not going to bug her about it."

Mrs. Wall said Miss Longet would be welcomed back.

Sentencing has been set for Jan. 31, but Miss Longet's lawyers plan to seek a delay until sometime next month, partly to allow more time for probation recommendations.

And I have.

And I've played in a pit band. Several times. One time that I recall was during a performance of H.M.S. Pinafore. And if you've ever played for a Gilbert and Sullivan production, you know how much alike all of the choruses are. They repeat themselves over and over and if you turn one too many pages, you're in trouble. I know, because I did. And a trombone on the wrong page of a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta is a terrible thing. Fortunately, it was at a rehearsal. And Dick Smittle, the director, had quite a few selective adjectives with which he commented on the performance.

So I admire the pit band. And just thought I'd take time to say so. They're not fenced in exactly — but they almost were.

When I was out ridin' fence.

Mental health services available to veterans

Veterans Administration mental health services can be extended to family members of veterans, but only under circumstances which are carefully spelled out in the Veterans Omnibus Health Care Act of 1976.

The law, enacted Oct. 21, 1976, authorizes mental health services, consultation, professional counseling and training for family members of a veteran receiving medical care for a service-connected disability, but only if the care is considered essential to the rehabilitation of the veteran.

Similar health services may be authorized in some instances for family members of veterans with non-service-connected disabilities. Family care will be provided on an outpatient basis in those cases where it is deemed essential in effecting release of a veteran from a hospital.

Legal guardians, or an individual, in whose household the veteran certifies an intention to live, also may qualify for VA mental health services. Services will be limited to those which are essential to support rehabilitation of the veteran.

CR ducats on sale

Campus Revue, after weeks of rehearsals and work on the production which annually is the highlight of the local productions, is in the last three days of ticket sales prior to opening night.

Thursday is opening night for the production at 8 p.m. and ticket sales for the opener have been fairly light through this morning.

Ticket sales have been more brisk for Friday and Saturday nights and even for the following week when they perform again Thursday through Saturday.

Band students were hoping sales would pick-up for Thursday so that they will face a large crowd at the opener, as has been their tradition.

Tickets may be obtained by dialing 267-7461 and asking for the band hall.

Ezell appointed to key committees

(Special to the Herald)
AUSTIN — Mike Ezzell of Snyder, who represents Howard County in the Texas Legislature, says he is very pleased at having been named to the Appropriative Affairs, the Judiciary and the House Administration committees.

Ezell, a second-term member of the house, will serve as vice chairman of the powerful Appropriative Affairs committee.

The 13-member Health and Welfare Committee has jurisdiction over the State Department of Public Welfare, Department of Health Resources, Mental Health and Mental Retardation. With the adoption of the new rules, this committee also carries the responsibility of programs affecting senior citizens, nursing homes and the Health Facilities Commission.

Ezell said: "I feel that my experience has been invaluable to me working with the Health and Welfare Committee, and I am particularly eager to serve as vice chairman of Appropriative Affairs since this committee handles such a large portion of expended state funds."

Regarding his appointment to the Judiciary Committee, Ezzell remarked: "I am anxious to get acquainted with the inner working of the Judiciary Committee, which has previously been composed primarily of members who are attorneys. I hope to produce some input into this committee from the business community, and will focus primarily in the areas of workmen's compensation, the uniform commercial code and the industrial accident board."

Ezell's other assignment, the House Administration Committee, is one of the most active of the procedural committees because it has jurisdiction over the expenditures and policies governing members of the House of Representatives.

Craft seen at Coahoma HD meeting

A Colorado City resident, Mrs. Bill Lain, demonstrated the craft of macrame when she was guest speaker Wednesday for the Coahoma Home Demonstration Club.

Introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. Ray Swann, Mrs. Lain advised the women concerning types of materials to use, how to work the skeins and what trim to use for the most attractive results.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Lee Roy Echols, who presented the devotion. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Rufus Parks will be hostess for the next meeting, Feb. 9 at 2 p.m.

Pills, hormones may effect baby's heart

BOSTON (AP) — Babies are about twice as likely to be born with defective hearts if their mothers took birth control pills or other female hormones while they were pregnant, a study shows.

The researchers found that the problems occurred most often among women who took the drugs, sometimes accidentally, during the second and third months of pregnancy.

Ordinarily, women are urged to stop taking birth control pills when they become pregnant. The researchers said the problems usually occurred when women did not realize they were expecting.

The study, conducted by doctors at the Drug Epidemiology Unit of Boston University Medical Center, was published in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

The research showed that the increased risk of heart trouble occurred among children of women who took two commonly prescribed female hormones — estrogen and progesterone.

Women are sometimes given the female sex hormones by doctors who believe the drugs reduce the chance of miscarriage.

The doctors found a rate of about 18 babies with heart defects among every 1,000 infants born to women who took the drugs during early pregnancy. The rate was about eight such cases for every 1,000 babies whose mothers did not take these drugs.

"Female hormones taken in the early stages of pregnancy may disturb the normal cardiovascular development of the fetus," the doctors wrote. "Both estrogens and progesterone were associated with the occurrence of congenital heart disease in the offspring."

The BU doctors found that of 50,282 pregnant women surveyed, 1,042 received the hormones during early pregnancy, and 19 gave birth to children with heart trouble.

Close the Doors After Adoption

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for voting for the right of the biological parents to remain anonymous if they wish. I suppose some biological parents would dearly love to be reunited with the child they gave up, but for me it would be traumatic.

I was 14 when I gave up the child I had conceived by my stepfather. That part of my life was a nightmare, and the day I signed away my legal rights to the baby I really did not want. I knew that I had done the right thing.

When the child is 18, I will be 32, and by that time I hope I will be married and have a child by a man I love.

Abby, I'm writing this because I want adopted children to realize that in most cases, they are better off for having been given up for adoption. And they should be grateful to their biological mothers, who had the good sense to give them to parents who wanted them.

I closed a door I never want opened.

FLORIDAN

DEAR FLORIDAN: I applaud your mature and sensible philosophy. Read on for another excellent letter from another reader who shares your view:

DEAR ABBY: There is a group here in Colorado that calls itself "Adoptees in Search." They are trying to force legislation that would allow adoptees access to their birth records—complete with the names of their biological parents.

As a woman who gave her child up for adoption, may I express my view? If adoptees want to change the law from this time forward, fine. But when I left my child at a home for unwed mothers, they assured me that my records would forever be confidential and no one—and certainly not my child—would ever know who her biological parents were.

Other unwed mothers may feel differently, but I have no desire to intrude myself into the life of the child I gave up years ago, and I feel it would be best if that child did not come into my life.

I was promised that my records would remain forever closed. And if they are ever released to anyone, I will sue the home for violating our agreement!

CLOSED BOOK

DEAR ABBY: I am 21, have never been married, but have a beautiful 9-month-old baby. His father has never seen him and probably doesn't care to.

The problem is, I still live at home and we usually go for walks around my neighborhood. Usually I run into people I knew in high school. When we talk, the person almost always asks, "Who is the baby's father?" This always embarrasses me, and I don't know what to say.

What should I tell these rude people? Also, what should I tell my son when he asks, "Where is my father?"

I love my son so much that sometimes I wonder if it was fair to keep him. But he's a happy child, and I know he's glad I did.

UNWED MOM

DEAR UNWED: Answer to the curious friends: "He's someone you don't know and lives elsewhere." As for your son: "Your Dad and I separated long ago, and I don't know where he is."

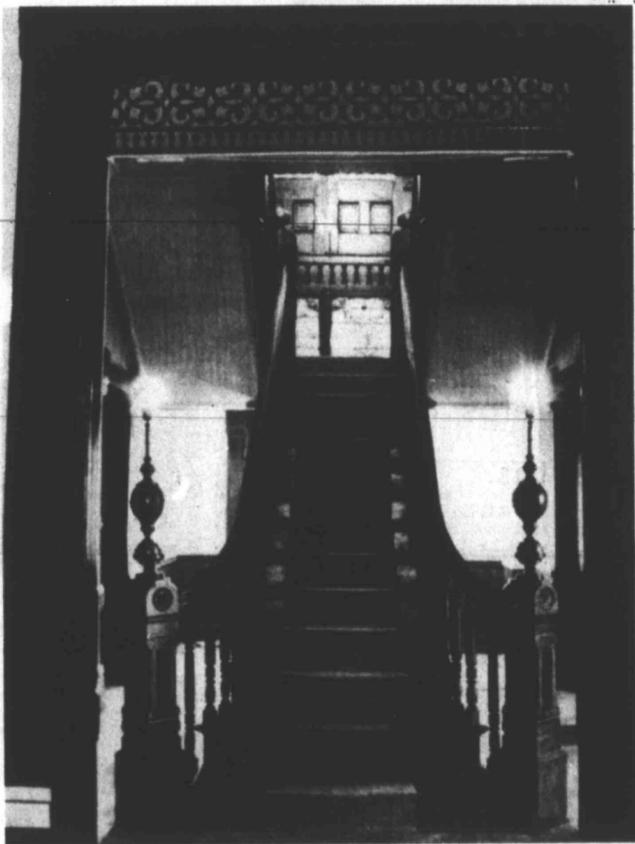

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Live burro needed for opera production

DETROIT (AP) — One live burro is needed for a walk-on part in the Michigan Opera Theatre's production of "Naughty Marietta."

"We hope to find a tenor, but a baritone, bass, soprano or mezzo will do fine," said David DiChiera, general director of the opera. "Stage experience would be helpful but is not necessary."

The opera group has been advertising for a burro to appear in costume during the opening scene.

HOME WILL BE PRESERVED
Hirshfeld mansion in Austin

Midland residents buy Austin home to restore

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Midland couple and the Austin Heritage Society announced plans Wednesday for the purchase and restoration of the century-old Henry Hirshfeld property in Austin.

The society said it had purchased the Henry Hirshfeld cottage, built about 1876, and the adjoining 12-room mansion, built about 1885.

The property was resold to Mr. and Mrs. J. Hiram Moore of Midland who agreed to the preservation and restoration of the Victorian structures.

"We are buying the Hirshfeld property because we admire what the Austin Heritage Society is doing for Texas—and we want to help," the Moores said.

The property will be included in historic zoning by the Austin Landmark Commission.

The society said the property is considered a prime example of Austin Victoriana.

Until the sale the property had remained in the family which built both houses. The society said it was able to make the initial purchase through a substantial gift from the present owner, Marie Bernheim Hanna, who is a granddaughter of Henry Hirshfeld.

Hirshfeld came to America from Germany as a 15-year-old boy. Starting as a country peddler he became owner of a mercantile store. Later he was a founder and first acting president of the Austin National Bank, now the city's largest.
