Gunman tricked, hostages escape

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eight hostages escaped unharmed Saturday when a shot-gun-armed man who had held them overnight at a home for unwed mothers was tricked into believing a police officer was the son he had not seen for 20 years.

Jesse Coulter, 39, and his ex-wife, Rita Gibbon, 37, were barricaded with the hostages, including a pregnant teen-ager, in the X-ray room at the Catherine Booth Home for 15 hours. When it was over, they strolled arm-in-arm from the building and were whisked off to jail by police.

A police officer had told the couple he was the son they gave up for adoption two decades ago. Cincinnati Police Lt. Daniel Cash said no charges would be filed until Sunday. Police said they did not know whether Mrs. Gibbon, who now lives in Utica, Mich., was a willing participant in the siege.

Police said Coulter had a criminal record. He pleaded guilty to felonious assault in Michigan in 1969 in connection with a gun battle with police and was sentenced to three to four years in prison, authorities said.

The incident in Cincinnati came less than two days after a gunman in Indianapolis released unharmed the hostage he had held for three days.

Police said Coulter and the woman entered the home Friday evening, took seven women and a man hostage and threatened to "blow them away" unless authorities returned their son. Police met a second demand—that he be allowed to speak by telephone with a sister in Detroit.

A tactical weapons squad surrounded the building through the night, and some officers kept a vigil in front of the barricaded room.

Late Saturday afternoon, police said, Coulter dropped the shotgun while lighting a marijuana cigarette and the gun discharged, missing everyone. Six of the hostages ran screaming from the room.

"It didn't hit anybody," said Lt. Harold Mills. "It's a miracle with all those people in the room. As far as we know, he had only that one shell in his gun," Mills said.

Coulter managed to hold onto two of the hostages, a man and a woman, and threatened them with a six-inch knife and a pair of scissors. At one point, firemen at the scene strung hose to the building when Coulter doused one of the two with alcohol, threatening to set the hostage on fire.

Coulter held the two for several tension-filled minutes, police said, until he apparently fell for the ruse in which police officer Stephen Jennings played the part of the son. Coulter's brother-in-law, Columbus Brown of Detroit, also helped set up the trick. The two hostages jumped Coulter as the gunman fell for the police trick.

Maj. David Baxendale, division commander of the Salvation Army, which operates the home, confirmed a son was born to the Coulters at the old Catherine Booth Hospital, which was at another location in Cincinnati.

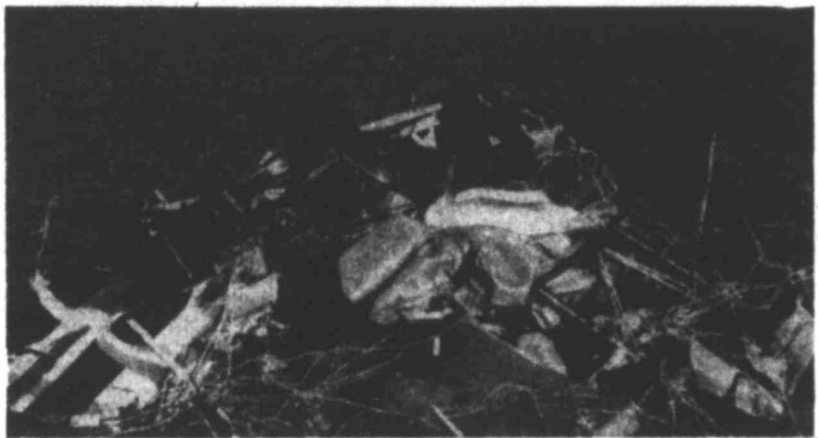

Police said the former wife, who was the mother of the son, contacted the home last week and attempted to trace her child, but was told records were confidential and unavailable. Police were able to piece together sketchy details without Coulter's help. They said he had at least three other children in Utica, Mich.

He spoke little during negotiations with police and often had a pregnant teen-ager serve as intermediary.

Coulter taunted and harassed the hostages, police said. They said one woman was kept for a time in handcuffs.

Mills said police had learned the tentative identity of the son, but did not contact him. "He'll never know who his father is," said Mills, "and that's a promise."

AIRPLANE WRECKAGE — Wreckage of the twin-engine Piper aircraft that crashed late Friday southwest of Anthony, Kan., is shown here with the cockpit in the foreground and the fuselage on the horizon. Six persons were killed. Among the victims, were Rebecca Roberts Nash, 37, and her husband, Marshall, 38. They are the daughter and son-in-law of internationally-known evangelist Oral Roberts.

Plane crash claims six

ANTHONY, Kan. (AP) — A daughter and son-in-law of evangelist Oral Roberts were among six persons killed when a private plane carrying them home from a ski holiday in Colorado crashed near here, authorities said.

Rebecca Roberts Nash, 37, and her husband, Marshall, 38, died when the twin-engine Piper Navajo airplane went down in heavy rain Friday night, cutting a swath about three-quarters of a mile long through a muddy wheat field on a farm 6½ miles south of Anthony.

Also killed were Mr. and Mrs. Marion C. Buzzard of Grove, Okla.; pilot Louis E. Taylor, 39, and his wife, Carol, 38, of Oklahoma City.

Buzzard, 39, was a member of a long-time Oklahoma banking family and was president and chairman of the State Bank of Grove and the First National Bank of Miami, Okla. Nash was a director of the Commerce Bank of Tulsa, Okla., and of the Buzzard banks at Grove and Miami.

Taylor was an employee of Catlin Aviation of Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Nash was one of two daughters of the Rev. Mr. Roberts. Buzzard and Nash drove to Aspen, Colo., on Thursday, and their wives flew from Tulsa to meet them on Friday, according to an associate. The two couples were due home Friday night.

Sheriff Clayton Thurman said the cause of the crash was undetermined.

The pilot's body was found strapped to his seat, and the bodies of the other victims were thrown clear of the wreckage.

Oral Roberts is founder and president of Oral Roberts Evangelistic Association and Oral Roberts University in Tulsa. The association is a worldwide operation, and Roberts has conducted revivals in many foreign countries.

'Trigger happy' policemen killed exec, woman claims

HOUSTON (AP) — Two women arrested after a finance corporation executive was shot to death in what police called a drug raid at a downtown hotel have disagreed with officers' accounts of the incident.

Police said Sanford Radinsky, 36, also a Houston attorney, was slain early Friday in a 12th floor, $65-a-day suite at the Rice-Rittenhouse Hotel. Medical investigators said Radinsky was shot five times in the chest, back, leg, wrist and shoulder.

One of the women arrested during the incident called the shooting an "assassination." The other labeled the police "trigger happy."

Investigating officers said they learned that pornographic films were being made and drugs were being sold in the suite before they entered the rooms and found Radinsky and a woman nude in a bed with a movie camera pointed at the bed.

Authorities said Radinsky was slain after he pointed a revolver at an officer displaying his badge after officers were let into the room by a woman in nightclothes.

Eight persons arrested in or near the hotel were charged with drug possession.

Narcotics agent W. J. Stewart, 29, said he was the first officer in the room and saw Radinsky sitting on a bed and pointing a pistol at him.

Stewart said he fired once and hit Radinsky, who then ran behind a bathroom door still holding the pistol.

Stewart said he ordered Radinsky to throw out the gun and when he failed to do so the officer fired six more shots through the door.

Officers said they confiscated film equipment, films, two pistols, 30 syringes, an estimated one pound of marijuana, an ounce of hashish, about a dozen varieties of pills, a half ounce of cocaine and a small quantity of heroin.

Martha Kay Mitchell, 27, released on bond after being charged with felony possession of a controlled substance, said she was dozing when the officers arrived.

LED TO POLICE CAR — A policeman leads Rita Gibbon to a police car after a 13-hour siege ended with the safe release of eight hostages from a Cincinnati clinic Saturday.

The Southern mind

with Tommy Hart

In his book "The Natural Superiority of Southern Politicians," David Leon Chandler rivets attention on the fact that in the past two centuries statesmen from the South have penned the Declaration of Independence; the world's first written national constitution; the plan devising the balance of powers between the legislative, executive and judicial branches of government; the Bill of Rights and perfected the plan that enabled the United States Senate to develop its peculiar kind of clot in matters investigative.

Southerners, adds Chandler, also invented distinct American institutions like the two-party system, the filibuster, and the seniority-committee system.

Indeed, in reviewing America's political history, says Chandler, it appears the only major American political invention which did not originate in the South was the doctrine of Secession, which was created in the New England universities and law schools.

Why is it then the Southern mind and culture has been saddled with the image of an outlaw camp, distrustful of strangers, quick to shoot, rash with the hangman's noose, having no principle other than its own miserable survival?

The "decadent South" is invariably portrayed as Caldwell, Faulkner, Tennessee Williams and their imitators would have it — and sagas about that kind of redneck sell well in Peoria.

The War Between the States was caused not by any keen desire on the part of the North to free the slaves but rather because two differing economic and social systems sharing the same continent were committed to a collision course. The North was middle-class, industrial and mercantile; the South, feudal and agricultural.

Throughout the nation's 200 years, the North has behaved villainously (reminds Chandler) toward its primary economic and political competitor — the white South, just as did the White South toward the people it viewed as a threat — the black South.

Oddly enough, but not through coincidence, the source producing the leaders in government originated in the small towns, the communities bypassed by urbanization and industrialization.

Children who grow up in small towns have a large personality advantage. They are exposed to a set of community values in their formative years which seem to them to be universal values. They arrive into adolescence armed with firm concepts of family, work, religion, liberty — values present when the nation was born.

Crash hurts driver of ex-Forsan bus

Forrest Mills, 25, of Dallas, is in Malone-Hogan Hospital suffering from leg and neck injuries received when he apparently jumped out of a former Forsan school bus that he was driving back to Dallas.

Mills and Duane Thomas, also of Dallas, had just brought a new school bus from Dallas and delivered it at the Forsan schools.

They were driving the old bus back, but didn't go very far. At the first intersection at County Road 1, the brakes apparently went out and the bus crossed the road, went through the fence and down in the pasture about a half-mile before coming to rest. Thomas rode in the bus until it came to a stop and was uninjured.

Bob Wash, who operates Forsan Oil Well Service at that intersection said, "I forgot it was Saturday and it sure scared me. I was afraid my granddaughter was on the bus because they usually stop here."

Forsan Schools Superintendent J. F. Poyner rushed to the scene and said "the bus went through the fence, over a large rock and some sizeable brush before it came to a halt."

Poyner said the bus belonged to the Superior Bus Co. of Dallas and the driver had the signed and notarized title in his pocket.

The school superintendent said, "Although this bus had not been on a run since last May, we did drive it two days ago and it appeared to be all right at that time."

City council race interest picks up

Indications are that the city council race may pick up a little bit of interest during the next week as a former councilman sent for a registration blank and is considering entering the race.

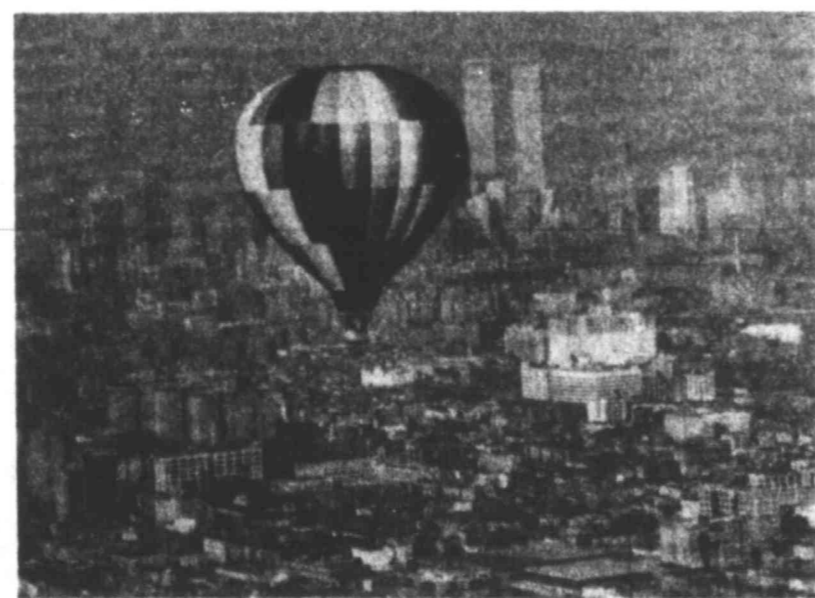

Eddie Acri, a former councilman and local businessman, sent to the city secretary's office Friday for a registration blank to be placed to him in the mail.

On questioning Saturday, Acri said "I am interested in Place 4, which is being vacated by Charles Tompkins, but must confer again with my doctors before I make my final decision. I want to be sure that I am well enough to serve, before announcing."

Mrs. Polly Mays, mayor pro-tem, whose term in Place 3 is expiring said, "I am definitely considering running for re-election because the council is in the middle of many projects in which I am particularly interested. I will make my announcement within the next few weeks."

Deadline for filing is March 2, one month prior to the election. Place of filing is with Tom Ferguson, city secretary at City Hall.

BALLOON OVER BROOKLYN — A 90-foot-high hot air balloon drifts over western Brooklyn in New York Saturday en route to a landing near Jamaica Bay. The pilot Sidney Cutter, 43, of Albuquerque, N.M., was ticketed for flying too low and for landing at other than an airfield.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: No law

Q: Is there a city ordinance against drive-in movies showing X and R-rated films where they can be seen from residences in the area?

A: No, there is not. This has already been tested in a court case in Dallas which has been through the appeals route and there is no way to control showing of movies by drive-ins. At least one judge suggested persons driving down the road pay attention to their driving and that those at nearby residences and one church look the other way if it bothered them.

Offbeat: Want to track leech?

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Bored? Done it? An expedition to the jungles of French Guiana to stalk the world's biggest leech might be just the thing to perk you up.

For $1,375 you can join a band of adventurers who will brave snake-infested swamps to track the 18-inch bloodsuckers to their lair. The invitation is from a University of California biologist who has been a leech-fancier from childhood.

Roy Sawyer plans to bring back a batch of the creatures and breed them. Haementeria ghilianii, as these particular leeches are known, are Sawyer's candidates to become a standard laboratory research animal for the study of how the nervous system works.

They may also be used to replace the Hirudo leech which is a source of an anticoagulant called hirudin, used to treat heart patients and people undergoing surgery.

Joan Kennedy Security State Bank hurt in mishap testing 'Teller 24'

DENVER (AP) — Joan Kennedy left Denver General Hospital on Saturday after being treated for a minor head injury sustained in an accident at Stapleton International Airport. Mrs. Kennedy, wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was taken to the hospital by ambulance Friday night after she reportedly slipped and fell at the airport where she was awaiting a flight to the East. A hospital spokesman said she was treated for an abrasion on her forehead and held overnight for observation. She was released Saturday morning, but officials said they did not know her travel plans. She had flown here from the Steamboat Springs ski resort earlier Friday. Mrs. Kennedy had visited the northwestern Colorado ski resort for a special athletic competition for retarded children sponsored by the Kennedy Foundation.

ABILENE — Johnny Lee Mays, 20, a black, was convicted in 42nd District Court here Friday of raping a 34-year-old white housewife and was sentenced to life in prison. The offense occurred last Oct. 12. The complainant in the case claimed Mays raped her twice, broke a chair over her head, stabbed her in the throat several times and kicked her nearly unconscious.

There's bad news today No new taxes?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — With his Southeast Texas draw, drooping forelock and good old boy grin, Wayne Peveeto is an unlikely Jeremiah. He slipped on his hair shirt last week, however, and laid out the bad news about "no new taxes." You can't meet all legitimate demands for new state spending and grant relief from some of the more onerous state and local taxes without new sources of revenue, he told the House. Not that Peveeto, a moderate Democrat from Orange, wants new taxes. He merely was doing his best to delay Gov. Dolph Briscoe's bill to strip $561.2 million from other state programs and permanently dedicate auto-related sales tax revenue to highways. The bill passed, however, and now awaits Senate action. The Legislative Budget Board's recommended general appropriation bill leaves $1.18 billion on the table for other spending, he pointed out. Then Peveeto added up the demands on that money: —Highways, the $585.1 million difference between Briscoe's total program and the LBB's recommendation. —School finance, a $749.2 million difference. —Teacher pay raise, not recommended by the governor or the LBB but sought not only by teachers but by a powerful coalition of school administrators' organizations, $385 million. —Repeal of the sales tax on utility bills, a Briscoe recommendation, $210 million. —Inheritance tax relief, the goal of many rural-based

New chamber executive in reception spotlight

People from many different sections of the community attended the Chamber of Commerce reception Friday afternoon, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Bill Albright. He is the new chamber executive, moving here from Hereford on Feb. 1. The group included some persons from the rural section of the community, right at a time when the chamber is attempting to expand into the entire county. The ambassadors were official hosts at the meeting with members of the group appearing in their red coats for the two-hour reception. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Brown assisted with welcoming duties. Brown is the new chamber president. Members of the student chamber group, called BASIC, assisted with serving duties at the event. The chamber staff registered guests in the front office and directed them to the conference room where coffee, punch and assorted sandwiches and cookies were served. Fresh cut flowers highlighted the refreshment table. Albright expressed appreciation to everybody who attended the event and asked citizens in the community who were unable to attend during the open house hours to drop by the office in the near future and get acquainted.

Hugh Scott speaks out

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott says it would not surprise him to see the United States take the lead in nuclear disarmament to hasten agreements with the Soviet Union in strategic arms limitation talks. "I am satisfied the Soviets are anxious to go ahead with those talks," said Scott, referring to arms limitation discussions. "All that's holding up the solution is an agreement over Backfire and Cruise missiles."

Other survivors include 12 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

It all went to show that even a $900 million surplus and projected general revenue growth of $2 billion really aren't infinite. Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, had something to say about options to Rep. Jim Kaster, D-El Paso, a supporter of the highway bill. "I am going to get with Mr. Kaster and find out what he wants to cut from the University of Texas at El Paso, and I am going to accommodate him," said Hollowell, a member of the House Appropriations Committee. And Rep. Bill Sullivan, D-Gainesville, had the quote of the week about the teachers' demands. "If you missed it before, here it is. "We are going to give a teacher pay raise. Some of you new members may not believe it but just ask the older ones."

Two-year drought grips the West

WASHINGTON STATE. "The shortage of water will be so drastic that all the crops are going to be hurt." All over the West, ski resorts and other recreation industries are affected. In Utah, the snowpack is only 16 per cent of normal, and officials estimate the ski industry has lost $12 million. Economist Thor estimates that already 5,000 Californians have lost jobs in weather-related layoffs. Some were employed in the hard-pressed ski industry, although most were laid off from auto assembly plants shut down because of delays in parts shipped from the snow-clogged East. For farmers, the impact will be measured in the billions of dollars — up to $3 billion in California, according to one estimate. Consumers are finding beef bargains at the supermarket as ranchers sell off their herds, unable to graze on the parched, brown stubble that covers the ground. Prices are expected to rise again when ranchers, their breeding stock depleted, stop selling and try to rebuild the herds. The alternative, for now, is to truck water and expensive feed out to the herds on the range. Farm counties in California and Colorado have been declared agricultural emergency areas to make farmers eligible for low-cost federal loans. In California's fertile central valleys, farmers are planning to cut back plantings and switch from water-hungry vegetable crops like tomatoes to grains and cotton that need less. The cutbacks, in a state that grows 40 per cent of the nation's fruits and vegetables and 25 per cent of its food over-all, mean higher prices in the supermarket. Growers and canners refuse to speculate on just how much prices will rise, but they agree the trend is up. In the normally lush Yakima Valley in central Washington, officials say farmers will get from 6 to 64 per cent of their normal irrigation needs. One official noted it would take a farmer only seven to nine days of normal water flow to use up 6 per cent of his allocation. "I hesitate to say which crops could be hurt the worst," said Onni Perala, a hydrologist with the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation in

Tomatoes tied to energy crisis Carter gets advice

Mrs. A. C. (Allie) Moore of 1907 Main Street is among area residents who have responded to an invitation to recommend ways of improving the quality of life to President Jimmy Carter. The Herald is accepting such letters and plans to print them in a special section which will then be forwarded to the President for review by his staff. Some time ago, Mr. Carter appealed to the people for ideas to help solve the nation's complex problems. Mrs. Moore cites from personal experiences when she mentions that she and her husband purchased a 50x100 foot building equipped for raising hydroponic tomatoes near Lake J. B. Thomas 33 miles from Big Spring. Mrs. Moore's brother built a bunk house and plant house for the Moores — growing African Violets has been Mrs. Moore's hobby for years. The Moores also have a half-acre garden at the lake. The Moores grew the tomatoes for commercial purposes. They raised two crops but when their fuel (LP gas) went from seven cents a gallon to 28 cents a gallon their fuel bill soared to $521 for October alone. They were selling $5,000 worth of tomatoes a year but their expenses were so great they were taking a loss. Mrs. Moore reasons that the administration could lend its attention to the energy problem and thus help solve the crisis in food shortages with a practicable approach to the energy problem. Among the score of letters which have been written is one from Joseph B. Daugherty of 4020 Vicky St., who reminds the President that the nation's veterans still are beset with problems. Mr. Daugherty says he recently moved to Big Spring from Bellevue, Ill., but he found he still had to travel 180 miles round trip (to Lubbock) at government expense to obtain a physical examination for service connected injuries. "The whole point is," said Mr. Daugherty, "that there is a very good VA hospital right here in Big Spring, capable of giving the same physical I must travel to Lubbock to get." Daugherty reasons that the government could not only save thousands of dollars in expenses by providing such a service here but the nation would benefit through a conservation of gasoline. Richard E. Thomas of 1609 Stadium suggests the nation would benefit through increased use of generators charged by the force of the wind. If such generators were installed on each house in areas where there is a reasonable amount of wind, the cut of electricity could be cut in half, says Thomas. "Every new home built should have incorporated into its structure a total energy savings plan," Thomas says. Thomas also says the oil industry is being regulated almost out of existence, wants an accelerated program to tap the nation's coal reserves, does not want the nation's military stance weakened and thinks all heads of government agencies be held responsible for the money spent within that agency. Thomas also proposes that the excess money in Social Security reserves should be loaned out on a short-term basis. Mrs. W. H. Power of 508 Nolan thinks there are too many advisors to the President. In short, she proposes that Mr. Carter resort more to the Bible in rendering his opinions, reminding that holy writ guided our forefathers when they wrote the Constitution. Letters to the President will be accepted until Feb. 17 and those meriting such attention will be printed in greater detail perhaps as early as next Sunday.

In a recently published pamphlet, the Union of South Africa is trying to tell the world something.

South Africa has an imbalance in foreign trade with four of the major nations. In 1971, the nation imported goods valued at $939 million from the United Kingdom, compared to exports of $585 million. The South Africans placed orders totaling $658 million with the United States, compared to exports of $169 million. West Germany shipped $572 millions in goods to South Africa while being billed for $154 million for goods and Japan's exports to the nation outstripped its imports, $409 million to $254 million.

If the South African apartheid government falls, as surely it will in time, the insurrectionists will be backed by the Communist bloc nations and much of that trade will be claimed by countries behind the Iron Curtain.

In 1958, Big Spring captured sports headlines around the world with its Race of the Century featuring two Olympians, Dave Sime and Bobby Morrow. Directors of the ABC-Club-sponsored event tried and failed to sell the show to the networks. Their rationale: Any event lasting only ten seconds wouldn't interest the advertisers — how would we stop it to sell a commercial or two?

Had the same race been arranged today, the event would probably have been easy to sell to the television people (for a hefty fee) since the networks are buying anything to show on weekend afternoons — even arm-wrestling bouts and tidiedly-winks tournaments.

At that, the Sime-Morrow hookup here made money, despite the most atrocious weather of the century.

"Fairy tales touch some chord of ancestral memories whose vibrations carry us back to when all life was of sunrise, a wonder and a wild desire."

A Richmond, Va., television station recently staged a contest to promote tourism in Virginia. First prize was a trip to Hawaii. It's hard to convince me otherwise: Guys who fail their driver's license tests are most likely to become parking-lot attendants.

Tex Rogers, once a reporter for the Herald and now editor of a horse magazine in Houston, says that those activities contribute over $1 billion annually to the Texas economy.

There are more than 800,000 horses in the state, or considerably more than when the state's citizens depended solely upon the animal to provide his transportation.

Don't blame non-Texans for mispronouncing the names of three Texas cities. A lot of natives stumble over Refugio (it's Re-fur-jo), Elgin (it's g is hard) and Mexia (it's Me-hia).

Ramon Mercader has a name that isn't exactly a household word, though History buffs may remember him. He's the worthy who did in Leon Trotsky, the Russian revolutionary, with an ice pick in Mexico in 1940 — a crime for which he did time in a Mexican bastille.

Mercader is alive and well and living in Russia. Furthermore, he's been given Russia's highest honor, the Soviet Union Gold Star, which should give you a pretty good idea of what it takes to win your epaulets with Russia's politburo.

Mercader never bared his soul about his crime or his motive — a strength which endeared him to his paymasters.

When he was released from jail in 1960 he dusted to Cuba, not to surface again until he popped up in Moscow.

It was Stalin, of course, who put out the contract on Trotsky.

Those nocturnal callers to the White House who responded to Jimmy Carter's suggestions that the citizenry can help solve the country's problems wind up in Nowheresville because the Carter people assigned to monitor such conversations go off duty at 5 p.m.

'NO GREATER LOVE DAY' — Thomas McMullen will display his sketches and paintings on Monday at the local Veterans Administration Hospital.

McMullen to display art at VA hospital

Thomas McMullen has been painting the past eight years. About 500 pieces of his art appear in offices and homes in West Texas. McMullen is a roofer and started painting to kill the time after work on weekdays, and most of the weekend, to further his artistic skills.

He is self-taught and uses a large variety of mediums including oils, egg tempera, water color, pen and ink, pastels, crayons and pencil. McMullen said that he taught himself to paint by attempting to copy famous works of famous artists. He said that he may have picked up a certain kind of brush stroke from Van Gogh, a different use of color from Chagall, and a new sense of line perspective from Matisse. McMullen said that his style was original, but that it was also a compilation of dozens of different influences from the many artists he studied.

McMullen paints or draws a variety of subjects in both realist style and abstracts. His favorites are the abstract. Of these, the best is a large painting that is composed of nearly 9 gallons of paint which is over a half an inch thick in some areas.

"That painting took me seven months to do and every single brush stroke and color I used work to produce a final image of emotion", said McMullen. McMullen will display about 250 of his sketches, crayolas, and paintings on Monday at the Veterans Administration Hospital. The hospital has called it the "No Greater Love Day" and has invited everybody to visit the hospital, and view McMullen's art.

Police beat Unwarranted death threat

The Midland Sheriff's Office called Friday afternoon to report a subject coming to Big Spring to kill a girl. Local police and officers from the Department of Public Safety apprehended the subject.

Midland deputies reported the suspect was armed. However, when the Midland sheriff's office failed to come up with a warrant, the subject was released. As of Saturday afternoon, no Big Spring girl had yet been killed by the subject. There were no charges on which he could be held.

Another interesting arawide alert from Gerogia warned that three men and one girl thought to be headed for Mexico might be coming this way over the weekend. The girl claimed to have been a follower of Charles Manson. Law officers all over West Texas were on the lookout for the quartette.

Local crime was slow compared to these possibilities with a window reported broken at the H&A Grocery Store, and a CB radio reported lifted from a pickup parked behind the Texas Employment Commission. The pickup belonged to Steve Wallis of Coahoma.

Appointment to be big news here

The Pentagon was buzzing last week with rumors that the new Secretary of the Air Force might be a woman.

He can't do it

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — President Carter is pledged to cut down paperwork in Washington. Abernathy, a government bureaucrat, says he can't do it.

"It's a question of communication," he said. "There are two ways of communicating in the government — orally and in print. I could communicate verbally with somebody, but no one would be aware that I was doing my job."

"The person you communicated with would know," I said.

"THAT'S NOT ENOUGH," he said. "In government it is essential that as many people as possible are aware that you are working. The only way they can know this is if you send them copies of memoranda that you have originated. The more people there are on your 'need to know' list the more important your job with the agency will seem."

"It makes sense," I said, "but surely even these communications could be cut down to achieve Carter's goal."

"They could," said Abernathy, "except that a memo does not have value unless the one who sends it demands a response. What good is a memorandum on an issue until you can get 10 people to comment on it in writing?"

"They probably welcome the opportunity to do it," I said.

"Of course, and this is where the President is up against a wall. Since I originate the memorandum there is a certain amount of jealousy because it is now known as the 'Abernathy Memo.' The only way the other bureaucrats can get back at me is to respond with a report on the memo which they can put their names on. For example, Freedman would title his the 'Freedman Report in Answer to the Abernathy Memorandum.' To play catch-up, he would be obligated to circulate this to twice as many people as I did."

"NOW YOU'RE REALLY getting into paper," I said.

"That's only the beginning. All-shuler would have to top Freedman by calling a meeting, at which he would give an audio-visual presentation of his opinions with copies to all those present as well as those who couldn't attend. He would include graphs, statistics and research in various colors. It would be called the 'All-shuler Response to the Freedman Answer on the Abernathy Memorandum.'"

"But suppose you cut the distribution list for memos in half. Wouldn't that cut down the paperwork?"

"It might if status didn't play such an important part in government communications. Suppose you sent a memo to Crosby but left Schuster off the list. Schuster would consider that you were trying to push him out of the picture and retaliate by cutting you off 'his' list. It could get very rough because it doesn't pay to have Schuster as an enemy, particularly when he could sabotage you in the dining room by saying he saw your memo to Crosby and it made no sense at all."

"I can see where that wouldn't work," I said.

"YOU HAVE ANOTHER problem," Abernathy said. "It's dangerous to send out a memorandum in the government because by doing so you're sticking your neck out. But if you can comment on 'somebody's else's' memo, you're in a safe position because you weren't the originator of the idea."

"If you cut people off your list and they start cutting off their distribution list, you will be forced to write more 'original' memos which eventually will get you in trouble. Harper, who used to work in the next office, did this. He only sent his memos to two people. He got so few memos back in return that they decided he didn't have enough to do and they fired him."

Abernathy said, "The only way you can measure productivity in the government is by how much paperwork a person is producing. If he has nothing in his files, there is no way the President knows he's doing his job."

"Is Mr. Carter aware of this?"

"Yes, I just sent him a long memorandum on it this morning."

President Jimmy Carter has not yet made his appointment to this high and important post, but he is expected to do so at any time.

THE NEW AIR FORCE secretary is especially important to Big Spring since she (or he) is likely to be the person who signs the final decision on the future of Webb Air Force Base.

Why do some officers in the Pentagon think the Air Force's highest civilian might be a woman, heading a largely male national defense service?

One officer explained it this way: President Carter has stated that one of the secretaries of three branches of service would be female. Last week, the president nominated a secretary of the Army and a secretary of the Navy, both men.

That leaves only the Air Force unnamed, and if President Carter is able to do what he said he wanted to do, the Air Force secretary may be one that shaves the legs and not the face.

The only name being kicked around was, amazingly enough, Cong. Barbara Jordan from Houston, but she has been mentioned prominently for almost every position in the new Carter Administration.

OF COURSE, PRESIDENT Carter

may be unable to find the right woman to serve. In several areas where he earlier said he hoped to appoint women, he was unable to do so despite his best efforts.

He often found qualified women, but he was unsuccessful in luring them away from their careers to a job in Washington.

Whether he will be able to find the right woman to head the Air Force and convince her to move to Washington for four years remains to be seen.

The announcement should come soon, perhaps this week.

REMEMBERING...

By BILL BROOKS

THE FISHING TRIP

I had fished lots in the creek near our house but one day Dad said we were going on a real fishing trip. He had heard about a good place over in another county. It was said to be a beautiful tree-lined river that had real, honest-to-goodness, clear running water in it with perch and bluegills as big as a man's hand and catfish that could snap a 20-pound test line slicker's a whistle.

Dad said he was just going to close the blacksmith shop down for about a week since it was of season anyway and we could just go down there, camp out and have ourselves a real good time.

We didn't have a car like lots of folks but we had an old pre-war one-ton chevy flat bed truck that somehow kept going due to Dad's mechanical ability and a large quantity of bailing wire. The truck had short side boards and we tied a wagon sheet over them. Under the sheet was placed food, bedrolls, fishing gear and three wide-eyed youngsters.

We left before sun up. The two things I remember about the trip down was the bumpy road and a jar of rancid shrimp (Dad said rancid shrimp was just about the best catfish bait you could use) breaking right near where I was trying to sleep. Pu-wee!

We got there and it was every bit as pretty as we had imagined. We stopped at a grassy place under huge pecan trees near a little waterfall and a deep blue pool of rippling water. Mother made camp while Dad readied the fishing lines. Soon we were sitting on the bank watching cork floats bob up and down hoping for a bite.

We caught quite a few that first day and we kept them all in a big wash tub full of water. We could watch them swim around and we would reach our hands down in the water to touch their slick sides and try to catch them. We gave certain ones names.

The next day Mother was going to fry some of them for our lunch. What? Kill our fish? "No Mama, please don't!" "We wanna take 'em home and raise 'em."

We were soon tired of fishing so we went wading in a shallow place downstream where we tried to catch frogs and turtles. We picked cattails and that evening we caught a fruit jar full of fireflies. We sat around a campfire after dark singing songs, then Mother read from the Bible.

It must have been long after midnight when Dad shook us awake to tell us we'd have to leave. A local farmer had come down and told him it was fixing to rain and the river would most likely come down out of banks and wash our camp away.

We hurried to gather up things as the wind started blowing and lightning streaked across the sky. Dad asked what we wanted to do with the tub full of fish. "Put 'em back in the river!" My big brother and my Dad carried the tub down to the river and poured it out and I was glad the fish were going back to their friends.

Unknown to anyone, I made another trip to the water — to dump a sack of rancid shrimp. I thought the catfish might enjoy them and I for sure didn't wish to have them in the truck with me on the way back home.

Weight is a factor in hernia

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have read what you write on hiatal hernia. I don't seem to fit any of the categories you talk about. In fact, I'm underweight. I blame my hernia on severe coughing, having been almost a lifelong asthmatic. And mine cannot only be felt, it can be seen at times. It is also darned painful.

Also, I can lie down for relief, but when standing up the hernia is troublesome. A laughing spell seems to bring it back. Would a binder help? I find also that I cannot bend over because I get such a pain there. So what is your idea about this? — Mrs. R.H.

I would question your hiatal hernia diagnosis. Has this been proven by X ray studies of the stomach area? You say you get relief by lying down and are troubled by standing. Usually the situation is reversed in hiatal hernia, which, as you should know, is a rupture at the point where the gullet passes through the diaphragm.

You cannot see or feel a hiatal hernia because it is located under the rib cage.

I mention fatness only as a contributor to the problem. You can be fat and, of course, not have an H.H. I suggest you get a better first-hand definition of your distress. You could have a hernia in the abdominal wall, which might cause the symptoms you mention. My booklets are to help folks understand and handle ailments that have been diagnosed, a purpose I believe they fulfill nicely. They are not intended to be "self-diagnosis kits."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband is a diabetic. He's 24 and doesn't stay on a diet. I can't get him to stop eating what he's not supposed to eat. He already has problems with his eyes and legs. I'd like very much to help him. What should I do? — Mrs. D.K.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send me your booklet on diabetes. Does it make any difference if one takes insulin before breakfast or after breakfast? My grandson says it "don't hurt" so much after he eats. Thank you for keeping us so well informed and for explaining everything so clearly. — Mrs. A.H.

For Mrs. D.K. It's sad that you should be more concerned about your husband's health than he is himself. No one can help him until he decides to help himself. Perhaps he has some fatalistic attitude about his condition. He needn't. There are thousands of diabetics, including professional sports stars, famous lawyers and doctors, who have lived happy, productive lives with diabetes in good control. I wonder if he is aware of this?

I hope you are able to convince him somehow to take better care of himself. Perhaps your local diabetes association chapter will have some suggestions.

For Mrs. A.H. — I gather that your grandson takes an injection of either long or intermediate acting insulin. A 15 or 20-minute interval before or after breakfast should make no difference. The lesser hurt after breakfast is just a notion he has. Later, he may find it more convenient to have the insulin before breakfast. Most do.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard of an operation one can have to help maintain an erection during intercourse. Is this true? — A.D.

Yes, there is such surgery, but I can't tell you whether it is being performed in your area. Suggest you consult a urologist or a plastic surgeon about it. Recent reports are that it is effective and satisfactory for some.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Where would pain be concentrated in lung cancer? Do you think it possible to have had lung cancer for nine or ten years with the only indication being a pain located below the shoulder blade? — Mrs. F.W.B.

Pain is ordinarily not a sign of lung cancer, unless it involves the pleural surface (the lung covering) or is spread to the bone. Coughing, wheezing, shortness of breath, spitting up of bits of blood are the more common signs. Cancer of the lungs would be evident within a year, and would not last without dramatic symptoms for nine or ten years.

This is why periodic X rays are important — so that detection can allow treatment. From your symptoms, I would doubt you have lung cancer, but I would still advise the X rays.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: The "Starving Artists" are with us again.

Once again they have rented the Dora Roberts Building, which leads some people to believe that they are sponsored by the Dora Roberts organization.

This group is from Waco. (We think). They are certainly not from Big Spring. This group always seems to pick strategic times for their sales, such as just before or just after the weekend when local groups are having their own home town affairs.

The "Starving Artists" from Waco (or wherever they are from) are the people who sell beautiful "assembly line" art.

What is assembly line art? Simply, pictures done exactly that way on an assembly line, with one artist painting the sky, another the house, still another the trees and bushes, etc.

Who gets to sign the so-called work is anybody's guess.

I just wanted to straighten out the confusion regarding the "starving artists."

The Big Spring Art Association is having its membership show this weekend in the former Gibson's building supply quarters. Some of this work will be for sale.

Should any Big Springers decide to buy from our local group, they can be sure they'll be getting original work, painted by a talented local artist.

In the past few years the numbers that attend have been dwindling drastically. We can not help but feel that the reason for this is a lack of communication with the Alumni.

Demagoguery dangers

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Abraham Lincoln forewarned us. In his Lyceum address, he declared that this country need never fear a foreign tyrant, that our real danger would come from a domestic despot. Lincoln described a demagogue in star-spangled cloth who would put power ahead of principle, ambition ahead of conviction.

They come among us in many guises. Thaddeus Stevens, the cadaverous, beetle-browed demagogue of the post-Civil War era, appeared as a prophet of doom.

GEORGIA'S FIERY, RED-HAIRED Tom Watson, who raised the cross of the Ku Klux Klan, was a spellbinder. One Ben Tillman, or "Pitchfork Ben" as he was known in the South Carolina hills back in the 1890s, came across as a backwoods rabble rouser.

Mississippi's Sen. Theodore Bilbo was an educated man but carefully hid the fact to keep from offending his semiliterate following. He deliberately dressed in cheap clothes and spoke low-grade English.

Closer to our day, Gen. Douglas MacArthur projected a majestic presence. He had the Roman profile, the messianic urge, the oratorical artillery, the mastery of imagery to captivate the nation. During the occupation of Japan, he regained in patriarchal absolutism over 80 million Japanese. His troops called him the White Mikado, and he was in truth an imperial personage to whom the Emperor of Japan was but a deputy.

Gen. George Patton was a natural authoritarian, a curser of subordinates and maltreater of animals, an erratic prodigy. By his choice of imagery — ramrod posture, theatrical swagger, patented scowl, gory metaphors, be-pistolled costume — he presented himself as the incarnation of destruction, a walking glorification of war.

In contrast, Sen. Joseph McCarthy was an ingratiating, gregarious fellow, called "Joe" by almost everyone who had known him more than five minutes. He was earthy and unpretentious.

He had an awkward manner and a rough, whining voice. Yet people were persuaded by his unsophisticated appearance, by the look of perspiring sincerity on his face, by the awkward, ringing delivery, by the heavy fist-pounding on the rostrum.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: The Bible says, "flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God" (1 Corinthians 15:50). If this is so, what happened to Christ's body when He ascended into heaven after His death and resurrection? Didn't He still have a human body? — H.C.

DEAR H.C.: If you look carefully at Paul's teaching in 1 Corinthians 15, you will see that the Lord Jesus Christ, at His resurrection, had a body that was different from His earthly body. It still bore the nail prints and wounded side, yet it could pass through closed doors, and it could vanish suddenly. This body was not subject to decay.

In like manner, some day God will give new bodies to all those who are Christ's. Paul calls this our "spiritual body" in contrast to our "natural body" (1 Corinthians 15:44). In the passage you quote, Paul is talking about the natural body; in our new spiritual bodies we will be partakers of heaven.

There is, of course, much that we may not understand since God has not revealed it to us in detail. Rather than trying to imagine what our heavenly bodies will be like, however, we should simply accept this great truth and rejoice in it. Think of it! Some day we will no longer have the pain and physical distress that are our constant companions here. We will be able to work forever and never get tired.

To me one of the most moving passages in the Bible is the description of heaven found in Revelation 21:4: "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away."

This is the hope of the Christian, and it can be the hope of every person who accepts Christ as Lord and Saviour.

Consultant touring Africa

LUBBOCK — Charles E. Fisher, former superintendent of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock and internationally known brush control researcher, has been selected by agricultural officials in the Republic of South Africa to tour that country this month as a consultant on range and brush control.

The trip is being arranged under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture of South Africa, the Scientific Counsellor of the Embassy of South Africa and Agricura (a South African Chemical Corporation).

He departed New York City Feb. 9 for the 10,000-mile journey.

Fisher's three-week trip will take him to seven research stations and two national wildlife parks in the Republic of South Africa where he will confer with scientists on new control techniques. He will also be guest lecturer at two national meetings of range and soil conservation workers in Africa.

Fisher, a 42-year veteran of brush control research who officially retired last summer but still works virtually full-time, said the South Africans for 25 years have followed Texas Agricultural Experiment Station brush control research. Rainfall, soils and rangeland in much of South Africa are closely related to those in Texas, he said.

Specifically, Fisher's tour will focus on mesquite and associated species. Though introduced to South Africa only 75 years ago from the United States, mesquite has become a problem in certain areas.

Said Fisher, "Representatives of Agricura and the Department of Agriculture of South Africa toured the Experiment Station's brush research areas during 1976.

"They were especially interested in the recent development of low volume application of herbicides by the Experiment Station for the control of mesquite and other brush on rangeland," he added.

Fisher said the officials expressed great interest in the close cooperation among Experiment Station research scientists, ranchmen and private industry in the development and acceptance of new control practices.

Dr. Bill Ott, resident director of the Lubbock Experiment Station, said no one could be better qualified to serve as a consultant on brush control matters than the veteran scientist.

"Fisher has been a consultant on brush control for ranchmen, government, and manufacturers of herbicides and mechanical equipment in the United States for a number of years," he said. He has traveled throughout Brazil, Argentina, Paraguay, Peru, Cuba, Panama and Mexico as a consultant or advisor and is by far one of the most experienced and knowledgeable brush control scientists in the country."

Fisher retired on June 30, 1976, as professor in charge of brush control for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

He is an author and co-author of over 50 scientific research publications on brush control, water conservation and crop production. In 1975, he was selected as one of the senior authors to write a book on "Prosopeis" which deals with the distribution, behavior, use and control of mesquite and related species in the United States, Mexico, Central and South America. The book will be published in June 1977, under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institute of the National Museum of Natural History.

In 1952, he received the Hobbittz award from the Texas Research Foundation for outstanding contributions to rural life and the honorary State Farmer Award by the FFA. Fisher is a member of the American Men of Science and Who's Who in the Southwestern United States.

Fisher of Lubbock reviews territorial maps of South Africa where he will be touring seven research centers and two national wildlife parks as a consultant on range and brush control. ### Texas crops report

Land preparation behind schedule

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Field work increased over much of Texas last week as open weather prevailed. However, land preparation for spring planting is generally behind schedule over most of the state due to prolonged wet conditions, reports the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Cattle feeding also remained widespread, with hay and feed supplies thinning out in most locations.

Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, extension director, said, "Unusually open weather is needed to allow farmers to get ready for the spring planting season, which is rapidly approaching in South Texas."

Some winter vegetables and citrus continue to move to market in southern sections. Prices are excellent due to the increased demand triggered by weather losses in Florida and California. Sugar cane harvesting is also increasing in South Texas.

Some early spring vegetables are being planted in southern locations but wet fields are still causing some delays, noted Pfannstiel.

Some peach, plum and pear trees have started blooming in southern locations.

Livestock conditions continue to deteriorate over most of Texas due to poor grazing conditions. The open weather should boost small grain growth since soil moisture is plentiful in most locations. However, the Panhandle is dry and parts of the South and Rolling Plains are getting dry, so irrigation of wheat is about to start, said Pfannstiel.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions:

PANHANDLE: Warmer weather has helped wheat fields but soil moisture is extremely short. Many fields are susceptible to wind erosion. Grazing is limited on pastures and ranges, with cattle receiving supplemental feed. Feeder cattle prices are steady to 50 cents higher at local auctions. Land preparation is in progress and some wheat is being irrigated.

small grain grazing has been limited. Land preparation is active for spring planting. Prospects look good for the coming crop season.

NORTH CENTRAL: Cold weather still hampers small grain growth, and wet fields are delaying land preparation for the coming planting season. Cattle are in poor shape, with supplemental feeding heavy. Cattle losses have been above normal this winter due to the adverse weather.

NORTHEAST: Small grain has been making little progress due to the cold weather. Field work and land preparation for spring vegetables has also been limited. Winter pastures are in poor conditions. Cattle continue to lose weight despite heavy feeding. Hay supplies are limited.

FAR WEST: Small grains are making little progress. Livestock have adequate dry forage to graze and get supplemental feed. Many lambs are being lost to predators. Land preparation is active for spring crops.

SOUTH PLAINS: Wheat is making little progress due to lack of topsoil moisture and recent cold weather. Some wheat irrigation is about to start along with preplant irrigation of spring cropland. Land preparation is active and fertilizer is being applied. Herbicide applications are also beginning.

ROLLING PLAINS: Limited grazing along with limited feed supplies are causing some stockmen to reduce their herds. Ranges are being stressed because

Producers will name director

Martin County cotton producers and agribusinessmen will elect a Producer Director to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. at a 7:00 p.m. meeting Feb. 21 in the First National Bank, Stanton. The election will be held in conjunction with a seminar on hedging cotton prices in the futures market, sponsored by the First National Bank. Refreshments will be served.

Announcement of election arrangements comes from Ed Lawson of Stanton, Martin County Businessman Director to the 25-county commodity organization, and Owen Kelly, also of Stanton, current Producer Director. Each of the counties in PCG territory has two directors, one a businessman and the other a cotton producer. They are elected on alternate years to serve two-year terms. Each is eligible for re-election every second year.

Kelly and Lawson are urging all interested parties to attend and take part in the election, in which both farmers and businessmen are eligible to vote.

Record $342,900 paid in premiums, rodeo

FORT WORTH — The 81st annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show closed its 1977 ten-day run by posting a record 14,843 in livestock entries, and paying out an all-time high of $342,900 in premiums and rodeo prize money.

W.R. Watt Jr., general manager, reported that attendance at the Stock Show was 555,000 and 113,157 paid to attend the rodeo's 20 performances. He said bad weather opening weekend of the show brought slightly lower attendance figures than the records of last year.

Another record was set at the sale of champion steers when Don Hansen of Fort Worth bid $15,000 to purchase the 1,170-pound grand champion shown by Neil Scott, 14, of Rising Star and a member of Eastland County FFA Chapter.

"Credit for another successful Stock Show goes to exhibitors, visitors and staff," Watt said. "We sincerely appreciate the interest and cooperation of everyone."

Paul Tierney of Broken Bow, Neb., tied with Tom Ferguson of Miami, Okla., for the rodeo calf roping championship, and earned additional winnings in steer wrestling. Tierney's total check was $7,617 to make him top hand at the rodeo. Ferguson won $7,314 for his calf roping and steer wrestling.

Champion in the steer wrestling event was Roy Duvall of Checotah, Okla., who pocketed $4,374. In the riding events, Butch Kirby of Alba, Texas, took home $3,978 for bull riding; Scotty Platts of Lyman, Wyo., won $3,534 in bareback bronc riding; and Monty Henson of Mesquite, Texas, received

Continuing education

By MARJ CARPENTER

President John Adams wrote in a letter to his wife, Abigail in 1780 "I must study politics and war, that my sons may have liberty to study mathematics and philosophy, geography, natural history and naval architecture, navigation, commerce and agriculture, in order to give their children a right to study painting, poetry, music, architecture, statuary, tapestry and porcelain."

Early Americans such as Adams realized from the beginning of our nation that education is critically important and that education would change through the years.

In the past five years, education has changed to include an increasingly large number of adults or persons in the community interested in pursuing leisure interests or special field interests.

Recently the Wall Street Journal commented on how education is changing at a college level to increase more and more adults instead of simply the "Joe College" types of the thirties and forties.

In a recent issue of U.S. News and World Report are these startling facts: "The money Americans are now spending on spare-time activities exceeds national-defense costs. It is more than the outlay for construction of new homes. It surpasses the total of corporate profits."

Programs such as the mini-course series at Howard College make it possible for persons of all ages to continue to broaden their knowledge in many diverse areas.

Dr. Wright also said, "We can offer pretty much what people want to take. If persons have a special interest subject, they should pick up the phone and give us a call and we will try to work up a program for any subject in which there is sufficient local interest."

Continuing education is gaining momentum as the fastest growing segment of American education. Presently over 15 million adults are enrolled in continuing education courses of some type. Howard College wholeheartedly supports this educational trend.

"Continuing education is the concept that education in a world of accelerating change must be a lifelong series of learning experiences. While stretching the mind, continuing education provides new skills and new ideas so that people may better understand their jobs, their world and their own lives," believes Dr. Charles Hays, college president.

The introduction to the continuing education program at Howard College began in 1971 when Dr. Hays was administrative dean.

The program is administered by a director who has the responsibility of both vocational and avocational type programs.

Avocational courses range from such things as bridge, cake decoration, conversational Spanish, flower arranging to vocational activities such as nurses assistants, bookkeeping and other courses.

The continuing education program at Howard College is a community service and is set up as a non-profit making venture. It is showing remarkable growth.

In 1975-76, the program reached an all-time high with 81 courses and 1,637 students involved. The college is hoping that the trend will continue and that both the course offerings and interested students continue to increase.

Producers will name director

Martin County cotton producers and agribusinessmen will elect a Producer Director to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. at a 7:00 p.m. meeting Feb. 21 in the First National Bank, Stanton. The election will be held in conjunction with a seminar on hedging cotton prices in the futures market, sponsored by the First National Bank. Refreshments will be served.

Announcement of election arrangements comes from Ed Lawson of Stanton, Martin County Businessman Director to the 25-county commodity organization, and Owen Kelly, also of Stanton, current Producer Director. Each of the counties in PCG territory has two directors, one a businessman and the other a cotton producer. They are elected on alternate years to serve two-year terms. Each is eligible for re-election every second year.

Kelly and Lawson are urging all interested parties to attend and take part in the election, in which both farmers and businessmen are eligible to vote.

Good shopping is just as important as good cooking. In fact, the two go hand in hand because ingredients are an important part of the success of every recipe. To shop well, outline meal plans generally for the coming week. List staples and extras that will be needed. Classify and resist items, to avoid retracting steps in the market. Plan to shop when stores are least crowded. Shop weekly for staples, twice a week for perishable fruits, vegetables and meats. But buy only what you can store easily and use without waste.

Good cooking and service are two good reasons why you should stop in at COKER'S RESTAURANT, 309 Benton, 267-2318, with the whole family. We have a fine banquet room that will accommodate large parties and we will do our best to help make the occasion a memorable one. Our menu features a large selection of steaks, chops, chicken, seafoods, and zesty Mexican dishes, so you can see there is something to eat for everyone. ## Hospital treatment with Marj Carpenter

There it is—merely rubble. A hospital is the heartbeat of a town. All hospitals see deaths and tragedies, births and joy and many interesting life tales in between.

Over on Main Street, Medical Center Hospital lies in a heap, after it was determined by State National Bank, new owners of the property that there was no possible local use for the building.

It was built around 1930 by Dr. Charles K. Bivings and his father-in-law, L. M. Gary, who owned the Gary Mercantile across the street from the present location of Dunlap's.

Bivings, along with Dr. James Barcus opened a nine-bed hospital at the location about the same time that the Settles Hotel was constructed. They were both also house doctors for the Settles Hotel.

Mrs. Cecil Walker, who lives across the street, can recall when the small hospital was constructed there. In 1938, it was purchased by Dr. P. W. Malone and Dr. J. E. Hogan.

They were in the coffee shop of the Settles Hotel

H. E. Hamilton to be speaker

Horace E. Hamilton of Big Spring, a pathology instructor at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio, will be a guest speaker at the 29th annual meeting of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences at the Town and Country Hotel, San Diego, Calif.

Hamilton will deliver a technical paper to a Thursday morning seminar, Feb. 17, to be conducted by the Academy's Toxicology Section.

More than 1,300 of the nation's leading forensic scientists, criminalists, physicians, attorneys and law enforcement officials are expected to attend the four-day meeting which will include speakers and panelists from all parts of the United States, and from Canada, England and Germany.

Among the large variety of legal and scientific subjects to be discussed on programs conducted by the Academy's nine Sections are: bite mark identification, hazards of the underwater environment, environmental pathology, the Big Thompson flood disaster, a 4,000 year old murder, clandestine drug laboratories, suicides by physicians, snake bites and the role of drugs in motor vehicle accidents.

Criminalist B. Edward Whittaker of Miami, Florida will be installed as the Academy's 27th president at the Business Meeting, Wednesday, Feb. 16.

Reduced fares prove popular

Continental Trailways' fare reduction, which allows anyone to travel anywhere in the U.S. for $50 and has pushed bus ticket prices down to what they were 30 years ago, has made travelers out of the nation's stay-at-homes and has meant money saved to regular travelers.

The fare began Jan. 3, and means a passenger could travel from Los Angeles to New York and back for only $100. Officials of Trailways say the response to the fare reduction has been tremendous.

Trailways officials say the reduced fare is being met with the same reaction all over the country. "Our passenger sales have increased over last year's sales," said Dennis Barron, Trailways senior vice president for marketing, "and of the $50 tickets sold, 80 per cent is incremental business — meaning the tickets are being sold to people who would not ordinarily ride on Trailways."

"It is encouraging to find that people all across the United States are traveling with us who would not have been able to go otherwise," Barron continued. "We have had reports from our ticket agents that many people are using the $50 fare to travel in search of job opportunities. In addition, we have found that many senior citizens are taking the opportunity to make trips they couldn't previously afford."

LOTS OF MEMORIES ... now it's gone

when they flipped a coin to see if they would name the hospital Malone-Hogan or Hogan-Malone. "Heads" was Malone and the coin flipped heads.

The two physicians moved into the hospital, and in 1940 added more beds. During World War II when the Bombardier School was here, they obtained a certificate of necessity from the War Production Board and again expanded the hospital in July 1945.

TEA exec wins Hitt award

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Walter Howard, who directs efforts by the Texas Education Agency to evaluate public school programs, received the J. Warren Hitt Award for Distinguished Service on Saturday.

Howard was honored at a meeting of the State Board of Education.

He began his career as a teacher at Port Neches Junior High in 1955 and later served as assistant to the principal at Highland Park High School in Dallas.

He has been with the education agency since 1967 and received his doctorate from the University of Texas at Austin in 1971.

It was interesting to note, as the hospital came down, that the sections built in the more recent years fell the easiest. The original portion of the construction, and the first addition, were solidly enforced with steel and took a good deal of whacking by the bouncing ball; as people watched over the weekend.

The two doctors divested themselves of their interest in the hospital in 1950 and set up a voluntary non-profit community hospital and eventually in 1964 built the modern clinic building alongside.

It was in 1970 that the hospital was named Medical Center Memorial.

It wasn't too long after that that talk began for the big new hospital out on the 11th Place extension. The ground was broken for that facility by Hospital Corporation of America on August 2, 1973 and on March 16, 1975, the open house was held. About eight months later, the new clinic was constructed at the location.

HCA decided to name the hospital after the two local physicians — Malone and Hogan. At the time of the opening, these two men said, "We're flattered at the name but happier over a dream come true of a hospital of this quality for our community."

Meanwhile back on Main, the once busy street suddenly became empty. Where there were once complaints that you could hardly see to get across at 8th Street because of parked cars lining the street, suddenly there were none.

The home which had housed many nurses was sold and moved out to Wasson Road for a day care center.

The flashing light at 9th and Main was no longer needed. It was changed to four-way stop signs and it was discovered that even these were not needed. It was taken down completely.

There are a lot of memories in that old building for a lot of Big Spring people. I myself was housed in there with a shattered wrist and broken back. I remember being whisked down that underground tunnel on a cart, thinking I had a broken arm and was going back to work that afternoon, but instead was rolled in for surgery.

It's a pile of rubble, but not really a sad one. There are future plans for the property that sound good for Big Spring. And the hospital staff moved one March day to a bigger and better facility.

It is simply a memory for many — out where I'm ridin' fence.

Rules govern dependencies

Certain tax regulations apply to separated and divorced parents in claiming children as dependents on tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Since only one parent can claim each child as an exemption on his or her return, the parent, generally, with custody of the child for the greater part of the year is entitled to the dependency deduction.

According to the IRS, there may be an exception to the rule based upon terms of the decree and the amount contributed to the child's support by the parent without custody.

Once a determination of dependence is made under these rules, the same determination applies in other areas requiring dependency, such as medical expense deductions.

The free IRS Publication 501, "Your Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents," covers claiming children as a dependency deduction and can be obtained by filling out the handy order blank appearing in the instructions portion of the tax package.

ELROY 'MR. INVISIBLE' GREEN
13 crowd-pleasing points

By DANNY REAGAN
Sports Editor

"Where are you when we need you Dory Funk?" said one Big Spring fan after Friday night's game with Abilene Cooper.

"That's the best 0-5 team I've ever seen!" said one of the Cooper players as he walked off the court.

"We just never could get that lead. They beat us," said Steer coach James Griffin tersely as he hurried to the locker room.

The Steers themselves said nothing as they trudged to the showers. Elroy "Mr. Invisible" Green, who finished the night with top local scoring honors, was even uncharacteristically quiet as the Cooper cheerleaders swarmed around him to tell him how impressed they were.

The comments and action of course followed Friday night's 48-42 loss to the Abilene Cooper Cougars by the feisty but out-muscled Big Spring quintet. It was surely one of the most physically demanding games the Steers have had to play all season.

The contest was an ice cream party for the first eight minutes. The Steers could only manage seven points in that first quarter, half of them on two unerring 30-foot jumpers by Johnny "Bam" Jones. Both teams had an initial shooting percentage that would scarcely rival that of a band of roving gypsies shooting from their moving wagons.

Roughness of play was the only highlight of the game until 2:36 in the second quarter. Kenneth Perry performed the old "Saboteur of Liberty" play with a Cougar, stealing the ball from the top of his head, and whistling it down the court to "Mr. Invisible" for a lay-up. The Steer defense had jelled somewhat in the second period, and with Green's bucket they had pulled to within four at 20-16. But they didn't score a single point the rest of the half, and the Cougs took a 27-16 bulge into the dressing room.

The Cougars came out in the second half stilling wanting to play football without the pads, but a determined bunch of Steers kept chipping away at the visitor's lead.

The two teams turned the ball over a dozen times between them in the third quarter, but five points by Scott Wilder, two by brother "Case", and a bucket each by Mike "Moon Dog" Harris, Kenneth Perry, Elroy Green and Bubba Stripling had put the Steers within two, 33-31, at the next to the last buzzer. The Cougs had been held to only six points in that eight minutes.

A three-point play by Green, followed by a lightning quick steal by him led to an eventual bucket by Harris with 5:14 left in the game to give the Steers a 36-36 tie. The locals were still only down 40-38 with 1:40 left, but Cooper refused to miss their charity tosses, and another steal and four points by "Mr. Invisible", plus a bucket by Casey Wilder was not enough. The Steers had lost their fifth game in a row, this one a wrestling match.

Massengale commands Hope

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Rik Massengale, a front-runner all the way, built his round on an eagle-birdie burst, shot a 70 and established a commanding six-stroke lead Saturday in the fourth round of the five-day, 90-hole, $200,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

The soft-spoken Massengale played well out of the way of the happily shouting, shoving, milling mob of about 20,000 that followed former President Gerald Ford. Massengale compiled a 72-hole total of 270, a whopping 18 under par for one round over each of the four desert courses used for this, the longest tournament the touring pros play all season.

Bruce Lietzke, who has chased Massengale throughout the tournament, could do no better than a round of par 72 on the 6,911-yard La Quinta Country Club course and fell from four strokes back to six behind at 276.

Lietzke and Massengale, along with Ford and his partners, pro Billy Casper, host Bob Hope and Jackie Gleason, all played at La Quinta, which will be the site of Sunday's pro-only final round.

Massengale, however, played on the opposite nine from the incredible gallery that followed the presidential foursome through the bright, warm desert sun which sent temperatures near the 90-degree mark. Lietzke played well in front of the premier group.

"It was a very enjoyable round of golf," said Casper, who had a 74. "The president had four or five pars, helped his team on four of five holes."

Amateurs are required to pick up when they're out of a hole, so no individual scores are kept.

Australian rookie Bob Shearer came on with a five-underpar 67 at Indian Wells and tied Lietzke for second at 12 under par.

Five-time winner Arnold Palmer shot a 73 and was well back at 284. South African Gary Player was 70-279.

Johnny Miller rallied for a 71 and finished with a 292 total but failed to qualify for the final round. The cutoff figure was 291.

GREAT GOLF SHOT — Former President Gerald Ford blasts out of the sand trap in front of the 3rd hole at La Quinta golf course Saturday during the fourth round in the Bob Hope Desert classic. Mr. Ford's shot landed about 3 inches from the pin and he made a tap-in par while his partners Bob Hope and Jackie Gleason looked on.

Cowens won't be there

BOSTON (AP) — Center Dave Cowens of the Boston Celtics has had to pull out of Sunday's National Basketball Association All-Star Game in Milwaukee because of a strain in his lower back.

Cowens, plagued by back trouble during his seven-year NBA career, was forced to the sidelines during Friday night's game against the New York Knicks Friday night.

Reggie's toe grows (in) on you

There's good news and bad news out of Howard College today. First the good news. Reggie Lefall will not have to have minor surgery on his big toe on his left foot. Now the bad news. A doctor has already cut upon the big toe on his right foot to correct an ingrown toenail.

Now don't get excited. He is still not definitely out of Monday night's grudge match with Amarillo College. His coach, Harold Wilder, says that "it's up in the air." Reggie says he doesn't know.

For those of you who have never experienced the ultimate pain of an ingrown toenail, be assured that it is the worst of all possible pains. Never had one myself, but an old friend of mine, Bobby Dean, suffered from the affliction in our high school days and convinced me time and time again that it was near fatal.

Reggie, unbelievably enough, has been playing with two of the buggers this season. The pain had to be blinding.

"Oh, it wasn't too bad until the New Mexico game (Thursday night)," said Reggie Friday night, as he sat and watched the Steer game.

THROUGH the fieldglasses

By Danny Reagan

"But those guys stepped on my feet a lot, and I had to go to the doctor Friday," the former Abilene Cooper star said. He told me that the doctor had cut most of the culprit out but he would have to go back Saturday to go under the blade again.

Friday afternoon, when I saw him right after the doctor's appointment he could barely walk. Friday night at the Steer game he was getting around pretty good. There may have been a worse time for Reggie's toe to act up, but I can't think of one. If the ace does miss the game, it will leave the Preybirds with only eight players. This is dangerous in college ball. A few fouls here and there, and those Badgers will have the edge.

The Hawks are a team, and they've won six games in a row as a team. With the confidence that pervades the squad now, even if Reggie misses the game, they should win. The game starts at 7:30 and you better go early for a seat.

Shorty Lawson, where are you now

Coach Harold Wilder always tries to calm me down after games in which the officiating just doesn't quite live up to par with what I consider rational behavior from a pair of sane human beings.

After Friday night's Steer game he told me the same thing when I was blowing off some steam. "Don't always blame it on the officials and make it sound like that's the reason we lost," he said. Wilder is so cool. He never lets the refs get to him. (Excepting a technical now and then).

And Harold's got a point. All it would sound like is sour grapes, no matter how I tried to say it. And what would you know... most of you didn't see the game, judging by the anemic crowd on hand. Admit it. You'd think I was making excuses.

Bull! The Steers don't need excuses. They could have won that game even with the officiating worse than it was. They just didn't. They had a bad night. And there may be some people who think the officiating was just right. Whatever you think.

Forget the score of the game, forget about winners and losers, forget about the officials, and forget that no one is going to care in a few days anyway.

But remember this, and you can stick it in your apathy-flavored pipe and smoke it too... the Big Spring Steers and the Cooper Cougars were involved in a basketball game Friday night, not a wrestling match. But it seemed like the rules for the latter applied. And when the health and welfare of a group of athletes, be they home team or visitors, is jeopardized, I feel I have to say something.

So here goes: "Boo ref!"

Miscellaneous viewings

Just a few comments... Scott Wilder was on his back for quite a lot of the time Friday night in the Steer game, due mainly to coming out on the short end of the stick in the battle of the muscle. But the hardest shot he took all night came from brother Casey late in the fourth quarter. Both went up for an offensive rebound and smacked heads together in a manner which should have put them both out of action. Scott stayed down for a while, but shook the cobwebs off and zoomed down the court to mix it up again.

Elroy "Mr. Invisible" Green may be a candidate for All-District honors this year. He has shown the opposing coaches so many moves and has given them such fits, that his coach, James Griffin, thinks that Elroy could be named to the elite team. Casey "Wildman" Wilder, now the third-leading scorer in the district, has to be the top candidate with his overall basketball wizardry. Bubba Stripling may also find a niche on the team.

Elgin named to Hall of Fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Elgin Baylor, Coach Frank McGuire and three stars from another era Saturday were named to the National Basketball Hall of Fame.

Joining Baylor, elected in his first year of eligibility, and McGuire as new members of the Hall of Fame were Charles "Tarzan" Cooper, Lauren "Laddie" Gale and William C. "Skinny" Johnson.

Lee Williams, the Hall's executive director, and Adolph Rupp, the Honors Committee chairman, an-

Two aces shot this weekend

Defying the laws of averages and the prayers of man, two holes-in-one were captured by local men on the same hole at the Big Spring Country Club this weekend.

Tommy Gage aced number 16 Friday as he played with Spot Cockrell, Ted Griffin and Ronnie Gilbreath. On Saturday, Buck Drake duplicated the act by eagling the same hole. Dick Pfeiffer, Hack Wright, Brent Womack and Howard Schwarzenbach witnessed Buck's feat.

nounced that the five new electees will be enshrined at ceremonies May 2.

Their election brings to 103 the number of individuals named to the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame.

Baylor, a 6-foot-5 super star, considered one of the greatest forwards in basketball history, prepped in Washington, D.C. and went on to All-American honors at Seattle in 1958.

A first-round draft choice by the Minneapolis Lakers, he earned All-Star recognition and rookie of the year honors in the National Basketball Association in the 1958-59 season. He was a first team All-Star the next 10 years.

Baylor ended a brilliant career with the Lakers in Minneapolis and Los Angeles as the NBA's first All-time scorer with 23,149 points and seventh leading rebounder with 11,463. In playoff statistics, he is second in scoring with 3,623 points and third in rebounds with 1,725.

McGuire, in his 27th year as a college coach, has won more than 500 games. Now in his 13th year at South Carolina, he is bidding for his 11th consecutive winning season, including six straight 20-victory campaigns.

After compiling a 126-39 record at St. Xavier High in New York City, McGuire led St. John's University to a 103-35 mark. He coached at North Carolina from 1952-61, with his 1957 team posting a 32-0 record while winning the NCAA championship.

He moved to the NBA with the Philadelphia Warriors in 1961, then returned to the college ranks at South Carolina in 1964. He is the only college coach in history to win more than 100 games at three major schools.

Cooper played pro basketball for 20 years. In 11 years with the New York Renaissance team, he led the Rens to 1,303 victories against only 203 losses. The 1932-33 Rens won 88 games in a row and is one of four teams in the Hall of Fame.

Gale, a 6-foot-4 forward, starred at the University of Oregon, earning All-American honors in 1939 while leading his team to victory in the first NCAA tournament in 1939. He later played pro ball with the Detroit Eagles and the Salt Lake City team.

Johnson, 6-foot-3, a three-time all-state schoolboy choice, went on to star at the University of Kansas.

16-year-old rides 29th in just nine

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Cauten, the amazing 16-year-old apprentice jockey from Kentucky, rode his 28th and 29th winners in the last nine days with two victories at Aqueduct Saturday.

He missed by two necks of making it a triple when his furious rush from last place fell short in the $53,000 Lucky Draw Stakes for 3-year-olds.

The winner of the feature was Catalan, which raced the 1-16-mile in 1:46.

Cauten won the fourth race with Proud Romeo at $4.80 and the sixth with Bold Rondo at $6.40. He had nine mounts for the day and finished third three times.

Cauten's victories Saturday gave him 96 winning mounts for the year. In addition, he has finished in the money 100 other times at both Aqueduct and Santa Anita.

Steer JV's fall to Cubs, 55-49

Marty Latta bucketed 15 points, Mark Poss hit for 14 and Chippo Wright chipped in 13, but the Short-horns fell six points short of victory Friday night, 55-49.

Edd Henry's charges still sport a commendable 17-9 record and will next see action Tuesday night against the Odessa High Subs. No sophomore game was played.

Steer netters capture win

The Big Spring Steer netters turned in their best performance of the season Saturday in handing the visiting team from Ft. Stockton a sound 15-3 defeat, 18-4 counting the three practice matches.

The boys won all nine of their matches, taking all but one of them in straight sets. Leonard Gagne had to win his singles match in a third set tie-breaker for the closest match for the boys all day. Danny Olesen blanked Darren Hodges in two love sets for the only skunk of the day. Julie Ray won the easiest girls' match of the day, depositing her competition 6-1, 6-1.

"This is definitely the best we've played all season," said coach David Smith. "I think the team gained a lot of confidence, and they really showed a lot of improvement."

PUCKER — Sandra Post puckers as she puts a long shot to squeeze through with a par on hole ten after running into trouble. Post is leading the $50,000 Ladies' Professional Golf Association tournament in Miami, Fla. Saturday with a second-round 4-under-par 140.

Mustangs romp 55-42

GAIL — The Sands High School varsity boys finished regular season play Friday night with a 55-42 whipping of the Borden County quintet and finished as undefeated District 9-B champions, sporting a 12-0 district record and a 33-3 season slate.

The JV boys also ended their season on a winning note, bombing the BC subs 47-28. In that game Bill Wiggington scored 14, David Hall hit for 12, Nathan Zant had eight and Jesse Gomez finished with seven.

Martin Nichols led the varsity with 17 markers, as teammate Larry Feaster added 16. Ronny Kennemer bucketed 10 and Stan Feaster scored seven.

After the game, the Borden County principal presented both Sands boys and girls teams the golden basketball trophy, symbolic of the 9-B district champ.

Bufs miss playoffs

O'DONNELL — Stanton humbled O'Donnell, 74-32, here Friday night but, in a way, it was an exercise in futility. At the same time, Seagraves was throttling Plains, 70-66, to knock Stanton out of the running for the District 5-A championship.

Stanton, Seagraves and Plains had deadlocked for the first half championship and Seagraves was able to claim it all without a playoff by capturing the second half crown.

Stanton thus ended its season with a tremendous 25-4 record. In the second half, Stanton lost only one game in four starts but that was to Seagraves.

O'Donnell wound up at 2-19 for the year and 0-4 in second-half district play.

Sands in bi-district

KLONDIKE — The Sands High School varsity girls team, 32-1 on the year, and undefeated champions of District 9-B, will play the Greenwood High School girls in Klondike Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in a bi-district meeting.

Greenwood won the District 10-B title after compiling a 9-1 district record and a 17-9 season mark. Klondike is 15 miles northwest of Ackerly, and all area supporters of the Sands Fillies are urged to attend.

Big Spring fans can easily find Klondike by taking Highway 87, past Ackerly, turning west at the Patricia cut-off, and going five miles down the road.

Lamesa upset 78-57

LAMESA — Lubbock Dunbar shocked Lamesa, 78-57, here Friday night to take a significant step toward the District 3-AAA basketball championship.

Dunbar, the first half champion, can clinch the title with a win Tuesday night over Snyder.

Dunbar boasts a 4-1 second half record, the same mark posted by Lamesa.

Eugene Walker led Dunbar's attack with 19 points while Wayne Williams contributed 17 and Billy Hardway 16.

Lamesa was paced by Clarence Wellington, who counted 15. Arnold Martinez tossed in 11 for the losers while Eddie Kerr had ten.

Coahoma wins 59-57

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs evened their second half district record at 3-3 by virtue of a 59-57 trimming of Ballinger Friday night.

Ken "Killer" Kelso led the assault with 16 points, while Daryl Witt and Edwin Dickson added 12 and 10 respectively.

Grady halts Rangers

The Grady Wildcats ended their 1976-1977 basketball season on a glorious note Tuesday night as they handed their rival the Greenwood Rangers a 58-55 loss. The Greenwood loss ended any dying hopes Greenwood had of repeating as perennial district 12-B basketball champions.

Leading the charge for the host Grady Wildcats were starters Mark Tate with 25 points, followed by Alex Perez with 17 points, Leslie Wood with 7 and Jimmy Mitchell with 7 and Roy Madison with 2. Leading Greenwood scorers were Russell Brooks with 23 points, Mark Swafford with 12 points, Johnny Womack 8 points, Joe Mobley 8 points, Rayme Williams 2 points, Gordon Williams 2 points.

Hawk Queens blast Dallas Baptist 94-20

DALLAS — The Howard College Hawk Queens coasted to their sixth win in a row Friday night over the Dallas Baptist 94-20. The Queens built up a 34-0 lead before Dallas could break the ice.

Blazing Tami Edwards, who has scored 92 points in the last three outings, scorched the net for 30 markers to lead the locals, while a trio of teammates also hit in double figures.

Virginia Whaley bucketed 16 points, Carla Faubion hit for 14 and Joanna Sawyer netted 10. The entire roster made their mark in the scoring column: Letha Strickland — 7, Linda Batts — 5, Trena Bayes — 4, Deidre Tucker — 4, and Marilyn Rich — 3.

Debra Meyer, a freshman from Coahoma, was lost to the Queens for the remainder of the season because of a knee operation.

The Queens, who upped their record to 16-7, will next be in action Monday night down in Alpine against Sul Ross State University.

Local roster set for Red Heads Big Spring 'Bombers' ready for date with fate

Team members for the Big Spring "Bombers" were announced today, just nine days before the big game with the All-American Red Heads, the world champion women's professional basketball team.

The big event is scheduled for Feb. 22 in the Steer gym to raise money for the Spring Sports Banquet.

Local men who will be facing the female super-stars in the unusual meeting are: Mike Biles, Gary Bolen, Garland Braun, Wade Burroughs, Jerry Carter, Tommy Collins, James "Griff" Griffin, Don Hise, Larry Hofer, Ronnie Jones, Tom Koger, Ron Logback, Rudy Montes, Wayne Nail, Ben Neel, Mike Scarbrough, Eddie Shell, Dennis Smiley, David Smith, Harlan Smith, David Tipping and Levon Webb. All are members of the coaching staffs in BSHS, Rannels and Goliad.

In a surprise move, "Battlin' Bobby" Zellars, picked as the pre-game favorite to last the entire contest, has been named as one of the officials, along with Tom Adams.

Don Childs will be the coach and general manager of the "Bombers" and is currently in contract talks with "Jumpin' Jerry" Foresyth, a staunch hold-out at the bargaining table.

Civilian volunteers for the roundball battle are Dale Wortham and Randal Brock. It is not known whether Childs recruited them or not.

Edd Henry will be the official scorekeeper and Floyd Sorley will be in charge of the scorecard.

Tickets to the bash are $2 for adults and $1.50 for students, and can be purchased from just about anyone connected with athletics in the Big Spring ISD.

"The ticket sales are not as good yet as we have hoped," said Athletic Director Don Robbins, "and we need a good turnout to finance this banquet for those kids."

Robbins, once thought to be a probable starter in the game, lost his sneakers and will have to sit on the sidelines shouting encouragement to his crew that has a date with destiny and a dozen red heads Tuesday, Feb. 22.

Murcer swap for Madlock

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Madlock, the two-time National League batting champion whom the Chicago Cubs were unable to sign, has been traded for Bobby Murcer, the home-run hitter whom the San Francisco Giants were unable to sign.

Three other players were involved in the swap Friday, with utility infielder Rob Sperring going to San Francisco and infielder-outfielder Steve Ontiveros and pitcher Andy Muhlstock going to the Cubs.

The trade, featuring Madlock for Murcer with both seeking multi-year, big-money contracts, was somewhat ironical. The Cubs were willing to give Madlock a multi-year contract but couldn't agree on terms. The same situation applied to Murcer and the Giants.

"I wanted to stay in Chicago," Madlock said after the trade. "But I really expected I'd be traded this week. The Cubs let me know the last time we talked that they weren't going to try to negotiate with me on my contract any more."

"It'll be nice to live in California. But I really enjoyed playing in Wrigley Field."

Last season, Madlock reportedly earned $85,000 with the Cubs. Murcer's salary with the Giants reportedly was $175,000.

Madlock, 26, came to the Cubs after 1973 in a deal with the Texas Rangers for pitcher Ferguson Jenkins, a perennial 20-game winner. Madlock batted .313 in 1974 and then won successive batting titles with marks of .354 and .339.

Murcer, 31, batted .259 for the Giants last season but had 23 home runs and 90 runs batted in.

"We'll overcome any problems in signing Madlock," said Bob Lurie, co-owner of the Giants. "We were in agreement with Murcer on a multi-year contract but couldn't agree on the amount."

Like a ditto machine, Bob Kennedy, vice president of the Chicago Cubs, insisted both the Cubs and Madlock were in agreement on a multi-year contract but Madlock insisted on more money than the Cubs wanted to pay. Madlock's demands were believed to be in the vicinity of $200,000 a year.

24 Texas Rangers signed

By The Associated Press
Texas has 39 players on its 40-man roster which leaves 15 unsigned at the present time.

Perry, Blyleven, Nelson Briles and Tommy Boggs are Ranger starting pitchers who have come to terms. They are joined by newcomers Doyle Alexander, Adrian Devine, Roger Moret, Carl Morton plus Ranger minor leaguer Bobby Cuellar.

Sundberg, who was the Gold Glove catcher in the American League last season, starts his fourth year as the Rangers No. 1 catcher. John Ellis has recovered from his broken ankle that sidelined him for most of the 1976 season and should be ready for duty behind the plate and as a designated hitter. Young Greg Mahbert rounds out the list of Rangers catchers who are under contract.

The Ranger infield is almost set with Campaneris, Hargrove and Harrah signed for the coming season. Veteran Jim Fregosi and promising Gary Gray have also signed. The men who seem to have the edge on the starting outfield positions, Grieve, Juan Beniquez and Ken Henderson have their contract talks behind them as do Gene Clines, Dave Moates, Lenny Randle and Bobby Thompson.

Outfielder Arnold Dwayne McCrary, who was the Rangers No. 1 draft choice in the secondary phase of the January draft, has been signed and will be assigned to Asheville in the Western Carolinas League.

YOUNG IDEAS
By DICK YOUNG

One thing comes through when Joe Frazier sings his songs. His sincerity. The reviews have been of the highest praise. The people at the tables in the Rainbow Grill, high atop the RCA Building, bang their palms together excitedly. Joe Frazier was an honest fighter. He is an honest entertainer.

The other night, on his day off, Joe Frazier toiled down the Jersey Turnpike to his home in Philly. When he walked in, he got a casual hello from Florence and from the five kids. They were grouped around the TV, absorbed in watching "Roots."

"How can you like white people after what they done to us?" Marvis Frazier said to his father. "We oughta hate them."

JOE BEGS TO LIFTER WITH MARVIS
"What the hell are you talking about?" said Joe Frazier.

"The whipping, and the killing and those terrible chains."

Joe Frazier's tongue swept across his lower lip, the way it does whenever he is excited. "Hey, listen. You kids shut off that set and get your behinds in this room. I want to talk to you."

Marvis and his four sisters followed Joe Frazier. "You see this house you live in, this great big beautiful house? I worked my ass off for this, and you know who helped me? White folks and black folks, both."

"You see the clothes you're wearing? The good food you eat? You, Marvis, how many 16-year-old kids do you know, white or black, who drive a Cadillac, the way you do?"

"To me, it's all people, all one. Just remember that. That's the way it's always been, and that's the way it's always gonna be around this house. You mean to tell me you gonna let one TV show change all that?"

"Now you all go back and turn on your TV and watch your show, and don't let me ever hear you talking that way again."

To dunk or not to dunk is ?

By The Associated Press
Return of the dunk to college basketball this year has brought about a new high in creative shooting.

There have been the two-handed dunks, one-handed dunks, twirling dunks, helicopter-hanging dunks, over-the-head dunks and an assortment of wild hybrids.

The players are turning on crowds—and themselves.

"I love it," says UCLA's David Greenwood. "It adds a new dimension to the game."

"If it comes at the right time," adds teammate Marques Johnson, "it can really demoralize the other team."

"The dunk shot really gets your adrenalin flowing," says Bruce "Sky" King of Iowa. "It makes you feel good. It's a crowd-pleaser and a momentum-changer."

The UCLA players, many of whom were in grade school when the dunk was banned from college basketball in the late 1960s, are downright artistic in their approach to the newly legalized shot.

"Like I'll come along the baseline with the ball cupped in my hand and go all the way under the hoop, then spin around," Greenwood says. "If no one else can do it for a week, that's fine."

The University of San Francisco and Louisville are two other teams who rate high among the dunkers. James Hardy, whose specialty is the "sneak dunk," leads the top-ranked Dons in dunking technique. Hardy rubs the ball against the glass backboard before slamming it through the basket.

"The dunk makes you want to hold onto the rim, stay up there with your adrenalin flowing," Hardy points out. "You want to run, to jump. You can't wait for the next one."

At Louisville, the Cardinals use the shot so often that they've picked up the collective sobriquet, "The Doctors of Dunk."

Unlike players, the nation's coaches do not embrace the dunk philosophy as passionately, although a sampling of their opinion seems to favor the rule's rebirth.

"From the fans' standpoint, the rule is good," says Kentucky's Joe Hall. "It's an exciting play, like the long pass in football. But as a coach, I have to wonder about its value. Because the fans love it, it puts pressure on the players to look for the dunk where it is not desirable. And that means more charging violations and missed layups."

"I think it is basically good for the game, but it is frustrating at times from the coach's standpoint, particularly if the player misses a shot," says Louisville Coach Denny Crum. "(But) the players and the fans love it—and that's who the game is for."

Adolph Rupp, the former Kentucky coach, also seems to walk the center line in his thinking.

"Dunking still gives the advantage to the big boy," he says, "but I see the fans enjoy it and what's good for the people is good for the game. I'm not really overjoyed at seeing them put it back but we had it the other way around and there was opposition to that."

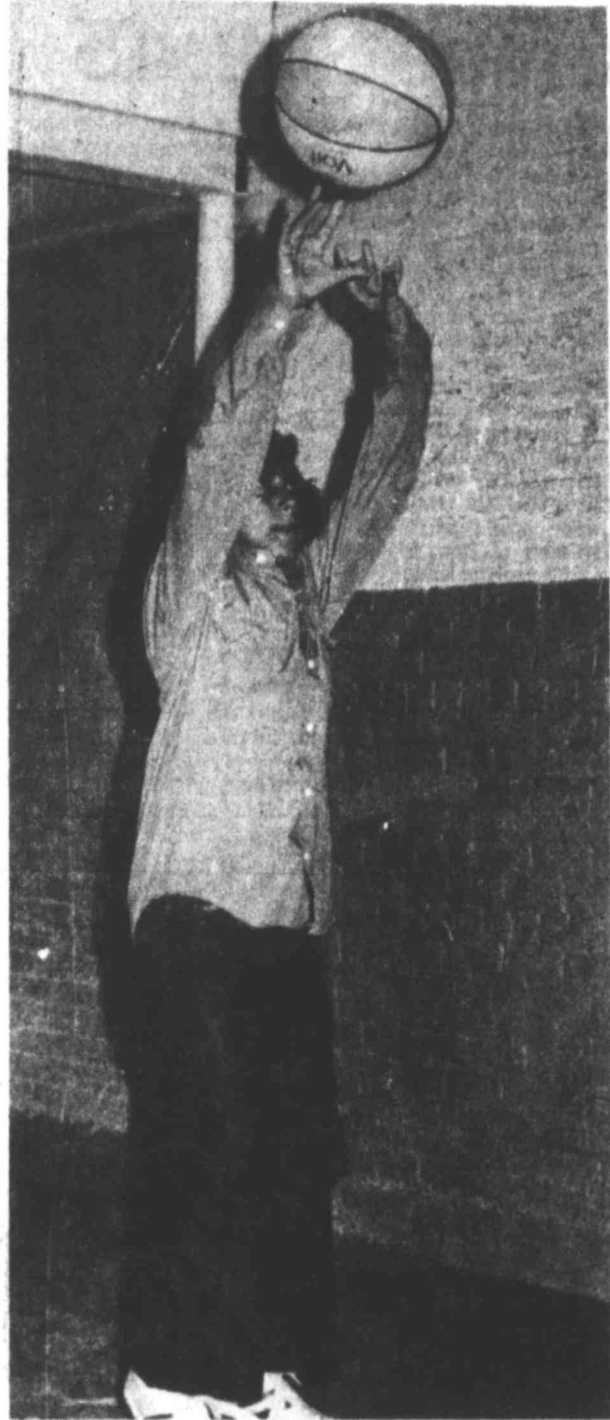

Despite a basketful of dazzling displays around the country this year, Marquette's Al McGuire feezes the dunk will reach dizzy new heights in seasons to come.

"The dunk hasn't come close to reaching its potential," he says. "Kids are still reluctant because they haven't played with the rules long enough. Give it two or three more years and the dunk will make up one third of all field goals in a game."

Not all coaches are pro-dunk, of course. Washington's Marv Harshman, for one, wishes they would stuff it.

"I don't like the shot," he says. "The player can get hurt. The property can be damaged. You can draw a technical foul—and when the player is in the process of the stuff—you might lose a better scoring advantage. It scares me. The dunk has crowd appeal, but I'm not sure it will make better basketball players."

In this first year of the dunk's reincarnation, there are still checks and balances for the high-powered shot. You can't "hang" on the rim after slamming the ball through. UCLA's Johnson was called for a technical after doing that in a recent game.

FERNANDO FRANCO won top spot in the basketball Spot-Shot contest held at the Boys' Club this past week. Contestants were required to shoot the ball three times from each of five different spots on the court and Fernando was able to sink 11 of the possible 15 shots, and thus became the winner for all age groups. Scores for the top five shooters in each of three age groups will be mailed into the Boys' Club regional office in Dallas and compared with scores from all Boys' Clubs in a five state region in order to determine regional winners. Regional awards will be presented to the top individual scorer as well as the top teams for each age bracket. Top shooters in the other age brackets at the Big Spring Club were Jimmy Paredes and David Parras.

Tech soars past Texas

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Mike Russell scored 32 points, including three key three-point plays, to lead Texas Tech to an 87-69 Southwest Conference victory over Texas in a regionally televised game Saturday.

Consecutive three-point plays by Steve Dunn and Russell climaxed a run of 12 straight points by the Red Raiders after Texas had taken an early 12-6 lead.

The Longhorns never led after that although they tied the game 32-32 just before halftime, but substitute guard Keith Kitchens hit a basket to give the Red Raiders a 34-32 lead at intermission. Kitchens hit five straight baskets for all 10 of his points in the first half.

Texas starting center Rich Parson became ill at halftime and was replaced by freshman Tom Nichols, who drew four fouls in five minutes. Two of the fouls resulted in three-point plays by Russell as Tech opened a quick 48-37 margin and went on to lead by as many as 19 points in the second half.

The victory gave the Red Raiders a 9-4 SWC record and a 15-8 season mark and solidified their hold on third place in conference play.

Texas, 7-6 in conference and 12-10 for the season, are still in fifth place despite the loss. The first five finishers in league play get home berths in the SWC postseason tournament.

The Longhorns were led by John Moore with 23 points and Ron Baxter with 19.

PAT BENDER

Local official gets compliments

By SGT. R. D. MONSON

Pat Bender is one of the few girls who whistles at men. It's okay though, it's all in the line of duty for Big Spring's only woman basketball official.

Bender is in her rookie season with the Southwestern Basketball Officials Association. She made her cage officiating debut last month during the "Oldtimer's Tournament". And although she isn't ready to start calling Division I games, she did as good a job as any of the other officials in the tournament.

Bender has another distinction. She is also the only woman official in the Big Spring chapter of the Amateur Softball Association. Oddly, her biggest problem on the diamond is getting too many compliments.

"The fans, especially the women, try and make me feel good," says Bender. "They compliment me on my calls. Sometimes it gets to me because the calls are just routine and they do it just to build me up. I don't need that kind of help," said the Orwell, Ohio native.

However, the coaches and managers of teams don't have the same attitude as the fans. "Because I'm a woman they think they can take advantage of me," said Bender. "I know the rule book inside and out and they generally don't have very much luck. Sometimes I think it frustrates them."

Bender holds an associate degree from Lakeland College in Ohio and has been umpiring games for more than two years. "I plan to continue umpiring for several years," she added. "Who knows, maybe I'll be the first woman umpire in the major leagues."

Yank leads skaters

HEERENVEEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Eric Heiden of the United States took the lead at the halfway mark of the men's 1977 World Speed Skating Championships Saturday.

Heiden, 18, of Madison, Wis., set a world chamampionship and track record of 38.80 seconds to win the opening 500-meter series. His performance drew a roaring ovation from the capacity crowd of 18,000.

Dutchman Hans Van Heiden won the day's other series over 5,000 meters in a track record of 7:06.40.

Heiden clocked 7:15.27 to finish ninth in the 5,000 meters, but it was sufficient to keep him firmly at the top of the over-all standings which are decided on a points basis calculated on aggregate time.

On Sunday the 32 competitors from 16 nations tackle the 1,500 meters and 10,000 meters. The grueling 10,000 meters will be the big test for Heiden, who is a sprint specialist.

"It's going much better than I had expected," said Heiden, a University of Wisconsin student. "I hope to go really fast in the 1,500 meters and hold on to the lead, but I know I can't afford to make any mistakes."

Heiden was paired in the 500 meters with Vladimir Lobanov of the Soviet Union. The American edged home less than a second ahead.

Heiden's 38.80 performance improved his own world championship record of 39.11, set on this same track last year when he finished fifth over-all. It also cracked the track record of 39.00 which had stood since 1971 and was set by West Germany's Erhard Keller.

Norwegians occupied the other top placings after the first two distances, Kay-Arne Stenshemmet, Jan-Egil Storholt and Sten Stensen placing 2-3-4 in the over-all standings.

Stensen was paired against defending world champion Piet Kleine in the 5,000 meters, but the Dutchman trailed by five seconds as Stensen was timed in 7:08.81.

De Jesus keeps hat

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Esteban De Jesus of Puerto Rico retained his World Boxing Council lightweight championship crown Saturday by stopping Buzzaw Yamabe in the sixth.

The end came at 2:06 of the sixth after the Japanese challenger went down for the second time.

A vicious right cross floored Yamabe early in the round for the count of eight. Seconds later, De Jesus connected with another right cross and Yamabe went down once more.

Referee Tony Pines signaled a second countdown, but when he noticed the challenger's poor condition he declared De Jesus the winner by technical knockout.

The Puerto Rican champion dominated the match from beginning to end. In the first round, he was able to hit Yamabe practically at will with his deadly left jab, sending the challenger to the canvas for an eight-count.

The rest of the battle followed more or less the same pace.

(AP WIREPHOTO) Wins 500-METER — Vera Bryndzey of the Soviet Union crosses the finish line in the 500-meter event at the Ladies' World Speed Skating Championships here. Ms. Bryndzey crossed the finish line in 41.7 seconds to beat the field of twenty-three skaters.

Stripers at Spence

You sure missed a good week of fishing if you didn't make it out to Lake Spence this past week. Just take a gander at this fishing report:

Robert DeWoody, Odessa — 6 1/2 lb. striper; Don Stanley Odessa — 3 1/2 lb. Black Bass; J.W. Pursler, Big Spring — 10 lb. striper; Mary Lee Pursler, Big Spring — 11 lb. striper; Ike and Bernie Bailey, Jal, N.M. — 7 and 8 lb. stripers; Judge Parker, Garden City — 4 lb. striper; D.E. Lipsey, Kermit — 42 crappies; Dair Sherrill, Robert Lee — 2 1/2 lb. black bass; Owen Jackson, Odessa — two stripers to 10 lbs., one black at four lbs.; Jeff Heart and Kent Moore, Midland — one striper 9 lbs., 6 lb. black bass, 3 lb. channel cat; Ned Ward and Maude Ward, Aspermont — 2 stripers to 10 lbs.; Billy Bob McLaughlin, Ft. Stockton — 12 lb. striper; Jack and JoAnn Quinn, Hobbs — 7 lb. striper, 3 stripers at 4 1/2 lbs., 4 1/2 lb. black.

The stripers are usually found from Y.J.'s Marina on up the river, mostly in shallow water.

Do you ever wonder where the money goes that you pay for fishing licenses? Most of this revenue goes to the fish hatcheries in Texas that raise different breeds of fish, such as stripers and hybrid bass.

The hatcheries raise these different breeds for stocking such lakes as Spence. Although they have been in business for quite some time, they are in trouble now, partly because of the slack off in sales of fishing licenses. Several hatcheries have had to close, and if sales don't increase, then several others will have to be shut down. This, of course, means a cut-back on fish available for stocking lakes.

The TP&W discovered that adult stripers could be injected with hormones to induce them to release their eggs and sperm. This makes it possible for the hatcheries to spawn the stripers and produce fry (young fish).

Stripers spawn about the same way salmon do, except the stripers do not build nests. When the water temperature approaches 65 degrees, adult fish swim up major streams where there is a moderate current. The eggs need current to keep them suspended. If the eggs are released in water without a current, the eggs will drop to the bottom and suffocate.

Some recommendations for striper fishing are as follows: Use a heavier than normal tackle, since the striper is a strong fish. Most stripers are caught in open water over a shoal or point, different from the rest of the lake bottom. Jigs, spoons, and deep running flashing lures are best. And, of course, hold your tongue right to give you just the right amount of luck.

NBA elite meet, 12:45

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dan Issel has something to prove in Sunday's 27th annual National Basketball Association All-Star Game.

"I always made the All-Star team in the American Basketball Association, and I obviously feel I belonged this time based on my performance," said Issel, the Denver Nuggets' center who beat out last year's NBA Most Valuable Player, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Los Angeles, in the fan balloting to become the starting center for the Western Conference All-Stars.

Issel is one of three Nuggets who will be starting for their coach, Larry Brown, who gained the honor of coaching the West squad in Sunday's nationally televised (CBS, 12:45 p.m., CST) game because his team had the best record in the conference as of Jan. 30.

The entire Denver frontcourt of Issel and forwards David Thompson and Bobby Jones will start for the West, along with guards Paul Westphal of Phoenix and Norm Van Lier of Chicago.

Philadelphia dominates the Eastern Conference lineup just as Denver does the West. The East coach will be Gene Shue of the 76ers, while forwards Julius Erving and George McGinnis and guard Doug Collins of Philadelphia all won starting berths in the fan voting. Joining them as starters are center Bob McAdoo of the New York Knicks and guard Pete Maravich of New Orleans, the NBA scoring leader.

The fan balloting, which drew a record 1.25 million votes, came under fire because players from certain clubs benefited from extraordinarily heavy local support. Much of the criticism was aimed at the showing of Issel, who is averaging 23.0 points and 9.2 rebounds a game and who beat such standouts Abdul-Jabbar, Bill Walton of Portland and Bob Lanier of Detroit.

"I hate to get our booster group out forcing votes, but I guess we might have to next year," said Kansas City General Manager Joe Axelson. And Los Angeles Coach Jerry West said the fan voting "has become a farce. It's a travesty when great players like Walton or Lanier or Abdul-Jabbar are left out of the team."

To which Issel responded, "I didn't cheat anybody. I didn't make the rules. The people of Denver really wanted to see their players in the game."

An NBA spokesman said the method of selecting next year's all-stars has not yet been determined.

Marquette takes Manhattan

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bo Ellis poured in 18 of his 22 points in the second half and Butch Lee added 20, leading ninth-ranked Marquette over stubborn Manhattan 86-60 in college basketball Saturday.

Reserves Gary Rosenberger and Ulice Payne combined to sink their first nine field goal attempts for Marquette, 16-3 with 11 victories in its last 12 games.

Steve Grant led Manhattan, 11-9, with 20 points.

Down 42-40 early in the second half, Marquette worked the ball inside for three baskets by the 6-foot-9 Ellis and two by 6-foot-10 Jerome Whitehead and outscored Manhattan 12-2 for a 52-44 advantage with 13:07 to play.

McKinney Job Corps Enrollment tops 600

McKINNEY — McKinney Job Corps Center Director, John Miller announced that 125 men will be arriving at the McKinney Center in McKinney during the coming months. The input of men along with the 495 women who will be training at the Center will keep the enrollment total at 620.

The center's two outside dormitories, which are not attached to the main building, will be utilized to house the men. The outside dorms will be modified as needed.

The 20 vocational choices presently offered at the center will be available to the men. In addition, the welding programs will be expanded by 30 training slots and the current food service program will be expanded to include meat cutting with 24 slots. An electricians program will also be added to the slate of job training programs.

Miller commented that other centers that have already gone co-ed have reported their problems have been minimal, and, in fact, have been reduced once they became co-ed.

Miller also said people will be brought in from other centers to provide training so center staff can move smoothly into this transition. In another area, Miller reported on the new contract for the local center. He said the new contract has been awarded by the U.S. Department of Labor for funding through December 1977. At the end of this period, he said the contract will probably be renegotiated for a second year.

Total placements to date at the McKinney Center are 7,988 while the GED Diplomas awarded total 1,406.

Any individual from Big Spring, ages 16-21, interested in applying for Job Corps training at the McKinney Texas Job Corps Center should contact their local Texas Employment Commission Office.

Westbrook Hobo Day Feb. 18

By DANA DORN
The last pep rally of the year was held Monday, February 7, during seventh period. Monday night the Westbrook teams traveled to Loraine for their final game of the year. For three senior girls and two senior boys it was a sad time because this was their last year to play for the Westbrook Wildcats. Now the teams have begun working on golf and track.
Tuesday during first period, the Home Economist spoke to the ninth grade.
Mr. Dawson spoke to grades 4-12 Wednesday morning about entering UIL events. He explained the changes that have been made concerning the class period schedule. Linda Anderson was awarded the Betty Crocker Award. Principal Mr. Hollis announced that February 18 has been set for Hobo Day.

Tennis team will practice soon

By STEVE COWLEY
The boys' basketball team sewed up the 11-B district title Tuesday night with a 70-46 trouncing of Water Valley. The boys' next game will be Feb. 28. The girls fell one game short of the district crown, but finished the year on an up note, smashing Water Valley 66-22. The boys finished with a 9-1 district slate, the girls with an 8-2 record.
The Band is continuing to work toward Concert Contest, and at the same time, individuals are preparing for Solo and Ensemble Contest. The Band would like to acknowledge and thank everyone, and especially band students parents, who supported to Howard County Honor Band. Thanks to you, the endeavor was a success. Spring events are still getting off the ground. Coach Redwine's tennis team has met, and will begin practice very soon. U.I.L. contestants are already preparing for the spring meet, which will be held in Forsan's new, ultra-modern "institution for secondary education and career orientation" (known to laymen as a high school). Seriously, this fancy school has gone to some people's heads. Several of the teachers are on a "Lucas Tanner kick", the cafeteria is now ordering its food from the Waldorf, and it was reported that one student received 50 lashes for getting a fingerprint on the wall.

The senior class's case of senioritis increased this week, as they were measured for caps and gowns.
The seniors are getting excited about going to college and becoming an over-qualified, under-paid worker like every other blooded American.

Information for taxpayers

'Business use of your home'

DALLAS — Taxpayers who intend to claim expenses for using a room at home as an office for a deduction on their 1976 Federal income tax return should familiarize themselves with new, more restrictive provisions, the Internal Revenue Service cautioned.

The Tax Reform Act of 1976 now permits deductions for business use of a home only if the part of the home claimed is used exclusively and regularly for business. The room also must be the self-employed taxpayer's principal place of business, or used to meet clients, customers or patients. Employees can claim the deductions only if they maintain their office at home for the convenience of their employer and satisfy the above requirements.

The IRS also pointed out that deductions for the expenses of having an office at home, such as rent, heat and light, cannot exceed the income produced in that office.

The tax packages mailed to taxpayers provide information on deducting expenses for use of a home under the new tax law. Additional details are contained in IRS Publication 587, "Business Use of Your Home." Copies of the free publication may be obtained by writing "Pub. 587" on the order blank enclosed in tax packages, or by contacting the IRS.

School ranks high in military pacts

AUSTIN, Tex. — The U.S. Department of Defense has announced that The University of Texas is among the contractors receiving the largest dollar volume of military prime contract awards for research, development, training and education.

The 500 largest contractors included 79 colleges and universities in a list of 100 nonprofit organizations.

UT, with $6,942,000 in contracts during fiscal year 1976, was eighth in the list of university contractors and 92nd among all 500 contractors.

Institutions with more defense contracts than the University of Texas are (in order) the Johns Hopkins University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Stanford Research Institute, the University of California, the University of Southern California, Pennsylvania State University and the University of Rochester.

The only other Texas institutions in the list were Texas A&M University with $674,000 and the Texas A&M Research Foundation with $379,000 in contracts. A&M ranked 353rd in the list of 500 and 57th among university contractors. The A&M Research Foundation was 478th in the total list and 78th among the higher education institutions.

The figures were reported in a current newsletter of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

"All together, nonprofit institutions received DOD contracts totalling $681.7 million," the newsletter said. "The 79 colleges and universities held, among them, contracts totalling $406.1 million, with the NASULGC institutions receiving $201.7 (49.7 per cent) of this total."

"Although the dollar totals for academic institutions have remained fairly constant over the past few years, the number of institutions involved continues to drop slightly but steadily," the report continued. "In 1968, for instance, 131 nonprofit institutions received DOD contracts totalling $665.4 million. The 131 institutions included 102 colleges and universities, including 56 NASULGC members."

Record revenues are reported by firm

Edward D. Jones & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, Inc., in audited figures released recently, reported record revenues and earnings. The firm, a partnership, does not report on a per share basis, however. The firm did include information indicating that over $300,000 had been contributed to the employe profit sharing plan, and over $750,000 for employe and registered representative bonuses.

In commenting on the year, Edward D. Jones Jr., managing partner of the firm, pointed out that the number of representatives with the firm had increased by 40, and Edward D. Jones & Co. now served over 170 communities in 29 states, for the first time including Utah and Kentucky. "The enthusiasm of outstanding young men and women to move to smaller communities to serve our systems of small branch offices has never been greater."

Continuing, Jones said, "We recognize our mission as serving the individual investor, and have tried to take that approach in tailoring our products to fit the individual investor, and have successfully convinced several large, well-known corporations to structure their bonds to meet the needs of the individual investors, our customers. Some of the features we have brought to the market include a monthly income option, and repayment at par immediately upon proof of death of a bond holder," said Jones.

"Because of these concepts and others, the firm has received recognition during the past year from such national publications as "The Institutional Investor," "Money," and "Medical Economics."

The annual report of the firm indicated that money from these specially designed debt instruments had been used by the issuer to help build a 400 bed acute care hospital; help a fast growing utility to expand; assist and finance growth for one of America's leading farm cooperatives; provide permanent capital for a large financial services firm; and, help provide growth of a major retail corporation. "Each of these companies does business in our service area, and we believe the monies invested will mean more jobs and opportunities in many of our communities," continued Jones.

Jones concluded, "Our firm made a large investment in 1976 in the training of registered representatives and the opening of new offices. We anticipate 1977 with confidence, and hope for continued success with our rather unique approach to the securities business, and service to our customers."

Edward D. Jones & Co. traces its roots back to 1871, and is headquartered at 201 Progress Parkway, St. Louis County, Hazelwood, Mo.

Jones' Big Spring representative is Dan Wilkins.

Pioneer declares 36¢ quarterly dividend

AMARILLO — The board of directors of Pioneer Corporation at their meeting held Tuesday in Amarillo declared a regular quarterly dividend of 36 cents per share, payable March 9, to stockholders of record Feb. 24.

Consolidated net income and earnings per share for Pioneer Corporation again reached a new high in 1976. Consolidated net income for the year was $38,034,000 compared to $26,951,226 in 1975. Earnings per share for 1976 were $4.09 compared to $3.03 in 1975 (adjusted for the 20 per cent stock dividend). Consolidated net income and earnings per share for Pioneer Corporation again reached a new high in 1976. Consolidated net income for the year was $38,034,000 compared to $26,951,226 in 1975. Earnings per share for 1976 were $4.09 compared to $3.03 in 1975 (adjusted for the 20 per cent stock dividend). Consolidated net income for the fourth quarter of 1976 was $8,141,554 or 88 cents per share compared with $6,472,830 or 72 cents per share for the same period for 1975.

In making the announcement of Pioneer Corporation's income, Pioneer President, K.B. (Tex) Watson observed that the continued improvement in earnings was primarily a result of Pioneer's subsidiary operations. He said that net income for the Company from subsidiary oil and gas exploration and production and extracted products had increased about 400 per cent in the past four years, having gone from $5 million in 1972, to about $25 million in 1976.

Additional factors contributing to the earnings in the fourth quarter of 1976 were emergency sales of gas to Michigan-Wisconsin Pipe Line Company and Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation. Watson told the directors that, in an effort to assist with the national emergency, Pioneer was participating in these emergency gas sales whenever the company had surplus gas available, and the sales would not interfere with normal operations of the system. Similar sales were made in 1975.

Watson reported to the directors that drilling was under way on the offshore exploratory wells in which Pioneer Production Corporation, a Pioneer Corporation subsidiary, has an interest. The wells are on Transco Group's offshore Louisiana tracts, obtained by the Group in a federal sale in November 1976.

The annual report for the year 1976 will be mailed to stockholders about March 18 and an annual meeting of Pioneer Corporation will be held in Amarillo April 19.

His first program Wednesday is scheduled from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in Withycombe Hall. All base people and their dependents are invited to attend.

Thursday morning Father Martin will meet with medical personnel and counselors. He will meet with commanders and supervisors for lunch.

Father Martin made the film, "Chalk Talk on Alcohol," which was shown throughout ATC in the command's alcohol and drug abuse education program. The film, made in 1972, has become one of the principal educational vehicles on alcoholism for the armed forces and many other branches of the Federal Government.

The 52-year-old Catholic priest worked in the Maryland Division of Alcoholism Control, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and is a graduate of Rutgers Summer School of Alcohol Studies. He has also lectured and provided consultancy services for the U.S. armed forces in the United States, Europe, Asia and Panama.

Father Martin also has participated as a faculty member and guest lecturer in several schools of alcohol studies and has lectured for state government alcohol programs and in rehabilitation centers in 16 states.

Of the three talks Father Martin will present at each ATC base, two are designed for special audiences and one is for the general base population. "Eight Guidelines to Help Alcoholics," is a one-and-a-half-hour presentation Father Martin gives to commanders, supervisors and key personnel. "Counseling Alcoholics," is designed for social actions, chaplain and medical personnel. It runs one-and-a-half to two hours. ## $95 million bridge issue

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Turnpike Authority directors have authorized a detailed study for a 750-foot toll bridge across the Houston Ship Channel.

Engineers told the board Friday the proposed bridge linking Interstate 10 with Texas 225 would require a bond issue of about $95 million. The preliminary study proposed a toll of 50 cents per axle.

The preliminary plans call for a four-lane bridge, to be completed by 1982. The plan would have to be approved by the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The report projected that 20,000 vehicles would use the bridge daily, with that total rising to 65,000 in 1989 and 160,000 in the year 2001.

Cookies for Camperships

By JO BRIGHT

The 1977 Girl Scout Cookie Sale is well underway and will continue through Feb. 19. By that time, Girl Scouts in the West Texas Council hope to have sold about 7,000 cases of cookies—and there are 12 boxes per case.

The council's proceeds will be used for improvements and maintenance at Camp Boothe Oaks, the established camp near Sweetwater which has afforded many lasting memories to hundreds of Girl Scouts, their leaders and families.

Last year, more than 1,000 girls earned cookie patches, and 96 girls were awarded camperships.

Troops in the council will receive a percentage from the sale of each case and are participating in a new bonus plan this year—beginning with the 50th case each troop sells, the troop receives 25 cents per box.

The cookies are being sold for $1.25 per box, and there is something for everyone. The varieties are Peanut Butter Patties, Sandwich Cremes, Thin Mint, Shortbread and Peanut Butter Sandwich.

By having faith in their product (which they do) and working hard, the girls can receive several awards. For girls first and second grade, four cases means they have earned their cookie patch and, should they mark up eight cases, well, they get their way paid to a special camping event at Camp

Boothe Oaks, this year to be held June 10-11.

The older girls, third through 12th grade also earn cookie patches by selling four cases. Ten cases or more earns a cookie patch and 1/4 campership; 16 cases or more, cookie patch and 1/2 campership; 20 cases or more, cookie patch and 3/4 campership.

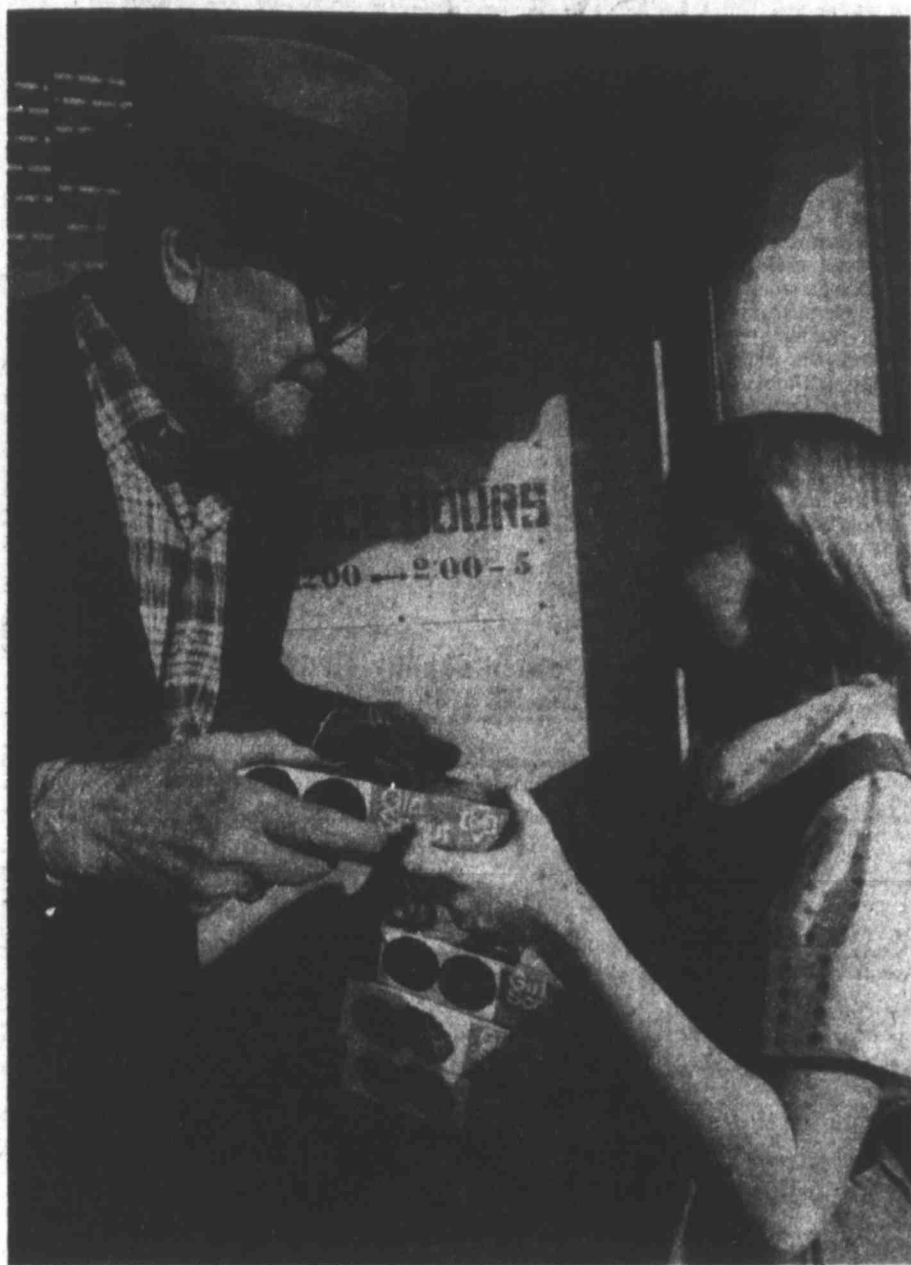

Any girl who sells the marvelous amount of 24 cases or more can wear her cookie patch with real pride, for she has also earned one full campership!

The annual sale is being conducted under the guiding hand of Mrs. Sandy Goodale, field director, and some of her registered adult Girl Scouts.

Service Unit chairmen are Mrs. Paul Kozma, Mrs. Clay LaRochelle, Mrs. Jesse Ortiz, Mrs. James Coats and Mrs. Goodale. Cookie chairmen for the service units include Mrs. LaRochelle, Mrs. Ortiz, Mrs. Coats, Mrs. Bert Sheppard and Mrs. Robert Barnes.

Currently there are 38 troops registered in Big Spring and one in Coahoma-Sand Springs. Their combined registration is 450 girls. That's a lot of cookie salesmen.

And backing the girls up by helping in many different ways, are the 72 adults who are registered in the Scouting program.

FRIEND OF SCOUTING — Wayne A. Laswell, whose business is located next door to the Girl Scout office on Scurry St., has proven to be a "good neighbor" to Scouting. Here, he buys another box of cookies from Dana Kohl of Junior Troop 36.

Camp Boothe Oaks

Camp Boothe Oaks, the established camp serving the West Texas Girl Scout Council, is located in a large grove of oak trees that provides a rustic setting for girls fourth grade through twelfth grade to explore and enjoy the natural world.

Camp objectives include promotion of responsibility, resourcefulness, development of physical, mental and spiritual well-being of girls, and a sense of inner worth and understanding of others and the environment.

Campers live in platform tents and cabins, four girls to a tent, and 25 to 32 per unit. Camp Boothe Oaks is an ACA camp providing a program of volleyball, baseball, archery, swimming, canoeing, campcrafts, primitive camping, overnights, backpacking, folk dancing, arts and crafts, and lots more fun!

During the two-week camping sessions, campers may participate in nondenominational services on Sunday. If requested by parents, arrangements can be made for campers to attend services in Sweetwater.

Camp Boothe Oaks is located eight miles southwest of Sweetwater off FM 1809.

ADULT LEADERS come through every time when they are needed to help guide the annual cookie sale. Mrs. Roy Goodale, field executive, sits at her desk to review the distribution plan with service unit cookie chairmen. From left, they are Mrs. Clay LaRochelle, SU 34; Mrs. James Coats, SU 37; Mrs. Jesse Ortiz, SU 35; Mrs. Bert Sheppard, SU 33; and Mrs. Robert Barnes, SU 36.

COVERING A LOT of ground, the West Texas Girl Scout Council boasts some super salesgirls when cookie time rolls around. All set to try out their sales talk are, from left, Lisa Dixon, Junior Troop 25; Rochelle Rutledge, Junior Troop 15; Christina Watters, Brownie Troop 108; Becki Coats, Brownie Troop 407, Coahoma; and Melissa Stockton, Brownie Troop 114, Forson.

Little effect on personality

Age has little effect on the personality, barring major mental or physical disorders. The grouch of 40 will be a grouch at 80 — the happy, kind person of 40 will be a happy older person, Mrs. Vivian Blair, family life education specialist-aging, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says.

The bride was attired in a floor-length white gown of sheer silk organza with a ruffled train overlaid with lace. Her mantilla veil was caught at the crown with a pearl headband.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Donna Bates. Monty Low was best man. Bridesmaid was Miss Belinda Bradley, sister of the bride. Groomsman was Marty Whetsel. Craig Clark and Darrin Crooks were ushers.

Miss Melissa Bradley, sister of the bride, and Miss Cami Turner, niece of the bride, were flower girls.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Theron Bradley, and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Turner, all of Forsan.

Following a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will reside in Forsan. The bride attended Forsan High School and is employed at Kentucky Fried Chicken. The bridegroom also attended Forsan High School, and is employed at Pool Oil Well Service.

A reception honoring the couple was held following the ceremony. The bride's table was laid with a pink net, sequined cloth edged in pink crocheted. Silver appointments were used.

Caring for sweaters

COLLEGE STATION — Sweaters will keep their shape — and yours — for years, with proper care, Marlene Odle, a clothing specialist, says.

Proper care begins with frequent cleaning — following recommended care instructions on the care label.

Most sweaters made from synthetics (nylon, acrylic, orlon) can be machine washed and dried on a delicate cycle. Wools, unless marked otherwise, can be hand-washed. Sweaters with decorative trim may require special handling, she said.

Miss Odle is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

When washing a wool sweater, use a mild laundry detergent and lukewarm water. Submerge the sweater in the water and allow it to soak about 10 to 15 minutes. Then gently squeeze the sweater in the water to remove imbedded dirt. Rinse thoroughly with cool water. Do not ring — but gently squeeze the excess water from the sweater. Dry flat on a Turkish bath towel, preferably a color that will not fade, she said.

To prevent stretching or ill-shaping in a wool sweater, make an outline of the dry sweater on a piece of brown paper. After washing, block the sweater by shaping it to the drawn size. It may be necessary to reshape it periodically as it dries, she said.

George Washington tea planned by DAR

TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sharp, Coahoma, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Chantal Mireille, to Brad Russell Milliken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill A. Milliken, Coahoma. The couple will be married May 20 in the First Baptist Church, Coahoma, with Dennis Teeters officiating.

When the Daughters of the American Revolution state conference is held March 22 in San Antonio, local delegates from the Captain Elisha Mack Chapter will be Mrs. W.A. Riley, regent; Mrs. Jack Lipscomb, Mrs. John Damron and Mrs. John Cobean, who will be accompanied by two junior members, Elizabeth Lipscomb and Mary Ann Lipscomb.

During the chapter meeting last week in the home of Mrs. Douglas Newman, 2610 E. 24th, Mrs. Georgia Edmon of Houston, state regent, reviewed the schedule for the state conference and conducted a question and answer session pertaining to work of the DAR.

Mrs. Riley presided as plans were initiated for the traditional George Washington Tea which will be held from 2 to 5 p.m., Feb. 20 in the Riley home on Driver Road.

A contribution will be sent to St. Mary's Episcopal School for Indian Girls, Springfield, S.D., and to the two DAR-supported schools, the Kate Duncan Smith School at Grant, Ala., and Tamasee School, Tamasee, S.C.

Mrs. Bill Early, VAVS chairman for the DAR, reported on current needs of the Veterans Administration Hospital volunteer program, noting that there has been a request for men's shoes.

Mrs. Jack Lipscomb and Mrs. David Duke were appointed to meet with a committee from the Genealogical Society of the Big Spring to draw up a list of needs for the genealogical section of Howard County Library.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Douglas Newman, 2610 E. 24th, with Mrs. Philip Parker as cohostess. The chapter charter, only recently received here, was displayed. It will hang in the conference room of Howard County Library.

Guests, other than Mrs. Edman, were Mrs. Richard Denham, state history chairman, and Mrs. George Van Husen, state curator, both of Midland.

The next business meeting will be at 7 p.m., March 7 in the Texas Electric Reddy Room where Mrs. Sandra Killough will be guest speaker. A film, "The Energy Challenge," will be shown.

Focus on Family Living

Teaching colors can brighten gloomy day

By JANET SARGENT, Asst. Civ. Ext. Agent

Teaching colors can take the gloom out of rainy days and Mondays for both parents and children.

Tools for learning about color are as close as the next object in your home. Color can be taught with everyday articles found in the home, or with a piece of construction paper, or with crayons and watercolors.

Teaching pre-school children the names of various colors is a slow process. Children two years of age can usually name and recognize only a few colors — without fear or threat.

Parents should remember not to expect too great an accomplishment for very small children. If the process is slow and comfortable, the child will learn more quickly — without fear or threat.

Some activities for teaching colors are:

- 1) Select a small number of balloons. Blow up the balloons. Compare the colors with other objects in the room, with colors the child is wearing that day, or colors found in a favorite book.

- 2) The child may sing songs about balloons or the colors. Let him enjoy the pleasure of playing with the balloons while he is learning something that will help him later in school.

- 3) Another fun activity is letting the child select sheets of construction paper, or any colored paper you might have at home. Cut the paper into the shape a child chooses — square, triangle, circle, rectangle. Then compare the colors to the objects in the room. In this one he learns about colors and shapes, too.

- 4) If you have food coloring, you might mix colored water in plastic containers or any clear object that is safe. Let the child mix the colors. Match the watercolor to colored paper.

- 5) Paint newspapers or the sidewalk with four colors. It can be rinsed off.

LEARN COLORS

If you have watercolors or crayons at home, the child will enjoy learning the colors from art experiences. Let the child select only a small number of colors to learn about, then paint a picture.

Paper need not be a problem. If you have old shelf paper, newspapers or even a paper sack from the grocery store, you're in business. All of these can be turned into learning experiences.

In order to complete the learning experience for the day, read your child's favorite story. Help him find all the colors you have talked about that day in his story. This reinforces teaching for that one day.

Couple insulated in solar habitat

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Mike Edds says he's hardly noticed the cold during this coldest winter in years, and he's used only one-fourth the fuel it normally would take to heat a house the size of his. But then the normal house doesn't have triple-glazed windows, three inches of insulation inside the doors and copper plates absorbing sunlight on the roof. Edds is resident engineer of Solar Habitat 1, an experiment in alternate-energy housing at the University of Massachusetts here. As part of the deal, he and his wife Petty get to live rent-free in the home. The "habitat" isn't finished yet, and neither the 200 square feet of copper plate nor the 60-foot-high windmill that runs a "wind furnace" are fully operational. Even so, Edds said, the features did their job. "I didn't really notice the cold," he said. "It hasn't been that bad. . . I took readings and the preliminary results showed that we used one-fourth the amount of heat a normal house this size would use during the first two weeks of January. That was primarily because of the specially designed insulation. . . Walls and floors are insulated with six inches of fiberglass, the roof panels have eight inches of polystyrene insulation on the outside of the wood walls, and over that is a fiberglass mesh and a compound of cement and plastic. The doors are high-density plywood with three inches of insulation, the windows have three layers of glass, each fitted with a filter, and incoming cold air "is preheated by the sunlight through the windows," said Edds. The two-bedroom house is designed so that it can be taken down, moved and put together again. It's about 1,500 square feet, the size of an average New England home. Electricity generated by the windmill and the sun's warmth from the copper-plates solar collectors are designed to heat water in a 2,000-gallon storage tank in the basement. The design is now being tested. The water is supposed to heat the house through a conventional circulating hot water system. Habitat 1 has an auxiliary propane gas heating system which engineers believe will be required to provide no more than 20 per cent of the home's heating. Duane E. Cromack, the project engineer, said the total cost of the system for one home would be about $21,000, beyond the reach of low and middle income families. But if it were being mass produced, he says, it likely would be economically competitive with electric heat.

Host party for daughter

FORSAN (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. A.J. McCall hosted a party recently in observance of the birthday of their daughter, Mrs. L.D. Parker, of O'Donnell. Mrs. Parker and her husband were present for the event, as were Mr. and Mrs. A.O. Jones, Sand Springs; and Mrs. Bob Wash, Forsan. Other recent guests in the McCall home were Mrs. McCall's daughter-in-law, Mrs. J.W. Archer, and family, of Seminole.

Attends concert

FORSAN (SC) — Brenda Cowley, a student at Angelo State University, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cowley, was home during the weekend to attend the Howard County honor band finale concert. Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan musicians make up the band. They are conducted by Robert C. Taylor, director of bands at Paschall High School, Fort Worth.

The Forsan Study club meeting was called off last Monday due to bad weather. J.M. Craig and Jack Lamb are patients in Malone-Hogan Hospital, Big Spring.

Rainbows schedule banquet Sketches inspired by memories says artist

Leilani Thomas, worthy advisor, presided over the Tuesday evening meeting of Big Spring Assembly 60, Order of the Rainbow for Girls. The meeting was held in the Masonic Temple.

It was announced that a father-daughter banquet will be held Feb. 22 in the banquet hall prior to the initiation of new members.

Rainbow girls will assist in the Easter Seal Drive in March, with Cappy Tatom serving as chairman. On April 2, the girls will attend services together in a local church in honor of Mark Sexton, the founder of Rainbows.

Kenda Born will be chairman for a bake sale slated in April. Activities in May include a salad supper and honor night in recognition of members of the assembly who will graduate from Big Spring High School.

During the Tuesday meeting, Miss Tatom reported that the assembly has collected 49 pounds of stamps. Robin Von Rosenberg reported that the assembly has collected 1,000 hose for use in crafts at a local nursing home.

The Big Spring assembly will go by chartered bus to the Grand Assembled in Fort Worth June 26.

Bill Brooks, artist, author, and feature writer for the Big Spring Herald, was the speaker for the 1955 Hyperion Club Tuesday.

With "Remembering Yesterday with Sketches of the Past" as his theme, Brooks displayed wood carvings, pen and ink sketches and copies of his two-volume book, "Remembering Articles and Sketches."

Brooks revealed that he tries to keep his articles and sketches accurate by talking with people and researching each of his ideas. In his sketch of his little sister's rock playhouse, many memories are evoked to anyone who used to spend countless hours playing house under a big tree.

Brooks especially likes his drawing of a young boy who made a suit of armor from old tin cans — an experience he actually had.

Although Brooks' early writing in English classes dampened his desire to write, later, when he wished to expand upon his sketches by writing accompanying articles, he "feverishly began to compose his thoughts on the written page." He strives to make his work not only believable and accurate, but conversational in tone. His efforts have gained an audience for now a number of newspapers in Texas carry his column.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Charles Beil, with Mrs. W.A. Moore and Mrs. James Cowan as cohostesses.

Members were reminded that the next meeting, March 1, will be in the home of Mrs. Carl Strom, 501 Westover, who will speak to the club on the topic, "Experiencing today our Indian Heritage." Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. C.W. Mahoney, Mrs. James Owens and Mrs. Robert F. Penner.

Trends in decorating told by shop owner

Mrs. Beverly Madry, owner of The Final Touch Bed and Bath Shop, was guest speaker Tuesday for the Creative Homemakers Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Madry discussed furniture arrangement, stating that decorators should always allow for a traffic pattern. Furniture should never be placed in such a way that it would cause people to have to walk around and in front of each other. She said that one should always make a good conversation area arrangement, not letting the television be the central focus.

"Color schemes used in one's home should complement the personality of those who live there and not a stranger who comes in and tells one what he thinks would look good in a certain room," she commented.

Mrs. Madry recommended investing in a color wheel and experimenting with various color combinations before actually making any final decisions.

After a base color has been selected, it will be used in 60 per cent of the color scheme, mostly in large areas such as the carpet and walls.

"Color is the least expensive decorating item one works with, but the most pleasing to the eye," said Mrs. Madry. She advised that one should reverse amounts of color used in each room for variety and effect.

Bathroom decorating has been made easier as manufacturers make matching towels and shower curtains with ceramic or plastic accessories for the dressing cabinet. There are also matching bath rugs and wall decorations from which to choose.

Bedroom decorating has taken on the new appearance of the "Open-Bed Look." This is where no furniture is used, and the mattress is stationed on the floor with matching sheets, coverlet and pillow cases. Sheeting is also popular as a wall treatment, said Mrs. Madry.

The Creative Homemakers will have their next meeting at 7:30 p.m., March 8 in the home of Mrs. Pat Johnston, 1712 Goliad. Miss Janet Sargent, assistant county extension agent, will present a program on "pantry meals."

Secretaries view MOD film strip

A film, "This Land is Your Land," was part of a program presented by Mrs. Rose Teems recently for the National Secretaries Association.

Mrs. Teems, area director for the March of Dimes, explained that the campaign was started by Franklin Roosevelt, a victim of polio. The campaign is conducted in January, the month of his birth.

"Since polio is no longer prevalent in our society, funds collected by the March of Dimes are used to combat birth defects," said the speaker.

The film showed several children affected by birth defects, and the progress that has been made in many cases because of the funds available.

Mrs. M.A. Long announced that Miss Lupe Morales will take an examination which will enable her to become eligible to compete for a $2,500 scholarship presented by the research and education department of National Secretaries Association.

Mrs. D.W. Overman presided, announcing that the February program will concern natural resources. The meeting is slated Feb. 28 at the Western Sizzler.

PTA depllores TV violence

DALLAS (AP) — The National Congress of Parents and Teachers, continuing its war on television violence, said Tuesday children are being encouraged to act out what they see on their TV screens.

"What we're finding is that children do not attach reality to what they're seeing on TV," said Jean Dye of Cleveland, Ohio, a member of the PTA-TV commission.

"They're becoming more and more desensitized to what takes place. One result of this desensitization is that they really don't realize when the individual is killed such a death is painful and irreversible."

Mrs. Dye was among a large number of PTA representatives, educators, psychologists, clergymen, law enforcement officers, parents and others attending

Lifestyles of Amish described

Lifestyles of the Amish people in Lancaster County, Penn. were discussed at the February meeting of the 1941 Study Club. The group met in the home of Mrs. Nan McKinney, with Mrs. Marie Ethridge as cohostess.

Mrs. McKinney spoke and showed slides of the Amish way of life. Since a visit she made there, she has studied their customs, religion, education and "their part of the American dream."

Mrs. McKinney said that the Amish came to America in 1727 on the invitation of William Penn, following persecution in Europe. They are a branch of the Mennonites.

The Amish settled in 20 states, Canada and Mexico. Recently, due to the unrest in Mexico, the Amish population has been leaving that country. With the help of the Canadian Amish, they are buying and settling land around Seminole and in eastern New Mexico.

These people live in an almost primitive style. They do not have electricity or machines for farming. Their education goes only to the eighth grade.

Mrs. Barbara Justiss conducted a business meeting following the program.

Horse steaks sell well out of state

DALLAS (AP) — Not all the steaks leaving Texas for consumption elsewhere are made of beef, but because they are made from horse meat doesn't make them illegal.

Four plants in Texas slaughter and process horse meat for human consumption, a U.S. Agriculture Department official said Wednesday. Most of the horse meat goes to Sweden, France, Japan and Italy. Dr. Fred Madden of the U.S. Agriculture Department Animal Health Inspection Service said.

The plants are located at Palestine, Ladonia, Fort Worth and Morton, he said.

Although it is illegal to sell horse meat for human consumption in Texas, many states allow it to be sold and consumed, Dr. Madden said. All the horse meat processed in Texas, and other states, must be properly labeled as such and is inspected just like pork, beef or mutton.

There have been recent reports that gangs of rustlers have been stealing horses to sell at the packing plants because the price has increased. Dr. Madden said one thing that helps the horse thieves is that Texas does not have a law requiring that horses be branded. Agriculture inspectors recently said that even prize horses stolen recently in the North Texas area have been traced to packing plants.

A good trade of horse meat sells for as much as 32 cents per pound, Dr. Madden said. A spokesman at a Texas processing plant said they are now paying about 26 cents per pound, but "Just like the cow market, the price goes up and down."

Don't Bully Bedwetting Son

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is positively driving me up the wall. Our 7-year-old son still wets the bed—every night!

We've tried everything, including taking him to several doctors. They all say there is nothing physically wrong with him.

I am sick and tired of washing sheets and pajamas every day. Please tell me how to handle this.

READY TO GIVE UP

DEAR READY: You say you've tried "everything." If you haven't tried the "Wee Alert Buzzer" (Sears catalogue), please do. If that doesn't work, continue to wash the sheets and pajamas every day and say nothing.

Now I'll tell you what NOT to do: DON'T tell your son that he could quit if he really wanted to—that he's just too lazy to get up and go to the bathroom; that he's a "baby"; that you're ashamed of him, and he is driving you up the wall.

Resign yourself to the fact that you are only one of about 29 million American mothers with the same problem, and although it's not pleasant, there are worse fates.

If there were no bedwetters in your family, there probably were on your husband's side because bedwetting is usually hereditary. And be sure to tell your son that, too. It will make him feel less guilty.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a wonderful fellow. He is kind, considerate and polite. He is almost perfect. Ours is a long-distance romance, as he travels, but when we get together with other people, I find he has one fault that is very irritating.

He likes to do more than his share of the talking. With me alone, this is not true. I am a rather quiet person and seeing him dominate every conversation in public irritates me.

Should I mention this to him, or let it go? I am afraid that after we marry, this may be a sore spot with us.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Yes, tell him in as kind a way as you can. Not in criticism, but in "love." If you let it go, the irritation will grow, and the first time he leaves the cap off the toothpaste you're apt to clout him with a skillet.

AAUW to sponsor children's movies

The American Association of University Women is sponsoring children's movies at the Ritz Theater again this year. Their purpose is two-fold: to present movies that children will enjoy and to use the proceeds to provide college scholarships to qualified girls.

The movies will run for four consecutive Saturdays beginning Feb. 19 at 10 a.m. at the Ritz. Two science fiction thrillers will be shown. "Yog, Monster from Space" will be the first movie, Feb. 19, and "Destroy all Monsters" will be shown March 12. The Feb. 26 movie will be "Yours, Mine and Ours" starring Henry Fond and Lucille Ball in a comedy combining two families with many children. "The Undefeated," a Post-Civil War picture starring John Wayne and Rock Hudson will be the movie for March 5.

Children may purchase season tickets for $2 at their elementary schools Feb. 16-18 and save money because tickets at the door will be 75 cents each.

Adults attending with the children may purchase tickets at the same price as the children.

Do you wonder what chefs eat at dinner?

HOUSTON (AP) — Did you ever wonder who a bartender tells his troubles to when he isn't tending bar. Or does a hairdresser let another hairdresser dress her hair?
 Or, what does a chef eat when he goes to a dinner party for chefs?

 The answer to the last question is some mighty fancy vittles.

Chefs from the South Texas area, about 100 of them along with wives and guests, gathered at a Houston hotel a couple of nights ago for the 16th annual Chef's Ball and dinner. One chef couldn't attend because he was doing the cooking.

After a few drinks to wet the whistle, the chefs sat down to eat.

The menu was hand-printed on imitation parchment and started with the hors d'oeuvre. There was one tray after another, but the favorite of the chefs appeared to be the shrimp cooked in coconut oil.

Then came the pate of capon in aspic, a double beef broth royal and barquette of sweetbread financiers.

Now for the main course. There was deviled rack of lamb, green pepper, corn sauce, snowpeas and water chestnuts, cherry tomatoes, dauphine potatoes and a continental salad.

If you had any room left in the stomach a table of Viennese goodies came wheeling past.

When the meal was over and done with, the chefs leaned back in satisfaction and sent their compliments to the chef.

Pictures worth thousand words

By JOHN W. DEATS
Art is not only for the practicing professional or the serious student. Almost everyone has an instinctive attraction for one or more of the visual arts, whether it is painting, sculpture, or architecture; it's simply a matter of cultivating our innate interests. Several new art books at Howard County Library address themselves to those who appreciate the beauty of nature, whether in the form of a landscape, a portrait, or an abstract composition.

"Abstraction in Art and Nature," by Nathan C. Hall, presents a program of study of natural forms and the best ways of recreating them on canvas. The drawing of plants, animals, landscapes, seascapes, skies, and other natural phenomena is transformed into the "language" of art: line, form, shape, mass, proportion, geometry, light and dark, and color. The book is amply illustrated with photographs, scientific illustrations, diagrams, and reproductions of works by the masters.

Similar in idea but entirely different in treatment, "Design Lessons from Nature," by Benjamin D. Taylor, explores not only the fantastic variety of forms of natural objects, such as skeletons, seashells, seed pods, and plants, but examines the structural principles behind the forms. For example, the skeletal frame of the horse is compared to the steel frame of a modern bridge. The text is illustrated by art produced by the author's own students

David Friend is the author of "The Creative Way to Paint." He instructs the potential artist on how to work from imagination and memory; how to work from photographs; what can be learned from the study of the great masters' work; creation of mood; use of color, texture, line, and depth.

For those who prefer to work with human subjects, a good source is "Portrait Painting in Watercolor," by Charles Reid. The reader is guided through 26 informative and explicit demonstrations to learn the use of watercolor materials and methods needed to create expressive portraits.

Joseph Dawley's "Character Studies in Oil" explains the basic materials — surfaces, brushes, palettes, and mediums — then uses only 5 basic tones to paint the features of the face and head. The artist develops basic skills first, then goes on to show how to arrange the composition to convey various emotions, personalities, and temperaments of subjects.

If watercolor is more palatable to you, try me of watercolor. "Painting in Opague Watercolor," Rudy de Remy describes this versatile medium, ideal for beginners because the paint dries quickly and allows the student to easily correct mistakes. A parting quote from Pablo Picasso: "To tell the truth, the Parthenon is only a truss on which a roof has been placed."

Actress' life happy, stable

Katherine Ross likes Duke

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Ask male moviegoers for their opinion of actress Katherine Ross and answers will include "beautiful," "dynamite," "reminds me of Grace Kelly," or some such flattering remark that may reflect the age of the admirer. A 23-year-old boy said, "She's the nice old-fashioned girl type," as if he knew.

Katherine has hazel eyes and wears her long, straight reddish-blond hair in that swinging look. It is washed every day.

She has been promoting the film, "Voyage of the Damned," in which she had a "small, meaty role," three days' work in England. These days if your part doesn't run through a movie they "schedule your entire part so that logically, you do it all at once. They don't have to pay you for a lot of wasted time," she said.

She has had some real screen plums from the beginning, including "The Graduate," which won her an Academy Award nomination and gave her early recognition. And there has been a succession of good breaks, including "The Hellfighters" with Wayne, who is her favorite actor.

"He is a real presence. He knows who he is and is great to be around. He is helpful, funny, fascinating. Redford is not easy to know well but he is charming and likeable," she continued. "Newman becomes involved in the project he is working on and I was surprised he had a funny side to him. Jim Garner is an all-around nice guy. Doesn't change at all and has a very dry sense of humor."

She considers herself "a very happy person." She met her husband of one year, New York born Tom Lici, when he was doing technical work on the set of one of her pictures. They are living in a large two-part trailer on their property at Malibu, where they plan to build a small house.

KATHERINE ROSS

"I'd like it to have a lot of glass. There are streams running through and lots of trees, kind of a Connecticut feeling, but the setting is so beautiful, the house should be incidental."

Born in Los Angeles, Katherine majored in English at La Rosa College and waited until she was 32 to get married, but doesn't necessarily recommend late marriage.

"It depends what you want out of life. I was never a person to date a lot. I'm not very social and I like to get to know someone. Then, too, you may not know what you want out of a person. You finally just meet the right one and that is it."

Academy Award clips boast it all

Oscar's best here

NEW YORK (AP) — One-time movie mogul Howard Koch has something for everyone. There's fascism, racism, alcoholism and anti-semitism for openers. Then there's comedy, music and love.

You'll find it all with a dollop of nostalgia in "Oscar's Best Movies," which Koch has produced and directed.

With clips from every winner of the Academy Award for best picture since "Wings" got the first one a half-century ago, the 2 1/2-hour show will be broadcast on ABC at 9 p.m. EST Sunday.

Julie Andrews, Walter Mathau, Gregory Peck and Katherine Ross will be hosts for a program that is organized by film subject rather than by the 48-year chronology.

There were some films that wouldn't fit into any category, Koch says. And he should know.

Head of Paramount until Gulf & Western took it over 12 years ago, he has been an independent producer whose films include "The Odd Couple," "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever,"

"Plaza Suite" and "Once Is Not Enough."

"Gone with the Wind," which Olivia deHavilland will introduce, was one of the movies he had trouble with, Koch says.

"It's not a war story or a love story," he says. "It's an epic."

Other films in the category of no category include "The Greatest Show on Earth," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "A Man for All Seasons," and "Grand Hotel."

Koch says "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," last year's winner, was so special that it gets highlighted alone at the end.

"Oscar's Best Movies" opens with "Wings," recorded on the very stage on which the silent movie was actually filmed before the Great Depression.

"It really was eerie," Koch recounts.

After "Wings," the show turns to clips from war movies like "All Quiet on the Western Front," and "Bridge on the River Kwai." Then come musicals such as "The Broadway Melody," "West Side Story," "An American in Paris," "My Fair Lady" and "Gigi."

These follow clips — they range from 1/2 minutes to about four minutes — of comedies such as "You Can't Take it with You," "It Happened One Night" and "The Sting."

Koch says it was "very difficult" selecting the one scene that best shows what the movie was about. One problem, he says, was conforming to TV standards of violence and bad language for movies like "The Godfather" and "Midnight Cowboy."

"I'm sure we'll be criticized," he adds with a philosophical laugh.

Since "That's Entertainment" and its successor "Part II," were so successful, Koch was asked whether he plans a successor to "Oscar."

Manges fighting for control

Stunning bank takeover traced

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — On March 26, 1973, directors of the Groos National Bank assembled in their elegant board room for a most unusual meeting.

The mood was solemn, and the men of money and influence swapped few routine pleasantries.

Quietly, hastily, as if acting out a scene from "The Moneychangers," they took pencils and scraps of paper and one by one scribbled out their resignations.

"I hereby resign as an officer and director of the Groos National Bank of San Antonio," wrote Ernest W. Groos Jr., president, and a descendant of the founding family.

"Please accept my resignation as director," penned another.

"... effective immediately," concluded a third.

Thus ended a long, bitter battle of control of the Groos, then a $60 million institution, organized in 1854 and a financial fixture in the "Queen City of the Southwest."

That was the day, one would recall, "when Clinton began cleaning house."

It was a thorough job. By nightfall, after a second special board meeting, the nucleus of a new board was seated and Clinton Manges' stormy banking career had entered a new phase.

For the secretive South Texan, reclusive overlord of vast ranch and oil properties, it was a heady coup, although in one sense the battle had just begun.

The overthrow was not easily accomplished, for the Groos was a banking prize, the offspring of a noble and historically distinguished family.

The Groos family, U.S. Sen. Henry Gonzalez once observed, made its mark in the city's economic, banking and social circles, and the Groos bank "has resisted Indian raids, survived panics and depressions..."

But not Clinton Manges.

At 3:30 p.m. on Jan. 11, 1971, directors took their seats around the imposing board table and heard the first unsettling news: A move was afoot to purchase bank stock at higher than market prices.

Subsequently, in a series of special board meetings, it was reported that four directors along with other shareholders had disposed of a sizeable block of bank stock.

The buyer: Clinton Manges.

By the time the annual stockholders meeting rolled around on Jan. 19, remaining directors were totally aware, as the records reflect, of "the attempt by an outside investor to purchase a substantial amount of Groos

National Bank stock."

The fight was on.

Records show that within days "the Manges people conveyed the feeling" that the new majority stockholder wanted three new directors on the board, including one Roy Caughfield.

Caughfield, then an officer at Houston's Bank of the Southwest, had helped arrange the multi-million dollar loan by which Manges financed his Groos takeover.

The Caughfield appointment was discussed at a board meeting Feb. 16, 1971, but directors voted to recess "to obtain more information ... and to clear up the confusion."

(Caughfield did not win a board seat.)

Directors also took no action on a written request by Manges that the board not use bank funds to hire an attorney, a counselor or a public relations advisor to fight the takeover.

Precisely one month later, records show, a new law firm was hired "to investigate possibilities of a lawsuit against the Bank of the Southwest, Houston, for damages resulting from the financing provided by the Bank of Southwest to Clinton Manges."

That financing, according to the records, "enabled Mr.

Manges to acquire controlling stock ownership of the Groos National Bank and has subsequently resulted in the loss of a number of accounts..."

However, before any action was taken, the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency, William B. Camp, entered the controversy via a letter dated March 4.

Camp touched on a 1963 indictment against Manges stemming from a loan he obtained from the Small Business Administration in 1959. In 1965, Manges pleaded guilty to making "false statements" and paid a $2,500 fine.

As a "convicted felon," Camp wrote Manges, "You are hereby prohibited from further participation in any manner in the conduct of affairs at Groos National Bank."

Unable to vote his stock and exercise control over his bank, Manges challenged Camp's order, but it was not until March 1973 that the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in Manges' favor.

It was that decision that triggered the upheaval of March 26.

"Although we've had some loan losses, we have the highest capital-to-deposits ratio of any bank in San Antonio and one of the highest in the country."
