Psychics pinpointed 'Tree Top' body

On January 10, 1976, Wilton Dorris Pybus, 55, disappeared from the parking lot of Denny's in Big Spring. Two months later, he was found dead at the bottom of a secluded culvert about 20 miles northeast of town. Almost a year and a half later, there are still no definite clues as to the reason for his disappearance or the manner in which he met his death. What has surfaced, however, is a strange tale of psychic investigation that was utilized in the search for the missing man. Despite a time-consuming and exhaustive hunt for Pybus by the Howard County Sheriff's Department, which 118th District Judge Ralph Caton has called "completely thorough", the man appeared to have vanished from the parking lot of the local restaurant, with not one substantial lead to his whereabouts.

IN ADDITION to the massive local and statewide manhunt that was proceeding, the family requested psychic assistance in an autonomous attempt to locate Pybus. Psychic mediums or "operators" from Big Spring, Snyder, Abilene, Odessa and Midland were asked to give independent opinions that might offer some hint to the site of the missing man. A prominent West Texas lawyer who holds an elected position in government which makes the release of his name untenable, supplied many of the "clues" which turned out to be chillingly accurate when Pybus was discovered. The area psychometrist, a person who can purportedly delineate the character, surroundings and influences of an article or even a person, was given Pybus' CB microphone to "read."

OTHER PSYCHICS practicing "mind control", a state of being in which the supersensible endeavors to clear his mind of all thoughts and then states the first idea that comes to mind, had readings of their own. One Abilene man, who swears he has never been to Big Spring, used dream-interpretation to draw an amazingly accurate map of the area in question. He then submitted his own account of what he thought transpired.

The findings of these citizens were sent to Big Spring, compiled by a local man, and six "clues" were aggregated from their midst. They were in the hands of local authorities three weeks before the body was found.

1. "He is near a culvert-like structure, but it is round and has peculiar rockwork around it. The roadway under which it runs is unpaved." (Pybus was found in a culvert at the side of a dirt road. Rocks were cemented in an irregular pattern supporting the ends of the culvert.)

2. "He is where water runs, but not in water." (Water would course its way through such a culvert in times of rain.)

3. "The body is partially covered by rubbish but it's not at the city dump." (Pictures at the time of discovery indicate that people, unaware of the presence of the body, had dumped trash on it.)

4. "He is lying face down." (Pictures at the time of discovery indicate such.)

5. "The upper part of the body has been mutilated by wild animals or dogs." (Pictures indicate such, and a dog brought the head to a neighboring farmhouse, an act that eventually led to the discovery.)

6. (Soaked in riddle, but proven to be most accurate of all), "He is in plain sight, but hard to see." (The searcher who finally found Pybus looked at the exact spot where he was, not three feet away, for minutes before he realized that what he was observing was indeed a human body.)

The Midland psychometrist also gave word clues that were to prove prophetic after the actual detection. "A string of T's", the psychic wrote in his notes. "Tankers... trucks... treat-light."

UNKNOWN TO the psychometrist, Pybus' CB handle was "Tree Top," and many of the trucks that travelled the dirt road along which the body was found carried loads of chemicals (under the trade name "Tretolite") to a field of two tanks owned by the Texas Saltwater Disposal Corporation, a quarter of a mile from where the body was found. Many of the "readers" who examined the missing persons case repeatedly came up Midland in connection with the disappearance. Psychic observers theorize that the sign indicating the corporation property, which has the words "Midland based" printed on it, is the reason so many "explorers" surmised the name of that town. A number of the psychics also mentioned in their notes that the body would be found "less than 30 miles northeast of Big Spring." Such was the case. The culvert was as per (See Body found, p. 2A, col. 4)

IRREGULAR ROCK PATTERN — The body of Wilton Pybus was found in March 1976 with his feet resting against the top of the circular culvert (behind can in lower center of picture). More than a month before the discovery of the body, a West Texas psychic had written "He is near a culvert-like structure, but it is round and has peculiar rockwork around it. Rocks are cemented in an irregular pattern supporting the ends of the culvert."

Dr. King's convicted killer escapes

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) — With the FBI in command, searchers using a helicopter tracked down one of James

Earl Ray's fellow escapees Saturday and continued their hunt through a snake-infested mountainside for the

The recaptured fugitive was identified as David Lee Powell, 27, also a convicted murderer.

Tennessee's prison chief told reporters Powell offered no resistance as he was taken into custody while walking down the road near the entrance to the Frozen Head State Park about 8 miles northeast of the penitentiary.

He said Powell apparently had been sighted first by a helicopter.

Officials said earlier they believed the six convicts had split into two or more groups were "pretty much going around in circles" in the heavily forested Cumberland Mountains of East Tennessee.

Powell was returned immediately to the penitentiary in a state police car past a gathering of reporters and cameramen into the compound.

The search continued for Ray and the other four. A tennis shoe print belonging to one of the escapees provided authorities with their most tangible clue to date.

"This time of year, someone who knows how to live in the woods could make out very well," said Tennessee Corrections Commissioner C. Murray Henderson, adding there are berries to eat. "They could hide out for 10 days and not move."

Henderson virtually ruled out the possibility that Ray, the convicted slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., had outside help in the spectacular

Friday night escape from Brushy Mountain State Prison. The men bolted over a wall, on a makeshift ladder as other prisoners created diversions in the yard.

In Washington, the FBI announced Saturday that it had taken over the search and had placed Ray on its list of 10 Most Wanted Fugitives. All six fugitives were charged with conspiring to violate a 1946 federal law against flight to avoid confinement.

The White House said Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell telephoned President Carter on Saturday morning to give him a progress report on the search.

Cozy arrangement

with Tommy Hart

Granted tension and bad feelings were the inevitable stepchildren of the incidents which led to the decision of the Big Spring school board not to renew the contract of basketball coach James Griffin, absolutely nothing was accomplished by the vandalism that followed.

Such tactics smack of intimidation and only serves to firm the conviction of those who reasoned they made the only decision they could in the matter. Athletic Director Don Robbins' vehicles were damaged by paint-wielding hoodlums sometime after Griffin had had his audience with school board members. I'm sure Griffin would have discouraged any talk of such barbaric recourse. It's difficult to understand how anyone reasons they might be furthering a cause through use of such tactics.

A couple of years ago, Texas voters rejected the idea of a new state constitution. Their logic is still being questioned.

Be that as it may, I prefer to think its odds for being validated by the electorate would have been enhanced had it not been proposed that the legislature (through appointment of a committee) exercise greater control over the pay of legislative members. The state assembly in California captured that prerogative many years ago. Since that time, members have been prone to smother themselves with kindness.

Only recently, the California statehouse has been balloting on a proposal to raise the base of members from $23,232 to $25,555 annually. You can imagine how the vote went on the floor — after having cleared the rules committee, 7 to zip.

In addition to their salaries, the California lawmakers intercept $35 a day for expense money while the legislature is in session, get a state-leased car to tool about the state plus a gasoline credit card, also paid for by the taxpayer.

(See Hearts, p. 5A, col. 1)

Vandals damage coach's cars

In an apparent reaction to the confrontation between ex-coach James (Grif) Griffin and the school board, vandals caused $1,200 worth of damage at the home of Don Robbins, Big Spring High School athletic director.

Griffin levelled charges of discrimination against the Big Spring Independent School District Board at a meeting Thursday night, after his contract as head basketball coach at the high school was not renewed. Despite these charges, board members stayed with their decision to allow the contract to lapse.

At midnight after the meeting, misguided Griffin supporters apparently sought their revenge. Three cars parked in Robbins' driveway, 603 Edwards, were sprayed with silver spray paint, and then covered with motor oil.

The vandals also used the silver paint to leave the message, "(expletive) you Robbins, we love Grif" on the side of one of the cars. According to reports, Robbins' two personal cars, a 1976 Le Sabre and a 1973 Gremlin, and a car belonging to the school district, a late model LTD, were hit by the vandals.

"The paint caused about $400 damage to each car. And the vinyl roofs on the LTD and the Le Sabre will probably have to be replaced because of the damage from the oil," said Detective John Wolf.

Odessa DA takes on newspaper

(Editor's Note: What happens when a tough district attorney tangles with the only newspaper in town? Such a conflict is underway in Odessa, Tex., a city of 90,000 located in Permian Basin of West Texas. Some are calling the feud Watergate West, because the newspaper and the district attorney are symbols of the same two powerful American institutions that clashed in the Watergate affair—government power and a free press. Whatever the outcome, the repercussions may be widespread.)

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — It is readily evident how John Green won his reputation as a superb, brawling prosecutor, a "gut fighter," tough and testy.

"They didn't think I'd take on a newspaper," he snapped, brushing aside a stack of news clippings from his desk.

"They didn't think I had the guts to do it, and that's where they made their first mistake... I'm going all the way."

In this case, "all the way" includes a $3.5 million libel suit against the local newspaper Green contends is trying to bring him down.

Since the newspaper reported last year that Green took a trip to Las Vegas with an ex-convict, six of its employes have been arrested on charges ranging from burglary and

PARTICIPANTS IN CONFLICT — These are the four top persons in a hot battle between the Odessa American, the city's only newspaper, and the District Attorney's office. bribery to public drunkenness. Green insists there is no connection between the arrests and his conflict with the newspaper. He has, however, succeeded in getting grand jury indictments against three of the six and said he expects additional indictments in the weeks ahead.

On the libel issue, he growled: "I may not be smart, but I'm not dumb enough to go up against a newspaper without the evidence."

Muscular and imposing in the slacks and golf shirt he sometimes wears to work, Green is contesting with the Odessa American, circulation 40,000.

The American is a member of the California-based Freedom Newspaper Group and the only daily paper published in this rough and tumble West Texas oil city of 90,000.

"We will not be intimidated," vowed Publisher Lyle DeBolt, 43, an urbane, cigar-chewing, gruffly personable former jet pilot.

From a fashionable club looking down on Odessa's flickering night lights, DeBolt recalled a recent face-to-face meeting at Green's office.

"He pointed his finger at me and said, 'I've got the Texas Rangers on my side, I've got the U.S. Attorney's office on my side, and I'm going to get you.'"

"I'm fighting a powerful press," Green struck a stunning blow May 12, filing the libel and slander suit against the newspaper, its publisher and its editor.

"Saying he had been held up to 'scorn, ridicule and disgrace' Green reeled off 18 instances in which the newspaper allegedly libeled him.

DeBolt issued a blanket denial, dismissing each allegation as "groundless." Green readily admits that the Supreme Court ruling in the New York Times vs. Sullivan case makes it difficult for a public official to obtain a libel judgment against a newspaper.

But, he said, "Recent decisions have hacked away at the Sullivan case, and other cases since then state that malice can be shown by circumstances."

"I'm fully aware of the Sullivan ruling... but malice can be seen in this case... and I'm going to win," he vowed.

For Olin Ashley, 52, the silver haired, volatile editor of the American, the clash is a result of the newspaper simply doing its job.

"We're not fighting him. We're merely trying to keep the people of our area as fully and fairly informed as we know how," he said.

"If Green has evidence of wrongdoing on the part of any employee of the Odessa American, it is clearly his duty to prosecute. But he should not attempt to use that evidence as a tool to intimidate the newspaper itself.

"The entire initiative in this whole controversy belongs wholly to Mr. Green."

Although someone dubbed the long simmering feud "Watergate West," Green calls it "Watergate in reverse: I'm not Nixon. I'm not a crook and I'm not a liar."

It appears to be a classic confrontation between governmental power and a free press, a struggle matching two American institutions, as in Watergate.

Each accuses the other of malice. (See I am not, p. 3A, col. 1)

Chamber week proclaimed

Chamber of Commerce Week has been proclaimed jointly by Mayor Wade Choate and Howard County Judge Bill Tune, focusing attention on an organization which promotes free enterprise and strives to advance civic, commercial, agricultural, industrial, professional and general interests of the Big Spring area.

Choate and Tune also cite the Chamber for working toward bettering the living conditions and well-being of all people alike.

The special week starts Monday, coinciding with the start of an all-out membership drive by Chamber members, and ends Friday.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Baseball gold

Q. In all of history, how much gold has been mined by man?

A. "It is estimated that only 100,000 tons of gold have been recovered from the earth since the dawn of time," writes Richard L. Worsnop in his book, "Gold Policies and Production." For an idea of how little that is, experts say if you melted it together in a cube, it would fit within the baselines of a baseball diamond.

Calendar: Chamber drive kickoff

TODAY
Annual Big Spring Partnership Golf Tournament continues today at Big Spring Country Club, with tee-off times scheduled at 9 a.m., and again at 2 p.m.

Great Plains-Cap Rock Singing Convention continues Cap Rock Electric Co-Op Auditorium, Stanton, 10 a.m.

MONDAY
West Texas Mobile Blood Unit at Hall-Bennett Hospital, accepting blood donation, 1 to 5 p.m.

Plans for new construction in the Stanton School District will be presented at the school board's regular meeting, 7 p.m., Stanton.
Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce kicks off its membership drive with a breakfast, 7 a.m., Coker's Restaurant.

Offbeat: Off on the right foot

In the market for a left shoe? Try Barnes Pelletier Store, 113 E. 3rd. The store has six of them after a thief (possibly a peg-legged lady?) stole six right, women's shoes from the display racks. The theft occurred sometime during working hours Friday, and nothing else was noticed to be missing.

The remaining lefties are pretty useless without their mates, so loss was estimated at $178.

Police are not sure how the thief made her getaway, but feel certain that she got off on the right foot.

TV's best: Mystery, mayhem

Take your choice, mystery or mayhem. "Columbo" solves the murder of a producer by a TV star played by William Shatner, at 7 p.m. on NBC. Then at 8 p.m. on ABC, Michael Caine, Cliff Robertson and Henry Fonda star in "Suicide Run," a flick about two GIs who take on a large part of the Japanese Army in the South Pacific.

Nude cruising

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — The time-honored art of teenaged cruising has been stripped to its barest essentials in this small, dusty West Texas city.

Hale County Sheriff Charles Tue said Saturday he has received several reports that groups of teenage girls have been driving around the city of 23,000 — totally nude.

"I guess it's some kind of fad or something," said Tue. "It just amounts to streaking in an automobile."

One report, Tue said, had three nude girls in a car and another had two high school age females riding around the city in the altogether. "There's several bunches of them," he added.

The incidents have occurred during the afternoon and evening hours, when countless other Plainview teenagers are cruising around, looking for something to do.

Tue said one report came from an irate housewife who was upset by the incident. Another call was received from a man who thought the whole idea was funny.

No arrests have been made, although Tue joked that his deputies are volunteering in unprecedented numbers to investigate the case.

The girls would face indecent exposure charges, which could net them up to a year in the county jail.

Scandal figure dies

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The former head of Shreveport's fire and police departments, who left office amid a scandal involving missing city funds, died Saturday in Houston, Tex., after undergoing open heart surgery, a hospital spokesman said.

George D'Artois, former public safety director, was accused of stealing $30,000 that he claimed was paid to police informants.

A hospital official confirmed in a telephone interview Saturday that D'Artois died sometime during the early morning.

In April D'Artois was arrested and booked with murder in the Jim Leslie slaying in Baton Rouge last year. But a state district judge subsequently released him and another man, Donald Gardner of Shreveport, for lack of evidence.

Jail braced for attack

MARLIN, Tex. (AP) — Several heavily armed guards were in the Falls County jail Saturday after Sheriff Larry Pamplin said he was tipped that a raid had been planned to seize some confiscated marijuana stored at the jail.

Deputies, some armed with machine guns, were placed in the three-story jail located on the town square of this Central Texas city by Pamplin, who said he received his information Friday from a reliable source.

Carter appeals for public help

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is appealing to the public to pressure Congress to counterbalance pressure from the oil and auto lobbies which he blames for setbacks for his energy plan.

"Unless the American people speak up, the special interests are going to prevail," Carter said in an interview made public Saturday.

Carter said it was "very disturbing" to see congressional panels "begin to chip away at individual component parts" of his energy plan.

"There has to be compensatory interest and pressure from the general public in a constructive fashion on members of Congress demanding strong action to counterbalance the intensely focused and highly visible pressure that is put on the members of Congress by special interest lobbyists here on a daily, hourly basis," the President said in the interview, which was conducted Friday with members of the Magazine Publishers Association.

"Unless the American public can be aroused to help me and others who believe that this is extremely important and (unless) ... the American public is willing to accept some sacrifice if it is fair, I am afraid that we are not going to have an adequate program when it is over."

Carter vowed to "go more and more public" in his expressions of criticism or support for congressional actions on his energy proposals. Meanwhile, a key congressional leader said Congress will rewrite Carter's energy program to accomplish through tough new laws what the President seeks to do with taxes and rebates.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, recommended that the President's strategy to curb gasoline consumption be drastically revised. Instead of taxes and rebates, as Carter has proposed, Jackson urged enactment of tough new fuel-economy standards and a ban on future production of heavy, powerful cars.

Meanwhile, Carter urged the public to apply pressure on Congress to counterbalance pressure from the oil and auto lobbies, which Carter blames for congressional setbacks deal his energy plan.

"Unless the American people speak up, the special interests are going to prevail," Carter told a group of magazine publishers Friday.

Two hostages killed

Commandos free Moluccan hostages

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Surviving hostages underwent medical tests and then held tearful reunions with their families Saturday after Dutch commandos freed them in predawn raids on a train and school, ending a 20-day siege by South Moluccan terrorists.

"Everything looks and smells so good," said Janneke Wiegiers, one of the 53 hostages who escaped the ordeal. The 19-year-old student-teacher told reporters she felt "wonderful, considering the situation I've been in."

Two hostages — a 19-year-old woman and 40-year-old man — were killed along with six of their nine captors when Dutch troops stormed the train just before dawn. Twelve persons were injured — one terrorist, two soldiers and nine hostages.

Officials said Miss J. M. O. Monsjou of Groningen and M. Van Baarsel of Elst were fatally shot when they jumped to their feet during the 10-minute attack, disregarding soldiers' orders, shouted over loud-speakers, to stay down. A government spokesman said they were not killed by bullets from the soldiers' weapons.

There were no casualties in the school.

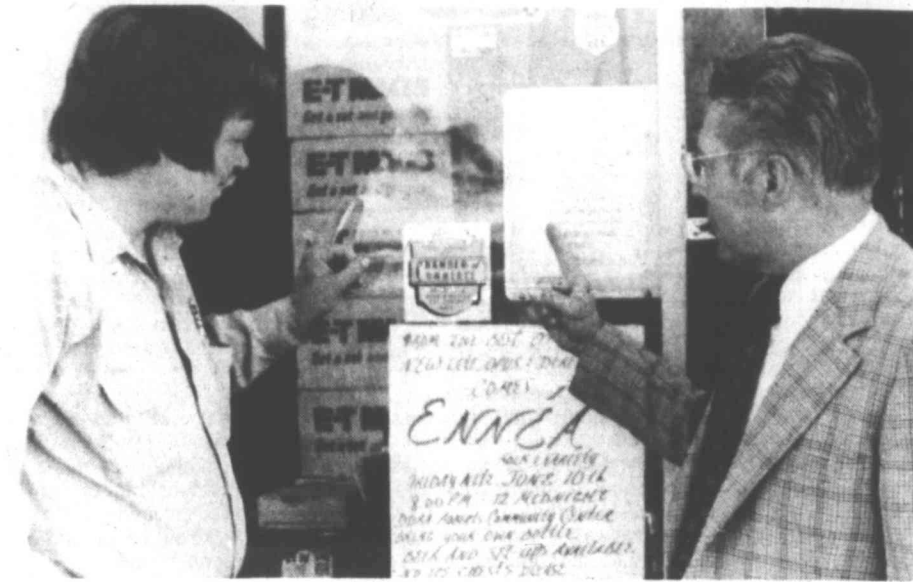

Despite the bloodshed, the Dutch government said it had no choice but to use force to free the hostages after negotiations and psychological pressure failed.

A hospital source quoted one of the hostages as saying the Moluccans had drawn up a "death list" with the names of captives to be killed if the government refused their demands.

The hostage reportedly claimed Dutch officials were aware of the list, but the report could not be confirmed.

A hospital spokesman in Groningen said the former hostages were generally in good shape, and most returned home after physical and psychological examinations by a specially assembled medical team, refusing an offer to remain in the hospital for 24 hours.

Dolph will seek third term

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe enthusiastically announced for re-election Saturday saying he was "more confident than ever."

"I am a candidate for re-election for governor in 1978," a beaming Briscoe told several hundred cheering supporters and campaign workers. His wife, Janey, stood at his side and threw kisses to the crowd.

If Briscoe should be re-elected and serve out a four-year term he will have served 10 years as Texas governor, longer than any previous chief executive of the state.

Briscoe's strongest opposition to re-election is expected to come from Atty. Gen. John Hill. Hill, who already has a campaign organization, said last week he would announce his final decision after the special session in mid-July.

Texas Republicans also are expected to field a strong candidate.

Briscoe, 54, suggested to his supporters that the 1978 campaign goal would be the 92 per cent majority vote he won in his home Uvalde County in 1974.

"I ask you to accept that as a challenge," he said, and there was loud applause.

"I ask once again for your help in this campaign to build a better Texas and a Texas of greater opportunity in the years ahead."

Much of the crowd enthusiasm shown during Briscoe's brief announcement talk came in his review of his no-new tax policy.

Body found near unusual culvert

proximately 20 miles northeast of the city.

One man, early in the search, found the words "doughnut, hole, ring, vodka" written in his psychic scribbles. The circular references indicated the culvert, one observer stated, and the body was partially covered with whiskey and vodka bottles, (again verified by the pictures.)

THE DREAM of the Abilene man illustrates a good theory, but facts at the scene of the discovery do not make it plausible. In the dream, the psychic saw Pybus drinking coffee at Denny's.

Someone asked him if he wanted another cup, and he replied that, no, he'd already had too much, but he took another half cup anyway.

The dreamer saw someone in the background from time to time but could not get a fix on his face. Pybus then entered his car and traveled west down a one-way street (Third). A man then reared up from the back seat with some sort of a weapon and yelled for Pybus to follow his instructions.

The intruder told Pybus to follow a winding course out of Big Spring (the route to the discovery site is very circuitous.) Then, the dream fades from memory until the dreamer sees the lone man driving back into town, parking the car at Denny's, and walking away. This seems highly improbable, however, as Pybus was found with his car keys in his pocket.

ONE "READER" said Pybus died of exposure. Another stated, "He didn't die right away, he drowned, but not in water." Again the riddles surface. Explanations of such theories could hold weight.

A man who dies of exposure could very easily catch pneumonia in the middle of January. And a person who dies from pneumonia would have his lungs filled with fluid, causing him to suffocate (drown).

Also, someone who was either shot or stabbed in the chest would probably have his lungs fill with blood. The effect would be the same.

A number of psychics also stated that Pybus might have been slipped a knock-out drug or been given an as the mass killer.

HIDDEN CULVERT — The arrow indicates the scene of the culvert in which the body of Wilton Pybus was found in March 1976. The dusty road is approximately 20 miles northeast of Big Spring.

Another name that crops up from time to time in the news is that of the psychic Croiset from Holland. His specialty is locating drowning victims. The mortality rate for drowning in Holland is the highest in the world. Croiset has also assisted the police in criminal investigations, but his successes in locating drowned persons is phenomenal.

opiate or some sort. You may be suspected after the body was found, but Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena stated, after an autopsy, that he "couldn't determine the cause of death."

Two months of exposure to the elements makes an autopsy almost valueless, according to one official.

Again, it must be expressly noted that the Sheriff's Department and other law enforcement agencies concerned with this case conducted a very routine, thorough and totally orthodox investigation. They did not seek out this psychic assistance.

AND ANOTHER point that must be remembered in the Pybus incident is that it is not necessarily an unsolved murder case, but a very mysterious missing persons case. Foul play may be suspected, but it can in no way be proven.

But the fact remains that the odds of finding a missing person, who completely vanishes without a trace, are enormous. Pybus could have been anywhere . . . alive, buried in a shallow grave, out of the state, anywhere. And yet, the composite psychic picture of his whereabouts was amazingly close.

People with a variety of backgrounds, certain members who hold prominent positions in their separate communities, utilized various methods, clairvoyance, mind control, psychometry, and psychic visualization, to help their concerned fellow human beings.

They sat down, set their minds to something, and accomplished what they could with their various experiences. What they came up with was something that has to be considered more than pure coincidental theorizing.

What will follow is still a mystery.

HOME OWNERS CORNER
By CORKY HARRIS

While knives don't rank as appliances, they're mighty important tools around the kitchen, and they're a real nuisance if they're not sharp. The best way to sharpen them these days is with an electric knife sharpener. Then lower the handle and of the blade into the knife slot until it comes into contact with the grinding wheel gently. As soon as the blade touches the grinding element, draw the blade through the slot at an even speed and at a gentle and even pressure. Don't bear down enough to slow the grinder. The number of times you pass the blade through the sharpener depends on the dullness of the blade.

'I am not a crook, not a liar,' DA Green says

Neither is backing down. And the repercussions probably will extend far beyond Odessa and Ector County.

Six American staffers have been arrested on a variety of charges in less than two months, including three in one 24-hour span last week.

In the latest flap, one reporter was charged with burglary and indecency with a minor, a second with driving while intoxicated and a third with public drunkenness.

"That'll add some spice to your story," Green suggested when telephoning The Associated Press to report the incidents.

"Mr. Green seems to be taking great delight in the unfortunate series of circumstances that resulted in the arrests of three or four of our employees on various unrelated charges," said Ashley.

"His zeal shines through as he runs to the phone and calls in-town and out-of-town news media with the latest developments at the Odessa American."

Most trace the start of the feud between Green and the American to Aug. 6, 1976, when the newspaper splashed this headline across eight columns:

"Ector DA Linked to Vegas Gambling Trip."

The newspaper said Green accompanied a notorious exconvict, Joe D Hicks, on a flying weekend trip to Las Vegas in 1972, and that Hicks chartered and paid for the plane.

Furthermore, the article said, Green also wrote a letter in support of a parole application for Hicks, 40, who received a full state pardon in 1972 despite 14 felony convictions.

A onetime General Motors car dealer in nearby Big Spring, and a bail bondsman for a time in Odessa, Hicks since has been convicted of masterminding an international narcotics operation. He is now in a federal prison.

Ashley said his newspaper had no option but to print the story about the Las Vegas trip.

"It qualified as news, unusual as hell. We would have been derelict if we had not printed the story," he said.

Although the American accused Green of no wrongdoing, the district attorney was incensed over the headline and the prominent display of the story.

He denied little contained in the article, but declared:

"If anybody can find anything wrong that I am doing or have done, then get after it. I'm tired of the newspaper making inferences against me."

He has since contended that he has both a right and a responsibility to associate with ex-cons, that they come with the job.

"I testified for one ex-con so he could get his law license back."

A day after the Las Vegas story, Green summoned newsmen to his office. After ousting an American reporter, he berated the newspaper for "untrue and slanderous stories and misleading headlines" and announced:

"As of this day, any news which is unworthy concerning this office will only be given to the television stations, radio stations and other newspapers of the Basin."

"The Odessa American is no longer welcome in the district attorney's office."

The months that followed appeared to be an uneasy standoff, although American reporters were denied immediate access to grand jury indictments, normally a routine courtesy of Green's office.

Then, this spring, the bottom fell out.

On March 30, Green, in a letter handed personally to DeBolt, leveled a series of allegations against the newspaper, charging essentially that:

1. Ashley and City editor John Slaney improperly approached members of the grand jury in an attempt to "influence their decisions in regard to their duties..."

2. Slaney was involved in an illegal gambling operation at the American and that Ashley was aware of it.

3. Ashley and Slaney, "while working as agents and employees" of the newspaper, made false allegations to numerous law enforcement agencies regarding Green's activities.

4. Slaney was involved in an election in which a violation of the law occurred—namely, a bribe attempt.

Green says now the letter was written as a courtesy to DeBolt, that it was intended neither for intimidation nor publication.

"I simply wanted DeBolt to clean up his own house," he said.

"Why then," responded Ashley, "if the letter was intended as a courtesy, did he issue a warning to the newspaper's management to 'be prepared' to appear before the grand jury?"

"Why did he also send copies to the attorney general of Texas and the Texas Rangers in Midland?"

"And why did the letter say to notify the owners of the newspaper of the charges?"

Green awoke the morning of April 24, a Sunday, to read another bold headline: "DA Threatens Newspaper ... Says 'Be Prepared' to Face Grand Jury."

Green said he was astounded. "That letter was not intended for publication. I wasn't threatening the newspaper. I was telling them the truth. How can you threaten them when you tell them what's happening?"

Ashley dismissed that argument thusly: "Hogwash!"

DeBolt branded the letter as "an obvious attempt to intimidate the newspaper" and challenged Green to "get on with" his investigation.

"They gave me no choice," Green says now.

Nine days later the grand jury returned criminal indictments against Slaney and two former American employees.

Slaney was accused of attempting to bribe a political candidate, and the other two, non-news employees, were accused of drug violations.

"Grand Jury Indicts Newspaperman," the American announced the next day, again in a screaming headline.

Said Ashley: "You can believe that it was no accident that the three people who were indicted are or have been employees of the Odessa American... This smacks of selective prosecution to say the least."

Said Green: "I have no vendetta against the Odessa American... I'm simply fulfilling the obligations of this office. These actions had to be taken."

"I think every public official is scared to do something to the news media, even though they're doing wrong."

Furthermore, Green insisted, "There's no free press in Odessa." He said the American is an outlet for Freedom Newspapers' "right-wing" philosophy, adding:

"They're against all public officials... public schools... public roads... and they get graded in California on how right-wing their editorials are."

In rebuttal, DeBolt said: "We will not be intimidated by government officials who must resort to smear tactics and half-truths to justify their actions. We report the news as objectively and accurately as we can. And if this stimulates certain public officials into irresponsible allegations, so be it."

"Courts will eventually decide whether or not John Slaney is guilty of an illegal act. Everything else from the district attorney is irrelevant, except as a technique for smearing the Odessa American into submission, and this he cannot do."

Panel recommends cloud seeding expansion here

Members of the Texas Advisory Committee looked over the HIPLEX weather modification program in sessions here Thursday and Friday and suggested some directions for its continuance.

HIPLEX is part of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation's research into techniques for and effectiveness of weather modification. The Texas panel concerns itself with the portion of the Bureau's program which currently is based in the West Texas area. Sessions were held at the headquarters of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, which is a participant and which has carried on a program of cloud seeding for the past seven years.

Participants commented on activities pertaining to the HIPLEX operations and made recommendations to the Bureau on what might be done in 1978. Dr. Bernie Silverman, Denver, Colo., head of the Bureau's weather modification program, which also has operations in the central and northern plains, for his reaction. Included were these:

1. The Bureau should expand the cloud seeding program, with silver iodide as the nuclei, to include in-cloud and above-cloud seeding as well as cloud-base seeding. Also, the Bureau was asked to arrange for a cloud physics aircraft to be employed to sample the atmosphere to determine the disbursement and effect of the nuclei.

2. The Bureau should fund the employment of a qualified scientist, with meteorological background, by the Texas Water Development board to assemble and evaluate data collected by all the participants. This would include that of the CRMWD, Texas A and M University (which is seeking to develop a mesoscale of the target area), Texas Tech University (which comparing satellite pictures with actual developments), evaluation date by Meteorological Research Inc. based at Snyder, and input by the Texas Water Development board. This individual would be required to be in the field during the months of HIPLEX operations, then evaluate the activities of all participants.

3. The recording raingauge network should be expanded, not only within the target area, which is approximately from O'Donnell eastward to Post and from Forsan eastward to Maryneal; but also upwind from the target area.

4. Ten automatic weather stations should be installed at intervals of about 25 miles for complete coverage of the area and information of temperature, humidity, barometric pressure, wind direction and velocity telemetered to the center at Big Spring.

5. Texas Tech should continue analyzing rainfall data collected in the area since 1971 by CRMWD and made comparisons between historical and actual current conditions.

The Texas committee will meet again in early September to evaluate the 1977 program as well as a few facets of the 1976 operations.

Members of the Texas panel were Dr. Don Haragan, Lubbock, Texas Tech; Dr. Jim Scoggins, College station, Texas A and M University; John Carr, Austin, Texas Water Development Board; Ted Smith, Altadena, Calif., Meteorological Research Inc. evaluation; and Owen H. Ivie, Colorado River Municipal Water District. Others attending were Dr. Jerry Jurica, Texas Tech; Bob Reggio, Texas Water Development Board; John Girdzus, CRMWD meteorologist; and R.A. Schilling, weather modification coordinator for the CRMWD.

For the record

According to James Griffin, former Big Spring High School basketball coach, there were two misleading statements in Friday's Herald story about his appearance before the school board.

According to Griffin, the reason he at one time had all the blacks in the school placed in his classroom was because of a disturbance which may have been racial in nature.

Also according to Griffin, the reason he at one time had all the blacks in the school placed in his classroom was because of a disturbance which may have been racial in nature.

The Herald apologizes for any inaccuracies in the story.

Enthusiasm is high for London trip

London is much in the news today with this year being the 25th anniversary of Queen Elizabeth's accession to the throne.

Silver Jubilee parades, pomp and parties will take place all over Britain during the year.

Everyone agrees: It is a special and spectacular time to visit London.

THAT IS WHY the Big Spring Herald is so glad to join in cooperation with three other regional newspapers to sponsor a nine-day West Texas charter tour to London for $659 per person complete from Dallas.

Announcement of the tour was made two weeks ago in the Herald, and it will be in today's pages of the three other sponsoring newspapers, the Abilene Reporter-News, the San Angelo Standard-Times and the Wichita Falls Record-News.

The hosts going on the trip from the Herald will be Harold and Doris Canning. Harold has been the newspaper's business manager for three decades, and he knows London well.

Sign-up information on the tour will be available at Skipper Travel Service within the next 10 days, but I would urge anyone who is interested to get their name in within the next couple of weeks.

Such interest has been shown in this tour that I am afraid that all the available accommodations will be spoken for by early July.

I think this is the kind of tour that anyone would enjoy to one of the most interesting and exciting cities in the world.

I once spent a week in London, and I loved every second of it — and it wasn't even the queen's Silver Jubilee. The theatres there are cheaply priced and absolutely the finest. I enjoyed them even more than New York's Broadway.

THERE IS SO much to do in London that it would be simply folly to try to name it all. One could spend a week in the British Museum alone and never tire of it.

The London trip will leave Dallas Oct. 11 and return Oct. 19.

To introduce West Texans to London's many attractions, the first two days will feature half-day tours to places like Buckingham Palace, Parliament, Big Ben, Piccadilly Circus, Marble Arch, Trafalgar Square, Westminster Abbey, Tower of London with its Beefeater Guards and crown jewels, Bond Street, Knightsbridge and the British Museum.

The evenings will be full of excitement, whether they are spent in a West End theater, a dinner in Chelsea or Mayfair, or a nightclub in Soho. Dozens of interesting side trips into the English countryside are available too.

London has this year a special Silver Jubilee Walkway which is five miles that takes you through the heart of the city.

The tour is particularly designed for free time and no regimentation so each West Texan can do what he or she enjoys most.

Let Skipper Travel know that you want to join your hosts Harold and Doris Canning to London this fall.

Medical break through

Art Buchwald

BREAKTHROUGH WASHINGTON — Prof. Heinrich Applebaum called me excitedly the other day from his laboratory at the National Institute of Generic Drug Statistics. "I think I've made a breakthrough in medicine that could win me the Nobel Prize."

"What is it?" I demanded.

"You have to come out and see for yourself."

I dropped everything and took a taxi to the professor's lab.

He was waiting amongst his test-tubes.

"What did you do?" I asked.

"I'VE DEVELOPED a stronger rat that can survive any medical experiment we perform on it."

"I don't believe it."

"Come," he said, leading me over to a cage where two white rats were sipping from a saucer of diet cola.

"I got the idea when I read the data on the saccharin dispute. Something bothered me about it. Why were some of the rats getting sick after being forced to eat enough saccharin to kill a horse? The scientists blamed the saccharin, but no one blamed the white rats. There are so many agents being fed and injected into rats that they keep keeling over. Drug companies have put millions of dollars into research, only to be told they couldn't market their product because the white rats couldn't take it."

"So I decided there was only one answer to the problem. And that was to develop a white rat who could stand up to anything we shoved down his throat."

"IF I COULD breed a white rat immune to any kind of disease the FDA would have to give its approval for the new drug."

"Only a mind like yours would think of something like that," I said.

"The trick was to find the right breeds. In every medical experiment there are white rats who are survivors. In the Canadian tests of saccharin only 12 of the 44 rats fed the stuff developed any symptoms. The other 32 thrived on the sweetener and became saccharin junkies."

"I purchased the two healthiest specimens and mated them, and then mated their offspring, and after four generations I got what I wanted—a super white rat that could withstand any punishment medical science could inflict on it."

"These are two of them. I've fed them the equivalent of 3,000 bottles of diet drinks a day; I've had them smoke 10 packs of cigarettes an hour; I've filled their cage with carbon monoxide; I've made Tris nightgowns for them, which they have worn for three weeks. I've even strapped them to the engine of a Concorde, and as you can see none of the experiments has had any ill effect on them."

"I've never seen two happier rats in my life," I admitted. "I wonder why no one has ever thought of this before."

REMEMBERING...

By BILL BROOKS

FAMILY ALBUMS

Two books I remember most at my grandparents' house were the big Bible that always lay on the library table near the lamp and the Family Album on the shelf in the closet. Both books had interesting pictures. The Bible had pictures of Daniel in the lion's den, Moses at the Red Sea, Jesus standing in a boat calming the storm and the crucifixion but the album had pictures of what Grandmother said were our kinfolks. Though I had never met most of the ones whose pictures were in the book, Grandmother told me time and again about many of them. There was some confusion as to who some of the people were because years before someone had neglected to write the names or dates on the pictures. They were placed in the album for a reason but no one remembered the reason. Grandmother would say, "I reckon that 'uz one of your Uncle Bud's first wife's cousins, Clarence. I think his name was but I don't know nothing else about him."

Like the pictures in the Bible, many of the people dressed in strange looking clothes and had long whiskers and, like Moses, some held walking sticks or canes. Their poses were sometime amusing as they stared stony-eyed at the lens with never a hint of a smile. The men looked stern and unyielding as they sat in elaborate chairs while the ladies, pretty, yet solemn stood beside with hands on their man's shoulder.

Most of the photos were taken indoors in studios. The background, however, was often an outdoor scene, painted on oil cloth. We thrilled to hear Grandmother tell about one picture of an old bearded man. He had fought in the Civil War when he was sixteen years old. The wooden leg you could see in the picture, Grandmother said, was a wound he carried from the war.

The pictures were mostly dull brown or faded and there were even some that were made out of metal, some kind of tin-looking stuff. Grandmother said the metal ones were really old.

A few pictures had been taken out-of-doors. The people were posing in front of houses, buildings, buggies or cars. The most interesting thing to me, now anyway, when viewing family albums is to study the history in the picture, the make or model of car, the way the horse is harnessed the rigging on the buggy, the style and materials used in the construction of the houses and buildings and so on.

You can tell much about a family by looking in their album at the faces but you can tell more by looking at the clothes, even more by looking at the scenes behind the people. At least that's the way I've found it to be.

Beware hasty 'menopause' diagnosis

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter is having a difficult time with menopause. After her fourth child she had her tubes tied. Now she can't find a doctor around here who will agree to a hysterectomy. They all say she is physically fine, yet she gets these crying spells and an aching side every month.

I had a hysterectomy when I was in my 30s after much flowing each month. My daughter doesn't have this, but I do think she should have the hysterectomy like I did. Can you comment? — Mrs. A.

Your letter is confusing.

1. If your daughter is physically fit, she doesn't need a hysterectomy (removal of the uterus), and a doctor who agreed to it would be criticized.

2. You had the operation to end your menstrual problems (heavy flow, which your daughter doesn't have).

3. A hysterectomy (uterus removal) will not alter the natural events of menopause. The chief cause of any unpleasantness is due to the lowered ovary activity associated with it.

4. Pains in the side are not symptoms of menopause. Some emotional upset may be, but not necessarily. The pains should be considered separately.

Women nearing menopause should not blame every ache on that and perhaps mask an ailment unrelated to it.

Forget the hysterectomy for your daughter, and stop adding to her confusion. You seem to have a notion that your daughter's medical history must be a carbon copy of your own. We all inherit characteristics from our parents, but in most physical disorders we are all pretty much individuals.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a female, age 20. I seem to be losing my hair. The front of my scalp and the back are thinning out. The sides are fine. I eat normal foods and shampoo every two days. I've tried lying on my bed, letting my head hang over the side (for circulation). Neither that nor massage helps. I'm getting tired of being called "baldy." — Mrs. A.D.

Hair follicles have active and dormant stages, so that our hair is not subject to complete loss at any given time. Some are always in the growing phase while the others are in the "resting" stage.

A person loses from 75 to 100 hairs a day, and you'd have to lose much more than that for "baldness" to be established. We usually think of baldness as loss of 40 per cent of hair. Causes? There can be many — too vigorous massage, too high a setting on dryer, low thyroid activity, large doses of vitamin A. There seems to be a tendency these days for excessive hair loss in younger women and I can't speculate as to why. It is expected in older women.

The head-hanging routine won't help. Examine yourself to see if you're not contributing to loss through the factors I mentioned above (overly vigorous brushing, etc.). A soft-bristled brush might help. Hair loss is discussed in more detail in my newest booklet, "Good Health For Your Hair." It may offer you other leads. For a copy, send 35 cents to me care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. However, you should be examined to rule out any of the systemic causes of hair loss, especially at your age.

Dr. A.C. Brown and associates at Emory University have reported that unexplained hair loss may be an autoimmune response. This is a condition in which the system attacks its own tissue, including the hair follicles. Dr. Brown derives the traditional reference to "nerves" as a cause of excessive loss. The fact that there's still room for controversy means we really don't know too much about it all.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can birth control pills cause skin rashes? — Mrs. E. E. A.

There have been cases reported. Discontinuing the Pill or changing to another brand may solve the problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would a person wearing a hearing aid on a flight to Europe have a hearing problem on landing? I am planning a trip but am worried. — Mrs. S. S.

The hearing aid should not be affected by air travel. I would welcome any experiences of readers regarding this.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of this newspaper, for his invaluable booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Birth control is a highly relevant topic in today's society. Find out what you should know about it in Dr. Thosteson's easy to read booklet, "The Twelve Birth Control Methods." For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents.

Goons unhampered

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — In column after column, we have reported how foreign secret police have threatened, terrorized and even murdered political dissidents who have fled to the United States for safety. Yet the same goons, who harassed them at home, are able to operate with impunity in this country.

But now, at least, something will be done about it. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., is investigating the secret operations of foreign police within U.S. boundaries. His Senate subcommittee is zeroing in on Chile's DINA, South Korea's KCIA, the Soviet Union's KGB, the Philippines' NISA and Iran's SAVAK.

WE HAVE cited abuses by all five of these countries. Last October we charged that DINA, SAVAK and the KCIA had "committed burglaries, attempted kidnappings and plotted murders in the United States."

We warned on Nov. 16, 1975 that Chile's secret police had "hired thugs to track down and assassinate prominent exiles." The following September, exile leader Orlando Letelier was dynamited to death in Washington; the accusing finger points at DINA.

We reported as early as July 17, 1975 that the KCIA was terrorizing Korean exiles in the United States by threatening "their families, relatives and close friends in Korea."

We published documents from SAVAK files detailing how its agents were taught to conduct "secret break-ins." According to our intelligence sources SAVAK's U.S. operations are directed by Mansur Rafizadeh, who has posed as an Iranian attache at the United Nations. He supervises scores, some say hundreds, of SAVAK agents in this country.

From time to time, we have also identified Soviet KGB agents in this country, including three who posed as newsmen.

Sen. McGovern is also investigating our report on Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos' attempt to bribe a defector from his own staff, Primitivo Mijares, to keep him from testifying before the House.

The senator's staff is secretly interviewing dissidents, under U.S. protection, who have been intimidated by foreign police. Several will be asked to testify.

The senator is also drafting legislation that will permit the Justice Dept. to crack down on foreign police operations in this country.

EXPORTING OIL — President Carter is seriously considering a plan to export valuable Alaskan oil to Japan. This would increase American reliance on imported Arab oil by up to 600,000 barrels a day.

In a private White House meeting, Carter told Rep. Chris Dodd, D-Conn., that his energy program depends on convincing the public that a crisis exists. Exporting Alaskan oil, the President admitted, would dispel that impression. "It would take a preparatory selling job to explain it to the public," Carter is quoted as saying.

The House voted a ban on exporting Alaskan oil, but the provision was knocked out by the Senate. "I don't want Congress to tie my hands," Carter told Dodd. The congressman was impressed with Carter's technical knowledge on the issue.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am so miserable I just don't know what to do. I have been living with a married man for some time, and he always said he would get rid of his wife and marry me. Now he seems to be going back on his promise, and I would do anything to keep him. What can I do? — B.C.

DEAR B.C.: I'm afraid you are beginning to pay the bitter price for your actions in the past. It was wrong for you to begin this relationship in the first place. The Bible says, "Thou shalt not commit adultery" (Exodus 20:14). But the Bible also says that when we sin against God's law, we end up paying the price for our actions. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption" (Galatians 6:7-8).

Frankly, I think you should be glad that your relationship is breaking up. While you have already committed great sin, it would have been an even greater sin if you had been the cause of this man's marriage breaking up.

Also, what sort of marriage would you have to look forward to if you married this man? In the back of your mind you would always wonder if he was going to do to you what he had done to his previous wife. True love cannot grow and flourish in an atmosphere of suspicion and distrust.

What should you do? First, I believe you must realize that you have sinned against God, and confess to Him and seek His forgiveness. I urge you to accept Jesus Christ into your life by simple faith and trust. He died on the cross to pay the penalty for your sins — not only this sin, but all the sins you have ever committed. By trusting Him you can be cleansed and forgiven.

Second, you need to repent of this sin. By that I mean you need to turn from it and resolve with God's help to flee from it. You need to break off this relationship once and for all, and urge this man to become the husband and father he should be to his wife and family.

If you do this, I think you will find that God is faithful and will give you a new direction in life.

Local DA blasts speedy trial bill

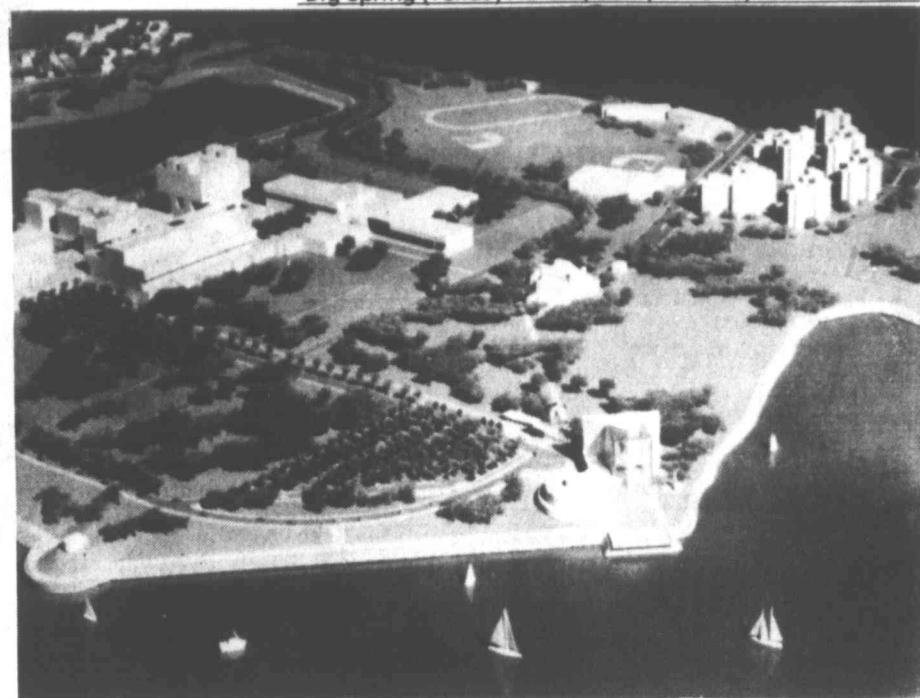

By BOB BURTON
Big Spring's district attorney said Friday that Bill No. 1043, awaiting signature in Governor Dolph Briscoe's office, would cause an irreversible breakdown in the state judicial system.

"It's like opening Pandora's box," said 118th Judicial District Attorney Rick Hamby after reading the text of the law. "It would set free drug traffickers, burglars, and murderers. It would place prosecutors under an impossible deadline for disposal of cases. It would reflect the efforts of the police department by releasing arrested and charged criminals before the system can deal with them."

Hamby called the bill "an ineffectual, half-hearted attempt at a speedy trial law which will break the state's prosecuting efforts rather than helping them."

"No prosecutor opposes a quick and speedy trial, but is the answer to the overload problem to dismiss these people?" queried the enraged DA. "It won't solve any crime problems in West Texas."

Quick thinking saves crippled

A loud explosion and shock wave that forced the two pilots against the canopy marred what should have been a normal takeoff for a contact checkride in a Northrop T-38 aircraft at Webb AFB.

Capt. Harold Newell, instructor pilot in the 83rd Flying Training Squadron, and Capt. Larry Smith, a student in the fixed wing training, were about 300 feet in the air June 3 when the left engine exploded with a bang.

Immediately after the explosion, Newell assumed control and directed the student to shut down the left engine to prevent a fire from developing. It's impossible to shut either engine down from the back seat where the instructor sits. The engine failure occurred at very low altitude and airspeed and engine damage was extensive. "Without the timely assessment of a critical situation and the flying skill to control the aircraft on one engine, an expensive aircraft would have been lost, and possibly even two lives," said Col. Harry A. Spannaus, wing commander.

"Captain Newell did an outstanding job of handling a serious emergency and safely landing the aircraft," Spannaus continued. "Once again, IP experience, a superb knowledge of aircraft systems and instant and correct emergency procedural reactions has paid off."

A school district which may have an unrealistic teachers' pay scale is Stanton, which recently let its fine young basketball coach, Doug Parker, escape to Forsan. The stance is hard to understand, since Stanton's tax evaluations rose about $10 million in a year's time. At Stanton, Parker was head tennis coach and worked with football, in season. At Forsan, he'll serve only as head tennis coach and help in football. Parker will be making about $200 more a month at Forsan than he did at Stanton.

Another Stanton note: Don Tolliver, who resigned as mayor of Stanton recently because he moved a few feet beyond the city limits, may offer for the Stanton school board next year. For Big Spring's Preach Martin, 1927 was a vintage year, and not only because Lindbergh flew the Atlantic. Martin received his high school diploma that year in Snyder. Seventeen members of the '27 years, including Preach, gathered in Snyder last week to attend the 50th reunion. Nine members of the class have fled this vale of tears.

One usually associates tornados with Texas and earthquakes with the west coast. Would it surprise you to learn that a team of Columbia University scientists reported recently that it has detected more than 200 earthquakes since 1971 in New York state and New Jersey? Most of the tremors were hardly enough to rattle teacups but a major one in the east could sting, because of the age of the coast bedrock.

Before the time of Christ, there lived in Rome a family of high station which claimed it could trace its lineage back to Aeneas, mortal son of the goddess Venus. That should tell us something about the success of confidence games practiced in those days. It was Aeneas, following the fall of Troy, who was ordered by the gods to sail the seas until he reached some distant shore. The land on which he ultimately set foot is one we now call Italy. Here, it was decreed, Aeneas was to settle and lay the cornerstone of a new civilization. Thus the Roman Empire was born. Most members of the clan were quite content to bask in the reflected glory of their antecedent, trading on his name. There was, however, born into it in 100 B.C., a male destined to add greatly to the family fame. Christened Julius Gaius Caesar, he became the greatest of all Roman soldiers and statesmen. About the time Caesar was becoming dominant in Rome, beyond the Alps a young Gaul was emerging as a beacon of strength among his own people. He was Vercingetorix and he was to dedicate much of his life toward creating problems for Caesar. Vercingetorix detested Romans — and for good reason. In Caesar's eyes, Gaul was not within the Roman orbit and therefore Gaul was to be conquered. Vercingetorix chose to spend most of his waking hours plotting against Caesar and his legions.

Vercingetorix proved the equal of Caesar in all attributes but ruthlessness. Caesar did not believe he could afford to be charitable to his enemies. He offered no quarter, expected none. Caesar's mighty phalanxes lay siege to Bourges and ultimately killed or captured all but 800 of the Gauls but even that did not stop Vercingetorix. The Gallic general assembled another army and proceeded to inflict a defeat upon the Romans at Gergovia, almost capturing Caesar in the bargain. Had that happened, the whole course of human history might have changed. Later, however, a Roman army of 50,000 led by Caesar destroyed 350,000 Gallic troops at Alesia, successfully carrying the fight to the enemy despite the fact that its troops were surrounded on every side by the enemy. When Caesar inventoried the results of his victory, he found among his prisoners Vercingetorix. The Gallic threat had been neutralized forever. Caesar returned in triumph to Rome, taking with him the leader of the Gauls in chains. Held prisoner for six years, Vercingetorix ultimately was strangled to death in a dungeon beneath the Temple of Jupiter while Caesar reveled above, offering thanks to the gods. The memory of Vercingetorix did not die at Alesia. Today a monument to the greatest of the early Gauls stands there.

I can hear it in the day and in the night; the white foam breakers are saying that which I think. I walk alone with them when there is no one to see me, and I sing with them. I lie down on the sand and watch them with my eyes half shut. The sky is better, but it is so high above our heads. I love the sea.

Classroom equality top goal?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State Board of Education said in the strongest possible terms Saturday that a special legislative session should make equality in the classroom its top goal.

It called for expenditure of $422 million — up to $250 per student — over the next two years on "equalization aid" to districts with less than 150 per cent of the statewide average market value of taxable property.

Board members approved on voice vote, with no dissent spoken, a resolution stating that the "single most important educational need of the state" is to close the educational gap between rich and poor districts. "Passage of this recommendation is so critical to maintaining local control and keeping education out of the courts that other proposed improvements to the Foundation School Program should be foregone, if necessary, to permit passage of this provision," the resolution said.

Equalization of educational opportunity took a back seat during the regular session to such things as a teacher pay raise and reduction of local school district expenditures. "Briscoe should veto the bill," he said. "We can't play politics with our court system — that's part of the problem we have already."

The only fair solution, according to the attorney, is to call together the heads of the state bar, the heads of the law enforcement agencies throughout the state, and the legislators to "provide the tools to cut Goliath down to size."

The conference committee report that died on the final night of the session, May 30, provided only $108 million in equalization aid. Jane Wells, board member from Austin, said it was "important for us to articulate once again... what we believe in. It is important for the board not to fall prey to political interests."

Alaska pipeline ready to start oil flowing

PRUDHOE BAY, Alaska (AP) — Standing in front of a wall of flashing computer lights that would make a mad scientist proud, technicians wait for the order to begin sending oil through the trans-Alaska pipeline.

The order is due June 20, but it probably could be carried out now.

"We could pump oil right now," says Mike Jens, who is in charge of operations at Pump Station 1 for the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co.

That station is where the oil from the richest oil field in North America begins to flow down the 800-mile-long tube.

Alyeska is the consortium of oil companies which have built the $7.7 billion pipeline.

Jens says Alyeska is taking no chances with an early startup.

"We wouldn't feel comfortable starting up now, because we couldn't pump oil reliably... that's part of startup, to make sure your equipment is reliable," he said.

Testing last week, for example, showed that an important valve was malfunctioning. It had to be flown to Texas for repairs.

And there are "continual last-minute problems," Jens added. "We have put a number of hours on all the equipment so that when we push the button on that magic day we have a great deal of confidence that things will work."

Henry Moller, Alyeska vice president for operations, agreed that oil flow could start earlier than planned but added, "We don't do things in a great rush. Everything should be so practiced that it looks like they are doing it just one more time."

Alyeska has another reason for sticking to the June 20 date.

"We made a commitment to the federal government not to start until we gave 60 days notice. June 20th is the 60th day," Jens said.

Before oil reaches Pump Station 1, it must be extracted from the ground and processed. Two of the eight pipeline owner-companies — Atlantic Richfield and British Petroleum — are responsible for that.

Both collect the oil at what ARCO calls flow stations and what BP calls gathering centers. There the oil is separated from gas and water before being sent slightly less than two miles to Pump Station 1.

Ben Odom, manager of ARCO's Prudhoe Bay operations, says both companies are ready to begin delivering oil.

"We are in communication with Alyeska and BP on a daily basis... we will do what they want us to do, when they want us to do it," Odom said.

Alyeska handles the oil once it reaches the pump station. Moller compares it with "giving the keys of your car to your son. He has custody, but it's your car."

Each owner-company gets its share of the oil once it arrives at the ice-free port of Valdez, the southern terminus of the line.

Alyeska expects it to take 30 to 45 days for the first oil to reach Valdez. Normally it would take much less time, but the flow will be restrained so the line and pump stations can be monitored carefully for leaks and mechanical problems.

In Valdez the oil will be loaded into tankers. Nobody knows for sure where it will go from there.

There are several proposals to build pipelines from the West Coast to the Midwest or to use parts of existing pipelines, as well as talk of sending the oil to Japan in a swap for Middle Eastern oil that then would be sent to the Northeast.

Another idea is to ship it through the Panama Canal to ports on the Gulf of Mexico. Still another scheme would be to use railroad tank cars to get the crude to the Midwest.

Odom and his BP counterpart are concentrating on making sure they can supply the 600,000 barrels the pipeline is scheduled to carry each day after startup.

Each company is to supply 300,000 barrels. Preparations so far include trial runs in which "we pretend to open the valves. The man will walk to the valve and he will say, 'I am opening this valve.'"

"It looks kind of silly, but we don't want to ask him to go open that valve and find he doesn't know where it is," said Odom, who has been with the pipeline from the start.

Two full-scale drills are planned this week.

When the order to turn the oil loose is received at ARCO's Flow Station 1, Dexter Smith and John Harville say they'll be ready.

Harville, who also moved to Anchorage from the Southwest, is a flow station operator. He follows the oil that comes from the wells into the station and out to Alyeska.

Like most of the employees, he works seven days a week, 12 hours a day.

members of the cartel held meetings in Paris in early 1972, in Johannesburg, South Africa, the same year, and in Canada.

In Philadelphia, Gulf acknowledged Friday that a subsidiary, Gulf Minerals Canada Ltd., was ordered by the Canadian government to participate in meetings in Ottawa, Paris and Johannesburg on international marketing of uranium.

Gulf asserted the "marketing arrangement" was ineffective and ended in 1975. The arrangement, known as the Uranium Marketing Research Organization, excluded all commerce between the United States and its members — Canada, South Africa, Australia and France, Gulf said.

Gulf President James E. Lee said the subsidiary's participation did not violate U.S. antitrust laws. "When you're in a country, you've got to operate under their rules and regulations and none of our acts is culpable," he said.

Gulf had asked U.S. District Court Judge George Hart to deny the committee access to the papers, contending the documents were privileged under an attorney-client relationship. But Hart ruled last month that Congress was entitled to them.

Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., said he suspected that "something occurred, other than the normal workings of the marketplace" to cause the sharp price increase.

He said if the cartel existed "it would have a significant and adverse effect on the overall economy of the nation in terms of the cost of fuel."

House makes public cartel documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee is setting out to discover whether an international uranium cartel that allegedly conspired to hike prices dramatically actually exists.

The House Commerce Committee voted Friday to make public a nine-inch stack of papers that claims the cartel did exist, despite requests by Gulf Oil Corp. and the Canadian government to keep the documents secret.

Lawyers for the Westinghouse Electric Corp. contend the price-fixing arrangement boosted the cost of raw uranium from $6 a pound in 1972 to $41 a pound.

Westinghouse, a nuclear-power plant builder, says the price boosts, a seven-fold increase in less than three years, damaged its ability to compete.

The documents, already owned by the committee as a result of a federal court ruling, will be used during public hearings scheduled for Thursday and Friday. Witnesses also will be called, investigators said.

Spraberry Trend extended

The Howard County portion of the Spraberry Trend Area was extended seven miles south-southwest with completion of Resources Investment Corp., Corpus Christi, No. 1 Flanagan, 1 1/4 miles east-northeast of depleted Spraberry and Leonard productions in the Morgan Ranch (Fusselman oil) field and five miles southeast of Big Spring, for 223 barrels of 34 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 715-1.

Production was through a 13-64-inch choke and perforations at 6,368-414 feet, which had been acidized with 2,500 gallons.

Operator set 4 1/2 inch casing at 9,498 feet and plugged back to 8,384 feet.

Originally drilled by Amarillo Oil Co. as a wildcat to 9,502 feet it reportedly was abandoned Dec. 13, 1976 after recovering 210 feet of heavily oil and gas cut mud, 30 feet of drilling mud and 120 feet of water on a two-hour and 18-minute drillstem test at 9,435-502 feet in the Fusselman.

Location is 1,170 feet from the south and 1,320 feet from the east lines of 24-32-1S-T&P.

Also, an extender has been reported in Sterling County.

Canon oil production was extended 1 1/4 miles southeast in the Big Salute (Canyon and Leonard oil) field with completion of Marathon Oil Co., No. 1-28

R.J. Foster, Jr., 12 miles southwest of Sterling City, for 608 barrels of 44.7 gravity oil, plus 32 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 849-1.

Production was through a 20-54-inch choke and perforations at 7,470-822 feet, which had been acidized with 3,800 gallons and fractured with 100,000 gallons and 119,000 pounds of sand.

Originally scheduled as a Canyon gas test in the conger multiphase field and amended to the above field, it was drilled to 8,000 feet where 4 1/2 inch casing was set and plugged back to 7,922 feet.

Location is 990 feet from the north and east lines of 28-31-5S-T&P.

Producers to decide beef check-off

The topic of conversation among Howard County cattlemen today is the upcoming Beef Referendum. Producers will decide whether they want to initiate a national check-off program on beef and dairy cattle. As granted by the Beef Research and Information Act, cattlemen can vote to impose a tax on themselves.

The Beef Research, an information act, is Public Law 94-294. Basically, the act authorized a nationally coordinated research and information program to improve, maintain and develop markets for cattle, beef and beef products. It is enabling legislation to provide for national checkoff program similar to the type that exist for wheat, potatoes, cotton and eggs.

The program was initiated by a series of public hearings on the proposed order for a research and information program which were held across the nation. From testimony at the hearings, a final order was prepared and published by the Department of Agriculture.

It authorizes a beef board, composed of producers, with the power to collect assessments on all sales of cattle and to use the funds collected for beef research and information activities.

A producer referendum has been scheduled. This means every beef producer now has the chance to register and vote on the program. If the vote is favorable, the beef board will be appointed and the collections will be made. The law sets a maximum check-off rate of one half of one percent of the increased values of the live animal. However, for the first three years, the assessment rate has been set at three-tenths of one percent. Under the value added concept, all sellers in the marketing chain will be assessed.

Provisions are made for producers who wish to receive a refund if they do not wish to participate in the program.

All bonafide beef producers are eligible to vote in the referendum. There is no age limit or minimum requirements of numbers of cattle owned. A bonafide beef producer has been defined as one who has owned cattle between the period of January 1, 1976 to December 31, 1976.

Registration dates have been set from June 6-17, 1977 at the County ASCS office, (second floor of the Post Office Building).

Voting dates are July 5-15, 1977 at the Howard County ASCS Office.

GRAND CHAMPION PEA SHELLER — Betty Harris of Hallsville challenges all pea shellers to try and take her title during the 1977 Black-Eyed Pea Jamboree. Mrs. Harris won her title at the 1976 Jamboree by shelling over 25 ounces of peas in 60 seconds. STEPHENVILLE — Steve Fryar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Fryar of Big Spring, has recently received the service T award at Tarleton State University.

Fryar was a spring graduate at Tarleton with a B.S. degree in general agriculture.

At Tarleton, he was a member of the rodeo team and was National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association regional champion in steer wrestling in 1976 and 1977. He placed sixth in the world standings for the NIRA in 1976 and will compete in the finals again this summer at Bozeman, Mont.

Fryar was also a national director for the NIRA while attending Tarleton.

'Good Health' venture How safe is the pill?

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Question. What is schizophrenia? A. It means broken or split mind. This happens when someone cannot tell the difference between what is real and what is imagined. It is a serious mental illness.

Q. How safe is the pill? A. A lot safer than pregnancy. Almost 10 times as many women die from pregnancy as from the pill (10.8 per 100,000 population versus 1.3 per 100,000).

Q. My husband snores. Can I do anything about it? A. Gently lift his chin to close his mouth. Then turn his head to one side. The snoring will stop. Snoring occurs when the tongue falls to the back of the throat during sleep. It rattles as breathing occurs. Both sexes snore.

Such questions and answers are found in a new tabloid newspaper of medical information entitled "Good Health," begun with a $15,000 investment by Dr. John P. Callan, a 38-year-old assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Connecticut School of Medicine.

Callan acknowledges that he hopes to turn a profit from the newspaper, but says his primary purpose is to "service the people."

"The goal," he says, "is to present medical information in an easy to read and understand format. The obscure jargon of medical journals will be translated to everyday terms. Most medical journals are written by doctors for doctors."

Callan says he also aims to show people how they can get good quality health care at modest costs.

"People say doctors don't tell them enough and rush them through and don't give them enough information," he says. "We hope we can help alleviate that to some degree."

One article by a medical doctor discussed fees and noted that the average for a routine office visit in central Connecticut is $15, $40 to $60 for a complete physical and $5 to $15 for ear washing in addition to the basic office fee. The article said doctors' fees have risen about 30 per cent in the last four years.

But is the annual physical really necessary? "Probably not, especially in persons under 40," Callan notes in his question and answer column called "Probe." He says: "Many doctors are opposed to annual physicals. They feel it costs too much, takes up time that could be spent with sick people and does little to prevent disease before symptoms have developed."

The men behind the man who minds your meter

A legion of workmen in steel mills, lumber camps, mining shafts, machine shops and oil fields make their living helping you get electricity. They produce the lines, poles, substations, fuels and wholesale power which are higher now than they used to be. Cap Rock Electric Cooperative cannot control these prices.

But through careful management and greater efficiency the cost of distributing power has been kept under control. In spite of escalating prices, the men and women up front at Cap Rock Electric Cooperative are holding the line on the cost of delivering power.

Good Friday sniper convicted

BALTIMORE (AP) — A man who was dubbed the Good Friday sniper after a series of shootings on Good Friday last year has been convicted of the murder of one policeman and the attempted murder of 12 other officers.

A Baltimore City criminal court jury returned a guilty verdict on Friday against John Earl Williams, 19, of Baltimore, after finding him legally sane at the time of the incident.

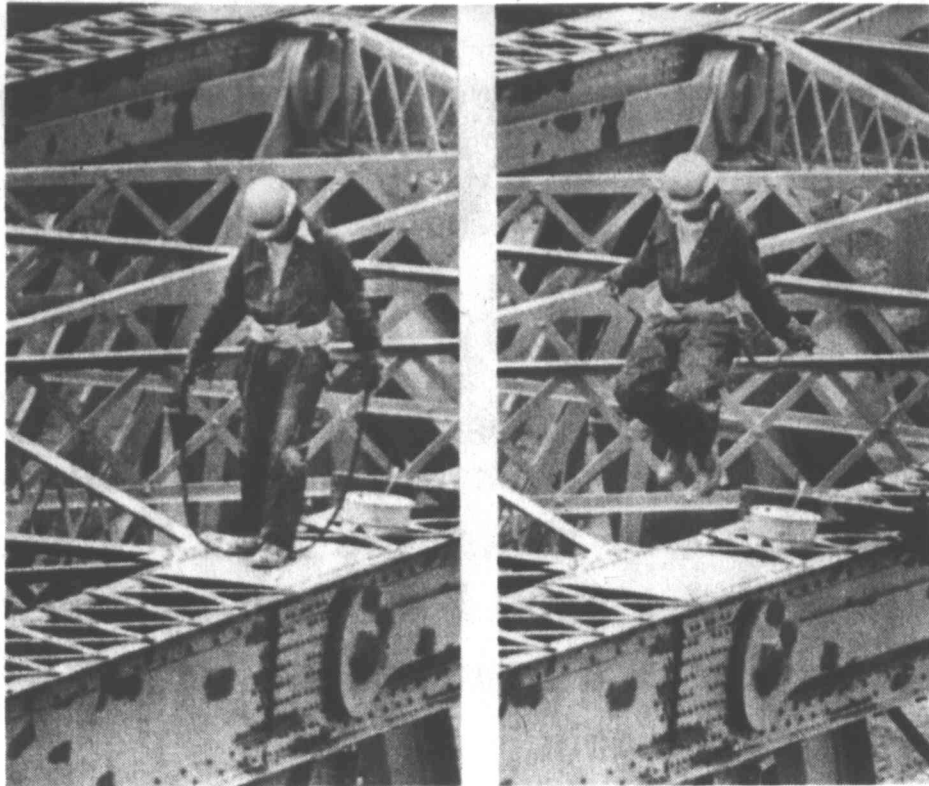

Williams, who pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the charges, faces a maximum sentence of life in prison for the first-degree murder of Officer Jimmy D. Halcomb, 31, and 30 years for each of the other counts.

Seven of the 12 officers were wounded or injured in the April 1976 gun battle.

In closing arguments, Stephen R. Tully, an assistant state's attorney, told the jury of seven women and five men the defendant had become a "big man" in his neighborhood because of the shootings.

Tully derided defense claims that Williams was trying to commit suicide when he sprayed rifle and shotgun fire from the upper windows of his home.

"He's glad he committed those crimes," Tully said. "Now he's gotten what he wanted — he's a big man on Lombard street (where the young man lived)."

HIGH STEEL SKIPPER — An Indian high steel painter takes time to catch up on his exercises with his safety line. Health agency mulls HEW disapproval

The governing body of the Permian Basin Health Systems Agency held a lengthy discussion centering around the Department of Health Education and Welfare decision to disapprove full designation for the Health Systems Agency at their last meeting.

Taking into consideration the comments from HEW and Texas Department of Health Resources concerning the amount of activity required in developing all 21 programs, the governing body reviewed the budget and staffing requirements for accomplishing this task in one year. After careful analysis of the 21 programs, the governing body felt they could incorporate five of the health concerns into the existing program, leaving a total of 16.

A public hearing will be held on Thursday, July 7, at 2 p.m., in the offices of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission to discuss the reorganization of the 21 health concerns and the direction of the HSA during the next year.

All persons wishing to become informed and involved should attend. Persons who are interested in working with the agency in developing programs in the areas of identified health concerns are invited to attend this meeting and become acquainted with the governing body and staff.

A report of the recommendations made by the governing body will be available beginning June 7. Copies may be obtained from the Permian Basin Health Systems Agency, P.O. Box 6391, Midland, Texas 79701, or by calling Jeanne Kaferle at (915) 563-1061.

Written comments on this report may be sent to the above address or presented at the public hearing July 7.

Rodeo leader breaks leg

DENVER, Colo. — Monty Henson, one of the two reigning world champion saddle bronc riders, and the season's leading winner in the event, suffered a broken leg while competing at the Fort Smith, Ark., rodeo, which ended June 4.

The 23-year-old cowboy from Mesquite, Texas, had his right foot slip out of the stirrup at the sound of the whistle, and he hit the ground awkwardly, breaking his right fibula. Doctors in Dallas, Texas, said Henson would probably be out of competition ten to 12 weeks — "which means more like eight," Henson predicted.

Henson said he hoped to be able to ride by the time of the Cheyenne, Wyo., Frontier Days rodeo, set for July 23-31.

Henson leads Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association saddle bronc riders this season with $13,399 in winnings.

First-place winners at the Fort Smith rodeo included Phil Sublett of San Augustine, Texas, $1,958 in steer wrestling; Roy Cooper of Durant, Okla., $1,393 in calf roping; Barney Brehmer of Peterson, Ia., $1,492 in bull riding; Paul Mayo of Farmers Branch, Texas, $1,249 in bareback riding; and a tie in saddle bronc riding between three-time world champ Bill Smith of Cody, Wyo., and Mike O'Neill of Granbury, Texas, each winning more than $600.

Another major rodeo, winding up Sunday, was at Santa Maria, Calif. Winners included Joe Alexander of Cora, Wyo., $686 in bareback riding; John Growney of Red Bluff, Calif., $706 in bull riding; Gene Erickson of Kingman, Ariz., $727 in saddle bronc; Ed Hirdes of Turlock, Calif., $1,127 in calf roping; Russ Dolven of Wickenburg, Ariz., and Rodney Towse of Hilmar, Calif., $620 and $434 respectively in steer wrestling; Larry Goss of Canby, Ore., and Jerold Camarillo of Oakdale, Calif., $1,339 each in team roping.

Triple Crown for Seattle Slew

Belmont Stakes captured

Their hands are up

Lifetime dream for owners

NEW YORK (AP) — Things didn't go according to plan for Seattle Slew Saturday. That is, until he left the starting gate and raced his way into legend by becoming the first unbeaten Triple Crown winner in history with a front-running victory in the Belmont Stakes.

"It was my fault the horse was late getting there," trainer Billy Turner said of Slew's late arrival in the paddock from his barn. A national television audience, a Belmont Park crowd of 70,229 and history were kept waiting an extra five minutes for post time.

"There were so many cars in the stable area, they rerouted us just to avoid traffic," said Turner.

The Slew's rivals could have used some traffic problems for him. A front-runner doesn't have to change course—and that's where Slew was, every step of the 1½ miles.

The time was a slow 2:29 3/5 on a muddy track, the margin was four lengths. Both were far off Secretariat's record time of 2:24 and record margin of 31 lengths.

So what? "It's the same thing every time," said Turner. "He just wins. This isn't a record-breaking horse. He just does what he has to. Someone pushed him

NEW YORK (AP) — Seattle Slew made racing history Saturday with a front-running victory in the $181,800 Belmont Stakes that made him the first unbeaten Triple Crown winner.

With a crowd of 70,229, second biggest in Belmont Stakes history, roaring on every stride, the Slew took complete charge turning for home.

And when he charged across the finish line, Jean Cruguet stood up in the irons.

The order of finish duplicated that of the Kentucky Derby, as Run Dusty Run finished second and Sanhedrin third.

Seattle Slew, winning his ninth start, became the 10th Triple Crown winner and the first since Secretariat in 1973. The other nine all had tasted defeat before their Triple Crown quests began.

The Slew did things his way Saturday, taking the lead out of the gate and setting his own pace. He carried Karen Taylor's black-and-yellow silks over the first half-mile in 48 2/5 seconds. He ran the three-quarters in 1:14, 1¼ miles in 2:03 4/5 and completed the 1½ miles in 2:29 3/5 on a muddy track under scale weight of 126 pounds.

When the son of Bold Reasoning reached the finish, he was four lengths in front of Run Dusty Run. Sanhedrin was another two lengths back and 2¼ lengths in front of 60-1 shot Mr. Red Wing.

As the crowd cheered, Cruguet brought the champion back to the winner's circle, wildly waving his yellow cap.

The Frenchman, who had been criticized for his riding in some of Slew's earlier races, had said after the Flamingo Stakes in Florida: "If they didn't beat me today, they'll never beat me."

And so far, the Slew has kept Cruguet the No. 1 prophet in racing.

The winner paid $2.80, $2.60 and $2.20.

The big question before the Belmont was: Can Seattle Slew handle 1½ miles?

He did, in his own sweet time, and his margin was the biggest of any of his Triple Crown victories. He beat Run Dusty Run by 1¼ lengths in the 1¼-mile Derby and Iron Constitution by 1½ lengths in the 1 3/16-mile Preakness.

Iron Constitution, owned by Harry T. Mangurian Jr., finished fifth in the Belmont and was followed by Spirit Level, Sir Sir and Make Amends. Hey Hey J.P. and Leading Scorer were scratched.

However, the Belmont was not problem-free for Seattle Slew. He showed up in the paddock at 5:33 p.m., EDT, two minutes past the call for riders up, and the post had to be delayed five minutes to 5:47 p.m.

"There were so many cars parked on the backside and they came in one direction, so you couldn't get through," Karen Taylor's husband Mickey said of Slew's slow trip to the paddock from distant Barn 54.

In order to get to the paddock, the Slew had to take another route.

But once the starting gate opened, there was only one route for the brown 3-year-old colt. And that was straight to the finish line and then on to the winner's circle and into history.

In the winner's circle, Slew got a blanket of carnations to go with his Derby roses and Preakness black-eyed Susans, while his owners, the Taylors and Dr. Jim Hill and his wife Sally, got the Belmont trophy, the Triple Crown trophy and the winner's share of $109,080.

Seattle Slew broke alertly while Meadow Stable's Spirit Level went right with him. And they dueled into the clubhouse turn. At the end of the first quarter-mile the Slew was 1½ lengths in front of Spirit Level, ridden by Antonio Graell, with Run Dusty Run, ridden by Sandy Hawley, another 1½ lengths back.

At the end of the first half mile the first three positions and the margins were unchanged.

When they reached the pole, marking a half-mile left in the race, the Slew's 1½-length leading margin was over Run Dusty Run as Spirit Level dropped back to third.

Then Slew was in the turn and the Belmont was over. When he hit the quarter pole, his margin was four lengths over Sanhedrin, ridden by Jorge Velasquez, with Run Dusty Run another head back.

"What an experience!" said Slew's trainer, Billy Turner, who was fired from training Dust Commander before that colt won the Derby in 1970. "It's really hard to believe. I feel like a coach standing on the sideline, watching a super athlete perform. When I saw he did the half mile in 48 something, I knew it was all over," said Turner, meaning he realized Slew would have plenty left for a finishing drive.

Karen Taylor said simply: "He's the greatest horse there ever is. uhh...ever was."

That argument won't be settled for some time—if ever—but Seattle Slew has one distinction that no one can ever take away from him: He went into the grueling Triple Crown unbeaten and came out the same way.

The crowd cheered Slew from the minute he showed up in the paddock, and there's no doubt that the colt, whom critics insisted was untested, had caught the public's imagination. He didn't come close to Secretariat's Belmont and American record time of 2:24, or Secretariat's winning margin of 31 lengths—but he did outdraw Big Red. Saturday's turnout of 70,229 was 2,624 more than showed up in 1973 to watch Secretariat become the ninth Triple Crown winner and the first in 25 years.

Seattle Slew, whose yearling sale purchase price was $17,500 and whose value now could be as high as $14 million, joined some of the great names of the turf with his feat Saturday.

The other Triple Crown winners besides Secretariat were Sir Barton, 1919; Gallant Fox, 1930; Omaha, 1935; War Admiral, 1937; Whirlaway, 1941; Count Fleet, 1943; Assault, 1946, and Citation, 1948.

Geiberger gets it Best round ever posted

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — There is nothing in golf with which to compare it.

As a landmark athletic achievement, it can be matched against only the supreme accomplishments in other fields of endeavor—Roger Maris' 61 home runs, O.J. Simpson's 2,000 yards rushing. It is, perhaps, most closely akin to Dr. Roger Bannister's triumph over the four-minute mile.

Al Geiberger, after his historic 59 for 18 holes of golf, made a veiled reference to Dr. Bannister's enduring breakthrough.

"Now, everybody will be shooting 59," Geiberger said.

It doesn't seem likely. The barrier has been broken. But it seems improbable that a floodtide of scores in the 50s will sweep golf in the fashion that sub-four minute miles followed Bannister's run.

It had been 20 years since Sam Snead became the seventh man to shoot a record 60. In recent years only a handful of men had even challenged.

Johnny Miller has had three rounds of 61. One of those was with an eagle three on the 18th hole. As the other rounds developed, he had only one real chance for a record score. In neither of them did he stand over a putt for a 59. Bert Yancey shot 61 at Indian Wells in the 1974 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic at Palm Springs, Calif.

None of the other greats of the game—Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson—came that close.

There have been other scores in the 50s. Globetrotter Gary Player did it on a short course in a pro tournament in

AL GEIBERGER

Brazil about three years ago. Snead, Mike Souchak and others have done it. But they did not do it in pro tour competition.

Homero Blancas once shot a 55, on a course that measured less than 6,000 yards, in a collegiate tournament in West Texas.

But those accomplishments can be compared with the 72 home runs Joe Bauman hit in the old Longhorn League.

Geiberger did it in the majors, in the highest level of competition golf can offer. He did it over a course, Colonial Country Club, that is less than easy—7,193 yards in length, heavily wooded with water coming into play on eight holes.

"The greatest thing I ever heard of," Lee Trevino said.

"We knew it would happen—we just didn't know where or when or by who," said Johnny Miller.

"It was inevitable," Jack Nicklaus said. "But I doubt that it will become commonplace. At least not immediately."

"The human race is becoming bigger, stronger, faster, smarter, healthier. Equipment is becoming better. In time, a score in the 50s may not be startling."

"But only one man can be the first to do it."

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC Television has signed a four-year contract with the NCAA for exclusive rights to telecast college football, the NCAA confirmed Saturday.

The new deal begins with the 1978 season and calls for a substantial increase in the number of games that will be televised. It is the first four-year contract the NCAA has agreed to in college football's 25-year television history and brought a record price tag of $118 million for the four-year period.

"We think it's the biggest agreement in TV history," said Tom Hansen, assistant executive director of the NCAA, speaking from NCAA headquarters in Kansas City. "We don't know for certain but everyone involved in these negotiations believes there's never been a bigger one."

ABC has had exclusive rights to NCAA football since 1966, usually signing two-year contracts. The current contract, covering the 1976-77 seasons, brought the NCAA $18 million per year from ABC.

The NCAA Television Committee, chaired by Seaver Peters of Dartmouth, negotiated the deal with ABC. The Committee polled the NCAA membership and discovered that a majority of member schools were in favor of an expanded package even though in-stadium attendance at some sites might suffer.

The idea is to limit the major schools to the same number of appearances as the current contract—no more than five appearances over a two-year period—but to provide more schools a share of the television revenue. Schools appearing on a national telecast get $250,000 each and teams shown regionally get $190,000 apiece under the current contract. The NCAA said it has not calculated how much each school will get under the new deal but it will probably be more. Conference schools share the booty with other members of their conference.

Both CBS and NBC had shown interest in obtaining at least a share of the package but ABC, with the right of first refusal, chose to accept the whole package.

CAME TO PLAY — These golfers look like they're enjoying themselves, but don't be fooled. They came to play in the Big Spring Country Club Partnership golf tourney held this weekend. From left to right, concentrating intently, are Craig Olson, Susie Welch, Jimmy Welch, Herbert Gibson, and Dick Griffithorn. They teed off at 9 a.m. Saturday and again today as the competition mounted to match the heat of the West Texas sun. And it's not over yet.

Tom Terrific still a deficit, not a pitcher?

NEWS ITEM: TRADING DEADLINE NEARS
It is a matter of days now until the June 15 door on baseball trades slams shut. After that, waivers must be procured, which means that every team in the standings below the team receiving a player must pass on him before the exchange can be made. A mere $20,000 bid can block it.

This means the Mets have less than a week now to trade Tom Seaver, because it is presumed that once June 15 comes and goes, the Mets would not part with Seaver for $20,000. Nobody gets that mad.

Truth of the matter is, the Mets don't want to trade Tom Terrific at any price, never did. You may read here and there, or hear it on radio talk shows run by irresponsible babblers, that the Mets want to trade the best pitcher in baseball, but that's a distortion of fact. Tom Seaver is the one who asked to be traded, and the Mets simply have been trying to oblige him because they didn't want a putting, gripping, morale-breaking clubhouse-lawyer poisoning the team. It's that simple.

Because Tom Seaver has the right to pick and choose where he is to go, there have not been any offers for Seaver that might be termed equitable. No club has offered a star for Tom Terrific, pacifier and all. No team has offered so much as a front-line player. You would think, wouldn't you, that Tom Seaver would command a George Foster, a Rick Monday, a Garry Maddox. None has.

Any realistic fan, any honest newspaperman would, I am sure, react to the offers received by saying, to hell with them, don't trade him. Tom Seaver, I am sure, would be too insulted to leave.

There have been indications that Seaver has softened his position. We now hear that it is possible for a young, millionaire pitcher to find happiness in the soap opera at Shea Stadium. A new force has come into his life, a new guiding spirit, a miracle-worker — St. Joseph.

I wonder who will be the first fan, the first writer on another paper to tell me the name of the man that made Joe Torre manager of the Mets.

NEWS ITEM: FINLEY CUTS TICKET PRICES
This is just another way of making his fellow American League owners sore at him. If he were in the National League, Charley O would be playing strictly with his own money, because the visiting club in the NL is paid off per head, 35c, for each body walking through the turnstile, regardless of ticket price.

In the AL, the visiting share is determined by the gross cash gate — 20 per cent. Thus, when Finley cuts prices in half, he is cutting in half the visitor's share, as well.

Should the volume increase by 100 per cent, then the money remains the same. Should attendance more than double, then there would be a gain, for the visiting club as well as for Finley.

Finley's peers question that happening. "The history of cut-rate tickets," says Gabe Paul, Yankee prez, "is that there is a big increase in sales for the first two or three games, and then it levels off where it was. I think it's a lousy idea."

The half-price tickets are for Oakland games Monday through Thursday. Inasmuch as Mondays already were half-price Family Nights in Finley's park, he is adding only the three week nights, and there will be little testing ground in the present home stand.

Any price reduction in this eroding inflation is beneficial for the fans, so it's to be hoped it works. I'm afraid, though, that Charley O has cut his prices for a less noble reason than the interests of the Oakland fan. "I'm suspected that he is seeking solid evidence to justify another transfer of his faltering franchise, and that when the half-price gimmick fails to revive the finances, Charley O will say see, I tried everything — as he waves goodbye to the Bay Area."

Lady startles LPGA Chako rips 'em

NORTH MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — According to the Players' Professional Golf Association, Chako Higuchi is viewed as a "superstar" in Japan.

Her counterparts on the American pro tour may learn before the weekend is out that's a pretty accurate summation of the golfing ability of Mrs. Higuchi — and it may cost them money to find it out.

The 31-year-old Japanese player was tied with South Africa's Sally Little going into today's second round of the LPGA Championship. She has won three LPGA's in Japan and as many Opens in that country.

After an opening-round 71, Mrs. Higuchi fired at five-under-par 67 in Friday's second round for a 36-hole total of 138.

That was a reversal of Miss Little's performance — 67 in the first round and 71 Friday.

Thirty-four of the 99 pros who started the tournament definitely won't be there Sunday, or even today. They were eliminated after the second round in the cut of all those with 155 or over, which narrowed the field to 65.

The winner of the championship Sunday will take home $22,500 of the $150,000 purse.

Three strokes behind the two leaders was Judy Rankin. She had a 73 to go with an opening round 67 for a total of 141. Pat Bradley was next at 142 after her second 71.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX — Jim Spencer, first baseman, was placed on the 15-day disabled list; recalled Kevin Bell, infielder, from Iowa in the American Association.

Reds trade good for the Astros?

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher Joaquin Andujar is fast becoming known as Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson's biggest mistake.

"Some of the players (Reds) told me the last time we were in Cincinnati Joaquin, if we still had you, we'd be in first place by three games," Andujar said Friday after stifling the New York Mets 4-1 with a two-hitter.

Andujar's victory gave him a 7-3 record this season, only two victories shy of his 9-10 record last season as a rookie.

Andujar, who signed his 1978 contract prior to Friday night's game, came to the Astros prior to last season when the Reds gave up on him after six seasons in the Reds' farm system.

Enos Cabell's sacrifice fly plated Houston's go-ahead run in the third inning and the Astros, who snapped a four-game losing streak, never trailed in the game.

Two more runs scored in the fourth on Cliff Johnson's double and Julio Gonzalez' grounder. John Stearns singled off Andujar in the fifth and scored on Bud Harrelson's sacrifice fly for New York's lone run.

Andujar singled to right field and scored from second base for Houston's final run in the seventh when second baseman Felix Millan overthrew third base on a pick off attempt.

After virtually each victory the past two seasons, Andujar has been asked to repeat the story of why he never made it to the big leagues with the defending world champion Reds.

"They just never give me a chance to pitch in the big leagues," Andujar says in his heavily-accented English. "I go nine innings against Boston in spring training (1975) and give up three hits and two walks and the next day they send me to the minor leagues."

"I ask Sparky why he don't give me a chance just to pitch one or two games in the majors. He says he has to give the veterans a chance."

Sports affected?

The non-renewal of Big Spring coach James Griffin's contract for next year, which prompted a more than "routine" meeting of the school board last Thursday night, is unfortunate for Big Spring athletics at this time.

I am no judge or jury and won't attempt to delve into the conflicts, the reasoning on both sides or justify the actions of either side. That would be unfair to Coach Don Robbins, Coach James Griffin, and most especially unfair to the athletes of Big Spring.

I went to school at Big Spring when Robbins was here the first time. I didn't know him personally then, but knew of him, as all students did of the football coach. Throughout this past year, I've come to know him as well as someone in my position could.

He is a volatile and emotional man, or possibly I became acquainted with the coach, not the man. He is a task-master and expects a lot from his staff and players.

James Griffin and I met less than a year ago, but I immediately warmed up to him. He is very likeable, and very easy to work with. He too, however, is very emotional.

Both men are remarkably alike in some ways, friends of mine, and I refuse to believe that either one is a bigot.

Differences develop in all walks of life, and unfortunately, whether real or imagined, they sometimes cannot be overcome. Just remember this, Don Robbins by himself did not fire Coach Griffin and "Griff" did not resign.

Don Robbins and James Griffin can take care of themselves. They're grown men. The only matter that worries me is that next year's crop of athletes, who will already have the odds stacked against them in District 5-4A, may be adversely affected by the whole business.

I hope not. They need all the positive thinking they can muster.

Along those lines, the first football poll out for next year has the Steers in unsurprising last place, with seven last place votes.

There's no use kidding ourselves. Big Spring is the super underdog for the 1977 football season. Almost half the size of powerhouse Permian (the district's top pick), chances look slim for the "Year of the Steer."

The only chance the locals have is if each boy who goes out for football plays with an intensity that surpasses anything seen in the Red.

Woman chosen for NBA Jazz center

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Lucia Harris Stewart, who led Delta State to three national women's basketball championships and a U.S. Olympic women's team to a silver medal, doesn't think she is National Basketball Association material.

Mrs. Stewart was picked by the New Orleans Jazz Friday in the seventh round of the NBA draft. She was graduated in May from Delta State University in Cleveland, Miss.

"Men are just naturally better. I'm not sure I could do it," she said in a telephone interview from her home in Cleveland. "I play pretty well on the women's level, but with the men, well, that's something different."

Mrs. Stewart, a 6-foot-3 center, scored 2,981 points in her college career, averaged 25.9 points a game and was 63.3 per cent from the field.

annals of Big Spring football. "Jumpin' Jerry" Foresyth, still the number one fan the Steers have, indicated that, after speaking with a number of players who will make up next year's squad, they were going to be better than the 1-9 finish last year.

That's the spirit that needs to pervade the entire team. The mind is a powerful weapon in sports.

I look for Big Spring to beat at least Hobbs, Midland and Cooper if they play with any type of fire at all.

During the National Little League game Thursday night between the Yankees and the Lions, Andy Anderson was presented a plaque of appreciation and an autographed baseball by the Yanks.

The award given the Yank coach said "Appreciation and Gratitude to Andy Anderson — without you we would not have had our team nor the National Little League field to play on."

After suffering a long bout with tonsillitis, Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw has quit his off-season singing career.

"At one point, I had my tonsils laying on my tongue," said the 28-year-old Bradshaw, who has been singing country-western music for years. "They were so big it was like I had a knot in my throat."

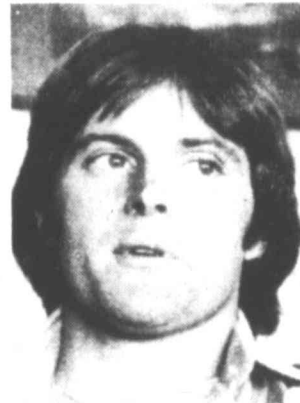

Legal problems in the music business also contributed to Bradshaw's decision. Some promoters of his wouldn't believe he was ill, so he had to fly to Reno to show them. "It was one lawsuit after another," Terry said.

He said the Mercury record label canceled his contract after he "badmouthed them in a Dallas paper."

Midland College inks state's top linkster

MIDLAND — Russell Wimberley, a four-year letterman on the Rankin High School golf team that has been state champion for the past five years, has signed a letter of intent to attend Midland College.

The 19-year-old golfer was District Medalist this year as the Red Devil golf squad tied a record for most consecutive state titles. He was third place in the district medalist race as a sophomore, moved up to second place when he was a junior, and then was the tops this season. He also finished third in the state medalist competition as a junior with an average of 76.8. He won the district title this year with an average of 72.8.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wimberley, Russell also lettered three years on the Rankin football team. He ranked fourth in his graduating class of 33 with an academic average of 93. He was a member of the National Honor Society three years and also was chosen to receive the "service to school" merit award for three years.

"Midland College has been fortunate to attract golfers from this area and certainly some of the finest are those who have played for Coach Dwayne Turner at Rankin. They have good fundamentals and a winning attitude." MC golf coach Delnor Poss said. "We also think his outstanding academic record will be a credit to the student body."

Wimberley joins Shayne Berry of Midland as a freshman player for the Midland College men's golf squad during 1977-78.

Marques Johnson to Milwaukee NBA draft closes out

NEW YORK (AP) — Marques Johnson wasn't happy about leaving California, but recognizes a good thing when he sees one.

"I had wanted to play pro ball in Los Angeles," said the All-American forward from UCLA, "but the Milwaukee Bucks are a young team with a lot of players who were in winning programs in college. They seem to be building something and I'm glad to be a part of it."

The Bucks are indeed building something, and after their big haul in Friday's National Basketball Association draft it's beginning to look like a contender for the Midwest Division title.

They cashed in their three first-round draft choices and came away from the annual lottery with a trio of blue chip prospects — two-time All-American center Kent Benson, who led Indiana to the NCAA title in 1976. Johnson, major college basketball's Player of the Year last season, and forward Ernie Grunfeld, who averaged 22.8 points per game at Tennessee but impressed pro scouts even more with his hustle and devotion to team play.

The Bucks made known their intention of landing the 6-foot-11, 245-pound Benson back in April when it was assured they would have the first pick in the draft. They finished with the worst record in the Western Conference, then won a coin flip with the Kansas City Kings for the right to pick No. 1.

And they couldn't wait. When a hitch developed in the telephone hookup between league headquarters and the 22 NBA teams, holding up the start of the draft for more than an hour, the Bucks went ahead with their scheduled news conference anyway and announced that they had signed Benson to a six-year contract estimated at $1.5 million.

Kansas City had the second pick in the draft and turned down a number of trade offers to go for high-scoring guard Otis Birdsong of Houston.

Next came the Bucks, who owned Buffalo's first-round pick and used it to take Johnson, the highest scoring forward in UCLA history. The Bucks then cooled their heels until their turn came once again, this time the 11th pick on the first round which they had obtained from Cleveland Grunfeld was still untouched, so they grabbed him.

Los Angeles also had three first-round picks, and although the Lakers' choices were lower in the selection

Biles leaves post here

Mike Biles, head athletic trainer at Big Spring High School this past year, has resigned his position here and has taken a similar post at Jefferson High School in Port Arthur.

Biles will be working with ex-Steer head mentor Bob Burris, the head football coach at that southern Texas Class 4A school.

Biles, who just missed obtaining an assistant trainers position at Texas Tech last week, stated that he enjoyed his work here, but the salary raise and proximity to Houston provided the appeal to move.

Biles' father is the defensive coordinator for the Houston Oilers, and his family lives in Houston.

Howell wins it

Chris Howell took Medalist honors at the PGA Junior Tournament at Maxwell Golf Course in Abilene on Friday, carding an outstanding 69. Howell's 37-32 for a total of 69 brought him his second PGA Tournament victory and First Place in the 14-15 year old Division, edging out John Slaughter of Abilene-Cooper who shot a 72.

Crappietime

By Danny Reagan

Lake Thomas

Mrs. Tidwell at the Lodge is just as happy as a yellow cat with a mouthful of worms. The fishing has been very good at the lake, and more and more of her friends are finding her at the lake.

Ray Pipes and Ronnie Williams of Big Spring won the academy award for "Best Fish". They caught 15 crappie to two pounds, two black bass, one three and one four, four good-size channel cat, and 30 small crappie.

Channel and yellow cats ranging from seven to 27 pounds have been taken off trotlines during the past week, and five- and six-pounders are being caught on rod and reels with worms and Catfish Charlie.

The nice-size crappie are being found in very shallow water, and seem to like minnows most of all.

The lake patrol told Mrs. Tidwell that some angler really pulled in a big string of black bass, and the eating-size channel cat are all over the lake.

For your information, to help you distinguish the type crappie you have caught... the white crappie has a short dorsal fin with six spines and dark vertical bars... and the black crappie has a long dorsal fin with seven or eight spines, and the body is blotched with dark spots.

Moss Creek

"Slow" is the word from Ed McCain. "The bass have gone on strike," said McCain.

The walleye have slowed up considerably, although one or two still are brought out from time to time.

The only thing that is moving "fairly well" is the catfish. Most are being caught on live bait, and channel and yellow up to six pounds are being caught. Shrimp, liver and worms work as well, but McCain avers that the larger ones lean towards live bait.

There haven't been a great number of fishermen out this past week, so McCain can't gauge the quality of fishing that well at the lake right now.

Lake Spence

Medium-sized striped bass continued to dominate fishing reports from Lake E.V. Spence, but a few fishermen reported sizeable strings of channel catfish, along with one 20-pound yellow catfish.

Fishermen were active, too, at Lake J.B. Thomas, where Billy Ward, Big Spring, landed four black bass to 4 lbs.

Among reports from Lake E.V. Spence were:

Y.J.'s Marina 8 Elbert Lewis, Odessa, 7 1/2 lb. striped bass; Fred Lowery, Odessa, 6 1/2 and 8-lb. strippers; Larry Brooker and party of Andrews, 20 strippers to 8 1/2 lbs.; James Elmore, Dub Wimberly and party from Andrews, 107 channel catfish to 5 lbs. and a 6 3/4-lb. strip; Fred and Betty Lowery, Odessa, nine strippers to 8 lbs. and six yellow catfish.

Triangle Grocer and Bait — Keith and Brian Farrell, Odessa, three strippers to 7 lbs., also 18 channel cats to 5 lbs. and a 3 1/2 lb. black bass; Dan Jackson and Tom Chandler, Big Spring, 3-lb. channel cat and a 5-lb. strip; Mary Bankhead, Odessa, 20-lb. yellow catfish, 12 channel catfish to 4 lbs., and a 9-lb. strip.

Wilcat Fish A Rama — Mrs. N.D. Waggoner, Tulia, 7 1/2-lb. strip; Rusty Blackstock, Abilene, three strippers to 6 3/4 lbs.; Moose McCollum, Odessa, 2 3/4-lb. strip.

Hillside grocery — Chris Renaud, Midland, a 6 1/2-lb. strip.

Striped bass puzzle

AUSTIN — A striped bass landed by a Houston angler off the San Luis Pass fishing pier in West Bay in early June has fisheries biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department puzzled.

Although upstream reservoirs and river systems have had strippers stocked over the past several years, biologists cannot accurately determine where the fish came from.

Coastal fisheries biologists determined the 5.2-pound, 27-inch-long fish was four years old, which meant the fish could not have come from the Trinity River System, since strippers have not been stocked there for more than four years.

Biologists speculate the strip could have come from Toledo Bend Reservoir via the Sabine River. If that is the case, it would indicate there is still movement of strippers into salt water, P&WD officials say.

Harmful fish ban

AUSTIN — The safeguards are up against potentially harmful fish in Texas, but the Parks and Wildlife Department is concerned about possible weak spots. Some pet shop owners may not know that they are prohibited from holding or selling certain harmful exotic fish species. The department regulates the possession of potentially harmful fish and fish eggs by permit, restricted solely for educational, scientific or public aquaria use. This restriction was applied in January 1974 to a list of tropical fish considered dangerous. Private hobbyists who held permits for such species prior to that time are allowed to maintain the fish with a permit from the department but they cannot replace specimens which die. No new harmful fish may be bought or imported by private collectors. Also, hobbyist permits must be renewed annually for specimens currently in possession.

Violators of any provision of the rules are guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $200. The department's list of 10 groups of fish which are potentially harmful if introduced into Texas' waters includes: bony-tongue group, five species of piranhas, the electric eel, the gar pike from British Honduras, grass carp, snakehead group, peacock bass, parasitic South American catfish, freshwater stingray, and the walking catfish.

For more information on the regulated species and list, write: Fisheries Division, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744.

Fingerlings stocked

AUSTIN — Almost one million fingerling striped bass, reared in the Parks and Wildlife Department's Marine Fishery Research Station at Palacios, have been stocked in Texas bays and freshwater lakes during May.

Saltwater areas receiving strippers were: San Antonio Bay, 222,000; Sabine Lake, 10,000; and Sunset Lake near Corpus, 3,000.

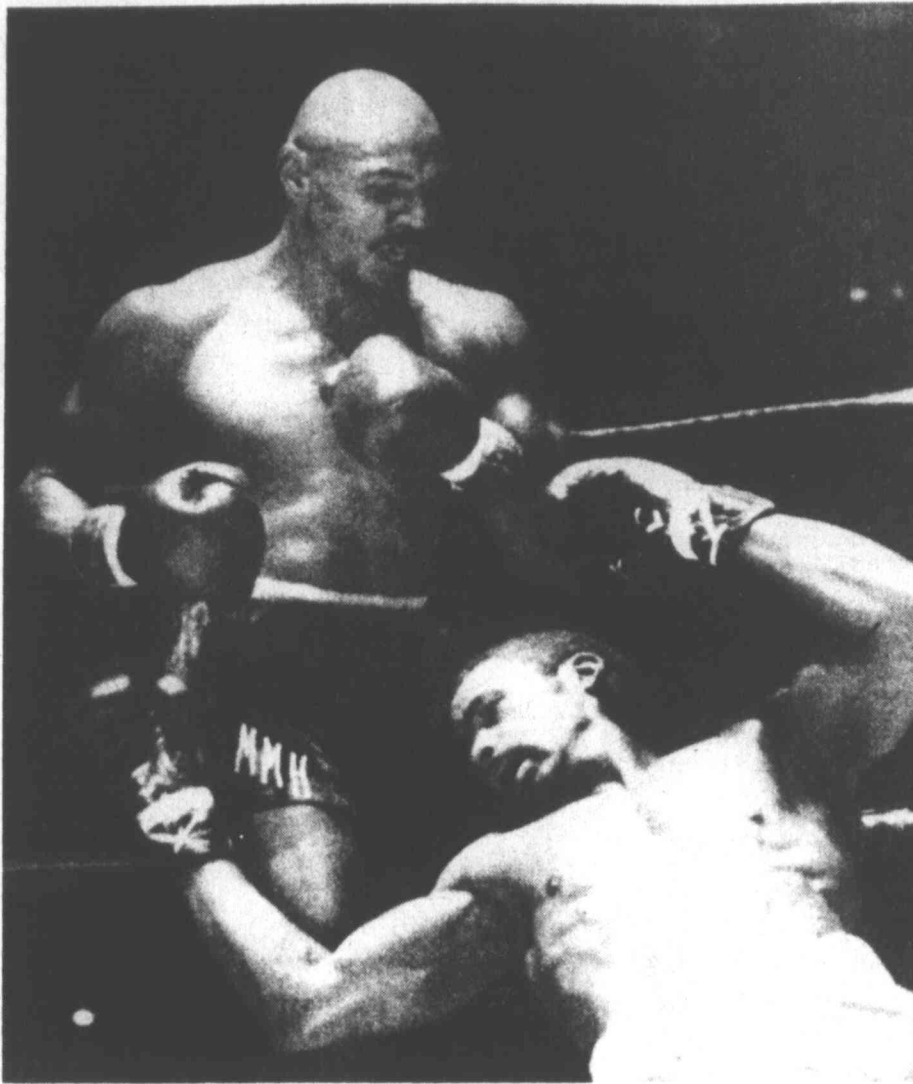

The saltwater stockings are part of a program to develop spawning populations of striped bass in Texas streams.

Striped bass go upstream into fresh water to spawn. Several Texas water systems offer good possibilities, particularly the Guadalupe River which empties into San Antonio Bay. A 13-inch striped bass, stocked as a fingerling last year, recently was recovered from San Antonio Bay.

The remaining Palacios fish stocked in freshwater lakes included: Amistad Reservoir, 155,000; Lake Sam Rayburn, 256,000; Lake Livingston, 171,000; and Falcon Reservoir, 147,000.

Some 2.5 million striped bass for these stockings were obtained as fry from Monck's Corner, South Carolina in early April. These first were fed for several days in the Palacios laboratory holding tanks, then stocked in rearing ponds until May when the ponds were drained. More than 42 per cent of the fry survived and grew to one- to two-inch fingerlings and were stocked.

Usually no more than 15 to 20 per cent of striped bass fry reared in freshwater ponds survive to fingerling size.

GOING DOWN — Roy Jones goes down as Marvin Hagler stands over him as Hagler knocked him down in the second round of their scheduled 10-round middleweight boxing match in Hartford Friday night. Jones came out for the third round but referee Duke Lawson stopped the fight at 2:10 awarding the win to Hagler on a TKO.

Smallmouth stocked

SAN MARCOS — Production of smallmouth bass at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's San Marcos Fish Hatchery exceeded 1977 goals and Texas lakes which are part of a five-year smallmouth introduction study have received a bass bonanza. More than 710,000 smallmouth fry were produced with another 375,000 fingerlings obtained from the Mammoth Springs Federal Hatchery in Arkansas.

Much of the credit for such a bumper smallmouth crop can be attributed to the weather. After a cold winter, the weather warmed with few temperature fluctuations.

Stable weather permitted broodfish to spawn on the first attempt without being driven from the nest by cold weather.

Texas waters receiving smallmouths from the San Marcos Hatchery included: Lake Meredith, 323,000; Mackenzie Reservoir, 40,000; Blanco River, 123,000; North Fork Reservoir, 100,000; Boerne City Lake, 9,000; Rio Grande, 50,000; Medina Lake, 39,000.

Mammoth Springs fish were placed in the Lake Travis, 211,000; Stillhouse Hollow Reservoir, 100,000; and Medina Lake, 22,000.

Smallmouth bass often do well in steep-sided reservoirs such as Travis and Canyon. They seem to occupy a special ecological niche not taken advantage of by largemouth bass and other species.

Canyon now is producing smallmouths up to three pounds and catches of fish weighing more than two pounds have been reported from Stillhouse Hollow.

'Meat Hogs' kill thousands of fish

AUSTIN — Toxic chemicals dumped in two Central Texas streams in May have been cited as the cause of fish kills which destroyed thousands of aquatic animals.

Kills on both Brady Creek in McCulloch County and Onion Creek in Travis County during the latter part of the month have been blamed on the deliberate use of chemical fish toxicants.

Department chemists found traces of toxicant remaining along the bank of Brady Creek immediately upstream from the beginning of the fish kill.

Regional chemists estimated more than 8,000 fish of 10 different species were destroyed in the Brady Creek kill.

Both the kill on Brady Creek and the one on Onion Creek just north of McKinney Falls State Park seem to be the work of "meat hogs," individuals who deliberately dump chemicals in the water and then gather the still edible dying fish.

Using figures established by the Parks and Wildlife Commission in determining litigation for destruction of fish and wildlife, value of fish killed on Brady Creek was put at more than $3,600. Value of fish killed on Onion Creek has yet to be established.

No witnesses have been found to either incident.

Keep Football

An Open Letter to All High School Boys in the Sands District:

We are not only a basketball school! There is word out in our community that we will not have a football team this coming fall due to lack of interest in the older boys.

I do not even have a son, but I do enjoy seeing the big lights on at the stadium on Friday nights, and I go and support our teams, cold weather and all.

If we take football away from our school, we will also be taking away lots of other school activities, such as pep rallies, after-game receptions, lots of fun, out-of-town trips, round-up week, Football Sweetheart and Hero.

Our younger boys need to know that our juniors and seniors are out there with them and will pull through even though we are in a tough district.

The night we beat Jayton and the night we came to within three points of top-ranked Forsan were among our schools finest hours, spirit-wise. We should look ahead and keep football in our little school, after all, united we stand and divided we fall.

A Sands Sports Fan
 (Editor's Note: Ordinarily, unsigned letters do not find their way on the sports page, but I think I know the girl who wrote this, and I agree with her. Sands needs to keep its football program.)

Sugar Loaf Hill

with Marj Carpenter

There are an awful lot of memories on Sugar Loaf Hill. At one time, it was the highest point in the city.

Through the years, it has been whittled off on several occasions. At one time, a lot of the dirt was carried away at the time streets were being placed in that section of town.

Still later, somebody removed some more of the dirt in the night. Finally, the location appears to be in its death throes.

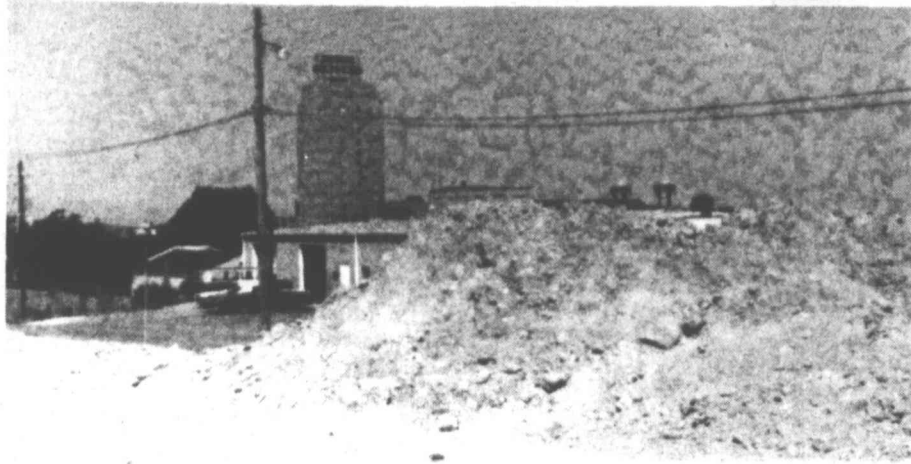

The city cut a corner away so that traffic could see around the intersection at 5th and Austin. Apparently, they liked the missing corner so much that they began to cut off the entire top of the hill.

A.S. Kasch is listed as owner of the two lots on the corner and the manager of Kasch Construction said he didn't know until recently that the property belonged to them.

He laughed and said, "I found out the city has been hauling it away but I sure never did know about it. I'm glad it isn't valuable land."

Oldtimers are nostalgic about Sugar Loaf Hill. It was a town landmark. People used to go sit on the top of that hill to hold picnics.

One of the big days up

ONCE HIGHEST POINT IN CITY
... now cut down to size

there was the day the town turned out on Sugar Loaf to watch two dirigibles fly over. They were the "Shenandoah" and the "Los Angeles". One citizen recalls, "We felt like we could almost reach up and touch them from Sugar Loaf."

W.L. McCalister, an early Chrysler dealer had the first vehicle with four-wheel brakes. He put on a demonstration in the area one day.

He would run the cars up

Sugar Loaf as hard as he could go and then slam on the brakes right before running over the edge. "He sold lots of Chryslers that way," Joe Pickle recalls. One of the early stories about Sugar Loaf Hill was that some of the young boys got hold of some dynamite. They had a long fuse and they ran it down the hill all the way to a local coffee shop where they were sitting talking to the constable when the dynamite went off. The explosion shook the entire east side of Big Spring. The youths, who were immediately suspected, claimed innocence, "because we were sitting with the constable at the time of the explosion."

There was another hill in that end of town called Coleman Hill. The Coleman Courts were in the present location of Terry's Drive In. When Highway 80 went through, Coleman Hill was cut down to size. Fred Coleman whittled it down some more when he put in Terry's.

Mrs. Coleman says, "Sugar Loaf was always higher than Coleman Hill. But they've both been cut down a lot."

The landmark that was Sugar Loaf has become simply smoothed off ground.

If you stand up there and listen closely, you can almost hear young boys playing king of the mountain, families gathered for picnics, the excitement of the day the dirigibles went over and cheering as Mr. McCalister slammed on the brakes.

Cut down to size as a traffic hazard, Sugar Loaf still has lots of memories. And it's still a landmark for those who used to go up on Sugar Loaf Hill — out where I'm ridin' fence.

Pharmacology workshop set at Howard College

The third of a series of four pharmacology workshops will be held at Howard College June 21-22. This workshop is aimed at the practitioners in the medical service field and is entitled, "Pharmacology: Nursing Implications." It will be dealing with cardiovascular, renal function and electrolyte metabolism agents.

Beginning at 8 a.m. with registration, the program begins at 8:30 a.m. in room 100 of the Science Building on the campus of Howard College. Mrs. Lettie Lee, director of The School of Nursing at Howard College, is in charge of arrangements for this workshop.

A distinguished faculty is scheduled to conduct the workshop. It includes: Dr. Wesley Clark, associate professor, Department of Pharmacology, Division of Clinical Pharmacology, University of Texas Health Science Center, Southwestern Medical School in Dallas; Ms. Betty Condry, R.N., unit administrator, Big Spring State Hospital; Dr. Isaac Crawford, assistant professor, Department of Neurology and Pharmacology, University of Texas Health Science Center, Southwestern Medical School, Dallas; Dr. Thomas Gardiner, assistant professor, University of Texas Health Science Center, Southwestern Medical School, Dallas; also, Dr. Alice Johnson, assistant professor, Department of Pharmacology, University of Texas Health Science Center, Southwestern Medical School, Dallas; Joan De Leeuw, RN and Fannie Clark, RN both nurses at Big Spring State Hospital, will present the nursing implications.

Heavy enrollment for the June 21-22 workshop is expected, and interested persons are advised to register early. Enrollment will be limited to 90 participants. For further information, call 267-6311, Ext. 70 or 75.

VA youth volunteer orientation Tuesday

The orientation program for youth volunteers at the Veterans Administration Hospital will be Tuesday at 9 a.m.

The orientation program is designed to give the young volunteers an idea of what they will be doing while at work at the hospital. The presentation will probably last until 3:30 p.m., and a free lunch will be provided in the VA Hospital cafeteria.

According to Dene Sheppard, chief of volunteer services at the hospital, the number of youth volunteers employed at the hospital this summer will be cut drastically, and that selection of potential volunteers will be very selective.

As youth volunteers, not only is patient service and care increased, but the education, the self-enrichment through helping others, and the valuable experience of serving as a volunteer can be helpful later in obtaining a job.

All youth volunteers at the hospital will be judged in their performance of duties, and kept on record. The hospital could become a valuable source of recommendation to the future medical student, or social worker. The employment would also be of some help in exposing the volunteer to different vocational duties such as secretarial work.

The program will also expose the inner-workings of a hospital, and give volunteers some insight into what is involved.

In order to be a youth volunteer, one must have completed the eighth grade, have parental consent, and have a personal interview with Dene Sheppard before June 14.

Most important in being a volunteer, is the desire to help other people.

Upward Bound funding at Howard College cut

Funding of the Howard College Upward Bound Program was cut off June 1 with no notification other than a telegram from the Department of Housing, Education and Welfare.

This is in spite of the fact that the Big Spring area is supposed to be pegged for assistance with federal funds in various projects due to the closing of Webb Air Force Base.

The only explanation offered, according to Herb Johnson, director of the program at the college, was a letter from Congressman Omar Burleson stating that it had become necessary to reduce the scope of some of the programs in order to cut the budget.

The program had been in progress at the college for three years with 108 students participating the first year, 84, the second year and 78 the third year. Over 50 had already been signed up for the summer months from Snyder, Colorado City, Big Spring, Stanton, Coahoma and Midland.

They were notified that there were no funds available. An assistant director and secretary for the program were out of work and others were reassigned to other programs.

The programs were designed to provide remedial and enrichment programs for high school students who were in need of financial assistance and academic counseling.

It was designed to get students to a college level who might drop out along the way due to special problems.

TALKING IT OVER — Members of the Big Spring Eagles talk over the game plan for the evening with their manager, Mrs. Gladys Custer. The team is in the Senior division of Miss Softball America, and most of the girls

BETWEEN INNINGS — Members of the Big Spring Tornados watch action occurring off the field between

Miss Softball America League: fast hitting action for girls

Once Big Spring boasted of having the largest league in the nation. The majors? No, Miss Softball America, a group of girls between the ages 8-19 who love to play softball.

But now, according to Mrs. Jane Upton, area commissioner of Miss Softball America and one of its founders, Big Spring is just one of many smaller leagues scattered around the United States, competing within certain predesignated areas for the honors of being the best fast-hitting team in their division, state or even nation.

And Big Spring was the first league to form, she said. In Texas alone now, there are 14 separate leagues, with many teams included in each.

Miss Softball America began in 1972, Mrs. Upton said.

In the first two years here, only the majors (girls between the ages of 13-15) and minors girls (between the ages of 10-12) had teams formed, she said.

Then, in the third year of existence, the senior division formed (girls between the ages of 16-19). The mini-minor teams (girls between the ages of 8-10) was formed in the fourth year, in 1975, Mrs.

Upton added.

Within the divisions, many teams sponsored by local merchants, play against each other for divisional titles, she said.

After tackling that, the winning team goes to state competition.

Because of the many divisions in Texas, the league has divided the state into two separate entities, Mrs. Upton said.

The Big Spring divisions play against Snyder, Sweetwater, Rotan, Tri-City, Midland and Odessa for state titles, she said.

The majors division and the senior's division can compete for national titles, "if they're exceptionally good," she added.

All-star teams are formed from each division, Mrs. Upton said. "The girls will nominate someone from their team and she will then try-out for the team."

The season usually lasts about three months. This year it is from May 16-July 12. Every player on every team, regardless of how good or bad they were, gets a trophy at the end of the season, Mrs. Upton indicated.

"Any girl can participate, it doesn't matter if she is good at softball or not," she said.

The main difference between Miss Softball America and the American Softball Association, the kind of softball most people play, Mrs. Upton said, is that the teams in Miss Softball America cannot slide into a base, collide with another player or steal home.

"That makes this league special," she said.

"And in Miss Softball America, every player must play at least two innings in each game."

As far as allowing boys to play on the teams, Mrs. Upton said they cannot stop them from playing, but has not had a request from a boy yet, "because they would still have to wear the skirt-type uniform our girls wear."

The girls playing on the teams said they enjoy playing on Miss Softball America because "it's fun" and "it's good exercise."

Some of the girls have progressed from the mini-minors to the seniors division, because it's so enjoyable, some of the girls said.

Who says there isn't good, clean fun left for girls?

"Miss Softball America is good, summer recreation for girls that helps them on their coordination, ability and appearance, and that's pretty good," Mrs. Upton said.

Place the ribs in a Dutch oven, add 1/2 cup of water; cover simmer until tender, drain. Combine the pineapple preserves with one cup chili sauce and 1/2 cup of vinegar and coat the ribs. Lost Possessions, But Hasn't Lost Much

DEAR ABBY: My mother recently died and she left me her Bible. In it was a letter she had clipped from your column. It was yellow with age. I am enclosing it in hopes that you will run it again because there is a very important lesson to be learned in your reply.

Maybe others will learn from it.

RAY

DEAR RAY: With pleasure, and here it is:

DEAR ABBY: About a month ago we had a flash flood, and I lost nearly all the treasures I had saved for 45 years. Albums filled with pictures and snapshots, letters, clippings—none of which can be replaced. I had them stored in plastic containers, and when I opened them, all I found was mud and water.

It seems that a part of my life is gone, and I am heartsick over it. I am 60 and have had a very happy life. Our children are married and gone, and there are just the two of us.

I've tried to keep busy and not dwell on my loss, but it is on my mind constantly. I wish I could forget this terrible nightmare.

Somehow I feel that you can help me. Abby, have you ever lost any of your treasures? And if you have, how did you get over it?

DEPRESSED IN HOUSTON

DEAR DEPRESSED: Yes, Dear. I lost my beautiful mother in 1945. (She was only 57.) And a few years later, I lost a wonderful father. (He was 62.) And not a day passes that I don't thank God for letting me have my parents for as long as I did. I know many who were not nearly as blessed as I was, and I think of those who have survived a far greater tragedy—losing their children.

Now, what were you saying about clippings and pictures and other "treasures"?

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a minister. He does everything on a scheduled basis. And I mean EVERYTHING.

Sunday night is our night for lovemaking. I am not complaining because I enjoy it as much as he does, but, Abby, he is big and strong and very physical. He's not rough or abusive, but he's very affectionate and puts a lot of enthusiasm in everything he does.

To get to the point, on Monday morning I'm exhausted, and that's the day I do my wash.

Any suggestions?

TIRED ON MONDAY

DEAR TIRED: Yes. Wash on Tuesday.

Miss Emma Rodriguez and Gilbert Garcia provided music on the guitar, with Laurencio Arroyo playing the flute. Miss Emma Rodriguez was vocalist.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffon and beaded Alençon lace. The French-Renaissance gown, designed especially for her by Priscilla of Boston, featured a beaded lace bodice with a Gothic yoke of pearl beading. The gown featured a high wedding band neckline and beaded lace scallops. Long, tapered candlestick sleeves of beaded lace ended in natural scallops over the hands, with buttons and loop closure. The full circular skirt fell in layers of chiffon from the natural waist and drifted to a chapel-length train. The entire hemline and train was finished in petal edging.

Her veil was designed to match the gown, and was caught to a beaded lace camelot capulet, which was encircled in scallops of Gothic points and extended beyond her train.

The bride carried a bouquet of asarez.

Miss Elvia Saldívar, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Mrs. Maria Flores, Miss Gloria Rodriguez, both of Big Spring; Mrs. Leticia Duron, Fort Worth; Miss Sylvia Saldívar, Olton; Miss JoAnn Rivera, Marfa; Miss Chrissie Sosa, Midland; Miss Penny Grissom, Odessa; and Miss Irma Salinas, Dimmitt, were bridesmaids.

Orlando Rivera, Big Spring, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

HEAVY DUTY CROP DUSTER — Test pilot Andrzej Ablamowicz of the Aviation Institute in Warsaw stands in the cockpit of a jet powered biplane crop duster on exhibit at the current Paris Air Show at Le Bourget Airfield. Built for heavy duty work in the Soviet Union, one British observer suggested the craft could frighten bugs to death. Replied the Poles in a note: "Deepest gratitude for the best advertisement one could imagine (and even free of charge)." Price of the 41-foot long, 73-foot wingspan plane, which weighs six tons fully loaded, was not available.

Polish crop duster definitely no joke

PARIS (AP) — One of the jokes flying around the Paris air show this year is a Polish crop duster powered by a jet engine. But the Poles may have the last laugh.

The ungainly looking biplane is 41 feet long, has a 73-foot wingspan and is powered by a Soviet Yak-40 engine. It can carry about 2½ tons of chemicals and weighs more than six tons fully loaded.

"Is that the one that looks like it's still in the packing crate?" one incredulous visitor said when asked if he had seen it. "It's grotesque."

An unofficial air show newspaper reported that "an Englishman looking in disbelief at Poland's unique M15 jet-powered agricultural biplane, said 'They shouldn't need any chemicals — all they have to do is fly it overhead and frighten the bugs to death.'"

Stung, the Poles quickly parried the affront by posting a handwritten letter on a bulletin board in the air show press room. It said: "To Unknown Englishman: Let me express my deepest gratitude for the best advertisement one could imagine (and even free of charge). Hope for further cooperation!"

Officials at the Polish pavilion said in spite of wisecracks about the plane a great number of businessmen, including Americans, had stopped by to get more information on the M15.

"It's the first jet-powered plane of its kind and carries the biggest payload in the world," a Polish spokesman said. "We designed it for the Russians, and while I don't have precise information, I think about 30 are being used right now, probably in the Ukraine and Kazakhstan."

He handed a reporter a brochure on the crop duster that described it as "a harmonious synthesis of great experience and innovation in aircraft design." He suggested the reporter talk to chief test pilot Andrzej Ablamowicz for more information.

In a planeside interview, Ablamowicz said, "This is an aircraft we designed especially for Soviet pilots. They asked for a jet engine because jet fuel is cheaper than conventional fuel. They also wanted a power plant that would be practically maintenance free so they sent us the Yak-40 because it's a real worker with almost no problems. The first test flight took place in 1973 and we sold the first production plane last year."

Asked the reason for the towing design, Ablamowicz said, "When she's fully loaded she's quite heavy, so you need a big wing area for proper lift. If we used a single wing it would be twice as long as the one you see and would not have been practical."

The pilot said the crop duster, which has been flying daily at the show, has an operating speed of about 90 knots "and is probably ideal for the vast stretches of Soviet farmland. We don't use them in Poland, however, because the land is in smaller parcels so it just wouldn't pay."

The price of Poland's unique jet crop duster was unavailable.

Tijerina will attend meeting

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Reies Lopez Tijerina said he is going to San Antonio, Tex., July 16 for the final meeting of Texas land grant heirs.

The heirs are to take a final vote on an informal offer for what they say are reparations from Mexico for land lost in a 1941 settlement between the United States and Mexico, Tijerina said.

Tijerina said he is to advise the more than 1,000 participants expected at the meeting of some news from the U.S. State Department.

He said original deeds in the settlement are all on file on microfilm in Washington, D.C., and that this will simplify the search for heirs eligible for settlement money from Mexico.

Rodeo registration set this week

Local entries to the 42nd annual Big Spring Cowboy rodeo and reunion must be made this week at the Driver Insurance Company office between June 14 and 5 p.m. June 16.

All cowboys who want to enter any event in the rodeo at a local level must register with Skipper Driver on those dates.

Entries will cost $25 for each riding event and $40 for the timed event. Entrants are also required to pay a computer cost.

In the rodeo circuit, entrants now register from whatever town they happen to be appearing in through the Rodeo Cowboy Association computer.

The local entrants are the only exception. In earlier rodeos, a big two-day registration was held in the lobby of the Settles Hotel.

The computer-type registration is for the convenience of cowboys who travel the circuit and do not have time to arrive several days in advance to register.

Local registrants, however, must register at the local office, which will be at Driver Insurance June 14-16.

Emergency medical course at HC

Applications are now being taken for the new Emergency Medical Technology program that begins June 20 at Howard College. The pre-registration forms can be picked up from Dr. Bobby Wright's office in the Horace Garrett Applied Science Building.

Applications will be accepted until Friday, June 17. The class will begin on June 20 and thereafter will meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 6 p.m.

This class will be limited to 20 students and applications will be taken on a priority basis with those directly involved in emergency medical service receiving first priority.

Student's cost for this class will be only for books and study material. Bob Harbin, EMS Coordinator at Howard College explained the reason for the priority and tuition free basis, "The funds for this program came from the Perman Basin Regional Planning Commission and the thrust of this program is to first reach those who are presently directly involved in emergency care such as nurses, ambulance personnel, firemen and policemen. We aren't sure if funds will be available next year so this could possibly be the last tuition free class."

Students who satisfactorily complete the 13-week course which includes 100 hours in the classroom, 52 hours in the hospital and 5 emergency ambulance runs will receive a certificate of completion from Howard College and be eligible to take the state exam administered by the Texas Department of Health Resources to become certified Emergency Medical Technicians trained to care for the seriously ill or injured.

Malone-Hogan Hospital, Alert Ambulance, Midland Emergency Medical Service and Howard College along with the Permin Basin Regional Planning Commission are all participating in this program. Dr. Carl Marcum is the course physician advisor.

Applications may be obtained at Howard College from the Dean of Occupational Education's office in the Horace Garrett Applied Science Building. Additional information about this program may be obtained from Bob Harbin by calling 267-6311, extension 27 or 267-6311, extension 70.

The play's the thing for Shakespeare fans

The Odessa Shakespeare Festival opens Friday with a presentation of Shakespeare's "Measure For Measure" and a gala feast and festivities in the courtyard of the Globe of the Great Southwest, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

"Measure For Measure" is a tragicomedy, infused with satire and tells a story about man's misuse of power, another's frailty and weakness, lovers' passion, a woman's attempt to remain pure and untouched and the deception another will stoop to in her quest for true love.

Rodney Clark is cast as Vincentio, the kindly, philosophical Duke of Vienna, a "gentleman of all temperance" who has been too easy in his enforcement in the laws.

Lissa LeGrand portrays Isabella who is about to enter a nunnery, the saint with which the cunning enemy baited the hook for Angelo.

Angelo is acted by Peter Nichols. He is the "outward-sainted" Lord Deputy in the Duke's absence — "a man of stricture and firm abstinence... whose blood is very snow-broth... one who never feels the wanton stings and emotions of the sense... that is, until he meets the lovely and irresistible Isabella.

The role of Claudio, a young Viennese gentleman and brother of Isabella who is made an example of by Angelo is played by Sid Williams. Escalus, a wise old counsellor is acted by Vincent Niemann.

Rhonda Clark is cast as Juliet, betrothed of Claudio — "Who, falling in the flaws of her own youth, hath bluster'd her report." Eloise Bruce portrays Mistress Overdone, a bawd of eleven years continuance and of nine husbands — "Overdone by the last." Pompey "a poor fellow that would live" is Servant to Mistress Overdone — acted by Patrick Rowan. Mariana, the pathetic, jilted fiancée of Angelo, cast off after her dowry was lost at sea is portrayed by Janet Stanford.

Lucio, a graceless, slanderous, talkative "fellow of much license" is portrayed by Russ Odom. Bob Gibson is cast as Varrus, a gentleman attending on the Duke. Ken Stacker plays the Provost of the prison; John Cranford is cast in the triple roles of A Justice, Peter Frait, and Barnadine, a dissolute prisoner; James Bottom portrays Elbow, an ignorant, blundering constable; Billy Nelson is double cast as the musician Page to Marianna and as Froth, a foolish man-about-town; John Amedeo acts the part of Abhorson, the executioner and Ida Kennedy is cast as Francisca, a nun.

Garry Johnston, chairman for the Grand Opening festivities has a delightful array of pre-show entertainment lined up and an exciting menu named after the Bard's plays — "Dream Fruit," "Hamlets," "Henry VII Drumsticks," "Lover's Kisses" and "Witches Brew" with individual loaves of bread and a roasted pig centerpiece for the banquet table. Shakespeare festival committee members will be in costume. Falstaff will preside over the banquet table. Also serving will be Puck, Hamlet, Macbeth's Witches, Romeo and Juliet and the Court Jesters. Shakespeare, himself, will also be present along with Othello, Shylock, Portia and Lady Macbeth. Madrigal Singers, dancers and minstrels will entertain with a 16th Century flavor. There will be harpsichord, recorder and chamber orchestra music and a fencing demonstration — (at this point, a fight could break out between the duellers.)

Coy Sharp will give a makeup demonstration and Carolyn Jacobs, costume designer, will prepare a display of her costume sketches for the summer productions.

Beginning at 6:30 p.m., each couple attending will have the opportunity to have their pictures taken so famous Shakespearean lovers. Leonard Fisher and Lynn Masterson will paint the picture board cut-outs of Romeo and Juliet, Anthony and Cleopatra and Petruchio and Kate.

Dr. John Vels, Assistant Guest Director from Austin, will give a brief description and interpretation of the play at 8 p.m. and the performance will begin at 8:30 p.m. Cost for the pre-show food and entertainment is $10 per person or $6 with a season ticket.

Other fun nights at the Festival are: "International Travel Writers' Night" (June 25) sponsored by the Odessa Conventions and Visitors Bureau and The Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang featuring a bar-b-que on the green at 6:30 p.m. Cost is $3.00 per plate; July 1 marks the opening of "The Two Gentlemen of Verona" sponsored by the Juliet Society of the Globe (Carnival and food bazaar) at 6:30 p.m.; Opening Night for Oliver Goldsmith's great comedy "She Stoops to Conquer" (Sponsored by the Banks of Odessa — American Bank, First National Bank, Permian Bank and Trust, National Bank of Odessa and State National Bank will feature a free box lunch — "Tidbit From the Earl of Sandwich" and British Ladies Weekend is slated for July 22, 23, and 24.

Library has the story

Euthanasia debate fires up books

By JOHN W. DEATS, County Librarian

Since the case of Karen Quinlan, there has been renewed national interest in the controversial concept of euthanasia and medical ethics. One of the most fascinating books on this subject is Robert Veatch's "Death, Dying, and the Biological Revolution," as it explores such problems as the determination of physical death. Does death occur when the brain ceases to function, even though the beating heart keeps the tissue "alive"? At what point is it ethical to transplant an organ from a lingering donor? Does the prolonging of life sometimes merge with the prolonging of death, and should the patient be left to make this distinction in his own case? For some historical perspective, read William Munk's 1887 publication, "Euthanasia, or, Medical Treatment in Aid of an Easy Death." It recalls the days when the term, "euthanasia" was limited to comforting the dying with opiates and other methods, as opposed to the modern concept of mercy killing. Turning to another issue, the cost of health care, Ivan

Illich looks at the claims of modern medicine in light of its demands on society; fewer cures at higher expenditure. "Medical Nemesis" is Illich's label for the end product of waste and inefficiency in this country's health care system. His book was very well reviewed by both Lancet and the British Medical Journal, and quoting from the latter: "His argument is closely reasoned, sometimes obscure... but never dull." Victor Fuchs, author of "Who Shall Live," presents a somewhat similar viewpoint: that the average citizen in the United States owes his health more to his individual heredity, environment, and lifestyle than to what he spends for health care. Following this reasoning, he contends that individual initiative will do more for our health than excessive dependence on drugs and new therapies.

"The Case for American Medicine," by Harry Schwartz, takes a more positive view. It argues against the claims of certain critics who point to a national shortage of physicians and an uneven distribution which favors urban centers. Schwartz compares the United States with countries which have socialized health care, such as Great Britain and Sweden, asserting that this only leads to bureaucratization.

Other books have recently been added to the library's collection which cover a wide range of topics related to medicine:

"A Dictionary of Drugs: the medicines you use" — gives trade names, classification, therapeutic uses, side effects, chemistry and physiology.

"The Life Givers," by David Hendin — six prominent medical researchers give their life stories.

Lubbock melodrama planned for summer

Summer Mummies will again be sponsored by Lubbock Theatre Centre's Act IV Club. This annual event features an hilarious melodrama, complete with villain, villainess, hero and heroine, along with several other unforgettable characters.

This summer's play "Dirty Work at the Crossroads" will also include a number of Gay nineties songs, accompanied in appropriate style by musical director Jerry Anderson. The play was adapted from an old script called "The Lancashire Lass," first produced in 1867. The author has added to it hilarious bits from other plays and songs to liven up the tempo.

Director Linda Giss has changed the play from a Victorian Eastern setting to a 1890s West Texas scene. References to Odessa, Big Spring and Dallas have been added.

Another major change includes presenting the play at Lubbock Theatre Centre, instead of producing it at another location as a dinner-theatre production. The same Western flavor will be retained, however. Olio acts will be presented before the show (a mime, a magician, and a special surprise number).

A country atmosphere will be instilled outside the theatre — Complete with before-the-play hot dogs, a fiddler and balloons for sale.

Summer Mummies now owns its own popcorn machine, and popcorn will again be available. Boogie, hissing and throwing popcorn is a must when the nasty villain attempts to "do his worst". Likewise, applauding the hero and heroine will be encouraged.

Midland Mummies auditions start

MCT's 29th season of Summer Mummies opens on July 1st to play through September 3rd, including Thursdays in August and September.

Auditions will be held on June 12, Sunday, at 3 o'clock at Theatre Centre in the Children's Room to select another complete cast for the melodrama.

Returning to the Mummies stage this season will be the fearless Ace of WWI flyers, Clarence Clearheart, matching wits and wingoovers with Baron Von Hitoften, (or the Yellow Fellow), and that vile villain Simon Snavelly who is really bad, in "Skulduggery in the Skies" of "The Gone Patrol".

Written by melodramatist Bill Davis, this hair-raising play was first presented in 1968 and was the first Mummies to be augmented by the now extremely popular movieola which tells more of the story in gorgeous black and white.

One cast is already broken in. The whole show, including olio and musicians performed at the Dundalk Festival in May with great success, and these people will alternate with those chosen at the June 12th tryout session.

FIRST DEMONSTRATION OF ANESTHESIA

At noon on October 25th, the Transcontinental Express left Geneva Station with almost one thousand people on board. Their destination: Basel, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Copenhagen and Stockholm.

Carter too busy to help? Nine-year-old goes to DC

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Sandy Chandler, 9, an articulate sixth-grader, wanted to help her mother get out of jail so she broke open her piggy bank and flew to Washington to tell President Carter about her problem.

"But it was all a waste," the 55-pounder with the dirty blonde hair said Friday after her return from Washington and the White House. "The only person I did not see was the President. He was too busy playing tennis."

There was a touch of bitterness in her words as she added: "I spent all my money to go to Washington and I don't think it was fair that the President did not see me. It is the government's fault that my mother is in that situation."

Sandy left on her own Tuesday morning after leaving a note to her older sister, Delilah, 20, who lives with her. Delilah called police, but later Braniff Airlines officials called to tell her Sandy was in Washington.

Sandy's mother started serving a three-year sentence for bond-jumping last October. She's at the Federal Correctional Institute, a minimum security facility in Fort Worth.

The sentence, according to Delilah, stems from a series of incidents dating back to 1969 when the family lived in Arizona. Mrs. Chandler worked at a beauty college while on probation on a mail fraud conviction.

Delilah said her mother's troubles began when she testified before a grand jury in connection with a Mafia investigation. Her mother had been under special guard before she testified, Delilah said, but her testimony helped acquit two men. When her mother was removed she tried to file suit against the district attorney and she was charged with perjury by omission, her daughter said. The family moved to Calgary, Canada, until 1975 when Mrs. Chandler returned to Houston on the advice of her attorney. The move to Calgary constituted bond-jumping.

A few weeks ago, Sandy and her sister moved to Fort Worth to be close to their mother whom they visit several times a week.

"Sandy had been asking me what we could do help mother," Delilah said. "I jokingly told her once that that she could write to the President. She is a very smart girl."
