

Cancerous personalities

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — What kind of personality you have can determine whether you are a candidate for cancer, according to the head of the psychology department at North Texas State University.

Dr. Robert Butler said after extensive testing he is convinced there is "some kind of association between personality variables and susceptibility to cancer" but the specific link is unclear.

Butler said a research team, which included himself, found four personality factors consistently appeared in tested subjects who had already contracted the disease. He said the research has been spread over at least a two-year period and "well over 200 patients were interviewed and tested."

The factors included: loss of an important relationship, inability to express hostile feelings, unresolved tension concerning a parent figure and sexual disturbance.

"Other people have significant losses but they don't get cancer," said Butler. "The reason they don't, we think, is they have different personality factors."

Butler cited Martha Mitchell, deceased wife of former U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell, as an example.

"She lost her position, status and her husband and then she came down with cancer and then she died," he said.

Tests also showed the cancer patient is less emotionally stable than other personalities, more easily upset, suspicious, self-opinionated, harder to fool than the average person, more guilt prone, apprehensive, worried and troubled. And the patient denied all these things, according to Butler.

Research also showed the same patient was conscientious, persevering, strict and moral—and was willing to believe he possessed these traits.

Butler said those who beat cancer are those who believe they will and have something to live for. He pointed to a group in Fort Worth that is giving cancer patients goals and helping the patients stress positive attitudes about capabilities they still possess in the hope that the treatment will combat the resignation that usually accompanies the disease.

"Drugs are not the treatment for cancer in the future," he said. "When treatment comes, I believe it will be treatment of the organism, of the whole life itself. There has to be a way to stop it from starting..."

"I believe one of these days we will be able to give tests and discover who would be more likely to contract cancer. In fact, I believe that one day a woman can come in with a lump in her breast and we will be able to predict whether or not it is malignant and then confirm it with a biopsy."

'Ferrari Lady' granted burial wish

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A $2.5 million estate and makes no mention of burial instructions.

The hearing Monday was not intended to verify either of the wills, but was "to see that this poor lady is buried as soon as possible," Dana said. Both wills are in probate court here.

Mrs. West's body has been embalmed and is temporarily entombed in a San Antonio mausoleum. Directors for the mortuary specified by Mrs. West in her 1972 handwritten will have stated they will not bury Mrs. West unless legal disputes over her burial are dropped.

The will has been contested by a San Antonio lawyer who says another, later will left by Mrs. West names him as chief beneficiary of her estimated Military Youngest vet cheated?

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — In 1942 when most American kids were playing war games in their backyards, 12-year-old Calvin Graham was playing for real at Guadalcanal in the South Pacific.

And if he had it to do all over, Graham said, he would do it the same way except he would be sure he got a discharge the second time.

A U.S. Navy recruiter in Corpus Christi told him to sign his mother's name and say he was 17 when he enlisted, Graham said.

It was in a South Pacific air-sea battle that Graham said two of his front teeth were knocked out. And it was complications from the mouth injury that caused the 47-year-old Graham to write another Navy veteran, President Carter, last week for help in getting an official discharge.

Graham said he cannot now receive treatment for his World War II injuries because he does not have a discharge. But he added he thinks President Carter will help solve his problem although "I know he's got the country to take care of."

In 1942 he had three brothers in the Navy. Graham, then 5-feet-6, 156 pounds, traveled to Corpus Christi where he and a friend enlisted.

Following training in San Diego, Calif., Graham said he shipped out on the U.S.S. South Dakota. His first battle was Santa Cruz followed by action at Guadalcanal.

"I lost my teeth when I fell through three stories of superstructure," he said. "I didn't do any complaining because half the ship was dead. It was a while before they worked on my mouth."

The ship returned for refitting to the Brooklyn Navy Yard where the Navy told him his mother had sent a copy of his birth certificate.

"They sent me to Corpus where they shackled me, handcuffed me and put in prison where I spent my 13th birthday," he said. "An admiral came and got me after a couple of months, took me to the PX where he bought me a suit of clothes, gave me some money and sent me home. He didn't give WANTS HIS DUE — Calvin L. Graham, 47, who says he fought in World War II as a 12-year-old boy, wants the Navy to help him get some dental work done through the Veterans Administration. The Navy recognizes his service, but will not give him a formal discharge.

while these deserters can," Graham said. "I don't think that's right. I'd like to be considered, too."

Graham said he had written Carter a letter before he was elected to tell the presidential candidate of the discharge problem.

Graham said he received a note in response that read in part, "You have deeply honored me with your trust and confidence. I will do my best not to disappoint you."

"Mr. Carter promised to help me," Graham said. "I thought I'd give him time because I know he's taking over a big job."

"My big reason for writing him again was that he was an old Navy man," he said. "I figured he'd see that I'd get what I had coming."

Ft. Hood supplies vanish

FORT HOOD, Tex. (AP) — Most of the nearly $1.5 million in supplies missing from Ft. Hood are due to adjustments made after change of command inventories, a U.S. Army spokesman said. But he also said there has been a high level of losses reported by individuals.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Sunday that he had asked the General Accounting Office to investigate "substantial quantities of equipment and supplies" that are missing from Army stocks at Ft. Hood. He said the losses account for five per cent of the base's supply budget.

An Army spokesman at Ft. Hood released a statement Monday saying that between October 1975 and December 1976, a total of 2,350 "reports of survey" were received at Ft. Hood. A "report of survey" is an accounting of monetary loss when Army property is lost or damaged. The spokesman said such reports can be filled out by individuals.

"Although the largest amount of losses resulted from adjustments due to change of command inventories, there is a high level of individual loss also," the spokesman said.

He said no special investigation will be made of the losses as a whole by the Army, but that further investigations of each loss could be made as a matter of routine.

Aspin said investigations on base have been unable to find anyone responsible for 91 per cent of the losses. He noted the other 9 per cent was attributed to those soldiers absent without leave.

Aspin said one Ft. Hood officer told him, "You can get your car fixed by some of the best-equipped mechanics in the world in the Ft. Hood area."

The congressman said some of the equipment missing includes tools from tank repair kits, telephones, a cook stove, and vast quantities of other tools.

'Gift' used to douse fire

The close call that Mrs. Minnie Unger, 1024 Birdwell, experienced could happen to anyone.

The story, according to Fire Marshall Howard Dodd, began when Mrs. Unger heated oil to fry some okra at her home.

"She stepped out back to see what her son was doing, and when she returned, the hot grease had caught fire.

She called her son, and he came running.

"The Unger's two and three quarter pound fire extinguisher was hanging on the wall next to the vent-hood over the oven, and within 30 seconds it was used to douse the fire," related Dodd.

According to the fire marshal, the extinguisher had been a gift, and had hung

More prizes donated for MOD Walkathon

Three more prizes have been donated for the March of Dimes Walkathon to be held here April 16.

They include a transistor radio donated by Big Spring Hardware, an alarm clock radio donated by Montgomery Ward and an eight track tape player for an automobile from White's Auto.

These are in addition to the ten-speed bike donated by the Big Spring Auxiliary Police and a CB radio from Gibson's.

At the monthly meeting of the Caprock Chapter of the March of Dimes, Ed Ramey, regional director from Lubbock, shocked the board with the news that the board may be closed down with Midland to be made the chapter headquarters.

He said the decision would have to be made by the end of May and that it was believed to be the only financial solution since Webb Air Force Base will close down and Rose Teems, executive director, will be leaving.

Big Spring and the Caprock chapter have been high in per capita giving in West Texas. Thus far this year, $14,785 has been reached out of a goal of $20,000.

Ms. Teems has been selected honorary chairman of the Texas Association of the FHA and the board voted to allow her to attend the state convention in Houston later this month.

A decision on closing down the Big Spring office will be made at the May meeting.

Sands student wins youth tour contest

STANTON — An athletically inclined Sands High School student, Susan Martin, won the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative Inc., Government-in-Action Youth Tour Contest here Monday night in spirited competition with Hardy Wilkerson of Big Spring High School.

Miss Martin, who competes in both basketball and track for Sands, thus earned the right to represent Cap Rock and the area on a trip to Washington, D.C., starting June 9.

Wilkerson was chosen as the alternate and will be the Cap Rock delegate in event Miss Martin is unable to go.

Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Martin, who farm approximately four miles north of Ackerly in Dawson County, never majored in Speech in school but she was flawless in her delivery, after which she fielded several questions put to her by judges.

Eight students had originally committed themselves to compete in the oratorical contest but only five put in an appearance. Chosen as a theme for the competition was Energy Conservation and the Use of Alternate Sources of Energy.

Miss Martin perhaps was inspired by the success of a cousin, Kelly Gaskins, also of Sands, who won the contest several years ago.

The pretty junior, who has two older sisters and two younger brothers, was born in Big Spring and spent her early years in Martin County. The family has resided in Dawson County the past 11 years.

Susan succeeds Big Spring's Paul Ruiz as the Cap Rock winner. Paul, who was present for the competition here Monday night, is still reaping benefits from his 1976 victory. He was occasioned to meet the then president, Gerald Ford, while in Washington last year and has been com-

Century Club to host airmen

The city may have lost its battle to keep Webb AFB open, but it continues to show its appreciation, hospitality and friendship to the military personnel stationed here.

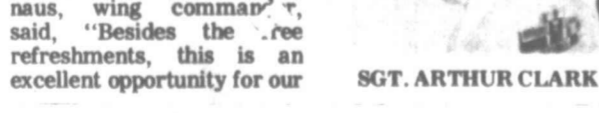

Another example of the community's support will be held April 15 when the Big Spring Century Club hosts its second flight line party for all Webb enlisted personnel.

Slated to begin at 4:30 p.m. in Hangar T-1, the event will offer plenty of snacks, soft drinks and suds for those attending.

Expected to attend are the hosting Century Club members and others from the community.

In urging support for the party, Col. Harry A. Spannaus, wing commander, said, "Besides the refreshments, this is an excellent opportunity for our enlisted personnel to meet and get to know important members of the local community."

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) First handle routine duties and then later take care of civic matters. Come to a fine understanding with a new ally.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A new venture needs more study before it will be successful. Try not to argue with mate and the evening will be a happy one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Talk over what changes should be made with your associates and then get busy and make them. Think constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Attend to routine duties early and you have time left over for whatever really interests you. Take needed health treatments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Do whatever will truly please the one closest to you and get excellent results. Take time to perfect a special talent you have.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure personal tensions are cleared up and then you can go out and accomplish a great deal in the business world.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Communicating should be handled wisely and much can be accomplished. Clear up any misunderstanding with associate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Early in the day is ideal for improving your financial status. Don't take any risks, and be sure to stock up on supplies.

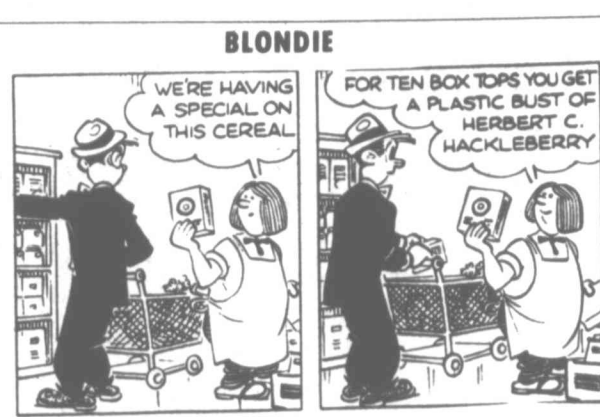

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Calmly rid yourself of petty annoyances and then work on practical matters that are important. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle personal matters that are vital to your welfare. Evening is fine for the social amenities and expressing happiness.

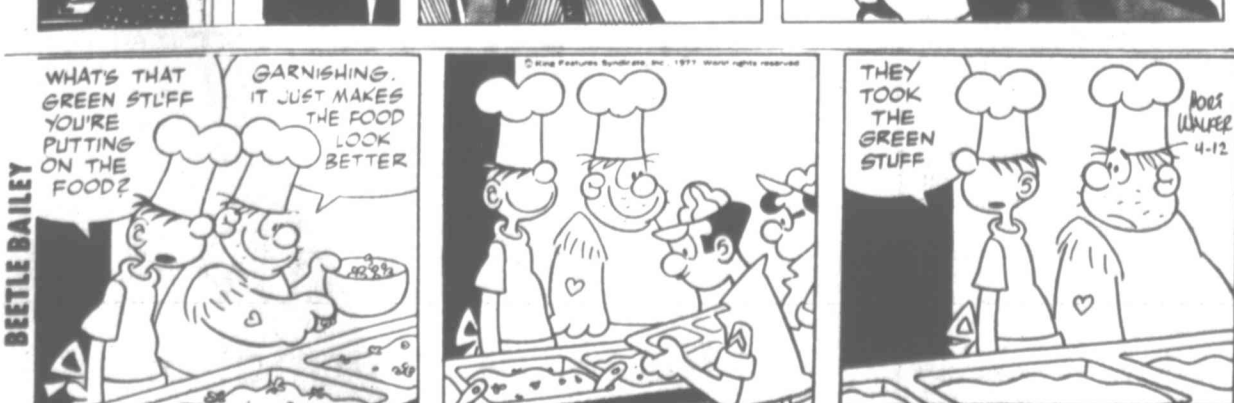

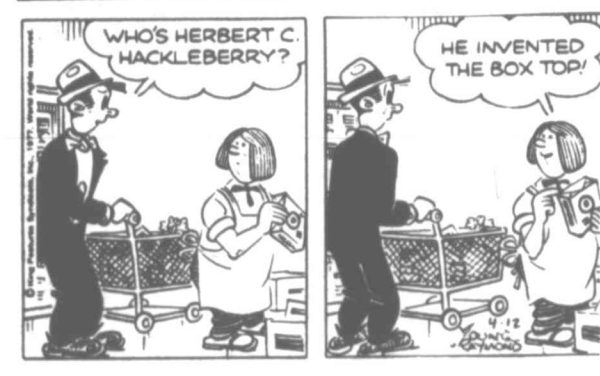

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will be very inquisitive and will store up facts and figures from personal experiences that can come in handy upon reaching maturity. Give little tasks to perform early in life and teach to work with hands as soon as possible.

In-law Wants Fiance To Have Experience

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old theology student who will one day be a minister.

After going with a very lovely girl for a year, I asked her to marry me. She is 18. She told me to ask her father. In my conversation with the father, he asked me if I was a virgin and I told him I was—which is true. I was surprised that he would ask me such a question because he is of the same religious denomination as me, and he knows that sex before marriage is forbidden.

Well, he surprised me by saying, "I hope you will get a little experience before you marry my daughter because I don't want her going off on a honeymoon with a fellow who doesn't know anything."

Abby, is there all that much to know? I always thought the mating instinct was natural, and there's no harm in learning together. What is your opinion?

PROVO, UTAH

DEAR PROVO: Do ducks have to be taught to fly? And fish to swim? Love will find a way. Stay sweet as you are.

DEAR ABBY: Shortly before St. Valentine's Day you had a "confidential" in your column urging each reader to "be a sweetheart" and take a shut-in out for a drive, invite a single over to relieve his (or her) loneliness or send someone you like a funny card, flowers or a little gift.

Well, Abby, we took your advice and came up with a list of 25. In spite of the price of flowers and cards and entertaining these days, we can't remember receiving so much for so little.

Our telephone rang for days! Some with tears in their voices to thank us for thinking of them.

That one "confidential" in the Dear Abby column was worth more than a year's subscription to the newspaper that features your column. I hope you will publish that lovely suggestion annually.

E AND R

DEAR E AND R: You can bet I will. And thanks for being the sweethearts you obviously are.

DEAR READER: The rule of grammar you speak of, which is to use the masculine pronoun when it applies to both male and female, was NOT devised to put down women. And it is not likely to be changed in the interest of women's rights.

Writing "he/she" and "him/her" IS a time-waster, and I for one would find it extremely burdensome.

Prices promise boom in backyard gardens

Sales of garden seeds are booming as millions of consumers take out homegrown insurance against feared increases in fruit and vegetable prices following a severe winter and the continued Western drought.

Americans turned to gardening in large numbers in 1974 and 1975, when food prices soared. The rate of price increases declined last year and so did the number of gardeners.

Now predictions of high prices ahead have boosted business once again, and retailers predict more backyard vegetable plots during the summer.

Supermarket News, a trade publication, said a survey of grocery stores showed new interest in seeds. Most stores said that 60 per cent of their seeds were for vegetables and 40 per cent for flowers. A few said the vegetable-to-flower ratio was 80-20.

Colonial Stores, an Atlanta-based chain, dropped seeds last year but reintroduced them this spring and has increased its stock.

An official of a Dallas supermarket said, "We already are experiencing more sales than last year and have some out-of-stock situations right now."

Prices for seeds generally start at 39 cents a packet—an increase of about a dime or so over recent years.

Burpee, the nation's largest mail-order seed company, sent postcards to regular customers, warning them to order early to avoid the expected crush. "We started off the year slowly... but all of a sudden our order volume has been unbelievable," said company president William MacDowell late in February. If you are thinking of planting a home garden, you should do some checking before you start digging. Ask local gardeners for advice on what types of vegetables grow best in your area and find out about soil conditions and planting times.

Mark Cathey, an Agriculture Department expert, says that first-time gardeners should not overdo it. "Think small, start small," says Cathey.

He says a 10-foot by 10-foot plot should provide enough vegetables for a family of four or five—if everything grows. You will have to spend about an hour a week on the garden after the initial planting.

Most vegetables need at least six hours a day of direct sunlight. If your yard is shady, consider teaming up with a neighbor for better results.

The easiest items to grow, according to Cathey, are salad bowl lettuce, bell peppers, eggplant, zucchini, squash and New Zealand or hot weather spinach. Check your family tastes before you plant anything; you won't save money if you have a garden full of vegetables that no one will eat.

seed packages regarding depth of planting and distance of rows. Depending on what you plant, you may see sprouts within a few days or you may have to wait for more than two weeks.

Make sure the seeds you buy are fresh. Look for the words "packed for 1977" on the label, meaning a state or federal agency has certified the seed and confirmed the germination rate. RECOVERING MINER — David Lynn Jackson, recuperating from surgery that reimplanted both of his arms, chats with his mother, Mrs. Winnie Jackson, in a room at Jewish Hospital in Louisville, Ky. Jackson, 19, of Bloomington Springs, Tenn. should regain 60 per cent use of his right arm and 30 to 40 per cent in his left arm, a surgeon says. Jackson's arms were severed in a mining accident nearly two weeks ago.

Miner's arms reimplanted

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Nearly two weeks ago, David Lynn Jackson closed his eyes to shut out the terror. When he opened them 18 hours later he had reason to rejoice. Jackson, 19, lost both arms in a desperate attempt to save a fellow miner as a sheet of steel plummeted 1,000 feet in a mine shaft toward them.

He was rushed to Jewish Hospital here where a team of surgeons successfully reimplanted his arms in a delicate 12-hour operation April 1. Doctors say Jackson should regain 60 per cent use of his right arm and up to 40 per cent use of his left. Jackson, of Bloomington Springs, Tenn., said at a news conference Monday that he and a fellow worker, Jerry Lee Duncan, 25, were working in a zinc mine at Gordonsville, Tenn., when a sheet of metal metal being lowered into the shaft broke loose. Duncan was directly below.

"It sounded like a hammer," he said. "It fell about 1,000 feet and it was hitting the sides of the shaft." He said he ran toward Duncan and bumped him hard enough to get the bulk of his body out of the way. But the plate severed

Rumble readers may snag dam disasters

CINCINNATI (AP) — A principle used by pioneers to tell whether Indians or buffalo were near could help prevent a recurrence of the Buffalo Creek and Teton dam collapse disasters, a scientist says.

Ira Wilder of the Environmental Protection Agency says frontiersmen stuck knives in the ground and watched for vibrations. Earthen dams also vibrate, and a machine has been developed that measures the rumbles produced by such natural movements.

FBI agents looking younger

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the FBI has a younger look these days, it's partly because of a new law that requires federal investigators to retire at 55 and allows them to leave even sooner. FBI officials had feared that as many as 1,000 agents, supervisors and policymaking officials would leave on Jan. 1, 1978, when the mandatory retirement provision takes effect.

He tuned out 'deprogrammers'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One of two young Unification Church members freed from their parents' custody by a court order says he was locked in a motel room for days because he refused to listen to "deprogrammers" trying to get him to break away from the controversial sect.

"I had all of my meals in my room and I was not allowed to go out of my room for exercise or for any other purpose," John Howard, 23, said Monday in a statement filed with the state Court of Appeal.

Howard, who said he had no access to books, telephones or television in the motel room, added that he was told he was under confinement as "punishment" for refusing to listen to the deprogrammers.

A Superior Court judge last month granted conservatorships, or 30-day custody periods, to the parents of five Moonies.

A few days later, the Court of Appeal ruled that during the period the parents could not force their children to listen to professional deprogrammers hired to win them away from the church, headed by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon.

The three-judge panel said Monday it had "serious doubts" about the constitutionality of placing young cult members in their parents' custody for deprogramming.

The court ordered a halt to the conservatorships granted to Howard's parents, John and Gail Howard of Danville, Calif., and to Beatrice Kaplan of Toledo, Ohio, the mother of Janice Kaplan. It is considering whether to appoint a hearing examiner to determine whether Howard's parents disobeyed the court orders.

The other three of the original five Moonies — Barbara Underwood, 25, of Portland, Ore.; Leslie Brown, 24, of Berkeley Heights, N.J.; and Jacqueline Katz, 21, of Walcott, N.Y. — were not covered by Monday's court decision, although they sat in court flanked by their parents and members of a deprogramming team from the Freedom of Thought Foundation.

All three say they have left Moon's church and entered into voluntary conservatorships with their parents, remaining in their custody. Contempt of court citations had been filed against the parents of the four young women. Miss Kaplan, 24, said Monday she would not prosecute the action against her parents.

Howard said following the hearing that he was "constantly forced by my parents to listen to deprogrammers," but that he always refused.

"I was confronted with accusations against the church," he said. "I didn't want to listen to the accusations. I didn't want to have to defend the church in that environment."

Officer sentenced, appeal pledged

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys for Houston deputy police chief Wallace L. Williams say they will appeal the six-year prison sentence given Williams following his conviction of under reporting $349,000 of his income from a private security service.

U.S. Dist. Judge Carl O. Bue Jr. sentenced Williams Monday and fined him $5,000. Bue said Williams, serving as night commander of the Houston Police Department, also must serve five years probation at the end of his prison sentence.

Attorneys declined to give the basis of their appeal. Williams will receive $700 per month in retirement benefits despite being suspended from the department, Chief B.G. "Pappy" Bond said.

Williams, 46, a 21-year veteran of the department, remained free on $10,000 personal recognizance bond. Bond said Williams will be permanently suspended from the police department.

"I have advised him that I will be suspending him," Bond said. "What it amounts to is firing."

Williams was charged with failing to report $349,000 in gross receipts from his outside security service between 1970-72. According to testimony during the trial, Williams provided hundreds Charities to disclose how money is spent?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next time your favorite charity asks you for a donation, it may have to tell you more about where the money goes.

Following a religious fundraising scandal, state regulations over charities are increasing and Congress is considering legislation requiring them to say how much money goes for expenses.

Many charities, seeking to preserve their good names, are voluntarily going beyond any disclosure requirements. One says that increased candor has led to increased contributions.

Among other major organizations that are making disclosures at the time of solicitation are the American Heart Association and the National Kidney Foundation.

A scandal within a Roman Catholic order, the Pallottine Fathers of Baltimore, focused attention on charities' fiscal practices. The Pallottines, in emotional appeals for funds "to feed and clothe the poor," raised $20 million in a two-year period. But less than three cents of every dollar reached the order's foreign missions, an audit later showed.

Wilson aides say lobbying by Catholic organizations kept his bill from reaching a House vote last year. TNA elects new officers The Texas Nurses Association, celebrating its 70th birthday convention in Fort Worth, the past week has announced election results for statewide officers and directors.

The proposed federal law by Rep. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., would require national charities that ask for your donations to tell you at the same time what percentage of the money goes to charitable work and what part is used for salaries and other expenses.

Other newly-elected officers include Deanna Sebestyen of Dallas, president-elect; Betty Skaggs of Austin, vice president; Margaret McElroy of Dallas, secretary; and Naomi Brack of Amarillo, treasurer.
