200 tons of uranium missing

Israel has nuclear bomb?

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Israel is believed to have been behind the disappearance of 200 tons of uranium being shipped by sea from Belgium to Italy in 1968, a former U.S. Senate expert on nuclear proliferation said today.

Paul L. Leventhal's statement about the vanished uranium coincided with similar reports in the New York Times and the Los Angeles Times.

The newspapers quoted U.S. and European intelligence officials and suggested the Israelis may have used the fuel to run a small nuclear reactor that can produce the raw material for nuclear weapons.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli Atomic Energy Commission denied any Israeli connection with the disappearance.

Leventhal, former counsel of the Senate Government Operations Committee, said that several weeks after the ship failed to make its scheduled call at an Italian port with the uranium, "it reappeared with a new name, new registry, new crew, but no uranium."

He said intelligence sources from several countries investigated the incident "but eventually closed their probe of the case."

"It is assumed that it was unloaded in Israel," he said.

Leventhal, who gave no further details and did not identify his source for the information, was speaking at a conference on "A Non-Nuclear Future," a gathering of critics of nuclear energy from 20 nations.

He told the participants that the 1968 incident illustrated the need for more rigorous safeguards of nuclear fuel and "the importance of international escort services for shipments of nuclear materials."

Israel has said its 26-megawatt Dimona reactor in the Negev Desert, bought from France in the late 1950s, runs on uranium obtained as a by-product of phosphate plants at the Dead Sea.

The reactor cannot be inspected by the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna because Israel has not signed the treaty that is the basis for the agency's operations. Inspectors from the IAEA would check to make sure the uranium is not used to make nuclear weapons.

The Los Angeles Times quoted a senior European nuclear official as saying inspectors from Euratom, the European atomic energy organization, tried to trace the ship's movements when it failed to arrive in Italy.

He said the uranium was unquestionably stolen in what he called the largest disappearance of nuclear material in history, the newspaper reported. The shipment would have been worth $3 million at the time, it said.

AID TO HANDICAPPED — Peter Libasse, standing right, general counsel with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, talks with an unidentified man in a wheelchair after a press conference in Washington Thursday. During the briefing, Libasse discussed HEW's decision to implement a four-year-old law prohibiting recipients of federal funds from discriminating against the handicapped.

Gas prices may drop temporarily

More energy in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — If 20 major oil companies decide to lower the price of gasoline to pay back $336 million in alleged overcharges, you could see a brief reduction in prices at the gas pump.

But not much and not for long. The oil companies are denying vehemently the Federal Energy Administration's charge Thursday that they artificially inflated the price of oil purchased from foreign subsidiaries between October 1973 and May 1975.

During that time, the United States kept price controls on oil produced within this country, while foreign oil prices tripled.

The companies can appeal the FEA's ruling to the agency or in the federal courts.

And an FEA spokesman said that even if the oil companies eventually are forced to refund overcharges, the companies still could keep as much as half the $336 million.

They would be allowed to recalculate import deals in which they did not charge U.S. consumers the maximum allowed under the price control law.

ENERGY IS on the minds of many these days while most news-makers are making energy news. Other energy stories in today's Herald include:

—SENATE adds $30-million per year tax break for independent oil drillers to tax bill. See p. 3A.

—UNIVERSITY survey shows majority of Texans would continue to use their cars for work or family living even if gasoline cost more than $2 a gallon. See p. 10B.

—REP. BOB KRUEGER, D-Tex., says there is still a chance for deregulation of natural gas instead of Carter's proposal to place a high ceiling on it, but Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., is willing to stick with Carter's plan for now. See p. 3A.

One option the companies could take to pay back the overcharges would be a temporary price cut at the gasoline pump.

But with more than 714 million gallons of gasoline sold daily in the United States, a rebate at the pumps might consist of only a penny or two for a few days or weeks.

The companies could also choose some other method of returning the money to the public, including temporarily holding off on some future price increase instead of rolling back current prices.

Gulf Oil Corp. led the FEA's list of alleged overcharges with $79.6 million, or 23 per cent of the total.

Standard Oil of Indiana, listed with $55 million in alleged overcharges, accused the agency of "retroactive rulemaking."

The other companies and their alleged overcharges are:

Arco $50.1 million; Texaco $31.7 million; Sun Oil $28.9 million; Marathon $18.1 million; Phillips $15.5 million; Union $14.5 million; Mobil $11.5 million; Standard Oil of California $8.1 million.

Also, Exxon $5.6 million; Ashland $4 million; Murphy $3.9 million; Amerasia Hess $2.8 million; Charter $2.1 million; Conoco $2.1 million; Kerr-McGee $920,000; Standard Oil of Ohio $868,000; Getty $517,000, and Cities $117,000.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Frozen jobs

Q. During a recent visit of an Air Force team here, the subject of finding jobs for the Webb civilian force was brought up. It was stated that a 50 per cent freeze on jobs at other ATC bases, especially in this area (Reece, Williams of Arizona and Laughlin of Del Rio) were frozen for Webb civilians to fill, starting when RIF notices went out at Webb. Is this fact or rumor?

A. According to the Webb information office, it is generally fact. According to Arthur Coates, civilian personnel, when RIF notices go out, civilian positions will be frozen for both Webb and Craig employees who are qualified. The positions will be tabbed and held until the personnel are released from their present positions. This procedure will begin after the 60-day review period is over.

Offbeat: Confused customers

FALCONER, N.Y. (AP) — To the someone out there who's probably wondering if his April Fool's joke at the Marine Midland Bank worked: It did.

P.S. — bank officials, local police and the FBI would like to talk to you — not to mention the guy who was arrested after unwittingly passing the stickup note to a teller Monday.

The man, whom police would not identify, filled out a savings account withdrawal slip for $70 and handed it to a teller. She gave him the money, flipped the slip to stamp it, and read on it, "Give me all the money. This is a stickup. I have a gun."

She hit an alarm button and police and an FBI agent responded, taking a confused customer into custody.

After an hour of interrogation and snooping around, police discovered that the same felonious message had been written on the back of several withdrawal slips, perhaps last Friday — April 1. The doctored slips had been placed in the middle of a stack, so anyone using them would appear to be an armed robber.

Police are seeking the prankster.

TV's best: Charlie Brown

An animated film called "A Boy Named Charlie Brown" starring Charlie Brown, will air tonight at 7 p.m. on CBS.

Two great movies, "The Guns of Navarone" at 9 p.m. on channel 11, and Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds" on ABC at 10:30, are two flicks that shouldn't be missed.

Chance for recovery aid not good

Senator Ray Farabee said today that he is not too optimistic about receiving extra funds from the state legislature for the Texas Industrial Commission, and Big Spring.

Senator Farabee said there were several problems in getting the legislature to go along with the proposal of granting the TIC $2 million.

The first, and major problem, according to Farabee would be proving the constitutional legality of granting the proposal. The State constitution has a provision prohibiting direct grants to cities unless they are involved in a natural disaster.

According to Farabee the Senate Finance Committee has discussed the problem, and has taken the question of legality to Attorney General John Hill. The Attorney General is expected to reach a decision on the question early next week.

Farabee said another distinct problem is that several of the senators on the Finance Committee are from Texas cities which have had economic depressions and hardships, but were never granted any state money or aid. Mineral Wells and Waco were two such towns which he referred to.

"The fact that you already have state agencies receiving funds in the form of the state hospital and junior college does not make the prospects of having more of these installations placed in your area very good," said Senator Farabee.

He said that there might be a chance of locating a prison installation in this area, but wondered whether the city would be receptive to such a plan.

'Red' tries to cap well

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — Paul "Red" Adair, the Texan regarded as the oil world's premier blowout specialist, arrived today to take command of a new attempt to shut off a runaway gusher that has spilled some six million gallons of oil into the North Sea in seven days.

The 62-year-old Adair and his team will seek to cap the Ekofisk Bravo well by pushing a four-ton stopper through oil moving at the speed of sound.

Adair told reporters: "We'll wind it up in a couple of days or sooner. We got a whole bunch of tricks. We'll fix it. I'll stay until we close it. It's no big thing. We do this for a living."

As Adair was preparing for a helicopter trip to the rig 168 miles west of Stavanger in the North Sea, members of his Texas disaster control team were preparing equipment for a new try at capping the well after three failed attempts on Thursday.

The attempt involves limiting the size of the flow from the wellhead to two inches in diameter so that a four-ton assembly can be swung through "The fourth problem," said Farabee, "is that the Texas Legislature is running out of money. Highway improvements and mental health units in your area have trimmed the House budget very severely."

The senator went on to say that Governor Briscoe has asked the legislature to cut costs, and because of a general shortage of money anyway, the prospects for a state grant are bad.

Conditions ideal now

Plant late to avoid boll weevils

Although the cotton planting conditions in the area are the best they have been in years, the Howard County Cotton Producer's Association is recommending that farmers who have had boll weevil infestation in the past delay planting, according to Lloyd Underwood, president.

"The situation for planting cotton is looking better than it has in many years," Bruce Griffith, Howard County agent said here this week.

County agents in Martin, Glasscock, and Mitchell Counties all agree and Joe Ed Wise, Dawson County agent said, "We could use just a little bit more moisture in a few parts of the county."

Dawson County got less rain in one end of the county from the moisture in mid-April which helped cotton farmers throughout the area.

An Ackerly farmer said Tuesday, "This rain was just right. It's almost scary when it's this good. I get afraid we won't get any later on when we need it. But for now, it's perfect."

Underwood stated that the association is urging cotton producers who have had damage early from the boll weevil to delay planting until mid-May. He said, the reasoning behind delayed planting is that most boll weevils come out of hibernation in late May and early June which would coincide with the early squaring of cotton that was planted in late April and early May.

"The overwintered boll weevil can find the early squaring cotton very easily," Underwood added. Cotton that is infested with boll weevils during peak squaring has little chance of making an average crop. Cotton planted in mid-May will start squaring after the peak period of overwintered boll weevil emergence has occurred and these weevils have died.

"Thus, hopefully fewer boll weevils will be present to infest the cotton early," Underwood added and stressed that for delayed planting to be effective, as many producers as possible in an area should cooperate." Similar agreements on a targeted planting date have been effective in other countries that have had heavy boll weevil pressure," he emphasized.

Ranchers were also happy with the recent moisture which fell at the right time for growth on the rangelands in Borden, Howard, Martin and Glasscock Counties.

Farmers are already planting in Glasscock County and most of the farmers are either getting ready to plant or in the process in Howard, Martin and Dawson Counties. Mitchell County has been planting grain and will plant cotton a little bit later, according to Agent Bob Benson.

Glasscock County agent Oliver Werst said, "We're getting ready for another good cotton year. I hope."

Last flight in a year leaves here Saturday

If you want to catch the last scheduled airline flight from Big Spring for a year, be at Howard County Airport at 8:25 a.m. Saturday.

That is when Trans Regional Airlines makes its last flight, prior to a year's suspension of scheduled flights, which has been approved by the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

The suspension was requested by airline manager R.E. McClure because of strained relations with the county. He said this morning, "We will be in business here at the airport during that year and will resume flights when we are able to use the new Municipal Airport, when it is open.

McClure said this morning, "Statements made yesterday that commissioners are trying to obtain another airline service are ridiculous. Because of all the hassle here with county commissioners and the FAA, there won't be another permit issued, I am sure, and we have the only permit."

Each chairman is also a member of the Steering Committee, and responsible for appointing the members of his own subcommittee.

"There will be no set number of members for each subcommittee, but we have suggested that there be four or five on each one," said City Manager Harry Nagel.

Discussions will begin at 9 a.m. when the Webb Steering Committee will meet with OEA representatives. Then at intervals throughout the day until 5 p.m. subcommittees will meet with the federal officials to discuss specific areas of interest.

The city will provide clerical and secretarial help to keep records of each meeting. The data from the meetings will later be compiled for review by the Steering Committee.

Eight other flamingos were clubbed and stoned to death during the attack before security guards captured the youths.

Vatican is 'cool'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican officials appear cool to a proposal from the Archbishop of Canterbury to share Holy Communion by Roman Catholics and Anglicans as a necessary step toward unification. Catholic officials were surprised by Archbishop Donald Coggan's proposal, made after a meeting with the Pope on Thursday. One theologian said to approve joint communion would present problems for his church, and study would be necessary before Pope Paul VI could respond.

Troops out of Panama

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Information Minister Romulo Escobar Betancourt says the United States has agreed to withdraw all troops from the Panama Canal Zone by the year 2000, removing a major obstacle to a new canal treaty. The U.S. Embassy declined to confirm the report from Escobar, who is personal adviser to Gen. Omar Torrijos, Panama's chief of government.

Cuban relations better

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top State Department official envisions a "gradual but constant improvement" in U.S.-Cuban relations following the successful conclusion of maritime negotiations between the two old rivals. The assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, Terence A. Todman, told reporters he expects discussions soon on the many other outstanding issues dividing the United States and Cuba.

Lawmakers go to valley

AUSTIN, Tex. (A) — Many Texas legislators junketed in the Rio Grande Valley today, leaving behind them in Austin long calendars of unfinished lawmaking.

The Senate and House quit Thursday for the usual three-day legislative weekend.

Air-conditioned buses whisked many of them away for a holiday sponsored by the Valley Chamber of Commerce, including stops in McAllen, Brownsville, South Padre Island and Harlingen, plus a night outing in Matamoros.

The Senate sent to the House a long list of bills, including merger of Texas' three water agencies and state-provided textbooks for parochial school pupils.

Consolidation of water agencies would save an estimated $1.8 million, said sponsoring Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene.

Cost of the textbooks for students at church and other nonpublic schools could run as high as $7.2 million over the next two years.

Senators also tentatively approved 19-9 a bill setting up two pilot programs of job training and counseling for divorcees and widows—"displaced homemakers"—who have no work experience except household duties.

A final Senate vote will send the "displaced homemaker" bill to Gov. Dolph Briscoe for signature or veto.

Representatives have spent the past four days debating amendments to the state spending bill and probably face several more days when they return at 1 p.m. Monday.

McGovern admires Castro

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., is quoted by a Cuban magazine as saying he thinks Fidel Castro is "one of the most important leaders in the world today," according to the Cuban news agency Prensa Latina.

"Although I am not in agreement with everything he has done and I personally am not a Communist, nonetheless I admire his direction," McGovern reportedly said in the interview in the magazine "Bohemia."

Tomlin being sued

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedienne Lily Tomlin must appear in court next Wednesday to explain why she is listing the name of former opera star Zinka Milanov as understudy for her hit one-woman Broadway show.

Miss Milanov, who starred for many years at the Metropolitan Opera, filed a $2.2 million damage suit Thursday in state Supreme Court here, saying the unauthorized use of her name caused her "shock, humiliation and embarrassment."

George Boyd, stage manager for Miss Tomlin, said Miss Milanov's name was included in the playbill along with the names of other well-known persons or persons admired by Miss Tomlin.

"We have a one-woman show, so it's ludicrous that there could be a standby or an understudy," said Miss Tomlin's stage manager, George Boyd. "The fact that the playbill has certain standard things in it itself is ludicrous and we tried to make it satirical and humorous."

Desegregation problems reviewed

By MARJ CARPENTER

The Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees met Thursday, mostly in closed executive session.

The board issued a statement following the meeting, stating that it heard reports from the school attorney and the administration concerning legal matters, pertinent to desegregation application.

The board also stated that it will continue to communicate with officials from the department of Housing Education and Welfare concerning the issue.

No decisions were made by the board in the executive session regarding possible school closures or reorganization for the 1977-78 school year.

The board also announced that it had no plans to meet again prior to the May 12 regular meeting.

In spite of the fact that it had been announced that the meeting would probably go into executive session, several school patrons still attended the meeting.

Many had called the office ahead to ask if the meeting was to be closed.

Because of the concern of school patrons, Guilford Jones, school attorney, reviewed the history of the desegregation problems, prior to going into executive session.

Jones discussed the original decision in 1956 which, in effect, began school desegregation. He told the group that the Big Spring schools were the first in Texas to integrate the schools in 1956.

For many years, Big Spring was listed among the schools which complied; but in 1971, the Swann decision brought about a request to restructure schools with a certain percentage of ethnic group students.

In 1973, the Pratt decision brought about HEW orders on 11 school districts in Texas, including Big Spring.

In 1973, a hearing was held in the federal court building in Midland with an administrative law judge appointed by HEW, who worked for HEW, presiding.

At that time, the Big Spring School District, with attorneys, Guil Jones and Dick Milstead, presented its case.

At first, four schools here were listed in non-compliance including Runnels Junior High, Cedar Crest, Bauer and Lakeview. Later appeals and communication followed and it was agreed that Runnels and Cedar Crest were in compliance.

At the same time, additional problems rose within the school district concerning financing of so many neighborhood elementary schools.

A Staff and Facilities Utilization Committee was named with 35 members. They met and studied for a full year, making recommendations related to the possible closing of some of the elementary schools and plans to create a middle school complex and a unified junior high system, and unified kindergarten.

ALL MEMBERS of the committee did not agree on the plans submitted and more than one plan was submitted. The elementary schools recommended for eventual closing were Boydston and Park Hill. All of this was prior to the announcement of the possible closing of Webb AFB.

A large throng of school patrons from those two elementary schools flocked to the next board meeting, which had to be moved to the cafeteria area across the street. No final decision was made at that time.

In the meantime, the surplus funds which had been carefully accumulated through the years by the schools through careful operation were all that kept them from going into the red.

Don Crockett, assistant superintendent of business, repeatedly pointed out to the board that the taxes were still being issued on a 1958 evaluation, that expenses were escalating because of a state requirement to raise teacher salaries and because of inflation.

THE BOARD, finally at a dead end for school finances, and with Webb AFB closing and additional students dropping out, finally came to grips with its problem.

With the loss of Webb students, the district loses a number of funds known as Impact Funds. This in addition to the possible losses of federal funds due to the HEW decision, and the inflation and drop in enrollment has made a decision necessary.

This is when Dr. Emmett McKenzie, school superintendent, stepped in and recommended the closing of five elementary school campuses and other changes in the system.

None of the school board really wants to close campuses, as evidenced by the fact that it has fought a five-year battle trying to avoid the problem.

However, the combination of the tight budget, inflation, salary increases, HEW decisions and loss of students and impact funds has apparently backed the group into a hopeless corner.

IT HAS REACHED a point where the district cannot possibly afford the luxury of the neighborhood school system which has been enjoyed by Big Spring school patrons.

School officials know that the eventual hearing on the changes will be loud, critical and that the room will have to be a large one for an anticipated overflow crowd.

They also face problems concerning HEW decisions. Even though busing will increase with the new plan, it will not cost as much as the maintenance of five additional plants and staff and salaries for those plants, according to figures from the school business office.

The new signs for Heritage Museum are up and things are rapidly falling into place. Although things are shaping up at a rapid rate, the museum staff still cannot set an opening date. An announcement will be forthcoming soon.

Property meet at HC

A discussion will be held revolving around the rights of property owners when representatives of the National Association of Property Owners (NAPO) will meet at Howard College Saturday morning.

Any property owner, even if they own one lot, is cordially invited to attend the forum. The national president of the group is Dan Kuykendall, a former Congressman.

The organization believes that the most basic of all rights of the American Republic are private property rights. From this uniquely American common denominator, the right to own, use and enjoy one's own home and one's own property stem as a basic freedom.

The organization claims that 1977 is a critical year since in the upcoming session of Congress, the Udall Land Use Bill will be reintroduced. Proposed amendments to the "Clean Air Act," the "Clean Water Act," the Endangered Species Act, and the HUD Flood Insurance Program would virtually eliminate private property rights, according to officials in the organization who will speak here.

The reception and discussion will be held from 10-11:30 a.m. at the college Saturday with speakers including out of state legislators expected here.

Sponsoring the forum locally are J.M. Sterling, Delbert Stanley, J.D. Nelson, R.H. Weaver, Kimble Guthrie, Chub McGibbon, G.C. Loyalty Day will be observed Sunday in Big Spring by the Disabled War Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in a special ceremony.

A flag pole and flag will be dedicated at the Mountain View Nursing Inn at 2 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

The ceremony is in memory of departed comrades of the organizations as well as the senior citizens residing in the home.

All members of the D.A.V. and V.F.W. are urged by club officials to attend. Other veterans organizations and auxiliaries are invited to attend.

Police beat Thugs stab dog to death

A Doberman pinscher guard dog performed above and beyond the call of duty early this morning, and lost its life in the process.

The scene of the battle was the H&A Grocery, 201 N.E. 7th, 12:45 a.m. today. Apparently, two men tried to break into the store and were met by the $250 Doberman.

The thugs cut and stabbed the dog to death, but never got past the screen door of the grocery.

Officer Don Cheek, patrolling the area, happened onto the scene, and saw the two foiled burglars running from the store. One wore a white T-shirt and jeans, the other wore a yellow T-shirt and jeans.

Burglars hit the West Side Baptist Church, 1200 W. 4th, sometime between 1 p.m. Wednesday and 4 a.m. Thursday. Stolen were an electric typewriter and a duplicating machine from the church office. Loss was estimated at $1,000.

Agular Lupe, 106 Scurry, reported that she heard a truck pull up to the back of her home, 2:45 p.m. Thursday. She later discovered that thieves had carted off a lawnmower and $5 worth of Coke bottles from the back yard. Loss was estimated at $130.

A home owned by Beryl Richardson, 1612 Bluebird, located at 1216 Mobile, was vandalized during the past week.

Richardson discovered that four cabinet doors, a book shelf and a lamp had been stolen. Also, three windows were broken out of an old car nearby. Loss was estimated at $95.

John Grayson, 1502 E. Cherokee, reported that a 12-gauge shotgun was stolen from his pickup truck Thursday morning. The gun was valued at $200.

A .22-caliber rifle was stolen from the Western Auto Store, 504 Johnson, around 8:30 a.m. Wednesday. The rifle was valued at $75.

The Rip Griffin Truck Stop, IS 20 and U.S. 87, received a forged check recently. It was returned by the bank, and the truck stop is out $240.32.

Only two mishaps were reported Thursday.

A vehicle driven by Ronnie R. Rayos, 200 N.E. 7th, collided with a parked car belonging to Otho J. Cox, 1903 Choctaw, on the 1100 block of Benton, 4 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Bernadine Vargas, Lubbock, and Gerald D. Willis, Midland, collided in the parking lot of Coker's Restaurant, 9:03 a.m.

Oil-drillers may get fast tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearing a final vote on what is becoming a catch-all tax cut bill, the Senate approved Thursday the first part of Carter's program — a $30-million yearly tax reduction for independent oil-drillers. That vote came a few hours after a new incentive for Americans to insulate their homes was shelved.

The Carter Administration, while favoring both tax breaks, urged the Senate not to attach either to the pending tax-cut bill but to consider them later as part of the president's far-reaching energy program.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., successfully amended the Senate's tax bill to include more tax incentives for independent oil-drillers, who claim credit for 90 per cent of the exploratory oil and gas wells drilled in the United States.

To approve that incentive by itself without considering the full Carter energy package would be "like taking a bowl of rice pudding and picking out all the raisins," said Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y.

But an effort to kill the Bentsen amendment failed, 50 to 33, and it was approved by voice vote.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., manager of the tax-cut measure, said that if the insulation credit were approved now, Congress would have little taste for voting stiff new energy taxes and conservation measures later this year.

"We're not going to solve this energy crisis by passing out more lollipops," said Long. The insulation credit is the sweetener and shouldn't be separated from the bitter pill of higher energy taxes, he contended.

On a 53 to 38 vote, the Senate agreed.

The only other amendments adopted on Thursday also would benefit business. One apparently would help only two poultry-processing firms, in Arkansas and Maine, at a cost to the treasury of more than $1 million.

A second, costing $700 million, would provide extra incentive for businesses in areas of persistently high unemployment to expand their work forces.

Long expects the Senate to complete work on the tax bill late today. It then would go to a Senate-House conference committee to work out differences between positions taken by the two bodies.

The major portion of the Senate bill would raise the standard deductions, providing a tax break averaging $121 a year for 47 million couples or individuals, and give businesses tax breaks for hiring new workers.

Krueger continues energy fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is still a chance that a bill for deregulation of natural gas can be substituted for the price controls that President Carter has proposed, according to U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, D-New Braunfels.

Krueger told a news conference here Thursday that he will continue his fight for "free market" energy prices. But, other Texans in the energy fight felt favorable price control policies a more realistic goal.

The vote would be "very close" if it were taken now, even though a majority of the new House Ad Hoc Energy Committee has voted in the past for price controls, Krueger said.

Some Texans who have worked with Krueger for swift deregulation in the past are not willing to press the fight right now.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., said Thursday that he believes a temporary cap on both interstate and intrastate gas prices is desirable. His goal is to set the cap at a high level and include language in the law that establishes complete deregulation as the nation's policy for some time in the future. Bentsen thinks the producing interests will be fortunate to win that much from Congress.

Bentsen said immediate deregulation would be too severe a blow to consumers, particularly in Texas. Prices in Texas could be escalated beyond those paid by the rest of the country by the redetermination clauses that are in many intrastate contracts. Those clauses automatically raise the price of all gas to the highest price paid.

It would be possible for an interstate pipeline needing a small amount of gas to meet a winter peak by bidding $3 or $4 per thousand cubic feet for it, Bentsen said. That high-priced gas would be only a small part of the pipeline's total supply. But for intrastate contracts from the same area with redetermination clauses, the price for all gas would rise to whatever the interstate pipeline had paid.

The Texas Legislature could deal with that possibility with a law that would limit the amount prices could rise as a result of redetermination, Krueger said.

Although Krueger is steadfast in pressing the large battle over price controls, other Texans are concentrating on issues that will nonetheless be very important to many producers and Texas consumers.

"It's difficult to see where we could get the votes for deregulation," said Rep. William Archer, a Houston Republican. He foresees that "an awful lot of the infighting will be on technical questions, and some of them will be very important."

restraint on their growth, the railroads see it as their salvation. Coal makes up 20 per cent of its traffic. Now it seems bound to grow.

Even before Carter posed the challenge in his energy message the railroads were committing themselves to the future of coal, adding in the past three years some 48,000 special cars costing between $25,000 and $30,000 each.

To the railroads, coal also is a neat business. Whereas many rail shipments require boxcars to be dropped off at various sites over a period of several days, some coal trains never are broken up.

Instead, a 150-unit train might run from minehead to utility or port and back again on a regular basis without ever being disconnected or rerouted. No problems, no damage claims, no downtime and none of the confusion that often leads to lost cars.

"There is nothing we handle so well with so few cars at such reasonable levels of profits," says Dempsey, eager to convince people that just as in a real war, the railroads are eager to serve in the nation's moral equivalent.

With fixed costs accounting for 20 per cent of expenses, any increase in rail traffic compounds itself on the income statement. While making no promises Dempsey suggests coal, could serve to keep down costs for other shippers too.

Prepared for their opportunity, and anxious not to lose it, the railroads can show statistics down upon the subject.

The President's energy goal of a two-third increase in annual coal production by 1985, while seemingly formidable, would require only an 8 per cent average annual increase over 1977 production, says Dempsey.

This, he points out, would mean a total rail traffic growth rate of less than 3 per cent a year.

"By way of comparison," he notes, "railroads handled a 5 per cent traffic increase in 1972 and an unexpected 10 per cent gain the next year, for two alltime records."

No problem with time either, says Dempsey. "The elapsed time between the order of a new car or locomotive and its delivery currently is about three to five months. And rail can be delivered in 90 days."

The trouble for the railroads is that not everyone believes them.

"People have the Penn Central syndrome," said one railroadman, referring to the bankruptcy of the nation's biggest line after several years of poor service.

There is a feeling among some people, including those who can influence legislation, that the nation shouldn't entrust the energy challenge to an industry that has been merely surviving (with individual exceptions).

And there is the fear among some railroad people that officials in the Federal Energy Administration hold to the view that the more transportation the better, a view that could pose problems for the railroads.

Currently being considered by Congress is a coal pipeline act that would grant pipeline companies the right of eminent domain. If passed, it could lead to a proliferation of pipelines and cut into the rails' business.

While enactment of the bill faces many obstacles, one of them being the fact that pipelines depend on much needed water supplies, the railroad people aren't taking chances. They're out to win approval from the public.

Challenging claims of detractors, Dempsey declares "I welcome the opportunity to state unequivocally that this premise simply is not true."

To railroads, coal is gold

NEW YORK (AP) — Struggling for 30 years with an overcapacity problem, the railroad industry was one of the few that greeted President Carter's energy program with undiluted glee.

The reason: The program calls for increased coal production and, says William H. Dempsey, president of the Association of American Railroads, "There is nothing we do better than hauling coal."

To the railroads, coal is gold.

While other industries view the energy challenge as a potential if not certain

Briscoe not backing down

HOUSTON (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he is standing firmly behind remarks he has made about President Carter's energy program.

Briscoe said Thursday that includes his statement he would not rule out a possibility of cutting off the flow of natural gas from Texas to other states.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill responded to that remark by saying it was irresponsible.

Briscoe told newsmen after a speech before the Texas Mortgage Bankers Association "As far as I am concerned, I have just started to fight for a sound, productive energy program."

"And if anyone else wants to give up and criticize me, well, that's their privilege," he said.

"If anyone wants to knuckle under to the federal bureaucracy or extension of that bureaucracy into this state, well, that's fine. My course is going to be to fight with every way possible."

Briscoe said he will maintain close communications with the governors of Oklahoma and Louisiana on energy matters.

'I Don't Talk To Strangers'

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — A mother of two children has designed a T-shirt that she hopes will safeguard children in this Detroit suburb, where seven youngsters have been abducted and slain in the past 15 months.

The words "I Don't Talk To Strangers" are printed on the T-shirts created by Francine Gold, 35, a former kindergarten teacher, who has two children in Oakland County schools.

"I started thinking about ways to keep the message out in front of people and it struck me that children do identify with messages and heroes and personalities on T-shirts," Mrs. Gold said Thursday.

A department store has agreed to stock 3,000 of the shirts, which sell for $5 each.

Since January 1976, seven youngsters have disappeared and been found dead in crimes that began or ended in Oakland County north of Detroit. Officials from 50 police departments have joined to investigate the murders. Authorities believe four of the seven children were abducted and slain by the same person.

The latest victim, Timothy King, 11, of Birmingham, disappeared about a week after he told his mother he would never go with a stranger.

Timothy was last seen March 16 talking to a man in a parking lot behind a store where he had gone to buy candy. His body was found March 23 along a dirt road 16 miles away.

"That particular kidnaping touched me," said Mrs. Gold. "It struck me that the little boy was very much aware of the dangers of going with someone he didn't know."

"The little boy seemed to be unapproachable, yet he went with someone. It did start me thinking about what you can do to keep the message fresh in children's minds when other publicity dies down."

She said several department store buyers refused to stock the T-shirts.

"Some people have made the comment that I might be exploiting a sensitive issue, but I'm just doing this because I felt I could help children," said Mrs. Gold, who insists the undertaking is a modest moneymaker at best. "Even if I got negative reaction, even if I could help one child, it would be worth it."

"I hope that I can reach the next child who is approached so that instead of going with his would-be abductor, he goes home and gives police the description of the person," she said.

Publisher's corner Big decision must soon be made

A big decision will be made by the City of Big Spring sometime in May. We have this sewer plant, built only in 1962, which is discharging unacceptable liquid into Beal's Creek, and a study is going on that will end in some sort of recommendation about what to do.

A NEW plant, if that is the choice, would cost about $4 million, give or take a million. Of that, the citizens of Big Spring would have to stand for $1 million while the federal government will pay for the other $3 million.

But the study could result in modification of the still relatively new plant which might cost less, or there could be a solution worked out to use the discharge on agriculture land, which also could be less expensive if it will work.

How does the City of Big Spring find itself in such a pickle with a still fairly new plant being obsolete? I asked Bill Brown, assistant city manager for water and sewer.

The major problem, according to Brown, is that the city and private industry are trying to "hit a moving target." The plant was built in 1962 and discharges waste liquid which easily met the standards of that day.

But the standards of today were set up in 1967, during the peak of the ecology revival.

Brown, who has been in Big Spring for about seven years, also says that the pumping capacity of the plant is poor.

Can the present treatment plant, located at FM 700 and 11th Place extension east of town, do the job?

"It does, and can, and should, but it doesn't," he said, displaying the frustration city officials feel about the problem.

The solution will come in three

- 1) A study of the problem and the working out of a solution. This is where the city is now. This step will end with a public hearing, probably sometime during June. At that time, the approach to the problem will have been decided.
- 2) The design and engineering stage, which will begin this summer.
- 3) The construction phase, which should be completed no more than three years after the process began.

THE FIRST step has been slowed, Brown said, by the difficulty in completing an infiltration and inflow study.

Infiltration is underground water that seeps into the sewage lines, and inflow is surface or runoff water that somehow gets into the sewage system.

Before federal money is spent for a new or modified plant, the Texas Water Quality Board and the Environmental Protection Agency want to know how much load is coming into the plant that is not an integral part of the sewage system.

Brown said the city had worried about infiltration in one part of the sewer line system in particular. It is the portion that runs along 1st Street and Donley Street to the plant.

This line, again built in only 1964, is under the high salt water table, and at times the ground water pours into the system. Brown said this was because of inferior joints in the pipes and the fact that it was laid underwater or partially underwater.

The city wouldn't have minded the infiltration study showing that this portion should be replaced, for then federal grant money on a 75-25 basis would have been available.

But Brown said that the city's overall infiltration study will conclude that the amount of unauthorized water getting into the system is reasonable, and work on solving the treatment plant problems can progress.

The delay in completing this study came, Brown said, because there was a period of time without an adequate rainfall to complete the inflow portion. He said the delay would not affect the completion target for the overall project.

Now the study is coming to an end, and a decision time is near. Sunday's Publisher's Corner will discuss why cleaning up the discharge is important.

Law suits loom

Around the rim

There is a land mess south of Big Spring, and there will likely be law suits filed before the dust settles.

Dale Freeman lives in Tubbs Addition, section 32-32-1-S. He lives, along with 14 neighbors, on an undeveloped extension of Jeffery Road, Jeffery Road is county-built off of Hwy. 87 in Tubbs Addition.

Freeman appeared before the Howard County Commissioner's Court last Monday to ask again ("I've been after them for eight months," he said) why the county wouldn't provide him the same service it provided the other residents of Jeffery Rd. Why wouldn't the county build him a road the same as any of the other residents?

The answer appears to be that Freeman came too late. In 1975, Feb. 10, to be exact, the county adopted the policy of only accepting roads already graded and caliche by contractors or developers. This policy decision was embodied in a resolution which states that the court will refuse to approve any plat which contains a street not "following reasonable specifications in construction" or reasonable specifications to provide adequate drainage.

Why did they do it? Commissioner Rupard (Freeman and neighbors live in his precinct) ran on the platform to stop county road-building. He said, "We can't justify spending county taxes to develop private land. We can't justify the county agreeing to take over a pasture with stakes in it and fill it full of roads."

Recently, a Dallas County commissioner resigned from office in part because he was involved in exactly that — public funds were linked to a private development.

Since 1975 it has been county policy to require a minimum of 20-foot width of developed road with a two-inch caliche bed rolled down and graded to have a crown and bar ditch before the county would accept it.

Since 1975, according to County Judge Bill Tune, two roads have been accepted through plat into the county. One was repossessed by Coahoma as it extended its boundaries. The other is still being maintained by the county.

So it appears that Freeman is too late. Legally, the Commissioner's Court simply cannot reverse its policy, despite the inequity there.

But there's another inequity which is more hidden. Where did Freeman get the idea that the county would put the road in? Well sure they did it before, but one trip to the courthouse should have told him something was not alright.

"Well," said Freeman, "no one ever promised me the road, but a lot of people sure let me believe in it."

No developer in his right mind will put in a road if a public body will do it for him. And it appears that some developers south of town have gotten in the habit of just that and are determined to do nothing about the tracts sold on the implicit promise of a county road they could not deliver.

How to tell the difference? If you buy a piece of land like Freeman's, check the County Clerk, Margaret Ray, to see if its plat has been accepted by the court. If so, you are guaranteed of a road which meets minimum county specs and which the county has taken over. If not, like Dale Freeman, you own the deed to an island, and only a lawyer can build you a bridge.

George and Fidel?

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Sen. George McGovern is just wild about Castro, and Castro's just wild about George, and what is going on here? Sen. McGovern is a man of many interests. When he ran for President of the United States he was never satisfied in wanting to wreck just one aspect of American life — he took 'em all up, defense, taxation, agriculture, welfare. But there are many difficulties facing American foreign policy these days, and one wonders why Cuba should so greatly preoccupy him as, a year or so ago, it so greatly preoccupied his former political manager, Frank Mankiewicz.

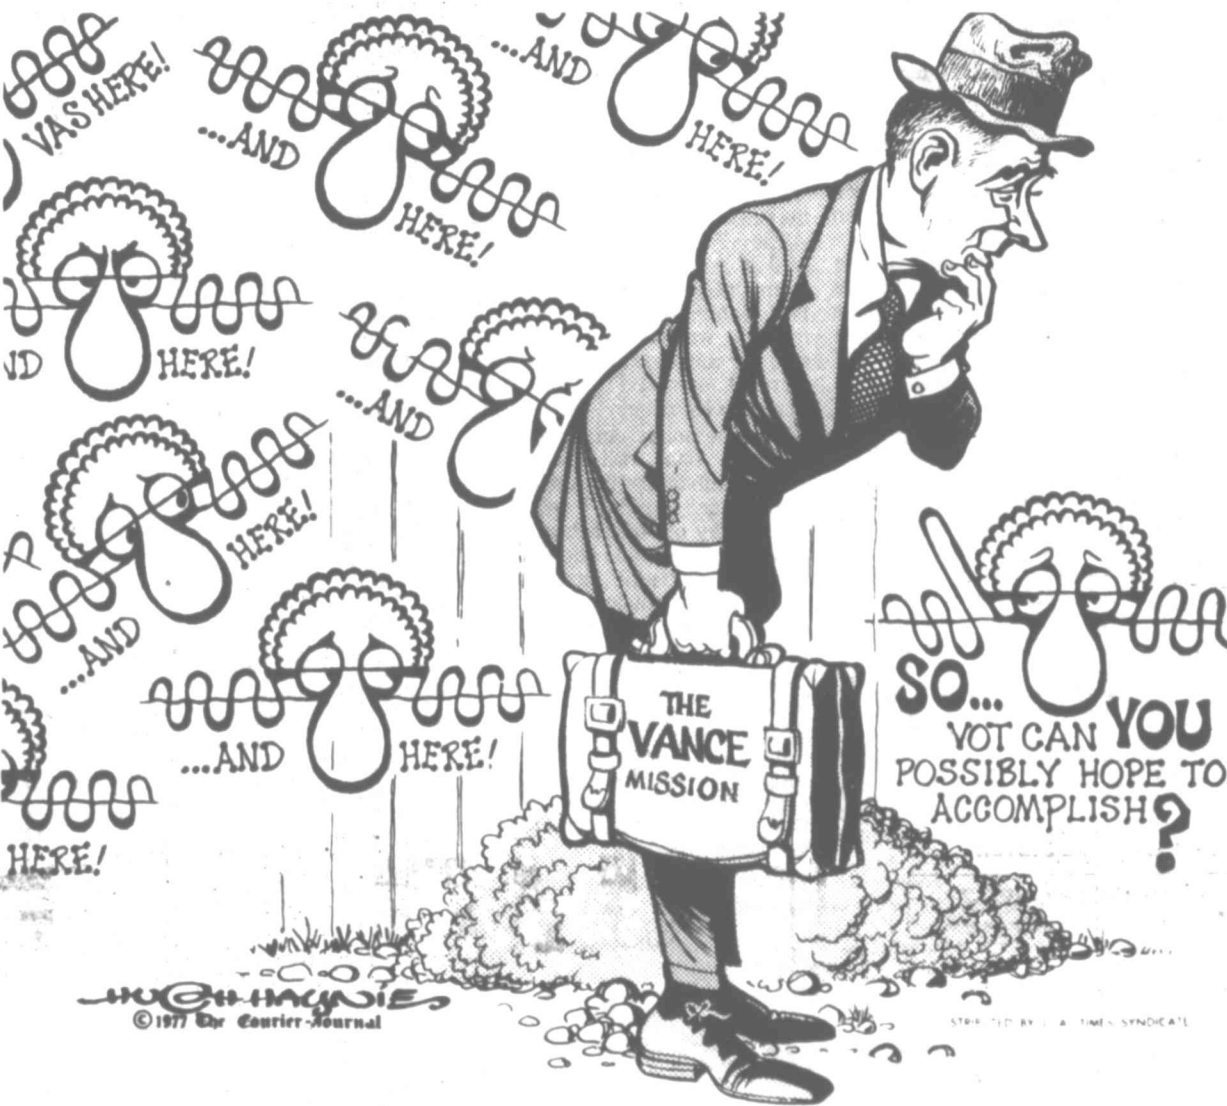

NOW THERE IS plenty of room for evangelism in Cuba, and it is otherwise attractive to certain men of commerce. If I were a tobaccoist in America, my interest in Cuba would be all-consuming, and I would pound on the doors of Congress and the Executive to permit me to import that precious weed. If I wanted more rum, sugar, nickel, citrus fruit, or fish products, I could see making Cuba a cause militant.

Then there is one more category. The man who cares deeply about human rights, who is opposed to sadistic treatment of prisoners, indeed opposed to prisoners of conscience, would take a great interest in Cuba. He would blast Fidel Castro in the morning, at noon, and at night, for his treatment, to give just one example, of Hubert Matos, whose freedom President Pinochet is willing to purchase in return for the release of Jorge Montes, the Chilean Communist.

Now Sen. McGovern is not a slave to cigars. So far as one can tell, he has access to all the rum, sugar, nickel, citrus fruit and fish he wants. Although he often speaks on the subject of human rights, he does not appear to be concerned about human rights in Cuba. Or put another way, if his long conversations with Castro are devoted to the subject of human rights for Cubans, that secret is well-kept, and for no reason one can off-hand think of. Professor John Roche, who was himself the head of Americans for Democratic Action, wonders what his successor George McGovern is doing about democratic action?

GEORGE MCGOVERN is crazy-mad to get the United States to recognize Castro and, one would judge from the conviviality of their meetings, anxious to bring Castro to the United States so that everyone can apologize to him. But if he has been to Cuba for the purpose of cultivating Democratic Action he should tell us so. And he should be a little more specific than merely to tell us that diplomatic recognition and human trade are going to lead to human rights for Cubans. We recognized the Soviet Union in 1933.

I can understand the case for recognizing Castro's government. Our general rule is to recognize de facto governments. It does not particular violence to morality to recognize Castro when you have already recognized the Soviet Union.

Protein diet can be meat-free

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am supposed to be on a high-protein diet, but I hate meat, especially fresh meat. I can't change after all these years. What I'd like to know is can I get my protein elsewhere than in meat? Is vegetable protein as good? —L.Z.

A high-protein diet doesn't mean gorging on thick, juicy steaks.

To see why, it is helpful to understand the composition of food protein. Proteins are large molecules made up of chains of amino acids in wide varieties of combinations. There are about 20 different amino acids, accounting for the endless variety of the tastes, smells and consistencies of the foods we eat. Without this variety eating would be a dull affair at best.

Of the various amino acids some are more important than others. The body can make some of them itself. Others it cannot, and must get them from foods. These are called "essential" amino acids. A food that has all or most of the essential amino acids is called a "complete" protein source.

Meat and meat products are in this category. However, other foods (such as vegetables) have to be eaten in combination to provide the full protein quality one needs.

For example, macaroni alone ranks rather low on the protein quality scale. But add cheese or milk and the total protein quality rises amazingly. Corn flakes are low in total protein quality, but add milk and you get a good protein combination, each complementing the other. Fish is high in essential protein quality. So are the soybean meat substitutes. Nuts are rich in protein. Some vegetables are higher in protein quality than others.

You need not fear protein starvation so long as you are getting such foods in combination. Your doctor may have some material dealing with high-protein diet that will help you with menus.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have an 18-year-old daughter whose limbs periodically fall asleep, sometimes an arm, then a leg. A few times her head has gotten numb. It lasts for about ten minutes. Can you tell me what this could be? —I.S.

It is impossible to comment meaningfully on such symptoms at this distance.

Young girls do sometimes experience strange symptoms as their glands begin operating fully at adult levels. However, the variety of symptoms you list should be investigated to rule out the possibility of multiple sclerosis, a generalized nerve problem that can behave this way. If the symptoms persist you should certainly have her examined.

I don't want to scare you unnecessarily, but I would be justifiably criticized if I did not mention this possibility.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had V.D. when I was younger. It was treated. Now I am married and am afraid to go to a doctor for fear he will find out I once had it and then my husband would find out. Can a doctor tell? —Anon.

Depends on the type you had. Gonorrhea would leave no trace if adequately treated. Syphilis might show in a positive blood test. But undoubtedly you had such a test prior to marriage. If it were anything but negative, you would have been told.

Stop worrying and see your doctor. Even if he could tell he would not dream of informing your husband.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Can you help straighten out my thinking — should be believe the teaching of preachers who condemn the self and constantly say how bad we are, or the fine psychologists who tell us we should come to know ourselves, to find the good within us and to be our true selves? H.A.

DEAR H.A.: The important thing is to find out what the Bible says on this subject. You will always be confused if you try to compare one kind of teaching with another. If you accept the Bible as the truth that God inspired men to write for our understanding, then you'll avoid confusion.

The Bible teaches that every person was born with a sinful nature. When a person becomes a Christian, a new nature is born. This new nature fosters a life of truth and goodness, displaying the characteristics of love, joy and peace — all the fruit of the Spirit as described in Galatians 5:22, 23. But if you will study the Gospel of John, chapter 15, you'll find that the fruit is produced as we abide in Christ.

The interesting thing is that the Lord can tell us our faults and failures in the Bible without our discouraging us.

So get into your Bible; read it with reverence, with relish, and with readiness to obey.

Turkey switch

ANKARA — Although the full impact of President Carter's new hard line on Turkey, the most reliable ally of the U.S. in the crucial eastern flank of NATO, has not been felt here yet, the handwriting on the wall is ominously clear.

That message points to a fundamental reversal of the Kissinger-Ford policy of separating the inflammatory Cyprus issue from Turkey's key NATO role. The new Carter administration policy is linkage. Linkage means that Jimmy Carter will not attempt to persuade Congress to pass the new Turkey Defense Cooperation Agreement — ending the modified arms embargo on Turkey — until Turkey makes substantial concessions on Cyprus.

THAT WAS THE private message brought here in late February by Clark Clifford, Mr. Carter's Cyprus mediator. Although he was careful to avoid stating the policy reversal in blunt terms to the Turkish government, there was nothing subtle about Clifford's frank elaboration of the new policy in the long, private briefings he had with U.S. diplomats here.

Those discussions at times bordered on the acerbic, particularly when Clifford told the entire U.S. mission, headed by Ambassador William B. Macomber, that without major Turkish concessions on Cyprus there were "dreaming" to think that there was any chance that the new Democratic President would try to push the new defense agreement through the Democratic Congress. The Greek lobby is now more entrenched than ever under the new House Speaker, Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts, and the new majority whip, John Brademas of Indiana.

Adding a bitter touch for Turkey to this policy reversal was the abrupt decision to end the diplomatic career of Macomber. He is about to be replaced in a politics-as-usual decision at a climactic point of the policy crisis between the U.S. and Turkey.

THE DEPARTURE OF Macomber into premature diplomatic retirement is not all that unusual by itself. Although Macomber has served in top diplomatic roles under the last five Presidents — and was the only Republican named to a top ambassadorial job by John Kennedy in 1961 — diplomatic housecleaning is ritual in any new administration.

What gives the Macomber dismissal its special character is his role as the vulnerable point-man in taking on the Greek lobby in Congress. Although Macomber himself rejects it as fanciful, one U.S. operative here suspects that a part of his unceremonious sacking. (The first ouster message received here from the State Department ordered him out "at the earliest possible date.")

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

El Paso Air Transport dba Trans Regional Airlines, began operations two years ago at Howard County Airport, Big Spring, eager and enthused to provide the greatly needed air service to the people of Big Spring. It appeared that this same feeling of enthusiasm existed with the hierarchy who are in authority at Howard County and who have control over county transactions.

We felt welcomed and had no doubt, at the time, that we would receive any support necessary to maintain optimum, professional air service for our passengers. In June 1975, T.A.C. attorney, John Soule wrote to the County judge here, emphasizing the importance of strong community support. He went on to say that without it, commuter airlines have been unable to survive and Soule was correct in his statement.

We have received absolutely no support or any assistance from the County. What we have received, plenty of it, is harassment and unnecessary extra expense to the airline, through their unfair, unconcerned actions and feelings toward Trans Regional Airlines. It wasn't long after we began operating, that their enthusiasm vanished and their feelings changed, causing the airline many problems and unnecessary expense in attorneys fees etc.

To try to explain all that has happened in these past two years between Howard County Commissioners and Trans Regional Airlines would take hours.

To give an example, in Aug. 1976, after many weeks of battles and legal transactions, we were evicted from the airline terminal. In order to continue air service and meet all regulations required by the FAA, we set up temporary quarters in an aircraft hanger, on the same field. The remodeling costs to convert the hanger into a terminal and business office were high and had to be paid by Trans Regional Airlines.

We rent the hanger from the county, but the judge, (County Judge Bill Tune) has, up to now, refused to sign a contract so there is always the concern of another eviction. We had an agreement that all utilities in the hanger were to be paid by the county, but now we are told we will have to pay.

This is the way it has been going and we find we cannot continue under these conditions. It has caused a tremendous strain financially, physically and mentally.

This past March an official announcement was made to the citizens of Big Spring that the Air Force Base here will close in the near future. The property belongs to the city and officials are now making plans for best utilization of the property. One proposal is the conversion of the flight line into a municipal airport and doing away with the county airport. If this plan materializes, we will agree to move our operation over to the new facility under the jurisdiction of the city who promises us total cooperation.

As the system exists now we find it impossible to continue airline service. Therefore we are requesting a suspension of operation for one year, during which time we hope all plans for relocation, as explained above, materialize.

Watergate trio seeks answer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court may give an immediate answer to attorneys for three convicted Watergate figures who want the court to weigh the impact of a news report about the justices' private deliberations on the case. Attorneys for former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and ex-White House aides H.R.

Haldean and John D. Ehrlichman asked the court Wednesday for permission to file a memorandum by May 7. The justices might approve or turn down that request today. The attorneys want the court to let them outline their contentions of how the report has affected their clients' rights.

The extraordinary situation was sparked by a report last week that the court had voted to deny the appeals of the three former Nixon administration officials, who were convicted in the Watergate coverup trial in January 1975.

The report by National Public Radio said that Chief Justice Warren E. Burger was delaying public announcement of the 5-3 denial vote in an effort to gain the needed fourth vote to grant review.

Such postponements are not uncommon and are the prerogative of each justice, but leaks about the court's closed deliberations are rare.

The report, if accurate, is believed to be the first time a court decision was made public before being officially announced. Meanwhile, the court as early as Monday could announce a decision on whether it will review or turn down the appeals.

Operation won't interfere with First Lady's schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The removal of a benign lump from First Lady Rosalynn Carter's breast won't interfere with her busy schedule, a White House spokeswoman says.

"She is up and about and in great spirits," said Mary Finch Hoyt, press secretary to Mrs. Carter. "This will not affect her schedule."

The non-cancerous growth, discovered during Mrs. Carter's routine six-month checkup Thursday afternoon at Bethesda Naval Hospital, was removed immediately. Mrs. Carter was back at the White House by 5 p.m.

The 40-minute operation was performed by Capt. William Fouty, chairman of the hospital's surgery department. The operation was followed by a biopsy, a microscopic examination, that showed the lump was benign.

Mrs. Hoyt said Mrs. Carter, who had no history of lumps in her breast, was alone at the hospital since the checkup was expected to be routine.

Betty Ford, who preceded Mrs. Carter as first lady, underwent a radical mastectomy for removal of her right breast on Sept. 28, 1974. Doctors detected her cancerous growth during a similar routine examination at the naval hospital in suburban Maryland.

Mrs. Hoyt said the First Lady was given a local anesthetic for the surgery, but received no additional medication afterward.

Dr. William Lukash, the White House physician, telephoned President Carter before and directly after the operation. Carter awaited his wife's return in the family living quarters, Mrs. Hoyt said.

Mrs. Hoyt declined to say which of Mrs. Carter's breasts was operated on.

"I'm not willing to ask," the spokeswoman said. "If it had been malignant, that would be something else. But this is something thousands of women go through and I don't think we need to go into it further than that."

Buying buses that bend

DETROIT (AP) — European-type articulated buses — the kind that bend in the middle — should begin hitting the streets of American cities early next year, says the only U.S. producer of the vehicles.

AM General, a subsidiary of American Motors Corp., said Thursday that a $2 million expansion to make room for the new bus is underway at its Marshall, Tex., assembly plant, and should be completed by August.

Cruse Moss, president of AM General, said $70 million worth of initial orders for 392 articulated buses — about $178,600 per vehicle — have been placed by transit authorities in Seattle, Oakland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Chicago, Atlanta, Pittsburgh, St. Paul, Phoenix and Washington.

If Nixon covers up on TV

Jaworski ready to 'speak out'

DALLAS (AP)—If former President Richard Nixon does not explain his true role in the Watergate scandal, former special prosecutor Leon Jaworski says he will "speak out." Jaworski, a Houston attorney, said Nixon should admit at least to "obstruction of justice" and added that was not the only thing with which the former President could have been charged.

The comment from Jaworski came after a speech at Southern Methodist University Wednesday. He was referring to a series of taped interviews with Nixon by reporter David Frost which will be aired beginning next Wednesday.

Jaworski said he did not think Nixon would face up to the real facts in the syndicated interviews.

"I have a feeling that he is going to lay a lot of this off on his staff," Jaworski told newsmen. "I could be wrong, but that's what I expect."

His reaction to the interviews will appear in a national publication, Jaworski said, adding he will speak out not with "venom" but with facts, if Nixon does not do it.

"That's exactly why I am going to write it," Jaworski said. "I don't want to do it with any venom. I don't want to do it with anything other than just a factual response, a factual presentation."

Nixon should admit to the charge of obstruction of justice, Jaworski said, adding "Now, I am not saying that was the only offense that could have been charged. There was a question as to the matter of discussions he had with (H. R.) Haldeman, particularly as related to the possibility of Haldeman committing perjury."

In answer to another question he said that Nixon should accept responsibility for his role "especially in the light of what is unswerable.

"If I were in his shoes, I just would not know how to tackle this situation, unless I was prepared to say, 'yes, I was guilty of wrongdoing.' I don't think he'll ever say that."

The Houston attorney referred to some of the taped conversation Nixon had with his aides and referred to one with Charles Colson which, he said "revealed something about some of his other activities, some of his staff members and some of his own reactions to things."

"He assured me they didn't relate to Watergate, and they didn't, but they related to some things I'm sure he wasn't proud of. I know I wasn't as an American citizen."

PREVIEW OF "FINAL REVIEW" — This scene in clay will be repeated numerous times in the flesh May 7 when Texas A&M's Corps of Cadets conducts its 1977 "Final Review," marking the last time seniors will march with their units and when they bid farewell to their classmates. Dr. Duane Lagan, campus physician and amateur sculptor, decided last spring to capture some of the emotion of the event, and this is the result. Plans are being made to make a permanent casting of the world.

They didn't get to see actress

HILLSBORO, Tex. (AP)—A handful of curiosity seekers were disappointed Thursday when they didn't get to see actress Farrah Fawcett-Majors.

Mrs. Mvrtle Fawcett, 81-year-old grandmother of the actress who has skyrocketed to fame in the "Charlie's Angels" television series, was buried here after funeral services at a local funeral home.

About 10 persons watched outside the funeral home, hoping for a glimpse of the star. The size of the crowd sharply contrasted with the turnout of about 400 here April 11 when the star came to a local hospital to visit her then-ill grandmother.

A funeral home spokesman said the size of the hospital crowd probably was the reason the star did not attend the funeral.

Terminal dedication lures 'foreigners'

HOUSTON (AP)—The Barbours Cut Terminal on the Port of Houston has been dedicated with ceremonies witnessed by some 600 persons from 60 countries.

Those in attendance Thursday included delegates who are attending the International Association of Ports and Harbors conference as well as members of Houston's consular corps and shipping industry representatives.

The $53 million facility near Morgan's Point, has two 1,000-foot wharves where two container ships can load and unload at the same time with the help of seven-story tal cranes on shores. A time capsule, to be opened in the year 2014 on the Port of Houston's 100th birthday, was lowered into the ground by Port Authority commissioners.

Among the items in the capsule are predictions about what the world and its ports will be like in that year.

How did I get on that mailing list?

Are you an 'inquisitive kid'?

WASHINGTON (AP) — You aren't just Occupant or Resident to those bulk mailers who have you on their lists. You're an "inquisitive kid" or "a black activist" or some other type. A government commission says you should be told before someone peddles a list with your name and "label" on it. The Privacy Protection Study Commission is recommending that the direct mail industry set voluntary guidelines to prevent mailing lists from being sold without permission of the persons on the list.

If that doesn't work, federal and state laws may be needed later to deal with sales of mailing lists, the commission's chairman, David F. Linowes, said Thursday.

But he noted, "There are First Amendment problems in limiting communication with others."

It is common practice for organizations to sell their lists of customers, members or donors to other groups, Linowes said.

"People keep wondering, 'How did I get on that mailing list?' Well, they ought to be told," he said in a speech to a conference of the Direct Mail Marketing Association.

There is an inch-and-a-half thick catalog available to mailers giving the names of the various lists available, Linowes said. "Inquisitive kids" and "black activists" are among the titles of the lists, which give mass mailers some assurance that they are mailing their come-ons to someone who is known to be interested in a specific pitch.

"If your name is on such a list, you can get tagged forever with that sort of identification. And you probably won't even know about it," Linowes said.

Some direct mailers are beginning to send forms to those on their mailing lists allowing them to say if they don't want their name and other information about them turned over to others, he noted.

Other organizations have promised to remove any person's name from a mailing list on request.

Linowes said the commission would recommend in its report to Congress in June that such voluntary actions be expanded.

U.S. Agrees to remove troops from Canal Zone

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Information Minister Romulo Escobar Betancourt says the United States has agreed to withdraw all troops from the Panama Canal Zone by the year 2000, removing a major obstacle to a new canal treaty.

The U.S. Embassy declined to confirm the report from Escobar, who is personal adviser to Gen. Omar Torrijos, Panama's chief of government.

Escobar said he hoped the next round of negotiations, opening May 10 in Washington, would "clear away all preliminary issues and plunge into the substantive dispute such as the canal's neutrality and payment for American property to be left behind."

The U.S. government has about 9,000 servicemen stationed on 14 bases in the Canal Zone.

Escobar accused the U.S. government of "misrepresenting the cause for delays" in concluding a new treaty.

"The United States says publicly that neutrality is the most important issue in negotiations, but at the negotiating table the United States bargains just as hard over each little house and street in the Canal Zone," he said. "It is this intransigent stand that is delaying the new treaty."

"Houses and streets" referred to which parts of the zone are to revert to Panama after the signing of the new treaty. The United States has agreed that within three

'Wishbone' pinched Valley dopers

MCALLEN, Tex. (AP) — A battle has been won, but the war against dope dealers along the Rio Grande is still raging, says a top law enforcement official.

Law officers swept through this portion of South Texas last week, armed with 16 indictments naming 62 alleged drug violators.

"We disrupted a lot of heroin and marijuana operations, but we haven't stamped out the drug traffic in this area... West still has a long way to go," said Don Smith, the special agent in charge of the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) office in this border city. "We have gotten 50 of the 62 persons named in the indictments. The mop-up operation now in progress should give us about six more within the next couple of days."

Operation Wishbone concentrated on Starr County, a sparsely populated area bordering the Rio Grande known as a hotbed of smuggling activity.

"We aren't naive enough to think we wiped out all the dope dealers in Starr County," Smith said Thursday. "But we wanted operation Wishbone to have a three-fold effect.

"First of all, we want to disrupt the major operations in South Texas. Secondly, we want to show the leaders of those organizations that they can—and will—be arrested.

"Thirdly, we want the people to know that we are doing a job and can be trusted."

Twenty-nine of the 62 persons named in the indictments were alleged "class one violators," said Smith meaning they are capable of delivering quality marijuana and heroin in large amounts on a regular basis.

"Starr County is one of, if not the major transshipment point along the entire Southwest border," said Smith. "We know of 15 major smuggling operations in the county and there may be as many as 20 or 25."

"There is an interrelationship between the two largest confiscations of marijuana made in this state with Starr County operations," he continued referring to the busts made in Donna, Tex., another Rio Grande Valley town where officers discovered 17,790 pounds of marijuana last December stored in a house and two months later, stopped two large trucks transporting 18,120 pounds just outside the city limits.

The illegal weed was headed out of South Texas, theorized officers, via U.S. Highway 281, nicknamed the "Marijuana Highway" or "Pot Pavement."

Operation Wishbone also spawned arrests in other Texas cities and in California, Georgia and Tennessee.

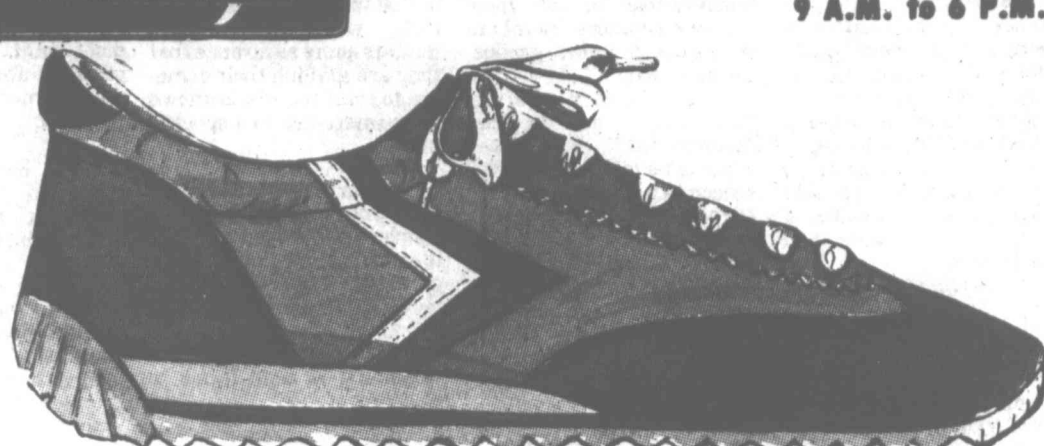

"Operation Wishbone actually began on Jan. 1," said Smith. "Since that time, we have confiscated about 79,000 pounds of marijuana, 3½ to four kilos of heroin, 130 games of cocaine, 7,000 dosage units of drugs (pills, capsules), 17 vehicles, eight weapons and made 110 arrests."

Smith credited the Department of Public Safety's 33-man task force, U.S. Customs, the Border Patrol and "especially the Mexican Federal Judicial Police" for Operation Wishbone's success.

"We named it operation Wishbone because a wishbone has two sides that can be pinched together. We felt we could effectively pinch several major operations if we worked together with the Mexican authorities. They have been a tremendous help."

Lawmakers pondering teachers' salaries

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Senate subcommittee proposal on teacher pay raises would be lower than proposed percentage increases for other state employees but higher than the increases in a House-passed bill.

And the Senate version would put a greater premium on longevity.

Teachers' salaries would be raised 5.1 and 3.4 per cent over the next two years under the proposal discussed Thursday by the Senate Education Subcommittee. That compares with proposed increases of 6.8 and 5.1 per cent for other state employees.

But the Senate proposal, which would cost the state $320 million, includes increases for the 11th and 12th years of teaching experience. The top scale today is 10 years.

Sen. A. M. Aikin, D-Paris, dean of the Senate and longtime expert on school financing (he co-authored the Gilmer-Aikin bill of 1949) asked what it would cost the state to give teachers the same percentage increases as other state employees.

Raymond Bynum of the Texas Education Agency said it would cost $411 million.

Committee Chairman Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, told the staff last week the salary increase had to be held to $320 million or less.

A House-passed bill would cost the state $260 million in teacher pay increases.

Mom's Day history

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Mother's Day, first observed here in 1908, has origins going back to the ancient Greeks.

According to Hallmark researcher Sally Hopkins, a spring festival was held annually in Greece and Asia Minor honoring Cybele, goddess of nature and motherhood. This custom spread to Rome about 250 B.C. as the festival of Hilaria. The three-day period of dancing and feasting began on the Ides of March.

Nowadays Mother's Day is celebrated not only in the United States but in Austria, Canada, Mexico, China, Japan, the West Indies, parts of Africa and in most South and Central American countries. To mark the occasion, Americans are expected to send more than 200 million Mother's Day cards this year.

Sen. A. M. Aikin, D-Paris, dean of the Senate and longtime expert on school financing (he co-authored the Gilmer-Aikin bill of 1949) asked what it would cost the state to give teachers the same percentage increases as other state employees.

Raymond Bynum of the Texas Education Agency said it would cost $411 million.

Committee Chairman Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, told the staff last week the salary increase had to be held to $320 million or less.

A House-passed bill would cost the state $260 million in teacher pay increases.

Senator, pardon the 'intrusion'

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Sen. William Moore, apparently longing for the days when state appropriations bills were written behind closed doors, tried to eject university administrators from a public hearing of the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday.

He added that he'd like to see members of the news media banned, too.

"When we didn't have to bother with the press, we did a better job," the Bryan senator said. He was referring to times in the past when legislative committees dealing with appropriations worked behind closed doors. That now is prohibited by state law and rules of the Senate.

presence of university presidents at the committee meeting when higher education funding was being discussed was "an intrusion."

Sen. A.M. Aikin Jr. of Paris, committee chairman, at first ignored Moore's remarks. When Moore pressed the point again, Aikin said: "I don't think we can tell people they can't come in."

Bible winner in big trouble

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — The Calvary Baptist Church here held a contest for people who arrived for last Sunday's services using energy-saving transportation methods. And first prize went to a man who showed up in a four-wheeled pedal cart.

Moore did not refer to any university president in particular, but he was looking in the direction of Dr. D. Whitney Halladay of Corpus Christi, chancellor of the Texas A&I University System.

Halladay had attended committee hearings the past two days with an interest in appropriations for the A&I system.

resident, watching news coverage of the event on television, recognized the prize-winning cart. It had been stolen from him. Police said the pedal-cart has been returned to its owner, who is considering whether to press charges against the man, who won a Bible.

Earlier in the day Moore casted the only negative vote on an appropriation proposal for the A&I campus at Corpus Christi. Some

Army quality sags

WASHINGTON (AP) — The quality of recruits entering the Army during the past three months fell to the lowest level in at least a year, and if the trend continues it could lead to recruitment of more women.

A high school diploma is a main standard of quality for the armed services. But figures obtained from Pentagon manpower officials show that only 47 percent of the Army's recruits in January through March were high school graduates.

This is about 9 per cent below the Army's minimum objective and well under levels reported by the Marines, Navy and Air Force.

The continued downward trend in the Army's recruit quality seems likely to fuel a debate over continuation of the all-volunteer concept.

Some Congress members, including Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, contend the draft should be restored. Defense Secretary Harold Brown disagrees.

Army officials, who blame recruitment problems partly on congressional cutbacks in funds, could turn to the acceptance of more women as a way of bolstering quality.

Sources said about 90 per cent of the women recruited into the Army have high school diplomas, which the Army has said "is the best measure of quality as it relates to motivation, discipline and probability to complete the full term of enlistment."

The Army now limits its uniformed women to about 50,000 out of a total force of about 775,000.

Some officials argue that women have shown they can perform well in a wide variety of military jobs and that the doors should be opened wider to them. But certain Army traditionalists oppose increasing the number of women in the service because they are barred from combat duty.

Military manpower experts have long forecast that an improving economy would make it more difficult for all the services to attract volunteers, particularly young men with the potential to fill skilled civilian jobs. Army officers claim the winter months traditionally are poor for recruiting. But they cannot explain why the Army did so poorly compared with the other services in terms of quality volunteers in the January-March quarter.

Dear Abby

Can't Stand Sound of Late Wife's Bird

DEAR ABBY: Last year, around this time, my wife and I would be awakened every morning by a mockingbird who sat on the wire behind our house singing its heart out. My wife just loved to hear that bird. She even recorded his singing and played it back often. Now my dear wife is dead, and that bird is back, and every morning when I awake to the sound of that mockingbird, it brings back memories that just break my heart. I love all of God's creatures just as my lovely wife did, but I must either destroy that bird or I will surely go out of my mind. I tried to shoot it away, but it comes back every morning. Is there another way to get rid of it? DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Please don't destroy that bird. Your wife would have wanted it to live a full life. Perhaps some kind of scarecrow will do the trick. If there's another way, I'm sure my bird lovers will write in and let me know.

DEAR ABBY: In your column, which I read each day with amusement, you refer quite often to husbands who are philanderers. Did it ever occur to you that these fellows are that way because they have a Frigidaire in the kitchen and a "Frigid Dear" in the bedroom? "COULD BE"

DEAR "COULD": There's no such thing as a "Frigid Dear"—only clumsy men.

DEAR ABBY: I had a terrible experience yesterday and I would like your opinion. I was shopping in a department store when a saleslady offered to help me. I said, "Thank you, I'm just looking," and then I proceeded to look at some sale merchandise out on the counter, and the saleslady disappeared. I found several things I wanted, but the salesperson who had approached me was nowhere in sight, so since I was in a hurry, I handed my merchandise to another salesperson who was standing near me. Suddenly No. 1 saleslady appeared, and when she saw No. 2 writing up my sale, she ran to her, tore my merchandise out of her hand and said, "She was MY customer!" Then No. 2 gave No. 1 a shove, and it soon developed into a hair-pulling brawl! Other store personnel came running, and it took two women and a man to separate them. What I want to know is this: Just because that saleslady offered to help me, did that make me "her" customer? Nobody really waited on me. I found what I wanted myself. STILL SHOOK

DEAR SHOOK: Her offer of help did NOT make you "her" customer, and since she was nowhere in sight to write up the sale, it was your right to ask another salesperson to do so.

Hope Harrington speaks to B&PW club Tuesday

Miss Hope Harrington was the guest speaker Tuesday evening at the meeting of Business & Professional Women's Club at First United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Bert Affleck registered guests and members, and Mrs. Garland Morrison and Mrs. Willard Sullivan were in charge of the refreshment table, which was arranged with a lace tablecloth and crystal service. Miss Harrington was introduced by Miss Edith Gay, President of B&PW Club.

Miss Harrington gave a very interesting program in song and oratory pertaining to the threatened freedoms of our country due to communistic ideas and infiltrations. Her opening song was "Who will Sing to my Grandchildren", and she related that one-half of the globe is dominated by communism, where there is no freedom of religion or personal ideas. Miss Harrington has worked extensively with the young people of American in presenting programs, and she is now speaking almost daily to the school children of Big Spring.

She related her concern for the negative reaction of the high school students when incidents of cruelty and atrocities were committed in those Red countries, and attributed it to so much crime and criminal actions that they have seen on television, and never bring those actions down to a possibility of them happening to our country as a whole. She stated that it is the responsibility of each person to realize these threats to our freedom, and we should all be interested enough to do what we can to counter them by exercising our rights to vote for men who realize that persons have the ability to cope with their own lives without so much government regulations.

Following the program refreshments were served. Mrs. Philip Parker poured punch and all club members assisted with the serving.

Mary Lin Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Spencer, was initiated into the Order.

Guests at the meeting included board members and members of the Masons and Eastern Stars.

The Assembly will honor members who are graduating this May with a salad supper May 10.

Focus on family living 'Now' fashion possible on a shoestring budget

By JANET SARGENT
County Ext. Agent

"Now" fashion — on a shoestring budget — is possible with just a few ideas for updating current wardrobes.

Identify items in your present wardrobe that are still usable — then update those by making changes in them or by adding new items that coordinate with them for a more fashionable look.

Below are several trends for spring-summer '77 — with ideas for incorporating these into your present wardrobe:

—Bright, bold colors, especially stripes, are spring's hottest news. Also popular is all white, white with black or brown, and white combined with bright colors.

Choose tops in the newest styles and boldest colors to coordinate with pants, shorts, and skirts you already have. White separates from previous seasons are particularly usable for this coordinating technique.

—Pent legs tend to be narrow and straight from the hip, so flared legs from the past may need modifications. Pants and shorts come in many lengths this season, so many possibilities for those "too short" pants are available. Cut them to mid-calf length, to the knee, to mid-thigh, or to short shorts.

Styles may be cuffed or uncuffed. If appropriate, convert them to gauchos or parachute pants with elastic or drawstring at the ankle — or add a fabric band at the bottom. Bands are seen everywhere this spring.

—Longer skirts promise to be the favorite length, although many lengths are available. To achieve desired length for skirts, add ruffles — in fact, rows of them — or a band in a coordinating print, stripe, or solid color. For a peasant look, add a muslin "petticoat" that extends below the skirt hemline, or add one or more skirt layers in coordinating color and fabric.

—Tunics are still with us, so make maximum use of tops or dresses that can be converted into tunics. Since they're often slit up the side or open and tied at the waist as in the tabard, you can slit the side seams in tops or dresses that are too tight, and face the seams to create a great, new look.

Tunics may be belted or loose and worn over skirts or pants, or over both for evening wear with a three-layer look.

—Hang on to those vests, blazers, and soft blouses with bows. They're still great wardrobe assets for the coming season.

—Also popular are shirt-dresses with a softened look and bare-topped sundresses in many versions. So pull out appropriate dresses from the past and wear "as is" or modify them into a more modern version.

—And don't forget inexpensive accessory items to give your wardrobe a lift. Choose exciting, new looks in shawls, scarves, jewelry, hair ornaments, bags, shoes, and sun glasses.

—Also, be aware of make-up and hair style trends to complete your fashion look.

Hostess was Mrs. Katherine Bartholomew. Mrs. Wilma Seyse was guest.

Flower arranging topic

Mrs. Stanley Haney was hostess to the Rosebud Garden Club meeting at the Dora Roberts Community Center recently.

Mrs. Tommy Hubbard presided over the business meeting and said that entries in the flower show will be accepted from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., April 30, at Dora Roberts Center.

Mrs. J.F. Sanders was speaker on flower arranging. She said, "Harden flowers overnight before beginning artistic arrangements. First begin your line material. Lines will be vertical, horizontal, diagonal, or oblique. Then begin to fill in flowers for either closed or open form. Open form has space or voids. If in doubt about number of flowers in your arrangement, take out flowers until it pleases you. Don't bunch flowers together."

Mrs. Sanders used a color circle to explain contrast in flower arrangements.

A luncheon meeting, at 10:30 a.m. May 24, will be held at Big Spring Country Club. Hostesses will be Mrs. Odell Womack and Mrs. Doris Crane.

Ridin' fence

They call it Ackerly

with Marj Carpenter

Very few people are in town because everybody is on their tractors getting the land ready for the cotton crop, which is the main purpose and sustenance of the citizenry, here in Ackerly.

In town, there's a little bit of activity as oil trucks trundle through toward work nearby. At noon, students who didn't really want to eat at the school cafeteria, slipped off in their cars and hurried to the nearest grocery store to grab a Coke and some chips.

The wind blew a few tumbleweeds out across the recently cleared area where citizens got together and tore down a group of old buildings which they knew were dangerous.

The buildings were gradually blowing apart with every wind storm. The citizens did not apply for Housing and Urban Development funds. They just got a group together, led by Roy Plemister, city councilman and Church of Christ minister, and did the work themselves.

The homes on the edge of Ackerly, out by the triangle and on the Knott road are pretty prosperous looking. Most of them are brick and were built by cotton.

A lot of homes around Ackerly have basketball goals in the front driveway. This may account for the excellent basketball record held by Sands High School one of many things students are really good at.

This year, their girls team was not only one of the best around in the area, but also one of the prettiest. They have a good school system and a lot of enthusiasm.

There are four counties that meet in Ackerly. They include Borden, Howard, Martin and Dawson. The major portions of the town are in Howard and Martin Counties, with Dawson having a smidge and Borden touching the edge.

The trouble with this plan is that nobody really claims them. Recently, a very pretty girl was eliminated from the Miss Diamondback Contest because she resided in the Martin County portion of Ackerly. Martin County recently provided the city with an ambulance and several citizens are learning emergency medical training. They have not had a doctor in their community since 1939 and there has been a time or two when the miles and the time involved made the difference between life and death.

They have several cotton gins and through the years have had their share of gin accidents, farm accidents and oilfield accidents.

The citizens have very few civic problems. The mayor, Glenn Batsen, said the city provides water services. Most other things just sort of take care of themselves.

Everybody in town joins in when they have a community dinner at the school several times a year. They all attend the sporting events, the graduation and other ceremonies.

They are proud of their churches and they are proud of each other. It's a closeknit community with few problems.

The farmers gather at Lottie's Cafe when she feels like opening up for coffee and they discuss the weather, the basketball team, the most recent developments in tractor equipment and national politics.

It's peaceful out there. They've been there now a little over 50 years and they get along fine. They don't have a doctor or a drugstore or a picture show or crime or strikes or many murders.

But they have comfortable homes, friendship, healthy and intelligent children and each other. That's the way it is out in Ackerly on the northern edge of Howard County — out where I sat in the shade of the water tower and ate a really good sandwich from the grocery store when I was out ridin' fence.

Gideon Rally gets under way Saturday

The annual Gideon Rally gets under way Saturday at the Holiday Inn here and will end Sunday, when members fan out over the area to deliver sermons in 45 churches.

The Gideons' state cabinet will meet throughout Saturday, at which time all state officers will be present.

Herbert Coppinger of Houston serves as president of the organization and, as such, will preside at all meetings. He will also be the master of ceremonies at a 6:30 p.m. banquet Saturday in the Howard College cafeteria.

Chief speaker at that event will be Dr. Wayne Kellough of Las Cruces, N.M., International Zone 4 trustee. Zone 4 embraces all of Arizona, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas.

All pastors and ministers' wives of local churches have been invited to attend the banquet.

The delegates will regroup Sunday morning for an 8 o'clock breakfast at the Holiday Inn Restaurant.

Cowboys won't sign Baum

Breathe easy Dallas Cowboy fans. The Pokes aren't going to give up Ed "Too Tall" Jones and Randy White for Seattle's first round pick (nearly Tony Dorsett).

The rumor has been going around for about two weeks, and has been making quite a number of rabid fans sick to their stomachs.

At last Tuesday's Spring Sports Banquet, Jim Baum was so distraught about the whole idea that he could barely finish his filet mignon. He explained his drastic weight loss program as preparation to suit up for the Pokes if White and Jones did leave.

But chances are 99 and 44-100ths per cent sure that the Cowboy organization won't be willing to give up the backbone of their defense for a college superstar running back, even though we all know they need one.

The Dallas Cowboys enter Tuesday's National Football League draft of college talent with six choices in the first three rounds.

The annual player selection, which begins at 9 a.m. Dallas time Tuesday, will conclude after 12 rounds (probably Wednesday). No round may begin after 3 p.m. Dallas time, but any round begun will be completed even if it runs past the deadline.

The Cowboys' 11-3 record in 1976 tied with Baltimore and New England in the NFL's inverse order of drafting. Thus, Dallas' normal spot will be to alternate with the Colts and Patriots in the 24th, 25th and 26th positions.

In the first round, however, the Cowboys will draft 14th as the result of a trade with San Diego for quarterback Clint Longley. In the Longley deal, the Cowboys and Chargers swapped first-round choices and San Diego also gave up its second-round pick to Dallas.

Here's the way the Dallas draft shapes up:

First round — Dallas drafts 14th, via the Longley trade.

Second round — Dallas drafts second (from Buffalo for Pat Toomay), 13th (from San Diego) and 26th.

Third round — Dallas drafts sixth (from Philadelphia for John Niland) 25th.

Fourth through 12th rounds — Dallas alternates with Baltimore and New England in the 24th, 25th and 26th spots, for a total of 18 selections in the 12 rounds.

Here is a rundown on the Cowboys' first-round draft choices through the years:

1960 — Cowboys did not participate in the draft.

1961 (Drafted second) — 1A. No choice, selection traded along with sixth choice to Washington for Eddie LeBaron. 1B. Bob Lilly, defensive tackle, Texas Christian (choice from Cleveland for first round pick in 1962).

1962 (Drafted fourth) — No choice, selection traded to Cleveland for Bob Lilly.

1963 (Drafted sixth) — Lee Roy Jordan, linebacker, Alabama.

1964 (Drafted fourth) — No choice, selection traded to Pittsburgh for Buddy Dial.

1965 — (Drafted fifth) — Craig Morton, quarterback, California.

1966 — (Drafted fifth) — John Niland, guard, Iowa.

1967 (Drafted 23rd) — No choice, selection traded along with second choice and two fifths choices to Houston for rights to Ralph Neely, tackle, Oklahoma.

1968 (Drafted 20th) — Dennis Homan, wide receiver, Alabama.

1969 (Drafted 24th) — Calvin Hill, running back, Yale.

1970 (Drafted 23rd) — Duane Thomas, running back, West Texas State.

1971 (Drafted 25th) — Tody Smith, defensive end, Southern California.

1972 (Drafted 26th) — Bill Thomas, running back, Boston College.

1973 (Drafted 20th) — Billy Joe DuPree, tight end, Michigan State.

1974 (Drafted 22nd) — 1A. Ed Jones defensive end, Tennessee State (choice from Houston for Tody Smith and Billy Parks). 1B. Charles Young, running back, North Carolina State.

1975 (Drafted 18th) — 1A. Randy White, defensive end, Maryland (choice from N.Y. Giants for Craig Morton). 1B. Thomas Henderson, linebacker, Langston.

1976 (Drafted 27th) — Aaron Kyle, cornerback, Wyoming.

HOWE NOW OUT — Houston Astros Art Howe (18), attempting to score in ninth on Cesar Cedeno's double right to right, spins backward to the dirt being tagged out by Giants catcher Mike Sadek in San Francisco's Candlestick Park Thursday. Astros won, 3-1.

Bullets look for Newlin

HOUSTON (AP) — The Washington Bullets likely will be looking for Houston Rockets guard Mike Newlin in the final minutes of tonight's National Basketball Association (NBA) playoff game between the two teams.

Newlin has been both goat and hero for the Rockets in the final minutes of the last two games.

Newlin drove home the clinching basket Tuesday night in Houston's 107-103 victory that evened the best of seven series at 2-2.

In the third game Sunday, Newlin was whistled with an offensive foul that eventually cost the Rockets the game.

Newlin, who lost his starting job this season to rookie John Lucas, turned in both decisive performances in relief. In fact, Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke tried to start Newlin in the second half of Tuesday's game and the free-spirited Newlin declined.

"Oh, I'll start if he wants me to but I haven't started for quite awhile so I've adjusted to coming off the bench," Newlin said. "I'd rather play all of the fourth quarter than part of the third quarter and part of the fourth quarter."

Newlin likely won't get a starting nod in tonight's fifth game of the best of seven quarter-final series but he'll surely be around when the final period comes around.

Foli blames himself for Astro win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It was almost a perfect debut for Tim Foli, who made his first start as the San Francisco Giants' shortstop and drew cheers from the Candlestick Park customers by collecting three hits in four tries against the Houston Astros.

But Foli also made an error and Bob Watson followed with a two-run homer off loser John Montefusco, 2-2, in the second inning as the Astros downed the Giants 3-1 Thursday.

"I feel good about the hits, but I'd feel a lot better if I'd made that play," said Foli. "Maybe if I'd made the play, Montefusco would have thrown differently to Watson with nobody on base."

Instead, Jose Cruz reached first on the bobbled grounder and Watson poked his first homer of the season, a 400-foot drive to center.

Watson agreed: "It was a good, inside fast ball. I went back to using a 42-ounce bat today and when I get wood on the ball with Big Bertha, it really carries."

The Giants, who host the Philadelphia Phillies in the opener of a three-game series tonight, had their chances, but Jojo Abreu kept pitching out of trouble while carrying a three-hitter into the ninth.

Houston took a 3-0 lead with an unearned run in the fifth, and the Giants averted a shutout by getting an unearned run in the seventh without benefit of a hit.

Andujar, 2-1, was lifted after Foli and Darrell Evans singled in the ninth. Relievers Joe Sambito and Ken Forsch worked out of trouble, Forsch registering his second save.

"Pitching has been our strength," said Astros' Manager Bill Virdon. "We've been in a lot of close games. We've already had 11 one run games and won six."

Indians finally win

By the Associated Press

"And batting fourth, second baseman Duane Kuiper," the public address system blared out across 78,000 empty seats at the 80,000-seat Municipal Stadium in Cleveland.

It was Manager Frank Robinson's version of baseball democracy.

The Indians, tired in a seven-game losing streak and suffering declining attendance, finally broke through with a 4-3 victory over Toronto Thursday night, using a batting order the players chose themselves.

"I think that's probably the first time in the big leagues a guy with 1,500 major league at bats and no home runs hit fourth," said Kuiper, a singleshitter batting .274 this season.

Although Kuiper went hitless in four tries against Toronto, the move worked. Buddy Bell, who normally hits fifth or sixth, chose the leadoff spot, and his two-run single highlighted a three-run third inning that gave the Indians their victory.

"Frank just tried to loosen everybody up," said Kuiper. "I was about the sixth person to pick, and everybody was avoiding that spot (cleanup), so I just jumped in there. I figured I'd never get another chance to hit cleanup."

In the only other American League game Thursday, Seattle beat Minnesota 4-3. In the National League, Houston downed San Francisco 3-1 and Los Angeles whipped San Diego 7-5.

After Bell in the order came Frank Duffy, Rico Carly, Kuiper, Andre Thornton, Johnny Grubb, Fred Kendall, Jim Norris and Rick Manning.

"We had to try something," said Robinson, who said he wasn't sure if he would keep the order Friday night at Milwaukee.

"They've got a left-hander (Bill Travers) going, and I'm not that superstitious."

The victory, credited to Al Fitzmorris, 1-2, was Cleveland's first since April 17 when the Indians beat Boston in the second game of a doubleheader. Jesse Jefferson, 0-1, got the loss.

Mariners 4, Twins 3

The Mariners scored three times in the sixth inning on a single by Bill Stein, Carlos Loper' double and a two-run blooper by Jose Baez.

Steve Braun singled in what turned out to be the winning run in the eighth before Minnesota scored twice in their half of the inning on Mike Cubbage's sacrifice fly and an RBI double by Dan Ford.

Dodgers 7, Padres 5

Steve Garvey drove in three runs with a double and his sixth home run of the season, and Rick Monday slugged a two-run homer to give the Dodgers a four-game sweep of their series with San Diego.

The victory also gave the Dodgers their most successful road trip in 20 years, losing only once during their 12-game swing.

From Russia with hate

NEW YORK (AP) — Headline: "Russia Orders Boycott of Wimbledon. Political Reasons Cited."

Shades of the Montreal Olympics. Choreograph of the Davis Cup and Federation Cup walkouts. Play it again, Sam. The politicians are still poking their grubby fingers into international sports, making athletes the pawns of their bids for national aggrandizement.

Two weeks ago U.S. Captain Tony Trabert was swinging a tennis racket to ward off demonstrators who swarmed over the courts at Newport Beach, Calif., in protest of a Davis Cup match against South Africa.

A target of the militants was a frail, mild-mannered man in a white cap, Frew McMillan, who probably never made a political speech in his life. It recalled the time in 1969 when South Africa's Gary Player, bidding for the PGA Golf Championship in Dayton, Ohio, had a cup of ice flung in his face by an apartheid protester as he walked from the ninth green to the 10th tee. Gary gritted his teeth and played on.

In the latest high-level political gesture, the Soviets have announced that their touring team, including Alex Metreveli and Olga Morozova, both former Wimbledon finalists, would be called home for a rest during the 100th anniversary Wimbledon Championships, starting June 30.

The reason: The presence at Wimbledon of players from South Africa, a country run by a white majority practicing separation of the races.

This is a social and a political issue. It is a practice that cannot be condoned. Human rights must be defended at every pass.

But the playing fields should not be turned into battlefields, particularly when they are used more for the expansion of ideologies than for the protection of personal freedom and dignity.

Santone misses no-hitter

By the Associated Press

A sharply hit ball that glanced off the glove of third baseman Mark Hanisch went for a single and spoiled San Antonio Dodgers pitcher Tony Castillo's bid for a Texas League baseball no-hitter after he had survived for eight and two-thirds innings.

San Antonio took the victory, 3-1, only their fourth victory of the young Texas League season. Amarillo scored their lone run in the sixth without a hit, combining two walks, a sacrifice fly and a ground out for the score.

Tedd Farr had a solo homer for the Dodgers in the fifth inning and Marv Webb was three-for-four, all singles and accounted for one run.

It was nothing new for Power to have a no-hit bid spoiled in the late innings. In his last start, he had a no-hitter going for six and one-third innings of a seven-inning doubleheader game.

In the only other Texas League action, El Paso slammed Midland, 12-4. All four teams in the league's Eastern Division had the night off.

CHIPS FOR PAR — Jack Nicklaus chips from the edge of a sand trap on number five and managed to par the hole. Nicklaus then bogged the next four holes to drop from a seven under par to three under, 69 for the day, at the Houston Open Thursday.

Nicklaus making comeback

HOUSTON (AP) — He didn't mention any names, but Mark Hayes could have been talking about Jack Nicklaus.

"Somebody is going to figure out these greens and put a lot of distance between himself and the rest of the field," Hayes said. He made the comment only moments after Nicklaus — who once appeared poised to make a runaway of the $200,000 Houston Open Golf Tournament, had observed: "I'm putting very, very well."

Nicklaus used only 24 strokes on the tricky greens at the 6,997-yard, par-72 Woodlands Country Club course, once had it seven under par for the day, then suffered a collapse that left him at 69, two shots back of first-round leaders Hayes and George Buras.

"This is a kind of medium-easy course," said the soft-spoken Hayes, winner of three titles in the last 12 months. "The greens are the only obstacle. I think somebody can play just pretty good, not really great, but if they can figure out the greens and make some putts, they can run away with it."

Nicklaus seemed ready to do just that. A score of 65 or 64 appeared not only possible, but very probable. "When you're seven under after 13, you're thinking of maybe eight or nine under, a real low score," he said.

Instead of another birdie or two, he reeled off a string of four bogeys on his last four holes. He bounced approach shots over the green on his 15th and 16th, chipped back to about five feet and lipped out both putts. He was bunkered on the next two, failed to reach the green from a wet sand and had to make a pair of three-foot putts to salvage bogeys. "Just one of those days," sighed Nicklaus, winner of two titles this year including the Tournament of Champions in his last outing.

Dave Marr, the quick-witted television commentator and part-time tourist, and rookie Mark Lye matched 68s that left them one shot out of the lead.

Tied with Nicklaus at 69 were Lee Trevino, Canadian George Knudson and power-hitting Jim Dent. Hubert Green shot 71. Arnold Palmer matched par 72. Defending champion Lee Elder was at 73. Hale Irwin and Bruce Lietzke were at 75 and Ben Crenshaw at 76.

Buras, a 215-pound former Maryland football player, blew a chance to score his first tournament victory in this tournament a year ago.

"I've had a lot of time to think about it," said Buras. "I had a two-shot lead with nine holes to play. But that's gone now. It's past. I came here to redeem myself."

His 67 was a major step in that direction. He didn't make a bogey and missed only three greens.

LIONS REIGN OVER SPORTS, 10-9

The Lions of the American Little League defeated the Sports, 10 to 9 at their home stadium Tuesday evening.

The game marked the first victory of the year for Tim Conner, pitcher for the Lions, and John Richards was credited with the loss, as pitcher of the Sports.

Ken Schooler, David Shortes, and Don Moore, of the Lions, all hit triples, and Don Moore with three runs and Tim Conner with two, accumulated half the score for the win.

The Sports will attempt to de-throne the Lions again tonight at the American League Park.

CABOTS SPILL OILERS 3-2

Winning pitcher Jamie Thompson cracked a single in the bottom of the seventh inning with the bases loaded to break a 2-2 tie, and win the game for the Cabots of the American Little League.

Pete Crabtree was the losing pitcher for the Oilers. Scott Richardson for the Oilers garnered a triple, while teammate Robbie Phermetton took two hits.

Gregg Hartfield for the Cabots also had two hits. The Oilers are now 1-1 and the Cabots are 1-0.

76ers say they will Celts say they won't

By the Associated Press.

The Philadelphia 76ers are in the odd position of having to explain why they're leading the Boston Celtics in their National Basketball Association quarterfinal series, with a chance to put it away tonight.

And the Celtics are in the equally odd situation of explaining why the 76ers won't.

But if the 76ers are on the defensive, they can only hope it carries over to the basketball court.

"We're not the worst defensive team — far from it," said Julius Erving in reply to suggestions that the 76ers' weakness is on Boston's end of the court. "What we did was get back on defense quickly and prepare ourselves."

The good doctor was explaining how the 76ers held the Celtics to under 100 points in their 110-91 drubbing of the Celtics in Philadelphia Wednesday night. That victory gave the 76ers a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven quarterfinal series which continues tonight in Boston.

In two other quarter-final matchups tonight, Washington is at Houston and Golden States plays in Los Angeles. Both of those series are tied 2-2. Portland takes a 3-1 lead into Denver 3-1 on Sunday, when all four series resume if they haven't already been decided.

A 76ers' victory would end Boston's title defense and a chance for an unprecedented 14th NBA title.

But Jo Jo White, Boston's veteran guard, warned anyone who would sound the Celtics' death knell. "The series isn't over yet," he said. "We've got to go back and look at the films and then talk about what we can do. We're at home, so we'll have a few things in our favor. We know what we must do."

Washington Coach Dick Motta says the key for the Bullets is controlling Houston's Moses Malone. "Moses Malone has been the key to this whole series," he says. "If we control him we've got a chance."

In reverse, Houston won Tuesday night's battle by controlling the Bullets' rookie center, Mitch Kupchak. Kupchak hit 80 per cent from the field in the first three playoff games but was held to 12 points in Tuesday's game.

Los Angeles, which returns to the friendly confines of the Forum after losing twice in Oakland, is in trouble with key injuries. Lucius Allen, who dislocated a toe in the series opener and hasn't played since, is questionable. One of his replacements, Bo Lamar, was hurt in the third game, and forward Cazzie Russell has been slowed by a bruised thigh.

THIRD BASE ACTION — Big Spring Steer third sacker Arthur Olague watches a bullet go by as Permian centerfielder Curtis Pittman comes in to the third bag safe. Panther head coach Gene McCannies urges Pittman to head for home for the only Mojo score of the day. Action took place last week in Big Spring's close 2-1 victory at Steer Park. Saturday, the locals will be at home again hosting Abilene Cooper at 2 p.m.

Steers host Coogs

By DANNY REAGAN
Sports Editor

It'll be little league day at Steer Park Saturday for the meeting between the Steer diamond men and the Abilene Cooper Cougars.

Coach Tom Collins announced today that all little leaguers who wear their jerseys or T-shirts and caps will be admitted free to the contest. "We just want to encourage everyone to come out," Collins said.

The locals beat the Cougars 5-3 in their earlier meeting this year, as both teams were making a bid at the first half crown. Cooper took home all the marbles in the first half, but the Steers are strutting their stuff during the second half, while the Coogs have had very little luck.

Cooper has the best long-ball hitters in the league, however, and have no pressure on them whatsoever; so the locals have the work cut out for themselves.

Home runs may not be the bugaboo Saturday, though, as Mother Nature is again threatening to involve herself in the proceedings. Rainstorms are forecast for today and tomorrow, and if they eventuate, the third rain-out of the second go-around could postpone the game.

"It'll take the Atlantic Ocean to wash it out though," said Coach Collins. "The best thing about Steer Park is that it takes a lot of water to make it unplayable."

Collins also indicated that humid weather will probably help the home cause. "The higher the humidity," Collins said, "the better we are with Rubio. His breaking ball seems to be a lot better in muggy weather."

In addition to Frankie Rubio on the mound, Mike Harris, Billy Hayes and Paul Spence will be in the outfield, Tony Mann, Steve Evans, Kevin McLaughlin and Arthur Olague will ring the infield, and Kyle Pfeiffer will be behind the plate.

Collins feels that to win the ballgame, Rubio will have to keep his breaking ball down, (Rube's curveball has been very effective lately), and his team will have to get more than a few runs. "Cooper is very hard to shut-out," Collins concluded.

Gametime is 2 p.m. Saturday, weather permitting.

'Don't count us out!'

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The '77 Longhorns may be the youngest and smallest in recent memory but, says the new Texas football coach, "Don't count us out."

It's a funny game and a weird world and an unpredictable conference and, suggests Fred Akers, "Lots of strange things happen."

So spoke the Longhorn rookie as he attacked the Colonial golf course this week during a whirlwind visit to chat with Steer supporters in Fort Worth.

"Sometimes the best team doesn't win the Southwest Conference," Akers said. "It's the team perhaps with the fewest injuries."

The former Wyoming coach was by no means rapping his 'Horns, but he pointed out that the team he inherited from Darrell Royal is not of the traditional UY mold.

"We won't be in the wish-bone because we don't have enough backs ... I don't think we could physically run it," he said.

"I doubt that the University's ever been quite this thin. We'll be starting some kids who normally would have been redshirted during our good seasons."

"We've got some good, young football players but they're inexperienced. Of course, they'll grow up one of these days."

Idelly, said Akers, they'll grow up real fast and avoid injuries.

Asked if he might be somewhat pessimistic, the personable young coach bolted as if swatted with a long dead mackerel and snapped:

"If there's one thing I'm not, it's pessimistic. I'm always optimistic. There's no room for pessimism when I'm coaching."

Furthermore, he said, he is unimpressed with those journalistic soothsayers who overlook Texas when listing SWC title contenders.

"I don't agree with all of those things I read in the paper, and our kids are sure you're going to have to prove it to them," he said.

"They didn't like that 5-5 season last year."

He admits it's an unusual and unfamiliar experience to read glowing accounts of Texas A&M, Houston, Arkansas, Baylor and Texas Tech "and then see Texas mentioned in the second paragraph."

What the Steers lack in size, strength and age, he said, could well be offset by speed, of which there is no shortage. There's Earl Campbell and the Jones boys, Ham and Lam, the latter an Olympic sprinter.

Other swiftness are flanker Mike Lockett, split end Alfred Jackson and back Gralyn Wyatt.

"I think Campbell's the best running back in the country," Akers said. "He's a Heisman candidate in anybody's book."

"And we've got the best kicker in the nation, Russell Erxleben.

"Sure, it's the youngest and smallest Texas team I can ever recall. But we do have the quickness. And you can do lots of things with speed."

So don't count 'em out.

Best team disqualified

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — With the aid of a court injunction, the Austin Crockett girls golf team finished the Region IV tournament last week with a score good enough to win the event by 51 strokes.

Unfortunately, the University Interscholastic League event had officially ended the day before.

The UIL's executive committee refused Thursday to allow the Cougars, who arrived late for the regional tournament due to a misunderstanding, to play in the next week's state meet.

The Cougars and another Austin team were late for the Cougars Christ meet, which began April 22, after their coach thought the tournament started April 23.

The Cougars, tagged by many as the best girls team in the state, were subsequently disqualified, but parents of the girls secured a court injunction to allow the girls to compete.

Crockett played the same course April 23-24 and finished 51 strokes ahead of San Antonio Roosevelt, declared the winner after playing on the correct days. Harlingen finished second and will also represent the region in next week's state meet.

UIL spokesman Max Haddick said the committee ruled that every other team made the correct starting time, so there was no basis for Crockett's appeal.

Stanton thinclads at Region today

By TERRY NEILL

STANTON — With most of the attention centering on the mile relay team, Stanton High School has a good chance at copping the boys regional track team title this weekend, according to Coach Bob Denison. Winners will advance to the Class A state track meet in Austin.

Denison's squad tuned up for regional by turning in an impressive performance at the regional qualifiers meet in Mason last weekend.

The mile relay squad of Doug McCalister, Marvin Jones, Todd Smith and Kenny McCalister stepped off a 3:24 time, the top time recorded by a Class A team in West Texas this year.

Doug McCalister was also second in the 120 and 330-yard hurdles, setting new individual records of 39.9 and 14.9. Mitch Elmore broke a personal record by turning in a 2.01 for fourth place in the 880-yard run.

Jones was fourth in the high jump. Stanton's 440-yard relay squad dropped the baton and was disqualified.

"We were well pleased with our performance at Mason, especially since we were competing with Class B, A and AA competition," Denison said.

The regional meet is being held at Odessa's W.T. Barrett Stadium today and Saturday. The field events will begin at 3:30 p.m. today, followed by the running events at 4 p.m. On Saturday the meet will kickoff at 1 p.m. and conclude about 3:30 p.m.

"We have a good chance to win the team title if we can forget about the pressure and just perform like we're capable of doing," Denison said.

Stanton will have both relay teams entered this weekend. Kenny McCalister, Todd Smith, Freddie Silva and Jones make up the sprint relay squad, which with a top showing by the mile relay bunch could net SHS 40 big points.

Other competitors for the Buffs will be Kenny McCalister, 440; Jones, 100-yard dash and high jump; Doug McCalister, 330 and 120-yard hurdles, and broad jump; and Elmore, 880-yard run.

YOUNG IDEAS
By DICK YOUNG

Would you believe George Steinbrenner does not want clubhouse photos taken of Yankees with bare chests showing? How can you, Marvin Miller, tolerate this invasion of macho by management?

Adrian Dantley, whose size was questioned when drafted for NBA, turned out to be plenty big enough, plenty good enough. He's stickout for Rookie of Year, and first frosh to average 20 points since Sidney Wicks at Portland five years ago.

Bobby Murcer's early clutch hitting making Chi fans forget peeve about trade-off of Bill Madlock. Eric (Don't Call Me Harry) Rasmussen being called "Eric the Hat" by smarty-pants opponents.

George Foreman fires managers faster than Charley Finley. Now Big Geo. has unloaded Gil Clancy and is going back to his first love, Dick Sadler. What Foreman really needs is something or someone to build up stamina so he can go more than four rounds with punchpower.

YOGI SPOTTED SOMETHING
Yogi Berra: "From what I saw in Florida, Jon Matlack isn't throwing right."

ABC going ahead with plans to TV All-Evangelista, a Don King promotion, May 16. Evidently WBA and WBC rating of Evangelista isn't phony enough to scare off network. Irony: Ring Mag, whom ABC has indicted, doesn't have Alfredo Evangelista in top 10.

Explanation: ABC has $3 million tied up in that three-hour card, which features fights with Alfredo Escalera and Roberto Duran. Fine job on ABC playoffs being done by CBS, which switches from one game to another to bring fans peak action. Kareem playing one-man zone but refs won't call it.

Don King's Moment of Truth: "I've been in the numbers game. I've had my house blown up by dynamite. Let me tell you, the numbers game is Sunday school compared to the boxing game!"

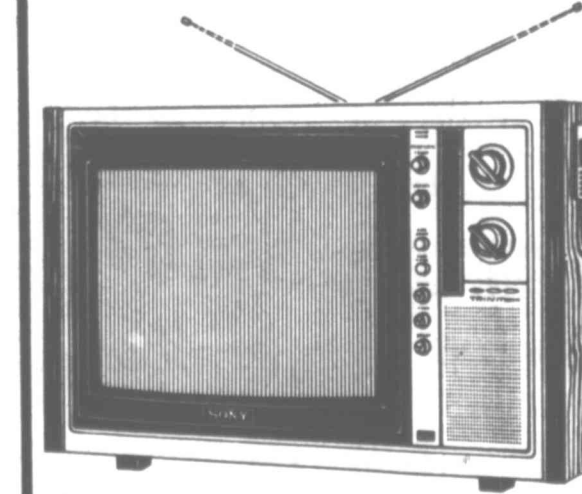

Al Davis, brainy boss of Oakland's NFL champs, says instant replay cameras for disputed plays are five years away. More sophisticated lenses needed.

Mickey Duff, British boxing promoter, can't believe U.S. laws permitted CBS to tie up Olympic champ Howard Davis to four-year contract. Pact calls for eight fights first year, six each of next two, four fights the fourth. Total, 24 bouts paying him $2.2 million. That puts network in fight promotion-managing biz, leading Duff to ask: "Where are your Justice Department and FCC?"

John Condon of Madison Square Garden asks this question: How can independent fight promoters compete (1) with nations (2) with networks in bidding for bouts.

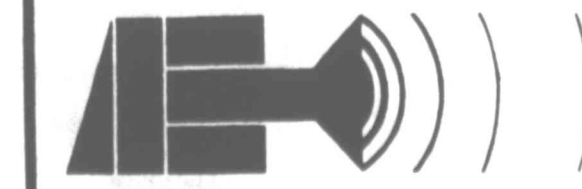

JACKIE AND THE PREACHER MAN
I went to meeting involving Dr. James Nicholas' Institute for Sports Medicine, which stages Sinatra concert at Carnegie Hall Wednesday night. Jackie Onassis was there. She remembered being inquiring photog for Washington Post some 25 years ago. Dodgers stopped off for exhibition on way up from Florida. Jackie took some pix of players, in lobby of Shoreham Hotel. "I was horrified when one of my flash bulbs exploded in Preacher Roe's eyes I thought I had ruined his career," she recalls. Jackie sends her best to you, Preach.

Not so long ago there were two of you. Now there are three, and you can almost see your baby grow from day to day. You get to thinking about it. Soon he'll be walking, talking, asking questions.

Are you ready to answer them? Or, are you confused? Wondering the way the world is going, just where it is going to go?

The Church isn't going to give you a set of printed answers. But it will give you something much more valuable. It will help to start working out those answers for yourself.

Try it.

Methodists set Webb Sunday

The First United Methodist Church announced this week that the Council on Ministries has set aside May 22 as Webb Air Force Base Day in the life of the church.

The purpose of the day is to express the church's appreciation to those associated with Webb who "have been so important to us in the life of our church and to say farewell to those who will be leaving early for other assignments."

No Catholics to join clan

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Reacting to reports of a resurgence of the Ku Klux Klan in the nation's capital, William Cardinal Baum, Roman Catholic archbishop of Washington, has forbidden Catholics to join it.

Former pastor honored here

The Rev. Robert McErment, formerly associated with St. Thomas Catholic Church here, was back visiting Big Spring friends this week.

He was the guest of honor at a reception Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Walter Ross. Mrs. Harold Talbot and Mrs. Fred Hyer assisted with hostess duties.

The refreshment table was centered with golden Dutch iris. Silver and china appointments were used to serve cake, coffee, party candies and nuts.

A number of close friends of the honoree attended the event.

Special choirs will be featured each night. Friday night the youth choir will be singing. Sunday night, the children's choir is featured.

Pastor O.D. Robertson extends a cordial invitation to everyone.

Presbyterian women set luncheon

The women of the Church of the First Presbyterian Church will hold a luncheon on Monday, May 2 at 12 noon in Fellowship Hall.

Women are asked to bring any dish except a dessert. The birthday objective will be discussed and the offering taken for 1977.

Mrs. Ruth Unger, Midland, Presbyterian birthday interpreter, will be the speaker after the luncheon.

Women of First Church, St. Paul and Coahoma Presbyterian are invited to attend. A nursery will be provided.

Christian Church hosts meeting

May Fellowship Day will be celebrated on May 6 by Church Women United at 10 a.m. at First Christian Church.

The theme for this year's service is "Gifts to Claim," — God offers many gifts to us but ours is the choice of whether we will receive them or not.

The Rev. Bill Smythe, minister of First Christian Church, will be the speaker.

Since the first May Fellowship Day in 1933, it has been traditional for church women to come together on the first Friday in May to emphasize the creative and healing relations that are possible among people in the 2,000 communities where Church Women United is organized in local units. Mrs. Darrell D. Fellows, of First Christian Church, is president of the Big Spring Unit.

First woman

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Rev. Betty Bone Schies, among the first women ordained Episcopal priests in 1974 and whose orders were regularized in 1977, has been named chaplain at large at Syracuse University's Hendricks Chapel.

Electronic age due in churches

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Christianity is entering a new era of electronic communication, signaling the beginning of the "greatest evangelistic effort in the world's history," says the Rev. Paul M. Stevens, president of the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission.

The Solid Rock
200 W. 3rd 263-7611

THE ORDER OF RESURRECTION

But now Christ has been raised from the dead, the first fruits of those who are asleep.

For since by a man came death, by a man also came the resurrection of the dead.

For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ all shall be made alive.

But each in his own order: Christ the first fruits, after that those who are Christ's at His coming.

THEN COMES THE END....

Therefore, my beloved brethren, be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that your toil is not in vain in the Lord.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 30, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until mid-afternoon there are some limitations in the path of your efforts to get things done but by evening conditions improve. Make plans for cooperative ventures with others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle routine duties early and then later you'll have time for recreation. Take the health treatments you need.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) During spare time engage in creative work that is lucrative and satisfying. Show more kindness to the unfortunate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study your surroundings and make long-range plans for improvement. Take time to engage in your favorite hobby.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have to make certain changes with associates if you want operations to be more profitable in the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make sure you know all the facts and figures before you invest or spend any money. Enjoy hobbies with congenials in spare time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you are more objective you can clear up a problematical affair. Adopt a different attitude where money is concerned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Private anxieties could make the daytime difficult if you don't do anything about them. Be careful not to spend money unwisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Steer clear of persons who like to waste your time and concentrate on gaining personal goals. Be wary of those who lie.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A civic matter could prove depressing now, so postpone such activity for another time. Avoid arguments with friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 30) Know what your desires really are and then take right steps to gain them. Evening can be very pleasurable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 19) Handle important responsibilities during the day, even though they are boring. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't let some public disorder get you down. Take it in your stride. Avoid an opponent who wants to cram your style.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be precise and proper in just about everything and should be encouraged in this, but upon reaching maturity there will be much interest in financial matters. Religious training is important early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

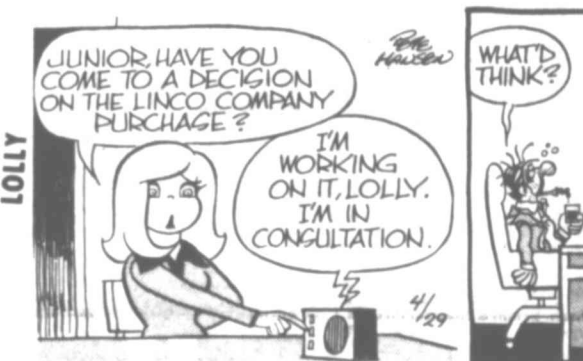

POOCHIE---WHY DON'T YOU WATCH WHERE YOU WALK?

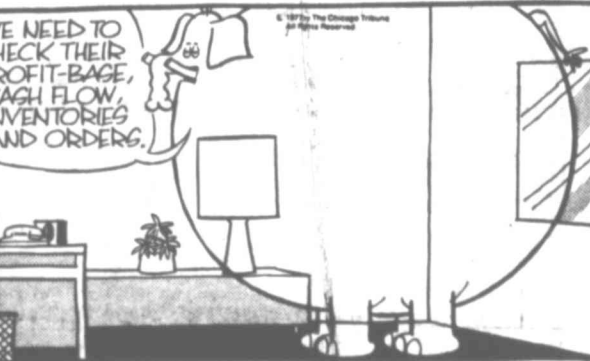

I'D LIKE TO CASH MY HUSBAND'S PAYCHECK. I'M SORRY BUT I HAVE NO WAY OF KNOWING YOU'RE THIS MAN'S WIFE.

OF COURSE I'M HIS WIFE! IF I WERE SOMEBODY ELSE, DON'T YOU THINK I'D KNOW IT?

JUNIOR, HAVE YOU COME TO A DECISION ON THE LINCO COMPANY PURCHASE?

I'M WORKING ON IT, LOLLY. I'M IN CONSULTATION.

WE NEED TO CHECK THEIR PROFIT-BASE, CASH FLOW, INVENTORIES AND ORDERS.

WHAT'S THINK?

IT LEAPS TO THE EYES, PAULINE! SHE IS MAKING A VERY IMPORTANT DECISION!

HAVE YOU OBSERVED PIERRE? ... MADAME WORT' IS VERY THOUGHTFUL THESE DAYS!

I SEE, WELL, NOW, I SURE DO APPRECIATE YOUR TELLIN' ME.

AN' I FEEL LIKE I REALLY SHOULD DO SOMETHIN' T' SHOW MY GRATITUDE...

SO I RECKON I WILL!

WHILE PAW AIN'T LOOKIN', I'LL HIDE MY BUTTER-AN'-EGG MONEY IN MY SHOE ---

-- AN' DON'T YOU GO WAGGIN' YORE TONGUE ABOUT IT!!

CHIEF, I SUPPOSE YOU KNEW MR. FARGO.

YES, DIED LAST NIGHT... HEART ATTACK.

YESTERDAY MR. FARGO ASKED ME TO BE PRESENT WHEN HE WAS GOING TO TELL HIS FAMILY HE WAS CUTTING THEM OUT OF HIS WILL.

HE EXPECTED THEM TO BLOW THEIR TOPS. IF HE TOLD THEM LAST NIGHT, COULD IT HAVE TRIGGERED HIS HEART ATTACK?

THAT SO?

OH, I DON'T THINK SO. I TALKED TO JUNIOR FARGO. HE DIDN'T MENTION A WILL, OR ANY TROUBLE.

HEY... THAT'S THE FIRST TIME YOU'VE EVER COMPLIMENTED ME, COACH!

EVEN THOUGH WE LOST YOU PLAYED A FINE GAME, ERNIE!

YEAH... WELL... IT'S TOO BAD THE REST OF THESE TURKEYS CAN'T PUT IT TOGETHER!

ERNE... I WONDER IF YOU'D DO ME A FAVOR?

A FAVOR? ME?

YEAH... MISS CLOVER'S SOFTBALL TEAM IS HAVING PROBLEMS AT 2ND BASE... THE GIRL CAN'T FIELD... WOULD YOU HELP HER?

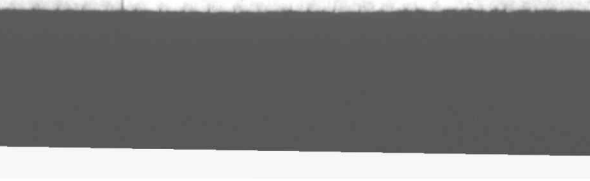

It's okay, Clovia!

I acted like a dunce!

I even let him kiss me!

That'll make it well!

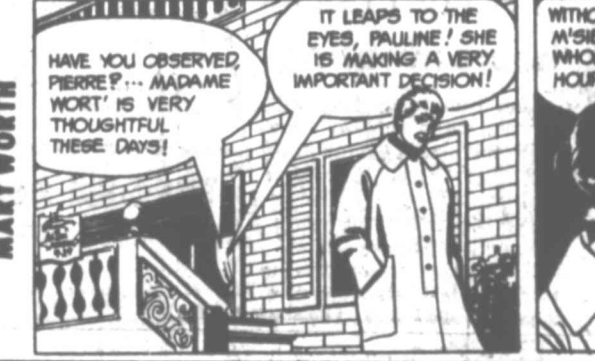

Thank you, Slim!

WHERE IS THE WIZARD?

WHY ASK ME?

YOU'RE THE FIRST MUNCHKIN I'VE RUN INTO

I DON'T GO FOR THAT SORT OF CONVERSATION!

IT DOESN'T LEAVE MUCH -- IF I TALK ABOUT OTHERS I'M A GOSSIP AN' IF I TALK ABOUT MYSELF I'M A BORNE

WANNA DRIVE YOUR HUSBAND BANANAS?

Carter may forget your birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter White House has adopted tough new standards of eligibility for people who want to receive a birthday greeting from the President. It's part of a continuing economy and austerity campaign.

Until Jimmy Carter took office, you could write to the White House and report that Grandma or any other relative or friend had a birthday upcoming. Provided the individual was at least 80, a congratulatory presidential letter would be dispatched.

Carter's economizers contemplated the prospects of mailing out thousands of such letters each year and decided it was time to cut back.

In the Carter White House, birthday greetings now are sent only to those who are at least 100. Carter will continue the practice of sending greetings to couples observing golden wedding anniversaries.

The Sand Springs Lions Club will sponsor a Mop and Broom Sale from 10 a.m. Saturday throughout the day.

Members will canvass the area selling mops and brooms and a permanent sales spot will be set up at Marshall Day's Body Shop on the South Access Road to Sand Springs. The proceeds from sales will be used for a number of community projects.

Energy $2 gas won't stop most drivers

HOUSTON (AP) — A university survey shows the majority of Texans would continue to use their cars for work or family driving even if gasoline cost $2 a gallon.

The survey results released Thursday by the University of Houston's Institute for Urban Affairs and Energy Institute quoted 62 per cent of those polled as saying they would continue driving if the price of gasoline rose above $2 a gallon.

Dr. David Gottlieb, dean of the university's social science college and head of the opinion survey, said the poll involved 500 persons randomly selected to represent the economic, racial and geographic distribution of the state's people.

Many of those questioned in the telephone poll said they would have no choice but to drive. The 55 miles per hour national speed limit was endorsed by 78 per cent and 50 per cent favored cutting federal transportation and highway funds to states which do not endorse it.

Most said they support President Carter's plan for tax reductions for better home insulation and said they will buy more efficient cars if a "gas guzzler" tax is passed.

Those polled felt "the world is simply running out of fuel supplies." Nearly 60 per cent gave this as a major cause of the energy problem.

One out of two polled, felt a major cause was that "the United States has sent too much fuel overseas." Gottlieb said that showed how misinformed the public is, because the United States has exported virtually no fuel for years.

"The federal government has used the energy crisis to draw attention away from the real problems facing our nation," was agreed on by 42 per cent. Forty-nine per cent disagreed and the rest were undecided.

Asked if they heard at least one of Carter's two energy broadcast messages last week, 62 per cent said yes and 38 per cent said no. Gottlieb said this shows a high interest in Carter's energy policy.

Gottlieb said the poll was the first statewide poll taken since Carter's talks. He said it shows public awareness of energy problems is increasing. He said during the 1974 oil embargo, a similar poll showed less than three Texans in 10 believed the crisis was due to a growing long term energy shortage. Now 64 per cent believe the problem is real. Two years ago even more Texans thought the United States was still exporting oil, Gottlieb said.

The researcher said the changes in opinion have occurred mostly in the lower income and less educated part of the populous.

Deep port proposal draws mixed opinions

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. Corps of Engineers asked the citizens of Galveston Thursday for their opinions on developing a deep water port to handle the big supertankers and they got a "yes" answer from those interested in the economy of the island and a "no" from the environmentalists.

The hearing was the first of two to discuss the deep sea port that may be located between the islands of Galveston and Pelican. The testimony will be studied, and then citizens will be given another opportunity to air their views.

Col. John C. Vanden Bosch, district engineer for the Corps, told the gathering of about 250 persons that no firm decision had been reached on the proposal and it may be 1982 before final plans are drafted.

He said that many persons ask how the Corps of Engineers decided between the economics and the environment and he answered, "Carefully."

"The colonel said the Corps 'is required to balance the economic impact with the environmental concern.'" Charles Devoy, general manager of the Port of Galveston, said, "A deeper port will pay off in bigger payoffs for our citizens. Dependency on the port now is about 80 per cent of the Galveston economy. With a deep water port it would mean even more. If the economy of Galveston and the area is to be stimulated, it must be by attracting new cargoes."

Sharon Stewart, an official of the Texas Environmental Coalition, told the hearing, "Supporters say the deep port would create new jobs. They have not considered that a large oil spill from a super tanker could adversely affect a far larger number of jobs in the fishing industry. A deepening of the channel would endanger animal and plant life, and, remember, there is always a potential for disaster."

Letters from Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., and Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., were read at the hearing, both supporting the deep water port.

Brooks said in his letter, "We must not suffer from shortsightedness. There clearly is a need for a deep water port while protecting the environment at the same time."

than ever dependent on oil imports. Bookout spoke at Shell's annual meeting, during which stockholders approved a two-for-one stock split effective May 16 to shareholders of record May 6.

He expressed doubt that some of Carter's energy conservation proposals can be achieved within the specified time frame.

"Also, we are concerned the proposals do not go far enough," he said.

Rather than imposing taxes on gasoline to cut consumption in the transportation sector, he said, a free energy market would curb gasoline use through higher costs and at the same time provide oil companies revenue they need to explore and develop new reserves of oil and gas.

The support programs, actually costing about $400 million now, are triggered by favorable worldwide weather that reduces the demand and the price for U.S. crops. About two-thirds of the present costs come from peanut and tobacco supports, both long above world prices by law.

The second type of support, rates for crop loans, is considered the price floor in the domestic and exports markets for the grains. They are also more familiar to farmers because so few target-price payments are made.

Plan to provide oil firms additional revenue backed

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of Shell Oil Co. says emphasis on energy conservation without sufficient supplies leaves "no room for error" in President Carter's energy program.

John F. Bookout said Thursday if voluntary conservation efforts fail and new domestic reserves remain unexplored, the nation will find itself more

Farm Carter close to win

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee is falling in step with President Carter on price supports, but the committee's Senate counterpart is still far above him.

Using proxy votes collected overnight, the House committee chairman, Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., Thursday swung his panel in Carter's direction on supports for wheat and corn, the two most important crops.

While the Senate panel is close on a corn support figure, Carter is still trying to get the committee to cut its wheat support price.

Because millions of acres of the two grains are planted each year, those crops have the biggest potential for upsetting the President's budget.

A 1.2 billion-bushel wheat surplus has built up from the last harvest and already depressed prices enough to trigger the support.

Corn prices are not expected to fall that low, but administration spokesmen say Carter's aim is to keep supports near or below the market to avoid a drain on the budget.

Last week, a House subcommittee approved levels that could have totaled $6.2 billion and thrown off the President's budget.

The subcommittee head, W. R. Poage, D-Tex., Thursday asked the full committee to adopt levels much closer to Carter's. The motion was failing, 12 to 20, when Foley cast the proxy votes of 13 absent Democrats for Carter's position.

"I was fearful of Mr. Poage was fearful that the subcommittee levels would strongly invite a veto," Foley said later.
