Amin congratulates Americans

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan President Idi Amin today met with a small group of Americans and other foreigners working for Uganda Airlines, congratulated them on their work and said the people of Uganda consider them "their brothers and sisters," Radio Uganda said.

The radio said Amin also sent a message to President Sese Seke Mobutu of Zaire, saying the only reason he summoned Americans to a meeting at Entebbe Airport on Wednesday was because he "wants to thank them jointly for their service and not because of anything else as some people might think."

Reports reaching Nairobi said Amin is also summoning Britons to the meeting. British diplomats in Uganda and in Nairobi said they were checking reports that the 200-strong British community was ordered to be at Entebbe along with an estimated 240 Americans.

The meetings with the airline workers and the message to Mobutu, as well as a phone call to an American newsman in Nairobi, were apparently further efforts by the Ugandan strongman to allay fears about his reasons for summoning the foreigners.

His seemingly conciliatory attitude followed harsh warnings to the United States Sunday not to attempt an Israeli-style rescue invasion of Entebbe and the placing of Uganda's armed forces on alert.

Amin earlier moved his projected meeting with the Americans from a conference hall to Entebbe airport, delayed it from today until Wednesday and warned the United States not to emulate its Israeli allies with an attempted commando rescue.

In Washington, President Carter said the U.S. government was watching the situation "closely, trying not to upset President Amin, and trying to take advantage of his good wishes that he has expressed."

Radio Uganda reported on Sunday that Amin postponed the meeting from 11 a.m. Monday until 8 a.m. Wednesday at the request of the Americans in his East African country, who are estimated by the State Department to number about 240. Most of them are missionaries.

Amin said no Americans would be allowed to leave the country and ordered the meeting Friday, two days after he claimed the United States, Britain and Israel were involved in a plot to overthrow him.

Sunday's broadcast said the location of the meeting had been changed from the International Conference Center in Kampala, the capital, because the main lounge at Entebbe was the only facility in the country large enough to accommodate the 3,000 persons who were to attend. However, there was no indication who would be present beside the Americans and Amin.

The official radio also warned Ugandans to be alert for signs of an invasion. It said after the Israeli raid on Entebbe last July, the presence of U.S. naval vessels off the Kenyan coast "must be taken seriously."

Quoting a "military spokesman," believed to be Amin himself, the broadcast said: "In the event of an invasion, the invading force will be disintegrated by the Ugandan armed forces."

The United States said the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise and its escorts were cruising in the Indian Ocean off East Africa following a good-will visit to Kenya last week.

Radio Uganda said Amin at the meeting Wednesday would discuss with the Americans a memorandum being prepared on their activities since the U.S. Embassy in Kampala was closed in 1973. The broadcast said Amin wanted to thank them for their work and planned to award medals to a few of them.

CALL GEORGE — Miss Estella Diaz, one of two new dispatchers hired at the Big Spring Police Department during the past month, has been nicknamed George by her fellow officers. The dispatchers answer the telephone and the police radio and send officers to needed locations. They also keep a log of police activity. The other new dispatcher is Robert Harbin.

Career awareness day is scheduled here Tuesday

Final plans and preparations are being made at Howard College for the Career Awareness Seminar to be held Tuesday from 8:30 a.m. until 3:45 p.m. Over 300 students from 70 area high schools are expected to be on the campus to learn first-hand about the college, academic and vocational-technical offerings, and to visit with instructors, administrators, business, and professional people who can help them as they plan their future.

The seminar will begin at 8:30 a.m. with registration and the serving of coffee and donuts. From 9:00 to 10:15, there will be browsing and visitation by the students to the booths and with the personnel from the college and area businesses and industries. At 10:15, students may attend sectional meetings in individual interest areas. Time is provided to enable each student to choose three meetings of special interest to them. At 11:45 a lunch, courtesy of Howard College, will be provided to the students and their sponsors. Harlen Thornton, from the HC Music Department, will provide the dinner music as the students enjoy steak fingers and all the trimmings in the Howard College cafeteria at the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

Following lunch, the students will attend a drama production, "Butterflies Are Free," staged by the Hawk Players of Howard College under the direction of Mr. John Gordon. The day will end with a social period allowing games, dancing to the music of Mike Deardorf, and additional browsing and teacher visitation.

Student and faculty tour guides will be available during the day to show the visiting graduating seniors around the campus facilities.

Dr. Charles Hays, President of Howard College, said, "We are looking forward to hosting the area high school seniors to this special day set aside. Dean Smith has done much toward making this a beneficial day for these students who can get information to help them plan their future. The city as well as our college is prepared to welcome these students."

Solon says loan bill would prevent excessive profits

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Don Adams insisted today that his lending bill — criticized by a colleague as fulfilling the "dreams of every loan shark in Texas" — actually would prevent excessive profits.

Adams, D-Jasper, said the bill also would "insure continuous credit to the consumer" and "stabilize the (loan) industry."

His first witness, Dewey Presley, president of International Bancshares, Inc., said the bill proposes a formula permitting a "floating rate."

Such a rate, he said, is "tied to money costs. It is sensitive. It will react."

He said it puts the "profit risk on the lender."

The state and the "borrowing public would benefit from it," he said.

Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, countered with Mark Leymaster of the National Consumer Law Center in Boston, who said that testimony by Dial Finance officers in Boston showed that Texas is the 11th most profitable state among 35 in which it does business.

The profit, Leymaster said, runs as high as $3,000 on $100,000 in loans.

Dial made a 17 per cent rate of return on its investment, Leymaster said, which is "more than most major industries."

Ex-resident is assault victim

LAMESA—Benny Green, Lamesa city patrolman who formerly worked for the Big Spring police, was admitted to a hospital Sunday for minor injuries received in a Sunday morning assault.

Martin Vasquez is in the Lamesa jail, charged with assault on a police officer.

Green went to a call at Andy's Supermarket to answer a disturbance report involving a man and his wife. Vasquez apparently attacked Green and was hitting and kicking the officer when Bob Ellis, an off-duty highway patrolman, came to Green's rescue. Green was released from the hospital Monday.

Focalpoint

Action / reaction: A privilege

Q. On Feb. 24, a local media man had this to say about our Chamber of Commerce: "My opinion is that I hold the Chamber in low profile. Just what have they done to help our city?" I think the Chamber has done a great job, both in attracting industry and fighting to save Webb AFB. Perhaps this person should either join the Chamber to give it new perspective or just maybe keep quiet. I think some of our athletic teams now have a wrong outlook on things.

A. Perhaps this man (or his firm) already is a dues-paying member of the Chamber. Perhaps he feels he has a right to analyze and criticize. Perhaps, too, he would project some fresh ideas if consulted. This individual has always had the reputation for boosting Big Spring wherever and whenever possible. We agree with you. The Chamber strives to make Big Spring a better community in which to live. If it blunders occasionally, its sense of direction is never misplaced. But, where would this country be if the privileges of dissent were taken from us?

Offbeat: They ain't heavy?

MENOMONIE, Wis. (AP) — Back in the 1960s, when confrontations with demonstrators became regular happenings in this college town, Chief of Police Ron Hansen realized he was getting a negative opinion of students. So he began throwing them over his shoulder.

Hansen, now 37, became the judo instructor at the University of Wisconsin branch here, and he says the classes have helped him get to know young people better.

"I begin to understand some of their problems and concerns," he said. University officials say Hansen's class is one of the most popular on campus.

Tops on TV: Stars in meet

Top stars of the television networks meet again tonight to compete in sports events on ABC at 8 o'clock in "Challenge of the Network Stars." Sporting competitions will include golf, swimming, a baseball throw, volleyball, a relay race, an obstacle course and a tug-o-war.

If this sounds boring, Mia Farrow stars as a blind girl victimized by a killer wearing cowboy boots, in "See no Evil" on channel 11 at 9 p.m.

$8.5 million heroin bust

LONDON (AP)— Customs officers said today they seized 26 pounds of heroin worth an estimated $8.5 million on a Malaysian freighter in Cardiff on Sunday, half as much as was found in Britain through all of 1976. The seizure, believed to be Britain's largest, came amid a major police campaign to prevent Chinese secret societies known as Triads from moving into Britain to organize large-scale drug smuggling. Police estimate a staggering five tons of heroin was smuggled into Europe last year, most through the Dutch ports of Amsterdam and Rotterdam. "This is a major breakthrough," a senior Scotland Yard officer commented. "But we're under no illusions about how much of this heroin is getting through. We've got a long way to go yet." Officers said the heroin seized Sunday was believed to be "brown sugar" from the "Golden Triangle" wilderness where Thailand, Laos and Burma come together. It was hidden in plastic bags under thousands of tons of canned prawns. Police detained two Chinese crewmen aboard the 11,003-ton freighter Bunga Meior, which was en route from Bangkok, Thailand, to Rotterdam.

Congressmen write

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — United backing has been given by all Texas members of Congress to a U.S. Army proposal to add a $110 million shell-making unit to the Lone Star Ordnance Plant near here. Rep. Sam Hall, D-Tex., said all of the state's 24 members of the House and both of its senators signed a letter supporting the Army's plan to build the facility and sent it to the U.S. comptroller general, Elmer B. Staats. The new unit would manufacture parts for 105-mm. shells at the Lone Star plant, which is 15 miles west of Texarkana, Tex. About two years would be required to complete it. Missouri members of Congress requested last week that the General Accounting Office (GAO) review the Army decision. The Texas letter said this Missouri request was "more frivolous than substantive and more the result of local partisan pressures than a proper appreciation of responsible national defense requirements." The letter asked that if the GAO makes the study on the Army's decision "that the entire matter be expedited in the best interest of national defense." Last year the Missouri delegation asked for an Army study of comparative costs of adding the facility at the Lone Star plant and at the St. Louis Ammunition Plant, closed since the 1960s. The proposed facility would turn out about one million of the projectiles when full production is reached.

Trains crash toll soars

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Two commuter trains collided near Barcelona today, killing more than 20 persons, the Catalan rail company said. There were unconfirmed reports of an explosion and fire. The crash site was in the Barcelona industrial belt and many of the passengers were believed to be workers.

Campaign deadline

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Secretary of State Mark White reminded local politicians today that March 3 is the first deadline for filing campaign reports for the upcoming April 2 city and school board elections. Candidates with opponents must file all previously unreported contributions and expenditures through Feb. 21, White said. White said candidates and specific purpose political committees involved in the municipal elections must file their statements with the city secretary or city clerk. In school board elections the statements are filed with the secretary of the school board.

Was it agony of rape, trial?

No one sure why UT coed killed self

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Almost a year and a half after Mary Ann Anderson was raped, she stood alone in a field near Georgetown and fired a .22 caliber bullet into her head. Her suicide earlier this month came less than a month after her attacker was sentenced to 60 years in prison for the assault. An Austin police detective who handled the rape case said last week, "Nobody knows what it does to a victim mentally." But the people close to the pretty 22-year-old woman are still puzzled over what exactly caused her to take her life. No one can say whether Mary Ann's death wish began the night of the rape in her room near the University of Texas campus or when she told a jury about the unnatural sex acts she was forced to perform. Or possibly it began when she had to try and convince that same jury that she didn't consent to the sex acts in the first place. "Rape is the only offense where the victim is cross-examined about whether she consented to the crime," said Travis County Asst. Dist. Atty. Steve Edwards. "No one asks a robbery victim if he enticed the criminal into taking his money or if he enjoyed being robbed... If it happened to my mother or my sister, I would probably not want them to go through the trial, except that would let the guy get away with it." Mary Ann's brother, Leo, said his sister didn't appear to be badly affected by the rape. He said he believes a trip to Europe shortly after the incident was a safety valve. She needed to be by herself for a while. It was not until after her death that he discovered something about his sister he never knew. Her writings, poems, diaries and letters told of a struggle deep within the young woman for the meaning of life. "It was the work of an absolute stranger," said Anderson's wife. "She was going through things we never knew." Sgt. Jerry Slatton, the detective who handled Mary Ann's case, spent three days with her outside the courtroom waiting to testify. He remembers a quiet, somewhat frightened young woman, but one committed to testify and see her attacker behind bars. "I've been a cop 10 years and it's rough waiting for a trial," he said. "You never know what they'll ask you." Edith Roberts, the attorney who defended Laredo Cole, a prison parolee, based her defense on the consent portion of the law. Cole had told her that he had dated Mary Ann previously but he was unable to recall any witnesses who had seen them together. In court, the attorney argued that there was no sign of a struggle, and Mary Ann did not see a weapon that could have been construed as life-threatening. "I tried to argue the impossibility of the act as she described it," she said. "I didn't bear down on her, and I have been known to get rough on 'em." The attorney said she noticed no emotional strain on Mary Ann's face during the cross-examination. "Most women would have broken, and maybe that should have tipped me," she said, thinking back. Mary Ann didn't break—at least not in a way anyone could notice. No one apparently knew of the inner tensions, the frustrations that might have surfaced with the rape. No one knew until it was too late. Slatton said it best. "I don't feel I ever got to know her, but I had a lot of respect for her."

Police beat Metal shop tools stolen

Someone ransacked the metal shop at the Planters Gin, Lamesa Highway, of about $1,500 worth of power and hand tools, between Sunday at 11:00 a.m. and today at 7:30 a.m. According to reports the lock hasp on the east side door of the shop had been pried off, and the burglars gained access to some power drills, impact wrenches, a hydraulic jack, a battery charger, socket wrenches, and other hand and power tools. Burglars removed over $3,000 in jewelry from the southwest bedroom of the home of Dorothy D. Mackie, 1010 S. Goliad, sometime between 6:00 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Saturday. According to reports the looters entered the house from the back kitchen door, and took a watch valued at $705; $500 in cash; a ring worth $900; one diamond wedding set, worth $800; a yellow gold band, $200; a neck chain, $25; and a topaz ring worth $30. Robert Mark Barton, manager of the Sandra Gail Apts., 2911 W. Hwy. 80, was hit in the face by a man he was attempting to stop from making a lot of noise and sliding down the supporting pole of the second floor apartment 45, about 9:00 p.m. According to police, the man who was sliding down the pole fireman style, had been calf roping all day, and was relaxing with friends at a party at the Sandra Gail Apartments, when the gymnastics started. The man was arrested for assault, but that was not the last trip police made to the apartment complex. People called the police station three times to report possible fights and noisy parties extending until 3:00 a.m. Sunday. Police Officers Pruitt and Hall arrested a local woman after they "observed a woman subject sitting in a maroon Chrysler Cordoba, waving what appeared to be a small frame pistol" in the Bush County parking lot at 8:18 Saturday. The woman was arrested

Mortgage disclosure joys, woes

NEW YORK (AP) — Anyone who has ever been denied a mortgage loan — from the city dweller to the farmer — has a powerful new way to check whether the bank turned the loan down unfairly. For years banks have been accused of redlining — denying mortgages in declining neighborhoods, thus hastening the area's decay. Under the federal Home Loan Mortgage Disclosure Act, banks are compelled to disclose where their mortgage money is going. The first disclosure reports had to be made public last Sept. 30. Local activist groups that fought for the law now report some successes, but also some problems in using the new data. The New Jersey Citizen Action Alliance, for instance, is gathering information from 100 banks in Newark, Jersey City, Paterson and Elizabeth. The group believes it will be able to document how much money is being invested by local banks outside the areas where their depositors live. The National Center for Urban Ethnic Affairs in Washington and the Chicago-based National Training and Information Center are assisting scores of neighborhood groups across the country in deciphering the information and taking organized action. The Chicago group estimates that at least 50 groups in cities, suburbs and a few rural areas are trying to use the new lending data. In Cleveland, the Buckeye-Woodlawn Community Congress is using the lending data to press banks to advertise their willingness to make loans in declining parts of the city. The State Savings and Loan Association has already agreed to do so. The federal disclosure law is helping neighborhoods in Philadelphia persuade banks to rehabilitate housing. In Salt Lake City, local groups are using the new information to press for an antiredlining ordinance. Using the mortgage data, local groups in Waterloo, Iowa, won a $3 million mortgage pool from local banks, as well as a mortgage review board that hears cases of persons who feel they were unfairly denied mortgage loans. "What the law did in effect was to give groups the tool to prevent banks from saying, 'No, we don't do that (redline),' " says Gale Cincotta of the National Training and Information Center. But local groups complain it can take considerable expertise to understand the lending data. For instance, a typical bank disclosure will only show gross totals of how many mortgages were made in a geographic area, their combined dollar value, and what type of mortgage was granted. Since no street

King Hussein admits getting CIA money

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Sudan is expected to join Egypt and Syria in their two-month-old unified political command at a summit conference of the three nations' chiefs of state now being held in Khartoum. President Anwar Sadat, arriving Sunday for the three-day meeting with Presidents Hafez Assad of Syria and Jaafar Numaira of Sudan, said their meeting would result in historic decisions beneficial to the whole Arab world. Egyptian officials said political unification may lead to a federation of the three countries. Elsewhere in the Middle East: —King Hussein of Jordan admitted getting money from the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency but denied he used it personally. —Sadat said Arab-Israeli peace could come within a month if the United States assumed responsibility for arranging a settlement. —The Israeli army evicted militant Jewish nationalists who tried to establish a settlement Sunday on the occupied West Bank. —The International Monetary Fund agreed to extend $600 million in credit to Egypt over the next four years, Cairo Radio reported. The Khartoum summit conference is the outgrowth of an announcement by Egypt and Syria two months ago that they were making new plans to merge. This was interpreted as a display of unity in preparation for peace negotiations with Israel. Both Sadat and Numaira also are at odds with the Libyan strongman, Col. Moammar Khadafy, and have accused him of supporting enemies of their regimes. In Amman, King Hussein told Newsweek magazine that money he received from the CIA was used to "enhance our intelligence and security capabilities. Period." The king, responding to a story in the Washington Post 10 days ago, said the checks were made out to him as Jordan's head of state, and that this was customary in dealings in the Arab world. In Washington, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance defended secrecy in such payments to foreign leaders, saying "these kinds of things cannot be done in the glare of public publicity." Vance told CBS-TV's "Face the Nation" that such payments are legal and "are in the interests of the country involved as well as the United States." Sadat, in an interview taped last week for ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers," said the United States remains a key factor in Arab-Israeli peace because it "is a party trusted by me and the Arab world and it should be trusted by Israel." "When the United States assumes its role as a superpower responsible for peace and a superpower that the two immediate powers in the conflict have confidence in, we shall establish peace in only one month," he said. In the occupied West Bank, which the Arabs demand be turned over to the Palestinians to be incorporated into a new Palestinian state, 60 Jewish families attempted to establish a settlement on Sunday at the tiny Arab village of Meskha. But they did not resist when the military governor of the occupied territory, David Hagoell, arrived with an expulsion order.

Authorities cite public reaction to the slaying as the reason for increased security. The couple are charged with second-degree murder.

Governors assured they have pal in White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's top political aide assured the nation's governors today that they have "a friend in the White House" as they seek a bigger role in shaping the programs of the federal government.

"We've been on the receiving end," Hamilton Jordan said after conferring with Democratic governors. "The President has been a governor. He knows their problems."

Jordan said the President wants help from the governors too. He said they can provide a significant boost to administration efforts to reorganize the executive branch of the government and, in the process, reshape programs that shape the states.

"We intend to assert ourselves in constructive ways while participating in the formulation of national policy that affect our states and cities," said Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, chairman of the National Governors Conference.

"On energy policy, welfare and Medicaid reform and other areas of concern, our views must be considered for any national policies on these and other issues to have any validity in our home states," Askew said at the opening session of a two-day Washington conference that was expected to draw 48 of the 50 state governors.

Even California's skeptical Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who never bothered to come before, said the governors may have more clout with Carter in the White House.

"Given the fact that we have a former governor as President, this may make the National Governors' Conference a more effective vehicle for national public policy," Brown said.

"We want to develop a continuing partnership that will bring about the fullest possible participation of state government in the federal decisionmaking process," said Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida, the conference chairman.

That's what Carter promised. Not in 32 years, since the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, has a former governor held the White House, and Carter said he would not forget the lessons of his four years as governor of Georgia.

He scheduled two hours of a White House work session with the governors today, with Vice President Walter Mondale and the Cabinet also on hand. The governors will go back Tuesday night for a black-tie dinner with Carter.

The social visit is customary. The working session is not. In addition to that, at least eight members of the Cabinet are to meet with governors in separate committee sessions during their two-day conference.

The governors, from 48 states, with Missouri and Wyoming to be represented by other officials, assembled on Sunday, concentrating first on the problems presented by the severe winter weather and the drought confronting the West.

Emergency service okayed

SNYDER — Directors of Cogdell Memorial Hospital have approved a to provide emergency room service at the hospital during weekends.

The new plan provides that physicians on the staff will alternate weekend duty and will receive $500 for such a tour of duty.

The directors are also looking at plans for expanding the hospital.

There will be stringent security at the courthouse," said Sheriff Larry Wallace. "And there will be extra tight security measures taken at the jail while the Madduxes are here."

Judge Witt moved the widely publicized trial to Athens last year because he said heavy publicity made it impossible for the Madduxes to receive a fair trial in the Cleveland area.

Last week, he rejected a motion to suppress statements the Madduxes made to sheriff's deputies the day the body was found.

Mrs. Maddux was alleged to have said her husband resented Melisha because the child was fathered by another man. Maddux reportedly told deputies that he began disciplining Melisha after she wet her pants.

Maddux is alleged to have said he beat Melisha with a stick to keep her walking, and allegedly made the following statement: "I made her keep walking back and forth all day to try and tire her out so that she would sleep that night.

"I kept giving her the hot sauce a tablespoon at a time. She asked me for a drink of water. I got a glass of water and told her if she would take the tablespoon of hot sauce, I would give her a drink.

"She swallowed the hot sauce and I drank the glass of water."

Maddux told officers he gave Melisha a shower and sent her to bed alone, naked on the bare mattress in the cold living room. An autopsy concluded she died the following morning of shock and exposure.

If convicted, the Madduxes could be sentenced to 10 years to life in prison.

Rudolf Hess attempts to kill self in cell

BERLIN (AP) — Rudolf Hess, the imprisoned former deputy to Adolf Hitler, cut himself with a table knife on his left wrist, elbow and foot last Tuesday, an Allied spokesman said today in apparent confirmation of reports that Hess tried to kill himself.

Hess's son said last week that his 82-year-old father tried to commit suicide because of deep depression over his failing health and his solitary imprisonment.

The son, engineer Wolf Ruediger Hess, 39, met with Hess Friday at Spandau prison in West Berlin, the allied jail for Nazi war criminals where Hess is now the only inmate.

Hess has been in the jail since 1946 and was a prisoner in Britain before that since 1941. He is serving a life sentence for plotting and carrying out war, but not for war crimes.

A French military spokesman said Hess was not in danger. "The prisoner suffered only a small loss of blood," he said, and returned to his cell after being treated by a prison doctor.

The son, engineer Wolf Ruediger Hess, 39, met with his father Friday at Spandau prison in West Berlin, the allied jail for Nazi war criminals where Hess is now the only inmate.

Mercury dives to 21 at Wink

By the Associated Press

A weekend cold snap brought many Texans another taste of freezing weather this morning.

Official forecasts promised sunny and warming weather, however, in all sections.

Thermometers tumbled to the teens again in the West Texas mountains. Points nipped by a lighter freeze included Dalhart 20 degrees, Wink 21, Amarillo and Lubbock 25, Abilene 28, San Angelo 29, Wichita Falls 30, Childress and El Paso 31 and Houston 32. Readings elsewhere at the same hour ranged up to 50 at Tyler.

Top marks Sunday afternoon went as high as 72 at El Paso.

Extended forecasts looked ahead to showers starting the middle or latter part of the week in most sections.

Millions 'wasted' on cold cures

By The Associated Press
Americans spend an estimated $700 million a year on nonprescription or over-the-counter cold remedies.

In an effort to discover which medicines — if any — really work, the Food and Drug Administration set up a panel of nongovernment experts who studied the labels of cold, cough, allergy, bronchodilator and anti-asthmatic drug products.

Their findings echoed what many people had been saying for years: none of the nonprescription products will prevent, cure or even shorten the course of the common cold.

The panel did find that some of the products eased the symptoms of a cold. It expressed concern, however, that there are so few single-ingredient products on the market. Combination drugs are often not necessary, the panel said, because different symptoms strike at different times, and may not be good for some people because of individual reactions to various ingredients.

Similar concern over combination products has come from other sources. Joe Graedon, a pharmacist and author of "The People's Pharmacy," a guide to various prescription and non-prescription drugs, says:

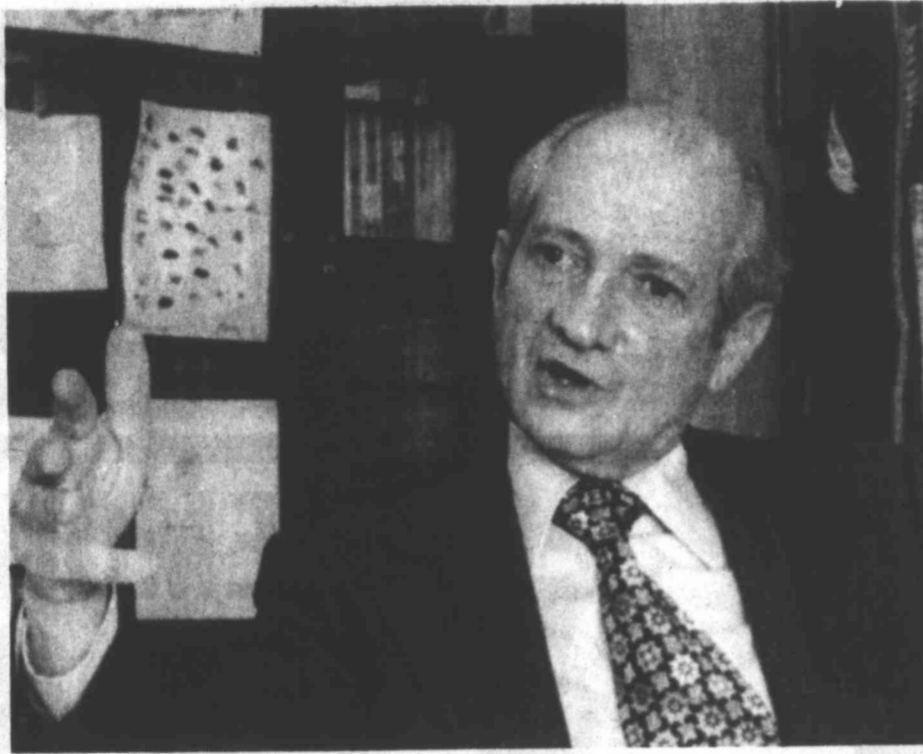

"There is almost no medical justification for products which contain so many different compounds all rolled up into one and there is reason to believe that there could be a negative effect."
Graedon also claims that antihistamines commonly found in cold products should not be included. Antihistamines, he says, increase and thicken the mucus already in your lungs. The FDA panel, noting that antihistamines are valuable for providing relief from hay fever symptoms, said there is "little valid evidence" that they are effective in treating the common cold. It suggested additional testing and recommended that antihistamine labels be required to state clearly that the products are designed only for temporary relief of the nose or throat and itchy and watery eyes.

The study group reviewed some 90 ingredients and placed each item in one of three categories:
—Generally recognized as safe and effective and not mislabeled.

—Not generally recognized as safe and effective or mislabeled. (The government could order these products removed from the marketplace after the final FDA proposal is issued.)

—Available data insufficient to permit final classification. (The panel recommended that items in this category be allowed to stay on the market for a given length of time providing tests are conducted to answer the questions raised in the study.)

Consumers who want to know which ingredients fall in each category can send for a free fact sheet, The Common Cold. Write to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 642E, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

NOT A CURMUDGEON — Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, would like to world to know, before he starts his battle with President Carter over government reorganization, that despite some reports he is not a curmudgeon. Brooks is chairman of the House Government Operations Committee that will open hearings on Carter's reorganization plans Tuesday.

Rep. Brooks not looking for fight with Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before he starts his battle with President Carter over government reorganization, Rep. Jack Brooks would like the world to know that, despite some reports, he is not a curmudgeon.

Curmudgeons are not prone to pucker self-assessments like, "I don't go around wearing brass knuckles — just my old university ring. I really think of myself as sweetness and light."

Nonetheless, the Democrat from Beaumont, Texas, serving his 12th term in Congress, is opposing Carter's plans to fulfill his oft-repeated promise to streamline the federal government. The House Government Operations Committee, chaired by Brooks, opens hearings Tuesday on the issue.

Carter wants authority to send Congress reorganization plans that would automatically take effect unless the House or Senate vetoes them. Brooks says Congress should have to vote favorably on each item of reorganization.

Part of Brooks' image problem may stem from the fact that he looks like the stereotype of the flinty, reactionary House committee chairman. At 55, his short frame is topped by a bald head fringed with gray. He has watery blue eyes and a pinched, narrow face.

"Surely you can tell by looking at me that I'm not mean and cantankerous," he says, puffing sternly on a stogie and then laughing.

Brooks says he has no desire to fight with Carter. "I like Jimmy Carter. I worked for his election... I'm sympathetic to presidents. I think they need help," he smiles.

The conflict is all in the minds of the press, he said. "Y'all are just always looking for a fight, saying 'Let's you and him fight.' It's nice to sit back and watch."

Brooks would prefer to be seen as standing for a principle than standing against the newly elected leader of his own party.

"The Constitution says that all legislative power is vested in the Congress. It makes sense to just about anyone who can read over the age of 10. Now the administration's bill would vest in the President the power to submit a bill and have it become law without the Congress doing anything," he said.

Brooks also quickly notes that his bill has many of the safeguards requested by the President. It would prohibit congressmen from amending the President's proposal, guaranteeing that it could not be bottled up in a committee.

But the Carter forces feel that having to round up a majority vote for each segment of reorganization would make a difficult legislative task practically impossible.

They would prefer to have the onus for initiating a vote and rounding up a majority rest with the opposition. If the Brooks plan passed, "We'd be dead in the water," said Frank Moore, Carter's congressional liaison.

After it became clear that Brooks was adamant, Carter turned to an old ally, Rep. Elliott Levitas of Georgia, to introduce his plan. Levitas, a junior member of Brooks' committee, was a floor leader for Carter's Georgia reorganization plan when he served in the state legislature five years ago.

Levitas put together a group of fellow Democrats — not including Brooks — to go to the White House to meet Carter. He says 17 of the Government Operations Committee's 24 Democrats have signed the administration bill. House Minority Leader John Rhodes of Arizona is also a co-sponsor.

Brooks says he has not yet begun asking people to vote for his bill and will not until the hearings are concluded.

But thus far, he has few notable allies. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill has promised to help Carter. Minority Leader John Rhodes is a cosponsor of the administration bill. So is the scalp down" (calling for cutting the hair) explained Dr. Converse about the Feb. 9 operation.

"Originally the diversion (of her eyes) was so tremendous we were limited in how much we could move the right orbit. We were able this time to move it another 10 millimeters (a fraction of an inch), and it should come out good eventually."

Along with a checkup today, Ida planned a tour of The Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine at New York University Medical Center, because she's interested in a possible career as a physical therapist.

Ida still faces the "touch-up" surgery to correct a droopy eyelid, and more surgery at the University of Washington Medical School in Seattle, perhaps this summer, to correct jaw deformities.

But maybe the worst is over now.

"I haven't had a headache yet," the high school sophomore said. "I feel good, but tired. Now, I feel so neat. The bump on my nose is gone."

Monument to state prison inmates 'Ironic' criminal justice

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Charles M. Friel admitted, "it was ironic that thousands of men caught breaking the law spent five years building a structure for the better education of the catchers of criminals."

But, Friel said, the Criminal Justice Center on the campus of Sam Houston State University "is really a monument to those state prison inmates who did the work, many of them once thought unemployable."

While the facility now is a training ground for law enforcement officers and administrators, Friel said, "It was the training ground for the inmates who had never done construction work in their life. They completed a structure that has not one single flaw. And, many of those inmates are on parole today and have good jobs in the construction industry," he said.

Had the building been constructed on a private basis by a private firm, Friel said, it would have cost the taxpayers $20 million, rather than $7.5 million.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe officially dedicated the center Friday. He said, "If the answer to the cause of crime is ever known, it will be known here. If the age-old question of punishment vs. rehabilitation is ever solved, it will be solved here."

Friel said in an interview, "We attempt to teach the 3,000 students at the center to be hard-nosed realists about crime. We don't want any pie-in-the-sky philosophy. We want to teach people how to solve the problems of crime and of criminals."

"We want to stay one jump ahead by preparing them for the crimes of the next decade, which will be different from the crimes of today," he said.

Students at the Institute of Contemporary Corrections and Behavioral Sciences, the official name for what most call "The Center", includes those interested in law enforcement work, administrative positions within the criminal justice framework, or in social rehabilitation.

Attending the center are many law enforcement officers who are attempting to hone their skills; army officers assigned to military stockades; correctional probation officers attempting to learn new methods of handling those in jail and those recently paroled.

Friel said, "We attempt to bypass the flash-in-the-pan arguments about capital punishment and such. We want them to learn how to handle crime, how better to reduce crime."

"They also must learn that when you have a problem with crime it won't be solved by simply firing the police chief or buying another helicopter," he said.

Friel noted that medical schools generally have a hospital nearby "and we felt we needed a courtroom."

The Justice Center courtroom was the site recently for the theft trial of a Wichita Falls man.

The murder trial of Hampton C. Robinson III, a 28-year-old Victoria rancher, is scheduled to open at the center today.

Robinson is accused in the Oct. 9 slaying of Thomas Bauer, 32, another Victoria rancher.

Both trials were moved to the Justice Center on changes of venue.

Friel said, "Our students got a first hand look at a trial, at the judge, at the attorneys."

"In the first trial, after the jury left for deliberations, the students were permitted to ask questions of the judge and of the attorneys, as to rulings made and questions asked of witnesses. It was a gold mine of knowledge."

"Friel said the center is 'alive with the intelligence of the students here."

"But it is even more alive when you think of the hours of, sweat put into this building. The sweat of prison inmates. It can never die because of what a group of prisoners did when some people had given up on them forever."

Dr. Elliott Bowers, university president, said the "center has been called a monument to the concern of the people of Texas for the problems of crime and delinquency. This monument, however, must be a living one. It must be alive with the education, research and continuing education of those who use it."

Weather in rhyme

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After working 34 years for the National Weather Service, Oscar Nichols, a 57-year-old meteorologist here, decided to do something new. He sent the weather report across the wires all in rhyme.

For example: "Strong winds will develop over the ocean and over the land; Creating in the desert areas of blowing dust and sand."

"Now bright blue skies will bring sunny and warm days; and Super visibility since the wind swept out the haze."

The idea for a rhyming forecast came from Wayne McCarter, another weatherman, who, Nichols said "breaks into verse every now and then."

McCarter turned out a poetic prediction about 10 days ago and got quite a reaction — favorable letters, phone calls and even a 2-pound box of candy.

Ida Hays going back home after remarkable operation

NEW YORK (AP) — Ida Hays, born with her eyes separated twice the normal distance, is returning home again to La Grande, Ore., after another ordeal of remarkable surgery.

Last May, Ida had her eye sockets moved more than an inch closer together. She returned to New York University Hospital Jan. 28 expecting only "touch-up" surgery to fix a droopy eyelid and a "bump" on her nose.

Instead, surgeons decided her right eye had to be moved closer to her nose. They thought this would cure the headaches and eye pains she'd been suffering because her eyes didn't focus properly.

"I was scared the first time and asked all kinds of questions," said Ida, who is now 16.

"This time, I'm sitting there all brave. Then they told me, and I thought, Oh, I'm going through it again, oh, oh, golly. Here we go again. But I'd started it, so I've got to go through with it."

"They're a team of surgeons and other specialists headed by Dr. John Marquis Converse, a plastic surgeon who is director of the Institute for Reconstructive Plastic Surgery here."

"They promised me they would... cut my hair this time. But they did," said Ida in an interview. "They put me to sleep first, because last time they had so much trouble from me about cutting my hair."

"And I didn't know if this time they would drill into my head."

The first time around, the surgeons did drill into Ida's head, removing part of the bone in front of the skull. Then they lifted the brain up and backward, to make room to operate from behind the forehead.

They cut out part of the center of Ida's misshapen face, creating a space into which the orbits — the openings in the skull that hold the eyes — could be pushed closer together. Doing this left a space by the temples, filled by bone taken from Ida's hip bones.

"This time we didn't have to open the skull, just turn

-U.S. Territorial Fishing Limits

TWO-HUNDRED MILE LIMIT — Shaded area shows offshore waters over which the U.S. will assume the right to limit fishing rights of all nations Tuesday. The zone extends generally 200 miles off the coast except where reciprocal agreements exist, such as between the U.S. and Canada, or where the boundary is a line equally distant between the U.S. and a foreign nation such as Cuba.

Energy

Gas shortage not contrived, industry spokesman insist

By the Associated Press

Texas gas industry spokesmen admit that there are plenty of gas reserves, but they get upset when they are accused of withholding them from an energy-hungry nation.

"I think it is finally coming home that the natural gas shortage is real and not contrived," said Dick Lowe, president of American Quasar. "I think the consumer is coming around to the viewpoint of realizing it is a matter of not having it or paying more to get it."

What is withholding the reserves, they argue, is the lack of a national energy policy that would guarantee the producers enough profits to exploit the potential reserves. Without it, they add, the reserves are going to stay where they are — on the ground.

If the nation wants gas, they add, it is going to have to pay for it.

Texas consumers, they point out, have gas because they are paying for it. Texas gas is sold in the state at a higher price than Texas gas sold out of the state because there are no government regulations controlling the state market.

Texas pay an average of $2.40 per thousand cubic feet of gas. Gas moved out of the state on the interstate on the interstate market is sold at prices ranging up to $1.40 because of government-imposed ceilings.

"Intrastate consumers are paying what we consider a fair price," said Paul Cash of EnTex, a small independent producer who says he will not even try to sell his gas on the interstate market.

The federal government can allow emergency sales of interstate gas at prices above the ceiling, but Cash noted: "The problem is that those prices are subject to review. I don't want to sell and then have a consumer group get a court order forcing me to make a refund."

There are plenty of reserves, he added, "and I know where there is more if somebody pays me to go get it. Everybody knows where there is gas."

Mike Halbouty, a Houston earth scientist and petroleum engineer, said "geological and economic evidence indicates there are great resources of natural gas and oil. What is needed is an energy policy so constructed as to create enough incentive for more wells to be drilled in the on shore and off shore areas."

He called for a policy that would give the industry the confidence and stability "to proceed without the government coming in and changing the rules."

If the wells are drilled to top the potential reserves, he added, "it would give the nation enough lead time to research and develop the many other sources of energy we have available... thermal, hydro, nuclear, even garbage and other exotic forms."

Industry spokesmen say a free market will result in higher gas prices, but also will increase supplies while encouraging conservation.

Industry spokesmen say gas reserves average 11 to 13 years with Texas intrastate reserves going up to 16 years.

They insist that prices will not go up as drastically as some fear because the increases will be mostly for new gas found in areas where there is no intrastate market now.

The recent additional flow of intrastate gas to the energy-short areas of the Northeast did not result in large profits for producers, Halbouty said. "We are merely moving gas from one area to another, then when the cold weather stops we stop moving it. It costs the transmission companies and operators more money so there are no excess profits."

A spokesman for Lone Star Gas Co. which sells some of its gas on the interstate market, noted: "If the prices on interstate went up big today, Lone Star wouldn't have any more gas than it is showing in its reserves right now."

The key, they insist is deregulation. Some see a possibility of the elimination of government controls, but they also foresee a hard battle ahead.

"I think we are going to move forward some, but not as much as we need. The name of the game is putting the oilman to work. Hopefully, Carter and his staff will do it. The nation needs the energy. I think the people in power in Washington today recognize the problem much more than past administrations," said Johnny Mitchell, president of Mitchell Energy.

"Previous administrations could pass the buck," said Lowe. "The energy situation now is going to land right in Carter's lap. There is no place he can hide."

Oil blaze battled

PERRY, Okla. (AP) — An oil well caught fire five miles northeast of here Sunday.

Authorities said the blast occurred about 6:30 a.m. as crews were changing shifts. The flames were reported under control when the fire department left the scene about 10:30 a.m.

Officials of the Bodard & Hale Drilling Co. of Shawnee were preparing to pull the mangled structure clear of the well to place a blowout prevention valve on the casing.

Perry Fire Chief Bill Hodge gave a "rough estimate" of damage as "in the neighborhood of $350,000."

None of the crew members or fire fighters was injured, he said.

Oil, gas unit's 58th meeting

DALLAS — The Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association's 58th annual meeting will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 12-13, at the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel, according to William H. Abington, the Association's executive vice-president and general counsel.

Interest lags in city races

City Finance Director Tom Ferguson said today that only two people had filed to run for City Council. Mrs. Floyd (Polly) Mays, and Ralph Brooks have been the only ones to register for the upcoming election on April 2. Ferguson said that Wednesday is the deadline for registration. Any inquiries will be answered in Ferguson's office by calling 263-4111.

Nevada labor leader missing

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Nevada labor leader Al Bramlet telephoned the Dunes Hotel shortly before he disappeared and asked a hotel executive to deliver $10,000 to a Las Vegas casino, according to Bramlet's wife.

Bramlet, 60, has not been heard from since late last Thursday when he failed to return home from a business trip to Reno. Authorities have no leads, and his union has posted a $25,000 reward for information leading to his whereabouts.

His wife of two months, Barbara, 27, said Bramlet made the telephone call to the Dunes on Thursday night and asked that the money be delivered immediately to a downtown casino.

The call was the last word from Bramlet, head of local 226 of the Culinary Workers Union for the past 24 years and president of the state AFL-CIO for more than a decade. "I hope we don't have a Hoffa case on our hands," said an investigator, referring to the disappearance of former Teamsters boss James Hoffa 18 months ago.

The unidentified executive, according to Mrs. Bramlet, called the casino where the money was to have been delivered and found that officials there knew nothing of the planned delivery.

Mrs. Bramlet said the Dunes didn't deliver any money but the casino agreed to make $10,000 available to anyone who came in asking for it. No one did, she said.

Mrs. Bramlet said she still believes her husband is alive and is being held by kidnapers. "I'm just really hanging on to hope. Now as time goes on, the scales tip the other way, but I think it's still too early to give up hope."

Trade balance deficit posted

Margaret Ray takes courses

County Clerk Margaret Ray will attend a three-day conference of the County and District Clerks Association on the campus of Texas A&M University in College Station beginning Tuesday. The conference will offer courses for clerks taught by professors from A&M, and the University of Texas.

Featured speakers will include Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas A&M Agricultural Extension Service; Texas Secretary of State Mark White; representatives from the Texas State Library Archives and the Comptroller of Public Accounts; the County Clerk of Grayson County, Paul Lee; and Crockett Attorney Eugene M. McElyea.

Mrs. Ray said that the county will provide her room for the conference. She will pay for her board and transportation.

domestic goods and closed exports by $5.87 billion for all of last year.

The Commerce Department said imports of goods outpaced exports by $1.67 billion in January, up from $610 million in December and the biggest deficit since November's $1.03 billion

Over $200 lost in C-C holdup

COLORADO CITY — Three Latin Americans, driving in a gray van, held up an attendant at the Kent Oil Station Saturday at 8:58 p.m. The three men purchased gas, then pulled a chrome-plated revolver on J.W. Hicklin, attendant and took an undetermined amount of cash.

Hicklin told Police Chief Fred McWhorter that it was "over $200."

The trio ordered Hicklin to a backroom, jerked the pay telephone wires loose and left the scene.

deficit. Imports exceeded exports by $5.87 billion for all of last year.

Exports plunged 7.8 per cent in January, a sharp reversal of the 8.6 per cent increase in December. Imports, meanwhile, grew by 2.3 per cent in January compared to a 3.7 advance in December.

The trade figures are the latest in a lengthening string of government statistics delineating the impact of the harsh winter weather on the economy. An estimated 1.25 million or more people were out of work at the peak of the weather problems due to frigid temperatures, heavy snow and energy shortages. Industrial production fell last month, retail sales were off and other indicators of industrial and economic activity dipped.

Administration economists have said they expect total economic growth for the current three-month period to be cut by 2 per cent at an annual rate, although the economy is expected to make up that drop before the year is over.

The Commerce Department said the weather "had a pronounced impact in diminishing the volume of goods moving out of the country" but analysts were unable to provide a detailed estimate of how much of January's export drop was due to this factor.

The drop in exports was virtually across the board. On the import side, petroleum was up 5 per cent to 288.2 million barrels. That was the most foreign oil brought in for any month since the 285.7 million in January, 1975.

Other import categories registering increases were machinery and transport equipment, up $59.6 million, and food and live animals, up $34.4 million. Coffee imports grew $59.9 million, and cocoa imports rose $14.2 million.

Man is collared inside pharmacy

LAMESA — Police caught a burglar inside McCall's Pharmacy at 4:15 a.m. Sunday. Tommy Joe Pointer, 22, is in the Lamesa City jail charged with burglary and is being questioned by officers from Tahoka and other neighboring communities.

The Plainview man was watched by the officers from outside the drugstore as he stacked the drugs out of the cabinet. A silent burglar-alarm had tipped off police and they surrounded the building with Chief Lee Bartlett going inside to make the arrest.

Pointer had entered the drugstore through the roof. Police said he might be connected with a burglary in Tahoka earlier the same night.

Jewelry-maker speaker here

Stanley Tims, a jewelry-maker from Tucson, Ari. will be guest speaker for a dinner Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Coker's Restaurant. His talk will be on his new short method of making channel jewelry and will be illustrated with slides.

The public is invited to attend. The event is being sponsored by the Big Spring Prospectors Club. Cost per person is $3. for both Prospectors Club members and the public. Reservations, on a space available basis must be called in to V.L. Perkins at 7-7256 or Letha Williams 7-6630 no later than noon March 3.

Tims will also demonstrate at the 8th annual Gem & Mineral Show March 5-6 at the Howard County Fair Grounds. Tims demonstrates at only ten shows yearly.

Indians originated channel jewelry, a process which uses silver seams between each stone as a major part of the completed design.

Sportsman club plans program

Weekly events were planned, beginning in May, by the Western Sportsman Club at their February 13th meeting in the Reddy Room.

New officers were elected, and James Coyle was made president, and Chuck Condray, secretary and treasurer.

Vice presidents in charge of various activities are, Felix Jarratt, rifle; Ed Wright, pistol; and Ray Fontana, shotgun.

Members are reminded that 1977 dues should be paid prior to April 1.

Officers check out burglary

The Howard County Sheriff's office received a call at 9:40 p.m. Saturday from Steve McFarland, Coshoma policeman, that there was an apparent burglary in progress at A&K Construction Co.

Three deputies, Buster McCarney, Robert Fuente and Bill Shankles hurried to the scene, but the culprit had vanished.

Up with People!

TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 7:30 P.M.
HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

That's right!!! Up With People, the exhilarating group of young performers who have warmed hearts throughout the world, will be returning to Big Spring next month.

Under the sponsorship of the Big Spring Herald, a Up With People cast of more than 80 young people from every state in the nation and eight foreign countries will perform at the High School Auditorium March 8.

Last year alone, Up With People performed at the Kentucky Derby, Indianapolis 500 and as the featured halftime entertainment at Super Bowl X.

They have brought their message — "People are what matter in this world" — to nearly 600 communities throughout the world in the past year. And they have left their happy audiences numbering more than four million, believing that message is one worth celebrating.

Up With People is a non-profit, educational organization made up of some of the most dedicated and sincere young people in the world.

Besides all that, Up With People is darn good entertainment — inspirational in a way none other can be. You owe it to yourself to experience Up With People.

Tickets will be sold and seating will be limited for the performance. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for students.

Tickets will go on sale Feb. 17, and if any tickets remain unsold on the night of the performance, they will be sold at the regular price.

Blocks of reserved seats are available for businesses, clubs or other organizations and can be reserved before the general ticket sales open. Persons interested in purchasing blocks of tickets should contact the Herald.

Nude woman sliced in half

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Discovery of the nude body of a young woman, apparently strangled and then sliced in half, at a West Fort Worth dump provided investigators still another mystery today.

The unidentified victim, estimated between 17 and 21 years old, was the fifth woman found brutally murdered here during the month of February in the past decade. All the slayings remain unsolved.

These details were reported in a copyrighted news story by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram:

Two White Settlement men hunting auto parts discovered the latest victim inside a 30-inch-square box about 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The Tarrant County medical examiner, Dr.

Feliks Gwodz, said the woman had been dead no longer than 24 hours and apparently was strangled before her body was severed.

"Whoever did it has to be nuts," county medical investigator R. O. Medford said.

Clifford Fowler, 23, and Dale Sustaie, 22, told White Settlement police they drove to the dump grounds in Sustaie's foreign car.

After finding the hinged box, sealed with new nails, they took the trunk lid from the car, loaded the heavy crate inside and drove to Sustaie's home, Fort Worth Patrolman G. R. Shaw said.

The men said they drove away with the box because they thought it might contain auto parts. They left the crate outside the house while one got a screwdriver and hammer to pry it open.

"A hand came up when they raised the lid," Medford said.

The men summoned police. Officers raised the box lid again, revealing the body of a slim woman with long, dark blonde hair. There were light bruises on the right side of the neck.

Investigators said the two sections of the body had been arranged carefully, and there was little blood inside the box, which was lined at the bottom with tinfoil.

"It looks like the box was built for that purpose," said White Settlement policeman L. W. Terry.

The body was taken to All Saints Morgue and X-rays of the teeth were taken in an effort to establish identity.

Detectives searching the dump ground found several feet of blood-stained nylon cord tangled in a rope.

"She apparently was killed somewhere else and stuffed in the box," an investigator said. "This is similar to the June Ward slaying. Both were naked and both possibly strangled."

The battered body of Mrs. Ward was discovered Feb. 18 on a curb in far South Ford Worth, nude except for a gold necklace and a bassiere strap tied around the neck. Police said she had been gudgeoned with an ax or hatchet.

On Feb. 3, 1967, the nude and strangled body of Mildred May was found along a bank of the Trinity River. She had left a disabled automobile on a Fort Worth freeway.

The nude body of Becky Martin was discovered near White Settlement seven weeks after she had disappeared Feb. 7, 1973, from the Tarrant County Junior College south campus. It was in a culvert on a county road. The cause of her death was never determined.

Carla Walker, a 17-year-old high school student, was found strangled and raped Feb. 17, 1974, beside a culvert near Lake Benbrook four days after she was abducted from her boyfriend's car in a bowling alley parking lot.

Ridin' fence

A woman sheriff

with Marj Carpenter

In my list of Howard County sheriff's the other day, I left out the only woman who ever served as sheriff of Howard County. And it surely wasn't intentional.

I got so excited when her sister called me that I went the very next day to visit Lucille Merrick. This is the final day in February and I thought I would not get into March without mentioning the woman sheriff.

She said that when she filled her husband's term as sheriff when he died, she was always called, Sheriff Mrs. Andrew J. Merrick. She grinned, "They just wouldn't say Sheriff Lucille Merrick." Her husband was Andrew Jackson Merrick who was sheriff for a few days after Sheriff Satterwhite was killed. At that time, he was Satterwhite's Chief Deputy, but he had moved back from Lamesa and some of the citizens complained that he had not lived in the county long enough to serve. So he resigned rather than stir up a controversy.

Then he married Lucille, who had been working in the tax assessor-sheriff's office in Dawson County. He again worked in Howard County and on Jan. 1, 1941 he became sheriff after Rowan Settles died. Merrick served three years and died of a heart attack on Feb. 3, 1944 while being prepared for surgery.

Judge James Brooks and the commissioners court named Mrs. Merrick to serve as sheriff. Her chief deputy was Denver Dunn, who had served as chief deputy for her husband.

She served until Jan. 1, 1945. She did not run for election since she did not really consider the sheriff's position a woman's job.

Mental health leader named

Mrs. J.M. Sterling has been named Mental Health Bellingier chairperson for the May '77 campaign, in Vincent Shirley K. Camfield, president of the Mental Health Association in Texas, has announced.

"The Mental Health Association is the largest citizens' voluntary advocacy organization in the United States fighting mental illness and promoting mental health," said Camfield.

Since the organization is non-governmental, its entire support must come from contributions, such as those collected in May.

Many teens have problems

NEW YORK (AP) — Of the 18 million children in secondary school, over one million have learning disabilities, says the New York Institute for Child Development.

Although children do not outgrow such basic difficulties as hyperactivity and learning disabilities, it is never too late to help the, the Institute says.

"There is an entire sub-population of this generation that was born too soon to take advantage of what has come to be known about the causes and cures of learning disabilities," explains Darral G. Chapman, the Institute's chief of therapy.

But once their problems are properly diagnosed and treated, high school students can make up for lost time, he says. Forty-four per cent of the patents at the Institute are over the age of 12.

Million dollar suit is filed

MIDLAND—Two Midland men have filed a $1 million plus law suit against a Delaware corporation, the Edison-McGraw Co., for alleged breach of contract over an invention.

The men, Charles L. Sikes and Arnold T. Sikes, are claiming in the petition that the defendant converted to its own use an invention by the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs claim they developed a rotary lawn trimmer unique in the business.

Chamber working for you

By Bill Albright

Executive Vice President,
Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce

YOUR CHAMBER IS HUSTLIN' FOR YOU. That simple little statement may never make headlines, but it really deserves to. And the reason it should be summed up in the many, many activities through which the Chamber expresses the desires and will of the people to make this community "a better place to live and earn a living". Oh, yes, I know the reaction of some of the "informed," the uninformed and the misinformed; "he's just blowing his own horn" — But that's just the point, I want to make — you're right, I am blowing a horn; but it's YOUR horn. Because it's YOU who constitute the Chamber — not me, not the board of directors, not the officers, but YOU, the citizens of Big Spring and Howard County. YOU, who care enough about the future of our young people, YOU who care enough about the progress of our civic and cultural efforts, and everyone of YOU who cares enough and has an interest in our economic development and well-being — and who doesn't? The Chamber works for YOU in everything that it endorses, promotes, supports and accomplishes. It works directly for YOU its members, and it reflects YOUR ideas, YOUR hopes, YOUR talents, YOUR investments; it is a mirror image of YOU!

So the Chamber of Commerce is you. The plans and program, which are yours are administered by the staff — the projects are carried out by you — volunteers working for community betterment.

And in this work, CHICAGO (AP) — The Lyric Opera of Chicago has scheduled seven operas for its 1977 season, according to general manager Carol Fox.

The season premiere will be an all-new production of Gaetano Donizetti's "L'Elisir d'Amore," with tenor Luciano Pavarotti as Nemorino and bass-baritone Sir Geraint Evans as Dulcamara.

Other offerings include Mozart's "Idomeneo," Britten's "Peter Grimes," Gluck's "Orfeo ed Euridice," Puccini's "Manon Lescaut," Rossini's "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" and Wagner's "Die Meistersinger von Nurnberg."

College renamed for Mayor Daley

CHICAGO (AP) — Southwest College here has been renamed the Richard J. Daley College in honor of the late mayor by the Chicago Board of Trustees of City Colleges. The board also established Daley Memorial Scholarships in each of the City Colleges of Chicago.

remember, you are not alone! If you have invested in the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, you have entered into a partnership with the community's oldest and most progressive corporation.

How would you alone — make your voice heard meaningfully in the halls of state and national government? How would you alone — answer the many requests received from across the country about Big Spring and Howard County from firms and businesses con-

Income-wise

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit has earned a reputation as good place to work, according to a survey conducted by a national news magazine.

The study showed the annual income of the average factory worker in Detroit to be $16,310, compared with the national average of $10,818.

Among the top 10 cities in the nation, no other city came within $4,000 or reached 75 per cent of the Detroit average, reports the U.S. News and World Report survey.

The industrial capital of the nation also ranks first among major cities in most economic comparisons such as hourly wages, family income, per capita income and home ownership — 77 per cent of Detroit families own their own homes.

Increased medical help available for veterans

The Veterans Administration is telling 400,000 disabled veterans they have potential eligibility for increased medical care from the VA as a result of recent legislation.

The expanded benefits were included in the Veterans Omnibus Health Care Act of 1976. Included in the new law was extension of outpatient care for treatment of any medical condition to veterans with 50 per cent or more service-connected disabilities. Previously, outpatient treatment for any condition was limited to veterans with service disabilities rated at 80 per cent or higher.

There are about 320,000 veterans rated at 50 through 79 per cent on VA compensation rolls, Jack Powell, hospital director, said. Each of these veterans will receive a letter advising him of the new outpatient eligibility.

Another 115,000 permanently and totally disabled veterans will receive letters from the VA explaining expansion of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Veterans Administration (CHMPVA). Since 1873, eligibility for

She said her father-in-law was John Baker Merrick, an early farmer in the Moore Community. "My husband had six sisters," she recalls. Her father was L. T. Terrell and came to Howard County to live on three different occasions. Actually, he was one of the realtors that first showed her husband's father the land he purchased, but Lucille and A. J. did not meet until years later.

Mrs. Merrick said, "I don't see how a woman could be sheriff now. They have taken so much away from law enforcement officers and given it to the criminals. They consider the rights of the criminals over the rights of the victim. It's just changed so much," she added quietly.

But Mrs. Merrick hasn't changed that much. She was apparently a fine upstanding woman when she was named sheriff and she's a fine upstanding citizen today.

That's the lone female sheriff of Howard County whom I met this week when I was out ridin' fence.

Through last week prosecutors and defense lawyers questioned eight potential jurors and all were excused from hearing the case.

Rule awaited in death trial of millionaire

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A ruling was awaited today in the murder trial of millionaire Cullen Davis on whether defense lawyers may mention the age of Andrea Wilborn, 12, the stepdaughter he is accused of killing.

Efforts proceeded meanwhile to seat the first juror for the case, toward which questioning began a week ago before Dist. Court Judge Tom Cave.

Defense counsel requested the jurist Saturday to let them refer to the age of Miss Wilborn in asking prospective jurors about weighing the question of probation in event they should convict Davis on the lesser charge of murder. Judge Cave promised to study the matter over the weekend.

Presently Davis is charged with capital murder in the fatal shootings at the Davis mansion Aug. 3, 1976, of his stepdaughter and former Texas Christian University basketball player Stan Farr, who was living at the place with Davis' estranged wife Priscilla.

In addition the wealthy Fort Worth industrialist faces charges of attempted murder of Mrs. Davis and a visitor, Gus Gavrel Jr., in the same shooting spree that night.

Through last week prosecutors and defense lawyers questioned eight potential jurors and all were excused from hearing the case.

In Cincinnati

Markets can't stock enough bottled water

CINCINNATI (AP) — The second spill of carbon tetrachloride into the Ohio River system in a week has turned off many Cincinnati-area residents to tap water — to the extent that some people won't bathe in it.

Restaurants claim diners are substituting coffee and tea for water with meals, while grocery stores report an increase of sales in soft drinks.

Some supermarkets reported a weekend run on bottled water. "I've never seen anything like it," said Dave Wenger, an IGA store manager in Ft. Thomas, Ky. "One man ordered enough water to fill a bathtub. He said he refuses to take a bath in tap water."

The run on bottled water peaked over the weekend as Cincinnati, Ohio's third largest city with 450,000 residents, closed intake valves for 31 hours to its drinking water supply. The rarely ordered move came after 6,000 pounds of carbon tetrachloride was spilled accidentally Friday into the Kanawha River at the FMC Corp. near Charleston, W. Va.

The chemical, used in fire extinguishers and as a cleaning agent, can cause liver damage and is believed to be a cancer-causing substance.

Last week, a 70-ton slug of the chemical passed Cincinnati undetected, polluting the river where the city draws its water supply.

Because of the spills, uneasy residents began looking for supplies of pure water.

"We've had a tremendous volume of new customers, maybe over 50 per cent," said Charles Braun, a distributor for Mountain Springs, a bottler of water. "My wife just received 87 calls at home in a 24-hour period."

A store manager in Price Hill said his store ran out of bottled water several days ago and he has had difficulty obtaining more. Prices on bottled water range from 59 cents to $1.76 a gallon.

The city closed its intake gates Saturday morning and reopened them Sunday afternoon after the roughly 60-mile-long slug of carbon tetrachloride moved out of reach of the city's water supply.

City Manager Bill Donaldson said the valves were reopened when carbon tetrachloride levels dropped to under 10 parts per billion. The highest reading registered while the second spill passed was 37 parts per billion, he said. A level over 50 parts per billion is considered alarming.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
 from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAR. 1, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is not good for any confrontations. Later you can make progress in finding the right thoughts under which you can best operate and gain the answers you need.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A new project needs more study to be successful. Do some entertaining at home tonight and discuss future with congenials.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to be more helpful toward others at this time. You have to exercise much care in motion today if you are to avoid trouble.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study your financial position and find a practical way to have more abundance. Strive for increased happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your personal aims may seem difficult to attain during the day but all works out fine by evening. Be logical.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find the right way to remove obstacles in the path of your progress. Take proper health treatments and improve your appearance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The daytime is not good to pursue a new friendship. Try not to argue with anyone and try to be harmonious with others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Obtain the support you need from a higher-up and advance in your line of endeavor. Relax at home tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study the ideas you want to put in operation but don't make any definite decisions until later in the day. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your hunches are not as accurate as usual, so trust only your good judgment. Take no chances with your reputation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Conduct your work in a most efficient way and gain excellent results. Do nothing that will cause tension with co-workers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Engage in creative work early and then you have time left over for recreation you desire. Show others you have wisdom.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try to understand ideas of kin better and support them where feasible. Use common sense and add to present security.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will easily comprehend any problems and will know how to solve them. A good education is needed here to be successful in life. A good sports person in this chart. There is also some musical talent here that should be trained.

KNOW YOUR FOOD

What's Most Important in a Salad?

Variety, of course! It adds zest and taste excitement in a small or large salad whether as an accompaniment or as the main dish. There are so many wonderful salad makings to choose from... you'll have no difficulty in getting a variety. Always be sure to wash and crisp your salad greens. Listed here are some of the most popular salad makings:

- Iceberg Lettuce: Heads should be fairly firm, sparkling crisp and fresh. Leaves can be torn into bite-size pieces or larger leaves can be used as a salad base.
- Romaine Lettuce: Upright bunch with long, leaf-shaped leaves. Outer leaves are a dark green, inner leaves golden yellow.
- Butter Lettuce: Medium large head with upright leaves that are broad and smooth. Adds special taste to tossed salads.
- Bibb Lettuce: Short, closely clustered leaves in a small head. Sweet and tender, delicate, buttery flavor.
- Red Leaf Lettuce: A variety of leaf lettuce distinguished by its tender, red-tinted leaves, particularly at the top.
- Escarole: Slightly crumpled deep green leaves; center leaves at base of head are a buttery yellow.
- Endive: Outer leaves are green; center leaves are pale green to white. Leaves are always curly. Adds texture and taste to salads.

Note: The above column is reprinted in a two-sided leaflet that includes information on other salad items and how to make a delicious salad. Also includes two salad dressing recipes you'll enjoy. This leaflet is available at Safeway... come pick up your free copy. No purchase necessary.

Dear Abby

Miffed At Dad's Abridged Funeral

DEAR ABBY: My Irish wife isn't speaking to me. Here's what happened: Her father, who lived to a ripe old age, was buried last week. I was a pallbearer. It was pouring down rain when we got to the cemetery, and we were all ankle-deep in mud.

There was some kind of mixup on the hole they had dug, so after half the services were said at the wrong hole, we were advised of the mistake, and the funeral party had to walk a very long way to the right hole. What a mess! All the pallbearers took turns slipping and falling in the mud as we carried the casket, and the priest fell twice.

I held an umbrella over the priest's head as he started the prayers again, and I leaned over and whispered, "Father, let's have the short version."

My wife heard me and claims I was very disrespectful to her father. Also she thinks that because of me the priest left out a lot, and her father didn't have a proper funeral. How can I get my wife to start talking to me?

SORRY IN BOSTON

DEAR SORRY: Send her some flowers. They're the best bloom'n' silence-breaker known to man.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have a bet on, and we need you to settle it. Are you divorced, or aren't you? I say you are, and my wife says you aren't.

The loser has agreed to send $25 to a charity of your choice. Thank you.

MAC

DEAR MAC: You lose. I am NOT divorced, and God willing, come July I'll be married to the same wonderful man for 39 years. (P.S. Send your contribution to your local animal shelter.)

DEAR ABBY: CAROLINA CONTROVERSY says she is constantly being complimented on her clothes, which she makes herself, but her husband tells her she's foolish for telling people her clothes are "homemade."

How ridiculous! The well dressed man of today who can afford to have his clothes custom-tailored isn't ashamed to tell people that HIS suits are handmade. In fact he's proud of it. So why shouldn't a woman be proud to say that HER clothes are "handmade"?

MY TWO CENTS

DEAR MY: She SHOULD be. But "homemade" and "handmade" have an entirely different ring—on the cash register, that is. It's funny how most people want their clothes to look expensive, but don't like to spend a lot for them.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

School No. 5 set at Odessa YMCA

The Southern Unit of District I, Council of Nationally Accredited Flower Show Judges, will sponsor Flower Show School No. 5, March 15-16 at the Family YMCA, Odessa.

Mrs. W.T. Henderson, Odessa, is chairman of the school, and Mrs. Eugene Bussey, Odessa, is registration chairman. The lectures are open to the public as well as all garden club members. Anyone interested may call 366-6272, Odessa.

Registration will begin 8 a.m., and lectures will start each day at 9 a.m. with door prizes given each day. A light lunch will be served for a small fee.

Horticulture study will include hycinths, Dutch-iris, yew-taxis and hanging baskets. Artistic design classes will stress period designs in general with one period emphasized, Colonial Williamburg-style 18th century mass arrangement with formal balance.

Instructors will be Mrs. A.F. Legatski of Pasadena, Texas who will teach horticulture March 15 and Mrs. Dave Barr of Canyon Lake, who will teach artistic design March 16. Examinations will be given March 17 for those taking the course for credit.

Mrs. Legatski, a master judge, has attended one renewal symposium. She has a master's degree in biological science from the University of Northern Colorado with full minors in physics, chemistry, math and geology. She taught school and earned a private pilot's license.

During the last 30 years she has been an active gardener and is a member of the American Amaryllis

Society and is an accredited amaryllis judge. Also, she is a member of the Texas Horticultural Society, the Brooklyn Horticultural Society, and the Arts and Flowers, a service club for the Houston Council of Garden Clubs.

Mrs. Dave Barr is instructor of National Council of State Flower Show Schools, Artistic Design and Flower Show Practice and Symposiums for Flower Shows. She is a master flower show judge, a life member of Florida Federation of Garden Club in Alexandria, Virg., Alexandria Council of Garden Clubs in Alexandria, Virg. and also of Garden Study Club of Delray Beach, Florida. She is a charter member of Ikebana International in Tokyo, Japan and Washington, D.C. and instructor in Sogetsu and Ichiyo schools of Japanese flower arranging. She taught flower show schools in Texas, Florida, Mexico City and Monterrey, Mexico, Lima, Peru, Bogota, Columbia, Costa Rica and Caracas, Venezuela. All flower show schools in Latin America were taught in Spanish.

Made easier

Homemakers may find that making ends meet can be a little easier thanks to a new kind of container for perishable products such as meats and cheeses. It combines the use of a vacuum-sealed plastic bag for bacteria retardation and a corrugated container made from paper for shipping, increasing shelf life and helping to keep the cost of food lower.

New parents receive support from PACE

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your baby cries during romantic interludes, or your husband can't adjust to fatherhood, or your mother-in-law says your breast-fed child is probably starving, relax. You're not alone.

There's a non-profit group in Washington that helps parents with questions that most books don't answer. It's called PACE — Parents After Childbirth Education. Its goal is to offer new parents support and accurate information about caring for their babies.

There are similar groups in Baltimore, Cleveland, Boston and New York.

The eight-week, $35 course offers advice on how to be an effective parent even if you and your spouse both work, your relatives live miles away, your best friends don't have kids and you can't afford to discuss your baby problems with a professional counselor. Most groups continue to meet informally even after the initial course ends.

"The group functions as an extended family," said Betsy Zinner, 38, mother of three, a psychotherapist and head of the Washington group. "It's not a therapy group. It's a workshop, a support system where mothers can feel secure and ask personal questions."

Several mornings a week, a group of new mothers gathers at Mrs. Zinner's home with their babies. They discuss such topics as feeding and learning needs of babies, physical changes in the mother, father's postpartum feelings, changing marital and sexual relationships and how mothers can find time for themselves.

"A child can bring a crisis into your life because you have new roles," Mrs. Zinner told one group recently. "There are a whole new set of expectations. There's a lot of stress in marriages in the early months of a baby's life."

The mothers air personal problems they rarely discuss outside the group. One, a nurse before her baby arrived, said she hates depending on her husband for money. "I can't get used to it," she said.

Another said her husband was interested and helpful during pregnancy, but now is reluctant to help out.

"Before the baby was born, we decided we'd each take equal care of him," she said. "But it doesn't work that way. I realize he doesn't have that much time. But men's lives always seem to be more important. I decide the little things."

"I find it hard to start thinking about birth control again," said one mother. "It took me so long to get pregnant and now I think, my God, what if I get pregnant again. Sex isn't as spontaneous for us."

Another said she and her husband can laugh when sex is interrupted by the baby's cries, because "it's better to laugh than get mad."

Along with advice, Mrs. Zinner gave the mothers a list of movie theatres that allow babies. It was greeted with cries of delight.

"One thing that I like about the group is that I can wallow in baby talk," said Janet Chap, playing with her six-month-old daughter. "When I'm with other adults, I have to worry about discussing what's in the newspaper. It's so much better to come here for advice."

Local woman proposed for council post

The Southern Zone Judges Council heard a report from the nominating committee during a meeting Feb. 21 at the Lancaster Garden Center in Midland.

Mrs. L.B. Edwards of Big Spring was proposed as corresponding secretary. Others presented for the 1977 slate were Mrs. R.L. Grubb, Odessa, president; Mrs. J. Keith Sommerville, Midland, vice president; and Mrs. R.D. Hardman, Midland, recording secretary.

Members were urged to make reservations for the Flower Show School No. 5 in Odessa March 15-16. The council agreed to pay dues to the Lancaster Garden Center.

Dinner slated at workshop

An all-day workshop and covered dish luncheon is planned Thursday by the Busy Bee Hobby Club; the main project to be painting and inking on canvas.

Mrs. Rufus Miller and Mrs. Onelia Hardy have been hostesses for recent meetings of the club, with attendance prizes going to Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Nadine Hodnett. Secret pal gifts were received by Mrs. Hodnett and Mrs. Jim Green.

On-going projects include macrame, crochet and embroidery.

AARP program set Tuesday

Howard County Chapter No. 1645, American Association of Retired Persons, will have its regular business, program and social meeting at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Kentwood Older Adult Activity Center, 2805 Lynn. A covered dish luncheon will follow the meeting. All AARP members are invited to attend.

Full calendar for Comanche LGA

An active summer of tournament and playday golf seems assured for the Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association according to schedules announced during the annual membership meeting and election of officers last week at the Municipal Golf Course clubhouse.

Plans were made for the association's participation in the Playday West Tournament to be held here in June. The Comanche Trail LGA will host women golfers from Big Spring Country Club, Big Lake, Lamesa and Snyder.

The Big Spring Ladies' City Championship will be held later in the summer with Mrs. Viola Gonzales defending her title. Dates and format will be announced.

Bobby Howell, golf pro, presented Golf World Magazine's "most improved player" award certificate to Mrs. Glendene Williams, who lowered her handicap 11 strokes in 1976.

Mrs. June Waters announced the couples' "Twilight Play" will begin April 7 at 5:30 p.m. The women golfers will bring a covered dish for the buffet which will follow nine holes of play. All couples interested in golfing are invised to participate in this sporting and social event every Thursday night throughout the summer.

Newly-elected officers for 1977 are Mrs. Merle St. John, president; Mrs. June Waters, vice president; and Mrs. Gonzales, secretary-treasurer. Chairmen include Mrs. Williams, tournaments, Mrs. Lazelle Vaughn, social, Mrs. Carole Howell, handicaps and publicity, Mrs. Wakie Buchanan, telephone.

Ladies' Playday will begin at 10 a.m., Tuesday. Prospective members are invited to play golf each Tuesday morning, meeting at the club house at 9:30 a.m. Yearly dues for the Comanche Trail LGA are $3. More information may be obtained by calling the golf shop, 263-8311, ext. 78, or weekends, 263-8830.

WINK FROM THE WINNER — Jack Nicklaus winks at Gary Player and accepts his congratulations Sunday on the 18th green after Nicklaus won the Jackie Gleason Inverrary golf tournament. Nicklaus carded a 13-under-par 275. Player was 8-under.

Steamrolled ahead to $50,000 Nicklaus wins Classic

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — "I sort of steamrolled ahead," was the way Jack Nicklaus explained his 61st PGA tournament title, in the $250,000 Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Classic.

The game's 37-year-old master fell one shot behind playing partner Gary Player on the eighth hole Sunday, then outshot Player by seven shots on the next nine holes and finished five shots ahead of the South African to claim $50,000.

"I really don't think I'm a great front-runner," said Nicklaus, who entered the day a shot ahead of Gil Morgan and two up on Player.

"Once I got one shot behind (with consecutive bogeys on Nos. 7 and 8), I just made up my mind and played more aggressive. I played better behind at that point," said Nicklaus, who had a closing two-under 70.

Where Nicklaus really won the tournament was on the 532-yard 15th hole. He got an eagle three with a 30-foot putt to move four shots ahead and said, "I figured I could just walk home from there."

"I played the hole with two eagles, a birdie and one lousy par," said Nicklaus, who finished at 13-under 275 for 72 holes at Inverrary Golf and Country Club.

The five strokes he picked up was the margin of victory over Player, who ended at eight-under 280 to claim $28,500.

Nicklaus credits round comedian Gleason with his success on 15 — he had two eagles and two birdies on the hole last year when he won the Tournament Players Championship here by three strokes.

Weather wrecks WJCAC tourney

It was a bad day to be out on the links, according to Howard College Golf Coach Jerry Dudley.

Gusts of snow and 25 mile-per-hour winds wreaked havoc on the course at the WJCAC Tournament at Snyder Country Club Saturday. Eight of nine teams braved the inclement weather, but one team, New Mexico Military Institute, walked off the greens and headed for home.

Hawk linksters finished in the middle of the pack at fourth with a combined score of 319, while Western Texas finished in the number one slot with 309.

"The real surprise was New Mexico Junior College. They shot really well against us last week, but, because of the weather, I guess, they finished fifth Saturday," said Coach Dudley.

Hawk golfers will next take to the green March 11 and 12 for the Fort Worth Parks and Recreation Meet.

With a little help from their friends

Tar Heels take Atlantic title

By The Associated Press

The North Carolina Tar Heels pulled off a great double play over the weekend.

They won the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season title with a little help from North Carolina State, then beat Louisville with a lot of help from Phil Ford.

"It looked like we were worn out," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith after Sunday's nationally televised 96-89 victory over Louisville.

The Tar Heels had every right to be tired. They had beaten Duke 84-71 Saturday, then sweated through an emotionally draining day before finding out how Wake Forest would do that night.

The Deacons were upset by North Carolina State 91-85, thus giving the ACC championship to North Carolina.

Then, North Carolina defeated the nation's 10th-ranked club.

North Carolina led Louisville by as many as 22 points in the second half of the game at Charlotte, N.C., and, led by Ford, held off a late Cardinals rally.

The brilliant guard scored 26 points and orchestrated the sensitive "Four Corner" offense for the ninth-ranked Tar Heels.

"It's hard to be ahead by 20 against such a good team like Louisville," Smith said. "Louisville is not going to fall over and play dead when they're down by 20."

Elsewhere in the Top 10 Saturday, No. 1 San Francisco squeezed past Portland University 95-92; No. 2 Kentucky defeated Alabama 85-70; No. 3 Michigan edged Michigan State 69-65 in overtime; No. 5 UCLA hammered California 91-69 and Georgia shocked No. 7 Tennessee 83-76.

In other games, No. 12 Providence stopped St. John's 69-66; No. 13 Minnesota nipped Illinois 72-70; No. 14 Cincinnati outscored Jacksonville 78-61; No. 15 Syracuse turned back Rutgers 82-72; No. 16 Detroit walloped Cincinnati-Xavier 91-66; No. 17 Oregon edged Washington 61-60; No. 18 Marquette beat Virginia Tech 75-70; No. 19 Clemson embarrassed Roanoke 120-56, and New Mexico upset No. 20 Utah 81-77.

North Carolina held a 57-38 halftime lead and expanded that to 70-48 early in the second half before Louisville came back on the shooting of Wesley Cox and Rick Wilson, who led all scorers with 30 points.

But Ford scored crucial points, and freshman star Mike O'Koren, who also had 26, thwarted the Louisville comeback before a sellout crowd of 11,666 at the Charlotte Coliseum.

Saturday's victory and the first-place finish earned the Tar Heels a bye in the first round of the ACC playoffs, starting Thursday. North Carolina will play Friday night in the semifinals against the winner of the Maryland-North Carolina State game. Other first-round matchups include Wake Forest vs. Virginia and Clemson vs. Duke.

Bill Cartwright scored 33 points and led San Francisco on a 14-2 tear late in the game, helping the undefeated Dons beat Portland for their 29th straight victory this season. The big center had three baskets in the middle of the streak as the Dons rallied from an 11-point deficit against the underdog Pilots.

James Lee triggered a Kentucky rally late in the second half that sent the Wildcats past Alabama and into sole possession of first place in the Southeastern Conference. This was accomplished by Tennessee's loss to Georgia.

Rickey Green scored 20 points, including a crucial basket in overtime, helping Michigan beat Michigan State.

Marques Johnson scored 37 points in his last home game in Pauley Pavilion, leading UCLA over California. UCLA's victory clinched a tie for the Pac-8 title. Walter Daniels and Curtis Jackson combined on a 10-point rally in the final two minutes as Georgia, the last-place team in the SEC, upset Tennessee.

Bruce Campbell scored 21 points, leading Providence over St. John's. Ray Williams sank two free throws with 30 seconds left, lifting Minnesota past Illinois. Brian Williams' 19 points led Cincinnati over Jacksonville. Syracuse defeated Rutgers as Jimmy Williams and Dale Shackelford teamed for 42 points.

John Long's 24 points paced Detroit over Cincinnati-Xavier. Ernie Kent scored the last four points for Oregon, helping the Ducks defeat Washington and remain mathematically alive in the Pac-8 race.

Butch Lee scored 22 points and Bo Ellis connected for 18, leading Marquette past VPI.

Finley-Kuhn feud still going strong

NEW YORK (AP) — The tug o' war between baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the maverick owner of the Oakland A's, Charles O. Finley, is getting ludicrous.

To the average fan, not attuned to the inner ramifications, it smacks of a personal feud, vendettas, unnecessary needling and name-calling.

Baseball suffers. The game can't absorb too much dissension of this sort. The two leagues are at odds over expansion. Players, for a century held in virtual servitude, are taking advantage of their new-found freedom by demanding outblown multi-million dollar contracts.

The old management-player relationship has virtually disappeared. An icy barrier has been raised between owner and player. There is a sharp division among owners — the big spenders drawing the ire of the hold-the-line conservatives, led by Calvin Griffith of Minnesota.

Fans are fed up with threatened strikes, lockouts and court suits. They are sick and tired of seeing the commissioner clamp down on Finley and the A's owner retaliating with taunts that Kuhn is the "national idiot."

Now Commissioner Kuhn has invited a second court action from Finley by delaying the sale of Oakland relief pitcher Paul Lindblad to the Texas Rangers for $400,000.

Kuhn is calling Finley on the carpet in Dallas Wednesday to ask the Oakland boss why the deal was made. The average American, without exploring the festering sore that has existed between the two men, might suggest that Finley reply: "Because I wanted to."

The commissioner said "no." Finley retaliated with a $3.5 million suit. A Chicago federal judge has the case under advisement.

The commissioner insisted he voided the Fingers, Rudi and Blue deals last year and recently stayed the Lindblad sale to protect the game.

Why wasn't similar action taken in the 1930s when Connie Mack broke up his world championship lineup by peddling such stars as Al Simmons, Jimmy Fox, Lefty Grove and Mickey Cochrane?

Why was no stir raised when the Red Sox sold Babe Ruth to the Yankees for $100,000 plus a mortgage on Fenway Park, or the Cardinals' Branch Rickey unloaded Dizzy Dean, Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize, among countless such club actions?

It all seems simple enough. Finley owns a piece of property. He wants to sell it. Baseball clubs have been carrying on such negotiations for more than 100 years without drawing any official intervention.

Last summer Finley tried to sell three players — Joe Rudi, Rolie Fingers (to the Red Sox) and Vida Blue (to the Yankees) for $3.5 million. He said he wanted the money to start buying a fresh team.

Cindergirls finish fifth

BROWNFIELD — The Big Spring High School girls track team finished fifth in a field of 11 teams Saturday in the Brownfield Relays, and according to Coach Christi Price, did well despite the adverse weather conditions.

The girls, who only missed winning district last year by one point, were led by the feats of Keran Schexnayder, Doris Mitchell, Connie Jackson, Tammy Woodard, Tere Deel, Becky Ragan and Maria Jackson.

Schexnayder finished second in the discus throw with a heave of 83'5", only three inches back of the winner. "Schex" also finished sixth in the shot put with a throw of 31'5 1/2".

Ragan took third in the triple jump with 31'9", and ended only a half second off the winning pace in the 80-yard low hurdles with a time of 11.74.

Mitchell placed second in the 100-yard dash with a time of 11.9, a tenth of a second back of the winner, while teammate Connie Jackson took sixth place with a 1:09.1 time.

Deel was clocked at 1:05.11 in the 440-yard dash, good enough for fourth place, while Maria Jackson took sixth place with a 1:09.1 time.

The 440-yard relay team, composed of Woodard, Deel, D. Jackson and Mitchell finished third with a 52.88 time, while the same team took fifth place in the mile relay with a 4:38.08 clocking, 23 seconds off the pace.

The next action for the girls will be in Plainview next Saturday.

Nichols makes quarter finals

Weldon Nichols, Forsan netter, made his way into the quarter-finals of the annual San Angelo Tennis Tournament Friday and Saturday.

Nichols took Starks of Mason, 6-1, 6-3, and went on to beat Carr of Lubbock Estacado, 6-2, 6-3.

Nichols' nemesis was Ronnie Houdek of Midland, who eliminated the Forsan player with 6-1, 6-4 sets.

Other Forsan netters competing in the tourney were Marcia Nichols, Elena de los Reyes, Lisa Day, Melissa Frank, John Summers and Ricky Davis.

The team will meet the Snyder Junior Varsity Thursday in Snyder, according to Coach David Redwine.

MANAGER HAS A PROBLEM — Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson ran into a problem as he tried to make friends with a little Reds fan, Jill Nora Richardson, 3, of St. Petersburg. Anderson did not win this argument either, but little Jill did quit crying when Sparky retired.

TENNIS

DETROIT — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova of Dallas defeated second-seeded Sue Barker of England 6-4, 6-4 for the singles title, then teamed with Betty Stove of The Netherlands in taking the doubles title in the women's professional tennis tour stop at Cobo Arena.

Cleaning aircraft is full time task

Washing the family car on a Sunday afternoon is a favorite weekend task for most people. It requires a bucket, rags, a hose, nice weather and a minimum of elbow grease.

Washing T-37 and T-38 aircraft at Webb AFB is quite a different situation. To the wash rack crew of the 78th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, cleaning the wing's aircraft is a full time job and one that is not always pleasant.

Sgt. Robert C. Mudge and his crew, Sgt. Terry Catoe, Sgt. Randall D. Elliott and SRA Roy D. Bridgmon,

Man, woman electrocuted

By the Associated Press
A Fort Worth mystery slaying helped to swell the violent death toll in Texas during the weekend.

Two men told police they found the body of a young woman, cut in halves apparently after she was raped and strangled, on a west side dump while hunting for automobile parts. The unidentified victim had been nailed inside a box about 2 1/2 feet square and was believed to have died no more than 24 hours earlier.

Altogether The Associated Press tabulated reports of 15 fatalities between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, including eight in traffic accidents, three other homicides, two by electrocution and one in a fire.

These were among the other victims:

Fire swept through the apartment of Earl C. Haney, 41, and killed him Sunday night in Odessa.

Robert T. Davis, 19, and Buddy G. Dufresne, 18, of St. Jo, in Montague County, were killed there about 3:30 a.m. Sunday when their car hit a tree.

Roland Thacker, 35, was shot and killed Sunday night during what police described as a disturbance at his home. They held a woman without immediate charge.

Wood County sheriff's officers reported Burl Heatherly, 63, and Diane Susan Moses, 13, from near Quitman in Northeast Texas, were electrocuted Saturday when they tried to raise a television antenna and it brushed a 7,200-volt power line. The accident happened at the Heatherly home about 10 miles northeast of Quitman.

A rubber suit consisting of boots, pants, jacket and hood is used together with plastic goggles and a full face shield. The cleaning agent can cause severe burns so equipment is required even in the summer when the temperature is in the hundreds.

Prior to wash, the aircraft must be prepared. This means covering all openings with tape, installing wheel covers and a canopy cover. Below freezing temperatures sometimes delays the start of washing activities, but when the temperature gets up to freezing (32 degrees F.) Sergeant Mudge and his men go to work.

It's cold, uncomfortable work in the winter and a hot, sweaty job in the summer. Clean, corrosion free aircraft are the goal and these people do their part to make them that way.

Two guns taken over weekend

STANTON — A rural burglary at the Melvin Harris home between 3 and 5 p.m. Sunday saw two guns missing at that location.

Sheriff Dan Saunders said the case follows the trend of earlier daylight burglaries. Apparently the culprits knock, discover nobody at home, kick in the door, grab what they can quickly, and flee.

Missing from the Harris home are a shot gun and rifle. The farm home is located one mile north of Klondike Elementary School.

Kissinger pacts eyed by Vance

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials say they are skeptical of a report that the Nixon administration made a secret commitment to end relations with Taiwan in order to normalize relations with mainland China.

Nonetheless, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said Sunday the State Department is checking all documents pertaining to American policy toward China to determine whether any such commitments were made by former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Kissinger was not available for comment, nor was the only other official known to have taken part in all consultations with Chinese leaders, Winston Lord, the former director of the State Department's Policy Planning Office.

State Department officials said they knew of no commitments beyond those of the Shanghai Communiqué, which was signed Betty Gonzalez, 50, of Guatemala died Saturday in a one-vehicle accident on U.S. 84 near Snyder. Officers said the woman and several members of her family were enroute from Guatemala to New Mexico to attend a family reunion at the time their pickup truck left the highway and overturned.

Gloria Sanchez, 22, of Houston, died Saturday after her car went out of control on a Houston street and struck a utility pole.

Manuel Trinidad Jimenez, 23, of Del Rio died late Friday when his automobile struck a parked vehicle on the south outskirts of Del Rio.

Bobby Lynn Sandlin, 22, of Crystal Beach died Saturday when he was struck by a car as he walked on Texas 87 on the Bolivar Peninsula near Galveston.

Officers said a Nocona man was beaten to death at the home of a female companion in St. Jo., in Northwest Texas. He was Johnny Floyd Womack, 31. Two persons were taken into custody, officers said.

James Calvin Bostic, 27, of Dallas died in a one-car accident on a Dallas street early Saturday.

A Hurst man died early Saturday in a one-car accident at Arlington. He was Larry Basham, 20.

Firemen at Wilmer Saturday found the body of a Dallas man stuffed inside the trunk of an automobile after they extinguished a fire in the car. He was identified as Henry Mathes, 61. Officers said the man had apparently been beaten about the head and face with a blunt object.

Former big city cop finds small town similar

NEWINGTON, Conn. (AP) — Crime in Newington isn't very different from crime in New York City. There just isn't as much of it, says Ronald J. Manzoni, a former New York policeman now on the Newington force.

The 24-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y., native was one of many policemen laid off in the spring of 1976 during New York's fiscal crisis. On the advice of a relative living near here, he took the test for the police department and was hired last August.

The only aspect of police work in suburban Newington that scares the former New York policeman is the high speed chase.

"You can't reach a high speed in New York," he says. "The only time a criminal is chased by a police car at excessive speed in New York City is when they're shooting a television or movie scene and the streets have been cleared of traffic."

Manzoni says that police in Newington seem to get more respect and are more appreciated than in New York.

"People I don't know wave to me as I drive by. It's a comfortable place to work. I'm at ease," says Manzoni.

He has been involved in dealing with just about every kind of crime since joining the Newington force, except "real violence."

Manzoni was even involved in capturing a big dog attacking cars on the Berlin Turnpike.

"Now that wouldn't have happened in New York," he said. "It was unreal. Cars pulling off the road and stopping everywhere to avoid hitting the dog. In New York, they'd have run over him."

Man being held on NM charge

Charges were filed against Daymond Arthur Gann today in Justice of the Peace Bob West's office. Gann is wanted by New Mexico authorities on charges of embezzlement.

Gann was arrested at 12:25 a.m. Saturday by Big Spring Police Officers Josh Sullivan and George Quintero on a traffic charge. A routine check revealed the outstanding warrant against Gann.

Tax whack is designed to prime U.S. economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives will decide this week how to split up a $19.5 billion individual tax cut proposed by President Carter in an effort to prime the sluggish economy.

Carter wants to spend the money on a one-shot $50-per-person tax rebate and to permanently increase the standard deduction, which generally helps taxpayers on the lower end of the income scale.

Most Republicans and some Democrats prefer a permanent across-the-board tax cut for virtually all taxpayers.

Despite the political appeal of a universal tax cut, there is every indication the House will accept the Carter plan as the only sure way to pump more than $10 billion into the economy within a few weeks.

The two-year tax cut is scheduled for House debate on Thursday, one of the few pieces of legislation to be considered by Congress this week.

Another important bill, to be debated in the House on Tuesday, would extend for one year the government's authority to control interest rates on savings accounts. It also would broaden the powers of credit unions, giving them authority to lend money for home mortgages.

House action is expected Tuesday on a new code of ethics for representatives, which is considered virtually certain to pass because it was made a condition of allowing a 28 per cent pay hike for lawmakers to go into effect. The congressmen got their raises of nearly $13,000 a week ago.

The ethics code is likely to call for extensive financial disclosure, a limit on outside earnings and for other protections against conflict of interest.

The Senate is expected to consider on Thursday the nomination of Paul Warnke to be chairman of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and chief U.S. negotiator at the U.S.-Soviet arms-limitation talks. The nomination has been the most controversial made by Carter.

A compromise budget amendment to accommodate any emergency economic stimulus is slated for work today during the first major Senate-House conference of the new Congress. The House and Senate have passed slightly different amendments that assume — but do not ensure — acceptance of Carter's tax-cut and job creation plans.

Carter's plan to mail a $50 check to virtually all Americans this spring has been under attack by many in Congress since he first spelled it out. Opponents contend the rebate is an expensive and uncertain way to create jobs counted on to help pull the economy out of recession.

Carter's economic stimulus proposal would cost about $32 billion between now and Sept. 30, 1978. In addition to the rebate and a bigger standard deduction for taxpayers who do not itemize, the measure calls for a business tax break and increased federal spending to create jobs.
