

Reed may make Webb decision

Outgoing Secretary of the Air Force Thomas Reed will probably make the final decision on the closing of Air Training Command base or bases within the next two weeks, Mayor Wade Choate said Wednesday.

Reed visited Webb Air Force Base, a candidate for closure, Wednesday afternoon apparently to form a personal impression of Webb before he makes the final decision.

Reed, who had served in the administration of former President Gerald Ford, had submitted his resignation after President Jimmy Carter took office in January, but apparently had been asked by the Carter Administration to remain in the office until a new Secretary of the Air Force could be nominated and confirmed.

SOURCES SAY that John C. Stetson, 56, Chicago, will be Carter's nominee for the office.

Col. Harry Spannaus, commander of the 78th Flight Training Wing at Webb, said that Reed had earlier in the day visited Craig Air Force Base, Selma, Ala., also a candidate for closure, along with Laughlin Air Force Base, Del Rio, an alternate candidate for closure.

After leaving Webb, he then visited another alternate candidate, Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock, before returning to Washington.

Reed had visited Columbus Air Force Base, Columbus, Mississippi and Vance Air Force Base, Enid, Okla. other alternate candidates on a separate tour earlier.

REED'S TRAVELS were outlined at a press conference Wednesday after Reed had gone on to Reese AFB. The press conference, held at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce office, was requested by Choate following Reed's visit. The Herald erroneously reported in Wednesday's newspaper that the news conference had been called by Spannaus.

SPANNAUS SAID that the arrival of Reed was not announced and the press and local civilian leaders were not allowed to talk with him because of his "tight time schedule."

In Selma, where Reed and his party had put down earlier in the day, the news media had advance notice that the secretary was coming but Reed declined the opportunity to speak with newsmen.

Not only was the Selma newspaper represented at the air field but a television crew from as far away as Montgomery, Ala., was on the sidelines poised to ask Reed some questions but he merely waved and passed the group on by.

Informed sources in Selma say officials are not overly optimistic that much can be done at this stage to reverse the opinion of the Air Force that Craig remains a prime candidate for closure.

SPANNAUS SAID that Reed had in his opinion, come to form a final personal impression of each Air Training Command (ATC) base "considered as a primary or alternate for closure." But, Spannaus continued, Reed let slip no indication of how he felt toward Webb.

Reed was on the ground for 63 minutes, according to Spannaus, "and during that time my car sometimes hit 70 miles-per-hour trying to show him everything."

Spannaus answered questions from the Legislative Action Committee concerning the Secretary's interests.

Spannaus said he had shown the Secretary "all the good points and all the bad points" of the base. The Secretary also saw the controversial "urban encroachment" zone referred to in the final environment impact statement. The zone consists of several buildings on West Highway 80 which considerably predate the airbase facility.

Spannaus detailed the Secretary's reaction to several other items on the tour, including the new base hospital and the base taxiway which Spannaus said requires $1.6 million in repairs.

SPANNAUS ALSO pointed out that Webb had received thousands of dollars in appropriations for construction of new facilities at the base including a new fuel dump.

Spannaus also noted that the Secretary jotted down comments and took pictures during the tour, including photos of the old and new barracks. He was apparently most concerned with aircraft and their direct approach pattern to the runways, according to the base commander.

Spannaus said that the only problems with the flight pattern here, other than the buildings at the north end of the runway, was the slight "jag" in the T38 pattern which is necessary to prevent overflying the Kentwood addition on the southeast corner of Big Spring.

Apparently the hit of the tour was the T38 flight simulator, which captivated Reed's fourteen-year-old son to the extent that the Secretary's departure was delayed several minutes.

Accompanying Reed on his one-day, four-base jaunt were his wife, Leslie, his son, Joe F. Meis, deputy assistant secretary of the Air Force in charge of installations; Brig. Gen. William W. Hoover, military assistant to the secretary of the Air Force, and Major O'Neal, representing the Air Staff.

Spannaus said that he had mentioned to Reed the community's "heartaches" including the treatment and consideration given the encroachment issue and Webb's pilot producing capacity. Spannaus said he told Reed, "The community has always given the base complete support, even since being under the gun of closure."

Trans Regional threatens move

By BOB BURTON

A dispute over a $250 electric bill at the hangar headquarters of Trans Regional Airlines at Howard County Airport has apparently caused airline officials to threaten to move out within a week if it didn't get more cooperation from the county commissioners.

Adolf Swartz, president of the Chamber of Commerce Century Club, explained how the Chamber became involved.

"We were approached by Trans Regional manager Bob McClure," he said, "who told us that Trans-Regional would pack up in a week if the county didn't offer more cooperation. We approached the County Judge, who told Clyde McMahon and myself that the county feels it can't afford to spend any more money out there."

According to Swartz, the Chamber offered its assistance with negotiations, and only drafted a letter to the Commissioner's Court after receiving no answer.

"Trans-Regional feels like they have wasted $30,000," said Swartz. "They are getting ready to move somewhere else."

The present escalation in the Howard County Airport dispute involves three entities: the County Commissioner's Court, the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, and Trans-Regional Airlines.

Wednesday the Chamber resolved to send the letter to the Commissioner's calling for "a spirit of cooperation" and an "end to the hassles" between the airline and the court.

The letter was occasioned by another letter, received earlier this week by McClure. The earlier letter was sent at the request of the Commissioner's Court and signed by County Attorney Harvey Hooser.

The Commissioner's letter to Trans Regional states, "This is to advise you that Howard County will not continue to provide electric service to your facility. You should contact Texas Electric immediately to install a meter in your name."

According to McClure, the letter requested that Trans-Regional start paying its own electricity bill.

"We have a signed contract with the county," said McClure, "and that states that the county is responsible for the utility and half the heating bill."

"All the Commissioners want," said Jack Buchanan, commissioner of precinct four, "is for Trans-Regional to take over the electricity bill for their extra heater."

Buchanan is referring to an Air Force air conditioner-heater which was moved from an old Air Force observation deck into the T-41 hangar used by Trans-Regional. The court, according to Buchanan, believes that a major part in the jump of electricity bills for the hangar from $50 to $250 per month.

"Nonsense," said McClure. "That little heater is not responsible for the jump in electricity costs here. The addition of lights so we can remain open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. and the severity of the winter are two more likely reasons."

"But anyway," he continued, "TESCO (Texas Electric Service Company) has said our utility bill is normal. It's just another example of the constant hassles. It's just more of County Judge Bill Tune's bellyaching. If we had a black pencil out here the county would want a white one. We have had no cooperation from the county since we began trying to start an airline here, and if the people of Big Spring want an airline, somebody better stand up and say so."

"We'd be satisfied," said Buchanan, "if Trans-Regional would put that heater on a separate meter and pay the bill on it. The hangar has always been heated by butane, and heated adequately. I'm for cooperation if they get everybody to."

"I'd also like to thank the Chamber for the invitation to appear at their meeting to represent our side."

LUCKY BIRTHDAY — Mrs. Bill McClendon, drive-in window teller at the First National Bank, not only wears a bit of green for luck on St. Patrick's Day, but expects to get a little luck out of it for her birthday today. Many Big Springers, Irish or not, wore green in honor of St. Paddy.

Louisiana cuts gas production

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards swung a small stick Wednesday, but he talked loud about picking up a club if potential petroleum bonanzas in the rest of the country aren't exploited.

The governor ordered a 35 per cent cutback in natural gas production from nine state-owned leases—gas that has been going to other states.

The cutback would reduce the daily flow from those reserves by 267 million cubic feet—enough gas to feed generators providing one day's electricity to about 300,000 residents.

Louisiana produces 9.8 billion cubic feet of gas a day—about 36 times the amount Edwards ordered hoarded. Only a score of wells are on the leases in a state which has 10,000 producing gas wells.

However, he warned that he might make the cutback rougher, if the token curtailment doesn't have an effect.

The governor made the announcement to his new blue ribbon committee of lawmakers and businessmen who will study other possible means of reducing the flow of fuel from Louisiana.

Initially, Edwards said both oil and gas production would be involved, but later issued a clarifying statement, stressing that "right now" only gas will be curtailed.

Administration officials also said at first that the curtailment would amount to about 750 million cubic feet but later revised that figure.

Edwards said the order was only a conservation measure to "postpone the day when we run out of fossil fuels."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has advised Texas congressmen that Sixth Army Corps of Engineers water projects in the state—including the Trinity River project—have failed to pass an initial screening.

The failure means these projects, including the massive Trinity River project between Dallas and Houston, might be abandoned by the administration because they fail to meet environmental or economic standards.

The news was given to the congressmen Wednesday by Frank Moore, Presidents Carter's congressional liaison. But he also said that 19 Corp of Engineers projects in Texas have passed the screening and will be funded as money becomes available.

Bust dedication set for Sunday afternoon

The staff at Malone-Hogan Hospital will observe the facility's 2nd anniversary Sunday in a special commemorative event, honoring the late Dr. John E. Hogan, a co-founder of the Malone-Hogan Hospital-clinic.

Two gifts, one a bronze bust of the late physician and the other an oak tree, will be dedicated in a brief ceremony which will be held on the front lawn between the hospital and clinic at 2 p.m.

Participating in the dedication rites will be board member Joe Pickle, former editor of the Big Spring Herald, P.W. Malone, M.D., co-founder, Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Peggy (Hogan) Powell, Abilene.

The bust was commissioned by the employees at Malone-Hogan Hospital in August of last year to a Leveillard artist, Don Stroud. Stroud will be unable to attend the unveiling. Mike Ezell, state representative, Snyder, plans to be here.

The oak tree was planted as an additional tribute to the physician by the staff of the operating room at the hospital.

But he consistently criticized other states for being reluctant to allow drilling for fear of pollution.

He said that perhaps his order will "stimulate the other states to help resolve a national problem."

He said that New York, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Ohio have refused to tap huge natural gas reservoirs in Lake Erie, "preferring instead to drain Louisiana."

"Those days are over, because we are running out of fuel," he said.

'Little to be happy about' on energy scene

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Railroad Commission Chairman Mack Wallace told Texas oil and gas executives today that there is "very little we can be happy about."

The commission routinely set the April statewide oil allowable at 100 per cent prior to hearing the executives discuss the state of the oil and gas industry.

Wallace said that there has been "a lot of disappointment" but he said he was hopeful Congress would develop a national energy policy.

Byron Milner, vice president of supply and coordination for Atlantic-Richfield Co., said 1977 "is a year marked by great promise... but it is also a year of nagging uncertainties."

Milner noted that it had been nearly nine years since oil was discovered on Alaska's North Slope, "but not one barrel of crude has left Prudhoe Bay."

"All the evidence around us today indicates that the domestic petroleum production will be plagued by similar or even longer delays for new discoveries in other areas."

Executive vice president C.S. Nicandros of Continental Oil Co. forecast that domestic demands of petroleum productions would rise by six per cent this year. Nicandros said it is a myth "that since this country's energy problems have reached crisis proportions our leaders in Washington will come to their senses and develop a rational and realistic energy policy."

Beal's Creek project not out by Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has advised Texas congressmen that Sixth Army Corps of Engineers water projects in the state—including the Trinity River project—have failed to pass an initial screening.

The failure means these projects, including the massive Trinity River project between Dallas and Houston, might be abandoned by the administration because they fail to meet environmental or economic standards.

The news was given to the congressmen Wednesday by Frank Moore, Presidents Carter's congressional liaison. But he also said that 19 Corp of Engineers projects in Texas have passed the screening and will be funded as money becomes available.

They were: Big Spring; Clear Creek; Mouth of Colorado River; Plainview; Aquilla Lake; Arkansas-Red River basins; Chloride Control Area VIII; Aubrey Lake; Corpus Christi Ship Channel; El Paso; Freeport hurricane-flood protection; Chocolate Bayou; Greenville; Lakeview Lake; Lavon Lake; Port Arthur hurricane-flood protection; San Antonio Channel; San Gabriel River; Texas City hurricane-flood protection; and Texas City Channel Industrial Canal.

Focalpoint

'Action/reaction: TI contact?'

Q. A recent Action-reaction answer said Texas Instruments did not express an interest in Big Spring. Did Big Spring contact the firm?

A. Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce President Roger Brown, who had been industrial team leader in 1976, said the chamber had made two visits with Texas Instruments. In both instances, the firm did not express an immediate interest in Big Spring. The company was very secretive about its recently announced expansion plans in Midland-Odessa, even to local officials in that area. Obviously, the company felt it needed a large population to draw upon for a 2,000-employee plant.

Calendar: YMCA dance

TODAY

Unit 130 of the National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees will meet in Kentwood Adult Activity Center, 2805 Lynn Drive, at 7 p.m.

YMCA Spring Sadie Hawkins Dance, from 9 p.m. to midnight, at the YMCA, admission is $1.50 per couple if the girls pays, but singles are welcome at $1 each.

FRIDAY

Several area schools begin their spring vacations tomorrow. Big Spring schools will have Friday and Monday off, returning to school March 22. Howard Junior College students will have Friday as a holiday, and will be due in class on Monday. Coahoma schools are on vacation today and Friday and will return Monday. Forsan Students will have to wait until April for their break, which will run from April 7-11.

Offbeat: Card(inal) sin?

CLEVELAND (AP) — Harry Horton says he regrets having sent his bosses a picture of the backside of a horse. But he still doesn't understand why they fired him.

Actually, it was a picture of a colt with a purple butterfly sitting on the colt's rump.

Horton, 28, recently wrote to his superiors at the Ohio Department of Liquor Control, asking them if he could work as a full-time clerk instead of part-time. He wrote his request on a card with the colt illustration.

"It was a poor choice of stationery," said George R. Schoeffel, Cleveland district sales supervisor for the liquor department. Schoeffel also chided Horton for sending the card to the department's headquarters in Columbus instead of to the district office here.

Horton explained that the stationery was from a set he bought from his niece who was selling them for a school fund-raising project.

"People buy posters like this for their houses and every day," Horton said. "I just don't understand... If I had known that (the card would be insulting), I would never have sent the card."

TV's best: Boxing bout

CARTER QUESTIONERS — Three residents of Clinton, Mass., put their questions to President Carter Wednesday night at a special town meeting. George Oberg, left, president of a trucking firm, asked about a transportation bill; Spec. 4 Robert Curley, assigned to nearby Ft. Devens, asked the commander in chief about military spending and waste; and Francis Boyce brought up unemployment among Vietnam veterans.

Carter plays audience?

CLINTON, Mass. (AP) — President Carter is setting out to woo diverse special interest groups in West Virginia after playing a Massachusetts mill town audience like an Irish harp. Carter was bound for Charleston, W. Va., today and a marathon discussion of energy issues with a panel that includes coal and oil interests, environmentalists, the president of the United Mine Workers and a woman the White House identified only as "a consumer."

New Cuba-Mafia probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reputed underworld chief's refusal to say whether he knew in advance that President John F. Kennedy would be assassinated may launch a new congressional investigation into the long-debated Cuban-Mafia connection with the murder. But the House Assassinations Committee's grilling of Santo Trafficante on Wednesday shed no light on how much evidence the panel has to support that connection. The 62-year-old former Cuban gambling czar pleaded his rights under the Fifth and other amendments more than a dozen times to questions.

Tax showdown seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two members of Congress with the greatest say about the nation's tax laws seem headed toward a showdown over how best to help American businesses fight unemployment. Neither Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, nor Rep. Al Ullman, who heads the House Ways and Means Committee, has embraced the White House proposal. That means President Carter apparently has little hope of winning with his plan.

Lebanon situation tense

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Followers of Kamal Jumblatt paralyzed the Muslim half of Beirut today with a general strike mourning the assassinated leader of the leftist forces in the Lebanese civil war. A leftist spokesman said the strike was aimed at preventing "disorders or friction that could rekindle the civil war" between right-wing Christians and the alliance of Muslim leftists and Palestinian guerrillas.

Photographers banned

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The White House has barred photographers and reporters from a United Nations reception for President Carter tonight, apparently to prevent him being caught with a representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization. Carter is already under fire from Jewish organizations because the PLO's observer to the United Nations, Hasan Abdel Rahman, has been invited to the reception. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim is giving after a speech by the President in the General Assembly hall at U.N. headquarters.

Zaire invasion advances

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Forces that invaded southeastern Zaire from Angola last week are advancing eastward from the three towns they occupied when they crossed the border, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said. He said 26 wives and children of American construction workers, were evacuated from Kolwezi, east of the invasion forces. American missionaries still in the invaded area were unharmed and well at last report, the embassy said.

Dylan struck wife?

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Sarah Dylan, wife of singer-songwriter Bob Dylan, says her husband struck and injured her, brought another woman into their house and ordered her to leave. Mrs. Dylan's comments were outlined in documents filed March 1 with her divorce petition. Marvin Mitchelson, the attorney for Mrs. Dylan, the former Sarah Lowndes, said Wednesday he could not comment on the documents because the court had sealed all matter pertaining to the case at the request of attorneys for both parties. Neither Dylan nor his attorney could be reached for comment. Attorneys for Dylan and his wife appeared before Superior Court commissioner John Alexander on Tuesday to settle preliminary matters. Mrs. Dylan is seeking custody of the couple's five children. Court officials said further action in the trial is not expected for several months.

Crosby still ailing

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Entertainer Bing Crosby was taken off physical therapy for a day and ordered to rest in bed after spending an uncomfortable night at Huntington Memorial Hospital. Crosby, 72, has been undergoing treatment for injuries suffered in a fall from a stage after a benefit performance March 3 that marked his 50th year in show business. "He is suffering pains in his legs and is severely bruised," a hospital spokesman said Wednesday.

Haley sues publisher

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alex Haley, author of the best-seller "Roots," has sued Doubleday & Co., accusing the publisher of failing to promote the book and underselling paperback rights. Haley filed the $5 million damage suit Wednesday in Superior Court and claimed Doubleday violated its 1974 contract by not promoting the book through advertising and speaking engagements. He said he had to promote "Roots" and negotiate the successful serialized television program based on the book.

Coahoma fire truck issue gets hotter

The Coahoma Volunteer Fire Department continues to have problems, according to Kenneth Lawhon, training officer for the department, who claims that the department will lose its truck because it can't pay its repair bills. Mayor Joe Swinney says, however, that "They're not going to lose their truck. Surely something will be worked out. Coahoma is not going to be without fire protection."

Lawhon says that if it can't raise $2,000 within 30 days that the Fire Appliance

Company of Texas in Wichita Falls will repossess the truck.

Judge Bill Tune, county judge, said, "We didn't know that the Coahoma Volunteers were going to quit serving out in the county until we read it in the paper."

"Mayor Swinney had been to the commissioners asking for additional help, and we had not yet given them an answer. But we hadn't said 'no' either. "If they would come to the commissioners and discuss matters instead of airing all their troubles in the newspaper, it might work out better. "Lawhon says, however, "The county just purchased three fire trucks at a heavy cost to the taxpayer. We had previously asked the county for a helping hand in the amount of $1,500 and the commissioners tabled the matter."

"We need the money now to pay for the damages to our truck. There was a hole knocked in the tank on a county run at the cost of $1,475. All of the plumbing and new gauges cost another $548. Our volunteers have even given up their $3 fee per fire call to help pay for the repairs. "Judge Tune said, however, "A witness at that fire told me that the truck ran over a tree stump when they could have avoided it by going four feet in either direction. That's when they knocked the hole in the tank."

"The judge pointed out that "We try to keep fire trucks at Silver Heels, Sand Springs, Jonesboro, Knott, Gayhill, Vincent and Coahoma and also pay the insurance on the one at Forsan. We have lots of problems." "Judge Tune said that the first request from Coahoma was "for $7,500."

Lawhon points out that "The department is $3,900 short in equipment to meet key rate credit requirements under the state board of insurance."

Lawhon's immediate concern is the current repair bill on the truck. Thus far this year, they have made 32 runs, 25 of which have been out in the county.

Coahoma firemen still plan to help Big Spring when needed on a reciprocal agreement. "We really appreciated their help with the Shive fire last year."

Mayor Swinney said, "We've been told repeatedly that there are no available funds for fighting county fires."

However, Swinney also added, "We're not going to lose that fire truck."

Panel okays school money bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Despite alleged pressures from "some of the powers that be," a House subcommittee has approved a $657 million school finance bill that mandates relief for property taxpayers.

The full House Public Education Committee will consider the measure Monday morning. Approval would send it to the House floor for debate, possibly before April 1.

Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, chairman of both the subcommittee and the committee, complained of efforts against the bill by "some of the powers that be and organizations in this field."

"The reason is, these people don't want any property tax relief. They want that money spent on salaries and other programs. But I tell you, property tax relief is in the wind this year," Massey said.

"I submit to you that when you are lobbied by these interests, they are not the taxpayers, they are the tax spenders," he said.

Massey later said he referred to a few members of the Texas Association of School Administrators, notably Dallas Supt. Nolan Estes.

The bill would reduce local districts' share of the Foundation School Program costs from 25 to 15 per cent, or $414 million over the next two school years.

Districts would be required to use half that amount to cut property taxes that are dedicated to the foundation program.

The state would assume the full cost of the foundation program in the 1981-82 school year.

Included in the bill is a boost in equalization aid for districts that are poor in taxable property. It would jump from $100 million to $175 million, and another $20 million is included in the Legislative Budget Board's general appropriation bill.

For example, the state's 15th poorest district, North Forest ISD of Harris County, would receive $2.1 million in equalization aid next year, compared with $1.5 million now.

A district's local fund assignment would be computed on its share of the state's taxable property, using either market value or agricultural productivity — whichever produced the lowest figure.

Teacher pay raises are covered in other legislation, now pending in a subcommittee.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe

recommended an $850 million school finance bill, reducing local fund assignments by $640 million. It does not mandate tax reductions.

Strip off conducted

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A masked gunman stripped a local massage parlor of its nightly earnings and its occupants of their clothes here early Thursday, police said.

Officers said the gunman forced three women and three men to strip naked before shutting them in a closet while he fled.

The gunman reportedly entered the massage parlor shortly after 2 a.m. and surprised the manager and a female massage parlor attendant in the front room.

Waving what appeared to be a luger pistol, officers said the gunman forced the woman to get a bank bag containing the day's receipts of between $600 and $700, officers said.

War's over in Hanoi

EDITOR'S NOTE: AP Special Correspondent Peter Arnett visited Hanoi in 1975, during the Vietnam War. He has returned with the special U.S. mission seeking information about American military personnel still missing in Indochina. This is a report on the Communist capital in peace-time.

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — At first glance it looks like the war is still on.

Russian-built military trucks clog Hanoi's narrow streets. Green uniforms and st helmets dominate the fashion scene on the crowded sidewalks.

Then you see that the trucks are filled with bricks, sand and other building materials, coming into the city to be used in rebuilding bombed buildings. Five years ago at the height of the war the trucks were loaded with ammunition and weapons and were heading out of town to war fronts in the South.

And on closer inspection, most of the people in military gear are not soldiers. They're workers utilizing the most available clothing.

What has not changed in Hanoi is the beehive industriousness that impressed visitors in the past. Now it is directed at rebuilding.

Highway billboards that used to display heroic pictures of peasant gunners shooting down American aircraft now extol the virtues of farming and show giant cabbages and tractors.

Cub Scouts ceremony

Three cubs from Pack 238, Paul DeLeeuw, Jr. Morris and Gustavo Ramirez, will be given the Cub Scouts highest medal of honor, The Arrow of Light, in an honorary ceremony this evening at 7:30 at the Immaculate Heart of Mary School cafeteria.

Paul DeLeeuw, Ronnie Barna and Jr. Morris will also join the Boy Scouts of America in an impressive ceremony following the awarding of The Arrow of Light.

Salvation Army busy

The local Salvation Army, during the month of March, assisted 71 persons, issued 195 packages, issued food orders for 24 and assisted 24 cases under family welfare.

They helped 106 men, 19 women and children in the transient program and provided lodging for 209 persons. In the transient assistance, they provided 561 meals and gave special aid to four others.

In its religious and character building department, they had 462 persons attend senior services and 299 youth attend. The department representatives also visited 15 persons in three institutions.

Newspapers that headlined accounts of victories over "the imperialist lackeys of the Americans" write of roadbuilding and food production on those southern battlefields.

You can still buy books about the spectacular victory in 1975 that collapsed the Saigon government and its army and ended the war. One such is a paperback,

Tax rebate reflection

The sales tax rebate check for $155,613.12 received by the city Wednesday reflects Christmas sales here, according to Tom Ferguson, city finance director.

That check was for the period from Jan. 28 to Feb. 25. The check for the period from Nov. 26 to Jan. 7 was only for $34,606.13, and that's not enough to reflect our Christmas sales," said Ferguson.

The city has received three checks since the end of the Christmas season. They include the two mentioned, and another for $15,663.95 for the period from Jan. 7 to Jan. 28.

The only check which accurately reflects the Christmas sales in the most recent, according to Ferguson.

The situation was much the same for this time period last year. The three checks were for $17,416.19; $37,201.31; and $132,751.85 consecutively. The total for 1975-76 for the period came to $187,369.35, as opposed to $205,883.20 for the 1976-77 period, a difference of $18,513.85 in favor of the city.

$30,000 church unit

A building permit was signed late Wednesday afternoon for the construction of a children's church facility at 603 Tulane by the College Park Church of God.

The facility will measure 100 feet by 40 feet, and will be constructed of brick according to Dewey Byers, chief inspector for the city. It will contain six classrooms, three offices, two conference rooms and a work room for children.

The cost of construction has been estimated at $30,000. But approximately $14,000 worth of construction will be provided free by contractors within the church, according to Byers.

Suspected wife slayer hunted

SWEETWATER — The search for Billy Wayne Williams, 26-year-old Colorado City resident, continued today after sheriff's officers "beat the bushes" in Mitchell county Wednesday seeking a possible clue to his location.

Williams was charged Wednesday with murder in connection with the shooting death of his wife, Caroline Davis Williams, 21, in Sweetwater. Mrs. Williams' mother, Mrs. Earline Davis, 45, suffered a gunshot wound and a broken bone in the left arm.

Mrs. Williams was killed by two or three gunshots in the chest, according to Justice of the Peace Thomas Greene.

Law enforcement officers were involved in a search for Williams Wednesday. He is described as a black male, about 5 feet 11 and weighing about 136 pounds, according to a spokesman from the Department of Public Safety.

Williams apparently left the shooting scene on foot, according to Sweetwater Police Chief Gerald Byrd.

Wednesday morning, Williams was thought to be traveling with an Odessa man, Deputy Mike Stuts of Mitchell County stopped the Odessa man at Loraine Wednesday morning, but

Williams was not with him.

The deputy said that the Odessa man denied knowing what they were talking about and he has been released.

Williams' mother resides in Colorado City but told lawmen there that she knows nothing of his whereabouts.

Members of the Abilene law enforcement agencies waited for Williams on IS 20 Wednesday morning to no avail. Mitchell County Sheriff's officers looked in the brush in the area between Sweetwater and Loraine and between Loraine and Colorado City with no luck.

Services for Mrs. Williams are pending at McCoy Funeral Home in Sweetwater.

Born March 25, 1955 in Oakland, Calif., she worked for a clothes factory in Roscoe. She had lived in Sweetwater one month, coming there from Colorado City.

Survivors include one daughter, Angela; one son, Bruce; her mother, Mrs. Davis, all of Sweetwater; four sisters, Mrs. Betty Knox, Miss Tressie Mae Davis and Miss Helen Davis, all of Sweetwater and Mrs. Janice Webb of Dallas; one brother, A.D. Davis Jr. of Sweetwater; and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lilton Phillips of Hope, Ark.

Deaths Davidson

Services for Marcus P. Davidson, 62, who died Monday in Casa Grande, Ariz., were held at 2 p.m. Thursday at Mount Olive Memorial Park, with the Rev. Dan Sanford of Phillips Memorial Baptist Church presiding.

Pallbearers were J.W. Holt, Ben Barrington, Mike Littlefield, Freddie White, Arvil Henry, A.D. Nanny and Clay LaRochelle.

Gladys Head

SNYDER — Mrs. W.B. (Gladys) Head, 75, a Colorado City housewife and formerly of Snyder, died at 11:50 a.m. Wednesday at Root Memorial Hospital in Colorado City. Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel in Snyder.

Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens here. Born May 20, 1901, in Scurry County, she married W.B. (Bill) Head May 8, 1920 in Scurry County.

Survivors include her husband; four daughters, Billie Louise Starnes of Fort Worth, Gwendolyn Stevater of Odessa, Jeanne Kennedy of Arlington and Gayle Hargrove of Arlington; four sons, Sam Head of Del Rio, Kenneth Head of Colorado City, Bob Head of Snyder and Jack Head of Crane; two sisters, Callie Aucutt of Snyder and Lillian Taylor of Colorado City; two brothers, Stewart Womack of Fort Worth and Wright Womack of Snyder; 14 grandchildren; and 15 great-grandchildren.

W.A. Skinner

Warren A. Skinner, 87, died 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Lubbock Memorial Hospital after a lengthy illness. Services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. in the Branon Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. D. Don Long, pastor

Hearing Tests Set For Big Spring

BIG SPRING — Electronic hearing tests will be given at the Beltone Hearing Aid Service office on Friday and Saturday from 10 AM to 5 PM.

RALPH O. WILKES

Factory-trained Hearing Aid Specialists will be at our office at 606 Johnson to perform the tests.

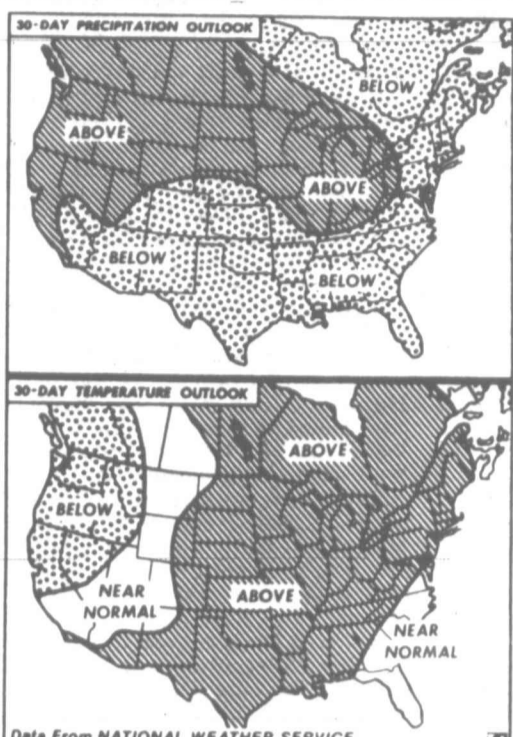

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained, and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out whether the latest methods of hearing correction can help them hear better.

The free hearing tests will be given Friday and Saturday from 10 AM to 5 PM at 606 Johnson. If you can't get there on Friday or Saturday, call 263-6181 and arrange for an appointment at another time. In-home testing is also available.

THIRTY DAY WEATHER OUTLOOK — This is the way the nation's weather looks for the next 30 days, in terms of precipitation and temperature, according to the National Weather Service in Washington, D.C.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are forecast today from the Gulf to the Great Lakes. Snow flurries are expected for the northern Rockies and adjacent Plains. Temperatures will be cool from the Rockies to the Pacific and in the Northeast. Elsewhere mild weather is expected.

Overnight temperatures were kept higher than usual as the moist air from the south spread into most areas during the night and draped blinding fog over much of the Upper Texas Coast.

It was drizzly along with the fog in the Houston-Galveston area, where zero visibility prompted a hazardous driving alert to motorists. There also was some drizzle around Austin and San Antonio.

Official observers posted a high wind warning for the Texas Panhandle, where gusts above 50 miles per hour were expected. Blowing dust was in prospect over the greater part of West Texas.

Light winds blew from the south and southeast in other sections of the state.

Police beat Bush charged with stealing sink

Billy James Bush, OK Trailer Courts, has been charged with stealing everything including the kitchen sink from the West End Lounge of which he was the proprietor.

Police received a report from Raymond Chvojka, 1609 E. 3rd, owner of the lounge, alleging that Bush had left over the weekend with the lounge's cash register, air conditioner, gas heater, kitchen range, kitchen cabinet and kitchen sink. Loss was estimated at $540. The theft apparently occurred as a result of a business dispute, according to police officials.

Detectives arrested Bush at his residence 4:30 p.m. Wednesday. He was charged with theft over $200 by Justice of the Peace Bob West, and bond was set at $3,000.

The manager at Rip Griffin Truck Stop, IS 20 and South Highway 87, reported that a blue Kenworth 18-wheel truck filled with 106 gallons of diesel fuel, and drove off without paying, 10:33 p.m. Wednesday. Loss was estimated at $53.25.

Morgan Marion, 411 N.E. 10th, reported that a burglar broke into his pickup and made off with a battery charger, sometime between 11 and 11:45 a.m. Wednesday. The truck was parked at the corner of Northeast Second and Goliad. Loss was estimated at $24.95.

Two mishaps were reported Wednesday.

A parked vehicle belonging to Neoma Swafford, 1405 Johnson, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene at 401 E. 3rd, 12:40 p.m.

Double slaying suspect grilled

HOUSTON (AP) — A 25-year-old man was being questioned today in the March 6 service station robbery in which a night attendant and his 11-year-old son were shot to death.

Detective Jim Binford said the man closely resembles a composite picture based on descriptions supplied by another service station attendant who was shot less than an hour later.

Another parked vehicle, belonging to Bill Crane Auto Sales, 1300 E. 4th, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene at the Safeway parking lot of East Fourth, 9:12 a.m.

The bodies of Leonard Roy Naquin, 51, and his son, Mark, were found in the service bay of the southeast Houston station after a $700 robbery.

Mohammed Sadat Nasser, the night attendant at the second station about a mile away, was shot in the head during a $63 robbery.

Well people must give blood

"We cannot manufacture blood. It can only come from healthy individuals who will take 30 minutes to donate it."

So said Ray Perkins, director of donor development for West Texas Blood Service, at the regular noon meeting Tuesday of the Big Spring Rotary Club in the Settles Hotel.

PERKINS MADE what might seem like an obvious point, but he said many people do not seem to realize that blood must be given by well people to the sick on a regular basis—not just in emergencies.

Perkins said that the West Texas

Blood Service is a non-profit, self-supporting blood center with headquarters in San Angelo and a branch office in Odessa. The blood center serves 44 hospitals in 32 counties with a half million people from this region.

The need for blood, Perkins said, is growing. When he gave to San Angelo 14 months ago, this region was using 800 pints of blood a month; now this figure has risen to 1,200 a month.

He attributed this increase to more advanced forms of surgery which are being done in West Texas hospitals and which require more blood.

Perkins urged Rotarians to take their time to donate blood to help make Big Spring self-sustaining in its blood effort. He said Big Spring used 1,515 pints of blood last year but donated only 1,091.

HE EMPHASIZED how important it is for those who can give blood to do so. Only 17 out of 100 people are healthy enough to donate blood, and only 3 out of 100 give on a regular basis. But 60 out of 100 persons will need blood in their lifetime.

"The West Texas Blood Service does not need blood," Perkins said. "People need blood."

The blood center does not pay for blood to be given, nor does it charge hospitals for the blood itself.

If it were an emergency, many people in Big Spring would rush to give blood.

But what is not often remembered is that every day is an emergency for some person.

Perkins' talk made Rotarians be more aware of the importance of blood giving.

The West Texas Blood Service has a bloodmobile at Malone-Hogan Hospital each Wednesday from noon to 6 p.m. The bloodmobile also will go to individual businesses when invited.

Giving blood only takes a few minutes, but what more important way can anyone spend a half hour?

—J. TOM GRAHAM

CIA, first defector?

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Evidence that ex-CIA agent Philip Agee has cooperated with the DGI, Cuba's Soviet-bossed intelligence service, was the unannounced cause for the highly unusual deportation order served on him last November by British Home Secretary Merlyn Rees.

That means Agee, far from being just another kiss-and-tell alumnus of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), is probably its first bonafide defector. Although there is no indication that cooperation started until after his resignation in 1969, Agee appears to be the first CIA official known to have cooperated with an adversary government.

FOR WHAT IT'S WORTH, then, any untold secrets of CIA operations known by Agee are assumed to be known to Soviet intelligence via the Cuban connection.

Agee, author of the anti-CIA "Inside the Company," resigned after 12 years of service, much of it in Mexico City. Well-informed sources in the intelligence world believe Agee began to collaborate with Cuba's Directorate of General Intelligence (DGI) soon after his resignation.

The relationship between DGI and the KGB is intimate. The top Cuban KGB officer had an office right next to the head of the DGI in Havana's Miramar section. The links between the two services are such that DGI has been known as a "subsidiary" intelligence service of the KGB.

After seven weeks in Cuba in the summer of 1971, Agee went to Paris where Western counter-intelligence agents began to track his cooperation with DGI. Those contacts increased after Agee moved to London in late 1972.

During the three years ending in August 1974, Agee made five separate trips to Cuba. MI-5, the British domestic intelligence service, developed its incontrovertible evidence that Agee was trafficking with Cuban intelligence sometime last year. This followed verifiable Agee contacts with agents of Cuba in Algiers and throughout Europe, particularly in Spain and Italy. Although not announced, that was the entire basis for Rees's action against Agee.

A FOOTNOTE: INSTEAD of complying with the expulsion decree, Agee went to Scotland, where he is bringing suit under an obscure Scottish law in an effort to escape deportation. That is not expected to work, according to legal and intelligence experts here.

One major reason the embarrassing 40-vote total against Senate confirmation of Paul Warnke as chief disarmament negotiator was not even higher was President Carter's lobbying success with Southern conservative Democrats such as Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi.

When pressed to oppose Warnke on ideological grounds, Eastland snapped back angrily that he had given his word to Mr. Carter. Besides, said Eastland, the President had assured him that Jimmy Carter, not Paul Warnke, would be running arms negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Other Southern Senators inclined against Warnke's views on disarmament but reluctant to oppose the new President included Robert Morgan of North Carolina, Russell Long and Bennett Johnston of Louisiana, John McClellan of Arkansas and Lloyd Bensten of Texas.

NEVERTHELESS, 40 VOTES against Warnke amounted to dismal administration performance considering that only two weeks ago there were probably less than 10 negative votes.

Is there a medical 'iron curtain'?

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was operated on recently for diverticulosis. I still have some of the outpouchings in the intestines and get pain when I eat certain foods. I am deeply worried as to what I can really eat.

What are the bulky foods to eat to be sure I get sufficient fiber? Should I avoid nuts and corn? —M.S.

I'm afraid I can't be very helpful from the sketchy information you provide. The point in publishing your letter is to scold you and other post-surgery patients who decide to proceed blindly into an uncertain future without consulting their doctors.

The advice you seek should have been provided to you. If it wasn't your doctor might take a bit of a scolding as well. No physician is so busy that he can't give a few words of advice about such an important matter as diet, especially after surgery involving the intestines.

The fact is that you don't have to go out of your way to find fiber foods. Most cooked fruits and vegetables provide it in unobjectionable form. But I suspect your doctor will tell you to avoid the nuts, bran and corn as a bit too high in fiber for you at this time.

I hope you don't decide to perpetuate this medical iron curtain between yourself and professional advice. You can contact any hospital dietitian or a dietitian from Visiting Nurses Association. Either could formulate a suitable diet for you. In any event, your doctor's consultation will be needed, since he is the only one who really knows the present status of your intestines. You may want to read what I have to say further about diverticulosis in my booklet on the subject. If so, send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of this newspaper.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter is seven. For three years she has had frequent episodes of vomiting for no apparent reason. First she becomes tired and nauseous. Then after vomiting two or three times she will sleep for about two hours. When she awakes she is perfectly fine.

Low blood sugar has been suggested as a cause, and I've been told to give her extra sweets like chocolate between meals. Then I've heard that a high-protein diet with no sweets is correct. Can you clear this up for me? She is small for her age, but is otherwise healthy. —Mrs. M.R.

I would not accept the hypoglycemia idea (low blood sugar) at this point, certainly not unless careful tests have established it as a cause. Vomiting is not a symptom of hypoglycemia. Low blood sugar is not common at her age.

The chronic vomiting suggests a serious emotional, allergic or intestinal disorder that requires immediate attention. If this has gone on for three years it could be causing her lack of physical growth.

An overfunctioning pancreas can cause low blood sugar at any age, and if tests show her blood sugar low that would have to be looked into.

Finally, snacks of sweets are not the treatment for low blood sugar. High protein ones would be in order.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am confused about the relationship that exists between people after the resurrection. Do we retain the relationships we have with our families on earth? If a man has been married more than once, which wife claims him in heaven? —W.M.

DEAR W.M.: The question of the man who has more than one wife was put to Jesus and He answered it as follows: "In the resurrection they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but are as the angels of God in heaven" (Matthew 22:30). This shows that quite a different relationship exists between God's people in heaven from that which is known on earth.

Although we do not become angels in heaven — in fact, the angels become our servants — we do have a similar relationship to one another as the angels experience. We are the children of our heavenly Father, and therefore all brothers and sisters.

But all the rumors and medical gossip you're listening to aren't doing her any good. Have her thoroughly examined.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We have been using bleach in the rinse water when we wash dishes in order to sterilize them. Is there any possibility that the bleach residue on the dishes could be toxic or bad for health in any way? No one seems to know the answer. —J.C.S.

Not advisable. Bleaches contain hypochlorites. Even small amounts over a period can be toxic. There need not be any obvious or dramatic symptoms of poisoning. I suggest you settle for nothing but good hot rinse water.

Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of this newspaper, for a copy of "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

"Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is" (1 John 3:2).

For most of its history the world has been striving to achieve equality between peoples. The abolition of slavery was one of the greatest steps forward in that direction. Now there is the striving for equality between the sexes. Various ideologies have tried to produce a society of equals. Communism is the latest attempt in that direction, but this too has failed.

Only in heaven will full equality be achieved. God is the great leveller and we all stand before Him as sinners, equal in His sight. In heaven there will be a glorious "oneness" such as has never been known on earth, and every barrier that divides us now, whether it be of sex, rank, nationality or upbringing, will be gone. "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither male nor female; for ye are all one in Jesus Christ" (Galatians 3:28).

Sweet memories

Around the rim

James Werrell

The CBS show "Who's Who" did a segment on Maine's world-renowned L.L. Bean Store, and it brought back sweet memories.

L.L. Bean's has become as much a part of the Maine Yankee mystique as the pine tree, and the "Who's Who" segment kindled thoughts of a couple of summers I spent among the forests and fried clams in that great state.

BUT, LO AND behold, the show brought out the revelation that L.L. Bean's has received the much revered Coty Award for fashionable apparel. The award was given for Bean's contribution to the new "gear look" that is sweeping the discos and penthouses of metropolitan America.

Although the owner of Bean's (it has been a family venture for three generations) said he didn't really care why people bought Bean clothes, he has to be snickering in his clam chowder.

As the ad for Bean's catalogue (in the New Yorker Magazine, by the way) states, the store features "camping, fishing, hiking and canoeing equipment. Also includes practical, long-wearing apparel and footwear for the outdoorsman or woman."

Popular items at the store include the Maine Hunting Boot, which is made with all-rubber bottoms, and all-leather, laced uppers. An odd combination which, I have been told while wearing them, make my feet look like Donald Duck's.

OTHER POPULAR ITEMS include the Swedish Fisherman's Sweater (retaining the oils in the wool so that it is nearly waterproof), Bean's Chamois Shirts, the French Fisherman's Shirt, Maine Engineer Shoes, Irish Walking Hats, the Maine Crusher (also a hat), as well as pipes,

Fired up in jail

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — G. Gordon Liddy, the macho Watergate conspirator who once tried to impress friends by holding his hand over a burning candle, has been coming under some fire in prison as well.

The tight-lipped Liddy, who has remained silent to this day about his role in the ill-fated Watergate break-in. But he was quick to complain loudly about his accommodations at the Allenwood Prison Camp in Pennsylvania. Liddy moved to the minimum security prison three months ago from another penitentiary in Danbury, Conn.

THE TENACIOUS TOUGH guy was assigned to sleep on a cot in a hallway near the television room because the better rooms were all booked up. Liddy soon squawked that he couldn't sleep because of the noise from the all-night TV room.

Almost immediately, prison officials banned TV watching after 11:30 p.m., and even started making spot checks to make sure the inmates weren't sneaking a peek at the late show. The other inmates were infuriated at what seemed to be the special treatment for their famous colleague. Many other sleepless inmates had complained about the late-night TV noise, to no avail.

The outraged prisoners retaliated by setting Liddy's mattress on fire. When he got a new one, they soaked it. The inmates also threw all the beleaguered Liddy's personal property out the door.

We learned of the brouhaha when an angry inmate bellyached to us that the prison surrenders to every demand Liddy makes. Allenwood warden Eldon Jensen confirmed that Liddy had some trouble with his fellow prisoners. He told us, however, he closed the TV room early due to numerous complaints, not because of Liddy's protest.

Footnote: Last month, we revealed that the Justice Dept. was seriously considering Liddy's petition to commute the rest of his sentence. Justice officials are studying the request and a recommendation will likely be sent to President Carter early this spring.

HEARTBROKEN HOOVER — Behind the bulldog visage of J. Edgar Hoover, who intimidated lawmakers and lawbreakers for decades, was a man acutely sensitive to any criticism of his beloved FBI.

No one defended the bureau more staunchly than Hoover when the Warren Commission complained about the FBI's handling of the investigation into President Kennedy's assassination. But long-secret documents show that Hoover was nearly heartbroken over his bureau's failings in the JFK probe and felt the commission had "debunked" the FBI forever.

Every morning, the tough-talking director carefully perused clippings from 10 daily newspapers, including the Washington Post and New York Times. But nothing pleased him more than the peppy style sympathetic viewpoint of the New York Daily News and the now-defunct Hearst papers, the Journal-American and the Mirror.

WHEN THE JOURNAL-American got wind of secret FBI files and reported that Hoover would tell waterproof match holders, knives, nylon rope, mountaineering equipment, snowshoes, cross-country skis and extra-large sandwich spreaders.

Although L.L. Beans does a multi-million dollar mail order business, the store itself is as unprepossessing as an old, country dry goods shop.

It is small, sits atop the Freeport Fire Department, and is open 24 hours a day. Until a few years ago the floors were wooden, but these have been carpeted since the customers began wearing them down.

The store typifies the philosophy of Beans; form follows function. And there is something embarrassing about the fashion editor of Glamour Magazine talking about wearing a Bean Poncho over silk pajamas for a night on the town.

That poncho was made to keep you warm on top of Maine's Mt. Katahdin. Likewise, the Maine Hunting Boot will keep your feet dry while canoeing down the Alagash River.

I FEEL A little guilty wearing stuff designed for a specific purpose just because it looks sharp. It took me a year and a half to work up the nerve to buy a pair of cowboy boots (I don't own a horse).

But maybe I am being too hard on the fashion mongers. They will probably never set foot in a canoe, or sit around a campfire in Maine woods that go on forever in Baxter State Park. If they boogie better in a Beam Camp Moccasin, all power to them.

I sort of doubt whether they will succeed in subverting the purpose of the store. When its owner was asked whether the catalogue would feature bell bottom pants in the future, he answered, "Not if I can help it."

(P.S. If you want a catalogue, write for a free one at L.L. Bean, Inc., 240 Main St., Freeport, Me., 04033.)

President Johnson that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone, the FBI chief was surprisingly clam. Had the breach of security appeared in a more liberal paper, Hoover probably would have unleashed his own plumbers to track down the leaker.

Instead, he sent a mild memo to his sidekick Clyde Tolson, commenting wryly: "I assume none of this is coming from the FBI." His aides assured him it wasn't.

Hoover did withhold some information about the killing that could have damaged the FBI's reputation, however. When the Warren Commission report criticized the FBI, Hoover sadly found that even the loyal Journal-American was giving him bad reviews. Solemnly, he underlined the harshest phrases.

In a handwritten note to closest bureau friends, Hoover conceded that the commission report was "a real debunking of the FBI which we will never live down."

Now, after 13 years, the late director's words seem prophetic. For as charges of a coverup have been leveled at the FBI, its actions in the Kennedy investigation are once again being probed by Congress.

Footnote: Hoover's successor, Clarence Kelley, is still trying to clear the air. We reported in January that the FBI withheld from the Warren Commission 23 summaries of Oswald's activities. Kelley told us that all 69 summaries were provided to the commission. Kelley also said the bureau furnished the commission with all pertinent information about potential informants, including the Cuban Sylvia Odio and right-wing activist Joseph Milteer. All allegations about them were investigated and turned over to the commission, Kelley said.

DRUG COURSE — The drug industry's message is now being peddled to congressmen, doctors and officials across the country under the guise of academic respectability.

THEY RECENTLY received an impressive-looking report from the Center for the Study of Drug Development at the University of Rochester. The study, warning that the federal regulations are preventing important new drugs from being marketed, is written by G. Frederick Roll.

The study doesn't mention that until last year, Roll was vice president of Smith, Kline and French, a major drug company. Nor does it point out that the center gets half its money from the drug industry, including a $10,000 grant from Smith, Kline and French.

The National Science Foundation has given the center a $165,000 grant to study drug regulation, and the Federal Trade Commission has offered a similar contract. But the center's top associate, William Wardell and Louis Lasagna, have spent years testing drugs for companies such as Merck, Lederle and Bristol Labs. Asked what other drug companies finance his center, Wardell said: "We don't have to tell you and we're not going to."

Chamber directors hike dues to $96

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., March 17, 1977

Despite a heated discussion beforehand the Board of Directors for the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce voted unanimously to raise yearly dues for businesses from $80 to $96, at its regular meeting Wednesday.

Ambassador President Bob Moore argued that with a goal of 500 new members this year, some businesses may be discouraged by the dues increase.

"I know that $16 won't mean much to some of our larger businesses, but when it comes to signing up the candle shops and cheese shops in town, the increase may be difficult to sell. I would rather have 200 new members at $80 than 100 new members at $96," he said.

Bill Albright, chamber manager, stressed that the increase represents only $1.03 per month. He explained that in a survey of chambers in cities the size of Big Spring the dues averaged over $150 per year.

"We began the year with a deficit, and there is no

Housewife fifth juror

FORT WORTH (AP) — An Arlington housewife has been selected as the fifth juror for the capital murder trial of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis.

Mrs. Charlene Wheeler, 51, was chosen Wednesday after spending four hours on the witness stand. "I would never ask to sit on the jury, but I think it's a citizen's duty," she said.

Defense and prosecution lawyers have questioned more than 60 prospective jurors in the lengthy, tedious task of selecting a jury.

Davis, 43, is being tried on a charge of capital murder in the last Aug. 2 shooting death of Andrea Wilborn, the 12-year-old daughter of his estranged wife, Priscilla Davis. He also faces a capital murder charge in the shooting death of Stan Farr, a former Texas Christian University basketball player, and lesser charges in the wounding of his estranged wife and Gus Gavrel, a family friend.

While jury selection continued Wednesday, Mrs. Davis filed motions in civil court here seeking $1.5 million in partial divorce payments. Mrs. Davis is also seeking permanent possession of the $6 million Davis mansion where the shooting took place. A hearing on the final divorce settlement is to be held in May.

getting around the fact that we need more funds to serve the community. I think this is the most opportune time to introduce an increase with our membership drive coming up. We have a great program of work to sell, so let's get down to business," said Roger Brown, chamber president.

With that, in the spirit of cooperation, the board voted unanimously to implement the increase.

The program of work mentioned by Brown had been introduced earlier in the meeting to the board. It was drawn up by six chamber members on a weekend retreat last week.

The program is made up of six pages of planned action covering community activity in public affairs, community

Oil slick reported

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The Coast Guard was checking today on a report of a mile-long oil slick in the Gulf of Mexico about 79 miles southeast of Freeport.

A spokesman said there were no reports of missing boats or ships but that workers on an oil drilling platform reported the slick and said they believed they could see debris and a life jacket.

The Point Monroe, an 82-foot Coast Guard cutter, was sent to the area but reported its search was being hampered by fog.

The spokesman said aircraft from Corpus Christi would join the search when visibility improves.

development, economic chamber members were incorporated into the program.

"I think the program is very representative of the wishes of the whole chamber. At this point, the plan of action is pretty broad in scope, but we will get more specific in the future," said the manager.

The board also became collectively hot under its collar near the end of the meeting when Transportation Chairman Clyde McMahon brought up the topic of Trans Regional Airlines.

According to McMahon and president of the Century Club, Adolph Swartz, disputes between airline officials and the Howard County Commissioners have increased in recent weeks, and Big Spring runs the risk of losing its only air service.

"We talk about trying to attract new industries to Big Spring, but when a business thinks of coming here its officers don't ask how many golf courses or night clubs we have. The first thing they ask is what sort of transportation facilities we have. If we lose Trans Regional, we won't get another airline to locate here," said Swartz.

In response the board unanimously adopted a resolution which will be presented to commissioners at their next meeting. The resolution reads, "The Chamber of Commerce recognizes the value of services provided by a scheduled airline operation at Howard County Airport. The chamber enjoins and encourages our county officials to exercise a new spirit of cooperation to assist in the operation of Trans Regional Airlines."

Board member Winston Wrinkle put it more succinctly saying, "We have to let the county know that we support the airlines and that we want the hassles to stop."

G.I. Auxiliary reorganized

Newly elected officers of the reorganized American G.I. Forum Ladies Auxiliary will preside when the group meets at 8 p.m. Friday in the G.I. Forum Hall.

Regular meetings will be held thereafter on the first and third Fridays of every month according to Mrs. Linda Arsiaga, publicity chairman. Any women interested in joining the auxiliary are welcome to attend the meetings.

Officers, other than Mrs.

Arsiaga, are Mrs. Julia Correa, chairman; Mrs. Dora Velasquez, vice chairman; Mrs. Christina DeLeon, treasurer; and Mrs. Mary Lou Leyva, sergeant at arms.

"Since the auxiliary is just getting reorganized, our main projects have not been fully defined," said Mrs. Correa. However, the group was responsible for giving baskets of food to needy families at Christmas.

CONTESTANTS — These three young women are among those seeking the title of Miss Diamondback for 1977. At left is Janice Miller, 17, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Gilbert Miller and is sponsored by the Officers Wives Club. Center, Dianne Cole, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nile Cole, is sponsored by The Cottage and, at right, Charlotte Croft, 16, daughter of Ma] and Mrs. Robert L. Croft; sponsored by the OWC. All three are junior students at Big Spring High School.

man, Mrs. Womack presided at a convention luncheon.

During the awards presentation, the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs received a first place award in District I on their Bicentennial Flower Show Schedule, Class II, and a first place award for council and forum yearbook, Class B.

Local clubs taking honors included the Rosebud Garden Club, honorable mention for president's report; Texas Bouquet African Violet Club, third place for yearbook T-16; Rosebud How to Grow Garden Club, second place on president's report; and Oasis Garden Club, third place for president's report as well as a horticultural citation.

The meeting featured the theme, "Gardens of the World," and the social activities were highlighted with a spring style show. On the final day, the group was addressed by Mrs. Lee Coil, state president.

Dear Abby

Send Off Secretary— With References

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to a professional man for 20 years. (I'll call him Joe.) We have a beautiful family, and I always thought we had a good marriage. Now I find out, quite by accident, that Joe has been having an affair with his secretary for more than two years. I've had this girl in my home, and I really liked her. Joe says that he doesn't "love" her—he loves ME—but that all professional men "fool around." Then he went on to list all his colleagues we're friendly with, saying they all have girlfriends on the side.

Joe says it's all over between him and his secretary, but she practically runs his office and he "needs" her, so he's keeping her on.

He's always told me what a super wife, mother and bed partner I was. Now he says I wasn't really all that great, but he didn't want to hurt my feelings or make me feel insecure.

Meanwhile, I can't look his secretary in the face, and I don't want to be in the company of his colleagues and their wives, knowing the men are cheating and their wives are being deceived.

Is there an answer to this nightmare?
DISILLUSIONED AND HEARTBROKEN

DEAR DIS: Your husband has behaved like a prize heel. And don't disregard the possibility that he implicated innocent colleagues to make his transgressions appear more commonplace.

All professional men do not cheat on their wives. If he "loves" you as he says he does, he will get rid of his secretary. And with the reference he can give her, one of his colleagues might be glad to hire her.

DEAR ABBY: I am 24 and am engaged to marry a man who is 40. This will be my first (and, I hope, my ONLY) wedding.

I started to plan a big, formal church wedding with all the trimmings—the kind every girl dreams about—but now I'm having second thoughts.

You see, my fiance is a divorced man with teenaged children. He and his first wife were hastily married by a judge, so this would be his first church wedding, too. He agrees to go along with my decision.

Abby, a few of my friends have expressed surprise that I would have a big flashy wedding even though my fiance is 40 and was previously married, and his first family lives in this rather small town.

What do the etiquette books say? And how do you feel about it?

SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND: The etiquette books say that since this is YOUR first marriage, there are no restrictions on the kind of wedding you may have—providing your clergyman approves. I think, considering the circumstances, a less "showy" wedding would be in better taste.

DEAR ABBY: I have a dear friend who is sweet, kind and intelligent. She is such a fine person and everyone likes her, and I would really like to help her.

She has one fault. Body odor. I don't know whether she uses a deodorant; perhaps, it's caused by her taking so many vitamins. In any case, the odor even permeates her clothing.

I want so much to help her. Is there anything I can do without losing her friendship?

A FRIEND IN FLORIDA

DEAR FRIEND: Tell her in a very gentle and loving way. It would be a kindness.

Unemployment solution

The "age-old" problem of unemployment is being solved through Grandmothers, Inc., a revolutionary employment agency for the mature woman with branches in Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Houston. Courtesy of the service's efforts, instead of struggling along on widow's pensions and retirement pay, hundreds of women past 38 (you don't really have to be a grandmother), according to the current Family Circle, are finding work baby-sitting, caring for invalids, housekeeping.

Going to Kerrville

Representatives of the Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Services Council will attend a two-day planning session sponsored by the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation Volunteer Services State Council in Kerrville this weekend.

The meeting, hosted by the Kerrville State Hospital Volunteer Council, will involve representatives from the 27 volunteer groups serving the state's MH-MR facilities. Attending from Big Spring will be the local council chairman, Curt Mullins; council treasurer and past state chairman, Jack Y. Smith; and Margaret Baum, coordinator of Volunteer Services at BSSH.

Highlights of the session will be a progress report on the establishment of a foundation, a review of the state council's policies and procedures and a workshop exploring ways to stimulate local councils. Closing the meeting Saturday will be a commentary by Dr. Kenneth Gaver, commissioner, Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. In addition to the business meetings, tours of the Kerrville State Hospital campus, James Avery Jewelers and Mooney Aircraft will be available.

Pinpoints scenic spots in Sierras

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—A landscape architect has pinpointed the prettiest spots in Sierra National Forest, the first time an entire national forest has been charted for scenic appeal.

The recently completed study by Leo R. Neville of Fresno established guidelines for planners who decide how the land will be used.

"When it's time to build a new road, put a transmission line through the forest or alter the landscape in any way, rangers will be able to refer to the study to see if scenic value would be diminished," he said.

Neville's 339-page analysis required 20 months of research, aerial photographs and on-site inspections by a forestry aide who took inventory along every road and trail in the 1,400,000-acre forest.

Three fundamental characteristics—landform, vegetation and water—were graded for visual appeal using diversity as the standard of excellence.

Rugged terrain with high, mountain peaks and quick drops in elevation rated higher than flat land.

Public dance for 'Rick' is tonight

Final plans concerning a public dance being held tonight for Ricky Klahr were discussed at Monday's meeting of Ladies Auxiliary, Aerie 3188, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The dance begins at 8 o'clock this evening and will end at 12 midnight. Proceeds from the dance will go to a bank account for Klahr, dispatcher for the Big Spring Police Department, who is currently undergoing treatment for Hodgkin's disease. Minimum donation of $3 will be required for tickets at the door. Three bands are scheduled to perform during the evening.

In other business, an initiation ceremony was held for seven candidates for membership, Ramona Carter, Alene Kirby, Billie Knoop, Barbara Johnson, Mattie Taylor, Mary Barber and Aline Shults. Balloting was held for three other applicants.

Out-of-town guests included Faye Davis and Lillian Bell, both of Odessa.

Persons planning to attend the district meeting in San Angelo this weekend are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dalton, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Melton, Mrs. Nell Johnson, Mrs. Nell Tippy and Mrs. Maudie Jones.

The next regular auxiliary meeting is scheduled March 28.

THDA district meet April 19

The Texas Home Demonstration Association district meeting will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. April 19 at Memorial Christian Church, Midland, according to an announcement by Mrs. John Couch at the March meeting of Howard County Home Demonstration Council.

Other upcoming events include a training meeting April 21 at St. John's Methodist Church, Lubbock, under the sponsorship of the South Plains Development of Family Living Task Force. At this meeting, child care will be available, but lunch for the children must be provided.

Locally, a leader training program, "Car Talk," is slated to begin at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Miss Janet Sargeant, home extension agent, said that Pioneer Natural Gas Company is now offering two film programs on energy conservation, with speaker, upon request. Also, she reminded clubs that they may announce their meetings and activities in the monthly calendar of events published by the Chamber of Commerce.

A new catalog for extension homemakers, which includes gifts for home demonstration club members, is now available in the extension office. There, also, is the H.D. Awards program, available to each club for its suggestions and approval.

The yearbook committee chairman reminded the group that all information and suggestions are due April 1.

In other business, it was said that the extension offices have been repainted, and the council will participate in providing new drapes.

The Creative Homemakers H.D. Club hosted the meeting, and there was one guest, Mrs. Clay Thompson. The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. April 4 in the extension office.

St. Patrick's Day salad

This makes a colorful and festive salad to fill out any St. Patrick's Day menu.

EMERALDS AND ORANGES TOSS

- 1 pkg. (10 ozs.) fresh spinach, washed and drained
- 1 can (4 ozs.) sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1 can (5 ozs.) water chestnuts, drained and diced

- ¼ c. salad oil
- 2 tbsps. vinegar
- 2 tbsps. Florida orange juice
- 1 tbsp. soy sauce
- ¼ tsp. Tabasco pepper sauce
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. dry mustard
- ¼ c. crumbled cooked bacon

Coarsely tear spinach into large salad bowl. Add drained mushrooms, diced water chestnuts and orange sections. Mix oil, vinegar, orange juice, soy sauce, Tabasco pepper sauce, salt and dry mustard. Toss with spinach mixture. Sprinkle crumbled bacon over salad.

YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Webb planning day for wives

Planning has already begun for this year's Wives Appreciation Day at Webb AFB, which will be held April 13.

A committee, headed by Lt. Col. Robert Ziman, had its initial meeting recently to review last year's successful event and discuss ideas for this year.

Air Training Command headquarters has established this annual event to emphasize the importance of properly recognizing Air Force wives for their contribution to the Air Force community.

ANIMAL FARM — Mrs. David (Beth) Klatt is well toward completion of this decorative giraffe which is the result of her interest in ceramics. Her homemaking talents include cooking and "sewing 90 per cent of clothing for myself and the children."

OLD-FASHIONED APPLE PIE

5 c. peeled apples
 3/4 c. sugar
 1/4 tsp. nutmeg
 2 tbsps. cornstarch
 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
 1 tsp. butter
 1 tsp. brown sugar
 2 pie crusts

Prepare pie crust for two-crust pie. Mix all dry ingredients together and pour over apples. Mix well. Fill bottom crust with mixture. Dot with butter. Pour about 1/4 cup orange juice over apples and dry ingredients. Cover with second crust and prick with fork. Bake at 325 degrees for about one hour or until crust is brown.

ORANGE CAKE

1 pkg. yellow cake mix
 3/4 c. water
 1 small pkg. orange gelatine
 4 eggs

Combine ingredients and mix 3 to 4 minutes. Add 3/4 cup Mazola oil. Beat for two minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour in a 13 by 9-inch pan. Prick holes in cake with fork when done baking. Mix together 1/2 cup orange juice and 2 cups powdered sugar. Pour over top of cake. Let cool before cutting.

CHICKEN-A-LA-KING

1 can mushrooms
 1 jar pimiento, chopped
 2 c. chicken or turkey, diced

2 c. milk
 Chopped celery
 Salt and pepper
 1/2 c. margarine
 Flour for thickening

Combine margarine and flour in pan, adding milk and cooking over medium heat until sauce thickens. Add all other ingredients, except chicken, and cook a while longer, then add chicken. Serve over toast.

BANANA BARS

1 c. sugar
 1/2 c. margarine
 2 eggs
 1 ripe banana
 1/2 c. milk
 1 tsp. vanilla
 1 1/2 c. flour
 1/2 tsp. soda
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1/2 c. nuts

Cream margarine and sugar. Beat in eggs. Add banana and milk. Mix well. Add vanilla and dry ingredients. Blend well. Bake in ungreased 9x13-inch pan at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes. When cool, frost with the following:
 2 tbs. margarine, softened
 2 c. powdered sugar
 1/4 tsp. vanilla
 1/2 banana

Blend together and spread over cake.

2 tbs. oregano
 1 can tomato soup mixed with 1 can water (during cooking add another 1/2 c. water)

1 large can tomato sauce
 2 tsp. vinegar
 1 tbs. olive oil
 12-oz. pkg. cottage cheese
 1 tsp. parsley
 1 lb. mozzarella cheese
 Parmesan cheese
 Salt and pepper
 Lasagne noodles, cooked
 Brown meat in olive oil; salt and pepper to taste. Stir in soup mixture, tomato sauce, onion, garlic, oregano and vinegar. Simmer for 15-20 minutes.

Blend together cottage cheese, parsley and mozzarella cheese. Set aside.
 Lightly grease baking dish and spoon in meat sauce to cover bottom of pan. Top with lasagne noodles, then spread with layer of cheese filling. Repeat layers, ending with meat sauce. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese, and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Let stand about 15 minutes before cutting.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY FEAST
 Traditional corned beef with Irish potatoes

Corned beef, potatoes are Irish favorites

There is cause for celebration on St. Patrick's Day by all of those who have discovered the easy way to cook corned beef. Preparation for the festivities begins by selecting premium corned beef for oven roasting.

Even the traditional Irish potatoes are simplified by heating the whole canned potatoes in a casserole in the oven with the meat. Season the potatoes with melted butter or margarine and add a touch of green with chopped parsley. Combine 1/2 cup honey, 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves and 2 tablespoons chopped walnuts. The clove-spiced honey and walnut glaze spooned over the corned beef just before serving declares to all that this corned beef roast is something else.

Mrs. David Klatt is seamstress, model

By CAROL HART
 Mrs. Beth Klatt, one of the models for the recent Swartz fashion show held at Big Spring County Club, said she enjoys such events because "it's nice to wear pretty clothes." Mrs. Klatt is fashion-conscious, and enjoys making most of her own clothing.

Although she has not had professional training as a model, Mrs. Klatt has been in several fashion shows at various bases where she and her husband, Capt. David Klatt, have been stationed. She began modeling through a home sewing style show, where she wore her own designs.

Mrs. Klatt sews "90 per cent" of what she and her children wear. "I also sew for 'Dave,'" she said. Although she watched her mother sew when she was a child, she never tried it herself until she married. Today, she revises patterns to her tastes.

Capt. and Mrs. Klatt and their children, Heidi, ten, and Travis, 6, live at 61-A Chanute, and have resided in Big Spring for four years. Capt. Klatt is an instructor pilot at Webb Air Force Base.

Running her home and taking care of her family keeps Mrs. Klatt busy. When the family first arrived in Big Spring, she worked for a time as a secretary but quit because "I like to be with the kids. The job got to be too much."

Making things for her home is one of Mrs. Klatt's hobbies.

"The girls I play bridge with asked if I'd come to their ceramic class," she said. "I liked it, so I kept up with it." Several bird figurines that she made add interest to their home. Mrs. Klatt explained that her husband urged her to do the ceramic bird collection.

Other interests of Mrs. Klatt are tennis, bowling, golf and bridge. She said the family likes to camp. "We love to rough it," she added. "We've ordered a van, and are eagerly awaiting its arrival."

The Klatts will be leaving Big Spring in August, heading for Little Rock, Ark. Mrs. Klatt is looking forward to living in Arkansas, but said, "I really enjoyed Big Spring. The people are so friendly."

Cooking is another of Mrs. Klatt's favorite activities. She said, "I love to cook and bake, but prefer baking." Some of her kitchen favorites appear here.

Irish 'merrymaking' meal for the fun loving Irish

For sure St. Patrick's Day was meant for honoring a man of God, but leave it to the fun loving Irish to include a whole lot of merrymaking in the day. Plenty of open houses, parades, parties, flashy foil top hats and those funny looking green shillelaghs abound. But there's no wonder this is a holiday for hoopla. There are a staggering amount of Irish descendants in this nation — over 25 million, and today everyone's out for the celebration.

With so many Irish living in America the cuisine of the Emerald Isle has become part of the American tradition. Mention Irish cookery and corned beef and cabbage comes to mind. We've done this classic combination in a new and imaginative way, in a skillet, for speed and convenience, and added fresh Florida grapefruit sections for a very different and exciting taste sensation.

The cabbage is shredded and stir-fried until crisp and tender along with cooked cubed potatoes, chopped onion, strips of cooked corned beef and other seasonings and liquid. Fresh grapefruit sections are added just before serving and heated through. The freshly sectioned grapefruit delivers a light, lively, citrusy lift to the quick, classy style recipe called Donegal Dinner.

St. Patrick's Day is not only for the wearin' of the green but for the eatin' too. For some healthful indulgence try a crispy green salad. We suggest Emeralds and Oranges Toss, brimming with sunshiny vitamin C from fresh Florida citrus.

Again, freshly sectioned, sweet and juicy citrus, here oranges, improved a classic combination. The citrus, spinach, and sliced mushrooms are tossed with crumbled bacon and a snappy, well seasoned oil and vinegar dressing. Diced water chestnuts are added for their marvelous crunchy texture and clean, refreshing taste.

DONEGAL DINNER
 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
 1/2 c. chopped onion
 1/2 c. beef bouillon
 1 tsp. prepared horseradish
 1 tsp. sugar
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1/4 tsp. pepper
 3 whole cloves

2 cooked potatoes, peeled and cubed
 4 c. shredded cabbage
 2 c. cooked corned beef, cut in strips
 2 c. Florida grapefruit sections

In large skillet melt butter over medium heat; add onion and cook until tender. Stir in beef bouillon, horseradish, sugar, salt, pepper and cloves. Bring to a boil, add potatoes, cabbage and corned beef. Cook 10 minutes, or until cabbage is crisp-tender. Remove whole cloves. Stir in grapefruit sections, and heat.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Human drama of earthquake in Romania retraced

EDITOR'S NOTE — One of Europe's worst earthquakes in the last 100 years hit Romania the night of March 4. This is an AP correspondent's recreation of the human drama that night. It is based on the accounts of Americans and Romanians who lived through it.

By ALEXANDER G. HIGGINS
Associated Press Writer

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — At 9:21 p.m. Friday, March 4, Cheryl L. Petersen, a student from Hawley, Minn., was finishing dinner in a restaurant. Dr. Dan Setlacec was performing delicate surgery. Writer Alexander Ivasiuc was waiting for a bus.

A promise of spring was in the air. "Restaurants were crowded, movie houses crammed, cafes full of cigarette smoke, boulevards choked with cars and buses," the weekly newspaper Flacara (Flame) reported later.

It had been a fine late winter day, with a high temperature of 57. There were a few clouds and little wind when the full moon rose.

Deep beneath the Carpathian Mountains about 120 miles north of Bucharest, something slipped. Twenty seconds later Romania's capital was falling apart.

About 9:22 p.m. a vertical shock hit Bucharest and other parts of Eastern Europe without a warning rumble. Just boom.

"I thought at first it was a bomb," said a middle-aged woman. "I felt like I was going down. I ran out on the balcony and I was all right."

For the next 49 seconds, the buildings of Bucharest swayed violently as the ground undulated like the waves of the sea. Thirty-two apartment buildings crashed into their foundations. Walls in other buildings cracked. Windows shattered. Chimneys, bricks, masonry, whole balconies fell into the street and onto people standing below.

Power failed and lights went out. Only the moon and car headlights penetrated the cloud of dust that rose from collapsed buildings.

"I was on Magheru Boulevard and ran into the middle of the street," said an army officer. "I saw the Continental go. Fftt. In two seconds it was down. Two seconds later the Dunarea went."

The Continental and the Dunarea were apartment buildings downtown, each about 10 stories high, where prominent people lived.

"Don't move!" Dr. Setlacec shouted when his operating room at Fundeni Hospital was plunged into darkness. Without light he and his assistants finished their operation on a woman who had an arterial blockage. The operation was a success.

Ivasiuc, a novelist who once worked for the U.S. Embassy, was standing on Magheru Boulevard in front of the Scala Cafe and apartment house.

As the building started to disintegrate, a brick fell on his head, killing him instantly. Debris crashed down onto the sidewalk and street, burying him.

Miss Petersen, 28, who is studying the works of Romanian women poets, had just finished dinner in a restaurant with a friend.

"The floor started moving, and the chandeliers were swinging and crashing to the floor," she said. "Most of the people in the restaurant started screaming and running out. But the doorway was quite small, and we knew we'd never get through there."

"So we chose an area away from the chandeliers, away from the windows, by a pillar, and we just hung out on each other...."

After the quake stopped, we stumbled to the cloak room to get our coats, and the waiter came up to us and said, 'Bill! Bill!' He wouldn't let us out until we had paid our bill."

Joseph Lerscu, a 23-year-old medical student from Bayonne, N.J., was at a masked ball at the Israeli embassy.

"I thought somebody was just trying to get things going," he said. "When the room started going up and down, I realized, 'This ain't no joke!' Then I thought it was a terrorist attack."

"I had just finished reading the book 'Life after Life,'" said Marcie L. Phelan, 25, of Sacramento, Calif., who is studying folk costumes. "As I was going through the living room, the shaking got so strong that I was knocked over."

"I finally got into the door jamb and just stood there and held on. I could hear glass breaking and dishes falling. I saw an explosion outside my window about two miles away and just then the electricity all went off.

"I really thought that I was going to die in the quake and I thought that was why I had been allowed to finish this book 'Life after Life.'"

The official toll so far is 1,541 dead in Romania, 1,391 of them in Bucharest, and 11,275 injured, including 7,576 in the capital.

A number of persons in the shattered buildings survived. Some were carried along by the debris. Others were found under the rubble.

One 58-year-old woman was found alive after being buried eight days. A 19-year-old male was rescued after 10½ days, two or three times as long as a person is supposed to be able to live without water, doctors said.

"I lived on the ninth floor," said Gheorghe Stoles, 37. "I was wearing a warmup suit and tennis shoes and lying in bed when the earthquake began. The whole building started to sway violently."

"I went to the door of my studio apartment and threw my arms around it (the door). Then I fell seven stories. They rescued me from the second floor the same night. I only had a few bruises."

Tom Caragiu, one of the most popular actors in Romania, was in his apartment talking with television director Alexandru Bocanets about an production they were going to do.

New Kal Kan® Mealtime® has tail-waggin' taste from meat protein.

Take your pet to his veterinarian for a regular check-up.

Dogs love the taste of meat. So new Mealtime is made with real meat protein. (35% of the protein in Mealtime comes from meat). That's why Mealtime tastes good, and is good for dogs.

Clean teeth, healthy gums. Mealtime has a crunchy texture that gives dogs the chewing exercise they need for clean teeth and healthy gums.

More natural nutrition. Mealtime is made with wheat products. Most other dog foods are made with corn. Because wheat has more natural nutrition, Mealtime needs fewer additives. (Compare our ingredient list with other brands). Dogs get the vitamins and minerals they need in a more natural formula.

The right bite size for your dog. The appetizing red chunks and golden bone-shaped nuggets in Mealtime are available in two sizes: large crunchy bites for larger dogs and small crunchy bites for smaller dogs and puppies. So you and your dog have a choice.

Firm stools. The unique formula of Mealtime promotes proper food utilization and digestion. This helps dogs produce a firmer stool.

See for yourself. We say new Kal Kan Mealtime has tail-waggin' taste from meat protein. But don't take our word for it. Get some for your dog, and let his tail tell its own story.

Downtown Lions Club queen named

Representing the Downtown Lions Club as queen for the next year will be Suzanne Smith. She was chosen by club members from a field of ten contestants at the Wednesday meeting held in the new dining room of Howard College.

First alternate was Beverly Carlile. Suzanne will represent the club in the District 2A-1 queens contest at San Angelo April 23. She succeeds Sheri Snodgrass who was given a standing ovation for her year as the club queen.

Contestants were screened and trained by Mrs. Russell Hoover, and Cleo Carlile presided over the presentation of the girls.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy R. Smith, Suzanne, 17, is a senior at Big Spring High School where she also has been a Gold Digger (pep squad), member of the honor society and its treasurer; a student representative on the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce board; member of the Area Involvement Council; on the varsity tennis team, member of Meistersingers, attended Bluebonnet State (for girls), is a candidate for a YMCA Youth in Government state office; in Who's Who; member of church choir and special vocal group; and will be a contestant in the Miss Texas Teenager contest. Her ambition is to study marketing and law.

Beverly, 16, is a junior, active in her church and its choir, has been in band three years, and officer in her district and state youth fellowship, and an outdoor sports fan.

Other contestants were Denise Crenwelge, Charlotte Croft, Cassandra Green, Andra Hohertz, Jan Hoover, Irene Little, Janice Miller and Cathy Valdes.

M. A. BARBER

Lions elect new leaders

M.A. Barber, active in club affairs for a dozen years, was elected president of the Downtown Lions Club at its meeting Wednesday. He will take office the first Wednesday in July but will participate in late April in the District 2A-1 convention in San Angelo as president-elect.

Other officers named were Morris Rhodes, first vice president; Verl Green, second vice president; Ernie Boyd, third vice president; Jerry Phillips, secretary; John Latham, director; Dub Martin, liontamer; Dave Morrison and Wayne Henry, tailtwisters; John Latham and Vic Keyes, directors.

Barber, who is principal of Moss Elementary School, was a Lion at Ozona for three years before coming here. He has held most of the offices in the club and has been active in its various drives and promotions; he holds his BS and M.Ed. degrees from East Texas State University and has done graduate work at Sam Houston State, A&M University, Texas Tech and Sul Ross.

He has been principal here for the past nine years, served as president of District 18 of the Texas Elementary Principals and Supervisors Association and was on its state board. He also was a state board member of the Texas Association of Vocational Agriculture teachers, is a member of NEA, a lifetime member of the Texas State Teachers Association. He is a deacon of first Baptist, and he and Mrs. Barber have two children.

Trees planted by Troop 16

Scout Troop 16 completed a conservation project at the Elbow Elementary School this past weekend.

A hundred seedlings were planted in two nurseries developed by the scouts.

The plantings were under the direction of scout Kim Long, as his Eagle Scout project.

He was assisted by Layne Mims, Randall McDonald, Steve Wright, Mike McDavid, Wade McMurry, Brady Long and Kelly Long.

As the tree seedlings develop they will be transplanted to various locations on the Elbow and Forsan High School campuses.

Troop 16 is sponsored by Bob Wesh of Forsan Oil Well Service, Inc. The scoutmaster is Bill Mims.

'Most of us don't wear out. We rust out'

Exercise is heart tonic

EDITOR'S NOTE — Your heart pumps some 100,000 times a day, nearly 40 million in a year, so it's no stranger to exercise. If the rest of you is, most experts believe, you're doing your heart no favor. Reasonable physical activity can be a tonic for it.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Looking at the indolent, power-assisted American way of life, a physician who plays vigorous tennis at age 73 says: "Most of us don't wear out. We rust out."

Most heart specialists might well agree with that statement of Dr. Theodore G. Klumpp of New York, medical consultant to the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

Exercise, they say, is a heart tonic. It helps to prevent heart attacks. It probably makes attacks less severe if they do occur. And carefully prescribed, graduated exercises are one of their antidotes against another attack.

The American Heart Association says regular exercise "is at least prudent" as a hope of avoiding heart attacks and making heart transplants or artificial hearts unnecessary for potentially millions of men and women.

No one can actually prove that exercise is protective. Some doctors, including those who don't exercise, say exercise is not necessary, or that it might even be harmful.

True enough. Joggers sometimes fall dead. So do some tennis players. But so do some golfers, whose exercise may be no more than a leisurely walk, if they don't hop aboard golf carts.

About half of all heart attacks occur during sleep.

"Hard work never hurt a healthy heart," said the late Dr. Paul Dudley White, the eminent heart specialist who championed bicycling and hiking and life-long exercise. He died at age 87 from a stroke.

At age 88, Eula Weaver of Santa Monica, Calif., keeps winning gold medals for running mile and half-mile races in Senior Olympics events. She has six medals so far.

Seven years ago she was crippled with congestive heart failure, anginal pains, had galloping high blood pressure and severe arthritis.

She followed an ultrastrict, almost fatless diet designed by Nathan Pritikin, a nutritionist, to correct her artery-clogging disease of atherosclerosis. Initially, she could walk only 100 feet before heart pains hit. Gradually increasing walking exercise was prescribed, then later she turned to jogging and running.

Pritikin says he thinks the vigorous exercise can be credited with 10 to 20 per cent of her remarkable transformation. The major benefit, he says, came from the diet of 10 per cent protein, 10 per cent fat, and the rest carbohydrates, with salt restricted, and no cholesterol.

Director of the Longevity Research Institute founded a year ago in Santa Barbara, Calif., he tells of other men and women who he reports have returned to health, some having avoided anticipated coronary bypass surgery.

Pritikin has some medical supporters as well as critics who he says will be answered soon when he publishes research results.

Cardiologists blame the soft, inactive way of life for sabotaging Americans' hearts. We ride rather than walk a few blocks. We have power steering and power lawn mowers and electric can openers. Machines perform our labors at work or at home. We watch rather than participate in sports.

Less physical activity means spending fewer calories, so too many Americans "bank" more calories as savings than they spend, with resulting bulges or outright obesity. Being overweight is not considered healthy for the heart or body in general.

"Physical inactivity should be fought as much as crime in the streets, and as a disease as serious as cancer and tuberculosis," says Dr. Zenonas Danilevicius in a recent editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Exercise burns calories. A really brisk walk can withdraw five to six calories per minute from the "bank." One pound of fat represents 3,500 stored calories, usually banked by the habit of consuming somewhat more calories per day than are spent.

Specialists say regular, rhythmic and vigorous exercise gives the heart reserves to meet emergencies. They mean real exercise, several times a week.

Exercise often can help reduce elevated blood pressure and help control diabetes. The physically fit person is less likely to suffer low back pains and is more likely to sleep better. Exercise can reduce muscular and emotional tensions. And, say some, one's sex life is likely to improve, too.

All specialists warn against sudden ventures into strenuous exercise on your own. Have a physician check your heart and general fitness and consult how best to begin.

Recommended are exercises that involve the large muscles of the legs, to improve circulation and work for the heart. This means physical movement as in brisk walking, jogging, tennis, swimming, dancing, table tennis and the like. And of course it helps if the activity is fun rather than just dutiful.

Isometric exercises, opposing muscles against one another, or weight lifting can build stronger muscles, but don't confer the same kind of benefit for the heart, the specialists say.

See to it, they add, that your children develop physical activity as a lifelong habit.

Some studies indicate that vigorous, regular exercise helps reduce the blood level of cholesterol, the fatty substance blamed as a main culprit in narrowing and clogging heart arteries, setting the stage for heart attacks.

Overall, the majority opinion is that you help your heart by being physically active, at work or play or both.

Publication calls halt

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Review, the longest running paperback literary periodical in America, will publish its last issue in September.

The Review, begun by editor Theodore Solotaroff in 1963, has published Philip Roth's "Portnoy's Complaint," Kate Millet's "Sexual Politics" and E.L. Doctorow's "Ragtime." It has enjoyed the reputation of discovering and introducing many new authors to the American public.

Explaining the decision to terminate publication, Solotaroff said, "I feel that after ten years of publication, American Review has lost much of its editorial momentum, reaching a point where most of my ideas for the magazine have been carried out or have become dated."

Insurance commissioner resigns

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner Joseph D. Hawkins has submitted his resignation, effective July 31, saying that would complete the two years he has promised to serve. Hawkins, 40, became commissioner July 30, 1975.

Before that, he was a private insurance consultant in Dallas. He also served as vice-president for actuarial affairs with Blue Cross-Blue Shield of Texas.

He submitted a confidential memorandum to the State Insurance Board March 14 stating his intent to resign. He said he wanted the board to have ample time to recruit a replacement.

"I intend to devote myself for the remaining time to the task of working for the improvement of our regulatory system wherever the opportunity arises," Hawkins said.

Falsifying travel claims

Sooner highway scandal

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — More than 20 employees of the Tulsa maintenance division of the State Transportation Department were under suspension orders today in wake of a major travel claim scandal that Gov. David Boren says involves "possibly hundreds of thousands of dollars."

The travel claim scheme was revealed here by Boren, who said it also involved two or three motels.

The governor said the apparent falsifying of travel claims extended back to at least 1970 and "may extend back to the '60s."

It was learned that Transportation Director Richard Ward issued immediate suspension orders late Tuesday for at least 22 employees in the Tulsa office. They reportedly were mainly members of maintenance crews. One source said some higher level employees might be suspended later.

Boren said the involvement apparently included members of maintenance crews, but extended as high as the foreman level and "the immediate supervisory level above foreman."

"It would appear...that these employees were claiming to have spent the night away from home when they actually spent the night at home," Boren said, adding that they had arrangements with "two or three" motels to obtain false receipts.

Asked if the scheme appeared to be "a conspiracy" between the state employees and the motels management, Boren replied, "I'm sad to say that appears to be the case. They appear to be co-conspirators."

He said employees who spent the night away from home are entitled to $9 daily for meals and other expenses in addition to the room charge.

"The potential gain for the motels," Boren said, "was the room fee," while "the potential gain for the employees was the $9 per diem allowance."

Asked how much money was involved, Boren said it could be "hundreds of thousands of dollars" because at least 20 employees were involved and it extended back several years.

One employee, he said, apparently filed false claims totaling $1,600 "over a six-or-seven-month period."

The governor urged other state employees to come forward if they have knowledge of illegal activities by other state employees. "This kind of activity simply will not be tolerated by me as governor," he said.

He said the information has been turned over to district attorneys in Oklahoma, Tulsa and Pawnee counties with an eye toward criminal prosecution. He also said civil suits may be filed to recover the funds.

Stranger than fiction

A very important person once told me, "Son, any man who doesn't pay attention to his dreams, well that man is a downright fool!"

Forget that the absolute truth of that statement may be open to aspersions due to the fact that it was said to me in a dream, but be that as it may, the recognition that has filtered its way into my sappy head late at night has been revealing.

Take for example, the dream that Clint Longley was carried off by a herd of rattlesnakes. Two days after that dream, Clint had his fight with Roger Staubach, which led to we know what.

And I'll never forget the time I dreamt that Darrell Royal, clad in a buster brown suit, wearing an orange beanie with twirling horns on top, grabbed a football out of Frank Broyles hands and said "I'm taking my ball and going home." To which Broyles said "Me too!"

Well, glory be, a week later Broyles and DKR were hanging up their sneakers. Lands sakes, would I make this up?

I could go on and on, but last night I had a doozie. Harold Wilder was leading a trail drive east on IS 20 with a bunch of cowboys. They were driving along a herd of longhorn basketbals. What do you think it means?

KROGER'S LEAVING I KNOW

Tom Kroger, one of the assistant coaches at the high school, has announced his resignation from coaching to go into the sports equipment business.

He will be in charge of school sales for a firm called Cleveland Athletics that will open an outlet here in June. Kroger, who came here from Lamesa, said that this was the hardest decision he's had to make.

"I hate to leave coaching, because there's still a lot of it in my blood, but this is a great opportunity for me," Kroger said. Tom and his family will continue to live in Big Spring.

WHO'S ON FIRST?
Handed in my picks for the district 5-4A baseball finishers recently. The Abilene corps of sprinters will no doubt get the nod from the district coaches and sportswriters. Eagles Joe Jones, Harmon Reese and that crew of speedsters, have racked up about 40 stolen bases in just eight games.

Steer coach Tom Collins, who has his own ideas about who will finish out in front of the pack, had this comment to make about speed: "You can line up nine 3.1 sprinters at the plate, but you can't steal first."

The Bovines, who are hitting the ball just as well as anyone in the league, could find that any lack of speed on their part may be made up defensively... especially from the mound.

'You're thwoo Wose!'

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "I wish they would just look me straight in the eye and tell me the reason," Pete Rose said. "If I knew the reason, maybe I could deal with it. 'I'd much rather somebody tell me, 'Pete, you're getting old, you can't cut it any more.' Or say, 'Your arm's bad, you can't throw any more.' Or 'You've slowed up.'"

(AP WIREPHOTO) STILL A FAVORITE — Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose is still a favorite of the fans even though he has not signed a contract for this season. He says the fans have been great and can't understand why he can't get the contract that he wants from the Reds' management.

"But, no, they just say, 'What you're asking, it's too rich. We can't afford it.'"

Pete Rose is confused. He is disheartened. He is disillusioned. Seventeen years of dedication and loyalty to the Cincinnati Reds; the only baseball organization he has ever been with. And now they are treating him like a total stranger.

The wound obviously cuts deep into the little gut fighter from the other end of town — "Mr. Hustle" himself, "Mr. Cincinnati Red," who more than any other man has symbolized the grit and gristle that has carried the team to four National League pennants and two World Series championships in the last seven years.

One of the shocking developments of the spring has been the Reds' failure to sign the scrappy All-Star veteran to a 1977 contract. They have invoked the option clause, meaning Rose remains under contract at the same $200,000 salary he drew in 1976 or with a 20 percent cut — the club's prerogative.

If the contract is not renewed, Rose will be a free agent after the 1977 season. Don't be surprised if he becomes a New York Yankee. He is George Steinbrenner's type of player — all baseball.

"I'm not trying to hold anybody up," Rose said. "I just want what I deserve. I don't know what Joe Morgan makes and I don't care. I set my figure a week and a half before Joe signed."

Morgan, the Reds' second baseman and the National League's Most Valuable Player last season, signed for a reported $1.2 million for three years. Shortstop Dave Concepcion signed this week for five years and $1 million. Catcher Johnny Bench is completing a two-year pact calling for $250,000 a year.

TCU coach not amazed

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A statement from freshman basketball player Arnold McDowell that he and maybe some more Frogs will not be returning to TCU next season wasn't that much of a surprise to Coach Johnny Swaim.

The TCU coach, who's taking a quick breather between recruiting trips, indicated Wednesday he was disappointed to see the statement from McDowell appear in print before he had a chance to talk with him.

However, Swaim had let it be known during the disastrous basketball season that some of the players were either going to have to conform to his style of play or look for another place to play.

"The way some of them like to play, I think they should look for another place," Swaim said Wednesday, although adding he didn't want to guess at which other players may be contemplating leaving.

Finley loses suit

CHICAGO (AP) — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has lost his multimillion-dollar lawsuit against Baseball McGarr, who heard the case without a jury, confirmed published reports that he had ruled against Finley. The judge said, however, that he would not release the full decision until later in the day.

The decision says, in effect, that Kuhn had the authority to cancel Finley's $3.5-million sale of A's stars Vida Blue, Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers.

Finley contended in his suit that Kuhn overstepped his authority because the player sales did not violate any of baseball's existing laws. The sales were voided by Kuhn on the basis that they "were not in the best interest of baseball."

The A's owner argued that he had no recourse but to sell the three star players because they were playing out their options and would have become free agents at the end of the season.

In the original sales, Blue was to have gone to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million, and Rudi and Fingers were sold to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million each.

Four weeks left in NBA

By the Associated Press
Less than four weeks remain in the regular season, and the chances for teams to make up ground and improve their standing for the National Basketball Association playoffs — or make the playoffs at all — are growing fewer and fewer.

"Every game now is a must for us," said Chicago Bulls Coach Ed Badger, whose team continued its amazing uphill struggle with a 104-97 decision over the Detroit Pistons Wednesday night.

The Bulls, who at one point this season were 2-14, now are within one game of the .500 mark at 34-35. They have won five in a row on the road, 10 of their last 11 and are within three games of idle Kansas City — which has won six in a row — in the race for the final playoff berth in the Western Conference.

Chicago entertains Kansas City Friday night in another of those "must" games.

Detroit, meanwhile, wasted an opportunity to pull within two games of first-place Denver in the Midwest Division. That is important because each division winner receives a bye in the first round of the playoffs.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Seattle SuperSonics edged the Washington Bullets 100-96, the Phoenix Suns beat the New York Knicks 124-91, the Indiana Pacers defeated the Denver Nuggets 109-98, the Philadelphia 76ers topped the Atlanta Hawks 109-100 and the Houston Rockets beat the New York Nets 100-86.

'Awesome Lawson' advances in Jucos

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — The Cougars of Lawson State (Ala.) are rapidly showing the National Junior College Basketball Tournament why they are called "Awesome Lawson."

Their 101.2 season scoring average, of course, was common knowledge. So was the fact they had scored over 100 points in 21 games this year.

But now their competition is seeing it with their own eyes — 250 points worth in two games.

The Cougars' latest victim, Normandale (Minn.), fell Wednesday night, 113-91, but only after a sluggish opening in which they moseyed to a 36-31 lead with 6½ minutes left.

"Those first five guys in there were just standing around," said Coach E.O. Turner. "You can't play basketball just standing around."

So Turner made some changes, the Cougars got 12 straight points enroute to a 61-39 halftime lead and they cruised the rest of the way.

Keith McIntosh, Johnny High and Danny Fincher had 20 points each to lift Lawson State into the quarter-finals tonight against Pensacola (Fla.) Normandale, which plays Westark (Ark.) today in losers bracket action, got 26 points from Tom Krosschell.

In the only quarterfinal game Wednesday night, Ellsworth (Iowa) held off stubborn Sheridan (Wyo.), 83-76, behind a 23-point performance from Larry Knight and 22 from Jeff Miller. Sheridan, down 43-36 at the half, twice closed to within three points late but couldn't catch the Iowans.

In the losers' bracket, Western Texas eliminated Arizona Western, 93-59, and Vincennes (Ind.) sent Fulton-Montgomery (N.Y.) home, 92-72.

Today's schedule included San Jacinto (Tex.), vs. Farmingdale (N.Y.), and Southern Idaho vs. Independence in quarter-final play, and Shelby State (Tenn.) vs. Mercer County (N.J.) and Lincoln Trail (Ill.), vs. Mineral Area in losers' bracket action.

Ali's vs Wepners in NCAA

By the Associated Press
 "It's like Chuck Wepner fighting Muhammad Ali." That's the way Detroit Coach Dick Vitale looks at his school's task tonight as the Titans go up against top-ranked Michigan in the Midwest Regional of the NCAA basketball tournament. "We're the underdog fighting the large national school," Vitale explained.

"They have the million-dollar sports program. And we have not had the athletic heritage — no football program — and other programs like they have. They know how to win and know what it is." Michigan Coach Johnny Orr is also looking forward to the matchup with the 12th-ranked Titans, calling it "the greatest game for fan interest in our state's history."

Even though the two schools are just 30 miles apart, they have not met since the 1973-74 season and aren't scheduled to clash again this decade. The game between Michigan, 25-3, and Detroit, 25-3, will be the nightcap of the Midwest Regional doubleheader at Lexington, Ky. In the opener, No. 6 Syracuse, 26-3, plays No. 17 North Carolina-Charlotte, 24-3.

The other three regional semifinals also will be played tonight. In the East Regional at College Park, Md., No. 20 VMI, 26-3, meets No. 3 Kentucky, 25-3, and No. 10 Notre Dame, 21-6, plays No. 5 North Carolina, 25-4. In the Midwest Regional at Oklahoma City, No. 7 Marquette, 21-7, takes on No. 16 Kansas State, 23-7, and No. 9 Wake Forest, 23-6.

plays unranked Southern Illinois, 22-6. In the West Regional at Provo, Utah, No. 14 Utah, 22-6, opposes No. 4 Nevada-Las Vegas, 26-2, and No. 2 UCLA, 24-4, goes against unranked Idaho State, 24-4. The Wolverines, led by 6-foot-7 Phil Hubbard and super-quick guard Ricky Green, have won their last seven games. Detroit's key players are John Long, averaging 20.5 points a game, and 6-7 Terry Tyler. Syracuse, which has won seven straight and 18 of the last 19, has a 6-11 freshman

Coogs try for finals

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston's Cougars face Alabama tonight in the semifinals of the National Invitation basketball tournament. The Cougars edged Illinois State Monday night on a 20-foot field goal at the buzzer by ace Otis Birdsong, who has been averaging 30 points a game all season.

Birdsong says the NIT action has made up for the NCAA's slight of the Cougars, who finished second behind Arkansas in the Southwest Conference. Birdsong, the fourth-best individual scorer in the nation's college basketball ranks, says the Cougars can beat Alabama but they'll have to do better than their last game, when they blew a 14-point lead in the second half.

Regardless of tonight's outcome, Houston will have two more games in the NIT, either for the crown or the consolation.

Rockets hold Central lead

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets took a solid hold on the lead in the National Basketball Association's Central Division Tuesday night with a 100-86 defeat of the New York Nets. The Rockets lead Washington by three games.

Rudy Tomjanovich scored 36 points to pace Houston to its eighth straight victory. The Rockets led by only six points at the half and did not put the game away until the last three minutes. Robert Hawkins led the Nets with 25 points and Mike Bantom had 21.

Rangers drop fifth straight

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Texas Rangers suffered their fifth straight loss in exhibition baseball this season in a 5-4 defeat by a split Atlanta squad Tuesday.

Atlanta's winning run in the ninth came on an error by rookie shortstop Wayne Pinkerton. The Rangers blew a three-run lead in the eighth inning when rookie second baseman Bump Wills muffed a double play and pitcher Tommy Boggs heaved a wild pitch. Before that starter Gaylord Perry and Boggs had held Atlanta to one run against four for the Rangers.

No major trades in Astro wings

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Houston Astros General Manager Tal Smith says he is not planning any major trades.

"We aren't seeking anyone of less than established quality," Smith said Wednesday. "We feel like the players we have in camp are highly capable of performing well for us. I've always believed trading just for the sake of trading does nothing but create a lack of stability on a club."

Cesar Cedeno, starting only his second game of the spring, knocked in two runs Wednesday as the Astros scored a 3-1 exhibition victory over the Atlanta Braves' split squad.

Astros reliever Ken Forsch started and pitched three five innings, allowing only two hits. He now has pitched five scoreless innings this spring.

Joe Niekro also pitched well for three innings, giving up three hits and a run.

"These games don't mean a thing right now," said Cedeno. "Really, there aren't many of us hitting at all right now but we'll be around in a couple of weeks. It's much too early to put any emphasis on anything now."

Sure it was a fine hit Timothy

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Today was St. Patrick's Day, the perfect chance for a guy named Timothy Michael Corcoran to celebrate.

Corcoran has good reason — and not just because of his Irish name.

Wednesday, four days before his 24th birthday, the rookie outfielder blasted a home run in the bottom of the 13th inning, giving the Detroit Tigers a 5-4 exhibition victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Tuesday, Corcoran had smashed a two-run homer in the 11th inning in a 3-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

In 13 spring at-bats, the lefthanded hitter from Covina, Calif., has ripped six hits and driven in four runs.

"The kid is opening a few eyes, isn't he?" asked Manager Ralph Houk. "He's hot right now."

Hockey swan song

An AP Sports Analysis
 By FRANK BROWN
 AP Sports Writer

"As far as I remember, (Boston's Dave) Forbes and (Minnesota's Henry) Boucha got into a fight on the ice and when they went to the penalty box, Forbes said he would get him. When they came out, they went at it again and Forbes hit him above the eye with the butt end of his stick."

"None of us wanted him (Forbes) suspended for life. We thought it was up to the National Hockey League to discipline him. Isn't that what (NHL President) Clarence Campbell gets paid $100,000 for? It's a high class league and hockey shouldn't be dragged into the courts."

— Bill Goldsworthy of the New York Rangers, who played for the Minnesota North Stars when the incident took place in January, 1974 and became the first incident in pro sports to be prosecuted in court.

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Deadliest Season," television's strongest indictment of pro hockey, put the game on trial in living rooms across the United States.

The two-hour special, aired Wednesday night on CBS, examined the psychology of violence in the sport and questioned its origins. Does American society, which watches violence on TV programs and news shows, promote physical outbursts on the ice? Do team owners insist on this kind of play to maximize profits in a financially troubled endeavor? Or are teams simply trying to copy the brazen style which brought notoriety and a Stanley Cup to the National Hockey League's Philadelphia Flyers?

The jury still is out. It may never return a verdict.

With the help of technical advisor Ned Dowd, a hockey player whose services were used in the making of the movie "Slap Shot," the film's creators painted a fairly accurate picture of life in the pro sport.

The film's key scene was accurately portrayed. It appeared to combine the more sinister aspects of the Forbes-Boucha incident with others including ones which ended in trials for Dan Maloney of the Detroit Red Wings and Rick Jodzio of the World Hockey Association's Calgary Cowboys.

The technical inaccuracies which diminished the film's impact need not be discussed, since a form of poetic license must be permitted in any portrayal.

MRS. PHILLIPS AND HER HATS

Mrs. Phillips making caps for work or fun

Mrs. Joyce Phillips has recently begun her first venture into her own business; she has started making custom made caps.

All her hats follow one basic pattern that she made herself, and look sort of like a glorified welder's cap, with a high crown, and baseball type bill.

The hats are all completely reversible, and often feature wild colors and designs on one side, and a solid color on the other. They are all made of cotton and are therefore washable, and will wear for a long time, because of their double thickness.

Mrs. Phillips has opened her shop and haberdashery next to her husband's machine and welding shop at 1316 E. 3rd, and with one commercial sewing machine and a seamstress she produces about 100 hats a week.

Recently she has sold a number of hats to Garden City, Coahoma, and Sands High Schools athletic teams, in their school colors.

Mrs. Phillips will make one of her hats for anyone, out of any material one may want to special order.

Joyce's Cap Shop, Caps for Work or Fun, is located at 1316 E. 3rd, and her phone is 267-7141.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Blasting what it termed "bureaucratic shortsightedness" by U.S. Customs, officials at the Port of Brownsville sent a telegram to President Carter protesting the treatment of its largest customer, the Mexican government.

"We cannot believe that 31 years of excellent relations between our port and Petroleos Mexicanos could be destroyed so rapidly because of bureaucratic shortsightedness," read the telegram signed by the chairman of the Brownsville

Dawson County gains confirmer

Dawson County gained a confirmer this week in the oil patch.

The Gin, North (8000) field of Dawson County gained its ninth producer and a 3/4 mile northwest extension with completion of Amoco Production Co. No. 2 R.T. Bedwell Jr., three miles northwest of Lamesa, to pump 11 barrels of 42 gravity oil, plus 77 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 1,172-1.

Production was through perforations at 7,966-76 feet, which had been acidized with 2,500 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons and 45,000 pounds of sand.

Location is 1,980 feet from the south and west lines of 2-2-D.L. Cunningham.

IN GLASSCOCK COUNTY, increases, which total $2.7 million, will go into effect in 30 days, the Public Utility Commission says.

The increases were granted by the PUC in an order earlier this week. The company, which serves customers in 26 East and Central Texas counties, had asked for a $3.1 million increase.

The order will hike residential phone rates to monthly levels ranging from $7.75-9.95.

The PUC also ruled that the company's quality of service is "fair, but improving," adding that "there remain several categories of service in which commission standards are not being met at this time."

The commission said long distance dialing difficulties are being experienced through the company's Athens Toll Center.

"Unless corrective action is taken, the situation will worsen as usage increases during the summer busy season," the order stated.

Several witnesses from the firm's service area testified that the rate increase should be denied until service problems have been eliminated.

Navigation District. Petroleos Mexicanos, or Pemex, is the government-owned oil company of Mexico. Pemex, responsible for about a third of the port's business last year, notified port officials it plans to discontinue operations at the port.

Gulf States representatives testified that the company plans an equipment addition to the problem-plagued Athens center by August or September.

Farm Gearhart named BDT leader

Ben Gearhart of Marfa has been named a district chairman of the Texas Beef Development Taskforce (BDT), a group working for a beef program that will raise $30 million to $40 million a year to improve the economic position of cattlemen.

Gearhart, one of 14 district chairmen in Texas, was appointed by J.D. Sartwell of Houston, chairman of the Texas BDT. He and county BDT chairman in this area, to be appointed soon, will be conducting an extensive educational program to inform cattlemen about the upcoming Beef Referendum, in which all cattlemen will be eligible to vote.

The Beef Referendum is to determine whether cattlemen want a national self-help program. It was authorized by the Beef Research and Information Act, passed by Congress in May of last year.

If approved by two-thirds of the cattlemen voting, there would be a uniform collection of three-tenths of one per cent of the value on each animal sold. This rate will raise $30 million to $40 million a year to be invested in beef research, promotion, consumer education and foreign market development. Any cattlemen interested in participating may receive a refund, upon request.

"Every cattlemen knows that we have been through the economic wringer the past three years," says Sartwell. "This is a self-help program that can help every segment of our industry. Therefore, I urge every cattlemen to attend the informational meetings, to be scheduled in every county during the next 60 days, and to vote "Yes" in the upcoming referendum, expected to be held in May or June."

Reagan to keynote

FORT WORTH — Approximately 2,000 cattlemen are expected to hear former California Gov. Ronald Reagan keynote the Centennial Convention of Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association March 20-23, in Fort Worth. Reagan will speak at the Centennial Convention's Kickoff Luncheon at noon March 21.

This year's record attendance of 2,000 is expected to help TSCRA celebrate "A Century of Service to the Cowman," the theme of the Centennial Convention. TSCRA President J.A. Whittenberg III of Amarillo says the Centennial Convention is inviting cattlemen and other interested agriculturalists from across the Southwest to attend this historic event. Also of interest to cattlemen will be the second annual TSCRA Trade Show featuring more than 125 exhibitors with the latest livestock equipment, supplies and services in the United States.

Headlining the convention's program are Reagan at noon, Monday, Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe Jr. at 9 a.m., Tuesday, and newly appointed U.S. Deputy Secretary of Agriculture John C. White, at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday. All meetings and events will be held in the Tarrant County Convention Center.

Glasscock 4-H's win food show ribbons

The District 6 4-H Food Show was held in Andrews the past weekend. Eight Glasscock County 4-Hers, their parents and leaders attended the contest.

Junior food show participants were judged in three areas. They first wrote a menu containing the food they prepared. The menu was judged for its suitability to be served with the food exhibited and for occasion when served, for its pleasing combination of flavor, color, and for an adequate number of servings from the four food groups. Secondly the 4-Hers was judged for her nutritional knowledge. This was done with a personal interview. 4-Hers were expected to know the four food groups and how many servings are needed daily, what nutrients the dish they prepared contributed to the daily diet, and the steps in preparing their dish.

All the junior 4-H participants from Glasscock County won blue ribbons; which means they scored 90 or above. Marianne Hoelscher's win was in main dish; Cecilia Hirt was in snacks and beverages; Carol Hoelscher's was in side dish and Brenda Havlak was in breads and dessert. There were 17 4-Hers in each of these divisions and each one of the contestants had won his or her own county show. All ribbons and junior awards were donated by the District Texas Home Demonstration Association.

In addition to what the juniors are judged on the seniors were also judged on their junior leadership in foods projects, what they learned in their project, foods and nutrition activities, foods prepared during the project and other leadership rolls. In main dishes, Denise Schworth won a blue ribbon. In side dish Dorothy Schwartz earned a blue ribbon. Kathleen Frysack won a blue ribbon in snacks and beverages. Breads and desserts red ribbon winner was Elaine Schwartz.

"All in all these 4-Hers are to be commended for their outstanding work in foods and nutrition," commented Glasscock County Agent Kathryn Burch.

He was buried alive for 122 hours

Editor's Note: Ronald Adley was trapped with nine other miners March 1 after water broke through a tunnel wall in the Kecher Coal Co. mine. He was buried alive for 122 hours. In the first of three articles, Adley describes his six-day imprisonment and tells how he was sealed in a coal chute with two dead buddies.

TOWER CITY, Pa. (AP) — I try to blank it all out. But something like that you never wipe completely from your mind.

Over and over again, I feel it happening ... choking for air, gasping for breath under cold, dirty, smelly mine water ... trapped with two dead buddies in a black coal mine.

I keep hearing that terrible sound of water, rising swiftly.

It came rolling straight at me, crushing mine timbers, smashing into walls of coal, closing every possible escape hole with debris.

What happened Tuesday morning, March 1, a mile underground at Big Lick Mountain, still gives me nightmares. Even when I'm awake.

I can't really remember too much about that winter day before the water crashed in. Or even who I talked to. I guess it was the shock of seeing that unexpected force of nature.

What bothers me though is why, or how, I alone was spared, while nine other men died deep in the earth. Later I would wonder if I had been spared only to die alone days after my friends.

Anna Mae (my wife) woke me at 4 a.m. like she always does when I'm on the day shift. I had coffee, a couple of eggs and then went outside to wait for my ride to the Kecher Coal Co. mine.

There I changed into work clothes, hooked on a freshly charged battery to my head lamp, and went into the tunnel. I was assigned to work with Ralph Renninger and Donald Shoffler.

Down in the mine, we drilled test holes to check where there might be water above us. This is always done for safety purposes.

Most of the morning we kept drilling.

Then we hit rock. We stopped drilling to fire some dynamite near the ceiling of that deep coal chute. We wanted to clear away loose rock and coal so it couldn't fall down on us.

While the blast smoke was clearing, I ate the lunch that my wife had packed — pressed ham sandwiches, three of them, I think. There was also a pork chop left from dinner the night before, some cake and a fruit dessert. I had a thermos of coffee. I really enjoyed it.

Then we climbed back up the ladder to the top. I was on top, Renninger a notch below, and Shoffler just below him.

Looking down, in the yellow glow of our lamps, I could see hammers and picks and shovels piled on the dusty floor about 80 feet below.

Above, the smoke from the blast hadn't quite cleared. We decided to give it a couple of more seconds when — suddenly — it happened.

We felt this terrific gush of air. Woosh!

It was chilling. Like the feel of death.

And then I saw the water. That was something I had never seen in my life.

It looked like a great big dam that burst. Like a gusher of water forcing its way out of the ground. Force like I had never seen.

We watched it for a couple of split seconds, not knowing what to do — or what it would do.

Then it started to come up towards us, bringing up timber, and boards, and all that kind of stuff. Coal, too.

The water roared up, and caught me in it, hitting with terrific force. It came so fast. So fast.

I didn't know what happened to Ralph and Don. We didn't hear any warning when the water came. I heard no alarm bells. I heard no sounds. I heard no shouting from other men. Nothing. Even when the air had come first I heard nothing. The water went all the way up to the roof of that shaft, more than 110 feet. It covered everything.

I was in it. I was just floating behind the timber, fighting the pressure, holding my breath as long as I possibly could, searching for an air pocket ... Along the top. In a crevice of the coal. Someplace. Anyplace.

I saw some bubbles, and grabbed some air, and then was yanked deeper into the swirling water with the junk banging into me. I was swinging my arms like a windmill, and kicking, fighting the drag from the heavy clothes and tools on me. I was holding my breath. And holding it. And holding it.

I thought the end was there for me, that it was all over. But then I heard in my mind my little boy and my little girl saying to me, 'Daddy, hold your breath, hold it as long as you can, like you used to show us in our swimming pool.'

And I did. For the longest time. I don't know how long. Then I felt the water going down, and I found a little space at the top, and I could breathe.

I felt so good inside. I was so thankful to God. As the water dropped, I found I was stuck where I had grabbed at some timber, at the top of the shaft. My light cord was caught in the coal.

I took my battery off my belt, and I was looking around in the blackness and I saw another light shining below. It was off Renninger who was lying on the coal. He was dead.

So I took his light and I used that to look around to see what was going on, and where I was at.

I didn't see Shoffler but I saw his light shining through the rocks and timber down past Renninger. I actually didn't know he was there. I just felt he was there.

The whole thing happened before noon and lasted about five minutes. That's all!

There was coal falling all around me and I wasn't getting touched.

That was the part I didn't understand. It was like standing in the middle of a whole pile of coal coming down, like I was in some kind of tube, and the coal couldn't hit me. That's what it felt like.

I sat down to get my breath for a minute or two. I didn't know if there was going to be more water coming out. Or what was going to happen.

That's when I was praying to God so bad to help me.

(Left to right) Gustine, 11; his wife, Anna Mae; Adley; Ronnie, 8. Adley was trapped for five days in the Kecher coal mine. Five miners are still trapped in mine while four others were found dead.

FIRST DEER — DeWayne Gilmore, age 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Gilmore of Tyler is shown with a deer he killed not long ago near Water Valley. It was the first deer he ever bagged and it was the only deer taken by a party which also included his father and Marvin Hall of San Angelo. DeWayne is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Gilmore of Forsan, and Mrs. T.M. Dunagan, Big Spring.

Red coats win 'war'

The Red Coats voted to keep the traditional red coats as the official uniform for the Ambassadors organization when they met at noon Wednesday at Lee's Oriental Garden.

The group had been discussing the possibilities of selecting a western-type uniform for the elite organization which represents the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce at many official events.

However, several members pled for the tradition of the red coats, pointing out that the group was one of the first of its kind in West Texas and that it has been imitated in many area cities.

The Ambassadors also heard a report from Dr. John Key, updating the by-laws of the organization. Requirements include membership in the Chamber of Commerce with newly-elected members to be required to obtain five new chamber members and 125 points on a point system during their first year of membership.

Members were also notified that the point system will be closely kept. Points are made by official attendance at ribbon-cutting ceremonies, at chamber banquets, and through obtaining chamber members as well as other official activities.

Bob Moore, president, told the club that Charles Beil requested becoming an inactive member. Two vacancies in the 30 member organization were voted upon with Terry Hanson and Jack Redding elected as new ambassadors.

Mel Stinson reminded

Death penalty is reversed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The death penalty conviction of Eddie Lee Robinson in the slaying of three persons during an armed robbery at a San Antonio drugstore was reversed today because the trial court refused to allow a defense psychologist to testify.

Robinson and two others were accused of killing Andy Anderson, Verna Lee Harris and George Tatum in the July 15, 1974, robbery. One of the questions a jury members that the most important membership drive in the history of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce was coming up in the near future.

Attending the meeting were Morris Rhodes, Ellis Britton, Bill Albright, Mel Prather, Jerry Foresyth, Benny Kirkland, Larry Miller, Sherrill Farmer, Jimmy Parks, John Arrick, Al Stephens, Jere Sink, Bob Goodwin, Tom Fetters, Ray Don Williams, Oliver Coter, Jerry Mancill, Dan Allen, Louis Tallant, Bill Read, Moore, Stinson and Dr. Key.

must answer in capital cases is whether it thinks the defendant is likely to commit violent acts in the future.

The defense called Dr. Lawrence S. Schoenfeld, a clinical psychologist from the University of Texas Medical School at San Antonio. Schoenfeld had given many tests to Robinson. The trial judge sustained a prosecution objection to the question about Robinson's propensity for violent acts.

PREPARE LIST — Scott Mott and Tom Purcell, members of Boy Scout Troop 1776 prepare a door-to-door list for a portion of the Easter Seal Drive. Mrs. Fran Riley said the door-to-door portion of the drive will begin March 18 and last a week.

'Brownie points' act?

OMAR BURLESON
M.C. 17th District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Prior to 1883 federal employment was purely on the basis of the "spoils system." At that time, a part of what we know as Civil Service was adopted and in 1938 the so-called Hatch Act was enacted into law.

The Hatch Act, in effect, restricts federal Civil Service workers from participating in partisan political activity. The intent of the law is to remove political pressures from federal employees by the politicians who would demand their support for themselves or their party under threat of being fired if they failed to do so.

There are now certain "liberators" who would toss out the Hatch Act's restrictions which could again allow employees of the federal government to run for partisan political office, to work in partisan campaigns, to solicit funds and contribute money or work in federal political activities under the direction of officeholders.

There is no evidence that a majority, or even a substantial number of civil servants want this liberation, but those pushing the revision or repeal of the Hatch Act want to give it to them whether they want it or not.

Mr. Bertrand Harding, President of the National Civil Service League, testifying before a House Civil Service Subcommittee said, "That which is permitted would quickly become required." He predicted that during the first election after the repeal of this law there would be subtle pressures of federal employees to contribute and work for the officeholder or a political party, in the second election there would be the expectation, both within and outside the career service, for jobs or promotion for rewards of political activities; and by the third or fourth election, we would be back to pretty much what existed before 1883 — a pure spoils system.

Those who would gain by the repeal of the Hatch Act would be a very small percentage of workers who might want to run for public office or involve themselves in partisan politics. Union leaders who want to build a giant political force would gain the power they seek. The losers would be the vast majority of workers who will find themselves with little protection against coercion by political leaders and supervisors trying to make "Brownie points" with the politicians; workers who could well find advancement in a Civil Service position determined by political activity rather than by merit.

The public would also be the loser. A politicized Civil Service would mean an unstable and less productive work force.

The Civil Service system is far from perfect but it has nothing to do with the Hatch Act. It certainly would have something to do with it if federal employees had to be torn between loyalty to politicians and union leaders and loyalty to public service.

The Hatch Act was repealed in the last Congress but vetoed by the President. Similar legislation is already moving in the Congress and, as yet, there appears to be no expressed opposition from the Carter Administration.

As a compromise, a Virginia member of Congress has suggested that Civil Service workers be allowed to participate in local and state partisan political campaigns but not on the federal level. Such a compromise would allow federal workers to take part in much of the political life in this country without exposing them to pressures which could jeopardize their jobs, working conditions and chances for promotion. If revisions need to be made, it would seem that this approach would be far more desirable than outright repeal of the law which now provides independence and protection of federal employees.

Deputies find stolen items

Howard County Sheriff's deputies announced today the recovery of more stolen items. Two warrants were issued in early March for suspects in the burglaries.

Items recovered included a 16 inch Homelite chainsaw reported missing in the Jan. 25 burglary of the R.H. Samples residence. The saw was valued at $250. Also recovered in related burglaries were a CB radio lost from Boat-a-rama and a stereo recovered recently from the Jan. 22 burglary of property belonging to Mrs. Addie Jeffcoat.

Specialists fighting wild well

JENNINGS, La. (AP) — A well kept on hissing and spewing but it was more mud and salt water than natural gas, authorities said.

There were reports that at least a few of the six families were returning to the homes they evacuated when the well blew Wednesday, although specialists in wild well fighting said it might be three days before they got this one stopped.

The well blew out Wednesday during a shift change at the rig near here. Witnesses said the gas looked like white smoke spurting out of the ground and made a loud noise like escaping steam. They said the gas had no odor.

The well did not catch fire. An estimated two dozen workers were at the drilling rig when the well blew, but no injuries were reported.

Specialists flew in from Houston to plug the well. They said it was leaking 10 million to 15 million cubic feet of gas a day. They planned to smother the leak by forcing liquid chemical mud into the hole.

The cause of the blowout was not determined at once. Sheriff's officers said it might have been due to a break in a pipe or a piece of drilling equipment.

The blowout occurred in a rural part of Jefferson Davis Parish, three miles south of here on Louisiana Highway 26. The highway and other roads were closed for a one-mile radius.

The closest home was 600 to 800 yards from the spewing well.

The drilling rig was owned by Goldrus Co. of Lafayette, and the well is owned by the Petroleum Corp. of Dallas, deputies said.

General hit with public lewdness rap
 DALLAS (AP) - Edwin A. Walker, controversial retired major general of the Army, went free under $400 bond Wednesday after police jailed him on a charge of public lewdness.
 Officers said park policeman R.H. Benedict accused Walker, 67, of making physical advances to him in a men's restroom Tuesday night at Reverchon Park.

Walker was scheduled previously to face trial April 4 in a county criminal court on a public lewdness complaint filed with his arrest last June 23, when he was charged with making advances to another officer in a restroom.
 The general declined comment on the latest arrest when contacted by telephone at his home.
 Public lewdness is a misdemeanor and conviction carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail, a $2,000 fine or both.

Local DeMolay unit to sponsor projects

The local chapter of DeMolay will sponsor two projects to celebrate National DeMolay Week which began Sunday.

Members of the local chapter will visit the Big Spring Veterans Hospital and the Big Spring Nursing Home. The visitors will stop to talk with patients and residents of the two establishments.

In addition, several members were honored recently. These include: Robert Smith, named chaplain of the chapter, Past District Deputy State Master Counselor, Past Master Counselor, and awarded 82 merit bars and blue honor key; Ricky Brown, named PDDSMC, PMC, and chapter scribe; Dee Brown, named PMC and junior deacon; and Ronnie Hayes, named chapter senior counselor.

DeMolay is an organization of young men between the ages of 13 and 21 who gather together to learn more about brotherhood, respect for elders and God. If you are interested in joining the group, pick up a petition at Lodge Hall, 2101 Lancaster.

Enrollment dips at UT

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The spring semester enrollment at the University of Texas at Austin is 39,048, the school announced today.

That is 1,339 below the fall enrollment of 41,387, and 864 below the 39,912 figure for spring a year ago.

Only half Irish

with Marj Carpenter

IRISH EYES ... are smiling

"When Irish eyes are smiling, sure it's like a day in spring..." Every March 17 for many years, that was the first thing I would hear because Dad would wake up singing it. And he could really sing. When he and his two brothers would get together and sing Irish songs, they could wring your heart.

And when I would play something like "The Harp That Once Through Tara's Halls" on the piano, tears would roll down Dad's face. Dad was only half Irish and I'll never forget the day I learned that.

Dad's mother and her family went into a direct line back to the esteemed Oliver Wendell Holmes and Dad's father went in a direct line back to an Irish immigrant who came to help dig the Erie canal.

Irish love the field of transportation because they like to travel themselves. After the canal was dug, those early descendants went to work for railroads and my Grandpa Collier worked for the New York Central, the Southern Pacific and later the Santa Fe out at Raton, N.M.

It was there that Dad ran off and joined the Calvary to go fight Pancho Villa. They called him "Kid Collier" and he served under "Sergeant" Patton (later General Patton) but those tales can be told another day. Today is St. Patrick's Day and I'm on the Irish stories. Dad went on to fight in World War I in France, and remained to round up deserters since he was in the regular army.

When he got home, the army sent him and his Texas bride to Amherst, Mass. where he was to teach a military group at the college. They didn't yet call them ROTC units. When he and his wife hunted a place to live, they ended up in very tiny quarters.

One day, Dad came home all excited and told my Mother, I've found a bigger apartment. He was quite elated. The landlady asked the address and sneered, "Oh you wouldn't want to live there. That's the Irish part of town." Never mind what Dad said. Be it sufficient to say he never got along in Amherst and at the end of his term in the army when he could sign up again, he didn't. He told Mother, "Let's go home" and they went back to Texas where he then worked in my Granddad's garage.

In the Rio Grande Valley, in 1933, the Depression and the Hurricane — both spoken of with capital letters — hit at the same time. Dad's garage had the roof blown off and he and his wife moved across town, rented a building and opened a car parts store.

Also in 1933, Dad was Sunday School treasurer at the Presbyterian Church. One of the things that he had always "backed" was a big church picnic in early summer. In 1933, there weren't many swimming pools and to swim in one was a treat.

In the summer, the Sunday School paid the way for all of the kids to go swimming at Cascade Pool in McAllen. The entire congregation went to the event and afterward there was a huge picnic. It was a tremendous day... one that many of us remember with great joy.

I tell this only because it leads up to my half Irish tale. Dad seemed to be all Irish when it came to two qualities. He would give you the shirt of his back or he would fight at the drop of a hat.

And that day he did. Paul Shrank, who in later years became one of Dad's best friends, told him on the street one day that the Sunday School wasn't going to have the picnic. "Why?" said Dad, "We have the money." Paul explained in loud tones that it was Depression years and that the money must be saved for other projects.

He began to tell Dad how it was going to be. And Dad hit him. My brother and I were in our store, which Mother was running at the time, when somebody came in and said, "Walter and Paul Shrank are fighting up on Main Street and somebody sent for the police."

My brother and I took off running, headed for Main Street. There was Paul Shrank with a bloody nose.

There was Dad. And there were the police telling him, "A fine young businessman like yourself has no business fighting in the street. Come on now, let's go back to your store."

At that, Dad began to look very unhappy at the thought of police taking him back to the store where Mother waited.

But back he went and he went into the store saying, "We're going to have the picnic." Mother turned to Walter and I aghast and said, "Did you see it?"

In return I asked what I kept hearing in the crowd. "Is Dad a crazy Irishman?" Mother, whose Pennsylvania Dutch parents had moved to Texas, and whose background was filled with Diehls and Hoovers and Spanglers and Gables and no Irish, snapped, "No, he's only half Irish."

Indeed he was. Half Irish as Paddy's pig. Happy St. Patrick's Day out there all you half Irish fence riders.

'Wonderful West Texas' map released by WTCC

Robert D. Woofler, chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Tourist and Travel Development Committee, reports that the fourth edition of the WTCC "Wonderful West Texas" Fun and Adventure Map was released March 13 at the Dallas Sports and Vacation Show.

The Fun and Adventure Map is the feature travel publication for the WTCC providing travel information for the 132-county WTCC service area. Quantity production enables a mass distribution program to be carried out utilizing direct mail, Texas Highway Tourist Information Centers, travel shows, participating auto clubs and other interested travel related groups.

Woofler, President and Chief Executive Officer of Community Public Service Company headquartered in Fort Worth, stated, "that all inquiries received by the WTCC Travel Development Department receive a copy of the Fun and Adventure Map in addition to any special information requested." A minimum of 100,000 copies of the publication are distributed annually.

Sixty-nine points of interest are highlighted in the 1977 edition number keyed for the visitor's convenience on a colorful travel map of West Texas. Woofler noted,

'Nest Egg' idea hatched

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Lorain businessman Wilbur Ptak has hatched an idea for a new fad gift — the "Nest Egg," a plastic egg filled with up to $5,000.

He calls it ideal for anyone interested in money, credit, financial power or just plain hoarding. But the money egg is practically worthless — its contents will be old shredded bills from the Federal Reserve Bank.

How to keep in shape told

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Martin Lohmann, a 96-year-old former Illinois legislator, had some kind words for his successors when he paid a return visit to the General Assembly.

Lohmann told the House Wednesday he was looking for "the fine man who amended our pension code so we can have a Porterhouse steak occasionally."

He also had some advice on how to keep in shape during retirement years. Speaking to the Senate, he said he followed a simple procedure when walking the streets of his district in Pekin: "Every time I see four or five widows coming up the street, I run like hell for the alley."

Lohmann, a Democrat, served 10 years in the House and 20 years in the Senate between 1922 and 1952.
