

Device allows auto to run on alcohol

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — A Fort Smith man says he's come up with a device that may provide an alternative to the use of gasoline in the operation of automobiles.

Stanley Barber applied for a patent on the device which allows conventional automobiles to operate on alcohol or gasoline at the flick of a switch.

The 47-year-old barber is a bridge builder by trade and a part-time inventor.

Alcohol is used as a fuel in race cars, but modifications are necessary to accommodate the fuel. Barber's Dual Fuel System runs the family car on 100 per cent alcohol by bypassing the carburetor. This means the device does not involve modification of the engine.

"This could be one time that the American motorist gets a break," Barber said. "If people have a choice of fuels, it could help keep prices down."

Barber says he is currently buying alcohol by the drum and paying about 80 cents a gallon. "But the summer tourist season hasn't approached and gasoline could very well get that high," he said.

He also said that every dime spent on alcohol as a fuel would remain in the United States, "but with gasoline, 47 per cent of the purchase price goes to the Middle East."

Barber said his car's performance with alcohol is about the same as it is with gasoline. He also said the mileage is comparable.

He said that alcohol can be produced from renewable resources such as grain, sugar beets and sugar cane. "There is no way to replace oil taken out of the ground," he said.

Barber said the alcohol is cleaner than gasoline. He said the vehicle, when operating on alcohol, discharges water and carbon dioxide and not carbon monoxide as gasoline-powered vehicles do.

Barber's system has only one component with moving parts — an electric fuel pump.

Barber equipped his family car with a crude version of the device 18 months ago and has been refining it ever since. He said that using alcohol as a fuel, the car would perform 35,000 miles between oil changes and that sparkplugs lasted 75,000 miles. He also said the valves were in perfect condition.

"When alcohol burns the residue is water," he said. "There are no carbon deposits to dirty the oil."

Barber said he could install the system in an American car for about $750.

Slow action on tris blasted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission today was criticized for failing to quickly ban Tris, a suspected cancer-causing chemical used as a flame-retardant in children's sleepwear.

"The chronology on Tris is one of the most graphic that I have seen of the failure of the commission to adequately utilize its existing power," said Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., chairman of a House Commerce subcommittee.

"There is adequate authority to move much more rapidly than you have," he told the five commissioners.

The commission must make a finding of unreasonable risk in order to ban a substance or order its repurchase, he added.

Commissioner Thaddeus Garrett said the commission "cannot and will not do a better job in this area unless a greater commitment of resources is made."

Commissioner Barbara H. Franklin said the public is not being properly protected from dangerous chemicals in consumer products.

"I would characterize the current approach to most chronic hazards as ad hoc at best, absurd at worst. The uneven record and lack of a more uniform agency-to-agency approach is dangerous," she added.

Until the ban, children's sleepwear was treated with Tris to make it meet federal flame retardant standards. The commission issued a ban on the sale of Tris-treated children's sleepwear April 8. At the same time, the agency ordered manufacturers to repurchase unwashed garments treated with Tris.

Body found in well; Lamesa man charged

By MARJ CARPENTER
LAMESA — The body of a Lamesa farm worker was found dumped in a cistern west of Weiner Saturday and another Lamesa farm worker is in Dawson County jail, charged with murder.

Pablo Soto Jr., 42, was charged with murder before Dawson County Justice of the Peace Richard Nelson after he led Haskell County Sheriff G.T. Garrett and Knox County Sheriff H.C. Stone to an abandoned well containing the body of Francisco Morales Rodriguez, 37.

Both Rodriguez and Soto were workers on the David Hughes farm at the northeast edge of Lamesa. They both disappeared last Tuesday.

The body, when found had four .22 bullets in it and was badly decomposed, according to Dawson County officials. Bond was set on Soto in Knox County by Justice of the Peace J. D. Bledsoe at $150,000. He was returned to the Dawson County jail Sunday morning.

Law officers in Haskell received word late last week that there was a man in their county driving around with a dead man in the trunk of the car.

Haskell lawmen apparently obtained a description of the vehicle and ran a check on the driver, who was Soto. It was discovered that he was wanted on an old warrant out of Brownfield for car theft.

Soto was arrested on Saturday and by then, the body had apparently been removed from the trunk.

Officers said he made a statement and led them to the abandoned well on the Roy Herring Ranch.

The weapon, which was registered to Rodriguez, was found in the dead man's car at a Knox City motel where Rodriguez and his family were registered.

Shots which killed Rodriguez were in the stomach, chest and heart, according to Haskell justice of the peace.

Deputy Bill Horton and Police Chief Lee Bartlett, both of Lamesa went to Haskell Saturday night, returning Sunday with Soto.

This was the second murder within a week in Dawson County, with the other occurring in Lamesa the previous Saturday.

Sheriff Garrett said that it was also discovered during the course of their investigation that Soto is wanted for parole violation in Florida.

Iowa: Saudi Arabia of the future

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A state official thinks Iowa could become an energy power simply by using something it has plenty of.

"I've always said if animal waste is put to use as a source of energy, Iowa would become the new Saudi Arabia of the world," said Maurice Van Nostrand, chairman of the Iowa Energy Policy Council and the State Commerce Commission.

Animal waste can be used to manufacture methane, a substitute for natural gas.

As to resources, the Department of Agriculture said Iowa has a cow population of 7,760,000 and a hog population of 13,700,000.

"The problem is, how do you get industry to invest in something like animal waste when natural gas is so artificially cheap," Van Nostrand said.

There is a chance, he said, that interest in animal waste could take hold under the second phase of President Carter's energy program.

He said that next phase has not been publicly discussed yet, but from what he gathers the idea will be to shift emphasis from the national scene to the state level in achieving energy self sufficiency.

"The idea will be to get each state to look at its own energy potential" and then develop the resources it finds, Van Nostrand said.

Employees' union at Webb may picket over search

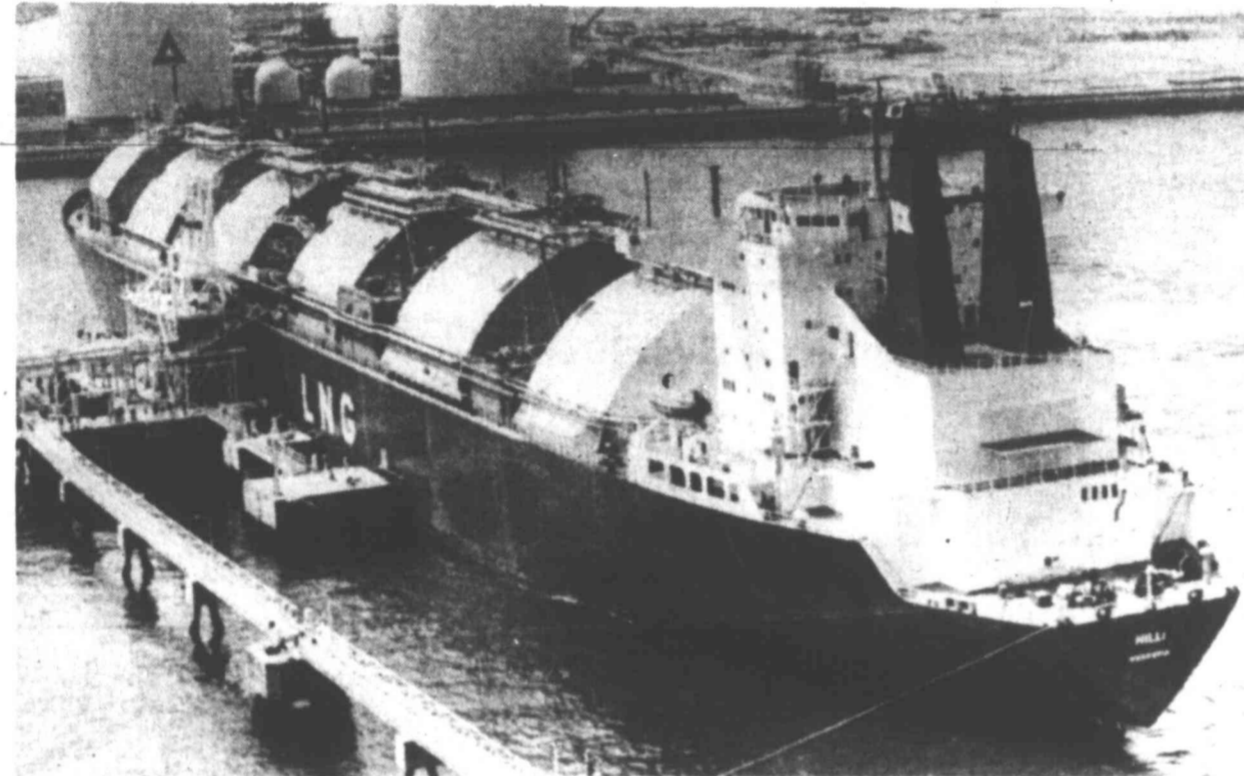

D. W. Karns, spokesman for the employees union at Webb Air Force Base, said today that union officials had checked into the possibility of a picket in connection with what they identify as harassment of workers.

Karns said that Dick Egan, president of the union was in conference with Col. Harry Spannaus, wing commander, this morning.

Col. Spannaus said at 11:20 a.m. that he had not seen Egan today and had just returned at 10 a.m. from Randolph AFB.

The question revolves around workers being stopped at the gate for random search of vehicles. The base has apparently taken this action in an effort to avoid property leaving the base during the final months of its operation.

Workers objected because they all leave at the same time. They say even random checks line up the cars for a

Coahoma delegation departs Water hearing set

A group of Coahoma citizens are again in Austin to listen to the new hearing on certification of the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1. The hearings are scheduled to start Tuesday.

The city sent a group of government officials and citizens to Austin March 14 to appear before the Public Utilities Commission, asking that body to reopen the hearings which have granted the water district permission to sell water to the Sand Springs-Midway community. The Commission agreed to reopen the hearings.

Mayor Joe Swinney of Coahoma said, "We are pleased that there is going to be another hearing. I want to emphasize that we don't want this issue to separate our two communities."

"Coahoma is in the water district, the same as Sand Springs. However, some of the Coahoma citizens are worried that they might be obligated to provide a sewer system for Sand Springs through a water district bond issue after we provided our own city with funds."

"I sure don't want hard feelings between Coahoma and Sand Springs, but there are some things that need to be worked out fair to everyone."

The climax of the long-standing argument came in November, 1974, when a $29,000 judgement was awarded to the water district by 118th District Judge Ralph Caton. The judgement represented back water bills which Coahoma had refused to pay, citing the contract between the two bodies as support for their argument. At one point, to force payment of the back bills, water to Coahoma and Sand Springs was cut off for three hours by the water district. Because of Coahoma's reserve tank, Coahoma residents continued to have water pressure, but Sand Springs residents did not.

short period of time. Col. Spannaus said "We would like to offer to stagger the work hours so that this would not occur. However, it is customary for bases closing to hold random checks of vehicles to keep property from being taken out during final months of the base operation."

Karns said here today, "These people are losing their jobs and having to move their families and we do not think they should be harassed with vehicle checks."

For a picket, permission would have to be obtained from the police chief, according to Harry Nagel, city manager. "Permission probably would be granted if they insisted on a picket," Nagel added.

Karns said if it held, it would be what they termed an "information picket" to get out information on what is happening.

Domingo Rios free on bond

Domingo Rios, driver of the car involved in the Saturday night accident which left Maurice Ringener dead, has posted $6,500 bond on charges of DWI and aggravated assault. No further charges have been filed, although authorities indicate some may be pending.

Bonds were set by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

IF drive climaxing

Pledges are coming in rapidly, and the campaign to recapitalize the Big Spring Industrial Foundation should be wrapped up within a couple of weeks, drive chairman Adolph Swartz said Monday.

The purpose of the drive, which began about three weeks ago, is to raise funds for the foundation to use in acquiring industry for Big Spring to replace jobs that will be lost as Webb Air Force Base closes.

Swartz said that he was not yet ready to compile total pledges but that he was gratified with the response to date. He said he expects to hear this week from persons who are helping him with the drive in specific areas of the community.

Decisions on how to use monies that are raised will be made solely by the Industrial Foundation, chaired by auto dealer Bill Pollard.

Others on the foundation are businessmen Clyde McMahon Sr., vice chairman; banker John Arrick, secretary-treasurer; attorney Roger Brown; accountant Clyde Hollingsworth; and businessman Winston Winkle. Brown also is president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, and Winkle also heads the chamber's industrial team which goes out to seek industrial prospects.

Colorado City's Rep. Martin voted one of dumbest lawmakers

By SCOTT CARPENTER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The members of the Capitol Press Corps who regularly cover the Texas House of Representatives have completed their regular poll for the dumbest members of the House.

While the method of voting has changed over the legislative sessions, this is the oldest poll of the way legislators are viewed by those who watch their actions daily.

The polling included a vote for "Slime of the Year" with "slime" not defined. In past years it has been considered a term that related to an unhealthy relationship with the lobby, or a term referring to someone who has played politics too much.

The Slime of the Year winner was

REP. ELMER MARTIN

Rep. Clay Smothers of Dallas, a black conservative. There were 17 persons who received votes in the balloting, but Smothers was an easy winner. There was a tie for second and third place between Speaker Bill Clayton and Rep. Charles Evans of Hurst.

The 10 Dumbest, with the number of votes were:

Rep. Charles Finnell, Holliday, 13; Rep. Bill Ceverha, Dallas, 11; Rep. Elmer Martin, Colorado City, 9; Rep. T. H. McDonald, Dallas, 9; Rep. Jim Clark, Pasadena, 9; Rep. Fred Head, Athens, 8; Rep. Lou Nettle Sutton, San Antonio, 7; Rep. Senfronia Thompson, Houston, 7; Rep. Tony Polumbo, Houston, 7; Rep. Leroy Weiting, Portland, 6; Rep. Frank Gaston, Dallas, 6; Rep. Tom Schieffer, Fort Worth, 6; Rep. Leonard Briscoe, Fort Worth, 6.

Runners up with five votes each were Reps. Smothers, L. P. Patterson, Brookston, and Joe Robbins of Lubbock.

Offbeat: Glowing thieves

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Alleged petty thieves in the Texas Capitol are being nabbed redhanded with glowing fingers.

Capitol Police have caught four allegedly sticky fingered Capitol employees by planting coins, dusted with an invisible powder that glows under ultraviolet light, in petty cash outlets.

Chief Bobby Williams said the technique has just about cleared up a rash of small theft cases at the Capitol where more than $500 in petty cash had been stolen. He said four unidentified employees have been charged with petty theft.

When any of the planted coins were stolen, Williams said, employees with access to the money are asked to submit to the ultraviolet light test.

The powder cannot be washed off and remains visible under the light for about 36 hours.

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli election campaign ends today with public opinion polls showing almost 20 per cent of the voters still undecided who they want to lead the Jewish state into peace negotiations with the Arabs. About 80 per cent of the 2.5 million eligible voters are expected to cast ballots Tuesday in what could be the closest and most indecisive election in the history of the Jewish state. Latest polls have shown a narrowing gap between the Labor party, which has governed since Israel's birth in 1948, and the conservative Likud faction.

The Navy recently began preparing legislation to guarantee Navy women equal treatment by changing the law that now bars women from sea duty.

Graham outdraws football

SOUTH BEND, Ind. The crowd Sunday was the largest ever on campus for anything other than a football game. Graham's crusade, his first at a Roman Catholic institution, drew 95,600 persons over a five-day period. The crowds were large enough to force a shift from the indoor Athletic and Convocation Center to the outdoor stadium, which seats 59,000 persons.

Miss USA from A&M

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Kim Tomes says she likes to "take it easy" in the summer, but she's not likely to do that this year. The Houston, Tex., resident who was born in Chicago said she might pursue a career in modeling. But she said that will take place only after she has graduated from college. The 5-foot-8, 119-pound Miss Tomes is a senior at Texas A&M majoring in health and physical education. The other finalists were Miss Nevada, Mary O'Neal Contino, first runnerup; Miss Minnesota, Debbie Cossette, second runnerup; Miss California, Pam Gergely, third runnerup; and Miss Virginia, Lynn Herring, fourth runnerup. Mob dividing city

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Although casino gambling here is many months away, officials say mobsters, like legitimate businessmen and land speculators, are placing their bets early. Voters approved the idea of casino gambling last November. If state and local officials work out the details of regulation in time, gambling could start by late next winter. But even now, says FBI agent Louis Giovannetti, the FBI has "received indications that meetings have taken place for the purpose of dividing up the city — of who will take what."

Mondale 'Strengthens' Portugal tie

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale met with Portugal's top leaders today, then praised what he said was their commitment to human rights and democracy.

Mondale spent 85 minutes with President Antonio Ramalho Eanes, half an hour longer than planned. Later he said it had been "a very, very useful meeting." The vice president said the two discussed plans for more than $700 million in Western loans to Portugal, one of the poorest nations in Europe.

"Today's meeting further strengthens an already solid, friendly relationship between the United States and Portugal," Mondale said. "There are no contentious bilateral issues. We are in complete agreement."

Mondale said they also talked about American help to modernize Portugal's armed forces and develop a 5,000-man Portuguese airborne brigade for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Mondale's session with Eanes was a clear sign of U.S. backing for the 10-month-old Democratic government in Lisbon, and for efforts to link Portugal closely to Western economic and defense alliances.

Under the late dictator Antonio Salazar, Portugal was a NATO member, but remained backward and apart from European affairs.

Two years of turmoil after the 1974 revolution took the country to the brink of communism and left the economy shattered.

"This nation stands as a symbol, perhaps one of the most outstanding in the world today, of leadership that is moving dramatically toward the principle of democracy and toward the closest possible observance of human rights," Mondale said.

The United States is contributing $300 million of the Western loans over a 15-month period to stimulate Portugal's economy.

Portuguese officials have said the future of the fragile democracy, the first freely elected government in half a century, depends largely on its ability to solve the economic problems.

Also meeting with Mondale and Eanes were Portuguese Foreign Minister Jose Medeiros Ferreira and U.S. Ambassador Frank Carlucci.

On Sunday Mondale spent 90 minutes with U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, who had come to Lisbon from a three-nation African tour to brief the vice president.

Mondale meets Thursday with Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa. The vice president also said Young's controversial visit to South Africa next weekend is "definitely on."

The Vice President emphasized to reporters that Portugal's political stability depends on prompt aid for Western Europe's poorest economy to help combat a 30 per cent annual rate of inflation, 15 per cent unemployment among the 3.5-million labor force and Communist agitation among the workers.

He said more than $700 million in foreign loans that are planned over the next 15 months, including $300 million from the United States, "are crucial to the Portuguese effort to revitalize their economy."

The looters also helped themselves to a twelve-inch crescent wrench and a couple of 10-lb. lifting weights.

Spence search is continuing

ROBERT LEE — Coke County peace officers and workers from Lake E.V. Spence continued their search for the body of a man believed drowned, in the lake.

Coke County Sheriff J. Lee Ensor said Sunday night Joseph R. Johnson, 51, of Abilene was believed to be the victim. Johnson's boat overturned in water 40 to 80 feet deep.

Lake authorities dragged unsuccessfully for the body Sunday. Heavy underwater brush impeded the search. No one saw the boat capsize, according to R. L. Flannigan, a Texas Parks and Wildlife game warden. A black sheep dog belonging to Johnson was found near the Lake Spence dam.

Flannigan said workers were unable to get a drag line through the brush.

12-mile sand castle bites dust

HERMOSA BEACH, Calif. — Ashes to ashes, dust to dust, sand to sand. Thousands of dreamers helped Todd Vander Pluym build his 12-mile-long sandcastle, but hours later the tide turned his Camelot-on-the-sand into a happy memory.

Vander Pluym's chain of medieval castles, pyramids, and dragons was begun Sunday morning and completed during the afternoon. It ran from Redondo Beach to Marina del Rey along the southern California coast.

"It stretched as far as the eye could see," said LifeGuard Lt. Wally Millican. "It's kind of neat all the people got together to do it."

He estimated 20,000 people got involved in the castle in some way, either examining it or patting on a few mounds of sand. "It's the only thing you can see in its beginning middle and end all in one day," Vander Pluym, 36, said of his sandcastle-building hobby.

"And you don't have to worry about cleaning up when you're done."

Must adjourn in two weeks

Legislators hitting home stretch

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas lawmakers face the hardest two weeks of their 140-day session in the crucial days ahead.

On the plus side, the House-Senate negotiators trying to write a compromise $15 billion plus spending bill for 1978-79 expect to wrap up their product this afternoon after a long weekend of work. Then it goes to both houses for final approval—and then to the governor for approval, or veto.

On the minus side, lack of action in the Senate on the public school financing issues apparently has erased any hope that some had of any early adjournment. The Senate Education Committee does not plan to act on its version of the school finance bill until May 23 and then the Senate will have to debate it and send the measure back to the House, with a 10-member conference committee likely making the final decision.

Monday, May 30. Speaker Bill Clayton even hinted that public school financing might cause a special session.

"I believe in all probability he (Gov. Dolph Briscoe) could be convinced this is worthy of calling a special session," Clayton said.

Also pending in the Senate after House approval are separate bills on teachers pay raises and increased retirement benefits.

A final fight on medical malpractice insurance also likely will surface during the final weeks when a conference committee comes up with a compromise.

If budget makers find any left over cash, there is a still a faint possibility the Senate might act favorably on the House-approved bill to forgive more than $200 million Texans pay in sales taxes on utility bills.

A plan to revise property taxes, which started out as the No. 1 issue of the session, appears dead or at least in intensive care in the Senate.

Caretaker force can get housing

Housing in Webb Village for all persons assigned to the caretaker force at Webb, whether military or civilian, is part of the policy outlined by the Housing Management Office for the approaching draw-down period. Personnel can be included on the list for consideration regardless of rank.

Civilians wishing to move to the area will be charged a fair market rental as determined by the comptroller.

Housing will continue to be assigned as in the past until the end of the review period, estimated as May 30.

After that, housing assignments will be determined on a case by case basis. Only those assigned to a caretaker force plus newly arrived students will be eligible for a government-paid move.

Government furnishings will be provided to military personnel on a limited basis. However, every attempt will be made to provide essential items to those not owning furniture. Dependents whose sponsors are on temporary duty elsewhere or are on remote tours will be permitted to keep their quarters for the foreseeable future. Furthermore, they will be given adequate notice, up to two months or more, before it is necessary to move out of Webb Village.

Wendall Burley faces charge

Wendall P. Burley was charged in Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena's court with aggravated assault Friday, after the shooting incident at the K&M Truck Stop Wednesday afternoon.

According to police reports, Burley, manager of the truck stop, had gotten into an argument with a customer over a repair bill. After some intense haggling the customer was shot in the arm by a .38 caliber pistol, and was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital where he was treated and released.

May's sales tax here shows sizable gain

Big Spring's May sales tax check for a period that just ended was over $27,000 higher than the same period last year.

Total of this year's check is $47,167.67 compared to $19,248.18 for the same period last year.

Coahoma's is $538.47. It was not receiving sales tax last year at this time. Colorado City received $6,025.38 compared to $2,334.55 last year.

Lamesa got a check for $13,714.67 compared to $9,065.41 at the same period last year. Stanton was not receiving one last year but had $1,228.72 this year. Sterling City, which did not receive any last year, had a $1,747.52 return payment this year.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said his office had mailed the monthly city sales tax rebate checks to 867 cities and towns. Total was $22 million.

He cautioned that the 23 per cent increase is somewhat misleading because the May rebate check actually covers collections for a five-week period instead of the usual four, so the June checks will be smaller.

Your town . . . needs your help

With the fall closing of Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring must attract new industry and jobs for its people as never before. This requires that the Big Spring Industrial Foundation be recapitalized to support such an effort. Location of new industry in Big Spring takes money for interim financing, utility placements and countless other expenses.

At this crucial time in Big Spring's history, the Industrial Foundation must be in a position to meet these kind of needs for the next three years. The Industrial Foundation has launched a drive to capitalize. This campaign needs the support and investment of every Big Spring business, of every Big Spring citizen.

A concept difficult to achieve

The neighborhood school is a concept that most of us hold near to our hearts.

We would like for our children to attend a school three blocks from home from kindergarten to college.

BUT IT is a concept that has become difficult—if not impossible—for schools in small towns to achieve because of integration guidelines from Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

Until Friday, Big Spring had been able to hold onto its neighborhood concept, although not in compliance with HEW guidelines.

But in the Big Spring School Board's decision to close five schools and reshuffle students going to other schools, much of the neighborhood concept has been forced to vanish. Above the fourth grade, the public schools will operate on the unitary system, which means that all students in a particular grade will attend the same school.

Before moving to Big Spring, I lived in an East Texas town that had been forced into this system for years. It's not as bad as it might appear on paper. There are educational as well as integrational advantages.

The unitary system, since it is not based upon lines drawn through neighborhoods, removes the integration problem. Students don't mind it because it puts all of their friends in one place. The problems that come from students of age differences disappear.

Parents sometimes object because of driving distances. A mother may not understand why she must drive past a school near her home to deliver her child to another one several miles away.

LOOKING AT the Herald's map of the board's decision, it is obvious that the school officials tried to preserve as much of the neighborhood concept as they could for the ages when it matters most: the first through fourth grades.

Even so, the closing of so many elementary schools will make some of the school areas so large that they could probably not be considered neighborhood.

The board had little choice. Big Spring's schools must be brought in compliance with HEW and Texas Education Agency guidelines. This district cannot afford to do otherwise.

These times (as well as the law) demands that officials act to eliminate racially identifiable schools. Economic pressures and declining enrollment forced school closings.

The board had tough decisions to make. A few people are certain to be unhappy. A few people will argue about this or that bus route.

But there was no way Big Spring could go from where it was to where it has to be without some anguish. So let's pull together and give the new system a chance to work.

—J. TOM GRAHAM

Carey's constitution

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Governor Hugh Carey has discovered a wonderful way of working his will on the legislature of the state of New York in the matter of capital punishment. If the legislature proceeds to pass a law returning capital punishment, he will veto that bill. If his veto is overridden, he will routinely commute the sentences of everyone condemned by judge and jury to death.

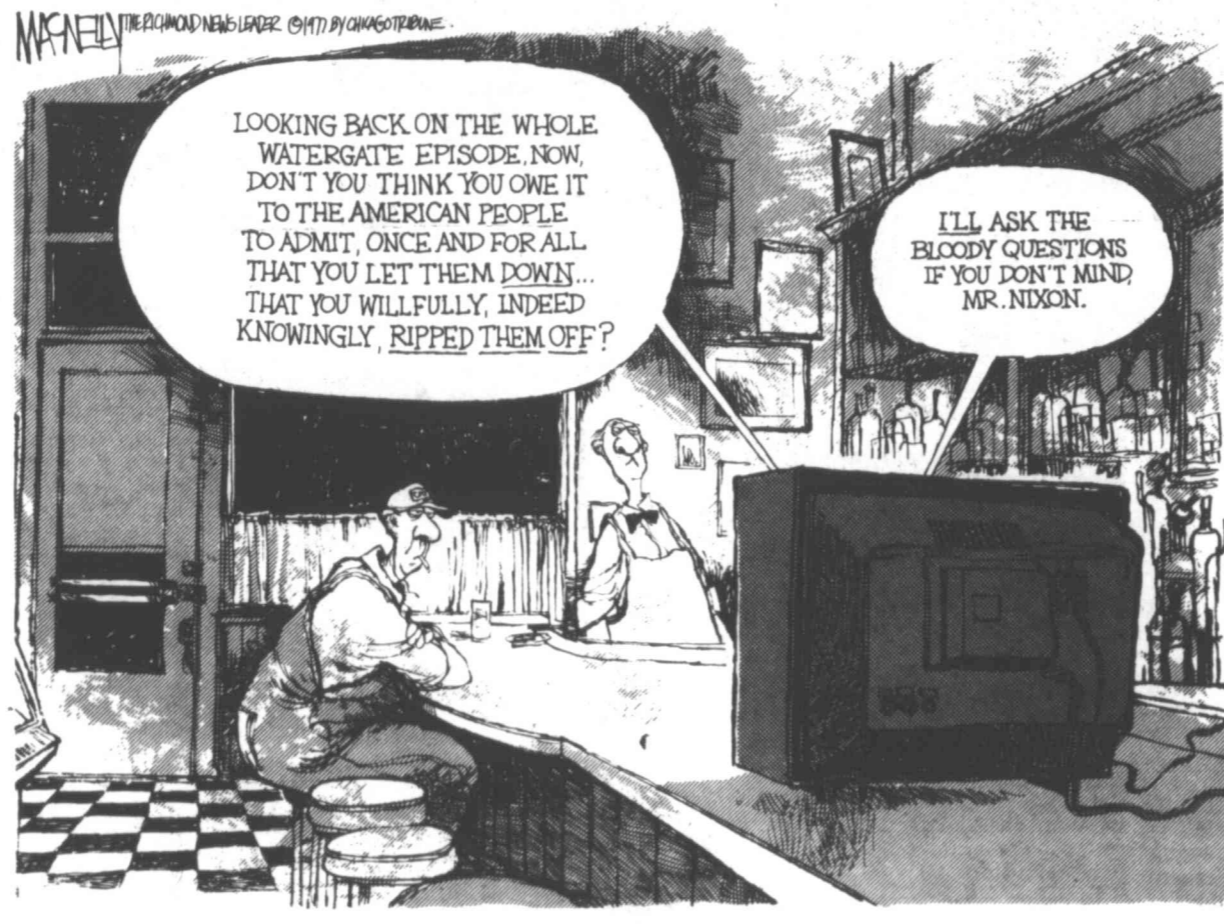

He made this statement only a few days after Richard Nixon confessed to David Frost that, after all, he Nixon had the raw power all along to stop the Watergate investigation — "simply by giving clemency to everybody." In fact, the tape reveals that when he tried out this hypothetical solution on Charles Colson, Nixon had the wit to add that he could have resorted to this stratagem "immediately after the elections." Nixon, of course meant that to have done any such thing is an affront on self-government. It is of course that, and the wonder is that on procedural grounds alone Governor Carey hasn't been forthrightly condemned.

THE EXTENSION of the principle enunciated by Carey is quite simply the absolute veto. What would prevent him from saying: "I disapprove of any laws proscribing pornography, and therefore I shall instantly commute the sentences meted out to all convicted pornographers"? Or, feeling really fishy, he might say: "I disapprove of any laws the effect of which is to discourage larcenous Democrats, and therefore I intend automatically to commute the sentences imposed on all Democrats." It begins to sound ridiculous for the very reason that it is ridiculous. Indeed, Governor Carey's statement, in the immortal words of Senator Joe McCarthy, is the most unheard of thing we've ever heard of.

There was some opposition to any kind of an executive veto at the Constitutional Convention. But, at the other end, there was also talk about an absolute veto: which is what Governor Carey, by abusing the powers of the executive to grant clemency, has in effect conferred upon himself. The reason for any veto at all was given by Hamilton (in Number 73 of the Federalist Papers) as establishing "a salutary check upon the legislative body, calculated to guard the community against the effects of faction, precipitancy, or of any impulse unfriendly to the public good, which may happen to influence a majority of that body."

He discussed an absolute veto, as exercised by sovereign chiefs of state, and acknowledged that even a king would hesitate to use so great a power. "A king of Great Britain, with all his train of sovereign attributes, and with all the influence he draws from a thousand sources, would, at this day, hesitate to put a negative upon the joint resolutions of the two houses of parliament."

HE CONTRASTED the relative reluctance of a republican chief of state to exercise so definitive a power: "If a magistrate so powerful and so well fortified as a British monarch would have scruples about an exercise of the power under consideration, how much greater caution may be reasonably expected in a President of the United States?"

What does Vitamin E really do?

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please comment as fully as possible in your column on vitamin E. What harm can it do? Is there any test to determine a need? I have had many discussions on this and have told friends to watch the paper for your answer. I know the standard answer one usually gets — that you need a well-balanced diet — but I also hear about miracles from vitamin E. — B.W.

Miracles, medical or otherwise, are pretty hard to come by, so take those claims with a grain of salt.

I have just read an interesting, comprehensive review of the vitamin E controversy by the Institute of Food Technologists' panel on food and safety and nutrition. It indicates three basic situations in which vitamin E is known to be helpful.

One is in premature infants. The vitamin is not easily passed from the placenta to the fetus in pregnancy, so newborns generally have a slightly lowered level of E in their bodies.

A second situation concerns the inability of the gut to absorb vitamin E, for example, after stomach surgery. Vitamin E is taken up by fat cells and poor fat absorption can create vitamin E deficiency in some.

There have been reports of vitamin E helping relieve in some the calf pain one gets from exercise, as in walking. Claims of increased sexual potency with vitamin E are based on animal studies. Laboratory animals were first deprived of all vitamin E in their diet, then fed quantities of it. One of the results was increased sexual activity. But it's doubtful any human would become so vitamin E deficient, because the vitamin is available in an ordinary diet. So we come back to something you don't seem to think much of: the well-balanced diet.

Studies don't show any significant effect of vitamin E in connection with such things as heart disease or cancer.

The vitamin can be stored in body fat, but its toxicity is not established. I hope this answers some of the other readers who have asked me to comment on the subject. For a copy of the institute's report you can write to the following: Institute of Food Technologists, 221 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Yes, there are tests to measure the amount of vitamin E in the body.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would a low-calorie, low-cholesterol diet, coupled with a program of light exercise be of measurable benefit for an obese male, 50 years old, suffering from high blood pressure, arthritis, and severe peripheral vascular deficiency? — K.T.

It would be helpful for each in an indirect way. For clarity, let me say that "peripheral vascular deficiency" means poor leg circulation. Any weight loss diet would necessarily limit fats and hence cholesterol, but I see no need to be concerned about that specifically unless the level is already high in your case. As to exercise, it depends on what you mean by "light." Any exercise should be geared to your needs and capabilities.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is psittacosis? How is it treated, and how does one get it? — H.F.

It's a virus disease contracted from certain birds of the psittacine family — parrots, parakeets, love birds, chiefly. It's also called "parrot fever." You can breathe in the organism from dust at the bottom of bird cages, but it can also be transmitted via cuts in the skin.

The symptoms resemble those of pneumonia, and lung X rays of victims are similar to those taken in early stages of pneumonia. Other symptoms include coughing, headache, and backache. In fact, it is also classified as one of the "atypical" forms of pneumonia — one caused by non-bacterial organisms. Bedrest and the tetracycline drugs are the prime treatment.

WASHINGTON — The echoes of the 1976 presidential campaign are beginning to haunt Jimmy Carter. As a candidate, he denounced President Gerald Ford for postponing clean air standards until 1982. But as president, Carter has now pushed back the deadline until 1983.

In a ringing campaign declaration, Candidate Carter contended last year: "It is high time that we had a president who is willing to stick to commitments to clean air." He charged that "the automobile manufacturers have dragged their feet and have found a sympathetic ear in the White House."

THEN HE solemnly pledged: "I will renew this country's commitment to clean air. Automobile manufacturers must be required to meet the emission standards ... just as soon as lead times allow."

But now that Carter is installed in the White House, he is singing a different tune. He summoned energy czar James Schlesinger, environmental chief Douglas Costle and Federal Energy Administrator John O'Leary to the White House on April 16 to discuss the clean air problem.

The session was supposed to be secret, but a "memorandum for the files" reveals that Carter wants to put off some clean air standards until 1983. This is a year later than the Ford deadline that Carter criticized.

Schul and Pettit theorized that the change in movement of the plant inside the pyramid might have been caused by variations in sunspots or solar flares. (Checks with meteorologists and space agencies, which measure these phenomena, however, failed to provide any clues.)

As far as I can tell from reading their book, the north-south movement continues today. The two experimenters feel certain that the radical change is of some significance, and they have even speculated that the plants are monitoring some modification in our environment.

Plants outside the pyramids did not show the gyrations of those inside. Time-lapse photography reveals the plants to be "wallflowers" avoiding the dance of their "apparently charged-up peers within the pyramids."

THEIR EXPERIMENTS seemed to indicate that there was some sort of "cosmic wind" blowing in from the west. When an aluminum screen was placed on the west side of the plant inside the pyramid space, the plants hesitated in their gyrations and then stopped moving entirely until the screen was removed or until they grew above the screen.

The two experimenters theorized that apparently the energy field captured, enhanced or generated by the pyramid includes some part of the electromagnetic spectrum inasmuch as the presence of the aluminum screen seems to block a force field and suspend plant movement. (They found that aluminum was the only metal to serve as an inhibitor.)

They also found that seeds placed in saucers on aluminum foil did not germinate in four days, although seeds in identical saucers without the aluminum foil germinated in two days within the pyramid.

Once the foil or screen has been left in the pyramid for two weeks or so, they learned that it apparently becomes saturated with "pyramid energy" and no longer serves as an inhibitor. Left outside a pyramid for any length of time, however, the aluminum loses its charge and reverts to its role as an inhibitor.

THE TWO ALSO discovered that when a magnet was introduced inside the pyramid, small plants stopped their movement. A magnet placed beside a sunflower six inches tall stopped the plant's gyrations at the base level, although the top of the plant continued to move.

When the magnet was removed, the plant resumed the movements from the base to the stem. Mysteriously, Schul and Pettit found that when plants were placed under plastic domes, permanent magnets appeared to inhibit plant movement anywhere in the pyramid except those directly under the apex.

The theory then goes that the energy is sufficiently strong at that location to overcome a counter force directed by the magnet.

As a footnote, the behavior of a sunflower, observed by means of time-lapse photography, appeared to be very human in its attraction to gold, so found the pair of experimenters.

A roll of 22-carat gold foil was placed inside the pyramid and the plant reached way over in order to curl around the foil. It finally swayed back in the opposite direction but not nearly as far as usual and quickly returned to embrace the foil again.

For those of you who want to build your own pyramids and do your own experiments, Schul and Pettit have instructions in their book "The Secret Powers of Pyramids" by Fawcett.

Clean air switch

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The echoes of the 1976 presidential campaign are beginning to haunt Jimmy Carter. As a candidate, he denounced President Gerald Ford for postponing clean air standards until 1982. But as president, Carter has now pushed back the deadline until 1983.

In a ringing campaign declaration, Candidate Carter contended last year: "It is high time that we had a president who is willing to stick to commitments to clean air." He charged that "the automobile manufacturers have dragged their feet and have found a sympathetic ear in the White House."

THEN HE solemnly pledged: "I will renew this country's commitment to clean air. Automobile manufacturers must be required to meet the emission standards ... just as soon as lead times allow."

But now that Carter is installed in the White House, he is singing a different tune. He summoned energy czar James Schlesinger, environmental chief Douglas Costle and Federal Energy Administrator John O'Leary to the White House on April 16 to discuss the clean air problem.

The session was supposed to be secret, but a "memorandum for the files" reveals that Carter wants to put off some clean air standards until 1983. This is a year later than the Ford deadline that Carter criticized.

Relying on Washington

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Intense 11th-hour efforts by oil state politicians to loosen natural gas regulation in President Carter's energy program were foredoomed by a hard ideological decision to solve the energy shortage through government regulation rather than market forces.

"When the President talks about sacrifice, we include people sacrificing their ideology," one Carter energy official told us. "The oil people don't realize that this means sacrificing the ideology of deregulation, that deregulation is dead." So, casting aside one campaign pledge, Mr. Carter has rejected the idea that freedom from government chains would produce more gas and oil.

THIS PUTS THE Carter energy program in confrontation with the Carter economic program. The energy program, drafted by presumptive Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger, is governmental fine-tuning of energy supply and demand. The economic program, influenced mainly by budget director Bert Lance, stresses governmental non-interference with private business. While the stock market spurred after Mr. Carter's abandonment of the $50 tax rebate, it does not Meanwhile, automobiles continue to spray poisons into the air through millions of exhaust pipes. Among the most deadly are nitrogen oxides, which are downright dangerous for people to breathe. Under the Clean Air Act, the level of nitrogen oxides per mile was supposed to be reduced to four-tenths of a gram by 1976.

This requirement was never taken seriously by the Environmental Protection Agency, which was supposed to implement the law. During the Nixon era, Deputy Assistant Administrator Eric Stork seemed more concerned about the tribulations of the automobile industry than the welfare of the nation's lungs. Yet he is still at the same old desk, and he is still sympathetic to the auto crowd.

Stork is in no hurry to curb the harmful nitrous vapors, therefore, if it might work a hardship on the auto companies. He reported in an April 8 memo to Administrator Douglas Costle that the 4 gram level had been achieved only in the Volvo and possibly the Saab. "The industry as a whole," he wrote, "has not taken the 4 nitrogen oxides (level) seriously."

OF COURSE, it was up to the Environmental Protection Agency to see that the auto industry took the law seriously. Now President Carter seems to be even more lenient than his predecessor was. The nitrogen oxides level was supposed to be down to .4 gram by 1976.

at all like Mr. Carter's energy program.

Energy decisions cannot wholly be separated from what Jimmy Carter reads in his polls. Hysterical public reaction against big oil, besides spawning know-nothing skepticism that any energy shortage exists, militates against any program that profits the companies. Besides, a pro-oil policy would invite trouble with anti-oil powers on Capitol Hill — especially Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee.

But beyond politics, Dr. Schlesinger has accepted — and the President concurred in — a most controversial interpretation of the energy crisis: the shortage is so frightening that it dictates pervasive governmental intervention. Since no appreciable new gas and oil can be produced, production of what there is should be strictly regulated while Washington mandates conservation and alternative energy sources (coal, solar, nuclear).

THIS BEARS AN uncanny resemblance to the 1974 Ford Foundation energy study written by S. David Freeman, now a Schlesinger aide. "I think Schlesinger has brought Dave Freeman's theories wholesale," one insider told us.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why should we be concerned about sending missionaries to other countries, when there are so many needs in our own country? — F.M.

DEAR F.M.: I am thankful for your burden, because it shows you are a spiritually sensitive person. Yes, there are great needs in our own country, and there are millions of people who really have very little understanding of the gospel. We need to pray about these needs, and do what we can to share Christ in our own nation.

However, our vision should be no smaller than Christ's. The Bible makes it clear that God is concerned about the whole world. "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son" (John 3:16). Jesus' last commandment to His disciples also showed His concern for all nations:

"Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you" (Matthew 28:10-20). The Apostle Paul said, "It has always been my ambition to preach the gospel where Christ was not known" (Romans 15:20, New International Version).

You and I know Christ today because there were those in the past who obeyed God's call to preach the gospel. I believe we should become more burdened for God's work wherever it is found — in our own nation, or in the far corners of the earth. Some day in heaven we will see just how broad God's concern is, because Christ "has redeemed us to by His blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation" (Revelation 5:9).

Nation-wide child prostitution ring probed

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago police say an investigation of child pornography has led to evidence of a nationwide organization that allegedly lures runaway youths into becoming male prostitutes to serve male homosexuals.

The ring, headquartered in Chicago, has been sending young boys to all parts of the nation, police said Sunday. The Chicago Tribune reported that police in Chicago, Los Angeles and Dallas are participating in the investigation.

Officers said they were close to identifying six key adult members of the prostitution ring called the Delta Project. Authorities reportedly also are searching for 20 juvenile boys connected with the ring.

Authorities said a clandestine newsletter known as Hermes is published in Chicago to promote the ring. The newsletter also allegedly promotes the use of minors as models and actors in pornographic films.

The newsletter says the aim of Delta Project is "to provide educational, travel and self-development opportunities for qualified young men of character and integrity."

Part of Delta Project was the establishment of "Delta-Dorms" around the country.

Tax officials to visit here

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock announced that two representatives from his Odessa Field Office will be in Big Spring Wednesday to answer questions from taxpayers and provide assistance in filing tax returns.

Bullock said Enforcement Officers Tom McCright and David Samuelson will be at the Howard County Tax Assessor's Office from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

"I hope local merchants will take this opportunity to get any questions they have about the sales or franchise taxes answered," said Bullock. "A little straight information can save us both headaches."

The Odessa Field Office, headed by Sherman Carrell, serves Andrews, Martin, Howard, Loving, Winkler, Ector, Midland, Glasscock, Reeves, Ward, Crane, Upton, Pecos, Jeff Davis, Terrell, Presidio, and Brewster Counties.

private residence where one of our sustaining members acts as a 'don' for two to four 'cadets'... The nature of the relationship between the cadet and the sponsor is left entirely to the two of them."

Authorities said Delta Project began in the Cook County Jail last spring when one or more inmates began using the jail's printing facilities to publish the newsletter secretly.

The Tribune said John Norman, 49, a convicted sodomist serving a four-year sentence in the Illinois state prison at Pontiac, admitted that he started the newsletter in the jail while he was awaiting trial on charges of taking indecent liberties with 10 teenage boys.

"This has nothing to do with sex," Norman told the newspaper in an interview at the prison. "I didn't want to get young kids involved in sex."

The Tribune said authorities have labeled the "dons" as adults with a sexual preference for children. The authorities claim the cadets are really prostitutes, the Tribune said.

'Going Home Special' offered by bus firm

NEW YORK, N.Y. — This summer, Continental Trailways will offer a special $75 one-way "Going Home Special" fare to any point in the country. In addition, the passengers will receive a copy of the company's specially prepared "Trace Your Routes" folder which features guidelines from one of the nation's top genealogists on how to trace your roots.

The "Special" fare and giveaway is available from June 1 through Sept. 15. Tickets purchased on or before the 15th may be used through Sept. 30. Children under five may ride free.

Already in effect and available through May 31, passengers may purchase $50 one-way fares to any point in the country. These tickets are good through June 15.

The "Going Home Special" resulted from a growing interest in ancestry and concern for the family. Many Americans are anxious to trace their roots, and this summer Trailways will provide the "Routes" for them to do so.

The summer promotion is being kicked-off with television advertisements featuring LeVar Burton, the young Kunta Kinte in the ABC-TV show "Roots." Burton and twenty-three of his friends and relatives reminisced, picnicked and played volleyball and frisbee while a film crew recorded the event.

A rare individual

By Bill Albright

Executive Vice President, Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce

In the short time that Inez and I have been here, we have been privileged to attend many interesting functions and meet and visit with a large number of fine people.

This past Thursday evening was an opportunity for us to witness the Youth Achievement Awards Program, unselfishly sponsored by the Herald and Zale's Jewelers. It was an inspiring event honoring four outstanding students from each of our area high schools.

It didn't take us long to share the pride of parents, educators and sponsors for these youngsters and their accomplishments.

And at this time of graduation and the beginning of a new phase in the life of this year's crop of young adults, we can renew our faith in the system.

Regardless of what business, profession or occupation we're in our most important product is our youngsters.

SHOP BIG SPRING FIRST — Later that same evening we attended a 'sneak preview' of a truly wonderful facility that is really difficult to describe except by using superlatives.

The Heritage Museum has been completely remodeled, refurbished and renewed and is simply a most unusual and first-class attraction. I knew it was going to be great just because of the caliber of dedicated people working on it. But I was totally impressed with the museum and highly recommend it be visited by everyone.

It will serve our community well in preserving the colorful heritage of the Big Spring area. It's high quality, attractive arrangement and most interesting exhibits and displays will establish an instant reputation — and if we advertise and promote it properly, we should be 'swamped' with visitors. Much appreciation to all those who helped make this "dream come true."

SHOP BIG SPRING FIRST — This is the kind of a last minute, after the fact — reminder that spring time means clean up time. And as many of you know we had a "clean up" last month — some folks really did a great job and many areas did improve in appearance. There are, however, some places in our community that missed out on the event.

Tax cut bill ups single workers' tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is completing work on a multibillion-dollar tax bill that would cut taxes an average of $111 a year for 46 million taxpayers, while raising taxes for two million single workers.

The bill, latest in a series of tax cuts that began in 1975, headed for final approval in the House today. Final Senate approval also is expected early this week and President Carter is likely to sign it into law before the end of the month.

The new annual tax cut will be $5.2 billion for individuals and $2.5 billion for companies, plus another continuation of multibillion-dollar cuts Congress has approved on a temporary basis since 1975.

In all, between now and the end of the 1979 budget year, the bill will mean a $34.1-billion cut in revenue for the federal treasury.

The bill makes permanent deductions, to be reflected in payroll tax withholding adjustments beginning June 1.

The tax bill heads a congressional agenda this week that includes action on President Carter's energy program, a $36-billion military hardware bill and a $3.2-billion U.S. military aid bill.

The Senate is to vote on creation of Carter's proposed Department of Energy and a key issue will be how much power to give its Cabinet director to set oil and natural gas prices.

The Senate also is to vote on a $36-billion defense authorization bill, which among other things includes $81.6 million for a new nuclear aircraft carrier just in case Carter and Congress reverse their decisions not to build it.

The House is to vote on a $3.2-billion U.S. military aid bill with a $15 million cut in aid to Zaire. Supporters of the cut in aid to Zaire say the move is a signal to Carter and to African nations that Congress wants no military involvement on that continent.

The bill also includes a $100-million refugee and war rehabilitation fund for blacklisted countries in South Africa, including Angola when and if U.S. diplomatic relations are restored with that country.

The tax bill cuts taxes for 46 million people, raising them for two million. It replaces a variable standard deduction with two figures: $2,200 for singles and $3,200 for those filing joint returns.

The 46 million people who file joint returns using the standard deductions didn't get that much before and the two million single people got more, up to $2,400. For those who file joint returns, that will mean paying an average of $111 a year less in taxes. For singles, it will mean an average of $52 more.

Ridin' fence

Sharing parents' pride

with Marj Carpenter

Last week, a woman arose at the Delta Kappa Gamma meeting to talk about a former school teacher here, who was a selfless individual.

She told about the many times that this woman had helped former students who were needy to obtain their advanced education.

The spokesman told about this woman's concern for others and about the fact that she visits daily the sick in the hospitals and nursing homes.

The speaker then told about the former teacher's dedication to her church, and her interest in the Howard County Historical Foundation.

The speech also told about her love for others and the fact that she is really interested in all of those around her, and that she keeps up with them and complements them when they do something well.

Then the DKG named a scholarship for her, and nobody in the room was surprised that it was named for Agnes Currie.

Agnes is a rare individual who really cares about the people around her, and nearly everybody in town, who has done something well, has received an extra clipping in the mail from Agnes who was happy over the occasion.

She teaches Sunday school at the First Presbyterian Church and is active in the Friendship Circle. Maybe she named that circle, because friendship is her motto.

She is from an early Glasscock County family. It's been said here before that the early families in Garden City were the three C's — the Calverleys, the Coxes and the Curries.

Agnes was born in Big Spring in the Currie home that used to be at 7th and Scurry. She was the only daughter of Temp S. and Margaret A. Currie. They had two sons, Robert and Temp Jr., both of whom are deceased.

Robert's son John, president of State National Bank, said that he was almost afraid to give me any Currie history for fear it might be wrong and Agnes would sure notice that.

I assured him that Agnes quite often caught discrepancies in some of my early historical stories and since she was one of the really accurate historians around, I was used to her catching me.

But I wanted to surprise Agnes. That's what the teacher's sorority did and it's the only way to say something good about Agnes Currie.

On top of everything else, she's modest and she'd be the first one to object if she thought you were going to write her up.

1. SOURDOUGH STARTER

1 package active dry yeast
2 1/2 cups warm water (105° to 115°)

1 cup instant nonfat dry milk
2 tablespoons sugar
4 cups all-purpose flour

a) Stir yeast, water, dry milk and sugar in 2 1/2 quart crock or non-metallic bowl until yeast is dissolved. Stir in flour gradually until a smooth batter forms. Let stand loosely covered in warm place, 3 to 5 days. Stir down batter occasionally. Store loosely covered in refrigerator.

b) Replace exact amount of starter used for each recipe by stirring equal amounts of homogenized milk and flour back into starter. (For example, replace 1 cup starter with 1/2 cup homogenized milk and 1/2 cup flour.) Let stand loosely covered until it bubbles, overnight. Stir down. Each time this process is repeated, the starter becomes more active and develops a more sour flavor. Note: if stored as much as two to three weeks between usings, just pour off the watery layer on top and replace following procedure in (b).

2. SOURDOUGH BREAD STICKS

1 cup instant nonfat dry milk
1 cup warm water (105° to 115°)
1 cup Sourdough Starter (see Recipe No. 1)
2 cups all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons vegetable oil

2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 to 1 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted

a) Mix dry milk, water, Sourdough Starter and 2 cups flour in non-metallic bowl, cover loosely. Let stand in warm place until mixture is coarse and bubbly, at least 8 hours.

b) Mix oil, salt, sugar and baking soda into sourdough mixture. Stir in enough of the remaining flour to make dough easy to handle. Knead dough lightly on well-floured board, about 2 minutes.

c) Roll dough into rectangle, 15 x 10 inches, on well-floured board. Cut into fifteen 1-inch strips. Roll each strip into even round strand about 14 inches long. Double strand over and twist to form bread stick. Place bread sticks on greased baking sheet; brush with melted butter. Cover with plastic wrap. Let rise in warm place until doubled, 1 to 1 1/2 hours.

d) Heat oven to 375°. Bake bread sticks until golden brown, 30 to 35 minutes. (Makes 15.)

Let Tina Contend With Dirty Old Boss

DEAR ABBY: My beautiful 27-year-old daughter (I'll call her Tina) is divorcing her husband. She has two small children to support and has taken a job as secretary to an elderly man who has an office in his home. He's married, but his wife is very deaf.

Tina has told me that her boss has made improper suggestions to her. She says he's never touched her, but he has propositioned her several times. She says she kids him out of it by pretending she thinks he's only joking, but she knows he's not. (He gave her a generous cash gift last Christmas, and she hadn't even worked for him a year.)

I would like to go to this man and tell him how rotten I think he is by degrading my lovely daughter with his insulting offers, but Tina has forbidden me to interfere.

I am a widow, but I would rather mortgage my home than see my daughter work for this animal. She has applied for work elsewhere, but must work in the meantime because she needs the money. Also, she needs good references for another job, and if she tells him off, he may not give them to her.

I am heartsick knowing that my lovely daughter goes to this dirty old man's home every day, knowing what he has in mind.

Should I take matters into my own hands?
HEARTSICK MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: No. Although I know you mean well, let Tina handle it. She seems well able to.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 years old, and I am no good in school. Everything is hard because I hate to study. My mother says if I don't do better in school, I can't go to ballet camp this summer. Abby, I love ballet but I hate to study. What should I do?
LOVES BALLET

DEAR LOVES: If you want to go to ballet camp, you'd better get on your toes. And right now!

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is planning marriage soon. She told me last week that after she's married, I should not drop in and visit her without calling first.

Abby, I was knocked off my feet. The next day I told my younger daughter about it, and she laughed and said, "Oh, Mom, she was just kidding." That evening the younger one asked her sister right in front of me if she was kidding, or did she really mean it. The one who's getting married said, "Of course I mean it, and that goes for the whole family."

Now we are all shocked. Abby, is this something new? Since when can't parents and brothers and sisters drop in on each other without calling first? What is your opinion?
SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: Some people do not want unexpected drop-in-type visitors—including family members—which is their right.

And though it sounds unfriendly, it takes a mature woman to let her family know how she feels about such things.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Miss Roni Acri honoree at kitchen bridal shower

A kitchen bridal shower for Roni Acri, bride-elect of David Hanson was held last Saturday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Jack R. Cathey Sr.

At the shower, a large chopping block was used for a serving table. The centerpiece was composed of kitchen gadgets arranged in ivy and centered in a bread basket.

Refreshments were served from dishes of the future bride's chosen colors. A corsage of yellow Shasta daisies with corn holders and ribbons accenting it was presented to the bride.

The hostesses of the shower included Mrs. Jack Cathey Sr., Mrs. Jack Cathey Jr., Mrs. Tom Conway, Mrs. Dealon Stanley, Mrs. Raymond Stallings, Mrs. Murray Vice and Mrs. Perry Walker from Uvalde.

Supper was served at 6:30 p.m. in the patio area with picnic tables arranged with flowering plants and greenery. The buffet table was centered with an azalia plant.

The husbands joined in the topic discussion on forgiveness and forgiving, led by Rev. Carroll Kohl.

Following the topic the ladies met for a brief business meeting. Coming events were announced about the district delegate to the International Lutheran Women's Mission League Convention in Laramie, Wyoming; the help to be given to the Monahan's Lutheran Church, and the purchase of Bibles for the church.

A report on the workshop held in Kermit on May 1 was given by Mrs. George von Hassell. It was attended by Mrs. Leroy Budke, Mrs. Moran Oppogard and Mrs. von Hassell.

Special guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Rene Brown. The next meeting is scheduled June 9.

Consumer specialist gives background on the mattress

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The average American spends up to a third of his life asleep, but he may know less about the mattress he's lying on than he does about products that occupy only a fraction of his time.

The National Association of Bedding Manufacturers offers a guide to some of the basics, but a spokesman for the group admits that the "consumer has to rely on the knowledge of the retail salesman."

Mattress construction is a complicated process, the spokesman said. All you get to see of the product is the cover. "Primarily you buy on feel," said the bedding industry spokesman. "The big thing today is a firm mattress. The idea is to get the firmest support possible without its feeling like a board."

You have to take the word of the salesman and the guarantee of the manufacturer that the mattress will feel the same a year from now as it does today.

A little bit of knowledge will go a long way, however, in helping you to ask the right questions. (The salesman should know the answers about construction and quality; if he doesn't you might want to switch salesmen or stores.)

Mattresses and boxsprings generally range in size from the twin — 38 inches wide by 75 inches long — to the king — 76 inches wide and 80 inches long.

Most experts, including the manufacturers, say you should buy a new boxspring whenever you choose a new mattress. If the mattress is worn out, the spring probably is due for replacement as well, they claim.

There are two basic types of mattresses: innerspring and foam. The foam mattresses are less expensive; they generally do not last as long, however.

The foam mattress consists of a core of cushiony urethane foam — either the standard type or a new, high-resiliency variety for increased support — and a synthetic cover.

Combinations of foam may be laminated together to produce varying density.

The innerspring mattress is more complicated. It consists of springs, a layer of insulation — not the kind you use to save energy in your home, cushioning and a cover.

The standard double mattress (53 by 75 inches) has a minimum of about 250 coils. Some varieties may have up to 1,000 coils, but the wire used for the coils is likely to be lighter in weight.

The bedding manufacturers' spokesman said the optimum construction generally is considered to include 312 coils of 13½ gauge wire. Ask the salesman or check manufacturers' literature to find out the number of coils and the strength of the wire before you buy.

The springs are covered with an insulator, either a pad of some kind or netting or a wire arrangement, designed to prevent the springs from sticking into your back and to keep the cushioning material from sinking into the center of the coils. Some manufacturers use extra insulation to increase the firmness of the mattress; others rely on a heavier gauge wire.

On top of the insulator is the cushioning material: layers of cotton felt, urethane foam or a synthetic fiber. The cushion is designed to provide surface softness for comfort.

The final component is the cover, also known as the ticking. The manufacturers group says all tickings today are made of synthetics — partly to meet federal flammability standards for resistance to ignition by a lighted cigarette and partly for cost reasons.

Other features to look for in the mattress include ventilators — little metal disks along the sides, hand-des so you can turn the mattress easily and reinforced supports around the edges to prevent sagging.

Most boxsprings are sold in sets with mattresses and the manufacturers' guarantee may depend on the two items being purchased as a pair. Read the fine print carefully.

Whatever you choose, make sure to sit and lie on the mattress. When sitting, see how well the edge of the mattress supports you. Does it spring back quickly when you get up? Lie down to check support under the shoulders and hips. Roll around a bit to make sure that the mattress does not sway or sag.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 17, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you are still and serene, your intuitive perceptions will be at a new height and accuracy; but if you are in any sort of turmoil, in thoughts or actions, you may have to face some very difficult conditions. Finish projects already started with poise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look at your financial affairs objectively and you will know how to handle them more intelligently. Be careful of your possessions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A new treatment could prove to be beneficial to your health. Show you are clever in handling a social matter. Don't neglect to pay bills.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Use your intuition in handling difficult affairs instead of neglecting them. Don't permit a loved one to force you into an unskillful action. Think of your personal welfare more.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) See the good side of a personal friend who has irked you. Plan social affairs well in advance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be careful in how you state your views to bigwigs or you could mar your future instead of improving it. Take no chances where credit is concerned. Make pressing payments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study new proposals well and put only those in operation that are suited to your talents and are easy for you. Make new allies whose experience has been greater, more diversified than yours.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) There is uncertainty in the air so be sure to check everything you do carefully. Show loved ones how much they are needed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to come to a better understanding with associates who are miffed about something or other and work well together once more.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Finish work you started some time ago and gain benefits from it that you deserve. Try to please fellow workers more.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget about recreation right now; this is not a good time for such. Listen carefully to what mate, loved one, has to suggest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find new and better ways of handling routine chores and gain more time for yourself. Use your natural ability.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Follow your hunches in dealing with others, getting errands done, corresponding. If a loved one is being difficult, do not get into any serious conversations right now. Wait until tempers cool.

Farm Soil stewardship week is observed

Soil Stewardship Week, a nationwide observance which emphasizes man's responsibility to protect and conserve soil, water and other natural resources, is being observed this week, W.L. Wilson Jr., chairman of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District, has announced.

"This year's theme, 'When We Care,' will help each to examine his own motives and actions in the conservation of God's manifold gifts," said Wilson.

A number of the churches in the district are scheduling special soil stewardship services.

During the past weeks the district hosted a breakfast for ministers serving churches in the Scurry and Borden Counties. Soil Stewardship Bookmarks were also distributed to the Farm Bureau campaigns to do away with OSHA

WACO — Farm Bureau is mounting a nationwide campaign to repeal OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Act), according to Carrol Chaloupka, president of the 200,000-member Texas Farm Bureau.

The Dalhart farmer and rancher said Rep. Steven B. Symms (R-Idaho) has introduced H.H. 1348 to repeal OSHA.

"This one-sentence bill was introduced at the request of Farm Bureau as the only logical solution to end the rapidly-increasing number of senseless regulations, the arrogant administration, and the inflationary cost of this out-of-control federal agency," Chaloupka said.

OSHA has issued a number of regulations directly affecting agriculture. These include rules pertaining to wearing of protective clothing in fields where agricultural chemicals have been applied, farm labor housing standards, livestock safety and farm equipment shielding. Proposed regulations deal with field sanitation and cotton dust standards.

Chaloupka said the main issue is "freedom from unwarranted interference" by the federal government. He said the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution guarantees the right of citizens against unreasonable searches and seizures.

He claimed that OSHA inspectors enter private premises "without a warrant, without probable cause, and arbitrarily impose fines administratively without recourse to a trial by jury. Basic rights guaranteed by our Constitution are flagrantly violated."

The Farm Bureau is seeking to get a number of Congressmen to co-sponsor the Symms Bill as a means of gaining serious consideration of the proposed legislation.

"Citizens and organizations who feel as we do on this issue are urged to join the fight," Chaloupka said.
