

Special session set for July 11

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he believes House and Senate members are close enough to agreement on public school financing that he can call a special session for July 11.

"I think we should be able to accomplish the work of the session in a week or 10 days," the governor told a news conference Thursday.

The formal call for the special session — only the second in Briscoe's five years as governor — will be issued later, detailing exactly what he wants the 181 legislators to consider.

"Right now the only subject I have definitely decided to include in the call is public education financing," Briscoe said. "I have not decided on the other matters which have been discussed with me."

He said the other possible issues for the special session include repeal of state sales taxes on residential electric and gas bills and revision of property taxes.

Briscoe said he planned to complete his review of all the work of the 65th Legislature's regular session, including the $15.5 billion general appropriations bill, by Friday afternoon.

The governor said he planned to be in Houston Friday and Friday night and Amarillo Saturday for a luncheon.

Sunday, he and Mrs. Briscoe, with their daughter, Cele, plan to fly to Vienna where Cele will be among those presented at an international debutantes' ball. Briscoe said they plan to return to Texas by July 7.

Briscoe was reminded that his original announcement for a special session said he would not call the 181 legislators back to Austin until he was sure they could agree promptly on public school financing.

GAYS GATHER — Multitude of gays gather in Houston, Tex., Thursday evening before they marched through a section of the city in protest the visit and performance of Anita Bryant before the Texas State's Bar Association. The crowd was estimated at 4,000.

4,000 support gay rights

HOUSTON (AP) — Anita Bryant, whose appearance at a Texas Bar Association dinner Thursday night sparked a demonstration by 4,000 supporters of gay rights, said today "those who are screaming the loudest are succeeding only in dividing the American people and making themselves and their lifestyles more unacceptable."

Miss Bryant told a news conference she had no plans to conduct a national campaign for the Save Our Children organization which she headed in Dade County (Miami) Fla.

The singer was the leader of a successful fight to repeal an ordinance that guaranteed equal housing and employment rights for gays.

She told a newsman "Of course, I will help local communities in anyway possible, but as of now, we have made no commitments to appear anywhere."

Miss Bryant said she called the news conference because of the constant harassment "from those who opposed my stand in Dade County. I have kept silent since the campaign.

"Now as I attempt to resume my career, I discover it is difficult to remain silent. The voices of a radical minority have screamed their curses at me and at the normal majority of people from Chicago to Houston.

"No matter how many names these homosexual militants throw at me, the truth cannot be hidden."

In answer to a question, Miss Bryant said she had no political ambitions and would seek no public office.

Jack and Jill School launches construction

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held Thursday afternoon for a proposed $250,000 facility to house the Jack and Jill School.

The facility will include a 180,000 building plus another estimated $70,000 for furnishings and equipment. According to Truett Thomas, chairman of the board of directors.

The facility is located between 17th and 18th on Nolan facing east. The Jack and Jill School was started by Mrs. Arah Phillips 16 years ago and has grown consistently through the years.

The schools serves children from age two through the second grade. Paul Shaffer was awarded the contract to construct the facility.

Brief talks were made at the ceremonies by Mayor Wade Choate; Bill Albright, chamber executive and by W.A. Waugh of Midland, licensing division representative of the Department of Public Welfare.

Waugh spoke on the future of child care in Texas and the importance of facilities such as Jack and Jill. Bill Marsalis, vice chairman of the board; Paul Shaffer, contractor, Thomas, and Mrs. Phillips also took part in the ceremonies.

Several of the Ambassadors were on hand for the ritual. Harry Nagel, city manager, who had a triple bypass operation a week ago, made a brief appearance. Thomas said today, "We really appreciated his coming to the ceremony."

Now estimated at $1.7 billion

Cost of power plant soars

A revised construction cost of the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant shows an estimated cost of $1.7 billion, Texas Electric Service Co. said today. This figure is still an estimate subject to revision. Factors which can't be controlled, such as continued inflation, additional regulation, and others between now and the scheduled completion in 1983 could materially affect the cost. But it is based on more complete information than the previous estimates. The original estimate was $780 million.

But even at the higher cost, company officials say, electricity from Comanche Peak will cost less than power from possible alternate sources.

"When we started building Comanche Peak," said Texas Electric President Bill Marquardt, "it was in the best interest of our customers and it still is."

"When compared to high-priced natural gas or oil, nuclear power will still be much cheaper as an electricity source in the 1980s," Marquardt said.

"But that comparison is unrealistic, since sufficient supplies of gas and oil won't be available at any price."

The only realistic alternative, Marquardt said, was coal from out of state. The latest cost estimates show that nuclear power retains an economic advantage over coal.

Marquardt pointed out that the costs of constructing the company's lignite plants have also increased substantially since 1972. The company's first lignite unit at Martin Lake, placed in commercial service in May, 1977, cost about $275 per kilowatt — more than twice the cost of the Big Brown lignite units which began operation in 1971 and 1972. The costs of lignite units are expected to increase by some 65-70 percent between now and 1983. The major factors that are affecting Comanche Peak — inflation and regulatory requirements — are also largely responsible for the higher cost of lignite plants.

Marquardt noted that the company is making plans for using coal in the future as well as nuclear fuel. "We have no choice," he said. "In order to have a reliable supply of electricity in the future we must use both coal and nuclear fuel."

Texas Electric, along with sister companies Dallas Power & Light and Texas Power & Light, is also developing reserves of lignite, a form of coal, in East Texas. But the lignite reserves are not sufficient to meet all of the area's future power needs.

So the three companies are also building the Comanche Peak nuclear plant, now under construction near Glen Rose.

The new cost estimate for the plant comes to about $740 for each kilowatt of capacity. (Total capacity of the plant's two units will be 2.3 million kilowatts.)

That figure is well below the cost of most nuclear power plants being built in this country for operation in the early 1980s. An EBASCO study of nuclear units scheduled for operation between 1981 and 1983 has an estimate of an average construction cost of $870 per kilowatt. Comanche Peak's two units are scheduled for operation in 1981 and 1983.

"Our original estimate included allowances for inflation and changing regulatory requirements," Marquardt said. "The allowances just weren't large enough." For example, rampant inflation of recent years was far greater than anyone anticipated. The result was an additional $280 million to cover inflation during the construction period.

Regulatory changes also caused major price increases. Changes in Nuclear Regulatory Commission rules and requirements in the 1972-76 period caused about $200 million in increased costs.

An additional $210 million has been added to the estimate to cover future regulatory changes and other contingencies.

A large portion of the cost increase is due to higher interest charges during construction. Rising costs for the plant require the company to borrow more money, resulting in more interest payments. This added about $190 million to the estimate.

Marquardt said that the move to more abundant fuels is necessary to meet the energy needs of TESCO's customers. "In 1976, the savings to our customers by using lignite instead of high-priced natural gas amounted to $58 million. When Comanche Peak is operating in the 1980s, our customers will benefit again, in spite of higher-than-expected construction costs, because nuclear fuel will be competitive with western coal, the only alternate fuel in the future."

Gas quota choking WT towns

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Officials of some West Texas and Eastern New Mexico cities say federal natural gas consumption quotas set to go into effect in two weeks will stifle growth of the municipalities.

The town leaders met in Lubbock this week to discuss the rates, which are based on consumption figures from 1974 and include a penalty charge for overconsumption, with officials of the El Paso Natural Gas Co., the supplier for the towns involved.

The comments of the spokesmen for the cities and the gas company were included in a copyright article in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal on Thursday.

According to an El Paso Natural Gas Co. spokesman, the Federal Power Commission has said the towns would have to pay $5 per thousand cubic feet (MCF) of natural gas used above their quota limits. El Paso's normal interstate rate is $1.50 per MCF.

The FPC recently imposed the quota-penalty requirement, which goes into effect July 1, saying basically that no El Paso gas customer can receive more gas from the company than it got in 1973-74, the spokesman said.

Denver City, Tex., City Secretary Ralph Townes said his town's January quota will be 44,720,000 cubic feet of gas while November's total will be 28,637,000.

This past January, he said, the city of about 5,000 used 47,083,000 cubic feet and 36,147,000 in November, or about eight million cubic feet over the proposed maximums for those two months. Townes said the penalty charges on that amount would be about $400,000.

"It means we're sitting here being strangled to death," Townes said.

Las Cruces, N.M., Mayor Albert Johnson said his city "would have paid $800,000 to $1 million in penalty fees alone if we had been under the penalty system last year."

Local patrons need not worry about regulation

Local customers of Pioneer Natural Gas Company have nothing to worry about as far as federal regulation is concerned. At least, not yet, according to Bob Mills, director of public relations for the company.

"I don't think there is any danger of the FPC (Federal Power Commission) setting consumption quotas for us (Pioneer) at this time. They regulate interstate companies, and we are strictly intrastate," said Mills.

The FPC recently set natural gas consumption quotas which are scheduled to go into effect in two weeks. The quotas, which are based on figures from 1974, will affect an number of west Texas and eastern New Mexico cities served by El Paso Natural Gas Co., an interstate supplier.

"It is impossible to give a definite no to federal regulation for Pioneer, but at this time the FPC has no jurisdiction," said Mills.

What about the future? "There are certain moves being made in Washington (D.C.) that may change things. If Congress prices gas at $1.75 for both inter- and intrastate companies, then that could be the beginning of federal regulation of Pioneer," he said.

Mills assured that company officials were watching the situation closely, and were very concerned with the prospect of federal regulation of intrastate gas. But he also stated that the present situation looks good for Pioneer customers as opposed to those who will face consumption quotas.

"We are able to purchase gas and make it available where a lot of other companies are not. That is good for customers. But if we are slapped with a consumption quota based on 74 figures that might be difficult. We have grown tremendously since then," said Mills.

Walls Industries is sold to Oppenheimer

Walls Industries, Inc., has announced it has reached an agreement in principle for the sale of the company to a corporation owned by Oppenheimer and Co., a New York investment banking firm. The sale is subject to the execution of a definitive agreement, approval of the board of directors and shareholders of the company.

After conclusion of the transaction the company would offer holders of its common stock the right to redeem their shares at a price of approximately $14 per share. Stockholders not electing to redeem, including the principal shareholders, would remain shareholders in an investment company with a net asset value of something less than $14 per share. Between now and closing of the transaction, the company will discontinue the payment of dividends. In making the announcement, Sam Walls, president, stated that Walls would continue to be managed by the present management group and that no change would be made in operations. Walls' designs, manufactures and markets apparel — principally insulated garments for the sports and utility wear markets.

Proxy material will be prepared and filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission as soon as possible.

Walls maintains a sewing plant in Big Spring.

Action/reaction: Other factors

Q: Why don't any of the hospitals in Big Spring have a kidney machine? How much does one cost?

A: Norman Knox, Administrator of Malone-Hogan hospital, said, "The cost is not the primary factor. To supervise the program required to handle such a machine, a nephrologist would have to be a member of the hospital staff. Unfortunately, there is no nephrologist in Big Spring at this time." The machine, according to Knox, costs between $5,000 and $7,000.

Dr. David Blackwell will present a lecture and slide presentation on the uses of ultrasound in medicine and Dr. Jose R. Beceiro will present a lecture on obesity at 2 p.m., Veterans Administration Hospital, Room 216.

SATURDAY
The Howard County Sheriff's Posse will hold an Open Halter and Performance Horse Show, 6 p.m. Saturday at the Posse Arena on Andrews Highway.
Free, all-color film program at Howard County Library, 1:30 p.m. Scheduled films are "World Beneath the Sea," "Thank you Ma'am" and "This Land Is Mine."

Offbeat: Robe saga

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — Crime has hit the courtroom. The judge wore a borrowed robe as he fumed.
"Is nothing sacred anymore? My robe has been stolen out of chambers and my pen is also missing. I don't know why they didn't take my cigars," Common Pleas Court Judge C. Perrie Phillips said Monday.
He hung his robe in a closet Friday afternoon. It wasn't there Monday morning. So he donned a well-worn robe left in the closet by another judge.
Later, during a court recess, two court aides told the judge that a court patron known to favor alcohol was seen Friday dressed in a robe at the Morris Foundation, a rehabilitation center for drug users and alcoholics.
Phillips, who said he reported the theft to police, passed along the information as he reopened court.
"For those who are following the saga of the missing robe, it has been learned that a well-known local character who likes to take a drink was rumored to be hearing confessions in a robe at a home for drunks Friday."

Tops on TV: Two movies

"Star Spangled Girl," starring Sandy Duncan and Tony Roberts, and "Jenny," starring Marlo Thomas and Alan Alda are two special ABC movies. The first one, "Star Spangled Girl" starts at 7 p.m. and "Jenny" immediately follows.

Britons carry Amin?

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan President Idi Amin claims that 19 Britons carried him on their shoulders for 11½ miles on his way to a meeting in the capital of Kampala.
The original plan was for the bearers to carry him for 25 miles, according to a speech by Amin carried by official Radio Uganda. There was no confirmation of the report.
A military spokesman quoted earlier by Radio Uganda said the Britons would carry the burly dictator to demonstrate solidarity with the people of Uganda.

Anita's arrival secret

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Anita Bryant's arrival Friday for a concert is such a well-kept secret that even the manager of the performance says he doesn't know when she is getting here or where she is staying.
Pat Twooley, manager of the annual Summer Pops concerts, said Thursday that Miss Bryant's arrival and her hotel are not being disclosed "for security reasons."
Church groups backing the Florida singer's stand on homosexuality plan a rally outside the hall where she is to perform Friday night, while homosexuals say they will demonstrate before her Saturday show.

Bolles widow remarries

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The widow of Arizona Republic investigative reporter Don Bolles, whose death from a car bombing triggered a lengthy investigation by reporters, will marry a Phoenix insurance executive.
Court records revealed that Rosalie Bolles, 37, and Donald Alexander, 41, took out a marriage license June 9. Alexander confirmed that he and Mrs. Bolles will be married Saturday in Phoenix, but declined to give further details.
Bolles, 47, was fatally wounded June 2, 1976, when a bomb triggered by remote control exploded beneath his car at a midtown hotel. He had been lured to the hotel by a promise of information on land fraud involving prominent Arizona politicians. Bolles died June 13.

John Harvey Adamson, 33, a dog breeder and handyman, later admitted placing the bomb was sentenced to 20 years in prison in exchange for testimony against two alleged confederates, both of whom are to be tried on first-degree murder charges next month.

Ford marks 75 years

NEW YORK (AP) — Edsel B. Ford II, 28-year-old great grandson of the founder of Ford Motor Co., marked the firm's 75th anniversary by leading a nostalgic motordade of shiny vintage autos down lower Broadway.
Mayor Abraham Beame accompanied Ford on the noon-hour cavalcade Thursday in a 1911 Model T Ford touring car.
As auto buffs watched the dozen gleaming ancient autos, spectators lining the six-block route from City Hall to Liberty Street cheered a 1916 double-decker Fifth Avenue bus laden with passengers.
After the motordade reached Liberty Street, Beame, Ford and other officials attended a luncheon at the New York Chamber of Commerce.

Jew dislikes ruling

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Concentration camp survivor Sol Goldstein says a Supreme Court ruling clearing the way for Nazis to march in a July 4 parade protects the spread of hatred rather than free speech. "We have 6,000 to 7,000 survivors of the holocaust living in Skokie, and they're not going to sit by idly while Nazis march in the street," Goldstein said Thursday.

Five years ago today

Plaque marks Watergate site

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the rear stairwell door of an office on the sixth floor of the Watergate building is a plaque commemorating a "pipsqueak" burglary that occurred five years ago today.
The plaque is one of the few tangible reminders of the June 17, 1972, break-in at the Democratic National Headquarters that eventually forced Richard Nixon out of office and his chiefs into prison.
Now the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences occupies the offices. For the many curious visitors who want to peek at the famous spot, the institute installed the plaque and hands out pamphlets.
Although the Watergate office complex remains one of the big attractions in a capital city that has many, the event has become so passe to those who work there that few could say who now occupies the offices.
"We're not holding a celebration," a desk clerk said when asked Thursday night about the fifth anniversary.
Neither are H.R. Haldeman, Nixon's chief of staff, or former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, who surrendered to prison officials next Wednesday for their roles in the Watergate cover-up, ending finally the Watergate criminal cases.
Some Watergate figures became rich. Two reporters who tracked down the nation's biggest political scandal and several congressmen who picked up the ball at the impeachment hearings became heroes. Some once-promising careers were shattered, and many new authors were born. A president on the brink of impeachment resigned and was pardoned, an historical first.
The special prosecutor's office, which itself had a tumultuous history, went out of business recently after winning 61 convictions and seeing six other persons acquitted of criminal charges.
Counting Haldeman and Mitchell, 25 will have been locked up.
John Ehrlichman, the third major lieutenant of the Nixon administration, already is behind bars. The three kingpins drew 2½ to 8 year terms after their convictions for conspiring to impede a grand jury investigation into the break-in.
Besides Ehrlichman, only G. Gordon Liddy, one of the actual burglars, is spending the fifth anniversary of Watergate in jail. Liddy, who masterminded the White House "plumbers" unit, has refused to make any public statement about the scandal.

Four other men, all from Miami, were arrested with Liddy inside the Watergate offices of the Democratic National Committee. Bernard Barker, Eugenio Martinez, Virgilio Gonzalez and Frank Sturgis were convicted of conspiracy, wiretapping and burglary. They pleaded guilty and all served more than one year in jail.
James McCord Jr. and E. Howard Hunt also were part of the original seven Watergate defendants. Hunt, who demanded hush money from the White House for himself and his fellow defendants, pleaded guilty to conspiracy, wiretapping and burglary and served 30 months in prison.

Chances of tracking scout killer lessens

LOCUST GROVE, Okla. (AP) — The chances that tracking dogs can find the killer of three Girl Scouts will decrease unless the dogs pick up the scent of the slayer soon, authorities say.
The dogs' trainer, Don Laken of Philadelphia, worked the rugged, scenic area 45 miles northeast of Tulsa most of the day Thursday, beginning at 5 a.m.
He said the dogs — two German Shepherds and a German cattle dog — have been successful on tracking assignments 100 times in 100 attempts, and that they could pick up a three-day-old trail. But he told reporters at Camp Scott that if the dogs don't pick up anything in 48 hours, the odds for their success decrease.
Mayes County Dist. Atty. Sid Wise expressed impatience at the pace of the investigation, particularly at the evaluation of evidence at the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation crime lab in Oklahoma City.

"It's getting beyond the point of patience," Wise said. "They were the first ones on the scene, and this is Thursday."
The wooden base of the 12-foot by 14-foot tent was airlifted to the lab on Tuesday. Authorities were also checking a 6-volt flashlight and footprints believed to belong to the killer, along with three clear fingerprints obtained from the victims' bodies.
Officials were hoping for a light rain early today to help the dogs by bringing any scent back to ground level, but there was no rain in the area by late Thursday.

EPA approves construction of Seabrook nuclear plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency today gave its approval for construction of the controversial Seabrook nuclear power plant, paving the way for further work on the New Hampshire facility.
The decision ends a two-year dispute over the plant's proposed cooling system, which would discharge artificially heated water into the North Atlantic and, opponents charged, upset the delicate marine environment.
Public Service Company of New Hampshire, the state's largest utility, is seeking to build the $2 billion generating station.
EPA Administrator Douglas Costle told reporters at a news conference that the power plant "has become a major symbol in the debate over nuclear power."
But he concluded the discharge of heated water would not endanger marine organisms inhabiting the New Hampshire coast. And he said Public Service was using the "best technology available" for minimizing any adverse environmental impact.

draw water from the North Atlantic.
Under the EPA order, the utility will be required to conduct further environmental studies and monitor the cooling system once the system is in operation.
Both industry and EPA officials have characterized the decision as pivotal for the future use of saltwater thermal cooling systems — for both nuclear and fossil-fueled generating stations.
Industry spokesmen say if Seabrook's proposed cooling system is rejected, it could jeopardize more than 300 applications for similar systems now pending before the EPA.

Pact agreement reached here

The appeal of Ron Vorhies, math instructor at Howard College, has been completely settled in negotiations between the professor and the college board.
Vorhies' contract was not renewed for the coming year and he taught his last class in May.
He had helped obtain, by writing a proposal, a National Science Foundation grant for a summer program.
The negotiation included a settlement for the amount he would have received teaching that summer course, according to Dr. Charles Hays, college president.

Deaths

Jim Brown
Funeral services for James L. (Jim) Brown, 88, who died at 1:15 a.m., Thursday in a local rest home after a six-year illness, will be at 4 p.m., Saturday in River-Welch Funeral Home Chapel, with Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

John Boman
John T. Boman Jr., 58, of Borger, died at 7:20 p.m. Thursday in a local hospital. Services will be Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at the First Church of God, Burk Burnett. Burial will be in Burk Burnett cemetery under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Jake Trantham
J.W. (Jake) Trantham, 59, died 4 a.m. today in Hico City Hospital. Services will be held 2 p.m. Saturday in the Barrow-Rutledge Funeral Home, with the Rev. Bob Ray, pastor of the Fairy Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Fairy Cemetery.

Mr. Trantham was born April 4, 1918 in Hico. He had resided in Big Spring for 26 years before moving back to Hico. He was a retired employe of the Big Spring Fire Department, and a member of the Fairy Baptist Church.
Survivors include the widow, Wilma Faye Trantham, Hico; a daughter, Mrs. Delores Doughty,

The possibility of an E.M.S. service for Big Spring and Howard County will also be discussed.

Police beat wallet back, $540 gone

Fixing his car turned out to be a mistake for Ronald Lawrence, Webb AFB, Thursday night.
Lawrence was fixing his car in a parking lot at 1002 N. Main. While he worked, his wallet dropped from his back pocket, but he didn't notice until he had moved the car to another part of the lot where there was more light.
He searched for the wallet where he had been working, failed to find it, and searched the entire area. He finally located it near an apartment across the street.
Identification papers were strewn across the yard, and five $100 bills, three $10 bills and two $5 bills were missing, totaling $540.
Burglars hit the home of Dan Shuler, 1102 Penn, sometime between 6 p.m. Wednesday and 6 p.m. Thursday.
After breaking through the back door of the residence, the intruders ripped off a

Rocket pioneer, Werner Von Braun, dead at 65

Huntsville, Ala. (AP) — Dr. Werner von Braun, the German-born rocket pioneer whose talents helped the United States put men on the moon, died Thursday after a long bout with cancer. He was 65.
Von Braun had been in poor health for some time. He underwent surgery in 1975 for removal of a malignant liver tumor and had maintained a sharply curtailed schedule since that time. He died at Alexandria Hospital in suburban Virginia.
recurrence of cancer, coupled with an infection that developed following surgery. He spent long stretches in the hospital, including a final stay beginning last October.
Even while hospitalized he continued limited work on his job as vice president of engineering and development for Fairchild Industries. He joined Fairchild in 1972, and worked mainly on space projects until he retired last Jan. 1.
Von Braun spent much of his time in the hospital reading, visiting with family and friends and selecting papers for a permanent collection that will be exhibited at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

Once bitterly hated by the Free World, von Braun became its top rocket expert after he and 129 other German rocket experts surrendered to the United States shortly before the end of World War II.
The man who once helped design the dreaded V-2 rocket for Adolf Hitler designed the U.S. Army's Jupiter C rocket that allowed his new country to recoup some of the prestige lost when Russia launched the first space satellite in 1957.
Von Braun told President Dwight D. Eisenhower well before the Russian Sputnik launching that his team had the capability of putting a satellite into orbit around the earth. But Eisenhower wanted to use a rocket developed for nonmilitary uses for the first effort to emphasize the peaceful uses of space and von Braun was turned down.
Sputnik and the subsequent failure of the Vanguard rocket, America's much publicized first attempt to rocket a satellite into space, forced Eisenhower to turn to von Braun.
On Jan. 31, 1958, the Jupiter C lifted off, carrying a 30-pound satellite called Explorer into an elliptical orbit and giving the U.S.

General 'called on carpet' after remark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials refuse to say what consequences are in store for an American three-star general being called on the carpet for his unauthorized warning that the United States might wind up in the middle of a Soviet-Chinese war.
Lt. Gen. Donn Starry is the second Army general to face discipline for controversial public statements within a month.
Starry, a 52-year-old West Point graduate nominated for a fourth star, was to meet in private at the Pentagon today with Army Secretary Clifford Alexander and Army Chief of Staff Gen. Bernard Rogers.
The general, who voiced his warning in a speech to a class of American high school graduates in Germany, had not complied with the required policy of submitting remarks to the Pentagon in advance for review. "It should have been (cleared)," Pentagon spokesman Thomas Ross said Thursday.

By mid-afternoon, the Pentagon had sent a message worldwide to all commands reminding members of the military of defense policy that they not speak out of line or contradict administration policy.
Starry seemed in good spirits Thursday as he prepared to leave Germany after 16 months as commander of the Army's 5th Corps. He smiled and shook hands at a farewell reception attended by about 200 American and German guests at the headquarters officers' club.

Starry already had been scheduled to return to the United States to take a vacation before reporting to his next assignment as head of the Army Training and Doctrine Command at Ft. Monroe, Va. After the controversy arose over his speech, he was told to postpone the leave and report to Army superiors.
In his speech to the graduates, Starry said the Soviet Union and China probably will fight a major war in the students' lifetime. He said it was likely the United States would become involved "once it became apparent that one or the other of the antagonists was about to win and gain absolute control over the bulk of the Eurasian land mass."
The Pentagon said the message sent to commands Thursday was triggered by the flap over Army Maj. Gen. John Singlaub's warning that removal of U.S. troops from Korea would lead to a new war there. Singlaub's comments were seen as criticism of President Carter's plans to pull out troops, and the general was ordered back to the United States and removed as the Army's staff chief in Korea May 21.

According to reports, a car driven by Steven Fine, 705 Aylford, collided with a parked car in a lot at 704 E. 3rd, which in turn struck pedestrian Morris Madden, 1410 Dixie. The parked car belonged to Roger Thompson of Odessa.
Two other mishaps were reported Thursday.

Vehicles driven by Tom A. Currie, 903 Dallas, and Luam E. Schwinn, 44-A Chanute, collided on the 2500 block of South Highway 87, 3:45 p.m.

A vehicle drive by Jimmy M. Wright, 2304 Marshall, collided with a parked vehicle driven by Fern Lewis, Box 1065, 5:22 p.m.

Clouds recede, leaving sunny skies

By the Associated Press
Sunny skies began reclaiming most of Texas today as thundershowers slipped out of the state under cover of darkness. The heavy rains that left East Texas waterlogged crossed state lines into Louisiana and Arkansas late Thursday night, leaving some clouds hanging over East Texas and clear skies over the rest of the state. Temperatures just before dawn ranged from the chilly 50s in the mountains to the 70s at most other stations. Forecasters said some widely scattered thundershowers could pop up tonight in Southeast Texas. Most Texans were expected to be under sunny skies, watching thermometers soar into the 90s and the mid-100s in West Texas.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Sunny and hot except widely scattered thundershowers northern Panhandle tonight. Partly cloudy with widely scattered thundershowers mainly scattered through Saturday. Continued fair elsewhere. Not as hot Panhandle Saturday. Highs today 100 to 105 except 90s mountains. Lows tonight 64 to 73 except 50s mountains. Highs Saturday 100 to 105 except 90s mountains and Panhandle.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Widely scattered thundershowers mainly north. Lows 50s mountains 60s north to 70s south. Highs 80s north and 107 Big Bend.

Spain's new chief faces money woes

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Bolstered by the prospect of a near-majority in Spain's first elected parliament in four decades, Premier Adolfo Suarez gave top priority today to meeting the nation's deepening economic crisis. A spokesman for Suarez' Democratic Center Union (UDC) said the economic situation would be the primary problem for the new government the 44-year-old premier will form. The fight to solve the crisis must have "the support of all Spanish political forces," he declared. Political sources said devaluation of the peseta was being considered to make Spanish exports more competitive. Spain's annual inflation rate is more than 20 per cent, one of the highest in Western Europe. Unemployment is also high, increased by the return home of Spanish laborers laid off in France, West Germany and Switzerland. This has also cut off an important supply of foreign currency and of funds for the workers' families. Industrial development has been stalled by uncertainty over the political future.

The cabinet, most of whom Suarez inherited from Francoist Premier Carlos Aria Navarro last July, is expected to resign this weekend so the premier can form a government reflecting the outcome of the election Wednesday. Final official results of the voting were expected tonight. But the Interior Ministry said it appeared that Suarez' moderate coalition would get 170 of the 350 seats in the Chamber of Deputies, only six short of a majority in the lower house of the new Cortes. The ministry figured the Socialist Workers party headed by Felipe Gonzales would get 116 seats, the Communists would have 20, dictator Francisco Franco's disciples in the right-wing Popular Alliance would get only 17, and Catalanian and Basque regional parties would each get 10. Regional parties in Galicia, Valencia and the Canary Islands were shut out, along with the Maoists, the Trotskyites and the Christian Democrats. The 248-member Senate probably will include 106 UDC members, 60 Socialists, 8 Communists and 1 member of the Popular Alliance, the Interior Ministry said. Most of the 41 senators appointed by King Juan Carlos also are expected to support Suarez.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Good Neighbor Commission has voted to suspend without pay two indicted commission employees — executive director Manual Garza and Sharon Flippen — until their legal troubles are solved. They were indicted Tuesday with four others for allegedly stealing more than $7,000 in state funds in connection with a scheme to collect phony consultant fees from the Texas Education Agency. Commission chairman M.M. Vickers of Brownsville said Thursday, "We are not attempting in any manner to pass judgment as to the guilt or innocence of Mr. Garza or Ms. Flippen, as the alleged offense took place two years ago, long before either was associated with the Good Neighbor Commission. "However, it was the consensus of the (nine) commissioners that the effectiveness of our agency would be severely hampered while the legal matters are pending in court." The vote to suspend the employees was taken by telephone, Vickers said. Deputy director Eddie Aurispa will assume Garza's duties, he said. Garza worked for the TEA and Ms. Flippen was with the Greater South Texas Cultural Basin when the alleged offense occurred.

VANISHING CHINATOWN — Office towers and other modern buildings, background, have been encroaching on the area that once made up Singapore's Chinatown. Once covering many blocks, not much is left now of the two and three story tangle of shops, pushcarts, eating stalls, mahjong tables, food vendors and laundry drying on window poles, as this recent photo shows.

Who would believe all the building?

One might suppose that with the drawdown and upcoming closure of Webb Air Force Base, businesses might be more conservative about expansion plans.
One might assume that, but one would be wrong.
Big Spring has had either an opening of a new business or announced expansion of a present one every week for the past month, and a number of others are in the planning stages.
It has all been very surprising.
FOR EXAMPLE, opening last week was The Brass Nail, a supper club par excellence. The club, located on Highway 87 on the south side of town, would be an outstanding one in any city in Texas.
It is expensively decorated and very roomy, and top Dallas bands are being brought in to entertain by owners Charlie and Joyce Wash.

The grand opening of The Brass Nail will come soon.
On the opposite side of town, the new motel and club at Rip Griffin Truck Terminal has also just opened. The truck stop, one of the busiest in the state, now has a Mid-Continent Motel adjoining it. The Pump Club, a private club located in the motel, started with a two-woman guitar and vocal act from Colorado that was really good. Their names are Luann Reeder and Mary Ellis, and if they come back, don't miss them.
Then last week, groundbreaking was done for a new quarter million dollar Coors distribution center on Interstate 20.
Nearby, the Ramada Inn is also preparing for a $40,000 expansion.
These were followed by the Jack and Jill Kindergarten at 18th and Nolan.

NEXT, THEATER owner Ike Robb stunned the town by announcing that the old Ritz Theater, the prominent building at the corner of 4th and Main, will be remodeled into a twin-screen movie house. The inside of the theater is so large that the upper portion can be built into a theater and the lower portion too.
Having this traditional Big Spring building redone in the interior will be very good for our town.
Robb also announced the opening of an ice cream parlor, named Papa's, next to his R-70 Theater.
The building goes on at an amazing level. First Methodist Church, 400 Scurry, filed in May for a permit to start a $526,000 addition.

May, the month when the closing of Webb was to begin, was the best construction month of the year in Big Spring in terms of building permits.
With all these projects just completing (and I've probably forgotten some I should mention) and a number of others that have been ongoing for some time, Big Spring is doing the opposite of folding up after the final decision on Webb.
At Rotary Club last week, I was sitting across the table from Adolph Swartz, and we began to talk about Big Spring's astounding building boom.
Swartz said that the new projects show the high level of confidence that the people of Big Spring have in their town, and he's right.

Is Cuomo a loser?

Evans, Novak

NEW YORK — Typical of the frustration in the politics of New York, Mario Cuomo could well be the last best chance to save this city from further disasters, but instead he is acquiring the look of a candidate running dead in the water after two months of campaigning.
Battle-hardened veterans here, regulars and reformers, consider Cuomo a loser. The 45-year-old appointive New York Secretary of State ran dreadfully in 1974 for nomination for lieutenant governor, his only previous race. He is an undisciplined candidate without experienced political managers or sufficient funds. Worse, he has the image of being Gov. Hugh Carey's creature.
NEVERTHELESS, CUOMO could mean salvation for this beleaguered city, a safe harbor between the Scylla of Mayor Abraham Beame, leading the forlorn clubhouse regulars, and the Charybdis of ex-Rep. Bella Abzug, promising to storm Washington for federal funds. Neither they nor two-time loser Rep. Herman Badillo, a late starter, would bring the economies so desperately needed here. Without those economies, businessmen see no halt to the continuing deadly exodus of industry, merchants and the middle-class.
In contrast, Cuomo knows business and must be lowered and that money to cut taxes must come not from Washington but from reduced city spending. That hardnosed lesson, applicable to all cities, is also appreciated by another candidate, Rep. Edward Koch. But Cuomo, not Koch, is given the best chance of breaking the Beama-Beame stranglehold.
Even if he loses the Democratic primary in September, Cuomo will have another shot in November as Liberal party candidate (a nomination dictated by Gov. Carey). Furthermore, he is the only non-Jewish, non-black, non-Puerto Rican candidate in a likely field of eight. As such, he may draw well in the ethnic wards of Queens and Brooklyn.
But beyond this, Mario Cuomo has political characteristics that make him appealing to supporters from all bands of the political spectrum. That across-the-board appeal is what has intrigued politicians from the time in 1972 when he first came to public attention trying to compromise a bitter racial housing struggle in Forest Hills.
CERTAINLY, CUOMO is no reflexive liberal. "Liberalism is a luxury," says the candidate of New York's Liberal party. Calling for economies, he says he might phase out that hideously expensive sacred cow, New York's municipally-owned hospitals.
How to stop the flow of the middle class from the city? Cuomo answers with a question: "What is more important to a man with children than that his wife not get raped and that his children go to a decent school?"
Therefore, "when people commit crimes, they should be punished hard enough so they won't commit more crimes." And what is the primary need of public schools? "Order being restored," he says.
Yet, this apostle of law, order and fiscal conservatism is a favorite of some advanced liberals. The partial reason is that there is no trace of racial provocation in Cuomo's rhetoric. Beyond that liberals feel he is the mayoral candidate smart and tough enough to clean house.

What does it mean to be 'rundown'?

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please tell me what "neurocirculatory asthenia" means? What causes it, and what is the cure, if any? Is it in any way related to myasthenia gravis? I have heard very little about it. — L.B.R.
The reason you haven't heard about it is because it is a rather antiquated term. It describes a very generalized problem. Over the years, other, better terms have been used to describe it — "soldier's heart," "irritable heart," "anxiety neurosis," "irritable heart," or "neurasthenia." It is encountered frequently among soldiers in combat. "Asthenia" is from the Greek word meaning "lack of strength." The other tongue-twister refers to weakness in the nerve and circulation system generally.
When doctors use such terms they refer to a group of symptoms, which added together mean the person is in a generally "run-down" condition. There is weakness, easy tiring, a sense of giddiness, heart palpitation, clammy skin and various aches and pains, particularly in the head and heart regions. "Depression" is also a term that is frequently used.
Nowadays, one looks for such underlying or contributing factors as low thyroid gland function, anemia, or chronic infection. It has no relation to myasthenia gravis, which is a muscle-weakness problem.
Treatment is two-fold — to correct any underlying problem and to "build up" the "run-down" patient through proper diet, rest, and change of lifestyle. Often an emotional upset, such as disappointment in early life, can be a cause, so psychological counseling may be needed.
Along this same line, M.H. asks me, "What are the symptoms of a nervous breakdown?" This is another popular, non-medical term that has meaning only to the person using it. The symptoms are quite similar to those discussed above — fear, anxiety, weakness, loss of appetite, and general discontent with life. It is primarily an emotional disorder, however, and treated by a psychiatrist.

Yet, even though the cause may be emotional, a complete physical examination is in order to rule out organic disorders that may be behind it or that may actually be caused by mental problems.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 19 years old and have had herpes for nearly a year. I have heard so many rumors about the disease. Is it true that the symptoms can disappear, making it impossible to pass on the disease? If I were to have intercourse, could my partner protect himself from getting the disease by cleansing himself afterwards? — C.K.
The lesions (blisters) of genital herpes II (which is what you refer to) can disappear after 8 or 10 days, but I wouldn't use the term "impossible" with regard to chances of passing it on to your partner. The virus remains lurking somewhere in the system. Recurrence is common. Whether you have symptoms or not your partner should use a condom and cleanse himself thoroughly before and after intercourse. You might be interested in knowing that the male can pass this on to the female.
Herpes is trick to treat. A recent review of ten different treatments concluded that none is completely effective. In spite of all the research underway it remains a stubborn disease in search of a cure.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several months ago almost all of my eyelashes on one eyelid only fell out. There is still no sign of new growth. A friend told me she heard that some mites get into eyelashes, especially when a woman uses mascara every day, which I do. Have you heard of this? — B.O.
I have not heard of mites being the cause, but eye cosmetics can become contaminated readily once a bottle is opened. It is quite possible the eyelash follicles became infected. Lashes grow very slowly, so it may be some time before you see new ones. You might consult a dermatologist. Meanwhile quit using the mascara.
How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of his booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.
Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband and I are new believers. We don't have much money, but we have been attending a church near us and have been growing in Christ. However, we have recently gotten the impression that we are not really welcome at this church because we are not as well-dressed as most of the members. — Mrs. V.G.
DEAR MRS. G.: People originally wore their best clothes to worship because they wanted to give their best to God, and show respect for Him. However, whenever people become concerned about impressing others in church with their clothes, or when they look down on someone who cannot afford fine clothes, then they are guilty of pride and judging according to outward appearances. This is wrong. The Bible says, "My brothers, as believers in our glorious Lord Jesus Christ, don't show favoritism. Suppose a man comes into your meeting wearing a gold ring and fine clothes, and a poor man in shabby clothes also comes in. If you show special attention to the man wearing fine clothes... have you not discriminated among yourselves and become judges with evil thoughts?" (James 2:1-4, New International Version).

I suggest you talk candidly with your pastor about this. Thank him for the spiritual help you have received from the church, but be honest about your concern. If you still feel your fellowship there is being hindered, you may want to pray about finding another church that will help you grow spiritually, and in which you can have a ministry.
Remember that "the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart" (1 Samuel 16:7). Don't be overly concerned about what others think, but be concerned with what God's will is for your life.

Like nothing else

Around the rim

Bob Burton

The rodeo is coming! So they say, so I believe.
I really don't have much choice but to believe since I have never been privileged to stand, hips cocked, in the hot sun with boots and hat and belt and chaps and spurs, watching the dust and trying not to spit on myself.
OH, I'VE done it a hundred times in memory. I've ridden the purple sage and played the cowboy fantasy to its limit as a kid in the industrial north. At one point, I even took riding lessons (lessons, you snort, as if riding was to humans like swimming is to seals — something you may not do at birth, but you better do damn well soon thereafter) and learned just a little about horses. Unfortunately, to my eternal shame, I was taught English style with the posting and the useless saddle — gelded almost, I thought — until a horse kicked me in the head and taught me fear of anything bigger than I was.
So the rodeo's coming! I can watch TV with the best of them (I saw the Great American Cowboy and I knew who Larry Mahan was years ago), and I've read of all the Howard College bucks and buckettes who are ripping the Nationals apart. I've been out to the Sheriff's posse a few times and seen some roping.
But all that is like seeing the smoke and feeling the heat of a rodeo. I've never been close enough to see the flame or to understand fire. I intend to learn next week. It starts, if you've been blind enough or old and dulled enough not to know or care, on Wednesday. It runs through Saturday and will have all riding and roping events. They will draw people from West Texas and competitors from all over the country.

IT IS A unique kind of celebration, like nothing else in the world; it is as strange across the Atlanta as tossing-the-cabec is here. It is founded in the working heritage of this part of the country. Where tennis, baseball, football, basketball bear little resemblance to any activity people make a living at, the rodeo is a busman's holiday. The participants do what they always do — a little more colorfully, a little more intently, a lot more crazily.
The crowd comes for the action, for the dances and the barbecues, for the animals and the speed and the girls and the men. But, so far as I know, the rodeo is greater than the sum of its parts. There is more coming to town next week than a traveling show, a collection of haphazard oddly-skilled weiros.
Danny Valdes will be out there shooting it, Marj will be out there writing it, I'll be out there soaking it up.
So if you see a short, paunchy guy in letherosen and gym shoes, sweating profusely and rubbing his shirttail across his drenched forehead as he looks for some shade, it's not me. I'm wearing the red bandana, Tony Lamas, and Stetson, eyeing the cowgirls and standing with my hips cocked trying not to spit on myself. Don't bother me, I'm very happy.

Castro's revenge?

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, himself the intended victim of U.S. assassination attempts, plotted in 1969 to send frogmen on a commando raid against then President Richard Nixon's vacation home at Key Biscayne, Fla.
The secret plan called for the underwater raiders to blow up the winter White House. It is unknown whether Castro expected them to catch the American president on the premises and kill him in the explosion.
THE ONLY hint of the plot appeared afterward in a cryptic State Dept. announcement that a Cuban official at the United Nations, named Lazara Eddy-Espinosa Bonet, had been asked to leave the country. The statement explained tersely that his expulsion was related to the "security of the office of the president."
From intelligence sources, we have now learned the suppressed details. It should be emphasized that the raid was a contingency plan and that no known attempt was made to implement it.
But Espinosa Bonet tried to recruit a Cuban-American servant inside the Nixon compound to buy the president's seaside villa and to draw up blueprints of the security arrangements.
To coerce the servant, the Castro agent threatened him and his family in Cuba with physical harm. The frightened servant was told that he would be provided with microtransmitters, which he should plant throughout the Nixon home. These would have to be monitored by Cuban agents in Miami or aboard fishing boats off the Florida coast.
The requested blueprints would have been used to guide the attacking frogmen. Our intelligence sources speculated that the raiders would have sought first to blow up the communications complex inside the Nixon compound. Then, presumably, they would have struck the Nixon home itself.

Despite the threats, the servant refused to betray Nixon and informed U.S. authorities of the plot. The servant's story though vague on some details, was convincing enough for the State Dept. to expel Espinosa Bonet.
If Castro would consider sending frogmen against Nixon, some investigators wonder whether he might have instigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. We first raised this possibility on March 3, 1967.
WE HAD learned that the CIA, using Mafia killers, had tried to eliminate Fidel Castro. This was at the time, we reported, that Robert Kennedy "was riding herd on the agency." We questioned whether Kennedy "may have approved an assassination plot, which then possibly backfired against his late brother."
FORMER AIDES OF THE LATE Robert Kennedy have now confided that he was furious over our column. It was published at a time of strained relations between Kennedy and then-President Lyndon Johnson. Kennedy thought Johnson had leaked the story to us.
The aides recall, significantly, Kennedy acknowledged to them that our story was correct about the assassination plot. But he denied that he had approved the plot; he told them, on the contrary, that he had stopped it.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

I wish to comment on the article that appeared in the Sunday 12th paper where the District Attorney Rick Hamby expresses opposition to the speedy trial bill, Bill 1043. The bill calls for a trial within 120 days of arrest of a person charged with a felony offense.
To regard this bill as "an ineffectual, half-hearted attempt at a speedy trail" is to ignore one of the likely reasons why this bill was drafted in the first place. First, it should be noted that those held in jail charged with a felony or misdemeanor offense are detainees, and are, according to our law, presumed to be innocent of any wrong doing. Theoretically at least, the detention is for the sole purpose of ensuring of defendant's appearance at trial, and is not for punishment. These detainees remain in jail because the money bail system presently constituted is the most irrational and oppressive aspect of our entire system of criminal justice. It puts a price tag on liberty and serves to preventively detain only the poor.
In my opinion, the Legislature is taking cues from a flurry of recent cases involving jail conditions in various town and cities which have resulted in decisions declaring many of the jail conditions as cruel and unusual punishment, therefore, unconstitutional. Many of these jails are unmitigated disgraces. They are overcrowded, understaffed, unsanitary, and structurally deteriorating. They give little protection from physical and sexual assaults, provide no programs, and they spend most of their entire budget on security. In short, they exist only to warehouse those persons charged with crime who are too poor to post bail for their release.

One of these decisions that has made an impression on the Legislature is one handed by the Honorable Sarah T. Hughes which declared the Dallas County Jail as unconstitutional. As a direct result of this decision, the State's jail standards have been revised to conform to this order, and which the Sheriff A.N. Standard is working with the County Government to bring this jail in compliance, although the conditions here are not entirely the same as described above.
Mr. Hamby complains that should the governor sign the speedy trial bill, it would result in a breakdown of the State's prosecuting efforts because of the overload of cases requiring swift prosecution, and that failure to do so, would necessitate the release of many being detained to answer to the charges of offenses. While the possibility exists, it is very unlikely. More than 50 per cent of the felony cases filed in the court are cleared after a defendant pleads guilty to the charges, a procedure that takes about 20 to 30 minutes, notwithstanding pre-trial preparation. Mr. Hamby has an able assistant in Don Richard. Something that previous district attorneys, Guilford Jones, and Wayne Burns did not have. I am certain that the DA's office will rise to the task of prosecuting cases well within the 120-day period should the speedy trial bill be signed into law by the governor.

GREETINGS — Princess Anne greets guests during a garden party at the British Embassy Thursday. The affair commemorated the Silver Jubilee of Queen Elizabeth.

Pipeline road greater hazard for Alaska?

PRUDHOE BAY, Alaska (AP) — Thanks to the trans-Alaska pipeline, the United States has a road to the top of the world. Now the question is what to do with it.

Environmentalists say it presents a far greater threat to the Arctic than the pipeline and its construction ever did. For once, oil men agree.

But there is pressure to open the road for tourism. And the trucking industry opposes the state's plan to impose a toll on industrial vehicles.

Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., which built the 367-mile-long road from the Yukon River to Prudhoe Bay on the Arctic Ocean, has called off its plans to turn the road over to the state.

Alyeska president Dr. W.J. Darch says the consortium feels turning the road over to the state this year "would be a bit unfair. We've got to give them lead time."

Robert LeResche, state natural resources commissioner, concedes: "We aren't really anxious to have it now." He and Gov. Jay Hammond want to study what impact there will be if they open up a pristine area to potential hordes of tourists.

LeResche says "clearly the largest long-term impact of the pipeline is the haul road." Jim Kowalsky, Alaska field representative for Friends of the Earth, agreed.

Darch also is concerned about security problems along the pipeline that could result from opening the road to the public.

The first oil is to be pumped into this end of the pipe on Monday. It won't reach the southern end, at Valdez, for a month or more.

The road, crossing the first bridge ever built over the Yukon River, opens up an area almost as large as the state of Texas.

Alyeska has permitted a few reporters to drive the road, and it's quite an experience. Imagine barreling down a fairly smooth dirt road to see a grizzly bear in the right lane — on your side — and a truck coming in the left lane. Wolves walk out onto the road looking for handouts.

The road crosses the Arctic Circle and the majestic Brooks Range, whose peaks reach 8,000 feet. The scenery isn't necessarily more spectacular than in some national parks in the lower 48, but there's a feeling about where you are.

The pipeline is visible in some areas along the road, although Alyeska has spent millions to hide it.

Once you cross the Brooks Range, the scenery changes abruptly. There are few trees even at lower elevations; just miles and miles of tundra. That monotony is largely unrelieved even when you reach the Arctic Ocean here, since it's frozen much of the year.

Would save petroleum

Rubber plantation in West Texas?

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — A scrawny, branchy desert bush with an impossible sounding name may help the United States save precious petroleum.

Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., and Rep. George Brown, D-Calif., have introduced a bill that would set up a demonstration project to develop an American natural rubber industry based on a plant called guayule (pronounced wy-ooy-ay).

Scientists say guayule is a natural for the arid regions of southern Arizona, California, New Mexico and Texas. It grows wild throughout the Southwest, sending down 20-foot tap roots and thriving on less than 25 inches of water a year.

Domenici and Brown introduced their bill March 29, the same day the National Academy of Sciences recommended guayule be used as the basis of a domestic natural rubber industry.

The bill is seeking $60 million over a five-year period for research to develop technology and improve the plant. The funds would go to the agricultural research service of the Department of Agriculture.

Research would include a demonstration project to plant, harvest and produce latex rubber from the guayule. The agricultural research service also would try to improve the yield of the plant to produce as much as 5,000 pounds of rubber per acre per year.

That yield would cut 15 to 20 per cent of America's dependence on synthetic rubber, with a resulting savings in crude oil.

"So we're developing a domestic industry and conserving (oil)," Bell said. "It's a little scrubby bush, but it can do it."

Scientists already are studying guayule.

Century Club is disbanded

"This is our last meeting. It's sad to think that this is it. We've appreciated you (the Air Force) all these years, and we'll miss you a lot. We won't meet again, but you'll live a long, long time in our hearts."

Those were the words of Century Club president Adolph Swartz at the final general membership meeting of the Century Club Thursday night.

The Century Club, an organization formed three years ago to support Webb Air Force Base, will be disbanded as the air base is drawn down later this summer.

Century Club members were guests at a dinner, hosted by the Air Force in appreciation for their support of the base.

Awards of appreciation were given to all members who had served on the various committees, and Col. Harry Spannaus, wing commander, thanked the club for its efforts in behalf of the base.

In final committee reports, the members heard the Housing Committee co-chairman Jeff Brown say that appraisals for the housing assistance program is under way, and those eligible should apply for their appraisal to avoid the rush later.

Brown said that 7 1/2 million pounds of household goods will be moved out of Big Spring by military persons leaving Webb in the next three months.

Jimmy Taylor, co-chairman of the Hospitality Committee, reported on four events in the past two months: a flight-line social on April 15, an intercultural exchange party April 16; the last Webb open house; and the final mini-rodeo and barbecue.

Mayor Wade Choate said that the Legislative Action Committee had no further duties since the fight was lost in Washington to save Webb.

Howard College President Charles Hays and Lt. Col. Robert Ziman made the Education, Religion and Recreation Committee report a humorous one, with Col. Ziman jokingly proposing that the Webb runways be turned into a race track and drag strip.

Col. Spannaus told the gathering that the base planned to pass to Heritage Museum several articles of historical significance concerning Webb.

CB 'skip' guides help

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — A North Texas citizens band radio operator received a long-distance emergency call Thursday night — from Wyoming. It led authorities to the scene of an accident.

Retired plumber Floyd White, who monitors CB channel 9 all night for the local "Texoma REACT" club, got a call about 2:30 A.M. from a motorist who reported seeing an accident, authorities said.

The mobile unit said he was westbound on Highway 80 at the 67-mile marker, and had just seen a car run off the road and tumble down a bluff.

There was no such location in the Wichita Falls area, White responded.

But the man at the scene, who said he was a tourist and not too sure of his location, did know that he was in Wyoming — right in the center of the state.

White then realized he was receiving a "skip" broad-

Local district raises $21,691 for McMurry

The Big Spring District raised $21,691.42 for the McMurry Annual Fund which reached an all time high in this campaign.

The 1976-77 fund campaign reached $322,603.92. This is the first time the McMurry Annual Fund has ever passed the $300,000 mark.

This is the annual sustentation campaign for McMurry College. Gifts of friends and alumni of McMurry to this cause go toward faculty salaries and other operating costs of the Abilene institution.

The new record figure is an increase of $39,210.45 over last year's annual fund total of $283,393.47, said Dr. Thomas K. Kim, McMurry president.

McMurry College belongs to the Northwest Texas and New Mexico Annual Conferences of the United Methodist Church. This vast area is divided into 10 organized districts in the fund raising effort, with everything outside listed in an eleventh category.

No less than six of the districts set all time highs for total giving during the fund year just ended, and two others bettered the previous year's total.

Abilene district led these with a record total of $100,740.48 and thereby increased its slice of the McMurry Annual fund from 30 to 31 per cent.

In breaking the hundred thousand mark, Abilene was $16,490.20 higher than its $84,250.28 total the previous year.

Other districts recording all time highs were Lubbock with $56,709.02, Plainview with $12,237.16, El Paso with $15,571.97, Carlsbad with $15,686.10 and Albuquerque with $14,723.20.

The latter three are all in the New Mexico Annual Conference.

Other district totals were Amarillo $26,747.05, Pampa $26,736.31, Seymour $11,139.45 and the out-of-district category $20,621.76.

Dr. Alsie Carleton, bishop of both owing United Methodist conferences, emphasized the prime importance of the annual fund to McMurry in recent church sessions at Santa Fe and Abilene.

cast, with the signal bouncing off the ionosphere.

So he contacted the Texas Department of Public Safety, which in turn teletyped Wyoming authorities.

Within minutes, two Wyoming state troopers and a deputy were on the scene of the accident, which luckily did not involve any serious injuries. And the officers also reported finding a wrecked stolen car while on the way to the mishap.

Later, the Wyoming Highway Patrol sent a thank-you note back to Wichita Falls, saying that they also had received another call on the wreck, from a Wyoming CB'er who had been able to hear the Texas station, but could not copy the motorist at the scene down the road.

Heroin flow curtailed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Federal drug agents say there is evidence they are beginning to slash the flow of Mexican heroin into the United States.

Bill Kline, San Antonio special agent for the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), says the supply of heroin finding its way here is more expensive, less available and less pure than it has been for some time.

"It's as sharp and definite a change in activity as I've seen here in recent years," Kline said in an interview.

Kline said his agents and informants report that traffickers who used to deal in kilograms of heroin are now dealing in grams.

As a result, he said, many "big dealers" who once were high priority targets for investigations "have been downgraded because they can no longer meet the (DEA) criteria."

A DEA spokesman in Washington said San Antonio's situation is not unusual, that indications are that the flow of heroin is diminishing throughout the country.

The spokesman said more of the heroin seized has been "cut" with other substances to dilute its purity and that prices are rising. These are signals of a declining supply, the spokesman said.

Federal agents this week disclosed they had seized a total of 40 pounds of Mexican heroin worth about $20 million in related actions at Del Rio and in Chicago.

And, officers found another 15.5 pounds of uncut Mexican heroin during a routine search of a man's car on the border in South Texas this week.

The Washington DEA spokesman said that when the agency began its crackdown a year ago, authorities estimated at least 90 per cent of the heroin reaching the United States could be traced to Mexican poppy fields.

Today, the spokesman said, Mexico's share has dropped to 75 to 80 per cent.

The spokesman attributed the decline to a joint U.S.-Mexico poppy field eradication program in western Mexico and to secret DEA operations.

Right to religious holidays

Congress to try to fix ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress soon will be asked to wipe out the effects of a Supreme Court ruling that says workers have no legal right to take a day off for religious reasons.

"The Supreme Court decision is wrong," Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., said Thursday after hearing the high court's ruling. "I shall renew my legislative efforts in this issue."

It was Randolph who in 1972 pushed legislation through Congress making it clear that under the Civil Rights Act of 1964 employers would have to accommodate religious employees whenever possible.

But the Supreme Court, in a 7-2 decision Thursday, ruled that employers are not required to give an employee certain days off because of religious beliefs if a seniority system bars such accommodation or if such action would amount to preferential treatment.

"In the absence of clear statutory language or legislative history to the contrary, we will not readily construe the statute to require an employer to discriminate against some employees in order to enable others to observe their sabbath," Justice Byron White said in the majority opinion.

The ruling is a major legal defeat for millions whose religions dictate that they not work on particular days of the week. It carries impact for Orthodox Jews, Seventh-Day Adventists, Seventh-Day Baptists and members of the Worldwide Church of God.

Randolph, a Seventh-Day Baptist, indicated he would seek a new law that could not be misinterpreted by the court.

"Our great tradition of religious freedom and our nation's accommodation of religious diversity has been severely damaged," he said in referring to the high court's action.

The court's two dissenters used even stronger language.

"All Americans will be a little poorer until today's decision is erased," said Justice Thurgood Marshall and William Brennan. "The ultimate tragedy is that, despite Congress's best efforts, one of this nation's pillars of strength — our hospitality to religious diversity — has been seriously eroded."

The case decided by the court involved a Trans World Airlines worker, Larry Hardison, who was fired in 1969 for refusing to work from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday, observed as the sabbath by the Worldwide Church of God.

Hardison sued TWA and his union, the International Association of Machinists, charging religious discrimination. He won in the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, but TWA and the union appealed, arguing that the 1964 Civil Rights Law and its 1972 amendment violate the Constitution's ban on government entanglement in religion.

The Justice Department urged the high court to rule for Hardison, saying TWA did not do enough to accommodate him.

But White wrote that TWA had met its legal obligation and that anything more it could have done would have imposed undue hardship.

Judge goes against development ban

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Opponents of a controversial ban on development over the Edwards Aquifer have won an early victory with the decision of a U.S. magistrate to recommend a preliminary injunction against the moratorium.

U.S. Magistrate Joseph F. Leonard Jr. said Thursday night he will recommend that a preliminary injunction be issued to prevent enforcement of the 18-month ban on all development over the aquifer and its re-charge zone.

The aquifer, a natural underground water system flowing along the affluent northern edge of San Antonio, is the city's only source of fresh water.

The city council voted a week ago to impose the moratorium beginning at 12:01 a.m. this Monday.

Leonard made his finding at the end of a 5 1/2 hour hearing on the injunction request sought by plaintiffs in a $750 million class action suit against the city.

Leonard's findings and recommendation will be sent to U.S. District Court Judge Adrian Spears. The city will have five days to respond and then Spears will make a final decision on whether to issue the preliminary injunction.

The suit was filed after the council vote last week by land developers with interests in the aquifer area. The suit claims inverse condemnation, or seizure of property by a government without just compensation.

The ban covers about 7,000 acres inside the city limits and another 55,000 acres within the city's five mile radius of extraterritorial jurisdiction.

Lawyers for the developers called a half dozen witnesses at Thursday's hearing, including Hugh Yantis, executive director of the Texas Water Quality Board and several city officials.

All testified that there was no scientific evidence that the aquifer water would be polluted by continued development of the land above it.

Councilwomen Helen Dutmar, who voted for the ban, was the city's only witness. She cited a past instance where some water had been polluted by development.

Asst. City Atty Crawford Reeder indicated the city council might have to act before the bank takes effect to avoid causing damages to the plaintiffs. A special session of the city council would have to be scheduled 24 hours in advance to rescind the moratorium.

Grand jury probing city official arrest

HOUSTON (AP) — The foreman of a Harris County grand jury investigating reports that an elected city official was arrested and released in a police drug raid says the panel may hear more witnesses Monday.

Foreman Bill Vawter said Thursday the grand jury may need several more weeks of investigating to either confirm or dispel the reports.

Vawter said the panel has come up with no evidence to verify any of the reports, and is not certain which law enforcement agency handled the alleged drug raid.

"This may be only a vicious rumor," Vawter said. "But only a grand jury can substantiate or refute it."

Lawyer Bob Scott was selected by the grand jurors as an outside prosecutor and the panel has heard three witnesses, Vawter said.

The grand jury foreman said that widespread rumors about an alleged May 3 raid, coupled with news accounts of city political occurrences led to the investigation.

Mayor Fred Hofheinz said he did not know what the investigation was about. He said he had not been asked to appear before the grand jury.

B. G. Bond, police chief at the time of the alleged raid, labeled as "lies" any rumors that he may have been involved in any alleged "cover-up".

Vawter said grand jurors elected to bypass the district attorney's office in pursuing the reports "because the district attorney is going to have to run for reelection, and this could be a little hot."

First Asst. Dist. Atty. Sam Robertson said the office was not aware of the investigation.

"A special prosecutor should not be appointed until the district attorney is disqualified, and since we don't know anything about the investigation we haven't been disqualified," Robertson said.

Hofheinz has announced he will not seek reelection. Bond resigned recently as police chief and announced he would seek the mayor's position. However, he announced Wednesday night he had decided not to run.

Hasn't missed church in 65 years

DALLAS (AP) — Procrastination is a vice for some, and many people find it easier to stay in bed Sunday morning than to charge out to Sunday school. But it's never been a problem for 82-year-old George W. McDaniel Jr. He's been doing it for the past 65 years straight.

In fact, the sprightly silver-haired gent says he can only recall missing one day of Sunday school during all of his life and that was when he was growing up in Abilene around the turn of the century.

Instead of going to church, his mother left early one Sunday in the horse and carriage to visit her sister at a hospital.

McDaniel recollects his mother phoning from the hospital and telling her children: "Your aunt has just died, you won't be going to Sunday school this morning."

In retrospect, McDaniel says he "should have gone ahead and walked."

"I never anticipated making a record like this!" he beamed.

The Presbyterian church and some others award Sunday school attendance medals through the Cross and Crown system under which a person gets a medallion for attending 50 out of 52 Sundays in a year.

Each subsequent year is recognized with a numerical pendant that hangs in succession from the wreath. McDaniel has 63 such pendants.

He didn't start forming the year-pin chain until he was 17, when the Presbyterian church in Abilene started using the system, so the childhood miss didn't count, he said.

At first, he wore the medal and chain on his coat lapel. As it grew longer, he made a watch fob of it.

The chain is nearly a yard long now. McDaniel says he keeps it now tucked away in a dresser drawer.

His 65 years in attendance total 3,380 Sundays. McDaniel makes an exception in his attendance record for the year he spent in the U.S. Navy in World War I.

But he says he attended as often as possible, even during the war.

One Sunday, he rooted out a service in Brest, France. "I couldn't understand a word they said, but I recognized the tunes they sang," he said.

Another time, he and his mother were on their way to South Texas from Abilene, and stopped at Bradshaw for Sunday school. It was during the depression of the 1930's, and McDaniel got some curious looks when he dropped a silver dollar into the collection plate.

McDaniel recalls the astonished usher asking him: "Do you want some drag back?"

"I said 'no,' of course."

McDaniel is now a deacon of the Highland Park Presbyterian Church in Dallas and works every Sunday as an assistant treasurer.

And if the rest of this year is as full of Sunday school as the past 65 have been, McDaniel will receive his 66-year pendant January 1, 1978.

"Thank You M'am," the second movie is based on the Langston Hughes story. An older black woman, a night nurse, is on her way home early one morning. A black youth tries to grab her pocketbook, but she grabs his arm, gives him a few words, then decides to take him home to wash his dirty face. She drags him along the street, admonishing him to behave and face the consequences of his action.

"This Land Is Mine," is a film which shows some of what is left of our truly beautiful country. It shows the crashing waves of Big Sur as immortalized by Robin Jiffers, also Sidney Lanier's favorite spot of the Georgia coast, Mark Twain's Mississippi and Teddy Roosevelt's Grand Canyon.

Library plans free program

Howard County Library will be sponsoring a free, all-color film program Saturday beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Featured this week will be three films:

"World Beneath the Sea," features shrimp, sharks and octopuses. What is life like under the ocean's surface? With camera underwater viewers can take a fish's point of view of what his world is like.

Energy Gulf may be probed for anti-trust violation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department may be asked to investigate whether Gulf Oil Corp. violated U.S. antitrust laws by joining an international uranium price-fixing cartel, says the chairman of a House investigations unit.

It's "quite possible" that the committee will decide to turn its evidence over to government prosecutors, despite Gulf's contention that it did nothing wrong, said Rep. John Moss, D-Calif.

The commerce investigations subcommittee, headed by Moss, continues hearings on the cartel today with testimony from former and present Gulf officials who attended meetings of the cartel around the world.

Gulf admits participating in the cartel through its Canadian uranium-producing subsidiary, but says it was compelled by the Canadian government to join the organization.

It contends that one of the witnesses scheduled to testify today, L.T. Gregg, a former official of Gulf Minerals Canada Ltd., participated in cartel activities at the specific request of the Canadian government.

But subcommittee sources say the panel has evidence that the letter from the Canadian government to Gulf requesting Gregg's participation was drafted, at least in part, by Gregg himself.

According to confidential Gulf and Canadian government documents released by the panel on Thursday, the cartel of foreign governments and uranium producers carved up the free world uranium market, establishing quotas and setting prices.

The cartel is allegedly responsible for increases in raw uranium from around $5 a pound in the early 1970s to the current world price of over $40 a pound. The uranium is sold for the generation of electricity in commercial atomic power plants.

Uranium producers in Canada, South Africa, France and Australia participated in the cartel along with Gulf officials, the documents revealed.

Gulf Board Chairman Jerry McAfee testified on Thursday that Gulf's role in the cartel did not violate U.S. antitrust laws because the U.S. uranium market was insulated from the international group's actions.

A U.S. embargo, established in 1964, prohibited U.S. utilities from using imported uranium in their nuclear reactors at the time. The embargo, now being lifted, will be removed entirely by 1978.

McAfee claimed that sharp rises in U.S. uranium prices are the result of factors other than the cartel's price-setting activities.

But some members of the subcommittee disputed his contention that the cartel's action had no effect on the U.S. market.

Sorghum-powered generator honored

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — Neither wind nor sun nor earthheated water propels the grand award-winning design for an alternative energy source in a recent national contest.

The winning electricity generator runs on sorghum.

Twenty-eight college teams and one from a Buffalo, N.Y., high school participated in the Student Competitions for Relevant Engineering (SCORE) Inc., which ended Thursday after a one-week run. The top design came from engineering students at Kansas State University who produced a combustion turbine fueled by sorghum, a cereal grass.

Lee McQueen, team leader of the Kansas State contingent, said the device uses ethanol from fermented sorghum as fuel for an internal-combustion engine to drive an electric generator.

He said it was designed for use in the Great Plains where irrigators use center-pivot irrigation.

He said he envisioned a farmer planting sorghum in the far reaches of an irrigation circle and using it to drive a generator for power.

A wind turbine from the University of Oklahoma team won second place overall and first place in wind innovation.

Judging was done on power output, innovation and economic practicality of the designs.

Dawson gets confirmer

A confirmer has been reported in Dawson County in oilfield activity in the area this week.

Vaughn Petroleum Inc., Dallas, will drill the N. 10.B. Vogler as a location south offset to its No. 1 R.F. Brown reopener and lone producer in the Goldcreek (Cisco) field of Dawson County, 10 miles southeast of Lamesa.

Location is 2,074 feet from the south and 1,974 feet from the west lines of 6-34-4n-T&P. Contract depth is 9,100 feet.

The discovery was finalized April 4 for 204 barrels of 42 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 335-1, through a 3-16-inch choke and perforations at 8,914-24 feet.

ATTENTION TEACHERS!!

Registration is now being conducted for a graduate-level seminar being offered through the Education Department at Abilene Christian University under the sponsorship of The Abilene Reporter-News.

Three hours of graduate credit will be offered for this two-week seminar to be held July 11-22.

This special seminar is an outgrowth of a series of workshops The Abilene Reporter-News has been conducting in the Big Country on the use of newspapers as an educational tool. The interest expressed has been far greater than we had anticipated, and a strong desire for such a seminar has been indicated.

A field of about 10 professionals who have been working in some way with the Newspaper in the Classroom program will participate in the instruction for the seminar. The professor of credit will be Dr. Ed Coates of ACU, who has extensive experience in working with group activities.

Since the Reporter-News is underwriting the seminar, the regular tuition rate will be reduced considerably. Total tuition cost for the course will be $75, less than half the normal tuition rate for a three-hour course.

Housing in air-conditioned dormitories on the campus will be available for those who want it. The cost will be only $30 for the two-week period. Meal tickets will also be available.

Don't miss this opportunity to participate in one of the most interesting graduate seminars you will ever experience.

It will be the most enjoyable way you will ever earn three hours of graduate credit, and will be a solid investment in your career as a teacher.

More and more teachers are finding that the newspaper can be one of the most effective teaching tools in their classrooms.

Why don't you get started on the road to effective teaching?

Enrollment in the course will be limited. If you wish to enroll now, return the registration form below with a minimum $25 deposit. If you wish, you may enclose a check or money order for the full amount.

Teachers or graduate students may check with their deans to see how the seminar will fit into their graduate program.

We will send you a brochure explaining the course and providing information on the visiting speakers who will participate. Please don't wait too long to register, because there is a limited number of seats available.

Keep On Going

They were marching down Main Street, and right at the height of the parade the tuba player blew a sour note. A really sour note.

People snickered. Some burst out laughing. But, regardless, they had to hand it to the tuba player. He kept right on blowing, right on going.

Makes you stop and think. Sure, it's natural to laugh at someone else's sour note. But how about our own mistakes? No one can get through life without them — that's sure.

The question is, do you stop or do you keep on trying, keep on going? If you've been in church lately, you'll know the answer to that one.

Hillcrest Baptist hosts concert by Continental Singers, Orchestra

The internationally known Continental Singers and Orchestra will present a live concert of contemporary Christian music on June 30 at the Hillcrest Baptist Church, 22nd and Lancaster at 7:30 p.m. Their two-hour performance includes anthems, spirituals, hymn arrangements and contemporary gospel music. Entitled "A Decade of Musical Praise", this year's program will feature many of the most popular songs performed by Continental Singers during the last 10 years. Another exciting feature will be two medleys of praise and scripture choruses.

Baptist Temple VBS scheduled

"Sing It Out, Jesus Loves You!" is the 1977 Vacation Bible School theme for Baptist Temple Church, Rev. Bill Hatler announced this week.

Selected by audition from thousands of high school- and college-age young people across the nation and around the world, the Continental Singers are highly trained and talented musicians. Consisting of 24 vocalists and a 12-piece orchestra, they are completely equipped with sound and lighting for the staging of their performance.

The Continental Singers have been on tour each summer since 1963. In addition to performing in all fifty of the United States, they have toured throughout Europe, South America, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the Orient, the Caribbean Islands and Canada. During the last two summers they sang to thousands of people in the Communist countries of Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Gospel Road to be shown

The story is old, but the perspective is up-dated and brought into sharp focus by the film "The Gospel Road" to be shown on Sunday, June 19 at Evangel Temple Assembly of God, 2205 Goliad. The showing will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The movie, distributed by World Wide Pictures, was conceived and produced by Johnny Cash and his wife, June Carter Cash, whose desire was to tell the story of Jesus Christ in a realistic and meaningful way.

The film is a unique blend of scripture-based narrative, an abundant supply of specially written songs, and a series of in-depth character portrayals, with Israel itself as the mixing bowl.

You are there, walking beside the Jordan and the Sea of Galilee; you are there, seeing Him in many human situations that establish a practical and personal rapport with every viewer.

Kendrick slates summer pageant

Summer Productions of the Kendrick Religious Pageant "The Life of Christ" began June 16, and will be presented each Thursday and Friday at 9 p.m. through August 12.

The production lasts two hours and portrays the entire "Life of Christ" from the birth through the resurrection. Included with the cast are the sheep for the shepherds in the field; the grey donkey for the Mother Mary; the white donkey for the Triumphant Entry of Jesus; and the camel for the wisemen.

The presentation is non-denominational and the script is taken entirely from the King James version of the Holy Bible.

Location is the Kendrick Amphitheater between Eastland and Cisco, Texas on U.S. Hwy. 80. Admission is $3 with all seats reserved.

On June 23 and 24, special days are designated as Senior Citizen, AARP, AART, and all Senior Organization nights, July 7 and 8 are designated as Home Demonstration Club nights.

All organizations, church groups, and individuals are urged to attend one of these presentations.

To make reservations call 817-629-2732 or write Life of Christ Pageant Route No. 2 Box 45, Cisco, Texas 76437.

Music in the pageant includes a well-known gospel quintet.

RICK HOWARD

Howard due at Assembly of God Church

Richard Howard will be guest speaker at the First Assembly of God Church at 11 a.m. Sunday.

He is assistant professor of Bible and Theology at Bethany Bible College in Santa Cruz, Calif. His publications include in addition to "The Kinonia Principle" a book entitled "The Servant and His Lord."

His occupation preparation has included pastoring, associate pastorates and evangelistic ministry. He began his ministry in 1954 and was ordained in 1961.

He served as "Youth for Christ" director in Memphis from 1959-61.

He also has edited a monthly publication called "Share" and has been heard on the World Literature Crusade, aired by more than 250 stations.

The speaker discusses contemporary Christianity on the local level. He believes that "making it work in a community is where it is at and where he wants to be."

Program set

The First Baptist Church of Ackerly has begun a new ministry. That ministry is a five-minute devotion time from 9:55 p.m. until 10 p.m. on radio station KCOT FM, 104.7 MHz, Lamesa. Don Long, pastor, will be bringing these devotions. The church hopes these messages will be heard by those driving through our part of Texas within a 60- to 70-mile radius of Lamesa.

Housewives, career women attend

Concerns, needs voiced at conference

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — "If you are a woman who is growing older or who is growing up," says the flyer, "you are needed at the Oklahoma Women's Conference" which started Wednesday at Oklahoma State University.

The pamphlet invites housewives or career women, "whether you give the boss coffee or ulcers or you are the boss."

Susan K. Heaton of Oklahoma City, conference coordinator for the Oklahoma International Women's Year Coordinating Committee, said she expects about 1,000 persons for the three-day session. Similar events in other states have drawn crowds of 2,000 and 3,000.

She says "women are being sought to voice their real, everyday needs and their immediate and long-

Birth announced

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Eagle, Big Spring, announce the birth of a son, Aaron Casey, at 9:15 a.m. June 15 in Cowper Clinic and Hospital.

The baby weighed 9 pounds, 10 ounces.

Godparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cowin, Colorado City. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bailey, Loraine. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Eagle, Big Spring.

range concerns, for themselves, for their families and for the people with whom they deal."

The conference was authorized by Congress as part of an International Decade for Women (1975-1985) called by the United Nations to improve the situation of women throughout the world.

Workshop sessions cover such subjects as rape, single parents, teenage pregnancy, crime and the women offender, women in executive and appointive office, the battered wife, divorce and sex-role stereotyping.

About 22 delegates will be elected to represent Oklahoma at the National Women's Conference to be held in Houston, Tex. Nov. 18-21.

The conference here ends Saturday afternoon after an appearance by Gov. David Boren.

MRS. VERNON to be honored

Grand Examiner honored at tea

Mrs. Dorothy Vernon, Grand Examiner, District Two, Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of the Eastern Star, will be honored with a tea Sunday, June 19, from 2:30 - 5 p.m. in the Reddy Room of the Texas Electric Building, 409 Runnels Street.

Mrs. Vernon's home is in Monahans. Many other Grand officers and members from over the state are expected to be in Big Spring for this occasion.

All members and friends are cordially invited.

Teen Needs Help in How to Say 'No'

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl with lots of friends, and my problem is that guys are always hassling me because I don't want to have sex. Some of my girl friends say if I don't do it before I'm 16, I'll wind up being a lesbian. I can't say I'm afraid of getting pregnant because I could get the Pill or I could use some other method. Please give me some reasons that they will listen to. Thank you.

HASSELED

DEAR HASSELED: What's wrong with the truth? Tell them you do not want to get into sex now. And please don't feel that you have to explain or make apologies for your decision. MANY girls your age and older choose NOT to indulge in sex because they feel ill-equipped to handle it emotionally. I say, good for them. The poorest reason for doing something is because you're afraid of what others might think. (P.S. And your friends who say, "If you don't have sex before you're 16, you'll wind up a lesbian" don't know what they're talking about.)

DEAR ABBY: I saw an ad in a New York newspaper that read as follows: "Marijuana cannot be sold through the mails, but 'grass' can. Send $5 for a full quarter-ounce." I sent a $5 bill together with my name and address, and I received in return a quarter-ounce of LAWN CLIPPINGS! This is clearly a fraudulent scheme. How can I get my money back?

"HAD": FIRE ISLAND

DEAR HAD: I think you would be wise to write it off as a "cheap lesson." Don't expect to find an honest dealer in a crooked deal.

DEAR ABBY: Our 14-year-old son is our problem. He has always been a good boy and a good student, but he is an introvert. He has no friends and claims he doesn't want any.

He is sarcastic and arrogant, shows no affection and seems to want none.

He could be very good-looking, but over the years he has gained so much weight he now refuses to weigh himself. He pretends he doesn't care how he looks, and he continues to grow fatter.

We have begged and bribed him, but he doesn't listen. He's an only child, and it's breaking my heart. Please help me.

DETROIT

DEAR DETROIT: An obese child is an unhappy child who is asking for help. He's built a wall of fat around himself to keep others from getting close enough to discover his imperfections (We all have them.) He needs professional help. Start with your family doctor, and don't put it off.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PLEASELY PLUMP AT THE BANK": Your normal weight at age 25 should be your weight for the rest of your life. How does that grab you?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box, No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Bride-elect honored at shower Tuesday

Miss Cynthia Smith, bride-elect of Gary Lawson, was honored at a display bridal shower Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. John Burgess, 615 Bucknell.

The bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. John F. Smith, along with Mrs. C.D. Lawson, grandmother of the prospective bridegroom and his sister, Mrs. Larry Russell were honored guests at the event.

The bride's selected rainbow hues of light blue, green, yellow and pink were used in the decorations.

Guests were registered by Miss Cindy Burgess. The serving table was centered with a floral arrangement entwined around silver candelabra featuring lighted tapers.

Silver and crystal appointments were used to serve fruit punch, petits fours, meat eclairs, and party sandwiches. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Burgess were Mrs. Jerry Avery, Mrs. Harold Canning, Mrs. Russell Hoover, Mrs. Melvin McFall, Mrs. William Martin, Mrs. Delnor Poss, Mrs. Harold Rosson, Mrs. Alvin Shroyer, Mrs. H.W. Smith, Mrs. Herman Smith and Mrs. Don Williams.

Club hosts county homemakers

The Center Point Home Demonstration Club was host to the Howard County Homemakers and guests during a salad luncheon in the Kentwood Community Center Tuesday, June 14. Special guest was Mrs. Jane Thomas. She is the wife of Dr. Clyde Thomas. Invocation was given by Mrs. Joyce Orr. The club will meet again the 2nd Tuesday in June hosted by Mrs. Bob Wren, in the community center. A program called, "Armchair Exercises for the Elderly" will be given. A planned activity of the club, a picnic for patients of the state hospital, will be August 4. The next gathering of the club after the picnic will be the second Tuesday in September.

ANY RESEMBLANCE? — Vikki Moore, left, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Moore, Box 467, Rt. 1, wrote a couple of weeks ago to Amy Carter, right, the daughter of President and Mrs. Jimmy Carter, telling Amy that she collects her pictures and that she felt they looked alike. In her letter, Vikki told Amy she would like to be her friend. Vikki received a postcard recently from Amy which said she was glad to have Vikki as her friend, and that it is fun living in the White House.

McNew family gathers in Lamesa for reunion

The family of the late Mr. and Mrs. William McNew met last Sunday at the Community Center in Forrest Park in Lamesa for their 46th annual family reunion. The family did not meet for two years during World War II. More than 225 family members attended, including several guests. Some four to six generations of families were present. Registration began at 9 a.m. and work on the family's genealogy was continued then. Currently dating back to 1774, the family tree is being compiled by Mrs. Bonnie Bennett and Mrs. Dwight McCann, both of Big Spring. Mrs. Roy (Delia) McNew, Big Spring, 84, was the oldest member of the family in attendance. Mrs. McNew's great-great-great-great niece, Ginger RoseAnn Hare, 4 months old, was the youngest. Ginger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Joe Hare, Big Spring. The family who traveled the greatest distance for the reunion was the Rev. and Mrs. Bob Lowett, Grandview, Washington. Other family members came from Arkansas, Colorado, California, Oregon, Utah, New Mexico, Oklahoma and other areas of Texas and Big Spring. Arrangements for the reunion were made by Mrs. Alice Richards, Lamesa and assisted by Mrs. Dwight McCann, Big Spring. The same officers will be used for next year's reunion which will be the same day as was this year's. Next year the reunion will be extended an additional day.

Dolores Wilkerson

Her name is Dolores Wilkerson. Today marks the first anniversary of her interest in trap shooting. A year ago she joined the Odessa Trap and Skeet Club. She had barely picked up a gun before that time. Last weekend she won the Texas State Handicap Championship at the Texas State Shoot in Amarillo, shooting 100 out of 100 birds and beating 380 other competitors out of the title. There, she also won the Ladies State singles, breaking 187 of 200 birds, and was the "D" class shooter on her zone team, which also won the state championship.

For her efforts, she won two American Trap Association medals, a silver trophy, salad bowl, mugs, knife and fork server and a fancy silver belt buckle proclaiming her the "Texas State Handicap Champion of 1977".

This 25-year-old divorcee competes against a male-dominated field of competitors. Out of the 380 rival shooters in Amarillo last weekend, only 25 of them were women. Her capture of the title was only the second time in the history of the shoot that a woman has accomplished the win. She was also only the second person, male or female, to win the event with a perfect score.

Dolores, who enjoys quail and dove hunting, also dips Skoal.

"Some people give me a hard time about the Skoal," she said. The snuff-dipping has nothing to do with her shooting. She just quit smoking cigarettes some time ago and switched to snuff. Dolores also stated that the men on the tour are very nice to her and don't look down on her just because she is a woman.

She has lived in Howard County all of her life, and went to school at Gail. The gun she uses in competition is a Browning BT-99 12-gauge trap shotgun. She likes it very much.

A friend from Lamesa initially got Dolores interested in trap shooting:

"Four or five of us decided to join (the Odessa Club)," she said. Dolores and her friends, including Sonny Anderson, "who kept telling me I could be good at trap shooting," practiced at the Odessa club and at the non-regulation field on the Andrews highway.

There has been some talk lately of a man obtaining the traps at Webb and starting a local Trap and Skeet Club, but Dolores doesn't know if that will happen, even though she would like to see it eventuate.

A serious trap shooter has to be a member of the ATA "to shoot registered birds". So, Dolores paid her $5 for a year membership, a week ago today. Two weeks ago, she won a lifetime membership (worth $75), which was given away as first prize, for her winning feat (96 of 100) at the Panhandle Championships.

She began as any novice in a sport, getting more practice than rewards. However, in the Odessa Zone II shoot in Odessa in the latter part of April of this year, she began to turn a few heads. She won the handicap preliminaries there and has been at the top of her field since.

Dolores will be in Fayetteville, Ark. this Sunday, competing in the Arkansas State Shoot. "They're giving away a car and three trap guns... maybe I can win," said Dolores, already turning the ignition key in her mind.

Her shooting future will also include the Las Vegas shoot in January and the Spring Grand Shoot in Phoenix. She plans to maintain her participation in the year-round sport.

If she keeps improving, look for Dolores to crop up in the national sports directory. She's a very good shot.

Uh-oh, here comes Finley

NEW YORK (AP) — The voice of Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland A's and self-acclaimed "staunchest enemy" of baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, crackled over the telephone.

"Hello. This is Charles Finley. I own the Oakland A's baseball team. I have something to blast Bowie Kuhn with," he said. He read oratorically from a prepared statement, and, at its conclusion, asked: "Does that lower the boom?"

The long-standing battle between Finley and Bowie

Kuhn, conducted in and out of the courts over the past few years, was in motion again.

Finley was incensed over the trade of pitcher Tom Seaver by the New York Mets to the Cincinnati Reds. Finley, involved in several legal skirmishes with the commissioner, and pledged to more, could not understand why the Seaver deal went through since Kuhn had voided his sale of pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees last year.

"The trade of Tom Seaver ... without a whimper from Bowie Kuhn, confirms his perverted, selective and political use of his office to favor his friends and punish his enemies," Finley said.

Finley, whose sale of Blue to the Yankees and sales of Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi to Boston were voided by Kuhn last summer, told the Associated Press Thursday night: "Kuhn's irresponsible and selective use of his office is a dishonor to the game of baseball, insulting to the millions of baseball fans and a total betrayal to the once-respected office of the commissioner."

Torre survives trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Torre looked along his bench and realized that he wasn't playing with a full deck.

"I told my infielders I would fine them if they got hurt," Torre said kiddingly. "We couldn't afford to lose anybody tonight, we were that short-handed."

In the wake of several blockbuster trades, the New York Mets still were waiting Thursday night for the arrival of backup infielders Doug Flynn and Bobby Valentine.

"I was nervous," said the Mets' manager, "I didn't know if we'd make it through the night."

As it was, the Mets just did make it—by a tenuous 4-3 margin over the Houston Astros. It was all the more significant, since they also lost Bud Harrelson during the game when the shortstop was thrown out after arguing with an umpire.

"I think we've gotten through the worst part," said Torre, whose life has been a breathless merry-go-round since Wednesday night, when the Mets parted with ace pitcher Tom Seaver.

Torre, a close friend of Seaver's, who helped finalize the decision to trade him to Cincinnati, confessed that he had slept little since the controversial trade for four young Cincinnati players.

"It was a good trade for us," said Torre. "We got some youngsters who can help us."

Two of them, pitcher Pat Zachry and outfielder Steve Henderson, will start tonight against the Astros. Flynn, one of those involved in the Seaver trade, and Valentine, acquired in a three-player deal involving Mets slugger Dave Kingman, were to join the team today.

Henderson had his first taste of duty in a Mets uniform Thursday night when he came in as a pinch runner and wound up scoring the tying run during New York's game-winning rally in the seventh inning. But he almost blew his first chance, when Houston reliever Joe Sambito nearly picked him off second.

"I was nervous," said Henderson, who received a huge ovation from the Mets fans when he entered the game, "but that pickoff play really woke me up."

Luckily for the Mets, Henderson made it back to the base. For in the next moment, he was racing home when Houston shortstop Julio Gonzalez made a wild throw on pinch hitter Mike Vail's two-out ground ball. Felix Millan scooted home behind him with the winning run.

Houston had taken a 1-0 lead in the second inning on a double by Joe Ferguson and a single by Art Howe. The Mets tied it on John Milner's seventh home run of the year in the bottom of the second.

Then the Astros took a 3-1 lead in the third on Enos Cabell's run-scoring single and a wild pitch by Nino Espinosa that allowed another run to score.

'We wuz robbed,' sez Met fans

By the Associated Press
For New York Mets baseball fans, June 15, 1977 may go down in history as a day of infamy. For Cincinnati Reds followers, that date may be recorded as the day the team insured its dynasty.

While New Yorkers reacted to the Mets' trading of Tom Seaver to the Reds with outcries of "robbery" and threats to stop supporting the National League East's last-place team, Cincinnatians rejoiced at the prospect of having one of the best pitchers in baseball on their staff.

"This gives us the premier pitcher in baseball," Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said after his club sent pitcher Pat Zachry, the co-Rookie of the Year in 1976, infielder Doug Flynn and minor league outfielders Dan Norman and Steve Henderson to New York for the 32-year-old Seaver.

The two-time defending world champion Reds trailed the Los Angeles Dodgers by seven games in the National League West when the deal was made. Many observers felt the acquisition of Seaver would carry the Reds past

Los Angeles and on to a third straight NL West pennant and the world championship.

The import of the Seaver trade, and the reactions to it, overshadowed a slew of other major league transactions just before the trading deadline.

The Reds were the busiest traders, completing a total of five deals. In addition to the Seaver trade, the Reds sent unsigned, unhappy relief pitcher Rawly Eastwick to St. Louis for left-hander Doug Capilla; dealt Gary Nolan to California for minor league infielder Craig Hendrickson and a player to be named later; purchased the contract of infielder Rick Auerbach from Texas, and traded hurler Mike Caldwell to Milwaukee for a pair of minor leaguers.

Aside from Seaver, some other well-known players changed addresses:

—Outfielder Bake McBride, the NL's 1974 Rookie of the Year, who was sent from St. Louis to Philadelphia for pitcher Tom Underwood and two minor leaguers.

—Slugger Dave Kingman, who the Mets peddled to San Diego for infielder Bobby Valentine and pitcher Paul Siebert.

—Pitcher Ken Brett, who went from the Chicago White Sox to the Angels for pitchers Don Kirkwood and John Verhoeven, a minor leaguer and cash.

Profit in Olympics

PRAGUE (AP) — Who said the Olympic Games were too expensive? Montreal, last year's host city, proved that given existing stadiums and facilities the Games can be run at a handsome profit.

A final report from Montreal to the 79th session of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) showed that the organizing committee had an excess of revenue over costs of $126 million.

All the debt left by the Montreal Games—estimated at between $200 million and $300 million—is borne by the city of Montreal and the province of Quebec, which undertook the building.

That is cheering news for the IOC, which later this year has to choose a city to host the Games of 1984. If the IOC picks a city that has all its facilities in place, the Games can still make a few dollars.

Many IOC members believe the 1984 Games will be in Los Angeles, which has most of the necessary competition sites and enough university buildings to house the athletes.

The U.S. National Olympic Committee has still to confirm Los Angeles as a candidate. Bids for 1984 have to be made to the IOC by Oct. 31 this year.

The Montreal report showed that the organizing committee (COJO) had operating expenses of $140 million, capital costs of $47 million and a loan for the village of $76 million, a total of $263 million.

Its estimated consolidated revenues were $380 million.

The Montreal report spelled out the kinds of problems facing cities that want to host the Olympics.

There were 8,850 athletes and team officials at Montreal. The figure would have been 10,219 if 27 African countries had not staged a last-minute withdrawal as a protest against New Zealand's sports links with South Africa.

A million people visited Montreal for the Games.

The IOC session lasts through Saturday.

Midland nips Amarillo 4-3

A one-run combined pitching effort by Ted Power and reliever Don Standley in a Texas League game held West Division leader El Paso at bay while San Antonio racked up a 6-1 victory Thursday.

Power pitched five scoreless innings until he injured an elbow while hurling the ball in the sixth. El Paso's Ken Landreaux swatted a solo homer off relief pitcher Standley in the ninth. Power is now 5-4 while losing pitcher Bob Lesslie fell to 3-5.

In other Texas League action, Midland edged Amarillo 4-3. Games between Tulsa at Arkansas and Shreveport at Jackson were both postponed due to rain.

Karl Pagel went 3-for-4 with two homers and a single to lead Midland down victory lane. Pagel hit homers in the fourth and the eighth while Tony Pepper had a solo homer in the sixth for Midland.

Collegiates find 'Bird'

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — College baseball has found its answer to The Bird.

Arizona State do-it-all Jamie Allen doesn't talk to the ball like Mark Fidrych of the Detroit Tigers but it seemed that way as he kept the top-rated Sun Devils alive Thursday night in the College World Series by preserving a 6-2 victory over South Carolina.

"I'm not showing off out there," said the enthusiastic Allen, "It's just something that helps me get ready. Most of the time, I'm more subdued. But I really bring it out for big games."

The freshman righthander wiggled out of a bases-loaded jam and pitched three innings of one-hit relief to hand South Carolina its first loss of the series.

He stalked around the mound, jumped up and down after strikes, frequently backed off the mound and taunted batters to get in the box.

"Allen really put on quite a show," said Arizona State Coach Jim Brock. "Coming in and throwing fast balls after Mitch (Dean) had thrown so many breaking pitches kept them off balance."

Southern Illinois staged the biggest comeback of the series and up-ended California State-Los Angeles 9-7 in the night's elimination-round game.

Southern Illinois, 41-11, is matched against top-rated Arizona State, 55-12, in an elimination game Friday night with the survivor facing South Carolina for the series crowd Saturday night.

South Carolina, 43-11-1, received a bye into the finals by beating Southern Illinois 5-4 Wednesday night in a meeting of then series unbeaten.

Although the crowd of 10,193 seemed to delight in Allen's performance, South Carolina Coach June Raines didn't like what he saw.

"I thought Arizona State made a joke of the game with all that stalling and delay tactics," said Raines. "That's not meant as anything against Allen because he pitched very well for them."

"But delaying tactics like that have no place in the College World Series and shouldn't be allowed. Coach Brock was trying to intimidate our players with those tactics."

Brock denied that.

The decisive play came in the seventh inning with Arizona State ahead 5-2.

Johnny Long and Greg Jonson opened the inning with singles and Allen came on to be greeted by a single by Mark Van Bever to load the bases.

But Allen picked Jonson off second base and then struck out the next two hitters. He finished with five strikeouts.

"We have warned our players to watch for that, but in the excitement of the game, Greg got caught," said Raines. "That really hurt. We end up getting nothing out of the inning."

Allen, who started the game as the designated hitter, retired the next six men in order.

A bases-loaded walk and Bob Horner's two-run single gave Arizona State three runs in the fifth inning to break a 2-2 deadlock.

California State-Los Angeles, 42-22, built a 6-0 lead on Southern Illinois but a five-run eighth inning climaxed the Salukis' comeback. Jim Reeves' two-run homer provided the tying and go-ahead runs.

"We came into the game unemotional — we were down," said Southern Illinois Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones, "but when we got five or six runs behind we got mad."

Open provides bottleneck

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — To 69s in pleasant 80-degree weather that featured gusty, tricky winds. Never in Open history had so many players been clustered in first place.

There was a logjam of 10 players at par including the 46-year-old Palmer, who had to qualify to get here and sent his "Army" into a frenzy by holing a wedge for a birdie on his roller coaster round of four birdies and four bogies.

Nicklaus shot 74, Masters champion Tom Watson, looking for the Grand Slam, also flourished to a 74, and Pate suffered an agonizing six on the unforgiving final hole for 72.

"The best thing for a man to do is come to that hole Sunday with a three-shot lead," said Al Geiberger, who bogied it for a 70.

The 449-yard, dog-leg right last hole was strickly X-rated by the 153-man field which fired and fell back in headlong retreat against the monsoon.

Only Molina had a kind word for the hole—a backhanded compliment since he parred it.

The hole averaged 4.9 strokes Thursday with par outnumbered 2-1 by minidasters.

Palmer, using only 29 putts, charged up a large majority of the total crowd of 14,818 with the some of his old magic. He made three putts longer than 15 feet.

Nicklaus, the dreaded giant of the game with 16 major championships, bogeyed two of the first four holes.

Pate played the last hole like a 16-handicapper. He plunked his second shot into the sand, hit the green with a wedge, dubbed a chip and two-putted.

Tommy Bolt, the 59-year-old who won here in 1958 and was given a special exemption, shot a creditable 75. Sam Snead, 64, who has captured more titles than any golfer but always let the Open escape his grip, fired a 74.

There were 53 players within four shots of the lead. The usually-fierce tempered Weiskopf made one of the classiest comebacks of the day. He went double bogey-par-triple bogey then rallied for 71.

Burns, Mexia duo wins Kermit Open

Playing in their first major tournament, Alyssa Burns and Laura Mexia from Big Spring came out on top by winning first place trophies in the 14-year-old girls doubles division in the Kermit Open Tennis Tournament recently.

The duo defeated Gresham and Anderson of Kermit in the semifinals by scores of 6-4, 6-3. The finals pitted Stein and Furman from Odessa against the Big Spring twosome with the local fems proving victorious in a tough split set match 6-4, 1-6, 6-4.

This win is encouraging as Laura and Alyssa will both be freshman next year and should provide strong depth to the girls varsity tennis team. Other wins were registered by Toni Cline in the 16 girls singles division and by Debbie Fulcher in the 14 girls singles division.

Toni and Debbie were both defeated by the eventual first place winners of their respective division. These girls plus 10 other members of the school's summer tennis programs advanced class will next participate in the Midland Highway 80 Tournament.

These students are coached by Deanna Adams and Vicky Murphy.

Sound and fury muffled in NBA

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — One year ago, the National Basketball Association's summer meetings were full of sound and fury, signifying an end to nine years of warfare via merger with the American Basketball Association.

This year the sounds were muffled, no fury was evident and the greatest significance in the developments was their lack of significance.

"I'd like to report that we had some earth-shattering developments at our meetings today, but I just can't say that," NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien told a news conference Thursday, the final day of the NBA Board of Governors meetings which were cut short by one day because of the smooth sailing.

The only potential trouble facing the governors lay in the shaky financial status of the four teams which joined the NBA from the ABA a year ago. The problems facing the Indiana Pacers, for one, were severe enough to foster talk of moving that franchise.

But on the first day of the meetings, the NBA governors adopted a two-point program designed to ease the new teams' financial burdens.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — John Horne of Plainview carded a 69 at the end of the second round Thursday to capture the lead in the 49th West Texas Amateur Golf Championships at Wichita Falls Country Club.

Horne was co-leader with Wichita Falls' Bill Holstead after the opening round Wednesday with 66's. Horne, however, shot his two day total to 135 while Holstead slumped to a 71 and fell two shots off the pace at 137.

Palmer is still 'Mr. Electric'

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — At age 47 and wearing the scars of 24 U.S. Opens, Arnold Palmer can still send electrical sparks flying in a golf gallery.

"Excuse me, excuse me," a silver-haired, grandmotherly woman said, shoving her way to the edge of the 18th green. "I want to see Arnold Palmer."

The broad-shouldered man they once called "The Charger" was hunched, characteristically knock-kneed, over a 15-foot putt. He gave the ball a gentle nudge. It rolled resolutely toward the cup, spun around the high side, appeared to drop and then hung precariously on the lip.

What started out as a wild, ecstatic cheer turned into a thunderous moan.

"They thought I had dropped it—so did I,"

Palmer said afterward, talking about his even par 70—the near 69—which put him among the leaders in the opening round of the 77th Championship.

"It's amazing," an older man in the gallery commented. "There is something about a Palmer cheer that distinguishes it from all other cheers. It's just as if the crowd is holding its breath while Arnie is putting, the lets it all out when the ball goes home."

Asked about it afterward, Palmer, his thinning hair bleached by hours under the sun, his strong face still boyishly impish, remarked: "The complete silence—I've noticed it just before I shoot. It weighs on me. I can feel them pulling for me to make it. It charges me up. I like it."

Palmer remains a phenomenon in the mad world of sports. His is a rare, intangible and inexplicable quality reserved for precious few. The modern word for it is "charisma." In the Roaring Twenties—in Clara Bow's day they called it "It."

You either have "It," or you don't. Greatness isn't the gauge.

Palmer has it, Jack Nicklaus doesn't. Muhammad Ali has it, but not George Foreman. Joe Namath has it. Fran Tarkenton and Roger Staubach don't. It radiated around Joe DiMaggio but not Ted Williams, a superior hitter. Robert Redford has it, but not Rock Hudson.

Jack Dempsey had it, Gene Tunney didn't. Judy Garland had it, a thousand better singers and actresses could never capture it. Babe Ruth, with his beer barrel belly, pipestem legs and reputation for gluttony, captivated the baseball world but the daring, talented Ty Cobb, maybe the best of all time—people kept pulling for him to break a leg sliding into second base.

Real 'Bird' is Jack-ina-box

Watch Mark Fidrych, the Detroit Tigers' eccentric righthander, pitch long enough, listen to him speak long enough, and you'll learn to expect the unexpected.

Thursday night, he needed just 81 pitches to beat Toronto 4-1. That is pretty close to baseball's version of shooting a 59 on a golf course.

Backed by Ron LeFlore's two home runs, he collected his fourth complete game in five starts since returning to duty after spring knee surgery. He had the Tiger Stadium crowd of 26,000 chanting, "We want Bird! We want Bird!" after the game.

One big surprise came when Fidrych said, "I dedicate this game to Vern Ruhle," referring to a pitcher the Tigers hours earlier had optioned to Evansville of the American Association.

The reason? "He taught me how not to get strikeouts," explained "The Bird" after beating the Blue Jays in the Audubon Society Classic.

Not to get strikeouts? We told you never to be surprised.

"In the minors I said I wasn't striking anybody out and he said, 'Why should you? You have eight guys behind you. You're not a strikeout pitcher. Get 'em to hit the ball on the ground.'"

In the other AL games Thursday, the Minnesota Twins beat Nolan Ryan and the California Angels 7-6; the New York Yankees bombed the Kansas City Royals 7-0; the Baltimore Orioles beat the Milwaukee Brewers 6-0; the Chicago White Sox drubbed the Boston Red Sox 7-3, and the Seattle Mariners topped the Oakland A's 3-1.

Fidrych's aura of mystery appears to be contagious. Consider the case of LeFlore, whose birthday made him 25 years old going on 29.

Tom Terrific begins new era

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver headed for Montreal today to join his new teammates, the Cincinnati Reds, and left behind him the end of an era for the New York Mets. From the time he joined the Mets in 1966 until his trade late Wednesday night, Seaver was the cornerstone of the franchise. In 11 seasons, he won 189 games for a team that only occasionally was better than mediocre. He established a barometer of pitching excellence against which all other hurlers were measured. He had mixed emotions as he cleared out his locker at Shea Stadium one last time. "It's happy and sad," he said. "It's all over. It's done. It's sad because you leave memories and people you've worked with for 12 years. Buddy Harrelson ... Jerry Kosman ... Jerry Grote ... people you have love and respect for." When Seaver was asked if he had any last words for Mets fans, he lost his composure. He dropped his chin to his chest and he became glassy-eyed as he tried to formulate an answer to the question. But emotion overcame him and he asked for a break in the locker room news conference. After about 10 minutes, Seaver returned and tried again to answer the question. But he choked up twice. "If I can retain enough composure to talk for about 60 seconds, I'll have it made," he said. But he could not. He managed only a few words. "I've given them a great number of thrills and they've been equally returned ...," he began. But again, emotion took over. Finally, simply unable to speak, he borrowed a reporter's pad and pencil to write a few final words to the fans who had cheered him on during his career and had swamped the Stadium telephone switchboard with calls of protest when rumors of his impending trade spread through the city this week. " ... And the ovation the other night, after passing Sandy Koufax (in career strikeouts) will be one of the most memorable and warm moments in my life."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 18, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Not a good time to become too involved in some confusing condition or a discussion with any other for it could easily become a cause for separation or estrangement. Be careful you do not feel you are being imposed upon.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are resentful toward kin so quietly analyze the situation and do whatever will restore harmony at home. Alleviate those business pressures you are under.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get out of that despondent mood and make this an interesting instead of a dull time. Complete work accurately so you that you do not invite criticism of co-workers.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Financial matters seem hard to handle but will not be if you put new and workable ideas in operation. Try to build up your savings account.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may feel depressed, but that is no reason to take it out on others. Improve conditions about you and soon perk up.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care of irksome tasks, but use practical methods. Don't argue with mate or loved one or you invite trouble best avoided.

VRIGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Friends could be in a poor mood and need cheering up, so do just that and gain their goodwill now. Shop early, then think of entertaining.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may have desires and wishes that are not good for you, so study them well before going after them. Handle credit matters wisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Analyze well every detail of any new enterprise you may have in mind. Make new contacts but accept only the best of these.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Go ahead and make those rightful payments and stop quibbling about them and gain goodwill. Visit friends and relatives.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to use tact in handling problems today or there could be quarrels, hurt feelings. Don't aggravate one who opposes you or you will be the one to get hurt.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) There're obstacles in the path of your work progress, but if you go around them carefully, you get much done. Not a good day to have talks with co-workers as you are apt to get poor results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It's all right to go out for a good time, but don't spend money foolishly. Plan time for some special interest you understand very well.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very conventional and should have education slanted along conservative lines. The field of merchandising is fine here. Teach early to consider the feelings of others and become a more popular, communicating person.

PONCHATOULA, USA — Dr. Charles Gideon (left) chats with Mayor Collins Bonicard outside the old Ponchatoula, La., railroad station that has been converted into a country market for tourists. The little town is famous for its strawberry harvest. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Puts town on map
Gideon blows his horn

PONCHATOULA, La. (AP) — Gideon's trumpet hath been heard throughout the land. Or at least throughout Southern Louisiana. Gideon hath never been what you would call bashful about blowing it.

"I wanted to put our town on the map," Gideon said. "You have to shout a little to do that, stir things up. I'll tell you, while I was doing it I had a ball."

The results are pleasantly evident when you visit Ponchatoula, which, though on the map, is not exactly on the beaten path.

It is on the other side of a lake and the other side of a swamp from New Orleans, about an hour's drive northwest. It is a town of about 4,000, water tower on the edge of town, railroad tracks crossing the main drag. Other towns of this sort all too often in this country have become sad, seedy and forlorn, their juices sucked dry by the whiz-bang cities on the Interstate with shopping malls and bowl-oramas and flag-flapping cars lots.

Ponchatoula is different. Gideon and his trumpet had a lot to do with it. Charles Gideon was mayor of Ponchatoula from 1972 to 1976.

Ponchatoula is a town of tidy homes set back from clean streets and lawns tended with obvious pride. Downtown, every storefront is freshly painted, every turn-of-the-century brick facade scrubbed and in perfect repair. Balconies provide covered sidewalks. The town looks brand new, its charm a century old.

Flowers bloom in every unused patch of dirt and in large pots stationed along the streets. Even the ditches beside the railroad tracks, customary eyesores, are filled and adorned with flower beds.

"We can't compete with the big shopping plazas," the former mayor said. "What I had to do was persuade our people that the big ugly plazas can't compete with us either."

"What we have can't be duplicated, all that fine masonry, the old-fashioned balconies. Work like that isn't done today."

"I started with the worst offender, a big empty building. The bricks were falling off and I told the owner I would condemn it as a hazard. It was torn down. Then I went to one merchant at a time and asked them to freshen up their places. The idea caught on. I started planting flowers and that idea caught on too."

As town judge, a function of the mayor's office, Gideon used means other than mere persuasion to freshen up his town.

"We put in a $50 fine for littering. Other towns do that but don't enforce it. I did. I'd try to nail one or two a week to show we meant business. Instead of fining one fellow for tossing a beer can out of his car window, I sentenced him to five days of picking up trash."

Having made the town a pleasant place to visit, Gideon set about attracting visitors. For starters, he declared Ponchatoula The Strawberry Capital of the World.

"That's what Hammond called it. We took the title from Hammond, just stole it. I had 'Strawberry Capital' and a cluster of strawberries painted on highway signs, all the city trucks, everything that would take paint."

Hammond, the next town north, surrendered. Every year thousands attend Ponchatoula's Strawberry Festival — another Gideon promotion.

Gideon is also justly proud of Ponchatoula's old train station, refurbished and converted into a country market. Townspeople rent booths and sell quilts, jams, anything locally produced.

The market wasn't Gideon's idea, though it developed from the community spirit he engendered, but when the railroad threatened to sell the building to out-of-towners it was a Gideon brainstorm that saved the day.

One night a passing freight train sped through town. Gideon stopped it and gave the engineer a speeding ticket.

"They had to send big-shot lawyers down from Chicago to appear in my court. I told them the town speed limit was 25 miles an hour but that the town council could make the limit for trains any speed it felt was safe — like two miles an hour, or one. They got the message. We kept the building."

One final Gideon triumph: In the middle of Ponchatoula, next to the Country Market, a big alligator basks in a cage. Highway signs proclaim it as the biggest alligator in captivity.

How big is that alligator, Gideon?
"Fourteen feet long."
It looks more like 10 or 11 feet.
"You want to measure it? You measure it."

Great Americans, no Demos

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Republicans will be carving up the Carter Administration Friday along with beef tournaments at the GOP's $125-a-plate fundraiser at the Apparel Mart here.

Besides taking dainty nips at dinner, a host of Republican notables can be expected to verbally tear into the Democratic regime.

The gala affair is being billed as a "Salute to Great Americans" — excluding, of course, Democrats.

Besides U.S. Sen. John Tower, scheduled speakers include former CIA Director George Bush, former Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements Jr., former Under Secretary of Commerce James Baker and Edward Vetter, and former U.S. Ambassador Anne Armstrong.

Republican spokesman Taber Ward said he expects Texas Republican Party boss Ray Hutchison to toss his hat in the ring against Gov. Dolph Briscoe, with several blessings from the podium.

But Hutchison said he did not care to add to speculations about his own gubernatorial aspirations.

"No, I won't even be mentioned," said non-candidate Hutchison, who will be introducing the speakers. "I don't think they will say anything, but if they do, I will accept them (endorsements) of course."

Hutchison played down any suggestion that a sizable slice of the dinner profits would be used to finance a Republican race for governor.

Border agents fight human rights war

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The front-line soldiers in President Carter's war against human rights violators are U.S. Border Patrol agents, said Leonel Castillo, the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) commissioner.

"Our government has spoken out very strongly to the world for our respect and concern for human rights and the dignity of the individual," Castillo, the highest ranking Mexican-American in the Carter Administration told 46 graduates of the U.S. Border Patrol Academy. "In wearing a uniform of the United States government you must be especially careful to reflect that attitude."

"For if our government doesn't demonstrate concern through its actions, then our words are shallow indeed," Castillo continued. "Possibly no other governmental agency has a greater opportunity to demonstrate to the world our concern for human rights that those of us in the immigration service."

Castillo addressed the last graduation class for the Border Patrol Academy in nearby Los Fresnos, Texas. The current Border Patrol Academy class is already underway in Glyco, Ga.

"The decision to move the academy was made about two years ago," Castillo said Thursday in this border city after his 18-minute speech. "The decision was made to locate all the federal law enforcement agencies at one place. It does make it a little tough for us to agents in our on-the-border training."

The 38-year-old former

Learn-to-fly program set

Trans Regional Airlines at Howard County Airport has announced its participation in a special industry-wide flight program called "TakeOff," to be conducted throughout the United States and Canada by the General Aviation Manufacturers Association.

Purpose of TakeOff is to enlighten and motivate more people to learn to fly in general aviation aircraft. TakeOff stresses that pilots of general aviation aircraft can put more fun and adventure into their lives while increasing the productivity of their job or business.

The program also includes a $300,000 TakeOff Sweepstakes to be held over a three-year period beginning Jan. 1, 1977, and concluding Dec. 31, 1979. Each year, two airplanes valued up to $50,000 each will be given away.

All pilots who complete their Private Pilot License during this period will be eligible. No purchase is required. R.E. McClure of Trans Regional, explained. Additional details are available at Trans Regional.

Area cities sent rebates

Big Spring received a check for $90,019.47 Thursday, its share of the $39.3 million sent to 865 Texas cities in city sales tax rebates.

Area cities which received checks were: Coahoma, $2,849.69; Colorado City, $15,228; Lamesa, $42,345.77; and Stanton, $7,772.13.

The latest checks bring to $167.1 million the amount rebated to the cities to date this year, a 15.1 per cent increase over the same period last year.

The city of Houston again received the fattest check, $7.5 million, while Dallas and Fort Worth received $4.8 million and $1.8 million, respectively. Roanoke received the smallest check, $15.79.

Tax reform is sought

Sen. Ray Farabee called on Gov. Dolph Briscoe to include provisions for tax reform in the called session of the Legislature scheduled to start July 11. He stated that tax reform should occur to reduce the property tax for financing public school education, utility tax for consumers of small amounts of energy, increase inheritance tax exemption, and allow for taxation of agricultural land on the basis of its productivity.

Farabee said, "We were fortunate to have a surplus during the past year and I feel that some of this money should be returned to the people in the form of tax relief, specifically in the areas of property tax, inheritance tax and utility taxes. The inheritance tax laws have not been revised for many years. Also, inflation and high utility costs are taking a heavy toll on the taxpayers, especially those who must live on fixed incomes."

Although the Senate passed a measure providing for an expanded Constitutional amendment allowing agricultural land to be taxed on its productive value rather than on its market value, it failed to pass both houses of the Legislature. The mandatory 140-day session adjourned before the House could concur with Senate amendments to inheritance and utility tax relief plans.

In reference to tax reform in his letter to the governor, Sen. Farabee stated, "Because of the uncertainties of agricultural production and prices, the present system is inequitable to farmers and ranchers. I share your goal of making Texas Number 1 in agricultural production, and it is my feeling that the legislation mentioned above would provide a needed incentive to Texas' agricultural producers."

TRAVIS D. SHELTON
Shelton new bar prexy

HOUSTON — Travis D. Shelton of Lubbock became the 97th president of the State Bar of Texas during ceremonies today, at the organization's annual convention here.

Shelton will succeed Gibson Gayle, Jr. of Houston as head of the 28,000 member State Bar.

He is a member of the Lubbock firm of Shelton & Gilkerson. Shelton served as a member of the State Bar Board of Directors during 1965-68 and vice-president of the Bar during 1975-76.

He was a member of the Committee on Revision of Penal Code for seven years and a director of the Criminal Law & Procedure Section of the State Bar.

A native of Tahoka, Shelton completed his undergraduate work at Texas Tech and then served in the U.S. Coast Guard during 1942-46. He received an LL.B. from the University of Texas School of Law in 1949.

Shelton served as district attorney of the 72nd Judicial District during 1951-57. He also was assistant county attorney of Lubbock County.

A charter life member of the Texas Bar Foundation, Shelton also is a charter member and director of the Texas Criminal Defense Lawyers Association. He has served as president of the Lubbock County Bar Association and the Lubbock County Lions Club.

During 1960-64, he was a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Ridin' fence

They call it Tarzan

with Marj Carpenter

They call it Tarzan and many people ask why? The 'why' is really very uncomplicated. Back in 1924, Tarzan got its post office and it had to have a name.

The community had seen Lenorah get a post office four years previously and they went over there to mail out their mail.

But they finally were to get their very own post office. Their school, at that time, was called South Plains. So the first name sent in by the late Tamp Lindsey, who was trying to obtain approval for the post office was "South Plains." The word came back that Texas already had a South Plains. They also had a Plains. They had a Big Sandy and many other names appropriate to that area on the edge of Martin County.

Finally, Tamp, in exasperation, picked up a funny paper, glanced down at it and said, "I'll name the thing 'Tarzan'. I'll bet there's not another Tarzan in Texas."

He was right about that. The Post Office approved the name immediately, the area became known as Tarzan.

Many of the people who lived there have heard lots of jokes about it. People would stop at a filling station and quip, "Where's Jane?" or "How's Boy?"

Mrs. Nellie McMorries, who was the postmistress for 20 years, said that her family moved there in 1929. They had an early grocery store — in fact the first grocery store. It was in the southern part of Tarzan across from the Farmers Gin. She lives right across the street from where the original South Plains school was located on land given by her father.

... one of two new in area

Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. M.H. McMorries is now postmistress.

Both Tarzan and Lenorah have new post offices. Lenorah's zip code is 79749 and Tarzan's is 79783. They share the location in the telephone directory under the heading "Lenorah". This isn't too popular in Tarzan but at least they have phones. There is a Taylor's Store. There is a cafe, which is called simply that.

There are a couple of churches and a cotton gin.

Tarzan, Lenorah and that whole section of the county are built on the solid basis of cotton.

If the cotton crop is good, everybody is prosperous. If the cotton crop is poor, everybody is poor. At least nearly everyone thereabout is in the same mood.

If one farmer is in trouble because of illness, the others pitch in and help.

Just west of Tarzan is an old hand plow sitting up on the fence row of one prosperous looking farm. It designates the early days when the newcomers fought that brush and sand storms, plowing with a handplow.

They plowed out a little community. And they called it Tarzan because they couldn't think of anything better to call it.

Like the Lenorahians, the Tarzanites shop wherever they please. And they enjoy each other's company and friendship and don't even mind being kidded about being from Tarzan.

They are good solid cotton farmers out at Tarzan where I have ridden many a fence on treks between Big Spring and Andrews.

Petrofina announces appointments

DALLAS — Appointment of Thomas E. Biggs as onshore exploration manager, Dr. Cole D. Letteney as senior geologist and Dennis M. Buckas senior geophysicist in the onshore division of American Petrofina, was announced here today.

Expansion of American Petrofina's exploration program within the United States. Fina's exploration division is headquartered in Houston.

Biggs was formerly onshore exploration manager for Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, Houston. Prior to moving to Houston in June, 1975, he was senior exploration geologist and later manager of exploration in the engineering and consulting department of Core Laboratories, Inc. in Dallas.

Dr. Letteney formerly was the senior supervising geologist with Core Laboratories, Inc. in Dallas. Buck was geophysicist for Mitchell Energy Corporation in Houston for the past two years. Other experience includes geophysicist for Texas Crude, Inc. and senior geophysicist with Amoco Production Company.

Method doesn't matter

Convict is afraid of dying

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—James Burns, the tattoos a vivid blue on his chalky white arms, motioned toward the cells on death row and said, "A man isn't afraid of the way he is going to die; he is afraid of dying."

Burns snuffed out a cigarette in a piece of battered tin that served as an ash tray and said: "Maybe the injection will be a more peaceful death than the electric chair but it all adds up to the same total. I'm going to give up something I can never have again — my life."

The 24-year-old Burns, a short, stocky man with wide-set eyes and a pleasant smile who answers each question with a "yes, sir" or "no, sir", is facing death for the slaying of a man during a robbery.

If this young man from the West Texas plains of Odessa is executed, it will be by the injection of a lethal fluid rather than the jolt of the electric chair.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe recently signed into law legislation to change the method by which the death penalty is carried out in Texas.

Death by injection becomes effective Sept. 30.

Doyle Boulware, 48, also sits on death row, convicted of killing a Dallas policeman almost four years ago.

Boulware, who has spent more than two decades in prison or reform school, said the general attitude of those on death row concerning the injection is "a simply so-wat. It's no big deal."

"This injection thing is irrelevant. It doesn't make a damn whether they hang you, choke you, or cut your throat. Once you are dead, you are dead."

Boulware's rather handsome face, now etched with wrinkles and creased with a couple of old scars, grew tense and sad when he said, "All the rhetoric on how to carry out a death penalty is rather foolish. If anyone there on the outside of these walls says deep in their heart "damn right, kill those on death row", then they are murderers themselves."

The questions on the minds of death row inmates, Boulware said, center on the procedure of death by injection.

"Will they gag us so we won't cry out? Will they blindfold us so we can't see anything? Will they put up a screen with our arm sticking out?"

"And what kind of a person will be able to administer the injection. This person will be in contact with the man sentenced to death. Someone must stick that needle in. That makes it a physical thing. They must touch you to kill you. Can you picture a man who is responsible for the injection? I can't," Boulware said.

The new law gives Jim Estelle, director of the Texas Department of Corrections (TDC), the option of designating an executioner or handing the task personally.

Gail Monroe, a department spokesman, said, "Mr. Estelle felt like it was his obligation to act as executioner under the old death law and I think it will probably be the same with the injection."

The Rev. Clyde Johnston, Protestant chaplain at the TDC, has witnessed 14 executions in the electric chair.

Of death by injection, he said, "I would like to see this carried out in a nice clean room, something that doesn't look like a prison. Certainly not the death cell. I can conceive of how this could be handled in such a way that it could be gentle, humane if done with care. I hesitate to use the word pleasant, but it would be just like someone going in, laying down and going to sleep."

John Duncan, executive director of the Texas Coalition Against the Death Penalty, said the new law is a "cop-out. A way to ease the conscience of the executioners (the state)."
