Pentagon skeptical about energy beam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials are skeptical of a report which says recent technical breakthroughs soon may give the Soviet Union the ability to use energy beams to destroy missile warheads.

Senior U.S. defense officials said they do not believe Russia has achieved research breakthroughs with high-energy particle beams capable of neutralizing U.S. missiles.

The report, published by Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine Monday, said that such an ability could upset the balance of power.

"Based on all information now available to the U.S. intelligence community, this possibility is considered remote," the Pentagon said.

Dry West Texas saving water for lush California?

It seems like a paradox. West Texans asked to conserve water for Californians. Dry, dusty West Texas and green, lush California. But that's the policy at Denny's Restaurant, where you can only get a glass of cold water by asking for it.

"As you know, Denny's is a California-based chain," explained manager Richard Matthews. "And this idea, which could save millions of gallons each month, was handed down to all Denny's from the national headquarters."

Northern California is presently gripped by a severe drought, with water rationing and other measures in effect to conserve the precious liquid.

"This is part of a nationwide effort by several chains," continued Matthews. "We're trying to aid conservation. Recent studies show the U.S. may be running out of water, so we're trying to conserve for the people of tomorrow in the states that happen to have plenty, like Texas and Colorado."

"We also are trying to maintain our motto that nothing changes from Denny's to Denny's."

Plenty of water in West Texas? It has been a bumper year. According to Joe Pickle at the Colorado Municipal Water District, the lake reserve is slightly better than last year, "and it was good then." Additional wells have increased capabilities and the whole system is in good shape.

"We're just trying to help mankind out a little bit," said Matthews. "So when you go to Denny's, help mankind out a little. There may be water, water, all around, but don't ask for a drop to drink unless you need it. Californians may be grateful."

Andra Hohertz wins two-state queen title

For the first time in the history of the Big Spring High School Key Club, its club sweetheart was elected Miss Texas-Oklahoma Key Club Sweetheart.

ANDRA HOHERTZ

Andra Hohertz, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daryle Hohertz, was selected to the honor at the international convention held in Oklahoma City.

Each of 250 clubs in the district of Texas and Oklahoma selected two girls to represent them in the sweetheart contest.

Pictures of the 500 girls were sent to a committee to be judged by state officers and lieutenant governors. Following the judging, 15 finalists were invited to the bi-state meeting for the final contest.

Andra received a symbolic key with the inscription "To Key Club Sweetheart" and a bouquet of roses.

Her title reserves her the right to attend the national convention in Kansas July 1. She also will travel throughout Texas and Oklahoma to observe the various key clubs.

Andra expressed appreciation to the eight key clubbers who escorted her to the Oklahoma convention. Mark Taylor of Big Spring was retired as the '76-77 lieutenant governor of Division 22 and Scott Campbell named as his successor. Tim Hunnicutt received an award as outstanding club secretary and Taylor received a certificate for having 100 per cent reporting in Division 22.

If you count only money, kids are a big loss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most parents don't expect to gain economic benefits or security from their children, a researcher says. And that's a good thing, because from a financial point of view, kids are a loss.

It costs a middle-income family $53,605 to raise a child to age 18 and a total of $64,215 to raise the child and put him or her through four years of college at a state university, according to Thomas J. Espenshade, an associate professor of economics at Florida State University.

That's in direct costs, including food, clothing, peanut butter, band-aids and everything else. It doesn't include the $107,000 in "lost" earnings if the mother in a middle-income family gives up a part-time job to stay home with the child until age 14.

The costs are a little less steep for low-income families: $35,261 to raise a child to age 18 and a total of $44,156 to send the child to a four-year public college.

Espenshade's estimates are based on Department of Agriculture data and 1977 prices. Middle-income is defined as a family with income between $16,500 and $20,000 a year after taxes. A low-income family needs between $10,500 and $13,500 after taxes.

Espenshade's report, "The Value and Cost of Children," was published in the April bulletin of the Population Reference Bureau, Inc., a Washington-based research organization.

In a study of several hundred couples in Hawaii, Espenshade found that 94 per cent of the white middle-class parents "said they did not expect to rely at all on their children in old age." And 73 per cent of the white lower-income parents gave the same response.

Asked about the advantages of children, nearly three-quarters of the parents cited happiness, love and companionship. More than half also pointed to their own personal development and child rearing satisfactions.

Asked to list disadvantages, 71 per cent cited restrictions on other activities, 59 per cent cited emotional costs and 46 per cent cited financial costs. In each instance, the middle-income parents "were proportionately more likely to see these as disadvantages." Espenshade said the first child is the most expensive to raise, costing roughly twice as much as the second or the third.

The first child is more expensive because parents may buy a larger house, and they also buy nursery equipment, toys, and clothes used by succeeding children.

His cost estimates are up more than 60 per cent from a 1969 study that pegged the cost of raising a child through college at $39,924 for the middle-income family and $27,109 for the low-income one.

The biggest expense in childraising is housing, which accounts for 32.3 per cent. Food is 24.3 per cent; transportation 16.1 per cent; clothing 9.5 per cent; medical expenses 5.3 per cent; education 1.5 per cent and all other expenses 11 per cent.

He also noted that one study predicts that by the 1990s, when today's infants will be ready for college, the cost for four years at a state university will be $47,330 and $82,830 at a private university.

these are not disclosed to the public.

Under the Carter bill, a person who leaves government would be barred by law from making informal as well as formal contacts with the agency that once employed him for a period of two years rather than the present one year if the matters involved in such contacts had been under his responsibility.

The legislation also would initiate what Carter termed "a new and broader ban on formal or informal contact on other matters with agencies of former employment, for a period of one year after the end of government service."

The proposed office of government ethics would be headed by a director appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Carter plans ethics panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter asked Congress today to pass a new ethics law to "establish far-reaching safeguards against conflicts of interest and abuse of the public trust by government officials."

In a special message, Carter also announced his support for pending legislation to have a specially empaneled court appoint a "temporary special prosecutor to handle cases of misconduct by high-ranking, executive branch officials" if such cases arise.

Finally, the President called for the creation of a new Office of Government Ethics in the Civil Service Commission, saying, "an effective oversight office is essential if strict ethical requirements are to be enforced throughout the government."

Carter, who will submit proposed legislation later, said his ethics bill would codify the standards required of his own appointees and extend their coverage to high-ranking career officials.

Under the administration plan, all policy-making employees would publicly disclose income, whether earned or from investments; gifts, including travel, lodging, food and entertainment; assets, liabilities and financial transactions, and positions held in business and professional organizations.

At present, policy-makers must file statements of financial interest, but

AFTER ALL-NIGHT FILIBUSTER — Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, was still on his feet Tuesday morning following an all-night filibuster to stall action on a bill by Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, (left). The bill prohibiting firms from compiling computerized lists of workers' compensation claims.

Sen. Meier filibusters 18 hours Focalpoint

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, talked on and on today, sometimes stifling a yawn, in the first extended filibuster of the 65th Legislature.

At 9:20 a.m., the North Texas legislator passed the 18-hour mark in his attempt to change a bill that would keep firms from making computerized lists of workers' compensation claims before the Industrial Accident Board.

"This in effect would be granting an exception to the Open Records Act," said Meier to an almost empty Senate chamber.

Meier stood tall and straight, his voice vibrant and clear, amplified by a microphone around his neck. He kicked off his shoes and word a pair of blue cloth house slippers.

At his feet, assistants stacked about 100 law books each one marked with a citation Meier might want to read to back his arguments. One said the senator gave them 231 citations to obtain from the legislative law library.

Occasionally a senator would ask a long question, but Meier, under Senate rules, could not leave his desk or even lean on it.

As a new day began on the filibuster, Meier was still far short of the individual filibuster record of 42 hours and 33 minutes — set by Dallas Sen. Mike McKool in 1972.

Meier, D-Eules, began stalling at 3:20 p.m. Monday on a bill prohibiting firms from compiling computerized lists of workers' compensation claims.

212 summer jobs offered by CETA

The Big Spring Summer Employment Program promises to be bigger than ever this year.

Under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) the city will be provided with $214,712 in federal funds to help 212 people in the Big Spring area seek a variety of opportunities. The program will be aimed at low income, disadvantaged youth from the ages of 14 to 21.

"The idea of the program is to break the cycle of unemployment. Just because a family has a history of unemployment, that doesn't mean that all the children are stuck in the same rut. We will provide the means to explore a number of possibilities that some young people may never have considered," said Nabar Martinez, program director.

Martinez stressed that possibilities will not be limited to the make-work or "picking up papers" variety. The task is to try to help three distinct groups, according to the program director.

These groups are: those who plan to continue in high school and college; dropouts who would like to complete their education; and those who are no longer in school who wish to find more rewarding employment.

"We will gear the program to the individual needs of the participants. For some this will mean help in passing a high school equivalency program. For others it will mean on-the-job training," said Martinez.

Martinez also pointed out the benefits of such a program to the community as a whole. In many cases participants will provide skilled labor in the private sector while the program provides as much as half of the hourly wage.

"I think we will help the private sector in a number of ways. The cost of training an individual will be greatly alleviated by the program, and the businesses in the community will end up with a skilled employe at a low cost. Besides, there is a direct correlation between the rise in crime and the rise in unemployment.

"But, what I really want to stress is that the participants' interest is the most important thing. We are investing in kids and the future of the community," said Martinez.

Those eligible must be low-income, disadvantaged youth as defined by the Department of Labor. When applying they must provide a statement of family earnings for the past 12 months, not including veteran's benefits.

Those under 18 years of age are urged to bring a parent with them when applying. All applicants must have a Social Security number.

Applications will be received at Municipal Auditorium from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on May 14, and again during the same hours on May 21.

For further information, contact a member of Human Resource Center at 263-8311 in City Hall.

Action/reaction: Blue law violation?

Q. One local furniture store stays open on Sundays, and other furniture stores do not. Does the firm violate the state Blue Laws?

A. The district attorney's office said that the law says that furniture cannot be sold on both Saturday and Sunday, but either day can be omitted. This store shows furniture on Saturday but makes no sales, but does make furniture sales on Sunday, according to a report from the D.A.'s office.

Offbeat: City Hall backside lost

ROCKWELL, Iowa (AP) — The Rockwell City Hall has lost its backside to progress.

When Dethlef Neve, mayor of this north-central Iowa community of 1,000, discovered the building was in the path of a proposed $13,800 maintenance shed, he ordered two city employes to cut through the roof and lop off the rear wall.

When city officials originally measured for the new building, they measured from outside a five-foot sidewalk on the edge of the city's property.

"We should have measured from the inside," said Neve.
By the time the mistake was discovered, it was too late to change the order for the new building, and the City Council had already let a contract calling for a May 15 completion date.

"At the next council meeting, we decided 'hell, no' to going through abstracts and claims to get more land," explained Neve. "We didn't have time in our contract to worry about lot lines."

Now, City Hall sits with a snow fence guarding the open east end. A dog has been chained to the building to act as a night sentry, and the City Council is holding its meetings in another building.

The rest of City Hall is scheduled to be razed this summer to make room for a $65,000 civic center.

Inside: Pastor admits sinning

A CHURCH governing board is considering the fate of the pastor of the Garfield Park Reformed Church in Michigan, who pleaded innocent to a charge of soliciting a prostitute. An assistant pastor says the minister's temptation was a direct assault from the devil on the congregation and that the church's ability to forgive is being tested. See p. 3A.

HANLEY RETURNS — Former labor organizer Tom Hanley was handcuffed as he talked with newsmen following his return from Phoenix on Monday. FBI agents arrested Hanley and his son, Gramby, 38, in Phoenix last Thursday. Both men are charged with murder and kidnaping in the death of Las Vegas labor leader Al Bramlet, but the elder Hanley said Bramlet was one of his best friends.

Odessan death upheld

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today upheld the death sentence of James Paul Burns of Odessa, who was convicted of robbing and beating to death G.W. "Pete" McDonald, 58, in August 1973.

Defense attorneys asked for a reversal for several reasons, but the appeals court said it found no reversible error.

Testimony showed that Burns and two other men beat McDonald and left him to die in a caliche pit.

Joint produces 'phony'

TORONTO (AP) — Marijuana smokers who think a joint puts them in closer touch with other people's feelings are victims of the weed's distorting powers, a study indicates. In a test of warmth, empathy and genuineness, the stoned persons seemed "phonier" than those who did not smoke marijuana, a research team reported Monday.

Energy plan defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House energy adviser James R. Schlesinger today urged Congress not to tamper with major provisions of President Carter's energy program, which he called carefully balanced to "distribute benefits and burdens equitably" among Americans.

"Many groups will find in this bill provisions which will impose burdens or sacrifice upon them," said Schlesinger. "The temptation to seek exemptions from burdens and sacrifices will be very strong, but the United States will solve its energy problem only if it adopts a plan that is fair and any fair plan will impose burdens on everyone."

Schlesinger also told the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee that the President's proposal for a standby gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon, perhaps the single most controversial element of the program, "would provide a challenge to the American people to meet a common goal."

Noting that the tax would be levied in five-cent-a-gallon increments if gasoline consumption exceeds specified goals, Schlesinger said, "This represents the type of challenge Americans have been so successful in meeting in the past and will likely meet in the future."

Star testifies

BALTIMORE (AP) — Testimony by actress Carol Channing has led to the conviction of two men accused of stealing her $30,000 eggshell colored mink coat from a hotel suite last December.

The actress was the only witness in the non-jury trial of Dwight Dean, 20, and J.B. Elliott, 42, both of Baltimore.

Criminal Court Judge James A. Perrott declared both men guilty, but he delayed until June 2 deciding whether they were guilty of grand larceny or receiving stolen goods.

Miss Channing said she and her husband, Charles Lowe, were sleeping in an upstairs room of the suite when the coat was stolen. It was later recovered when two men tried to sell it on a street corner, police said.

Ireland tension grows

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Workers poured into Northern Ireland's factories, shops and offices today in defiance of a general strike called by militant Protestants in an attempt to force the British army to open an offensive against the Irish Republican Army. Although there was no interference with the stream of motorists and pedestrians going to work, threats were reported.

INS project under way

The Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) has begun an outreach program to help immigrants in a number of communities in the U.S.

The program will consist of a number of store-front centers operated by community organizations to provide immigration services in the nation's barrios and ethnic neighborhoods.

The INS will train volunteers from a variety of organizations in Washington, D.C. this week to assist aliens in applying for benefits available under the Immigration and Nationality Act. These benefits include petitions to bring a spouse or close relative into the United States, adjust a temporary status to a permanent and many others.

The training program will be conducted with the cooperation of two Hispanic organizations, Ayuda and the Council of Hispanic Agencies. The INS Hispanic advisory committee of which Commissioner Designate Leonel Castillo is a member, approved the program.

"The program is necessary because many Hispanics and members of other ethnic groups are not aware of the immigration laws or benefits they are entitled to. Or they lack the expertise necessary to fill out forms and may fall prey to unscrupulous persons who charge exorbitant fees for simple services," said Commissioner Leonard F. Chapman.

Loose ends in kidnap case probed

BRYAN, Tex. (AP) — FBI agents and local authorities, averring there still were some loose ends in the case, tried to piece together today what happened during the apparent kidnaping of a young St. Louis, Mo., woman and her 4-month-old son.

Federal Bureau of Investigation said late Monday night that Ethel McNier, daughter of a prominent Chattanooga, Tenn., physician, and her baby son were picked up Monday at a Bryan bank along with the alleged kidnaper. She and the infant, Howard McNier, had been missing for four days from St. Louis.

The FBI agent and Bryan police questioned Mrs. McNier and the man for at least six hours here Monday after they were picked up by police.

"We have some loose ends that we have to check," said Wiatt. "We still have some of the ball to unravel."

During the questioning Monday night, the baby was cared for by employees at the police station.

"We had to buy diapers and other things for the baby," said Police Chief Joe Ellis. "Some female employees did a lot of babysitting for awhile. Its mother came out to nurse it, however."

McNier said police learned about the case after she tried to get cash at a Bryan bank by using a credit card.

"An alert bank clerk called police and we took it from there," said Ellis.

First woman probation officer is appointed

The load of local probationers became too much for just one probation officer, according to state standards, so Jeanette Nichols has been appointed the first woman probation officer in Howard County.

The appointment, which was made by probation officer H. Guy Talbot, must still be approved by the Commissioner's Court, but makes Mrs. Nichols an officer of the court, empowered to sign transfers out of the county or state, take fingerprints, and perform field investigations where necessary.

She has been with the probation office since it opened in July, 1976, and has five years experience as a deputy district clerk.

"We appointed her assistant probation officer because we were going to need another officer soon," said Talbot, "and she's more familiar with the system and works better than anyone I could hire, even with a degree."

Talbot explained that

there has been a shift in emphasis on the state level from street enforcement to probation offices and local jails. This shift means that more funds will be available to probation offices, but they must conform to minimum state standards.

"Our average probationer," said Talbot, "is 19 years old, has been convicted twice, and has a 6th grade education. At Huntsville, they pay $5 per day to keep them, and two-thirds of them come back again. Through this probation program, the state will fund us 75 cents per probationer per day, and we can keep our delinquency level at around 25 per cent. The probationers, too, can hold jobs and try to become productive members of the community."

But the key phrase in there is minimum state standards. "We handle 300 probationers from district and county court. 190 of them are felony offenders," said Mrs. Nichols. "The state says that each probation officer can handle 75 cases, or not 'substantially' more than that. That means at least one more probation officer was needed to make this office conform to state standards and remain eligible for state funds."

Mrs. Nichols will be handling the same percentage of men and women probationers that Talbot does. "She'll pull her weight," he said.

Police beat Vandals stay busy

Burglars broke into the Wagon Wheel Drive-in, 1611 E. 4th, sometime between 2:30 and 3:30 a.m. today, but didn't steal anything.

Nonetheless, damage to the drive-in was extensive. The intruders broke in by kicking a hole in the wall of the men's room. They also tore apart a hot water heater inside. Total damage was estimated at $400.

Intruders with similar intent entered the home of Bobbie Harding, 4207 Walnut, sometime between 7:30 p.m. Sunday and 7:05 p.m. Monday. According to reports, the vandals broke in through the home's kitchen window, knocked a hole in the wall, and tore a mattress and a chair covering. Loss was estimated at $320.

Auto burglars stole $180 in checks and cash from a parked car belonging to Teresa Carr, 1212 E. 18th, between 3 and 4:30 p.m. Monday. According to reports, the car was parked either in front of Ms. Carr's home, or just outside of the circulation department of the Big Spring Herald when the theft occurred.

Guy Talamantez, 212 N.E. 10th, heard what he thought were gunshots while he lay in bed 4 a.m. Sunday. When he checked, 2:30 p.m. Monday, he found that a shot from a .22 cal. weapon had gone through a window of his home, and two slugs were imbedded in the side of his house. The vandals had also used a gun to break out the windshield of his pickup.

Damage was estimated at $115.

William Schmidt, 1504 Stadium, parked his motorcycle outside of 1600 Avion, 11:45 p.m. Saturday, and went inside for two minutes. When he returned his motorcycle helmet was missing. Loss was estimated

Tower, Bentsen split on issues

People representing Howard County and the area in the U.S. Congress, as usual, took divergent views on various pieces of legislation which came up for a vote in the two houses during the week of April 21-27.

A bill to appropriate $12.5 million to keep the armed forces' new medical school for training military doctors open another year.

A total of 250 in the House of Representatives voted for the legislation, 162 against it.

President Carter had recommending deleting the money and thereby terminating the controversial Bethesda, Md., facility, now under construction. With this vote, the House, in effect, agreed with the Senate that the money should be spent.

The vote occurred during consideration of the conference report on HR 4877, later adopted.

Cong. Omar Burleson of

Anson, who represents Big Spring and Congressional District 17 in Washington, voted "yes." Cong. Robert Krueger, who represents Glasscock County in the House of Representatives, balloted "nay."

The House rejected an amendment which would have placed military personnel under the congressional retirement system, doing away with the existing military retirement system, as proposed in HR 5970. Final vote was 148 for and 247 against.

Both Burleson and Krueger voted "nay" to help kill the amendment.

The Houses adopted by a vote of 225 to 184 an amendment to add $4.1 million in defense spending to a congressional budget master plan for fiscal year 1978.

Both Burleson and Krueger voted in support of the measure.

The Senate rejected a Republican amendment which would have enacted a permanent cut in income taxes. Final vote was 40 for and 59 against.

Sen. John Tower (Tex.) voted "yes" and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen (Tex.) balloted "nay" on the amendment.

The Senate adopted, 44 for and 31 against, an amendment providing an annual tax credit of $250 to a person who keeps an elderly dependent (65 years and older) in his home.

Tower voted "yea" and Bentsen "nay" on the matter. Bentsen argued that President Carter's economic stimulus package was an improper vehicle for such an amendment.

The Senate also rejected, 45 for and 48 against, an amendment related tax deductions allowed U.S. taxpayers attending conventions in foreign countries in North America.

Deaths

Fannie McCurley

Dec. 6, 1914 in Lusk. He preceded her in death Jan. 4, 1952.

Survivors include three sons, L.J. Jeter, Big Spring; Lloyd Jeter, Seymour; and Roy Don Jeter of Irving; two daughters, Mrs. Ada Lee Walton, and Mrs. Billie Jakubick, both of Seymour.

SEYMOUR — Mrs. Pearl Ann Jeter, 80, died Monday at the Seymour Hospital.

Services will be at 4 p.m. today at First Baptist Church in Seymour with Dr. Jerry Lemmons officiating. Burial will be in the Riverview Cemetery with Seymour Memorial Funeral Home in charge.

Born July 23, 1896 in Eastland County, she had resided in Baylor County since 1945. She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Seymour and a member of the Rebekah Lodge. She was married to Lloyd L. Jeter

HAPPY AFTER RELEASE — Mrs. Ethel McNier holds her four-month-old son, Howard, after the two were released following an alleged kidnaping in St. Louis, Mo. four days ago. Police have identified the alleged kidnaper as Dennis Oliver Ross, 26.

Water, sewer rate boosted

LAMESA — The minimum water, sewer and garbage rate was increased to $11 in action by the city council in a meeting Monday night.

Formerly the minimum monthly charge was $9. It is the first raise in many years within this department.

In other action, the city purchased a new radar unit for the city police. They also held the public hearing and approved the annual city budget.

The Board of Equalization members were reappointed, subject of their acceptance to the post. The council discussed the Permian Basin Regional high speed telecommunications to be set up within the region.

They also set plans to open bids May 16 for 60 more garbage containers and for garbage container sprayers.

They agreed to set the speed limit on Lynn Avenue at 40 miles per hour, rather than a varied 35 mph and 40 mph as it now stands.

The councilmen heard a representative of the Lamesa Little League discuss use of city parks during the league season.

The councilmen also authorized the Optimist Club's use of city facilities for their annual softball tournament June 24-26.

Cafe on lake road entered

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the burglary of the Breaker One-Nine Cafe on Moss Lake Rd. According to Becky Norris, 1408 Donley, $75 damage was done to two vending machines in the hall outside the main room. Several dollars in change were taken. The incident apparently happened Sunday night.

Donley fights

Roger L. Donley is in custody in the Lincoln County Jail in Star City, Ark., on a warrant issued April 27 from Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena's office. Donley has refused to waive extradition on the unauthorized use of a motor vehicle charge.

John Masters

Funeral for John T. Masters, 83, who died at 6 a.m. Monday in a local hospital, will be at 2 p.m., Wednesday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Official will be Chaplain Clayton Hicks of the VA Hospital. Burial will be in Mount Olive Memorial Park. Pallbearers will be Dr. Otto Wolfe, Cecil Leatherwood, M.H. Boatler, Toots Mansfield, Ross Hill, Cecil Long, W.E. Hanson, Charlie Creighton and C.A. Walker.

Cory Hoover

COLORADO CITY — Cory Michael Hoover, one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Hoover of Colorado City, died at 12:30 a.m. Monday in an Abilene hospital after a brief illness. Graveside services were held at 11 a.m. today at the Colorado City Cemetery.

The Rev. Bob Grayson, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, officiated. Burial was directed by Kiker-Seale Funeral Home.

Carrie Turner

LAMESA — Services for Mrs. Carrie Mae Turner, 78, of Lamesa, were held at 11 a.m. today in the First United Methodist Church here with the Rev. Dorman Kinard, Baptist minister, officiating, and the Rev. Ray Elmore, of Roscoe, assisting.

Pastor led down primrose path

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The professional future of a pastor who admitted sinning but pleaded innocent to a charge of soliciting a prostitute will be weighed by his church's governing board.

The Rev. Robert Bast, pastor of Garfield Park Reformed Church for six years, is on a 30-day leave of absence while his congregation's elders decide whether to accept his resignation.

The 41-year-old minister was arrested Thursday night by two policewomen posing as prostitutes. Twenty-one other persons — including an assistant high school principal, a school teacher and an executive for a truck repair firm — also were arrested in the police crackdown on prostitution along downtown Grand Rapids' Division Street.

The Rev. Mr. Bast pleaded innocent on Monday to the charge, a misdemeanor which carries a maximum 90-day jail term and a $100 fine.

In an appearance Sunday before a hushed and tearful congregation, the minister said in a shaking voice, "It would be foolish to pretend this is just another Sunday. My heart is so full of shame that I cannot look at you."

The Rev. Paul Fox, an assistant pastor who preached Sunday's sermon after the Rev. Mr. Bast finished his remarks, contended the temptation of the minister was a direct assault by the devil on the congregation. He said the church's ability to forgive was being tested.

The Reformed Church is an offspring of the Dutch Reformed church of the Netherlands. Its doctrines originate in the teachings of John Calvin.

realize that that's not too difficult to happen."

After saying that he hoped any news reporters among the congregation would treat his remarks as a "confidential conversation between myself and this congregation," the Rev. Mr. Bast read a prepared statement rebuking himself for sinning.

As he finished, the audience in the crowded church rose and heartily applauded.

"He gave his confession and he received widespread support throughout the congregation," commented Gaylord Anderson, vice president of the church's governing body. Anderson said that group will meet next Tuesday to decide their pastor's fate.

Church officials said there was no contradiction in the courtroom plea of innocence and the pastor's admission in church that he had sinned.

Mondale maps strategy talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale will lend U.S. support to British efforts to smooth transition to a black majority government in Rhodesia when he meets later this month with South African Prime Minister John Vorster.

Mondale, in his role as the Carter administration's African expert, will not be taking any new American initiatives to Vienna where he is to meet with the South African leader, administration sources report.

Plans for the vice president's European trip, which will include stops in Yugoslavia, London, Spain and Portugal, were expected to be officially announced today.

The trip will be his second since taking office, a reflection of the increased role being given to the vice president, particularly in the foreign policy field.

President Carter in March assigned Mondale the task of overseeing development of U.S. policy toward Africa. The vice president has been spending time recently reviewing developments there with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young and Carter's national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski.

Three days after Mondale and Carter were sworn in, Mondale embarked on a 10-day trip to Western Europe and Japan for talks with allies.

Mondale's next trip was described as still in the planning stage. There were no plans for him to go to Africa from Europe.

In Vienna, the vice president will hold strategy talks with Vorster, going over plans for, among other things, black rule in Rhodesia. They will also discuss Namibia, the predominantly black territory controlled by South Africa.

Vorster has said his government would not give in to pressure from the outside to push Rhodesia into accepting a joint Anglo-American plan for black majority rule.

The United States has supported the British effort, spearheaded by British Foreign Secretary David Owen, to arrange a Rhodesian conference. One source said Mondale's trip was to demonstrate U.S. backing for that effort.

David Aaron, Brzezinski's deputy and a former Mondale staff member, visited with Owen after the Briton returned from a tour of southern Africa. Vance will meet with Owen on Friday while accompanying Carter to the economic summit there. They will talk about prospects for a Rhodesian conference.

South Africa has been playing an important role in the Rhodesian situation. Rhodesia is economically dependent on South Africa and R.F. Bothe, formerly the South African ambassador here and now South Africa's foreign minister, has been working with the Carter administration.

Crime data cheers chief

LAMESA — Police Chief Lee Bartlett expressed pride this morning over the crime report for the month of April in this city.

Listed were one commercial burglary with $1,300 lost and recovered, three residential burglaries and seven auto thefts. Three juveniles and 12 adults were arrested to seize the auto thefts. Only the residential burglaries remain unsolved.

The month's report also showed a total of $2,416 worth of merchandise lost and $2,505 recovered, including some from the previous month.

Soviet trawler skipper guilty

BOSTON (AP) — The first Soviet fishing trawler seized for violating the new 200-mile limit is scheduled to go back to work in the North Atlantic this week after its captain pleaded guilty to breaking American laws.

The skipper, Aleksandr Gupalov, was given a nine-month suspended sentence and fined $10,000 Monday in U.S. District Court. The Soviet government agreed to pay the United States an additional $240,000 in other fines.

The captain's sentence was on a criminal charge of violating his fishing vessel's permit. The Soviet government was fined in a civil action which the U.S. government brought against it as owner of the ship.

The captain's plea cleared the way for the release of the 275-foot Taras Shevchenko. The ship and its crew have been confined to the Coast Guard base on Boston Harbor since the vessel was seized April 10 off Nantucket Island.

The ship was taken for catching more than its limit of river herring.

When it was brought to Boston, all the ship's cargo of frozen fish was unloaded to be weighed. On Friday, longshoremen began putting the legal part of the catch back aboard.

Gupalov appeared before Judge Andrew Caffrey, the same judge who blocked settlement of the case Friday by refusing to accept a plea of no contest by the skipper.

Thomas Edwards, the Russians' lawyer, said the ship would leave Boston as soon as the cargo is reloaded. After he pleaded guilty, the captain stood in the courtroom and said through an interpreter: "I did not intentionally violate the laws of the United States."

Weather Twister dances near Loraine

Rough weather subsided across Texas today and humid air enveloped most of the state. Patches of low clouds and fog covered many areas in early morning.

Before an onslaught of bristling thunderstorms died away a little after midnight, tornadoes menaced several localities and hail the size of golf balls battered some areas.

There were reports of twisters dancing past — but inflicting no harm — east of Austin near Bastrop, close to Sheldon in the Houston vicinity and 10 miles north of Loraine, which is between Sweetwater and Colorado City in West Texas.

Economic warfare concerns us all

What is happening in America right now is simply this:

Regional economic warfare. The battle is in the form of a national energy policy, as proposed in detail last week by President Jimmy Carter.

While the entire nation watches as the struggle begins to pass the program or revise it in Congress, Big Spring must be paying closer than average attention.

The decisions that will be made affect this region in several important ways:

—WILL THE federal government pass laws to control intrastate flows of natural gas? The government would then be able to make sure the shortage hits Texas too.

—Will there be continued control on petroleum prices? Carter has proposed that controls remain, and it seems unlikely that the few congressmen and senators from petroleum producing states can change this portion of the policy, despite their very strong arguments for doing so.

—Will there be incentives for more oil and gas exploration? This, of course, could have a great and immediate effect upon drilling Big Spring and the Permian Basin.

—Will the stand-by authority for up to 50 cents federal tax per gallon of gasoline become law? Since the distances force West Texans to drive more than in other parts of the country, this could have a profound effect here.

—Will the proposed tax on larger vehicles become law? The larger cars sell out here in West Texas with our long highways and high winds, uncrowded roads and few parking problems.

To the non-producing regions of the nation, government control at an increased level appears attractive. Looking only at the short term, a consumer in the North might see a policy on intrastate control as the best method for obtaining cheap natural gas supplies for next winter.

The non-producing regions have many more votes than do Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, so we will probably lose.

FOR YEARS, THEY have been, in effect, taking the oil and gas from Texas at cheap prices by passing laws. This form of legalized stealing forced oil and natural gas to be sold at prices much lower than a free market would have dictated, thus causing the precious resources to be used faster than they would have been if, say, coal could have remained competitive.

The congressmen from other states have the votes to keep this system of government regulation going, even growing.

The hope for this region lies only in the slim chance that Texans can convince the remainder of the country that:

1) No one defies the laws of economics forever, even the U.S. government. Or bigger than that, even the OPEC nations.

2) Continued or increased governmental regulation in this area will only add to shortages and wasting of petroleum and slow the day when economics and research can combine to make other forms of energy feasible.

But the odds of winning this argument are not good, especially given President Carter's approach which will be commented upon in this column tomorrow.

—J. TOM GRAHAM

Getting story straight

Around the rim

Troy Bryant

I've been silent on a particular today subject so far, but no longer.

I just can't let another week go by without putting my foot prints in the concrete about a subject close to everyone who grew up in Texas.

The subject is horny toads. I can think of no other animal in the state which is immersed in so much bull — some of it true and some of it false.

TAKE GEORGE FOR instance. George, a tenant of the southwest corner of my backyard, is a good friend of mine. He was named by my four-year-old daughter, Jan, one day while we were working in my yard. (Joe is another horny toad who lives in my front yard near the mimosa tree and there are at least five small horny toads who wander from place to place in my yard).

Old George got to see more of the world than most horny toads get to see Monday when I captured him to bring to work to show to a few acquaintances from a faraway land called Ohio who had never seen such a creature.

Right off I found out that George is not very fond of travel when he squirted blood all over my hand when I picked him up.

Most folks have heard that horny toads do that, but not many have actually witnessed it. My wife didn't believe it — until I showed her the watery blood all over my hand.

I always heard that they try to squirt the blood in your eye, and if they succeed, the blood will blind you.

I also heard that he squirts the blood from his eyes, but since I looked the other way when he started squirting (too keep from going blind), I didn't see actually where it came from.

Being more stubborn than George is, I finally got him to the office where the northerners said it was the weirdest thing they had ever seen.

I've also heard that horny toads have been sealed inside walls of courthouses and time capsules and have been found still alive in there 50 years later. I can't attest to the fact that it's so, but it could be. Honest people have sworn that they have seen it.

PERHAPS NO ONE has grown up in Texas without taking at least one summer to collect the animals and maybe perform "experiments" on them. I have perpetrated my share of the atrocities on the creatures, back when I "didn't know any better."

But some kids are still doing it 20 years later — and the only excuse for doing it in the first place (he doesn't know any better) is no longer valid.

As if that wasn't enough of a headache, some high-stepping university in Fort Worth had the nerve long ago to select the horny toad as its mascot. The only thing wrong with that is that they call him something he's not.

Who knows what a "horned frog" is. Sure, a horny toad is horned, but it isn't a frog (it's not a toad either, but let's not cloud the issue with facts).

So, long after the football "horned frogs" have been slaughtered by the horses, hogs, cows, cougars, bears, ruffians, aggies, and owls, they will be a protected species at my house.

The American dream

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — I walked into my son's room as he was stretched out on his bed watching a basketball game on television.

"Son," I said, "I'd like to talk to you about the American dream."

"Yes, Dad."

"REMEMBER WHEN I told you a few years ago that someday you would have everything you ever wanted in life, thanks to the American dream?"

"Yes, Dad," he said, "and I've been counting on it ever since."

"Well, son, I just heard President Carter talk about energy on TV and he said no one can count on the American dream any more. It's a whole new ball game, and we're going to have to make sacrifices and give up many things that we've gotten used to."

"Why us, Dad?" my son asked.

"Because we're consumers, son. We're using up energy faster than it can be produced. We're slothful, wasteful people who haven't given a thought to the future."

"But we're Americans, Dad," he said.

"I know. It's hard to believe Americans would do anything bad, but it turns out even America is running out of fuel much faster than we ever dreamed we would. No one ever thought it would happen to the good guys. Son, I don't know how to tell you this, but someday, when you become successful and achieve the wherewithal to enjoy the fruits of your labor, you will probably not be able to buy a large Cadillac."

My son bit his lip to keep from crying. "But you promised!" he cried.

"I KNOW I promised you a Cadillac but it isn't my fault I can't deliver. This country, despite its power and greatness, can no longer afford the luxury of gas guzzlers that only get 12 miles to the gallon. You're going to have to be satisfied with a smaller car which Detroit will have to make if we are to survive as a viable and free nation."

"How small?" he wanted to know.

"Very small," I told him. "But that isn't all. Someday you're going to get married and have a wife and children."

"I remember you telling me that," my son replied. "And you said that if I worked hard and married, well, I could have a heated swimming pool."

"Well, son, you can still have children, but by then I doubt if you can install the heated swimming pool."

"Why would I want kids if I can't have a heated swimming pool?"

"They can swim in an unheated pool. It's actually not bad when you get used to it."

"THE NEXT THING you're going to tell me is that when I grow up there won't be electric golf carts and I'll have to walk the entire 18 holes."

"It could come to that," I admitted, "though the President didn't mention anything about electric golf carts. There is a certainty, though, that our homes will be colder in the winter and hotter in the summer. And you may have to give up electrical appliances such as can openers."

"You mean I'm going to have to open up cans manually?"

"It can be done," I assured him.

"What about my stereo set?" he demanded.

"You could be limited to four speakers."

"What kind of American dream is that when each person can have only four speakers?"

MACNEILY THE IRONWORKS LABOR CATHY CHAGOTRANE

Itchilting calls for some detective work

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have occasional blotches on my face and was wondering what it is. They come out all of a sudden and itch very badly. It seems the only way I can get them to go away is to itch them really good, wait for the redness to go down, and then they are gone. It is a red mark with a white center. — N.J.

These could be hives, at least from your description. Since they occur only occasionally, a food sensitivity may be suspected. Try to recall items eaten before the attack, and that way to identify the offender. It would be something you do not eat regularly.

The scratching has nothing to do with their disappearance. That should be stopped lest you get an infection. A lotion such as calomine, with or without antihistamine, would be more effective.

Various body itches make up a sizable amount of the questions I receive from readers. It is often difficult to differentiate between allergic reactions such as hives from common irritation from chemicals, etc. Some folks are pretty fair medical detectives, I've learned.

One reader wrote recently to describe how he found the culprit giving him a body rash. He was in the habit of shampooing his hair while taking a shower. He stopped the practice and the itching disappeared. Apparently the irritant was in the shampoo and affected the non-scalp area, where it remained because of inadequate rinsing.

With many of these mysterious rashes each sufferer must become his own Sherlock Holmes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You have spoken in the past about smoking and various symptoms it can cause. What about leg cramps? Can one who smokes heavily get these cramps? — Mrs. O.R.

Faulty circulation can cause leg cramps, and nicotine in tobacco, for some reason, causes spasm of tiny arteries (capillaries), thus inducing leg cramps. In fact, I discuss this in my leg cramp booklet which you ordered. (Others may receive the booklet by sending 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son has Whipple's disease. His doctor said he hasn't heard of it since he went to medical school. Can you tell me what causes it, and is there anything that can be done for it besides an operation? — Mrs. R.L.

It is an uncommon illness, and would be even more unusual if your son is under 30. The usual age of onset is between 30 and 60. Another name for it is intestinal lipodystrophy.

Many organs, including the heart and lungs, can be affected, but the most serious effects are in the small intestine, where there is difficulty absorbing food, particularly fats. There are several accompanying symptoms, including arthritis, anemia, skin coloring, weight loss, and diarrhea.

The outlook is excellent thanks to antibiotics, which must be continued for from 10 to 12 months. Recovery usually follows. Surgery is not usually needed for this. I haven't heard from Whipple's disease myself for many years.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I will soon be 16 and would like to buy a bust developer. Are they safe and are they effective for firmness? — J.S.

Save your money. The breast develops from what goes on inside you, not by what you do to the outside. At 16 you can most likely expect further natural development. Watch your posture and do exercises to develop the chest muscles under the breast. That's where your firmness will come from.

If all else fails, department stores are filled with various bra styles that can work wonders. I've lost track recently, but the last time I checked smaller busts are in. Sooner or later you're bound to be in style.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To learn more about it, write for Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My son was raised in a Christian home and taught in Sunday school, but now as an adult he says he does not believe in God. This breaks my heart. I pray for him every day and have done so for two years, but still there is no answer. What more can do? — B.V.

DEAR B.V.: Pray. And make sure that the life you live reflects to your son the life of Christ within you.

In Samuel Rutherford's letters we come across one to Lady Culross with this bit of advice in it: "As for your son who is your grief, your Lord waited on you and me till we were ripe and brought us in. It is your part to pray and wait upon Him. When he is ripe, he will be spoken for."

The family unit is a very precious thing in the eyes of God. The Old Testament covenant was not only to the people of Israel but to their children also, "I will pour my spirit upon their seed, and my blessing upon thine offspring" (Isaiah 44:3).

In the first sermon to be preached after the Christian Church was founded, Peter said, "The promise is unto you, and to your children" (Acts 2:39).

There is a little plaque hanging above my desk with these verses on it: "Wait on the Lord . . . be of good courage . . . and he shall strengthen thine heart" (Psalm 27:14).

Incidentally, the prayer book version of that verse says, "O tarry thou the Lord's leisure." You may not live to see your prayer answered, but they will be. "He will not fail thee, nor forsake thee" (Deuteronomy 31:6).

With CIA's OK

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Some of the world's most sinister secret police are operating in the United States with the blessing of the Central Intelligence Agency. There is evidence that these foreign agents have arranged murders, committed burglaries, attempted kidnappings and terrorized political opponents in violation of U.S. laws.

In past columns, we have reported that the CIA has a secret understanding with such notorious foreign intelligence agencies as Chile's DINA, Iran's SAVAK and South Korea's KCIA. Not only does the CIA work closely with these police agencies; the agents operate within one another's countries by mutual consent.

NOW THE SENATE Foreign Relations Committee has quietly started an investigation into the activities of foreign intelligence agencies in the United States. The committee is particularly curious about the CIA's role in these activities.

On the House side, Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., has also asked the CIA to divulge the details of its reciprocal arrangements with foreign intelligence agencies. The CIA has refused to cooperate.

As far back as July 17, 1975, we published charges that the KCIA had terrorized Korean exiles, had set up illegal front groups to manipulate U.S. public opinion and had tried to buy off U.S. congressmen. We also cited documents from SAVAK's files as evidence that the Iranian secret police were intimidating opponents of the shah in this country. The documents included detailed instructions on how to burglarize homes and offices.

In our reports on the Chilean police, we warned on Nov. 16, 1975: "There is reason to believe that DINA has hired thugs to track down and assassinate prominent exiles." Ten months later, Chilean exile leader Orlando Letelier was blown up in his car on Washington's embassy row. Investigators are now convinced that DINA hired Cuban killers to murder Letelier.

As additional evidence, we have now obtained an explosive document from DINA's own files. It is a memo, dated Sept. 16, 1975, from DINA chief Manuel Contreras Sepulveda to Chilean President Augusto Pinochet.

THE MEMO REQUESTS "an additional allotment of $600,000 for the (DINA) budget." Among four reasons for the extra money, this was the most fascinating: "Additional expenses for the neutralizing of the principal adversaries of the Government Junta in the exterior, especially in Mexico, Argentina, Costa Rica, the United States, France and Italy."

We can only speculate of course, what the phrase "neutralizing of the principal adversaries" means. But the memo was followed by an assassination attempt against Chilean dissident Bernardo Leighton on the streets of Rome. Then Letelier was dynamited to death on the streets of Washington.

The FBI also learned of murder plots against two other Chilean exiles, Gabriel Valdes and Rodomiro Tomic, who were given protection.

We hand-delivered a copy of the DINA memo to the Chilean embassy in Washington and waited a week while embassy officials examined it. A spokesman then denounced the document as "completely false." He said Contreras' signature was a "forgery." The fact that the memo was not written on a DINA letterhead, the spokesman asserted, was additional proof that the document was a fabrication.

The memo was delivered to us by sources who have been reliable in the past. For three weeks, we painstakingly checked it with a number of sources including U.S. officials. They all agreed it not only appeared genuine but was consistent with their own intelligence information.

A DINA defector now in asylum in the Italian embassy in Santiago, according to competent sources has confirmed the authenticity of the memo. We have also had access to other DINA documents, which the Chilean government has acknowledged are authentic. These resemble the disputed document in every detail. Mine, incidentally, are not written on DINA letterhead.

Footnote: Interestingly, the document also requests "grants for officials of this department who are following courses in preparation of anti-guerrilla groups in the Training Center in the city of Manaus, Brazil."

LIMOUSINE COMFORT — President Carter is making life difficult for the limousine set. Not only has he deprived many government bigwigs of their chauffeur-driven limousines, but he has now ordered drivers to stop running their motors while they wait for their privileged passengers.

THE BIG SHOTS like their limousines to be warm in the winter and cool in the summer. Obliging chauffeurs usually idle the motors so the limousines will be comfortable when their bosses board them.

But a federal employe, writing to the National Suggestion Box, pointed out that both money and gasoline could be saved if the drivers shut off the motors.

'Annie' boffo at box office

Liz Smith

LEAPIN' LIZARDS! Never in my born days have I seen an audience go as wild with joy as the one that greeted the musical "Annie" at the Alvin Theater the other night. Roars and oceans of love swept up out of the seats onto the stage. So what can one say about the few curmudgeons who got up on the wrong side of the bed and were caustic about "Annie."

This Mike Nichols smash hit is one of the most delightful things ever, with an irresistible "chorus line" of little girls you'll want to eat with a spoon, a poised little star Andrea McArdle, a fabulous pooch for "Sandy," perfect actors including throaty multiple-role-playing Laurie Beechman filling every role. David Mitchell's sets are simply divine and all the Depression nostalgia is perfect, right down to the Lucky Strike green cigarettes. And — you'll never see another performance like Dorothy Loudon's rare and excruciating villainess of the orphanage, a woman who smokes and drinks on the sly and listens to Ma Perkins on the radio, all the while, hating little girls. Ms. Loudon makes body language into an art and always stops her hilarious comedy at the thin-edge before it teters into being too broad. She is a great talent, wickedly funny.

Laetrile evokes emotional charges

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The alleged anti-cancer agent Laetrile evoked emotional charges from its proponents at a court-ordered federal hearing that some described as a "kangaroo court."

"Do you really think," one witness asked, "that a quarter million physicians would let people die because they want to make money off them?"

"Yes, yes," members of the audience shouted back at him. "You said it."

The speaker was Dr. John W. Yarbro, a physician and biochemist at the University of Missouri-Columbia, testifying Monday at a hearing called by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration on the legal and scientific status of Laetrile.

The outburst to Yarbro's question exemplified the emotional nature of the hearing, with supporters of the substance jeering and heckling witnesses for the government who testified that Laetrile is worthless and toxic. The hearing was expected to last at least through today.

Laetrile, also known as amygdalin and vitamin B-17, has been promoted as an anti-cancer agent for about 25 years. It is derived from the pits of apricots, peaches and bitter almonds. The FDA was ordered by the U.S. 10th Court of Appeals to compile evidence on Laetrile, on behalf of a cancer patient seeking to obtain the substance.

Supporters of Laetrile, including such organizations as the Committee for Freedom of Choice in Cancer Therapy, argued that the FDA hearing was rigged, a "kangaroo court."

But, Dr. Bayard H. Morrison, assistant director of the National Cancer Institute, said, "There is no objective evidence that Laetrile has any effect either in animal tumor systems or in human cancers."

He said claims of Laetrile's effectiveness rest on "anecdotal and testimonial evidence."

The FDA says it has found no support for claims that Laetrile can prevent or cure cancer. Proponents said Laetrile is not a drug but a vitamin, and should not be subject to federal drug laws. Laetrile cannot be sold legally in the United States, but is smuggled in from Mexico, Canada and West Germany. There currently are efforts in a number of states to legalize it. Florida lawmakers passed a bill on Monday to permit use of Laetrile and Gov. Reubin Askew has said he will sign it.

Alaska recently legalized its use and the Indiana Legislature has overridden a veto by Gov. Otis Bowen, a doctor, of a bill permitting its use.

Florida legalizes drug

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida has become the third state to legalize the drug Laetrile, banned as worthless by a federal agency but touted by some as a cancer remedy.

The Florida Senate voted 36-3 Monday for a bill to allow doctors to administer Laetrile when requested by a patient.

The measure cleared the Florida House last week on a 110-9 vote. It now goes to Gov. Reubin Askew, who has said he will sign it.

Florida's action follows a vote by the Indiana legislature last Saturday to override the veto of Gov. Otis R. Bowen and approve a measure allowing the manufacture, sale and use of Laetrile.

Alaska had earlier passed a measure decriminalizing its use.

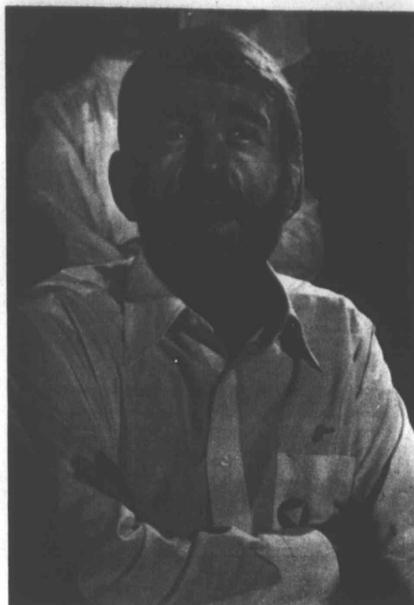

The legislature acted after cancer victims who claimed their lives had been saved by use of the drug demonstrated in front of the state capitol and crowded committee rooms in both chambers testifying to the curative powers of Laetrile.

Medical experts, including many from the American Cancer Society, are strongly opposed to legalization. They say Laetrile is worthless as a cancer cure.

Senate debate lasted only 10 minutes Monday with Richard Renick of Miami the only person speaking in opposition.

"A lot of people who could have been treated medically are going to die," he warned. "Cancer patients will be lulled into false hope that Laetrile is a cure-all."

BLASTS ANITA BRYANT — Singer-poet Rod McKuen blasted Anita Bryant at a news conference Monday at Miami's Gay Coalition headquarters, saying she was "spreading bigotry throughout the land." Bryant opposes Dade county's homosexual rights law, subject of a June 7 special election. McKuen said he would campaign in Florida to support the law.

Rod McKuen to lead fight for homosexual groups

MIAMI (AP) — Each side in Dade County's increasingly bitter controversy over homosexual rights now has its celebrity advocate.

Since the Dade County Commission approved a law prohibiting discrimination against homosexuals earlier this year, Anita Bryant, with her all-American girl, devout Christian image, has led opposition to the ordinance.

Now the homosexual groups have on their side singer-poet Rod McKuen.

McKuen came to Miami Saturday for a regularly-scheduled concert. He raised the homosexual rights issue there, causing some members of the audience to leave, demanding their money back.

Now he's scheduled several benefit concerts for the Gay Coalition — starting tonight in Miami.

"It's not a question of sexuality, it's an issue of basic human rights," McKuen said Monday at a news conference at the Gay Coalition offices.

"I am not interested in Ms. Bryant's personal life and I am convinced that there are more constructive things for her to do than to infringe on the privacy of individual American citizens."

McKuen, whose songs include "Love's Been Good to Me," "Seasons in the Sun" and "Jean," said he has cancelled several appearances outside Florida in order to campaign around the state.

The coalition is raising money to support a homosexual rights law passed by the commission earlier this year.

"My electric bills have gone up like everyone's.

Of course, working for Texas Electric, I'm more aware of how expensive new plants are and how high fuel is. But that won't solve my problem at home.

That's why I'm checking the weatherstripping around all my doors and the caulking around the windows.

I mean I could feel air under the door and I'm paying for it. So I put storm doors on and that really made a difference.

Gives me four inches of dead air. And that's a lot better than nothing."

Bentsen lauds panel okay on drought relief

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Senator Lloyd Bentsen Wednesday said legislation approved by the Senate Public Works Committee offers needed assistance to drought-stricken areas of Texas and other Western states.

"The drought has placed a crushing burden on the people of West Texas and this bill will help ease the burden," Bentsen said.

Senator Bentsen, a member of the Public Works Committee, said the measure provides $225 million to help communities improve emergency water systems.

One hundred fifty million dollars of that amount would be available for 40-year loans at 5 per cent interest and $75 million for 50-50 matching grants.

"The drought has the gravest potential, not only for the affected communities, but also for the nation as a whole. I am pleased that the President has requested passage of this legislation and that the committee has acted favorably on his request," Bentsen said.

"The money it provides can be used for projects to improve, expand or construct water supply systems and it can be used for the purchase or transportation of water."

"The people in drought areas of Texas need this money and I am hopeful that Congress will act swiftly in giving final approval to the drought relief bill," Senator Bentsen said.

Pregnancy test is improved

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Doctors here say they have evaluated a new pregnancy test and found it to be nearly perfect.

The test was 99.5 per cent accurate in 544 cases evaluated over an 11-month period at Deaconess Hospital here.

Dr. Jack Lippes, chairman of obstetrics at the hospital, said the new blood test can confirm pregnancy in a woman as early as one day after menstruation was to have begun. The test also can indicate at that early date if the pregnancy is abnormal, he said.

The most accurate test now used is 98 per cent accurate, said Lippes, who is best-known for his invention of the Lippes Loop birth control device.

Like other pregnancy tests, the new one is based on the presence of a hormone called human Chorionic Gonadotropin.

Auditions slated

Eleven local piano pupils from the class of Mrs. Chester F. Barnes have registered as candidates for membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, Teacher Division of The American College of Musicians, of which their teacher is a member. This group of young piano students will play in the National Piano Playing Auditions, today and strive for Pledges, Local, District, State and National honors with the organization will confer according to the number of standard classic, romantic and modern pieces chosen from the Masters of piano-forte literature each student can creditably perform.

The names of the local entrants, pupils of Mrs. Barnes are, Shelly Brasel, Tricia Cherry, Dana Haney, David Hamilton, and Patricia Hamilton.

Others are Stephen Hamilton, Jana Miller, David Patterson, Julie Patterson, Kristy Davis, Mary Jane Wright.

FLOWER SHOW WINNERS — These women were top winners in the flower show held this weekend, which was sponsored by the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs. They are Mrs. Carole Owen, Mrs. Robert Stripling, Mrs. Edna Womack and Mrs. Guilford Jones.

Top winners listed for recent show

Several women won top awards in the garden show held this weekend, which was sponsored by the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs.

Mrs. Carole Owen, a member of the Green Thumb Garden Club, won the Horticulture Award of Excellence. Mrs. Robert Stripling won two awards of merit, the Sweepstakes Award and a Horticulture award. She is a member of the Big Spring Garden Club.

Mrs. Edna Womack won the tricolor award in the artistic division, and the Sweepstakes Award in the Artistic Division. She is a member of the Rosebud Garden Club.

Mrs. Guilford Jones won the creativity award in the artistic division. She is a member of the Rosebud How to Grow Garden Club. Judges for the show were Mrs. G.W. Basham, Odessa; Mrs. C.L. Sparkman, Odessa; Mrs. Jean Mills, Odessa; Mrs. Mary Gail Pickering and Mrs. Cordes, all of Odessa.

Guests at the show included Mrs. Thomas Brown, Amarillo, District one director, and Mrs. J.K. Somerville, Midland, past District One director. They were guests of Mrs. Womack.

Child-Abused Has Her Say

DEAR ABBY: I noticed that you wrote a whole column on parents who abuse their children.

That was very nice of you, Abby, but can't you do something for parents who are abused by their children?

I am a 42-year-old mother of two. My son is 21 and my daughter is 19. Their father died two years ago and left everything to me, and believe me, it was a lot.

I loved my children so much I gave them everything they asked for—cars, clothes, trips, boats and motorcycles. And now I have nothing. Absolutely nothing.

I lost my house, my car, my health, my looks, and now I think I am losing my mind.

ABUSED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your husband obviously did not consult the experts in estate planning at the trust department of his bank. Pity. They would have suggested any number of plans to provide you with financial security for the rest of your life.

DEAR ABBY: How could you have been so unfeeling to that woman whose son told her she talked too much? (You said, "He did you a kindness.")

Some kindness! The poor woman is probably now downhearted, self-conscious and inhibited, when before she was merry, cheerful and uninhibited. Which kind of woman would you rather be around?

We all know people who tend to be boring because they talk too much.

My own mother was a nonstop talker. Once she talked without stopping for 42 minutes. (I timed her.) Of course she was boring, but it didn't kill me to listen.

Yours for a little more tolerance.

MRS. ANONYMOUS

DEAR MRS.: I think it's a kindness to let people know when they talk too much.

They can—and should—do something about it. The price paid by bores is much too high. Their friends avoid them, and so do their relatives when they can conveniently do so.

Colossal housekeeping headache

Protesters in custody

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — While 1,414 anti-nuclear protesters are in custody at four state armories, New Hampshire is paying about 500 National Guardsmen $35 per man per day — or close to $20,000 daily to watch over them.

Then there's the yet-to-come food bill for the demonstrators, including catering service from Burger King for a fast-food dinner Monday night, from McDonald's for breakfast today, and for assorted other costs.

And not to mention the inconvenience to Guardsmen called from their higher-paying civilian jobs to active duty. In most cases, they do not draw their civilian pay, although some provisions are made by individual employers, according to Guard officials.

The protesters, most of them in their 20s, were arrested and arraigned on charges of criminal trespassing, a misdemeanor, after refusing to end a peaceful weekend camp-in at the construction site of the Seabrook Nuclear power plant, about 50 miles east of this state capital.

They declined to post bail, which ranged from $100 to $500. The explanation for the colossal housekeeping headache is that this small state, with a population of less than one million, does not have jail facilities for confinement of such a large group at one time.

Court authorities say hearings will be held as soon as they can be arranged. Robin Read, a spokesman for the Clamshell Alliance, which sponsored the demonstration, said the protesters plan to remain in custody until court hearings have been completed.

The demonstrators were being confined Monday night in the drill sheds of the armories, which are assembly halls used also for athletics and recreation. Some of the protesters were observed exercising.

There are no cots available, so the young men and women used sleeping bags.

"Most of these people, when they moved into Seabrook, came well prepared with sleeping bags, blankets and tents," said Maj. Chris C. Agrafiotis, 42, the Guard's director of military support. "At the time of their arrest, they were allowed to bring all of their gear with them so they are well prepared to stay the night and any number of nights."

An Associated Press newsman who went to the Concord Armory Monday night was not permitted to enter the permit-toting by 60-foot-wide assembly hall where nearly 300 of the demonstrators were being kept. The newsman was permitted to observe the group from a large window on the second floor, but no photographs were allowed. Some of the protesters were clustered in a large circle, while others milled about in small groups.

"There are no armed guards, there are no weapons and there won't be," said Agrafiotis. "It was the governor's wish that this be a peaceful operation. The group assured us from the beginning that this would be a peaceful operation. The governor took them at their word. We're playing by their rules. We're being just as peaceful as they are."

Measles epidemic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thousands of students have been turned away from school because they failed to get a measles vaccination ordered by health officials who are trying to cope with an epidemic.

Susan Odom, immunization program manager for the county Department of Health Services, estimated that 37,000 to 40,000 students were barred from classes Monday in the nation's most populous county.

In the Los Angeles city school system alone, a spokesman said, four per cent of the district's 596,000 students were sent to auditoriums or other waiting areas or returned home for failure to show proof that they have been vaccinated against 10-day rubeola measles.

The recent epidemic has resulted in at least two deaths, and five cases of encephalitis have been termed measles-related.

A total of 2,300 cases of measles have been reported in the county, half affecting children.

Los Angeles County has 82 school districts and 1.4 million students. The Los Angeles city school district is second only to New York in the number of pupils enrolled.

Meanwhile, county officials continued a massive effort to provide vaccinations. A Los Angeles school spokeswoman said 17 measles clinics would be conducted Wednesday. Most of the 60 county clinics will continue to offer measles vaccines today and the rest of the week, authorities reported.

STUDENT SQUARE DANCERS — Lee's Service Center Webb AFB will soon graduate a class of square dancers — looking forward to their first Big Spring Festival next Friday and Saturday are Kip and Joan Metzger, Aggie and Truman Keese.

Dance festival coming up

The Eighth Annual Square and Round Dance Festival of Big Spring will be coming up this Friday and Saturday at the Dora Roberts Exhibition building near the rodeo arena.

The Big Spring Squares, the sponsoring group, is expecting 500 square dancers from the area to be in attendance for the two-day square and round dance event. The Permian Basin Westex Camping Squares will be arriving early Friday afternoon and setting up camp at the Fairgrounds. Other towns who will be represented will be Whiteface, Lubbock, Snyder, San Angelo, Abilene, Fort Worth, Midland, Odessa, Sweetwater, Denton, San Angelo and several other cities.

Request rounds will begin at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights, Square dancing will be from 8 to 11 p.m. each night.

Master of ceremonies will be George Colvin of the Big Spring Squares. Calling the square dance will be Joe Greer, Lubbock, Friday evening; and Chuck Bryant, San Antonio, for the Saturday events. Dave and Nita Smith, Lubbock will serve as round dance instructors.

An added attraction will be a Saturday morning coffee and square dance from 9 to 11 a.m. at the Fair Barn. A workshop on new Callerlab calls and around dances will get under way Saturday afternoon from 1 to 5 p.m. In addition to the Friday and Saturday night square dance, a 11 o'clock Saturday after party is being planned for guests.

Spectators are invited to attend the dances. A special section will be reserved for visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. D.W. Overman are general chairman for the festival with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Huskey in charge of finances. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alexander are serving as facilities chairman. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Smith will head the decoration committee, with Mr. and Mrs. Frenchie Stewart in charge of publicity. Other square dancers serving as festival chairman are: Mr. and Mrs. Grady Jones, after party; Mr. and Mrs. Travis Brackeen, registration; Mr. and Mrs. James Householder, booths; and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Parkhill, in charge of hospitality.

Interesting people with Marj Carpenter

There's never a week goes by in his business that you don't meet somebody interesting. And this past week was no exception.

"The top of the evening to you," says Father Robert McDermont, well-loved pastor of St. Thomas Catholic Church here back during 1961-66. Each year, friends bring him back here for a visit.

And this year was no exception for the happy Catholic priest who visited with Mrs. Fred Hyer, the Harold Talbotts, the Water Rosses and many other former close friends.

He currently lives in Greenwich, Connecticut and will celebrate his 35th in Jubilee there next year. He expects a group of his Big Spring friends to attend and I'm sure they will. He even has old friends from his first pastorate in America in Brownsville back in 1952 coming for the event.

The Catholic priest came to the Rio Grande Valley straight from Ireland and he really speaks with the brogue. Friends who know him well said his accent is nothing to what it was when he first arrived.

He returns to Ireland each year and said that the disagreements in Ireland go way back. "I hope some day they settle them, but it will take a lot of negotiating," he added.

He pointed out that most of Ireland was perfectly safe — only in one area up north is all the turmoil. He also spoke on how glad he was to be back with his "Texas friends."

Another interesting person that I talked to only a few moments this past week was Charles Paramore of Dallas. He's the fellow in charge of helping put together the Heritage Museum's permanent display. If you've been by there, you may have seen him working on the signs out front. Some of the things inside are really exciting like a photograph of an old train on the wall which a button you push for sound. And you can hear one of those old steam engines in the yard at T&P.

FATHER McDERMONT

There's also a telephone that when you pick up the receiver, you will hear two women talking on a party line about early Big Spring. It's going to be lots of fun.

Also this week, I met Gerald Myers, Texas Tech basketball coach who was speaker at the Spring Sports banquet. The only other time I had ever seen him, he was screaming on national television at our own Delnor Poss when Texas beat them in a basketball game and Delnor was an official. He looked a little bit more under control at the banquet. Being fair, the Texas coach screamed at Poss that day too.

The sports banquets this year were really great affairs and I'd like to congratulate the captains of the Booster Club — Jerry Foresyth, Mrs. Hayes Stripling and Leonard McCutcheon.

Really — the cafeteria was completely filled for both the fall and spring banquets and they were really great occasions.

One other interesting person I ran across this week was Rebecca Garza up at Colorado City. She is currently being trained to drive big trucks and operate equipment on drilling rigs for Dowell Chemicals.

She stands about 5'5" tall, has shiny hair in pigtails under her hardhat and is the first female heavy equipment operator for that company in the Cee City area.

There are others in Hobbs and Sonora. Miss Rebecca Garza is a pioneer in her own right and we wish her luck.

Like many other weeks before it and hopefully many after — there's lots of interesting people out there — where I ride fence.

Photographer Sisco dies

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Morning News staff photographer Waldo Sisco, 64, a pioneer in color photography engraving, died Monday while on assignment for the newspaper.

Sisco, who had worked for the News since 1945, had worked with color photographs exclusively since 1949.

He developed his own system of color separation of red, yellow and blue in color photographs. This system has been used by newspapers across the United States.

There's still a chance

Let's look ahead for a minute. As fans, we're allowed to do that. The Steer baseball team will be playing Odessa by the time this paper hits the streets, so we don't have to worry about them looking ahead.

Monday afternoon, wait a minute, that's behind isn't it? At any rate, the Abilene Eagles knocked off the San Angelo Bobcats Monday afternoon, and at this writing, there was a three-way logjam at the top of the District 5-4A W-L chart.

Let's just assume for a minute that the Steers take care of the Odessa Broncs with very little trouble today in Steer Park. We might as well assume that, because if they lose, there's no sense continuing with this.

Okay, let's further assume that Abilene beats Lee today and San Angelo rakes Permian over the coals. That will maintain the knotted trio's status quo, going into Saturday's final game of regular season.

If either Abilene or Angelo lose today, that's just extra gravy on the plate, but Saturday is actually the day that will count for the locals (assuming they win today of course).

Last year, the bad guys were again Abilene and Angelo. All the Steers had to do the first half last year was beat the Bobcats to take the first half championship. They lost, and the crown was denied them.

The next very game, Abilene bopped the Steers for their only loss of the second half, and again, glory was denied them. There are a number of the guys on the team this year who remember last year all too well.

Saturday, there are three things that can happen. One is very, very good, one is like kissing your sister, and one is very, very bad.

If the Steers beat Angelo and Cooper beats Abilene, then that is very, very good, because Big Spring would then have it's second half championship. And if the Steers beat Angelo and Abilene beats Cooper, then the Eagles and Steers would tie for the crown which isn't too bad, I guess.

But if Angelo beats Big Spring... well, why go any further?

Barring rain, the Steers are playing Odessa High in Steer Park right now (4 p.m.) If you want to stretch the suspense of who will win district until Saturday, then go urge the Steers on to victory today.

Blazers on playoff trail

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A year ago, Johnny Davis was a little-known college junior and the Portland Trail Blazers had failed to make the National Basketball Association playoffs for the sixth straight season.

Monday night, Davis was the hero as the Blazers eliminated the Denver Nuggets from postseason play.

The 108-92 blitz was Portland's first lopsided victory in nine playoff games, and moves the Blazers into the Western Conference finals against the winner of the Golden State-Los Angeles series.

The conference finals begin Friday night, in Los Angeles if the Lakers advance and in Portland if the Warriors beat the Lakers.

The Warriors-Lakers set will be decided Wednesday night, when the teams meet at the Forum in Los Angeles in the seventh game of their series.

The home team has won each of the games so far, but the Warriors feel they can stop that trend. "When they've beaten us at the Forum, it's been like a velvet hammer," said Warriors forward Jamaal Wilkes. "They've beaten us, but not by much."

Meanwhile, Philadelphia and Houston enjoy a breather as they await the start of their series for the Eastern Conference championship. That series open Thursday night in Philadelphia.

"We were waiting to really play our game in this series, and this was it," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay. "We were the aggressors tonight. We weren't yesterday."

Denver had beaten Portland Sunday, 114-105 in overtime, to force a sixth game in the best-of-seven series.

But the Blazers shot to a 13-2 lead in the first four minutes of the game Monday night, built a 22-point lead in the second quarter, and coasted from there.

"Portland can beat anybody," said Denver Coach Larry Brown. "If Jack can give (Maurice) Lucas and (Bill) Walton a rest and get the terrific response he did tonight from his bench, the Blazers can be really tough."

Davis received hardship status last season after his junior year at Dayton University and was Portland's second-round draft pick. He was told just before the game that he would start in place of injured Dave Twardzik.

Davis hit 10 of 14 from the field, including a pair of back-to-back howitzers from at least 20 feet out in the third period. The 6-foot-2, 22-year-old guard led all scorers with 25 points.

CONFERENCE — Kyle Pfeiffer, left, Big Spring Steer catcher, Coach Tom Collins, center, and Frankie Rubio, right, Steer hurler, talk over the manner in which the ballgame was going in the sixth inning of Saturday's 3-2 loss to Abilene Cooper. The Steers host Odessa High in Steer Park today at 4 p.m. in an attempt to remain tied for the second half lead in District 5-4A.

NFL draft opens

RICKEY BELL
First pick

NEW YORK (AP) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers, as expected, chose Rickey Bell, Southern California's 218-pound running back, as the No. 1 selection in the National Football League's draft of college talent today.

The Seattle Seahawks, picking second, traded their selection to Dallas, as rumored, and the Cowboys took Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett, the most prolific ground-gainer in history, who led the University of Pittsburgh to the national championship.

In return for giving up its first-round pick, Seattle received Dallas' first-round choice—No. 14 overall—and three second-round selections, giving the Seahawks five picks in the first 54.

Bell walked into the packed ballroom at the Hotel Roosevelt seconds after his name was announced and strode to the microphone displaying a Tampa Bay jersey with a white No. 42, his uniform number in college.

"I waited a year-and-a-half for this day," Bell said. "I've got the ability to play in the NFL. There's no question in my mind. This is the biggest challenge of my life and the biggest challenge of the team's life to establish a winning trend.

"We can't do any worse than we did last year unless they expand the schedule to 16 games. Then we could go 0-16."

Bell referred to Tampa Bay's 0-14 record last year in its initial season of NFL play, the worst mark in the league's history.

The Cincinnati Bengals, using a pick acquired from Buffalo in the Sherman White deal, went for Eddie Edwards, an All-American defensive tackle from the University of Miami.

In rapid-fire succession, the New York Jets, who had hoped to get Dorsett, chose Marvin Powell, an offensive tackle from Southern California, and the New York Giants selected Powell's Southern Cal teammate, defensive tackle Gary Jeter.

That gave Southern Cal three selections in the first five overall picks, but it was well-known that the Trojans had more than a dozen seniors who were highly rated by the pros.

The Atlanta Falcons, picking sixth, grabbed Warren Bryant, a long and lean offensive tackle from the University of Kentucky. The 6-foot-6, 249-pound Bryant was a starter since the fourth game of his freshman year.

The New Orleans Saints selected Joe Campbell, a defensive end from Maryland's Atlantic Coast Conference champions.

The Houston Oilers picked Morris Towns, a 260-pound offensive tackle from Missouri, who held his own against Oklahoma's Leroy Selmon in a 1975 match-up. Selmon was last year's No. 1 NFL draft pick.

Edwards, the first of Cincinnati's three first-round picks, is a 252-pounder with outstanding 4.6 speed who sacked the quarterback five times in his first varsity game.

Powell, a 265-pound offensive tackle, is one of less than a dozen players who have ever been selected to the Pacific-8's all-conference team three years in a row since it was formed in 1959.

Dallas drafts Dorsett

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys pulled off a shocker today in the National Football League draft by obtaining All-America running back Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh from the expansion Seattle Seahawks for what Dallas General Manager Tex Schramm called "a big bundle of draft choices."

What the Cowboys did was switch their 14th first round pick for Seattle's plus three second round choices for Seattle's second choice in the NFL draft.

Cowboy personnel director Gil Brandt joyfully bounded into the press room with a jersey bearing Dorsett's number (33) on it and said: "Here is our draft choice."

A delighted Schramm said Dorsett is the most outstanding back since O. J. Simpson and "when you get a chance to get that type of player you make sacrifices."

The 5-11, 192-pound Dorsett gained more than 6,000 yards and three times was named to The Associated Press All-America first team.

Schramm said, "actually, it is really a good deal for Seattle because they needed a lot of quality players and they would get them from the picks that we had."

"Normally, we don't trade for a player, but it was just something we had to do. We couldn't let an opportunity like this go."

The Cowboys were desperately in need of a breakaway running back. The longest run from scrimmage by a Cowboy player was only 24 yards last year by Robert Newhouse.

Asked how they knew the trade was going to happen, Schramm said, "we had numbers on several jerseys. Of course, getting Tony is something you dream about. He is quality and despite his size, has proven his durability."

Dorsett averaged 5.6 yards per carry in college and ran for 58 touchdowns.

The Cowboys obtained their 14th-place in the NFL draft by trading quarterback Clint Longley to San Diego last year. Dallas also collected three second place draft choices in various other transactions. But the key was getting the 14th choice because normally Dallas would have had to draft 24th.

Schramm said the Cowboys and Seattle entered into an agreement four to five weeks ago that they would make the trade if Tampa Bay picked Rickey Bell of Southern California.

Schramm said it was such a guarded secret in the Dallas organization that only Coach Tom Landry and Brandt knew about it.

Schramm said obtaining the Heisman trophy winner, "is probably the most popular draft choice we have had since we got Bob Lilly. It is one of the most pivotal acquisitions we've made."

Schramm said he didn't think there would be any trouble signing Dorsett.

"I don't think the other players will resent what we have to pay him because he could just take us to the Super Bowl... as long as I can remember, he is the only breakaway back we've had."

Landry, admitting, "I am excited," said, "we are going to have to go back over the playbook we just finished and change it. We never had a runner with the ability to go all the way like Dorsett."

Asked if he could coach a breakaway running back, Landry laughed: "I think the only thing we could do would be just to foul him up. He is in a class by himself. He will survive and thrive in the league because he has such natural running ability."

"He is super quick and he may go three quarters and make nothing. And then get a slight opening and he is gone. I was impressed by the fact that he just keeps plugging along and never gets discouraged. He seems to know that he will break a way sooner or later."

Landry said Dorsett, "gives us a dimension we've never had. Calvin Hill was a 1,000 yard gainer, but I imagine Dorsett will get his yards much more spectacularly. I would say this is the biggest impact a player has had on this team since we got Bob Hayes."

Asked when he was sure of the trade, Landry said: "About five minutes to nine. (After Tampa Bay took Bell) We just couldn't be positive it was going to happen."

DALLAS (AP) — Rice freshman Marty Froelick has been named Southwest Conference spring athlete of the week for his weekend performance in the 5,000-meter run at the Penn Relays at Philadelphia.

Froelick finished sixth in a field of top national competition with a time of 14:01.4.

TCU signs two Mizzous

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian basketball Coach Johnny Swaim has announced the signing of two players out of Missouri to letters of intent.

Swaim said TCU had inked Steve Scales, a 6-foot-6 forward from Mineral Area Junior College and 6-9 forward Larry Frevert of Raytown South High School.

Scales averaged 17.6 points and 12 rebounds per game to lead his team to the national junior college tournament. Frevert paced his team to a Missouri state championship as he averaged 15 points and 10 rebounds per game and hit 62 per cent of his shots.

Rangers sell Moates

ARLINGTON (AP) — The Texas Rangers have sold outfielder Dave Moates to the New York Yankees for an undisclosed amount of cash.

He will be assigned to the Yankees' Syracuse farm team, a Rangers spokesman said Monday.

Moates was batting .349 in 63 at-bats for Texas' AAA farm team in Tucson and his major league average in 140 games with the Rangers since 1974 was .260.

Aeros gasping for breath

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Aeros Coach Bill Dineen, who has been trying to breathe the new life into his team's sagging World Hockey Association (WHA) playoff hopes, is down to his last breath.

The Aeros, down 3-1 to defending WHA champion Winnipeg, face elimination tonight when the resume their best-of-seven semifinal series with the defending WHA champion Jets.

Principal problems for the Aeros so far in the series have been their failure to stay out of penalty trouble and their inability to keep pace with the speed-skating skills of the Jets.

CLOSE ONLY COUNTS IN HORSEHOES — Cecil Cooper of Milwaukee Brewers comes close to being picked off first as Toronto Blue Jays' Doug Ault (25) tries to tag him on a throw from pitcher Steve Hargan. Brewers downed the Jays 3-1 in the American League game in Toronto Monday night.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 4, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Do what you can to add more strength and vitality to your system. Be direct and outgoing in stating your aims and ambitions and what others can do to help you in order to make dreams come true.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Out to new places where you meet people who can help you to advance in your own line of endeavor. Some prominent person can become a fine personal friend later on.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Extend your vision and you soon command a greater income and are happier as well. Devise a better system in business. Gain cooperation of mate. Avoid extravagance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study how best to improve relationships with associates and have more success in the future. Avoid a hypocrite who means nothing but trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take steps to become more efficient and thus have more profits. Update your wardrobe and look more attractive.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You feel the need for more recreation so plan for it. A new attitude toward a loved one brings more harmony. Don't neglect essential tasks.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Stop procrastinating any longer and come to decisions. Plan some time to entertain good friends at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Meet with allies and work out mutual projects intelligently. Keep your eyes and ears open for new ideas that can bring you more success.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have an elevated consciousness today and can make headway with new ideas. Listen to what an adviser has to suggest for success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You now understand how best to gain your aims and should do so in a definite and positive way. Avoid extremes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Anything of a profound nature that you are thinking about can be incorporated into your living at this time. Get information you need from experts. Try to be more pleasing to a loved one.

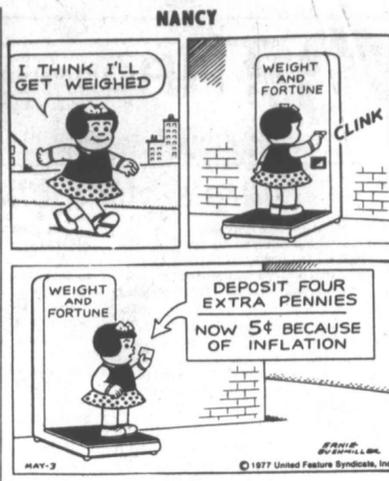

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Spend some time with congenials and show affection. Certain goals have not been too clear, but you now know what it is you want.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact bigwigs and find out how far they will go to help you to get ahead. Become involved in a public affair. Enjoy the social side of life.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those born intellectuals who will love books, thirst for knowledge and appreciate the finer things of life. Give the best education you can afford. Add foreign languages since there is bound to be much travel in this lifetime. Good spiritual training a must.

Watch it, Mets now have a hitman

Those other clubs better be careful now. The mets have on their side K.O. Randle, master of the martial arts, hits left and right during the game, and sometimes before.

K.O. worked himself into the top 10 of Ring Magazine's ratings by virtue of his first round knockout over Lulu Lucchesi on March 28 in Orlando, Fla., a good fight town. He was suspended the following day for having struck his opponent while his back was turned. As Kayo explained, it was very difficult to hit him in the front at the time because Lulu was flat on his face.

Now Kayo's license has been restored, and he is ready to go again. Manager Joe Frazier says he decided to take a chance with Kayo because he is a black-belt, and the Mets needed both, a black and a belter.

Joe Frazier, who manages Kayo Randle, is not to be confused with the Joe Frazier who manages Duane Bobick. Duane Bobick is a heavyweight, scheduled to fight Ken Norton at the Garden May 11. Kayo Randle is between a middle and light-heavy, and he says he is giving up fighting to concentrate on baseball.

That's encouraging to hear, but if I were the men on the other team I'd keep my hands up. When Kayo Randle played baseball before, he was known to drop his bat, if thrown at too close, and charge out to the mound screaming "hy-ye!" the way those karate guys in the bathrobes do. I kid you not. Reporters traveling with Kayo's former outfit, the Texas Rangers, say he would strike that bent-knee, open palms stance when confronting the pitcher with the bad aim, so you can see Kayo is no man to mess with.

It may come to you as a shock that Kayo has been picked up by the Mets, who have this Goody Two-Shoes image. Mr. Donald Grant, who instituted the acquisition of Randle explains:

"I did a lot of checking around on him. The man is not habitually bad. Everyone told me he is a good person, well-liked by the ballplayers. He just blew his top this one time. I'm not so sure there wasn't some provocation."

The provocation is the word "punk." Lucchesi is alleged to have used it when Randle said he wanted to talk to him. "What do you want, punk," is supposed to have been the greeting. That undoubtedly will be Randle's defense if the criminal assault case against him comes to trial in Florida.

Punk is not an endearing word. I am told it is even more offensive in the street talk of black neighborhoods. It is used derogatively to homosexuals. Gay parades notwithstanding, some men still consider it an outrage to be called that.

Name-calling, no matter how severe, is not a justification for physical attack. If it were, we'd have a riot on the hour at every motor intersection in New York.

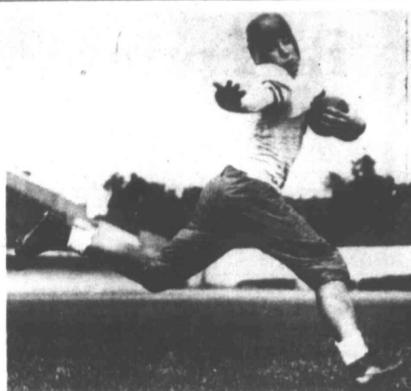

Lenny Randle is not a punk. He has a degree in social science from Arizona State. Prior to blowing his top that day, he was one of the best-liked men in baseball.

"Lenny is one of the most popular men on the team," said Jim Fregosi the next day. I talked to 10, 12 others, black and white. All said the same thing.

I'd be surprised if Lenny Randle gets into further trouble on the field. In the old days, the bench-riding days, I wouldn't be so sure, while he was at-bat, some bench-jockey would have yelled at him, "Now's a good time to slug the pitcher, while his back is turned!" — and stuff like that. They'd say anything to upset an opposing player 20, 30 years ago. Not now. They're all members of the same union.

Lenny Randle is a good ballplayer. Three years ago, he hit .302 as a Ranger regular. He can play second, third, a bit of short, all three outfield positions. He has basepath speed. That is why the Mets are taking a chance with him. They're not in the rehabilitation business.

Despite his versatility, I'm not so sure Randle should be made a utility player by Joe Frazier. "If I wanted to be a reserve, I'd join the National Guard," Randle said to Lucchesi shortly before belting him.

Braves' famous last words

The Atlanta Braves are on a streak — only it's going the wrong way.

"We are not going to panic," Manager Dave Bristol said Monday night after the Braves lost their ninth straight game, an 11-1 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

One can sympathize with Bristol. His team has not only been beaten of late, but embarrassed by lopsided scores.

"He isn't going with a full deck out there," said Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner, alluding to the absence of outfielder Gary Matthews, infielder Willie Montanez and pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dick Ruthven. "That's probably four of his top players."

Bristol could have used some of them Monday night, especially the pitchers. The Pirates hit four home runs off the soft-touch Atlanta staff.

While their pitchers weren't pitching, their hitters weren't hitting. Pittsburgh right-hander Bruce Kison had something to do with that, of course, firing a three-hitter.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds edged the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2; the San Diego Padres beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers turned back the New York Mets 3-1.

In the American League, the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 3-1; the Oakland A's whipped the Baltimore Orioles 2-0 and the Kansas City Royals downed the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

Ed Ott drove in three runs with a single and a homer and Willie Stargell, Omar paced home on an error by St. Louis third baseman Hector Cruz to give Cincinnati its victory over the Cardinals.

Rollie Fingers, 3-1, got the victory, despite giving up a run in the ninth inning. Ron Reed, 0-1, took the loss.

 Bill Russell's run-scoring single in the eighth inning broke a 1-1 and triggered Los Angeles past New York. Dave Lopes doubled off losing pitcher Jerry Koosman, 1-3, only the fourth hit off the Mets' left hander. Russell then drilled his single to right to score Lopes with the Dodgers' winning run.

Brewers 3, Blue Jays 1
 Rookie right-hander Brian Haas and two relief pitchers combined on a five-hitter to lead Milwaukee over Toronto. Haas, 1-1, gained his first major league victory.

Little League results —

Lions make sport of Sports

The Lions of the American Minor League collected 19 hits and beat the Sports 21-3 last Friday night. Chris Churchwell was the winning pitcher, while John Richardson took the loss.

Walter Brunley, David Shortes and Churchwell had doubles in the contest, while Tim Conner and Colin Carrol each had homers. Conner also had three hits, while Don Moore had two.

Sports rebound over Pals

Monday night, the Sports revenge last week's loss by upending the Pals 12-8. Kenneth Whitehead was the winning pitcher, while Randy Hayworth was credited with the loss.

Kevin Herron, Darrel Adamson, Kenneth Whitehead and John Richardson all had doubles in that contest, while Ismael Paredes had a triple for the Pals.

Herron, Whitehead and Richardson all had two hits.

Tigers club Cubs

The Tigers of the American league collected eight hits, to only two for the Cubs and went on to defeat them 9-6 last Saturday night.

Gary Osborn took the win from the hill, while Eric Thompson was given the loss. Thompson was the only player in the contest to get an extra-base hit. He blasted a double.

Players with two singles included Mike Crenshaw, David Kilgore and Thompson.

Cabots blacken Pirates

The Cabots of the American league blasted out 14 hits and rolled over the Pirates 20-3 Saturday night. Jeff Derks took his first win of the year from the hill, while Jamie Phillips was credited with the loss. Derks had the only double of the game.

Derks and Billy Thompson had three hits, while Gregg Hartfield and Jamie Thompson each had two.

The Cabots are now 2-0 on the year, while the Pirates fell to 1-1.

Oilers skunk Colts

Both teams collected three hits, but the Oilers of the American major league garnered a 4-0 win over the Colts Monday night.

Scott Richardson was the winning pitcher, while Darren Lamb was credited with the loss. Robbie Pherneton for the Oilers, and Mike Brown of the Colts each had doubles, while Brown also collected a triple. Richard Dills also had two hits.

Richardson pitched six complete innings for the Oilers and totalled eight strike-outs without a walk. The Oilers are now 2-1 while the Colts fell to 1-2.

Tigers claw Colts

The National minor league Colts felt the sting of the Tigers Monday night as they fell to them 9-3. Sammy Watson was the winning hurler, while Kevin Hagood took the loss.

Bruce Strickland and Tom Cates each had doubles and Kim Anding, David Ross, Sammy Watson and Lanton Hamby each had triples. Cates, Anding and Hamby also had singles.

The Tigers are now 2-0 and the Colts are 0-2. Both teams meet each other Friday night.

Rangers ride the Rebels

The Rangers of the National little league, behind the no-hit pitching of Pete Valenzuela Jr., rode roughshod over the Rebels Saturday night 19-0.

Valenzuela struck out 10 batters and only allowed two players to reach first base, one on a hit batter, and one on a walk. Anthony Dominguez was the losing hurler.

Valenzuela, Greg Miller and Gus Fierro were the big bats for the Rangers, going three for four. Rod Harris and Scott Underwood each had two hits.

Tigers sew Red Sox

The Tigers of the Texas Little League rallied for six runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to edge the Red Sox 9-8. Pete Carrillo (2-0) was the inning pitcher, while Robert Gonzales was given the loss.

Carrillo and Dave Johnson had two home runs, while Tony Ontiveros had one round-tripper. David Renteria, Jim Brown, Johnson, Carrillo and Ontiveros all had two hits.

The Tigers are now 4-1 on the season.

Talk about responding!

DALLAS (AP) — When is a cheerleader not a cheerleader? When she's a Dallas Cowboy Cheerleader.

The National Football League team's management made it clear Monday that it would not accept male applicants for cheerleader because Dallas fans do not respond to organized cheering, although they enjoy pretty girls doing dance routines.

Two Dallas men, Ron Traxler and Robert Richardson, had hoped to join the famous Cowboy Cheerleader troupe. They tried out last year and planned to do it again.

But the Cowboys spelled out a requirement that, as a spokesman put it, "they (candidates) look good in a halter top and short shorts."

Ron has the spirit to be a cheerleader, the Cowboy spokesman said, but what he did not understand is that the Cowboy cheerleaders are not really cheerleaders.

In a statement, the team said: "It has become clear that the professional football fan in Dallas does not respond to cheerleading efforts and, although the name Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders has not changed, the girls now are not in any sense cheerleaders... (they) have evolved into a professional entertainment troupe performing dance routines... Their image as a group of beautiful girls dancing to music is an essential part of their performance."

Energy Beame selling New York City

HOUSTON (AP) — New York Mayor Abraham Beame is in Houston to sell New York City—to oil companies interested in offshore drilling that is.

Donald Bunnell named LP-Gas Assn., prexy

CHICAGO — Donald G. Bunnell of Exxon Company, U.S.A., Houston, was elected president of the National LP-Gas Association during the Association's 46th International Convention and Exhibition held at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago, ending today.

Other officers elected for the 1977-78 term are: Donald L. Schultz, Schultz Gas Service, Lansing, Ill., first vice president; John H. Nichols Jr., Suburban Propane Gas Corporation, Whippany, N.J., second vice president; and Robert E. Leitch, Bottled Gas Corporation of Virginia, Richmond, treasurer.

Bunnell is Manager Marketing Department, LP-Gas & Light Hydrocarbon Sales for Exxon Company, U.S.A.

BUNNELL

He was formerly associated with Shell Oil Company prior to joining predecessor and affiliated companies of Exxon Company, U.S.A. in 1954. He was a sales technical service engineer with the former Humble Oil & Refining Company in Houston and in 1959 was promoted to Houston District Manager of Enjay Chemical Company, now Exxon Chemical Company, U.S.A. In 1964 Bunnell returned to the Humble Marketing Department and was assigned nationwide responsibility for wholesale marketing of feedstock to the petrochemical industry and bulk solvents to wholesale purchasers.

He was named manager of LP-Gas and Light Hydrocarbon Sales in 1967. Bunnell has been a member of the NLPGA Executive Committee since 1971 and this committee's chairman during the 1976-77 term.

"Now we can give certain benefits to new companies, such as tax exemptions and low-cost loans," Beame said. "We are going out for the first time to sell New York City."

Beame is leading a 27-man entourage that is attending the 10th annual Offshore Technology Conference, the world's largest oil industry meeting.

"We are moving out, we are serious and we are improving the business climate," Beame said.

Beame told a news conference Monday that New York City has the facilities, the available skilled labor and the mass transportation system needed to attract new business.

"We came here not to take any business away from Houston, but to speak to key people in the oil industry and get them to work at Baltimore Canyon," Beame said.

The Baltimore Canyon site is in the Atlantic Ocean about 75 miles southeast of New York.

Beame said he is optimistic that drilling will start within the next year off the Atlantic coast. The first sales of Atlantic Coast offshore drilling leases recently were voided by a New York federal judge but the case is under appeal.

Frank Drozak, vice president of Seafarers International offered assurance that the maritime unions and the building industry on the east coast are stable.

New York Deputy Mayor Osborn Elliott told the news conference the nation's largest city had an unemployment rate of about 10 percent and had experienced a loss of 650,000 jobs recently.

"We know we are in competition with other Atlantic coast cities for the offshore drilling headquarters," Elliott said. "But we do have the facilities and we are situated perfectly for those companies. This selling of New York City should have been long before now."

Massachusetts Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill III also is here to head a similar mission for his state.

Texas oil allowable

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The average oil production allowable in Texas as of May 1 totaled 3,607,008 barrels a day, the railroad commission reported Tuesday.

The rate was calculated from 175,500 wells, compared with the 3,629,804 barrels allowed on April 15 when 176,136 wells were listed, the commission said.

Estimated actual production is approximately 3,060,000 barrels a day, compared with 3,162,481 in the same month last year.
