

To bare energy plan

Carter prescribing bitter pill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barring last-minute reversals or cold feet, President Carter is expected to offer the nation some bitter energy medicine Wednesday, largely as proposed taxes and price hikes on natural gas, petroleum and automobiles.

Carter is known to have seriously considered a "standby" gasoline tax ranging up to 50 cents a gallon; a tax starting at $412 on gas-guzzling cars, offset by a rebate on fuel-efficient cars; steep price increases on natural gas and oil in general and tax credits for residential insulation, solar energy and industrial fuel-saving.

Whether these exact proposals will turn up in Carter's energy message to Congress was still being considered by the President and his tight-knit White House team over the weekend.

But public statements by Carter and energy adviser James R. Schlesinger, information from administration and congressional sources, and a recent policy draft obtained by news media all point to these major decisions: —Emphasis on conserving energy and switching from oil or gas to coal as the fuel of industries and power plants, rather than some frantic effort to increase oil and gas production. —Speeding construction of conventional nuclear power plants, while holding back advanced systems using plutonium, a material that can be used for atomic bombs. —Encouragement of solar energy, where practical, through investment tax credits. —Major reliance on taxes, price increases and tax credits rather than a massive system of mandatory rules, to steer the nation toward energy conservation and fuel-switching by pocketbook-pressure instead of regulatory force. —Adoption of some mandatory measures targeted at specific areas, such as building insulation, appliance efficiency, and gas-fired boilers.

—And continued support of present clean-air goals, while telling industries and power plants more clearly how and where they can burn coal under these environmental rules.

Carter has said his energy proposals will cost him some of his popularity and the advance reaction in Congress has been ominous.

But Carter sees no alternative to bitter medicine, whether it takes the form of high energy prices or mandatory limits on fuel consumption.

He has scheduled a "fireside chat" Monday evening. Carter said he would tell his fellow Americans their energy cupboard is emptier than they thought, apparently based on new estimates by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency not yet made public.

Sightless Hayden Braun finds 'miracle' in music

By MARJ CARPENTER

There are three sons at the home of the Garland Brauns. One is blind.

When Rusty, 16; Garrett, 13; and Hayden, 10, get to horsing around and arguing, it's difficult to tell that any of the three is handicapped. But no outsider better pick on Hayden Braun. That's a privilege which the brothers reserve for themselves — with brotherly love.

Hayden was taken home from the incubator here in Big Spring when he was a little over two months old and a trip to an eye specialist confirmed the fear of the parents that the infant was blind.

"For a while, we hoped for a miracle, and at one time tried surgical correction. We didn't get the miracle we expected, but we have our miracle. The patience and joy which Hayden has brought to this home are miracles," Mrs. Braun said quietly.

Hayden went to the piano and began to play a tune which he has composed "by ear." The words to it were a combination of children's prayers and he sang while he played.

HE LEAD off with the familiar,

"God is greaat. God is goood." The feeling that Hayden really believes this hovered through the air along with the melody.

Hayden is taking his first piano lessons this year, but he began to play the piano when he was four years old.

"Grandmother had sent a chord organ for the older boys," the mother recalled. "Rusty, who was ten at the time, was back in his room picking out 'Silent Night' by the chord numbers. He became tired of the effort and ran through the kitchen to go out to play.

"I was busy in the kitchen and in a moment I heard 'Silent Night' and thought how much improved it was sounding. Then I suddenly realized that Rusty had just gone through the kitchen.

"GOD IS GREAT" ... Hayden Braun sings out

"I STOOD quietly a moment listening, thinking that I was confused and then I stepped to the door of their room. There was Hayden — four years old and playing that Christmas carol. I cried with joy," Mrs. Braun recalls.

"Some people will try to tell you that all blind people are musical. But the experts at the school for the blind in New Mexico said this is not true. The blind usually have more sensitive hearing than sighted persons, but some of them can even hear only monotonies when it comes to music," she added. Hayden's hearing is so sensitive that if his mother hums off key, he plays off key.

Hayden paid no attention to the discussion. He was seated at the piano. He whipped into his version of "The Eyes of Texas" followed by "Somebody's in the Kitchen With Dinah." "My husband and I met at Texas," Mrs. Braun recalled laughingly.

Suddenly Hayden jumped down from the piano stool, went to the center of the room and plopped down on the floor, hugging his knees. "Mama, do you remember that time we went to that play and I thought the thunder and lightning were real? I didn't like it."

MRS. BRAUN said they had attended the performance of "Texas" in Palo Duro Canyon. "When Hayden heard the thunder he was ready to go to the car. But he really doesn't like loud noises. Things like a loud airplane or a really big, loud crowd at a football game tend to upset him a little," the mother added.

She laughed and said, "Of course, his Daddy is a football coach and his brothers play, so we may have to figure out something in the next few years so that he can enjoy his brother's games."

The mother admitted that she thought it had something to do with extra-sensitive hearing. "He told me the other day to get the water drip stopped. I checked all the faucets and couldn't find a water drip. He took me by the hand to the hot water heater closet and pointed. I listened and couldn't hear a thing. But when I opened that door, there was the leak."

Hayden enjoys sounds he can control. He wandered off to his room and came back with a wind-up train that sounded like a real train. He sat happily in the middle of the room holding on to "his sound."

This is his first year in public school. He is working at several grade levels with braille in his special class. He will soon begin work with an abacus to extend his knowledge of arithmetic.

HE SINGS in the youth choir at the First United Methodist Church. He has furnished piano programs at Lions and Rotary Clubs and will soon play in two more programs.

He has taken part in New Mexico in the Special Olympics and he likes to jump on the trampoline and skate. "I like skates on your shoes. Skate boards get away from you," Hayden stated firmly.

He went back to his room and came back clutching two toys that were making simultaneously separate sounds. He sat down happily and sat there smiling.

Hayden walked over and reached out to touch the reporter. "Am I going to be in the newspaper?" At which his brother, Garrett said with a twinkle in his eye, "Aw, you're always getting in the paper. Just because you're blind."

"Sure," said Hayden happily. "Sure I do."

AF deputy arrives for talks

Joe Meis, deputy secretary of the Air Force, is scheduled to arrive here today, awaiting a series of conferences with military and civilian leaders Monday at Webb AFB.

Meis will have dinner with Mayor Wade Choate this evening. Tomorrow morning he will meet with Col. Harry Spannaus and other members of the Webb wing commander's staff. Following a break for lunch Monday, he will sit with members of the Big Spring Steering Committee. The meeting begins at 1 p.m. Both the morning and afternoon sessions will be in the Wing Commander's Conference Room.

Mayor Choate said Meis would give local officials an idea of what to expect in a phase-down schedule, now that it has become official that Webb is being closed by the Air Force.

Members of the Steering Committee will also question Meis about the departure of local military personnel and when buildings at the base would become available for use by the City of Big Spring.

Eldon Erickson of Kansas City, assigned to the Office of Economic Adjustment, remained in town and will attend the Monday afternoon session. Erickson spent much of the past week here in session with the Steering Committee.

Bill Sheehan of Washington, D.C., director of the Office of Economic Adjustment, was highly complimentary of Webb's facilities and its housing complex on his visit here. It said it was obvious that both military and civilian personnel here took great pride in the facility.

Changes made in Carter energy plan?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Changes are being made in President Carter's proposed energy program that would make it more acceptable to oil and gas producing states, Gov. David Boren said Saturday.

Boren, who said he received a telephone call late Saturday afternoon from White House energy chief James Schlesinger, said, "I was told that the President had directed some positive movement" on three points of the energy plan.

Boren said those points are: a phased program for the deregulation of natural gas prices, incentives for more oil and gas production, and relief for farmers and ranchers hurt by changes in energy supplies and prices.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: No such law

Q. Is there a law requiring lending institutions on home loans to furnish you with an amortization schedule? If there is such a law and they refuse to furnish you one, to whom can you report them?

A. Both a local banker and a local savings and loan president said that to their knowledge there is no such law. John Currie, president of State National Bank, said "Most of us furnish them as a courtesy upon request. It is not a requirement but most will do it. There are a lot of things that make them change — such as insurance payments, taxes, late payments, early payments and all kinds of circumstances that make it difficult to keep them ready upon call." Charles Bell, president of First Federal Savings and Loan, said, "Most places will furnish them — sometimes for a small additional charge because they are a lot of trouble. However, to my knowledge, this is simply a courtesy and not a requirement."

The plant, however, was hot and officers promptly arrested 19-year-old Edwin R. Brown for possession of marijuana.

The misdemeanor charge landed Brown in jail Thursday.

Tax deposit tale ends happily

Bob Cowley, Forsan, had an income tax tale that stood him on his ear Friday night, April 15.

He was determined to mail his tax return on time, but as close to the midnight deadline as possible, so he and his wife, Evelyn, put the return and the check into the proper envelope, stamped it, and drove into Big Spring to deposit it in the mail box.

For several years, Cowley has used the night depository at the First National Bank, as it was the only convenient time he had to do it.

As he and Evelyn made their way to Big Spring, they became involved in a lively family discussion, and habit took over. Cowley's reflexes became automatic and the car made all the proper turns. They drove into the First National Bank parking lot, dropped the envelope in the night depository, and drove off.

Suddenly, stunned awareness of what they had done came over them in the middle of Main Street. Then came waves of laughter; then — what to do?

Thinking they might need the help of the friendly police, the Cowleys made their way to the police station to tell their tale of woe. Although concerned with Bob's problem, the whole department was falling down with laughter, but could not help.

The Cowleys then tried the telephone. All the vice presidents of the bank were called — none answered. So Cowley decided to go to the top. Jimmy Taylor, president of the bank, answered his phone and listened to the tale. But help was not to be — for even he could not open the time lock depository.

However, Taylor assured Bob that he would go first thing Saturday morning, retrieve the letter, and take it to the post office. He did just that.

Later Taylor drove the 13 miles to Forsan, to Cowley's business to let him know that the mission was accomplished.

Hearts 'n flowers

Night toil harmful

with Tommy Hart

The International Labor Organization is urging people to think twice before accepting night work.

Such endeavor has doubled in the last 25 years but a new study shows a deleterious effect on both the individual and his family. Excluding firemen, police and other public service workers, one worker in ten around the world now holds a night time job. In most countries, the ratio is one in four.

More than a few of those are "moonlighting." They go from daytime jobs to other assignments at night, thereby compounding a problem.

Tests show a worker's physical and mental health suffers under the strain of night work due to the human body's natural cycle of 24 hours, which involves an active phase during the day and an inactive phase after night comes on.

Working at night and sleeping during the day upsets this natural rhythm. Sleep in the daytime simply doesn't have the same restorative properties.

The routine often leads a night worker to start taking pills to sleep and more pills to wake up again. The slower digestive process at night leads to stomach distress and still more pills.

There are those who like to be identified as 'night people' and who refuse to sleep when night comes on. They likely will pay the piper later on for their nocturnal habits but it's difficult to show them the wisdom of conformity.

(See Hearts, p. 10A, col. 1)

HOME SWEET HOME — Percy Thomas, a disabled miner, sits on the cot where he has slept since April 4 when a flash flood left many homeless in Appalachia. See story p. 3A.

Promised flood aid hasn't come

LOBATA, W.Va. (AP) — The government promised help for the hundreds of families left homeless by floods two weeks ago, but Percy Thomas and some of his neighbors are still sleeping under the stars.

"We came up here the night of the flood," the 63-year-old disabled coal miner said. "Let's see, that was the fourth wasn't it? You kinda lose track of time up here."

The Red Cross estimates

the flooding destroyed 2,700 homes in West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee. Another 7,200 homes sustained major damage.

Many flood victims are still living with friends and relatives.

Thomas and 15 of his neighbors have built canvas-covered shelters on a coal company access road on the hill above their ruined homes while they wait for the federal government to bring in emergency housing.

"I signed up for a mobile home today," Thomas said. "They told me I could have it for a year, rent free, and then could buy it if I wanted to."

"But, God only knows how long it will be before we get that mobile home. They've got to clear away our wrecked houses first."

He looked down the mountain to the wrecked homes along the muddy Tug Fork.

"That's my house over there ... the one with the green roof ... the one that's turned sideways," he said.

"The people of Williamson are disappointed," he said, watching a bulldozer move down the city's debris-laden Main Street, past mud-covered workers and waist-high piles of refuse.

"We're very unhappy that the government hasn't given us more help in cleaning up this mess. Here it's been 10 days since the flood and we're still in terrible shape. And on top of that, they're talking about moving out the first of next week and we're not even half cleaned up yet."

HC soph wins place in college press meet

Carol Hart, a sophomore at Howard College and a member of the Herald editorial staff, won a third place award for journalistic excellence in live competition Saturday morning in the annual Texas Intercollegiate Press Association Convention at San Antonio.

Miss Hart, who plans to enroll in Texas Tech this fall, was awarded a certificate for news writing. Carol edited the Howard College paper, El Nido, for a year and a half. Her instructor here is Miss Ann Ward.

Carol's award came as the result of an interview with a person who assumed the role of the Russian author, Alexander Solzhenitsyn. She was in competition with Journalism majors from 35 senior and junior colleges around the state.

Howard College had four other winners in the TIPA contest. They were Rodney Hammack, awarded second place in Newspaper Division II, Editorial Cartoon division behind Marie Buffinton of Tarrant County Junior College; Roxie McDaniel, second place in Advertisement competition, Yearbook Division II; Barbara Leopold, second place, Essay, Literary Magazine Division II; and Cal Lowry, third place, Short Story, Literary Magazine, Division II.

Entries in those categories were judged in advance.

In Division II, Howard College students were competing against representatives of such schools as Angelo State University, Southwestern University, Wayland Baptist College and Tarleton State University, as well as against junior college entries.

Search on for narc's killers

RICHMOND, Tex. (AP) — Southeast Texas law enforcement officials searched Saturday for two men wanted in connection with the early morning shooting death of an undercover narcotics officer from Louisiana.

A Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman in Austin tentatively identified the dead officer as Benton C. Bordelon of the Rapides Parish sheriff's office in Alexandria, La.

Fort Bend County Sheriff Ervin Huerta said the officer's body was found on the shoulder of Farm Market Road 359 six miles north of Richmond. Huerta said he thought the man had been killed about 4:30 a.m.

Officials said investigators were looking in the Houston area for the two men wanted for questioning about the shooting.

Early reports indicated that the pair might have taken another officer hostage. Huerta later said he was satisfied that all persons involved in the incident had been accounted for.

Police in Houston, about 30 miles away from Richmond, said a car thought to be one used by the assailants was recovered near the downtown area late Saturday morning. Officers said the car was not the one that was the object of the search.

83rd FTS launches project

When a base is named for closure one might expect some of the base-community relation projects to wither and die. Instead, the 83rd Flying Training Squadron of Webb AFB has just launched a brand new one.

At least 25 members of the 83rd FTS will be spending several hours of their off duty time working with boys in the Big Spring Boys Club. Twice each week the volunteers will provide instruction and guidance in many crafts and sports.

Among the instruction offered will be lessons in woodworking, photography, boxing, wrestling, and weightlifting. Other activities will also be held. One such activity is a planned field trip to the base.

Cpl. Padron to Pacific

Marine Corporal Eddie Padron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Susano C. Padron of Box 434, Coahoma, has departed for an extended deployment to the Western Pacific.

He is serving as a member of Detachment One, Marine Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron (VMFP)-3, homebased at the Marine Corps' El Toro Air Station, Santa Ana, Calif.

During the six-month deployment, VMFP-3 will be based at the Marine Corps Air Station, Iwakuni, Japan. His squadron flies RF-4 "Phantom" jets which are specially equipped for aerial photographic and radar-imagery reconnaissance.

A 1974 graduate of Coahoma High School, he joined the Marine Corps in July 1974.

Chapter could be sustained

At their meeting this past week, the Permian Chapter, Non Commissioned Officers Association members discussed the possibility of the retired members maintaining the chapter after the Webb AFB closure. More retired members are needed to take part in the functions.

A decision was made to have a money raising event May 1 in the NCO club ballroom. It will be a marathon beginning at 12:30 p.m. and lasting as long as contestants hold out.

According to Col. Arthur Burer, 83rd FTS commander, the purpose of the program is to enhance community relations, provide brotherhood and leadership and to demonstrate by example those qualities desired by the community and Air Force as responsible adults.

Project officers for the program are Capt. David Homrig and 1st Lt. David Dringman.

Priest finishes recruit course

Navy Firearm Recruit Danny G. Priest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon G. Priest of 4112 Dixon St., Big Spring has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. He joined the Navy in December 1976.

DAV sets meet

The Disabled American Veterans, chapter 4, will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m., Monday, April 18 at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2013.

Members unable to attend the convention are urged to attend the meet to obtain Region I plans for the coming year.

Those who have contributed to the chapter's colors will view them for the first time when the new chapter flag will be displayed.

GI bill payments are changed by government

A change in GI Bill payment procedures, effective June 1, will bring checks at the end of the month rather than at the beginning to 1.5 million veterans, dependents and service members enrolled in Veterans Administration education programs. These and other changes are explained in a "stuffer" to be sent with April and May checks, Jack Coker, Waco VA Regional Director, said today.

Another June 1 change brought about by law, modifies an arrangement which in the past automatically gave trainees a two-month money advance at the start of school.

Ending of the prepayment system will have the most noticeable effect on veteran students continuously enrolled this summer. They will receive their last VA check under the prepayment system on May 1, covering enrollment for May.

The next check, covering June enrollment, will be issued July 1. Subsequent VA checks will follow each additional month of enrollment. A student whose enrollment ends in June will receive the payment for June on July 1.

The modified advance payment procedure permits advance payment at the beginning of a school term for the first month or partial month, plus the following month only if the student makes a written request and the school agrees to process the advance payment. Prior to this new legislation, all students got advance payments automatically, Coker noted.

Students under the GI Bill or the dependents educational assistance program who wish an advance payment should contact their school, because the student's written request for advance payment must be included on the school enrollment certification submitted to VA.

VA emphasized the enrollment certification containing the advance payment request must be received at least 30 days before the start of regular registration. Disabled veterans under VA rehabilitation programs should contact their VA rehabilitation specialist for further information.

Eligible veteran students requesting advance payment for the fall school session should be aware that no additional check will be forthcoming from the VA for approximately three months, Coker said.

For example, a veteran receiving an advance payment check in September, covering September and October, would not receive an education payment for November until December 1, because of the elimination of the prepayment provision, Coker explained.

Briscoe blasts oil, gas rules

SNYDER — Gov. Dolph Briscoe said here Friday that the government should get out of the business of oil and gas regulation.

Briscoe, here to serve as keynote speaker for the annual Snyder Chamber of Commerce membership banquet, said:

"Texas is by far the largest energy producing state in the U.S.; it is also by far the largest consumer. It's time for the other states to start doing their share."

Briscoe called on other states to start developing their coal reserves and begin offshore production of oil.

The Texas governor said the 23 years of federal price controls have caused shortages of disastrous proportions.

Lady Bird Johnson, wife of the late president, was to have been a special guest at the banquet but she was unable to make the trip due to bad weather in Austin.

Carter restoring half of water, dam projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is restoring money for nearly half of the 30 water and dam projects he has considered scrapping but is holding firm on the others.

Reports of the President's decision came from congressmen and state officials who were notified Friday. Carter, who had threatened all 30 with extinction, said he would announce his decisions formally Monday.

Few seemed willing to surrender to adverse decisions. "I will say a special prayer for the President and hope that his heart won't be so cold," said Rep. Wes Watkins, D-Okla., after learning a flood control project in his state had been eliminated.

Carter's decision may not be a final blow to the projects because Congress could restore the money to the budget.

The survivors include two of the largest projects — the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway and the Central Arizona Project. The victims include the Richard B. Russell Dam in Carter's home state of Georgia, a project he supported while governor.

Of the 30 projects, Carter proposed no federal money for 15, full funding for eight, partial funding for five and withholding of money for two pending further study.

The water development projects had been threatened since Carter said he would halt federal spending on them in the 1978 budget unless reviews proved them economically necessary and environmentally safe.

There was no indication how much money Carter expected the chopping and paring to save.

Predictably, congressmen whose projects were axed pledged to appeal to Congress. Those whose projects passed the test praised Carter's foresight.

"I'm proud of my President," said Gov. Cliff Finch of Mississippi, after learning that the $1.8 billion Tennessee-Tombigbee project lived.

"The formal decision will be made by Congress, not the administration," said Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., whose Oahe Irrigation Project was slashed.

At his news conference Friday, Carter said his aides were preparing an analysis of the reasons for his decisions.

"We have tried to do this in a very careful and methodical way," Carter said. "Combined with it, we will publish and adhere to a very strict list of criteria in the future for approval of the projects."

Some of the projects had been in limbo for two months. The first hint of danger came in mid-February, when Carter, his administration barely a month old, told Congress he wanted to lop off $289 million in the 1978 budget for 19 water projects. He also said he was ordering a complete review of all 320 ongoing water resource projects.

He later changed his mind about three of the projects, restoring them to federal spending.

Energy Howard County gains oil discovery

Howard County gained an oil discovery the past week. Campana Petroleum Co., Midland, No. 1 Read, Howard County Mississippian oil discovery, four miles northeast of Coahoma, 2 1/2 miles south and slightly east of Clearfork production, 2 3/4 miles south of the lone Fusselman oil producer and two miles south and slightly east of the Ellenburger opener and lone producer in the Coahoma, North field, was finalized with 249 barrels of 48 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 1,285-1. Production was through a 16-64-inch choke and perforations at 8,707-17 feet, which had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid. These tops were picked on Kelly bushing elevation of 2,442 feet; San Andreas, 2,237 feet; Canyon, 8,305 feet; Strawn, 8,427 feet; Mississippian, 8,684 feet; Fusselman, 8,874 feet; and Sylvan, 8888 feet. Drilled to 8,935 feet, where 4 1/2 inch casing was set, it is plugged back to 8,893 feet. Location is 960 feet from the north and 1,980 feet from the west lines of 33-10-N-T&P. MITCHELL County gained another confirmer this week as activity picked up in their part of the oil patch. Sterling County also gained a confirmer.

Dorchester Exploration Inc., Midland, will drill the No. 1-7 Price as a 2 1/4 mile north-northeast outpost to the Canyon gas opener and lone producer from that pay and 1 1/2 mile north of the oil opener and lone producer from that pay in the Big Salute, North field of Sterling County, one mile northwest of an undesignated Cisco gas discovery and 12 miles west of Sterling City.

Location is 990 feet from the south east lines of 7-22-H&TC. Contract depth is 7,800 feet. The Canyon gas opener, H.G. Sledge No. 1 Roy Glass, was finalized Dec. 10, 1975 for a calculated absolute open flow of 1,314,000 cubic feet daily, with gas-liquid ratio of 148,232-1 through perforations at 7,900-8,050 feet.

The Cisco strike, apparently assigned the Parochial-Bade field, Dorchester Exploration 1-17 Price, was finalized Dec. 6, 1976 for a calculated, absolute open flow of 1,758,000 cubic feet of gas daily with gas-liquid ratio of 31,654-1, through perforations at 7,430-810 feet.

Carbon plant 'looking good'

"Things are looking good at the Sid Richardson Carbon plant and we are encouraged about the way the economy is picking up," John Hogg, Fort Worth, president of the company, said here today.

Hogg was plant manager at the local facility from 1961-64. He was accompanied by Grant Boardman, who followed him as manager here, and now works in Fort Worth.

"It had been quite a while since I had visited the Big Spring operation and we were quite pleased," Hogg stated here today. "The rubber strike hurt us last year but we expect a good year in 1977."

The plant has 57 employees here and part of them attended a company dinner

Thursday night at the Big Spring Country Club which was attended by Hogg and Boardman.

Part of the company attended a dinner Tuesday night. The company has two carbon plants, the one here and the other in Baton Rouge, La.

Hogg said here today, "It was wonderful to see so many old friends while here this week. I am sorry about Webb Air Force Base closing."

"However, I think that Big Spring will recover and may even show remarkable growth. It's kind of a shock to the citizens and I know they are apprehensive but people in towns like Amarillo and Roswell have recovered and are happy about their economy."

Wall Street likes rebate death

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street applauded President Carter's scuttling of his plans for a $50-a-person tax rebate with strong rallies in both the stock and bond markets this past week.

The stock market chalked up its best weekly showing in more than a year.

There had been intense opposition to the rebate plan in the financial community, with its inflation fears and its traditionally conservative viewpoint on economic matters.

Numerous analysts argued that it was the wrong action to take and the wrong time to take it.

As William H. Gassett, vice president and economist at Eaton & Howard Inc., a Boston firm which operates a large group of mutual funds, put it:

"Perhaps there was some reason for considering a stimulus of this sort very early in the year when there was the possibility that business would not sufficiently recover, but business is improving and consumer spending and personal incomes have recently showed renewed strength."

So no one was surprised when stock and bond prices jumped ahead Thursday on word that Carter had abandoned the idea.

The Dow gained 8.82 on Thursday and 28.88 for the week — its biggest weekly gain since it rose 29.44 Feb.

17-20 of last year.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index climbed 2.69 to 101.04, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks gained 1.48 to 54.94.

Big Board volume averaged 24.78 shares a day, up from 17.11 the week before.

The President's decision on the rebate settled one political question of importance to investors. The spotlight shifts to another touchy issue in the coming week when Carter unveils his energy plan.

"Probably the most certain thing about the energy policy that President Carter will propose on April 20 is that it will receive opposition from many quarters," notes Boston's United Business Service.

"This is likely to be the case even though the nation has been badly in need of an energy policy at least since the embargo that started in October 1973."

The prospect of a tough energy policy "raises the possibility that energy price increases may continue to add to the inflation rate later in 1977 and in 1978," says Gary M. Wengowski, economist at Goldman, Sachs & Co.

"Consumers and investors should be prepared for a possible doubling in the retail pump price of U.S. gasoline over the next three to five years," he maintains.

Sands school enters TEA accreditation plan

ACKERLY — The Sands school system is entering the Texas Education Agency accreditation planning process.

That includes conducting a self-study of the system. Goals for a five-year period will be developed to improve the educational program and services.

A steering committee composed of school board members, community volunteers, administrators and teachers have been named to guide the program.

The committee is going to take an opinion survey in the community and the schools to get input to help with planning long-range goals.

A random sampling of the community survey will go on through Wednesday. Those not included in the sampling can volunteer information to the schools.

Those interested can contact Mrs. Pat Gaskins, Mrs. Terry Hall, Mrs. Cruz Rodriguez or Durward Blagrove and Eddie Herm before Wednesday.

Three on way to Huntsville

Hoard County deputies Thursday put three felons on the bus to Huntsville. Dorothy Lyn Hicks, Andres Marques and Edward Allen Moore was shipped out of the county jail.

Mrs. Hicks was convicted of the murder of Joe Willy Winters and will begin serving her five-year sentence. Andres Marques was in Big Spring for a habeas corpus hearing in his attempt to overturn two 18-year-old convictions for burglary and murder. Moore is beginning to serve a term for the theft of a TV from a local Holiday Inn in January.

Sheila Heinemann was returned to Howard County Thursday by Deputy Eddie Owens who escorted her back from California where she was picked up on a warrant for forgery in Howard County. Mrs. Heinemann allegedly has $300 of bad checks outstanding against her.

Farm Planting preparations hastened

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas farmers used favorable weather conditions to hasten their planting and speed up land preparation, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reported Saturday.

Light drizzle at mid-week halted some agricultural activity in the Panhandle, and indications were that some showers and thunderstorms might spread across the state during the next several days.

Although much of the state has adequate moisture at present—particularly the Central and Eastern portions—pastures, ranges and some young crops would benefit from top soil moisture, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the TAES. Planting is virtually complete in South Texas and the Coastal Bend, and is making progress through Central, South Central, Southeast, Gulf Coast and other areas, he added.

Some insect damage is being reported as corn and sorghum crops make growth. Progress is evident in small grain crops over much of the state. Peach trees in many areas appear to have set good fruit crops.

Sheep shearing is in full swing in Western areas, and livestock producers are working their stock to control flies, ticks and lice.

The following conditions were reported by district extension agents.

PANHANDLE: Dryland wheat still is deteriorating. Moderate planting of corn is underway this week. Ranges and pastures are below average. Cattle are in fair to good condition. Cattle marketing is heavy at local auctions as they come off wheat pastures.

SOUTH PLAINS: Corn planting appears to be reaching its peak in the South Plains area, where soil moisture still is short. Onion and potato plantings continue, along with herbicide and fertilizer work.

ROLLING PLAINS: Wheat needs more moisture. Dry winds have reduced moisture conditions to below the necessary level. An excellent fruit crop is in prospect, and home gardens are progressing. Some alfalfa is nearing first cutting stages in Wilbarger County.

FAR WEST: Ranges are greening up, but moisture is short over most of area. Small grains are making good growth, and pecan trees are budding. In Pecos County, cattle are experiencing abortion problems from eating "turpentine weed" or toxic perennial broomweed.

WEST CENTRAL: Small grains are beginning to head and making good growth. Peach crop looks fair.

Winds, dryness nip wheat

AUSTIN — High winds and lack of rain have cut into Texas wheat production this year, expected to be 8 per cent less than that of 1976, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has announced.

Acres were reduced by 350,000 acres to 6,150,000 this year by farmers who have experienced slow movement in the market and consistently low prices. Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service forecasts a crop of 95 million bushels for 1977.

"December forecasts were set at 98,400,000 bushels. Moisture has been at a premium throughout the Plains since planting season, and growth has been retarded in many dryland fields. High winds have damaged wheat throughout the Plains, lowering yield prospects," Commissioner Brown explained.

TFU women's meetings set

Better understanding between farmers and consumers and the general image of farmers will be the focus of discussion in three regional Women's Conferences planned by Texas Farmers Union this month in Waco, Lubbock and El Campo.

Coordinating the meetings, which are open to all women interested in farming, will be Linda Siderius, assistant director of Youth and Young Adults from Denver, Colorado. The state office of Texas Farmers Union in Waco is handling the regional plans and encouraging its 8,000 plus member families as well as their guests to take part in the conferences.

The first conference is calendared for Waco this Saturday, at Knight's Inn on Waco Drive. State Rep. Betty Denton will join in discussions on how women can become more politically active, and Mr. John Anduri from the National Farmers Union Insurance headquarters in Denver will discuss estate planning and inheritance laws.

Registration for this all-day affair begins at 9:00 a.m. and there is a cost of $5.

The women's conference in the El Campo region follows Tuesday. A Dutch-treat luncheon is planned as the farm women work together on how to build a more effective organization, put together a slide show, and find means to tell the farm story and the work of Farmers Union. This meeting will take place in the R.E.A. Building on Highway 39 in El Campo where registration begins at 9:00 a.m.

Dr. Waylon Bennett, Agricultural Economist from Texas Tech University, will be the featured speaker at the Lubbock conference which runs for two days, April 22 and 23. Women in the Panhandle, South Plains, Southwest Texas, and Rolling Plains areas are invited to spend Friday night in Lubbock at the location of the conference, the Holiday Inn on Loop 289. Four meals and overnight accommodations are included in the $25 registration costs. In addition to hearing from Bennett, the Women's Conference will explore the propaganda aspects of the food and fiber economy, the images of farmers and consumer education. A tour of the Texas Tech Textile Research labs is also scheduled as well as some entertainment and a jewelry-making session.

Lubbock registration begins at 9:30 a.m. on Friday at the Holiday Inn.

Beef market program set

All area cattle producers are invited to attend a special meeting on the proposed Beef Market Development Program at 9:00 a.m. Monday in the Reddy Room of the Texas Electric Service Company located at 409 Runnels.

Beef Development Taskforce chairman J. M. Sterling will preside at the meeting.

"This is a program by cattle producers and for cattle producers," Sterling said. "It's important that it be understood and supported."

The Beef Market Development Program hopes to raise $30 to $40 million through voluntary contribution each year to invest in consumer education, research, and foreign market development.

Cattle producers will vote on the proposed program this spring in a national referendum.

"There are four major aspects of the Beef Market Development Program," Sterling said. "These are consumer education, research, marketing and distribution, and foreign markets. They'll each be covered in the meeting."

BIRD

This relatively early Lockett variety is getting more and more recognition as a fine, early cotton for this area.

Its early maturity (slightly earlier than Pymaster 18) along with being a highly determinate variety, allows it to set bolls early, then "cut-out," resulting in the production of more mature bolls with higher lint quality. It is well adapted to narrow-row as well as conventional planting because it matures early and the close-fruited plant holds the low bolls off the ground. Lockett 4789-A normally produces a good yield of quality fiber with staple length of an inch or more. It is recommended for both dry and irrigated land. However, under irrigation it should be grown only on wilt-free soils.

To be sure you're planting the real thing, buy only certified seed from a Pioneer Seed Dealer. Reserve your supply of Lockett 4789-A planting seed now.

Hearts 'n flowers

Poetry written by the late Andrew Edmonson, compiled in book form by his mother, Mrs. A.G. Edmonson, recently was printed by the Nortex Press of Wichita Falls.

Entitled "The Different Drummer," the 58-page book emerges as a triumph of impact for a man who taught at Tulane University after declining health forced him to give up a scholarship to the Tulane Medical School.

Valedictorian of his high school class in 1956, Andrew received a full scholarship to Tulane University from which he graduated Phi Beta Kappa in 1960, with a B.A. in English. He later taught freshman English at SMU for two years, where some of his poems were published. After teaching at Tulane, he became senior English instructor at St. Mary's Episcopal Prep School near New Orleans for five years. He became seriously ill in 1972, however, and was unable to continue teaching at this school or to finish his oral and dissertation toward his Ph.D.

During his long travail, he wrote poetry, tutored exceptional children and invested a few hours in volunteer library work, where he read to the blind. The first poem in Andrew's superlative contribution is entitled "Duststorm," which appeared in the Herald's Niche for Poets several months ago.

Andrew was a resident of Big Spring for four years during his illness and wrote most of his poems while living here. In his poem, "Confession," Edmonson was moved to write:

"If one lone hyacinth should bloom
Among the thorns of failure,
Then perhaps a golden chain
Mr. Penney rose, extended

From consciousness to consciousness
Has been the grand design."

Edmonson's consuming hope was to become a priest, but he was not accepted. Because of his dedication to the spiritual, his mother has decreed that all proceeds from the book go to the Episcopal church.

It is a collection of verse from which I plan to quote from time to time.

There's an old saying in the rubber capital of Akron, Ohio, when it comes to that city's principal product, which goes:

"Goodrich invents it,
Firestone takes credit for it and Goodyear sells it."
Like Avis, Goodrich is trying but still ranks No. 3 among the rubber companies.

The new music editor of the Zodiac News Service in San Francisco is Charles (Scoop) Sweeney, formerly news director of KPFT (FM) in Houston and son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sweeney of Big Spring. Scoop started his radio career as a reporter and disc jockey for KBST Big Spring.

Zodiac is a radio news service reaching more than 400 radio stations in the U.S. and Canada. Scoop will concentrate on rock music, jazz, blues and progressive country sounds. Incidentally, his friends here might like to write him c/o 2824 Rawson St., Oakland, Calif., 94619.

Even in his December years, J.C. Penney, who founded the merchandising empire that bears his name, enjoyed waiting on customers. One day, while visiting a store, he was fitting a family with shoes when one of them spoke up, "Some day I'd like to meet Mr. Penney."

Mr. Penney rose, extended his hand and said simply, "I am Mr. Penney."

The patriarch, who lived to be 95, possessed a remarkable memory. He seldom forgot a name or a face and recognized customers after intervals of as long as 50 years.

Couldn't you describe a pedestrian as a fellow whose wife beats him to the garage?

Big Spring's Mike Craddock has an English friend, David Cook, who has dismantled an entire church in northern England and has arranged to sell its interesting parts at an auction to be held in the Holiday Inn Ballroom, 4020 Northcentral Expressway, Dallas, next Sunday, starting at 1 p.m.

A collector himself, Craddock will likely bid on some of the items.

Among the things brought over for the sale are over 150 sheets of stained glass windows including a life-sized picture of St. Luke, a twin-stair king-sized carved Gothic pulpit, a giant pipe organ in complete working order, paneling, pews, light fixtures, chairs and doors.

It's considered chic in businesses like supper clubs, restaurants and tonier shops to display such items, not for sale but as conversation pieces.

It is no secret that Sir Arthur Conan Doyle developed a certain disapprobation for Sherlock Holmes, the literary shamus he created. Those who watched him kill off both Mr. Holmes and his chief villain in a celebrated encounter above the Reichenbach Falls reasoned Doyle had grown weary of meeting his publisher's deadlines. In reality, Holmes' demise (he was resurrected later by popular demand) came about due to the illness of Sir Arthur's first wife.

Doyle's wife, Louise, was a consumptive who, the distinguished writer felt, demanded his devoted attention. Conan Doyle actually regarded the writing of the Holmes stories as hack work. He created another character, Brigadier Gerard, he thought would be longer remembered in literary circles and he was especially proud of his own history of the Boer War.

Muscovites observe free labor day

MOSCOW (AP) — Millions of Muscovites turned out Saturday to give parks and streets a spring cleanup and put in an extra day at factory jobs in what is paradoxically called a "holiday of voluntary labor."

The Soviet news agency Tass reported that across the nation about 150 million citizens participated in the annual spring "Subbotnik" organized for community improvement and to raise funds for new hospitals, schools and other projects.

The money comes from the production of factory workers who work without pay for the day. Office workers, bureaucrats, teachers and others who don't produce goods give their time to clear away the debris of winter and clean up their cities and communities.

"Just as everywhere during this day, here in Moscow revolutionary marches sounded and red flags fluttered in the spring winds," Tass commented.

More evident than flags and revolutionary tunes were contingents of Muscovites setting to work with brooms, hoes and shovels to spruce up the Soviet capital.

Along broad Kutuzovsky Prospekt, men and women wearing business suits, dresses, stockings and stylish boots or platform shoes worked beside others in more suitable rough work clothes to sweep streets and hoe winter-hardened flower beds.

Women in white smocks and caps sold sandwiches, cakes, candies, soft drinks and flowers from tables set up along the sidewalks and at street corners.

Enthusiasm varies for the Subbotnik, which is promoted by labor unions, Communist youth groups and other organizations. Young Communist groups are often the best workers, while a number of older Muscovites were seen leaning on their shovels much of the time. Two elderly women were heard commenting dryly about "Communist labor," the euphemism for work without pay.

But generally a holiday atmosphere prevailed. A substantial amount of work was done amid casual chatting and enjoyment of the first days of a reluctant spring.

The name Subbotnik comes from Subbota, the Russian word for Saturday, and the tradition dates from April 12, 1919.

AN ENDANGERED SPECIES . . . THE AMERICAN SYSTEM

We, the unconcerned Americans, who support or tolerate the give-away programs that lead to runaway inflation, are slowly extinguishing the FREE MARKET SYSTEM.

The only people who can prevent the decline and fall of the greatest nation in the history of mankind are the very same people — you and I. We've got to support the Free Market System; we've got to drastically reduce federal spending and government regulation; we've got to stand up for business, large and small; we've got to curtail the monopolistic power of labor unions; we've got to recognize productivity in agriculture, business and industry as essential to our nation's survival; and we've got to restore an honest work ethic to a proud, God lovin' America.

Sports scene in brief

16-year-old beats Rene

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Caroline Stoll of Livingston, N.J. upset Dr. Renee Richards of Newport Beach, Calif. 6-2, 5-7, 6-1 to reach the final of a $20,000 women's tennis tournament Saturday with first-seeded Billie Jean King.

Ms. King, working herself back into shape after knee surgery last November, beat fourth-seeded Jane Stratton, Salt Lake City 6-4, 6-1 in the other semifinal.

The unseeded Miss Stoll, a high school junior, avenged a loss she suffered last summer to Dr. Richards, the 42-year-old transsexual who was seeded sixth here.

P'rats cut Cards 3-1

ST LOUIS (AP) — Bill Robinson doubled home the tying run in the seventh inning, then scored on Rennie Stennett's single to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Eric Rasmussen, 0-2, was working on a two-hitter before Dave Parker led off the seventh with a single, stole second, advanced to third on Al Oliver's grounder and scored on Robinson's hit to left-center to tie the game at 1-1. Stennett then knocked in Pittsburgh's winning run with his single.

John Candelaria, 1-0, making his first start of the season, limited St. Louis to three hits in six innings before being removed for a pinch hitter. In the fourth, Gary Templeton reached second base on center fielder Omar Moreno's error and scored on Mike Anderson's swinging bunt. Relief pitcher Rich Gossage doubled home Pittsburgh's final run in the ninth.

Rains stop WCT meet

HOUSTON (AP) — Semifinal singles matches in the $100,000 World Championship Tennis (WCT) tournament at River Oaks Country Club were postponed Saturday by torrential rains that hit the southeast Texas area.

Second-seeded Ilie Nastase of Rumania and Vitas Gerulaitis, New York, were scheduled to meet in one semifinal match and Italian Adriano Panatta and was to play Eddie Dibbs, Miami Beach, Fla.

Tournament director Dick Curran said efforts would be made to have River Oaks' clay courts ready to resume play Sunday. It was undecided if both semifinal and final matches would be played Sunday or if the final would be delayed until Monday, Curran said.

A's streak stopped

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — National League castoff Geoff Zahn scattered four hits Saturday as the Minnesota Twins stopped Oakland 3-1 to snap the A's five-game winning streak.

Zahn, 2-0, outdueled the A's Vida Blue, who lost in his first appearance of the year.

The 30-year-old Zahn, who was given his outright release by the Chicago Cubs last year, fanned six and walked one. He struck out A's rookie star Mitchell Page three times.

Blue struck out eight, walked three and surrendered just five hits.

NTSU wins Babcock

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Alvin Crenshaw of North Texas State splashed to victory in the 880 and 220 Saturday, then anchored the mile relay with a 47.8 lap to pace North Texas to its third straight Carl Babcock Memorial Meet championship.

Crenshaw's rain-soaked bell lap wasn't enough to overtake TCU in the mile relay, but the Eagles did take seven firsts and placed in all but two events.

Texas-Arlington won four events and captured second place. TCU was third and SMU fourth.

Mets wreck Cubs 4-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Grote's two-run pinch single capped a four-run seventh inning Saturday that carried the New York Mets to a 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Nino Espinosa got the victory, scattering eight hits for his second decision over the Cubs this season. Rick Reuschel was the loser.

Reuschel was leading 1-0 and pitching a one-hitter in the seventh. With one out, Felix Millan was safe when first baseman Larry Bliittner dropped a throw. Bruce Boisclair beat out a bunt and Dave Kingman's second single of the game scored Millan with the tying run.

Jack, Purtzer knot T of C

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Tom Purtzer charged through the opening provided by Bob Wynn's collapse and moved into a tie for the lead Saturday after three rounds of golf's prestigious, $225,000 Tournament of Champions.

Nicklaus, seeking a fifth title in this elite tournament that brings together only the winners of regular tour events the last 12 months, scrambled to an erratic 70 and a 210 total, six under par on the windswept, 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club course.

Purtzer, one of a record 12 men making their first appearance in the event sponsored by Mutual of New York, came out of a closely bunched pack with a 68 that gave him a share of the lead.

One shot back was Mark Hayes, the Oklahoma quiet man who also shared the lead until three-putting the final hole for a bogey. He had a 69 and a 211 total.

At 212, only two shots back, were Tom Kite and Butch Baird. Kite had a 70, Baird a 69.

At 213 and very much in the chase for the $45,000 first prize were Australian David Graham and Joe Inman. Graham shot a 70 in the mild, sunny, windy weather and Inman had a 71.

Tom Watson, who beat Nicklaus last week in their head-to-head confrontation for the Masters crown, rallied with a 69 but, at 216, appeared out of title contention. Lee Trevino, again trying to return to competition after major back surgery, had a 74-220 and Ben Crenshaw shot 75-222.

Big Spring Herald

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, APRIL 17, 1977

HOLLERIN HALLER — Umpire Tom Haller announces that Minnesota Twins designated hitter Craig Kusick is safe at home underneath the tag of Oakland Athletics catcher Manny Sanguillen in the second inning of Saturday's game. Kusick scored from second on a passed ball. Twins on-deck hitter Bob Gorinski is at rear.

Dr. J predicts the outcome of playoffs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Boston has the title, Philadelphia has the ambition and Denver has the odds as the National Basketball Association playoffs go into the quarter-final round Sunday.

The 76ers meet the Celtics, defending NBA champions, Sunday in Philadelphia.

For Julius Erving, the odds and the title don't mean a thing. "I don't see any team beating us in a seven-game series," Erving said. "They might once...maybe twice. But not four games out of seven. Not now."

Philadelphia has had a full week off and Erving looks for the 76ers to come out Sunday rested but ready.

"We won't be overconfident," Erving predicted. "We won't be overconfident against Boston because they're the defending champions."

Erving said picked No. 2 rather than No. 1 by the oddsmakers has taken some of the pressure off the Philadelphia club.

"I don't know if you can say everybody's laying for us. They picked Denver ahead of us. That means that we're not the favorites," Erving said.

Boston took their sixth straight victory from San Antonio 113-109 Friday to win a shot at 76ers in the best-of-seven series. Celtics Coach Tom Heinsohn said his team was going about defending their title one step at a time.

"I just want to get out of the Alamo alive," Heinsohn said. "I'm not the kind of guy who thinks about the next game until we win the one at hand."

Heinsohn said the team had films of Celtics-76ers games. "We'll look them over today when we arrive in Philadelphia and then we'll have a team meeting." Other than that, the Celtics coach was releasing no pre-game details.

The three other series—Washington-Cleveland, Chicago-Portland and Golden State-Detroit—will be decided Sunday. All three are tied 1-1.

Palmer takes lead at Hilton Head isle

ALMOST A BIRDIE — Sandra Palmer of Ft. Worth, Texas, raises her putter as birdie putt just misses on the sixth green during third round play of the Women's International Golf Tournament. Palmer is tied for the tournament third round lead with Mary Lou Crocker of Louisville, Ky.

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Veteran Sandra Palmer, starting out three strokes behind, caught up with Mary Lou Crocker late in the third round of the Women's International Golf Tournament Saturday and both will carry two-stroke leads into Sunday's finale.

Miss Palmer, playing out of Ft. Worth, Tex., picked up two strokes with birdies on the 12th and 13th holes, and Miss Crocker's bogey on the 15th evened it.

Both had 54-hole totals of 139, five under par.

Miss Palmer, shot a 69 for the day, and Miss Crocker, of Louisville, Ky., had an even-par 72 over the Devil's Elbow course at Moss Creek Plantation.

Sunday's winner will pocket $12,000 of the $80,000 purse, with the runnerup receiving $8,000.

Tied for second place, two strokes behind, with three-round totals of 213 were Sally Little, the South African who won last year's inaugural Women's International, and Jan Stephenson, the Australian she beat by one stroke in that tournament.

Sneed leads Tallahassee

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Two-time tour winner Ed Sneed shot a 68 for a 10-under-par total of 206 and a one-stroke lead after 54 holes Saturday in the 72-hole Tallahassee Open golf tournament.

The tall blond from Pompano Beach, Fla., came from a third-place tie to pass Friday's leader, Jack Ewing.

NICKLAUS MOVES INTO THE LEAD — Jack Nicklaus blasts out of the sand trap on the 5th hole of La Costa golf course Saturday during the third round of the MONY Tournament of Champions. Nicklaus saved his par with a long putt and on the next hole, moved into the lead at —6 under par, one stroke ahead of Bob Wynn and tied with Tom Purtzer.

Yanks lose, Rangers rained

By the Associated Press

Cecil Cooper belted a two-run, game-tying homer and Steve Brye singled in the winning run one out later, capping a three-run ninth-inning rally that carried the Milwaukee Brewers past the New York Yankees 4-3 Saturday.

Yankee starter Ken Holtzman took a 3-1 lead and a four-hitter into the ninth but left after yielding a leadoff single to Jim Wohlford. After Robin Yount grounded into a forceout, Cooper tied the score with his first homer of the year, a blast off reliever Sparky Lyle, 0-1.

Sal Bando followed with a triple and Sixto Lezcano was intentionally walked. Lyle fanned Don Money for the second out, but Brye singled across the decisive run.

In other American League day action:

- National League castoff Geoff Zahn scattered four hits as the Minnesota Twins stopped the Oakland A's 3-1. The 30-year-old Zahn, given his outright release last year by the Chicago Cubs, outdueled Vida Blue, who suffered his first loss in his first appearance of the year.
- A two-run triple by Jim Rice and home runs by Carl Yastrzemski and Dwight Evans keyed an 8-4 victory by the Boston Red Sox that spoiled the Cleveland Indians' home opener.
- Pete Vuckovich walked pinch hitter Jerry Hairston with one out in the ninth to force Oscar Gamble in with the winning run as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 3-2 for their fourth straight victory.

Texan wins BASS meet

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — With a three-day total of 30 bass weighing 47 pounds, two ounces, 30-year-old bass fishing professional Rick Clunn has won the 1977 B.A.S.S. Champs Tournament.

Clunn, of Montgomery, Tex., claimed $2,400 Friday for his efforts on Percy Priest Reservoir here.

Second place in the $30,000 event went to Bo Dowden, a marine dealer from Natchitoches, La., who was awarded $1,000. His three-day total was 26 bass weighing 40 pounds, 14 ounces.

Paul Chambiee of Raleigh, N.C., also picked up $1,000 for his third place finish with 30 bass weighing 39 pounds, 11 ounces.

The 20 Champs anglers caught a total of 383 bass weighing almost 486 pounds during the tournament. All but 23 were released alive back into the reservoir.

Expos snapped a three-game losing streak with a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Bill Robinson doubled home the tying run in the seventh inning, then scored on Rennie Stennett's single to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Jerry Grote's two-run pinch single capped a four-run seventh inning that carried the New York Mets to a 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Burt Hooton pitched a five-hitter and Reggie Smith belted his third home run in two days, helping the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

In National League night games, it was Houston at Atlanta and Cincinnati at San Diego. In the American League, Detroit visited Kansas City and Seattle was at California.

Indians spoiled

CLEVELAND (AP) — A two-run triple by Jim Rice and home runs by Carl Yastrzemski and Dwight Evans keyed an 8-4 victory by the Boston Red Sox that spoiled the Cleveland Indians' home opener Saturday.

Venerable Luis Tiant, making his first start of the season, got the first Boston victory of the year after four losses. He stopped the Indians on three hits and one run in five innings.

TRABERT CHASE PROTESTOR — U.S. Davis Cup team captain Tony Trabert (left) goes after an unidentified protester after two men ran onto the tennis courts site of the United States-South Africa matches Saturday and tossed a carton of oil. The action capped two days of demonstrations at the Davis Cup zone competition opposing the apartheid racial policies of South Africa. See story on page 2-B.

Local youth initiated at NMMI

Sixteen honor students who are outstanding members of the second class of New Mexico Military Institute were initiated into the Institute's Phi Alpha Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa Tuesday night in the course of an assembly held in the J. Ross Thomas Reception Hall on the NMMI campus.

A Big Spring youth was among those initiated in the course of a program which included a talk by Institute Acting Dean Dr. Robert Bell and the installation of Phi Alpha's 1977-78 school year officers.

Cadet Bruce K. Christich, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Christich, was initiated into Phi Theta Kappa on the merits of his 4. grade point average and outstanding service to the Corps of Cadets during his college freshman year.

Among his fellow classmates initiated are David L. Cates, Wesley A. Corey, Philip Michel Evans, Joseph Feather, Roland E. Greenburg Jr., Howard R. Huston, Francis Judy, George Arthur Lenox IV, Brett Eugene Morris, Sean Patrick McCaffrey, Eric R. Roehl, Jeffrey Lynn Ramseier, John T. Shoemaker, Joseph Strong and William P. Waymire Jr.

At the assembly of initiates, 1976-77 members and parents, Dr. Bell spoke upon the topic "Goals." His speech urged young men to set goals for their lives. He used as examples of the necessity to establish high goals the life of Dr. Victor Frankel, a young Jewish psychologist imprisoned by Hitler during WWII. Goals, said Frankel later, were all that had allowed him to survive the horrors of Auschwitz. He concluded his remarks by reminding the membership that, while many individuals have promising lives, the greatest waste comes from those who fail to realize their potential.

Some fifty people attended the installation and initiation, including emeriti faculty. The crowd also heard Dr. David Cothrun make his first remarks to students after announcing his acceptance of the presidency of Hutchinson College. In his remarks, Dr. Cothrun noted that he left NMMI with some regrets, one of which was not being able to see the young men who would attain the success which initiation into the honor society implied. It was those people, Cothrun said, who represented what education meant to him.

After the initiation of the new members the 1976-77 officers, Mitch Plummer of Alva, Oklahoma, Ben Barnett of Roswell and Dirk Stevens of Albuquerque, N.M., installed new initiates Frank Judy, Brett Morris and Sean McCaffrey as the 1977-78 year officers.

Boys physical education classes will begin wrestling and soccer intramurals Tuesday, April 19.

Guam counted on us.

The rampaging typhoon that smashed Guam on May 22, 1976 isn't on the front pages anymore. But it will be a long time before the people of Guam forget it. And it will be a long time before Red Cross forgets it. Because we were there, too.

Believe it or not, Guam was only one of 30,000 disasters in the last 12 months where we were called on for major help. Which is the reason our disaster funds are disastrously low. And an important reason why we need your continued support. Help us. Because the things we do really help. In your own neighborhood. And across America. And the world.

"LIVING WITH CHANGES" — The first of a workshop series focusing on living with changes will be held April 21 in Lubbock under the sponsorship of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Pictured as they preview the program are, from left, Mrs. Cathrine Crawford, Lubbock, program coordinator; Mrs. Laverne Gaskins, Big Spring, committee member; and Mrs. Carolyn Cohorn, Lamesa, program chairman.

Living with changes in family is focus of seminar series

It's not always easy for a father to be content during the first year of a baby's life in a supporting role to his wife and child.

"Although fathers are familiar figures to an infant, a real father-child relationship doesn't begin until the second year," said Janet Sargeant county extension agent.

Ms. Sargeant said the adjustments that a family makes as it undergoes changes during the early years will be the focus of five workshops during a seminar April 21 in Lubbock at St. John's United Methodist Church.

The seminar, which is from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., will feature a keynote address by noted psychologist Dr. Frederick Mears of Texas Eastern University, Tyler. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. Fee for the four-hour program is $1 for adults, and no charge for high school students. Child-care facilities will be available at a total cost of $2.50 for the first child, and $1 for each additional child.

The event is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with South Plains Development (SPD) Program's family living task force.

Mrs. Laverne Gaskins of Big Spring, a cohostess for the program, says the SPD task force, and Extension Service, assisted by several Lubbock public service agencies including the March of Dimes, is staging the program for the benefit of all are citizens. It is the first of a three-year emphasis on living with change within the family. Focus this year is on the early years. Next year, the seminar will deal with the middle years, and the third year will center on living with changes during the family's later years.

ADJUSTING
"One of the workshops this April 21," said Mrs. Gaskins, "will emphasize adjusting to changes associated with interpersonal relationships and on how a person views oneself."
"A second session will outline the changes one encounters upon entering marriage, such as developing in-law relationships. Many couples enjoy pleasant, satisfying relationships with their in-laws but others are plagued by conflict and ill feelings. Researchers have found that certain factors contribute heavily to a satisfying relationship.

"In a third workshop, leaders will discuss stress changes associated with pregnancy. There are many motives for pregnancy. Some may even be selfish and immature.

"But if a couple learns to view their child as an individual being rather than an extension of their own ego, and can feel a loving concern for their child, the baby's birth can be a joyous event after all."

Mrs. Gaskins said that how children learn will be a focus of attention of another workshop. Parents who compare their child's development to that of other children can be asking for frustration, she adds. How to avoid this kind of situation will be among the many ideas expressed during this session.

In the fifth workshop the early years of marriage will be outlined. Open, honest communication, sharing feelings, and mutual trust and respect are among the topics to be discussed.
"For most adults, a permanent and rewarding marriage is the most satisfying part of their lives. No one has yet found the exact combination of effort and promise or of personality and circumstance that lifts a couple and their marriage out of the ordinary. Some general threads weave through most successful marriages."

STRESS FACTOR
In all of these workshops, the stress factor will be emphasized. Participants will be able to attend any two of the five workshops. The keynote address by Dr. Mears will precede these sessions, and he will also conclude the program.

"Coping with factors that lead to stress and frustration is a challenge every family faces daily. We believe these workshops, along with the expert, common-sense advice Dr. Mears is expected to offer, will be invaluable to every family."

Speakers for the five work sessions are Mr. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station; Phil Carpenter, marriage family counselor at Central Plains Mental Health Center, Plainview; Mrs. Nell Loper, executive director for the National Foundation, March of Dimes; Dr. Connie Steele, assistant professor, child development, Texas Tech University, Lubbock; and Deborah Johnson, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station.

Mrs. Bobby Cohorn of Lamesa is program chairman. Mr. Tom Box of Plains is task force chairman, and Mrs. Catherine B. Crawford, district agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Lubbock, is coordination.

BETROTHED — Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Thames, Silver Heels, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Karyl Diane, to Gerald Eugene Dunne, son of Mrs. Emma Dunne, 1602 Kentucky Way, and the late James Dunne. The wedding will be an event of June 18 at First Christian Church with the Rev. Bill Smythe officiating.

Best market basket buys

COLLEGE STATION — Many Texas grocery markets are offering specials on beef — as prices remain stable-to-slightly higher in general. Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, reports.

Most-often featured cuts — which offer a savings — are chuck roasts and steaks, round, sirloin, rib and T-bone steaks, boneless roasts and ground beef, she said.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Pork specials also are available — with emphasis on loin roasts, quarter-loins cut into chops, Boston butt roasts, smoked picnics, bacon, sausage and liver.

At poultry counters, turkey prices are stable and fryer chickens are in good supply — offering one of the best protein choices, pricewise, Mrs. Clyatt said.

She advised consumers to buy fryers now — if home freezer space is available — for the cookout season later.

At fresh vegetable counters, potato prices are relatively low — while carrots, broccoli, mustard collards, head lettuce and turnips and greens have economical prices. Onions, however, show a price increase due to a reduced supply.

At fruit counters, grapefruit and oranges are the highlight — with medium-to-small sizes the lower priced. Also, pineapples are "specialized"

at some markets. Along grocery market aisles, features are scattered, but they generally include budget buys on canned green beans, sauerkraut, corn and tomato products. Most commonly repeated items in advertisements are tuna fish, saltine crackers, pasta products, fruit cocktail and pears.

pot pies in the spotlight.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: In buying bacon, consumers may find a new "back window" on packages — or a full slice of bacon in a "front window" — to meet required packaging standards, which demand all bacon packages have a transparent area at least one and a half inches wide revealing at least 70 per cent of the length of a representative slice.

Teen Mothers Part I:

Over one million adolescent women pregnant each year

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer

Jenny giggles and blushes with all the remoteness and charm of adolescence. She's still not quite used to the watermelon proportions her belly has taken — but then, she's only 13. In two months, Jenny will be a parent.

Dianne, 16, was college bound. She planned to go to medical school and become a doctor. Instead, she dropped out of school and became a mother.

Tammy, 18, lives from welfare check to welfare check. She never has enough money for herself and her 1½-year-old son.

Jenny, Dianne, Tammy. Interrupted youth and unfulfilled dreams. All three have plunged into the frustrations and responsibilities of parenthood before the turbulence and joy of adolescence have subsided.

They are part of a growing number of American youngsters under age 19 who are becoming pregnant and keeping their babies.

More than one million adolescent women become pregnant each year, according to the latest figures of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. These pregnancies result in over 600,000 babies, or one-fifth of all births in this country. Two-thirds of these pregnancies are unintended and have resulted from misinformation and ignorance regarding birth control and sexuality.

About 27.4 per cent of pregnant teens have abortions. An additional 14.4 per cent miscarry and 58.2 per cent give birth. Close to 94 per cent of those who do deliver keep the infants to raise themselves.

"Becoming a parent, becoming responsible for another life is an immense change, and kids aren't ready for it," says Dr. E. James Lieberman, a psychiatrist with the American Public Health Association in Washington.

"One out of 15 young girls who have sex want to keep the baby probably has something going for her in life," he said. "A few may be exceptionally mature and might make better mothers than some older women. But many of them look forward to parenthood because they have nothing else to look forward to. Some think they might gain somebody to love them."

Jenny lives with her parents in a Maryland suburb. She, like most teen mothers and mothers-to-be, did not want her real name used. And, like other 12- and 13-year-olds who decide not to have abortions or give the baby up for adoption, her child will be assimilated into her family. Her parents will assume most of the child-rearing responsibilities.

She no longer attends the public school her friends go to. When she sees these youngsters, she becomes very self-conscious of her pending motherhood.

"It only feels funny when I'm outside with my friends. They stare at me," she said. "I want to be a mother. But I had to stop eating cookies and cake. I didn't like that. I know I'll be a good mother because I like to play with little children all the time."

Dianne lives in Baltimore with her mother, grandmother and two brothers. Since the age of 10, she has helped care for her youngest brother. Her mother and grandmother work. She's still home caring for her brother and now her own child.

"I think I'll bring up my child the way my mother brought us up," she says. "I'm just going to try to be a good mother by making a good home and giving a lot of love. All of us are spoiled. I don't want my daughter to be spoiled."

Tammy, who lives in a one-bedroom apartment in Arvada, Colo., says she will not raise her son the way she was brought up.

"I've tried to show a lot more love than my folks gave me," she said. "I also try to spend more time with him. My parents felt that their jobs were first."

According to interviews with child-care experts, psychologists, teen mothers and social workers, adolescent pregnancies and parenting pose social, economic and medical problems for the young woman as well as for her community.

"Perhaps mentally the girls are capable of parenting. But realistically, not at all," said Lois White, principal of the Edgar Allan Poe school in Baltimore, a special city-run institution for young mothers and pregnant teens.

"Adolescence is an unrealistic age, and this has nothing to do with being a parent. These girls see themselves as being able to be very competent parents," she said. "After reality hits, they become abusive parents because they feel they've lost out of their teen years. They just don't believe they can't handle a young baby and go to school at the same time."

"Money is the real problem," adds Linda Siegel, executive director of the YWCA in Rock Island, Ill., which runs a program for single mothers. "They don't realize the expenses involved in raising a child."

Life changes radically for the teen mother. Gone are lazy afternoons of window shopping, movies and bike rides. Gone are the Friday and Saturday night parties with blaring rock and good dancing. There's little time for fun and games when baby's waiting to be fed.

Some accept the change and welcome the responsibility of raising a child. Many succeed in being good parents. But most are unprepared for parenthood and continue to hover uncomfortably between childhood and adulthood. The result is questionable parenting and increased personal frustration.

A New York City study found that 91 per cent of the women who first had babies at ages 15 through 17 did not have any employment. Seventy-two per cent of those mothers received public assistance. The 1973 study also noted that 85 per cent did not finish high school.

More than three-fourths of teen mothers 17 and under have no health-insurance coverage, according to the national Planned Parenthood study. And young, unmarried mothers in 22 states are not eligible for public assistance until after they have given birth and keep the baby.

As for education, adolescent mothers are unlikely to finish school. The study said 8 out of 10 young women who become mothers at age 17 or younger never finish high school. Four in 10 who are under age 15 never go beyond eighth grade.

If they do marry, the relationships tend to be unstable, and in some cases bleak. "My husband doesn't have a high school diploma and is constantly unemployed," said 18-year-old Rita, mother of a 2-year-old boy and a 4-month-old daughter. "It's really like taking care of three children; my husband is still really young. Only I don't think I can do it much longer."

More than one-fourth of marriages in which the wife is 14-to-17 and a mother end in divorce or separation, according to national statistics. The really tough part of parenting for all teen mothers is discipline. To spank or not to spank? To reason; to be permissive? It is a problem these young women share with their adult counterparts.

But some young moms cross the threshold from spanking and mild forms of punishment to physical brutality.

Karen, 16, of St. Louis, said she grew frustrated one day when her 11-month-old son refused to stop crying. "He was crawling around on the kitchen floor, and I just grabbed the first thing I could find to hit him and make him stop," she said. It was a cast-iron frying pan.

"I didn't hit him because I stopped and looked at my hand. It was terrible because I could have hit him with that pan. He's just a little baby," she said.

Miss Flores marries Ramon G. Torres Jr.

Miss Rosemary Flores became the bride of Ramon G. Torres Jr. in a Friday afternoon ceremony performed by the Rev. Louis Moeller in the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church.

The candlelight service was conducted before an altar featuring an archway decorated with flowers and greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luis Flores Sr. of Luther, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Consuelo Torres, 1502 Oriole, and the late Ramon Torres Sr.

Carrying a wedding bouquet of sparkling azaras showered with white satin streamers, the bride was attired in a formal gown of white silk organza styled with fitted bodice, scooped neckline and long, full sleeves with pearly lace cuffs. The bodice was enhanced with seed pearls and re-embroidered Chantilly lace, and the A-line skirt, which was finished with a ruffle topped with matching lace, swept into a chapel-length train. Adorning the skirt were lace motifs sprinkled with seed pearls.

The bride's headpiece was a bandeau of azares which held her chapel-length veil of illusion and Chantilly lace enhanced with seed pearls.

ATTENDANTS

Serving as attendants to the bridal couple were the two bridesmaids, Mrs. Connie T. Marquez and Mrs. Mary Lou Yanez, and the groomsmen, Benito Marquez and Oscar Yanez.

The bridesmaids wore identically-styled formal dresses, one in pink and yellow, and the other in pink and white. Their floral headpieces were matched by bracelet bouquets.

The ring bearer was Chon Yanez Jr., and the flower girl was Nadine Marquez.

Prior to leaving on a wedding trip, the couple was honored at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church which was decorated in a wedding motif.

Mrs. Cynthia Martinez attended the guest registry, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Alicia Yanez, Mrs. Kathryn Patino and the mothers of the couple. The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and appointed with crystal and silver.

SCHOOLS

Torres, an employe of Westex Wrecking Company, graduated in 1975 from Big Spring High School and is attending Howard College. Mrs. Torres, a 1975 graduate of Coahoma High School, attended Howard College where she is now employed. The couple will reside in Big Spring.

Orange juice measurements

It takes two to four oranges to yield one cup of juice, two medium oranges will provide one cup of bite-size pieces, one medium orange has 10 to 11 sections, and one medium orange gives four teaspoons grated peel, says Mrs. Sally Coble, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Airlines using less fuel

NEW YORK (AP) — America's airlines used less fuel to carry more passengers in 1976 says the Air Transport Association, which reports a passenger increase of 10.4 per cent since 1973 and a fuel consumption decrease of 7.5 per cent during the same period.

"In 1976 the United States, scheduled airlines carried 223 million passengers and four million tons of freight and mail, while using less than four per cent of the petroleum fuel consumed by the nation," says the report.

fluence heat transmission. While aluminum is a maintenance-free material, frames made of it account for approximately 25 per cent of a window's thermal loss. Wood, while more costly initially, accounts for only 13 per cent of thermal loss.

In choosing window location, place largest windows toward the south. A southern exposure permits the greatest amount of solar heat to enter the house in the winter, because the sun moves at a lower angle from southeast to southwest — and this location is less affected by the summer sun, because it moves at a higher angle from northeast to northwest.

In areas where summer heat is a major problem, avoid placing windows on the west side. Where cold weather is the problem, place fewer windows on the north side but place more windows on the west side.

In rooms that need light and protection from heat and cold use high silled windows.

Window planning can save on utility bills

By JANET SARGENT (City, East Agent)

"Window sense" can save dollars on utility bills. Window space, type and location affect the energy required to heat and cool a house.

Window areas should not be more than 10 per cent of the floor area, because of the heat-cold transmission through — and infiltration around — windows.

Summer heat and winter cold entering the house through windows may be as much as ten times greater than through a comparable area of conventional wall.

In choosing window types, consider glass and framing choices available.

Double — or triple-paned glass is effective in reducing heat gain and loss and, while these windows cost more than single panes, they quickly make up the difference on utility bill savings. Also, storm windows and shutters, if they work, provide protection from extreme temperatures.

And although tinted glass reduces solar heat transmission in the summer, that same heat is needed during winter, so they are not advisable.

PTA panel discusses problem of discipline

College Heights PTA met Thursday at 3 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Mrs. Helen Jones, president presided.

The devotional was given by Mrs. Don Adams, reading from Mark, Chapter 2. She said four kinds of hands are described here; one of helpless hands — the hands of the paralyzed man; the hendering hands — those of the crowd who were only curious onlookers; the helping hands — those of the four men who get the paralyzed man to Jesus; and the healing hands of Jesus. She asked the question, "What kind do you have?"

The program was a panel discussion on discipline. Mrs. Jimmy Bailey served as coordinator. A student, a teacher and a mother made up the panel.

Questions asked the panel were: Why discipline? When is a student sent to the principal? Should the teacher be allowed to spank a student? Is a permission form needed to give a teacher the right to spank a child?

Comments from the panel and audience were: (by student) — "No work is done if students are unruly." (parent) — "All children really want limits set. There needs to be good communication and consistency in discipline." (teacher) — "Do not like to have to discipline students. More work could be done if there was no need to correct a student. A teacher has legal authority to spank a child. Less problems with a student if teacher is backed by parent."

The paving of the parking area was approved. An asphalt paving will be put on during the summer months. Some televisions will also be purchased. A $1,000 private donation was made to the PTA to get the parking area paved this year.

New officers were elected and installed by Mrs. Helen Jones. They are Mrs. Jimmy Bailey, president; Mrs. Adolph Supak, vice president; Mrs. Charles Hays, secretary; and Mrs. Charlene Ragan treasurer. A Texas Life Membership was given to Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Helen Walker's room won room count at the open house in March, and Mrs. M. R. Koger's room won Thursday.

Special awards given at hospital luncheon

Big Spring State Hospital took advantage Thursday of its quarterly volunteer luncheon to give those attending a preview of National Volunteer Week which begins April 24. "The nicest part of my job is saying 'thank you,'" said Mrs. Margaret Baum, volunteer coordinator, as she announced recipients of certificates of appreciation from the Volunteer Services Council.

ACCEPTING CERTIFICATE Adolph Supak, Carol Hunter

Organizations receiving the certificates were the Center Point Home Demonstration Club, Baptist Young Women, Wesley United Methodist Church, Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary, Church Women United and Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ. The presentations were by Adolph Supak, assistant superintendent.

Individual awards were presented to Mrs. Jo Bright, women's editor of the Big Spring Herald; Danny Valdes, Herald photographer; Mrs. Carol Hunter, decorations chairman for the Volunteer Services Council; Mrs. Ollie Puckett, staff member on the west psychiatric unit; and Doug Cheney, personnel director.

Curt Mullins, council president, introduced those at the head table, Chaplain Lee Butler, Dr. Jimmy Law, Mr. and Mrs. Supak, Mrs. Marilyn Newsom and Mrs. Mattie Watson. The invocation was by Dr. Law, and Chaplain Butler pronounced the benediction.

Highlighting the luncheon program was a musical salute to volunteers, "People," with appropriate words composed by Mrs. Newsom. Mrs. Baum accompanied her at the piano.

Mullins spoke briefly in describing current volunteer activities and special council projects, expressing appreciation to volunteers who worked at the spring rummage sale. The semi-annual event, held earlier this month, grossed $750. The announcement was made that the first step has been taken in organizing an Outreach Volunteer Program to serve hospital clients in out-lying areas.

Randy Huey, assistant volunteer coordinator, plans to start the first phase of the program at Seagraves. An appeal was made by Mullins for a volunteer to serve as chairman of the committee which is organizing efforts to construct a swimming pool on the hospital campus. The chairmanship has been vacant since the resignation of Charles Butts, who is moving from the city. Mullins stressed that many workers and a great deal of money will be needed if the pool for patients is to become a reality. He called attention to another project underway,

Emphases changes Drug slides seen by club

The Child Study Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Delbert Donelson, 2613 Rebecca, and elected officers for the 1977-78 club year.

The newly-elected officers are Mrs. W. A. Moore, president; Mrs. Wayne Henry, vice president; Mrs. Ray Don Williams, secretary; Mrs. Lenny Prudhomme, treasurer; Mrs. Don Adams, librarian; and Mrs. Stanley Haney, parliamentarian.

The new slate will be installed at the May luncheon meeting at the home of outgoing president, Mrs. Haney.

Mrs. L. K. Gladden gave a slide presentation, "Crime Prevention and Drug Education." Mrs. Gladden is the elementary curriculum coordinator for Big Spring schools.

She said that the major emphasis of the program is on areas of self-concept, interpersonal relationships, decision making, and value clarification, with some factual information on drugs included. The rationale behind the emphasis on these four broad areas stems from the fact that research on earlier drug programs indicates programs with a strictly factual approach were largely ineffective.

Following the program, Mrs. Ben Neel was welcomed as a new member.

Light and airy for spring

True to the mood of the season, furniture for spring will be light and airy, with wicker and rattan accenting decors more and more.

An interesting new trend is the contrast of soft, curvy lines with sharp corners... sofas are tucked all over in soft, supple fabrics, while glass shelving provides a straight counterpoint.

Although chrome will still be in evidence, now it may be curved, as seen in tubular chair frames and spiraling table bases. Chrome will be getting competition this season from wicker, rattan and brass in etageres, cabinets, and tables.

Sumptuous padding will be seen in some of the newest beds for an ultra-modern look, while contemporary platform beds continue in popularity, not to mention the traditional canopy bed.

The Oriental influence is still strong for spring, with solid mahogany cocktail tables designed in the Asian manner, as well as rattan chairs. Wicker and rattan are often mixed to create an Oriental feeling, as in rattan-framed cocktail tables and wicker-based sofas and chairs.

Wedding ceremony is performed Saturday

Miss Leslie Carroll Long and Kelly Guinn were married in an evening ceremony Saturday in the St. Paul Lutheran Church. The Rev. Carroll C. Kohl officiated before an altar decorated with fan palms, asparagus ferns and two branched candelabra.

Charles Farham was organist, with Mrs. Don Schafer as flutist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Long, 1309 Runnels, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Guinn, 1705 Runnels.

The bride was attired in a formal-length gown of white Quiana knit with long fitted sleeves of English net and Alecon lace appliques. The empire bodice had an English net yoke trimmed with lace appliques and seed pearls. The chapel-length train was edged in matching lace, and the ensemble was completed by a picture hat with a veil of illusion.

The bride carried a bouquet of mixed spring flowers.

ATTENDANTS

The maid of honor was Miss Teresa Wickline, Austin, and the bride's mother served as matron of honor. They were attired in bias dresses of flowered gauze print with cape collars of matching sheer flowered print. Miss Lisa Long, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She was attired like the other attendants. All attendants carried nosegays of spring flowers, and wore baby's breath in their hair.

Terry Pate, Houston, was best man, Craig Brown, Lubbock, and David Guinn, brother of the bridegroom, were groomsmen.

Barthell Jones, Lubbock, and R.B. Guinn, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Scott Nelson served as candlelighter.

Following a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico, the couple will reside in Big Spring. Both are graduates of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College.

MRS. KELLY GUINN

SCHOOLS

The bridegroom attended Texas Tech University, and is presently employed by Cabot Corp. The bride is employed by Security State Bank.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the parish hall following the ceremony. A sheer white flounced cloth over white covered the refreshment table, and the bride's bouquet was the centerpiece. Appointments were silver. A champagne fountain was placed on one side of the table.

Miss Susy Lawlis, Mrs. Tom Fletcher and Mrs. Geary Williams served. Miss Sally Jones registered guests.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a luncheon at La Posada honoring the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Doesn't Want to Be A Matched Pair

DEAR ABBY: I am a reasonably attractive, well-mannered bachelor in my late 30s who receives many social invitations. I recently turned down an invitation to a dinner party. I frankly told the hostess that I was no longer accepting invitations that did not allow me to bring my own date. Very irately she told me that if I didn't want to go to parties alone I should get married.

Why do so many people think a single person should be eager to accept invitations to go to a party alone? I always feel like a fifth wheel, or else I get stuck with a dateless woman who shares my embarrassment. Am I wrong?
SINGLE SIMON

DEAR SIMON: If you'd rather bring your own date than gamble on what the hostess has paired you off with, say so. But most bachelors are invited to parties to provide escorts for the single women. And I'd like to see the dateless woman who would feel "embarrassed" to find her dinner companion a reasonably attractive, well-mannered bachelor.

DEAR ABBY: For a long time I've suspected that my husband had an apartment or room or girlfriend somewhere because he would leave home in a gray suit and come back in navy blue.

When I first called him on this, he tried to make me believe I was losing my mind.

I am sure there is nothing wrong with me, and he is obviously changing clothes somewhere. What do you think of a man like that?
ALLENTOWN HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: I think your husband has: (1) more suits than he needs; (2) a closet elsewhere; (3) a very poor memory.

DEAR ABBY: I'm about the most mixed-up bride you've ever heard from. Our wedding date has been set and the plans are being made, but right now all I want to do is run! Jerry is a wonderful young man and I should be thrilled to get him, but now I'm sorry I ever said yes.

Here are some examples of why I am not sure I want to marry him. My mother says they are childish, so please tell me what you think.

1. All in fun, I threw Jerry in the pool and found out he couldn't swim! (I had to rescue him.) Abby, shouldn't he have told me? And here's a man who loves sailing and fishing.

2. His family likes to hug and kiss me. I'm not a cold person, but I don't like all that hugging and kissing on saying hello and goodbye.

3. Jerry's job will require more and more traveling. I suppose I could go with him, but what if I can't? I'm afraid to stay alone.

4. Jerry likes children, and I'm not sure I want any. (I'm really afraid of childbirth because of a movie I saw years ago.)

What should I do? I really love Jerry. I'm 22, a college graduate, but I don't want to take a job. Is it too late to back out?
NOT READY

DEAR NOT: Your solution is in your signature. You are NOT ready for marriage. Call it off, and the sooner the better.

Club elects new officers

The Big Spring Music Study Club met Wednesday afternoon at the Westside Center.

Hostesses were Mrs. Walter Osborne and Mrs. Charles Beil. The Westside Center Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Dawes, and piano accompanist, Mrs. Linda Mason, presented a program of children's songs from around the world.

Officers for the next year were elected. They are, president, Mrs. Mason; first vice president, Mrs. Ocey Mason; second vice president, Mrs. James Little; recording secretary, Mrs. James Cowan; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. L. Carille; treasurer, Mrs. Dawes; reporter-historian, Miss Helen Erving; and parliamentarian, Mrs. Bob Simpson.

The new officers will be installed May 14 at a salad luncheon in the home of Mrs. C. L. Carille, 608 W. 15th.

Life with the Moonies

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — A chilled and nearly sleepless night was brought fourth to an abrupt end as a boot thundered onto the wooden plank floor.

It was 6:30 Saturday morning, and the children of the International Ideal City Ranch were awaking on the 700-acre spread.

After the sharing and singing at breakfast, one of the child-like Moonies called for a "chooch" chant, which seems to hold a mystical power that pulses through the Moon community.

"Choo Choo Choo, Choo Choo Choo, Yeah, Yeah-Pow," the Moonies thundered.

On to lecture — an introduction to the series of five lectures that are the framework for the Unification Church. "The Divine Principles," repeated with scientific regularity, are the basis for all discussion and the justification for any activity.

Jeremiah, my group leader, was on stage to relate the community's goals.

Each new round of ideas brought howls and screeches from those around me. Some had the presentation memorized and were mouthing the words along with the speaker. Others were muttering, "Yes, father," over and over again.

The principles made un-nerving sense.

I was 150 miles from home, on a ranch isolated from the outside world, faced with a threatening new definition of truth and without a way to check my bearings.

I wanted to be alone for a few minutes to collect my thoughts but it was explained that self-reflection could have no value. Even as we went to the bathroom, there was someone there asking and discussing.

After lunch came the every-afternoon dodgeball game that provides physical activity between the second and third lectures.

During the last meal of the day — vegetables and a "New Age Big Mac" soy-burgers — there was more discussion of the day's activities.

Sunday proved a repetition of Saturday — lectures, discussions and games, all in the same order as the day before.

I was pulled away from the afternoon dodgeball game by Johan, who led me off into the trees to plead with me to stay for another five days to "learn the true meaning of life and the universe."

There was more talk of leadership, but still in very vague terms — no mention of Moon — just of a father image and no reference to the Unification Church.

So I asked Johan to cut through the jungle of vagueness.

Johan hesitated, but after a long silence he said the group believes in the teaching of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon.

He was quick in following up with the same sort of logic that had been used over and over in the lectures — the world is afraid of a new leader: Moon is not a bad person as the press would have you believe, he is simply another Jesus Christ, a new messiah.

It was now 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and I was sure of only one thing — I wanted out.

There was nothing physically to restrict me from leaving camp, but I sheepishly asked permission to leave. Permission was denied.

After threading through a maze of young faces, each pleading, I reached my sleeping gear and turning to ask Johan for the use of the phone, as we had agreed earlier, I then was told that the telephone didn't work.

It is several hundred yards from the "Chicken Palace" to the main gate, and Jeremiah suggested that the whole congregation walk with me on my journey from the ranch. As it turned out only Jonah trailed along to unlock the gate and give me my freedom.

It was 6:30 p.m., 3½ hours after I had first asked to be released.

Then I began to weep uncontrollably. I was crying for those I had left behind.

Hot fun with Dick and Jane A.T.&T. plugs you in

BASKING RIDGE, N.J. (AP) — When Dick and Jane and Boa and Mary come to work in the morning they become living furnaces to help heat their offices.

So do some 2,200 other employees at the giant new headquarters here at the giant American Telephone and Telegraph Company (AT&T).

In fact, the whole building is heated almost solely by their body heat and heat from lights, electric typewriters, copying machines and the like. There's enough heat left over to supply hot water in washrooms.

Heat is collected through ceiling vents by fans and used to heat water. In turn the hot water surrenders heat to air from the outside mixed with recycled air.

Offices and corridors can be heated to 65 to 85 degrees. Rarely does an electric boiler have to be turned on unless outside the temperature drops below 15 degrees.

The saving in oil and energy is startling.

A person of average size radiates or wastes 350 BTU's.

British thermal units of heat per hour about the same as a 100 watt bulb says William Draper assistant manager for AT&T's energy conservation program here. One BTU is the heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water by one degree Fahrenheit.

Heat captured from employees saves the equivalent of one barrel of oil a day, he adds.

The saving each month from body heat is equivalent to enough to heat an average size house for a year, Draper estimates. It would exceed the energy in the gasoline needed to drive a car daily for one month the 460-mile round trip from New York to Washington, D.C.

A person's body heat comes from food turned into simple fuels, measured in calories... or in BTU's.

A heavier person produces more heat. Excitement and physical activity boost the output. And some people have a higher metabolism. Reclaiming body heat in some form is not unique, say John Washburn, manager of design and construction, and Robert Korec, building manager at the offices here.

What is unusual they say is total recovery of heat and control by a central computer which is a busy "brain" not only for the heating system but for about a dozen other tasks in the building, with some 2 million square feet of space.

The Minneapolis-Honeywell H-316 computer permits an employe to order less or more heat or light for his office. It keeps track of carbon monoxide levels in a 3,000 car garage and turns on fans to reduce any hazard. It cuts off fans or other non-essential electric equipment when brown outs threaten. It also monitors security guard operations.

'Roll, Thunder' wins Award

By FLORENCE TYLER

"Roll of Thunder, Hear My Cry" by Mildred D. Taylor has won this year's Newbery Medal. It is a vivid story of a black family whose warm ties to each other and their land give them strength to defy rural southern racism during the depression. The novel shows the rich inner rewards of black pride, love and independence.

The Newbery Medal is named in honor of John Newbery, a London bookseller of the eighteenth century. It has been awarded annually since 1922 by Fredrick G. Melcher to the author of the most distinguished contribution to children's literature, and since 1963 his son, Daniel Melcher, has continued the award.

A candidate for either the Newbery or Caldecott Medals must be a citizen or a resident of the United States, and the book must have its first publication in the United States. The awards are made annually by the Children's Services Division of the American Library Association.

Two books under consideration for the medal have been listed as honor books... "String in the Harp" by Nancy Bond and "Abel's Island" by William Steig.

Television's resident medic doctors diverse dilettantes

CANYON COUNTRY, Calif. (AP) — Jerry Girth is Marcus Welby Medical Center and MASH wrapped into one. He spends his time on the set, living out the dramas that television stars and stuntmen act out.

He is a registered nurse with a B.S. in public health, a studio medic, one of 93 active members of Local 767 of the Studio First Aid Employees Union.

What keeps him employed, at about $6.57 an hour, are studio contracts. They usually require that a medic be present anytime there's more than five people at a location more than two minutes from a medical facility equipped with a resuscitator.

What keeps him busy are accidents, alcoholism, drugs, messed up minds. "Oh yes," he says, "There's always somebody who comes up with a headache or stomach problems."

Girth, in the TV medic business for four years now, has trouble remembering a day when there wasn't some work for him to do.

He says that probably his worst day was one a few years ago on the set of "Day of the Locust."

"We had an intentional stage collapse for a battle scene," he recalls, "but it went the wrong way and six stuntmen were all hurt at one time."

"Two had broken arms, two had broken legs and one was just scalped like an Indian. And one fellow had three vertebrae pop out of line."

Just recently, while on the set of ABC's "Future Cop," he noticed actor John Amos had a ruptured blood vessel in his eye. "I checked his blood pressure... and later recommended that he see a doctor."

"Well, he tried calling his own doctor and couldn't get him. So the unit manager and I talked to him and got him to go into Presbyterian Hospital and they put him in intensive care right away."

Sadly, some of Girth's treatments are for self-imposed maladies.

"We've had our share of drug overdoses. Of course most of them require pumping out... If it's habitual, then there's not much we can do so it's handled through their own department heads. We make note of it, whether they be stars or grips."

The medic won't gossip about the TV stars he's had to bring around.

"We're very much like a doctor or a priest in a confessional. We do a lot of personal things for people."

Girth, 55, is a gentle man who began his show business career after he objected on moral grounds to his previous job as a pyrotechnic engineer, a profession that he strayed into after graduating from college.

He was helping to develop military explosive and missile launching systems. "I began thinking, 'what in Sam Hill am I doing this for, making bigger and better bombs to kill more and mutilate more...'"

The final clincher came, Girth says, when he was asked to work on a germ warfare system for the Navy.

"That's when I said, 'No, that's the end of the line.'"

Mesquite philosophy

with Marj Carpenter

"Hello, Mr. Mesquite. I see you are finally greening up a little bit. Are we going to get by this year without a late freeze to knock off the fruit trees?" This reporter queried an old mesquite tree in the 700 block between Main and Runnels.

"Yes, Marj. I think we will. The National Weather Bureau says that the average 'last freeze' date in Big Spring is April 13 and that's past. The latest freeze date Big Spring has ever had is April 27, according to the weather bureau. I really don't pay that much attention to the weather man. I simply come out when I decide that it's warm enough."

Then I asked, "Is it warm enough?"

Said the mesquite, "When the big mesquites come out, it's warm enough. Some of these little bush kids come out too early now and then. Those smart-alecks. They ruin our reputation for accuracy."

Then I said, "Say, you're talking ugly about your very own offspring. Aren't you proud of the mesquite heritage?"

"Certainly," said Mr. Mesquite. "We even have a town named after us and it's about to crowd Dallas off the map. You have to watch the mesquites, because we'll take over."

"Yes," I answered, "That's why some of the ranchers have learned to hate you. I understand they have quite a program against the mesquite family."

"Well," said Mr. Mesquite, "I told my sons to stay off the range. But they wouldn't listen to me. They

'Jehovah' starts World War III?

SWEETWATER — A man identified as Charlie Guelker Jr., 55, barricaded himself in his home here Thursday and fired several shots before he was forced out with tear gas.

Guelker claimed he was 'Jehovah' and was engaging in World War III. Investigation proved he was a WWII veteran who received a discharge from the Army in 1943.

Veterans Service Officer Nelson Geron of Sweetwater said Guelker had an unstable mental condition. Earlier in the day, Guelker's wife had asked police to patrol the area near the Guelker home. Guelker had left the VA Hospital in Waco the night before without permission.

Investigators said approximately 10 to 15 shots were fired from inside the Guelker home. The police siege lasted about 90 minutes.

Police entered the house and found Guelker hiding with a rifle in a closet. Guelker was later returned to the Waco hospital.

Mrs. Guelker said that in her husband's mind he was "fighting Russians in World War III. He got religion mixed up and also thought he was fighting Satan's angels."

Starr County indictments predicted

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Hill predicted today that "a considerable number" of indictments probably will be returned by the Starr County grand jury in the near future.

"There has been a lot of solid work going on down there the last few months," Hill said in commenting on the efforts of his men in cooperation with federal drug agents and local authorities.

insisted on going out there and trying to take over and at least a third of them got eradicated. But you can't tell this generation anything. They think they know it all."

"Times change of course," I reminded the mesquite, "You must know that."

"Sure I do," Mr. Mesquite said. "I've been here in this block a long time and there used to be big houses around and children climbed in me. There used to be high school students going down this street and now it's junior high."

"The church building across the street is twice as big as it used to be and now there's an oil company office over on that corner. I just kind of sit around nowadays. I hardly ever see a child. Once in a while somebody takes my picture and says I am picturesque," Mr. Mesquite reflected.

"Possibly you are," I stated and then asked, "Say, how's your cousin, Mr. Huisache over on the alley on 6th Street?"

Mr. Mesquite said, "Last I heard, he was having a terrible time. They're building a new parking lot and new things all around him there near the Savings and Loan. But they haven't run him off. He got in such a nervous state that he's even slower than I am coming out this year. But I think he's going to make it."

"In a few weeks, he'll really be pretty. He has a yellow spring suit he drags out every year," Mr. Mesquite concluded.

"What about you, Mrs. Mesquite? When are you going to blossom out?"

"Oh soon," Mrs. Mesquite said. "I just want to be sure about that cold spell. You're sure inquisitive. Why don't you go on off and ride fence or something?"

Cystic Fibrosis grips millions

Over five million children in America are desperately in need of "a breath of life," according to workers with the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation here.

They said this week that Big Spring citizens have an opportunity to help these children receive the gift of "a breath of life."

They point out that participation in the bike-a-thon to be held in Forsan, April 23 for the Lone Star Chapter, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, can help these persons, according to Mrs. Deannie Riffe, coordinator of the special campaign.

"We need to make the public aware of lung diseases in children," she explained. "We must find a control for the inherited disease, Cystic Fibrosis, and we must also help as many as possible of the five million children with other lung diseases."

"Diagnosis and therapy are available at 117 centers throughout the country where as many as six out of seven of the children seen are found to have other diseases in which the symptoms closely resemble those of C-F. The centers are not only helping children with Cystic Fibrosis, but also those with chronic bronchitis, asthmatic bronchitis, asthma with lung damage, the condition sometimes called 'childhood emphysema,' bronchiectasis and other lung and intestinal diseases as well."

You can help these children by participating in
