To pass school bill

Briscoe wants special term

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he wants to call a special legislative session on school finance but, in effect, has dumped the decision on lawmakers themselves.
He said he would call one only if given assurances by presiding officers of the House and Senate that legislators have agreed on a bill and will give it a two-thirds majority.
"As a time frame for a special session, I would not anticipate it until the middle of July," he told a news conference Tuesday, 16 hours after the regular session adjourned without approving a new plan for distributing state school aid to local districts.
He said he would ask the same session to act on a bill reducing or eliminating the four per cent state sales tax on residential utility bills, another measure that died at midnight Monday.
Briscoe said he did not want school districts stuck with the present state aid law, under which more than 500 districts — nearly half the total — would lose money.

He said that Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton had agreed to activate the House and Senate education committees "to begin preparation of a bill."
"Assuming completion of this assignment and upon concurrence of the leadership of the House and Senate, I shall call a special session of the 65th Legislature," he said.
Briscoe acknowledged that a school finance bill passed late in the summer would have to be placed into immediate effect since school districts have an Aug. 20 deadline to complete their budgets. This would require a two-thirds vote in each chamber. He said he would insist upon assurances that such a majority would vote for a single bill before calling a special session.
"I don't want to call a session unless it can result and will result in accomplishment of that goal (passage of a school finance bill)," Briscoe said.

He said his approach would speed up the session, which could run as long as 30 days.
"The bulk of the problems can be resolved prior to the call and permit swift action by the legislature," Briscoe said.
The governor said he expected a teacher pay raise to be included in his call for a special session.
"I anticipate a teacher pay raise as a part of it, as it was yesterday in the report of the conference committee," Briscoe said.
The conference report included $308.5 million for teacher pay raises and the state retirement contributions they would generate.
It also contained $318 million to reduce local costs of the Foundation School Program.
Sen. Oscar Mauzy, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, and a group of House liberals battled the compromise bill because in reducing local fund assignments it would have returned more money to rich districts than poor ones.

Clayton and Hobby said they thought it would be best for House and Senate committees to work jointly. Hobby called it "essential."
Both indicated they would call their education committees back early next week.
Clayton suggested starting with the original House-Senate conference committees analyzing the compromise bill to "see how far apart they really are."
Hobby said he wanted to think about it for a while before deciding whether to buy that suggestion.
"I would like to do it earlier than July," Hobby said, referring to the "hardship" that delay would impose on school districts' budget writers.

Official Webb closing begins today

Webb AFB's "game plan" for closure is now in effect.
The 60-day congressional review period required by Section 612, Public Law 94-431, relating to the Secretary of the Air Force's decision to shutter both Webb and Craig AFB, Selma, Ala., ended Tuesday.
Air Training Command Headquarters made note of the fact by forwarding a statement of authorization to Webb to implement unrestricted base closure.
The message serves to effect the closure of Webb and Craig starting today (June 1) in accordance with Program Action Directives 6-77 dated May 6, 1977.

Previous guidelines relating to the distribution of base assets which require ATC Headquarters approval will remain in effect.
Objective of the PAD is to provide an orderly plan of action for:
(1) Phasing out of the Webb and Craig flying missions by Aug. 31;
(2) Redistribution of personnel, equipment and aircraft;
(3) Inactivation of the 78th Flying Training Wing and Craig's 29th FTW and assigned units by Oct. 1 and
(4) Closure of Webb and Craig and their reversion to caretaker status by Sept. 30.

The Webb caretaker force will be activated as Detachment 1 of the 64th Air Base Group of Reese AFB, Lubbock.
In May, Webb had 1,675 U.S. military and 130 allied military personnel, compared to 1,710 U.S. military and 140 allied troops for April.
The civilian head count actually showed a gain for the period, up eight to 629. However, the addition of life guards to base swimming pools accounted for that increase.
The basic Program Action Direction contains the general instructions, objectives, program guidance, assumptions, concept of operation, command matters and coordination and termination instructions.

A major section of the PAD contains the staff annexes, which have detailed information, tasks and a schedule for each task to be completed.
All Fixed Wing Qualification Program students will be transferred to Sheppard AFB, Wichita Falls, Tex., to complete Phase II training.
Personnel at Webb will be released from their duty stations as they become excess.

DA to crack down on house burglars

With the coming of summer, some young hearts have been turning to thoughts of larceny with greater frequency. District Attorney Rick Hamby today announced a counter-move to the steady increase of burglary of a habitation in the 118th Judicial District.
"We are serving notice to any potential burglars that violating the sanctity of the home in Howard, Glasscock, and Martin counties will no longer be considered with any leniency in this office, regardless of age or prior record," said Hamby.
Burglaries of a habitation, different from burglaries of businesses, are up 50 per cent from last year. According to Big Spring police captain Jim McCain, burglaries to date show 50 incidents in 1976, 75 in 1977.
According to Sheriff A. N. Standard, burglaries in Howard County peaked in 1976. "For us," said Standard, "the fall is the busiest season, and in 1976 we reached a high water mark. We had 18 to 20 burglaries in 3 months." Hamby's statement represents a shift from earlier policy on probations and other measures taken with first-time offenders.

"It's got me concerned," the D.A. said. "It looks like the only alternative to a rising crime rate is a firm stance. The sad part is that virtually all the burglaries of a habitation are committed by young men 18 to 20 years old who have never been arrested and would normally be eligible for probation.
"As of this notice, we will recommend to the district judge that no probation be considered.
"We hope that serving this notice and the hard line this office will take will discourage any person thinking about such a crime."
When asked if he thought the policy was fair to first-time offenders who would now have their chances of probation lessened, Hamby replied, "That's not my concern. I am serving this notice publicly so that there can be no mistaking our intention to fully prosecute each case."

Hail destroys cotton crop near Luther

By MARJ CARPENTER
Heavy golfball size hail picked a six-mile strip between Ackerly and Knott to destroy young cotton on at least six farms early today and a strip east of Luther where it hailed out at least three farmers Monday night.
Generally throughout the county, rainfall failed to damage cotton, but there was some washout of young cotton near Midway Road, according to Bruce Griffith, county agent.
Farmers near Knott who received heavy damage and will be forced to replant were Bob Merrick, Cecial Allred, Clay Ingram, Sonny Anderson, John Jones and Joe Meyer.
Fortunately, the office of Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service extended the planting date for farmers affected by weather from May 31 to June 10.
The farmers heaviest hit in the Luther area included Larry Peterson, Mrs. Webb Nix and Eston Hollis.
Heaviest rainfall was recorded in Rain was lighter at the dam.

Energy plan not as painful?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite administration warnings to the contrary, Americans will be able to comply with President Carter's energy plan without sacrificing their standard of living, congressional budget analysts say.
A Congressional Budget Office report released Tuesday said a national effort to meet Carter's energy goals "would not involve dramatic shifts in the American lifestyle."

Congressional analysts also say the President's energy advisers are substantially overestimating the savings his proposal would mean.

At a news conference called to release the report, Alice Rivlin, congressional budget director, said the plan either will have to include more mandatory conservation standards or Carter will have to set new time limits for meeting his goals.
"The choices are to come up with a tougher plan or to have a longer timetable," she said.
Discussing the effect Carter's proposals would have on the nation's lifestyle, the 132-page report said Americans will be driving more by 1985 than they are now even with enactment of a proposed standby gasoline tax and a new tax on "gas guzzlers."
The 15,000 miles an average

American family now drives each year would increase to about 17,000 under the President's energy plan, the report said. Without the energy plan, the average mileage per family would be about 18,000 miles. Despite higher prices for gasoline, the cost of driving per mile would decrease when already existing federal standards for gasoline mileage are combined with the Carter proposals, the report said.
It said the cost of driving would decline by 8 per cent between now and 1985 if Carter's proposals are enacted.
While Carter's proposals would mean slight rises in both inflation and unemployment, analysts predicted no severe dislocations of the economy. The American standard of living will continue to rise, the report said.

Last seen here Search begins for missing Angelo girl

A statewide search is under way today for a 20-year-old mentally-impaired girl who vanished in Big Spring one week ago.
Vickie Lou Bjorn, San Angelo, left her home on a bus May 25, bound for the home of a sister, Barbara Dodson, in Marfa. She has not arrived. Sheriff's deputies have traced her to the Greyhound bus terminal in Big Spring where manager Jim Owens has identified a picture of the girl.
"I believe that was her," Owens said. "She was here for less than an hour, and I couldn't swear to it, but I think she boarded the bus for Odessa."
Officials, aware that Vickie has about the mental capacity of a 12-year-old, are concerned with the possibility of foul play. There is no trace of her in Odessa, no sign that she ever tried to board the Taos bus line for Marfa. Her mother, Mrs. Beatrice Bjorn, called the Howard County Sheriff's Department Monday to report her daughter's disappearance.

MISSING GIRL — Vickie Lou Bjorn, 20, has been missing for one week since leaving San Angelo headed for Marfa. Her trail ends in Big Spring. If you have any information about her, call the Howard County Sheriff's office at 263-7654.
If you have any information concerning Vickie Bjorn, please call the Howard County Sheriff's office, 263-7654.

Rosalynn big hit on Costa Rican tour

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Rosalynn Carter made a hit with Costa Rica's president and got some advice on her husband's human rights campaign from the Central American nation's foreign minister.
Having Mrs. Carter in the country was "exactly the same as if President Carter had arrived and made personal contact," said President Daniel Oduber at a reception Tuesday night following nearly two hours of talks with the U.S. First Lady.
"We felt immediately at home with her," said Oduber. "She's very natural and goes directly to the point."

She's very well informed." Foreign Minister Gonzalo Facio said he suggested to Mrs. Carter that her husband advance his human rights policy by "inducement" rather than "imposition."
Facio said he proposed that the United States, instead of punishing countries that violate human rights, show "commercial preference to those that respect the issue."
Facio also said they discussed U.S. support for establishment of a United Nations high commissioner of human rights which Costa Rica has been advocating for the last 12 years.

Big Spring Herald Sports Editor Danny Reagan indicates that every local baseball result brought in to his desk is printed in the paper, with those brought in by 9 a.m. used the same day if space is available. If not they are used the next day. Even though phone calls are discouraged because of time factors involved, none has ever been refused or not used on the sports page. "If someone tells you different," said Reagan, "they're just not clear about their facts." Again, Reagan emphasized, it is the responsibility of the winning coach to get the results in. GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — El Salvador's ambassador to Guatemala, freed by leftist kidnapers with a bullet wound in his right foot, said he was hooded, questioned constantly and given two cups of coffee during his 48-hour ordeal. Ambassador Casanova Sandoval, 58, said the kidnapers left him in a small canyon on the south side of Guatemala City Tuesday afternoon. A passing motorist brought him home.

Hill can sue water board

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today turned down the effort by the Texas Water Quality Board to prevent Atty. Gen. John Hill from suing the board. The high court said simply the board has "an adequate remedy at law," meaning it can appeal from any adverse judgment Hill wins in his suit to block a series of Edwards Aquifer orders. The board has issued separate orders governing protection of the aquifer in the seven counties it underlies: Hays, Comal, Bexar, Kendall, Medina, Uvalde and Kinney. Hill filed suit in Travis County district court March 9 contending the orders are "invalid, arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable" because: 1. They are less stringent in regulating some septic tanks in Kinney and Uvalde counties than they are in the other five counties; 2. They regulate subdivisions in those two counties differently than in the other counties; and 3. They fail to regulate septic tanks along rivers and streams in all of the counties the way they do those along the Nueces, Frio and Sabinal rivers. The board responded by claiming the attorney general is the only lawyer permitted by the Texas Constitution and Texas law to represent the board. The board asked who is to represent it if its only lawyer sues it. The board asked the high court for permission to seek an order forcing Hill to withdraw his suit.

No fire cause decided

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — Investigators say their theories about what started the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire "are still just opinions," and they haven't agreed on where the blaze broke out. State Police Commissioner Ken Brandenburg said Tuesday that officials had all but ruled out the theory that the fire began in the basement. But State Fire Marshal Warren Southworth said nothing had been established or ruled out yet.

CIA HQ open for tours

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency, which tried to keep secret for years the location of its suburban Virginia headquarters, is planning to open its doors to tourists. Beginning next month, a CIA spokesman said Wednesday, the agency will conduct building tours. He made it plain, however, the agency isn't planning to let tourists wander around unescorted. The spokesman said the tours will be "controlled," adding that "we've got some very real problems about people out here who don't want to be photographed, or even seen." To lessen the chances of a CIA operative's cover being blown, the spokesman said the tours will be conducted on Saturday's only. CIA officials have consulted with White House tour directors to learn how that operation functions and to get an idea how many tourists can be handled at a time. Tour tickets will probably be issued through congressional offices, but it has not been decided how many tickets each member will have to give to constituents, the spokesman said. No tickets are available yet, he said, adding that "it's still in the drawing-board stage." The CIA, which once constructed misleading highway markers to mask the location of its headquarters, does not plan to permit tourists to view samples of current intelligence work. Instead, the spokesman said, visitors probably will be shown a film, given a tour of some areas of the facility and a briefing on how the CIA operates.

School plan challenge expected

Big Spring public school officials expect their new desegregation plan to be challenged within 60 days by the Texas Education Agency because it leaves one school with a high minority percentage.

The schools expect to be "back in court soon," said Roy Watkins, president of the Board of Trustees. "But we are not worried a bit by that prospect." Watkins and Lynn Hise, acting school superintendent, explained to the Big Spring Rotary Club Tuesday that they do not think the Texas Education Agency (TEA) will accept the new plan because Bauer Elementary on the northside will continue to be "racially identifiable," or one that has more than 66 per cent minority students. The public schools new plan, announced May 13,

No opposition voiced at landfills hearing

There was no opposition to locations of Ackerly, Forsan, and Big Spring sanitary landfill operations at public hearings held today in the city council room of City Hall. Roger Tile, from the District Attorney's office in Austin conducted the meeting, and Sherman Grey of Lubbock, and John Burke of Austin represented the State Health Department. An application presented by the City of Forsan for an existing 10-acre type III municipal solid waste landfill located one-fourth mile south of Forsan on Lease Road, was heard, and a final decision on the site will be by the State Health Department before July 31. The application by the city of Ackerly for an existing 10-acre type III municipal solid waste landfill located four miles southeast of Ackerly, 900 feet west of Highway 87 on the South side of Dump Rd. was heard next, and final decision is pending until the city hears from the State Highway Department. The City of Ackerly will ask the Highway Department to waive the regulation which prohibits a public landfill operation within a thousand feet of a public Highway. Tile assured that a decision would be rendered by August 30. The City of Big Spring presented its application for an existing 183-acre Type I municipal solid waste landfill located along the South side of Interstate 20 and one-fourth of a mile east of State Highway 700 on the East side of Big Spring. The decision to approve the Big Spring facility was put off pending hearing from the State Highway Department, and also from the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers. According to Howard Crim, consulting City engineer, the N.E. corner of the City landfill projects to within 900 feet of Interstate 20, instead of the thousand feet required. The board decided to hear from the Army Corps of Engineers to establish a second opinion of what the fifty year Beal's Creek flood plain would be. Tile said the decision on the sanitary landfill would be made by September 29, 1977 if not long before.

Terrorists' request discussed

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch government sought clarification today of a request for outside mediators by South Moluccan terrorists holding at least 55 hostages on a train in northeast Holland for nine days. The cabinet, after a meeting that lasted past midnight, asked the terrorists just what kind of mediation they wanted and who might be acceptable. Toos Faber, spokeswoman for the Justice Ministry, said there had been telephone conversations with the terrorists since then about food deliveries but no response by midmorning to the request for clarification. Johan Manusama and other moderate leaders of the 40,000 South Moluccans living in The Netherlands were instrumental in ending a similar siege in December 1975, when South Moluccan extremists seized a train and the Indonesian consulate in Amsterdam. But an open letter Tuesday from young supporters of the terrorists spoke of a division between the extremists and the moderate leaders. The Amsterdam newspaper De Volkskrant said Moluccan sources reported Manusama would be "thrown out" if he turned up in Bovenmsilde, 10 miles south of Assen, where four teachers are captives of a second group of extremists who held 105 schoolchildren for three and four days last week. The request for mediators

Police beat

Intruders hit the home of Dr. Houston J. Zinn, 2511 Allendale, sometime over the weekend, and made off with over $5,000 worth of merchandise. In two break-ins thought to be related to the Zinn burglary, intruders hit the homes of Dr. John Fish, 907 Mountain Park, and Adolph Swartz, 909 Mountain Park, also over the weekend. Police reports of what was stolen had not been compiled as of noon today. Burglars at the Zinn residence made off with a white mink coat, a bracelet watch, a .38 caliber pistol, a .22 magnum derringer, a set of silverware and a watch. These items were valued at $5,575. Burglars also struck at the Texas and Pacific Railway Freight yard, between 1:30 and 3 a.m. today. According to reports, the intruders broke into a sealed boxcar and removed 70 cases of Coors beer from inside. The boxcar breakers then used hand-cars to transport the brew to a loading area where they put 45 cases in a car and drove off. Officers followed hand-car tracks to the loading area where they found 25 cases of beer which the burglars had apparently been unable to load into the car. Value of the lost hops has not been estimated. Officers spotted two male are, prepared to pick up the fight again." Hise told Rotarians that there are four major reasons why the number of schools had to be reduced and the make-up of students changed: 1) The on-going battle with HEW over Big Spring's "racially identifiable schools which began in 1971. HEW can enforce integration guidelines by withholding federal funds from the school district. 2) A Tyler federal district court order put the TEA, a state agency, under rules to impose sanctions (withholding state monies) against school districts with "racially identifiable" schools. TEA visited Big Spring in 1973 and told the district to correct its racial balance, and again in 1974 and 1976. Hise said TEA had given Big Spring about all the time it could without stopping the inflow of state funds, which amount to more than 50 per cent of the school's budget. 3) Declining enrollment because of a lower birth rate had already left the district with too many schools. Hise said in 1963 the district had 4,445 students between grades one and six, but in 1976 this number had dropped to 2,290, but only one school, Gay Hill, had been closed. Hise said it had become economically unwise to operate so many elementary schools. 4) The closing of Webb Air Force Base, which will cost the district 1,000 to 1,200 students, was the event that forced action to change the school structure.

Hise said TEA gave Big Spring another year after the Webb announcement in 1976 to work out its problems, but the acting superintendent said officials did not want Big Spring to wind up like several other school districts, such as South Park Beaumont. Hise said a federal judge dictated a redistribution of students one week before school was to begin in South Park Beaumont. As a school administrator, he said, it was unthinkable to allow that to happen in Big Spring when there are elected trustees to make those kinds of decisions. Watkins said he felt the school district could win its case if ever it got into a real court of law. The district earlier lost an administrative hearing before the HEW which was presided over by a "long-time" federal employee whose loyalty was with the government, the board president said. Watkins said that judge's decision made it look like the school district was going overboard to keep minority students from getting an equal education and that the railroad and Highway 80 had been so placed by the school board as to segregate the town. Watkins said the judge began with the idea that Big Spring was guilty and set out to prove his case. He said the district would not have been able to hold out as long as it did without the help of many citizens who had contacts in Washington.

In answer to questions, Hise said that the district will bus all displaced students for the first year whether they reside two miles away from their new school or not. He added that this may not be done in future years. He also said that the district had guaranteed all principals that they will remain at the same salary level for the coming school year if they were reassigned away from administrative duties.

He briefly explained the new plan which consolidates grades beyond the fourth. Fifteen graders will all attend Lakeview on the northwest side, which Hise said was "built as a black school back when that was legal." He said the new plan has four goals: 1) to minimize the amount of student busing because of desegregation; 2) to improve the instructional program; 3) to be economically sound; and 4) to be acceptable to HEW and TEA. Hise asked Rotarians for their support for the school board in this very tough decision.

Energy 'Dictatorial' policy backed

ENID, Okla. (AP) — Astronaut-turned-oilman Gene Cernan called today for a "dictatorial energy policy with teeth in it" as he addressed an energy congress. Cernan said he used the word "dictatorial" to emphasize that it should not be a policy "that can be tied up in the courts for three years until finally some district judge in some corner of some state winds up being the author of this nation's energy policy."

Addressing 106 delegates from 25 states, Cernan accused consumer activist Ralph Nader of committing "verbal fraud" in opposing the development of nuclear power and in holding out the exaggerated hope of solar energy as a potent alternative. Cernan said U.S. energy policy should reverse the trade deficit of this country and reduce the nation's vulnerability to the whims of other countries. He said the policy should "let economies take its course — use the advantages of our economic system." The OSHA report alleged that on the day after the St. Patrick's Day blast, Texaco allowed workers to return to the site before proper checks were made for leaks.

Martin County wildcats listed

Martin County drew locations for two wildcats in the oil patch this week. Miller Exploration, Midland, will drill two Devonian wildcats in Martin County. The No. 1 Earl Heald, an 11,900-foot test, one mile south of Three Leagues, is 1 1/4 miles southwest of the Tex-Hamon (Dean) field but separated by depleted producers 6 1/2 miles northeast of the north extension area of RK (Devonian) field, 1/2 mile northeast of an 11,423-foot failure and a north offset to a depleted producer in the Tex-Hamon field, which was a failure in the Devonian. Location is 660 feet from the south and west lines of 6-36-3n-T&P. The 11,423-foot failure, RK Petroleum no. 1-A Thames, was abandoned Sept. 20, 1975; the depleted Ean producer, Albritton No. 1 Heald-Beckham, was drilled to 12,161 feet and plugged back to 9,200 feet. The No. 1-13 Gary Wade, a 12,000-foot test, 3 1/2 miles south of Patricia, is one location south of the dual oper of the Breedlove, East (Spraberry and siluro-Devonian) field, which currently is not producing from the deeper zone. Location is 660 feet from the south and east lines of 13-260-Borden-CSI. The discovery, Texaco Inc., No. 1 DeKalb Agricultural Association, was finalized Sept. 6, 1962 from the Siluro-Devonian to pump 33 barrels of 37.3 gravity oil, plus 14 barrels of salt water, through perforations at 11,858-59 feet; and Sept. 24, 1962 from the Spraberry to pump 57 barrels of 38.6 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 625:1 through perforations at 8,180-204 feet.

Police beat

Intruders hit the home of Dr. Houston J. Zinn, 2511 Allendale, sometime over the weekend, and made off with over $5,000 worth of merchandise. In two break-ins thought to be related to the Zinn burglary, intruders hit the homes of Dr. John Fish, 907 Mountain Park, and Adolph Swartz, 909 Mountain Park, also over the weekend. Police reports of what was stolen had not been compiled as of noon today. Burglars at the Zinn residence made off with a white mink coat, a bracelet watch, a .38 caliber pistol, a .22 magnum derringer, a set of silverware and a watch. These items were valued at $5,575. Burglars also struck at the Texas and Pacific Railway Freight yard, between 1:30 and 3 a.m. today. According to reports, the intruders broke into a sealed boxcar and removed 70 cases of Coors beer from inside. The boxcar breakers then used hand-cars to transport the brew to a loading area where they put 45 cases in a car and drove off. Officers followed hand-car tracks to the loading area where they found 25 cases of beer which the burglars had apparently been unable to load into the car. Value of the lost hops has not been estimated. Officers spotted two male

Stormy Anita nowhere in sight

MIAMI (AP) — The 1977 Atlantic hurricane season began today with Anita nowhere in sight. Anita will be the name given to this season's first tropical storm or hurricane, if and when it appears.

There will be ample advance warning before any storm makes its debut. Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center, located at the University of Miami, will be watching the eastern Caribbean, the Gulf of Mexico and the open Atlantic for storm formations.

"We'll be looking for a change in cloud structures," said John Hope, a hurricane forecaster. "Then we will watch for circular banding (bands of rain clouds moving in a circular pattern)." The first system that could lead to a hurricane would be a tropical depression, Hope explained. That would consist of a closed circulation and a lower-than-normal barometric pressure with surface winds less than 39 miles per hour.

"When winds reach 39 m.p.h., it will become a tropical storm and be named," Hope added. There were six hurricanes and three tropical storms in 1976, but only one hurricane endangered the Americas. The others remained at sea until they dissipated.

Burleson, Krueger, Tower votes recorded

The U.S. House of Representatives rejected, 204 for and 208 against, an amendment to delete $100 million in special aid to certain black-ruled southern Africa countries during the week of May 19-25.

A vote for the amendment was a vote against the aid. It was proposed to HR 6884 a $3.2 billion military aid authorization later passed and sent to the Senate.

Although President Carter will have the final say in determining which countries will share in the $100 million, likely recipients are Mozambique, Tanzania and Zambia.

Rep. Omar Burleson, who represents Howard County in the lower house, voted for the amendment. Rep. Robert Krueger, which represents Glasscock County in Washington, voted against it.

The House adopted 237 for and 172 against, an amendment aimed primarily at lowering federal clean air standards to permit additional pollution in so-called Class 1 areas. Both Burleson and Krueger voted "yea" on the amendment.

The House rejected, 162 for and 242 against, an amendment to ease Environmental Protection Agency rules against additional industrial pollution in already dirty areas. Burleson and Krueger voted "yea" on the amendment.

The Senate rejected, 31 for and 64 against, an amendment to retain the purchase requirement of obtaining food stamps. Defeat of the amendment left intact a fundamental change in the federal food stamp program — a recipient no longer would have to spend a threshold amount to obtain stamps.

Those senators voting against the amendment favored doing away with the purchase requirement. Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.) voted "yea" and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen (D-Tex.) "nay" on the matter.

The Senate also rejected, 46 for and 50 against, an amendment to set the 1977 price support level for wheat at $2.65 a bushel rather than $2.90 a bushel. The $2.65 figure is favored by the administration. Defeat of the amendment left the $2.90 level intact.

Search for life on Mars ends

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The $50 million Viking search for life on Mars is over, and scientists, while still puzzled, are generally pessimistic about the results from the two robot spacecraft.

"The majority opinion is that they have not detected life in the samples of Martian soil they tested," a spokesman for Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Tuesday.

Viking 1 set down on the red planet last July 13, and Viking 2 landed September 3. The Viking landers scooped up soil from the Martian surface and performed experiments until Tuesday, when their automated laboratories were switched off from Earth.

They had run out of the nutrient liquids and helium gas needed to conduct the biology experiments. However, the landers and two orbiters circling the planet continue to carry out other scientific observations, gathering information on Martian winds and temperatures.

The landers carried out all the tasks they were designed for — and some they weren't, including some self-repair. Results beamed back to Earth at first led scientists to think they might have found evidence of life. But later experiments failed to clear up the ambiguous results, and scientists developed theories of how the results could have been produced by a unique chemical — rather than biological — process in the soil.

Dr. Don DeVincenzi, who heads NASA's Division of Extraterrestrial Biology, said Tuesday that while the chemical theories "have considerable merit," they don't fit all the results from Viking. The Viking results could have been produced by a nonliving process triggered by "ions of fairly intense radiation (from the sun) interacting with the surface material and the atmosphere," said DeVincenzi.

But the hypotheses are valid only if it can be shown that a certain iron compound is present in the Martian surface, he said, and Viking has no way of confirming the existence of the compound.

"I don't think that the findings negate the possibility of life on Mars," he said. "The problem is that Viking has only searched about 160 square feet of the planet, and we're trying to extrapolate the results to the whole planet."

ALPINE — Sul Ross State University will hold a band camp on the Alpine campus June 13-18 for junior high and high school band students.

According to Dr. Sam Davis, chairman of the Fine Arts Department, the camp is designed to work primarily with junior high school band members and those high school students who need special help.

He said the students will be housed in university dormitories and will eat in the SRSU cafeteria. The fee for the band camp is $50 which covers the student's music, room, and board and registration. Davis pointed out a deposit of $10 is required with the application. The balance of $40 is due on the date of arrival.

Community spirit emerging here

A community spirit is emerging in Big Spring with the drive to recapitalize the Big Spring Industrial Foundation such as has not been seen before.

The campaign, undoubtedly the most important in Big Spring's history, is producing many pledges from persons willing to invest in the future of Big Spring.

BECAUSE SO MANY are participating, drive chairman Adolph Swartz has not tried to single out people who have pledged thus far, but one contribution came in that was so unusual that Swartz felt the people of Big Spring should know about it.

A check for $100 was attached with a letter to Bill Albright, executive vice president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. The letter read:

Dear Mr. Albright:

I am not a resident of Big Spring, Texas; however, I am a resident of the State of Texas with my present voting address in El Paso, Texas. Prior to that, it was Marshall in East Texas.

However, I have made definite plans to make Big Spring my new home. Having been a subscriber to your local paper, the Big Spring Herald, since January, I noticed in a recent issue that your industrial foundation was soliciting funds to help them in their endeavors.

Enclosed is a check for a contribution to this organization's fund, since I believe in its work and most especially in the City of Big Spring.

I forgot to whom the contribution was to be mailed, i.e. Judge Tune, steering committee; Wade Choate, mayor; or Harry Nagel, city manager.

I feel sure that you will see that it reaches the proper hands. I am looking forward with much abeyance to becoming an active participant and member of your fine community.

BUY A SHARE IN THE FUTURE OF BIG SPRING

I have already made four trips to your fair city, as the old saying goes, to "look at tlay of the land." I did, in fact consult with your office back in December with the resulting establishment of an acquaintance and relationship with Sam Barron of Family Medical Inc., and also a couple of Realtors who were most helpful.

Looking forward to seeing you and making your personal acquaintance either in late July or the first part of August.

For a newcomer not yet arrived to have that much community spirit is unusual indeed.

With this kind of response, Big Spring is going to make it. The foundation will have money to use for new industry and jobs, and the community will turn this challenge to its survival into an opportunity for renewal.

Freeman, while still an outsider to the community, sets an example for all of us.

Staff of life

Around the rim

Bill Werrell

Bread, since ancient times, has been known as the "staff of life," and has often been a symbol of the body of Christ and the well-being of a culture. The bread we eat today is a far cry from what the Egyptians, Greeks, and Romans used to eat as the basic nutrient of their entire diet.

FOR CENTURIES, the affluent preferred white bread over the dark, coarse breads of the poor. But now white bread, at least the packaged, mass-produced white bread found on supermarket shelves, has fallen into some disrepute.

Gourmets complain of the cotton-like texture and lack of any real taste sensation. Nutritionists complain that the bleached white flours used in most commercially sold loaves of bread is completely lacking of any dietary nutrients, vitamins, minerals, or fiber necessary for healthful human existence.

However, the Consumer's Union did a study of the effects of different kinds of breads as a constant diet for white rats.

The results were surprising in that some of the white breads, always notorious for being junk food or "air-bread" rated much higher on a nutritional scale than did some of the breads commercially marketed and heralded as whole grain health loaves.

For instance, "Wonder Bread, Made With Buttermilk" not only sustained the life of the test animals, but encouraged their health and growth.

At the other extreme, "Pepperidge Farm Sprouted Wheat Bread," (more expensive than Wonder Bread made with buttermilk) a whole-grain bread, did not sustain the health and growth of the test animals.

Bread has also like everything else become far more expensive in the last few years. According to the Consumers Union, the average cost of brand-name bread is 65 cents a pound, and the average store-brand bread is about 52 cents.

IF YOU WANT to save money on bread, check out the store brands, they're usually cheaper than the national labels. The Union also suggests that you buy by weight not by size. Day old bread is often sold at big discounts at super markets and bakery outlets, and is no older or staler than bread which you'd bought, the day before and stored in a bread box.

Experts also say that bread tends to stale faster in a refrigerator than a well ventilated bread box. They suggest that if you use only a little bread at a time, to store it, well wrapped, in a zero degree freezer.

Nutritionists and bakers can explain all about bread components and processes, but until you make bread yourself no one can describe how exciting (and in many cases, how much cheaper) it is to create living doughs, and wrestle them into shape for baking.

The late Dr. Clive M. McCoy of Cornell University demonstrated that bread and butter could sustain life in health. The secret was the Cornell Triple Rich Formula.

Using the formula you can add three simple ingredients to each cup of flour to make a bread with superior nutritional quality: one tablespoon, soy flour, one tablespoon skim milk powder, and one teaspoon wheat germ.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am writing on behalf of my husband. He recently made some remarks that horrified me. He later challenged me, saying that if I write to you, you will agree with him.

The problem is that he drinks anywhere from a six-pack to a case of beer each day. He smokes between one and a half to two packages of cigarettes a day. He contends that if he were to stop drinking all that beer, his nervous system could not take the change and it would hurt him. He also says that if he should stop smoking the same thing would apply.

He is 56 and a college graduate. He's retired by choice. Since I am not a college graduate he considers my opinions invalid, but he says he will trust your opinion.

Is he right about the beer drinking and cigarette smoking? He is in excellent health, and he says that if his habits were going to hurt him, they would have done it by now. He has complete physicals periodically. — Mrs. D.L.

Your husband apparently did not take a course in abnormal psychology or logic in college. If he did I suspect he flunked.

You are using common sense. Both of his habits are being done to excess as a result of some compulsion on his part. The heavy cigarette smoking is most likely tied to his beer drinking — a particularly unhealthy combination.

He can call it "nerves" if he wishes, but even if he were to cut down either habit by half, his body, if it could, would respond with a rousing "thank you." A productive hobby and some good exercise would be in order.

To conclude, I agree with you. At 56, he had better stop depending on un-sound theorizing and look around at some of his classmates who have cashed in their chips because of such longstanding habits. I suggest he take adult education classes to while away some of his retirement hours — preferably on preventive care.

I'll wager he doesn't report his habits to his doctor during those examinations, which should, incidentally, include a chest X ray.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is vertigo? Can it be caused by something other than inflammation of the middle ear? I take Antivert and have been told I must take it the rest of my life. I also have arthritis of the spine. Plus I'm confused. I'm 76. — Mrs. H.H.

Vertigo is a special kind of dizziness. The victim has a sensation of the world spinning around him or of himself doing the spinning. It must be distinguished from the other kind of dizziness, in which there is a feeling of unsteadiness or giddiness without the spinning sensation.

The inner ear is involved in vertigo, because that's where the balance mechanism is. It can be caused by ear inflammation, fluid congestion (as in Meniere's disease), inflamed hearing nerve, vision disturbances, etc. At 76 your arthritis can be involved, placing pressure on the nerve involved. Antivert is a form of antihistamine effective in vertigo, but I question your statement about having to take it the "rest of your life."

You will have to be extra careful in getting about, subject as you are to spells of vertigo. I would definitely check out the spinal arthritis aspect of the problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 16-year-old girl who has bad posture. When I try to correct it (by sitting or standing erect) I'm unable to breathe very well and my back hurts. Is there any other way to correct my posture? Sometimes in the mornings the back part of my shoulder aches. Would a board under the bed help? — J.

Good posture is important for proper breathing and appearance. But from your description there seems to be more wrong with you than posture. Your parents should arrange to have you seen by an orthopedic doctor to determine the cause of your posture and breathing problem and pain. I doubt that a bed board will help you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you say that it is impossible for a woman to become pregnant after having her tubes tied? This is a bet. — Mrs. W.Z.

Nothing is impossible, but I'd bet my last dollar against its occurring if the tubes are effectively tied.

Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I sometimes get very depressed because I have brought two fine children into this world. I mean, the future of the world is so bleak and dark, with overpopulation, depleted resources and misplaced values. I really wonder if I have done the right thing by bringing children into this world. — M.L.

DEAR M.L.: You must first face the fact that your children are already here, and be grateful for the gift God has given you in them. It sounds like your fear of what might be is overshadowing the reality of life right now.

Yes, I know the future can look grim in many ways. But no one really knows what the future holds for human civilization. The world has looked bleak before, and yet life goes on. However, my real concern is that you have lost sight of God's promises concerning the future. No matter how difficult things may be, we have the promise of God, Who said, "I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee."

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated, in his column whenever possible.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all the wonderful people who invited us to a party on May 24, not knowing what was going to happen to me (Kenneth).

This had to be one of the most exciting and thrilling moments of our lives. We will use the van, the lift and the speaking system to the best of our ability, and will always treasure the many friends and their thoughts of us. May we say "Thank You" once again from the bottom of our hearts.

Kenneth, Jean and Lathy Williams
Sterling City Rt., Box 136

We may boldly say, "The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me" (Hebrew 13:5, 6). If the way he should go; and when he is your Saviour and Lord, He will always take care of you.

You mention "misplaced values," and there ARE many people who have misplaced values. But who can better replace these misplaced values than Christian parents? Your home is an island in a confused world. Teach your children real values from God's Word. The Bible says, "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it" (Proverbs 22:6). What a challenge and opportunity God has given you! Seek to be a faithful mother and teach your children to love God and look to Him for strength.

Above all, try not to project your pessimism about the future to your children. Ask God to give them faith, hope and love. These are the things that abide, and these are the things that can give people strength to face the future.

Popgun salute

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The massive salvo of support for President Carter's energy program from the environmental-consumer lobby ambitiously planned just one month ago has turned instead into a guarded, intentionally unpublicized popgun salute from a corporal's guard of old-line conservationists.

Energy czar James Schlesinger's office had planned an energy love-in on the White House lawn, where smiling Jimmy Carter would receive support from men and women who helped elect him: leaders of hundreds of environmental groups representing over 35 million Americans, all backing the new energy program. Instead, leaders of 29 groups representing 4 million members signed a namby-pamby statement, damning the program with faint praise, and only on condition the White House would not make much of it.

THIS GAP BETWEEN aspirations and reality is an object lesson in the futility of mobilizing the environmentalist lobby for any constructive program. The movement's internal dynamics made it impossible for environmentalists and consumer advocates to compromise. Although the President had alienated the world of business in drafting the program, by mid-May opposition to it became a test of credibility in the world of "public interest" lobbies.

The Schlesinger team, while hurt and angry over this rebuff, insists it did what was right in gearing the program toward conservation rather than production of energy. Indeed, Schlesinger has always favored the conservation approach. Nevertheless, he has lost a high-stakes political gamble. Courting Ralph Nader at the cost of General Motors, he is left with the worst of two worlds.

Nader jumped ship two weeks before the President unveiled his program, asserting on April 8 that Mr. Carter's abandonment of fast breeder reactors was not enough and that all nuclear power must be sidetracked. Even so, the Schlesinger camp hoped that Nader's more moderate colleagues were not totally anti-growth. Plans for the White House lawn party — minus Nader, of course — continued.

AT AN APRIL 29 press briefing, Schlesinger claimed the President's program was endorsed "in its entirety" by environmentalist organizations including "quite a broad spectrum of opinion" representing 35 million members. That statement, premature at best, triggered adverse reaction in the movement.

A meeting of environmentalist and consumer leaders showed that opposition to the program was more vocal and virulent than its support. Nader and radical ecologist Barry Commoner, the two biggest names present, opposed Mr. Carter's modest goals for increased nuclear power and coal production. In effect, they wanted to place the movement on record against economic growth.

The May 9 edition of Village Voice fired a second volley. It stigmatized environmentalists supporting the program as "Carter's spaniels" and called such support "repugnant," "spineless" and "humiliating." Soon afterwards, Friends of The Earth abandoned the program, and hopes of broad-based environmentalist support ended.

THE THIRD VOLLEY was fired May 10 at an energy conference in Washington when Dr. Commoner assaulted the Carter plan; too much nuclear, not enough conservation. In the language of the zealot, he ruled out compromise and called for rejection: "Can these faults be corrected by piecemeal modification of the plan? I think not, for the plan's basic fault is generic."

Opposition stepped up May 17 when James Plug, a top consumer advocate in the energy field, told a House subcommittee that the new natural gas price ceiling may not be the deregulation the oil industry wants but is nevertheless far too high. Paraphrasing the President's description of his energy program as "the moral equivalent of war," Plug called its natural gas pricing provisions "the moral equivalent of deregulation."

Days before Plug's testimony, all hope of real support from him and his colleagues had vanished. A May 13 statement cautiously backed Mr. Carter's goals though not his program. Old-line conservationists — National Wildlife Federation, Sierra Club, Izaak Walton League — signed, but only on the condition it would not be publicized.

Clearly, Mr. Carter can count on nothing from this corner. Noting the President's recent statement that when liberals "get 95 per cent of what they want they can only remember the other 5 per cent," one White House political aide told us that "the figure ought to be 97 per cent for the Naderites."

Redd Foxx is miffed

Liz Smith

THE OLD-TIMERS: There'll be controversy and reaction aplenty to Barbara Walters' third TV special where she talks to Bob Hope, Redd Foxx and Bing Crosby. Hope tells Barbara that "Richard Nixon was one of the great minds that I've ever run into... and a fellow that was a very good friend... and one of the sad, sad chapters in my life for what happened to him." In the same interview, Hope says he once told a reporter he had never felt deceived by Nixon and he received a thank-you note from the ex-President for his statement. Hope says of Spiro Agnew: "It was a very unfortunate thing... we're friends and we play golf."

Redd Foxx gets a few fingers across in his talk with Barbara about the prejudice he felt while doing "Sanford and Son." When he and his second wife married, Redd says NBC's network prexy sent him two bottles of booze — "I don't even drink." Redd continues: "I'd like to find out if it isn't prejudice, then what is it makes a man belittle you that small, to send two bottles of booze to your home for your wedding gift... and I've made millions for the networks... it was like a kick in the face to me."

I haven't got any scoop on what Bing told Barbara. One assumes he will be adorable, as usual.

Dear Abby

Send Envelope And She'll Return Favor

DEAR ABBY: I'm half-crazy trying to find the recipe for your fabulous "can't fail" cheesecake. I cut it out of your column nine years ago, and whenever I've made it, I got raves. I never told anyone where it came from and never gave it out, and now I've lost it. Maybe God is punishing me for my selfishness. If I'd given it to just one friend, I could call her and get it back.

Will you please send me another one?
"JUST DESSERTS" IN N.J.

DEAR JUST: Your letter gives me an ideal opportunity to say something I've been wanting to say for 20 years. I can't help you because you failed to include your name and address. If it appeared on your envelope you are out of luck because the envelopes are discarded when my mail is opened.

Also, when I request something, I always enclose a stamped, addressed envelope for a reply. I feel that since I am asking for a favor, the least I can do is to provide the postage.

This month I have had approximately 2,000 requests for information about the "Salvation Army Missing Persons Bureau," "Fat Fannie Panty Hose," my "Ten Commandments for Husbands and Wives" and the usual letters from students asking me to help write their term papers. All expect me to fulfill their requests and pay the postage as well!

So, dear readers, if you want a favor, the least you can do is include a stamped, addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: I knowingly broke the law by failing to file or pay my income tax. Knowing that I could be caught is driving me crazy. I'm even afraid to call the IRS out of fear that any questions will give me away.

Please, Abby, if there is any way I can pay now without going through a court proceeding and possible sentence, tell me about it. This is constantly on my mind and is becoming too much of a mental burden to bear.

ANXIOUSLY AWAITING YOUR REPLY

DEAR AWAITING: Write to the IRS and "fess up." I understand that those who voluntarily admit to breaking the law are dealt with more leniently than those who are caught.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine sent for your booklet on "What Teenagers Want To Know," and he said it was the greatest. I want one, too, but it says in the paper to send $1 plus a long, 24 cent stamped envelope. Please tell me how long a long envelope is.

FRANCIS C.

DEAR FRANCIS: Nine inches long. Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Plans aborted for parenthood clinic

By JAMES CARRIER

Associated Press Writer
ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) —

The two-story red brick building is a near shell, its upper walls bulging outward, its steel beams buckled, its roof jacked up, great cracks staggering toward the ground.

It's a bitter symbol in suburban Highland Park, an upper-middle class neighborhood of large homes and tree-lined streets.

The building, a converted pancake palace, was headquarters of Planned Parenthood of Minnesota. It also housed a bustling clinic that dispensed contraceptives, gave venereal disease and cancer tests, and abortions.

Today, the clinic is closed. In the basement and what is left of the first floor, the Planned Parenthood staff works on. Overhead, workmen begin a $300,000 repair job.

But some things cannot be repaired — the memory of a year of picketing and violence that culminated in a deliberate fire Feb. 23.

It began when Planned Parenthood decided to move to more pleasant surroundings, and the Catholic Bulletin, the official newspaper of the St. Paul-Minneapolis archdiocese, headlined, "First St. Paul Abortion Clinic To Open." That was April 16, 1976, Good Friday.

From then, Planned Parenthood was on the defensive.

Flanked by a car wash and fast-food restaurant, the building stands in an area heavily trafficked by children. Across the street is a library and a softball field.

On the weekend after Easter 1976, the first petitions appeared — at a nearby shopping center on Saturday, and in five churches on Sunday.

The clinic spelled out "in a concrete way" the reality of the 1973 Supreme Court decision allowing voluntary abortions, said the Rev. Leo Dolan, who condemned abortions at all five masses of St. Leo's Catholic Church. To the people of the neighborhood, the abortion issue was no longer an abstraction.

The next day, 5,000 signatures were handed to the Planned Parenthood executive board with the clear message: You're not wanted.

"I was mad," recalled John Healy Jr., an attorney and resident of Highland who later headed the Citizens for Community Action, a group opposed to the clinic.

To him, abortion was not the issue. Abortion in the neighborhood was so was the counseling that provided teenagers with contraceptives or an abortion without parental consent.

"These people wouldn't presume to advise our children to have their braces off, or what to eat, or what college to attend. But they'll take those kids and with a half-hour or hour of counseling, they'll promote experimenting sexually with another kid or an adult," said Healy. He thinks a "nonjudgmental" approach toward sex flies in the face of his efforts to raise seven children to his own standards.

"We neither encourage nor discourage sexual activity," said Tom Webber, executive director of Planned Parenthood. "We do help them understand the consequences of their decision." Operating from a base in St. Paul on an annual budget of $1.7 million, Planned Parenthood had for years referred women wanting

MISS SUZANNE SMITH

Miss Smith awarded title in Fort Worth

Miss Suzanne Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Ray Smith, 808 Edwards Blvd., was selected "Miss Photogenic" at the Texas 1977 Miss National Teen-Ager Pageant held May 27 and 28 at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth.

Miss Smith was also named among the top 15 of the 65 finalists competing in the statewide contest for the most representative teenage girl.

The 65 finalists had been chosen from an original field of 325 girls who were in the top 10 per cent of their class scholastically and who had been active in school and community activities. An essay entitled "What's Right About America" was presented by each girl at the pageant.

For additional information, contact Janet Sargent, Howard County Extension Office, Box 790, Big Spring or phone 267-8469.

Orientation set

An orientation for the Big Spring State Hospital Junior Volunteers on June 6 will be in the All-Faith Chapel on the hospital campus.

The program will be from 8:30 a.m. to noon. All those interested who are 14 years of age or older are welcome.

Orientation Birth announced
Mr. and Mrs. Randy Evans, Tahoka, announce the birth of a son, Christopher Landon, on May 24.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Wade Bledsoe, Big Spring. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. H.B. Evans, Sand Springs.

At 9:30 p.m. Feb. 23, while the night janitor was out, someone walked into Webber's office, splashed gasoline on wood paneling and lit a match. In 30 minutes a local radio station received a call from a man who declared: "We've finally gotten rid of the abortion clinic in Highland Park."

Planned Parenthood officials began implicating the opposition. The "Ash Wednesday" fire grew out of an "atmosphere of violence," they said. Pro-life supporters said it did their cause no good and denied involvement. The fire brought some support for Planned Parenthood. Volunteers and contributions increased.

In September there was an anti-clinic advertising campaign in local papers, with the names, addresses and phone numbers of Planned Parenthood board members and sponsors. There were pickets daily and prayer services on Saturdays. In October someone fired two shots into the front windows. In December, more broken windows and glued locks.

On Jan. 10 the medical clinic opened and performed the first five abortions. Two hundred protesters marched in front of the building. Nevertheless, Planned Parenthood stayed open. Some 80 abortions were performed at the clinic through Feb. 3.

Of the 30 patients seen each week, half were abortion cases and the other

Style show scheduled Thursday

Area residents will be able to view the latest spring and summer fashions to sew and get tips on putting together a versatile wardrobe at an upcoming style show, according to Janet Sargent, county extension agent for Howard County.

The show will feature the spring 1977 edition of "Fashion Trends and Techniques" by the Simplicity Pattern Company, a collection of the newest styles and fabrics and will be modeled by Howard County residents, Ms. Sargent said.

Highlights of the program will include city dressing in crayon-bright colors, tips on styling a versatile wardrobe in a classic color scheme, fashionable playwear for the whole family, knockout evening fashions and hints to make anyone sew like a pro, she said.

"Fashion Trends and Techniques" is designed to guide the home sewer through every step of wardrobe planning. The fashions to be shown are truly family oriented with wardrobes for young children, teens, men and women. It will cover pattern and fabric selection, garment construction and accessory choice, she added.

All area residents are invited to attend. There is no charge for admission. For additional information, contact Janet Sargent, Howard County Extension Office, Box 790, Big Spring or phone 267-8469.

Tropical plants valuable
A "staggering" variety of tropical plants could provide many food items for the world — which now depends on only about 20 crops for food, says Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. She cited a recent report of a National Academy of Sciences panel on under-exploited tropical plants with promising economic value.

Miss Nutt, Tate wed in garden ceremony
Miss Virginia Marie Nutt and Terry Kent Tate were married in a garden ceremony May 21 on Lake Travis near Austin.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Nigel L. Nutt, Austin, and Mr. and Mrs. Newell Tate, Tarzan.

Max Leach, minister of the Church of Christ, Tarzan, officiated. The couple was married before an arch of greenery with large baskets of spring flowers accented on both sides. The bride was attired in a white voile gown with scattered blue flowers decorating it. The long skirt and sleeves were inserted with bands of lace bordered by rows of tiny tucks. The bride wore a large hat with daisies encircling the crown.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Mary Ann McConnell, sister of the bride. Miss Chris Bradshaw was bridesmaid.

Larry Stanley, Big Spring, was best man. Groomsman was Steve Meador, also of Big Spring. Ushers included Mark Tate, Tim Tate, and

Bridal shower given for Miss Lewis Friday

A bridal shower was given last Friday in the home of Mrs. Hervey Perry, 2408 Robb Drive, Big Spring, to honor Miss LaLani Lewis, bride-elect of David Carter.

Miss Lewis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lewis, Denver. Carter's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carter, Big Spring.

Hostesses at the shower included Mrs. O.B. Kirby, Mrs. Jimmy Jones, Mrs. Avery Faulkner, Mrs.

Jimmy Morehead and Mrs. Verl Shaw. Other hostesses were Mrs. Hillard Ditmore, Mrs. John Thomas, Mrs. Francis Plowman, Mrs. Kenneth Orr, Mrs. D.W. Pierce, Mrs. Tommy Vink.

The shower table was decorated with flowers encircling two candleabra. The tablecloth used was of embroidered polyester.

Crystals and silver appointments were used to complete the decorations. The couple will be married June 28 in Denver.

Go around again

with Marj Carpenter

For many years, Americans have watched with fascination the Indianapolis 500 as speedy cars go round and round the track.

In the old days, they listened on the radio and waited for the next day's paper to see a picture depicting the horror of a crash. There's almost always a crash.

The singing of "Back Home in Indiana" is as traditional as "My Old Kentucky Home" at the Derby.

I have had a tradition of my own since 1961. I always root for Bobby Unser.

And twice he has won. Some of the times he didn't win, his brother, Al won.

On Sunday night when they were televising the 500 and Bobby Unser was pulled out of the race, I quit lying on the couch and sat up to see the closeups of Bobby.

My son laughed, and said, "Does he look the same?" And when Bobby Unser took off his helmet and grinned, he looked much the same as when I had interviewed him 17 years ago.

He still had the same big grin and good old All-American boy look, but he has lines around his eyes and of course looks older.

When Bobby was just getting started good on the race circuit, the New Mexico youth would come over to Pecos and spend several days running extremely fast speed tests on the Pecos tire testing track.

At that facility, they would send for professional race drivers on the extremely high speed tests in order to protect their regular drivers, who were not used to driving at high speeds. However, the only driver ever killed on that testing track, apparently went to sleep from boredom driving around and around.

Unser would whip around that track at incredible speeds. I remember taking a picture of his car whizzing by in a flash.

We also ran an inset photo of Bobby when he leaned out the door of the car. And he had that famous Unser grin.

Bobby said he started racing because his brother, Al, was involved in the racing game.

"I kept racing because I liked it," he said. At that time in 1961, his ambition was to win "the Indianapolis 500." Everybody doesn't get to realize their ambition, but of course Bobby has and he's won a lot of the rest of the top races.

At the time, Bobby said, "Our Dad said we just got into this business to have an excuse to legally drive fast."

I remember that when Bobby first won the 500, it was announced on the loudspeaker at Ruidoso Downs, where I happened to be that particular Memorial Day.

Since he was the first New Mexican to ever win that race, there was quite a loud cheer at the track for Bobby.

And I cheer him still — that friendly, personable young man from the Land of Enchantment who has made them stand up and take notice in the world of speed racing.

Always glad to see a friendly face, even on a Sunday evening when I view it on the tube when I'm back home from ridin' fence.

Methodist assignments

North Birdwell Lane UMC, Wesley UMC and Coahoma UMC are among area Methodist churches which will get a change in pastors.

Bishop Alsie H. Carleton announced 47 pastoral changes in the Northwest Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church Tuesday night in Abilene as appointments were distributed to approximately 300 ministers in the conference.

David Pohl, who has not had a church, is the new pastor of the North Birdwell and Garden City UMC churches. He succeeds Olen Tunnell.

August Amaodt, who formerly served with the Board of Global Ministries in Alaska, succeeds Jane Greer as minister of the Wesley UMC here. Greer, who has been here two years, is going to Trinity UMC in Snyder and will also serve the church at Dunn.

New pastor at Coahoma is James Taylor, who was at Anton for two years. Taylor succeeds Homer Salley, who was at Coahoma three years. Salley will serve at Westbrook.

Caleb Hildebrand, former pastor of the Wesley UMC in Big Spring and more recently minister of St. Mark's UMC in Midland, is swapping places with Harold Cates, who is transferring from St. Paul's UMC in El Paso.

O.A. McBrayer, Big Spring district superintendent several years ago and more recently Lubbock district superintendent, is the new pastor of St. Luke's UMC in Midland. He succeeds William M. Wilkinson, who becomes the Lubbock district superintendent.

Dr. Weldon Butler returns as pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Big Spring. Lloyd A. Hughes will be back as Big Spring district superintendent.

David Edens returns as the Stanton UMC minister while Robert Ford, formerly of Big Spring, will be back at the Colorado City UMC.

Churches at Jayton and New Home will have new women pastors. Louella Ardhuermy, former associate minister at St. John's UMC in Stamford, is moving to Jayton, succeeding Gene Louder.

Rita Richards will serve as pastor at New Home, succeeding Russell McReynolds. The conference runs through Thursday night. A number of new deacons and elders will be ordained Thursday evening in the colorful ordination service.

Jones to serve as curate of Big Spring church

Jack Monte Jones of Monahans, who received a master of divinity degree at the 109th commencement of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., Sunday, will serve as curate of the Church of St. Mary's the Virgin (Episcopal) in Big Spring.

The graduate is the son of Mrs. Christine Jaehne of San Angelo and A.A. Jones of Midland. He graduated from Sul Ross University in Alpine, where he received B.A. and M.A. degrees in drama.

While in Seminary, he served as student representative to the Junior Team, student representative to the Sewanee Community Council and as student body president.

He is married to the former Eira Virginia Inabinet from Ranger, Tex. They have two children, John Robinson and Julie Christine.

Jones will also be a deacon in training at St. John's Episcopal Church in Snyder and the All Saints Church in Colorado City.

The University of the South is an educational center of the Episcopal Church, owned and operated by 24 southern dioceses. Located on a spur of the Cumberland plateau, it includes three units — a preparatory school, the Sewanee Academy, as well as the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Theology.

Briscoe blamed by GOP chief

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The chairman of the state Republican Party says Gov. Dolph Briscoe is responsible for the legislature's failure to enact a new public school finance law in Texas.

Ray Hutchison said Briscoe failed to provide the needed leadership on the issue.

"Texas has its own energy crisis," Hutchison told reporters here Tuesday. "His name is Dolph Briscoe."

A proposed school finance measure died in the waning hours Monday night of the 1977 legislative session, and Hutchison called the action "the most colossal failure I've ever observed."

"If Briscoe had devoted as much energy and leadership to school finance as he did to the highway bill, then we'd have a new school finance law," he said.

Hutchison urged Briscoe to immediately call the legislature back into special session to work on a school finance measure. He said failure to provide a new method of financing would turn the state's schools over to the federal courts.

He said the present method of school financing, primarily through ad valorem property taxes in each district, is discriminatory and probably unconstitutional.

"Briscoe's policy was to make the rich schools richer and the poor schools poorer," Hutchison said.

Briscoe, meanwhile, said he is considering calling the lawmakers back to Austin sometime this summer.

Rent-a-jalopy for thrills

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — You say you feel like combing your hair into a ducktail, slipping into a pair of "pegged" blue jeans and cruising the drive-ins before heading out to watch the submarine races with your girl? And all you lack is that old red convertible to complete the nostalgia urge? Jerry Elam can't help you with the hair, the jeans or the girl, but he'll be happy to rent you a snappy ragtop.

The 35-year-old former air traffic controller is the proprietor of Jerry's Rent-A-Jalopy in Fort Worth.

His enterprise started as a used car sales lot, but that just didn't work out.

"The used car business was real bad," Elam said. We'd been in it about eight months and one day I was just sitting there looking at all those old cars and thinking what we could do to turn it around."

The result was the old car rental business, advertising "good 'ol cars at prices to match."

For $25 a week — no mileage charge — you can rent a '59 DeSoto or a '60 Chrysler or some other winged relic.

"We've got 30 cars and all of them are gone (rented) now," Elam said. "I keep a lot of ragtops (convertibles). They don't make them anymore and I think a lot of people rent them for the memories — maybe to fulfill a dream or something."

For those whose nostalgia goes back even further, Elam has a '41 Plymouth coupe, complete with World War II ration stamps and showing only 27,000 actual miles. Renting that one costs $25 a day.

"We get 'em in here because of the nostalgia," Elam said, "but a lot of them are salesmen, travelers and just people who want dependable transportation but don't want to spend a lot of money."

Elam's bright red, '64 Dodge convertible caught the eye of Bob Leach, who decided to rent the car for a night on the town to celebrate his 11 years of marriage to wife Karen.

"When I was dating my wife, I had a '51 Caddy convertible," Leach said after returning from three days of top-down bliss.

"We'd go to the drive-ins, or park somewhere and — you know — neck. I've always been partial to convertibles and I saw this ad and so it seemed like a good idea."

Ex-banker posts bail

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A former South Texas bank director who was indicted for banking fraud has posted $100,000 bond in San Antonio.

Enrique Salinas, who was principal stockholder at Carrizo Springs Citizens National Bank, is charged with misapplication of bank funds, conspiracy and making false entries in bank records. He and his wife are among 13 people indicted in the case. Mrs. Salinas previously posted $50,000 bond.

Eleven of the 13 people have been released on bond.

Salinas is named in 42 counts of a federal grand jury indictment returned in San Antonio last week. After posting the bond Salinas and his wife said they were returning to Eagle Pass. The bank was closed by the state banking commissioner last June.

Jury selection is set for July 11 in the Salinas case before U.S. District Judge John H. Wood, Jr.

The $100,000 bond for Salinas — who said he had no money when he was arrested — was posted by an Eagle Pass bail bond company.

Pay data ires postmasters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, which increased salaries for its top officials without issuing a press release, is upsetting postmasters by going public with their pay.

"If a postmaster's salary is published, people in the town who make less money are bound to be resentful," a spokesman for postmasters says.

The public relations department of the mail agency, sending out news releases and letters to the editor, is disclosing information about area post offices, including the pay of the local postmaster.

Teen killed in cycle crash

LAKE TEXOMA STATE PARK, Okla. (AP) — A Texas teen-ager was killed in a motorcycle accident at Lake Texoma Monday evening, the Oklahoma Highway Patrol said.

Angela Haggerty, 15, Denison, Tex., was dead on arrival at a local hospital with internal injuries. She was thrown from a motorcycle being driven by Victor Edwin Thorne, 21, Pottsboro, Tex., the patrol said. He was hospitalized with head lacerations, as well as arm, leg and internal injuries.

Investigators said the motorcycle was being operated on a grassy area when it struck the corner of an outdoor restroom, glanced off and struck a pipe anchoring a trash barrel. Both driver and passenger were ejected.

Braniff will pay $290,000 to settle slush fund suits

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff Airways Inc. has agreed to pay $290,000 to settle lawsuits accusing the company of making illegal campaign contributions, maintaining a slush fund and violating anti-trust laws.

Braniff admitted the settlement which had been approved by a Dallas judge. The company, however, denied all charges made in the suits filed by stockholders.

The suits alleged that Braniff maintained a $750,000 slush fund, financed by unaccounted for ticket sales. The company also allegedly gave an illegal $40,000 to Richard Nixon's 1972 campaign fund, according to the suits.

The settlement agreement states that the $290,000 is in addition to $67,000 paid to the company by "certain unnamed Braniff officials."

Braniff admitted two years ago that it used a complicated ticket sales procedure to bypass its normal accounting system and raise more than $640,000 for various uses. Part of that money went to the Nixon fund.

source expressed surprise that the postmaster association is complaining about public pay disclosure. He said the organization is suing the government over some raises that were withheld.

"I would think that they would be glad to have their salaries made known," the source said.

Although the Postal Service's top 18 executives received pay raises last month, no press releases were issued, Cain said, because all 18 are staying in their present jobs.

The agency's top executive, Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar, now receives $66,000, the same as a Cabinet official.

Future executive pay hikes will be made public, Cain said.

Miklozek also charged that the Postal Service, in publicizing postmasters' salaries, is "laying the groundwork" for closing post offices.

The Postal Service for years has eyed the potential savings in closing money-losing rural post offices.

A recent internal study said closing 17,000 of the 30,000 post offices would save $490 million a year. Postal officials say that no such widespread closings are planned.

Happy leukemia stats

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five years ago, it might have been a medical miracle. But when Michael Morelock, 7, stops taking drugs after three and a half years of fighting leukemia, it will be almost a typical case.

"This disease used to be universally fatal," said Dr. Arthur R. Ablin of the children's cancer program at University of California-San Francisco Medical Center. "Life expectancy after diagnosis used to be 10 weeks."

But now 62 per cent of the children found to have leukemia are still alive five years after the diagnosis, and doctors expect most to live far longer.

The statistics are from the National Cancer Institute's Children's Cancer Study Group, of which UCSF is a part. Ablin announced on Tuesday a program to share information about the group's successful treatment methods with a number of other hospitals in Northern California.

The study group, made up of 25 teaching hospitals nationwide, compiles statistics each year on some 2,100 children with cancer. Information about the children — the course of their disease and their response to treatment — goes into a huge data bank, which is constantly updating statistics about which kinds of treatments are working best.

"If you have only 50 new cases of cancer each year, it takes years to answer these questions about which treatments are working and what are their side effects," Ablin said. But with more than 400 new cases a year in the data bank, he said, doctors are developing a set of statistics that can predict more reliably which treatments will be most effective.

Michael hasn't been sick with leukemia since the episode that led to its diagnosis when he was four years old. But doctors are cautious about saying he is cured. They say only that the disease has been in continuous remission for three and a half years.

What happens to Michael when he goes off drug therapy July 5 will be fed into the data bank to provide more information for the next "generation" of leukemia patients.

Michael will return to the hospital every three months for blood counts and bone marrow tests.

Meanwhile, he'll be going to school.

Zales owes more taxes

DALLAS (AP) — Stockholders of the Dallas-based Zales Corp. were told Tuesday that the corporation owes the Internal Revenue Service more than the previously figured $4 million — maybe as much as $66 million more.

Zales vice president and legal counsel David Musselwhite said the amount owed "may range between $10 and $50 million," not including a $20 million deferred tax fund for 1970-75.

Musselwhite said when the disclosure was first made in February 1976 the company figured the tax owed at about $4 million.

"Although the ultimate liability is not presently determinable, the company now recognizes that its minimum additional tax liability for the years 1973 through 1975 is unlikely to be substantially less than $10 million and accordingly, such amount is now being reserved by charges to earnings of the applicable process that could take several years.

Despite the investigations and adverse publicity stemming from them, Zales reported record sales and earnings for fiscal 1977. Sales totaled $677.8 million and earnings were $33.2 million, or $2.48 per share, compared to sales of $595.8 million and earnings of $32.4 million, or $2.44 per share for fiscal 1976.

"Business is good if we can just get the government paid," said Musselwhite.

Blazers calm after 76er bombing

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Blazermania may be sweeping the city of Portland, but all is calm with the young basketball team.

"I'm not impressed," said a grim-faced Maurice Lucas after the Trail Blazers routed the Philadelphia 76ers 130-98 Tuesday night, tying their National Basketball Association championship best-of-seven series 2-2.

"I won't be impressed until we win the final game," the 6-foot-9 Portland forward said. "I'm not excited, just ready."

Lucas and his teammates had everything their way in Game Four. Guard Lionel Hollins, who hit just four of 17 shots in the third game of the series, made nine of 16 Tuesday night and led all scorers with 25 points. Lucas had 24 points and 12 rebounds. And both sat out most of the final quarter as Coach Jack Ramsay employed his reserves.

But there were no whoops of joy or wild celebrations in the Portland locker room.

"The margin of victory is not significant," cautioned Ramsay. "It's just a victory. We're now in a three-game series and two of the games are on Philadelphia's court."

He meant that two straight home-court triumphs had gotten the Blazers back where they started when the series began, needing a victory on the 76ers' court. They will get their chance

Friday night in Game Five. "We're not a very emotional team," said Blazers guard Dave Twardzik. "When Philadelphia won that first game, you would have thought it was the seventh game of the series the way they acted."

If the Blazers were not impressed by their own awesome show of basketball strength Tuesday night, the 76ers were.

"Every time they touched the ball it went in," sighed Philadelphia's Darryl Dawkins. "We were blitzed."

The Blazers hit nine of their first 10 shots, ripped open a 19-4 lead five minutes into the game, and Philadelphia never got any closer than 11 points after that.

"Portland was super, absolutely super," said 76ers Coach Gene Shue. "They took control early. They threw us out of whatever we wanted to do. They were in complete control. In fact, it was barely a game."

It appeared Philadelphia would get a chance to make a run at the Blazers when Portland's Bill Walton drew his fifth foul and left the game with 7:02 remaining in the third quarter and the 76ers trailing 71-57.

"I knew I had to get the rebounds and play good defense," said Lloyd Neal, who had 11 rebounds in 22 minutes of play.

Astros keep LA's streak in dumps

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston pitcher James Rodney Richard says he pitches the same against the National League Western Division leading Los Angeles Dodgers as he would against anyone else—even Japan.

"If they are standing up right they are dangerous," Richard said Tuesday night after he hurled a 7-hit 5-2 victory over the Dodgers, extending LA's losing streak to four in a row and assuring Houston of its first series victory since April 28. "They're no different just because they're in first place."

Richard, who evened his record at 4-4, got off to a slow start against the Dodgers, who took a 2-0 first inning lead on Steve Garvey's two-run double after Ted Martinez and Reggie Smith had singled.

"I've been falling behind at the beginning of the game," said Richard, who last season became only the second 20-game winner in Houston's history. "I may have to start warming up longer or pitching between times to keep my rhythm."

After allowing back to back singles to start the third by Davey Lopes and Martinez, Richard, 4-4, retired 21 of the final 24 batters. Dusty Baker singled in the fourth and seventh innings and Rick Monday was in the ninth.

"This is a business to me," Richard said. "When I go out there I am serious. I could be pitching against Japan and I would feel the same. I don't under-estimate anybody."

Torre new Met head

NEW YORK (AP) Forty-four games into the 1977 baseball season, the New York Mets have decided to start all over again.

So, forget if you can that 15-29 record that was the worst in the major leagues. Remember instead that under new Manager Joe Torre, the Mets are undefeated.

The new start, after all, had to begin somewhere. The Mets decided the best place would be in the manager's office.

So Torre was named pilot of the club Tuesday night and broke in with that rarest of Shea Stadium commodities, a 6-2 victory over the Montreal Expos. It was a game in which the Mets hustled from start to finish, another commodity that had not always been in evidence this season.

"They played like heck," said Torre. "They seemed to be trying for me. After they do it for me, I hope they do it for themselves."

The Mets had lost six straight and nine of 10 under Manager Joe Frazier when time ran out on him. Worse than the losing streak, the team seemed to lack incentive.

"It makes an awfully long year if you quit in May," said Torre.

The club seemed to retract its collective resignation after the change in pilots. A

Bamboozlement just stupidity

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — The commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference says there's no fine print in a national letter of intent.

Mickey Holmes said Tuesday he found it "exceptionally difficult" to understand how persons could not realize they were signing a national letter.

He described the disclaimer of a national letter as being in "rather bold print."

Two Marshall, Tex., high school basketball stars, Roshern Amie and Anthony Burns, said last week they were bamboozled into signing national letters of intent to attend New Mexico State University in Las Cruces.

NMSU basketball coach Ken Hayes said, however, there couldn't have been any misunderstanding, but he doesn't want any unhappy players and "we will try to accommodate them."

Commissioner Holmes said his knowledge of the matter was based only on news accounts, and he has not been asked to examine the situation.

Burns and Amie said they signed letters on May 4 but believed they were only Missouri Valley Conference letters of intent and not national letters.

A conference letter has the effect of eliminating only other schools within that conference from signing that player. Signing a national letter means a player cannot sign with any other four-year school.

Nice Guy uses firm discipline

HOUSTON (AP) — Beloved Tom Lasorda, the jovial new skipper of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who gets along with everyone and knows how to speak diplomatically to his players, told utility infielder Ed Goodson prior to the start of the season:

"A manager would be crazy to put you into the starting lineup ahead of (Ron) Cey or (Steve) Garvey. A manager would have to be illiterate."

Lasorda treats his players like part of the family but had some firm paternal advice for utility outfielder Lee Lacy. Lasorda told Lacy he would be the John Havlicek of the Dodgers.

Lasorda, widely known as Mr. Nice Guy, wasn't exhibiting a new Captain Bleigh personality trait in talking to Goodson and Lacy. It's just his managing philosophy to tell each player the exact role he's

Midland rips Arkansas 7-1

By The Associated Press

Steve Stroughter and Juan Monasterio provided 10th inning lightning Tuesday night to give El Paso and Jackson Texas League victories.

Stroughter hit a three-run homer to give El Paso a 10-7 victory in 10 innings over Shreveport, while Monasterio stroked a bad-hop single to give Jackson a 5-4 10-inning triumph over Amarillo.

The only regulation TL game of the night saw Midland rip Arkansas 7-1, while Tulsa at San Antonio was rained out.

The Diablos' victory over Shreveport was their seventh in nine decisions over the Captains, who still lead the TL East by two games over Tulsa. El Paso has a 2½ game margin over Midland.

Is Lucchesi's time near?

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — A tornado went over Frank Lucchesi's house Tuesday on the Texas Ranger manager's off day.

"That's all I need," Lucchesi quipped.

"But maybe my luck is changing... it didn't hit anything," he added.

Lucchesi, the insiders are whispering, is under fire. Offices pools are making predictions on just how soon Lucchesi will be sacked after majority owner Brad Corbett returns from Europe.

"I don't see why there's all that speculation when we are only five and one-half games out of first place," said Lucchesi. "Now, if we were in last place some 12 to 13 games out I'd be very concerned."

Lucchesi spent most of Tuesday trying to make telephone contact with executive vice president Eddie Robinson.

"H was out," said Lucchesi.

Lucchesi was the target of a Robinson telephone call Monday between games of a doubleheader loss to Seattle.

The 48-year-old Ranger skipper angrily shouted in the clubhouse "That bleep should be general manager instead of executive vice president."

Obviously, Lucchesi meant "manager" since Danny O'Brien is the team's general manager.

Headlines proclaiming "Two losses and Clubhouse Incident Rock Rangers" and "Lucchesi, Robinson engage in Dispute Between Games" were splashed across two of the local newspapers.

Asked if he thought the incident was blown out of proportion, Lucchesi said "You people have a job to do. If there's a story you have to stay with it."

Lucchesi wasn't saying so but Robinson obviously had second-guessed his manager, and it didn't sit lightly.

"Tornadoes come and then the sky clears and I think that's what will happen here," said Lucchesi.

He added "I don't want to go down in history as the first major league manager to be assaulted by one of his players. I want to win pennants."

Lucchesi, of course, was referring to being punched by Lenny Randle during spring training.

Redfern + 12 hits = win

By The Associated Press

It just took a little time — and 12 Minnesota hits — for Pete Redfern to gain his second victory of the season.

"Redfern has worked very hard trying to get his normal delivery," said Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch after his American League West Division-leading Twins defeated the Baltimore Orioles, leaders in the East, 8-3 Tuesday night.

"I just wanted to throw strikes," Redfern said. "It's been hard getting my rhythm back, but I had it against Baltimore and I just hope I'll be able to pitch like that every time out."

Redfern, who won his first game in more than seven weeks, needed relief help in the ninth inning. But it was the Minnesota hitters who gave him the support.

Six Minnesota players drove in runs. The other two

Lucchesi set to sue 'so it won't occur again'

I hate to upset Lenny Randle, now that he has settled down with his new team, and is playing such good ball, and seems to be so happy with the Mets, but I really have no choice. After all, Frank Lucchesi said it, and it is Frank Lucchesi's decision to make.

"I'm going to make sure that nothing like this happens again. I'm going to make sure that no player ever hits another baseball manager, a basketball coach, a football coach." That's what Frank Lucchesi said.

He has had a long time to think about it, since that day in Florida, March 28, when Lenny Randle punched him and punched him and punched him. Part of the time was spent in the Orlando General Hospital, part of it on the operating table where a very fine plastic surgeon put together the slivers of Frank Lucchesi's smashed right cheekbone. You can tell it was a very fine surgeon just by looking at Frank Lucchesi. There are no visible scars on his rugged Roman face.

"I'd say I'm about 80 per cent, physically, right now," he said. "They took me off the pain-killing pills 10 days ago, but I still have some trouble sleeping. I feel it, right here."

HIT ME WHILE I WAS UNCONSCIOUS

He ran a hand along his left side. "The doctor says that's because he hit me while I was unconscious. I don't remember anything after the first two punches knocked me down. The doctor says when you're unconscious, your muscles relax, and the blows dig deep into your body. He hit me those shots here while I was down."

"That's what I can't put together," I said. "Everybody on your club tells me what a great guy Randle was before the incident, and from what I've seen of him with the Mets, he's very likeable, and..."

"It was premeditated," said Frank Lucchesi. "It wasn't a spontaneous thing. He planned it. The players gave depositions that say that."

"Getting back to what you said about making sure it never happens again. You mean, you want to teach a lesson?"

"That's just what I mean. I don't know, the way things are today, maybe some wild kid would do it anyway, but I want to make them think twice about it."

He said he didn't want to elaborate on that, but it is apparent Frank Lucchesi intends to take a legal action. Possibly a damage suit with a big number. There already is a criminal charge against Lenny Randle but Lucchesi did not invoke that action. A charge of aggravated battery, a felony, was filed by Florida's attorney general, Robert Eagan, on April 26. Randle posted bond of $2,500 and, the next day, was traded to the Mets.

Between the punchout and the trade, Randle was suspended for 30 days at a pay loss estimated to be $9,000. He also had been fined $10,000, making it a temper tab of $19,000.

Shortly thereafter, an attempt was made to pay Lucchesi $10,000. The offer was tendered over the phone by Don Grant, Mets' chairman, "in lieu of any damage suit he might have been contemplating."

Grant quotes Lucchesi as replying: "No, I don't think I want to do that. If I decide to, I will call you. But I'll tell you one thing. That boy will never spend a day in jail because of me, nor will he or the Mets ever suffer for anything I ever do."

TROUBLE FOR HIS YOUNGSTERS

"Things have been happening, awful things," says Lucchesi. "We're in Baltimore. After the game, I'm in the team bus, in the manager's seat up front, near the door. The door is open, waiting for some players. Three or four little kids stick their heads in and start punching the air, and shouting, hey, Lucchesi!"

"Then we're in Chicago. Harry Carey asks me to go on his show after the game. You have to go up through the stands in uniform to his booth. On the way up, the fans yell, hey, Lucchesi, you want a rematch? Things like that."

His son, Brian, 12, got the treatment in school. Kids can be the cruelest of all.

"What's the matter with Brian? Your old man can't handle himself in a fight?"

"That was no fight. My dad got hit with a sucker punch."

Frank Lucchesi sat in the dugout at Yankee Stadium the other day and told all these things. He smiled a forlorn smile. "I want to be remembered as a manager who won two or three pennants, not as the first manager to be slugged by a player," he said. "But maybe I can stop it from happening to someone else."

HOW SWEET IT IS — A fan starts to remove the net as spectators mill around Tuesday night in Portland after the Trail Blazers defeated Philadelphia, 130-98, to even the best-of-seven series for the NBA championship at two games each.

Flavor of Open to be buried

A precious piece of Americana will die and be buried in concrete when the U.S. Open Tennis Championships move, as planned, from picturesque Forest Hills next year to Flushing Meadow.

Tradition takes another blow on the chin. The big money operators — the wheelers and dealers, the slaves of inevitable progress and commercialism — win again.

It will still be the Open, the tennis championship of the United States, but it can never be the same. The ghosts of Big Bill Tilden, Helen Wills Moody, Fred Perry, France's Four Musketeers, Don Budge and Jack Kramer will continue to flit around the old Tudor club house at the West Side Tennis Club.

W.E. "Slew" Hester, Jr., new president of the U.S. Tennis Association, paints a grandiose picture — 32 hard-surface courts, 1,875 parking spaces, a new stadium seating 21,000 and departure from West Side's stuffy country club atmosphere.

To most of us longtime tennis buffs, it leaves us cold. It looms as just another $5 million slab of concrete partitioned by steel wire and nets.

The flavor is gone. No amount of money, no plethora of artificially surfaced asphalt courts can buy what Forest Hills — even with all its snobbery and lack of elbow room — has provided over the last 63 years.

Vast tennis complexes are popping up all over the place — from California to Boston to Miami — with courts stretching as far as the human eye can see. Private promoters have pumped millions into worldwide tour tournaments — the Grand Prix, WCT, Virginia Slims, WTT, you name it.

Yet none has been able to eclipse in interest and exposure those old standbys of the game's primitive years — Wimbledon, Forest Hills, Roland Garros in Paris and Kooyong in Melbourne.

Watergate helped 'save' him from spending life in prison

Waggoner Carr's biggest sin

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr believes that only Watergate and the passage of time — cooling white-hot passions — kept him from spending the rest of his life behind bars.

In the final footnote of his new book, Carr says public sentiment would have resulted in his conviction on charges growing out of the Sharpstown bank scandal if he had been tried in 1972.

That was the year an Abilene jury convicted Speaker Gus Mutscher of conspiring to accept a bribe from Houston bank promoter Frank Sharp and assessed him a five-year probated sentence.

After repaying most of a $320,269 bank loan he owed when the Sharpstown State Bank was closed, Mutscher was released from probation and was appointed county judge in Washington County last year.

"With time to think," writes Carr, "I have decided that if I had been tried at the time Mutscher was, I would have been convicted, because the pressure of public opinion was still fever high. There had not been time for things to begin to settle where people were thinking sanely again."

"When I was tried, things had had two years to cool down, two years for Watergate to come along, and people had begun to make sense out of it. Mutscher was tried at a time when he flat didn't have a chance."

Carr recounts three years of trials and tribulations in a book to be published June 15 — "Waggoner Carr Not Guilty!"

After Watergate exploded in Washington, Carr decided to write the book because, he said, "there's history here."

attempt by President Nixon's administration to discredit a prominent Democrat in several states thought to be important to Nixon's election in 1972.

"It seemed in 1972 that my biggest sin was being a past leader of the Democratic Party in Texas," writes Carr.

He first learned of federal government charges against him Jan. 18, 1971, two hours before the "Victory Dinner" that honored Gov. Preston Smith and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes on the eve of their second inaugural.

Carr was accused of manipulating the stocks of several corporations, notably National Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Dallas.

deicted twice for allegedly defrauding NBL of $582,000 to pay personal debts and for securities fraud, mail fraud, false filings with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission and conspiracy.

His 39-month ordeal "dried up" his law practice, wiped out his $1.5 million estate and sunk him $75,000 in debt to his family and friends.

A former bank president, Carr had to borrow $3,500 from his brother Warlick to make bond, because banks wouldn't loan him money after he became an accused man.

A Fort Worth law firm set a $100,000 price on defending him, so Carr undertook his own defense.

He said he became "sort of a recluse. I didn't have anything really to make me get out and walk down the street. I was a shocked and lonesome man."

"I am convinced," Carr writes, "that the decision to smear and ruin me was reached at the highest levels of the Nixon administration, because I had the temerity to challenge" Sen. John Tower.
