2,599 students to be bused

Five schools closed by board

By BOB BURTON

The Big Spring School Board unanimously adopted a motion which will close five elementary schools and will affect virtually every school and student in the district.

The board took the action only minutes after a public hearing at which only about 200 parents and school personnel voiced only mild criticism.

The motion, made by trustee Jim Bill Little and seconded by Don Reynolds, will attempt to solve the problems which have besieged the school district for the past 20 years.

The problems include dropping enrollment, dropping revenues, a deficit budget, Webb closure, Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) regard to desegregation from the landmark 1955 Supreme Court decision through the present.

"IF WE CAN perhaps, and I underline perhaps, make ourselves acceptable in the eyes of all-knowing HEW, then it seems eminently wise to do this," he said.

"We have fought this battle as long and as hard as we can. Making any other choice will mean a hazard of our federal funding and a loss of our state funding."

"From Webb this community has learned the power of a government agency," commented Watkins, "their immunity and the effort involved in dealing with them is enormous."

Last in the presentation was business superintendent Don Crockett, who displayed statistics on the impact of the proposal on schools. Most significantly, Crockett pointed out that the alternative to closing these campuses would be to increase the district tax evaluation by $12.6 million and increase the tax rate by four cents per $100. The proposal would save, according to Crockett, $258,797 for the upcoming school year.

"We are accomplishing two ends in the busing we have presented here," summed up Watkins. "We are busing about 400 students purely to please HEW and achieve racial equality. But the majority of the busing we are doing is to achieve our aim of educational equality, which is a concern of the entire school board."

The question-and-answer period which followed the presentation was actually shorter than the presentation. Most questions were concerned with clarification.

"Why won't TEA accept the new plan?" asked Bobby Allen.

"Because Bauer Elementary will still have over 66 per cent minority pupils," replied McKenzie.

"What will happen to our bilingual programs?" queried Amado Morena.

"They will be enhanced," replied McKenzie. "The bilingual program will be offered at each school under the new programs."

"What about teachers? Who will go?" asked Morena.

"We believe that normal teacher attrition will take care of the problem of over-staffing," said Watkins. "I think there will be a place for those who want to stay."

To the question, "Why me," the Board replied simply "If not you, it would have to be someone else."

ROY WATKINS...outlines new program desegregation non-compliance, Texas Education Agency (TEA) desegregation non-compliance, and the need to continue to provide quality education in Big Spring.

THE PROPOSAL, which was the result of a year of study, would result in the busing of 2,599 students, 400 of that number for purely racial reasons. Presently, the district buses 1,437 students. The longest in-town bus route is to be five miles.

The crowd was mostly quiet as it listened to an hour of introduction from school board president Roy Watkins, Superintendent Emmett McKenzie, school district counsel Guilford Jones, and school business superintendent Don Crockett. The introduction was intended to provide full information about the facts which led to the school board decision.

Watkins led off the introduction at 5:15 p.m., telling the crowd, "to this date, no action has been taken by the Board, no agreements reached."

"The announcement of the Webb closure was the final signal that this move had to be made, and had to be made now. The Board is in a budgetary bind for the coming school year."

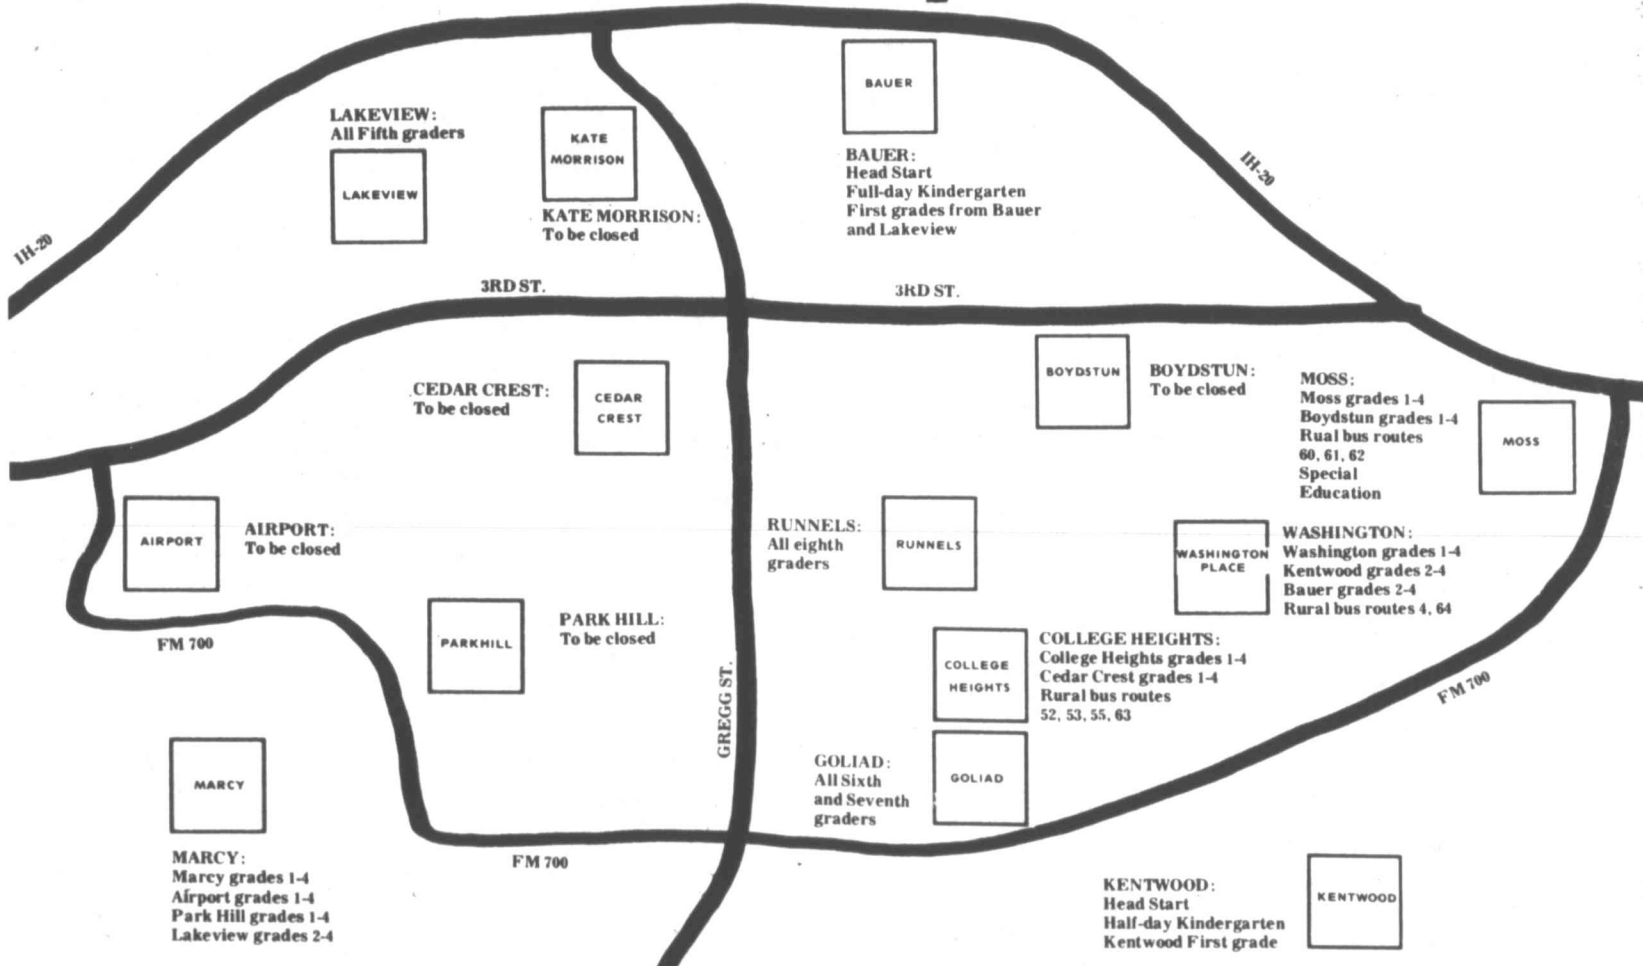

"Along with the continuing decline of the student population," Watkins continued, "is the HEW desegregation guidelines. We don't like the guidelines, but we don't have much choice. The proposed changes will, we expect, satisfy HEW. They may not, however, satisfy TEA, which may raise further problems."

SUPERINTENDENT Emmett McKenzie told the crowd that the proposal he introduced was intended to conform to HEW guidelines while busing a minimum of children.

McKenzie stressed that particular attention had to be paid to racially-identifiable schools — schools with over 66 per cent minority enrollment. These included Bauer with 96 per cent, Cedar Crest with 75 per cent, and Lakeview with 94 per cent minority enrollment.

He also pointed out two campuses with more than 50 per cent minority enrollment — Airport with 63 per cent and Runnels Junior High with 54 per cent.

Guilford Jones addressed the history of the school progress in

Here is the way each school will look

The final proposal accepted Thursday at the school board public hearing will affect all of Big Spring. The proposal leaves no school untouched, no student entirely unaffected. Here is the approved proposal:

BAUER will be converted to house Head Start, district-wide full-day kindergarten, and first grades from Bauer and Lakeview attendance areas, totalling about 420 pupils.

KENTWOOD will house district-wide half-day kindergarten and Kentwood first graders, totalling about 250 pupils. Any pupil may attend either kindergarten under this proposal.

LAKEVIEW will house all fifth graders, district-wide. The approximately 358 pupils would require 17 classrooms. Three relocatable classrooms will be moved to Lakeview to handle the need for space.

BAUER AND LAKEVIEW will send their present second, third, and fourth graders to southside schools. Lakeview pupils would go to Marcy and Bauer pupils to Washington.

CEDAR CREST would be closed. Pupils will be transported to College Heights.

KATE MORRISON, AIRPORT, BOYDSTUN, CEDAR CREST AND PARK HILL will be closed. The remaining schools will meet desegregation guidelines for HEW.

MARCY (capacity 568) will house Marcy 1-4, Airport 1-4, Park Hill 1-4, and Lakeview 2-4. Minority enrollment will be 43.63 per cent of 408 pupils.

COLLEGE HEIGHTS (capacity 412) will house

College Heights 1-4, Cedar Crest 1-4, Rural bus pupils, routes 52, 53, 55, 63. Minority enrollment will be 43.39 per cent of 371 pupils.

WASHINGTON (capacity 460) will house grades 1-4, Kentwood 2-4, Bauer 2-4, and rural bus routes 4 and 64. Minority enrollment will be 44.18 per cent of 421 pupils.

MOSS (capacity 360) will house Moss pupils 1-4, Boydston pupils 1-4, rural bus pupils routes 60, 61, 62, and Special Education. Minority enrollment will be 33.91 per cent of 286 pupils.

GOLIAD JUNIOR HIGH (capacity 750) will house district-wide grades 6 and 7 for a total of 704 students.

RUNNELS JUNIOR HIGH (capacity 700) will house the eighth grade, totalling 431 students.

Chinese defense chief predicts Russia-U.S. war

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese Defense Minister Yeh Chien-ying predicts a "big war" soon between the United States and the Soviet Union and says China "must race against time" to build up industry in the interior before it happens.

In a speech in Peking on May 9 to a nationwide industrial conference, Yeh said the United States and the Soviet Union "are locked in an increasingly fierce struggle for hegemony" and "a war will break out some day."

"We must be clearly aware of this situation," Yeh continued, "keep war in mind and get prepared for it, for a big war that will break out at an early date."

"We must race against time and work as quickly as possible so that we can build industry in the interior well before the outbreak of war."

Party Chairman Hua Kuofeng echoed Yeh, saying, "We must definitely be ready for war. We cannot afford to let time slip through our program called for the shift of industry from the densely populated east coast to the interior, but the program is believed to have lagged in recent years.

Yeh, a 79-year-old associate of the late Premier Chou Enlai, said the transfer of industry "is not merely a question of industrial distribution; it is a question of strategy that affects the whole situation."

"We must build the interior ... as fast as possible so that it can make greater contributions to the development of our national economy and our preparedness against war in peacetime and operate as our strategic rear base area in time of war."

He also stressed the need to "ceaselessly strengthen national defense capabilities" as long as American and Soviet imperialism exists.

Hise named interim school chief

Lynn Hise was unanimously appointed interim superintendent of the Big Spring School District at the Board meeting following the public hearing Thursday.

Hise, who was assistant superintendent of instruction for ten years and principal at Boydston Elementary for one year, said he intends to get under way with the proposal for the closing of the campuses immediately.

Jim Bill Little, in the only other action at the meeting, moved that, should HEW not accept the proposal, the closing of the campuses should continue but there would be no racial busing taking place.

Two plans were tabled at the meeting, one from caution and the other from lack of interest.

First, the Board voted to table the proposal by County Tax Assessor-Collector Zirah Bednar to combine the county, city, and school into one collection agency. The members agreed that their financial position was too fragile to weather the possibility of even a one per cent drop in collections. They agreed to seriously consider the proposal again for the next financial year.

The board also voted to table the proposal for a fundamental campus. After touring the elementary campuses to present their plan, the administration reported that there was not enough interest to sustain such a campus at this time.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Blame vandals

Q: Why hasn't the Westside Community Center bought new sports equipment as was promised? Assurance was also given that the basketball court there would be lighted.

A: Several vandals in the immediate neighborhood of the Community Center destroyed the timer which turned the lights on and off on the basketball courts, in less than two days after the installation. Vandals took about the same time to destroy a second timer. According to the Rev. Harlan Birdwell, it will be difficult to provide new sports equipment until something is done about the vandalism, which at this point is running rampant.

Offbeat: Drought ideas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The drought has spawned a flood of flushing experts with solutions for California homeowners looking for ways to cut water flow in seven-gallons-per-flush toilets.

The Energy Conservation Expo has attracted a number of exhibitors peddling solutions, with prices ranging from $1.98 for the most elementary contraptions to full-scale plumbing overhauls that run $100 and up.

Paul Perkins with his $1.98 Automatic Short Flush and Chuck Hose with his $1.99 Water Minder both attracted large crowds. Both claim their contraptions cut toilet water use by a third.

Hose's Minder is a three-ounce weight which attaches to the chain in a toilet water tank. It allows a constant flow of water while the handle is held down. "The benefit is that not all flushes need the same amount of water," said Hose Friday.

Perkins argued the merits of his Short Flush, an inch-square chunk of styrofoam attached to a firm copper wire that keeps the tank's water level down.

TV's best: Psychic surgeons

HIS IDEAL WOMAN — Talking about a female fire fighters, muscles are what Dr. T. L. Les Doolittle looks for. Doolittle designed a body-building system for women who want to try out as Seattle fire recruits. The ideal fire fighter, he says, man or woman, should be 6 feet tall and weigh 200 pounds. Making a muscle for the University of Washington educator was Judith Fortier, woman's rights supervisor for Tacoma, Wash.

Wallace discusses life

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace will appear on ABC's "Good Morning America" television program Monday to discuss the attempt on his life during the 1972 presidential campaign, aides said.

Wallace was wounded in 1972 while campaigning at a Lural, Md., shopping center. The assassination attempt left him with both legs paralyzed.

In his autobiography, "Stand Up for America," Wallace said he believes Arthur Bremer, the man convicted in the assassination attempt, was part of a plot to kill him.

Nixon hitting links

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon has been playing quite a bit of golf at the Estrella Golf Course near his home here, according to a local golf pro.

Bob Martin, the course's assistant pro, says Nixon shoots in the low 80s over the 18-hole, par-71 course. The former president plays frequently, Martin said, often with staff aide Col. Jack Brennan, his Secret Service bodyguard and his doctor.

Lindbergh gallery opened

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh snipped a light blue ribbon to dedicate the Missouri Historical Society's new Lindbergh Gallery.

The dedication took place Thursday, 50 years from the morning her late husband Charles A. Lindbergh took off from St. Louis to New York, where he began his trans-Atlantic flight to Paris.

The $30,000 gallery, located in the west wing of the Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park, contains many of the society's 15,000 Lindbergh artifacts, including equipment used on the 1927 flight.

Red returns from exile

MOSCOW (AP) — Dolores Ibarruri, the Spanish Communist party's "La Pasionaria," has picked up her Spanish passport and is expected to return to her homeland for the first time since the Spanish civil war.

Spain's embassy here confirmed on Thursday that the 82-year-old Mrs. Ibarruri had been given the passport but officials of Spain's Communist party here declined to say when she would return.

Mrs. Ibarruri fled to Moscow in 1939. "There is a joy of close meeting with my motherland," the official Soviet news agency Tass quoted her as saying. "And, at the same time, there is a sadness of parting with the Soviet Union."

The Communist party recently gained legal recognition in Spain and her return home is expected to stir protests from rightists. Mrs. Ibarruri is expected to be the honorary leader of the Communists in the campaign for the June 15 national elections.

Resuming custody bid

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Erin Fleming, seen by some witnesses as an ill-tempered menace to Groucho Marx and by others as the joy of his waning years, is resuming her legal bid for permanent control over the comedian and his property. Opposing her is Groucho's son, Arthur, who succeeded last month in having Miss Fleming removed as temporary guardian after alleging she was a threat to the 86-year-old Marx' life.

Israel wins arms aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel and its congressional supporters have won a significant victory over the State Department with President Carter's decision to grant the Jewish state special treatment on weapons aid. Carter signaled the Israeli accomplishment when he disclosed at a Thursday news conference that the Jerusalem government would be given high priority in obtaining new U.S. weapons and military technology and the right to co-produce some American-designed armaments.

Carter signs public works bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today signed a bill authorizing $20 billion for general economic stimulation and a $4 billion public works bill, calling the legislation "a major move in the right direction."

With mayors from some of the nation's major cities and congressmen and senators looking on, the President said in a White House Rose Garden ceremony that the legislation demonstrated "in a vivid way the close cooperation that has evolved" between the White House and Congress and the local and federal governments.

The $4 billion appropriation bill for public works is among the spending plans authorized by the larger economic stimulation bill the President signed.

The economic stimulation bill also authorizes $8 billion for public service jobs and $1 billion for a program to boost employment by 200,000 among young people. Bills actually appropriating the money for those programs are still moving through Congress.

The President said that in talking with foreign leaders in Europe last weekend, he found that "the most unified concern expressed was for jobs for young people."

Also included in the economic stimulation bill is authorization for $631 million in general financial assistance for state and local governments.

Administration officials have predicted the public works bill will create 300,000 jobs directly in the construction industry and another 300,000 jobs indirectly.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, who had criticized the proposal as being insufficient, was in the crowd in the Rose Garden. He did not take part in the ceremony.

The President said that the drop of one percentage point in the national unemployment rate since he took office was not attributed to anything he, his administration or the Congress has done, but that it was a reaffirmation of the faith of the American people in the American system. The unemployment rate was 7 per cent last month.

Commerce secretary Juanita Kreps said that the public works bill "will give the people in towns and countries new public facilities, schools, libraries, water facilities, which they very much need."

Carter mentioned the jobs bill Thursday as he held a nationally televised news conference in which he discussed his summit trip to Europe and defended his domestic policies.

The President was asked about Democratic liberals' criticism of his economic policies. In turning aside such complaints, Carter listed the jobs bill as an accomplishment, then also listed appropriations for local governments, a summer jobs program and his proposal to revamp the funding of the Social Security system.

"I do not consider these moves to help people to go back to work and have a good life to be incompatible with a balanced budget before my own term of office is over," he said, linking a balanced budget and "the right of people to have a job."

The $4-billion jobs bill will provide money for road repairs, construction of hospitals, libraries and police stations and other projects designed to benefit communities and put the unemployed to work, especially those laid off from construction jobs.

Carter had been criticized by Sen. George McGovern,

D.S.D., who said in a speech last weekend that Carter was willing to sacrifice important social programs in order to balance the federal budget.

Carter's highlights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here in brief are highlights of President Carter's news conference Thursday:

NIXON

"I personally think (Richard Nixon) did violate the law... I think he was guilty of impeachable offenses. I don't believe he thinks he was," Carter told reporters after the news conference.

EUROPEAN SUMMIT

The meeting gave European allies a "quiet sense" of confidence that they can compete successfully with the Soviet Union and the rest of the Communist world, Carter said.

ISRAEL

The President said he would not recognize the Palestinian Liberation Organization as long as the group refuses to accept the right of Israel to exist.

He said the United States' special relationship with Israel "will be permanent as long as I am President." Israel should accept a Palestinian homeland, Carter said, but he did not define where such a homeland would exist.

FBI INDICTMENTS

Carter said FBI agents should not be immune from prosecution for wrongdoing merely because they work for the government.

CHINA

He said he could not set a target date for establishment of full relations with China because of continuing problems in settling long-standing claims and Peking's refusal to recognize the government on Taiwan.

WELFARE

He expressed hope Congress will pass legislation early next year to overhaul the welfare system. If everything went exactly on schedule, it would take about two more years to implement the program, he said.

McGOVERN-BROWN

"I feel quite secure in my position," Carter said when asked if he sees Sen. George McGovern or California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. as a political threat.

GOVERNMENT SALARIES

Carter said "the men and women on my staff are not overpaid," adding that recent pay increases for Congress, the judiciary and the White House staff were justified.

Texas execution method mulled

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Texas Department of Corrections medical officers have a wide spectrum of lethal substances to choose from for use in the new injection method of execution.

The variety ranges from barbiturates to poisons, such as liquid cyanide and curare, and even injection of air into the blood stream, according to Ron Taylor, administrative assistant to TDC Director W. J. Estelle.

The idea of the injections, Taylor said, is to make the execution as painless as possible.

Taylor said medical and security personnel will be appointed by Estelle to "study and develop the method and circumstances" of the execution.

They will have to decide also whether the executions will take place in the present death chamber or some other site in the TDC system.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe signed the new "execution by injection" method Wednesday to become effective on Sept. 1. Oklahoma had approved a similar execution method the day before and has decided to use barbiturates.

There are 58 death row inmates at the Huntsville State Prison, but only one, Robert Excel White, has an execution date set. The others have had their dates with the electric chair postponed or delayed by appeals.

TDC officials said they expect the new method of execution to be challenged in the courts, and added the electric chair will be retained until all legal battles are solved.

"Old Sparky," as the electric chair is referred to by inmates, has not been used in Texas since 1964.

The law signed by Briscoe merely approved the use of a fatal injection as the method of execution. It did not specify the actual procedure for carrying out the execution leaving that to TDC director W. J. Estelle.

Under the current electric chair method, Estelle must pull the switch sending the fatal current through the body of the condemned, but under the new method he can appoint somebody else to administer the lethal dose.

Under present law, executions are scheduled for sometime "before sunrise." According to established procedure the condemned man has part of his legs, arms and head shaved and then is taken to the small execution chamber. Only a handful of witnesses is allowed to view the execution.

White is scheduled to die on June 15. It was the second date set for the Waco man who originally was sentenced to die last December, but had the date postponed by appeals.

HUMPHREY HONORED — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey exhibited these expressions Thursday evening as he listened to speakers at the 71st Annual Meeting of the American Jewish Committee at New York's Waldorf-Astoria. The group honored the Minnesota Democrat for "exceptional advancement of human rights and human dignity" during the meeting.

Pipeline fire burning

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The pipeline fire in one of Saudi Arabia's major oil fields was still burning today, but the operators said the country's oil exports would not be seriously affected. The president of the company operating the field ruled out sabotage.

"The fire is practically, for all intents and purposes out, and the situation is under control," said Frank Jungers, president of the Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco). Exports will decline temporarily, Jungers added, "but it's not a major lessening of production."

The fire erupted Wednesday following an explosion on a pipeline in the Abqaiq field. It halted production from the field, estimated at 875,000 barrels of crude oil daily. But its major effect was to curtail the flow of oil to the Persian Gulf port of Ras Tanura from the Ghawar field, the world's largest, which is 15 miles south of Abqaiq.

The Ghawar oil moves via the complex of pipelines that crosses the Abqaiq field, but there was no reliable information on how much the flow was reduced.

Oil industry sources in Nicosia said the ruptured pipeline could carry up to 6 million barrels a day, nearly two-thirds of the total Saudi production. But Jungers said there was "not that kind of loss at all."

"We have a lot of pipelines that come up in that area so the number is erroneous," he added.

Other Aramco officials said they were rerouting the crude from Ghawar via other pipelines to Ras Tanura. The industry sources in Nicosia said it was believed there is enough oil in the storage tanks at Ras Tanura and other Gulf ports to continue loading tankers without interruption.

Last month, Saudi Arabia produced almost 10 million barrels of crude oil daily. Of that, about 5 million barrels went to Western Europe, 2 million to Japan and 1.5 million to the United States.

Asked if saboteurs may have caused the explosion, Jungers replied, "Absolutely not. It was a pipeline failure. It definitely was that." But American diplomats said the possibility of sabotage was being investigated.

An Aramco statement said the fire was caused by an explosion Wednesday afternoon that ruptured a section of pipeline between two pumping stations and sprayed oil over a nearby processing area, "causing a fire to erupt and spread rapidly." Officials said one of the pumping stations and one or two gas-separation tanks were damaged.

One worker was killed and 13 others were injured, the company said. A U.S. Embassy official said the dead man was a Saudi foreman, and it was believed no Americans were among the injured.

Colorado City man promoted by AP

NEW YORK — A native of Colorado City, Robert Johnson, has been promoted to the newly created position of assistant general manager for administration and special assistant to the president of the Associated Press, Keith Fuller, president and general manager of AP, announced Thursday.

Johnson, 53, AP managing editor since 1973, joined the news cooperative at Dallas in 1946, following assignments with the Phoenix Gazette, Arizona Republic, Phoenix radio station KOY and the Dallas Times Herald.

He served as a U.S. Marine officer in World War II and the Korean War. Johnson was appointed chief of bureau at Salt Lake City in 1954, was put in charge of the Indianapolis bureau in 1959 and became chief of the bureau in Dallas in 1962. In Dallas he directed AP coverage of the assassination of President Kennedy, filing the first bulletin on the shooting.

Johnson was transferred to New York and appointed general sports editor of AP in 1969, and during his assignment he directed coverage of the massacre of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics.

Johnson is a graduate of Southern Methodist University in Dallas where he studied journalism.

Anticrime bills voted

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas legislators continued today their crackdown on criminals.

Three measures that are part of various anticrime programs swiftly won approval in the Senate and more were on the House calendar.

Thursday, the House sent three anticrime bills to the governor.

By a 27-0 vote, the Senate concurred with House amendments on a measure that would let voters decide next November whether bail should be denied to a person who commits a crime while out on bail.

Senators also approved House changes to a bill that would let a judge deny bail to any person convicted and sentenced to more than two years in prison.

Previously, the denial of bail came automatically only in sentences for 15 years or more.

And the Senate passed again 24-3 a bill making organized crime a separate offense in Texas. Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, said the bill had to be brought back today because the measure passed Thursday mistakenly included commercial obscenity as one of the forms of organized crime.

House members planned final votes on bills they debated Thursday that would:

—Automatically deny probation and lengthen prison time for criminals who injure their victims during sex crimes, robberies or kidnappings or who use guns in committing any crime.

—Raise maximum unemployment compensation benefits from $63 to $84 a week.

—Outlaw pay toilets.

—Exempt church-related child care centers from state regulation.

—Merge the Texas Water Development Board, the Texas Water Quality Board and the Texas Water Rights Commission.

Both House and Senate had heavy work days Thursday.

Action by one or both houses sent to Briscoe's desk for signature or veto bills that would:

—Wipe out the requirement that voters sign the stubs on paper or punch-card ballots and drop them in special boxes. Sponsors said this intimidates many voters who fear their votes are not secret.

—Enable counties to regulate massage parlors in unincorporated areas, where many have fled to escape crackdowns by city police.

—Place a 200-pound daily limit on commercial catches of redfish. After October 1978, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department would set the limit. Sport fishermen would have a daily limit of 10 fish.

—Empower the State Banking Department to block state bank takeovers, a step designed to prevent "rent-a-bank" schemes to milk bank assets.

—Require cruise ships to lock up their casinos when entering Texas waters and notify local prosecutors of their presence if they have gambling equipment aboard.

—Appropriate $15.8 million to 27 state university campuses to pay utility costs in excess of budgeted amounts.

—Enable district judges to issue search warrants to seek evidence linking a suspect to a crime, such as a bloody shirt in a murder case.

The House sent to the Senate, 100-34, a bill virtually outlawing abortions after the first 22 weeks of pregnancy and making them harder to get before the 22nd week.

After the 22nd week, an abortion would be legal only to save the fetus or the life of the woman, to prevent "grave impairment" to her health or to prevent the birth of a defective child. Two physicians would have to certify that analysis of the amniotic fluid indicated a defective fetus in order for an abortion on that ground to be legal.

Before the 22nd week, an abortion could be performed "on the basis of the best medical judgment of a physician that (abortion) is necessary under all attendant circumstances" or if pregnancy resulted from incest or rape.

Police beat Silver dollars stolen

Burglars entered the home of Mrs. Bella Moore, 1212 Madison, between April 24, and Thursday, and took over $2,300 worth of her properties.

According to reports, the burglars made off with a black and white television, a diamond ring, a vacuum cleaner, several ceramic statues, three silver dollars, an electric blanket, and some sheets and towels.

The silver dollars, one dated 1875, and two from 1864, were worth in the area of $500 and total loss was estimated at $2,355.

Thieves entered through the West window of the home of Dana L. Campbell, 1309 Scurry, between Wednesday at 5 p.m. and Thursday at 6 p.m., and took a 20-gauge shotgun, and a 22-caliber semi-automatic rifle.

The guns were worth $150.

Someone stole some tools from Lesley Lloyd, 1601 Wood, between 3 and 6 p.m. Thursday.

According to reports, Lloyd left his tool box in his boat, parked behind his home in the alley. Someone removed the tool box from the boat, took the tools they needed and left the box in the alley.

The thief got away with $40 worth of wrenches.

Carter: 'I don't intend to lose'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter, home from his first summit conference, is coming across as a man with reinforced confidence in his ability to lead the United States and the free world.

The weeks before he headed for Europe were difficult ones for the Carter presidency. His disarmament proposals received a brusque rejection in Moscow. His tax rebate fared no better on Capitol Hill.

But at his seventh news conference, Carter seemed to be a man with renewed confidence. He sounded more like the candidate who told countless campaign audiences: "I don't intend to lose."

His manner also contrasted with his first presidential press conference when he was apologetic toward congressional critics and then left the room quickly after the traditional "Thank you, Mr. President" ended the questioning.

When he was asked Thursday about criticism from within his own party, Carter brushed it aside with no apologies. Questioned about whether he was emphasizing style rather than substance, the President discoursed on why style is substance in his administration.

And when the questioning was over, he lingered among reporters and said he thought Richard M. Nixon was guilty of an impeachable offense, a question he had ducked a week earlier.

Carter opened the news conference by hailing the results of his European summit meeting with the heads of other major non-Communist industrial nations. He said he found a "renewed spirit of hope and confidence" in the ability of western democracies to compete with the Communist world.

While upbeat in his answers to foreign policy questions, Carter cautioned that "the chances for Middle Eastern peace are still very much in doubt."

It was when he dealt with domestic criticism that Carter sounded like a man who is convinced he knows what he is doing.

While Carter was in Europe, Sen. George S. McGovern, D.S.D., addressed Americans for Democratic Action and questioned whether Carter's commitment to a balanced budget would take precedence over traditional Democratic social welfare programs.

A month before he took office, Carter received a memorandum from pollster Patrick Caddell which advised him not to subvert style to substance and also warned that Carter might face more political danger from Democrats like McGovern and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., than from Republicans.

"I don't see either McGovern or Gov. Brown as an adversary or threat," said Carter.

Then he drew laughs by adding, "I feel quite secure in my position."

Obviously annoyed by the McGovern criticism, Carter acknowledged that he could lose liberal support.

It was when he talked about style that Carter sounded his most confident. He wasn't the least defensive when the subject of Caddell's recommendation was raised.

In fact, he said, "I agree... I think to the extent that I can have a good relationship with the people, it makes it easier for me to be a good President."

HANDICAPPED KARATE — Ted Vollrath, president of Martial Arts for the Handicapped, demonstrates techniques with karate instructor Jake Barrocas at Craig Hospital near Denver, Colo. Vollrath lost both legs in the Korean War.

Nixon rescued Sadat?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A relaxed Richard Nixon, casting himself as coolly in charge of his own foreign policy, says he initiated overtures to China, faced the Russians down in the 1973 Middle East war and rescued Egyptian President Anwar Sadat from "a coup or worse."

In a taped interview with British television personality David Frost, Nixon said he had to overcome the reservations of Henry Kissinger to maintain U.S. military operations in Cambodia in 1970, despite demonstrations at Kent State and other universities.

And, again over Kissinger's warnings of possible political and diplomatic implications, Nixon said he ordered the Pentagon to "send everything that flies" to Israel to help the Jewish state snap back from the 1973 Yom Kippur attack by Egypt and Syria.

Thursday night's telecast over an informal network of 155 television stations was the second of five programs expected to bring Nixon approximately $1 million.

Nixon appeared as confident discussing world affairs in Thursday's taped interview as he had appeared uneasy in dealing with his Watergate downfall in last week's telecast.

Nixon, the only man to resign the presidency, assessed the world leaders he met while president and called Kissinger, who became both secretary of state and national security chief, "a genius" who had to have things his way.

Of the world leaders he met, Nixon said:

—The late Chairman Mao Tse-tung of China had "a devilish sense of humor" and lived very simply. Despite debilitating strokes he maintained control over China until his death last year.

—The late Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev was both brilliant and boorish, with "a terrible inferiority complex."

—Khrushchev's successor, Leonid I. Brezhnev, is not as quick intellectually, but also is not as volatile "and in that way a much safer man to have sitting there with his finger on the (nuclear) button."

Residency law change hinted

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — City Hall has begun a count to find out how many of its approximately 7,000 employees live outside the San Antonio city limits.

Officials say its the first step toward a possible revision of an ordinance specifying where employees must live.

The present ordinance allows employees to live anywhere in Bexar County but prohibits them living outside the county.

Police Department officials report the count has found 24 officers living outside the county.

A police spokesman said the officers have been notified they are violating the residency ordinance and given until the end of May to state their intention to move back into Bexar County.

Storms roaming far West Texas

By the Associated Press

Heavy thundershowers and thunderstorms moved into the Amarillo area from the west today after thunderstorms spent much of the night roaming Far West Texas.

One of the heavier thunderstorms dumped about an inch of rainfall at Wink, causing some minor street flooding. In addition to the rainfall in West Texas, some fog was reported in South Texas. Victoria reported fog and noted that the visibility had dropped to about two miles.

Skies were mostly cloudy today except for Northeast Texas where partly cloudy skies were reported.

Early morning temperatures ranged mostly from the 50s in the mountains of Southwest Texas and the Panhandle to the 70s along the coast and in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Scattered showers and thunderstorms Sunday and in the Panhandle Monday otherwise gradual clearing and slightly cooler temperatures by first of the week. Highs in the 70s and 80s. Lows generally in the 50s and 60s except 40s in the mountains.

Your town . . . needs your help

With the fall closing of Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring must attract new industry and jobs for its people as never before.

This requires that the Big Spring Industrial Foundation be recapitalized to support such an effort. Location of new industry in Big Spring takes money for interim financing, utility placements and countless other expenses.

At this crucial time in Big Spring's history, the Industrial Foundation must be in a position to meet these kind of needs for the next three years.

The Industrial Foundation has launched a drive to capitalize. This campaign needs the support and investment of every Big Spring citizen.

A pledge to the foundation is an investment in the future of Big Spring. Please clip out the pledge coupon below and mail it to:

Thought must go into picking name

What's in a name? More than Shakespeare allowed, most people agree. A Webb Air Force Base by any other name would still be, in reality, an air base. But what about when it becomes a municipal airport and an industrial park for Big Spring? What will it be called at that time?

THE STERING committee, a nine-member body that is working on the return of the Webb property to the community, kicked around the name question for a minute of two Wednesday during its meeting at its new office and meeting room in Building 350 at Webb.

The steering committee, itself without a real name, talked about possibilities.

Chamber of Commerce President Roger Brown and State National Bank President John Curry came up with one name: Big Spring Industrial Airport.

Then the discussion began:

Should it be only Big Spring Airport, since air would indicate airport and park would suggest industrial park?

Or would people think that it was only a place to park airplanes?

Should one name encompass the entire facility, or should the airport and the industrial park be called something different?

Maybe the airport should be called Big Spring National Airport and the industrial park named Big Spring Industrial Airport.

THE MATTER was left unsolved, but all the steering committee members appear to agree that getting the word "Big Spring" into the name was most important.

There was a feeling that having the words "industrial airport" on maps might be beneficial to the area as well.

Whatever, Webb will probably cease to be officially named Webb when the Air Force turns the property back over to the city.

Bowing to King

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Just before performing as leader of the Western world at the London summit, President Carter abdicated a little leadership at home by bowing to new congressional prerogatives that may haunt him the rest of his days in the White House.

To break an impasse with the House, Mr. Carter accepted the right of King Congress to set a defense spending ceiling without even the privilege of presidential protest. This constitutes a signal victory in the inexorable post-Watergate campaign by Congress to erode the President's constitutional responsibilities in foreign policy and national security.

Reclining can cause heart palpitation

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me what the cause is of heart palpitations and whether there is any help for it?

My husband is just 70 years old today. He has suffered with these for about seven years and has consulted two doctors. They both took cardiograms and said his heart is all right, but offered no help.

He is conscious of the problem when sleeping. It breaks his sleep. I have read that smoking can be a cause, but he has never smoked in his life. — M.J.K.

Palpitation is a general term that implies an irregular heart beat. It is not necessarily serious, but usually disturbing.

While it can indicate an underlying heart disease, this need not be true in your husband's case. The fact that he has had it for seven years, that he has an apparently normal cardiogram reading, and that it occurs when he reclines all point to an innocent rhythm disorder. With some of the reclining position can put pressure on the vagus nerve, which has to do with the heart beat. What happens when he rolls over on his side? This may relieve him.

Smoking is a common cause of these palpitations, but you say your husband doesn't smoke. Caffeine products can produce the same symptoms, especially if he drinks tea, coffee, or cola in the evenings. Have him try a snack of food with warm milk. This may be just the kind of mild sedative he needs. Even a spot of wine may help. Dreams or vigorous daytime anxiety can also cause night sleeping problems of this kind.

Having said all this, I must add that he should be checked periodically for blood pressure and heart performance. Often a subtle heart problem can be undetected for long periods of time, especially if one is leading an inactive life.

Wish your husband a belated happy 70th birthday.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had problems with my Wharton ducts ever since I got my upper dentures. The right side seems inflamed. It feels like a little sac filling with fluid. When I press on it with my tongue it drains and flattens, but as soon as I eat it fills up again.

I have seen the dentist, and an oral surgeon says it is the Wharton duct. Can you explain, and tell me what I should do? I have another appointment with my dentist. — M.F.

A Wharton duct is an outlet for the submaxillary (salivary) gland. There is one on each side. In your case the duct is probably obstructed so that, when you eat, the saliva, instead of running out collects under the membrane causing the lump you feel.

When you press on it the saliva flows out.

Your dentures could be causing this. Your dentist would be familiar with the problem and be able to adjust the dentures accordingly.

This is a nuisance but no cause of worry. Just something you want to have taken care of.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read an article stating that it takes 24 hours for the male sperm to be regenerated. If a male were to ejaculate prior to intercourse, could that be a safe method of birth control? — W.J.H.

No, for the simple reason that one ejaculation may not completely empty the sperm stored.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that mammograms become more reliable in detecting breast cancer as one gets older? — Mrs. H.D.

Yes. Detection is more likely in women over 50 because the breast tissue becomes less dense with age. Too, one recent study, reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association, revealed that detection increases slightly when two different views of the breast are viewed by mammogram (X ray).

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the reason for nail pitting? Two nails on my son's hand are covered with tiny holes or pits. He is in good health. He is 22. — T.G.

Nail pitting usually results from an outside source, although it may occur with psoriasis or a fungus infection. Check out any chemicals, oils, detergents, or other substances he comes in contact with, perhaps in his work. If the pitting occurs on only two nails of his hand, you might suspect such a cause.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of your booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Editor: Because of Anita Bryant's stand against homosexuality, national publicity was given Rod McKuen's statement "I intend to call upon every comedian friend I know to have so many jokes go forth about her throughout the land that she will be a laughing stock such as this world has never seen before."

We believe this tactic is used, not to destroy the argument, but to destroy the opponent herself. Homosexuality is such an important issue that it should not be accepted or rejected by jokes that are told in the nightclub or on the television show. Homosexuality is not just "another life-style" nor is it a "human right."

It is sad that such an issue cannot be argued on its own merits, rather than issuing a personal threat for Anita Bryant to quit the fight or face the personal consequences.

If the public buys this threat, we will again be accepting the "dirty tricks" which we deplored so much in the past. We will condone, not the debating of the issue, but the character assassination of Anita Bryant.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Is it reasonable to expect a person with a lot of money to hold a place of importance in the church? — Q.O.

DEAR Q.O.: There is no requirement in the Bible that says a man must be successful or prosperous before he can be used by God. In fact, the Bible teaches that riches can be a hindrance to real service for Christ. For example, some people might have thought that the rich young ruler would have made a good disciple, but Jesus saw that he had a covetous heart, and this would make him place riches before Christ. Jesus must come first in our lives, and the rich young man "went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions" (Matthew 19:22).

A person who has been successful in business may well have some experience and abilities that would be useful in a church. However, unless these abilities are joined with spiritual commitment and wisdom, they do not make a person qualified for spiritual work. Notice carefully the requirements set for some of the church leaders in the book of Acts: "Brothers, choose seven men from you who are known to be full of the Spirit and wisdom" (Acts 6:3, New International Version).

Sometimes we feel that only certain types of people are really fit to be leaders. But God tells us that every Christian has a ministry to perform. Yes, some are called to leadership. But others are called to equally important roles, such as prayer, service and comforting others. If we are committed to Christ, we should pray that He will guide us into the specific task he has for us.

Wasted energy

Around the rim

Bob Burton

Carter's energy policy has spawned a number of ideas to deal with the upcoming shortage. Among them are the 100-m.p.g. engine from El Paso, wind power, diesel engines, solar engines, and the omnipresent nuke.

Why is it no one has considered harnessing all the merry-go-round energy wasted on Capitol Hill?

WHEN CARTER calls on the people to make these sacrifices, I have to chuckle. Not at our president — I happen to believe he will go without TVs and chauffeured limos, and I like to see a president strong enough to carry his own bags. But I am a skeptic of the boys in Congress. Some of them I like. William Proxmire, for example, was jogging before Wilbur Mills learned to swim.

But a couple of things that have happened lately, or failed to happen, have me worried about the age-old problem of the bureaucracy. "When will the right hand learn what the left hand is doing before it does or undoes it all again?"

Take for example the recent proposal to fund upcoming Social Security debts out of the public revenues to avoid raising taxes.

Sounds like fun, except that I don't particularly care under what heading the taxes come out of my paycheck. I only know they come out. The Social Security system is an accident looking for a place to happen, and unfortunately, someone up there wants to put off the wreck as long as possible.

THAT'S TOO bad because the wreck is inevitable, and when the ship goes down I'd rather have it as small as possible in hopes we can avoid the whirlpool.

The Social Security system is headed for bankruptcy, and I say let it die. Not because I'm not yet dependent on the system, but because millions of Americans are forced to turn their money into programs from which they can never get a decent return.

Better programs are available privately to invest in.

For those on the other side of the line, the government must, of course, honor its obligations, but what they're doing now is to merge some of the mammoth deficits promised to the people by the Social Security system into the federal budget, where no one can see them.

CARTER HAS attempted to combine the energy programs into one understandable unit under one title. That's good. But why would he want to proliferate the SS system into the general operating funds?

The answer is not to create a patchwork creature, propped up here and there by federal funds lifted out of one ledger by the left hand and deposited in another by the right. The answer is to try (if try we must) to clean up the act. To make the program voluntary first, because I for one think it's unconstitutional now, and to make the returns such that people will want to invest.

If, as a president once said, the business of America is business, then let's run it that way — on a profit basis offering authentic goods for sale. Just for once can we have both hands on the table?

Epidemic in D.C.?

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Startled witnesses recently overheard Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, in a reference to the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., object to the taxpayers' money "investigating the murder of some nigger."

Similar outbreaks of foot-in-mouth disease got Earl Butz fired as Secretary of Agriculture and almost ended Gen. George Brown's career as Joint Chiefs chairman. Both made insensitive remarks that offended minorities.

Ashbrook's alleged indiscretion occurred during the recent crossfire between ex-House Assassinations Chairman Henry Gonzales, D-N.M., and his chief counsel, Richard Sprague. A few congressmen got together over chicken dinner at Washington's Oakland Inn to hear Sprague's side of the controversy.

SPRAGUE ARGUED the need for an investigation of the John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King assassinations. The reference to the venerated black leader, according to witnesses, brought a snort from Ashbrook. Time and money "should not be wasted," he grumped, "investigating the murder of some nigger."

Ashbrook denied that he had ever said anything of the sort. He would never use language like that, he told us, "even in joking." Yet others who attended the dinner recalled the remark clearly.

It is against the unwritten rules of the House for one member to disparage another in public. Most of the witnesses, therefore, didn't want to be identified. Only Sprague was willing to be named. When we questioned him, he acknowledged that he had heard Ashbrook's derogatory remark about the slain civil rights leader.

We learned that Sprague had also kept notes of the dinner meeting, so we pressed him to consult his notes. His notes verified that Ashbrook had made the remark. Others confirmed that they had also heard the same thing.

Others said they had not heard the controversial crack but couldn't deny that Ashbrook had made it. They explained that sometimes several conversations were going on at the same time at the dinner table.

Rep. John Rousselot, R-Calif., who attended the dinner, told us that he had not heard the remark and that it would have been uncharacteristic of Ashbrook to make it.

ACTUALLY, THE Ohio congressman has a reputation for making candid remarks and taking defiant stands. On racial issues, Ashbrook has voted consistently against the civil rights measures that black leaders have supported.

Carter-talk

William F. Buckley, Jr.

A week on the road persuades you that there is one and only one persistent question on people's minds. It is: what do you think of Jimmy Carter? It bespeaks an anxiety to think something about him different from the usual characterizations, all the more because they are not by any means identical. People want to know what Jimmy Carter is "really" like. People both hope that he is holding out on them — and fear he is holding out on them. There is the useful wisecrack in a play of Oscar Wilde, "I hope you have not been leading a double life, pretending to be wicked, and being really good all the time. That would be hypocrisy."

This much is safe to say. (What is unsafe, I'll say later). If Carter turned tomorrow to the left, he would disappoint and surprise about half his constituents. If tomorrow he turned to the right, he would disappoint and surprise about half his constituents. As he stands, both groups tend to co-opt him. It is not a bad position to occupy.

CONSERVATIVES ARE vaguely pleased that he has put off elaborate new federal programs, most particularly the further socialization of medicine, and welfare "reform" defined as a preemption of welfare as a federal concern. They are pleased that he has not yet been snookered by the Communists — thus setting a record for Democratic presidents, who typically give away an invaluable resource within a hundred days or so of taking power. And they are pleased that he did not bestir himself to bring on either the repeal of 14(b) of the National Labor Relations Act, or to give the unions common-site picketing rights.

The liberals are pleased that he has put an end to the purchase of Rhodesian chrome. It has been years since they slept peacefully, worrying about all that Rhodesian chrome coming in from that "illegal" country. They are pleased that he has articulated an energy policy that bristles with rhetoric against Daddy Warbucks types — whether oil and gas producers, or oil and gas consumers. They are clearly attracted to the glorious possibilities inherent in taxing gas and automobiles, and remitting the proceeds to the liberals' favorite people, the poor, and the people the poor vote for, namely the liberals, their friends, and the bureaucracy.

They like Carter's human rights talk, particularly when aimed at countries for which they feel a visceral dislike. These are countries that have refused, sometimes by the use of force, to permit Communization. The prime offender, since the death of Franco, is Chile. Carter scored heavily when in a single statement he denounced Chile, Argentina, and Uruguay.

His sallies against Soviet oppression are welcome, but a little more timid. You see, the liberals do not want us to go back atavistically to the Cold War. They would rather lose it. They also like Carter's republican style.

Telephone strike fears lessen

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Union and company spokesmen now say the possibility of a Communications Workers of America strike against General Telephone Co. of the Southwest is "greatly reduced."

A joint release Thursday said a major breakthrough had occurred in the negotiations over the job restructuring proposal of the company.

The contract between the company and the approximately 6,000 employees in four states expires Sunday.

Strike ballots had been mailed to employees in Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

According to the statement, the new proposal agreed upon by both parties offers "full protection under the life of the agreement" for employees in the top wage schedule.

For the lower ranked jobs in which the company wants to slow down wage increases

"several options have been developed but details have not been finalized," the statement said.

The company's original proposal, termed retrogressive by the union, had called for approximately seven per cent of the employees covered by the contract to receive slowed wage increases over the three-year contract term.

In previous negotiations, the union had expressed dissatisfaction with the total dollar amount of the wage and benefit package presented by GTE.

The union and company differed on the exact percentage increase contained in the benefits.

No statement has been issued on the progress of wage and benefits negotiations.

Injunction socks Starving Artists

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The Southwest Starving Artist Group, Inc. must stop alleged deceptive trade practices, a state district court judge here has ruled.

Judge Edward S. Marquez issued a permanent injunction Thursday against the Dallas-based company that conducts traveling art sales throughout Texas and other states.

The order came after Atty. Gen. John Hill brought suit alleging violations of the Texas consumer protection laws. Hill's office in Austin announced the injunction.

The order stops the firm and its president James McNabb from:

—Misrepresenting the geographical origin or subject matter of paintings offered for sale by using such business names as Southwest Starving Artist art sale.

—Failing to disclose that paintings originate in several countries and misrepresenting the number of artists contributing to the sale.

Child care vote today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State representatives take a final vote today on a bill to exempt church-related child care centers from regulation by the Texas Department of Public Welfare.

It advanced Thursday on a tight 68-67 vote after more than an hour of debate that played off horror stories of child abuse in the name of religion against claims that the state was interfering in religion.

"There are no regulations they (the welfare department) could promulgate that would not contain elements of secular humanism, and this is repugnant to fundamentalist Christianity," said sponsoring Rep. Kenneth Vaughan, D-Garland.

Under his bill, state welfare workers would have the right — but not the duty — to inspect the institutions. If they found a violation of health, safety or child abuse laws, they would be required to report it to "the appropriate enforcement authority."

Both secular and religious child care institutions — including day care centers — were brought under state regulation by a 1975 law, passed largely in response to allegations of mistreatment of children people in homes operated by evangelist Lester Roloff.

Vaughan, a Baptist, said regulations adopted by the welfare department "invade the separation of church and state and intrude on the free exercise of religion."

Vaughan claimed the rules require a child care center to provide training in social living, "sex education, consumer education, and career planning."

But fundamentalist denominations, he said, "find that repugnant to their beliefs."

Rep. Dave Allred, D-Wichita Falls, said a House committee heard testimony in 1975 about a school operated by a religious organization that made five- and six-year-old children take several cold showers daily "because that would remove lust from their hearts."

That school, he said, was driven out of the state by the 1975 law.

He said several religious denominations, including Catholics, Presbyterians and Southern Baptists, opposed the Vaughan bill.

Rep. Abe Ribak, D-San Antonio, said the law was passed because Roloff "said he was taking care of these children when he was not taking care of them."

Rep. Bill Hollowell, D-Grand Saline, said Roloff was "doing good work and he is trying to salvage lives."

"What is the church? The body of Christ. The welfare department is the body politic. I place my faith in the latter," Hollowell said.

Rep. Tom Schieffer, D-Fort Worth, said the 1975 law had forced Hare Krishna day care centers to leave the state. He claimed they had fed children gruel and made them sleep on straw mats.

"What you do when you vote for this bill is put the welcome mat out for the Hare Krishnas, the moonies and all the sects and profiteers to come back to this state," he said.

Captain and Tennille data

ABILENE — An estimated 4,000 tickets have been sold for the Captain and Tennille concert, which will be staged in the Taylor County Coliseum here starting at 8 p.m., Monday.

Tickets are priced at $6 and $7 and are available at the coliseum box office and at Sears.

Park count hits 69,867

COLORADO CITY — Attendance at Lake Colorado City State Park through the first four months of 1977 reached 69,867. Attendance in April alone amounted to 39,945.

For the Easter weekend (April 8-10), attendance totaled 9,221.

X-Ray school is approved

The Malone-Hogan School of X-Ray Technology passed another milestone earlier this year when it became officially approved by the Texas Education Agency for veteran education benefits. The action makes it possible now for eligible students attending the two-year training program to receive fiscal support under the G.I. Bill.

The new development was announced as the X-Ray school's advisory board met to recognize its outgoing members, and to name incoming members for the next governing period.

Retiring are four members of the original board who formed the school: Dr. George Youngman, VA Hospital; R.L. Heith and Mrs. Vonna Lee Cederberg, Malone & Hogan Clinic; and Mr. James Anderson, Leonard's Professional Pharmacy.

Named to the new board along with MHH's administrator Norman Knox, are Ms. Jean Michaud, VA Hospital; Howard Mott, Malone & Hogan Clinic; Jean Connelly, Director of Nursing Service at MHH, Paul Ausmus from Howard College, and Robert Goodwin of Texas Electric Company.

Four students were selected from ten applicants for the new fall term beginning in September: Carlos Gonzales and Valerie Richardson, Big Spring; Mike Weaver, Coahoma; and Joe Reed, Forsan.

Graduates of the two-year training are eligible to take the boards for X-ray technicians anywhere in the United States.

UNVEILS NEW SPRAY SYSTEM — Robert Abplanalp, inventor of the valve upon which modern aerosol spray dispensers are based, demonstrates a new spray system in New York, Thursday, that he says makes fluorocarbon propellants obsolete. Abplanalp unveiled the new valve at a hastily called news conference, one day after the federal government declared fluorocarbon propellants an environmental hazard and ordered a phased end to their use. Abplanalp uses a candle to show that the new valve's spray is non-flammable.

Farm Bolduc battles to keep job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carter administration farm officials, who want to hire their own choice for assistant secretary for administration in the Department of Agriculture, are having a hard time convincing the present occupant to leave.

J. Paul Bolduc, the only top-level holdover from the Ford administration, says he will not give in to pressure and intends to remain on the $47,500-a-year job, at least for now.

"I am not resigning. I do not plan to do so in the foreseeable future," Bolduc said Thursday. He called talk that he was about to quit "absolute, unequivocal rumor."

Tom Sand, an aide to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, said he was not certain about Bolduc's future, but indicated that he may leave the post within a month or so.

"I'm sure it was clear to him that we'd be more comfortable with somebody else," Sand said in response to a query.

The position includes supervision of USDA offices of budget, audit, operations, computer systems, equal opportunity and personnel hiring and firing.

High number of boll weevils survived cold

Results of the first week boll weevil trap catches indicate a high number of boll weevils survived the winter in practically all areas of Howard County, according to James Lee, County Extension entomologist.

Over 540 overwintered boll weevils were caught in 130 traps the first week of May. As expected, traps located in the Coahoma-Sand Springs area caught the highest number of boll weevils. One trap located two miles west of Sand Springs caught 90 weevils in one week. Traps located in the Vincent area caught the second highest number of weevils.

These areas are the traditional areas for the boll weevil. What concerns us, Lee said, is the Luther-Vealmoor area and that area west of Fairview. Forty-six (46) boll weevils were trapped in the Luther-Vealmoor area, while thirty-three (33) weevils were caught in the area west of Fairview. These are areas where we normally don't see the weevil early.

One weevil was caught seven miles west of Big Spring on the Andrews highway, and one weevil was caught two miles south of the interstate on the Lomax highway. These early trap catches indicate that boll weevils are overwintering in all areas of the county.

Lee said they will have a better idea of what the 1977 boll weevil situation will be after trap results are in from the latter part of May and early June. This is when most of the boll weevils come out of hibernation. But as it looks now, with some early planting in a few areas and the trap catches, we can expect to see boll weevil damage earlier and in more areas of the county, Lee stated.

Horse show booked in Andrews County

The Andrews County Quarter Horse Show will be held Saturday and Sunday, May 14 and 15 in the County Arena on the Seminole highway.

It is jointly sponsored by the Andrews County Sheriff's Posse and the Texas, New Mexico Cutting Horse Association.

At 9 a.m. Saturday, halter and performance classes begin, according to Dave Dunn, show manager.

Youth activities start at 11 a.m. with the junior and senior cutting horse contests at 1 p.m. on May 15.

All entries in the classes must be registered in the American Cancer Horse Association with each entry to be checked by the secretary.

Any horse exhibit must be solely owned by contestant or parents, sister, brother, grandparents or legal guardian.

Stallions are prohibited in youth classes. Entries close at 9 a.m. Saturday. June Dunn may be contacted at 523-2620 for registrations today.

There is a $13 entry fee for the youth cutting horse class. Danny Thomas will act as ring steward.

Hunt family wins soybeans court tiff

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge's order lifting delivery restrictions on the May soybean holdings of the millionaire Hunt family has been upheld by the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The court voted 2-1 Thursday to uphold a ruling by Judge Frank McGarr of U.S. District Court that the Hunts may accept delivery on their entire May soybean holdings of 22.7 million bushels.

McGarr's ruling last week, came one day after Judge Joel M. Flaum ordered that the Hunts not accept delivery of more than 3 million bushels.

Flaum had ruled in favor of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission which filed suit April 28 against seven members of the Hunt family and Hunt Holdings Corp., contending that their soybean holdings exceeded the legal limit of 3 million bushels.

The suit charged that the Hunt family, acting as a whole, represents one individual and, therefore, should be entitled to futures holdings on soybeans of not more than 3 million bushels.

Judge Thomas E. Fairchild of the Court of Appeals upheld Flaum's order imposing delivery restrictions last Saturday.

Thursday's decision "vindicated" the Hunts' position that they were not in violation of government regulations, a spokesman for the family said.

"We're delighted with the results and especially delighted that the federal court has removed itself and is letting the market return to normal controls of supply and demand," the spokesman said.

China buys U.S. cotton

WASHINGTON (AP) — As rumored earlier, China has bought 47,600 bales of cotton, the first from the U.S. in two years.

The Agriculture Department said Thursday the cotton will be delivered in the next marketing year, which begins August 1. That means it probably will come from the 1977 harvest.

The sale was disclosed in a weekly report on export sales. Although no other details were revealed, a spokesman said the cotton is worth an estimated $16.7 million at current market prices of about $350 a bale.

Rumors had been circulating that China was looking for U.S. cotton, and Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland told reporters on Monday he thought some would be sold.

China was a big U.S. cotton customer a few years ago. The last sales were in 1975, when China bought 265,000 bales worth $95.7 million.

Africa gains new credit

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Africa has been granted a new $850,000 line of credit to buy U.S. edible soy protein, the Agriculture Department said Thursday.

The credit involves a loan program operated by USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation. The terms provide financing for six months, meaning that South Africa must repay the loan plus interest at commercial bank rates at the end of that time.

Officials said that the $850,000 package will finance approximately 500 metric tons of soy protein at current market prices. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

Among the hardest hit crops was the spring onion crop, cut almost in half. This year's yields are expected to be around 170 hundredweight (cwt.) per acre, compared to 200 cwt. per acre last year. Only 16,900 acres are to be harvested, a far cry from the 24,000 acres harvested last year, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

"Even though supplies are low, onion prices for consumers remain stable at this time," Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown commented.

Bumper fruit crop expected

AUSTIN — The commercial fruit and vegetable harvest is well under way across the state, with yields of some vegetables cut by wet, cool weather in early spring, but a bumper fruit crop expected, according to the Texas Department of Agriculture.

The largest peach crop produced since 1963 is expected this year, Brown noted, with trees loaded in all areas of the state.

Scott Sullivan of Big Spring, Lisa Martin of Sands (Ackerly), Beverly Strickland of Forsan and Donna James of Forsan were the four top winners at the banquet, which honors outstanding seniors in the schools.

Other finalists from Big Spring High were Jill Odom, Steve Evans and Denise Crenwelge. From Coahoma, the finalists included Laurie Choate, Kenny Fryrear and Patricia Ferguson.

The Forsan finalists were Ralph Miranda, Skip Koelzer and Marcia Nichols. From Sands, the finalists included Sam McDonald, Jan Reed and Rene Roman.

Parents and dates of the honorees were also guests.

All finalists were presented certificates and pocket computers. The winners received a watch and a plaque.

The event is dedicated in memory of Sidney Lipshy, who helped begin the awards program here. Special guests from Zale's included Leo Aureli, vice president of Zale's, Doc Barker, district manager; Jerry Thurman, local manager and his wife and Larry Norvell.

The Big Spring Herald was represented by Mr. and Mrs. J. Tom Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Canning and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Cofer. Cofer served as chairman of the banquet.

The main speaker was Bob (Tumbleweed Smith) Lewis, who was introduced by John Criswell, Channel 8 television in Dallas.

Tumbleweed played a number of tapes of "The Sound of Texas" and urged the students at the banquet to seek their own individual talents and develop them. Criswell used a poem to point the importance of love as they make their choices in life.

Father Louis Moeller of Immaculate Heart of Mary Church gave the invocation and benediction.

Judges for the event this year included Troy Fraser, Don Green, William K.

Physicians urged to 'work hard'

HOUSTON (AP) — A New York psychiatrist says much more could be accomplished in preventing severe anxieties and depression in cardiac patients.

Dr. Jimmie C. B. Holland stressed the need Thursday for all physicians to "work hard" to prevent or at least allieviate early anxieties in persons who suffered heart attacks.

Holland, an associate clinical professor at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in Bronx, N. Y., addressed a symposium on cardiovascular diseases in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Texas Medical Association (TMA). Having psychiatrists as part of the regular coronary care teams can smoothe the transition for heart disease patients to return to normal lives, Holland said.

Cardiac cripples are no 'Peanut fare' rates adopted

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas International Airlines says it will reduce fares between Houston Intercontinental and Dallas-Fort Worth Airport effective June 1.

The Houston based carrier said Thursday the fares will be reduced from the regular $39 to the so-called peanut fare rates of $15 and $25. The fair depends on the time of day.

Airline spokesman Jim O'Donnell said the carrier also will expand its schedule June 1 to offer the most non-stop flights between the two cities.

Carter takes aim at fighter plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's reiteration of his desire to end production of the A7E fighter plane brought on yet another round of controversy among Texas congressmen.

An abrupt end of production could cost hundreds of Texans jobs at the Vought Corp. plant in Grand Prairie, Tex., and Texas congressmen have been laboring to keep the program going.

Speaking at a press conference Thursday, Carter called the A7E "obsolescent at best ... we have superior planes now to replace it," in answer to a question about his reaction to congressional efforts to restore the A7E to the fiscal 1978 defense budget.

Reps. James Mattox and Dale Milford, both Democrats, disputed the President's contention about "superior planes." The proposed replacement for the A7E is the A-18, which is not scheduled for delivery to the Navy until 1983. Milford pointed out that it will cost at least $9 million per plane, compared to $4.5 million for the A7E.

Milford expressed "shock and amazement" after the President spoke, but Mattox remained confident that congress will appropriate some funds for the program. Earlier this year, Mattox helped pass an amendment to the House budget resolution to make room for the construction of six new planes.

Others who have helped the A7E program going are Reps. Jim Wright, the House majority leader; George Mahon, chairman of the Appropriations Committee and its defense subcommittee; and Sen. John Tower, who prodded the Senate Armed Services Committee to authorize 12 planes instead of the six originally proposed by President Ford and cut by Carter.

Mattox said the Pentagon ought to drop the A-18 and instead concentrate on a new generation of vertical take-off and landing planes for the small carriers he thinks the Navy ought to switch to.

Carter's statement Thursday was the first time he has singled out the A7E for criticism. Only last week, Rep. Bob Carr, a Michigan congressman who was trying to kill the program, complained that he got little real support from the administration.

Mattox said he felt Carter had to reiterate his earlier position, "but I don't think there's overwhelming opposition on their part." He predicted that Congress will authorize and fund at least six new planes in the 1978 budget.

Prof shot to death; police hunt student

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Police were searching today for a Texas Eastern University student who is wanted in the shooting death of a biology professor.

The student, a junior majoring in secondary education who once played football at Tyler Junior College, had been praised as dedicated and hard working by the victim, officers said.

Police said Dr. W. Carl Roddy, 33, was shot about seven times as he stood in the entry to his office talking to the gunman while another student waited in Roddy's office.

Investigators said the witness who had been in Roddy's office told them she heard no argument or discussion before the shots were fired.

Officials said the 29-year-old man who police identified as Roddy's killer had taken a course in parasitology under

Roddy last semester. School authorities showed reporters a note attached to a form in the student's record in which Roddy said the student "is one of the hardest working, most dedicated students that I have ever had in parasitology."

Dr. Lynn Sharrod, dean of the school of mathematics and science, said the student had a B in lecture and a C in laboratory work in the course he took this Spring from Roddy.

Texas Eastern is a two-year state-supported upper level institution with an enrollment of about 1,500 students.

They are now pushed out of the nest. Meantime, these baby birds are still looking to their mother, chirping for their food. She'll get it for them. But when the time comes to let them go, she will know it instinctively.

Human mothers are not always so wise. It is hard to see your children go out to face the world on their own. Sometimes your instinct is to keep them in the nest.

You have to let your children go. But will they go with a firm sense of values, level hearts and heads, knowledge of the meaning of faith?

Where to find all this? Try your church!

First Christians set family festival

"Created for Love" is the theme of First Christian Church's Family Festival. This year's vacation church school, formerly directed to kindergarten and elementary age children, is being expanded to involve the entire church family.

There will be a program for all age groups in the church. Each member of each church family will have a meaningful opportunity of Christian growth, according to church leaders.

The theme is in keeping with the Vacation Venture curriculum which is produced cooperatively by the American Baptist Churches in the U.S.A., Church of the Brethren, Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Church of God (Anderson, Indiana), the Episcopal Church, Friends United Meeting, Presbyterian Church in the U.S., United Methodist Church, United Methodist Church, as well as the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

The curriculum is recommended by the General Conference of the Mennonite Church, the Lutheran Church in America, and several other smaller religious denominations.

The format for this year's Family Festival will be a snack type supper served to adults for 50 cents and to children twelve and under for 30 cents at 6 p.m.; singing and fellowship opportunities; crafts and recreation, encounter and study sessions; and a closing vesper each evening. On Friday evening, in the place of a snack supper, there will be a covered-dish meal.

The Family Festival will be at First Christian Church of Big Spring, Tuesday, through Friday, May 31 through June 3. Rev. Bruce Christie, minister of the First Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), Nocona, will be the master teacher.

The broadly graded curriculum will offer sessions for adults, high school young people, junior high age young people, upper elementary (grades 4-6), lower elementary (grades 1-3), Kindergarten age children with a nursery provided for child care for two and under.

Each evening's sessions begin at six with the daily program ending by nine. On Wednesday and Friday mornings, June 1 and 3, at 10 a.m., a film festival will be in the Fellowship Hall of the Church. Singing, recreation, refreshments and the film will be a part of each morning's program for all elementary age children. On the same afternoons at 12:30 junior high and high school age youth will be meeting at the church for recreation, sack lunches, and encounter sessions.

Members of the church are being encouraged to invite visitors and guests. All residents in the community are urged to join in this experimental educational adventure in Christian living and learning.

EVANGELISTIC TEAM due here Sunday

Phillips Memorial Baptist to host special concert

The evangelistic team of Jerry, Peggy and Tommy Young will be with Phillips Memorial Baptist Church for a Gospel Concert this Sunday, May 15 during the evening services.

Rev. Jerry Young, in addition to being a preacher and a musician, is also a ventriloquist and will bring a very entertaining yet inspiring program assisted by Tommy.

Church, invites the public to meet this evangelistic team, Sunday evening, May 15 at 7 p.m. A nursery will be open for your convenience.

Rev. Jerry Young and his wife, Peggy, have traveled all over the United States doing Gospel Music Concerts and are well known for good quality music, Bible preaching and entertainment.

Rev. Dan Sanford, pastor of Phillips Memorial Baptist

The Koinonia Ladies Fellowship of the First Church of God in Big Spring held a Mother-Daughter Tea in the Fellowship Hall of the Church Sunday, May 8, 1977, in observance of Mother's Day.

Words of welcome were by Nell McDonald, president; the invocation was by Nelda Reagan. A "Tribute to Mother" was given by Shauni Woodriddle and a response by her mother, Mrs. Charlene Woodriddle. LaDonna Osgood sang a special number: "Friendship" accompanied on the piano by Mary Jones.

A second "Tribute to Mother" was given by Valerie Barnes and the response by her mother, Carolyn Barnes.

Four plaques were given; one to the daughter that came the greatest distance; Becky Chappell, the daughter-in-law of Virginia Chappell; one to the mother that came the greatest distance, Mrs. Martin, the mother of Evelyn DeLatour. The two remaining plaques were given to the families, Reagan and Rybolt, having four generations present. The humorous part of the program was presented by Carol Shugart.

The special guest speaker was Mrs. Linda Wilson of the Evangel Temple Assembly of God Church.

In closing the ladies sang the Mother's Doxology followed with prayer by Virginia Chappell.

Refreshments consisted of a fresh fruit, punch, decorated cakes, hor d'oeuvres, and canapes served by Fern Walton and Carolyn Barnes.

The theme was "Mothers are Special" and the color scheme was in yellow, orange and white skillfully displayed by Debbie Hutton. There were 45 ladies present.

SPECIAL SPEAKER — Baylor University Head Coach, Grant Teaff, is guest speaker for a special Youth Day observance this Sunday at First United Methodist Church of Big Spring. All junior and senior high school students are especially urged to hear Coach Teaff at 9:30 a.m. Teaff will also bring the sermon during regular Sunday morning worship services at 10:45 a.m. An invitation is extended to the general public of Big Spring and Howard County to hear Coach Grant Teaff Sunday, May 15th, at First United Methodist Church. Any youths in the community who wish to attend the 9:30 a.m. service are especially invited to visit the junior and senior high school students at First United Methodist Sunday morning.

Attend the church of your choice Sunday.

PREPARATION FOR THE LORD'S SUPPER

Therefore whoever eats the bread or drinks the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner, shall be guilty of the body and the blood of the Lord.

But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of the bread and drink of the cup.

For he who eats and drinks, eats and drinks judgment to himself, if he does not judge the body rightly.

For this reason many among you are weak and sick, and a number sleep.

But if we judged ourselves rightly, we should not be judged. —1 Cor. 11:27-31 (NAS)

Rogation service will be held by Episcopaleans

St. Mary's Episcopal Church will join Episcopaleans from St. John's in Snyder, and All Saints in Colorado City, along with St. Stephen's from Sweetwater for a special Rogation service Sunday.

The intention of Rogation Sunday was agricultural in its origin and it has been broadened to meet the situations in which we all live today, according to the Rev. Harland Birdwell,

Events change world theology

A conference at the Catholic Theological Union in Chicago was sponsored by the university's Divinity School and the organizational arms of Reform Judaism, the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

Rabbi Sanford Seltzer of Boston said that in the recent past, people tended to look to the "God of science" as the center of highest wisdom to solve problems and "provide all our needs."

Even religious institutions yielded to that perspective, he said, and "began packaging themselves, talking and acting like the technocratic and corporate world" around them.

Each member is asked to bring something which is representative of them and their vocation — either a pencil, book, wrench, broom, oil can, legal document or any other item.

These will be placed at the altar at the beginning of the service and blessed during the service. Persons may also bring a new plant or grass seed.

The event will be held at 11 a.m. at the Col-Tex Club on Lake Colorado City Sunday.

There will be an 8 a.m. Eucharist here in St. Mary's Church School and the later service are cancelled with a caravan leaving the church at 10 a.m. Everyone is asked to bring a covered dish for lunch with Colorado City providing drinks and bread and Sweetwater bringing paper plates.

Members are urged to dress casually for the event.

Center Point HD Club donates toward furniture

The Center Point Home Demonstration Club met in the Kentwood Center Tuesday afternoon. The meeting opened with the devotional.

Mrs. Kenneth Orr, president, presided at the business meeting. She discussed the new 4-H Center in Brownwood. Picnic furniture and other outdoor articles are needed for the area. The Center Point Club gave a $35 check for a bench for the area. Other members and clubs are helping with the project.

The Center Point Club will host a covered dish luncheon June 14 in the Kentwood Center for members of the county Home Demonstration clubs. Each guest is asked to bring a salad. The luncheon will begin at 11 a.m. and run until 3 p.m.

Mrs. Mattie Wren was selected as a possible delegate to the Texas Home Demonstration Association State Convention in Galveston in September.

It was announced that the Simplicity Pattern Style Show is slated at 7 p.m. June 2 in the Howard County Senior Citizen's Center in the North Annex of the First Presbyterian Church.

Models are needed for the garments made by the pattern company. Door prizes will be given. Hosts for the event are the Demonstration Council members.

Mrs. Frankie Walker was the winner of the door prize, given by Mrs. Vernon Kent and Mrs. Petty, hostesses. Refreshments were served.

Miss Kenda Born elected worthy advisor

Big Spring Assembly 60, Order of the Rainbow for Girls, met Tuesday evening in the Masonic Temple with Miss Leilani Thomas, worthy advisor, presiding.

The assembly elected officers for the new term, which will begin in June. Miss Kenda Born was elected worthy advisor. Others are Miss Cappy Tatom, worthy associate advisor; Miss Robin von Rosenberg, charity; Miss Cindy Roberts, hope and Miss Gaylene Bruton, faith. The installation is at 8 p.m. June 4.

The Social Order of the Beauceant met Monday evening at the Masonic Hall. Mrs. Wayne Parish presided.

The degree of the Order was conferred upon Mrs. Lee Roy Rorick. A homecoming reception will be held in Las Cruces, N.M., from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday, June 18, at First Presbyterian Church. The reception will be honoring Mrs. Victor L. Gallivan, supreme worthy president.

An invitation was extended to everyone to attend the Ascension Day Program of the Big Spring Commandry at 7 p.m. May 19. The event will be at the Masonic Temple. Dr. S.C. Guthrie will be the speaker.

Inventory time

COLLEGE STATION — It's "inventory time" for proper home canning equipment — an absolute "must" for safe, high quality home-canned foods, Mrs. Sally Coble, foods and nutrition specialist, says.

Mrs. Coble is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She recommends the following guides for proper home canning equipment: —Lids

A two-piece self-seal lid is the most commonly used and reliable lid. Other new lids are appearing on the market — so follow manufacturer's instructions to make sure lids seal properly and hold the seal during handling and storage.

Dear Abby

Couple 'Adopted' By Wealthy Widow

DEAR ABBY: My friend is a wealthy 76-year-old widow who is being "taken" by a couple in their 40s who live near her.

This couple is a husband-and-wife team who have made a "career" out of being this widow's friend. They see that she has company every evening (inviting themselves to her home for dinner), they do all her chores: shopping, cleaning, painting, yard work, etc.

I understand they even have a key to her home and her safety deposit box! She bought them a new car and has given them an interest-free loan so their son could go to college.

I am told that these con artists are going to get a bulk of her estate when she passes on. I think her estate should go to her own kinfolk who live in a faraway state, don't you? Should I get in touch with her relatives and tell them what is going on here? They haven't been here in years, so they have no way of knowing.

CONCERNED FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Allowing for your good intentions, I think you are meddling in your friend's affairs. She obviously appreciates the couple's companionship and help, and unless she is mentally incompetent, she's entitled to do whatever she wants with her money—now and later.

Her kinfolk who haven't visited this aging widowed relative in years seem less deserving to share in her estate than the neighbors you describe.

DEAR ABBY: I think my husband is entirely too friendly to strange women. For instance, he will bury his nose in an elevator operator's hair and say, "My, you have beautiful hair—and it smells nice, too."

Or he will compliment a waitress on her "beautiful legs" or "school-girl figure."

When I tell him that it shows a lack of respect for me when he does this in my presence, he says he is only trying to make a poor working girl feel good.

How do you feel about this sort of thing, Abby? Am I wrong to resent it?

BARRY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It is ill-mannered and presumptuous for a man to make personal remarks (complimentary or otherwise) to strange women in (or out of) his wife's presence.

Tell Barry if he doesn't cut it out, one of those poor working girls is apt to work him over.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old boy with a question: Why would a boy my age want to start smoking when he knows it's bad for his health?

ROGER

DEAR ROGER: Because he wants to "prove" to the world that he's a "man." And 25 years later he tries to quit smoking for the same reason.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Texas Nurses Association meets at Howard College

The Texas Nurses Association, District 24, met in May at Howard College in the Horace Garrett Building.

Dr. Owen, Malone-Hogan Hospital, was the guest speaker. His topic was "Child Abuse."

Dr. Owen said that physical punishment of children has been going on for centuries. The first agency to combat abuse was the "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children," founded in New York City in 1871.

In Texas, the Department of Public Welfare is the agency that retains a file on abuse as a means to check on old and recent cases. There were 153 cases of child abuse in Howard County in 1976. This department is located in the County Courthouse.

A business meeting followed the guest speaker.

Mrs. Otilie Van Vleet, president, presided. A committee was appointed to make plans for the first graduation class of the Howard College School of Nursing, which is slated in August.

Mrs. Jackie Weiland was elected as the second vice-president for the district.

Refreshments were served.

The next meeting is a salad and covered dish supper at the home of Mrs. Jewel Hyer, June 14. All members of this district are invitee.

Chief fires five officers

HOUSTON (AP) — Police Chief B. G. Bond has indefinitely suspended five of six men allegedly connected with the drowning death of a young prisoner and ordered members of his department to make no statements concerning the case.

An aunt of the dead man says relatives will not be satisfied until all the officers are brought to trial.

A state legislator called the incident "just another in a series of brutalities against our community by the Houston Police Department."

Policeman Terry W. Denson, 25, a five-year veteran, has been charged with murder in the death of Joe Campos Torres, 23, whose body was found floating in Buffalo Bayou near the downtown area last week.

Denson and five other officers were suspended from duty Monday. The suspensions for Denson and four others were increased Thursday to indefinite suspensions, tantamount to being fired.

Bond said he personally served the indefinite suspension papers to Denson, Joseph James Janish, Glen L. Brinkmeyer, Louis G. Kinney and Stephen Orlando.

However, Asst. Chief B. K. Johnson said officer Carless Eugene Elliott, who was also relieved of duty earlier but was not indefinitely suspended Thursday, will remain relieved of duty with pay status until the outcome of a grand jury investigation of the case.

A grand jury is expected to begin investigating the case next week after the newly formed internal affairs unit of the police department has completed its probe of the matter, Bond said.

LUNCH BREAK — John Frostrom, 30, of Omaha, Neb., sits in front of overturned semi-trailer in which he was riding, to calmly eat a deluxe hamburger near Bloomington, Ill., Thursday, on an Interstate 55 ramp. Frostrom and the driver escaped injury when the cargo of beef shifted, causing truck to overturn.

She denies aiding in death plot

HOUSTON (AP) — Paula Cantrell Derese says she never aided in an alleged plot to have her parents killed nor intended for them to be slain.

Mrs. Derese completed testimony Thursday in the capital murder trial of Vernon McManus who is charged in the last July 25 slaying of Paul and Mary Cantrell. The prosecution alleges Mrs. Derese, 27, an only child, conspired with McManus, 34, in the slayings.

The state contends Mrs. Derese and McManus conspired to kill her parents for proceeds from the estate and insurance money.

Mrs. Derese also was charged with capital murder but entered pleas of guilty to lesser charges of murder and agreed to testify for the state.

During Thursday testimony Don Smith, attorney for McManus, said Mrs. Derese either lied throughout 16 hours of questioning about an alleged murder plot with McManus or pleaded guilty to a crime she never committed.

"Either your testimony is the most incredibly unbelievable lie, or the greatest injustice ever has been done to you," Smith shouted.

Mrs. Derese sobbed as she saw the photographs of her slashed and beaten parents for the first time.

Smith presented news articles describing her parents' love for her.

"Apple of your daddy's eye, huh?" Smith said, reading the headline.

"You are the maggot in the core of the apple of your daddy's eye," he said.

The remark sent prosecutor L. H. Stewart leaping to his feet.

"Paula, if you are a maggot, I don't know what that man is," Stewart said, pointing at McManus.

Defense lawyers said Mrs. Derese had admitted no guilt of her own, other than knowing about the alleged murder plan.

Bond ordered all members of his department to make no statements concerning the case.

However, police sources have confirmed that a police officer gave information to Bond said he could not explain why the officers were fired nor could he explain why Elliott was the only officer of the six not fired. Bond said he could not talk because of an agreement reached between State District Court Judge Allen Stillely and Asst. City Atty. Al Levin.

HOUSTON (AP) — The executive council of the Texas Diabetes and Endocrine Association has voted to "strongly oppose" the ban on use of saccharin in foods by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

The group's policy board charged Thursday night that the FDA "has no conclusive evidence that saccharin causes cancer in humans".

It said it would urge the federal regulatory agency to reconsider its earlier action on the artificial sweetener.

The Texas Diabetes and Endocrine Association is meeting here in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Texas Medical Association.

MEMBERSHIP PREVIEW — The Heritage Museum held a membership preview showing Thursday night with the new permanent exhibit open to the public at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Among those present from left were Charles Bell, Mrs. Dan Allen, Mrs. Dakin Williams, former resident; Mrs. Faye Reed, Mrs. Jan Harris and Mrs. Bell.

Exhibit surprises members

Even though the members of the Heritage Museum had been told of the new permanent exhibit, they expressed surprise at the display Thursday night.

The exhibit, put together by an expert, Charles Paramore from Dallas, strives to portray the early days of the area from the time Cabeza de Vaca discovered the big spring to the present.

Two film slide presentations, including one of early historic pictures and the other of the chamber's slide presentation of Big Spring today, are available to the public at the push of a button.

Other exhibits introduce areas of the Indian, the cowboy, the early settlers, the transportation emphasis and oil.

Some additions may still be added, according to Mrs. Gerri Atwell, curator, but the main exhibits are in place for Sunday's official opening to the public.

The women on the board, wives and relatives of men on the board and former presidents acted as hostesses for the reception for museum members.

Guests were registered for the event and a large crowd attended.

The public showing will be Sunday with the display to be available to the public in the future.

Secret meetings request pressed

By SCOTT CARPENTER

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Public Utilities Commission and Railroad Commission could hold secret meetings with their staffs under legislation approved by the Senate Tuesday.

The two agencies, as is the case with all other public bodies, currently are required to conduct their business in public, meeting only after notice has been given. There are exceptions to the public meeting provision, but in all cases decision making bodies must notify the public they'll be meeting in secret and give the legal justification for the closed session.

Final votes, currently, must be in public.

The Senate adopted by voice vote an amendment to an otherwise non-controversial bill, that would alter the current sunshine law.

The amendment states simply "The (Public Utilities) Commission or the Railroad Commission and staff may confer at any time about any administrative or regulatory matter without the necessity of opening such conference to the public, so long as no party to any pending matter is present."

The citizens lobby group Common Cause, which pushed passage of the original sunshine laws for Texas, said it would look at the proposal, which goes to the House for action.

Katy Davis, spokesperson for Common Cause, said that PUC members complained that the current open meetings law is unworkable since it technically requires them to post notice of a meeting every time two commissioners meet to discuss administrative matters. Davis said commissioners hadn't discussed the need for secret meetings on regulatory matters with her.

DA accuses his colleagues of adopting double standards

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Bill Green has accused his colleagues on the Anderson County Bar of "adopting a double standard" where he is concerned.

Green was convicted last month of a public lewdness act. He is being investigated by a State Bar grievance committee and has been asked to leave his office by the Anderson County Bar until all criminal charges against him are settled.

"They go to the courthouse every day and argue their client is innocent until finally proven guilty, yet they would not afford me that same presumption," Green stated.

Green was found guilty of public lewdness after he was charged with performing an oral sex act on a University of Texas student in a booth of an adult bookstore. Green is appealing the conviction.

The request that he stand aside was in a letter written to Green by Anderson County Bar Association president Jerry Calhoun and made public Thursday by Green.

In the letter, Calhoun had asked Green not to make the request public.

While Green was revealing the contents of the letter, a State Bar grievance committee was holding a closed door meeting investigating charges against the district attorney arising from his trial and conviction in Austin last month.

Six witnesses, including Travis County attorneys and the undercover officers who

Dangling body of his 'boss' nets life term

HOUSTON (AP) — A 64-year-old mechanic has been assessed a life prison term after a jury, which included an assistant district attorney, convicted him of killing his employer and driving around town with the body dangling from the hook of his wrecker truck.

Ernest Edward Welch was convicted of the Dec. 8 shooting death of Russell Brown, 47, of Pasadena.

After the jury verdict Thursday State District Court Judge Joe Kegans found Welch guilty of being an habitual offender which carries an automatic life sentence. Kegans said Welch had a lengthy police record including a 1972 conviction for assault to murder.

One witness, Esther Fugate, testified about following the wrecker in the morning hours as it moved along with the body of Brown dangling from the hook.

"It was such a horrible sight," she said. "I'm trying to forget."

Another witness testified that Welch told her Brown owed him $200 and he planned to collect it.

Jim Muldrow, an assistant Harris County district attorney, was one of the 12 jurors seated for the trial.

arrested Green, testified before the committee Thursday.

Calhoun noted in his letter to Green that "the bar requests during the pendency of and until final disposition of all criminal charges pending against you that you stand aside as district attorney of the 3rd Judicial Court District and do not perform any official duties and responsibilities of such office.

"This letter is being written to you as a confidential communication and no publicity of it will be given to the news media and we request that if you choose to publicize this letter, that you use it in its totality," the letter added.

Fourth game scheduled tonight 76ers take some ribbing

HOUSTON (AP) — It was George McGinnis' turn to take some ribbing over the way his Philadelphia 76ers had played against Houston and the star forward took it well—there was little else he could do.

The scene was an almost deserted 76er dressing room following Houston's 118-94 victory in the third game of their National Basketball Association (NBA) playoff series.

"Where's that gorilla?" asked a Houston fan who had found his way into the dressing room.

"No gorillas around here," McGinnis replied.

"I just wanted to see that Darryl Dawkins who calls his dunk shot a gorilla dunk," the fan needed. "We'll keep Mo Malone and you all can keep the gorilla."

"I'd better not comment on that," McGinnis said smiling. "But we will keep him."

The Rockets, who had been ridiculed as too ponderous and slow to compete with the stream lined 76ers, definitely took their revenge against the surprised 76ers in Wednesday's game and silenced some of their critics.

Asked about the Rockets being compared to water buffaloes and only being able to beat the 76ers if the game were played in tall grass, McGinnis said, again smiling, "Well, I guess they changed all that didn't they."

"I don't think we ever did take the Rockets too lightly, that was just mostly newspaper talk. This is the Eastern Conference finals and you don't get that far without having something."

The fourth game of the best of seven series is scheduled here tonight and although there won't be any tall grass on the Summit court, the Rockets' chances for evening the series at 2-2 are much improved.

Although the Rockets have claimed they have paid little attention to the disparaging remarks, it was clear Wednesday's decisive victory eased their frustration.

"Some people must think we are a bunch of bums," Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke said. "We won only one less game during the regular season than Philadelphia but we lose one game to them up there and all of a sudden we're water buffaloes. Hey, we're a helluva team."

Houston rookie John Lucas, who quarterbacked the Rockets through the regular season but had been ineffective in the playoffs, also gained the personal satisfaction of keeping tight control on the flow of Wednesday's game. He scored 20 points and handed out nine assists.

"I take the blame for not keeping the tempo at our pace in the first two games but if I take the blame, then I'll take the credit, too."

"I was confused as to what our tempo should be, when to speed it up, and when to slow it down. I don't know if I've got it right yet, but we were a lot closer tonight."

Champ would like Young-Norton bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Norton is one step removed from the top of the boxing world. It's a step the man on top, Muhammad Ali, does not seem particularly anxious for Norton to take.

"I'll believe it when I see it," said Norton about a fourth fight with Ali at a news conference, the day after his shocking 58-second win Wednesday night over Duane Bobick, a victory that solidified his No. 1 ranking by the World Boxing Association and World Boxing Council.

"Yeah, I saw the annihilation," Ali said at Landover, Md., where he is training for Monday night's title defense against Alfredo Evangelista.

"You've got two fellows out there that people believe have a chance at beating me — Jimmy Young and Norton. So I want them to fight each other and I'll fight the better one of them. Then I can retire. If I fight Norton, then they will holler 'Jimmy Young, Jimmy Young.' I'm 35-years-old now and it's hard to get up and it would be a couple of years before I could wipe these two guys out."

Ali lost a 12-round decision to Norton and suffered a broken jaw in 1973 and then beat him twice. The last time was last Sept. 28 in Yankee Stadium, when Ali won a disputed but unanimous decision over Norton in a title fight. In his meeting with Young last year, Ali also scored a disputed but unanimous decision.

Although Young, ranked No. 2 by the WBA and WBC, upset George Foreman, who announced his retirement last Saturday, a fourth Norton-Ali fight probably would be boxing's best big-money draw in light of Norton's demolition job on the previously unbeaten Bobick in Madison Square Garden.

EARLY FIRST ROUND LEADER — Ben Crenshaw, second place winner in last week's Byron Nelson Golf Classic, is also the early first round leader at the Colonial Invitational Thursday. The young Texan from Austin seemed to like the Texas courses as he is shown bringing home a birdie on number 16, putting him in the clubhouse with a five-under-par 65.

Texan golfs with a grin

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — For casually erratic Ben Crenshaw, golf is more than a challenge. It's an adventure. It's golf with a grin and a "gosh what's next?"

When he's good, he's great. When he's bad, he's beautiful — if you can find him.

He does indeed visit unusual and isolated places.

"I finally convinced myself I don't need a driver," grinned Crenshaw, 25, the surprise coloader entering the second round today of the $200,000 Colonial National Invitation.

"I went to my three wood. It's a lot easier from the fairway."

He and Al Geiberger, a former winner here, slashed five shots from Colonial's par 70 treachery and shared a one-stroke lead in the chase for the $40,000 top prize.

"A 65 here is just great for me," said Gentle Ben, who one-putted 11 greens to offset persistently erratic tee shots and other foibles.

On one hole, the 6th, a "Goodawful" tee shot took him into the trees, down an adjacent fairway and finally to the green for a miraculous bogey.

At the 7th, he hit a tee shot so bad it turned out good—clearing a hazardous wooded area—and he collected one of his six birdies of the day.

Some may recall that Ben eagled the 68th hole at the Byron Nelson Classic last week, then took bogies at the final two holes to permit Ray Floyd to elbow past him for the title.

But Thursday was a remarkable day here in every sense, uncommonly clear and calm, and a near-record 23 players seized upon the conditions to slip under par.

Behind Crenshaw and Geiberger, who birdied the final two holes, were a trio of 66s, including Roger Maltbie, Chi Chi Rodriguez and John Schroeder.

The happy-go-lucky Rodriguez wrecked a potential 64 with a spectacular six on the par 4 10th hole, but shrugged it off with a Puerto Rican cliché:

"A double bogey in golf is like death and life, it's going to happen."

Masters kingpin Tom Watson, the leading money winner with $190,940 to date, headed a quartet of 67 shooters despite the fact that his putter "feels like a sledgehammer in my hands."

Crenshaw's old University of Texas golfing buddy Tom Kite also was at 67 with Gary McCord and Ed Sneed, the latter floundering with bogeys at two of the three closing holes.

Two former Colonial champions, Julius Boros and Rod Curl, were among seven tied at two-under-par 68, and defending champion Lee Trevino was among 11 at even par.

Atlanta snaps 17-game streak

Braves break out the bubbly

By the Associated Press

No, the Atlanta Braves didn't win the National League pennant Thursday. Yes, that was champagne in the Braves' dressing room after the game.

The bubbly was provided by Jeff Burroughs after the Braves snapped a 17-game losing streak by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-1.

"Let's play again right now. We're hot," Burroughs said.

Pitcher Max Leon drove in three runs and combined with reliever Rich Camp for a fourth-inning, snapping Pittsburgh's 11-game winning string.

The Braves, who had not won since April 22, scored in the third inning when Leon, 1-1, hit a sacrifice fly. Loser Bruce Kison, 3-2, yielded a run-scoring double to Brian Asselstine in the fourth inning, then the Braves put the game away with four runs in the eighth, two runs scoring on a single by Leon.

Atlanta was playing under its third manager in three games. Third base coach Vern Benson took over when league President Chub Feeney ordered Braves owner Ted Turner to give up his one-day job of managing the team. Turner gave regular Manager Dave Bristol a 10-day leave of absence after the Braves had lost 16 in a row.

Cards 10, Reds 1

John D'Acquisto, Buddy Schultz and Al Hrabosky teamed for a one-hitter while Tony Scott, Don Kessinger and Keith Hernandez drove in two runs each as St. Louis routed Cincinnati. The Reds' lone hit was a two-out, eighth-inning double by Ken Griffey.

Mike Tyson and Bake McBride drove in Cardinals runs in the fourth, then St. Louis erupted for six runs in the sixth inning, two on Kessinger's bad-hop double and two on a single by Scott. Hernandez singled for two runs in the eighth.

Dodgers 8, Expos 2

Dave Lopes and Reggie Smith slammed first-inning home runs, helping right-hander Don Sutton move into sole possession of second place on the all-time Dodgers' winning list with a victory over Montreal.

Sutton, who needed last-inning help from reliever Mike Garman, increased his season mark to 5-0 and earned his 181st career victory. Only Don Drysdale, who won 209 games, tops Sutton among Dodgers pitchers.

Giants 3, Phillies 0

A three-hitter by right-hander Larry Christenson gave Philadelphia its victory over San Francisco. Christenson, 3-3, outpitched Giants right-hander John Montefusco, 2-5, who suffered his fourth straight setback. Montefusco has had a total of three runs scored for him in the four games.

Greg Luzinski, Rich Hebner and Mike Schmidt drove in the Phillies' runs.

Padres 5, Mets 2

San Diego's Tom Griffin, 3-1, hurled seven strong innings and smashed a homer, leading the Padres over the Mets. Griffin allowed only three hits before being relieved by Rollie Fingers after giving up a two-run homer to John Milner in the eighth.

Two former Colonial champions, Julius Boros and Rod Curl, were among seven tied at two-under-par 68, and defending champion Lee Trevino was among 11 at even par.

NAMATH TO RAMS — A cheerful Joe Namath talks with newsmen in Los Angeles Thursday after it was officially announced he'll become a Ram. The former Jet quarterback had become a free agent April 1. Terms of his contract were not announced. He'll be one of four Ram quarterbacks.

From Broadway to Sunset Strip Namath joins Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'm here to play football," Joe Namath said simply after he'd signed a contract with the Los Angeles Rams.

"Sure, I'm interested in getting more involved in the movies and television, but as everybody who's dealt with me knows, football comes first."

Namath, the colorful and sometimes controversial quarterback who'd spent his 12 professional football seasons with the New York Jets, agreed to terms with

Los Angeles Thursday. His move from Broadway to the Sunset Strip was accompanied by fanfare hardly expected for the signing of a 34-year-old third-string quarterback with gimpy knees.

At a jammed press conference in a plush Beverly Hills hotel, Namath said he was pleased to be with the Rams, a preference he'd made known as early as 1975.

"Every player dreams of being part of an organization like the Rams," he said. "They have a very high caliber of players, fine personnel. I am grateful to Mr. Rosenbloom and the Rams organization for bringing me here. I am also grateful to the New York Jets. They were good to me while I was there."

Namath was the most feared passer in the NFL in the late 1960s, but knee injuries and the Jets' flagging fortunes in recent years had made him generally ineffective.

The Rams got the chance to sign Namath when the Jets failed to pick up his contract, worth nearly $500,000 annually, and he became a free agent April 1. Namath's attorney, Jimmy Walsh, had been negotiating with Los Angeles since that time. Because the Rams signed him as a free agent, they did not have to compensate the Jets.

MID-SIZE Cutlass

AMERICA'S BEST SELLING MID-SIZE CAR BY Oldsmobile

Cutlass Supreme Coupe

Did you know that Oldsmobile Cutlass is America's best selling mid-size car? . . . And it achieved that status during those times when new car buyers are so value conscious. With the 350 Olds engine and automatic transmission, Cutlass has impressive E.P.A. fuel economy estimates of 21 M.P.G. Highway and 18 M.P.G. City. The actual mileage you get depends on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's equipment and its condition. This year Spring Fever is CUTLASS fever.

Multi-county booze vote bill delayed

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Despite a favorable opinion from the attorney general's office, a bill making local option liquor elections legal in multi-county cities was delayed for further work this week.

"I ask that this matter be delayed until Wednesday so I can prepare language to meet objections," Sen. John Traeger of Seguin told the Senate State Affairs Committee. There was no objection.

Traeger is sponsoring the bill to clear the way for local option elections in cities that lie in more than one county.

There are 61 such cities in Texas, including Abilene, Kilgore, Grand Prairie and Schertz, which is in Traeger's district.

The question of how local option elections could be held in these cities was addressed in a lawsuit that went to the Texas Supreme Court. The court said that question should be settled by the legislature.

Petitions for these elections are to be presented to the county clerk and elections held by the county, but there currently is no way for these procedures to be handled when county lines are crossed.

Ridin' fence

They call it Coahoma

with Marj Carpenter

MAIN THOROUGHFARE in Coahoma

It was named after a town named Coahoma in Mississippi by some of the early settlers. It's reported that Pappy Echols' wife may have named the town when they named the post office. She was a little nostalgic about home.

The people who came and settled in this town stayed because they liked what they had accomplished.

The oldtimers will tell you that it's a good place to raise kids. They are still safe on the streets and citizens have a lot of pride in the students' accomplishments.

Coahoma Schools, with Andy Wilson as superintendent and Bill Easterling as principal, have trophies upon trophies in their trophy cases.

But they are mostly proud of the citizens who have gone through that school system. A lot of them have stayed right there in Coahoma and raised their families. There is more than one fourth generation family in that town.

The conductors on the trains in the early days, used to warn people when they got off the train there, "Coahoma, prepare to meet your God." This was a carry-over from a time when a gun fight in the streets included some bullets whistling through the train as it went through town.

But Coahoma, through the years, has had far less crime than the average town. However, the community is made up of sturdy stock and persons who are strong individualists.

There is a gunfighter grave in the cemetery. And there are a bunch of independent souls who firmly stand up for what they believe in the town.

It's a fairly self-sufficient community. They require their school teachers to live in their own homes. They have their own bank and several stores, and were happy to get a drive-in eating establishment close by last year.

They have a roping arena and little league parks. They are strong on sports and the town puts out good athletes.

Coahoma received national publicity when they turned back federal revenue sharing funds four years ago. However, nowadays they take revenue sharing funds and sales tax funds. They found out they weren't saving any money — that some other taxing entity was ending up with their money.

They are planning to build their own swimming pool this year and they constantly seek to improve their community.

Coahoma has had some recent problems with the Howard County Water District and they still haven't resolved all of these problems. They've had a few problems in the financing of the volunteer fire department.

But one thing about

Coahoma, they'll handle their own problems. They may get pretty excited while they're doing it, but they'll work it out.

Coahoma folks are kind of like a big family. They may appear to be disagreeing among themselves, but if you step in and start a ruckus, you might as well pick up a hornet's nest.

Coahoma folks look after their own. They really help each other out when there's sorrow or trouble. Their churches — Presbyterian, Catholic, Church of Christ and Baptist are active and thriving.

They like to have fun over there and they make their own fun. They have lots of interesting programs and some that are strictly for fun — like the "Mess Coahoma" Pageant.

Coahoma folks can look straight across at Signal Mountain. The Indians stayed around a long time and they liked that mountain.

Coahomans will probably stay around a long time too — they also like to look at the mountain. Main Street isn't main street in Coahoma. When IS 20 cut through the middle of the town, the underpass came out a couple blocks over from Main and business developed on another street.

But the main thing about it is that Coahomans know where they are. There's no confusion about their civic pride and their friendly, pioneer spirit — in Coahoma. It's a lot of fun to go over there and visit with them when I'm out ridin' fence.

Public employes bill victim of 'vendetta'

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Sen. William Moore came out on top Monday in his feud with Sen. Carlos Truan over a bill to guarantee certain rights to public employes.

Actually, there was a tie vote, 5-5, in the Senate State Affairs Committee on a motion to report the bill favorably.

But Moore is chairman of the committee. He sent the bill "to the bottom of the calendar," apparently where it will stay until the Legislature goes home in three weeks.

Last week Moore refused to allow a vote of the legislation because it had "accidentally" been left off the committee agenda. That prompted Truan to declare to a reporter that Moore has a "personal vendetta" against him.

The Truan-Moore confrontation over this and other matters has brought about the biggest open feud of the 1977 session. Truan is a freshman liberal from Corpus Christi and Moore is a longtime conservative from Bryan.

Truan's bill would guarantee certain rights to state, county and municipal employes, such as the right to free speech, assembly and petition. It would provide triple damages for any employe who could prove his or her rights had been violated by a governmental entity.

Truan claimed last week he had the votes to get the bill out of committee, and he did have a majority of the nine present when the vote came up Monday.

But Moore claimed Sen. A.M. Aikin Jr. of Paris had asked before leaving to be shown voting against the bill. Normally committee members cannot vote in absentia, but no one objected as Moore voted for Aikin. Truan is not a member of the committee.

It would have taken seven votes — a majority of the 13 members — to have approved the bill anyway. Truan only got five.

Dick Ingram of the Texas Municipal League argued against the bill, claiming it would be a duplication of guarantees already provided under the state and national constitutions.

"It would subject the state and political subdivisions to numerous frivolous suits," he said.

Moore said he believed such a bill would cost governments millions of dollars as employes sought to collect damages.

"They're graduating more lawyers than there are jobs now," Moore, himself a lawyer, said. "And they are going to be out hustling business."
