Daylight robber hits store here

An armed robber hit the Big Dipper Donut Shop, 1600 Gregg, in broad daylight 11:30 this morning.

According to Kathie Massengill, clerk at the shop, the robber entered through the front door, pulled a small caliber revolver on her, and demanded that she clean out the cash register. He made off with $175 in bills, but didn't bother with the change in the register.

The daylight bandit was reported to be in his early 20s, wearing blue jeans, a red windbreaker and sunglasses. He was last seen heading west on Sixteenth Street.

Ms. Massengill also reported that a man answering the suspect's description had come into the shop two days ago, and commented that "business was sure slow around noon."

An all-points-bulletin was put out. Patrolmen were instructed to be on the alert for the fleeing robber.

Coffee smugglers burned alive?

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan troops have executed a gang of coffee smugglers by burning them alive on an island in Lake Victoria, the daily Nation newspaper said today.

The Kenyan paper, quoting what it called reliable sources, said the smugglers were captured as they were running coffee across the lake from Uganda into Kenya for shipment abroad.

The men were taken to Kigulu Island by the soldiers "and told to lie down," the Nation said. Then "they were covered with empty sacks and petrol was poured over them. They were then set alight."

The reported executions were apparently in retaliation for the killing of a soldier by smugglers in an earlier clash, the paper added.

In that incident, a Ugandan army helicopter opened fire on a smugglers' boat on Lake Victoria. The smugglers fired back, killing the soldier and forcing the helicopter to crashland on Kigulu.

Several smugglers have been reported slain in clashes with the military and between rival gangs in recent weeks as coffee smuggling has mushroomed into a major racket in East Africa to cash in on sky-high world coffee prices.

Ugandan army helicopters have patrolled Lake Victoria and the Kenyan border in the last few weeks in a growing campaign to smash the smuggling gangs. Kenyan authorities have also mounted a major operation.

Both governments are alarmed at the escalation of a racket that robs them of much-needed foreign currency from official coffee exports.

Deposits reach all-time high

Deposits in Howard County banking institutions reached an all-time high during the quarter ending March 31, indicating that the economy remains very vigorous.

Money from the county's bountiful cotton crop, which was finally harvested, pushed deposits in the four banks to $122,907,219.

That represents a gain of 5.4 per cent over the previous quarter and a whopping 13 per cent gain within a year's time.

Deposits in the First National Bank increased over $2 million to a record $55 million plus. Security State Bank saw its deposits go from nearly $19.5 million pass the $21 million mark.

State National Bank showed a gain from just under $40 million to nearly $41 million. Coahoma State Bank's deposits grow from nearly $5.4 million to nearly $5.77 million.

Charley Havins, cashier at the State National Bank, said that his firm actually had nearly $42 million on deposit during the middle of March. That institution's deposits peaked when the last of the cotton money was left at the bank.

Loans and discounts at the four banks were down 7.6 per cent for the first quarter of 1977 but were up 18.9 per cent in a year's time, totaling $61,544,021 for the period ending March 31.

The December 31 deposits ($116,581,215) had set an all-time record in the county.

Hutchins treated for bite

Veteran snake-handler Delbert Hutchins was bitten by a rattler near the end of the final show at the 15th annual Jaycees Rattlesnake Roundup Sunday. Hutchins, who has been bitten six times previously in 15 years of snake handling, was caught with what was described as "a good shot" as he attempted to charm the reptile into what was called the "Easter Bonnet" which Hutchins would wear around the ring.

He was reported in improved condition today in intensive care at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

"He had a real active snake that kept striking and striking, until finally it got him," one spectator said.

Hutchins had apparently been struck lightly earlier in the day, and had already taken some anti-venom. He did not finish the show.

"He was real tired and probably shouldn't even have been in there (the ring)," the onlooker continued.

Three other persons were hit by the snakes Sunday. Mrs. Ginger Thomas, Robbie Robertson, and Steve Pointevint suffered bites. Mrs. Thomas, in excellent condition at Webb AFB hospital, was bitten on the finger. Neither Robertson nor Pointevint required extensive care for their bites. Robertson was bitten while handling a snake, and Pointevint while photographing one.

BITTEN — Snake handler Delbert Hutchins was caught in the right hand Sunday in the final show at the Jaycees Rattlesnake Roundup. The snake apparently refused to be coaxed into coiling properly for Hutchins' Easter bonnet performance. Hutchins is reported in improved condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital today.

Child is bitten by rattlesnake

Cheville Laredo, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Laredo, was rushed to a local hospital Sunday afternoon after she was bitten by a rattlesnake at her home about 18 miles north of Coahoma.

The child was struck by what was described as a big rattler just as she stepped off the porch. Her wound was between the knee and ankle of the right leg. The snake got away.

The father, who works for Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Wolfe, is in the process of getting his naturalization papers.

Doctors reported the little girl in stable condition with no imminent prospects of complications.

The roundup ended Sunday with 3,000 pounds of snake brought in from the Big Spring area. Winner of the largest amount of snakes brought in was the Carr family, Jack, Barbara, Brian and Dalton, who brought in 1388 pounds. Second place was taken by C.E. Lister with 507 pounds, and third by T.C. Plummer with 257 pounds.

The longest and shortest snakes were also produced by the Carr family. The longest measured five feet, seven inches and the shortest 12 and seven-eighths inches.

Total attendance was estimated at 3,000 people, and the two films at the roundup were shown to 1,037 people.

Four hundred pounds of snake were passed out through the concession stand, and 2,250 pounds were sold to snake handler Dick Boss for his Colorado business. Boss supplies restaurants with snake meat as well as milking and selling hides and fangs.

Five or six ounces of venom were produced from snake milking, as well as snake serum from blood which will be used in anti-venom research.

Zaire breaks Cuba ties

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — President Mobutu Sese Seko's government today broke relations with Cuba because of its alleged backing of the Angola-based rebel invasion of Shaba Province.

BREAK RELATIONS — The Zaire government of President Mobutu Sese Seko, right, broke relations Monday with the government of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, left, because of Cuba's alleged backing of the Angola-based rebel invasion of Shaba Province. The Zaire government radio said documents proving Cuban involvement in the invasion were found on an unnamed Cuban diplomat.

The government radio said documents proving Cuban involvement in the invasion were found on an unnamed Cuban diplomat. The radio gave no details of the documents but said all Cuban diplomats have been ordered to leave the country "in accordance with international usage."

The Zaire government has repeatedly claimed that the rebels were being helped by military advisers, troops, arms and equipment from Cuba, the Soviet Union and Angola.

The rebels crossed the Angolan border into Shaba March 8 and have seized about one-third of the province. Most of them are former militiamen who fought in support of Moise Tshombe's secessionist drive in Katanga in the 1960s and were driven back into Angola.

Diplomatic sources also reported that Mobutu has removed popular Gen. Bumba Moasso as chief of the Zaire army's general staff in a shakeup following the invasion.

Bumba told a news conference last week his troops had found Russians, Cubans and Portuguese among dead enemy soldiers.

In view of Bumba's widespread popularity among Zaire troops, Mobutu has avoided any public announcement of his downgrading, the informants said.

Bumba was allowed to keep his title as the army's "captain-general," but was deprived of his previous authority as chief of the armed forces immediately under supreme commander Mobutu.

Large sections of the crowd began leaving about 40 minutes into Sakongi's hour-long address. Soldiers closed the gates to stop the exodus.

Sakongi ended by swinging both arms into the air, clenching his fists and shouting, "The revolution will win!" Not a sound came from the crowd. He repeated the gesture and the shout. Again the crowd was silent. Sakongi then declared the rally ended and left the stadium.

Many members of Mobutu's government and other leaders of the government party sat on the speaker's platform. The president did not appear, but a huge portrait of him was hung at the top of the stands, and Sakongi frequently referred to "our great guide and leader and founder of our party."

The Katangans fled to Angola in 1964 from what was then the Congo's Katanga province after an attempt at secession failed. The invaders reportedly have moved to within 30 miles of the town of Kolwezi, whose copper mines produce more than 60 per cent of Zaire's export income.

The government claims that Russians, Cubans and Portuguese are fighting with the Katangans, but it has not presented any evidence to prove this.

committee who make advance recommendations on the bill.

Any of these committee members may be written at Box 2910, Austin, 78769. The chamber is sending a mailogram to each one of them.

The list includes Joe White, chairman; Hamp Atkinson, vice chairman; Anthony Hall, Hugo Berlanga, John Bigham, Jim Browder, Bob Davis, Roy English, Ben Grant, Gerald Hill, Wayne Peveto, Stan Schlueter and Brad Wright.

Ken Perry, president of Cosden, stated "I appreciate the support of Big Spring citizens and whatever they can do to help."

Action/reaction: Vital clause

Q: An article in the Abilene Reporter-News Thursday paper quoted Mayor Wade Choate as saying that when Webb Air Force Base is decided over to the City of Big Spring, there will be a clause that reads that the government can retake the base if needed in a pinch. Shouldn't an important statement like this be made public in our paper?

A: Herald Publisher J. Tom Graham said that Mayor Choate and Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce President Roger Brown have discussed with several government agencies the process that the city will go through in obtaining the deed to Webb. The officials say it is apparently impossible to obtain a deed without a clause with would allow the government to reoccupy the base in time of need. But this will not serve to discourage industry from locating at the base because the government would pay the total cost of relocating any industry there should the base be called up in a crisis. This clause is routine in every abandoned military base deed, and it has not been a handicap for industries moving to other bases, Graham said. The new appointed steering committee on the air base has just begun its work to obtain a deed to Webb. Details of how this will come about and how the contract might read will appear in the Herald as they become available in months to come.

Offbeat: Small town, big goofs

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — Bill Davidson has learned that small crimes can pay big dividends. He became the beneficiary of a $200,000 check from LaGrande, Ore., last week — for speeding.

Davidson was ticketed several weeks ago for speeding in the eastern Oregon community and paid a $17 fine.

The original fine was reduced when it went through Oregon's court system and he should have been reimbursed $7.

But last Thursday, when his wife picked up the mail, she found a check for $200,000 from Oregon.

"We just laughed when we saw it," Mrs. Davidson said Monday. "We never thought of trying to cash it. My husband took it right down to our bank manager, who also thought it was pretty funny."

The county clerk in Oregon was not aware of the error until a reporter brought it to her attention.

"Oh, my God," the clerk said. "We may be a small town of 1,000, but we sure make big goofs."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter and Anwar Sadat, two deeply religious men of rural origin, will try to find out whether they have a common approach toward settling the Arab-Israeli conflict. Today's White House session between the U.S. and Egyptian presidents follows a traditional arrival ceremony for Sadat, the first Arab leader to confer with President Carter.

Brown predicts accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown believes a limited new U.S. agreement with the Soviet Union to curb strategic nuclear weapons can be put together by October, when the present five-year salt pact expires. But associates familiar with the thinking of the defense secretary say Brown believes it may take longer to negotiate a full Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty resolving the more difficult issues separating the two countries.

'Just took off mask'

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — "He just took off the mask, that's all," said one middle-class Brazilian after President Ernesto Geisel shut down Congress and gave himself power to legislate by decree. Geisel, the 68-year-old general who became president three years ago, has consistently promised a return to full democracy and permitted far more political debate and press freedom than the three generals who preceded him in the presidency.

Highways, farms compete

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Highway builders compete with farm workers today for attention of Texas legislators.

The Senate scheduled a morning session to resume debate of a highway financing bill that was interrupted last Wednesday by a mini-filibuster.

House members were in recess until 2 p.m. Meanwhile, a small band of Mexican-American farm workers who walked all the way from the Rio Grande Valley to Austin to lobby for legislation that would give them collective bargaining rights tried to make points with the lawmakers.

The farm workers met with Gov. Dolph Briscoe in 10 a.m. session at the Mansion.

Softball players killed

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Three Fort Worth men starting home from a softball tournament here died Sunday in the fiery crash of a light airplane.

They were identified by police as Pat D. Forehand, 25, owner and pilot of the craft; Kerry Michael Cooper, 31, and Jesse D. McMahon, 30.

Fire destroyed all of the single-engine Piper Comanche except a wing tip after it cracked up in the back yard of a Wichita Falls home. The plane went down about one mile distant moments after takeoff from Kickapoo Airport, a private facility.

Walter Shawn, owner of the house where the plane crashed, was in the front yard with one of his children when it struck. His wife and two other children were in the house.

"I heard a motor like it was real close up," Shawn said. "Then I heard the noise. I'm just thankful we were in the front yard."

Shawn's home was not damaged.

Two of the occupants were hurled from the plane by the impact, investigators said. One was found in the wreckage.

Electronic banking

The amendment was introduced by Sen. O.H. Harris, R-Dallas, and supported by the Texas Bankers Association.

Under provisions of the proposal, electronic banking devices would be installed in super markets and shopping centers apart from a bank. The devices would be used by customers of all participating banks.

Hard times, good times

Miss Mac honored

Lynette McElhannon, now about 70 and planning retirement as a public school teacher at Dallas Hillcrest High School this spring, reminisced last weekend about her experiences as an instructor in the Big Spring school system. She was guest of honor at a special reception in Dallas.

Ms. McElhannon taught in Big Spring from 1934 until 1944. Several members of her 1944 classes traveled to Dallas for the reunion.

Raised in Buckner's Orphan Home, Miss Mac (as she is affectionately called) had her periods of great travail early in her teaching career. After she married, it was discovered her husband had tuberculosis. They had four children but he died in their seventh year of married life.

To make ends meet, Lynette taught school here during the day and took a job at night selling pop corn in a movie theater.

When she moved to Dallas, she began teaching at Long Junior High, she also began working an eight-hour shift at Baylor Hospital.

She was firm about one thing, she recalls: "I always had my evening meal with my children. Sometimes we'd all have to meet at a cafeteria, but we were always together at dinner."

Because Miss Mac was an orphan, she was never quite sure when she was born. Her students and fellow teachers kept hoping if a real birth certificate never showed up, she could just keep on teaching.

The orphanage ultimately turned up a certificate showing her to be 70, so she decided to call it a career.

Teachers and students at Dallas Hillcrest wanted to give her a special good-bye, so they wrote as many of her former students as possible, asking them to either respond to Mrs. McElhannon or attend the reception.

They received 250 replies. Many of her ex-students now living in other states attended the reception. One came all the way from Oregon.

As a special surprise for the Texas version of "Mr. Chips," they presented her with a summer tour of Europe.

Mrs. McElhannon has a special reason for recalling her 1944 class.

"The students were full of fun and thought they might be able to take advantage. One day I leaned over to take a look at something and one of the boys in the class pulled my seat out from under me. I sat down on the floor."

"I looked up and the boy was horrified. I was, too. I started to yell and then I laughed. Everybody laughed

LYNETTE MCELHANNON with me and we all went out and had a picnic.

"From then on, teaching was easy at Big Spring High School. Every class repeated that incident."

"I particularly remember that because that same boy who pulled out the chair was killed on one of the first days of WWII. His father called me at 2 a.m. to tell me. He said the boy never forgot how I laughed when I sat on the floor. It's funny what you remember about a teacher."

Among members of the 1941 senior class in Big Spring were the late James Webb (for whom Webb AFB was named), W.L. (Bill) Wilson, now a well-known ranching and business figure here; Ed Fisher, John Gary and Grover Cunningham.

Mrs. McElhannon has also taught at Greiner Junior High and North Dallas High in Dallas.

Can't believe he's dead

Crash survivor searching for buddy

By WALT FINLEY
I used to buy him balloons, bubble-gum and chocolate ice cream cones. When he was 7-year-old he enjoyed flying kites and "mixing it up" with my 4-year-old son, Tommy.

His dad, Charlie Amador, was my fiercest competitor for "news scoops." He also was my best friend. It was while I was employed as police reporter for the El Paso Herald-Post from 1947 until 1953. Amador was news director of KTSM radio.

Saturday, John Edwards, a former Big Spring Herald reporter now employed by the El Paso Herald-Post phoned and said he heard Amador's son was one of a handful of survivors of the worst aviation disaster in history.

"What's this I hear about your son?" I asked Amador when I phoned him in Los Angeles, Calif.

"The Good Lord was right there," Charlie, anything but a religious nut, replied softly.

He said John Charles Amador, now 36, leaped to safety after crawling through flames, smoke and screaming passengers in the crash of a Pan American 747 with a Dutch KLM airliner last Sunday in the Canary Islands.

SAYS IT WASN'T HIS FAULT — Victor Grubbs, 56, of Centerport, N.Y., the pilot of the Pan American 747 that collided with a Dutch plane lies in his bed at Walston Hospital in Ft. Dix, N.J., Grubbs said in an interview "in my heart I knew that it wasn't my fault."

John Charles Amador suffered a singed forearm and body bruises when he landed on his back. He was treated and released from the Tenerife hospital and is expected to return to his home in the small community of Marina del Rey, Calif., Wednesday after trying to clear up the "mystery" of his missing roommate, Howard Harper, a druggist, who was listed as killed in the crash. Charlie talked to his son by telephone and recounted the story of his son's near-miraculous escape. "I was at a friend's house around noon last Sunday and heard about the crash on the radio," Charlie said. "I came home immediately. His mother had taken him and his roommate, Howard, to the airport the day before. They had roomed together about three years. It was one of those airplane-ship things and they were to gone until April 9. "They left on schedule, but because of the bombing at Las Palmas, the plane was diverted and went to another island, Tenerife. It's an island off the northwest coast of Africa.

"At Tenerife they stayed on the ground about 3 hours. There was light rain and fog in the air.

"They taxied to the runway to the building area and were preparing to depart. "John said he looked up and the plane was sideways. The Dutch plane was headed directly toward his plane and he knew they were going to hit. He and his roommate put their heads down between their knees and held on.

"He heard a grinding crash, followed by a short explosion. It hurled him and the roommate into the center aisle and he saw the plane was split into three parts. The Dutch plane was engulfed in flames.

"My son and his roommate started crawling on their hands and knees toward the nose cone, which appeared to be open, but when they got there, it was in flames.

"They were trapped between two areas of flames, the one behind where the plane had been struck and up in front of the nose area.

"They turned around and started back and then they saw an opening where a window had been ripped out. It was 9 or 10 feet from the cockpit in the nose of the plane. John looked outside and saw metal flaying around like shrapnel and the jet motors on the ground. They had snapped clear of the plane and were still kicking and throbbing.

"He crawled over several bodies. The passengers were screaming, clawing and kicking, trying to get out through the open area. Black smoke poured around them and for a moment he was almost asphyxiated. Then he got a breath of fresh air from somewhere and he could breathe again.

"My son jumped about 10 or 12 feet to a rim of fire where gasoline had spilled out and was burning. He said he saw women who had been passengers with him rolling on the ground, their clothes and their hair on fire.

"They were being fried to death on the ground.

"He crawled away from the fire area and was picked up by a rescue team. He tried to go back and find his roommate, but the rescue team captain wouldn't let him. As he was crawling away, he heard one final, tremendous explosion.

"They took him to the hospital and he was there seven to nine hours. He's now and at the hotel, but wants to stay and try to find out about Howard."

The crash survivor is a member of a Southwest pioneer family. He attended elementary schools and Austin High School in El Paso and finished high school in California. He earned a master's degree in international relations at USC and has been employed as a hearing officer with the U.S. Department of Justice. He is single.

Charlie Amador and his family moved from El Paso to the Los Angeles area in 1956. He is presently employed as a public relations officer with the Diner's Club.

Officer noted bullet fragments

DALLAS (AP) — A Texas highway patrolman says he recalls seeing more than three bullet fragments reportedly taken from the wounds of former Texas Gov. John Connally the day President John Kennedy was assassinated, according to the Dallas Morning News.

In a copyright story Sunday, the News said Patrolman Charles W. Harbison, who guarded Connally's room at Parkland Hospital, as saying he recalls turning over to an FBI agent more than three bullet fragments.

Connally was wounded in the same shooting spree that killed President Kennedy here Nov. 22, 1963. The Warren Commission identified Lee Harvey Oswald as the assassin and asserted that he alone was responsible.

The News said Harbison's story is doubly significant when coupled with the recollection of Miss Audrey Bell, operating supervisor at Parkland Hospital at the time of the assassination.

Harbison was interviewed by the News Saturday. However, Sunday morning he said he "can't testify to the number of fragments," and is not about to be "pinned down" as to the exact number.

"I was standing there in the hall and someone, I don't know who handed me the fragments," Harbison said Sunday. "I glanced at them, then turned and gave them to another man. And a second man told me to go down the hall where they were taking the governor."

Harbison said he wasn't sure who he gave the fragments to, but surmises it was a federal agent since they were the only persons other than authorized medical staff permitted in that particular part of the hospital.

Miss Bell last week said she recalls that she was given four or five other bullet fragments taken from Connally.

The News said the two separate groups of fragments now make a total of at least eight fragments purportedly found in Connally from what the Warren Commission described as a "nearly whole bullet" that allegedly fell onto Connally's stretcher with only a fraction of its weight missing.

April snow falls in Texas panhandle

By the Associated Press
April storms brought snow in the Texas Panhandle today while boiling thunderstorms persisted in coastal areas and East Texas.

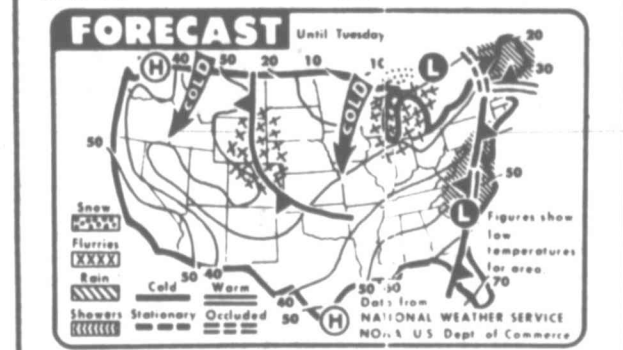

A cold front kicking up the turbulence generated dust-stirring winds earlier in parts of West Texas and prompted tornado watches during the night in North Central and Northeast Texas. There was no word of twister damage.

Briefly violent thunderstorms brought only limited moisture. The largest measurement reported was .13 inch at Austin and Lufkin.

By this morning there was one inch of snow on the ground at Dalhart in the Panhandle.

Running small business tougher

I had coffee last Friday with A.J. Prager of Prager's Men's and Boys' Store as he prepared for the firm's 50th anniversary.

Prager sat in his office above the store and reflected on the firm's first half century and the past 30 years that he has been operating it.

RUNNING A SMALL business, he admitted, is tougher than it was 15 or 20 years ago, especially in the world of men's wear.

First, customers are more demanding now, said Prager, who started working in the store as soon as he was old enough to handle a broom. Secondly, men's fashions are no longer stable. Men are more fashion minded, and the styles change more rapidly, thus making buying harder and more risky, he said.

And thirdly, there's more government regulation which complicates the operation of a small business, he said.

No business, Prager said, can exist in a community of this size without customer loyalty, but it is tougher to build with the newest generation.

"Our older customers have become accustomed to our ways, and us to their's," he said.

In the old days, the clothing store salesman in town became the expert on how a person should look, and it still works that way to some extent.

Prager's manager, J.W. Parmley, still gets many calls from people requesting that he pick out a shirt and tie or asking what should be worn with what.

But in the days when blue jeans are sometimes worn by the young on what would have in previous years been considered a formal occasion, the youth have become more prone to buy wherever they happen to be.

PRAGER SAID, however, that young men appear to be coming back to more fashionable dress, but very slowly. Suits with vests and European style pants are selling very well to them, he said.

And the store has slightly reduced its buying of styled blue jeans for this fall, although Big Spring will probably always remain a basic blue jean town.

Each store, said Prager, must find its niche. His store has always tried to serve the young-at-heart man with goods in the popular price range. It aims at being not too expensive, but not cheap, Prager said.

It's a formula that this week has survived for 50 years.

'Bombing run'

Around the rim

Danny Reagon

Of all the dorm stunts Boscoe pulled, the one that stands out most in my memory is the "Bombing run of '69". Our dorm faced the main entrance to the campus, and about fifty yards directly across from the front door, one of the many entry stations to the campus stood in its silent vigil, guarding the university.

Directly behind our three-story dorm, between the outer two projected wings, the roof of the two-story cafeteria served as a refuge for sunning, reading, and other purposes — such as one of Boscoe's many schemes.

One afternoon after many of us were out of classes, Boscoe enlisted a half a dozen wary college guys to join him on the cafeteria roof to help carry out his mad plan.

As Boscoe gave instructions, we roped two parking signs whose poles were stuck in five gallon barrels of cement, and pulled them up the side of the building. Then we attached a Boscoe customized-cut inner tube of a truck tire to the two poles of the signs — creating a workable facsimile of a giant sling-shot.

As Boscoe sat across the hall in the room facing the street, acting as a spotter with his binoculars, two of us sat on a pole each, and the remaining four pulled back on a rope attached to the rubber sling.

We then lobbed water balloons (that had been reinforced inside one another) over the building directed towards the entry stations and its "K.K." (Kampus Kop).

AFTER A DOZEN balloons fell on top of the third floor, another dozen plopping on the front steps and a couple of dozen falling into the many tall trees that ran along the street, we were rewarded with a victorious cry from Boscoe across the hall: "A hit!"

Our first hit had landed directly on the roof of the small structure, at which time the campus policeman came rushing out. We had the range, so we lobbed another one. That shot hit right at the "Kop's" feet, and splattered him with muddy water.

Our third shot in the rapid-fire barrage was an extra large one reinforced four times with layers of balloons. From across the hall came an almost inaudible whisper, (censored). We had broken the big sliding glass door in the station.

Before another minute had passed, there was unusual silence on the second floor, as seven grown college men were in their rooms, "sound asleep," in probably the first afternoon naps they had taken in years.

Now there are thousands of great stories told of the unique excuses that college students invent for the explanation of their absences from class. During my second semester in college, Boscoe and I shared a class in which he invented more than his share of wild excuses. However, early in the semester, the professor had quit believing Boscoe's stories.

THE DAY OF OUR mid-term exam, the only major grade in the course, Boscoe failed to show up. The test turned out to be what we called a real "Gluteus Maximus Ripper." And since Boscoe missed it, he was assured an "F;" for the professor had emphasized that he would not give make-up exams under any circumstances.

The following class meeting, Boscoe came in about ten minutes before the end of class. He was unshaven, and had on his robe and slippers. This in itself wasn't unusual, because he had come to class more than once that way, with stories of broken alarms and unheard-of diseases.

But today, instead of the usual comment that was intended to make his crime seem less, Boscoe slowly walked up to the professor and began whispering to him. I was unable to hear them, but I was sure that Boscoe was relating a terrific excuse.

After a few minutes, the professor, evidently exasperated with Boscoe's latest attempt, loudly announced that there was no way that he would believe "that story." Boscoe adopted a look reminiscent of those movie cowboys when they suddenly find an Indian's arrow protruding from their chest.

The professor, looking very assured of himself, said, "OK, bring me proof!" At that, Boscoe left the room, and the professor told us that he didn't know how anyone could say something like Boscoe just did.

I SAW BOSCOE that same afternoon when he came by to borrow my car. I asked him about his talk with Dr. Davis, and I couldn't believe what he told me! His newest story had his parents killed in a car wreck and he had missed the exam because he had attended the funeral. It was a lie of course, and I asked him how he expected to prove the story. He invited me to go with him to get the "proof."

We went to a local printer's and Boscoe had a sheet of newspaper printed up with an article about a Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cleavey of etc. etc., being killed in a head-on collision on highway etc. etc., and they were survived by a son, Boscoe Cleavey, and a daughter, and the funeral would be held on April 3 (the day of the exam). He then clipped out the article and waited for our next class meeting.

The next day I eagerly awaited Boscoe's entrance. Ten minutes before the end of the class, Boscoe came in and handed the clipping to the stern Dr. Davis. As the professor read the article the sternness melted, and he almost wept of embarrassment, sincere regret, and from Boscoe's avowal that he didn't blame Dr. Davis for not believing his story. Of course, Boscoe didn't have to take the make-up, and he completed the course with a "C."

The one year was all that I knew Boscoe; for evidently the army tired of his four years as a freshman . . . he had been drafted. It was the worst years of the Vietnam war. But I'm sure that if anyone could make the best of a war, it would be Boscoe.

But I'm also sure that he probably spent his entire military career as a duck private — many officers were no doubt surprised by deluges of water balloons when they leashed expected it.

Hams hog airwaves

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The Federal Communications Commission is quietly stifling the millions of voices that jam the Citizens Band radio frequencies. An estimated nine million licensees — truck drivers, teenagers, housewives, even a former First Lady — now operate more than 20 million CB sets. The airwaves have become so crowded that the CB industry has appealed for more frequencies. These would have to be taken from the ham radio operators, who add up to no more than 300,000. Yet the commission has favored the few over the many.

THE 300,000 hams have 100 times more airspace than is available to the nine million CB enthusiasts. The hams also have a lock on the higher frequencies, which are free from interference.

According to one confidential report, the hams now control more frequencies than all the nation's police and fire departments combined, plus all commercial and educational FM broadcasters, plus all the TV stations on the VHF channels in Los Angeles and New York City.

The telecommunications policymakers at the White House have quietly notified the Federal Communications Commission on three occasions that there would be no objections to expanding the airwaves for the CB users.

Still, the commission has refused to take the hint. One reason may be that CB radio is regulated by officials who, according to a confidential report, "have traditionally been hams." The report, prepared for Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-G., describes this arrangement as "the wolf guarding the flock."

The opposition to giving the CB industry a greater share of the airwaves has been generated largely by the American Radio Relay League, which the report describes as "a lobbying organization" representing ham operators.

The league has fired off a special "flash bulletin" to its members, urging them "to utilize every league resource" to prevent the incursion of CB buffs into their airspace.

Footnote: The Federal Communications Commission's chief engineer, Raymond Spence, is a lifetime member of the league. Yet he has made decisions detrimental to the CB industry. He denied that his membership is a conflict of interest.

ANOTHER ENEMIES LIST: Nicaragua's big banana, Anastasio Somoza, has picked up one tactic from his friend Richard Nixon. The Nicaraguan dictator has compiled his own private enemies list.

SOURCES WHO have had secret access to the list say it contains the names of individuals and organizations in the United States whom Somoza regards as "potential enemies to the government of Nicaragua."

Among his imagined adversaries are such prominent senators as Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., Frank Church, D-Idaho, and George McGovern, D-S.D.

Somoza also has enemies in the House, including Reps. John Conyers, D-Mich., Don Fraser, D-Minn., and Ed Koch, D-N.Y. The eminent Father Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, is listed. Indeed, we note with anguish that we are high on the list of those whom the dictator detests.

The organizations that he hates the most range from the New York Times to the Council on Hemispheric Affairs and the Washington Office on Latin America.

Night of cuckoo

William F. Buckley, Jr.

It occurs to one, sadly, that if there is a jackass unemployed in late March, he (or as they saw nowadays, he or she) will get part-time work at the Oscar Awards ceremony. A couple of years ago it was Marlon Brando, who will never forgive the United States for interrupting Indian savagery. A year later it was someone who proclaimed the divine right of North Vietnamese to torture South Vietnamese. Now that this has happened, there is no useful role for him left to play, so he was not featured at the Oscar Awards ceremony. Instead, we got Jane Fonda and Lillian Hellman.

ONE MUST SUPPOSE that there is, somewhere, a sillier political animal loose in America than Jane Fonda, even if one has to struggle to come up with his — her name. But meanwhile, if there is an Oscar for the dumbest woman in conspicuous public life, it can safely be awarded to Miss Fonda, who having spent most of her energies during the past years committing South Vietnamese to the tyranny of the north, returns to lecture us on the subject of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, which she described as "a travesty of human rights." Miss Fonda's denunciation of the committee was done en route to introducing Miss Lillian Hellman, who received a standing ovation.

It happened that on the occasion in question I was seated nearby my dear friend Miss Lauren Bacall, who also rose to applaud Miss Hellman when her face came on the screen. I leaned over and asked her, after she sat down, whether she would have applauded twice as long if Miss Hellman had over the years not only defended Stalin, but attacked Khrushchev for attacking Stalin. But such questions overtax the people who automatically rise to their feet to applaud Lillian Hellman.

They are going to do a movie on Miss Hellman, or so we are told. No doubt they will use the same screenwriter who wrote Tail-Gunner Joe. They have, in Miss Hellman, wonderful raw material to work with.

In her book "Scoundrel Time" (the scoundrels are the anti-Communists in America, including Diana and Lionel Trilling, and Alfred Kazan), Miss Hellman writes, "There is nothing in my life of which I am ashamed."

THAT MEANS she is not ashamed of having attacked John Dewey for denouncing Stalin's purge trials. Not ashamed of joining all those Communist fronts that defended Stalin and his crimes. Not ashamed of being a party to denouncing Mary McCarthy, Dwight Macdonald and the officials of the Americans for Democratic Action for protesting the pro-Communist spectacular at the Waldorf-Astoria in March of 1949.

Most Nephritis victims recover fully

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently learned I have nephritis in the early stages. Do you have information on this? Also, because I spill protein do I need extra protein in my diet? I tend to gain weight easily. — Mrs. G.

Nephritis is inflammation of the tiny blood-filtering tubes of the kidneys.

You used the term "early stages," which leads me to believe that you think it is a progressive disease about which nothing can be done. Not true.

The cause is usually a staph or strep infection that has found its way to the kidneys. The protein appears in your urine because the inflammation has set up a situation for it. This may allow protein (albumin) to pass through too easily. There can be blood cells and pus in the urine. Fever and a rise in blood pressure can also occur.

While there is no specific treatment, bedrest is necessary. Most patients recover completely. If there is infection in the sinuses or tonsils antibiotics may be needed. Without treatment the condition may become chronic. During this time the urine and blood are watched. Decreases in the amount of urinary albumin and blood cells indicate recovery is taking place.

You don't have to increase the amount of protein you eat. An ordinary balanced diet is okay. However, if blood tests show an increase in nitrogen, protein may have to be restricted.

Because of the prolonged bedrest ahead of you and the fact you do gain easily, you should probably cut back on calories during recovery. Ask your physician about this specifically.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have read your fine common sense booklet on blood pressure and want to thank you for it. I also would appreciate it if you could explain how methyldopa works to control blood pressure. I have been taking Aldomet under medical supervision for several years. — G.L.

Aldomet is a trade name for the generic drug methyldopate hydrochloride. It is thought to work by suppressing such substances as serotonin, epinephrine, dopamine, and renin (a product of the kidney). These substances in excess increase blood pressure.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The nipple on my left breast had been itching for some time. So on impulse one day I squeezed slightly and a green-colored liquid was expelled. Can you tell me if this is anything to be concerned about? I am 40. I am due for my six-months checkup soon. — Mrs. D.W.

In women your age there can be dilation (enlargement) of the breast milk ducts. Fatty material accumulates there and causes irritation. A microscopic examination of the fluid usually shows no blood cells, and Pap smears are negative. In other words, the green secretion is usually harmless, but naturally it is upsetting.

Exercise helps, but the weights are unnecessary and won't help.

DEAR DR. THOSTESON: I am 57 and still have periods although they are irregular. My doctor told me four years ago that I was still ovulating at that time. How can I tell if I am now? — Mrs. M.O.

At 57 you probably are not ovulating. You can check your rectal temperature to determine any rise at ovulation time and your physician can do vaginal smears at that time to detect any cells indicating ovulation.

The irregular periods usually indicate approaching menopause. At your age, though, you should report the bleeding to your doctor, anyway, and have a Pap smear.

DEAR DR. THOSTESON: Can doing leg lifts and weights on them be harmful for varicose veins? Will it help? — Mrs. D.P.

Exercise helps, but the weights are unnecessary and won't help.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been told the Bible says there are actually three ways people will spend eternity. Some will go to heaven, some will go to hell, and some will simply become extinct. Where is this found? — Mrs. C. L. C.

DEAR MRS. C.: The idea that some people will simply cease to exist after death is sometimes called "annihilationism," because it teaches that the person is simply annihilated. However, this view is not taught in the Bible; it actually contradicts the teaching of the Bible.

The Bible teaches that all people have an eternal future ahead of them. Those who have accepted Christ and trusted Him as their Lord and Saviour will go to be with Christ in heaven. For those who have refused God's way of salvation in Christ, their destiny is hell — this means eternal separation from God.

Victims of worst crash flown back to states

DOVER, Del. (AP) — With what a Pan Am official said was "all the respect and dignity possible," the remains of 326 victims of the world's worst air disaster arrived at the Dover Air Force Base mortuary for identification.

A team of 90 Air Force, Army and FBI experts today begins its analysis of the bodies of persons killed in the collision of two Boeing 747 jets March 27 in the Canary Islands.

A base spokesman said that, once identified, the bodies probably would be turned over to a team of local funeral directors. They then will be shipped to the victims' families, most of them in California.

The remains flown here Sunday were of passengers aboard a Pan Am jet rammed by a Dutch KLM plane on the runway of the airport at Santa Cruz de Tenerife. The collision killed more than 570 people.

The KLM passengers and crew, all of whom were killed, were flown to the Netherlands for identification.

William Waltrip, Pan Am

vice president in charge of operations, said he was confident all the victims would be identified, although many of the bodies are badly burned and mangled.

A spokesman for the airline said the work of the 90 pathologists, dentists, blood specialists, radiologists and fingerprint experts was expected to take a week or more.

An interdenominational memorial service was held Sunday when the bodies arrived at the base airfield on two Pan Am freighters. During the service, two draped and flower-laden coffins, representative of the hundreds still inside the planes, were placed in waiting hearses. With representatives of the airline looking on, a Catholic priest, a Protestant minister and a rabbi made short statements.

The wooden coffins containing the other bodies then were transported to the mortuary.

Waltrip said the airline was doing all it could to assure "respect and dignity" during the process.

He said although Pan Am had arranged to use a military facility and government manpower for the identification operation, the airline would pay all costs.

He added that it also was customary for airlines to handle funeral costs for crash victims, but said no estimate on the total outlay was yet available.

Plane crash swells toll

Deaths of three men in a light airplane crash at Wichita Falls helped to swell the toll from violence in Texas during the weekend.

The Associated Press tabulated reports of nine fatalities between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, also including three on streets and highways, two homicides and one in a boat accident.

A single-engine Piper Comanche crashed into the back yard of a Wichita Falls home shortly after the three Fort Worth men took off from a private airport and started back home after attending a softball tournament. Authorities identified them as Pat D. Forehand, 25, owner and pilot of the plane; Kerry M. Cooper, 31, and Jesse D. McMahon, 30.

One man was killed and another injured Sunday when a 21-foot inboard motorboat hit the pilings of a Ray Hubbard bridge spanning Interstate 30 northeast of Dallas and flipped over it. His identity was not learned at once. Park police reported Doug Rader, 23, was injured critically as he apparently was thrown from the boat.

Other deaths included: Leo Birdwell Ownby, 78, of Cleburne, who died Saturday night in a two-car accident at the intersection of FM 2425 and Texas 144 near Glen Rose.

A Nacogdoches man died Saturday after he was stabbed during a quarrel. He was identified as Robert Earle Sterns, 24. Officers said a woman was taken into custody.

Lena Mae Williamson, 28, of Dallas, was shot to death Friday while attempting to get her children to safety after a fight erupted outside the family's apartment. Officers said they arrested a Dallas man.

Two persons died Saturday in a car-tractor trailer collision about a mile east of Columbus. They were identified as Lorenza Fuentes, 72, and three-year-old Stephen Trevino, both of Texas City.

City costs top $268 million

HOUSTON (AP) — Figures released by city controller Leonel Castillo show the City of Houston spent $268.5 million for general operating expenses last year.

According to the annual report released Thursday, the amount is an increase of 4.6 per cent over 1975.

"The city's finances are in excellent condition," Castillo said.

Congress readying for Easter break, faces Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The annual congressional Easter Parade gets under way late this week when the 535 members of Congress head home for a 10-day recess. But before they leave, a few items remain to be cleared from the agendas of the House and Senate, including a bill to change the way members of Congress get their pay raises, a measure designed to clamp down on the methods used by bill collectors and a visit by Henry Kissinger.

The former secretary of state was scheduled today to make his first appearance as a witness before a congressional committee since he left office with the Ford administration. Kissinger agreed to appear before the Senate subcommittee on energy conservation and regulation in his capacity as chairman of the advisory board of the Alliance to Save Energy, a citizens panel formed recently to promote energy conservation.

The House is likely to face a vote on an attempt to require Congress to vote affirmatively in order for any future pay raise to take effect. The raise that took effect in February was approved when neither the House nor the Senate rejected it.

The pay raise plan is part of a bill to renew emergency jobless aid for more than 500,000 long-term jobless persons in 31 states. The jobless benefit portion of the bill would provide an additional 13 weeks of federal unemployment benefits to persons who have exhausted the 39 weeks assistance available under regular programs. The extended benefits would be available to long-term unemployed in states where the jobless rate is at least 5 percent.

The House had passed the jobless bill, but when it reached the Senate, Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., succeeded in attaching an amendment changing the pay raise procedure. A Bartlett proposal to repeal the February raise was voted down. The bill then went to a Senate-House conference committee where the pay raise amendment was dropped.

But House Republicans jumped at the chance to embarrass the Democratic majority and threatened to make an issue of the conference committee action. The committee quickly reconvened and restored the pay raise amendment.

Meanwhile, the committee investigating the assassinations of John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr., continues its work with House approval for an extended life. Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., a member of the panel, which has been making more headlines with its internal problems than with its investigation, told reporters he hopes the committee can concentrate on its work and "drop out of your sights for several months."

Dividends are due veterans

Approximately $180 million in GI insurance cash dividends will be paid to veterans within the next two weeks as part of President Carter's program to help stimulate the national economy.

This was reported today by Jack Coker, Waco VA Regional Director, who said the President had authorized acceleration of the dividend payments, which will speed early checks to 2.1 million veterans.

The dividends normally would have been paid on policy anniversary dates throughout the remainder of 1977.

The flow of dividends to veterans of both world wars and the Korean Conflict who hold government insurance policies is expected to be completed by April 8 through a coordinated effort by VA and the Department of the Treasury, Coker said.

The first accelerations of GI insurance dividend payments as an aid to the economy was ordered by President Kennedy in 1961. Including the stepped up payments ordered today, the dividend payment process has been accelerated eight times in the last 16 years.

No cash, says IRS officials

Taxpayers should send either a personal check or money order, but not cash, to the Internal Revenue Service for payment of their income tax.

In suggesting alternatives to cash, the IRS explained that the taxpayer has the added advantage of having a record proving that he or she made the payment to the IRS.

The IRS also stressed the importance of entering a correct social security number on the check or money order directly below the signature. If the payment should be separated from the tax return, it is very simple to readily locate the taxpayer's money through the use of the social security number.

Savings bond sales soar

January sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds in Howard County were reported today by County Bond Chairman Jimmy Taylor. Sales for the first month period totaled $43,505 for six per cent of the 1977 sales goal of $750,000.

Texas sales during the month amounted to $21,030,277, while sales for the first month of 1977 totaled $21,030,277 with 8 per cent of the yearly sales goal of $276.9 million achieved.

Bus firm ends 5-city service

PLAINVIEW — Plainview Bus and Transfer ended its bus service to five South Plains cities recently. A spokesman for the firm said the company is being forced out of business due to financial reasons.

The bus company has maintained a regular route with stops in Lockney, Paducah, Floydada, Crowell and Matador for several years. Zack Isbell, bus depot agent at Paducah, said his town needed the bus service because "drug supplies, farm equipment and auto parts are sent on the bus."

Business women band together as Altrusans

"Altrusa's aim is to awaken business women to a sense of their responsibilities, to inspire them to set high ideals of life and of services to society in general, to dignify the occupations of women by uplifting them to conform to high ethical standards, to know that the finished product is neither masculine nor feminine, but must be judged by its worthiness alone."

That quote, from an address by Mamie L. Bass, first national president of Altrusa, defined the purpose of the organization when a review of its history was heard by local Altrusans Thursday.

The luncheon program, introduced by Mrs. Pauline Petty, was completed by Mrs. Lola Knowles, Altrusa information chairman. When Altrusa was organized April 11, 1917 in Nashville, Tenn., there were 15 members, each with a different classification. Four more clubs were organized that year, in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Illinois. It was incorporated under the laws of Indiana, by which it is still governed.

Forty Altrusans attended the first national convention in 1918 when it was agreed that Altrusa would be a classified club — on the order of Rotary. Classifications were set up, and the first constitution and by-laws were adopted. The principles of Altrusa, written in 1921 by Mamie L. Bass, remain unchanged today.

In 1922, the first Altrusa magazine was printed, and vocational guidance was selected as a national policy in 1924. The district plan was adopted in 1930, and there are now 14 districts.

International status was attained in 1935 with the formation of an Altrusa Club in Mexico City, Mexico. Since then, clubs have been founded in Canada, Guatemala, Korea, England, Puerto Rico, Bermuda, Ireland, India, Scotland, New Zealand, Australia and the Philippine Islands. Program coordination was set up on three levels, international, district and local, in 1940. It is made up of the program coordinator and chairmen of the four committees, information, international relations, community affairs and vocational service. The Founder's Fund was established in 1940, and the Grants-in-Aid was set up in 1944. (During the years from 1947 to 1957 the Grants-in-Aid program gained such wide recognition that the George Washington Honor Metal from Freedom's Foundation at Valley Forge was presented to Altrusa.) The Altrusa Club of Big Spring was organized July 23, 1950 with 23 charter members.

Mrs. Knowles concluded by saying, "Altrusa has taken giant steps forward in the past 10 years. We now have approximately 18,000 members in 561 clubs in 14 districts and 14 countries." Mrs. Kay McDaniel, local president, presided for the brief business session and announced that Mrs. C.G. Barnett will be guest speaker for the April 14 meeting at Coker's Restaurant.

Dear Abby

Open Marriage A Sex Smorgasbord

DEAR ABBY: You told a woman who was in love with a married man: "Send him home to his wife and children..." Abby, this is 1977. Why didn't you tell her to ask her married lover to be honest with his wife about her, and try to develop an "open marriage" that would include the girlfriend too?

A marriage doesn't have to be exclusive to be good. Each of us can love more than one person. Why be hypocritical? If there were fewer "either/or" ultimatums, there would be fewer divorces.

After 28 years of a monogamous marriage, my wife and I decided to "open" our marriage to include others. I now encourage and help my wife to have outside relationships with other men, and she does the same for me with other women. Our open marriage has revitalized us and strengthened our marriage.

OPEN AND HAPPY

DEAR OPEN: I didn't suggest an "open marriage" because I wouldn't advise anyone to do what I myself wouldn't do. Marriage is (or should be) a sacred covenant between two people, and to "open" it to include others is a violation of that covenant.

It may be possible to love more than one person, but in a civilized society, it's one at a time. The "group" thing, which includes many partners, is not a "love feast"—it's a sexual smorgasbord.

DEAR ABBY: I agree with your comment about the 73-year-old woman signed TALKS TOO MUCH. "Your son did you a kindness to tell you so."

However, I have a better way to find out if I'm talking too much. If someone interrupts me, I just keep quiet. And if nobody asks me what I was saying before I was interrupted, I know I've been talking too much.
D.D.J. IN SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

DEAR D.D.J.: Hooray for you. Most people would say, "As I was saying..."

DEAR ABBY: In reference to the letter about a sixth grade teacher telling a dirty joke to his class: I have six children (the youngest in the seventh grade) and have worked as an aide in an elementary school for eight years, and I have a message for parents:

If you dislike something your child tells you happened at school, talk to the teacher. Sometimes a child misunderstands or, unfortunately, lies. If the teacher's explanation doesn't satisfy you, go to the principal.

If it is something serious or dangerous, and you are CERTAIN of your facts, state your concern in writing and send it to the personnel department of your school district.

Get involved; see what is happening at your child's school. But remember, too, that neither your child nor the teacher is perfect.

FOR THE KIDS

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU: For the most readable and honest book yet published about Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt, get "My Parents" by James Roosevelt, their oldest son. It's rich in political history and will give you an intimate look at a fascinating family.

The group met recently to see a demonstration on cake decorating by Mrs. Curtis Reed of Lamesa. The cakes given as attendance prizes went to Mrs. Diane Hill, Mrs. Herm and Mrs. Janice Barnes.

The club, composed chiefly of women who live in the Ackery area, meets the third Thursday of every month.

Texas teams butt heads

Rangers bust Astros

By The Associated Press
The best medicine in the world for a baseball manager is a victory.

And that's just what the Texas Rangers gave Frank Luchessi upon his return from the hospital Sunday.

Luchessi, who had been hospitalized as a result of a fight with second baseman Len Randle, returned to the ballpark and watched his Rangers whip the Houston Astros 11-7 in exhibition baseball.

Luchessi arrived just in time to watch his team stage a five-run, game-winning rally in the sixth inning. Bert Campaneris, who helped rescue Luchessi from Randle's blows last Monday, delivered a two-run double in the rally.

The game was marred by injuries to 17 fans when a walkway section caved in at Driller Park in Tulsa, Okla. The collapse of the walkway occurred when rain stopped the game in the second inning. The fans sought cover under a grandstand section and the walkway collapsed under too much weight. No one was seriously hurt.

In other spring training action, Al Cowens hit a grand slam homer in the eighth inning to break a tie and carry the hot Kansas City Royals to a 7-3 decision over the Baltimore Orioles. The victory was the Royals' seventh straight.

Luis Melendez lined a two-run double in the eighth inning, leading the San Diego Padres to a 6-5 victory over the Oakland A's. The Oakland A's "B" team fared better, beating the Milwaukee Brewers 9-7 as Rich McKinney knocked in two runs with a homer and a double.

Ken Griffey smashed a grand slam and George Foster homered with two on, powering the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-6 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Wayne Garrett scored on Warren Cromartie's single in the fifth inning and three Montreal pitchers combined to blank New York on five hits as the Expos nipped the Mets 1-0. Rookie right-hander Mike Krukow pitched seven shutout innings and Ivan DeJesus blasted two triples, pacing the Chicago

Do you move well to music?

Applications are being accepted for those wishing to audition for the 1977 edition of the nationally famous Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders, the Cowboys announced today.

Cubs past the San Francisco Giants 3-0.

Ted Simmons hit a solo homer and Keith Hernandez scored on an error in the fourth inning as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-0. The Pirates' "B" squad edged the Toronto Blue Jays 3-2 on a two-run single by Fernando Gonzales in the sixth inning.

Chet Lemon's run-scoring single in the ninth inning off relief ace Bill Campbell enabled the Chicago White Sox to edge the Boston Red Sox 4-3. Ben Oglivie hit a two-run homer to pace the Detroit Tigers to a 5-0 victory that snapped the New York Yankees' four-game winning streak.

written applications should be received no later than May 1.

Applications should be sent to "Cheerleaders," Dallas Cowboys, 6116 N. Central Expressway, Dallas 75206, or to "Cheerleaders," KVII Radio, Dallas 75205. A picture of the applicant should accompany the letter.

To be eligible to become a Cowboys cheerleader, an applicant must be a high school graduate, be attractive in a Cowboys cheerleaders uniform and move well to music.

SUNS LOSE — Suns' guard Ron Lee tries an unusual layup shot Sunday night, as Denver's Ted McClain gets charged with a foul. Lee got two free throws and a total 28 points, but the Nuggets downed the Suns 124-109.

Weekend roundball action

Celts just one away

By The Associated Press
Everyone knows what it meant to the Boston Celtics to have Dave Cowens back in the lineup. How about Charlie Scott?

"It gives us more depth and allows us to get all our people into the game quicker," says Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn.

Cowens, of course, came back in mid-season after a long hiatus to give the defending National Basketball Association champions a big lift at center.

Scott came back Sunday after being out with a forearm injury and gave the Celtics' backcourt a boost as Boston whipped the Philadelphia 76ers 96-90.

"I felt good and I never got tired," said Scott, who had missed 38 games since fracturing his left forearm Jan. 12.

Scott scored only eight points, but played more than half the game while solidifying the backcourt.

The victory reduced the Celtics' "magic number" to one for clinching a playoff spot.

JoJo White's 23 points led Boston past Philadelphia.

Blaizers 119, Sonics 104
Rookie Wally Walker and Bill Walton teamed for 20 points in the final period to lead Portland over Seattle. Walker, the Blazers' first-round pick last year, did not play until the final period when he scored 12 points in the comeback victory. Walton scored 26 points.

Bulls 101, Jazz 82
Artis Gilmore had 28 points and 18 rebounds as Chicago beat New Orleans.

The victory was the Bulls' 17th victory in their last 20 games and put them one game ahead of Kansas City in the fight for the last playoff spot in the Western Conference.

Bullets 115, Nets 97
Elynn Hayes collected 38 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to pace Washington over the New York Nets. The Bullets took the lead for good late in the first quarter and went on to deal the hapless Nets their 12th straight defeat.

The victory moved the Bullets within 2½ games of idle Houston in the Central Division and kept alive their hopes for a playoff berth.

Knicks 136, Braves 111
Tom McMillen scored 25 points and Bob McAdoo contributed 21 to lead the New York Knicks past Buffalo. McMillen scored 14 of his points in the second quarter as the Knicks took a 66-58 halftime lead.

Bucks 120, Pacers 112
Brian Winters and rookie Quinn Buckner combined for 21 points in the fourth quarter as Milwaukee rallied to beat Indiana.

Cavaliers 113, Kings 107
Bobby Smith scored 22 points as Cleveland beat Kansas City and clinched a post-season playoff berth.

Gary Brokaw added 21 points, including 15 in the second half when the Cavs won the game with a late rally. Kansas City's Richard Washington was the game's high scorer with 30 points.

Nuggets 124, Suns 109
Denver got 79 points from the front line of Dan Issel, David Thompson and Bobby Jones to beat Phoenix. The Nuggets put the game away in the third period, outscoring Phoenix 36-27 to take a 103-83 lead.

The Denver scoring totals included Thompson's 35 points, Issel's 23 and Jones'

Hawks 111, Spurs 103
John Drew scored 36 points and Len Robinson had 25 to power Atlanta past San Antonio. The Hawks, overcoming a 22-point deficit, shot 61 per cent in the final period to beat the Spurs.

Lakers 115, Pistons 107
Don Ford scored six of his 12 points in overtime to lead Los Angeles over Detroit. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar paced all scorers with 33 points as the Lakers tied an NBA record with their 36th home victory for the season.

Colt Clev Er Tell bound for roses?

By The Associated Press

"This colt is just as good as No Le Hace," says trainer Homer Pardue of Clev Er Tell, who will take a shot at running his derby winning streak to three on the first Saturday in May in Kentucky.

No Le Hace was good enough to win the Arkansas Derby in 1972 but not good enough to take the roses. The colt, also trained by Pardue, finished second in the Kentucky Derby by 3¼ lengths to Riva Ridge.

Many observers feel that only unbeaten Seattle Slew will be better than second in this year's Derby.

But jockey Ray Broussard said Saturday after Clev Er Tell added a victory in the $134,200 Arkansas Derby to his win in the Louisiana Derby: "It looks like roses."

"The Derby isn't run until May 7 and you never know what's going to happen in that time," said Pardue, who plans to run Clev Er Tell in a prep race in Kentucky before the Derby, just as he did with No Le Hace.

With a record crowd of 54,216 watching closing day at Oaklawn Park, Clev Er Tell moved into second place from the No. 11 post shortly after the break, went after leading United Holme on the first turn, quickly opened a two-length lead and completed the 11-8 miles in 1:50:5.5, four lengths ahead of 45-1 shot Kodiak. Best Person finished third.

Crystal ball looking good

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Danny Edwards looked far beyond his first career victory — and he liked what he saw.

"This is an end to what I've worked for," the slightly-built, 25-year-old said after his frontrunning four-stroke triumph in the Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"It's an end — and it's a beginning. It's a beginning to the goals and dreams I have. Now that I've broken the ice, maybe the others will come."

And those goals are the stuff of dreams. "I feel I have the kind of game that is suited to the major championships. It's a consistent, solid game. I feel like I have built a consistent game on a good foundation, learning to qualify, then make the cuts, then play well. I feel it's a foundation that won't crumble — will keep me at a level of consistency."

"I've always set my goals high. I'm thinking of a consistency in the major championships, maybe setting records of consistency..."

He paused a moment. Here I am, I've just won my first tournament and I'm talking like this.

He returned to the dreams of the game's major events — a dream that is at least one step closer now. His Sunday victory, the first of his three-year career, not only provided him with $47,000 from the total purse of $235,000, it also:

— Gave him an exemption from qualifying his first, at least through 1978.

— Put him in the prestigious Tournament of Champions.

— Secured him a ticket to Augusta, Ga., and this week's Masters, the first time he's been eligible for that exclusive event.

Edwards built a four-stroke lead through the first three rounds and protected it with a solid, par 72 in the last round. The tournament was played under gray skies and the threat of rain that hung over the wet and soggy, 6,984-yard Forest Oaks Country Club course.

Not number one and glad of it

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth, who's spent 18 of her 38 years on the women's pro golf tour, is no longer the No. 1 player — and seems quite happy she's not.

After dominating the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour in the late 1960s and early '70s, Miss Whitworth decided not to take the game quite so seriously.

Even so, she won the women's richest tournament Sunday by firing a closing 71 for a 289 total and a one-stroke victory over two others in the Dinah Shore Winners Circle.

The $36,000 first prize put

Miss Whitworth in the 1977 LPGA money lead. But she said afterward that she didn't expect to stay there.

JoAnne Carner, who had a final-round 72 and a 280, and Sally Little, with a 70 for the same total, each won $21,500 for finishing second.

Carol Mann shot a 74 over the par-72, 6,370-yard Mission Hills layout to finish two strokes back of the winner. Defending champion Judy Rankin, Pat Bradley and Jane Blalock all wound up four strokes back with 293s.

The Winners Circle victory was Miss Whitworth's most lucrative triumph — and she's won 78 tournaments.

Net queen psyched by Billie Jean King

By The Associated Press

Chris Evert's 6-0, 6-1 victory over Billie Jean King in their first meeting since Ms. King's comeback may have looked like an easy triumph. But the 22-year-old tennis queen says the match was a mental squeaker.

"I really didn't know how to feel playing Billie Jean," Miss Evert said after her victory Sunday in the finals of a $110,000 international tennis tournament. "The name 'Billie Jean' and what she's done in tennis is very intimidating."

In other tournaments, Bjorn Borg of Sweden beat Guillermo Villas of Argentina 6-4, 1-6, 6-2, 6-0; Eddie Dibbs defeated Vitas Gerulaitis 7-6, 6-7, 6-4 and Brian Gottfried ousted Roscoe Tanner 3-6, 7-5, 6-3.

In the women's competition at Hilton Head Island, S.C., Miss Evert claimed the $25,000 top prize with her usual patient baseline game, placing her shots deep in the corners and holding Ms. King far away from the net.

It was Miss Evert's 106th consecutive victory on clay and her first match against Ms. King since 1975 at Wimbledon when Ms. King beat her in a semifinal match. Ms. King has been out of singles tournament play since then and made her comeback recently after recuperating from knee surgery last October.

"I need matches like this," Miss Evert said afterward. "I need to play more opponents I'm afraid of and have respect for."

Ms. King said she was pleased to have advanced to the finals but that she hasn't regained the mental toughness required to win big points.

In the finals of the Nice, France, Grand Prix, Borg seemed befuddled by the warm weather and played sluggishly for two sets. But he seemed to find his pace and allowed Villas only four points in the final love set.

If the Steers can take this one, it will put them back in a tie for first place in the district. For information about the bus trip, call Craig Fischer, assistant principal at Big Spring High School.

HEADED FOR VICTORY — Mario Andretti wheels his Lotus (foreground) through a turn en route to victory in the Long Beach Grand Prix at Long Beach, Calif., Sunday. He's followed by Niki Lauda of Austria, driving a Ferrari. Lauda was second.

Jones robbed by bad clock

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Johnny Jones caught a thief who stole his watch recently but Saturday he couldn't do a thing about a $15,000 electronic timer that malfunctioned just when he may have run the fastest 100 meters in track history.

The 18-year-old Jones, a freshman at the University of Texas and a member of America's gold medal sprint relay team at the Olympics, flashed to readings of 9.94, 9.85 and 9.8 according to three hand held watches at the 50th Texas Relays.

The electronically timed world record is 9.95 by Jimmy Hines of the United States. The International Track and Field Federation ruled at Montreal last summer that all races under 400 meters must be electronically timed to count as a world record.

"I'm not bitter ... things like that happen ... I'm just happy to win," said the quiet-spoken Jones, who rocketed out of the blocks in the fastest start of his career.

Another amazing aspect of the race—which was run under perfect conditions with the wind only four miles an hour—is that Jones misjudged the finish line.

"I pulled up about seven yards from the finish," said the Lamapas, Tex. product. "I thought I was ready to break the tape. I had to regear myself to go the last few yards."

Texas Track Coach Cleburne Price said "It would have been a world record a year ago. It's unfortunate, but Johnny's potential is unlimited. Remember, he's just a freshman and the pressure on him is tremendous. People were already expecting him to set a world record everytime he runs."

Jones beat a field that included Dwyane Evans of Arizona, a fellow Olympian who pulled up lame, and Bill Collins, a former star at the Pan American games.

Jones brought out a record crowd of 15,000 including Texas Athletic Director Darrell Royal, who had only seen Jones run on a football field as a halfback.

For the first time this season, fans booed Rose when he came up to bat.

'I almost lost my right eye' Manager may sue player

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Manager Frank Lucchesi left an Orlando, Fla., hospital in time to arrive in the fifth inning and his Texas Rangers promptly rallied to beat the Houston Astros 11-7 in an exhibition slugfest Sunday.

Lucchesi, 48, wore dark sunglasses over eyes bruised a week ago when displaced second baseman Lenny Randle punched him and was suspended to await a hearing today in Arlington, Tex., the Rangers' home base.

The Texas skipper said he was still troubled by a black and blue back, which he favored as he walked, but his eyes were looking much better.

"The plastic surgeon told me I almost lost my right eye," he said. "I'm not recovered. I'm still having trouble with my back. If I sneeze or cough or laugh real hard, it hurts."

For the Rangers' American League season opener Thursday in Baltimore he nevertheless vowed to be back in uniform. "I'll be in Baltimore if I have to go in a wheelchair," said Lucchesi. "I'm not even concerned about legal action right now," he said. "I'm concerned about my health, my family — we went through hell last week — and the ball club. If Randle is at the meeting or isn't, it doesn't make any difference to me." Almost as soon as Lucchesi and Corbett appeared in the stands behind the Texas dugout with Houston leading 6-2, Juan Beniquez blasted a solo home run.

Janet's back in the cockpit

NEW YORK (AP) — Janet Guthrie starts revving up the engine this week in the 198.7 miles per hour thunderbolt which she hopes to gun to victory in the Indianapolis 500, but she doesn't feel she is yet fully accepted as "one of the gang."

The Gasoline Alley Gang, "The initial hostility has subsided but it is still there," said the 38-year-old physicist who dares think that she can crash the last formidable bastion of the male world.

"It is particularly true among the NASCAR (stock car) drivers. I think it's because the circuit is concentrated in the South where women are supposed to be decorative and pretend to be useless.

"They have — in contrast to the USAC — been the most difficult. I hardly exchange words with them. They manage to be correct and polite, but cool."

Miss Guthrie said today — 11 months after she became the first and only woman ever approved to drive a car over Indianapolis' sacred old brickyard — that she is just beginning to learn the impact of the resentment she generated.

"They never came up, pointed a finger in my face and said, 'Get out,'" she explained, "but they might as well have done so. The stories are drifting back now — how they banged on the desks in the USAC offices, the nasty little things that I never knew until friends finally told me.

"It wasn't sabotage or anything that sinister. It seemed there was this subtle agreement not to 'help that woman."

"The crew chief would go for a vital piece of equipment. He would be asked, 'Is it for you or for her?' The implication was that if it was for me, it was not available."

Miss Guthrie, an airline pilot's daughter who developed a tough hide in road racing before she decided to take a stab at the big ovals, acknowledged that she will forever be grateful for the help and encouragement of her teammate, Dick Simon, and those two auto-racing phenoms, A.J. Foyt and Johnny Rutherford.

"Dick has been so vital — a real jewel," she added. "I'll never forget my first race against Johnny at Trenton last year. He told me later, 'You were the best College Station Friday and Saturday. Texas ran off a string of 34 in a row — an all-time high collegiate victory string — before Rice upset the 'Horns 4-3 last week.

The Texas Aggies just topped the 30 victory mark. It was announced this week that a list of the top 20 baseball coaches as compiled by Elmore Hudgins of the Southeastern Conference shows Texas' Coach Cliff Gustafson with the best winning percentage.

Gustafson is .822 with 378 wins and 89 losses in nine years. Aggie Coach Tom Chandler is ranked 11th at 383-186 for a .673 percentage.

There are many drivers who have never spoken to her, she said, including Bobby Unser. "They refuse to recognize my 13 years' experience and more than 100 races," she added. "I don't ask any special treatment. I only want to be treated for what I am, a race driver. I think I can race with anybody."

Miss Guthrie was in New York over the weekend for a breather before taking off for Ontario, Calif., to shake down the Lindsey Hopkins Lightning which owner Rolla Vollstedt has assigned her rookie out there. And A.J. came up and said, 'Kid, you're okay.' I almost blew my mind."

College Station Friday and Saturday. Texas ran off a string of 34 in a row — an all-time high collegiate victory string — before Rice upset the 'Horns 4-3 last week.

The Texas Aggies just topped the 30 victory mark. It was announced this week that a list of the top 20 baseball coaches as compiled by Elmore Hudgins of the Southeastern Conference shows Texas' Coach Cliff Gustafson with the best winning percentage.

Gustafson is .822 with 378 wins and 89 losses in nine years. Aggie Coach Tom Chandler is ranked 11th at 383-186 for a .673 percentage.

"WHY ME?"

WHY ANYONE? THE CAR BREAKS DOWN. THE DISHWASHER GOES ON THE BLINK. THE KIDS ARE SICK. THE BOSS IS ANGRY. THE BILLS ARE PILING UP. AND YOU JUST SPILLED COFFEE DOWN THE FRONT OF YOUR SHIRT.

Granted, for a while everything seems to be going for you. You're content and happy. And nothing can top that feeling. But when something does go wrong... and it will, again and again... how do you deal with it? How do you keep it from getting you down? How do you get, and how do you maintain, a little peace of mind?

LOTS of people with the same problems are living proof that the answer is Jesus Christ. Not that they don't have problems anymore. But they know that problems aren't theirs alone any longer.

They're living proof that it isn't you against the world. There's someone else who's ready to solve your problems with you. They're living proof that you can cope with daily problems, live with them and learn from them... with His help. They're living proof that Jesus Christ is alive, and "you will have peace through union with Him," exactly as He said.

If you would like to know more about people who are living proof, if you need more information, or have made a decision to accept Jesus Christ, there are people nearby ready to share that with you. Please let them know.

For a little peace of mind, and a lot more.

 BUYING GUIDE FOR FRESH FRUITS

This guide should serve as a handy helper in buying fresh fruits. It tells you when they are available, when they are plentiful and how to store them. Experience is invaluable in choosing top quality fruits. Browse in produce departments and become familiar with what is available throughout the year.

FRESH FRUITS

APPLES
 As all-American as the hot dog, apples come in many varieties. Store in cool place or refrigerator. Plentiful fall-winter. Available all year.

APRICOTS
 Quality apricots are golden-yellow, plump and firm. Extremely delicate, refrigerate. Summer fruit — May through August.

AVOCADOS
 Most are pear-shaped with smooth or rough skins. Eat when soft-ripe. Firm ones will ripen at room temperature. Fuerte (winter variety) and Hass (summer variety) are two of the best known. Refrigerate when ripe.

BANANAS
 Look for firm, bright yellow fruit. Bananas with light brown flecks are delicious for immediate use. Those with green tips are good for holding a few days or for cooking.

CHERRIES (SWEET RED)
 Bings and Lamberts are most popular varieties. Both are rich in sweet flavor and mahogany in color. The Bing is round while the Lambert is more elongated. Plentiful season is mid-June through August. Refrigerate.

CITRUS FRUITS
 Select those that are heavy for size — they're the juiciest. Skins should be smooth, firm. Grapefruit comes in white and pink meat varieties. Most citrus is available all year, except tangerines and tangelos, available November-April. Store citrus in cold room or refrigerator.

Outbreak may get worse

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—The worst outbreak of botulism in U.S. history may get even worse, according to health officials.

The number of confirmed cases of the sometimes-fatal food poisoning among persons who ate at a Mexican food restaurant rose Sunday from 26 to 30, and officials said they were concerned the number could go higher.

Officials at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac, where 17 of the victims were being treated, said botulism poisoning victims usually show symptoms within a day or two after eating tainted food.

However, officials said, new cases may turn up within eight days after consumption of botulism toxin. In general, the earlier the symptoms show up, the worse the effects of the poisoning, the hospital said.

Symptoms of the illness include nausea, vomiting, double vision, slurred speech and difficulty swallowing.

Of the 30 botulism cases confirmed by Sunday, Lacey said, three patients remained in critical but stable condition. The others were listed in good condition.

Dr. Robert Lacey, director of the Oakland County Health Department, said at least one of the new victims ate at Trini and Carmen's restaurant last Thursday.

Earlier reports had indicated all cases involved people who ate there on Monday or Tuesday.

"This new development means that the number of victims may increase in the days ahead," Lacey said.

Health officials closed the restaurant Thursday night when they first suspected the botulism outbreak originated there.

Definitely the prettiest was Sharron Lovejoy. But I only got to talk to her out in the foyer because she had already spoken to the group at lunch on the day when I had to ride a couple local fences before I could get off to drive up there.

She's often on the CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite and her pretty face is a familiar one. Some of the reporters expressed a little disappointment in her speech, but talking to her personally was interesting. She is best known for her documentary on "Rape: a special report."

No gold found under peak

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE (AP)—A search for a legendary treasure on Victoria Peak ended as it began—with no gold in hand and the Army denying it ever existed.

Norman Scott, head of Expeditions Unlimited of Pompano Beach, Fla., which conducted the search, told reporters he would not say whether the tale about stacks of gold bullion, coins and artifacts deep in a cavern inside the mountain is true or not.

He only said his firm's expedition turned up no traces of gold, silver or other artifacts.

"At the precise location represented to us by a group of claimants there is no gold," he said.

Scott also said the searchers found no evidence of recent or old mining operations within the peak on the restricted missile range. He said it would take a major mining operation to settle the legend one way or the other.

The family of the late Milton "Doc" Noss, who claimed to have found the treasure 40 years ago, said they nevertheless will continue to press the Army for a search of their own.

They contended from the start of the March 19 expedition that the Army was not giving searchers enough time.

An Army spokesman, Maj. Kenneth Abel, said it had no plans to grant a permit for another search.

Abel said the Scott hunt, in conjunction with an Army-sponsored hunt in 1961 and a Museum of New Mexico search in 1963, "indicates no treasure, gold or otherwise, exists in the area of Hembello Basin or within Victoria Peak. White Sands Missile Range is now closed to further search."

SHINTO SHINE—More than 20 contestants—most with hair styles recalling the television series "Kojack"—gather at Hodosan Shrine north of Tokyo last week in the first all-Japan "Bright Head" contest. Kazamasa Nomura, head of the Japan Bright Head Friendship Association, said the competition was held to help wipe out inferiority complexes among the bald and to provide a bit of fun for the aged.

People never cease to surprise me. When I was lucky enough to get to attend the Texas Press Women's Convention in Wichita Falls over the weekend, I was really looking forward to hearing Sharron Lovejoy and Stephani Shelton of CBS and Virginia Pyette, United Features columnist.

She pointed out that she was so proud of her story and her byline until she got home and her mother said, "Did you see where Gable got married?"

"Yes," she said, "And did you see the story about the women he didn't marry?" And her mother answered, "No," Virginia recalls "I was absolutely crushed."

But Stephani was the one that surprised me. She got up to talk at the award banquet. She is primarily known on CBS radio working on afternoon and early evening broadcasts. She also appears on CBS Television Mid-Day News and Sunday Evening News.

For a woman that has been as successful as she has been, she was surprisingly bitter about the status of women and all of the tough breaks they have to go through to get where they're going.

I sat there thinking "Gosh. So what else is new?" But I really couldn't help but wonder what had made her so bitter about the whole
