Mercury dives in Panhandle

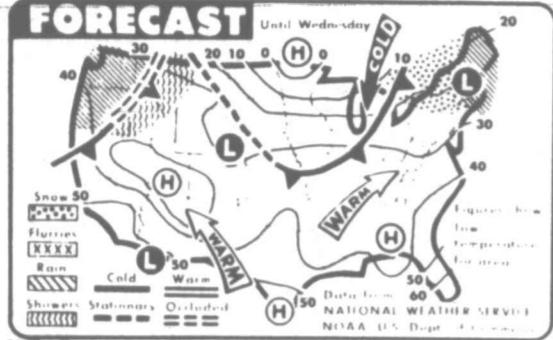

By the Associated Press
Chilly weather nipped much of Texas early today and, disregarding the official arrival of spring two days earlier, the mercury edged below freezing again at some Panhandle points.

Skies were generally clear except for a few clouds over the south third of the state. Aside from a little warming in northern areas, no big changes were expected. Temperatures near dawn sagged to 27 degrees at Dalhart and 28 at Amarillo while staying as warm as 60 at Brownsville in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Monday's top marks went as high as 83 at Alice in South Texas and Presidio in the extreme west.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS—Fair tonight and Wednesday. Low tonight 30s north to 40s south. High Wednesday 40s north to 70s south except 80s Big Bend.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Continued dry Thursday through Saturday. Very warm until turning cooler Saturday. Highs in the upper 70s to upper 90s cooling to the 60s to middle 80s by Saturday. Lows in the upper 30s to middle 50s.

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain changing to showers inland is forecast today for the North-west segment of the nation. Rain is also anticipated for most of New England. The National Weather Service is predicting snow for much of New York State. Temperatures are expected to be mild along the Pacific coast and cool in the upper Midwest.

HOUSTON (AP) — A dishwasher described as being a violent person has 'The Howl' wins award

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado High School student newspaper, "The Howl", received an award of distinguished merit and was judged tops in the high school printed division I class during the grand awards session of the 50th annual Interscholastic League Press Conference Saturday in Austin. More than 4,500 junior high and high school students and teachers attended instructional sessions of the ILPC convention Friday and Saturday at the University of Texas.

fatally shot two co-workers and himself following a heated argument at a downtown restaurant.

Police said Johnny Joe Guerrero, 29, a dishwasher at the Pound Sterling Restaurant, fatally shot Debbie Phifer, 26, the restaurant manager, and Clyde Nichols, a busboy at the restaurant and then turned a .45 caliber pistol on himself Monday.

"He always carried a gun to work," said Lee Ann Boland, 29, the restaurant bartender. "He was a violent person." Witnesses told police Guerrero, who had served two terms in state prison, became angry when he asked Nichols to help him clean off some tables and Nichols refused.

Police said Guerrero apparently then pulled out a pistol and shot the two victims and then turned the gun on himself.

Miss Boland said Guerrero had been told he would be fired from the restaurant if he didn't straighten up.

"He messed up a lot and got drunk at work," Miss Boland said. "If he didn't understand somebody was just kidding him, he would get mad, real mad."

Police sealed off all streets surrounding the annex building of the First City National Bank building where the restaurant is located after being told a gunman was holding at least three persons hostage. Police said the shootings occurred in the lounge area of the restaurant.

About 15 persons were in the restaurant breakfast room when the first shots were fired.

"First we heard three shots, then we heard a girl screaming," said Mona Medina, 21, an employee of the First City Bank. "We all were scared and wanted to get out of there. I was scared a shot would come through the wall."

Det. J.W. Calmpitte said Marcus S. Notias, an employee of a nearby firm, tried to talk Guerrero into surrendering but to no avail.

"Guerrero said 'It's too late, you can't help me anymore,'" Calmpitte said.

Observation deck in park dedicated

The observation deck at the site of the Big Spring was dedicated this morning in special ceremonies.

The city park's and recreation department financed the tourist attraction with help from tourism funds and it was constructed by the building trades class at the high school as a class project during the school year.

Purpose is to highlight the attraction for which the city was named and give tourists and local citizens a point from which they can enjoy the view of Comanche Trail Park, one of the prettiest parks in West Texas.

Craig Fischer, assistant principal at the high school and a member of the Heritage Museum Board, acted as master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Janell Davis, member of the tourist development council, gave a short talk on the history of the spring and what it meant to Indians in the early days, early travelers to the west and later to the railroad as the town developed.

Jerry Foresyth, parks and recreation director for the city introduced the boys who actually constructed the tower, including Gary Brown, Joe Gutierrez, Roland Lozano, Louis Moreno, Craig Rhoton, Wayne Rodricks, Junior Rodriguez, Ralph Saucedo, Wayne Soles, Jimmy Bedford, Johnny Davis, Bobby Delgado, Joe Diaz, Bob Fitzgibbons, Wiley Madewell, Reed Owensby, Tom Purcell, Scott Robertson, Robert Rodriguez, Frank Vasquez, Bill Wadill, and Rick Yanez.

Daryle Hohertz, local architect, spoke on the future development of the site. Father Louis Moeller of Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church, gave the benediction.

Trustees call special meet

The Big Spring School District Board of Trustees has announced a special meeting to be held Thursday. The tentative agenda includes an audience with representatives of a local semi-pro baseball organization; discussion of plans for operation during 1977-1978; discussion of continuation of board policies; and a report on recent program audits. The meeting will begin at 5:15 p.m.

Don't blame your age for poor hearing

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike ... and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 2759, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Future bride honored at gift shower

A bridal shower for Miss Beverly Green was held recently in the home of Mrs. Curt Mullins, 2829 Hunters Glen, with cohostesses being Miss Cindy Mullins, Mrs. Charlie Shanks, Mrs. Duke Pierce, Mrs. Charles Phillips and Mrs. Walter Stroup.

Miss Green is the bride-elect of Lt. James Sargent of Jacksonville, Ark., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sargent of Slidell, La. The couple plans to be married April 9 in College Baptist Church with Jack McCall officiating.

Corsages were presented to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Alton Green; and sister-in-law, Mrs. Bradley Green, both of Odessa.

Table appointments were of white milk glass, and the centerpiece was an arrangement of yellow flowers flanked by candles.

Shorter time

The Islamic calendar is shorter than the Gregorian calendar. It represents a lunar year which has 354 days instead of 365.

Women asked to examine their financial security

Mrs. Jcy Boyd spoke on "Women's Financial Security" at the Friday afternoon meeting of the Woman's Forum.

"If you were to lose your husband tomorrow, do you know where to find the will?" Mrs. Boyd asked the group. She also asked if the insurance policies, the deed to the home, car tags and other papers needed to settle business.

A banker, lawyer and tax accountant are important consultants at this time, said Mrs. Boyd.

Betty Poitevent was a guest at the meeting.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. J.H. Stewart with Mrs. Cecil McDonald as cohostess.

Mrs. John Knox presided over the business session, and contributions were taken to help with entertainment at Mountain View Lodge.

The next meeting is April 15 in the home of Mrs. Jacky Smith.

Dear Abby

Afraid Cabbie's Doing More Than Driving

DEAR ABBY: My husband drives a cab, and many times Mike has come home with names and phone numbers of women. He empties his pockets on the bureau every night and makes no effort to hide anything. When I ask him why he has these names and numbers, he says, "Oh, I meet a lot of tramps in my job who give me their names in case I run into guys who want a gal to show them the town."

I asked him how come he knows these girls are tramps unless he gets into personal conversations with them, and he says some people start pouring out their life history even before they tell him where they want to go.

Mike is good-looking and friendly, but he must give these tramps some encouragement, or they wouldn't tell him their life's history or give him their phone numbers, right?

CABBIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Not necessarily. If Mike had something to hide he wouldn't empty his pockets out on the bureau. Don't hassle him about the "tramps" he hauls, or how he comes to know their life histories. Some cabbies hear more confessions than a parish priest.

DEAR ABBY: How does one address mail to a married couple, both of whom are physicians? I know several such couples, and I never know how to address properly their invitations or Christmas cards.

Should it be: "Dr. and Mrs. John Doe" or "Dr. and Dr. John Doe"? Or is there some other form?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: They are addressed: "The Drs. Doe," "Dr. Jane Doe and Dr. John Doe," or "The Drs. John and Jane Doe."

DEAR ABBY: I recently joined the auxiliary of a civic club to which my husband belongs, and I was named to head the annual dinner and bazaar.

When the newspaper wrote up the story, they referred to me first as "Jane Jones" and thereafter as "Jones." They also referred to my position as "chairperson."

When I complained to the editor, I was told that it is the policy of most newspapers these days not to distinguish between the sexes. Well, I objected firmly. I resent being called "Jones" when I am "Mrs. Jones." Anybody can be a "person," but a woman is someone special and always has been.

MRS. JOHN JONES

DEAR MRS.: I, too, dislike the policy of some newspapers in dropping the woman's first name, or "Miss" or "Mrs." on subsequent mention. But the newspapers are in a crunch between those with our preference and other women who demand that no distinction between the sexes be made—a move (in their eyes) toward true "equality." So don't shoot the editor—he's doing the best he can.

Dr. K. Gaver lauds role of volunteer Club members teach pupils

"The need for volunteers will continue to grow and we will be delighted to see you accept that role," commented Dr. Kenneth Gaver, Commissioner, Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation in a Saturday evening address that climaxed a two-day spring board meeting of the State Volunteer Services Council hosted by the Kerrville State Hospital Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Gaver said that, in the future, volunteers will be more versatile and will be seen in the roles of advocacy, grievance, monitoring and also will become more active in interpreting the facilities to the communities and communities to facilities.

Representing 29 volunteer councils across the state were coordinators of volunteer services and council officers who attended workshops and planning sessions geared toward more effective council leadership in providing better services on the part of volunteers for persons under the care of state facilities.

Representing Big Spring State Hospital were Curt Mullins, local Volunteer Council chairman; and Mrs. Mullins; Jack Y. Smith, council treasurer and former state council chairman, and Mrs. Smith; Jim Baum, former local council chairman and state vice chairman, and Mrs. Baum, BSSH Coordinator of Volunteer Services.

Party marks 85th birthday

WESTBROOK (SC) — Mrs. Dora Fowler of Root Valley Fair Lodge in Colorado City was honored on her 85th birthday March 13 in the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Billy Joe Wood.

Those attending included Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Moody, Alan Moody, Bobby Moody, Mrs. Ted Jackson and Robert Jackson, Westbrook; Dana Dorn, Julie Sweatt, Ronnie Tadilla, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Wood, Paul Wood and Jeremiah Wood, Colorado City.

Children in the individualized program at Moss Elementary School studied several types of plant material during a Thursday session with workers from the Oasis Garden Club. Guiding the children in the study program were Mrs. James Wilhelm, Mrs. Pascal Odom and Mrs. J.D. Leonard.

Plants used were a moss-type ground cover, a succulent which, at this period of growth resembles a tiny cabbage, but is named "Live Forever." Another plant used is called Tansy. The plants were placed in small containers in macrame hangers. The containers were made from halves of plastic eggs, and the macrame was of brightly colored yarn. These were pre-Easter gifts for the children to take home to their mothers.

The April 21 project will be to pot rotted chrysanthemums or other plants. At that time, the workers will be Mrs. Horace Tubb, Mrs. Thetus Dunagan and Mrs. Boone Horne.

The gardening project has been undertaken by the Oasis Club for the past 15 years.

Trial moved from Matador

MATADOR — The capital murder trial of two men accused of the shotgun slaying of former Motley County Sheriff Jalmar (Jinks) Wilson has been moved from Matador.

Stacy Albert Carter, 25, of Olivia, N.C., one of the defendants, will be tried starting sometime after May 1 in the 72nd District Court in Lubbock.

The other defendant, Larry Carnell Fortenberry, 28, Mount Hermon, La., will be tried later in Plainview.

Wilson was shot to death Nov. 12, 1976, on a road three miles east of Matador — 49 days before he was to retire.

Carter and Castleberry have been held in jail here since that time.

DORA WATKINS

IPM lecture Wednesday

The Inner Peace Movement gives people insight into wisdom they already have, and teaches them to be masters of their own lives, according to Dora Watkins, who will give a lecture on the Inner Peace Movement Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Reddy Room.

Mrs. Watkins said that when people are relaxed, their psychic sensitivities are more apparent, and they are able to communicate and see things more clearly through these sensitivities.

The whole purpose of the Inner Peace Movement is to show people in a community that they do have these psychic sensitivities, and to show them how to harness them and use them in a practical way.

The Inner Peace Movement is an educational non-profit organization incorporated in 1964 and chartered in Washington, D.C. It is an independent organization and is not affiliated in instructor or by financial means with any other organization. IPM works cooperatively with many organizations offering varied facets of personal development.

Since 1964, the program has been presented in 750 communities with presentations in an estimated 500 communities within the last 16 months.

Everyone is invited to the orientation lecture which Mrs. Watkins will give at 8 p.m. on Wednesday in the Reddy Room. A fee of $1.50 will be charged for the program.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Reagan V. Brown, a speech-making agriculture expert who once ran against the legendary Speaker Sam Rayburn, is Texas' new agriculture commissioner.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe announced the appointment Monday to fill the vacancy when John C. White, commissioner for 26 years, quit to become deputy U.S. Secretary of Agriculture. "I will dedicate all my efforts and mission to helping the farmers and ranchers of Texas make a profit," said Brown, 55, a 30-year veteran in agriculture work.

Real estate class offered

A two-session class will be offered in Real Estate Investments by the continuing education department of Howard College. This course will be offered on March 28 and 30 from 6:30 to 9:30 in room 101 of the Horace Garrett Applied Science Building.

Cost for the course is $6 and anyone interested in real estate investments are invited to pre-register for the course by calling the Continuing Education Office at Howard College, 267-6311, extension 70.

Jeff Brown will lead the course and will be assisted on the second night by Guilford Jones III, tax attorney, and by Charles Bell, chief executive of the First Federal Savings and Loan. Brown is a realtor, appraiser, and real estate consultant. These three people will end the final night with questions and answers from the participants in the class.

The course of study will include an introduction to real estate investment, home ownership, rental housing as an investment, commercial feasibility study, financing with regard to real estate investment, and taxation with regard to real estate investments. Handout materials will be given in class. This makes pre-registration very important to assure that adequate materials are available.

To pre-register or to obtain more information, those interested may call the Continuing Education Office, extension, 70, at HC.

Postal clinic in Midland

A postal clinic has been scheduled for 9 a.m., April 6, in the conference room of the Main Post Office in Midland to assist third class mail bulk mail permit holders with the proper procedures to be used in preparing their mail to qualify for the reduced "per piece" rate instead of the higher "single" piece rate, Postmaster D.E. Holster announced today.

Many customers have been preparing their third class bulk mail incorrectly for some time — these customers will have until April 14 to comply with regulations, Holster said.

In order to be eligible for acceptance, bulk third-class mail must be presorted by ZIP Codes in packages when ten or more pieces of mail are going to the same ZIP Code in accordance with Postal Regulations.

Mail not properly prepared will be charged with postage at the higher single piece third-class rate. Bulk mailers, such as churches and other charitable and non-profit institutions, are urged to have representatives attend this clinic.

Briscoe told a news conference that a number of other candidates were considered including Bill Pieratt, deputy state commissioner to White for 11 years, and Reps. Pete Laney, 33, D-Hale Center, and Joe Hubenak, 39, Rosenberg.

Briscoe said he was told by his legal staff that neither of the legislators could be appointed because they had voted for a cost of living raise for the commissioner in 1975. The state constitution prohibits a legislator from taking a job he help create or increased the salary.

Ford recalls Mustangs, Cougars

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. announced Monday the recall of more than half a million of its 1968 and 1969 Ford Mustangs and Mercury Cougars equipped with bucket seats because the back of the driver's seat could collapse.

Ford said on Monday it would recall the cars, although it still is appealing the NHTSA's order in court.

A bracket supporting the right-hand side of the driver's seat back may break, possibly allowing the driver to fall back. Ford said owners may obtain replacement brackets at their local dealers. Replacement parts should be available beginning April 30, a spokesman said.

There have been no deaths or serious injuries resulting from 750 reported collapses of the seat backs, the spokesman said, although there have been 24 cases of "minor property damage" and 41 minor injuries "such as sore necks or backs."

Brown also is chairman of the governor's "Texas First" program, a cooperative effort to improve employment in Texas.

He is on leave from Texas A&M University, where he was an extension sociologist. Prior to that he was a county extension agent in Hunt, Kaufman, and Caldwell Counties.

Brown frequently tells how he received his "Ph. D." in politics during Korean War years when he made an unsuccessful race against Speaker Rayburn. It was "almost sacrilegious," says Brown, who has great respect for the late Speaker.

INTO THE "TREASURE MOUNTAIN" — Kevin Henry (entering cave) and Jerry Lee (at right) start on their preliminary investigation of a large underground vault in Victorio Mountain. An hour-long search unveiled graffiti, tin cans and unexploded dynamite — but no gold — and researchers spent the afternoon mapping passageways of the cave in their search for the buried gold of legend.

Searching for gold cache

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Searchers for a legendary gold cache at Victorio Peak are trying to find a way into a large room inside the mountain where they believe the gold might be hidden. The search team, led by Norman Scott of Expeditions Unlimited, Inc., from Pompano Beach, Fla., used a backhoe Monday to enlarge a hole found in the east side of the peak. Two men, Jerry Lee and Kevin Henry, lowered themselves through the hole and down a 325-foot shaft to two rooms. They found what is believed to be the sealed entrance to a larger room that some of the treasure claimants say contains the gold.

The two men said debris in the two rooms indicated people had been there before. They said they discovered old dynamite, numerous tin cans, writing on the walls of people's names and the dates they had been there, and timbers that had been used to shore up the roof. Late Monday a U.S. Army ordinance disposal team brought the dynamite out of the mountain and destroyed it. Scott said he plans to map the two accessible rooms and use that information to devise a way to remove the fallen rock and timber blocking the passageway to the larger room. Scott said he planned to use a bulldozer today to begin excavation in the Bloody Hands area, about a mile and a half from the peak. He said "electronic radar and other electronic surveillance equipment" also would be used to determine if there is a cave in that area, and if there is any metal in any cave found. Handling the electronic equipment is a team from Stanford Research Institute headed by Lambert Dolphin. Dolphin said his ground radar helps detect caverns and aids cave crawlers by showing where any caverns lead. "The radar gives us the direction," Scott said. "They can trace this on the surface and we'll know not to go to the left because that's a dead end, but take the right because it leads to a cave."

Victim of vendetta, says indicted mayor

HONOLULU (AP) — Mayor Frank F. Fasi, indicted on a bribery charge, says he is innocent and that he is a victim of a political vendetta. An indictment returned Monday by a state grand jury accuses Fasi of accepting $500,000 from developer Hal J. Hansen of Honolulu, in return for selecting Hansen's Oceanside Properties, Inc., in 1971 to build a downtown high-rise project. The contract involved construction of a $50 million highrise on city-owned land under a $1-a-year, 75-year lease agreement in exchange for offering one-fourth of the apartments for sale to low- and moderate-income families. Hansen earlier is indicted by the grand jury but is expected to receive immunity for his testimony against Fasi. The mayor's former chief fund-raiser, Harry C. C. Chung, was indicted for bribery and theft. "The charges as outlined in the indictment are absolutely and completely false," Fasi said at a news conference. "That any charges whatsoever should be made at all is a monstrous abuse of political power." "They're trying to eliminate me as the only effective opposition to the political dictatorship which has controlled our state for 15 years," said Fasi. He has long been at odds with Gov. George R. Ariyoshi and his predecessor, the late Gov. John A. Burns. Fasi, 56, is midway through his third four-year term as mayor, and was defeated by Ariyoshi in the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial primary. When questions about the development project surfaced last year, Fasi ordered an investigation by the city prosecutor, but the state stepped in and named California attorney Grant B. Cooper as special deputy to head the probe. Despite the indictment, Fasi said he will formally announce his candidacy for governor next month, and will begin raising funds both for his 1978 candidacy and for his legal defense. Chung and Fasi face arraignment on Wednesday; trial is expected to begin in June.

Farm Milk prices expected to rise

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has decided to give milk producers a larger boost in basic price supports than either his own agriculture secretary or the National Milk Production Federation recommended. Secretary Bob S. Bergland planned to announce the decision at a news conference today.

The April 1 increase — to $9 per 100 pounds from $8.26 — is also more in dollars and cents than Carter said during the campaign he would have approved. It could boost consumer milk prices by about 6.2 cents a gallon in two or three months if all of it is passed on.

At the direction of White House staff aides, the Agriculture Department presented Carter three options: 80 per cent of parity, roughly 83 per cent and 85 per cent.

Over the weekend, he picked 83 per cent. By law, the support must be reset at least every April 1. It can be anywhere between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, which is a formula designed to give farmers the same buying power they had in 1910-14, when costs and incomes were said to be in balance.

The current $8.26 per hundredweight support was set last October under a policy of quarterly reviews of the dollar-and-cents level's relationship to parity.

At that time, $8.26 was 80 per cent, but is close to 75 per cent now.

Also at that time, USDA figures show, a retail gallon of milk sold for about $1.67. In January the average was $1.66 and the farmers' "share" of that was down to 54 per cent from 57 per cent in October.

The quarterly review policy was initiated after President Gerald R. Ford vetoed bills that would have required it, always with a readjustment to 85 per cent of parity.

During the presidential campaign, Carter told dairy groups he would have signed those bills. At the time he made the statements, White House aides have calculated, 85 per cent would have come out to $8.87.

Reagan, cattlemen exchange praise

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Ronald Reagan has lauded cattlemen as being the "last bastion against accepting government help and free of government regulations."

The former California governor, who raises steers himself, spoke to approximately 1,800 ranchers and their wives Monday at the kickoff luncheon of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association centennial meeting at the Tarrant County Convention Center.

Reagan spoke out against "too much government" and urged the group to help make changes to protect the free enterprise system. "To some people, changing the government is likened unto changing a baby's diaper. You say it isn't your line of work. But it is," he said.

J.A. Whittenburg III of Amarillo, president of the 13,000-member cattlemen's group, said Reagan was "a man who still speaks out for the principles as did our forefathers who formed this organization 100 years ago."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe was to keynote the opening general session Tuesday, and newly-appointed deputy U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John C. White was scheduled to speak Wednesday, the final day of the meeting.

Carter, farmers jaw

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas cotton farmer Jose C. Hinojosa stopped working in the fields long enough to spend a day in Washington as a consultant to President Jimmy Carter.

Hinojosa, who farms 700 acres near Edcouch with his brother, was one of five carefully selected farmers invited to dine with the President as part of his continuing effort to stay in touch with common people. He was technically on the government payroll as a consultant so his expenses could be paid.

Hinojosa was picked up by his congressman, Rep. E. Kika de la Garza, D-Tex., at the request of the White House. Four other legislators sent a constituent, and they provided a group of studied diversity.

Besides Hinojosa (a Mexican-American from South Texas), there was James R. Frazier, a black who raises poultry and produce in Bucksport, S.C.; Tom Davis, a wheat farmer from Collee City, Wash.; Homer Foster, a beef, hog and grain dealer from Merville, Iowa; and Robert Hawrigan, a dairy farmer from Fairfield, Vt.

Was Hinojosa nervous? "I'm still nervous now," he said, an hour after lunch.

But Hinojosa recalled President Carter putting him at ease quickly. "He was real friendly. I said I was from Texas and he said, 'You're a cotton grower, well, I come from an area where cotton is grown in Georgia.'" Carter did not, however, tell the group about his own farm or try to speak Spanish with Hinojosa.

Instead, the group discussed farm problems over their lunch of bean soup, club sandwiches and iced tea.

Billie Jean come back!

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Crying for a comeback, six-time Wimbledon singles champion Billie Jean King plays her first competitive tennis match here today since knee surgery took her off the women's pro tour last October.

Ms. King, who is the top-seeded player in this $20,000 Lionel McFarlin Cup tournament, was scheduled to meet Susan Stat in a first round match.

There is a possibility that Ms. King, 33, could meet transsexual Dr. Renee Richards in the semifinals Friday if both win their matches. They have never met before in competition.

Fifth-seeded Dr. Richards defeated Rayni Fox 6-2, 6-4 in a first round match Monday.

"I think it's great that Renee is here," said Ms. King. "I think most of the female players are for her, but they are waiting for the courts to decide whether she can compete. The women don't want to decide the issue themselves. They want it to be the law of the land."

The Women's Tennis Association refused to allow Dr. Richards to play in its sanctioned events without a chromosome sex test, which she had refused to take.

"I don't anticipate a kiss-and-make-up situation with the WTA," Dr. Richards said during practice at McFarlin Tennis Center here. "I can't see coming to be amiable with an organization that has done so much against me and other young girls."

The 42-year-old former ophthalmologist said, "I think it's finally come down to playing tennis. I'm Renee Richards the tennis player. I'm not Renee Richards the transsexual. I just want to be happy playing tennis."

Ms. King, who said she lost 30 pounds due to inactivity after her knee operation, has "really been busting a gut" to ready herself for play, she said.

She said she isn't expecting any miracles at this week's tournament but hopes to make a "really good run at full tilt" for the $3,000 first prize.

Mr. Moneybags answers critics

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — George Steinbrenner III resents being pictured as a Mr. Moneybags on an ego trip — out to buy a World Series baseball championship for his New York Yankees.

"It's a false image," the jet-propelled owner of the American League titleholders said over the weekend during one of his quick stopovers here to attend to his ship-building business.

"No one can be sure of buying a pennant. I am willing to compare our expenditures the last four years with those of any club. I don't think many people are aware of what we are now doing in the college and minor league areas."

Steinbrenner, head of the syndicate which bought the Yankees from CBS in September, 1974, insists that he has adopted a long-range view in blueprinting the club's future.

"We have more than doubled our budget for player procurement," he explained. "We now have a 20-man scouting staff. We have added 14 new scouts, paying top dollar."

"That isn't all. We now have two coaches with every one of our minor league teams. The purpose is to give the managers more time to manage and to see that all of our new players are exposed to topflight instruction."

"Normally, the minor league manager drives the bus, picks up bats and sweeps the locker room floor. We don't want that. We want him to manage. We have got some of the top pitching coaches, guys such as Hoyt Wilhelm and Sammy Ellis."

"Our outlay is about $50,000 more per year for each of our minor league teams."

The Yankees who won the American League pennant last year were not a collection of high-priced and high-salaried super stars, an exception being pitcher Catfish Hunter signed New Year's Eve, 1974, for a reported $3.75 million.

They were instead pieces of an intricate jigsaw put together by Steinbrenner and his top command, Gabe Paul. They jelled magically into a winning unit.

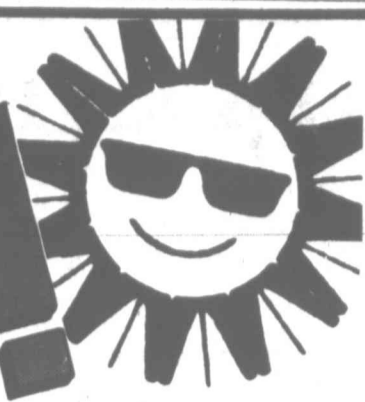

"We took a club that the year before had finished in sixth place, 16 games out of the top in its division," the Yankee owner said. "It was a team that drew only 700,000 fans."

$37,000 judgment triggers measure

By SCOTT PARKS
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — A $37,000 court judgment against a former state official is causing some legislators to wonder just how far the state should go in assuming liability for its employees.
The question has widespread ramifications for the state budget, but the real fiscal impact is impossible to determine, according to Legislative Budget Board analysts.
Dr. George Beto, former head of the Texas Department of Corrections, was on the losing end of a $37,000 judgment entered in a Houston federal court on March 3.
Beto, now a teacher at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville, was charged with violating the civil rights of several prison inmates and their attorney.
The judgment consisted of $10,291 for actual damages and $27,825 for court costs and attorney fees, according to John Griffin, the assistant attorney general who defended Beto.
The law allows the state to pay Beto's actual damages, but not the court costs and attorney fees.
The House Committee on Judicial Affairs will hear testimony on a bill next week which would make every state employee eligible to be defended by the attorney general in cases of negligence, medical malpractice and civil rights violations.
The present law allows the attorney general to defend only the employees of eight state agencies. Texas Department of Corrections is one — or an employee of a state-supported university who is involved in health-related activity.

Sen. Bill Moore, sponsor of the expansion bill, has already passed the measure through the Senate with no amendments. It will not, however, help officials like Beto, who will have to foot a $27,000 bill for attorney fees and court costs if he doesn't win an appeal to the 5th Circuit Court in New Orleans.

Steve Bickerstaff, another assistant attorney general, says Beto asked his office to approach Moore and Rep. Bill Prenal of Bryan, the House sponsor, about inserting coverage for attorney fees into the proposed bill.
"We said we would draft such an amendment. That was our responsibility," Bickerstaff said. "If they (Moore and Prenal and other legislators) want to cover Dr. Beto and similar situations, then we gave them the language to do it."
Prenal said he hasn't had a chance to consider the merits of mandating the state to pay attorney fees as well as actual damages.
"The attorney general's office sent his amendment over here," Prenal, chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, said. "I don't know who requested it and I haven't had a chance to look at it."

Also in Big Spring

Roger Hull is a name among motorcyclists who are motorcyclists. He edits the "Road Rider" magazine and part of the year, he tours the United States on a motorcycle.

Last Thursday morning he stopped in Big Spring at the Harley Davidson shop and visited his friend, Howard Walker. Hull likes the touring end of motorcycling and isn't particularly inspired by motorcycle races or hillclimbs or things of this nature.

He said that motorcycles are a lot safer than people give them credit for being. "Whenever anybody is killed on a motorcycle, everyone is horrified. When your friends are killed in a car, you get in another car and drive to the funeral."

Hull pointed out that most motorcycle accidents in the record books occur among cyclists driving their first 500 miles. "Some of these are actually people who have borrowed a motorcycle and have little or no knowledge of the vehicle. These kind of statistics hurt us all."
"After the first 500 miles,

with Marj Carpenter

cycles are safer than cars are percentage-wise," Hull pointed out. This Laguna Beach cyclist has had one accident through the years and said that most people that have driven a car as long as he has driven a motorcycle have had at least one accident.

"I don't own a car but I have three cycles," he laughed.

He saw a sign on the highway one day that said, "Hull" so he decided to start looking for all the towns with his namesake throughout the country. He found about 16

Hulls, one of which was in Texas outside Beaumont. In fact, that was the first Hull that he wrote about.

"That project took me off the main highways on to the back roads and that's really a good way to journey across America. That's where the real Americans are," he added.

He started the magazine in 1968 in a garage. He and two other guys wrote it all at first. One of them left the magazine and he finally bought out the other. The monthly magazine now has a worldwide circulation of 35,000 and there are ten on the staff.

He bemoaned some of the regulations about cycles. "In all states, you have to drive during the daytime with your lights on and this has actually caused more wrecks rather than less, according to the statistics."

"The required helmets do not really add as much head protection as people think and they cut off a lot of sound. I wear a short helmet, leaving my ears free to hear what's coming up behind me," Hull added.

The cyclist was clad in protective black leather clothing. He said he had no family and was "free to roam", sort of in the mode of that television series, "Bronson."

Hull says he goes about the same distance per day as you can go in your car. He was here in mid-morning Friday and planned to stay in either El Paso or Las Cruces that night.

"I used to camp out but I usually stay in motels nowadays," Hull added.
"I usually try to stop and see friends — like Howard here and I needed to get some oil for my cycle."

And as he ended his own article about all the Hulls in "Road Rider" — "I kicked the sidestand up, started the Harley and, listening to the deep rumble of the engine and the soft whistle of the wind, I went back home."

Safe journey, Roger Hull, from this old fence rider. If I see you coming back this way — please wave — when I'm out ridin' fence.

Woman, 88, jogs one mile a day

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eula Weaver isn't as young as she used to be, so she's reduced her daily regimen of jogging to just one mile a day. After all, she is 88.

When it rains, and she can't jog the full mile around a high school track near her suburban Santa Monica home, she mounts the stationary bicycle in her living room and pedals 10 miles or so.

She also goes to a local gym three times a week and pedals 10 miles before dinner.

Mrs. Weaver suffered a stroke a decade ago and was nearly paralyzed.

"I could hardly walk at all," she said, explaining the effects of the stroke combined with arthritis in her hands and knees.

Doctors gave her two choices — spend the rest of her life as an invalid, being hand-fed and clothed, or get out of her rocking chair and start walking again, no matter how painful.

It didn't take her long to decide. She vowed she would "try everything in this world to get back to normal."

Following her doctor's advice, she started slowly, walking gingerly at first, pushing herself even though it hurt, and deadening some of the pain with pills.

She moved from Illinois to southern California to be near her grandson, went on a strict health-oriented diet and started running. Soon, she was jogging two miles a day.

Mrs. Weaver was induced in 1975 to enter the National Senior Olympics held in Irvine, 50 miles south of Los Angeles.

"I jogged there three years and got six gold medals, one for Saturday and one for Sunday (each year)," she said. "The first time I did it Sen. (Alan Cranston (D-Calif.) came out and hugged me and said, 'I'm so proud of you.'"

She walks away from the contest every year as the female champion of the 1,500-meter run for those over 80. There's no one else in the category.

Mrs. Weaver thanks her grandson, Jim Weaver of West Los Angeles, for introducing her to the man whom she credits for her recovery. She said Nathan Pritikin, founder of the Longevity Research Institute in Santa Barbara, is responsible for making her "able to walk — in fact for being alive."

She says he made her throw away her pain-killing pills and put her on a diet of green vegetables and fresh raw fruit, and less than three ounces of meat a day.

Parent Effectiveness Training course slated

An eight-week course in Parent Effectiveness Training is being planned by the Howard College Continuing Education Program. This course will be taught March 28-May 16 from 7:00 to 10:00 for a total of 24 hours of instruction. The Rev. Carroll Kohn, who is a licensed Parent Effectiveness Instructor, will conduct the course.

The cost for this course is $50. per person which includes all supplies and materials. The class will be held in room 107 of the Horace Garrett Applied Science Building. The class will be limited to 30 people. Pre-registration through the Howard College Continuing Education Office is necessary and can be taken care of by calling extension 70 at the College number, 267-6311.

Rev. Kohl is a member of the International Transactional Analysis Association, Assistant Chaplain at Big Spring VA Hospital, Pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Member of the Association for Clinical Pastoral Education, active in marriage and family counseling, and involved in various state and national youth programs.

This course is designed for parents who want to do a better job of being parents. The course will teach "active listening" and skills to deal with needs, values and wants conflicts between children and children, children and parents and between spouses.

After a recent PET course, a typical comment was heard from a parent who had participated in the workshop. "My husband is sharing much deeper of himself with me. The children seem to realize that their feelings are important to me."
