

Bankers say credit union growth unfair

By BOB BURTON

Is the Webb Credit Union getting too big for its britches? Is it taking advantage of federal protection to compete unfairly for the Big Spring interest dollar? Local banks and savings institutions say "yes".

Webb Credit Union, until the announcement that Webb AFB would be closed, served only base personnel and their dependents. But now, the WCU has won an expansion of its charter and can now serve all residents of the community. It has cleared land for a larger, off-base building soon to be constructed.

A spokesman for the American Bankers Association complained, "Credit Unions have become big business" in the April 11 Newsweek.

Locally that fact is becoming more and more in evidence as the established financial institutions, the four major banks and the two savings and loan associations, react to the news that Webb Credit Union (WCU) is moving into the commercial market.

Cries of "unfair" and "non-competitive" have rent the air since the WCU, one of nine throughout the city, announced that it would step out of the magic ring of Webb AFB and begin to offer its considerable services to city and county residents.

THE HUE and cry is conducted among the so-called "thrift institutions", all of which are under varying degrees of federal control. According to WCU general manager Wade Choate, credit unions may be defined as "a cooperative savings and loan corporation". They were set up by Congress to handle residential mortgages and to service the civilian and military personnel in this case attached to Webb AFB. According to Choate, the conversion from military to community is nothing new. It has happened, he says, plenty of other times across the country.

John Currie, president of the State National Bank, disagrees. "In each of those other cases," he said, "there was a special reason to convert. None of the prior conversions are directly comparable here.

"I HELPED set up most of the credit unions in Big Spring," he continued, "and so long as they stayed within the purposes for which they were designed, I had no problems. But the Webb Credit Union has taken advantage of things available to them. They have usurped the intent behind their creation."

Charles Bell, president of First Federal Savings and Loan, agrees. "I see it as being identical to opening the commissary and base exchange to public use."

"We don't mind competing with them, but they're not playing the ballgame by our rules, even though they're playing our game in our ballpark."

How so? Well, the idea of a credit union is that there is no profit. Yes, a non-profit organization. It is designed to return whatever its investments have made to its stockholders (See Webb Credit, p. 2A, col. 1)

Lamesan killed in crash

By MARJ CARPENTER

One man was killed instantly at 12:50 a.m. Saturday and three others seriously injured in a collision at the intersection of US 87 and the north service road of IS 20.

Dead is Gary Van McGee, 27 of Lamesa, driver of a car headed south on US 87 into Big Spring when it collided with the truck-trailer driven by Robert L. Wolfe of Alamogordo, N.M.

The sports car driven by McGee collided with the trailer portion of the truck as it was headed west on the service road. The car hit with such force that it ran up under the trailer, and turned it at a right angle.

The sports car was wedged underneath the trailer and it took efforts of city police, state troopers and two wrecking companies along with two teams of Alert Ambulance attendants to extract the four men.

The three injured include Paul Delgado Inatague, 21 of Lamesa, whose parents lived in Guam. He was in critical condition early Saturday and listed in guarded condition Saturday night at Malone-Hogan Hospital. He was suffering from head and chest injuries.

The two men in the back seat are from Big Spring and both reside at 506B Bell. Rudy Ramirez, 22, and Adam M. Regalado, 33, were both in Malone-Hogan Hospital with cuts and bruises, possible internal injuries and leg injuries. They were listed in serious condition.

McGee, who was a student at Midland College, had talked to his parents, the Floyd McGees, in Lamesa about 20 minutes earlier on a Citizens Band radio telling them that he would be home soon.

Since the car was headed into Big Spring, investigating officers surmised he might have been bringing the two Big Spring men home before heading back toward Lamesa.

The investigating police officer is Jerry Edwards, who was assisted by numerous law officers.

McGee was one of 91 persons in the nation who have been killed in traffic accidents during the Memorial Day weekend as of 6 p.m. Saturday.

The traffic fatality count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

Justice of the Peace Bobby West ruled McGee dead at the scene.

Services for McGee are pending at Branon Funeral Home in Lamesa.

Survivors include his parents, a sister, Tina Gay McGee of Lubbock and a brother, Darwin Thomas of Hawaii.

Illiteracy 'in'

with Tommy Hart

We may be approaching a time when the written word as we know it ceases to be.

There are young people today who have been exposed to it for 17 years, yet cannot comprehend it. It baffles them, therefore they leave it alone. They have no appetite for the challenge.

Teachers try to impress upon the students the value of the printed text, the romance associated with it, even though people as a whole are being required to read less and less, the addition of television having reached the state it has.

All too many high school graduates, and more than a few who have danced to the chants the college professors have called for them, have managed to avoid learning the language.

There is no doubt but that television has contributed to illiteracy in this country. People, for the most part, are lazy readers and prefer to harvest their information electronically.

Supper club fire kills 40

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — A raging fire at a night club killed at least 40 persons Saturday night, a fire official said. He blamed many of the casualties on panic.

Southgate Fire Chief Dick Riesenberger, who gave the death toll, said more persons were trapped inside the building in this Kentucky community across the Ohio River from Cincinnati.

Screams could be heard from people trapped inside the two-story Beverly Hills Supper Club, one of the largest night clubs in the Midwest.

The fire chief said the blaze was out of control.

Singer John Davidson, a frequent guest host on television's "Tonight" show, was about to go on stage when the fire broke out. He was reported safe.

One witness counted 15 bodies at the south door of the building where a priest was giving the last rites.

"Everything was under control until the smoke broke out," said Ernie Doctor, 50, of Columbus, Ohio. His wife, Rose, said people began screaming and running for the doors when they spotted the flames.

The fire burned through the Empire Room, where Davidson was to appear. Flames also blazed through adjoining dining rooms.

One patron said a busboy broke up the act of comedians Teter & McDonald and told people there was "a small fire in the kitchen" and for everyone to move out quickly.

Black smoke poured in as the doors were opened and the panic began, witnesses said.

Bartender Gil Broadbeck said,

"Suddenly the smoke hit and people began jumping over the bar. It was so thick, I couldn't get a breath a foot above the floor."

The fire broke out about 9 p.m.

Reporters at the scene had to leave their cars and run nearly three miles because of massive traffic snarls as hundreds of firefighters and ambulances poured into the area.

Herald sponsoring trip to London

The Big Spring Herald will join with three other West Texas newspapers in sponsoring a nine-day trip to London in October, Publisher J. Tom Graham announced today.

Four hosts from Big Spring will be Harold Canning, who has been the Herald's business manager for more than three decades, and his wife, Doris.

The Cannings and others from Big Spring will join a group of West Texans from cities like Abilene, San Angelo and Wichita Falls.

"The Herald is delighted to be able to offer this tour to its readers," Graham said, "and we are particularly happy that Harold and Doris have agreed to be Big Spring hosts."

Canning, a native of Newfoundland, served in London during World War II, and his familiarity with the city should be an asset to the trip, Graham noted. Mrs. Canning works for Big Spring public schools and is secretary to interim Supt. Lynn Hise.

The tour, arranged in cooperation with Skipper Travel Service in Big Spring, is also hosted by three other newspapers: The Abilene Reporter-News, the San Angelo Standard-Times, and the Wichita Falls Record-News.

The dates will be Oct. 11 through 19.

HAROLD CANNING DORIS CANNING

The cost will be $659 and will include round trip air fare from Dallas-Fort Worth to London, a hotel room in the Penta, London International or Cunard Hotel (double occupancy), continental breakfast each morning, and one day of organized sightseeing.

This tour will feature much free time for going to the great London theater or looking at the countryside or whatever each person likes to do, said Graham.

Details of the tour will be available in a couple of weeks.

Graham said that anyone interested in going with the Cannings and other West Texans should contact the Herald (phone 263-7331) or Skipper Travel.

Action/reaction: House values

Q. Under the Homeowners Assistance Program, who actually determines property values? Does the applicant have a right to appeal an appraisal?

A. According to the Navy Times, actual evaluations are made by real estate appraisers on the Army Corps of Engineers staff or under contract to it. Their decisions are based on the sales of homes before and after the base closure announcement. If an applicant should disagree on the appraised value of his home, he may appeal by giving the District Engineer a written statement of objection. The District Engineer will review the case and, if possible, grant the appeal. If not, he will forward the appeal to the Chief of Engineers. The final decision is that of the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Installations and Logistics.

Trudeaus call it quits

NEW YORK (AP) — Margaret Trudeau says she left her husband, Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, because "he is so involved running the country that he cannot be the husband I thought he'd be when we were first courting." "I'm not unhappy," she said Friday night before leaving for Mount Kisco where she will spend the weekend with Princess Yasmin Khan and other friends. The Princess is the daughter of the late Aly Khan and actress Rita Hayworth. "It's always possible that we will never get a divorce because, in our own way, we still love each other," she said in an interview published Saturday in the New York Post and the Toronto Star. Mrs. Trudeau said she will spend the month of August at a lake near Ottawa with her estranged husband and their three sons.

Hello, Skipper

SCOTTSBORO, Ala. (AP) — Alan Hale, the "Skipper" of television's "Gilligan's Island," says the long-running series has made him a familiar figure around the world. "As I was making a trip around the world two or three years ago, we stopped in Beirut, Lebanon. No one said I could not go ashore and when someone put a ladder next to the plane I stepped out," he said. "I saw soldiers all around, but gave it no thought. When I started down the ladder, a young soldier turned and barked out orders not to come down. Then his expression changed and a big smile came across his face as he said, 'Skipper, don't come ashore.'"

Moluccans still hold 60 hostages

Dutch children may have meningitis

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Dutch officials waged a war of nerves Saturday with Asian extremists holding some 60 hostages in a train and a nearby school. Doctors said some schoolchildren released earlier by the terrorists may have meningitis. Police and troops surrounding the two locations threatened to attack if the terrorists harmed any of the hostages still held after nearly a week. Justice Ministry official Toos Faber said. Despite the warnings, the South Moluccans who seized the train and school last Monday showed no sign of relenting in demands for the release of comrades jailed for terrorism and a plane to fly them all out of the country. They also want the Dutch to pressure Indonesia into granting independence for their Pacific island homeland, which was once a Dutch colony.

Dr. Gottlieb Nellick, chief pediatrician at a local hospital, said examinations of the 105 children released last Friday showed 17 or 18 with symptoms of meningitis, a sometimes fatal inflammation of the membrane around the brain and spine. He said further tests were being conducted at The Hague to confirm the diagnosis. Nellick said the children, set free after about half contracted a stomach bug, may have come down with the highly contagious disease because of poor hygiene during their captivity. He did not rule out the possibility the disease might spread to other hostages or their captors. "We are not aware this is the case, but considering the hygienic conditions, the risk is the same," he said. "The severity of the illness as we know it at present is variable. Some children are now more ill than others." Twenty-two of the children remain in the hospital, he said.

Police beat Three arrested after hit-and-run

Three persons were taken into custody by city police Friday night for failing to stop and render aid after a vehicle struck a motorcycle driven by Jose Manuel Jimenez. Jimenez was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital by private car for a possible broken leg. The three people in the other vehicle were arrested an hour later by city police. At 7:28 p.m. Harlen Eugene Swafford dived in the swimming pool at the Mayo Ranch Motel showing his children how to swim. The police report said that he went to the bottom and didn't come up. His wife and children got him out of the pool and she administered artificial respiration. He was hospitalized at Malone-Hogan and reported to be in good condition. Bella Moore, 1212 Nelson, reported a burglary at that residence. Items missing included a black and white television set, assorted items of clothing and jewelry and 12 books of Gold Bond stamps.

Mary Reidy retiring

Mary T. Reidy, who has completed 26 years of service with Texaco, has elected to take early retirement from the Producing Department-Central U.S., Midland Division, of Texaco Inc. at Midland, effective June 1, it was announced by J.C. Josefy, Midland district superintendent. Miss Reidy is a native of Big Spring and attended high school here. She joined the Seaboard Oil Company at Midland in 1951 as a production clerk and transferred to Texaco service when Seaboard Oil Company merged with Texaco Inc. in 1968. Subsequently, she served as clerk-stenographer in the Midland office. She became senior stenographer in Texaco's Midland district. She is a member of St. Ann's Catholic Church, Midland. Miss Reidy will continue to reside in Midland after retirement.

A man with a vehicle parked at Betty Lou's bar reported somebody shot at his car and dented the doorway. One little boy's grandfather reported that a kid in the next block struck his grandson in the head with a rock. ## Rebels still resisting after bloody uprising

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Angola's Marxist government said Saturday some rebels were still resisting after a bloody uprising that took the lives of at least six government leaders. President Agostinho Neto, in a speech monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp., named five members of the governing Council of Revolution and the director of security services as being killed in the revolt by extreme leftists. He said some of the bodies had been burned. In Lisbon, the Portuguese news agency ANOP reported the burned bodies of the six officials had been found in a suburb of Luanda, the Angolan capital. Among those named by both Neto and the ANOP report as dead were Finance Minister Saydi Mingas and army commander Eurico Goncalves. A Portuguese newspaper, A Capital, reported earlier that Mingas and a foreign affairs official, Garcia Neto, had been captured by the rebels. Garcia Neto was listed by ANOP as being slain. Neto's speech was his third to the nation since Friday's revolt. In his first statement he said the rebellion had been "totally crushed," but Saturday he reported some of the rebels had escaped and were being pursued. In Rome, the Angolan Embassy issued a statement saying "the struggle is still continuing" but "the final victory is certain." Neto, who won control of the former Portuguese colony in 1975 with the help of Soviet arms and Cuban troops, said in an earlier speech Saturday the rebels "can expect no consideration, no pardon. We have no more tolerance in Angola. We shall proceed in a firm and tough manner."

Webb Credit union draws fire

(everyone with an account) on a regular basis. In return for this and for servicing (in the original credit union plans) a limited community, the state and federal government rewarded the credit union with less federal control.

APPARENTLY, they have to pay no federal income tax. They are not bound by the same reserve requirements banks are bound by. They can, because less of their capital is tied up in federally-required, non-productive areas, offer better interest rates. They are exempt from state sales tax. They have a rent-free branch at the Post Office. Currie, and most others, believe this is unfair because the federal government is allowing the credit union this freedom of the marketplace and at the same time allowing it the freedom from taxes reserved to the institutions serving a limited community.

"We are used as instruments of monetary policy by the federal reserve system," Currie notes. "We are required to keep a $2 million deposit in Ft. Worth that bears no interest. It is discriminatory to allow the credit unions to bypass this."

What else do the credit unions offer? According to Choate, they offer "draft orders" which function exactly like checks, except that the account they work for is, at the same time, paying interest to the client.

THEY CAN NOW, under federal law, handle real estate mortgage loans, which formerly were the exclusive property of the other thrift institutions.

But this is all in-fighting. The banks, the savings and loans, and the credit unions fighting over their share of the Big Spring pie. How will the credit union moving into the commercial marketplace affect the town?

According to Currie, the word is adversely. "Banks have incentive to buy tax-free bonds supporting the city, the county, and the state. That incentive comes from the fact we have to pay income tax on our funds. The credit unions have no such incentives."

"If there is a major shift in assets toward the credit unions, then the taxpayer will have to make up the lost funds. We buy water, sewer, revenue, junior college, school, and general obligation bonds. These would become the burden of the taxpayer."

alone paid $2 million in equivalent income tax since 1971. Jim Gray, assistant manager of the Webb Credit Union, sees it differently. "Under the federal law," he said, "we are not permitted to buy those bonds. Look at it this way. Those thrift institutions earn money for a small group of stockholders who are withholding income and thus must pay taxes on it. We pay dividends to everyone in the credit union and our stockholders pay taxes on that."

J.D. NELSON, president of Security State Bank, agrees with Currie that the credit union move is unfair. Of the impact on the local businesses, he said, "I'd like to think there would be little or no effect, but there will be increased competition. They can pay higher interest on savings and can make 15 to 30 year loans."

"We will have to live with it but we won't have to like it." Where is the culprit responsible for freeing this competitive monster among the county "thrift institutions"?

"It's the federal government," says Bill Read, president of Coahoma State Bank. "I don't object to what the Credit Union is doing, but the federal laws which permitted it are unfair." Read cites, along with the other presidents, the freedom of the credit union from federal regulations as the chief reason they will pose such a threat.

"I don't mind them doing business," he elaborates, "but it amounts to discrimination. We pay dividends too, but we have to pay taxes on that money before we can return it. "It's the same as if your neighbor down the street didn't have to pay any income taxes. Do you think that's fair?"

Read says it will hurt the Big Spring institutions more than the Coahoma State Bnk, but he declined to say how much income tax his bank paid last year. "We ran $10 million through Big Spring banks last year," he summed up, "and that was with the Coahoma State Bank considered an out-of-town bank. If the Big Spring merchants started accepting Coahoma checks like Big Spring checks, there would be even more."

JIMMY TAYLOR of First National Bank declined any comment and Ray Don Williams of Big Spring Savings & Loan was unavailable for comment. So where is the inequity? The credit union, under federal regulations which have been around since the 1930s, is entitled to more freedom than are state and federally chartered banks and savings and loans. The banks and savings and loans, on the other hand, have been operating for years under a protected system, without real competition, wherein newcomers must first prove there is a "need" for their services, or excess business in the community.

"The idea of a limited marketplace is based on historical evidence," said Currie. "Banks fail. During the depression, and during the 50s. Our deposits dropped from $15 to $7 million during the drought in the 50s." "If it was a new institution," said Beil, "we would have had an opportunity for our say in court. As it is, with a stroke of a Washington pen they were made public with the fourth largest assets in the country."

"THE ONLY avenue of action is political," he continued, "so we'll have to influence our legislative representatives to bring about some kind of parity."

Currie, in explaining how the credit union will affect the city, cited their charter changes. "They absorbed Roswell, Laredo, and Mineral Wells credit unions when those bases closed. Now that Webb has gone, they have expressed no intention of passing their accounts on."

"It's just averages for us. The larger city banks aren't as seriously hurt, in fact, some of them are helping process these credit unions. But for us it's like the man with one foot in a bucket of ice water and one in a bucket of boiling water — on the average he's in pretty good shape."

The Credit Union, however, sees its absorption of the out-of-town accounts as good for the community. They point out that those funds are earning for all stockholders.

They insist that 70 per cent of their business is out-of-county, and that percentage will increase when Webb employees leave and hopefully keep their credit union accounts here.

The real answer for the city is in the third point of view. It may be bad for the banks, it may be bad for the savings and loans, it may be unfairly good for the credit union, but it certainly offers an alternative to the citizens. Whether or not the national financial institutions have enough pull in Washington to restrict the freedoms granted the credit union remains to be seen. But in Big Spring, all it means for certain is that there is another choice.

Cancer victim gets diploma, dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Bill Ludwikowski was determined to receive his high school diploma at the same time his classmates did. When his class was attending the Holmes High School graduation ceremonies Friday night, Bill was in a hospital where doctors were fighting a losing battle against the cancer that had struck the former star linebacker's body. School officials delivered Bill's diploma to him. An hour later he died. Bill's friends said the 18-year-old youth never lost his spirit after learning he had cancer last spring. His cancerous prostate gland and bladder were removed by surgeons in June. Last fall Bill was honorary captain of his football team, calling the coin toss at every game. He said he lost only one call. The previous season Bill had been using his 5-foot-11, 210-pound body to knock down opposing ball carriers. Several college teams expressed an interest in him after his junior year. By last November he weighed only 155 pounds.

But he never let up in his studies, finishing seventh in his class at the 2,800-student school and getting a four-year scholarship offer from Princeton. Bill was in and out of hospitals throughout the school year. He entered for the last time five weeks ago. But his determination never wavered. Frank Arnold, his high school coach, said, "If it had happened to me, they'd have to scrape me off the floor." Ludwikowski will be buried Thursday at Ft. Sam Houston.

House panel mulls Webb disposal

The subcommittee of the House Committee on Armed Services will consider the disposal report on Webb Air Force Base at its next meeting in June.

Mayor Wade Choate received notification from Congressman Omar Burleson concerning this matter. Burleson said, "I had hoped this would come sooner, but since the subcommittee will deal with this at the meeting, I am hopeful that an early conclusion can then be made."

He also enclosed a copy of a letter from Melvin Price, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee stating that the committee has received a report in which the Air Force proposes to convey the property of the base to the General Services Administration for disposal. The City of Big Spring is already in contact with the GSA in the matter.

Soviet crash claims 68

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Cuban investigators checking the rubble of a Soviet airliner that crashed near Havana revised the death toll Saturday from 66 to 68, the Cuban news agency Prensa Latina reported.

Among the dead were all nine crew members of the Ilyushin 62 jetliner on a flight from Moscow to Havana with stops in Frankfurt and Lisbon, the agency said in a dispatch from Havana. The earlier death count from the crash Friday listed 10 crew members.

The only survivors were a 30-year-old West German woman and a 46-year-old Soviet man, Prensa Latina said.

Kim waiting for U. S. to withdraw?

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — North Korean strong man Kim Il-sung still dreams of uniting the Korean peninsula under his Communist banner. But he speaks softly these days, trying to build an image as a man of reason. Last week, Kim and his propaganda machine remained silent as U.S. and South Korean officials discussed President Carter's plan to withdraw all 33,000 U.S. ground troops from South Korea. The North Korean leader apparently sought to avoid reinforcing fears in Seoul and in the United States that he will unleash his 400,000-man army as soon as the last American goes home.

demilitarized zone, and then propose negotiations with a government headed by someone more acceptable than President Park Chung-hee.

They base their estimate on Kim's record of toughness, his inflexible insistence on communizing Korea, and his suggestions at the end of the Vietnam war that South Korea might go the way of South Vietnam.

A smiling, affable man in public, Kim has built a cult of personality surpassing that of the late dictators Mao Tse-tung of China or Joseph Stalin of the Soviet Union.

Huge statues and posters of the short, pudgy Kim decorate parks and public buildings. The party and government bureaucracy is stocked with his followers and relatives. His son, Kim Jung-Il, 36, is said to be his heir apparent.

The son of poor peasants, Kim migrated to Japanese-occupied Manchuria in the 1930s and became active in guerrilla warfare.

He later joined the Chinese Communist party and fought in a combined Korean-Chinese unit before going to Moscow during World War II and serving in the Red army as a major.

Over the years, he has alternately played off the Russians and Chinese in his foreign policy.

Kim's 15 million people live under a heavy governmental hand. Basic freedoms of press, speech, travel, work, religion and economic enterprise do not exist.

According to a defector, workers must spend 12 hours a day on the job, and students must work 60 days a year in voluntary labor on industrial and agricultural projects.

The capital, Pyongyang, is clean and has plenty of skyscrapers, parks and cultural centers. But visitors describe it as dreadfully dull. By contrast Seoul is rich and vivacious.

On the other hand, education and medical care are free and workers receive paid vacations. The state finances nurseries and kindergartens, and rents are low.

Weather

Hot Memorial Day

By the Associated Press

For a Memorial Day weekend, Saturday's weather across Texas was almost perfect for outdoor holiday activities.

The sun blazed down through clear to partly cloudy skies over most of the state causing temperatures to approach summer-like readings.

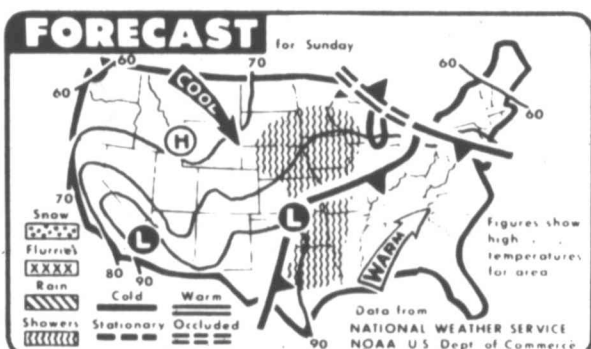

Clouds covered skies in parts of South Texas while morning haze reduced visibility in extreme East Texas. By early afternoon, the haze had been replaced with partly cloudy skies.

Temperatures reached into the upper 80s and low 90s in many cities with Dallas and Midland reporting readings of 93 degrees. San Antonio and Del Rio had readings at the same time of 76 degrees under cloudy skies.

Southerly winds between 10 and 15 miles an hour sifted through the eastern two-thirds of Texas while westerly breezes caressed the remainder of the state.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Fair through Monday except partly cloudy extreme south. Widely scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms extreme southwest Sunday and Monday. Lows tonight and Sunday night 54 to 69. Highs Sunday and Monday mid 80s Panhandle to near 100 Big Bend valleys.
EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Widely scattered late afternoon and evening thunderstorms Tuesday. Otherwise partly cloudy through Thursday. Not as warm north Wednesday and Thursday. Highs in 90s through Thursday except dropping into 80s north Wednesday and Thursday. Lows in 60s except upper 50s north and mountains.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for today calls for a large area of showers through the middle of the nation, with cool air in the Northwest, and warm air moving up from the Gulf of Mexico.

Under Carter's plan, U.S. Air Force and Navy units will remain here, and the United States will improve the 600,000-man South Korean army.

The 65-year-old Kim, described by friends and foes as fanatical and unpredictable, remains the unknown factor in America's withdrawal formula.

U.S. military officers who oppose Carter's plan do not expect Kim to try to overrun all of South Korea. Instead, they think he might try to seize or menace the capital of Seoul, 25 miles south of the

Time running out on tax reform bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Heeding a complaint that the Senate's rewrite of a tax relief bill was a joke and an insult, the House rejected it Saturday and called for negotiations.

A test vote showed 111 representatives wanted to send the bill to conference while 29 were ready to accept it.

Conferees will have little time to reach a compromise, since the legislative session adjourns at midnight Monday.

The Senate left intact the House's increase in tax-exempt inheritances from $25,000 to $200,000, which will lose $28 million in revenue over the next two years.

But it scrapped a provision repealing the state sales tax on utility bills. Instead, they voted to drop the sales tax only on bills showing consumption of no more than 500 kilowatt hours of electricity

City needs some kind of lure

Albany has its Fandangle. Canyon has its Texas Pageant. New Braunfels has its Wurstfest. Canton has its First Monday Flea Market. Victoria has its Turkey Trot.

What could Big Spring have? The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce's newly reorganized Cultural Affairs Committee, chaired by Dr. Halvard Hansen, asked itself that question Thursday.

DOES BIG SPRING need some type of major event which would bring statewide attention to the community? If so, what kind of event should it be?

Several of the committee members felt that at his point in Big Spring's history, when the town's identification as the home of an air base is coming to an end, the community needs something else for people to associate with Big Spring.

This event would need to bring in a large number of people from out of town in such a manner that it would show Big Spring's best profile and reveal to the guests that this city is an excellent one in which to live.

The committee also realized that an affair like the Canton First Monday Flea Market does not happen in one or two years. It has to develop a tradition and a regionwide reputation as something worth visiting, and that takes years.

Dr. Hansen said he hopes that an idea could be generated which might grow into an important annual event.

BILL ALBRIGHT, the chamber's executive vice president, made the suggestion for such an event, and he also said Big Spring might look into a hall-of-fame type facility which would serve as a permanent tourist attraction.

The committee outlined a list of other goals, such as: repairing the Municipal Auditorium; establishing a chamber exhibit of the local "artist of the month"; continuing the bell ringing on July 4; and several others.

But the main question remains: What can Big Spring do to put itself on the map once a year?

It is a question that should have considerable community thought and considerable community effort put into the answer.

A Catastrophe Around the rim

Walt Finley

One of the Cincy syndicate members on the Herald staff, Bill Werrell, has on order a Bull Terrier from Dallas. Bill has been reading a public library book titled "How To Train Your Dog."

I couldn't help but notice it was indented with tooth marks.

Ex-Duncan Banner flash, Joe Awtry, overheard: "Have you noticed 'in' word now is 'absolutely'?" "Absolutely!"

Paula Katchadourian, Herald word maker, said a Big Spring woman went to a store to replace a glass lamp globe her cat had broken by leaping onto a table. The clerk commented: "I don't know what it is but we've had a lot of people coming in here replacing or repairing lamps that have been broken by cats."

"That's what I call a catastrophe," Paula philosophized.

In 1975, 200 people with adjusted gross incomes of $200,000 or more paid no federal income tax, the Treasury Department admits. No, I have not yet borrowed $253 for "underpayment" of my 1975 income tax.

Some of Webb AFB Capt. Dick Risk's more famous classmates back at Will Rogers High School in Tulsa were Anita Bryant and David Gates of the musical group "Bread," both in the class ahead of him, and a fellow by the name of Russell Bridges. Haven't heard of the latter? He now goes by the name of Leon Russell, a rock superstar who won a Grammy with his Bangladesh concert album.

Anita is, of course, in the news these days with her fundamental religious stand against gays and David usually has a hit record out, currently the single, "Hooked on You."

Dick was stage manager at the high school and worked with these people in various productions. Once, he arranged to hire the "David Gates Combo" for a church youth conference, with Russell on the keyboard, for a flat fee of $40 for the evening. All he needed was Anita on vocals to get his money's worth.

What did he know?

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Something happened the other night when I was watching the fourth David Frost-Richard Nixon interview, which a friend of mine calls the "Rich Man, Poor Man and Now Richer Man" series.

I found myself more interested in watching David Frost than I did Nixon. There is something compelling about Frost's personality that Nixon lacks. Perhaps it's his forthright manner, or maybe it's his striped shirt, but every time he asked a question I sat up in my chair and when Nixon answered it I dozed off to sleep.

AFTER WATCHING Frost for four programs I started to ask myself, "When did Frost know about Watergate, and how much did he know?" We have been told that Frost taped 28 hours with Nixon. We have only seen six of them. What happened to the other tapes? Is there a coverup going on? Doesn't the public have the right to know "everything" that went on during those tedious sessions in San Clemente?

Were there any gaps in the TV tape because of poor lighting or planes flying overhead? Did Frost obstruct Nixon from answering a question about his crimes? And what about Frost's tax returns? Will he pay income taxes in the United States or will the money be shipped out of the country?

Can Frost be impeached by the Alpo dog food company for forcing Nixon to admit the President is above the law? Can he be made to resign as a TV interviewer for failing to ask why Nixon didn't burn the tapes?

And will Frost receive a pardon from President Carter after putting us through the long nightmare of Watergate once again?

THE ONLY WAY these questions can be answered is by setting up a Special Prosecutor's Office to find out what Frost's real role was in all this. I would suggest some respected lawyer such as Archibald Cox to head the investigation.

I think all the TV tapes should be subpoenaed, and if any crime has been committed the evidence should be turned over to the grand jury.

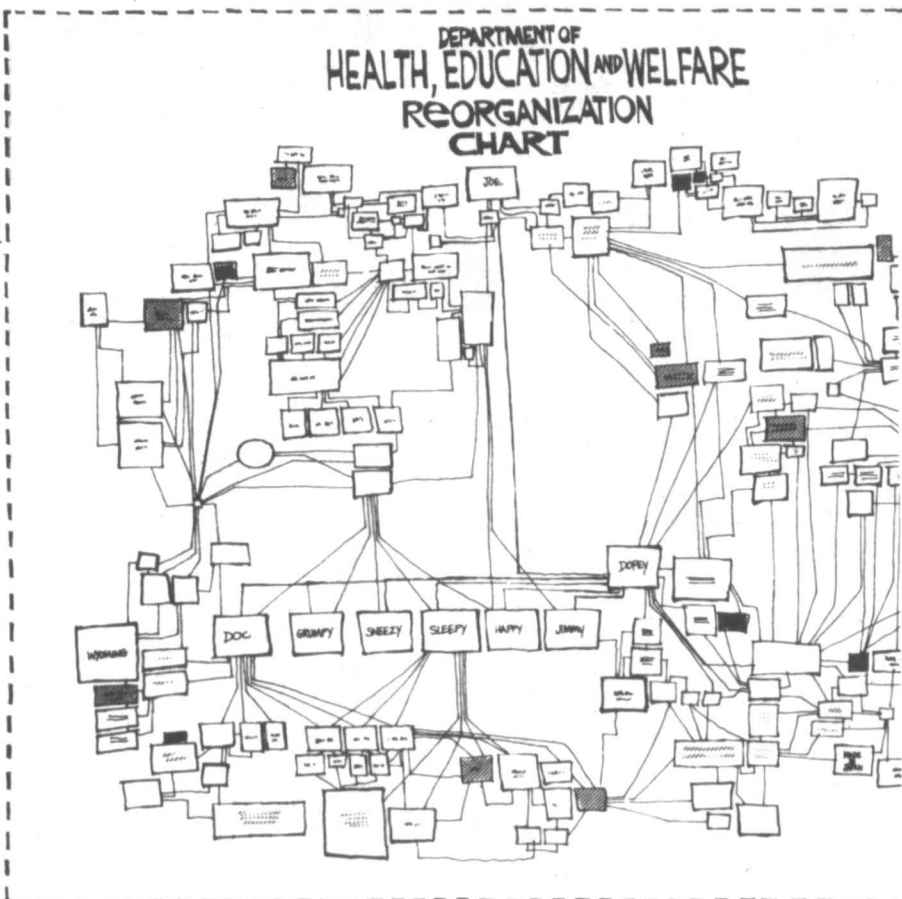

I am not accusing David Frost of any wrongdoing. But the country has to know all the facts if we are ever to get to the bottom of the Nixon affair.

Six hours of television is not enough to tell us all the things we wanted to know, not only about Watergate but also Kissinger's relations with the former President. We know that Nixon and Kissinger prayed together in Lincoln's sitting room. What we don't know is what they were praying for? Was Nixon praying for Haldeman and Ehrlichman? Was Kissinger praying that Ford would keep him on? This was a crucial period in America's history. We have to assume that whatever Nixon prayed for, his prayers weren't answered. But we can't be sure of Kissinger. Did he make a secret deal with the powers that be which we still don't know about? Was Frost privy to what was said in those prayers?

And did Frost and Nixon pray together after they finished their interviews? And was this taped?

UNTIL THESE QUESTIONS are answered the American people will continue to agonize. The only solution is to have Frost testify under oath as to what his role was in covering up what Nixon had to say about his coverup.

We know that Nixon may try for a comeback after the TV series, but the question on everyone's mind is whether Ford can make a comeback? Will the public ever forgive him for bringing Nixon back into our homes?

Pain under cast should be checked

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son had an athletic injury to his leg. He was put in a leg cast, and a few days afterward he complained of pain under the cast. Do you think the bone was set wrong or what? He doesn't want to go in because he thinks it might delay the time before he can get out of the cast. What would you do? — Mrs. F.W.

I hope you now have decided to take him in for an examination. Certain kinds of pain can mean different things going on under the cast, either pressure points at a bony prominence or subtle swelling of tissue. A "window" can be cut out of the cast to allow the doctor to examine the point where the pain originates. Casts are usually reevaluated regularly anyway as a matter of routine, so I suspect your question has been answered for you before you read this. Allowing the pain to go unreported might delay the time he's in the cast.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My three-year-old has this imaginary companion she talks to and plays with. She even insists that if we buy a candy bar for her we get one for this playmate, whom she calls "Elsie." We have become worried that there may be something wrong, but her pediatrician doesn't seem too concerned. He says it's normal. What do you think? — Mrs.

L.H. It's quite normal, and it is not necessarily the "only child" who does this out of loneliness for companionship. It is found just as much among youngsters who have brothers and sisters.

Right now this has advantages for her. She has a companion over whom she has more or less complete control. Another advantage may be the extra piece of candy she gets from you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please find enclosed with this the 35 cents for your booklet on high blood pressure. Also, just how hereditary is it? — Mrs. G.P.

Can't say. Studies show high blood pressure can run in families. Often it is the predisposition toward it that is most important. I discuss one study (page 9 of booklet) among a group of youngsters with higher than normal pressure. No specific cause could be found, but well over 80 per cent of them were substantially overweight. Their parents were too, so it appears that the eating habits are more "inherited" than the disease.

It's obvious where we can all begin making a difference in the war against high blood pressure and other heart related diseases — right at the dinner table. The booklet you wanted is on the way. Allow a week. Your letter reached me finally, but next time write to me care of the Big Spring Herald, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I got a funny one for you, but it's a question that has bothered me for some time now, since my husband started having his migraine attacks. When he feels he's going to have one he tells me he's got to take one of his suppositories. Believe it or not I've just never discussed this with him, but it seems queer to me, treating a headache with a rectal suppository. Can you explain? — Mrs. B.C.

It's not queer for migraine sufferers who have nausea or vomiting during attacks and can't keep oral medicine down. The oral medicine is best, but the suppository route is also very effective. The medicine (in this case probably a blood vessel constrictor) in the suppository gets into the system and does its work.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Sensitive companies

Liz Smith

Sensitive souls: It isn't only performers, journalists and politicians who are sensitive as to what's said about them. Corporations are the most sensitive of all, possibly because they have their stockholders to answer to.

The Paramount movie company is no exception. I said the other day they were "up to their pits in monkey fur," inferring that "King Kong" is not the biggest hit ever to lumber down the pike. Well, Paramount now admits that "Kong" is not going to be as big as "The Godfather," or "Jaws" but claim they'll still make a fortune from the remake, which is already their third-largest-grossing film in company history.

How did the bad vibes about "Kong" get so prevalent in the trades; so bad, in fact, that even people who can read the figures keep on writing off the Dino De Laurentis movie as a failure? Paramount execs say this happened because they themselves, as well as Dino, were into "overkill" and hyped themselves into believing that "Kong" would outgross "Jaws." Now they realize it won't happen.

MCA, which got nothing up front, will end up making about $4 million just for agreeing not to compete by putting their version of "Kong" into production. Paramount claims "Kong" has already grossed $50 million in the U.S. and $40 million abroad. They say it has earned a net of $9.2 million to date and profits will certainly exceed $10 million.

So Paramount is indeed up to its pits in monkey fur, but very happy about it. And since I like the remake of "King Kong," I am glad to put Paramount's version of their unusual success story into the record.

I love to see people and companies and great big apes having a good time.

Endnote: Here are two remarks from the 74-year-old Lawrence Welk in June's Crawdaddy: "My mind's just not what it used to be," and one I like even better. "Some people think it's easy being Lawrence Welk."

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: In regard to the Friday Publisher's Corner entitled "Short Hop to take," surely Mr. Graham could find a greater injustice to comment on.

I have worked in a number of places in Big Spring — some did serve food and drink to tired policemen, some didn't. To the best of my knowledge, no special favors were granted to the businesses that did and no vengeance was taken on the ones that didn't.

The policemen and their families still traded, on and off duty, with both places. In this day and age, when even the courts are making it nearly impossible for an officer to perform his duties, taking the law breaker and giving him more rights than the law-abiding citizen, I feel any courtesy such as this is surely worth the effort. Not one officer on the Big Spring police force would sell himself out in this manner. Surely you jest.

But then again, if this is graft — I hope my brother, who is a policeman in Los Angeles, Calif., and lays his life on the line every day, and I do mean literally, is receiving his fair share. It would please me to know that some people still respect, honor and thank these men for their service to their communities.

Mrs. Janelle Burns
Rt. 2, Box 140

Dear Editor: In a recent column, William F. Buckley, Jr. berated his old friends in the Conservative Party of New York State for opposing efforts to decriminalize marijuana use in New York State. In doing so, Mr. Buckley flailed away at a straw man — the penalties currently provided by New York law for marijuana possession. The Conservative Party is not opposed to a reduction of these penalties, it has in fact supported legislation to reduce them. Unfortunately, Mr. Buckley apparently based his column on a news story concerning this situation without talking to anyone in the Conservative Party, and was therefore unaware of the Party's actual position.

The Conservative Party does oppose decriminalization. There is substantial medical evidence, some of which was cited by Mr. Buckley, that marijuana has considerably more harmful effects than alcohol or tobacco. The currently fashionable rush to decriminalization is likely to foster increased marijuana use by a public (especially the young) generally unaware of the emerging scientific evidence as to marijuana's harmful potential.

The Conservative Party opposes that trend not because, as some surmise, it wants to make a show of political muscle, but rather because its constituents are seriously concerned over decriminalization. Political parties have no legitimate reason for existence if they do not do battle on the issues their constituents consider important.

Serphin R. Maltese
Vice Chairman,
Conservative Party,
New York State

Dear Editor: Thank you for your response to the letter from MSA Mini-Minor parents in the Thursday edition.

I would like to add the following comments.

1) If the concerned parents would just compare our facilities with the first four years of its conception to now, they will find we are using a much safer and usable field than the rocky ones in the past. Our fields are better, even mini-minor, than any league in Texas.

2) We are fortunate that our Board included the mini-minor division as most leagues chose not to include this agegroup.

3) Three leagues in Texas built one field for all divisions and paid for it out of league money, we got criticized for even asking donations to pay our umpires from "concerned parents." Registration fee in other leagues is $15 for each girl and sponsor's fee is from $300 to $500. Our league charges $7 registration and $150 sponsor.

Two Board members and two volunteers did build the back stop and benches and paid $150 for materials. The city did grade off the land and planted grass seed and I thank them for letting us use it. Volunteers and donations could even get us a fence built. I believe the girls will be looking forward to playing in the older divisions and are happy with the opportunity to play in all divisions. I just hope the parents of all the girls in the Miss Softball America program will pitch in and help our Board make this a better league and not criticize. The Board has really been working hard and its very hard to get people to serve on a Board because of criticism and the time it takes to run the program.

Personally, I would like to thank the Board, all managers and coaches and umpires from Webb. Thanks to City Dads for letting us use the complex and a share in the concession. Thanks to the Herald for game coverage. As the founder and commissioner of Miss Softball America in Big Spring and Texas, I plead for your help, support and dedication to our girls in Miss Softball America and lets make the Big Spring league the best in Texas and the U.S.

Jane Upton
MSA Area Commissioner
Big Spring, Snyder, Rotan and Sweetwater.

SIGN DEDICATION — A dedication of the new sign built by the senior class was held Friday morning at the high school. The three youths mainly responsible for the work on the signs were Paul Spence, Charlie Nichols and John Martin. Cathy Valdes and Debbie Burke headed a committee to put on the talent show to raise funds for the project. Mrs. Barbara Currie, class sponsor and Craig Fischer, student activity director, also took part in the dedication ceremony.

Sullivant seeks speaker post

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Bill Sullivant, D-Gainesville, formally announced Saturday as a candidate for Speaker of the House of the 1979 Legislature.

"I intend to run regardless of who else may be in the race," Sullivant told a news conference.

Speaker Bill Clayton has announced that he will be seeking a third term and claims to have enough pledges to guarantee his election.

Also in the 1979 speaker's race is Rep. Buddy Tempie, D-Diboll.

Sullivant said he had supported Clayton during his first two terms and delayed his announcement to avoid any disruption of this legislature.

"With this term, Bill Clayton will have served the state for 16 years, four of that as speaker," he said. "Whatever programs he had for the benefit of the Texas House and our state, we must assume he has had time to accomplish."

Sullivant said until recently he had assumed Clayton would not seek a third term, despite Clayton's earlier announcement.

"Mr. Clayton has said he wants to run for governor in 1982. This is a laudable goal. But I had thought he would agree that the people of Texas deserve more than for the speaker's office to be used as a place to hibernate for four years while waiting the spring of another statewide election year," Sullivant told the news conference.

"The House need fresh new leadership to meet the needs of modern Texas. We have had (this session) government by log-jam and crisis. Very frankly, the House this session has been like a bus load of gold id boys on a trip. And no one goes up front to see where we are going until the bus hits something."

Sullivant said he plans to travel throughout the state visiting with members and political candidates.

While Clayton claims 96 firm pledges — far more than the 76 needed for election in 1979 — Sullivant said, "my tally is that he has only 50 to 55 who are coming back and who can reasonably be expected to stay with him."

Asked whether Clayton and his floor leaders were using their power to frighten members into pledging, Sullivant said, "I think it would only be human nature for people to use their supporters to help them, and his main supporters are chairmen of the major committees."

Sullivant said he was not ready to say how he would change the House system but promised broader representation on committees.

Production capacity is boosted at Fiber Glass

Fiber Glass Systems Inc. stockholders, in their annual meeting Friday evening in the new plant building, approved a two-for-one stock split.

V.F. Michael, president, told the shareholders that two new machines soon would go in place, permitting round-the-clock manufacture of fiber glass pipe. Productive capacity of the new facilities will be at least twice what they now are. The original plant also will continue operations in order to try and meet demands for the non-corrosive pipe.

While the uncertainty of energy matters caused major companies to delay acceptance of deliveries during the latter part of the past year, Fiber Glass had a good year and its decline in margin was substantially less than industry at large. A decision was reached to broaden the sales base, and as a result the output of the two plants is booked for the foreseeable future, Michael said. Pipe yards are being opened in Great Bend Kans., Kilgore, and Grayville, Ill.

Last year net sales amounted to $3,393,831, down about $400,000 from the previous year, due to the delayed deliveries as mentioned. Earnings amounted to $4.14 per share as compared with $2.63 the previous year. Outlook for improved operating margin is vast improved because of the new facilities and the market, Michael told the group.

Fiber Glass which manufactures various types of pipe goods and fittings from tubing to line pipe to downhole casing, meeting almost any pressure specifications, is largely locally owned. Payroll last year approximated $800,000.

Re-elected to the board were who succeeded his late brother Bill Edwards, W.C. (Connie) Edwards, Bill Jackson Lowell, Lowell Jones, Jack Little, Bob Michael, V.F. Michael, Margaret Michael, Marvin Miller, John L. Taylor and O.S. Womack. Marvin Miller was roundly applauded when he told Michael that "You've done a hell of a good job."

Also in the race is Rep. Buddy Tempie, D-Diboll, generally regarded as a liberal.

Sullivant said he had 46 pledges — but some of them are contingent upon Clayton's not being a candidate. He said, however, that Clayton's support is softening.

"In the past two weeks, several have advised me that they are no longer second pledges but are firsts," Sullivant said.

He indicated that the third term issue and the death of some members' bills in the committee system had contributed to the switches that he claims are occurring.

'Life Rally' features

ABILENE — "Life Rally," a motivational seminar featuring four nationally-known speakers, will be held Thursday, June 23, in Taylor County Coliseum in Abilene.

Speakers will be commentator Paul Harvey, comedian Jerry Clower, two-time Olympic gold medal winner Bob Richards, and Og Mandino, author of "The Greatest Salesman in the World."

Tickets to "Life Rally" are $10 each. They are on sale now by mail and will be placed on sale at several ticket locations in Abilene June 1.

Joe Dean, national promotion director of Converse Rubber Company and former star basketball player at Louisiana State University, will be master of ceremonies.

Military NCO, Officers mess combined

The Officers' and Non-Commissioned Officers' Open Messes will be consolidated at Webb AFB at the end of June.

The consolidated club will be in the present officers' club building immediately east of Base Headquarters.

The management of both clubs has asked the support of all members to help make the transition smooth and the next few months successful and enjoyable for everyone. For an efficient consolidation, the following information is provided to members of both clubs.

As of Wednesday, all charging privileges will be discontinued at the NCO club. Then, with the close of business June 30, the NCO club will shutter its doors.

Check cashing privileges will be available at the consolidated facility; however, there will be no charge purchases with the commencement of business on July 1.

This will greatly assist the management of the Consolidated Open Mess in getting the new club off to a good start.

Webb has been named for closure and will revert to caretaker status no later than Sept. 30.

Farm Woolly worms destroying cotton

By MARJ CARPENTER
 "What good is it going to do to replant the cotton unless we can first kill off the woolly worms," Mrs. Bud Grantham said at Lomax Saturday.

UNUSUAL DEVELOPMENT — Woolly worms are even crawling on the cedars on the windbreaks north of town. Some of the young cedars have been eaten by the pest, but the real disaster is the young cotton crop at many locations in the county.

Farmers in the Lomax area have been especially plagued by the worms, although the infestation actually reaches across several counties.

Farmers in Mitchell County, the edges of Martin and Dawson County have all complained during the past two weeks that the woolly worms are eating up their young cotton plants.

Some of the farmers have replanted, as much as 600 acres in Mitchell County, according to agricultural authorities there.

However, the Lomax area started spraying their farms some two weeks. This created a new problem. Some of the farmers were afraid that the spray, which has reached into the edge of pastureland, might harm their cattle.

However, the majority of farmers in the area claim that they are using what the dealer has told them is a spray non-toxic to cattle. The crop dusters say it is the same spray which is sometimes used to spray flies on cattle.

One Lomax farmer said, "A lot of us have cattle and cotton both, and we're not trying to start a range war. We just want to get rid of the woolly worms."

One location that has both cotton and ranching interests are the McDowell Farms and Ranches. They were also reported to have an attack of woolly worms on their cotton.

R.V. and Neil Fryar were among the first farmers to jump in and spray for the worms. They are some of the biggest farmers in Howard County and have been successful farmers for many seasons.

North of Big Spring on the Raymond Neil place, there was an unusual development. His cotton fields are surrounded by windbreaks of beautiful cedars.

The woolly worms have been discovered on the cedar trees this year. Nothing has ever appeared to bother cedars in West Texas, and the worms do not appear to be harming the larger cedars.

However, the worms are crawling on them, hunting something. Several young cedar trees in that area have been eaten off rather severely. Woolly worms were discovered on the young trees, but the Neils are not sure they were eaten by the worms.

"I just never knew anything to eat cedars before," Mrs. Neil stated but the young trees are eaten up by something.

Mrs. B.F. Petty said they have some of their cattle put up in the Lomax area, just in case some of the spray is toxic.

J.T. Langley were reported to be among the farmers trying to take the advice of the county agent and wait until after May 10 to plant.

This was the discourage boll weevils. When the 10th came along, most of the neighbors had already planted and then it was rainy. Some of the farmers who planted late to discourage weevils had no sooner had the young cotton out of the ground than the woolly worms appeared.

One farmer stated, "Some of the old-timers say that when the woolly worms come, they just stay till they're gone. But they've been here two weeks and I want to know when they're going to go on."

Farmers can plant up until mid-June if necessary with the possibility of making a crop. This doesn't leave but a couple weeks more of planting time.

This has caused the farmers to call out the crop dusters and start spraying. "We've got to get rid of the worms and then replant the cotton," the area farmers agree. Some farmers in the county have been harder hit than others, and nobody knows why. Quipped one Knott farmer, "Who can think like a woolly worm?"

The worms have been seen in town and in flower beds and also walking across highways early in the morning like a young army.

It's the first time the West Texas area has had this kind of a plague in several seasons.

Cotton crop worth topped $1 billion

AUSTIN — Final tallies on the 1976 cotton crop show the value of production to be $1,122,018,000, just slightly under the record set in 1973.

The total Texas crop value was 84 per cent higher than the previous year. Number of bales was 3,307,000, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

"All of our reports show that the 1977 crop will be even bigger in Texas. There is little indication so far that foreign demand will lessen. Prices should remain good, despite the increased acreage," Brown said.

The average price per pound of lint in 1976 for Texas upland cotton was 62.4 cents, over a third higher than 1975. American Pima sold for an average of $1.18 a pound. Cottonseed prices moved up to $99 a ton, contrasted with $89.80 the previous year.

Upland cotton lint brought $990,513,000; American Pima, $4,191,000, and cottonseed $127,314,000.

American Pima production continued the downward trend that began in 1971. The 1976 crop was the smallest since 1949.

The Southern High Plains farmers were able to harvest 1,635,000 bales from 2,100,000 acres despite hail damage early in the season and freezes in October. Yield was increased over last year from 282 pounds per acre to 374.

While Texas goats may not equal high fashion to most people, the increasing expensive coats on their backs netted producers more than $24 million last year and made them growers of one of the world's most glamorous fibers.

"Despite the fact that decreases in animal numbers resulted in a six per cent downturn in total mohair production last year," Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said, "the record high average price of $2.97 per pound received in 1976 placed value of the fiber crop at near record level."

Fewer goats and kids were clipped last year than at any time since estimates began in 1909, with the 1,100,000 head shorn in 1976 also down from 1975 by nine per cent.

Overall output in the industry was also aided, however, by a record fleece weight of 7.4 pounds per animal, Brown explained, which was some 3 pound above the 1975 average.

Total value of the 1976 clip, at $24.1 million, was up 52 per cent from 1975 and near the record high values of $25.1 and $27.4 million of 1963 and 1964, respectively.

Texas, which produces virtually all of the U.S. mohair, as well as 30 per cent of the world supply, has seen a steady decline in goat numbers since 1966. Reasons cited for the decrease include competition from synthetic fibers, increases in production costs, and predator problems.

Texas and will begin in the Cross Timbers and East Texas areas in about a week, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Corn has made good growth during the week and is tasseling as far north as the southern Blacklands. Planting is 98 per cent completed at this time.

In the Lower Rio Grande Valley, the commercial vegetable harvest continues, with movement of cabbage, squash, onions, citrus, bell peppers and cantaloupes.

Other crops being harvest at this time include beans, cucumbers, mustard, potatoes, squash, tomatoes and watermelons.

The peach harvest, active in the Central and East Texas areas, is expected be one of the best in years.

Electric sales to farmers increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Electric power sales to farmers and other rural consumers jumped 9.1 per cent last year despite soaring costs reflected in monthly bills, says the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

The association, representing 1,000 rural electric co-ops, said Friday that the 1976 power use increase followed two years in which consumption slowed to an annual growth of 7.3 per cent.

"Sales to residential consumers rose by 6 per cent, while industrial sales went up 12 per cent," the association said.

Farm labor force smaller

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quarterly survey shows that the nation's hired farm labor force has declined about 3.2 per cent from a year ago.

The Agriculture Department says that during the survey week of April 10-16 there were 1,157,300 hired workers on farms, compared with 1,195,700 in the same week last year.

Wages have increased the last year and in April averaged $2.84 an hour for those who are employed on a cash hourly basis, compared with $2.64 an hour a year earlier, the report said Friday.

MENTMORE, England (AP) — Mentmore meant more ... and more ... and more.

More pieces were on sale, 2,700, and more money was taken in, just under $10.9 million, from Baron Mayer de Rothschild's old country seat — Mentmore Towers — than at any estate auction ever before.

More money than ever ($120,000) was paid for a clock — a 1730 Augsburg timepiece that doesn't cuckoo but has almost everything else, including a cross-legged Oriental figure on top, an engraved Cupid inside and a Meissen tea set in a drawer.

More was paid for an artifact of amber, $88,400; for Sevres porcelain, $102,000; for ivory, $51,000; for Victorian silver, $22,100. And more was paid for a half-dozen lesser-known Old Masters.

What it meant beyond that was debatable. Throwing a heritage to the carpetbaggers, some conservationists called it. Some Continental dealers said it afforded a chance for Europe to retrieve treasures that Rothschild bought at fire-sale prices a century ago.

"The end of an epoch in the history of European taste," said art historian Sir Francis Watson. "The laudable dispersal of hideous rarities, answered some critics."

"The ultimate auction scene," said a man from Sotheby's auctioneers, and nobody disagreed with that. Numbers more suited to astronomy than a man's house raced each other in lights across the computerized board that showed bids in six currencies to the auction tent at Mentmore Towers, 50 miles northwest of London, in a nine-day sale that ended Friday. A 1757 mechanical orange tree with a concealed pipe organ to play calls for its perching bird — a frivolity on a scale now hard to imagine — fetched $153,000, the top price of the sale. Marie Antoinette's writing desk from Versailles went back home for $86,700.

An antiques reporter from Philadelphia checked the swank shops of London's Mayfair and found there for the pound sterling equivalent of $3,000 an ornate clock similar to one that sold at Mentmore for four times as much.

It was as if the baron's treasures ennobled every doorstep and soap dish in the down-at-heels 80-room mansion. Brass and wood coat hangers fetched up to $30.60 each as souvenir hunters charged into the waning days of the sale.

Two damaged pillows brought $8.50 and a 200-year-old chest in about 18 wormy bits and pieces cost its buyer $4,300 — 57 times its estimate.

"It's crazy that people should pay such prices for this rubbish," said the dowager Countess of Rosebery. "If I had thought this was going to happen I would have had a raffle. I hate to think people were bidding more than they could afford."

Nine-year-old weighted 20 pounds

Pair locked daughter in closet

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (AP) — Telling Linda Faye Burchfield that there is no prison as horrible as the closet in which she and her husband kept her nine-year-old daughter, a judge sentenced the couple to lengthy prison terms.

Mrs. Burchfield, 31, went during Friday's sentencing and whimpered softly that she needed help when County Circuit Court Judge Lloyd Simpkins asked if she had anything to say on her own behalf. He sentenced her to 32 years in prison.

He sentenced Billy Floyd Burchfield, 38, to 40 years in prison after reading a presentencing report indicating that Burchfield would commit the same crime again if given the opportunity.

"With the assistance of the Department of Probation and Parole, if you serve the sentence I am going to impose, you will be an old man by the time you can abuse another child," the judge told the stoic defendant.

Police rescued Mrs. Burchfield's daughter, Patricia Saunders, from a closet at the couple's home last summer. At the time, Patty weighed only about 20 pounds and had the frame of a 3-year-old.

Her sister Susan testified at the trial that Patty was kept in the closet most of the time and was not allowed to play with other children or go to school. The couple were convicted of child abuse and false imprisonment last month.

Patty Saunders is reported to be doing well in a foster home.

Feds considering killing golden eagles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department is considering killing golden eagles, a rare and protected bird of the arid West that sometimes preys on livestock.

"The limited killing of problem eagles would not markedly affect the breeding populations and might save off mass killings by private individuals," said Harvey Willoughby, regional director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Denver.

Willoughby gave that assessment while describing a recent meeting attended by livestock growers, federal biologists and others to formulate a "golden eagle management plan." The meeting was to discuss what is described as increasing livestock predation by the birds.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife spokesmen emphasize, however, that no plan has been adopted to kill any birds of prey. In recent years the service has trapped problem birds and released them in distant areas.

Sam Marler, a wildlife service spokesman in Denver, said, "When you develop a plan, you have to consider all options," adding that killing an eagle would be dead birds were left lying on the ground to rot, the ranchers suggested, the surviving eagles would view their deceased brethren and leave the area, Marler related.

The National Audubon Society reportedly has sent a letter to the Interior Department protesting any plan that would permit the killing of golden eagles.

A U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service spokesman in Washington confirmed the agency was in the process of preparing a golden eagle management plan to curb the birds from preying on animals.

Marler made no estimate of the number of lambs killed by eagles. But he said sheep ranchers in Montana, Wyoming and Texas have complained about eagles preying on their livestock.

He noted that government workers removed 145 golden eagles from one ranch in Montana in 1975 under the trap-and-transplant program. The eagles were released in Yellowstone National Park.

The population of golden eagles in North America is estimated at 40,000, Marler said, adding that no precise figure is available.

Golden eagles currently are protected by law. A special exemption from the secretary of interior is needed to kill one. A law passed in 1962 provides a sentence of up to a $10,000 fine and two years imprisonment for killing one of the birds.

No golden eagles have been killed legally since 1971, said a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service spokesman.

The service last year made several television spots urging individuals not to kill birds of prey. Narrated by actor Paul Newman, the public service announcement portrayed the golden eagle as one of the nation's rare birds of prey.

Redcoats detail C of C membership campaign

The Ambassadors discussed details of the coming membership drive for the Chamber of Commerce when it met at noon Thursday.

The importance of the membership drive in this particular period of Big Spring history was stressed by Bob Moore, president of the Ambassador group.

Bill Albright, chamber manager, discussed the membership drive and stressed the importance of an orientation course for each worker. These will be held at noon on June 9 and 10.

The group was told that the high school group of the chamber had spent many hours updating the list of local businesses and that there were 600 cards to be worked for potential memberships to the group. Albright pointed out that it is the responsibility of the membership team to contact all the businesses in the area.

Drought could put California in dark

San Francisco (AP) — A power blackout in California could be averted if the state's electrical lines are so badly damaged by drought that power could not be transmitted without blacking out a much wider area.

The blackout plan also includes the Sacramento Municipal Utilities District, which would lose its electrical lines connected with PG&E's system.

PG&E officials and individuals such as hospitals and power stations — are being urged to have a standby power source available.

Indy's undercurrent somber

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The announcement drew some interesting, if jaded, observations. "It's like a blind man leading the blind," said one wag. "It's like a lunatic directing a procession of inmates around the institution," said another. What it is, in fact, is Evel Knievel, America's symbolic death wish, climbing aboard his motorcycle and parading around Indianapolis Motor Speedway's 2½-mile asphalt track Sunday, followed by 33 drivers in four-wheeled monsters capable of going so fast that a moment's mistake can turn a human being into a smudge. To the credit of these drivers and others like them there has not been a death at this mecca of speed in four years. The combination of engineering genius and God (by way of fate, luck and, in three of those years, rain) has worked the miracle of keeping everybody on the track and in the pits alive. But there haven't been speeds like this in the history of this track, whose trademark is emblematic of the paradox that is Indy, a place built long ago for cars so different from today's. That emblem is a winged tire—but a tire that looks no wider than the rubber on your average Volkswagen. It has no relation to the yard-wide tires which encircle the magnesium wheels, straining through left turn after left turn to keep their fragile, low-slung rockets from making a right turn into infinity. That emblem symbolizes a track built not long after the turn of the century, when inaugural winner Ray Harroun and his cohorts barreled around Indy at speeds not much faster than people do today on the Pasadena Freeway, the Pennsylvania Turnpike ... or the pit road leading to the track at Indy.

"What's everybody always got to write about death for?" one U.S. Auto Club official complained when the subject arose—as it always does so appropriately on Memorial Day weekend. "There ain't been one here since '73 and their ain't gonna be one this year, neither!" Perhaps, but the track is certainly primed for it. With speeds that turn wonder into sheer terror (the 200-mile-an-hour barrier having been shattered in qualifying) and with a slick, repaved surface virtually untouched by rain and then repaved further by layers of rubber and oil, there is a feeling—even among some of the drivers—that this is the year the string will be broken, and along with it somebody's life.

They play taps before every Indy 500. This year they just may play taps after it, too.

TOE TOUCHING DUO — Milwaukee's Robin Yount, rear, and Texas' Bump Wills, front, appear to be doing exercises around the second base bag at Milwaukee County Stadium Friday night. Both players were brushing off the dust after Yount stole second in the first inning. The Brewers went on to defeat the Rangers 6-5.

Wadkins one-putts his way to first

ATLANTA (AP) — Lanny Wadkins, twice a runner-up this season but a non-winner since 1973, one-putted 10 times on his way to a seven-under-par 65 that provided him with a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the Atlanta Classic golf tournament.

Wadkins' effort, the best of the weather-plagued tournament, gave him a 54-hole total of 205, 11 under par on the hilly, 6,883-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

Defending champion Hale Irwin holed out from a greenside bunker for an eagle three on the final hole, drawing a huge roar from the big gallery that divided its attention between the players and the black, threatening clouds and rumbling thunder of an approaching storm. Irwin's eagle gave him a 66 and left him one stroke back at 206 going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $40,000 first prize.

"That kind of gets the blood to running," Irwin said of his dramatic eagle.

Irwin shared the No. 2 spot with longshot Steve Veriati, who had a 66.

It was two strokes back to PGA champion Dave Stockton, former U.S. Open king Lou Graham, tied at 208. Each completed a 71 just before a violent thunderstorm struck the course and stranded Mac MacLendon in the middle of putting. MacLendon, eight under par for the tournament and three strokes back of the leaders, was the last man on the course.

Charles Coody was next with a 68 for 209. Jack Nicklaus bolted into contention with a 67 that put him at 210, five strokes back of the leader going into Sunday's final round of the chase for $40,000 first prize over the hilly, rain-soaked Atlanta Country Club Course.

Signees cite bamboozlement

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP) — Two former Marshall High School basketball stars say they were bamboozled into signing national letters of intent to play for New Mexico State University.

Anthony Burns and Roshern Amie, both 6-foot-8, said they signed letters on May 4 but believed they were only Missouri Valley Conference letters of intent and not national letters.

A conference letter has the effect of eliminating only the other schools within that conference from signing that player. Signing a national letter means a player cannot sign with any other four-year school.

"They (the New Mexico State coaching staff) told us we could tear up the letters if we didn't want to play there," Burns explained. "Now they don't want to tear it up."

Amie indicated that NMSU assistant coach Weldon Drew was supposed to be here Thursday to talk with the two but never showed up.

"That cut it short," Amie said. "He (Drew) called and said he was willing to tear up Burns' letter but not mine. They certainly never told us we were signing a national letter." Amie has already signed a Southwest Conference letter with Texas Tech.

Terry Richter, Marshall High School coach, said, "It's a big mess right now. Burns and Amie had originally signed the letters with New Mexico State but neither they nor their parents were fully aware of the implications of exactly what they were signing. Since the confusion has come to light, the New Mexico State coaching staff has made no effort to come to Marshall to attempt to straighten out the misunderstanding. Due to this fact, Burns and Amie have decided it would be to their best interests not to attend New Mexico State University."

He added, "There is no doubt in my mind that the kids were misled. They tried to hoodwink a couple of 18-year-old kids. I will never again allow anyone from New Mexico State to talk to my players."

Cardinals to host Texans

The Big Spring Cardinals will play host to the Merkel Texans diamond men today at 2 p.m. in Steer Park. A game with the Snyder nine, which was to be the second of a doubleheader, was cancelled.

The Cards are currently 7-2 and tied for first place in the East division. An earlier defeat at the hands of Midland was protested, and the contest will be played again.

The locals will be without the services of regulars Joe Martinez, Sammy Rodriguez, Arthur Olague and Jody Flores, and will probably go with Mike Treadaway or Tony Fierro from the mound.

In last week's All-Star game, the East, behind the pitching of Big Spring's Frankie Rubio, beat the West 14-8. The Cardinals' Sammy Rodriguez also had two triples in that game.

The Cards will play the Odessa Dorados next Sunday, the team tied for first in the West, and will start their second half of league play June 12.

Reds finally beat Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George Foster slugged two bases-empty home runs to power a 10-hit Cincinnati attack, and Jack Billingham and Pedro Borbon combined on a five-hitter as the Reds defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-3 Saturday before 52,636 fans and a national television audience.

The victory was Cincinnati's first over Los Angeles this season as the Reds snapped a four-game losing streak.

Cincinnati jumped on Los Angeles starter Don Sutton, 6-2, for five runs in the second inning. Two of Los Angeles' hits were homers, both with the bases empty, by Steve Yeager in the fifth inning and Dusty Baker in the seventh.

Billingham, 6-3, pitched seven innings, scattering three hits, and Borbon hurried the final two for his second save.

Baylor Bears hungry

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Steve Macko drove in five runs with a pair of homers and Jaime Cocanower tossed a four-hitter Saturday as Baylor stayed alive in the NCAA South Central Baseball Tournament, eliminating the University of New Orleans 7-1 at Arlington Stadium.

Baylor met Miami of Ohio, which beat the Bears 7-3 Friday night, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. A Miami victory would send the Redskins to the College World Series in Omaha, while a Baylor victory would set up a showdown game at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Macko opened the Baylor first with a single and scored on Mike Czimskey's double. He homered to right with two teammates on base in the second, chasing New Orleans starter and loser Ron Reihmann (6-2).

Macko's second homer, almost in the same spot as the first, came in the fifth behind Duncan Shanklin's single. For the day, Macko was four-for-four as Baylor pounded three Privateer pitchers for a dozen hits.

Cocanower (8-2) allowed only two scratch singles until the seventh, when New Orleans scored on a high-hop single by Kevin McGann, a walk to Ned Courlet and a single through the middle by Brian Snitker.

THE WINNERS TAKE THE FIELD — The Miami (at Ohio) Redskins jump from the dugout onto the field after the last out in the ninth inning of their second round game in the NCAA South Central Regional Baseball playoffs Friday against the Baylor Bears. Miami won over the Bears 7-3.

Pirates in first, Red Sox slugfest

Jerry Morales' bases-clearing double keyed a five-run sixth inning Saturday and sent the rampaging Chicago Cubs to a 6-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The triumph was the fourth straight and 20th in the last 25 games for the Cubs, who vaulted past the Pirates into first place in the National League East by one-half game.

Jim Rooker had a 2-0 lead and a one-hit shutout going into the sixth when the Cubs struck. Ivan DeJesus walked and singles by Gene Clines and Larry Bittner produced one run. Bobby Murcer singled to fill the bases and Morales followed with his three-run double. Singles by Manny Trillo and George Mitterwald off reliever Kent Tekulve produced the final run.

In American League day action, designated hitter Jim Rice drove in five runs with a pair of homers and a single, helping the Boston Red Sox to rally for a wild 17-12 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Lamar Johnson drove in four runs and Richie Zisk knocked in three, pacing the Chicago White Sox to a 9-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

Dick Pole and ex-Tiger Bill Laxton combined to scatter seven hits, while Ruppert Jones slammed a home run to lead the Seattle Mariners to a 3-1 victory over Detroit.

UNDER CONTROL — New Orleans Privateers second baseman Joe Bennett prepares to scoop up a ground ball hit by Lamar University's Ken Ahrens during 7th inning action Friday in the second day of NCAA South Central Regional Baseball playoffs. Bennett threw Ahrens out at first and the Privateers went on to win over the Lamar Cardinals 5-2.

Brian Gottfried advances to finals

PARIS (AP) — Brian Gottfried and Harold Solomon scored singles victories Saturday to become the only American male to gain the final 16 of the French Open Tennis Championships.

Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., overcame stubborn resistance from Eric Delbecq, ranked No. 5 in France, to win 7-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Solomon wore down 18-year-old Peter Elter of West Germany 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

One other American, Stan Smith, still had to play his third round match against Jiri Hrebec of Czechoslovakia on Sunday.

TAKE ME OUT TO THE BALLGAME — A little league ballgame means a variety of things to the hundreds of kids who attend them on any given night during the summer in Big Spring. In this series, Herald Chief Photographer picture of momentary pensiveness. Next to her, an unidentified fan concentrates on the game and a snow cone, while John Gilbert practices his bubble-making while waiting his turn at bat.

Germans fight hard in French Open

PARIS (AP) — Harold Solomon stroked his way slowly and patiently into the last 16 of the French Open Tennis Championships Saturday, wearing down 18-year-old Peter Elter of West Germany 6-4, 6-4, 6-1 in a classic clay-court display.

Solomon, last year's defeated finalist and an expert on this slow surface, is the top remaining American hope for the title, worth $38,000. But the young German kept him on court for 2½ hours.

Another German, Karl Meiler, took top-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania to five sets before a packed crowd of 12,000 on the center court of Roland Garros Stadium. Nastase won 7-6, 3-6, 6-1, 6-7, 6-1.

Solomon's match was a long, grim baseline battle. The little man from Pompano Beach, Fla., faced a talented youngster who played him at his own game.

"It was like playing against myself," Solomon said. "He plays tennis just like I do. He is going to be very good, but at the moment he does not have quite enough skill to vary the pace."

57 wins Pro-Am

The team of Rex Worrell, Dick Giffhorn, Danny Donn and Larry Sutton combined for a 14-under-par card of 57 to take the honors in Friday's Big Spring West Texas Pro-Am Golf Tournament held at the Big Spring Country Club.

Bobby Howell, local pro, tied with Ronnie Rossin for low-pro honors with a 71, while Bill Gully, Jay White and Steve Wise all had 68's to tie for low gross amateur score. D.O. Gray carded the lowest net of 66.

Mr. Editor,
I've gotta reply to those individuals that wrote the letter to Editor in the Herald May 26, concerning Miss Softball America playing field.

First off, I can't hardly believe these are people that would feel that way and secondly that would put it in print for our youth to read.

The present MSA President and myself built that field with assistance from a few others. We knew that fields were scarce and we built that to help out, and intended for it to compliment the other fields when finished. Some paint and ground work would accomplish this.

How about those 40 plus people that are complaining going over to help finish it! I can't believe the girls are that inappreciative of the north field.

I was honored with being able to have a small part in the dedication of the "Roy Anderson" complex last year as a representative of our MSA league, and to me this was a great honor. Few people realize what a fine facility we have there... almost a quarter million dollars in funds and a lot of work by our city leaders, Dora Roberts Foundation, tax payers and others.

We had 23 girls' teams playing there last year that benefited from $13,000 donated to the league and spent on them. These fine facilities allow us to have about as many tournaments as we want to handle, and this is revenue to Big Spring and an asset to the league.

It's discouraging to read a letter like that, but I'm sure those that feel this way are in the minority and I can find encouragement in the tears of joy and disappointment at an awards banquet of 300 enthusiastic girls, or observing them on the playing fields.

If the multitude instead of the minority were involved in active support of these sports, even greater things could come.

Senior athletes map plans

By DANNY REAGAN Sports Editor

Plans for many of the graduating senior athletes at Big Spring High School have yet to be formulated, but a few of them already know what the future holds in store for them.

Some plans have already been announced — Mike Harris received a full football scholarship from East Texas State University; Casey Wilder will play basketball for the Howard College Hawks next year; Steve Hughes is going to West Point; and Kyle Pfeiffer to Texas A&M.

But the crystal ball has cleared for others as well. Alan Partee, a lineman last season for the Steers, will be going to Angelo State to participate in football and the band. Steve Wolfe plans to attend Texas Tech in the fall.

Tommy Churchwell, the rugged defensive back for the Steers, will be going to Howard College full time next fall and working. Billy Hayes, football and baseball letterman, will be moving to Virginia, while Jimmy McChristian and family are moving to New Orleans.

Jack Buchanan has been offered a rodeo scholarship from Angelo State and a football scholarship from Tarleton State, but hasn't decided which one to accept. Bubba Stripling, also a two-sport letterman, will be going to A&M.

John Wrinkle, football lineman, and Steve Evans, baseball and basketball player, have the same objectives. They will attend HC for a year and then make the move to Aggieland. Elroy Green, "Mr. Invisible" on the hardwoods last year, also plans to attend HC.

Tony Jacobo will be leaving town with his Air Force family, and Arthur Olague, all-district in baseball, is still trying to decide on offers from Arkansas and Oklahoma for college baseball next season.

Frankie Rubio, most valuable player in District 5-4A baseball this year, is also in a quandry about what school to attend. A number of baseball programs have made overtures for his skills.

Other seniors, both male and female, have yet to decide what they are going to do now that their high school careers are over. But whatever they do, they no doubt hope that they can contribute something tangible, as they did to the sports program at their alma mater.

Wait until Sunday

Tony Dorsett's blue and gray star is official now, and it feels just like "Plop, plop, plop, plop... oh what a relief it is." The Cowboys needed him, and they needed him bad.

A lot of rumors have been flying around about exactly how much the transaction cost the Pokes. Even my mother-in-law knows enough about the situation to realize that the milk-coat-wearing fleet-footed raked in over $1.2 million that Heisman bridesmaid and native Texan Ricky Bell received from Tampa Bay.

DA Rick Hamby, closet Cowboy fanatic, had an interesting observation about the Dorsett deal, and it's probably valid. The Dallas organization has always been so conservative and tight-lipped about their business affairs, that no matter what figure came out, it probably wouldn't be right.

Hamby feels that the Dorsett deal was a long time in the making, and that the Pokes knew months ago how much they were going to have to spend for the services of their gold-leg find. Tex Schramm's obvious elation and downright bubbling-over just the draft of Dorsett is proof right there that they've wanted him a long time, suggests Hamby.

If it had been just a spur of the moment deal, the typically conservative and non-committal attitude of people like Schramm would have been, "Yes, we're pleased to draft a person of Tony's abilities. Now we'll just have to see if he can make the team."

Instead, everyone in the organization was hollering, "Whoopee! Hooray!" and a host of other exclamations. Tommy Hart, ex-sports exec, suggests that the true terms of such a contract are rarely ever known. He illustrates his point by the Donny Anderson-Green Bay deal after the All-American graduated from Tech 12 years ago.

The reputed package on that pact was $600,000. But Anderson told Hart himself that an additional $1,000 a month was provided to Donny's father for as long as he lived. And if the elder Anderson is still alive today, he is still drawing $1,000 from the Packers, even though Donny is long-gone.

My personal opinion of how the Dallas-Dorsett deal took place goes something like this: Cowboy Exec: "Well, Mr. Dorsett, we sure are pleased to have drafted you. How much money do you want?" Dorsett: "Oh, I don't know... six, seven million?" Cowboy Exec: "You got it, baby."

In an article that appeared in the magazine "Campus Life" several years ago, Chris Brothers detailed why he thought baseball was the greatest game in the history of man. He cited nine reasons to distinguish the game:

1. It's fair to little people. The strike zone changes for the size of each person. The net doesn't zoom up to 12 feet whenever Bill Walton plays basketball.

2. Baseball is in touch with the past. It has a history. Other sports are disposable—now is all that counts.

3. Baseball is "lousy" on the tube, but the best sport live.

4. Baseball isn't bloody and frenetic like hockey and football, which exist for violence. Baseball's competition is always one-on-one.

5. Baseball's underdogs always have a chance. Even the worst teams in their worst seasons usually win at least one-third of their games.

6. Baseball loves comebacks. You're never out of a baseball game, even with two outs in the ninth inning.

7. Baseball is liberated. It is the only sport in which girls can potentially compete on an equal basis.

8. Baseball is the best game for a date or a wife and family. It's tension isn't constant. It has moments of relaxation when it's possible to talk and laugh and enjoy yourself.

FRANK BROYLES, retired Arkansas football coach, on his new life style: "My wife and family are very pleased. They all forgot I had a good disposition."

HOUSTON ROCKETS' Coach Tom Nissalke on prodigy Moses Malone: "He will be a devastating player in the NBA in the future. Moses will be like Bill Russell, except that he won't talk as much, which will be great."

JOE TOREE, after New York Met's first baseman Dave Kingman had dropped a Jerry Koonsman throw, leading to a 3-2 Met loss: "What do you expect from a $70,000-a-year player?"

Two more Hawk Queens signed

SANDY SMITH

JAN PHILLIPS

The Howard College Hawk Queens have signed the services of Sandy Smith of McCamey High School and Jan Phillips from Abernathy High School for next year's basketball season.

Jan Phillips, the 5-7 star forward, is considered one of the truly outstanding girl basketball players of the West Texas-South Plains area, according to Hawk Queen Coach Don Stevens.

Miss Phillips was very ably coached in high school by Miss Diane Lewis, a former star at Trent High School and Wayland College. "It is impossible to believe that Jan has only played two years of basketball when you see her perform, and this is a great tribute to the coaching ability of Coach Lewis."

In her two years of competition, Miss Phillips was selected as an all-district performer both years. During the past year the Abernathy team compiled a 23-11 won, lost record and Miss Phillips was a major reason for that success.

As a senior Jan scored a total of 814 points for a 25.0 points per game average. A very revealing statistic on her shooting game is that she shot 55 per cent on her field goal attempts. In addition she shot 72 per cent from the free throw line. Jan is a team-oriented, hustling type player as her ten assists per game and 12 recoveries per game averages attest.

Miss Phillips served as team captain and was asked to play in the East-West Shrine game in Amarillo this year but had to decline because of her participation in track, another sport in which she excels. "Jan is fundamentally sound in nearly every respect, and I know that the intensity with which she plays will quickly make her a favorite with local fans," said Coach Stevens.

Sand is a 5'9" all-district guard whose talents helped McCamey roll to a district championship in District 6-1.

Although not extremely tall, she is a good jumper and with good agility and movement. She performed well as a rebounder and ball handler.

"I feel that with the attitude and aggressiveness Sandy displays that she will be able to convert to the five-player game and that she has the potential to learn to shoot," Stevens commented.

Ferguson's double sparks Astro win

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Houston catcher Joe Ferguson has this thing about an opposing team intentionally walking a batter in order to pitch to him.

Especially when the opposing team is the San Diego Padres, managed by John McNamara. "I don't know why Mac keeps doing that because he's done it about four times now and I've ended up coming through every time," said Ferguson.

Friday night was no exception as Ferguson followed an intentional walk to Cliff Johnson with a line double down the left field line in the seventh inning to score Jose Cruz from second and spark the Astros to a 4-3 victory.

With two out in the seventh, Cruz doubled off Padre starter Rick Sawyer to set the stage for Ferguson's decisive hit. McNamara then called for Sawyer to purposely walk Johnson and then brought in ace reliever Rollie Fingers to pitch to Ferguson.

"It was the percentage move," said McNamara. "Johnson was hitting .330 and Ferguson .283. Fingers is one of the best relievers in baseball and I just felt he could get Ferguson out and get us out of the inning."

Instead, Cruz quickly came racing home with the run that snapped a 3-3 deadlock and relievers Gene Pentz and Ken Forsch protected that 4-3 lead the rest of the way.

Hawks ink stand-outs

Howard College Hawk Coach Harold Wilder announced Saturday the signing of two more exceptional basketball prospects for next season.

R.Q. Tolliver, a 6-6, 220-pound basketball ace from Munday, Tex., and Hank McDowell, a 6-7, 185-pound, All-Stater from Memphis, Tenn.

Tolliver averaged 28.5 points a game during his four-year career at Munday high school, and brought down an amazing 17 rebounds per contest as well.

He was a starter for three years on his team, and made All-District all three years. This year he was also All-Region, and second-team All State in Class A. Munday is in District 7-A.

Tolliver will also play in the Texas High School Coaches Association's All-Star game during the last week in July. McDowell, a Memphis Traddwell High teammate of Robert Randolph (signed earlier in the week by the Hawks), was the leading rebounder, 12 averaged, for the District 16, State AA champions in Tennessee.

R.Q. TOLLIVER Munday center

HANK MCDOWELL Memphis star

He hit 53 per cent of his field goals during his senior year, and was a member of the All-Delta League Conference team, the All-District tournament team, All-Region, and on the All-State tournament team.

Tolliver and McDowell bring to four the number of 1977-78 season players signed by Wilder so far. Casey Wilder and Robert Randolph have already joined the team on paper. Coach Wilder is hoping to sign five more players to compliment the five returners and four new signees.

The Hawks open their 1977-78 season Nov. 7 in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum against the Laredo Jr. College Palminos.

Great if Clair Bee's boys showed up

He was one of the true giants, and he was betrayed. I'll always remember the night. Bee's Blackbirds were playing Bowling Green at the Garden. That's the old Garden, on 49th and 8th. College basketball was the big sport then. You couldn't get a ticket. Cloak-and-suiters would offer guys in the ticket office a mink coat, extra, just to get them on the season-subscriber's list. The Knicks? They were playing in the armory on Lexington Avenue. They couldn't get into the Garden either.

"Your team just dumped a game," Lewin said to Bee. "What are you talking about?" he said, annoyed. "We won." "Only by six," I said. "They shaved the points." "I can't believe it," said the coach. "My boys wouldn't do that to me." A few days later, the men from the DA's office came to pick up his boys. The greatest fix scandal in the annals of sports exploded and spread like lava. A half-dozen leading universities became involved. College basketball went into sharp decline. Clair Bee faded from sight.

That was 1951. The wound in Clair Bee was deep. The shame of his prodigal players was repellent. I have been told that, in many cases, the coach and players have not LIU was favored big over Bowling Green that night, 8 or 10 points. The Blackbirds played bad ball. They missed easy shots. Passes kept flying out of bounds. One man muffed an easy feed, and Clair pulled him out of the game. The player came off the court and sat at the space next to the coach. Clair Bee got up and moved to the end of the bench. When Clair Bee's friends crowd the ballroom at the New York Hilton next Wednesday night, it would be a wonderful thing if those players, those particular players, are there with all the others, and that they walk up to him, and shake him by the hand, and give him a chance to say, I know all my boys would be here.

Indy--race of firsts, if they finish it

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A.J. Foyt, hands in his back pockets, scuffed boot pawing at the pavement, squinted at the sun and muttered: "Well, maybe this year we'll finish the damn thing." Maybe.

In three of the past four years, America's most famous automobile race has, by dint of Midwestern weather, been renamed the Indianapolis 332½, the Indianapolis 435 and, last year, the Indianapolis 255.

That's quite a run of rain-shortened races considering that in the preceding 56 races, only two (1926 and 1950) got cut short, bathed by Indiana squalls.

So, despite a run of luck that has washed away 477½ of the last 2,000 miles officially run during Memorial Day weekends at venerable Indianapolis Motor Speedway, they persist in calling Sunday's million-dollar extravaganza the Indy 500.

It's a race of firsts, not the least of which is Tom Sneva of Spokane, Wash., the man in first place, the pole position, after being the first (and, thus far, the only) driver ever to log an official qualifying lap of more than 200 miles per hour.

Alongside Sneva in the first of the 11 rows is Indy's best-known brother set, Bobby and Al Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., each a two-time winner of this classic. Bobby, in the middle of the front row, won in 1968 and again in 1975, when the rain enabled him to nose out Johnny Rutherford, who made an untimely pit stop and gave up the lead only moments before the first raindrops hit the track. Al Unser's kid brother, had successive victories in 1970 and 1971.

The Unseers aren't the only brother tandem. Sneva, 28, has his own sibling rivalry going with his brother, Jerry, of Spokane, about 11 months his junior and one of the race's seven rookies.

Foyt, the only three-time winner (1961-64-67) in the field, sits on the inside of the second row. In the middle is Gordon Johncock of Phoenix, winner in 1973. And on the outside is Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., the 1969 champ.

Rutherford of Fort Worth, Tex., the defending champion as well as the 1974 winner, might have been in the front row if he'd decided to go with his initial qualifying speed of about 197 miles an hour. But he tossed it out, deciding instead to try and top Tom Sneva's pole-winning 198.894 m.p.h. And when mechanical problems kept him from making any more qualifying runs two Saturdays ago, he was relegated to a distant 17th, in the middle of the sixth row.

Perhaps the most notable first in this year's race is the presence of the first woman driver, Janet Guthrie of New York, who doesn't have to prove a thing to anyone.

She did that a year ago, first by becoming the first woman to pass Indy's driver's test, then by running one of Foyt's cars at better than 181 miles an hour in practice. Only the lack of a decent car kept her from qualifying. She did that this year, at a solid 188.403 m.p.h. She's starting in the middle of the ninth row.

Joining Miss Guthrie and Jerry Sneva in the rookie lineup are Danny Ongais of Costa Mesa, Calif., the best starter among them on the inside of Row No. 3; Bobby Olivero of Lakewood, Calif., with the middle slot in the fifth row; Canada's Cliff Hucul, next to Miss Guthrie on the outside of Row No. 9; Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland, in the middle of Row No. 10; and Bubby Jones of Danville, Ill., No. 33 in the grid.

The longevity record among this year's entries is held by the crusty, irascible Foyt, the 42-year-old Texan making his 20th start. He has logged a mammoth 6,657½ miles of championship racing here, during which time he has pocketed a cool $921,472.

The driver, finishing last will get about $15,000, not much considering the car he drives probably costs more than $100,000.

Just how many people will witness this extravaganza in person is somewhat of a mystery. "Only God, Tony and the IRS know how many people attend the 500," is the traditional race day commentary. The speedway seats about 250,000. And the infield holds another 50,000 to 100,000.

Tickets are priced from $55 for the prime penthouse seats high over turn No. 1, down to $7 for general admission to the infield.

Crashes, if not a way of life here, always are present in the mind. The reminders can be seen coming out of each of the turns, the jagged tire skids on the freshly paved surface, fingers reaching from the lower lip of the track out to the wall, ending abruptly in a blackened smear.

With that new surface, and with constantly improving technology, the chance of a devastating, fatal crash is constantly being reduced. The last race day death occurred in 1973, when Swede Savage's car slammed into a wall and exploded at the head of the main straightaway. Savage died July 2. A pit crewman was killed almost instantly when he was run over by an emergency truck as both of them rushed to Savage's aid.

Godine, Williams eligible again

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association today told Texas A&M University that its two suspended players, Karl Godine and Jarvis Williams, are eligible to play their last two years of basketball eligibility.

Earlier, the NCAA had placed the school on probation for one year for alleged recruiting irregularities involving the two players.

Dr. Charles Samson, A&M's athletic director, said he was informed by the NCAA that "both Godine and Williams are eligible to participate in the next two regular basketball seasons, including the Southwest Conference Tournament."

There was no mention, however, of NCAA championship eligibility which Samson said was a separate matter and is still pending.

The Southwest Conference suspended Jarvis and Williams for one year at the end of their freshman season in 1975.

The NCAA then placed A&M on probation for one year starting next basketball season.

McGinnis-Lucas bust

PORTLAND (AP) — George McGinnis of Philadelphia against Maurice Lucas of Portland—the two premier power forwards in the game, the reigning king against the brash young pretender to his throne, going head-to-head with the National Basketball Association championship on the line.

It figured to be the kind of matchup basketball dreams are made of. Instead, it has been the biggest bust of the playoff finals.

Neither has lived up to his reputation in the first two games of the best-of-seven playoff series, won by Philadelphia 107-101 and 107-89. Game Three will be played here Sunday.

Before the series started, Philadelphia assistant coach Jack McMahon savored the prospect of the McGinnis-Lucas matchup.

"George has had the name, the big rep, for the last few years," said McMahon. "Now you're starting to hear talk that Lucas is the best power forward in the game. It's like when you're the top gun and then they say you're slowing down and there's somebody quicker on the draw. I think George will really respond to the challenge."

It hasn't happened. McGinnis, coming off a groin injury, is trying to shake perhaps the deepest slump of his brilliant pro career. It is a tribute to his talented teammates that the Sixers have been able to win while getting painfully little production from McGinnis.

McGinnis, who has totaled just 20 points and 13 rebounds for the two games.

McGinnis showed signs of finally breaking out of his slump Thursday night, particularly in one stretch of the second quarter when the Sixers ran off two baskets, McGinnis scoring two of them and assisting on the third.

Despite 14 points and 10 rebounds, Lucas, who developed so rapidly during the regular season to the point where he can now look McGinnis eye-to-eye atop the power forward plateau, is the type of player who can dominate a game, scoring 40 points or grabbing 20 rebounds.

But he caught a cold during the nine-day layoff prior to the start of the series and it sapped his strength. His inability to break loose is a major reason the Blazers are two games down and with their backs to the wall.

"I am one of the leading scorers and rebounders on this team," said Lucas. "I have got to contribute more if we are going to win."

Just as Lucas has been subpar, Portland Coach Jack Ramsay says Portland's entire offense has been in the doldrums.

Some credit, however, must go to Philadelphia's defensive play.

And so far, Portland's perimeter shooting has not been enough to beat the Sixers. The Blazers shot a dismal 35.6 per cent Thursday night in one of their worst performances in a long time.

It was such a dismal effort that Ramsay gathered his troops following the seven-hour plane trip from Philadelphia Friday and ran them through a practice session.

As the worm turns Area fishing news

Gonna be crowded

By Danny Reagan

Lake Thomas

Mrs. Tidwell at the Lodge indicates that not much is happening due to the wind, but she expects a lot of people over the Memorial Day weekend.

There have been a few crappie, small bass and catfish caught, mostly on minnows and worms, but the only lunkers she had to report came from trotlines . . . yellow and channel cat ranging from 7-18 pounds.

The lake needs rain badly, she said, and she would gladly trade some of the wind for that wet stuff.

Moss Creek

Fishing has been "pretty good", according to proprietor Ed McCain from his concession. The wind has been a problem there as well, but a "bunch" of nice bass and walleye (3-4 pound category) have been finding themselves on hooks.

One man caught a 19 1/2" walleye Thursday evening at the lake on a lure similar to a "B-O". McCain also expects a very large crowd this weekend.

Lake Spence

Some respectable-sized yellow catfish were showing up in fishing reports from Lake E.V. Spence during the week, along with the usual good run of striped bass. There also was a good mixture of channel cat, crappie, and white bass.

One yellow cat landed by C.D. Phelps, Odessa, weighed 28 pounds, and Robert Perze, Midland, landed a 26-pounder. Strippers were of varying sizes up to 11 1/2 pounds.

Here is the way the report stacked up from various concession points: Y.J.'s Marina — Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Vessey, Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rowe, Lubbock, 12 striped bass up to 8-lbs. and 13 oz.; Kyle Cook, Lubbock, 3 1/4-lb. strip; Troy Allgood, Big Spring, two strippers to 7 3/4 lbs.; Melvin Arnold, Odessa, 11 1/4-lb. strip.

Wildcat Fish A Rama — Joe Moreno and Eddie Dominguez families of Midland, six stripers to 10 lbs., 2 1/2-lb. black bass, six white bass; Jimmy Hollis, Hobbs, N.M., 21 channel cat, five crappie and three white bass.

Hillside Grocery and Bait — Tom Watson, Odessa, 20-lb. yellow catfish; Coburn Jones, Odessa, 12 crappie to 1 1/2-lbs., and 19 channel cat to 2 lbs.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Ellis, Tulia, 11 white bass and two strippers to 5 lbs.; C.D. Phelps, Odessa, 28-lb. yellow cat; Ray Wallace, Lovington, N.M., one drum, 10 crappie and eight white bass; Robert Perze, Midland, 26-lb. yellow cat, and one 6-lb. channel cat.

Colorado City

COOPERS COVE
Frank Hernandez from Midland caught a 5-lb. channel cat and a 6-lb. channel. H.D. Strickland from Snyder caught a 7-lb. yellow cat, a 4-lb. channel cat and two 3-lb. channels. Several large crappie were caught on the Fisharama by different people.

FISHER PARK
Jimmy Vasburg from Midland caught pan-size, channel cats with a total of 45 lbs. James Kelly from Seminole caught 8 channel cats, one weighed 4 lbs., also 13 pan-size crappie and 80 blue gill, caught on meal worms.

Ed Causilly from Andrews caught one yellow cat weighing 23 1/2 lbs. and one 3 1/2 lb. yellow cat. Jerry Bucklew from Colorado City caught three black bass, two weighed 2 lbs. and one weighed 3 1/2 lbs. Larry Hanson and Jerry Rupens from Odessa caught 4 black bass, 1-lb. each, also 25 pansize crappie.

John Wayne Newby from Westbrook lost about 30 lbs. of sand bass when a hole came in the sack they were in, he saved six that weighed 3 1/2 to 4 lbs. each.

LAKEVIEW CAMP
Steve McMahan from Snyder caught a 5-lb. bass. Lots of channel cat were caught out of the Fisharama.

STATE PARK
There were 7,400 people out at the State Park over the weekend. The cat fish and crappie were biting.

LITTLE FISH, BIG FUSS — This is the snail darter, a three-inch fish whose presence in an east Tennessee river has halted work on the Tennessee Valley Authority's Tellico Dam. ## Peppler joins Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — Spending Houston Oilers owner K.S. "Bud" Adams money instead of bidding against it apparently agrees with new Oiler assistant general manager Pat Peppler.

Peppler, as assistant general manager at Green Bay, once out-negotiated the Oilers for Donny Anderson and on another occasion lost Baylor receiver Lawrence Elkins to the Oilers during the big contract explosion era of the 1960s.

Now, after serving in similar capacities at Miami and Atlanta, Peppler has joined forces with the Oilers and currently is busy doing what he does best, negotiating player contracts.

In addition to getting the signatures of the Oiler rookies, Peppler also faces negotiations with a group of veterans that includes quarterbacks Dan Pastorini and John Hadl, linebackers Greg Bingham and Ted Washington and defensive back C.L. Whittington.

"The thing that made signing Anderson so tough was the Oilers were very competitive and aggressive in those days," said Peppler, reminiscing about competing against his present employer.

"But Donny had a thing about the Packers. He told me he could get $1 million out of the Oilers but he wanted to play at Green Bay."

Peppler eventually signed Anderson to a $711,000 contract in 1966, largest in pro football at the time.

Another of Peppler's duties at Green Bay was playing "the turk," a name given to the person on each pro football team that tells a player he's been cut, was Peppler's function under the Lombardi organization.

"Vince let me do it because he said I was such a nice guy," Peppler said. "He said I could cut a guy's head off and he wouldn't know it until he tried to turn his head."

Peppler recalls one rookie however, who couldn't quite believe his head had been cut off.

Byre's third time to beat Rangers

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The record will show that Steve Byre delivered his third game winning run batted in for the Milwaukee Brewers Friday night.

What it doesn't explain is why Texas Rangers' Manager Frank Lucchesi elected to pitch to Byre in the first place.

Byre's ninth inning sacrifice fly scored Sal Bando with the winning run, lifting the Brewers to a 6-5 victory. It was their ninth in a row against Texas, a team against which they were 10-2 last season.

The situation was this: one out in the Brewer ninth inning, Bando on third base and Cecil Cooper on first after singles. Brewer Manager Alex Grammas had Byre, a righthanded batter, pinch hit against southpaw Paul Lindblad.

Cubs rally past P'rats

CHICAGO (AP) — Jerry Morales' bases-clearing double keyed a five-run sixth inning Saturday and sent the rampaging Chicago Cubs to a 6-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The triumph was the fourth straight and 20th in the last 25 games for the Cubs, who vaulted past the Pirates into first place in the National League East by one-half game.

Jim Rooker had a 2-0 lead and a one-hit shutout going into the sixth when the Cubs struck. Ivan DeJesus walked, and singles by Gene Clines and Larry Bittner produced one run.

The Y will also offer a new version of Men's Fitness classes beginning June 6th. These classes consist of jogging, walking, and calisthenics. Fitness tests are also available to all interested men.

All programs require a YMCA membership and begin on or around June 6th.

For more information contact Bill Etchison at the YMCA at 7-8234.

COACH IS UMP — Actually, it would have been very hard for the coach to appeal to the umpire during last Wednesday night's game between the Colts and the Pirates, when the umps failed to show. Coach of the Colts John Hobbs, pictured here, and Pirates' coach Cruz Rodriguez had to call the game. There were probably a lot less "Throw the bum out," calls during the game because of the change in roles.

Your bigger paycheck will buy less this year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even with help from the new tax cut, many Americans face a substantial loss of purchasing power this year because of inflation.

With the year nearly half over, government figures indicate that inflation will be significantly worse this year than in 1976 when consumer prices advanced 4.8 per cent.

Inflation pushed consumer prices up 3.2 per cent in the first four months of the year, and the Carter administration recently raised its inflation forecast for all of 1977 from 5.3 per cent to 6.7 per cent.

But the recent pace of inflation is causing speculation that it could be worse than that before the year is over.

Administration economists expect a slowdown in the inflation rate after midyear, especially in food prices, which have risen 5 per cent in the first four months.

Nonetheless, there are signs of concern.

President Carter told a news conference Thursday that his "main concern at this point on the economic scene is the rate of inflation."

And the pace of inflation clearly is behind moves by the money-management Federal Reserve Board to tighten growth of the money supply to make loans more expensive.

On Friday, several major banks raised their prime lending rate for loans from 6 1/2 to 6 3/4 per cent, the second increase in a week.

Since higher interest rates can discourage economic growth, the stock market responded by pushing the Dow Jones industrial average for stocks below 900, to 896, for the first time since Jan. 7, 1976.

Although Carter has previously said inflation and unemployment could be battled simultaneously, his latest statement appeared to move him a big step closer to the position of former Treasury Secretary William E. Simon that inflation was "public enemy No. 1."

There are a lot of reasons why Carter and his advisers worry about the recent high rate of inflation.

For one thing, rising prices mean consumers may have to cut back on expenditures.

There were signs that this may have started in April, when retail sales failed to increase for the first time in months.

The combination of reduced consumer buying plus higher interest rates could endanger administration goals for economic growth and employment.

The real purchasing power of workers' paychecks declined in April for the fourth time in five months and was one-tenth of 1 per cent below what it was a year earlier. That was after adding in increased pay.

While the tax cuts signed into law by Carter last week will reduce taxes by about $100 a year for the average family of four, the losses to inflation should more than offset that.

Even if inflation holds to the 6.7 per cent forecast by the administration, it still means a person with $10,000 income would lose $870 in purchasing power because of higher prices by year end. That person already had lost $320 in purchasing power by the end of April.

Until April, at least, consumers had been increasing their purchases, in part, by drawing on savings. Americans were saving only 4.8 per cent of their income in the first quarter of this year, one of the lowest rates in years. The savings rate was 7.8 per cent in 1975 and 6.5 per cent last year.

Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget

Office, is pessimistic about the pace of consumer spending in months ahead, partly because the savings rate is so low and because it is likely consumers will want to build their savings up again.

One reason consumers reduced their savings, she said, may have been that they anticipated receiving the $50-per-person tax rebate that Carter had proposed but then withdrew earlier this year.

A rising inflation rate also could understate efforts to win restraint in wage increases this year. So far, wage hikes have been averaging about 8 per cent a year, a rate that may not continue to satisfy workers if it appears inflation will outpace those gains.

Rising wage rates usually result in even higher price increases, resulting in a wage-price spiral that the administration wants to avoid.

Carter has announced an anti-inflation program that rests heavily on his ability to work with both labor and management to moderate wage and price increases.

His representatives, including Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, have met twice with an unofficial labor-management group headed by George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, and Reginald H. Jones, chairman of the General Electric Co.

So far, they have only agreed to talk about what causes inflation.

Carter now appears to agree with his predecessors in Republican administrations that it will be impossible to return to full employment until inflation is brought under control.

Since he has pledged to do many things by the end of this term in office — balance the budget, slash unemployment and reduce inflation to about 4 per cent, as well as start on welfare reform and national health insurance — the present inflation rate clearly puts those goals in jeopardy.

CANTON, Mo. — Johnny Rankin, of 119 B Kelly Circle, was among 90 students who received bachelor and associate degrees during the commencement exercises held at Culver-Stockton College here recently.

Hearts 'n Flowers

Zay LeFevre, who cut his eye teeth on a baseball here, can look back on a very satisfying coaching year at Ben Bolt (located near Alice).

Zay's football team finished second to Groom in the state. His track team was third in the state behind Meridian and Groom.

There is nothing quite like the logic of a Washington bureaucrat or the people who go to make up a government agency.

We have a president who says we have to fracture our lust for fuel because the demand for energy is far exceeding the supply.

Then we have a bureau which snarls that we're not conforming to standards because we don't have the proper ratio of ethnic children in our schools. In order to achieve the desired balance, we must bus some of the students away from their neighborhood schools to distant campuses.

It takes an enormous amount of fuel to operate such a bus system, even in one school system. Multiply that levy by thousands of times and you get an idea of how great a drain it is on our dwindling supplies of gasoline.

We do it to make peace with the bureaucrats, who originally were hired to work for the good of the taxpayers but who inevitably conspire against them. That may be a way to achieve a desirable balance in the nation's schools but it serves to accelerate that time when all the fuel is gone.

Do you think it's easy to live on an income of $151 to $200 a month? Impossible, you contend? Don't say that to many of the elderly in Texas. They're making do on that and less and it becomes increasingly harder to eke out a living. Inflation lunges at their jugular and never lets go.

This bit of verse was written by a man whose name escapes me at the moment:

*And we watched the war with bated breath —
Skeleton boy against skeleton death.
Months of torture, how many much?
Weary weeks of the stick and crutch;
And still a glint in the steel-blue eye
Told of a spirit that wouldn't die.*

Extremists twice put out contracts on King Hassan. The monarch of Morocco responded not with more oppressive totalitarianism but toward free elections.

Col Harry Spannaus, wing commander at Webb AFB, has often been told he looks like Paul Newman but he never met the film star.

Newman invariably comes across as the athletic type. Spannaus doesn't have to act the part — he boxed long enough to get his nose broken and he played football at the University of Minnesota under the late, great Bernie Bierman. In addition, he was on the university swim team.

One of Spannaus' teammates at UM was Leo Nomellini, an All-American lineman who later became an item of great curiosity in professional wrestling circles.

Though a quarterback for Bierman, Spannaus rarely threw the ball. Bierman believed in ball control and rarely put it up for grabs.

The British expect the American to be knowledgeable about the game cricket and then they explain the game like this:

George MacDonald said it: "When we are out of sympathy for the young, then I think our work in this world is over."

Austin to decide Lo-Vaca pact

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Mayor Carole McClellan says the city council will decide within two weeks whether to approve a proposed settlement of Austin's gas pricing suit against Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. and Coastal States Gas Producing Co.

The suit was a legacy left by the former council, which went out of office — with three holdovers out of seven members — earlier this month.

Mrs. McClellan met for two hours Friday with officials of San Antonio and the Lower Colorado River Authority to discuss the proposed Lo-Vaca settlement. Suits against the gas utility total $1.6 billion and result from Lo-Vaca's charging higher prices than the approximately 25 cents per 1,000 cubic feet called for in contracts signed in the early 1960s.

The settlement negotiated by lawyers for the companies and the customers would spin off Lo-Vaca from Coastal, its corporate parent, and place half the ownership in the hands of its customers.

Coastal would agree to spend $230 million over an 18-year period to find new gas, which Lo-Vaca would buy at below market price. Coastal's Texas lignite properties would be transferred to Lo-Vaca.

San Antonio has agreed to accept the plan, but there is a push within the city council for a vote to change direction and pursue the city's $500 million suit.

The LCRA won a $25 million judgment in district court but it was reversed on appeal.

The Texas Railroad Commission says it plans to hold hearings this summer leading to a final order on Lo-Vaca's rates. The firm now operates under a 1973 interim order allowing it to recover its full gas purchase costs plus a nickel per 1,000 cubic feet for transportation expenses. "We certainly don't plan to drag our feet on this issue," Mrs. McClellan said.

Coastal says it won't approve the settlement unless the major customers — Austin, San Antonio, LCRA, Central Power & Light of Corpus Christi and United Texas Transmission of Houston — adopt it.

Rape attempt nets 99 in pen

HOUSTON (AP) — A U.S. Army private has been assessed a 99 year prison term after being convicted of attempting to rape a new mother Christmas morning at the maternity ward of a Houston hospital.

Thornton Ray Prophet, 23, of Houston, was tried without a jury before State District Court Judge William Hatten who handed down the sentence Thursday.

The victim, a 23-year-old woman who had given birth to her first child at the hospital Dec. 21, identified Prophet as the man who entered her private room early Christmas Day, and threatened her with knife.

Sailors killed when cycle hits guardrail

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Two U.S. Navy sailors, strapped together with a leather belt, were killed Saturday when their motorcycle crashed into a guardrail after one of them dozed off, police said.

Authorities identified the victims as Jonathon Craig Durman, 21, of Los Angeles, and Laird Adrun Laird, 21, of Phoenix.

The two were on a Honda 750 headed west on Interstate 40 in Amarillo just south of the city's downtown section when their motorcycle swerved into a guardrail throwing both men onto the pavement. Police said the men had lashed themselves together with the belt in an apparent attempt to permit one of them to sleep while the other drove.

Investigators said it was not known where Durman and Laird were coming from although papers found on the two indicated they were assigned to the USS Potsdam.

Durman was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident. Laird died in a local hospital at 5:30 a.m. about five hours after the mishap.

AREA SWEETHEART — Susan Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Martin Jr., has been named sweetheart of Area 2 for the Future Farmers of America. She was entered by the Sands FFA Chapter. She will now compete for state sweetheart July 13-15 in Fort Worth.

Handicapped conference eyes 3,500 resolutions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 800 delegates wound up a five-day White House conference on the handicapped with 3,500 suggestions to ponder. "We'll come out of this with clear cut recommendations and resolutions," predicted Jack Smith, executive director of the White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals. The delegates, half of whom are disabled, left for home Friday to finish their assignment of giving priorities to 3,500 suggested actions to improve the lives of the handicapped. Balloting on resolutions also will be conducted by mail so that the delegates may have time to review the numerous proposals. "We developed so many resolutions it became difficult to deal with them," said Smith, who is confined to a wheelchair.

The federally-funded conference ended amid criticism that it was another example of the handicapped wanted to eliminate. "For years the lives of the handicapped have been run by professionals who know what's good for the handicapped," said James Gassel, a delegate who heads the District of Columbia office of the National Federation of the Blind.

Docs never die

with Marj Carpenter

Old doctors never die — they just fade away. They live on in the tales that the families tell about "Old Doc" who brought my mother into the world. But old hospitals do fall down. And one of the oldest around is located in Stanton on the M.L. Koonce place. It is falling down — one adobe brick at a time.

The Martin County Historical Survey Committee, at one time, considered preserving the facility, but no action was ever taken.

The hospital was built by Dr. J.R. Vance, who came to Stanton in 1891 from Danville, Ohio, due to his wife's ill health. The climate must have agreed with Mrs. Vance, because she lived until the mid-thirties and became a well-known figure in Stanton, still wearing the floor-length skirts, white shirtwaist and straw hat that was the style when she arrived.

The Vances at one time ran the post office, the drug store, the hospital, and he was also a banker. He rode by horseback to treat patients from Garden City to what he called "the yon side of Lamesa." At times he rode the train to Monahans to treat patients there.

The first baby he delivered in the area was "Toad" Houston, born on the Houston ranch between Stanton and Garden City.

The old-timers recall that Doc Vance would swim his horse through high creeks, holding his "doctor bag" high above his head. He reported that most of his patients were cowboys with broken bones from falling off horses and he also delivered thousands of babies.

There was at that time a lot of "slow fever" which was the pioneer name for typhoid.

Stanton had a pest house for anybody who had small pox. They had a few cases through the years and food was brought and set in baskets on the stile over the fence for the patients. The doctor would burn the clothing that he wore into the pest house to treat the patients.

One old cowboy named Charlie Allen used to recall his stay in the pest house. "I was scared when I went that first day. I wished I would die. The second day I wished I had died the day before."

A lot of home remedies, such as bacon poultices, mustard plasters and whiskey were used as cures. They like to tell the story of the sedate ranch woman who had touch of gripe. Her husband came in and gave her a hot toddy. The son came along and gave her a hot toddy and a neighbor came by and gave her a hot toddy. She went into a deep sleep. They called the doctor, only to find out she was dead drunk.

The old hospital was built in such a fashion that relatives could come and stay with the patient and also cook and prepare their meals. Mrs. Vance waited on those who had no relatives.

The Vances lived in a two-story white house in front of the hospital that could be seen outside town from all over Stanton. An overhead water tank, built in 1905 by Chris Peters, stands between the site of the former ranch home and the adobe hospital. It is an unusual tower structure.

Mrs. Vance had the first real parlor, which she kept dark with heavy drapes pulled.

Her favorite tale about working in the Post Office was the time a woman came in and made out an order to Sears Roebuck saying, "I want a green dress like Mrs. So and So got." She got the order. Sears Roebuck looked up the order of the previous customer.

Stories about Dr. and Mrs. Vance are great favorites. And among the old-timers, it is easy to get them started by just mentioning the Old Doc.

I wish I'd gotten to know him. But his memory is still there, and the remains of the old hospital — out where I go ridin' fence.

Bar prexy changes his mind about Anita Bryant

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The president of the State Bar of Texas said Friday he has changed his mind and will indeed invite Anita Bryant to sing at the bar convention in Houston June 16.

Gibson Gayle, Houston, revealed his decision to the bar's board of directors. "I have concluded that I made a mistake in not consummating the original contract with Anita Bryant pursuant to our earlier oral discussions. I reacted to reports I had received that had caused me to believe the situation could not be controlled."

"We have been in touch with the Houston Police Department and with Dist. Atty. Carol Vance concerning security arrangements and have been assured of full cooperation," Gayle said.

Miss Bryant has been a leader against an ordinance in Miami that prohibits discrimination against homosexuals in housing and jobs.

And her opposition to the equal rights amendment for women has drawn criticism from many women lawyers.

"I regret that others, including some members of the bar, have erroneously assumed that Miss Bryant's stand on controversial issues or the bar's reluctance to become involved in controversy caused the initial decision to be made and have compounded the problem by not checking on facts before making such erroneous assumptions," Gayle said.

"I also regret the anguish which has resulted to Miss Bryant, her husband, friends, supporters, some members of the bar and all others who have been aggrieved by events of the past week."

"The president's dinner is supposed to be a happy evening of entertainment without speeches. Political matters are not on the program."

"The entire responsibility of matter is mine and is in no part attributable to the State Bar board of directors, the State Bar staff or anyone else," he said.

Oil discovered in North Sea?

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Phillips Petroleum Co. refused today to confirm what the London Financial Times has described as a significant oil discovery in the North Sea.

In a low-key statement, the company here said only that electric logs run earlier this week on the drilling operation showed the possible presence of hydrocarbons.

The well is about 165 miles northeast of Aberdeen, Scotland.

The Times reported that there could be reserves of more than 500 million barrels in the so-called Thelma complex.

Phillips said if the test program produces encouraging results, more drilling will be required to evaluate the extent of the reserves.

Old Settlers Reunion set in Stanton

PLAYGROUND SAFETY — Mrs. Elvene Holland, instructor at the Jack and Jill School, 2009 Main, watches over students Vicki Spencer and Shane Hull as they learn the art of sliding. Too many accidents can happen from failure to teach children the proper way of handling playground equipment.

Summer safety habits for children to follow

By SUSAN HAMPTON

Summer is the time children spend more of their playing time outdoors — climbing trees, bicycling, swimming — in various activities which all have a certain amount of hazard, especially for younger children.

Parents can do little about some of the accidents which do occur during a child's day, but they can help prevent the more serious and needless ones.

Now is the time when parents should "lead their children by the hand," literally and figuratively, and teach them some important safety habits to follow during the summer months and afterward.

On the walk to the playground where the child will no doubt spend much of his time this summer, show the child traffic safety signs. Children invariably know red and green mean different things, so tell them, calmly and matter-of-factly, what they are, according to Mrs. Elvene Holland, instructor at the Jack and Jill Pre-Kindergarten, Kindergarten and First Grade School, 2009 Main.

An essential item to remember when discussing safety to children is to not over-emphasize the dangers, of, for instance, crossing the street. Children are impressionable and might become over-anxious or panicky when told about "getting run over" or "breaking their neck," an euphemism we use all too frequently when talking to children.

Looking both ways before crossing the street is important for the child to learn, Mrs. Holland said. Teach him to walk, not run, when crossing the street also, she added.

Mrs. Holland, who has been teaching pre-schoolers at Jack and Jill for more than nine years, says the 3 to 4-year-old children can learn and retain basic safety habits.

"The children seem to understand and comprehend the safety rules we tell them when we go on walks around the neighborhood," she said. On the playground a great many accidents can happen, Mrs. Charlene McKinnon, an instructor at the Jack and Jill School, said.

"We must be careful to watch the children so they do not get hurt with the misuse of the playground equipment," she said.

Some points to tell children about the equipment at the playground include:

- not to run under swings when they are in motion,
- not to run fast on the playground, so collisions with another child will not happen,
- when playing on the slide, be careful not to fall off, and
- when the merry-go-round is in motion, do not attempt to jump off, as many accidents happen with such carelessness.

Head injuries can evolve from accidents which happen in the playground, as well as from improper swimming habits, Ms. LeVetta Lee, R.N. at the City-County Health Unit of Howard County, 201 Lancaster, said.

"Parents should understand the necessity of having their children take swimming lessons," Ms. Lee said. "Too many accidents of a serious nature can happen if they don't."

Ms. Lee indicated the importance of teaching the child to realize when he has had enough sun on his skin.

"Many people, including adults, don't think they are burnt when indeed they are," she said.

A tip for parent safety as well as the child's own comfort is to use a sunscreen ointment on the child if he has a tendency to burn easily, she said.

When taking the child on nature trips, such as a drive up Scenic Mountain or a walk around the Big Spring, parents should point out poisonous plants to them, Ms. Lee said.

"Kids can learn young the difference between these plants," she said. "Younger children should be taught not to eat plants or put them in their mouths," Ms. McKinnon said.

"Sometimes at the school we must point this out to a child who we see doing so."

Nails, splinters and rough edges should be removed and kept away from the child, Mrs. Holland said. Sometimes the younger child will put these objects in their mouths or puncture an eye, she added.

If your child is under four, a fence around the backyard would be a good investment to keep stray dogs away. The fence could also be used to keep the smaller child from wandering away and becoming lost.

"Children should be taught the importance of not petting or touching an unfamiliar animal in the neighborhood," Ms. Lee said.

"Teach the child to identify safe animals by their tags," Mrs. McKinnon said. "Tell the child the tags indicate the animal has been taken care of."

Other safety items for parents to remember include:

- when backing the car out of the driveway, always check to make sure that no child is playing or hiding there,
- keep the garage door closed and make sure that tools and such potentially hazardous equipment as lawnmowers, saws, cans of paint, or poisonous sprays are stored safely away from children's reach,
- take the doors off discarded refrigerators to prevent youngsters from locking themselves in — still an all-too-frequent tragedy, and
- string outside clotheslines high so that children cannot run into them.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, MAY 29, 1977

Activities abound

Elderly not alone in city

By CAROL HART

Big Spring has something to offer to every age group, including its senior citizens. Providing activities on an almost daily basis for older adults are the Kentwood Older Adult Center and the Senior Citizens Center.

The Kentwood Older Adult Center is located in what was formerly the Kentwood Methodist Church. According to spokesmen for the group, the center is non-denominational, but is maintained in part through the ministry of the United Methodist Churches of Big Spring. The Hi-Noon Optimists also support the Center through various means, as well as private donations.

There are no paid personnel working at the Kentwood Center, but many volunteers. And there are no tax supporting organizations involved with the Center, according to Marion Irland, an active member of the Kentwood Center.

The Kentwood Center was conceived in April 1974. It has grown steadily since that time, and saw 15,043 people use the Center during 1976. "We are exceeding that number this year," said Mrs. Marshall Brown, wife of the program director at the Center.

Other directors include Jack Price, chairman; J.H. Eastham, vice-chairman; Mrs. B.M. Keese, Marion B. Irland, Alvin Smith, J.C. Pierce, Cecil Hanson, Calvin White, Mrs. Otilie Van Vleet, John Knox, C.A. Holcomb, Mrs. Mary Ernstine, Mrs. Altha Trupp, J.T. Gilmore, Travis Floyd and Denver Pettitt.

Also serving on the board of directors are several Methodist ministers, including the Rev. Jean Greer, Wesley Methodist, and Dr. Weldon Butler, First United Methodist Church. Dr. Lloyd Hughes, the district superintendent for the Methodist Church, is also on the board.

Technically, anyone 55 years of age or older, or retired, is considered an older adult. But, "everyone is welcomed here," said several of the directors.

Special events are scheduled almost daily at the Center. Table games take place every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. The Center also conducts Western and gospel music sessions. There is a luncheon the second Wednesday of every month, and special parties are conducted for every holiday.

The Center is opened to group meetings also. A few of the groups using the Center are the Veterans of World War I and its Ladies Auxiliary, National Association of Retired Federal Employees, National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees, the Center Point Home Demonstration Club, and several others.

T.K. Price is in charge of keeping members of the Center informed through a newsletter, the Kentwood Chronicle. He handles much of the group's publicity through the newsletter, which goes out to approximately 475 homes.

Another active organization for older adults is the Senior Citizen's Center, which meets in the North annex of the First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Christine Freeman is the director of the Senior Citizen's Center. Charles Weeg is president of the board of directors.

The Senior Citizen's Center is connected with the Howard County Council on Aging. Ms. Janet Sargent, county home demonstration agent, is the adviser to the group, said Mrs. Freeman.

The purpose of the Center is to provide a place for meeting, playing table games, etc. The group also sponsors the Mobile Meals program, which provides a hot meal for shut-ins. "We serve approximately 375 meals a month," said Mrs. Freeman.

The group sponsors such events as one monthly luncheon, one blood pressure check day per month, and one birthday party per month for participants in the Center with birthdays falling in a certain month.

The Center is open five days a week.

The Senior Citizen's Center has been in existence since 1973. It is supported by private local donations. It is opened to anyone 55 or older. Mobile Meals are reserved for people 60 and over.

KENTWOOD CENTER DIRECTORS — Several of the Kentwood Older Adult Center directors include Marion B. Irland, Mrs. B.M. Keese, Alvin Smith, J.H. Eastham, J.C. Pierce and Mrs. Marshall Brown. Seated are Jack Price and Marshall Brown.

TABLE GAMES — Several participants in the Senior Citizen's Center, located in the North annex of the First Presbyterian Church, take part in a domino game.

Puppy Love Can Have Sharp Bite

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a teenager can experience love? Why do older people say, "It's only puppy love," or "a crush"? Isn't that real love?

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: A teenager's "crush" or "puppy love" is as real as mature love is to an adult.

Teenagers suffer the same longings, yearnings, heartaches and excitement that older lovers experience. And the pains of puppy love are deeper because the frustrations are greater.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I own a boat. We both love boating and so do our children.

Here's the problem: My husband can't swim a stroke, and he refuses to wear a life preserver. He says he has to die sometime, and he doesn't care how he goes.

We have five children, Abby. They range from 13 years old down to 3. I get frightened half to death when we are in the boat with him, and the waters get rough or a storm comes up. I am becoming a nervous wreck over this. Can you suggest something?

NEWPORT

DEAR NEWPORT: Tell your "hero" that even if HE doesn't care how he goes, YOU do. And you also care WHEN! Remind him that you didn't have those five children without his help, and you don't intend to raise them alone, either. That ought to buoy the old boy up.

DEAR ABBY: Every year my daughter and her children have visited us and stayed all summer, and each year the children grow a little bolder.

Last summer my home was bedlam! The children kept the stereo going full-blast night and day, refused to pick up after themselves, ate all day long and abused our lovely furniture. They partied at night and left the mess for me to clean up in the morning.

They had their teenage friends running in and out and never bothered to introduce one of them to their grandfather or me. (Their mother said teenagers NEVER introduce their friends to anyone, not even to their parents.) I was shocked to hear the rude manner in which those children talked back to their mother, and she didn't say a word.

If I had treated my elders that way, my mother would have worn out a willow switch on me. Summer is upon us, and I am dreading it. Have you any advice for me?

GRAM

DEAR GRAM: No advice, just sympathy. If you put up with those hooligans another summer, you've asked for it. Apparently you failed to teach your daughter what your mother taught you. Respect for one's elders. For if you had, she'd have passed it on to HER children. And perhaps something else would have been passed on: the willow switch.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and our daughter were too close to suit me. They were cutting me out, so I solved it by telling my husband a few things about her, and they are no longer close.

Then he developed a closeness with our son, and I used the same method, and our son left home.

Someone in our family who knew how I solved this problem sent me an article in which there was a similar situation. It said the wife was jealous of her own children.

Abby, because I want to be first in my husband's life, does that mean I am jealous?

I admit I'm jealous where other women are concerned because when he has had to go out of town on business, I always go with him. I trust him IN town, but NOT OUT of town. I think that kind of jealousy is normal, but I don't think it's possible to be jealous of my own children, do you?

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: Yes. And from where I sit, I would say that you are. I would also say that the "method" you used to break up the "closeness" between your husband and your children was underhanded and nothing to be proud of.

There are two important rules of cooking vegetables: wash well, but do not soak, and do not overcook. If anything, vegetables should be undercooked. They should be firm, and the stems of green leafy vegetables should be slightly crisp. The easiest way to avoid overcooking vegetables is to purchase a vegetable steamer. Besides losing fewer nutrients in the water, you will find the taste fresher and better. It is nice to add a little oil, garlic, and herbs while steaming, and salt just before serving.

NEW YORK (AP) — A paper towel can be the secret to keeping lettuce and other salad greens crisp and fresh longer in the refrigerator, advises Sphere magazine, which gives these instructions for proper storage of salad makings:

First, discard all discolored leaves. Then wash remaining greens thoroughly in running water, drain well and blot dry with paper towels. Store in plastic bags in the refrigerator crisper drawer. ## Littering topic of Womack Speech

Efforts being made by the city to enforce mowing and cleaning vacant lots are limited, according to Mrs. Odell Womack, chairman of litter control and beautification of Big Spring, because of a shortage of manpower. Each resident is responsible to keep his own premises and his side of the alley clean.

Mrs. Womack's statement came at Tuesday's meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club at Coker's Restaurant.

She went on to say each person should have suitable garbage containers and to keep the alleys clear of litter and weeds.

"If a person sees someone throw litter from a car he should get the license number and report them, as they are actually breaking the law and subject to a fine from $10 to $200," Mrs. Womack added.

She said because of much work on the part of the local City Council and committees and the efforts of the garden clubs, Big Spring won first place in the State Litter Control and Beautification Contest one year, and two years in succession the city won an award for beautification of Comanche Trail Park and the Big Spring lake area. The city won an award for beautification efforts around the Dora Roberts Community Center ground, she added.

Mrs. Womack, who works closely with the City Council in seeking to control litter in the city and with the garden clubs for beautification efforts, said the large plants in the downtown area, put there by the local garden clubs, are being vandalized and is difficult to keep them planted because of this.

"We could learn much from the Orientals, Mrs. Womack said, referring to sanitary landfill procedures.

"All of their (Orientals) garbage is buried, and their small tracts of land are very productive."

Litter is actually garbage, discarded items and junk no longer usable, but much waste has potential recycle value, such as metals and paper, she said.

"The waste of the country is so large that we are literally running out of space and places to put it. Some communities use an open dump, which is very un-sanitary, but for the past few years Big Spring has had a sanitary landfill, which is both a city and county project. When waste is dumped and covered with dirt in layers it turns into the richest fertilizer we have, and is very valuable in land replenishment," she concluded.

Following Mrs. Womack's address the new officers for the club were announced by the Nominating Committee. They are Miss Edith Gay, president; Mrs. Garland Morrison, first vice president; Mrs. Anita Paulson, second vice president; Mrs. Philip Parker, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Bert Affleck, recording secretary and Mrs. Delphia Gordon, treasurer.

Miss Gay and Mrs. Cass Hill were delegated to attend the State Convention in Fort Worth June 10-12.

Nurses replace doctors' role

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Nurses could easily replace doctors in the latter's diminishing role of making house calls, says Anne Zimmerman, president of the American Nurses' Association.

"A lot more people could get health care at home," she says, "and they need professional attention at home in many cases, as much as at the hospital."

Nurses providing this care could be reimbursed by insurance companies, she explains. People with limited incomes who need care that could be administered at home often enter hospitals that are paid by Medicare or Medicaid, the ANA president points out, adding, "and that's an extravagant use of the dollars available."

Miss Vicki Lynn Harris weds James Roger Hiatt

Miss Vicki Lynn Harris and James Roger Hiatt were married Saturday afternoon in the Vincent Baptist Church with the Rev. Ben Neel officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Hulan Harris, 2608 Cindy Lane, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Henry Hiatt, 3212 Sunset Lane, Arlington.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with Boston fern. Two large marble columns featuring an arrangement of white and yellow daisies and yellow sweetheart roses stood at either side.

Providing wedding music was Mrs. Donald Richardson at the organ.

The bride wore a formal length gown of flocked Georgette with layers of Georgette encircling the neckline and forming a cap sleeve. The empire waist was accented with satin ribbon and lace designs. The skirt overlay of flocked Georgette was encircled with a wide ruffle around the bottom of the gown and train. The fingertip veil featured layers of tulle.

The bride carried a cascade of white daisy pompons and yellow sweetheart roses accented with dainty sprigs of gypsophila.

Miss Patti Porter was maid of honor. She wore a long gown of yellow with short bell sleeves.

Richard Douglas Hiatt, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Ushers included Richard Henry Hiatt, father of the bridegroom, John R. Hyden III, and Ricky D. Harris, brother of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev., the couple will reside in Bryan. The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School, attended Howard College and Tarleton State University.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Arlington High School, and Tarleton State University. He is attending graduate school at Texas A&M University.

A reception honoring the

couple was held in the church following the ceremony.

The refreshment table was covered with yellow cloth with a white lace overlay. The centerpiece was formed of yellow and white daisies clustered around a white candelabrum.

Mrs. Richard Armistead, Lamesa; Mrs. Walter Broemer, Nacogdoches; Mrs. Charles Hammond, Stephenville; and Mrs. Michael Paul, Big Spring, were servers.

Out-of-town guests included Walter Broemer, Nacogdoches; Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hyden Jr., and Mr.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Graham, Buchanan Dam; Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Weldon, Odessa; Mrs. Grace Green, San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Green and family, San Antonio; Richard Armistead and family, Lamesa; Mrs. Lillian Harris, Burkett.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the Brandin' Iron Inn.

Choose toys carefully

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Toys for hospitalized children should be carefully selected to meet the special needs of the youngsters, advises Patsy Banta, family relations and child development instructor at Oklahoma State University.

"The child in a burn unit or in traction needs small items that fit easily on a tray but are not so small they can get lost," she says.

Toys relating to the hospital experience, such as stethoscopes, doctor and nurse puppets and miniature hospitals are popular. "Through role play, the child is able to work out feelings of loneliness and pain related to their hospital situation," Mrs. Banta explains.

Hospitalized children often enjoy toys that ordinarily are appropriate for a younger age group, and such toys as stuffed musical animals appeal to children in a wide age range.

Avoid time-consuming and complex toys, suggests Mrs. Banta, since the hospitalized child is often interrupted for routine procedures and also tires easily.

"Keep in mind the amount of adult supervision or participation required with certain toys," she adds. "Checkers appeal only if someone plays with the child. And puzzles will retain their pieces only if someone is there every day to pick up the pieces."

Miss Renshaw shower honoree

Miss Stephanie Renshaw was the honoree at a kitchen shower last Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Jerry Mancill, 603 Colgate.

Miss Renshaw is the bride-elect of Hayes Stripling III. Refreshments were served from a polished table with crystal appointments. The centerpiece was composed of pink carnations and baby's breath in a crystal bowl.

Hostesses included Ms. Vanessa Mancill, Mrs. John Cobean, Mrs. Robert Fuller and Mrs. James Lancaster.

The hostesses presented Miss Renshaw with an electric coffee pot.

TO WED — Mr. and Mrs. Sidney F. Hirt, St. Lawrence Route, Garden City, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Lisa Gayle, to Danny Dean, son of Mrs. Bob Sandell, Houston, and Herb Dean, Ahwaz, Iran. The couple will be married July 16 in the St. Lawrence Catholic Church.

Orr home shower site for Miss Jeana Miller

Miss Jeana Miller, bride-elect of Don Adams, was the honoree at a coffee-gift shower May 21 in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Orr, 2906 McCasland.

Hostesses included Mrs. Art Summerfield, Mrs. Mary Morgan, Mrs. John Thomas, Mrs. Allen Bailey and Mrs. Horace Hise.

Others were Mrs. Charles Davis, Mrs. Pete Ruiz, Mrs. Doyle Rich and Mrs. Walter McWhirter. They presented the honoree with a bedspread.

Miss Suzanne Orr and Miss Tammy Thomas were members of the houseparty.

The tables were covered with yellow and white checked tablecloths with lace crochet overlays. Coral and yellow silk flowers centered the table. Crystal appointments were used to complete the decorations.

Mrs. Edward Miller and Mrs. Lester Adams, mothers of the couple, and Mrs. Miller, Tahoka, grandmother of the bride-elect and the honoree were presented with corsages of coral and yellow dotted swiss.

Walk off calories

NEW YORK (AP) — Take up walking to keep your own figure, the Diet Workshop advises brides, citing figures from the Committee on Exercise and Physical Fitness of the American Medical Association.

If you eat only 96 extra calories about two chocolate cream-filled cookies more per day than you burn up, you can expect to be 50 pounds heavier by your fifth anniversary. But just 25 minutes of walking a day will keep you at your wedding day weight, the workshop points out.

Secret pals present gifts during meet

Gifts were presented to Busy Bee Hobby Club members Mrs. Jim Green, Mrs. Morris Robertson, Mrs. Oneita Hardy and Mrs. D.H. McGonagil by their secret pals at May's meeting.

Hostesses for the meeting included Mrs. Musick, Mrs. Vergil Smedley, Mrs. Paul Sweatt and Mrs. Bob Taylor. Door prize winners were Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Marion McMains.

Mrs. McMains and Mrs. Rufus Miller received birthday gifts.

A business meeting followed by a covered dish luncheon for members will be June 2 in the home of Mrs. Robertson, Lake Thomas.

Members will work on individual projects. To go to the meeting, members should meet in the College Park parking lot at 9:30 a.m.

Day camp set at Bronx Zoo

NEW YORK (AP) — It's not too often that a child can hug a boa constrictor, fondle a ferret or perch eye-to-eye with an owl. But this summer a day camp called Animal Kingdom Zoo Camp will allow them to do just that.

Under the guidance of trained counselors and professional zoo staff, kids from the ages of 8 through 12 will explore the Bronx Zoo, seeing such behind-the-scenes sights as Reptile House keepers feeding and handling the zoo's large collection of exotic snakes.

"Dutch Drawings from American Collections, an exhibition of 87 works from the most outstanding period in Dutch art, opens June 1 at the Kimbell Art Museum where it will be on view through July 10.

The exhibition spans the entire range of expression in Dutch drawings of the seventeenth century, Holland's golden age. Highlights in the show are 11 religious and secular drawings by Rembrandt van Rijn, including an early self-portrait. There are also drawings by Aelbert Cuyp and Jan van Goyen whose works are included in the Kimbell's permanent collection. In all, 58 Dutch artists are represented, many of the so-called "little masters" of the period who produced brilliant drawings.

At the beginning of the seventeenth century, the Netherlands was a new country, its seven provinces united into a political and cultural unit after a long war for independence from Spanish rule. The extraordinary explosion of Dutch art in that century resulted from the country's new-found wealth and confidence as a world power. As Dutch ships were engaged in a discovery of the world, Dutch art documented it. As the middle classes prospered, so did a love of art which portrayed their world. For the first time, a broad spectrum of the middle-class bought and commissioned works of art. Although mythological and religious themes continued, the emphasis was on realism — in portraits, still lifes, landscapes and cityscapes. The subjects range from tulips and even a dodo bird to precisely rendered landscapes and honest portraits of Dutch burghers.

In the early seventeenth century, the Mannerist style — the elongated and exaggerated forms found in

Reference books, not just a dry fountain

By REBECCA TAYLOR

The words 'reference books' usually conjure up visions of rows of encyclopedias, almanacs and yearbooks, with page after page of dry facts and figures. Though these are surely among the reference books, let your library introduce you to a new and different point of view. Many of today's reference books are not only designed to provide information in easy to reach form, but are also in a very readable style. In many of the more recent books, the illustrations and photographic displays are as interesting and informative as the written material.

Grzimek's Encyclopedia of Animal Life is a thirteen volume set with thousands of photographs and millions of words about the animal kingdom. The main set is supplemented by two brand new volumes on Ecology and Evolution. Each volume in the main set represents a segment of animal life and covers it so thoroughly that the information is suitable for Jr. High through college, as well as, for the general reader. Younger readers and all adult readers, too, could profit and be entertained by 'just looking at the pictures'.

The Larousse Encyclopedia series is not a set of books, but a series of one-volume encyclopedias on various topics: "The Earth, Astronomy, Geography, Ancient and Medieval History, and Archeology." These books are profusely illustrated and designed for readability.

Dog lovers will be fascinated by the "International Encyclopedia of Dogs," which was donated by the Big Spring Kennel Club. All breeds are included and illustrated with beautiful color photographs and articles on breeding, aging, diseases, training, etc.

"The Pictorial Encyclopedia of Fashion," by Ludmila Kybalova, and others, has hundreds of fascinating illustrations in both color and black and white. The captions of the pictures and drawings supply ample information about the objects as well as the fashion trend being illustrated. This book is especially good for those needing pictures of clothing in certain historical periods, i.e. Victorian England.

The above examples are only a few of the many interesting and attractive books 'hidden away' in the Reference section of the library. Don't be afraid to browse; you can't take them home, so come and enjoy them at the library.

OBEEDIENCE IS NEXT TO GODLINESS — If you ask the owner of any dog who has taken the Big Spring Kennel Club's obedience training class. Headed by Don Bailey and Bruce Wright (Wright is shown in charge here), the course has 10 working lessons and costs $25. The next course will begin in September. Each course teaches a dog to sit, stay, heel, recall, stand for examination, and down on command. According to Wright, they should enable the trainee to compete in the AKC trials for companion dog degrees.

earlier European court art — dominated the Netherlands. Distinctive examples in the exhibition include drawings by Abraham Bloemaert, Jacob de Gheyn and Hendrick Goltzius.

The developing awareness of Dutch landscape as a subject is revealed in more than 30 drawings, from the natural portrayals of the land by Hendrick Avercamp, Esias van de Velde and Jan van Goyen to the later heroic landscapes of Ruisdael and Cuyp. Many artists, such as Adriaen van Ostade, drew picturesque scenes of Dutch peasant life during the period.

The century was also one of intense interest in the natural sciences. Many of the Dutch still-life drawings, while scientifically rendered, convey a sense of the beauty of flora and fauna, seen in examples by Pieter Withoos, Jan van Huysum and Herman Saftleven.

The astonishing variety of subjects in Dutch drawings reveals the seventeenth century's mood of exploration and discovery, combining a naturalism of content with a classicism of mood and style.

"Dutch Drawings from American Collections" was assembled from public and private collections by Franklin W. Robinson, professor of art at Williams College and a specialist in Dutch art. He also wrote the fully-illustrated catalogue which accompanies the exhibition.

Two events are scheduled in conjunction with the show, both free and open to the public. Prof. Robinson will present a lecture at 7:30 p.m. June 2 in the Kimbell auditorium.

Entertainer starts Monday

LuAnn picks at the Pump Club

Lu Ann Reeder will open the new Pump Club with a two week appearance of talented guitar picking and singing.

The Pump Club is newly opened in the Mid-Continent Inn located in the Rip Griffin complex. Membership is $25 per year. The club is small and intimate, perfectly suited for a folk, country, pop, standard, oldie singer like Miss Reeder. She will appear first on Monday and will appear nightly for two weeks.

Miss Reeder is a Midland native. She attended Midland High and is a 1969 graduate of Texas Tech, with a degree in English and history. She became interested in playing banjo and guitar during her college days, but had to save up to purchase her first instruments. Soon she was playing at sorority parties and college organization functions, and became something of an "in-demand" campus entertainer.

Still, there was no thought of becoming a professional entertainer, and for two years she was a teacher of English at Lubbock High School, as well as varsity tennis coach there. One of her first tastes of professional "show biz" came when she worked as an extra in the 20th Century Fox motion picture, "When the Legends Die," during filming in the Durango area. After a stint of singing and playing in Durango's Holiday Inn, she began to get offers to go elsewhere as an entertainer, and she moved to Denver. Denver remains her headquarters. I'm not especially interested in moving to the West Coast," she says; "I like the mountains and the whole Southwest." She enjoys skiing in winter and keeps up her tennis game the rest of the year.

As with most entertainers, Miss Reeder says she reacts to a warm and responsive audience. "It's a two-way street," she observes, "a sort of 'you turn me on, I'll turn you on' kind of thing."

In that way, she says, the challenge of the entertainment business is not vastly different from the challenge of teaching. "With a group of students, it's pretty much the same thing — you've got to 'turn them on' with your teaching."

Miss Reeder, who describes herself as a singer of folk and contemporary songs, accompanies herself on the guitar or banjo. In recent months she has filled engagements at Durango's Holiday Inn, the Southmoor Inn, Travel Lodge and Greenwood Inn, all in Denver, The Butcher Shop in Steamboat Springs, Colo., and the Hi'ry Inn at Kimball, Nebraska.

SELF-PORTRAIT by Rembrandt van Rijn is one of 11 works by the great Dutch master in the exhibition, "Dutch Drawings from American Collections," opening June 1 at the Kimbell Art Museum. This is one of a series of self-portraits executed by Rembrandt in the 1630s at a time of youthful self-confidence and happiness. The red chalk drawing is from the National Gallery of Art. The Kimbell exhibition which runs through July 10, contains 87 drawings by 58 Dutch artists of the seventeenth century.

Report VA's 'unparalleled expansion'

VA's annual report outlines the $18 billion scope of the agency's work among the nation's 29.6 million veterans, according to Administrator of Veterans Affairs Max Cleland. In releasing the document, Cleland also said the 224-page report presents highlights of the VA's health care network and multifaceted benefits program for fiscal year 1976. It shows, for example, that VA experienced an unparalleled expansion in health care and in the demand for these services during the 12-month period. More than 2.25 million applications for medical care were received during the year and hospital inpatients treated increased by 67,000 to a total of 1,287,000. Outpatient care also rose with a total of 16.4 million patient visits recorded, Cleland said. In another area, VA education benefits are received by a record number of veterans, service personnel and dependents during FY 1976, he pointed out. The 2,950,714 persons trained exceeded the previous high by 5.2 percent and VA education benefits payments amounted to $5.3 billion, the highest since the beginning of the program in the early 1940's Cleland said. The annual report can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20420. The price is $3.75.

Resident helps design Peru city

LUBBOCK — Population problems in Peru, where coastal cities become crowded while the trans-Andean eastern area is only sparsely settled, are problems common throughout the world. And population dispersion is not the only problem. Interrelated are economic and social problems, the concerns of better transportation, greater food production, industrial growth. A Texas Tech University architecture student team has been working for the past 18 months on Peru's special problems in order to develop a planning model which might serve that or any other country concerned with orderly future development. "You can take the 'laissez faire' — noninterference — attitude," said one of the team, John Laur of Amarillo, "or you can plan for the future and then adapt the plan to events as they occur." With his teammates, Richard Larsen of Fort Worth and Robert Thompson of Big Spring, Laur spent the last 18 months before graduation in planning a regional model including a model city for the Loreto, the eastern area of Peru which is the basin for the headwaters of the Amazon. The largest city in the area is Iquitos, the provincial capital. The city designed by the students would be on the Nieva River, a tributary of the Marañon which flows through Iquitos as it joins with the upper Amazon. The model city could sustain growth to 200,000 people, and its economic base initially would be agriculture. It would be dependent upon rail and highway access to the coastal area. These, the students said, could be paid for by increased production in the east. "Our model," Larsen emphasized, is based on mutual reinforcement of the three major geographic areas of Peru, the coastal desert, the high sierra and the eastern Amazon basin. It calls for simultaneous expansion in all three areas. "The model is more than a relief mechanism for the coastal area," he said. "The multiplier factor in development monies would benefit all areas." He said the model was Both appointments are effective July 15. "It has been my privilege to serve as head librarian at ACU since 1953, but the time has come to turn this job over to someone else and to pursue new challenges," said Dr. Milliken. Roach, a 1958 graduate of ACU, holds a master's degree in library science from the University of Texas and is working toward a Ph.D. in higher educational administration from North Texas State University. Stewart, left, listens to a portion of a proposal a three-student team is making in regard to their model plan for Peru's north central region on the eastern edge of the Andes.
