Many measures go to Briscoe

Bill okays laetrile use

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas legislators passed and sent to Gov. Dolph Briscoe today bills allowing doctors to treat cancer patients with laetrile and enabling counties to control massage parlors.

House members passed, 100-34, and sent to the House a bill limiting the freedom that Texas women have had since 1973 to have abortions.

No abortion would be allowed past the 22nd week of pregnancy except to prevent birth of a defective child, save the life of the mother or fetus or protect the woman from "grave impairment of health."

An avalanche of bills descended on the governor's desk, including a measure eliminating the widely detested requirement that Texas voters sign their ballot stubs and deposit them in special boxes.

Senators approved the House-passed ballot stub bill, 23-7.

Both chambers accepted a compromise massage parlor bill allowing counties to pass licensing and inspection requirements for parlors outside city limits. Sheriffs or other peace officers could enforce the regulations.

Senate approval of House amendments also sent Briscoe a controversial bill imposing a 200 pounds per day limit on commercial catches of redfish until October 1978. After that, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department would set limits.

Senators also sent the governor a bill allowing cruise ships with gambling equipment to come into Texas waters if the paraphernalia is locked up.

The House tentatively approved, 99-42, the governor's bill requiring post-release supervision of convicts who are not paroled but whose sentences were shortened by "good time" and then served out.

It would deny probation to persons convicted of committing aggravated kidnapping, rape, sexual assault, robbery or any crime involving the use of a gun.

Another provision of the bill would sharply reduce the parole eligibility of convicts who committed such crimes. They could be paroled only after serving a third of the maximum sentence or 20 years, whichever is less, without consideration of good time.

"Good time" normally reduces sentences by 20 days for every month of good behavior in prison.

After meeting with the King and other Spanish officials, Vance expressed "greatest admiration" for their efforts to bring democracy to Spain after 40 years of dictatorship. It was Vance's first meeting with the Spanish monarch.

Spain closer to NATO?

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Spanish officials agreed today to set up a combined military coordinating and planning staff to further military cooperation between the two countries and ease Spain closer to NATO membership.

Implementing provisions of a 1976 U.S.-Spanish treaty before flying out to Tehran, Iran, Vance called talks with Spain's post-Franco leaders "instructive and useful." He expressed "great admiration" for the monarchy's democratization program after meeting with King Juan Carlos.

The combined military staff headquarters will be set up in Madrid with a preliminary session by a joint military committee scheduled within 40 days, Spanish Foreign Minister Marcelino Oreja told reporters. The responsibilities of the staff are to be pinned down at the next Spanish-U.S. talks, probably next fall, U.S. officials said.

A joint communique before Vance departed for Central Treaty Organization — CENTO — talks said nonmember Spain had been briefed on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting in London, and it repeated that a key objective of both countries was "closer ties in the European and Atlantic area."

U.S. officials said the meetings would help prepare Spain for eventual entry into NATO.

Vance described the meetings with Spanish officials as "excellent, very instructive, friendly and warm. I was able to learn a lot."

The secretary said he and the king discussed bilateral and international matters.

Concord opponents vow to sit on runways

NEW YORK (AP) — Angry neighbors of John F. Kennedy International Airport are vowing to close the facility twice a week in retaliation for a federal judge's order that the supersonic Concorde jet can't be banned from landing there. "The people are not going to take this lying down," said Bryan Levinson, head of Concorde Alert, an umbrella group of community organizations opposed to the British-French plane's noise.

"We cost Kennedy $3 million to $4 million every time we show up there (to protest). I can see it happening once or twice a week on a regular basis if need be," he said. "We'll be there on the runways en masse to greet them."

U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack ruled Wednesday that the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey acted illegally in banning the supersonic Concorde during a 16-month trial period ordered by the federal government.

Pollack ruled that "local regulations may not override national purposes," and said test flights might lead to "a cleaner, quieter, more efficient supersonic transport."

A spokesman for the Port Authority said the ruling would be appealed as soon as Pollack signed the order making it effective. Port Authority attorney Patrick Falvey also said his agency would seek to have the ban reinstated while litigation continues, a prospect that could put off Concorde landings indefinitely.

British Airways and Air France have 10 days to draw up papers formally asking the judge for an injunction against the ban.

Following the ruling, British Airways said it would start test flights into Kennedy next month and begin commercial service by the end of September. Air France said it plans to start daily Paris-to-New York flights on June 20.

White to die on June 15?

MCKINNEY, Tex. (AP) — Convicted murderer Robert Excel White has been sentenced to die in the electric chair June 15 — after midnight and before dawn. It is White's second death sentence.

Before he was sentenced the first time last November, the 30-year-old drifter told State District Court Judge Tom Ryan he wanted to die because he could not live with his crime.

But White had nothing to say the second time around Wednesday as Judge Ryan again set White's execution date.

At White's first sentencing, Judge Ryan ordered that White be executed on Dec. 10, but the U.S. Supreme Court postponed the date indefinitely to allow White's court-appointed attorney to appeal.

Last month the Supreme Court refused to hear the appeal of White, who was convicted along with another man for the slaying of a 73-year-old grocery store attendant near McKinney in 1974. Two teenagers were also killed at the store.

At Wednesday's court session, Judge Ryan also set a May 30 hearing date on a writ for habeas corpus that White's court-appointed attorney had requested.

Mysterious blast halts major Arab oil pipeline

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — A mysterious explosion and fire at one of Saudi Arabia's largest oilfields forced the shutdown of a major pipeline but has been brought under control, officials said today.

A U.S. Embassy official said at least one person was killed and 26 to 30 were injured, some with serious burns.

He said the fatality was a Saudi foreman and that no Americans were believed to be injured.

Officials of the Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco) said the fire in the Abqaiq oilfield, 35 miles from the Persian Gulf, was contained within 12 hours after it was set off by an explosion Wednesday. It was being allowed to burn itself out, they said.

They said the Abqaiq field, which produces more than 800,000 barrels a day, was shut down. But they said the fire was no longer a threat to a gas processing facility and a crude oil storage tank farm nearby.

"The fire is practically, for all intents and purposes, out, and the situation is under control," Aramco President Frank Jungers told a reporter who contacted him by telephone from Washington. Aramco operates most Saudi oil facilities.

Records, no player, sent into space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A recording of the sounds of pounding surf, wind, thunder, animals and birds, plus greetings in more than 50 languages, may be shot into space this summer.

But any extraterrestrial civilization looking for galactic listening pleasure will have to do some hi-fi tinkering. Although the record, called the Sounds of Earth, would be accompanied by instructions, phonograph head and needle, it won't be sent with a record player.

"If the civilization is advanced enough to capture the space craft, they would be advanced enough to find a way to amplify the sound," a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said.

The proposal to send one of the silvery steel records on each of two Voyager spacecraft headed for Jupiter, Saturn and possibly Uranus and Neptune is being considered by Dr. Alan Lovelace, acting NASA administrator.

The idea for a record came from Carl Sagan, the astronomer who developed the idea for the plaques sent into space on Pioneers 10 and 11 in 1972 and 1973. Those plaques contained drawings of a man and a woman and scientific symbols bearing greetings to members of any civilizations which might find them.

The two Voyager spacecraft are scheduled to leave Cape Canaveral aboard Titan Centaur rockets on Aug. 20 and Sept. 1.

Eventually, the Voyagers will sail, beyond the solar system.

Panel eyeing medical complex for Webb

Although only a "what if" discussion, the possibility of a portion of Webb Air Force Base becoming a state and university funded medical-type complex came up Wednesday.

The discussion was between the Webb steering committee and Roy W. Washam, director of the Federal Property Assistance Program under the Health, Education and Welfare Office in Dallas.

Washam said that HEW did have funds which could help a medical school convert the hospital at Webb into a training center for its students.

Texas Tech University has visited Webb and expressed some preliminary interest in the idea. Washam said a member of his agency could contact the appropriate Tech officials.

Washam also was questioned by Big Spring City Manager Harry Nagel about federal funds for a regional alcoholic treatment center on the base, which Nagel pointed out would tie in very nicely with a medical school.

Nagel said this might be a State of Texas pilot project and provide a use for a number of the buildings on Webb, such as the older barracks.

The city manager noted that this could also tie in with the Veterans Administration Hospital program and with the registered nurse program at Howard College.

Senate kills tax proposal?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Senate committee today refused to approve for Senate floor debate a controversial bill to consolidate property tax appraisal — possibly killing it for a second straight session.

The Senate Economic Development Committee voted 4-3 to bury the proposal in a subcommittee, stunning committee members who supported it.

The bill would consolidate appraisal of real estate for tax purposes in single countywide appraisal offices, overseen by a new state agency. County tax assessor-collectors, however, would not be affected unless a county voluntarily joined an appraisal district.

Nagel said Big Spring already was the smallest city with a detoxification program, and he said that the program, operated by the City of Big Spring, was one of the best in the U.S.

While other efforts of this kind have collapsed in West Texas, the city's program which is conducted in a converted fire station has thrived, he said.

Washam urged the steering committee to be careful with its first application to earmark property that should be turned over under a HEW program rather than under the Federal Aviation Administration program, which will encompass most of Webb.

Washam said a number of national academies are looking for a place to locate, and Webb could be a possibility.

School can't use Webb

Big Spring public schools would not at present be able to use any of the facilities at Webb Air Force Base because they are in "non-compliance" with Health, Education, and Welfare integration guidelines, an official said Wednesday.

Roy W. Washam, an HEW representative from Dallas, told the steering committee on Webb Air Force Base that the local schools would not be eligible for any HEW program at the base because of its "non-compliance" status.

Washam also noted that the school district has submitted a new integration plan to HEW following a visit with a technical assistance team from the federal agency which assisted in the plan's preparation.

Although Washam said this was not his area, he said the new Big Spring plan "looks approvable."

If so, the Big Spring High School District would be able to get off the "non-compliance" list and would be eligible to participate in an HEW program for obtaining Webb facilities.

While school officials have toured the base, they have not yet indicated that they want any Webb buildings. Nor has the steering committee considered whether there are any facilities which the school should have.

Offbeat: Wants to quit in jail

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A woman has complained that Judge Joseph Summers of Ramsey County Court won't send her to jail, where she might be able to quit smoking.

Police said the woman, 39, was arrested Thursday for panhandling money in order to buy cigarettes. After spending the night in jail, she appeared in court and demanded that she be jailed for 30 days.

Instead, Judge Summers sentenced her to one day, credited the time she had been in jail and freed her.

The woman then asked Alice Murphy, director of the city complaint bureau, to intercede with the judge.

"I don't have the courage to quit smoking on my own," she told Mrs. Murphy. "I just know I could, if the judge would lock me up for a month."

Judge Summers, however, stuck to his decision. He said he didn't believe taxpayer money should be used to help people quit smoking.

Texan wins poker title

LAS VEGAS (AP)—A bull boat, (10s over deuces) turned out to be the charm late Wednesday as world champion "Dolly" Doyle Brunson of Fort Worth, Tex., successfully defended his title.

"I said, 'What the hell, this is the same hand I won with last year,'" said the 293-pound Brunson after he had beaten Gary "Bones" Berland of Las Vegas to claim his second straight title in the World Series of Poker.

The victory, by virtue of a record number of entries in the eighth annual event hosted by Binion's Horseshoe Casino, was worth $340,000 to Brunson—$10,000 for each of the 34 entries in the seven-card "Hold Em" game.

Berland, who turned 27 on Monday, the day the championship game started, got nothing for coming in second place. It was his second try for the title.

Third place went to surprising Milo Jacobson, a retired nightclub owner from Sioux Falls, S.D., despite the fact that he had never before played in a high stakes game, nor had he ever played "Hold Em."

Fourth place went to Brian "Sailor" Roberts, who won the world title two years ago.

Castro likes role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro would rather pursue the role of Third World leader, particularly in Africa, than normalize Cuban relations with the United States, according to U.S. intelligence analysts. While continuing to provide some low-key support for Latin American leftist guerrillas, the analysts said, Castro will focus much of his future effort in Africa.

Allies to beef up NATO

LONDON (AP) — The NATO allies have adopted President Carter's proposal to put their defense ministers to work on plans for strengthening forces in Europe to meet the Soviet Union's new offensive strength. The 15-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization, wrapping up a two-day meeting Wednesday, said the defense chiefs will meet next week in Brussels, Belgium, for a three-day strategy session.

Senate eyes teacher raise

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The House has passed a $369 million teacher pay raise bill and two teacher retirement bills totaling $213 million, sending them to the Senate for almost certain revision.

The pay raise bill gives some teachers increases as high as 13.5 per cent but others less than six per cent. It passed the House Wednesday, 143-1.

A Senate subcommittee has approved an entirely different approach to teacher pay. Final amounts probably will be worked out in a conference committee in the closing days of the legislative session.

Under the House bill, the state-subsidized minimum salary for a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree would rise from $8,000 now to $9,024 in the fall — more than a 12.5 per cent. It would take another jump to $9,385 in September 1978. The House added three new steps for teachers who have topped out under the present 10-step scale so that a teacher with 21 years' experience would jump from a minimum of $11,780 now to $14,382 this fall, or 13.5 per cent. But a teacher with six years' experience would get only a six per cent raise, from $10,050 to $10,622.

The Senate approach is across-the-board raises of 5.1 per cent this fall and 3.4 per cent in September 1978.

Arms spending agreed

WASHINGTON (AP) — With House and Senate negotiators in agreement on a defense budget, Congress is preparing to vote on a financial blueprint that foresees spending of a record $460.9 billion for next fiscal year.

Members of a House-Senate conference committee, ending three days of bargaining and intermittent deadlock, agreed Wednesday on the proposal, which calls for defense spending of $111 billion and a deficit of $64.6 billion.

A vote on the resolution was set tentatively for Friday in the Senate. In the House, where prospects for passage appear less certain, the test was scheduled for next Tuesday.

Defense spending, the issue that divided the conference committee, appeared for a time to threaten the whole congressional budget process.

The $111 billion figure is $1.1 billion more than the House had voted, $600 million less than the Senate sought, $900 million less than President Carter requested in February and $1.8 billion under a later semi-official estimate by his Office of Management and Budget.

Defense spending for the current fiscal year is set at $100.1 billion, out of a total budget of $417.4 billion.

Anticipating charges that proposal would cut into the nation's military muscle, the committee defended its decision in its report to both the House and Senate.

The report said $11 billion for defense would mean a partial slowdown in foreign military sales and would require the Defense Department to spend funds left over from earlier years and to absorb part of coming pay increases. The figure also anticipates inflation below administration estimates.

ELIZABETH GAMBOA

Fund started to help child

A fund has been started at the First National Bank here for Big Spring-born Elizabeth Gamboa, age 12, who had an arm removed during cancer surgery in a Houston hospital Wednesday.

The victim is the daughter of Elias Gamboa Jr., and Vicky Galindo. She could be confined to the Houston hospital as long as three months.

Paternal grandparents of Elizabeth are Mr. and Mrs. Elias Gamboa Sr., Big Spring. The child first became conscious of her problem when she fell while on a hike with a group of Girl Scouts.

Those wishing to donate to the fund can forward their check either to the Elizabeth Gamboa Fund, Act. No. 142-700-4, care of the First National Bank or to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gamboa, 609 NW 5th St., Big Spring.

Elizabeth is the older sister of Alfonso Gamboa, now of Odessa, who was Big Spring's "first baby" in 1967.

chamber, contributed to the defeat of the first resolution drafted this year and said they would vote against future proposals unless defense spending were kept relatively low.

But budget committee chairman Robert N. Giamo, D-Conn., noting that lawmakers like the new budget system, which gives Congress a bigger role in setting spending levels, expressed optimism that the new resolution would win approval.

Defeat of the compromise resolution would halt work on spending bills and could conceivably endanger the continuation of the congressional budget system.

The nonbinding resolution serves as a guideline for spending bills. In the fall, Congress will adopt a second resolution, setting mandatory ceilings.

Shotgun blast hurts area man

Dennis Wayne Armstrong, Ackerly, was treated and released Wednesday night at Hall-Bennett hospital for minor injuries received from a shotgun blast.

According to Howard County Sheriff's Department, Armstrong and Richard B. Kemp were target shooting with a .12 gauge shotgun when the gun accidentally discharged, striking Armstrong in the hip.

Fortunately, the gun was loaded with blanks, so that Armstrong was hit by powder and the retainer only. The incident happened around 9 p.m.

Chair given shot in arm

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he doesn't know if he will delay any executions scheduled before Sept. 1, the date that death by drug injection goes into effect in Texas.

"I had not thought about that," Briscoe said Wednesday after he signed into law a bill changing the way the death penalty is administered.

"Of course, we do not know at this point when and if any death penalty will be carried out."

Texas became the second state with such a law, following Oklahoma where Gov. David Boren signed a similar bill on Tuesday.

"I think and I hope this will provide some dignity with death," Briscoe commented after the brief informal ceremony in his public reception room. "I think it is a move in the right direction."

Briscoe said he supported and signed the bill on the recommendation of W.J. Estelle Jr., director of the state prison system. Estelle or anyone he designates will be the one to give the injection of a "lethal substance."

For many years electrocution has been the means of the prisoner, probably will be given to a Texas historical museum.

Ladd confesses felony theft

Cecil Alan Ladd pleaded guilty to felony theft Wednesday in 118th District Court. Ladd was returned to Howard County earlier on charges stemming from the loss of over $1,000 in receipts from the Town and Country at 4104 Parkway.

He was sentenced to seven years probation with restitution of $960, $390 will reimburse the city for transportation costs to bring him back from Athens, Ga. where he was stopped on a minor traffic charge and $570.43 will be returned to Town and Country. According to District Attorney Rick Hamby, Ladd had mailed the remainder of the stolen goods back to the store.

AMERICAN-STYLE CAMPAIGN HITS ISRAEL — Workers put up posters for Ariel "Arik" Sharon near Tel Aviv's Ben-Gurion Airport recently. With a national election coming up next week, Israel is getting its first taste of American-style political campaigning. The soft-soap and hard sell techniques mixed with Israel's normal election methods of Socialist sloganeering and hair-splitting Talmudic arguments are producing a strange brew. Large letters on the posters are symbols for Sharon's "Shlomzion" party, smaller letter say "for Arik Sharon, Shlomzion."

Construction voted by Stanton trustees

STANTON — Tentative approval was given by the Stanton Independent School District board of trustees for the construction of a new foyer at the junior high school gymnasium and the addition of a girls dressing room area on to the high school gymnasium.

The board met five hours discussing the matter in detail with Tommy Huckabee of Huckabee and Donham Architects of Andrews.

The architect told the board it would take at least six months to get the projects completed and there was no guarantee that it would be ready by basketball season.

The foyer is planned at 74 feet by 16 feet and will be constructed on the east side of the junior high gymnasium. Another addition will be added to the west side of the high school gym for locker rooms and showers.

The estimated total cost is $65,000. The board also instructed its high school counselor, Bob Richardson, to continue working on a possible program of vocational training for Stanton students at Howard College.

The board also authorized David Thompson, athletic director, to purchase red and gray floor tiles for the Buffalo field house at a cost of $460.

They accepted resignations from Miss Carol Weaver as speech and drama teacher and Harold Oldaker as coach. Oldaker will now serve as a vocational instructor.

Funds to aid Big Spring available

Millions of dollars in federal monies could be available to speed Big Spring to recovery following the closure of Webb Air Force Base, an official of the Economic Development Administration said Wednesday.

In more than four hours of meetings involving three different federal agencies, the nine-man steering committee which is seeking the return of Webb to the community heard of details and strings on federal programs that might be available here. L.W. (Bear) Curfman, a Lubbock representative from the Economic Development Administration, explained how the town of Dumas in the Texas panhandle had used the program to draw almost $4 million in assistance.

The programs available would be: —First, a development grant to determine what the City of Big Spring must do to recover. This application has already been made, and Curfman said it was forwarded to Washington Wednesday without changing a word. This grant would be for $75,000 with the federal government paying all of it.

—Second, an implementation grant to carry out the development plan can be sought. This, Curfman said, would come under Title 9 and would be for development on the base. Large sums, perhaps $1 million, could be granted on a matching basis with the government paying 75 per cent of the cost and the local citizens 25 per cent. In this grant, the government does accept in-kind services, such as local expenses or salaries, to be counted against the local 25 per cent contribution.

—A third program which could be available from the EDA would be a public works project under Title 1 which could be done off base, such as at a community industrial park. The government pays 50 per cent, with the local half accepted only in cash contribution.

Big Spring City Manager Harry Nagel questioned Curfman on whether the $75,000 development grant, expected to be approved within three weeks, could include the hiring of another full-time industrializer.

Curfman responded that this was possible. Then Nagel asked if the grant could be increased to $125,000, and Curfman said only if the action is taken immediately.

Curfman said that his agency's biggest program is industrial parks. The guidelines are that the local community must own the land, but the development of the land for industry, such as leveling and utilities, can be federally funded.

The steering committee also met in closed executive session for half an hour before the open meeting. Chairman Wade Choate, mayor of Big Spring, said the session dealt with personnel questions and that no final action was taken.

Jodoi--a man with inventive mind

James Jodoi, owner of Kimo's Palace restaurant, is not the kind of guy who sits around all day making egg noodles.

Jodoi is the kind of guy who is always thinking of some new innovation, some new process. He's one of a disappearing breed of backyard inventors, one who puts around with gadgets, who is always dreaming up new ideas, who can't sleep nights for thinking.

Fritz vs Grits

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Walter F. Mondale, who has started out as the least neglected Vice President in history, confided to associates last week that he is increasingly troubled by what is happening inside the Carter administration.

Mondale's complaint was not the habitual vice presidential grievance about being ignored. Rather, he is privately concerned that the quest for a balanced budget is setting a fiscal policy far more conservative than he would prefer. Indeed, the Vice President is principal internal opponent of the economic strategy unanimously recommended by President Carter's top advisers and vigorously endorsed by the President himself.

ALTHOUGH MONDALE has lost the policy battle in the Oval Office, his dissenting view is widely shared within the White House staff — and, more significantly, on Capitol Hill. Furthermore, Democratic leaders in Congress (particularly in the House) do not feel Mr. Carter is any more bound to the balanced budget than he was to other abandoned ventures such as the $50 tax rebate, elimination of water projects or raising the defense spending ceiling.

"They are wrong," one Carter insider told us. "They don't understand how hard Jimmy's mind-set is on this one." If so, here are the seeds for a conflict between Congress and President Carter far more substantial than their shadow war over water projects. In the battle of the budget, congressional Democrats would find administration officials all the way up to Fritz Mondale in agreement with them — if only silently.

The first clear internal disagreement on economic policy came when Mr. Carter rejected the Vice President's advice and instead heeded budget director Bert Lance and his own instincts in scrapping the $50 rebate. Although this was ostensibly a debate over economic stimulation, it carried overtones of the argument over a balanced budget.

LANCE HAS PUSHED this traditionally conservative strategy: a balanced budget is both desirable in itself and a reassurance to business, and the best way to balance the budget is to spend less. Lance had been backed by the two other members of the economic troika: Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal and (except for trying to save the $50 rebate) chief economic adviser Charles Schultz. With his economic team supporting his own inclinations, the President has had no indecision on this one.

Mondale does not agree. He takes the traditional Keynesian position that an economy stimulated by government spending eventually would balance the budget through higher revenues. That position is shared within the White House by domestic policy chief Stuart Eizenstat and many lower level aides. "I have to ask myself: is this really a Democratic administration?" one young White House staffer confided.

What is tightly held dissent in the White House is trumpeted loudly in the Democratic cloakrooms of Congress. Besides warning the President not to interfere with new congressional budget prerogatives, the April 28 vote against the budget resolution by liberal House Democrats was a protest that the White House is spending too little for social welfare, too much for defense.

NEVERTHELESS, congressional Democratic leaders were not prepared for what they heard at the White House May 2 when Mr. Carter pledged to hold down spending to balance the budget. Having come to regard their new President as a Delphic oracle whose utterances are capable of dual interpretations, they were stunned by his unequivocal call for fiscal integrity.

THE BACKYARD inventor had gone out of vogue recently as Americans somehow got the idea that breakthroughs can only be made in research laboratories using millions of dollars of equipment and six dozen Ph.Ds.

Not so, we have been reminded during the past couple of weeks by a California man who made a more efficient electric motor (and the engineers said, "Why hadn't somebody thought of that before?") and the man in El Paso who claims to have made a 100 miles per gallon automobile.

When Jodoi can't sit still, he is working on ways to keep food fresh. He has a booklet coming out soon on keeping frozen fish tasting like they had just been pulled out of the lake, and he invented a machine to grow bean sprouts.

But when I visited with him this week, we talked about a strange gadget which he has assembled.

Believe it or not, the invention might be best described as a mechanized gold pan.

Jodoi, who is originally from Honolulu and who has lived in Big Spring for eight years, invented the machine in what he hopes might be a practical way to separate the gold in them there hills from the sand.

Is there gold here? To prove his point, Jodoi produces a copy of a book entitled "Where to Prospect in the 50 States" by George Gibbons Hays. On Page 75, the book contains the following paragraph:

"Those who have more faith in a gold pan than a pick and shovel should try panning the auriferous sands near Big Spring. For years, many people have tried to recover this very fine gold (flour gold so light it will almost float on water) which will average about 85 cents a cubic yard. Where this gold originated is still a mystery that has never been solved."

THE BOOK goes on to say that many people believe the gold, found in the sandy creeks around Big Spring, was left when the area was under a sea and the gold sank to the bottom, leaving enough to "tease" but scattered too thinly to mine.

The thought of gold teased Jodoi, and he began to think about how it could be mined.

The result is a rather unbelievable contraption in his workshop. Jodoi has sunk several hundred dollars into the mechanized panning machine, which operates without water or chemicals. The normal flotation method of panning will not work with the gold in Big Spring sand because it is too light.

So here's how his gadget is supposed to operate:

The sand is poured into an electrically revolving funnel at the top of the head-high machine. The turning of the funnel creates a centrifugal force which holds all but the lightest of sand to the funnel (such as the circular motion of a gold pan).

The sand works its way down through a tube at about a 45-degree angle, revolving all the time. This causes friction, which makes the heavier particles, such as the gold stick closer to the metal surface while the sand grains bounce.

THEN IT goes out another revolving funnel on the bottom. As the sand flies out, Jodoi thinks it will fall by specific gravity in separated trays, with the light sand traveling the farthest and the gold settling close to the funnel.

"It is separating," he said, as he urged me to feel the difference in the grains of sand in various trays and to see the specks of gold in the closest ones.

So far, however, he has been able to recover "just traces — nothing to get excited about."

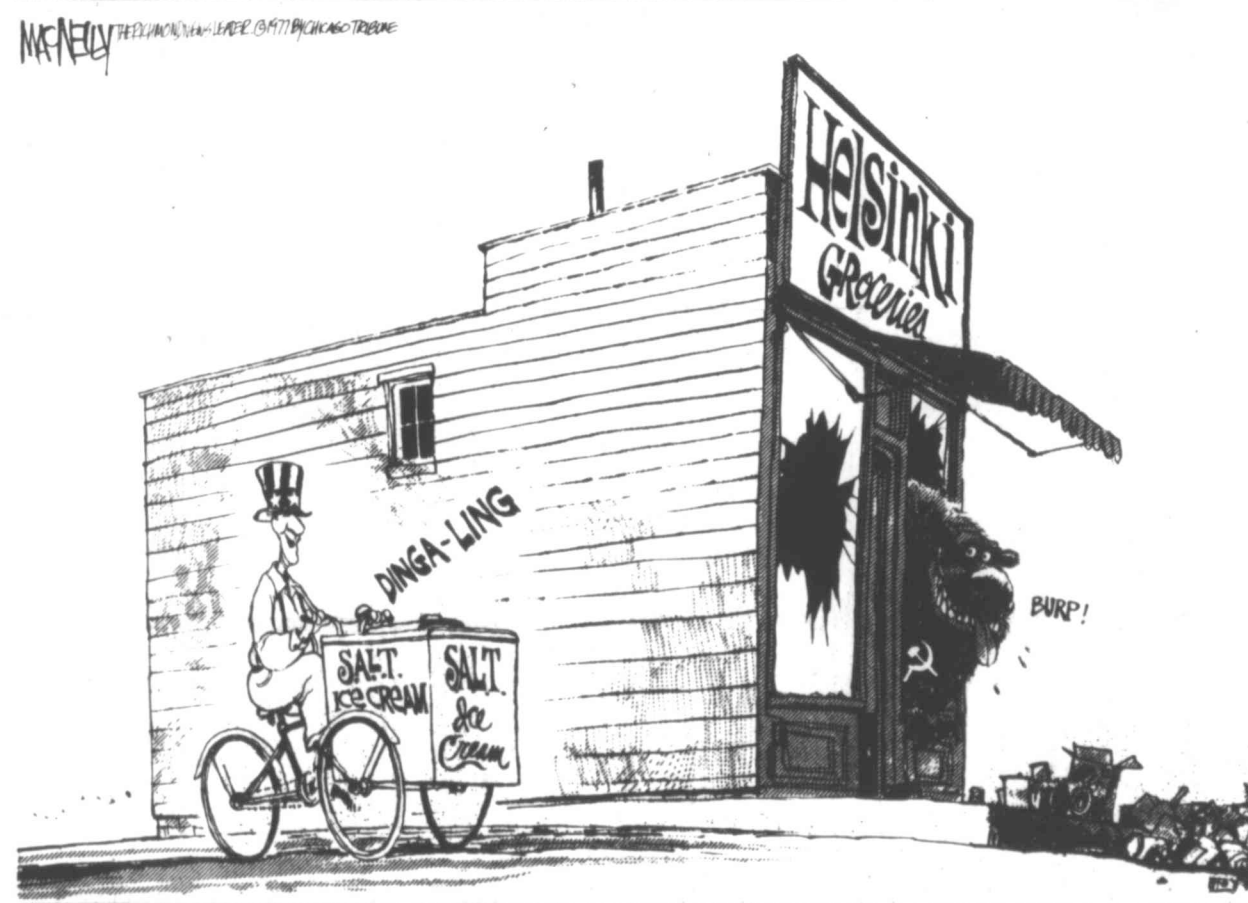

"I know what's wrong with it," he says. "I don't have the funds to get the bugs out of it."

He thinks there might be $2 or $3 worth of gold in a yard of sand if it could be processed on a commercial level.

Jodoi also thinks his automatic panning machine might have other applications, such as removing the impurities from powdered lignite or separating pure sand for industrial purposes.

Who knows? I might once have laughed it off, but then again, I would probably have laughed at the guy who said he could make a more efficient electric motor too.

Youngsters getting into fad diets

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do the so-called sugar-free drinks act on the pancreas to produce insulin like regular sweets do? My daughter, who has a weight problem, started drinking a six-pack a day. Now she is on two and a half six-packs. I am worried. Can you comment? — C.S.

Sugar-free beverages contain artificial sweeteners that do not act on the pancreas the way sugar does. They would not increase the need for insulin. This is why diabetics whose insulin production is low can use it and why they were concerned when the government announced plans to ban saccharin, the only non-sugar sweetener remaining (since the ban on cyclamates).

I hope your daughter doesn't think that just because the soft drinks are sugar-free that they are calorie-free. They contain on the average of about one calorie per ounce, which may not sound like much until you do some arithmetic. Her pop consumption can be adding anywhere from 150 to 200 calories a day. No wonder she has her weight problem.

Another thing, that great amount of liquid won't help any diet she may be trying. Her compulsive pop-drinking is possibly a substitute for the former compulsive food eating. I think if you present these facts to her she'll see the light and strike a balance.

There has been so much emphasis on unworkable fad diets that folks like your daughter decide in desperation to come up with their own gimmicks. My mail shows that youngsters are getting more and more involved in these schemes. My booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," is directed as much to them as to older people. For a copy, send 35 cents to me in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. If your daughter has been a compulsive liquid drinker for a great length of time you might have her blood sugar tested. Diabetes is a possibility that shouldn't be overlooked.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read your article on alopecia. Our son is 10 and started losing patches of hair when he was seven. Last spring he lost it all, and then lost his eyelashes and brows. He was a hairy child.

We took him to a doctor and they tried ointment and shots, but nothing helped. The last place we took him to was a large medical center. They told us to take him home and see what nature would do. We were told there is nothing that can be done.

Do you have any suggestions? — Mrs. T.P.

It is not unusual for youngsters to have a patchy hair loss. It's called "alopecia areata." Total hair loss is thought to be an exaggeration of it.

The cause is not known, although diet and vitamin deficiency have been suspected, especially a diet low in protein. Excessive use of vitamin A can cause it. In extensive loss there may be some defect in the hair follicles. Such defects may be temporary or permanent.

Usually regrowth occurs in alopecia areata, even in total hair loss.

Cautious use of steroids have been known to help in some cases, and I suspect this may have been the treatment that was tried unsuccessfully in your son's case.

I know of no sure cure. The child may need some counseling to avoid psychological damage while waiting for nature to work its will.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor says endometriosis is the cause of my infertility problem. Other tests are normal. What is usually done, how long does it take, and what are my chances in the future of becoming pregnant? — Mrs. A.K.

You have a remote chance. Endometriosis, surplus growth of uterine tissue, is usually treated with large doses of estrogen. It can take as long as 12 months, but pregnancy is known to occur when the treatment stops. Just what the odds are I cannot say.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is Parkinson's disease inherited? — T.B.

No.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: Everyone in Big Spring should take notice. We have in our school system a quality coach we seldom find in the public school system.

Tommy Collins is a coach of professional caliber. He is a perfectionist who has a way of getting through to his athletes the things which are necessary for a winning team.

In watching him work with the young people this year I have seen a desire and drive in a coach as I have never seen before.

Having been connected with coaches of all types from junior high to college for the past 20 years I have viewed and worked with what I think are some of the best coaches in Texas. Among those are the late Joe Kerkel, Spye Dikes, Clovis Hale, and Novice Kniffen. Tommy Collins is the equal to any of them.

He is great as a coach and teacher and I would like to see him remain in the Big Spring School District and the city of Big Spring. We have let too many good coaches and citizens slip through our hands to our neighbors. Tommy is a jewel — let's hang onto him as long as possible.

Typical dieter

Around the rim

James Werrell

Brother Bill is back on another diet. Lest this seem just another exercise in family aggrandizement, allow me to express the opinion that Bill is typical of your average dieter, and others can learn from his folly.

He and I both have been on several diets together in the past. All have been in the name of cosmetics, not health; they were an excuse, not to exercise.

OUR FIRST effort was the Werrell wonder diet. It consisted of consuming one meal a day, lunch, beans and iced tea, with nothing but white wine for dinner. After dinner we were happy, but starving. There had to be a better way to lose weight without moving a muscle.

We switched to Dr. Fatkins Revolutionary Diet. This allowed us to eat all the pork chops, pork rinds, bacon and sausage that we wanted.

The catch was that we couldn't touch sweets or starches of any kind. On the same night, we both woke up concurrently from one of the worst nightmares ever. In the dream we were lying peacefully in a vat of french fried potatoes with bottles of Dr. Pepper dancing around the edge.

Suddenly a giant pig forced us to attend a luau where they were serving only him and a side order of liver. We woke up in a sweat, and ate three peanut butter sandwiches for lunch the next day.

I QUIT dieting, but Bill persevered. He went on to Dr. Stillwarm's Revolutionary Diet. On this one, he was allowed seven gallons of water a day and a lot of cottage cheese.

Bill quit this after a week when he woke up from a coma with a tuna casserole recipe in his mouth.

But his latest diet is the worst (this is for real!). The other day he bought a book entitled, "Fasting: The Ultimate Diet."

Although this is the most painful, it is definitely the easiest diet to follow. In a nutshell, you are allowed nothing.

The book suggests that (after consulting a doctor) you just forget about food for five to eight days. Bill hasn't eaten since Sunday, and now, when he gets home from work, he wears nothing but a saffron robe, and chants mantras to his bookshelf.

Thankfully, the diet book contains a method of coming back from the world of fasting; something like reentry for an astronaut. During this period, Bill will be allowed small portions of fruit juice and several carrot sticks.

There is even an "Ode To Carrots" in the book to provide spiritual as well as bodily sustenance. Bill will learn soon that someone who enjoys good food as much as he does will have to be content with being "hulky" (as they used to say) until he starts running at least half way around the block to shed those unwanted pounds.

In the meantime, Bill, have a glass of water on me, and good luck on your new book, "Here's Looking At You; Mahatma Gandhi."

Questionable drug

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — An apocryphal story is told about an advertising firm which was asked to produce a slick campaign to sell cigarettes after the Surgeon General determined they caused cancer. For days, the ad men agonized over how to overcome the health-hazard problem. At last, a bright young executive came up with a slogan for the new campaign: "Cancer is good for you!"

Huckstering hasn't quite sunk to that level at Hill and Knowlton, the nation's largest public relations firm. But the New York firm has secretly proposed an all-out media offensive to push a drug that has been linked to cancer and birth defects.

The drug is estrogen, which millions of women in menopause take to replace the hormones they have lost. But recent tests indicate that use of the drug increases the risk of cancer of the uterus.

AYERST LABORATORIES, which produces an estrogen drug called Premarin, responded to the danger by adding a warning to the label. But Hill and Knowlton viewed the cancer risk merely as a public relations problem. "Menopause remains a fashionable topic, cancer is always current, drug side effects have not lost their journalistic appeal," the firm warned. "Sales could be eroding at an accelerating rate."

Disregarding the medical evidence, the firm called for "a communications program to provide quick counteraction" to the news that estrogen users were more likely to get cancer. The PR firm offered to "counteract unfavorably publicity incidents" by placing "a comprehensive article on the menopause in a major women's magazine." The article would be slanted, presumably, in favor of estrogen.

The prime targets here would be McCall's, Ladies Home Journal, Family Circle and Redbook," the company suggested. "A possible theme is the stages of life that women pass through — the triumphs, tragedies, challenges of each."

The firm was also prepared to place articles "with syndicated columnists on newspapers' women's pages." The company's own hucksters would also write articles for small-town readers.

"Features and shorter fillers should be distributed to suburban and small town daily and weekly newspapers through Hill and Knowlton's service that provides, free of charge, material in ready-to-use form."

The company even wanted to hire and train a "television spokeswoman" who would defend the drug on talk shows across the country. A film on menopause, touting the drug, could also be shown to women's clubs, the firm suggested.

The PR men offered to train Ayerst spokesmen to rebut "damaging commentary" by delivering "a prepared or spontaneous comment confidentially and convincingly."

Ayerst flatly rejected the Hill and Knowlton scheme. It "seemed to be insensitive to the concern about cancer and estrogen therapy," a spokeswoman explained.

BUT HILL AND KNOWLTON has been consoled. The firm has been hired to promote saccharin, another drug that tests have shown could cause cancer. The PR experts will utilize their many strategies to attack the Food and Drug Administration for banning saccharin.

This multimillion-dollar campaign will be financed by the Calorie Control Council, a group of diet soda producers that rely on the artificial sweetener.

Footnote: The Hill and Knowlton vice president who drafted the estrogen promotion, Stanley Sauerhaft, assured us there was nothing "underhanded" about his scheme. "It was a proposal to put some balance and perspective into the whole picture," he told our associate Howie Kurtz.

HOT LETTER — The Internal Revenue Service has jeopardized a half-billion-dollar investigation of wealthy tax evaders by removing its top agent from the case. This will be good news, in particular, for mobsters who hide their ill-gotten cash in secret offshore bank accounts.

The suspended agent is Richard Jaffe, a widely respected tax sleuth in Miami. He has been called off Project Haven, a massive probe of foreign bank accounts that are used to evade taxes.

My answer

Billy Graham.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Last Sunday I talked with a young man about Christ, and he wanted to know if he could smoke marijuana and still be a Christian. How would you answer him? — E.J.

DEAR E.J.: There may be Christians who use marijuana from time to time, just as there may be Christians who do other things that are carry-overs from their lives before they met Christ. However, it is wrong for a Christian to do such things for several reasons.

In the first place, the use of marijuana is illegal in our country at the present time. For this reason alone a Christian should refrain from using it. "Remind the people to be subject to rulers and authorities, to be obedient, to be ready to do whatever is good" (Titus 3:1, New International Version).

The second reason to refrain from drugs or alcohol is that they take away our rational thinking and make us open to thoughts and behavior that are not Christ-like. What the Bible says about wine can also be applied to any other drug that influences our minds: "Do not get drunk on wine, which leads to debauchery. Instead, be filled with the Spirit" (Ephesians 5:18, New International Version). It is interesting that Paul in this verse doesn't just call drunkenness "debauchery," but says it leads to it.

The real issue here is that Christ calls us to complete commitment of ourselves to His will. We should not try to hold on to our own plans and desires, but yield them up to Christ. "Therefore, I urge you, brothers, in view of God's mercy, to offer yourselves as living sacrifices, holy and pleasing to God — which is your spiritual worship. Do not conform any longer to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind" (Romans 12:1,2, New International Version).

DA Hamby says:

Lawyers not cause of sick society

District Attorney Rick Hamby said Wednesday that lawyers have done the most to keep the United States one of the greatest countries in the world, at the regular meeting of the Downtown Lions Club.

Hamby, who briefly traced the history of the law and the law profession, said that the function of the law is now only as good as its parts — police, lawyers, and judges, and while Watergate served to spotlight tarnished lawyers, they are not the cause of a sick society, but merely a symptom.

He also pointed out that Big Spring is fortunate to have the quality of bar that it has.

Following his presentation, he conducted a question and answer session and included the following comments:

—probation for offenders is often better than a prison term because the violator can be sent to prison if he violates terms of his probation, because the prosecutor doesn't have a strong enough case for court, and because many times young first offenders will straighten out during a probation period when a prison term would probably do more harm than good.

—there is no fault with the way local police make cases and gather evidence, as far as he is concerned.

—capital punishment is a deterrent to most crime.

—Texas needs a law requiring a "cooling off" period between the purchase and the delivery of hand guns.

—the rich criminals get out of jail and the poor ones go to jail because the rich can afford better legal representation.

—the sometimes lengthy delays between arrests and trials could be alleviated by the allocation of more money for courts to go along with the greater amount of money being spent on police departments.

Also at the meeting, Light Bulb Sale chairman Wayne Henry reported that sales and commitments for sales of light bulbs put the total amount of money to be collected at about $5,300.

Morris Rhodes, vice president, inducted two new members, Bob Hurt and Troy Bryant.

Lion Dan Conley noted that the attendance at the meeting was 42, the highest it has been in some time.

Bush might enter race for governor

By SCOTT CARPENTER

Dallas — Ultra-conservatives are hoping to put together their dream ticket for the 1978 elections.

The big news is that U.S. Sen. John Tower, considered a moderate by those far to the right, is on the ticket discussed by those attending a joint meeting of the American Conservative Union, Texas Conservative Union and the Young Americans for Freedom.

Even Ray Barnhart, who led the Ronald Reagan Texas contingent to the Republican National Convention, says Tower won't be opposed in his own primary. "There are some people talking about it, but I doubt anyone will really run against him," Barnhart said. Barnhart once had talked about challenging Tower.

Hank Grover who gave Gov. Briscoe a real scare in 1973 is being pushed for governor, and if he won't go again — he withdrew from the 1975 Republican primary — the choice is Barnhart.

The only Democrat on the right winger's ticket is Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler, an oil man, who is being pushed to contest Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's bid for reelection.

Not all of those mentioned are on the far right. Ray Hutchison of Dallas, the Republican state chairman, is their pick for the attorney general. He's considered a moderate by state conservative standards.

Hutchison is seriously thinking about running for attorney general, which he calls the second most powerful position in the state. He's also thinking about a race for governor, if former ambassador to Britain Anne Armstrong or former CIA director George Bush don't file in the Republican primary.

Hutchison didn't attend the conservatives' meeting in Dallas, preferring to spend his time working the crowd at the Dallas Gridiron Show the night before. His ever present escort, former Rep. Kay Bailey of Houston, wasn't wasting her time either.

She's seriously considering a race for state treasurer. Bailey currently serves as a member of the National Transportation Safety Board, a post she would resign if she decided to run.

The other possible Republican contender is Rep. Frank Hartung of Houston who has spent most of his legislative career trying to force current Treasurer Jesse James to change investment policies to increase income to the state. Bailey and Hartung agree they won't oppose each other in the primary.

Roy Burk top roper in Tulsa

DENVER, Colo. — When a roper can catch and tie two calves in a total of 20 seconds, that's being fast.

And that's what Roy Burk was at the Johnnie Lee Wills Stampede rodeo in Tulsa, Okla., a contest sanctioned by the Denver-based Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, running May 3-8.

Burk, of Duncan, Okla. took first in the calf roping "average," and was the rodeo's top winner, taking $1,211 out of the fairgrounds arena. Burk, brother of Barry Burk, seven-times reserve world champion in the event, also is a former National Finals Rodeo qualifier.

Steer wrestling at Tulsa was "split" between veteran competitor Rex Bland of Talpa, Texas, and Stan Williamson of Kellyville, Okla. Both had a total of 11.6 seconds on two steers, though Williamson won the most money over two go-rounds, $1,149.

Bull riding, a single go-round contest, also saw a split for top cash between two top cowboys. Bob Berger, familiar NFR qualifier from Norman, Okla., and Mike Bandy, a Finals bull rider from Adkins, Texas, each scored 74 points to win $1,053 apiece.

Jack Ward of Springdale, Ark., was first after two go-rounds in bareback riding, winning $722, and the saddle bronc riding "average" was split between Brady Crumpler of Wichita Falls, Texas, and Terry Chapman of Haskell, Texas. Crumpler won $592; Chapman took $423.

Another major contest winding up Sunday was the Big Red Rodeo in Chandler, Ariz. Lyle Sankey, of Rose Hill, Kan., was the all-around cowboy, winning $1,251. Sankey topped the bull riding average with a total of 127 on two head, and finished second in the saddle bronc riding.

Other top winners at Chandler included Brad Smith, Prescott, Ariz., $802 in calf roping; Bruce Ford, Greeley, Colo., $604 and the "average" in bareback riding; Chris LeDoux, Kaycee, Wyo., $611 in bareback; Dennis Reiners, Scottsdale, Ariz., $454 in saddle bronc; Jack Gomez, Janesville, Calif., $577 in steer wrestling; and Leo Camarillo, Clements, Calif., and Reg. Camarillo, Oakdale, Calif., $1,220 in team roping.

The Chandler rodeo, sponsored by Wrigley's Big Red chewing gum, paid a total of $24,035 to winners.

Mailbox week designated

The Postal Service has designated the week of May 23-28 this year as Mailbox Improvement Week, according to Sectional Center Manager-Postmaster D.E. Holster of Midland.

The purpose of Mailbox Improvement Week is to call attention to the need for providing mail receptacles which are designed to protect the mail from the weather and are neat in appearance, conveniently located, and safe to use. Neat, attractive mailboxes will make a significant contribution to the appearance of the countryside and the streets in suburban areas.

Mailboxes that are neat, safe, conveniently located, and protect the mail from the weather contribute to a more efficient delivery operation, and the result is an improved service to the entire route.

Holster added, "Where box numbers are assigned, the box number must be shown on the side of the box visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door where boxes are grouped. Where the use of street names and house numbers has been authorized, the house number will be shown on the box."

On city motorized routes with curbside delivery, it is recommended that the box be either the approved traditional rural type box or an approved suburban box of contemporary design.

Boxes designed primarily for use by customers receiving door delivery are difficult to serve efficiently from a vehicle and their use is not encouraged.

Boxes should be installed with the bottom of the box between 3 1/2 and 4 feet from the roadway.

For more information as to the proper placing and suggested maintenance of rural-type mail boxes, Holster suggested that customers contact their local post office.

Murderer attacks conviction

DALLAS (AP) — Convicted murderer Randall Dale Adams has launched a two-pronged attack on his recent conviction in the last Thanksgiving weekend slaying of a Dallas police officer.

Adams has filed a motion asking for a new trial claiming that state prosecutors "knowingly" allowed three key witnesses to give perjured testimony and filed a suit asking for $5 million from Dist. Atty. Henry Wade and Asst. Dist. Atty. Doug Mulder. The suit, filed in federal court here Wednesday, also claims that perjured testimony was used against Adams.

Adams was convicted in the death of officer Robert Wood and was sentenced to death.

In both the motion for a new trial and the suit, Adams and his lawyer, Dennis White, contend that witnesses R.L. Miller and his wife, Emily Miller and Michael Randall perjured themselves in testimony which placed Adams at the scene of the slaying moments before Wood was shot to death.

Lawyer White contends in the legal actions that "District attorney knowingly suborned such obvious perjury by the Millers in an attempt to bolster their incredible identification testimony."

Calling both legal actions a "publicity stunt," Wade said "We do not use witnesses that we know are perjuring their testimony."

Mulder, who handled the actual prosecution of Adams, said White's charges are "unfounded and irresponsible."

White included in the motion for a new trial statements from four persons who said the Millers told them versions of what happened the night of the slaying that differed from their actual testimony in the courtroom.

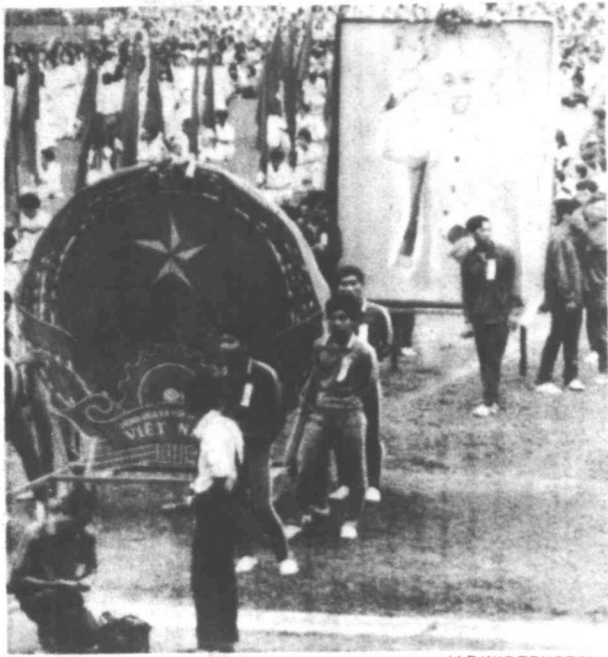

One of the persons who signed the statements, Mrs. E.J. Baze, said she called the district attorney's office during the trial to tell them that the testimony of the Millers was false, but said she was told by someone "That I was too late."

"The Millers are lying in their testimony. They would never have told the police anything unless a reward had been posted," Mrs. Baze said in an affidavit.

Falls kill

CHICAGO (AP) — The major killer of senior citizens is falls, according to the National Safety Council.

The council says recent statistics show about 11,000 persons over 65 or older die each year as the result of falls. It says that even when a fall does not kill it often inflicts severe injury requiring long hospitalization and convalescence.

Voting rights suits consolidated

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Five Texas cases involving the federal voting rights act have been consolidated by the chief judge of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to be heard by a three-judge federal panel.

The cases include those of four Texas school districts and one city that claim they are not covered by the federal act.

In a copyright article Wednesday, the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal said Judge John R. Brown ordered the five Texas voting rights act cases consolidated.

The judges named to the panel are U.S. District Court Judge Halbert O. Woodward of Lubbock, U.S. District Court Judge Patrick E. Higginbotham of Dallas and U.S. Circuit Judge Irvin L. Goldberg, according to the Avalanche-Journal.

The three are the same ones appointed earlier to hear the case involving the Hereford Independent School District (ISD).

The Hereford ISD filed suit against the federal government last January claiming the district is not covered by the act after the U.S. Justice Department entered an objection to a change in election methods there.

Also involved in the consolidation order are the Trinity ISD in Southeast Texas, the Hawkins ISD in East Texas and Midland ISD.

The order also covers a class action suit challenging the election of city council members in Beeville from districts rather than from the city at large.

Judge Brown said in the order the cases "present the same legal issues and have no substantial fact differences."

"It appears that the interest of justice will best be served by consolidating the cases for a hearing by one three-judge court," he said.

Judge Brown said the consolidation was for hearing and submission purposes but "whether consolidated decrees are to be entered will be left to the determination of the three-judge court."

A decision by the panel will be appealable directly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The major issue in the cases is whether cities and school districts in Texas meet the definition of a "political subdivision" in the voting rights act.

The act defines the term as a political entity which registers voters — a duty performed in Texas by the county tax-assessor collector. However, Justice Department attorneys assert that once an entire state is deemed covered by the act, as is the case in Texas, every entity will be covered by the act.

The Girl Scouts have revealed a whole new plan for their local summer program. The traditional Day Camp idea has been put aside in favor of a specialized interest program which will be held just prior to the opening of schools.

Comanche Trail Park will be the center of activities from Aug. 1-5, 9:00-2:30. A parents' night will be held Friday evening, Aug. 5, so the girls may share their week's activities.

Girls will be able to sign up for one of a variety of special interests and will concentrate on that one area all week. Other activities, such as cook-outs, song fests, etc. will be thrown in, but for the most part, girls will "do their own thing."

Special interests available to girls who will be in the 2nd or 3rd grades next fall are: Outdoor Discoverers, Nature Friend-Maker, and the Out-of-door Badge.

Girls who will be of Junior Scout age in the fall may choose from: Gypsy, Cyclists, My Community (all regular badges), outdoor crafts, physical fitness, and babysitters training. Scouts above the Junior level may choose from the last two activities, suggest their own or serve as helpers at the program.

Cost for the entire week will be $4 for currently registered Girl Scouts and $4.50 for non-Scouts. Payment should accompany the registration and checks may be made payable to the Big Spring Day Camp. Girls received registration forms at school this week; they should be returned to Mrs. Tom Stephenson, 1304 Tucson, by July 15.

A letter with full details will be sent to parents after the registration deadline. In the meantime, questions may be directed to Mrs. Stephenson at 263-0972. She says she welcomes all offers of help.

Fire losses slightly down

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in five years, losses due to fire in the United States showed a slight decrease, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

The estimated fire loss for 1976 totaled $3.56 billion, down less than one per cent from 1975. The figure is still substantially greater than the 1974 fire loss.

The estimate, made by the insurance statistical, advisory and rating organization, is based on individual insurance company reports and allows for additional losses not covered by insurance.

Active wife, mother continues family hobby

By CAROL HART
Mrs. Mary Cheney is keeping with family tradition through one of her hobbies. She collects ceramic pitchers, as did her mother and grandmother. She estimates that she has over 100 pitchers, and they decorate various points in her home.

Mrs. Cheney explained that her father, W. Tom Riddlehuber, now of Waco, sent several of the pitchers to her grandmother while he was stationed overseas with the Army during World War II. She obtained others through "friends and junk shops," she said.

Several of her unusual ones came from spots such as Czechoslovakia, Germany, England and Italy. She also has one from Hong Kong, and several from different points in the United States. She added that several of the pitchers still have postcards inside that her father sent her grandmother from overseas. Mrs. Cheney herself lived overseas as a child. Her father was at one time an attorney for the Veterans Administration, and took his family to the Philippines, Hong Kong and Hawaii.

Mrs. Cheney, her husband Doug, and their daughter, Roslyn, 5, now reside at 2308 Brent Dr. The Cheney home has also been the residence of Mrs. Cheney's brother, Tommy Riddlehuber, and Cheney's brother, Roy Cheney, until recently. Both were staying at the Cheney home while they held down jobs in Big Spring. Tommy recently accepted a job offer in Odessa, while Roy returned to a position in Burkburnett.

Mrs. Cheney is employed with Webb Air Force Base as personnel supervisor at the Base Exchange. She described her job by comparing it with one of an office manager. She said that she screens applicants, and acts as secretary to the exchange manager.

Cheney is the personnel director at the Big Spring State Hospital. The family moved here from Terrell, where he was employed by the state hospital. They have resided here almost four years.

The couple met while both were attending Cooke County College in Gainesville. They later attended Midwestern University in Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Cheney said the family enjoys outdoor activities such as water skiing, boating and camping. She added that she and her husband enjoy hunting together. The family has recently been involved with building a patio in their backyard.

Mrs. Cheney selected some of her favorite recipes for publication here. They appear below.

BLENDER SEAFOOD SOUFFLE

4 servings
This quickest-to-prepare of all souffles has a surprise inside — the middle makes a creamy sauce to spoon over each serving.

Butter
Grated Parmesan cheese
1 can (6½ to 7¾ oz.) salmon, crabmeat or tuna, drained
4 eggs
4 oz. sharp Cheddar cheese, cubed
1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese, cubed
¼ c. milk
¼ c. grated Parmesan cheese
½ tsp. instant minced onion
½ tsp. dried dill weed
½ tsp. lemon juice

Butter bottom and sides of a 1-quart souffle dish or casserole. Dust with Parmesan cheese. Set aside. Combine remaining ingredients in blender container. Cover and blend at medium speed until smooth, about 30 seconds. Blend at high speed another 10 to 15 seconds. Carefully pour into prepared dish. Bake in preheated 350 F. oven 40 to 45 minutes or until puffy and delicately browned. Serve immediately.

TURKEY SOUFFLE FLORENTINE

6 servings
Easy to make, but elegant. If you like, substitute another flavor of cream soup, or different chopped vegetables and whatever leftover meat (finely chopped) and shredded cheese you have on hand.

Butter
Grated Parmesan cheese
1 can (10¾ oz.) condensed cream of chicken soup, undiluted
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, cooked and well drained
½ c. finely chopped cooked turkey
½ c. (2 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
1 tsp. instant minced onion
6 eggs, separated
¼ tsp. cream of tartar

Butter bottom and sides of a 2½-quart souffle dish or casserole. Dust with Parmesan cheese. In medium saucepan combine soup, spinach, turkey, Swiss cheese and onion. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until cheese is melted. In small mixing bowl beat egg yolks at high speed until thick and lemon-colored about 5 minutes. Into yolks blend a little of hot soup mixture. Return yolk mixture to saucepan and blend. Wash beaters. In large mixing bowl beat egg whites and cream of tartar until stiff but not dry, just until whites no longer slip when bowl is tilted. Gently but thoroughly fold yolk mixture into whites. Carefully pour into prepared dish. For a "top hat," hold a spoon upright and circle mixture to make a ring about 1 inch from side of dish and about 1 inch deep. Bake in preheated 350 F. oven 40 to 45 minutes or until puffy, delicately browned and soufflé shakes very slightly when over rack is gently moved back and forth.

MAGNIFICENT MOCHA SOUFFLE

4 to 6 servings
A cool make-ahead dessert that's absolutely irresistible! Serve it to your most favorite friends.

1 pkg. (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ c. hot brewed coffee
6 eggs, separated
1-3rd c. coffee-flavored liqueur
¼ c. sugar
¼ tsp. cream of tartar
1 c. whipping cream

Make 4-inch band of triple-thickness aluminum foil long enough to go around 1½-quart souffle dish and overlap 2 inches. Wrap around outside of dish. Tie with string. Collar should extend 2 inches above rim of dish. Reserve a few chocolate pieces for garnish, if desired. Place remaining pieces in blender container. Cover and blend at medium speed 10 seconds. Scrape down sides of blender container with rubber spatula, if necessary. Add gelatin and hot coffee. Blend at medium speed until gelatin is dissolved, about 1 minute. Add egg yolks, liqueur and sugar. Blend at medium speed 15 seconds or until smooth. Scrape down sides and blend another few seconds. In large mixing bowl beat egg whites and cream of tartar until stiff but not dry, just until whites no longer slip when bowl is tilted. In small mixing bowl, whip cream until stiff. Gently but thoroughly fold whipped cream and chocolate mixture into egg whites. Carefully pour into prepared dish. Chill until set, several hours or overnight. Carefully remove foil band before serving.

In choosing an electric skillet, consumers might consider easy-care features, such as detachable legs, handles and thermostatic controls — along with no-stick interiors and im-mer-sible porcelain enamel exteriors.

Depending on size and style, it can fry, roast, bake or broil a variety of menu items — efficiently and conveniently, she said.

McManus threatened to kill her?

HOUSTON (AP) — The defense was expected to continue its cross examination of Paula Cantrell Derese today in the fourth day of the capital murder trial of Vernon McManus, charged in the slaying of her parents.

Mrs. Derese, 27, testified Wednesday that McManus told her he and two other men killed her parents last July in their fashionable Baytown home.

She also said McManus threatened to kill her and her young son if she told anyone about his role in the slayings.

McManus is charged in the July 25 slayings of Paul and Mary Cantrell, Mrs. Derese's parents.

Both McManus, 34, a former Baytown and Lamar University football player and coach, and Mrs. Derese, his former secretary, were charged with with capital murder.

Mrs. Derese later pleaded guilty to lesser charges of murder and agreed to testify for the state in McManus' trial. She is to be sentenced later.

The state contends McManus and Mrs. Derese conspired to kill the Cantrells for estate and insurance money.

Mrs. Derese testified Wednesday McManus threatened her and her son, Chad, 3, after telling her he and two other men had killed her parents.

"He told me to keep my mouth shut and not to crack," she said. "He told me if I told anybody I would be killed or my son would be killed."

She said McManus told her he picked up two men at a Baytown apartment. He said one wore a beard, but it could have been a disguise.

She said he told her he had a .38 caliber pistol pointed at him by them and was "made to dance like a puppet."

She testified he told her the Cantrells were hit with a pipe and then strangled.

Mrs. Derese cried briefly as she described finding her dead parents.

She said McManus badgered her constantly with telephone calls—even leading to her firing from a job—yet she continued to talk with him when McManus discussed killing her parents.

"You're really asking the jury to believe this?" defense lawyer Ron Smith.

"Is this still your testimony?"

"That's it," she replied.

She said her only "encouragement" in the plan was keeping silent as McManus reeled off boasts of having found contract killers.

Attorneys for McManus lost a bid to introduce an unmailed letter from Mrs. Derese which allegedly showed she knew of another planned slaying scheme.

However, State District Judge I.D. McMaster ruled the letter inadmissible as evidence. He agreed with prosecutor Mike Hinton's contention that the letter, about three years old, had no bearing in the McManus' trial.

Yarbrough faces 11 more raps

HOUSTON (AP) — The State Bar of Texas has added 11 more counts to a disbarment lawsuit against Texas Supreme Court Justice Donald B. Yarbrough.

The amended pleading filed Wednesday alleged Yarbrough committed perjury in a trial last January. The new counts brought the number of allegations of fraud, professional misconduct and violations of state and federal laws pending against Yarbrough to 84.

The new counts center around a Harris County civil court-at-law trial here in January in which Houston builder R. E. Blue Jr. claimed Yarbrough owed him $1,472 for construction of bookcases for Yarbrough's lawbooks.

A jury ruled that Blue was entitled to $600.

In the trial Yarbrough testified that a receipt signed by a former business partner and dated April 30, 1975 absolved him of any debt allegedly owed Blue.

A document, entered as evidence, said Yarbrough deeded a car along with 11 pieces of furniture to John W. Rothkopf, a business partner at the time.

Yarbrough testified that the settlement with Rothkopf cleared him of any debt for the bookcases built by Blue and that if anyone owed Blue it was Rothkopf.

The amended disbarment suit alleged the signature of Rothkopf was a forgery and that Yarbrough "willfully, with knowledge of that forgery, lied under oath during Blue versus Yarbrough, an official proceeding."

Yarbrough issued a statement in Austin in which he said "one of the oldest and dirtiest tricks in the lawyer's handbook is to allege forgery."

"It costs nothing to allege it," Yarbrough's statement said. "And it always forces your opponent to spend $10,000 on handwriting experts to prove validity. Later, when it comes time for trial, the lawyer merely abandons the forgery allegation. It's done every day in Harris County. Our informants advised us this maneuver was in the works and so it comes as no surprise.

"In a similar effort, the bar had deliberately scheduled 23 very expensive depositions all over America, when they know I can't afford a plane ticket to attend one, much less buy copies of the transcripts at $2.50 a page.

"On one deposition, my attorney and I traveled all the way to San Jose, Calif. Their witness appeared but refused to testify.

Tomorrow is Friday the Thirteenth

What could be worse? Nothing!!

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Tomorrow is Friday the Thirteenth. It is the only one in 1977 and, as luck would have it, it falls in May. What could be worse?
"Nothing," Shawn Robbins said, stroking her cat. "But I don't believe in superstitions. I collect them, I find them fascinating, but I'm not superstitious."
Shawn Robbins can say that. She can spit in tomorrow's eye because she is a psychic. She knows, in advance, that tomorrow holds no evil for her even though it is a Friday the Thirteenth that falls in May, the direst kind.

May 13, as spook specialists such as Shawn Robbins know, is the ancient Roman festival of Lemuria. We are us.
Lemuria is the dreadful night when the Lemurs, the malevolent souls of the dead, hover about. Placate them. Make them a midnight sacrifice.
"Most superstitions have their origins in religion," Shawn Robbins said. "Others trace back to practical necessities."
"Friday the Thirteenth? The 13th apostle at the Last Supper was Judas Iscariot. The next day was Friday. We all know what happened. By the way, did you notice in the da Vinci painting that Judas has knocked over the salt? Interesting."

As for a superstition rooted in necessity, here's one from Shawn Robbins's copious collection: A coachwhip snake will catch you at night and whip you to death. Tell that to your slave if he is inclined to run away.
The superstition about walking under a ladder has elements of both origins. Some say a ladder casts the shadow of a cross. Tread on it at your peril. Others, including Shawn Robbins, say a ladder casts the shadow of a ladder and the only reason for avoiding it is to keep from getting paint-splattered.
Shawn Robbins discovered her psychic powers 23 years ago when, as a girl of eight, she foretold her grandmother's death.
A few more accurate predictions and she discovered, as she explained it, that these weren't just lucky hunches. Over the years she has worked into the major league of psychics, predicting airplane crashes, finding criminals for the New York police, serving as seer in residence for the National Enquirer.

She took time out recently — probably knew she wouldn't be busy — to share some lesser known superstitions from her collection. Take them with a grain of salt. Then toss the salt over your left shoulder. Here they are:
Carry a rabbit's foot tomorrow. Not just any rabbit's foot. Carry the left hind foot of a rabbit that has run in a graveyard.
Don't get married in May. Wait until June, the month of Juno, patroness of happy marriages. As the Scots have warned us: "From the marriages in May, all the bairns die in decay."
Stay ashore if the old moon is in the lap of the new. That is, when you can see the faint outline of the full moon in the crescent of the new.

aided who reminded Amis that the investigation is continuing.
Asked how he feels about the possibility of state and federal suits against him, Amis said he really doesn't care.
"There is no question we are preparing a suit," said Maynard Cush, one of D'Artois's attorneys. He said the nature of the suit has not been determined.
"We could go into federal court under the Civil Rights Act against Amis personally, and we have a possible tort action (civil damages) in state court," Cush said. "There was nothing there but a bunch of rumors."
But another D'Artois attorney said no decision has been made on such a suit, because it could mean D'Artois, who suffers from a heart condition, would have to take the stand.
D'Artois is scheduled to go to trial on charges of felony theft of city funds in Shreveport in June. Last month, the Louisiana Supreme Court ruled that his health does not bar his standing trial.
Judge Foi commented in his decision that there was "no link whatsoever that the $30,000 was paid."

He was cautioned by an

Sheriff insists pair guilty of killing exec
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Sheriff Al Amis insists that George D'Artois and Donald Gardner are guilty of slaying Jim Leslie, and they remain the chief suspects in his investigation.
His remarks at a news conference Wednesday came one day after a state district judge ruled that there was not sufficient evidence to hold the pair for the shotgun slaying of the young Shreveport advertising executive last July 9.
Attorneys for D'Artois said they may sue Amis, presumably because the former Shreveport Public Safety Commissioner was arrested on charges that did not stick.
"The loss of the first battle does not mean we have lost the war," Amis told reporters. He indicated that his case fell apart when Dist. Atty. Ossie Brown refused to give immunity to two key witnesses.
"The district attorney was in a spot and he did his best," Amis said.
Dist. Judge Frank Foi agreed with defense attorneys that there was no link shown in court between the defendants and the death of Leslie in a Baton Rouge motel parking lot.
Amis, however, said he remains convinced that Gardner is connected with the slaying.
"I feel like he was—we have warrants and we arrested him—I feel he was guilty," Amis said.
Asked whether he also believes D'Artois to be guilty, Amis replied, "yes, I do."

College indictments
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Three former officials of the defunct San Antonio Commercial College have been indicted by a federal grand jury here for allegedly defrauding the federal government.
The indictments accuse the trio with conspiracy to commit fraud in connection with a federally-insured student loan program.
Indicted Wednesday were owner R. L. Willis, of Little Rock, Ark., along with school officials James C. Williams and Stanley H. Dennis, both of San Antonio.
The administrators allegedly used federally-insured student loan promissory notes as collateral when the notes had been signed by students who did not attend the school, according to the indictment.
Promissory notes signed by persons who had not attended classes would allegedly be transferred to other lending institutions, the indictment charges, and proceeds would be used for non-educational purposes.

DALLAS (AP) — Scary Eddie Dibbs thumped seriously about punching stormy Ili Nastase Tuesday night in their controversial World Championship quarterfinal match.
"I was mad enough him... but then I won," Dibbs said. "I was the old Rumanian in a match as the WCW produced."

Dibbs and Nastase were involved in several incidents and WCT's John McDonald and Peace moved in as makers.
"I've got a short fuse," Nastase said. "I got me going. I can get as close as I want to." He tried to breathe concentration. It's tough to play him. He you upset."

Dibbs almost punches Nastase

DALLAS (AP) — Scrappy Eddie Dibbs thought seriously about punching out stormy Ilie Nastase Wednesday night in their controversial World Championship of Tennis quarterfinal match.

"I was mad enough to hit him ... but then I wouldn't have had an opponent," said Dibbs who upset the 30-year-old Rumanian in as wild a match as the WCT final has produced.

Dibbs prevailed 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3 for his first victory over Nastase, whom Dibbs claimed had quick-served him in the fifth game of the first set.

"Boy, that hacked me off," said Dibbs. "I wasn't even ready. That's typical of him and that's when the four letter words started flying."

Dibbs and Nastase became involved in several shoving incidents and WCT officials John McDonald and Larry Pease moved in as peace makers.

"I've got a short fuse and Nastase gets me going," said Dibbs. "I can get as crazy as he does."

"He tries to break my concentration. It's always tough to play him. He can get you upset."

Asked about the shoving, Nastase said "Shoving? It was just for fun. We are good friends."

Pressed further about the shoving match, Nastase snapped "You want to see a good shove. Come up here."

Nastase said of the quick serve: "I won the point ...

I've done it before. If Dibbs is upset that's his problem. We are friends."

Dibbs debated the point, saying "I thought we were good friends. I guess we ain't."

Nastase obviously was tired from his flight back from Rumania after the weekend Davis Cup matches.

"I was just too tired ... I couldn't move at all in the fourth set," said Nastase. "At the end I couldn't move at all."

Dibbs took control of the match with 11 consecutive points in the third set, which was marred by a 10-minute argument over a point which was finally replayed. I triggered another shouting match between the two players.

"They (the words) were flat naughty," Dibbs admitted.

Dibbs said he realized he had even a tougher match ahead Friday night in the semifinals against Jimmy Connors.

"I played great tonight but I'll have to be perfect against Jimmy," said Dibbs. "I'll have to start fast to have a chance against him."

The two quarterfinal matches tonight feature America's Vitas Gerulaitis against Poland's Wojtek Fibak and South Africa's Cliff Drysdale against Dick Stockton of the United States.

The finals are scheduled for Sunday with a $100,000 first place prize at stake.

Astros dump Cubs in ten

HOUSTON (AP) — It was a long time coming, but J.R. Richard knew that his second victory of the season was on its way.

Richard, a 20-game winner last season, picked up his first victory since April 12 and broke an 0-15 streak at the plate with a third inning rbi single as the Houston Astros dumped the Chicago Cubs 8-2 Wednesday night.

The victory was the third for the Astros in the last 11 games and snapped the Cubs' six-game winning streak.

"I had my rhythm tonight and I felt good," said Richard, 2-3. "I'm not looking that far ahead (to a 20-win season) yet. I'm trying to take them one at a time."

The Astros jumped on Cub starter and loser Ray Burris, 4-4, for a pair of first inning runs on Jose Cruz' two-run double to left centerfield.

A solo home run by Cesar Cedeno, a passed ball and Art Howe's two-run single sparked Houston's five run uprising in the third inning with Richard driving home the inning's final run with a single to left.

"I've been working a lot on my hitting lately," Richard said. "I was glad to get that one and help the team."

Joe Ferguson, who walked in his first four trips to the plate, drove home Houston's final run with an eighth inning single.

Greg Gingles' two-run sixth inning base hit to left field accounted for the only runs off Richard, as the Astros righthander handcuffed the Cubs on five hits.

"J.R. has pitched well in his last two games," Astros Manager Bill Virdon said. "He got out of the groove in the sixth inning and started to guide the ball, but he came out of it and came through for us."

The Astros jumped on Cub starter and loser Ray Burris, 4-4, for a pair of first inning runs on Jose Cruz' two-run double to left centerfield.

The T-Birds of the International League dunned the Sabres with a 13-2 victory Wednesday.

T-Bird pitcher Doug Cowling kept his record clean at 2-0 with the victory. Glenn Slate was the loser.

Jeffery Keller was standout batter for the Sabres with a triple in the fifth. Helping to put together 10 hits for the T-Birds were Bret Crenweige, John Mata, and Doug Cowling.

The win gave the T-Birds a 4-4 season record. Their next match will be against the Talons on Friday.

Lions claw Pals

The Lions of the American Minor League clawed the Pals in a lopsided 22-1 win Tuesday, where the game was called for rain after three innings.

Winner at the mound was Chris Churchwell with a 4-1 record. Loser was Randy Hayworth.

Hitmen for the Lions included Walter Brumley with a double, David Shortes with four hits, and Timmy Conner with two hits.

Oilers drill Hawks

The Oilers of the American League clipped the wings of the Hawks with a 13-5 win Wednesday.

Scott Richardson was the victorious moundman, Jay Pirkle, the loser. Richardson performed well with 14 strikeouts, and no bases on balls.

Chief batman for the Hawks was Tony Shortes with a double. Hitters for the Oilers included Robbie Phernetton, Tony Barber and Scott Richardson.

The victory gave the Oilers a 4-1 season record.

Cubs fee-fi-fo Giants

The Cubs of the National Pee-Wee League felled the Giants 13-10 in a Wednesday game.

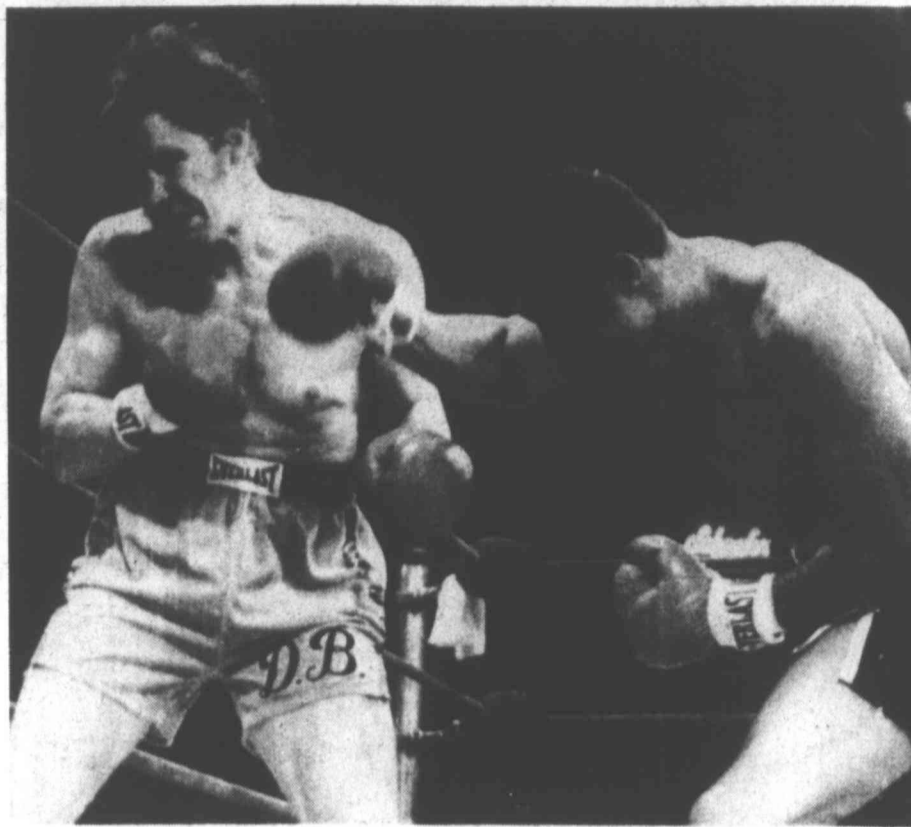

Winning pitcher was Rockie Sharpnack, while the loser was Roberts for the Giants. The Cubs were helped by third baseman Matt Garrett who belted two singles, and James Myers who hit a single. Pitcher Sharpnack ended the game when he caught a high fly ball.

Defensive standout for the Giants was Matt Hunter who made two unassisted outs at home.

Tigers stripe Panthers

A meeting of the cats in the Pee-Wee American League resulted in a 14-3 win for the Tigers over the Panthers.

Winning pitcher was Perry Prudhomme, while Joey Belmonte took the loss at the mound. This gave the Tigers an unblemished 2-0 record for the season. The Panthers have yet to win one out of two games.

THE RIGHT WAY TO GO — Ken Norton catches Duane Bobick with one of the four smashing rights that led to a victory in the first round of their heavyweight match in New York's Madison Square Garden Wednesday night. Norton won on a TKO after 58 seconds of the first round.

THE SCENT OF VICTORY — Ken Norton moves away in triumph as referee Pete Della starts his count over Duane Bobick in the first round of their heavyweight match in New York's Madison Square Garden Wednesday night. Bobick got up before the 10 count but Della stopped the fight giving Norton the victory on a TKO.

Battle ends in 58 seconds, Norton to take shot at Ali

NEW YORK (AP) — Like a tornado striking a Kansas farm house, it was over in 58 seconds.

A man in the red-cushioned $50 ringside seats reached down to pick up his hat. A lady in a long white gown turned to speak to a mustachioed man behind her. Another man reached in his pocket for change to buy a beer.

They blew the fight completely. NBC-TV set an all-time record for reruns. The midnight show came on an hour early.

Tall, hard-hitting Ken Norton gets another shot at Muhammad Ali — his fourth. They're already booked — contracts signed and in the safe — for a title fight in Rio de Janeiro in September.

It's appropriate. The end of the season's reruns on the big tube. Will fight fans stand still for a fourth Ali-

Norton fight for millions of dollars?

Tune in next September. And young Duane Bobick, boxing's new "Goden Boy," the handsome ex-Olympian who came up from the cow country of Bowls, Minn., almost destroyed in a first-round knockout after 38 straight victories — what of him?

"He is young and strong. You haven't heard the last of Duane Bobick," Norton said graciously afterward.

The polite farm boy with the shock of curly copper hair is too good to lose so early. He seems a foreigner to his craft — modest, pleasant, soft-speaking, without bombast.

He took a terrible right hand shot to the throat early in the battle. Water welled in his eyes. He couldn't see. He became a helpless target of Norton's slashing, relentless fists — a vicious blow to the stomach, a right to the head, right, left, right, left.

Blood spewed from Bobick's handsome features and he crumbled. At the count of nine he rose on rubbery legs, his face a dazed mask of bruises and blood. Referee Patty Della stopped it.

It was quick and merciful. Bobick had been brought along too quickly. He was a young bear thrown into the arena with a roaring lion.

Bobick's voice was so raspy, from the blow to the throat, that he could barely be understood. He had no alibi.

"I start slow, I didn't have a chance to get loose," he explained. "He came out barreling to get me." Somebody asked him what he remembered about the fight.

"There wasn't much to remember," he replied, giving the smartest appraisal of the bitter night.

Another reporter suggested that maybe the fight proved what some had charged, that Bobick's victories were over setups. Could this bout have proved it?

"There must have been one live body in the bunch," he answered.

How would he describe his disappointment?

"Shucks," he said.

Norton, who already has been guaranteed $2.25 million to fight Ali in Brazil this fall, was a gracious victor.

He said he was surprised that Bobick hadn't applied more pressure — it was almost as if the kid was frozen.

"You haven't seen the last of Bobick," he warned.

Texas Brawlers to meet Kansas City Cutthroats

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals and the Texas Rangers open a fourgame series here tonight in what may best be described as Round Three.

The Royals and Rangers have scuffled in both previous series this season, the last of which resulted in fines for 10 members of the American League squads.

Nobody is sure if the antagonism between Kansas City and Texas will flare once more into open battle. But everyone admits the situation is tense.

"You never know," said Whitey Herzog, manager of the Royals. "I can't be surprised because of all those statements guys like Horton, Ellis and Corrales have made saying they're going to get Porter."

Both teams were left bitter by a 20-minute fight last Saturday night in Texas that resulted in two Royals and five Rangers being ejected from the game.

The brawl began when Kansas City catcher Darrell Porter and Texas second baseman Bump Wills exchanged words, then blows, following a rundown involving Wills at third base.

Royals third baseman George Brett has been sidelined since then with an elbow injury and designated hitter Hal McRae has complained of bruises.

Porter was also involved in an April 27 fracas that began when Texas hurler Len Blyleven struck him with a pitch. Blyleven fanned the flames by later admitting the action was intentional, which resulted in a $500 fine and a three-day suspension.

After last weekend's brawl, the Rangers' Willie Horton openly challenged Porter to an off-field meeting, teammate John Ellis took credit for injuring Brett and members of the Texas squad watched a replay of the fight, cheering at various intervals.

Lucas exhausted but satisfied Rockets burn 76ers

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets guard John Lucas sat in front of his dressing cubicle exhausted, but with a look of deep satisfaction etched on his face.

HIGH JUMPER — Philadelphia 76ers' Julius Erving (6) does some high jumping as he gets around Houston Rockets' Rudy Tomjanovich (45) for a two pointer in the first quarter of the NBA playoff game at Houston Wednesday night. Keeping track of the play is Rockets' Moses Malone (21).

"It was unreal, but I just knew if I could get back to familiar surroundings I would play well and so would the team," Lucas said Wednesday night after he had quarterbacked the Rockets to a 118-94 victory over Philadelphia in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

Criticized for his inability to control the tempo in two previous losses to the Sixers, Lucas had his hand on the pulse of the game all the way Wednesday as the Rockets narrowed Philadelphia's lead to 2-1 in the best of seven Eastern Conference championship series.

"Tonight we could dictate a little more what was happening," said Lucas, a rookie from Maryland. "When you get the lead you can have something to say about what to do."

The Rockets got the early lead is a big way, zooming to a 21-8 lead with 5:39 left in the quarter and it was Lucas who led them there, hitting 10 points in the first quarter.

Lucas drove for the basket and hit the first two points of the game and the Rockets were in the lead from start to finish finally slowing down the finely tuned 76ers' running game.

"We didn't do anything different, we just played our game," Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke said. "We were able to keep Mo (Malone) and Kevin (Kunnert) in there for awhile. Usually Kunnert will wind up with five fouls and we have to get him out."

But this time Kunnert didn't get into foul trouble, and in fact, played a key role in keeping the 76ers from getting into their fast break offense.

"Kunnert was hitting that little short jump shot over the middle and C.J. (Caldwell Jones) was having to go over and guard him," Sixer forward George McGinnis said. "That keeps us from getting the fast break going."

The Rockets led 33-20 by the end of the first quarter and expanded it to a 59-41 margin by halftime. Their 13-point first quarter lead was their biggest of the series to that point.

Philadelphia made one run at the Rockets when they outscored Houston 15-3 in the first four minutes of the third quarter.

Then Calvin Murphy hit two straight baskets, Malone scored on a dunk and two free throws and the Rockets again were out of trouble.

Malone was the dominant force in the game for the Rockets scoring 30 points and grabbing 25 rebounds. Malone was strangely silent after the game however, refusing a newsmen's handshake and saying only he didn't want to talk.

"We were just not shooting well," a disappointed Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue said. "We were not aggressive. They have a much better team effort. The wide spread and the rebounding in the first half was significant."

"When we can't do anything with the boards, it cuts off the main part of our game."

El Paso tops Amarillo

By The Associated Press

Bob Slater soloed a homer and followed it with a single and a double as El Paso mowed down Amarillo 8-2 in a Texas League baseball game Wednesday.

Amarillo took a 2-0 lead early in the first inning, but their luck changed abruptly when El Paso came up to bat. Slater's homer put El Paso on the scoreboard in the first and Carney Langford popped a three-run homer in the third to insure the lead.

In other Texas League action, Arkansas leveled Tulsa 11-3, Shreveport edged Jackson 5-3, and a scheduled game between Midland and San Antonio was postponed due to rain.

Food for thought

By RON DOUGLAS COWLING
Guest Columnist

Why can't Howard College field a baseball team? Guess no one ever asked! Might I add a few encouraging words along this line.

Consider, if you will, any young aspirant of the diamond who will vie competitively at Ranger Junior College would surely find Big Spring something of a delight after Ranger, Texas. Those of you who have visited that fair community know of what I speak.

Once, some years back (seems like eons) yours truly played at baseball for the first-ever team thrown together by San Jacinto College (Pasadena, Texas). In its infancy the program limped along on sheer enthusiasm and a non-scholarship basis.

I have long since forgotten how the original Ravens fared in the Spring of '61, but my, what those eager beginnings have wrought! Numerous trips to the National Junior College Tournament have long since placed San Jac in the envious position as a prominent baseball power.

Furthermore, Pasadena, Texas, (where the grass is greener) is known for being more than another industrial complex on the Houston Ship Channel. Former Ravens have donned the gray flannels (nay knits) of any number of major colleges and universities over the past sixteen years. The same might be said of Howard College.

An outstanding collegiate baseball program is to a high degree dependent upon a superior climate. One would be hard pressed to find more glorious sunshine than here in Big Spring. The many months of continued warmth on into the fall of the year coupled with an early spring is ideal for an extensive two-season concept which could readily accommodate a schedule of 50-100 games.

What about players? Where will they come from? West Texas is wide open — particularly within a 100-mile radius of Big Spring. Off hand, the only area colleges fielding ball clubs at present are Ranger, Hardin-Simmons, Abilene Christian, Texas Tech and Lubbock Christian College. Woe is to me if I've left your favorites off this list. Until recent years Sul Ross State in Alpine fielded a terribly successful baseball team — often advancing into the NAIA playoffs.

Conceivably, the 15-20 odd players needed to kick off an adequate squad would come from Howard, Midland, Ector, Concho and surrounding counties. In brief, an abundance of talent is right here on our doorstep.

The National Pastime is alive and well in the Spring City, to boot! Witness the hundreds of men, women and children actively participating in the various leagues 'round town. Enthusiasm for the sport is high amongst young and old alike.

Unlike minor league baseball (which is withering on the vine) it's relatively easy to identify with a hometown area. All it takes is an interest in the game. Big Spring will get behind a local contingent, I believe.

Question: Would a Hawk baseball team detract from an already superior basketball program? Again, I will point a finger at my alma mater, San Jacinto College is consistently ranked among the nation's leading junior college cage outfits. Co-existence with the Raven baseballers appears on the surface to be of no problem as each team heads in different directions. Each sport makes the school and the community proud.

Now, play ball!

Meanest kid on 'block'

Walton vs. Abdul-Jabbar

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — During the regular National Basketball Association season, Portland's Bill Walton was the meanest kid on the "block" — blocking an average of 3.25 shots per game. He also led the league in rebounds with a 14.4 average.

But the Los Angeles Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has outblocked the 6-foot-11 Walton so far in the team's semifinal playoff series, blocking a total of 11 in two games, compared to Walton's six.

Neither of the two UCLA alumni rejected a shot in the first game, but in the next two, Abdul-Jabbar blocked three and eight and Walton four and two.

Not that it has made much difference. The Blazers have won all three games — the first two on Los Angeles' home court.

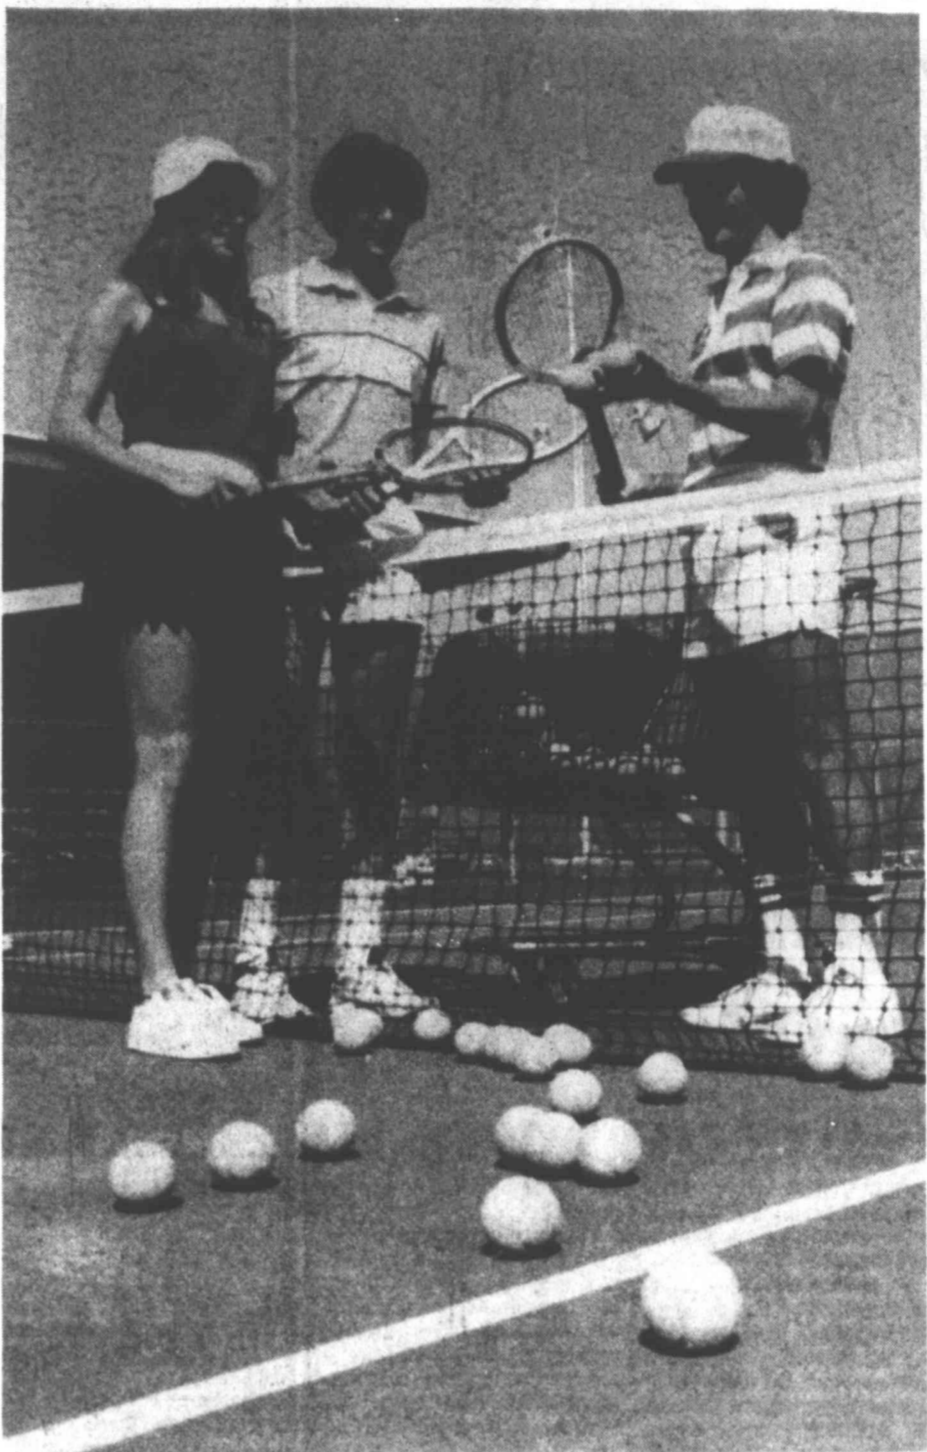

A victory in Friday night's fourth game would eliminate the Lakers and put the Blazers in the NBA final series, against either Philadelphia or Houston.

"Blocking shots depends a lot on what the other team does," Walton said Wednesday. "Patience is a big part of it. Some nights the opportunities are there and sometimes they aren't."

"How a player rebounds and blocks shots depends a lot on the kind of players he has as teammates. If we didn't have good shooters on this team, I would have to score more and concentrate more on that part of the game."

In Tuesday night's 102-97 Trail Blazers' victory, Walton turned scorer instead of blocker and turned the game around with a 14-point fourth-quarter burst.

Abdul-Jabbar, double- and triple-teamed at times, took only 12 shots and turned to a passing and defensive game.

TENN-A-THON FRIDAY — The annual March of Dimes Tenn-a-thon will be held at Figure Seven Tennis Center from 5 p.m. Friday to 5 p.m. Saturday. Interested participants are urged to pick up the registration forms and obtain sponsors. Three of the participants will be Debbie Stevens, Jamey Easterling and Barry Stevens. Easterling is new summer assistant to Stevens at the center.

Rangers lose to White Sox

By The Associated Press

Oakland's Mitchell Page is making American League pitchers rewrite the book.

And as far as Boston pitcher Ferguson Jenkins is concerned, you can include the A's Wayne Gross and Earl Williams.

"I went to slow stuff in the fifth inning," said Jenkins, "but by then it was too late."

Jenkins gave up only five hits, but three were home runs by Page, Gross and Williams as Oakland downed the Red Sox 3-1 Wednesday.

"I threw a hard slider to Page, fastballs to the other two guys," Jenkins said. "Next time, I'll throw them nothing but slop."

Gross has nine home runs this season, second best in the American League, while Page is tied for third with eight. Williams' was his seventh.

Doc Medich, 2-2, went the distance for the victory. Boston's only run was unearned as Carlton Fisk, who had three hits, doubled home Jim Rice, who had reached base on an error.

Indians 4, Brewers 3

Paul Dade's sacrifice fly scored Frank Duffy from third and lifted Cleveland to its third straight victory over Milwaukee. Wayne Garland, a free agent who signed a 10-year, $2.3 million contract with the Indians, scattered eight hits in eight innings including a homer to Von Joshua, in winning his first game of the season after four losses.

Tigers 8, Twins 3

Detroit snapped Minnesota's four-game winning streak with a four-homer attack, handing Greg Zahn his first loss after five straight victories.

Rookies Phil Mankowski and Mark Wagner led off the fourth inning with consecutive homers, sending Zahn to the showers. Ben Oglivie and Milt May also homered in the Tigers' 12-hit attack.

White Sox 4, Rangers 3

Singles by Richie Zisk, Jim Spencer and Chet Lemon snapped a 3-3 deadlock and lifted Chicago to its 10-inning victory over Texas. Chris Knapp, 4-1, held the Rangers to six hits while the White Sox pounded three Texas pitchers for 10 hits.

Mariners 5, Yankees 2

Enrique Romo tossed 2-2-3 innings of shutout relief as Seattle snapped a seven-game losing streak and downed the New York Yankees. Both Yankee runs came on Reggie Jackson's fifth homer of the season in the first inning.

200 PLUS — Mario Andretti (right) jokes with Al Unser (left) in the pits of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway late Wednesday afternoon after Andretti ran 200.311 m.p.h. for one lap during practice for the 500-mile race. Andretti is the first driver to top 200 m.p.h. in practice.

Coach fired

PLAINVIEW — Bill Phillips, head basketball coach at Plainview High School the past nine seasons, has been relieved of his duties.

Phillips, whose teams won two district championships, will be given a chance to remain in the system as an instructor.

The reason given for his dismissal was "failing to contribute or to urge athletes to participate in other sports." He also drew criticism for his court-side conduct during basketball games.

Phillips' team had a 186-106 won-lost record at Plainview.

Coach resigns

EASTLAND — Eastland school officials are seeking a replacement for head coach Doug Dallas, who resigned Wednesday after 11 years in the school system. Dallas has not announced his future plans. Dallas has been head coach four years.

Where is that spark, Sparky?

ST. LOUIS (AP) — It might have been reasonable to expect euphoria among the Cincinnati Reds following their second successive triumph.

The Reds downed the St. Louis Cardinals by 5-1 with 12 hits Wednesday night, but bliss was not a part of Manager Sparky Anderson's mind.

"We're not getting any mileage out of our hits," complained Anderson, who was as intent for the moment on finding fault as any efficiency expert. "We're getting a lot of hits, but we're not getting the runs."

Anderson's pique, the victory and key hits by Pete Rose and Johnny Bench notwithstanding, stemmed from two Cincinnati threats that fizzled during an unsuccessful bid to break open the game.

A bases-loaded opportunity was wasted in the fourth inning when Ken Griffey, following Bench's pivotal ground-rule double, bounced into a double play after two runs were scored.

An inning later, after Joe Morgan singled and raced to third on George Foster's hit, the Reds again came up barehanded when Bench duplicated Griffey's misdeed.

Anderson, while overlooking the occasions when Cincinnati did deliver to meet with his satisfaction, lashed out angrily by noting that "if you're a major leaguer you've got a job to do and that's get the runner in."

"Every time you've got a runner on third base with less than two out — I don't care what anybody else says — you have got to score," he said.

"We are just going up there swinging wildly instead of getting a ball hit," Anderson charged. "That's been our biggest problem more than anything. You look at a guy hitting .340. That doesn't mean anything unless he's doing something to score runs."

The multiplicity of Reds sins having been enumerated, those innocent were pitchers Jack Billingham, 4-2, and Mike Caldwell, who combined to minimize 11 St. Louis hits.

Billingham was pinned in the seventh, but Caldwell extricated his teammate by inducing pinch-hitter Mike Anderson to hit into a twin killing en route to his first save.

In sharp contrast to his Cincinnati counterpart, Cards Manager Vern Rapp reflected philosophically on the 13 base-runners his team stranded compared to the Reds' six.

"You walk away from a game like that and you feel that you have done everything you could," said Rapp, who chose to forgive his club's absence of meaningful hits.

Labor market tougher for youths seeking jobs

Youngsters looking for summer jobs this year will find the labor market tougher than ever and their chances of success perhaps hinging on a combination of planning and old-fashioned luck.

The U.S. Department of Labor estimates that two and a half million young people between the ages of 16 and 24 went hunting for summer jobs last year. The department hasn't issued a firm estimate for 1977, but a spokesman said he expects the number of job seekers to match last year's total.

Herman Fishman of the Youth Services Bureau of the New York State Department of Labor said the summer job situation has gotten progressively worse every year and added that 1977 probably would be "a little more difficult than last year."

He said his office alone had requests from 20,000 youngsters looking for summer jobs last year and was able to help less than 10 per cent of them. This year, he said, he expects more job seekers and fewer positions. Fishman said there is no area where the demand for summer workers is bigger than the supply. "Getting a summer job is largely a luck situation," he said.

Both he and a federal spokesman agreed, however, that advance planning can increase your chance of success. "If you're just starting now, it's probably too late," said a spokesman at the U.S. Department of Labor.

One of the first things you should know is what you can — and can't — do. Federal law limits employment for youngsters and state laws may require work permits below a certain age level. When state and federal laws conflict, the one that provides the most protection applies.

Here are some of the highlights of the federal regulations as they apply to nonfarm jobs:

—Over 18: There are no limits on the kind of job you can take or the number of hours you can work.

—Sixteen to 18: There are no limits on the number of hours you can work, but you are barred from any job which the secretary of labor considers hazardous. (For details, contact the local office of the U.S. Department of Labor.)

—Fourteen and 15: You are barred from hazardous jobs and may work no more than three hours on a school day and eight hours on a nonschool day, and no more than 18 hours in a school week and 40 hours in a nonschool week. You are not allowed to work before 7 a.m. or after 7 p.m., except from June 1 to Labor Day when the evening hours are extended to 9 p.m.

—Under 14: Formal employment is severely restricted. You can deliver newspapers, perform in television, movies, radio and theatrical productions or work for your parents in a nonfarm business owned solely by them.

Further details are available in a free, Department of Labor leaflet, "The Young Worker." Write to: Consumer Information Center, Dept. 534E, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

A Boy Babysitter—And Proud Of It!

DEAR ABBY: The problem is not with me but with some people I know. First, I am a boy.

Why do they think it's "unmasculine" for a boy to babysit? I'm a senior in high school, and I've been babysitting since junior high. I have sat with children as young as four days old and some were ten and eleven years old. I don't say this in a bragging way, but some of the people who have hired me say I'm better than most girl babysitters my age.

I like children, and I really enjoy babysitting. Besides I think it's good practice for fatherhood. (Not to mention the money I'm saving for college.)

I hope this makes your column. A lot of us boy sitters who get teased for doing "sissy" work would appreciate it.

BOY BABYSITTER

DEAR BOY: My hat is off to you and to all the other boys who enjoy babysitting and regard it as good training for fatherhood. And what a compliment to be left in charge of parents' most precious possessions—their children!

DEAR ABBY: Recently I drove through a small "art-colony" village in Pennsylvania, which is normally frequented by tourists.

I got the shock of my life when I saw about 75 young people all dressed exactly alike—in blue denim! I wondered if there had been a prison break, or an invasion of the "Union Army."

What is it with our young people? They have about as much individuality as connected sausage links. They all look alike. Same dress, same jeans, same long straight hair—it's hard to tell one from the other. Go anywhere young people gather, high schools, colleges, social affairs, it's the same story. Why are they afraid to be different?

It wasn't like that 20 years ago. Kids looked and acted like individuals and enjoyed it.

WONDERING WANDERER

DEAR WANDERER: The young people who dress uniformly today do so because they want to identify with each other. There is comfort and security in "belonging" to a gang, group or band. And if it makes them happier, what's the harm?

DEAR ABBY: Please help me! I am pregnant, but I never went all the way. I know that's hard to believe, but it is true, so help me God!

I'm 17 (so is he) and we have gone steady for a year and five months, during which time we did a lot of very heavy petting, but I swear to you that I am a virgin. We came close, but never actually went all the way.

How can I get my parents to believe me? They will think I am lying for sure. Have you ever heard of this ever happening to anyone else?

Please help me. We love each other very much, are graduating in June and plan to be married.

NEEDING HELP

DEAR NEEDING: Yes, I have heard of such cases. It is indeed possible for a girl to become pregnant and remain a virgin. Girls who do everything "but" qualify only as technical virgins, but virgins they are.

'Windfall profits tax' proposed by Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans are ready to counter President Carter's energy program with a major proposal of their own that seeks to increase U.S. energy production by lifting price controls from oil and natural gas.

The GOP energy "alternative," expected to be backed today by the Senate's Republican membership, would allow energy companies to reap larger profits on domestic energy production.

But according to a draft of the proposal, these firms would be subject to a "windfall profits tax" unless they reinvested the added profits into finding and developing new oil and gas reserves.

A copy of the draft was obtained by The Associated Press.

GOP leaders stress that the draft is not final and may be subject to last-minute changes. But Republican congressional sources say it is unlikely that the main elements of the proposal will be modified.

While the President's proposal aims to reduce U.S. consumption by taxing excessive use of scarce fuels, the proposed GOP plan would let energy prices rise without taxation in an effort to spur production.

"Unwise government intervention in the marketplace has been the major cause of supply shortages, unrealistic prices, excessive consumption and increased dependence on foreign sources," the draft asserts.

But the proposed GOP plan also advocates energy conservation incentives similar to those in the administration plan, including tax breaks for those who install home insulation or solar-energy units.

And it calls for continued development of the controversial breeder reactor program at Clinch River, Tenn., which the administration has proposed canceling. But it urges that a decision be delayed on whether technologies that use plutonium — such as the breeder reactor — should be used commercially.

Such an incentive can only be provided by a "return to free market pricing," says the GOP draft proposal.

"The plan will call for a balance between strong conservation and strong production" efforts, said Max Friedersdorf, staff director for the Senate Republican Conference.

production" efforts, said Max Friedersdorf, staff director for the Senate Republican Conference.

Nuclear club split continues

Fifteen nations that export nuclear tools and technology refused to agree on a proposal to slow the spread of nuclear weapons, despite U.S., Soviet and British backing for the plan.

Although members of the so-called "Nuclear Suppliers' Club" failed to reach an accord during last week's talks in London, they did agree to resume their talks next month.

material that can go into nuclear weapons.

"The American proposals undoubtedly have disturbed the international nuclear community," one expert insider said of the failure of the London talks. "But it could be the initial reactions of resistance may have been intended to smoke out U.S. intentions."

West Germany, Japan, France, Britain and other major exporters and users of nuclear energy do not have easy access to uranium supplies and enrichment facilities. Some nations suspect the Carter policy may be motivated by a wish to recapture the U.S. monopoly that once dominated the worldwide nuclear market.

The proposed plan also recommends that utilities wishing to convert from oil or gas to coal be given a five-year exemption from meeting federal clean air standards.

GOP leaders contend that the administration's energy plan, which would continue price controls on both gas and oil, fails to offer industry enough incentives to find

Gas discovery reported

AMARILLO — K.B. Watson, Pioneer Corporation president, has announced that a new offshore Louisiana gas discovery has been made by Transco Exploration Co., operator of a group of eight companies which includes Pioneer's subsidiary, Pioneer Production Corporation.

were logged between 6,600 feet and 6,800 feet. On a drill stem test from perforations between 6,702 feet and 6,722 feet, the well flowed 7.7 million cubic feet of gas per day on 20-64-inch choke with a flowing pressure of 2,410 pounds per square inch.

310 discovery is the second commercial discovery made on five Transco-operated blocks acquired at the November 1976 Federal Lease Sale. A multiple zone gas-condensate discovery was announced in April on Vermilion Block 310 in which Pioneer Production Corporation has a 10 per cent interest. Another well on West Delta Block 34 had non-commercial gas shows and additional exploratory drilling is planned for the block.

Giving the first account of the secret exchanges that preceded last week's allied summit talks, insiders say two themes dominated the two-day meeting.

The first was a formal British-Soviet proposal, supported by the U.S. delegate, Joseph Nye, to ban sales of nuclear plants, equipment, technology and fuels listed as sensitive unless purchasing nations agree to constant surveillance of all their nuclear installations.

This proposal for "full scope safeguards" would apply even to sectors of the nuclear industry that a user-country may have developed unaided by outside sales.

Despite U.S., British and Soviet agreement on the proposal, the plan was blocked by other members of the "club," including France. The French, who built much of their nuclear technology without outside help, saw such a proposal as "an inequity."

The second key theme at the London talks involved Nye's detailed explanation of the Carter administration's new domestic approach to the problem of stopping or slowing the spread of nuclear arms.

Nye spelled out how the United States intends reshaping its own program of research and development for a new generation of reactors that will not yield

Governors may confer

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Edwin Edwards has asked the governors of Texas and Oklahoma to meet with him later this month to confer on energy.

Edwards said last week he hoped to arrange a meeting with the governors of Texas, Oklahoma and Alaska to discuss energy matters.

In a telegram Wednesday to Govs. David L. Boren of Oklahoma and Dolph Briscoe of Texas, Edwards said, "Recent developments indicate it would be advantageous for the three of us to confer on matters of mutual interest."

There was no indication why the telegram was not sent to the Alaskan governor.

Earlier this week, Edwards' state energy chief expressed concern that the anti-trust division of the U.S. Justice Department is demanding extensive records from pipeline companies and producers dealing in interstate natural gas.

Both Texas and Oklahoma have extensive interstate pipeline systems for distribution of natural gas production in those states.

Louisiana, meanwhile, exports much of its natural gas, producing 64 per cent of all the natural gas flowing in the nation's interstate pipelines.

Edwards suggested that Boren and Briscoe meet him in Dallas some time during the last week of May.

Mothers influence

with Marj Carpenter

This is the first year in many years of newspapering that I ever failed to mention Mother's Day in a column. But I couldn't think of anything new to say about the occasion.

Then I received a book from my daughter in England, who works for a publishing house there. They had put out a book called "Mothers" It sounds dull, but it's not.

They selected 100 mothers of the famous and infamous. They tell such items as that Al Capone's mother thought "Al was a good boy." It told of how she took a dish of macaroni and cheese to him in prison and set off the burglar alarms with the metal stays in her corset.

It tells of Fidel Castro's mother, whom Papa Castro did not bother to marry until after she had five children.

Fidel was the middle child and when he got old enough to go to school, he threatened to burn down the Cuban plantation if he was not allowed to learn to read and write. The Jesuit School would not take the youth unless the parents were married, so young Fidel accidentally caused a wedding.

Then there were stories about such persons as Eleanor Roosevelt, who was the daughter of Elliott Roosevelt (younger brother of Theodore, and Anna Hall.

Among Ann's forebears were a signer of the Declaration of Independence and the man who administered the oath of office to George Washington. Her father, Valentine G. Hall was the son of an Irish immigrant who had become very rich.

George Bernard Shaw claimed he had the worst mother imaginable, and Richard Nixon said his mother was a "saint." Fanny Smith, who was the mother of Florence Nightingale, was still on her honeymoon after two years of marriage and two years of traveling through Europe when she named Florence for the town she was born in.

There is a biography on Nancy Hanks with Abraham Lincoln's words, "God bless my mother, all that I am or ever hope to be I owe to her."

Adolf Hitler's mother, Lara Polz and her husband had to receive a papal dispensation to allow them to marry since they were second cousins. She was pregnant at that time. Her first three children died but, Adolf lived.

The real beauty of the book is that it presents such a variety of mothers from Beethoven's to Louisa Mae Alcott's and from Nero's to Al Jolson's.

Published by Paddington Press in London and New York, it is as unusual a book as I've seen in many a day. It makes no comment, but leaves the reader to decide what influence the mother had on her respective daughter or son.

And it's kind of frightening when you get to thinking about the influence of a mother on the life of a child who in turn may influence all of history.

It gave me a whole new outlook on Mother's Day — looking past the flowers and the pretty cards and speeches to the awesome responsibility that goes with being a mother.

It gave me something to think about — when out ridin' fence.

Are FBI agents mistreated?

By OMAR BURLESON, M.C.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — As has been recently reported in the press, retired FBI agent, John Kearney, has been indicted in New York for directing mail opening and wire tap operations while searching for fugitive members of the radical Weather Underground from 1970 through 1972. This delights a lot of the liberals here in the Congress and some liberal organizations and newspapers.

It seems that a faction in the Justice Department, hostile to the FBI, hopes to reach higher-ups in the FBI through prosecution of middle-level supervisors such as Kearney. These people seem to feel that it was a crime for agents to investigate, by whatever methods they could, links between subversives in this country with Cuba, communist China or try to find out where the terrorists which were so active in the early 1970's were going to bomb next. And how far back should investigations go to determine law violations? Should an FBI supervisor be prosecuted for alleged acts in 1970 or similar acts in 1951 or 1967? Technically, there were violations but should we expect the subversives, the bomb-throwers and agents of foreign governments to come in and report their activities to the FBI.

There is not a nation in the world and, particularly, the more developed countries, which does not have agents in other nations who collect information by whatever method they may employ. The left-wingers are against crime all right but they don't like the FBI, the CIA and other protective agencies who act against these elements who would destroy our country. It would seem that the Justice Department should be chasing the terrorists who seek nothing less than the destruction of America. The "way-outers" who are harassing the FBI talk of the rights of the terrorists and subversives and make culprits of the FBI agents who try to keep track of them in an effort to find out where they will strike next.

Legislation is being prepared to place more restrictions on the ability of our security agencies to investigate foreign spying in the U.S. They want to require a Federal Judge's permission before wiretapping could be used to monitor foreign intelligence activities. These liberal elements would know where they could find a like-minded Federal judge who would grant an injunction against any such plan of action.

There is no question that the activities of our Federal law enforcement agencies should be made accountable to authority. Certainly, we do not want a Gestapo. In fact, this is already required under law. The whole concept of law enforcement, even in the case of subversive activities, is not the invasion of personal liberties. In a fundamental sense, such invasion would be a profound corruption of the American law enforcement system.

The fact remains that those who would subvert our Nation in the interest of a foreign country or for the purpose of destroying our Government can only be controlled through techniques which would not be employed against the common criminal. The burglar, the murderer or the rapist is the responsibility of local and state police and not the primary business of any Federal officer. The terrorist, the spy and the agent who would steal our military secrets can only be caught by our Federal law enforcement agencies created for that purpose.

Prisoner wants his day in court

Another prisoner at the state penitentiary in Huntsville is coming back to Big Spring this month on a writ of habeas corpus requesting a new trial.

Ismael Valdez, around 35, who was sent up on a life sentence as a habitual criminal, wants his day in court.

A rash of writs have appeared in courts all over Texas in recent years as an increasing number of prisoners take law courses while serving their sentence and request new trials.

Valdez, who was involved in two separate shootings in Big Spring, is reported to have earned a college degree while serving in Huntsville.

Wealthy widow robbed
Man who lit cigars with $100 bills flees

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A man who used $100 bills to light his cigars while buying rounds of drinks at a suburban tavern is being sought as the mastermind of the multimillion-dollar robbery and murder of a reclusive grocery heiress.

Authorities say state murder charges and federal fugitive warrants have been issued for Howard Willard, 38, and a woman believed to be traveling with him, Marjorie Pollitt, 48. They are thought to be en route to Daytona Beach, Fla.

About $1.6 million was found in the possession of three persons already in custody in the case. Authorities say at least $1.4 million is still missing from the home of Marjorie Jackson, 66, who was found shot to death early Saturday.

Lt. Robert Kirkman of the Marion County Sheriff's Department said one of those already arrested told police that Willard got a floor plan from a man involved in the January theft of $817,000 from her home.

The man, whom Kirkman declined to identify, said the plan to rob the heiress developed after he met Willard at an inner-city nightclub, Kirkman said.

Willard was identified as the man lighting cigars with $100 bills, buying rounds of drinks and passing out $100 bills to friends late last week.

Police found more than $5 million in cash still in her house, stuffed in drawers and closets.

CROSS PLAINS — A Cross Plains vocational agriculture teacher, Dartz Brumley, who admits he swung on high school principal Ray Freeman, is appealing a decision by the school board not to renew his contract.

Brumley has filed his appeal with the Texas Education Agency. Brumley is in his first year of teaching at Cross Plains. The trustees voted, 4-3, not to offer Brumley a new contract.

Arkansas water surplus eyed

LUBBOCK — Water, Inc., directors will be briefed Friday by the consultant whose firm has determined there is surplus water in Arkansas which could be imported to the High Plains of Texas and New Mexico.

Bob Millwee, president of Stephens Consultant Services, Inc., of Little Rock, will address a Water, Inc., board meeting set to begin at 2 p.m. in the Fifth Floor Meeting Room of Lubbock's First National-Pioneer Building.

The consultant documented a surface water surplus of 43 million acre feet annually for Arkansas through the year 2020. The resulting 67-page report notes that an annual export of six million acre feet, less than 10 per cent of the water leaving Arkansas without including the Mississippi, would be adequate to maintain current irrigation levels on the High Plains. The study further indicates that the transfer of water from Arkansas to Texas would have benefits for both states.

Water, Inc., President J.W. Buchanan has labeled the report a major "breakthrough" in assuming a plentiful water supply on the High Plains in the years ahead.

Two million acres of land damaged by wind erosion. SCS defines damaged land as that where soil removal or deposition by wind erosion has been enough to subject it to further erosion hazards; to materially reduce yields; or to impair inherent productive capacity.

Swine disease is 'mystery'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senior Agriculture Department scientist said today that control measures should be initiated immediately to slow the spread of pseudorabies, a serious disease of swine, but that an all-out eradication program is not feasible now.

"We need to know more about the amount and distribution of the disease," said Dr. F.J. Mulhern, administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Services (APHIS). "Such an eradication program would be expensive, so we need to be sure of our facts before launching such an effort."

Mulhern said control measures should include surveys to determine the extent of the disease nationwide, vaccinations of infected herds, procedures for cleaning up infected herds and testing to insure against a recurrence, state and federal shipping rules for all kinds of swine and additional research.
