Uganda holding British

By The Associated Press

The Ugandan government barred all British citizens in Uganda from leaving the country today in an apparent attempt to force Britain to let President Idi Amin attend the Commonwealth summit conference in London.

Radio Uganda, in a broadcast monitored in Nairobi, Kenya, said a decision on the "plight" of the British in Uganda would have to await Amin's return from London. The Commonwealth conference opened there today without him or any other Ugandan delegates.

Amin was believed to have spent the night in Libya en route to try to crash the conference. But there was some speculation in London that Ugandan reports of the burly dictator's trip were a hoax.

These were the latest reports: —A Ugandan who answered the phone at Amin's command post at Entebbe said he had heard on Radio Uganda that Amin had already arrived in London. English-language broadcasts made no mention of the arrival, but the radio also broadcasts in several African languages. There was no indication in London of his arrival.

—A Norwegian reporter who telephoned Kampala, the Ugandan capital, was told by a spokesman for Amin that the president had left his overnight way station and was sailing for Britain on a ship. "The president is going to call us when he has reached the British capital," the spokesman said.

The embargo on the British in Uganda was similar to a ban placed on about 240 American nationals in the country last February after President Carter said reports of a wave of mass murders by Amin and his supporters "disgusted the entire civilized world."

That ban was lifted after four days. The British Foreign Office in London said about 300 British citizens live in Uganda, most of them missionaries. They elected to stay in the country against British advice when diplomatic relations between the two countries were broken last July.

There was no word today on whether Amin was on the move again or whether he was approaching Britain.

Prime Minister James Callaghan recently wrote Amin that it would be "inappropriate" for him to come to London, and privately British officials said he would be kept out because of the mass killings his regime allegedly has committed.

Radio Uganda also claimed that a British reconnaissance plane was detected over Uganda this morning but later flew away. "In the event of it reappearing it will be smashed," a Ugandan spokesman said.

Radio Uganda said Amin, after leaving at 3 a.m. Monday in a plane loaned by a friendly country, stopped off in an Arab country. It said he was expected to fly to France, West Germany or Ireland and cross the English Channel by boat today or Thursday.

Since Amin has closer ties with Libya's Moammar Khadafy than with any other Arab leader, it was generally assumed that his plane came from there and that Libya was where he stopped.

Although Uganda is a member of the Commonwealth, British officials said its president would not be allowed to enter Britain because of the mass murders attributed to him and his troops and police in the six years since he ousted President Milton Obote.

Representatives of some of the other Commonwealth governments said privately they believed the British were making a blunder by barring Amin.

They said this would set a dangerous precedent which could be used by the host at some future Commonwealth conference. They also said Amin should be arraigned before the conference to answer charges that he is a mass murderer who is violating Commonwealth principles upholding human rights.

Sources in Brussels said the Belgian government would not let Amin land in Belgium, but French officials said there was nothing to prevent him from landing in France on a private visit.

Some delegates at the Commonwealth conference opening today speculated that Amin had never left home. They suggested that his "trip" was a hoax to take some of the spotlight from the Silver Jubilee celebration Tuesday of Queen Elizabeth's 25 years on the throne.

STAYING IN TOUCH — Two demonstrators hold hands with New York City Democratic mayoral contestant Bella Abzug, left, outside her Bank Street apartment in New York's Greenwich village early Wednesday. Between 500 and 1,000 homosexuals took to the streets of Greenwich Village, apparently to protest the defeat of the homosexual rights referendum in Florida. The march, which police said was loud but peaceful, broke up after Mrs. Abzug addressed the group.

No joy among gays

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Anita Bryant danced a jig, delighted with the repeal of a county homosexual rights law. Some 300 disappointed supporters of the measure sang "we shall overcome, someday."

Dade County voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to reject the four-month-old law. The final, unofficial tally was 202,319 to 89,562, with voter participation setting a record for special elections here.

Political observers expressed surprise at the high turnout — 45 per cent of the county's registered voters — and at the lopsided vote.

The campaign had drawn national attention, and both sides said they would continue the battle elsewhere.

"All America and all the world will hear what the people have said," Miss Bryant declared to cheers at a Miami Beach Holiday Inn. The law, outlawing discrimination based on sexual preference, was passed in January. But Miss Bryant, a singer and the spokeswoman for the state's citrus industry, led a drive for 50,000 signatures, forcing the county commission to annul the law or put it up for a referendum. The commissioners refused to annul it. The organization Miss Bryant formed and led, Save Our Children, Inc., charged that the ordinance would allow homosexuals to recruit children and serve as role models.

"Anita danced a jig," when she heard the results, said Mike Thompson of Save Our Children. Homosexuals and other supporters of the law gathered at the Fontainebleau Hotel for what they had hoped would be a victory party, but ended up singing the civil rights hymn "We Shall Overcome."

Jean O'Leary, executive director of the National Gay Task Force, said the defeat supplied "all the evidence anyone could need of the extent and virulence of prejudice against lesbians and gay men in our society."

However, she said, "The national debate provoked by the Dade County referendum has united and strengthened us as a national movement."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: No more buzz

Q. Why does Channel 8 out of Dallas buzz all the time on the Big Spring Television Cable? Can't this be corrected?

A. Will Ward, chief technician for Cable TV, says: "The buzz in the sound on Channel 8 comes from WFAA's equipment in Dallas. As of 11 a.m. today, I no longer detect the buzz on Channel 8 even during montage (white lettering over a color picture). I'm guessing they have corrected the problem."

Offbeat: Young squealer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Police stopped a soldier for a traffic violation, and his son, 3, unwittingly squealed on him.

The child was playing with a .38 caliber revolver, and as the officer gingerly took it away from him, the youngster said, "He keeps his dope right there" and pointed to a paper sack on the front seat.

Officers said four plastic bags of marijuana were found in the sack. Leno McGarity Jr., 23, of Ft. Hood, Tex., was charged with unlawfully carrying a weapon and possession of marijuana. He was released on $800 bond.

Tax break bill faces tough uphill fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's plan to give a special tax break to Americans who insulate their homes is still alive, but its passage is far from assured.

The House Ways and Means Committee tentatively agreed Tuesday in a close vote to allow a tax credit of up to $400 for the purchase of insulation and other home energy-saving devices.

The 13-12 vote could be an indication of more trouble than expected for Carter's entire energy-tax program, parts of which the administration concedes already face strong opposition.

Most Republicans and liberal Democrats opposed the tax break. At least three of the 13 congressmen who voted for it indicated their votes cannot be counted on when the proposal comes up for final consideration in the committee later this month.

The vote was the first by a congressional committee on any of the tax portions of Carter's energy program. The size of the opposition was surprising because the insulation credit had been regarded as the part of Carter's plan most acceptable to Congress.

Rep. Fortney Stark, D-Calif., urged deletion of the provision from the big energy bill. He said it would clutter up the tax laws and waste federal money on unnecessary subsidies. Rising fuel prices provide ample incentive for insulating homes, he contended.

Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the committee, said killing the provision just as the panel begins work on the Carter program would be a bad mistake and "cause all kinds of repercussions."

GROUNDBREAKING RITUAL — Shotgun Henry (in metal hat) turns the first spade of ground for the $250,000 Coors' Service Center, to be located at West IS 20 and Ohio St. Henry is president of DKT Inc., which is underwriting the venture. Roger Brown (in white suit at left) is president of the Big Spring area Chamber of Commerce. Roy Collins, DKT manager, and Mrs. Collins are in the center while Mrs. Henry, Mayor Wade Choate and members of the Ambassador Club are also pictured. Chaparral Contractors Inc., Big Spring, will construct the facility, which will offer meeting facilities for non-profit organizations. The building will have 15,000 square feet of floor space under one roof. Expected completion date is Nov. 1.

Work begins on $250,000 facility

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held today for a new Coors Brewing Co. Service Center to be constructed on the south service road of IS 20 between the Ramada Inn and the Texas Electric warehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. J.W. (Shotgun) Henry of Odessa, president and owner of the DKT Co. which will own and manage the facility, were on hand for the ceremonies today.

Others who attended included Roy Collins, local manager; Herb Woods, Odessa, sales manager; and four of the supervisors, Ron Hardwick, Jack Towery, Mike Pierce and Harold Towery. Robert Little, another local employe of the firm, was also in attendance. Members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Ambassadors attended the event, as well as Dan Hutchinson, local representative of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

The facility will include a warehouse section, and a club room which will be available to the public and offices.

Young in no trouble after racist talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Andrew Young is in good graces at the White House even though he says the last four presidents were racists and the Russians are racists and Abraham Lincoln was a racist, too.

"He's absolutely in no trouble," said one administration source in a position to know. The administration official spelled out President Carter's attitude after the U.N. ambassador spent half an hour Tuesday with Carter in the Oval Office.

The ambassador, black and a former lieutenant to civil rights leader Martin Luther King, emerged from the meeting with Carter saying that the President told him "in context he understood what I was trying to say" about racism.

Did he encourage Young to keep speaking out?

"No. I don't think he has to encourage me. But he didn't tell me to shut up, either."

Does Carter share his views on racism?

"I think he understands my views on racism."

Does he share them?

"Oh, I doubt that, no."

But the administration source said Carter "for the most part" thinks Young is saying things that need to be said. "They had a very cordial and friendly meeting," the source said. "He (Carter) is not upset by what the Republicans are saying."

Indeed, the administration went to some lengths to show that Carter will not buckle under to Republican demands that Young apologize for his remarks or be ousted. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., told reporters Young should never have been appointed.

While declining to bring Young to the White House press room because that might appear too staged, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell arranged for him to face reporters in the driveway, escorted Young out to meet them and escorted him away afterward.

Young, however, appeared less than eager to talk long.

Twice he thanked the reporters and tried unsuccessfully to leave. At one point he said: "I think the Republicans really have had so little to criticize in this administration if I didn't do what I'm doing they'd have to invent me."

The Republicans, mainly national chairman Bill Brock, want an apology for Young's remark in a Playboy magazine interview that former Presidents Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford were "racists." Both Nixon and Ford are Republicans.

In testimony Tuesday before the House International Relations Committee, Young extended that description to former Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson as well. They were Democrats.

But Young said he didn't intend his remarks to apply to the personal character of any of the presidents.

Then, in remarks to reporters at the Capitol, Young added Lincoln to the litany.

"I say it's very hard to have lived in the 20th century and not some way be contaminated; that I, myself, am constantly subject to racial attitudes. Everybody is, you know," Young said. By that token, the reporters asked, was the Great Emancipator a racist?

"Especially Abraham Lincoln," the reporters quoted him as saying.

Blistering heat perks power use

By the Associated Press
Texas residents braced themselves for another warm afternoon today as dawn brought little sign of relief from the blistering heat of the last few days.
A cool front lowered temperatures into the upper 80s and low 90s in North Texas Tuesday, breaking a string of five consecutive days of 100-plus readings in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. But air conditioning companies still reported a high volume of repair calls.
Ray Ward, spokesman for Dallas Power & Light Co., said Monday's high of 101 pushed electrical use for the day to 2.23 million kilowatts. That's 94 per cent of the 2.38 million kilowatts used last Aug. 9, the peak usage date in 1976.
And it's not even summer yet.
Tuesday's highs ranged from 83 at Amarillo to 99 at Alice. Early temperatures today ranged from 59 degrees at Texarkana and 60 at Longview to 75 at Corpus Christi and McAllen.
Skies were fair in Texas today for the fifth consecutive morning, with no clouds or precipitation reported anywhere in the state during the night.

WTCC processes 32 industrial inquiries

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce publication for May and June, This Is West Texas, notes that the Private Enterprise Development committee of the WTCC, has processed 32 industrial inquiries during the 1976-77 fiscal year.

The committee is headed by Ralph McLaughlin, Big Spring. In addition, according to the publication, the committee has received numerous requests for various types of economic data during the year.

The WTCC Free Enterprise Task Force has continued to operate during this quarter. Questionnaires were distributed to business department heads in West Texas colleges and universities participating on the task force, determining what materials are currently available for teaching free enterprise in secondary schools and what action they recommend for the task force's consideration.

Appeal filed by Ingram

The appeal of Jay Doug Ingram, sentenced in an October trial in 118th District court to 20 years for murder, will go to Judge Ralph Caton as soon as all briefs are filed. If a new trial is denied by Judge Caton, it will then go to the court of criminal appeals in Austin for consideration. This is the regular appeal route for criminal cases.

Rev. Henning's daughter hurt

Alicia Henning, 18-year-old daughter of the Rev. William Henning of Big Spring, was recovering in an Atlanta, Ga., hospital from severe abrasions received in a car accident over the weekend. Alicia was stopped and signalling for a left turn when her vehicle was struck from the rear and knocked across into the other lane of traffic where it collided head on with a third vehicle. Rev. and Mrs. Henning had gone to Georgia to attend Alicia's high school graduation tonight. It was thought that she would probably be able to take part in the ceremonies.

Mullican rebs release man from train

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — South Moluccan terrorists holding 53 hostages on a hijacked train in northern Holland agreed today to allow two Moluccan mediators to once again try to negotiate an end to the 17-day-old siege, the Dutch government announced. Earlier today, the terrorists released a 46-year-old man from the train, stopped in pastureland outside Assen, and said he needed immediate hospitalization. He was the third hostage released by the gunmen since the early moments of the hijacking May 23. The gunmen initiated the new contacts and said the mediation efforts should resume Thursday, officials said. A government spokesman said Premier Joop den Uyl and his cabinet agreed to the request after 5½ hours of discussion overnight and this morning. Another group of South Moluccan gunmen were holding four hostages at a school in a nearby village. The mediators, Josina Soumokil and Dr. Hassan Tan, members of the 40,000-strong South Moluccan community in The Netherlands, said they were willing to try again, the government said. But the two said they wanted to consult first with other South Moluccan leaders. The mediators' first round of face-to-face talks with the terrorists last Saturday produced no progress toward a settlement, officials said.

'Behaving like guys in Texas'

Interest in expanding the research done by the Department of Agriculture's Big Spring Experiment Station is growing.

Last week, a letter from the Department of Defense's Office of Economic Adjustment strongly recommended the expansion, which was first proposed following a study in 1966.

Cong. Omar Burleson, a Democrat from Anson who represents Big Spring in Washington, is pursuing this concept in the nation's capital.

WHILE THIS is a difficult time to get new monies appropriated in Washington, there are many reasons why this project is a most worthy one. One of the reasons appeared in a recent Wall Street Journal article entitled: "Western Farmers Fear Cutbacks in Irrigation As Water Supplies Fall; They Have to Replace Wells; See a Slide in Production If Dry Farming Returns, Like Those Guys in Texas."

The article dealt with the certainty that as water tables decline and demands upon water supplies increase, many areas now irrigating must return to dry land farming.

Such a development will have major impact upon the world's food supply. The yield could drop to as little as 15 per cent of irrigated land on some type of crops.

New laws are being discussed in almost every state to regulate the use of ground water.

The Journal quotes a Nebraska rancher as saying: "We should have done something about this 15 years ago. We've been behaving just like those guys in Texas."

The Journal then states: "Everybody discussing water problems sooner or later refers to 'those guys in Texas'—specifically to irrigators in that state's Panhandle."

It is frequently cited by geologists as the best example of an area where irrigation water has performed an agricultural miracle but has been squandered in the process.

"THE HIGH plains around Plainview, Texas, are believed to contain the largest contiguous block of irrigated land in the world: one four-county section is more than two-thirds irrigated. But water surveys by the U.S. Geological Survey almost routinely report, as they did in April, that a new all-time low was again recorded" for the Plainview water table.

The Journal noted that some geologists give the Texas Panhandle 20 to 25 years before it runs out of recoverable groundwater.

Obviously, pressures must be taken off the underground water supply for irrigation in many parts of the county with as little effect on yield and erosion to the soil as possible.

That's why the research being carried out at the Big Spring Experiment Station is so vital to the coming decades.

That's why the research program should be expanded, as was recommended in 1966, before a drought or declining water tables creates a problem of Dust Bowl proportions.

A few more research dollars expended now could return a benefit twentyfold to the nation in the 1980s and 1990s.

Murdered maitre

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — At two in the morning of May 12, the body of restaurateur Alexis Goodarzi, the self-styled "prince" of Capitol Hill, was found slumped behind the wheel of his orange Porsche sports car. There were three .32 calibre slugs in his head, the work of a professional killer.

Investigators now suspect that the flamboyant Goodarzi was an undercover operative for Iran's dread secret police. One investigator close to the case called him the "Tongson Park of Iran," a reference to the man-about-Washington who allegedly tried to buy influence on Capitol Hill for the South Korean government.

LIKE PARK, Goodarzi was a social swinger who packed a big bankroll and entertained congressmen. Both men were in their 30s; both moved at a fast pace; both reportedly had tens of thousands of dollars scattered in Washington bank accounts. Park reportedly had ties to South Korea's KCIA, Goodarzi to Iran's Savak.

But Goodarzi surpassed Park in dash and daring. On the night Goodarzi died, two beautiful women were waiting for him — one in a late-night joint, the other in his condominium. He also provided exotic beauties, our sources say, for congressmen with a taste for illicit romance.

Because one of the women was whispered to be a Korean, House investigators have been asking questions about Goodarzi. Their only interest, as we reported last week, was to determine whether he had any direct connection with the Korean scandal. The House Standards Committee is not investigating his alleged Savak activities nor his Capitol Hill call girl operations.

Ostensibly, Goodarzi was the maitre d' at the soigne Rotunda restaurant on Capitol Hill, a place where congressmen can dine discreetly with their lady friends. But the police believe he was keeping a quiet watch on his prominent clientele and reporting spicy tidbits to Savak contacts in the Iranian embassy, possibly for blackmail purposes. Our sources say he was in touch with two embassy contacts.

We have also made another significant discovery. Months ago, Iranian sources furnished us with a list of 14 top Savak agents in the United States. They are headed by Col. Mansur Rafizadeh, an Iranian diplomat in New York, whom U.S. intelligence sources confirmed is a Savak bigwig.

The fifth person on the list, an attaché at the Iranian embassy, helped arrange to return Goodarzi's body to Iran. He has also made persistent efforts to gain possession of Goodarzi's effects, which include tapes, correspondence, lists of names and other contents from safety deposit boxes.

WE HAVE AGREED to withhold the name of this embassy official, because we have been unable to corroborate from U.S. sources that he is a Savak agent. He acknowledged that he had met with Goodarzi at the Rotunda but denied the meeting had anything to do with intelligence activities. He was convinced, said the official, that Goodarzi had no contact with Savak agents.

"Our two countries are too close to each other," he said, "for us to want to (traffic in Capitol Hill gossip)." Footnote: The murdered maitre d' operated on the edge of the underworld.

Simply walking can trim pounds

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 57 and after years of lying around in a non-active job I've started to get the middle-aged droop, if you know what I mean. I guess I've been lucky up to now. I'm really not sports-minded, but I do want to get the exercise I know I need. I just can't do the regular formal exercises, either.

My husband insists that plain walking is enough for me, and we live where that is possible. I doubt walking is going to do much. What do you think? Is plain walking enough to take off weight and trim up? — Mrs. W. A.

It can be if it's done on a regular basis. But it has to be more than just a ten-minute stroll. As a matter of fact, walking should be of the vigorous kind, with shoulders and arms coming into play along with legs. Strolling won't do it.

An hour a day would not be too much, if your wind allows it. If you could manage occasional bending exercises, so much the better. Recently I heard of an elderly retired gent who lives in confined quarters in an apartment building who solved his exercise problem by walking in place. As a built-in exercise reminder, he uses television commercials. Whenever a commercial appears, he rises from his easy chair and walks or jogs in place. And you know the frequency of television commercials.

For the non-sportsman who can't get with some of the traditional exercises found in the books, the legs can be the only transportation to a slimmer body. Good for the heart, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 39 and for the last year I have had a kidney infection about every three months. My doctor usually prescribes sulfa. The infection is accompanied by stomach cramps and leg pains. Do you think I should consult a urologist? Please send me your booklet on kidney problems. — Mrs. A.A.

You should see a urologist, especially since your present doctor has not been able to get at the source of your recurrent infection. As you'll find discussed in the booklet, there are three basic reasons for recurrent kidney infection. One is improper medication — that is, medicine which is not effective against the specific infecting organism; another is not using the medication long enough for it to have full effect; a third is a defect in the urinary tract that promotes stagnation of urine and the repetition of infections. Stones in the tract also must be considered.

You should have a thorough kidney examination. Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a diabetic on insulin. Recently I had surgery and was given intravenous feeding. After I was off the IV, my urine was tested frequently. Later I tested my own urine every time I went to the bathroom. A bottle of dipstick was left in my hospital room. For two days my sugar ran very high. Would that happen to anyone, including a non-diabetic, after intravenous feeding? — C.D.

Yes, it probably would. Surgery is a shock for the system, especially for the diabetic. Any tissue damage may cause a rise in sugar, which is why diabetics must be cautious about injuries. The intravenous solution was probably glucose — more than your body's insulin could handle. Going directly into the bloodstream it would have appeared in the urine.

This is not unusual, and probably corrected itself in a few days when food was taken by mouth.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What do you think about legalized gambling? Someone said they read that you approved of it. — G.N.Y.

DEAR G.N.Y.: I don't deny that the civil government has the authority to regulate gambling, but I do not think gambling in general is good. I would not want to live in a community that had legal gambling, nor do I think a Christian should normally participate in gambling activities, even if the proceeds supposedly go for a good cause.

The Bible actually has very little to say about gambling. Although gambling was common in some parts of the ancient world, there is little evidence that it was ever widespread among the Jews. In the few instances where gambling is mentioned, it is done by cynical unbelievers, such as the soldiers gambling for Jesus' robe (Matthew 27:35) or the Assyrians casting lots for captives as servants (Nahum 3:10). During Old Testament times lots were cast to discern God's will, but this was not gambling (no exchange of money took place) and it passed out of existence in New Testament times once the Holy Spirit was given to guide believers.

I think gambling is wrong for Christians for several reasons. For one thing, the motive behind it is almost always selfish and covetous. Also, too little thought is given to fact that even if a person wins, someone else must lose, and often it is someone who cannot really afford it. If a person gambles and loses, money is wasted that could have been used for good purposes. All too often gambling, like alcohol, leads to a virtual addiction that makes a person a compulsive gambler. Many homes have been unhappy because of gambling. When a person seeks to follow Christ, he knows that his money is now God's and he will want to use it for God's glory.

Badly handled

Around the rim

Susan Hampton

A 19-year-old girl in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., like many under-achievers, has the reading capability of a third grader and cannot do simple mathematical problems such as change a dollar bill into quarters.

The really odd thing about this girl, according to a television news account, is that she just graduated from school officials there claim she met the requirements for it. And her mother is suing the school because of that.

Is her mother right in seeking legal action against the school? What has the school done wrong?

Obviously she feels this is a restriction to her daughter's freedom. By allowing a 19-year-old to graduate from high school with such little knowledge and expect her to lead a normal, productive life in today's world is wrong.

If this is just a case in teaching gone bad and not an indication of the girl's incompetence, something must be done about it. In our vast educational system, there must be many other cases just like this one, being handled just as badly.

Certainly the girl's teachers knew of her capabilities. Why didn't they do something about it?

Many persons question the quality of teaching in our educational system, whether it is in public schools or in private schools. They say the quality has declined because the quality of a college education has taken a sharp drop also.

True, colleges and universities are so crowded with elementary and secondary education majors that it seems an impossible task to give each the necessary instruction to become a good teacher.

Some major changes in teaching could improve the quality and help those students that need it most such as the girl in Ft. Lauderdale.

Worries about SALT

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Concern about the competency of U.S. negotiators on SALT is raised by this remarkable fact: the new U.S. proposal put forth in Geneva sets a "ceiling" on production of the Soviet Backfire bomber at a far higher level than the Russians can possibly achieve.

The failure by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to reveal the proposed "ceiling" to a Senate subcommittee May 26 might indicate self-doubt by U.S. policymakers about its worth. But defense-oriented members of Congress suspect duplicity less than incompetence. As details of Vance's session in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko have become known, doubt has grown whether the U.S. knows what it is doing in the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT).

IT IS DEBATABLE just how much of a retreat is represented by the proposal submitted at Geneva and rejected by Gromyko. If the Russians finally accept top-secret details as described to the Senators by Vance (which is dubious), the treaty surely would be ratified by the Senate. What is worrisome for the long haul are deficiencies in both grand strategy and petty details.

The heart of the concern is the fact that just one month after President Carter's bold, tough but still reasonable SALT package was tabled in Moscow, concessions were offered in Geneva. The inescapable conclusion is that, contrary to Mr. Carter's repeated public assurances that he is in no hurry, the old compulsive U.S. urge for some agreement — any agreement — has returned. The intractable Soviet position at Geneva suggests the Kremlin expects the American compulsion to back down will yield still more American concessions.

The theory that U.S. negotiators are more interested in the idea of a treaty than what is in it is supported by bargaining over the Backfire bomber. The U.S. proposal accepts the Soviet claim that the Backfire is medium-range and should not be counted in the limit on strategic weapons, even though many experts believe it can reach North America without refueling.

ACCORDINGLY, the secret proposal offered in Geneva would "limit" annual Soviet production. Precise figures are top secret, but intelligence estimates of actual Soviet production are but a small fraction of the "ceiling." Furthermore, there is no chance Soviet production could even approach this level during the proposed three years of the limit.

Unlike the Backfire's range, its production is not disputed inside the CIA or anywhere else in the national security bureaucracy. The only reasonable assumption, then, is that the SALT negotiators are guilty of inexcusable sloppiness. Nor is the Backfire the only such instance.

Testifying before Sen. Henry M. Jackson's subcommittee, Vance emphasized curbing development of the Soviet Union's huge SS-18 missile. But Pentagon experts feel this shows the U.S. negotiating team is behind the times technologically. The greater menace today is the smaller SS-19, Individualizing education for each student is most needed. Schools are overcrowded and depersonalized. A trend to more personalization has come about in recent years, but all too slow. More of this could help.

The method of "open concept" teaching has left many teachers confused about how to teach properly. Teachers who are currently in the profession and those now in college need special help in learning to adjust to the new concept so both teacher and child will benefit.

Team teaching methods can be of great value to the student also. More experimentation and testing should be done on this form of teaching so special talents of every teacher can be realized.

I fully believe with more parental participation in curricula planning, students could possibly relate more to the course work. Children look upon their parents as teachers and this would follow in course.

Parents interested in having more rights in any educational system must assume more responsibility in it for changes to occur. Advisory groups formed by parents would be of great benefit here.

To reach those students who have problems, such as handicapped children, children with learning disabilities, and also gifted children, special education is needed. Although this form of education has been around for many years, too many complaints have been brought against it to say it is good. Changes need to be made in special education's curricula and improvement in its structure could be used.

Certainly from the Fort Lauderdale instance, which many persons are now familiar with since it was provided national coverage on television, more legal action against allowing ignorance to persist will be made.

More significantly, Vance was questioned closely by the Senators on whether it would be remotely possible to verify the proposed ban on mobile long-range missiles. U.S. negotiators seem unconcerned that Soviet intermediate-range mobile missiles could be converted to long-range without anybody knowing it.

THIS HELPS breed skepticism in the Senate about Vance's reassurances regarding the principal obstacle to a SALT II agreement: the U.S. cruise missile. While supposedly postponing testing of land-based and sea-based cruise missiles, the U.S. does not intend the proposed language to actually block the new wonder-weapons such as the Tomahawk sea-based cruise missile.

Calls Male M.D.'s A Bunch of D.O.M.'s

DEAR ABBY: Why do male physicians always insist that their women patients disrobe completely when they come for an office visit? It seems that this procedure is especially "necessary" when the woman patient is young and attractive.

Since I am a man, I have my own ideas about why doctors insist on it. I have never heard of a man being asked to undress.

You find out, Abby, and let us husbands know. There are at least a quarter of a million other men in Michigan who would like the answer to this one.

CURIOUS IN FARMINGTON HILLS

DEAR CURIOUS: Both men and women must disrobe to some extent for a physical examination. Your suspicions are as groundless as they are evil-minded. And who appointed YOU spokesman for the men of Michigan?

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a wonderful guy for almost five years and we plan to marry soon.

About two years ago he started to lose confidence in his driving. He kept imagining that he was about to hit another car when he wasn't even close, and then he'd go to pieces.

He's never had an accident in his life. Now he makes up excuses to get out of driving and if I don't drive, we don't go.

I was in the hospital recently for a month and he visited me only twice because the bus schedules conflicted with his working hours.

His refusal to drive has curtailed our social activities and now it's limiting his job opportunities. He says our future home will have to be situated on a bus line.

No amount of pleading will induce him to drive. He refuses to see a doctor. I hate to give him an ultimatum, but if I thought it would help, I would. Should I accept his problem as a simple phobia? Or should I set a time limit, after which he must start driving again?

STUMPED IN N.Y.

DEAR STUMPED: Whether it's a "simple phobia" or a symptom of a more serious emotional (or physical) problem cannot be determined without a thorough examination. Don't marry him until after he sees a doctor.

CONFIDENTIAL TO EAGER TO SUCCEED: Sorry, but you will never accomplish what you have in mind if you continue to wait until you "find the time." No one ever FOUND time for anything. He made it.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Vacation Bible School: A summer tradition in Big Spring

BY CAROL HART

Vacation Bible School (VBS) is a traditional summer program for many churches. Sessions of Bible lessons, recreation periods and craft work are being carried on by several churches in this area this week, while others are planning sessions for later in the summer. The First Presbyterian Church is among churches conducting VBS this week, and several people involved with the program discussed the event.

Directors of VBS this year are Mrs. Genie Carroll and Mrs. Claudie Patterson. The women serve as overseers to the program, and discussed the changes that the program has seen.

"Many VBS groups are now meeting at night," Mrs. Patterson said, "or groups of churches are meeting together." Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Carrol agreed that they felt it best for their group to meet in the morning, and to have the group meet in contained classes. "We've tried changes," they said. "We have tried to mix different groups during the years. What we are doing is the old-fashioned way." They said they hoped it would prove to be less confusing. "We're going back to the basics."

The basics include putting the children into groups. Sections are the three and four year olds, the kindergarten group, the first and second grade, the third and fourth grade and the fifth and sixth grade.

"We have approximately 54 enrolled thus far this session," said Mrs. Carroll. The sessions also have 11 teachers and six teacher-aides, plus the two directors.

Most of the sections are studying how to better relations between family and friends, but each section has a special area of interest.

Mrs. Markay Brashears, a teacher in the three- and four-year-old age group, said that the children are learning about the family and God's influence in it. They are also discussing growing up, comparing themselves with Jesus from the time of his birth through his ministry.

"Everyone is so different," said Mrs. Brashears of her group. She noticed that each child in his section wants approval while learning and the teachers try to lend encouragement. Other teachers in the group include Mrs. Mary Brooks and Mrs. Kay Kennemer.

The Center Point Community Center will have a covered dish supper Friday, June 10 at 7:30 p.m. All residents and former residents are invited.

MODERNIZED BIBLE SCHOOL — Although Vacation Bible School still teaches the traditional Bible studies children have learned though the years, the methods of teaching have kept up with the times. Here the students are learning with the use of headphone devices at First Presbyterian Church, 8th Street and Runnels. Pictured (clockwise starting from bottom) are Bert Patterson, Mrs. John Kennemer, Craig Lee, Mrs. Tommy Hart, Kelly Ashley, Susan DeLeuw, Kevin Kennemer, Brian Averett and Tim Carroll.

Mrs. Elnora Hart and Mrs. Winnie Kennemer are working with the third and fourth graders, and their lessons center on getting along in groups.

"We are discussing belonging," said Mrs. Hart. "We are also discussing the fact that there are times when people do not belong, either through choice or rejection, and are discovering how to cope with this."

Mrs. Winnie Kennemer said that the group has been working with various crafts that parallel what they are learning in class sessions.

Mrs. Gary Zimmerman and Mrs. Thomas Justice are teachers for the four to six year olds, and the group's theme is "God plans for friends." The students learn through Bible stories and crafts.

Mrs. Zimmerman said that being a VBS teacher was a new experience for many of those involved with the program this year. She was at one time a kindergarten teacher in the public school systems, but has never taught in a church school.

Mrs. Zimmerman and Mrs. Justice are also with the children during their recreation period, and conduct the sessions with the help of teacher aides. Mrs. Zimmerman discussed the VBS program while taking a break from teaching the children new songs and games.

Mrs. Zimmerman said that she feels that most of the children were encouraged to attend the first day of Bible school, but that after they had become adjusted to it, most children wanted to come.

What about the kids? Do they like to attend? Chris Zimmerman, kindergarten group, explained that "my mom's a teacher," but added that "we have fun." He said that he was learning lessons from the Bible.

Amy Carrol, kindergarten group, said that "we get to sing and play and it's fun. We also get to make drawings," said Amy. She added that she was glad she came. Tommy Carroll, third and fourth grade, said "I just wanted to come to Bible School," and "we have a good time." He said that "we are learning how to be friends with each other."

Jeff Wallace said that his mother is a teacher in the VBS program. Did he want to attend VBS? "Yeah, sorta," said Jeff as he ran to catch his group that had Carter will not be swayed from human rights stance?

HOUSTON (AP) — The administrator of the State Department's Agency for International Development (AID), says the United States and other developed countries can eliminate absolute world poverty in the next 15 to 25 years.

"We, not the U.S. alone but the developed nations, can eliminate destitution, the resources are available," Gilligan, former governor of Ohio, said the Carter administration will not be swayed from its human rights stance despite the political problems it may cause.

Farm Bumper wheat crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite too much rain in some areas and not enough in others, farmers are headed for another bumper wheat crop.

The Agriculture Department says as of June 5 most of the winter wheat was headed out and combines were harvesting fields in much of the southern part of the country. But in the main breadbasket of the Great Plains, the harvest is lagging because of wet weather in some areas. About 13 per cent of the Texas wheat was combined as of June 5, and about 2 per cent in Oklahoma, both behind normal progress, the department said Tuesday in a weekly weather report.

Winter wheat makes up about three-fourths of the U.S. wheat supply. Spring-planted varieties in the northern states provide the remainder.

A month ago, USDA forecast that the 1977 winter

World cotton picture bright

WASHINGTON (AP) — World cotton production may rise about 10 per cent in 1977-78, the new International Cotton Advisory Committee says.

The committee, which represents cotton producing and consuming countries, said Tuesday there could be "significantly higher planted acreage," of cotton.

"Moreover, a large part of the expansion in acreage is occurring in countries where yields usually run much higher than the world average, which holds out the potential for a larger gain in harvest than suggested by area figures alone," the committee said.

Thus, 1977-78 cotton output could be around 63.8 million bales worldwide, compared with 57.8 million last season.

The committee said that the largest increases are likely to occur in the United States, Mexico, Turkey, Greece and Colombia.

wheat harvest will be about 1.48 billion bushels. Although that estimate was down 6 per cent from the 1976 harvest, it was 3 per cent more than USDA indicated last December in its initial crop forecast.

The Agriculture Department scheduled a new winter wheat estimate today based on surveys made on June 1.

Some private forecasters say the new estimate will be larger than last month's.

In its weather report, the department said last week's rain in many parts of the country helped corn and other crops. The West and parts of the South, however, continue to need moisture.

With nearly all of the corn planted, development is "far ahead of recent years" across much of the country, officials said.

More wheat in Kremlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is headed for another bumper grain harvest this year, including a substantial increase in wheat production.

The Agriculture Department estimated Tuesday that 1977 Russian grain output will be 215 million metric tons, the third largest harvest on record. The 1976 grain harvest was a record 223.8 million tons and the second-ranking production was 222.5 million tons in 1973.

Officials said that Soviet crops have benefited from "generally favorable weather and soil moisture conditions" although some parts of the spring crop area need rain.

If realized, the Soviet harvest could lead to a further buildup in grain reserves. The department's task force on Soviet grain said that further reports will shed more light on 1977 production.

Those reports will be issued approximately each month throughout the remainder of the grain season.

Senators to debate clean air rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is opening debate on legislation that would revise clean air regulations, following a high-gear automobile industry lobbying campaign aimed at weakening auto exhaust standards.

Backers of the bill are fighting efforts to tack the weaker requirements onto the measure.

The bill is a major overhaul of the 1970 Clean Air Act and calls for a one-year delay in a scheduled tightening of emission standards. Senate debate begins today. Senators on both sides predicted a major floor battle with the outcome too close to call.

At issue are tough new tailpipe standards scheduled to take effect with 1978 model cars, to be produced beginning later this year.

The industry claims it cannot meet the standards.

Calling for 90 per cent reduction in hydrocarbon, carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide emissions, the requirements were to have taken effect in 1975, but three one-year delays have been granted.

The industry says it already has reduced emissions by about 80 per cent, but achieving an additional few percentage points will be difficult and costly and will impair fuel efficiency.

It launched what many veteran members of Congress have called one of the heaviest lobbying campaigns ever, enlisting auto dealers in nearly every state and congressional district to help press for weaker standards. The AFL-CIO and United Auto Workers joined in the effort, with union officials claiming stiff tailpipe standards could hurt car sales and cause unemployment.

The House agreed to the industry-backed amendment, voting 255-139 last month to keep the existing auto emission standards for two more years. They would be followed by laxer standards for carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxides than those now scheduled to take effect.

PLANE CRASH KILLS FIVE — Firemen, surrounded by wreckage of a light plane that crashed in Upland, Calif., Tuesday, prepare to remove the bodies of five people killed in the plane when it struck the apartment at left and crashed between it and the building at right. Four other people were seriously injured and burned by the explosion and fire after the plane crashed. The four injured on the ground were taken to nearby hospitals.

Shark attack victim 'lucky'

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — "This isn't really happening. This happens in the movies," Dan Baen Jr. said in describing his feelings when he was attacked by a shark as he stood in chest deep water of the Gulf of Mexico near Aransas Pass.

Baen expressed his feelings about the attack from his hospital bed here where he is recovering from the attack in which he suffered a cut artery and 14 tendons.

Baen, who said he has seen the movie "Jaws," a film about a shark that attacked humans, but he couldn't believe he was actually being attacked.

"When the shark first hit me, I thought to myself 'This isn't really happening. It happens in the movies,'" Baen said.

Baen, 25, was removing fish from a net at the time of the attack. The shark was apparently a stray from the group of more than 2,000 that gathered offshore along the northern section of Padre Island last week for several days before they swam out into the Gulf of Mexico Sunday.

Baen's father, a physician, said he was "cut up pretty bad." Baen was with a group of Texas A&I University marine biology students at the time of the incident.

Doctors at Spohn Hospital here said Baen is in good condition and likely will not lose much, if any, use of the arm.

The students were working with a 350-foot net for an experiment at the time of the attack.

The Sinton man said he was working on the net when he first noticed something brush against his leg.

"I kiddingly thought to myself something about a shark when I felt it, but then

I saw it coming at me with its mouth open," Baen related. Although Baen and others agreed that the shark was about four feet long, they were unable to say what type it was.

Saccharin questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study by American scientists indicating saccharin may cause cancer in humans is raising new questions for congressmen trying to decide whether to delay a proposed ban on the marketing of the artificial sweetener.

Members of the panel of scientists told a Senate health subcommittee on Tuesday they concluded after new studies that saccharin is a weak carcinogen in laboratory animals.

They testified that the artificial sweetener has the potential, so far unproved, to cause bladder cancer in humans.

The Food and Drug Administration, citing a Canadian study linking saccharin with bladder cancer in animals, announced plans earlier this year to ban the sale of saccharin except as an over-the-counter drug.

Congressional critics of the plan, spurred by emotional protests of saccharin-using constituents, suggested more evidence was needed before the government prohibited widespread marketing of the sugar substitute.

It asked the panel of American scientists, chosen by the congressional Office of Technology Assessment, to study the issue.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, chairman of the subcommittee, said he would decide by the end of the week whether to introduce legislation delaying the pending ban.

DR. ROBERT WALLACE JR.

'Tween 12 and 20' column

"Tween 12 and 20," a column devoted primarily to teenagers and their problems, will shortly start appearing in the Family News section of The Herald.

The Copley News Service feature is written by Dr. Robert Wallace Jr., a Los Angeles area school principal. Wallace has the experience, know-how and concern so necessary to deal successfully with teenagers.

Wallace took leave from his duties several weeks ago to personally call on prospective clients for his unusual column. He drove as far east as Chicago and stopped in Big Spring on his return to Los Angeles.

While directed to the teenagers, Dr. Wallace's serious and direct answers will appeal to readers of all ages.

Present plans call for the column to appear twice and possibly three times a week in the Herald, depending upon space allowances.

Dr. Wallace's love and concern for teenagers is real. A former coach and teacher and presently a school administrator and college instructor, Dr. Wallace feels the basic teenage problem is the lack of communication between teen and adult.

"The adult just isn't listening to what the teen is saying," Dr. Wallace says.

"Tween 12 and 20" will respond to teens, their problems, goals and needs. It will praise, scold, encourage, criticize and — above all — help the troubled teens.

Most everyone will want to keep in touch with the teens by reading Dr. Wallace's realistic column.

THROUGH the fieldglasses

By Danny Reagan

Where'd those moves go, Dr. J?

Many people who consistently side with the odds-on favorites are still numb today, three days after the Portland Trail Blazers won the NBA crown.

"How in the name of all the tennis shoe commercials in the world could Philadelphia have blown it like that?" the empty-pocketed majority proclaim to the TV repeats of the series.

"They had Dr. J!" they answer to non-existent refutations.

I'll be the first to admit that I think Julius Erving is the finest basketball player drawing a breath in the world today. But I'll also have to admit that the Portland Trail Blazers are the finest basketball players drawing their collective breaths as a team in the world today.

But Dr. J does not a team make... as the playoffs with Walton's organized squad proved. Julius has drawn criticism because he seems to lose interest in the game when he doesn't have the ball.

McGinnis was the same way. And when you have two members on a team who either take control of a game almost by themselves when they are hot, or are ineffectual because of indifference, NBA championships are going to be hard to come by.

And worst of all, there seemed to be almost no team concept among the rest of the 76ers. It was every man for himself. Those who weren't playing were constantly complaining because of that. And at times, those in the game acted as if passing the ball would cost them points.

On the other end of the spectrum, the Trail Blazers exhibited the best team game in the NBA. They showed themselves to be near perfect in the playoffs at getting the ball to the open man, and feeding whichever man was hottest at the moment.

This was largely due in part to the actions of Bill Walton. There are those in the sports community who will never forgive Walton, Ali, Duane Thomas or a half dozen other superstars who dared buck the system. And those same people will never give credit where it is due to those athletes either.

But Walton's unselfishness contributed to the whirlwind championship his team now enjoys. He seemed to thrive on passing the ball off as much as scoring himself.

And Walton wasn't the only star on his team. Maurice Lucas, Lionel Hollins, Bob Gross and Dave Twardzik all had exceptional performances. Those stars complement themselves when they try to work together instead of outshining each other.

Dr. J is the most exciting basketball player to watch anywhere, but unless he wants to start making one-night stands throughout the land, a type of one-man show nightclub act, then he should seriously consider obtaining some leadership skills such as Walton, so he can direct his 76ers towards a unified effort.

Otherwise, all the slam dunks in the world aren't going to win championships... that is, unless you can have one everytime you get your hands on the ball. Dr. J may be great, but he's not that great.

CONCENTRATION — Cindy Crow, second baseman for the Midland senior team of the Miss Softball America league keeps a watchful eye on the proceedings of a Tuesday night contest between her team and the Big Spring seniors. Midland, which is undefeated in league play, won the contest.

Luzinski melts Astros in sixth

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Greg Luzinski was put on ice to get the husky slugger back in the Philadelphia Phillies' lineup.

The Phillies have access to an ice machine that helps heal sprains and muscle injuries. There are supposed to be only nine such machines in the United States.

Luzinski pulled an Achilles tendon during the game last Saturday against New York. Trainer Don Seger credits the ice machine with healing the outfielder a lot faster than customary methods.

The Houston Astros discovered Tuesday night that only Luzinski's hamstring, not his bat, had been iced.

In the sixth inning, with the Astros leading 7-6, Luzinski deposited a Gene Pentz slider into the first deck in left field for a three-run homer. It was the winning blow in a 9-8 Phillies' triumph.

The 26-year-old Luzinski has been struggling a little with his timing since returning to the lineup.

"I've been a little late on the fastball, and a little too quick on the breaking ball," said Luzinski.

"I hit a little extra today to try and see the ball more," Luzinski explained. "The first time up I just missed a curve ball. It was just a matter of timing."

He had no trouble with his timing in the sixth. The ball left his bat as if it was fired from a cannon. Houston left fielder Willie Crawford never turned around. It was Luzinski's 10th of the year, and the fifth in a battle of long ball between the Astros and Phillies.

What excited Luzinski more than his homer was that Mike Schmidt slammed a two-run job in the first inning, the second in two nights for the major league home run king.

"That one-two punch that helped us win last year is back," Luzinski said enthusiastically. "Our power production has been low. But Mike hit one and Richie Hebner two last night (Monday). Maybe we've got it going. Hebner can hit 25 or 30."

The Phillies rallied three times in beating the Astros. "That's what we got to have, the knack of picking each other up," Luzinski said. "That's the type of game we played last year and it's come back."

Luzinski's three-run homer was the first for the Phillies this season with more than one runner on base. Luzinski said the Phillies' offense has been hampered by injuries.

"I missed ten days. Hebner missed the first month of the season. Schmidt was out for awhile."

Tech has more stars

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Texas Tech, with first baseman Gary Ashby, outfielder Paul Johnston and designated hitter Gary Sims, had the most players on the NCAA Dist. VI All-Star team that was announced Tuesday.

The all-stars, selected by a vote of head coaches, also included two players each from Texas and Texas A&M. They were pitcher Mark Thurmond and third baseman Robert Bonner from the Aggies and outfielder Wendell Hibbett and catcher Bob Kearney from the Longhorns.

Other players on the team were second baseman Gary Weiss of Houston, shortstop Steve Macko of Baylor, outfielder Arvis Harper of Arkansas and pitcher Allan Ramirez of Rice.

Buchanan holes ace

Local golfer Buck Buchanan gained another feather in his golfing cap Tuesday by dropping a hole-in-one on the 154-yard, par-three 10th hole at the Comanche Trail Golf Course, according to pro Bobby Howell.

Witnessing the infrequent feat were Bob Waters, Joe Sharpnack and Omer Decker.

Rangers fluke Yanks

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — When the New York Yankees visit Texas, one expects the unexpected. But Tuesday night lifted the absurdity level to a new high.

The Rangers rode a fluke double by Willie Horton to a five-run outburst in the fourth inning into a subsequent 7-3 victory over justifiably disgruntled Ed Figueroa.

"We deserve breaks like that occasionally," said Ranger Manager Frank Lucchesi. "Every team gets them and tonight we got ours. We just took advantage of a break."

With two on and two out and Texas trailing 2-1, Horton lofted a high fly to centerfield, the kind of puff Mickey Rivers normally would retrieve even if he were on crutches and nursing a scotch and soda.

"I didn't see the ball at all," Rivers grumbled after the game. "Reggie (Jackson) said he thought I said 'I have it,' but I never did see it."

By the time Horton reached second, Bert Campaneris and Dave May had crossed the plate and the best, or worst, was yet to come.

Toby Harrah crunched his seventh home run of the year, scoring Horton ahead of him, and then back-to-back doubles by Mike Hargrove and Tom Grieve made it 6-2.

"When I was between first and second I realized it was going to fall," Horton said of his double. "I figured it was about time we got a break like that. We haven't had many lately."

Jackson, who had raced over to assist on the play, said, "When he (Rivers) looked up, it looked like he had a dead bead on the ball. I thought he had things under control."

Famous big league names are in draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Kennedy ... Jim Landis ... Tito Francona.

The names carry with them memories of the 1950s when all three were major league mainstays. If you remember them as players, the years are creeping up because all three had sons chosen Tuesday in baseball's amateur draft.

Kennedy is now vice president for baseball operations of the Chicago Cubs and had the final say on his club's selection in the draft. The St. Louis Cardinals saved him from facing the decision whether to draft his son, Terry, by picking the young Florida State University catcher on the draft's first round.

Kennedy, the sixth player chosen, batted .333 with eight home runs and 41 runs batted in this season. For his career, the slugging catcher has a Florida State record 32 homers and a .348 batting average.

Despite those impressive numbers, Kennedy doesn't think he's ready for the majors quite yet. "I feel through natural development and playing, I'm a couple of years away," he said.

Kennedy's coach at FSU is ex-major league infielder Woody Woodward. "I could coach another 10 years and not have another prospect like Terry," said Woodward. "He's that good. There're a lot of clubs in the big leagues he could play for right now."

Landis, once the fleet center fielder of the Chicago White Sox, had his son, Craig, chosen 10th in the first round by the San Francisco Giants. The youngster is a shortstop at Vintage High School in Napa, Calif.

Then, on the draft's second round, it was Francona's turn. The Cubs went for his son, Terry, a first baseman from New Brighton, Pa.

The No. 1 choice in the draft belonged to the Chicago White Sox, who selected and then quickly signed first baseman-outfielder Hal Baines from St. Michaels, Md.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

FAMILY AFFAIR — Bill Wrigley, 44, took over the reins of the vast Wrigley chewing gum empire in 1961, but just had the Chicago Cubs baseball team dropped in his lap when his father died last April. The Cubs, now at the top of the National League's east division, are doing better than ever under the Wrigleys' continued ownership.

Country Club duos set for weekend

The annual Big Spring Country Club partnership tournament is scheduled for this weekend at the local club links.

The tourney, which includes scratch and handicap flights, will begin Saturday, June 11, and conclude with the final round Sunday.

Entry fee will be $40 per team, and this price includes a barbecue and dance Saturday evening. Deadline for entries is this Friday at 6 p.m.

Golfers from Texas Tech, Western Texas, Abilene, Midland, Odessa, and San Angelo will join local golfers in the quest for the title.

Local favorites have to be the teams of Don Osborne and Jerry Barron, Pat Weaver and Mike Hall, and Lubbock golfers Steve Long and Danny Walters.

For more information about the tourney, contact Country Club pro C.G. Griffin at 7-5354.

Twins outsmart Sox

By the Associated Press

Bob Lemon says that his Chicago White Sox can compete with the Minnesota Twins this year.

But if they do, they will have to outthink them first. The Twins outsmarted the White Sox with a crucial double steal in the 11th inning that gave them a 6-5 victory Tuesday night.

The victory increased the Twins first-place lead in the American League West Division to two games over the White Sox.

Jerry Terrell and Rod Carew on base, Twins Manager Gene Mauch ordered a double steal. Terrell, on the front end of the double steal, was not the least bit surprised when the sign was flashed.

"Gene (Mauch) asked me, 'Can you steal?' and I said yes, they weren't even looking for it. The pitcher was just concentrating on the hitter."

The steal put runners at second and third and it looked like they would stay there after Larry Anderson struck out Lyman Bostock for the second out.

That put Willie Norwood and his .080 batting average at the plate for the Twins. Norwood grounded to shortstop Alan Bannister for what appeared to be the final out of the inning.

"I wanted to get a second chance," Norwood said after the game.

Bannister gave it him, throwing the ball low and in the dirt past first baseman Jim Spencer, allowing Terrell to score the winning run.

Slew's kidgloves pay off

NEW YORK (AP) — Seattle Slew "will be a better horse when Billy can train him up to one race rather than try to finess him through three," says Mickey Taylor.

"That's where Billy deserves all the credit," Taylor said of trainer Billy Turner's "kidglove" handling which has paid off in eight victories and brought the colt to the threshold of becoming the first unbeaten Triple Crown champion.

That threshold can be crossed Saturday in the 1 1/2-mile Belmont Stakes, and if it is, the colt's value will increase even more. It already is much greater than the $3.5 million for which he is insured.

"Sometime we're going to have to sit down and decide what we're going to do," said Taylor, who owns Seattle Slew along with his wife, Karen, and Dr. Jim Hill and his wife, Sally. The Slew races in Karen Taylor's name.

One option is to race the colt as a 4-year-old — something that is hardly ever done any more with top 3-year-olds in this age of multi-million-dollar syndication.

The Taylors have talked of racing Seattle Slew next year. "We would like to," said Karen, "but we want to do what's best for Slew. We don't want to get him beat. I don't mean by racing him but by racing him when we shouldn't."

Walton, Dr. J on second team

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walton helped the Portland Trail Blazers to the National Basketball Association title, but the 6-foot-11 center finished second to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA all-star voting.

Walton was joined on the second team by Julius Erving and George McGinnis of the Philadelphia 76ers, whom the Blazers defeated in the championship playoffs. Abdul-Jabbar and Pete Maravich of the New Orleans Jazz led those named to the first team, which was announced Tuesday by the NBA.

Abdul-Jabbar collected 107 points in voting by sports writers and broadcasters from all league cities. The first-team selection was the sixth of the center's eight-year NBA career.

Cuba in on-deck circle

Years ago, when American ballplayers went to Cuba in the winter and Cuban ballplayers played here in the summer, the Pearl of the Antilles produced some of the big leagues' finer talents, among them Orestes Minoso, known as Minnie.

Minnie played for the White Sox, who were general-managed by Frank Lane. Frank Lane loved to scout in Cuba, and during one particular visit he was standing on a street corner at night when he heard some shooting. The revolution had arrived in Havana.

Before Frank Lane knew what was happening, a bewhiskered gentleman in some sort of drab uniform stuck a machine gun in his ribs and shouted, "Viva Castro!"

"Minnie Minoso," answered Frank Lane nervously, "Me papa of Minnie Minoso," and according to Frank they went away and left him alone.

Shortly thereafter the iron gates of politics slammed shut, and there have been no Minnie Minosos coming out of Cuba, or even Tony Perezes. Of late, however, President Carter has been playing footsie with Cuba. No sooner had the administration lifted travel restrictions to the islands than ballclub owners began bee-lining to the Caribbean, and not for the cruise. There is an untapped generation of ballplaying talent there.

First George Steinbrenner went there with Gabe Paul and a Yankee scout named Whitey Ford. Then Bill Vecek took the tour, and more are expected to follow.

"If they lift the restriction on signing ballplayers, it will be like the gold rush in the Klondike," says Bob Lemon, who manages the White Sox for Bill Vecek.

To prevent this, to avert a mad scramble for player talent the moment Castro's policy becomes convertible, Commissioner Kuhn has set up some big league ground rules. For the present, those visiting Cuba may not negotiate with any player, nor may they be held.

"Anyone is free to go take a look at their ballgames in order to get an idea of the calibre of talent," says Kuhn.

Evidently, too, anyone is free to plant a few seeds of propaganda along the way. Bill Vecek, returning from his trip to Havana, boasted of how he had portrayed himself to the Cubans as a fighter, a man of the people, just like Fidel Castro. He also told them, he says, that George Steinbrenner is like Batista, the fascist Castro overthrew.

George Steinbrenner thinks this is a bit of dirty pool.

"Bill Vecek has money," says the Yankee owner. "I know, because I gave it to him for Bucky Dent. Bill wasn't the least bit reticent about taking that Yankee money."

For Bucky Dent, the shortstop, Steinbrenner recently gave Oscar Gamel, a couple of minor leaguers, and a hoodie believed to be $300,000.

"I have a great deal of respect for Bill," added Steinbrenner, "but I really don't know what would make him say something like that."

It's the Bureau in Vecek. He figures he'll steal an inside track among Cubans the day Castro opens up the airports.

TOUCH ONE FEET FOR OLYMPIANS TO BELIEVE

"We're not sure what will happen," says Johnny Johnson, Kuhn's aide. "I have seen statements that their citizens will never be permitted to sign professional contracts."

In the socialist state there are no professional athletes. That may be a difficult concept for our Olympic athletes to swallow, but this is what the people with the red flags say.

To circumvent such eternal amateurism, it is thought that the Lords of Baseball might pay large amounts of Yankee dollars to the government for Cuba's athletic program.

SEAVER BREAKS RECORD — New York Mets Tom Seaver throws against the Cincinnati Reds en route to an 8-0 victory Tuesday night at New York's Shea Stadium. Seaver notched ten strikeouts to reach the 2,400 mark which places him ahead of Sandy Koufax on the all-time strikeout list.

Nit-wit phased out of sport

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke, the National Basketball Association's coach of the year, has a simple formula for handling troublemakers — he gets rid of them.

"The nit-wit is being phased out of sports," Nissalke said Tuesday. "Teams aren't interested in taking on the head cases anymore."

"Now if (Kareem Abdul) Jabbar was a head case, and he's not, or a Bill Walton, a team might try to take them on but it would have to be the super star."

Nissalke said although the Rockets from a losing team into the NBA Central Division champions, said not having any troublemakers on the Rockets helped improve the team.

"I was able to coach this year because I didn't have to bail anybody out of jail," Nissalke said. "At one time I coached, my trainer's life was threatened. I didn't have that problem either."

Nissalke said although he had complaints from Rocket players who sat on the bench, there was no dissension during Houston's successful season. Nissalke said he's found honesty the best policy in keeping players happy.

"I left our players with one thought at the end of the season," Nissalke said. "If they ask to be traded, be sure that somebody wants them. I tell our players to come to my office any time they want to know their worth. I'll tell them exactly their value."

"I think you're only confusing a guy if you lie to him. It's better for him to know where he stands."

The collegians the Rockets select in Friday's NBA draft already know where they stand — probably out in the cold.

"We're not going to get any players that will make that big a difference," said Nissalke, who last year traded Houston's first round picks in 1977 and 1978 to Buffalo for Moses Malone. "We've got 12 players and they want to be players here."

Seaver captures 2,400 whiff

By the Associated Press
Tom Seaver may get tired pitching baseball games, but he never tires of the crowd's adoration.

"It's fun to do these types of things here in front of these people," says Seaver.

What Seaver did Tuesday night was hit another milestone in his glowing career — surpassing Sandy Koufax on the all-time major league strikeout list while leading the New York Mets to an 8-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

"I was a bit tired in the ninth," said Seaver, who had enough energy to tip his cap after ending the game by striking out George Foster for his 10th strikeout of the game and the 2,400th of his major league career.

Seaver got a long standing ovation from the crowd of 16,067 at Shea Stadium when he moved into 13th place on the all-time strikeout table by fanning Dan Driessen in the seventh inning. When Seaver edged ahead of the Los Angeles Dodgers' Hall of Famer, it triggered a scoreboard message of the accomplishment.

Rangers picks

include Mosby

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Rangers first draft choice Tuesday was shortstop David Michael Hibner, an 18-year-old right-handed hitter from Howell, Mich., high school.

Others selected Tuesday included in order of their selection:

Linvel Mosby, pitcher, Pecos, Tex.; Jerry Vasquez, pitcher, Arizona State University; George Wright, outfielder, Oklahoma City Capitol high school; Michael Jirschele, shortstop, Clintonville, Wis.; Pat Nelson, pitcher, Miami, Fla.; Carol City high school; Odie Davis, shortstop, Prairie View A&M; Joseph Knight, pitcher, Texas high school, Texarkana; Bobby Johnson, catcher, Dallas Kimball high school; Charles Lamson, pitcher, Clouster Community College, Sewell, N.J.; Steven Mack Nielson, pitcher, Penn State University; Ronald Edwin Carney, outfielder, Texas Wesleyan, and Donald Kainer, pitcher, University of Texas at Austin.

In other National League games, the Chicago Cubs trimmed the Los Angeles Dodgers 10-4, the Philadelphia Phillies out-slugged the Houston Astros 9-8, the San Francisco Giants edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-6 and the San Diego Padres defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 9-5. Rain washed out the Atlanta-Montreal game.

Seaver, who allowed only five hits and walked but one batter, got all the support he needed from Lee Mazzilli's three runs batted in as the revitalized Mets won their seventh game in eight starts under new Manager Joe Torre.

Cubs 10, Dodgers 4
Manny Trillo and Dave

Rosello each drove in three runs as Chicago defeated Los Angeles for the second straight day. Ray Burris scattered nine hits in eight innings and earned his eighth victory of the season.

Phillies 9, Astros 8
Greg Luzinski's three-run homer in the sixth inning rallied Philadelphia over Houston. The Phillies trailed 7-4 starting the sixth, but reliever Joe Niekro walked two batters in a row with one out. An error by shortstop Julio Gonzalez on a line drive by Garry Maddox loaded the bases and Ted Sizemore's single drove in two runs and kayoed Niekro.

Right-hander Gene Pentz replaced Niekro and got Mike Schmidt on a fly ball, but Luzinski hit his 10th homer of the season over the left field fence and a 9-7 Philadelphia lead.

Release of millionaire mulled

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — State District Court Judge George Dowlen and attorneys involved in the upcoming capital murder trial of Cullen Davis have discussed the possibility of temporarily releasing the Fort Worth millionaire.

No action was taken Tuesday, however, and Davis remained in the Potter County jail.

The discussion centered around the possibility that Davis be released temporarily in the custody of the 101st District Court before a bond hearing is held next week.

Davis is awaiting trial in connection with the slaying last August of his 12-year-old stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn at a shooting spree in his lavish Fort Worth mansion.

His first trial ended in a mistrial. Davis is also charged with killing his estranged wife's boyfriend, former Texas Christian University basketball player Stan Farr, and wounding his wife, Priscilla Davis, and another man.

Judge Dowlen of Amarillo discussed a motion for such a release with defense attorneys and Tarrant County Asst. Dist. Atty. Marvin Collins on Tuesday.

There was no indication as to when any decision will be made and lawyers did not indicate late Tuesday if the discussion would resume today or if the matter is closed.

Davis' attorneys have filed a motion for a second bond hearing in Amarillo and have asked repeatedly since September for Davis' bond to be set.

The second bond hearing, however, will be in Judge Tom Cave's 213th District Court in Fort Worth, and Cave has said he will hear the motion on the writ "late this week or early next week."

Davis was moved from the Tarrant County jail to Amarillo Sunday.

Under an obscure and seldom used provision of the Code of Criminal Procedure, Dowlen could order Davis' release between now and the date of the bond hearing.

"Basically, a writ (for bond) has been filed and it is returnable to Judge Cave," said Dowlen. "In the interim, I could grant a temporary bond which would be returnable day to day — meaning from the day I granted it until the day he was to report to Cave's court."

The provision allowing for the temporary release is in Article 11.32 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and concerns "custody pending examinations."

Cave said the provision is "little used" and usually is employed only in cases in which the defendant intends to plea insanity or is seriously ill.

In those cases, a judge often remands the defendant to a hospital.

Gov. Byrne defeats nine Hayes seeks

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Gov. Brendan Byrne, counted out by many early in the year, has turned back nine challengers and won the Democratic Party's nomination for re-election.

Byrne, 53, will face state senator Raymond Bateman, who emerged the victor in the Republican half of Tuesday's primary.

"I fought like hell for it," Byrne said at his campaign headquarters in Edison.

With 98 per cent of the election districts reporting, Byrne had received 171,723 votes to 127,161 for the runner-up, congressman Robert Roe, who had spent $815,000 in his primary campaign. Former state senator Ralph DeRose was running third with 98,151 votes. The remaining Democrats trailed by substantial margins.

On the Republican side, Bateman, 49, had received 187,007 votes with 98 per cent of the election districts counted, to claim a nearly 64,000-vote margin over Assemblyman Thomas Kean, who used his family's wealth from banks and utilities to finance a campaign that relied heavily on television advertisements.

Trailing were former state senator C. Robert Sarcone, with 20,242 votes, and former Moorestown Mayor William Angus, with 11,620.

Political observers said the primary results appeared to set the stage for a November election test of the state income tax. Byrne signed the tax into law last year and supports it. Bateman voted against it and said he would let the tax expire at the end of June 1978.

venue change

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A change of venue hearing was to be held in federal court here today as lawyers for former Castroville town marshal Frank Hayes seek to have his criminal civil rights trial moved out of San Antonio.

The change of venue hearing was scheduled last month after U.S. District Court Judge Adrian Spears ruled that Hayes is mentally competent to stand trial.

The former law officer was indicted by a federal grand jury here last February.

He is accused of violating the civil rights of Richard Morales, a 27-year-old Mexican-American construction worker who was shot to death while in the custody of Hayes on Sept. 14, 1975.

There's something in it for you.

It'll be well worth your trip to Taylor County Coliseum in Abilene on Thursday, June 23, at 6 p.m. for "Life Rally." Come with your family or some friends because the message of "Life Rally" promises to benefit everyone.

"Life Rally" is a motivational seminar on Leadership, Inspiration, Follow-through and Enthusiasm. And it's no accident that the first letters of those four topics included on the program spell "life."

The four speakers will be Paul Harvey, nationally known commentator on the world's largest one-man news network; Bob Richards, two-time Olympic gold medal winner in the pole vault; comedian and humorist Jerry Clower from the Grand Ole Opry; and Og Mandino, author of the best-selling book "The Greatest Salesman in the World."

Each speaker is a superstar in his own profession, but each will also interest, entertain and educate you with a message about "life." Tickets are only $10 each. They are available by sending payment and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to "Life Rally," Box 5527, Abilene, Texas 79604. Or if you're in Abilene, stop by Taylor County Coliseum, Sears or Athletic Supply for your tickets.

Teamster member hit with assault charge

DALLAS (AP) — A member of Teamsters Union local 745 was free on a $200 bond today following his arrest on a misdemeanor assault charge in connection with the Sunday attack on television newsmen outside the local's meeting hall.

Carl Wayne Branch, 34, was arrested on a misdemeanor assault warrant Tuesday. The charge accuses him of striking newsmen Byron Harris of WFAA-TV during one of three incidents Sunday outside the union hall.

Branch was free after posting a $200 bond Tuesday night.

Investigators have tentatively identified two more persons and expect to take them into custody today, according to Police Capt. Don Milliken, head of the crimes against person section.

Jack Kenneth Tucker, 37, was arrested on a misdemeanor assault Sunday and is free on a writ of habeas corpus.

Newsmen injured in the assaults included Harris, WFAA-TV cameraman Mike Coscia, KDFW-TV reporter Greg Le-Fevre and cameraman Jack Weber of KDFW-TV.

Also injured in one incident was 745 local member Paul Nichols, who sustained minor leg injuries when members of a crowd estimated at about 400 slammed a police car door on his leg.

The attack came when Nichols, an unsuccessful candidate for president of the local in 1975, and William T. Weed, an unsuccessful candidate for secretary-treasurer of the local, who had been pushing for disclosures about the union's business affairs, were preparing to attempt to attend a meeting at the union hall Sunday.

Paws that refreshes, poodles or bulldogs?

DALLAS (AP) — It may seem like oysters, buoys and bulldogs have nothing in common and that pearls, gulls and poodles are dissimilar, but such distinctions are crucial in some Dallas restaurants.

These restaurants and theme amusement parks have now given way to theme restrooms.

We no longer enjoy the luxury of looking for ladies or men's rooms.

Instead, we are forced to decide if we're a buoy or a gull. The Sea Catch Restaurant has a set of perplexing doors, one labeled Oysters and one labeled Pearls.

A customer timidly tries to catch the eye of a waitress. "Excuse me, which one is for women — the oysters or the pearls?"

A waitress explains the whole thing:

"If you look at the picture of the oyster, it's smoking a cigar and the pearl has long, fluttering eyelashes. Besides, oysters rhymes with boys and pearls rhymes with girls," she said.

Ladies and Lassies would be an easy choice for most people, but of course ladies is one 'd' away from ladies and someone who had a long wait at the bar before dinner could be in trouble.

Mexican restaurants are fond of offering doors with Muchacho and Muchacha, which might test some of our memories for high school Spanish.

The Hot Doggers Restaurant has boldly marked its rest rooms for Poodles and Bulldogs.

"I think most ladies understand they're supposed to be poodles," said Barrett. "But sometimes you just don't want to take a chance."

61 signed for show

The High Plains Agribusiness Exposition has announced the signing of the 51st exhibitor for its Sept. 8, 9 and 10 showing in Lubbock.

Danny Cunyus, director of the show, announced the total as of May 31 and added that because of the rate contracts are being received, originally planned inside space will be expanded to the pedestrian mall of the Lubbock Civic Center. Cunyus said that outside space availability is not a problem at his time, and several choice locations remain available in that area.

There are more than 80,000 farmers on the High Plains within 225 miles of Lubbock. Cunyus stated that, "Given the new show facilities, adequate hotels and motels, the favorable time of the year, and the calibre of exhibitors signed to date, we are anticipating the High Plains Agribusiness Exposition to be one of the leaders in the country in attracting qualified farm buyers this year."

DENNIS THE MENACE

"THOSE DARK CLOUDS ARE THE FULL ONES COMIN' IN AND THE WHITE ONES ARE EMPTIES GOIN' OUT."

JUMBLE THAT SCRAMBLED WORD GAME

Unscramble these four Jumbles, one letter to each square, to form four ordinary words.

TAFAL

HARTOX

Now arrange the circled letters to form the surprise answer, as suggested by the above cartoon.

Print answer here: "_____"

Yesterday's Jumbles: OWING JUMPY HAMPER FROSTY
Answer: What it might be for the pitcher turned crook—THE "JUG"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have many ideas today for gaining greater success in vocational matters. Make plans considering activities which you want in your life in the days ahead. Study them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Know exactly what you want to accomplish in the future and formulate the right plan for such. Gain the cooperation of co-workers.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your most intimate aims and know to gain them more readily. Avoid unnecessary expenditure of money.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Contact your finest friends and get their support so you can gain your aims and ambitions. Be sure to budget wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do whatever will gain added prestige in the outside world and become more successful. Evening is fine for the social side of life.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study modern ways of doing things and become more successful thereby. Steer clear of known troublemakers. Obtain the data you need.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use more up-to-date methods to gain greater success in your particular line of endeavor. Come to a better accord with mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Work on those ideas you have that can bring more harmony with associates. Some civic ideas you have can also be utilized.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Engage in activities that will relieve anxieties you are under. Showing increased devotion for make brings fine results now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talk over with family members how to have more harmony at home. A new activity could give you more abundance in the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to complete an unfinished job before you engage in some new kind of activity. Take it easy tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Consult a financial expert for the advice you need. You can easily make the evening a charming one from a social standpoint.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day to concentrate on improving your financial status. Plan to save more money to meet any possible emergencies.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a boon to humanity because of the inventive and constructive ideas of this nature. Be sure to give the finest education you can afford for this extraordinary mind. Don't neglect religion training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

400 years of Castles

with Marj Carpenter

Long live the Castles. I don't know whether anyone gave them that salute when they were children, or not. But they have lived long and they're pretty happy about it.

There's five boys and one girl left of the group and the five boys got together in Big Spring last week to visit their sister, who has been hospitalized.

They decided they were having such a good time together that they would go down and have their picture made in a group.

There are over 400 years among this long-lived group of brothers. Earl, who resides in Hobbs, N.M. is now 88. He used to live out in the Knot area and farmed there. His fater, J.D. Castle, farmed there before him.

"He used to have a lot of help from all of the boys," Reg recalled.

H.G. (Grady) Castle, who resides in Abilene, is 86. He's in real estate. One of the brothers quipped, "He learned about real estate from working on a farm and farming all that real estate."

FIVE CASTLES—On the back row are Earl, Grady and Tom Castle with Lee and Reg up front. The five brothers held a reunion this past weekend in Big Spring.

Lee Castle, 84, farmed for many years on the edge of Martin County not too far away from where his father farmed before him.

Tom Castle is 75, and is known throughout the West Texas area for his fiddlin' talent. He takes part in all of the old fiddlers programs he can attend and with a family musical group furnishes music at other events.

Reg, is only 73. He worked for several years with the Houston Post Office and then with the city of Big Spring where he worked 24 years in the waterworks. He resides here in Big Spring.

Their father died at the age of 73, so they have all lived as long as their dad. Their mother died when she was 75.

Their one surviving sister, out of three, is Mrs. H.L. Dunagan, who also resides in Big Spring. Two other brothers died when they were children.

The men are apparently outliving the females in this family. All five of them wear cowboy hats. "Dad wouldn't go out of the house without his hat on," Tom recalled.

The group tells a lot of funny tales when they are together and they all laugh and joke a lot.

"We had a happy home as we were growing up even though we darned near starved some of those years," Reg said in his recollections.

But apparently a sense of humor saw them through the tough days and this week when they all got together, they were thoroughly enjoying the reunion. So long live the Castles—out where I'm ridin' fence.

Bullock says funds available

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock announced Monday he has certified to Gov. Dolph Briscoe that there are sufficient funds available for the legislature's general appropriations bill and all other bills that make direct appropriations.

By law, the comptroller must make this certification before the governor may sign appropriations bills.

White gains stay of execution

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Convicted murderer Robert Excel White, who once said he wanted to die in the Texas electric chair, has had his June 15 date with the executioner delayed at least two months.

U.S. District Court Judge William Wayne Justice agreed Tuesday to hold a hearing on White's writ of habeas corpus request, granting White a stay of execution.

White was convicted of capital murder in the 1974 slaying of an employee of a McKinney area grocery store.

In requesting the habeas corpus hearing, which has been scheduled for Aug. 15, defense attorney J.E. Abernathy of McKinney claimed that potential jurors were dismissed because they expressed opposition to the death penalty and that White was not adequately represented.

White's attorneys had exhausted both state and federal criminal appeals procedures, with courts at all levels refusing to overturn his Aug. 19, 1974, capital murder conviction by a McKinney jury.

On Monday, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals denied his application for a writ of habeas corpus. That action ended his journey through the state's civil process and cleared the way for initiation of federal procedures.

The next step after Justice's court would be the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans.

White was convicted of slaying Preston Broyles, owner of the Hilltop Grocery east of McKinney. There are two other murder charges pending against him for the deaths of Billy St. John and Gary Coker, two Collin County youths also killed in the robbery.

White once said he wanted to be executed, but later changed his mind.

Prosecutors said that on May 11, 1974, White and companions James and Gary Livingston pulled up to the grocery and ordered the two youths to lie on the floor while forcing Broyles to empty the cash register at gunpoint.

White allegedly shot all three before the men left. He also faces murder charges in Waco for the death of the man from whom he is believed to have stolen the gun used at McKinney.

James Livingston also received a death sentence, but his execution date has not been set.

Gary Livingston was sentenced to 20 years in prison.

The defense also claims the determination that White is dangerous under terms of the Texas death penalty statute was based on a single, brief examination by two forensic psychologists. Dr. James Grigson spent 65 minutes with White and Dr. John Holeman spent about two hours with White.

The defense lawyers also argued that White's death would constitute cruel and unusual punishment and would deprive him of due process of law under the 14th amendment.

Economic surge in Texas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Texas' economic growth in 1977 will surpass that of the rest of the nation by a significant margin, according to predictions of the Texas Commerce Bancshares Inc. of Houston and the First City Bancorporation Inc.

"Consistent increases in production, employment and population produce growing local markets and opportunity," reports "Texas '77", the Texas Commerce forecast publication. "As state output increases, so does the level of income generated by that production."

Texas residents should have ample means for "increased spending and improved standard of living," according to the forecast.

"Texas '77" reports the outlook for the Dallas-Fort Worth area is bright, featuring continued success and expansion in all economic areas. The area is expected gain 19,000 new nonagricultural jobs in 1977, a gain of 1.7 per cent over last year.

Personal income in the Metroplex is expected to climb 10.9 per cent, and Dallas-Fort Worth will be third among the nation's metropolitan areas in construction in 1977.

In 1977, Texas manufacturing should surpass $25 billion for the first time, which indicates an increase of 11 per cent over 1976. Mineral production should rise to $19 billion from $17.5 billion in 1976 and Texas farm receipts should reach a record $7.8 billion.

Non-agricultural wage and salary employment should add 135,000 jobs in the coming year, while total employment should reach more than five million. The strong economic performance will lead to an almost 12 per cent gain in personal income to $85.5 billion.

The state's unemployment rate fell to 5.1 per cent in March from February's 5.5 per cent. The latest figure was the lowest for any month in almost two years.

Texans continued to enjoy a lower cost of living than most other Americans, and Lorna Monti, acting director of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas, said low housing costs and lower personal taxes "are the two prime factors."

Housing costs, she said, are lower because of lower land and labor costs and lower real estate taxes.

Monti noted that there is no state income tax in Texas, primarily because oil and gas production taxes contribute one-third of the state's revenue. "In recent years," Monti said, "rising oil and gas prices have more than offset declining production to produce higher state revenues."

Carter names Texas woman U.S. treasurer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter formally announced today he's nominating Azie T. Morton, a black woman from Texas, to be treasurer of the United States.

Once an administrative assistant at Texas AFL-CIO headquarters in Austin, Ms. Morton, as she prefers to be known, currently is staff assistant to the House District Committee.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal has said he plans to combine the treasurer's post with that of director of the Mint.

A 41-year-old native of Dale, Tex., Ms. Morton held federal equal employment opportunity posts during the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson and from 1968 to 1971, was director of Social Services for the Model Cities program at Wichita, Kan.
