

Camp killing suspect sighted, search on

LOCUST GROVE, Okla. (AP) — A 250-man posse fanned out over the rugged countryside today in the search for the man suspected of killing three Girl Scouts at a summer camp.

The searchers found a recently discarded brown fatigue jacket and T-shirt this morning, but there is no immediate link between the clothing and a man who was spotted Thursday running from a cave with a gun in each hand.

Local authorities were joined by state police sharpshooters, off-duty policemen from Tulsa and other towns, and 150 civilian volunteers.

When the search resumed at daybreak, the posse started sweeping a 10-square-mile area around Skunk Mountain, just three miles from the camp where the three girls were dragged from their tent, sexually molested and killed June 13.

"Watch those trees," Mayes County Sheriff Glen "Pete" Weaver told the searchers when they gathered at 6 a.m. "He will damn sure climb a tree and let you walk under him."

By midday, the search area was enlarged as fears mounted that the man might have slipped out of the area during the night through the woods and dense underbrush.

State Bureau of Investigation agents took plaster casts of foot prints found on a ridge ahead of the line of searchers.

Lt. Kenneth Van Hoy, state police public information officer, said one of the tracking dogs returned with wounds which could have been inflicted by someone wielding a branch or small club. There was speculation the dog might have found his quarry and been beaten away.

For more than a week, men and dogs had tried without success to pick up the trail of the person who killed the scouts. On Thursday, authorities announced they had a suspect — a convicted rapist who is still at large after fleeing from the county jail four years ago.

About the same time the three murder charges were filed against the 33-year-old fugitive, Gene Leroy Hart, a farmer reported seeing a man carrying two guns run out of cave and into a field.

Weaver said the weapons could have been a 20-gauge shotgun and a 22-caliber rifle taken from a farmhouse a few days ago.

Later Thursday, the searchers caught two glimpses of a running man, but their bloodhounds lost the track.

Supreme Court says

Funds for parochial schools okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today gave states broad new authority to spend tax dollars in providing aid to parochial school pupils.

The court, in a series of opinions that broke no new constitutional ground, said states can spend money for textbooks and certain educational services but cannot finance field trips or lend parochial schools equipment such as maps and audio-visual aids.

The decision, although only a partial defeat for Ohio residents who challenged a state law allowing expenditures for all such aid, is a significant departure from recent Supreme Court rulings on the Constitution's requirement of separation of church and state.

Legislation passed by the Ohio Legislature in 1975 "lends" up to $8 million worth of materials and services over the next two years to students in private schools, most of them run by religious organizations.

The decision seems to give states a limited way to circumvent the Supreme Court's past decisions outlawing the use of taxpayer dollars for most forms of aid to private schools.

Specifically, the court approved these forms of state aid to parochial students: —Diagnostic speech and hearing services conducted on parochial school grounds.

—Therapeutic, guidance and remedial services at sites lacking the "pervasively sectarian atmosphere of the church-related schools."

A majority of six justices ruled that textbook loans and academic testing are allowed by the Constitution. Justices William J. Brennan, Thurgood Marshall and John Paul Stevens dissented.

Abilene man may offer for seat

An Abilene attorney, A.L. (Dusty) Rhodes, has indicated he may offer for the 17th U.S. Congressional post now held by the veteran Omar Burleson of Anson.

Rhodes plans to visit in Big Spring Monday to talk with local media. Burleson has been in Congress for 33 years and has not indicated his future political plans. According to Walter Grubbs, manager of his district office in Abilene, Burleson "has made no plans except to run again." The 17th District embraces 31 counties, including Howard.

Rhodes told the Herald via telephone Thursday that he had not yet filed for the position but was strongly considering it. It would be the first political race for the 45-year-old lawyer, although he has been active in Democratic Party politics in the past. He was keynote speaker for the Taylor County Democratic convention last year.

"My business requires me to travel in much of the 17th District, and many people tell me they think it is time for a change," Rhodes told a Herald newsman. "I see a great need for leadership and activity in Congress for our district."

Rhodes added that, should he decide to get into the race, he would have to file a notice of intent with the Federal Election Commission and the Texas Secretary of State.

Rhodes is a partner in the Abilene law firm of Rhodes, Doscher, Chalk and Heatherly, which headquarters in the Citizens National Bank building

A native of Hugo, Okla., he has resided in Abilene for the past 23 years. He moved there to enroll at ACC (now Abilene Christian University), graduating from that school in 1957. At one time, he served as vice president of the Young Democrats of Texas.

Following his graduation from the University of Texas Law school in 1960, Rhodes set up a law practice in Abilene. He now doubles as chairman of the board of Gibson Products of Duncanville and of Hale Farm Supplies Inc., Haskell.

He is also a bank director, the president of two oil companies and maintains farming and ranching interests in Texas and Oklahoma.

He and his wife, Nancy, have four children. He serves the Highland Church of Christ in Abilene as a deacon.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: It depends

Q: Since five schools are to be closed, will school taxes be lowered?

A: The answer, according to business superintendent Don Crockett, will have to depend on Gov. Briscoe's action in July when the new school fund bill is created. Crockett said he could not guess further than that. The district, however, has had a deficit budget last year and faces another this year despite the closing of the campuses. It seems unlikely that, not having enough money, they would ask for less.

Offbeat: High truster happier

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — People who trust others are usually happier and more honest, says a University of Connecticut psychology professor. "The high truster is less likely to be unhappy, conflicted, or maladjusted. He is liked more and sought out as a friend more often," says Julian Rotter, who has compiled the results of 14 years of research on trust and gullibility.

On the other hand, as a group, people who do not tend to trust others show a greater tendency to shoplifting and cheating as well as an uncomfortable feeling that other people don't trust them, he says. Although quick to point out the merits of trust, Rotter admits that many of the UConn experiments involved deliberate deception of test subjects, usually psychology students. "Yes, it is hard to study trust without using deception."

Congressman won't pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Missouri congressman says his Maryland home has been burglarized three times, the state government is "corrupt to the core" and he'll go to the highest court to keep from paying any income taxes there.

Even if living in Maryland was all it should be, Rep. Richard Ichord says he won't fork over state income tax money because he earns his $57,500 salary in the District of Columbia, not Maryland.

But state tax collectors are threatening court action unless Ichord agrees to pay up.

In an exchange of written barbs with the Maryland comptroller's office, Ichord has acknowledged that he has not filed tax return statements to Annapolis for the years 1972 through 1975.

"I have not earned one dime in Maryland," he blustered. "And as a matter of principle, I will not pay one dime of taxes in Maryland until the highest court decides that I must pay such taxes if any are owing in excess of my Missouri income taxes."

Victim's father reacts angrily over verdict

PLAINS — Twelve Plains jurors have decided that Richard Lopez, 17, is not competent to stand trial, a decision that brought an angry reaction from M.O. Tripp of Richland Springs.

Mr. Tripp was the father of Malcolm Omar Tripp, Whitharral High School principal, who was slain by young Lopez on the steps of the Whitharral school building.

The father of the victim, upon hearing the verdict, rose to scold the jury by saying:

"If we've got justice in the United States, I'm a pink elephant . . .

"If that's justice, I hope God strikes me dead and I never take another step. I know all you can do is just follow the law, but you and I know that they will just turn him loose . . . We've got a sickness in our society when a damn kid can walk up to a principal who is just trying to do his job, shoot him twice in the back and then get a free ride."

M.C. Ledbetter, presiding judge in 121st District Court, ordered Lopez committed to the maximum security ward of the Rusk State Hospital and said the jury's decision did not mean the defendant would be turned loose.

The legal rounds of Lopez's case had been moved here on a change of venue from Hockley County.

During the competency hearing, a forensic psychiatrist, Dr. James S. Kreimeyer (formerly of Big Spring), testified Lopez was enamoured of voodoo and black magic and had told him "spirits" said he should kill someone "or be harmed myself."

Kreimeyer described Lopez an only child, as an "acute paranoid schizophrenic" who has delusions. Kreimeyer also said that if Lopez was forced to face trial would be unable to assist his lawyer in his defense. The jury was composed of six men and as many women.

The shooting occurred last April 7. Tripp had gone outside to find out why Lopez was not in class.

Coahoma short a councilman

COAHOMA — The City council has still not approved a replacement for Curtis Smith, who resigned for personal and business reasons last month.

During Thursday night's meeting, no business was transacted after Cliff Harrison became ill and left the meeting. The council did not feel like there were enough left to make decisions.

They were in the process of discussing the fire contract with the county. It appeared to be the consensus of the council that there had been a lot of misunderstanding between the county and the Coahoma Fire Department.

Ernest Richters plans to bring up the matter at the Howard County Commissioners meeting Monday. He will also represent the city in a request to the county commissioners for help in taking 110 lots off the deficit list and getting them back on the tax roll through a public auction.

The Coahoma School District has agreed to help with this project. The Howard County Water District and Howard College have agreed to help if the county joins in the venture.

A discussion of the police department was not held Thursday, with the meeting adjourned early. Present were Mayor Joe Swinney, Pete Banks and Richters.

In rodeo's second show

New leaders take charge

By BOB BURTON

The cloud-filled sky saw a fair turnout for the second night of the Big Spring rodeo, and the crowd got all the action, excitement, and entertainment it wanted before the show ended at 11 p.m.

The arena filled with horses for the Grand Entry, paced by the Howard County Sheriff's Posse and a color guard which featured Big Spring's Wanda Driver.

In the bareback bronc riding, no one caught the leading tally of 75, but Big Spring's Jack Himes, the Inter-collegiate Rodeo champion, showed the oldsters how it's done with a 73 ride for second. He was followed by T.J. Walter of Eastland who posted a 70.

Officials introduced at the beginning of the show were Charlie Creighton, charter member of the rodeo board; Toots Mansfield, rodeo director and seven-time world roping champion; and Tommy Steiner, rodeo producer.

In the calf roping, Pow Carter showed his stuff with a competitive run of 9.2. That was the best, but Sylvester Mayfield of Clovis, N.M., would have posted an 8 flat had he not broken the barrier.

Quail Dobbs and David Burnham were the rodeo clowns, providing the fun and fireworks for the crowd. Quail found an "Oklahoma flea" at one point during the show. He told announcer Tom Hadley it couldn't be a Texas flea because it wasn't big enough.

Saddle bronc riding saw several new leaders jump ahead of David Merrill's 63. Jess Knight, a Dakota man now from Justiceburg, first posted a 68 on Dusty Duck, only to have Paul Mayo steal the thunder with a 73 ride. Big Spring's John Hillman was fouled by Trouble Maker at the gate and was awarded a ride.

The performing star Thursday was Dotts, the songbird from Seguin. She and her band rolled into the arena on a flatbed trailer and she entertained the crowd with such favorites as "Crazy Arms" and "I'll Be Your San Antonio Rose". She performed in the Fairbarns immediately after that.

The barrel race was tight all the way as entrants tried to beat the 17.94 best time. The last contestant, Donna

Saul, Ft. Stockton, ran the route in 17.86 to snatch the lead. Local girls Nancy Anderson, Colorado City, and Wanda Driver, Big Spring, gave it their all. Nancy posted an 18.30 and Wanda knocked over one barrel to take a 23.73.

In the calf dressing, teams from Webb AFB tried to slip the dainty panties over the delicate calves they were after. The winning team was the Field Maintenance Squadron, with Group in second. Sgt. James Rankin, MASH team entry, was injured slightly in the meleé, but is reportedly back at work today.

In the bull riding, it was definitely a victory of muscle over nerve as the bulls came away with a 6-1 record. The only burr to stick tight enough was Charles Atchison, Big Spring, who posted a 66, not enough to top the 78 ride garnered opening night.

Steer wrestling had four tied with 4.6 times before Tutt Garnett, Portales, N.M. threw down his bovine in 4.3 for the lead. Steve Fryar, Lomax, had a very respectable 4.8 time recorded.

In team roping, the problems of the Wednesday crew were repeated as the cowboys chased the respectable 9.1 time set later in the evening. Only two teams managed to post times, with the team of Blandford and Garrett gathering an 11.9. The Lamesa team of Wayne Howard and Gary Jones got a no time.

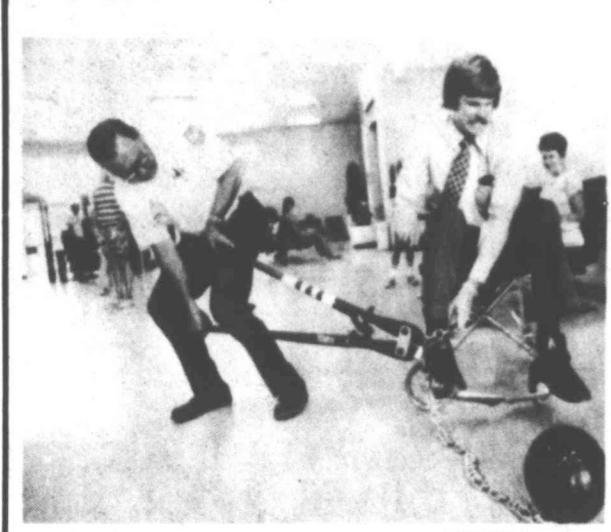

Tonight's highlights feature more of the same cowboy action, with Fiddlin' Fenchy Burke as the musical attraction. Friday is the next to last night of the rodeo, and a good crowd is expected.

Fire suit filed

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The widow of singer John Davidson's music director, who was one of the 162 persons killed in the fire that destroyed the Beverly Hills Supper Club, has filed a $14 million damage suit against owners and operators of the nightclub.

The suit filed Thursday brought the total to $95 million in suits following the May 28 fire. All the suits name the owners and operators of the club in Southgate, Ky.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court on behalf of Marguerite H. Herro, 24, widow of Douglas George Herro, 27, of Canoga Park, Calif.

The suit alleges negligence and carelessness in design, operation and inspection of the nightclub.

Davidson, 36, credited Herro with getting him out of the fire just before show time. He said Herro, who also conducted the orchestra during Davidson's performances, was killed when he rushed back to save others trapped in the fire.

No news yet on HEW's reaction to BS plan

The Big Spring school board of trustees met in executive session Thursday with its attorney, Richard Milstead, to discuss the status of their desegregation program.

Indications are that the program may not be accepted by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and that some modification of the plan may be required.

But, stresses Superintendent Lynn Hise, "We have received no official word either way from HEW."

The board plan, which was designed to meet financial pressures from dropping enrollment and to regain lost federal funds by complying with federal levels of desegregation, called for the closing of five neighborhood school campuses next year. The plan intended to leave a neighborhood concept in the elementary levels, but has run afoul of the 66 per cent maximum minority level. Bauer Elementary School, after the plan is put into effect, will have more than the acceptable level.

elementary levels, but has run afoul of the 66 per cent maximum minority level. Bauer Elementary School, after the plan is put into effect, will have more than the acceptable level.

According to the motion passed by the board, if the present plan is not passed by HEW, an amendment proposed by board member Jim Bill Little states that the campuses will still be closed, but that no busing aimed at any kind of racial balance will be attempted until that program is approved by HEW.

In their other issue, Hise said the board had received no official notification of any protest filed by Coach James Griffin. Griffin had said he intended to appeal the non-renewal of his contract to the Texas Education Agency, alleging discrimination as the cause of his not being retained for the 1977 school year.

Crooks don't have a chance in Mooreville

MOOREVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Two Alabama men were charged with burglary Thursday night after a high-speed chase through Mooreville which involved the victim, police units and helicopters and about half of the town's 150 citizens.

Ronny G. Clernons, 19, and Stephen M. Hardman, 24, were held in the Falls County Jail at Marlin in lieu of $5,000 bail each. Both were arraigned on the charge of burglary.

The home involved was that of Steve Childre of Mooreville. When he returned home from work at about 2 p.m. he noticed a strange car in his yard. Clernons got in the car and took off, and Childre jumped in his own car and followed him.

Childre requested help on his citizens' band radio and got it — from about 30 policemen, two police helicopters and 75 Mooreville residents. The chase went through Mooreville at speeds exceeding 100 miles per hour and then north to Eddy, back to Mooreville, out Texas 77 and finally to U.S. 77.

Weatherford man new NAPUS prexy

AMARILLO — Postmasters representing every area of Texas met in Amarillo June 19-21 for the annual National Association of Postmasters of the United States state convention.

Presiding was Frank Hardesty, Big Spring postmaster. He was one of 346 who registered.

More than 1200 of the 1500-plus postmasters in Texas are members of NAPUS. Nationally, more than 27,000 of the 30,000 PM's are NAPUS members.

C.T. Davis, J. Amarillo postmaster was the host PM; while R.V. Welch, postmaster from Lufkin, and Nolan Grady, postmaster of Hereford, were convention coordinator and technician, respectively.

Headline speaker for the convention was John Goodman of O'Fallon, Ill., president of NAPUS nationally.

The two candidates seeking to succeed Postmaster Goodman, James Omachinski, of Menasha, WI and Joyce Turney, of South Pasadena, CA also appeared before the Convention — seeking this state's support.

Texas NAPUS Officers elected for the year beginning July 1 were Weatherford postmaster, Willard Thomas, president; postmaster George W. Haney, of Comfort, president-elect; postmaster Mary Mindrup of Grand Prairie, first vice-president; and Postmaster Cecil Stripling, of Dale, second vice-president.

Other officers elected included: Postmaster William Brooks of Sterling City, secretary-treasurer; and Postmaster Bill Kennedy of Woodsboro, editor. Postmaster, Ed Jendrusch, Jr., of Falls City, was elected regional vice-president, representing Texas and Louisiana. Claud Erwin, postmaster of Rockspings, was recognized for his three-year election to the prestigious NAPUS Credit Union board of directors.

Area postmasters attending, in addition to Hardesty, included, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Engel, Coahoma, and Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks, Sterling City.

Engel served as sergeant at arms and Brooks as parliamentarian. Mrs. Brooks served as chairman of the decorating committee for the grand banquet, and Mrs. Engel was chairman of the president's reception committee.

Dennison quits job

STANTON — A fourth coach submitted his resignation Wednesday shortly before the called meeting of the Stanton Independent School District board of trustees.

Robert Dennison, who coached boys' track and girls' junior varsity basketball, submitted his resignation to go into private business.

This resignation was approved along with that of a junior high coach Gary Krejci, who is going to Miles as head basketball and football coach.

At the same meeting, Larry D. Helton, 30 a Big Spring native, was hired as head basketball coach at Stanton High. He has been assistant football coach and junior varsity basketball at Searcy for the past two years.

Mrs. Dorothy Stephens, who taught in the Big Spring system this year, was hired as a high school English teacher.

The board accepted the resignations of the two coaches and of Mrs. Edna King, high school home economics. Two other coaches resigned earlier. Early summer is traditionally the time that most coaches accept new assignments.

Senate holds hope of ban reversal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Democratic leaders in the House of Representatives are looking to the Senate to overturn House-passed bans against U.S. aid or trade with Cuba and against indirect aid to six other nations.

The legislative defeats for Carter came Thursday as the House passed a $6.7-billion foreign aid appropriations measure, trimmed before final approval by $173 million.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill accused Republicans of "pure demagoguery" after the House voted to ban even indirect aid to Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, Uganda, Angola and Mozambique, as well as taking steps to block trade with Cuba.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the House action, "if sustained will damage the ability of this country to pursue our national interests by peaceful means."

Powell did not threaten a presidential veto of the bill, but said passage of the aid ban by Congress "could lead to politicalization of traditionally nonpolitical institutions" and invite "other countries to take similar actions and attach political conditions to their contributions."

The bill, approved 208-174, was sent to the Senate.

In other areas, the House rejected an effort to cut Carter's U.S. aid request for South Korea and gave him a clearcut victory by reversing a committee decision to cut aid for Nicaragua.

A group of Republicans whooped for joy as the House approved their $373 million cut at the last minute. They traditionally try to cut almost every money bill the House considers and this was their first win in several years.

Rejecting an appeal from Carter, the House voted to prohibit U.S. aid or trade with six nations even in the form of assistance from international banks to which the United States contributes.

It went further with Cuba and voted 274-112 to prohibit both aid and trade with that country, either directly or indirectly.

Carter had urged the House in a letter not to take those actions, saying the indirect aid bans might jeopardize further U.S. participation in the banks which pool funds from the wealthy nations and distribute economic aid to underdeveloped countries.

O'Neill, accusing Republicans of trying to tie Carter's hands on foreign policy, predicted the Senate would reject the restraints on international banks' use of U.S. money and that the House vote eventually would be reversed.

The House has voted once before to prohibit aid or trade with Cuba, but the Senate has voted only to urge tough negotiations before U.S.-Cuban relations are normalized.

Israel won't give up

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin says his new Israeli government will not give up all of the West Bank or allow a Palestinian state there.

But Syrian President Hafez Assad says the Arabs will not give up an inch of Arab land now occupied by Israel.

Assad's statement was made recently to Egyptian reporters and carried by the Middle East News Agency today in the wake of Begin's speech Thursday.

Begin, the 63-year-old leader of the rightist Likud party, told the World Zionist Congress in Tel Aviv that returning all warren lands would put "every city and home in Israel" in Arab artillery sights.

Assad said time and world opinion was on the Arabs' side and they would wage 100 wars against Israel if necessary.

Grand jury to get case

Domingo Rios, driver of the car involved in the fatal crash which left Maurine Ringener dead May 14, has been bound over to a grand jury.

Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena today ruled there was probable cause to show that Rios was guilty of a criminal offense. He was charged with involuntary manslaughter after the accident. The charges were filed in Ochotorena's office.

District Attorney Rick Hamby introduced four witnesses at the examining trial today. James Ringener, Mrs. Ringener's widow, and a waitress at Terry's Drive-in who witnessed the accident testified to the speed with which Rios' car came over the hill on 4th Street there.

Joe Cervantes, who was riding with Rios when the accident occurred, testified that Rios was driving.

Bill Jennings, Highway Patrolman, testified that he administered a breathalyzer to Rios and that the results were 0.18, above the .10 intoxication mark.

Defense Attorney Patrick Aveyta requested that the criminal charges be dismissed because the state had not adequately established the defendant's intoxication.

District Attorney Hamby said, "We've got him drunk, we've got him behind the wheel, and we've got him speeding." Ochotorena told the defendant that his bond would remain at $15,000.

Police beat Woman short in payoff

An unknown woman found an illegal solution for getting around the high price of prescription drugs Thursday.

She drove up to the prescription window at Gibson's at around 11:30 a.m., received $35 worth of drugs, and medication, handed the clerk a wad of $1 bills, and drove off rapidly.

On counting the money, the clerk discovered the woman was $15 short, but by then the unknown thief was long gone.

According to reports, the woman had called an hour before about the price of the prescription.

A local man was arrested at 12:11 a.m. today after being involved in a motor vehicle accident with Police Officer Tony Lujan.

The accident occurred at the 800 block of Goliad. Officer Lujan, who was driving an unmarked police car, sustained minor injuries and was taken to Hall Bennett Hospital where he was treated and released.

The driver of the other car attempted to flee the scene but was arrested later for failure to stop and render aid, a felony.

Damage to the patrol car was considerable. M.B. Howell 1009 E. 13th, reported the theft of his lawn mower from his garage, sometime between noon on Tuesday and 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

garage was not locked, and the mower is worth $119. Mountain View Rest Home, 2009 Virginia, reported the theft of a small color television sometime June 12 or June 13.

According to reports the T.V. was worth $200. Several items of the burglary of Shelton Castle, 1209 Mesa, on March 14, 1977, were retrieved from a pawn shop in Odessa Thursday.

Among those things recovered were a 25-inch color TV set, an electric guitar, and some stereo equipment.

Police have two suspects of the burglary, who should be in custody shortly.

There were several minor accidents Thursday and early today.

Cars driven by Robert B.

Bright, 607 Goliad, and Officer Tony Lujan, collided on the 800 block of Goliad at 12:11 a.m. today.

At 9:11 p.m. Thursday, cars driven by Jim D. Cordes, 1300 Ridge, and Martin C. Harris, 1605 Cardinal, collided at Parkway and Wasson.

Cars driven by Roger King Orr, Midland, and Danny Albert Rogers, Midland, collided at 4:04 p.m. Thursday at IS 20 and Refinery Rd.

At 5:45 p.m. Thursday, cars driven by Mary M. Hutto, 704 E. 15th, and Kevin J. Patterson, 1901 S. Scurry, collided at 704 E. 15th.

Cars driven by Robert G. Aldridge, 407 E. 7th, and Don Shelburne, Coahoma, collided at 4:40 p.m. Thursday on the 200 block of Rannels.

Lawyers examine sex lives

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Justice Department lawyers are in the touchy business of deciding when an employee's sex life heaps disgrace on the department. They say they're somewhat uncomfortable with the chore because they're not fond of poking around in the private lives of some of their fellow workers. The four lawyers are in the department's Office of Professional Responsibility, substantiated. In an interview, Shaheen declined to elaborate on details of the accusations or to identify those involved. The office was designed to deal with such serious misconduct as violations of citizens' rights, harassment of witnesses and misuse of government money.

The accusations flowed in by the dozens, and seven of them turned out to involve "personal morals offenses" as Shaheen delicately put it in his recent annual report to the attorney general.

These complaints raised "some of the more troublesome questions we encountered this year," he wrote. "Recognizing that department attorneys must adhere to the strictest standards of professional integrity and competence, the office nevertheless agonized over what standards to apply to matters involving aberrant sexual conduct. This question is made more difficult when the conduct is relatively private."

The report said three of the allegations were found to be true and "led to admonishment for the attorneys involved." One case is still open. Accusations in the other cases were not

All-color film program slated

A free all color film program for children will be sponsored by Howard County Library Saturday beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Featured this week are five films... "Drummer Hoff", "Swimmy", "The Steadfast Tin Soldier", "Orphan Lions", and "The Stone Cutter". "Drummer Hoff" is a folk verse about the building of a cannon. Brightly dressed in full uniform, each soldier brings a part of the remarkable machine. "The Stone Cutter" tells a story about Tasaku, a stonemason happy with his simple life. One day he saw royalty pass by and he was no longer satisfied. The ancient Japanese fable of envy and greed is vivified with award winning graphics.

The underwater world of caverns, luminous fish and flowers that open at a touch. "The Steadfast Tin Soldier" is a film presentation of Hans Christian Anderson's beloved tale of the tin soldier come to life. "The Orphan Lions" is the courageous decision of Joy and George Adamson to return Elsa, the lion who had learned to return their love and trust, to a life of self-sufficiency, was told in the book "Born Free". This film is a specially edited version of the sequel to that book and film.

Radio 'hams' busy during exercise

Disaster struck Big Spring Thursday afternoon as a tornado knocked out electric power and normal communication.

Amateur radio operators (hams) were there to provide emergency communications to the outside world so that needed medical supplies could get through. The "hams" also provided hundreds of people with messages regarding the health and welfare of relatives and friends in the afflicted areas.

The disaster didn't really happen, but the "hams" are to be out practicing their skills under emergency conditions so that they will be better prepared to serve Big Spring and the surrounding areas if they are ever needed.

Rex Kennedy, president and spokesman for the hams, explained that the practice session (called a "Field Day" by the Hams) is a time for "operation independent of commercial power and telephone line".

The group pitches tents, erects antennas and starts gasoline driven generators for the 24-hour ordeal designed to perfect operating skills, which are absolutely necessary when normal channels of communications are out.

This is the 41st Field Day sponsored by the American Radio Relay League, the national membership organization of ham radio operators. Kennedy noted that practice such as this combined with the training needed to pass FCC exams mean that "hams" can get the messages through when all else fails.

For more information about amateur radio and how it differs from CB, contact Rex Kennedy at 263-2787 or write Amateur Radio, Newington, CT 06111.

Field Day begins at 12 noon Saturday, June 25, and runs until 12 noon Sunday, June 26. The public is invited to stop and visit the group on top of Senic Mountain.

BXes at Webb in phase down

The Base Exchange stores AT Webb AFB have announced phase down, phase out and consolidation plans, according to Safi Syed, manager.

Sales and use of such services as the cafeteria will determine when they will close.

First to go will be the Four Seasons store, which will be shuttered Aug. 1. Essential hardware and household items will be moved to the main store and no more toys or lawn care tools will be offered.

Clothing sales will move into the main store early in August. By Sept. 1, all stores will be consolidated and a small BX will be operated through Dec. 31. Site of that store has not yet been determined.

Beginning July 1, the base theater will operate from Wednesday through Saturday evenings. No Saturday matinees will be scheduled. The service station will no longer provide car repairs and parts after Sept. 1. The station will continue to sell gas and oil indefinitely, however.

The NCO Open Mess will close July 1. The present Officers' Mess will host the combined clubs, after that.

Old settlers meet July 9. STANTON — Martin County's Old Settlers Reunion will be held for the 45th time July 9.

The reunion is traditionally held on the second Saturday in July with a parade and game events. The Jaycees now sponsor games, a window-decorating contest for merchants and other activities.

The parade will be at 10 a.m. Afternoon activities will include an open house at the Stanton View Manor Nursing Home. There will also be a display of china painting downtown and other activities. The barbecue and annual meeting will be held in the city park July 9 at 6 p.m.

Tropical moisture ups flood chances

By the Associated Press. Tropical moisture streaming northward from the Gulf of Mexico was expected to usher showers and thundershowers today.

Satellite pictures that showed the flow of moisture shifted eastward during the night prompted the weather service to issue a flash flood watch for all of South Texas even before the showers reached the coast.

WEST TEXAS. Scattered showers and thundershowers over most sections tonight. Thundershowers possibly locally heavy in the east. Partly cloudy and warmer Saturday with widely scattered thundershowers mainly in the east. 80s except upper 90s lowlands of the Big Bend. Lows tonight 60s in the north to the low 70s in the south, except 50s mountains. Highs Saturday mid 80s to the low 90s and near 100 Big Bend.

EXTENDED FORECAST. WEST TEXAS. Continued warm and humid with scattered showers and thundershowers Sunday through Tuesday. Highs mid 80s to mid 90s except near 100 Big Bend valleys.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are forecast today for the Ohio Valley and into the southern half of the Great Plains and scattered sections of the Appalachians, according to the National Weather Service.

Economy excellent at end of May

Big Spring's economy plugs ahead. The town has responded much more positively in the past couple of months than the computer model experts would have thought possible.

While all signs for the month of May did not point upward, those that were off still remained very strong.

THE MOST positive indicators in April and May were building permits, up 170 per cent over April of 1976 and up 266 per cent over May 1976.

While the total military and civilian strength at Webb Air Force Base declined to 2,333 at the end of May (a drop of almost 4 per cent for the month), the number of city water connections actually went up by 17.

The number of electrical connections remained very close to the same for May with residential connections dropping by eight and total connections inside Big Spring declining only by one.

The drawdown at Webb is going into full swing, and the community still has much moving out to face. At the end of May, we continued to have 1,478 families and 39 single personnel living off base.

But real estate companies report that the local market has stayed fairly firm. There continues to be demand by buyers who are moving into the community from everywhere.

REAL ESTATE salesmen tell me that they cannot pinpoint where all the people are coming from, but new ones do seem to keep coming.

If the community is able to attract some industry to the Webb Air Force Base site this fall, and the outlook is very good at this point, then the prospects for the town could be at their brightest in many months.

Certainly, developments thus far can only be interpreted as optimistic.

—J. TOM GRAHAM

Vance vs Kissinger

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The internationalist set is so greatly addicted to cliches, it is incapable of getting out of their way even when loosed on a collision course. It is, for instance, impossible to attend a half-hour's speech at any certified meeting of internationalists in which the theme of interdependence is not struck. I am even surprised that nobody has composed an international anthem to interdependence, to be sung at opening meetings of the UN or wherever. But during the same half-hour we also hear about the doctrine of non-interference, about the sacred right of people to run their own affairs. Last week Secretary of State Vance made this point as emphatically as he has made any declaration since pledging his troth to his spouse: the United States is not going to interfere in any way in the forthcoming European elections.

BUT THE forthcoming European elections are probably going to determine the fate of Europe. And the fate of Europe, not improbably — in an interdependent world — will determine the fate of the United States.

Henry Kissinger will have none of this synthetic detachment, and there are those who rejoice at his reentering the public scene in this mood. The same week that Secretary of State Vance spoke, Henry Kissinger in a speech to the Woodrow Wilson International Center in Washington predicted that executive leverage by the Communists in the nations of Western Europe would have disastrous consequences for the Western alliance.

The speech is wonderfully worthwhile. Mr. Kissinger appears here in his role as the historian-advocate. His long memory turns up declarations of independence from Moscow by European Communist parties dating back a generation. In 1945, the East German Communists solemnly promised that, in power, they would promise that "a parliamentary democratic republic with full democratic rights and liberties." That phrase is a code-word for a Soviet puppet with concentration-camp authority to deal with the dissenters. The head of the French Communist Party, Mr. Georges Marchais, who has an act he will travel to any moderate-sized European city to perform these days, wherein he bumps and grinds his way to the affections of socialist-nationalists, is not afraid to say, as he recently did, that Bulgaria, East Germany, and Poland are countries enjoying a "pluralistic" party system. He has gone President Ford, who listed only Poland as independent, two better.

The fact of it is that the Communists in France — like George Marchais — continue to see themselves in league with great historical forces led by the Soviet Union. The indifference of Marchais and his counterpart in Italy, Berlinguer, to political freedom or human rights in the satellite countries is always the test.

If Marchais and Berlinguer were to suspend their relations with the Soviet Union until the satellite countries were permitted free elections, one might then accept their professions as serious. Until then? I quote Mr. Kissinger: "We are entitled to certain skepticism about the sincerity of declarations of independence which coincide so precisely with electoral self-interest. One need not be a cynic to wonder at the decision of the French Communists to renounce the Soviet concept of dictatorship of the proletariat without a single dissenting vote among 1700 delegates, as they did at their party congress in February, 1976, when all previous party congresses had endorsed the same dictatorship of the proletariat by a similar unanimous vote of 1700 to nothing."

Some thoughts on hyperactive children

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell us more about hyperactive children? What can we do to help? Do you have a booklet on the subject? — Mrs. R.P.

The most important thing I can tell you about this troublesome problem is that proper diagnosis is essential. Often parents are the least able to do that. The symptoms are so varied and appear in such varying degrees that there is no bold dividing line between a "hyperactive" youngster and a merely "active" one. Dr. James H. White of the University of Texas discussed the subject in a recent issue of the American Family Physician magazine.

He says it is estimated that from 5 to 10 per cent of all school age children can be classified as hyperactive. They represent the majority of referrals to child guidance clinics. Drug therapy is a very successful, according to Dr. White, but he advises the minimum dosage for the least time period possible. Drugs merely treat the symptoms and they "don't replace good behavioral management," an important point many parents can miss. Drug therapy should be used only when the hyperactivity seriously interferes with academic or social functioning, Dr. White warns.

There are a host of symptoms of hyperactivity, and diagnosis is made by experts through study of the child's history and background. Dr. White says the schoolroom teacher is still the best source of information in determining if a child is or is not truly hyperactive.

The symptoms? Increased physical activity, distractibility, short attention span, restlessness, impulsiveness, antisocial behavior, and learning difficulties. The hyperactive child can range from bright to borderline, however, so academic achievement isn't a sure indicator.

The matter of diet, particularly of certain food additives, has been discussed here before and is worth investigating with a dietician. However, all the evidence is not in on this controversy, so one shouldn't place too great faith in that approach. You can contact any child guidance center for further details about this important subject.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A few months ago I learned that I have rheumatoid arthritis. I am 25 years old and am often tired to the point of complete physical exhaustion. I find it difficult to do my housework.

My question is about my weight. Two years ago I went down from 182 pounds to 125 with a Weightwatchers diet. Now I have started to gain again and can't seem to lose, although I'm dieting. I can't figure it out. It seems to be a problem associated with my arthritis. Is this part of the disease? — J.M.C.

There's no direct relationship, but the restricted activity imposed by your arthritis is bound to add some pounds. Keep as active as possible. Concentrate on activities you can manage without great difficulties. Your weight should begin to stabilize or decline on a restricted diet.

There is an Arthritis Foundation Chapter near your city. You can get advice on organizing your housework and making specific chores easier. Don't give up. It's important for the arthritic to remain as generally fit and active as possible. I suggest you have a thorough examination at this time. Your fatigue may be related to your obesity, but it also may indicate another condition — anemia, for example. Are you sure you haven't been "over-dieting"? Arthritis is enough of a burden to have to carry without compounding problems with some other untreated ailment. Keep your chin up.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why do physicians prescribe aspirin and other drugs to lower fever temperature when it is known that temperature is one of nature's devices to counterattack disease? — F.W.H.

1. There is no evidence that lowering body temperature interferes with the body's natural defenses against disease.

2. Fever, while only a symptom of a problem, can be damaging in itself, especially in children.

3. Medicines like aspirin are not to be depended on if a fever persists or is recurrent. The chief reason for that warning is that continued use may mask real symptoms and delay proper diagnosis.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis," write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently I cheated on a final exam for one of my college courses. I feel guilty about this, but on the other hand, lots of others were also doing it. Do you think I should do anything about it? — M.N.

DEAR M.N.: I know it is easy to say, "Everybody is doing it." But that does not make it right. What you have done is wrong in the eyes of God, whether some of your fellow students see it that way or not.

What you have done is wrong for several reasons. In the first place, it is undoubtedly against the rules of your college. Also, you are being dishonest because you are claiming that the test you turned in is your work, when in fact it is not. I believe you are also cheating yourself in the long run, because if you get into a pattern of cheating in life, you will never know true happiness and satisfaction, and some day it will catch up with you.

What should you do? First, you should bring this matter to God in repentance and confession, and trust Christ for forgiveness. If you have never accepted Christ as your Lord and Saviour, it may be that God will use this painful experience to make you see your need for Christ. I urge you to give your heart to Him.

Also, you need to be honest about this to the proper authorities. See your teacher, or some other school official, and confess what you have done. Even if it means you lose credit for the course, it is important for you to do this. It will not only give you a sense of peace, but it will be a witness to others.

Wise decision?

Around the rim

Bob Burton

According to an old story, the Kings of Siam, when confronted by a particularly obnoxious courtier, would present the objectionable person with a white elephant. Their purpose was to ruin the man with the cost of maintenance of the beast.

The question is, can the Howard College Board of Trustees afford to outlaw alcohol in the coliseum? Will that imposing new edifice, like the white elephant, become a burden to the taxpayers because convention after convention finds the imposed morality too awkward?

Well, the Board thinks not. And Howard Davis, a member, thinks they made the right decision.

THE COLISEUM, a $2½ million facility, can seat about 4,400. It was paid for by a bond issue, which raised approximately $1½ million, and by private donation which certainly provided a significant amount on top of that. From all reports, it is going to be very nice when finished, and will certainly be a jewel in Howard College's crown.

According to Davis, the decision was a wise one for more than reasons of personal preference. The college contacted area college coliseums and found, according to Mike Brunner, business manager, that all the college coliseums banned alcohol.

"We would like to learn by their mistakes," said Davis, "and most of those who used to allow alcohol don't anymore."

Davis cites the extensive amount of wear-and-tear suffered in such "open" activities as concerts and dances where alcohol was allowed.

As far as conventions go (as the only money-making angle the facility has, conventions better go as far as they can) Davis believes that the majority of conventions either aren't concerned with alcohol, or are willing to use "convenience rooms" offered by the facilities where the conventioners are quartered.

Davis also said that, personally, he thinks that "closed" activities, such as conventions where the membership is limited, would be all right, even with alcohol served.

He's right there, closed conventions would be all right. But when he says that the college would then be faced with a decision as to which groups were "safe" and which weren't, I draw the line.

SURE, IT'S a college facility and maybe the college would have needed one eventually. But the town would have needed one eventually also. This town has its heart set on growing, and it wants to attract people. Conventions are made up of businessmen, who, aside from the bucks they spend to stay here, can take back some of Big Spring with them, and sell it for us.

Even Davis admits that the town will never know for sure just how many conventions it lost because of the ruling. The reason they won't know is because they never tried.

As far as concerts go, the assumption is that concerts are inadequately policed, drunken affairs which do more damage than a three-ring circus (which incidentally is also being considered).

What it all comes down to is this. The college may think that the beastie is theirs, but I think it belongs to the town, too. I think the thing should be run with three things in mind: First, that the college have full access and use of the needed facility. Second, that the thing be run as a selling point for Big Spring as well as the college, and be limited only where proof can be had that the facility is being ripped up.

Third, that this town (which the phenomenal success of the new private clubs has shown is not dry) not be limited to running its assets on moral theory designed for young adults 21 to 22 years old.

The Shrine convention is looking elsewhere. Others will hear about it from the Shriners. And do you know what they wanted? They wanted to have drinks with their banquet, which was to be held in the coliseum.

Where they go, so goes others. Davis said that the Board could change it's mind. I with it would.

WASHINGTON — As Senate Judiciary Chairman, owlish, old Jim Eastland has been an uncompromising spokesman for law and order. He would be expected, therefore, to demand the prosecution of an alleged lawbreaker, not to recommend him for high office.

Yet the 72-year-old curmudgeon from Mississippi has urged the White House to consider Kenneth Dupuy for a top energy post. It should be no secret, since we reported it in more than 900 newspapers last September, that Dupuy is under investigation for alleged bribery, sexual impropriety and misuse of federal funds.

The investigation forced Dupuy to resign as director of the Federal Energy Administration's regional office in Atlanta. The Justice Dept., meanwhile, has reviewed the case and has sent it back to the FEA for further investigation. FEA sources tell us it has been assigned "top priority."

YET THE White House sent Dupuy to the FEA for an interview. This is normally a clear signal of White House support. It now looks as if he won't get an appointment. But the White House, apparently, tried to install him as one of the bosses of the agency that is investigating him.

Of course, the White House was under pressure from Eastland to restore Dupuy to power. The round-faced, close-mouthed Mississippi senator doesn't often raise his voice. But when he removes the dead cigar butt from his mouth and offers his views, the high muckamucks in Washington usually listen. For he has the power to kill laws, stall appointments and bog down the Senate.

A spokesman for Eastland told our associate, Marc Smolonsky, that Dupuy "did a good job" running the Atlanta office. Federal investigators, however, disagree. As we reported last September, Dupuy is under investigation for allegedly giving extra fuel allocations to gasoline distributors in return for gratuities.

Investigators established that Dupuy frequently used the apartment of William Corey, a gasoline and diesel fuel distributor, for trysts with a girl friend. At about the same time, Corey's firm, U.S. Transport, Inc., had its gas and diesel fuel allocations raised by Dupuy's office. Some of the allocations, according to sources close to the case, were awarded to gas stations and truck stops that existed only on paper.

This isn't the first time Dupuy has been in trouble. In 1975, he was reprimanded for accepting transportation from an oil company to attend its Florida convention, where he stayed two days at the firm's expense.

He was also accused of misusing federal funds. He and his secretary often junketed together outside his region. A number of times he traveled to his Mexia, Tex., ranch allegedly at government expense.

WE HAVE been unable to locate Dupuy. But his attorney previously said there was "not anything to" the bribe allegations. The lawyer admitted his client had used Corey's apartment but insisted no favors had been given Corey in return.

Dupuy was not regional administrator, the attorney claimed, when the higher fuel allocations were awarded Corey. He added that the travel abuse charges against Dupuy were "piddly junk," and that he was cleared of them.

FLORIDA SEQUEL — More than a year ago, we sent our roving reporter, Hal Bernton, to Florida to investigate the working conditions of the migrant stoop laborers. Posing as a young drifter, he was recruited out of a flophouse in Immokalee to work on the nearby corporate farm of A. Duda and Sons.

He hunched over rows of tomatoes with the other workers, picking them for a penny a pound. The days were long, the sun hot, the fields infested with snakes. Pesticides on the tomato vines caused some workers to break out with painful rashes.

The workers lived in battered trailers, which were subdivided into tiny compartments. Bernton shared a cubicle, streaked with grime and stinking urine, with another worker.

THATS ENTERTAINMENT? They are going to try to make "Murder on the Nile" as handsome as "Murder on the Orient Express." Only they'll have John "King Kong" Guillermin directing instead of Sidney "The Wiz" Lumet. Bette Davis, Peter Ustinov, Maggie Smith and Angela Lansbury are just a few names who'll float down the Nile in this movie . . . Furthermore, Oscar-winner Maggie Smith is the girl who'll play the Tammy Grimes role in the movie of "California Suite." At the moment she is at Stratford, Ontario, doing Shakespeare and other classics . . .

Bette Davis has been mentioned twice already in one day so let's make it thrice. She wants to make a movie of "Ethan Frome" with Henry Fonda, Liv Ullmann and cox her favorite Willie Wyler out of retirement to direct . . .

The hit of New York is Toller Cranston's "Ice Show" at the Palace with the crowds having to be cautioned that the performance will be stopped if they don't stop throwing all those bouquets out onto the ice endangering the skaters. This is a real expensive ticket but Mike Nichols, Sir Cyril Ritchard, Alan Bates, Jerry Robbins and other luminaries seem to think it's well worth it. They've all gone more than once to see it . . .

New York's East Siders have been ecstatic about the proliferating rash of "Japanese" fresh fruit and vegetable stands. But the story goes that most of these attractive new places are backed by money from the Rev. Moon cult and the Japanese therein are just "fronting."

Shuttle engines cost $450 million more

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Marshall Space Flight Center officials say the complicated engine for the Space Shuttle may cost $450 million over the original estimate.

The initial cost estimate was about $500 million in 1972, when Rocketdyne Division of Rockwell International was selected to develop the engine and deliver 24 production units.

Already main engines for the Shuttle are nine months behind test schedule. However, project officials said Thursday they have development problems under control and the engines will be ready for the first flight in 1979.

Project director James R. Thompson and his deputy, John Harlow, prefer to call the cost increases growth, not overruns. They emphasize that inflation and design problems are only part of the problem, and that changes ordered by NASA and "stretchouts" caused by Congress should be included.

"It's very difficult to say in very simple fashion that you had cost overruns beyond that initial amount," Harlow said. He said that the cost of the seven Shuttle engines now under contract and the remaining 17 would have been lower had NASA been able to purchase all under the same contract.

"It's misleading to include that and relate it to cost growth and overrun," he added. "We needed to phase the engines along with the orbiter."

The Shuttle is a reusable space vehicle for the 1980s. The Shuttle orbiter, which resembles a giant jet plane, will have three main engines. MSFC is responsible for the main engines, the solid rocket booster and external fuel tank.

The engine test program is now about nine months behind schedule. The full-power, full-duration run has yet to be achieved, and delivery of three engines for the main test article firings is four months behind schedule. The test firings will take place at the National Space Technology Laboratory at Bay St. Louis, Miss.

"We're several months behind in terms of where we'd planned to be," Thompson said. "We think we can still recover that schedule and meet our basic commitments."

With a thrust at lift-off of only 375,000 pounds, the Shuttle main engine is not the most powerful rocket engine ever fired. But it is the mightiest on a pound-for-pound basis.

The five F-1's in the first stage of the Saturn V moon rocket were each almost four times stronger, but burned a kerosene-like fuel. The 230,000-pound-thrust J-2 in the Saturn V second and third stages was the most powerful hydrogen-oxygen engine yet flown.

The engine is about 14 feet high, eight feet wide and weighs about 6,800 pounds.

Gallows never hung O'Connor

CHICAGO (AP) — Here's some good news for you, "Terrible Tommy," wherever you are. They're about to junk the gallows that's been waiting for you 57 years.

"Terrible Tommy" O'Connor broke out of the Cook County Jail in Chicago in 1921 four days before he was supposed to hang for murdering a policeman.

He's never been caught, but his gallows has been waiting for him ever since in the basement of the jail.

Scouts head for retreat

Several members of Scout Troops 146 and 401 left for the Buffalo Trail Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains Sunday for a week of adventure.

The 6,000-acre scout ranch is located near Toyahvale, and is enriched with wildlife, hills, canyons, interesting rock structures, and a wilderness of botanical life.

The scouts will live out in the open, exploring the 6000 acres of Mountain country, swimming, hiking, and horseback riding along mountain trails.

The Sun Shines Bright

But wherever it shines . . . there are shadows.

Wherever there are golden opportunities there are also sombre tragedies. Some fail to grasp their blessings.

Ours is a nation which guarantees to every child the opportunity for religious training. Yet ours is a nation which smarts under the scourge of a moral disease — juvenile delinquency.

In blessing you with a son or daughter, God has entrusted to you a precious soul. You are required by law to give your child a secular education. But, despite the scourge of delinquency, a free nation must leave to your conscience the question of your child's moral and religious education.

God has blessed America. With a nearby Church ready and eager to provide Christian training for your child, and religious foundation for your family's life—the Sun shines bright. But there are shadows. You must decide!

LOVELITE GROUP DUE — A dynamic, contemporary Gospel Singing group from Oklahoma City will sing at the Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, June 26. The public is invited to attend.

College Baptists plan special service for 20th anniversary

College Baptist Church, 11th at Birdwell, will observe their twentieth anniversary as a Church Sunday, June 26. The anniversary will be observed by recognizing all charter members present during the morning worship service at 10:55.

Other recognitions will include all those in attendance who came to assist the church when it was a mission of First Baptist Church, Big Spring. All persons baptized into College Baptist will be recognized.

Dr. R. Byron Orand, a former pastor, will be the guest speaker for the morning worship service and Dr. Ray Ellis, twice former interim pastor will speak during the afternoon service at 1:30.

There will be a catered lunch for everyone in attendance for $2 per person served in the Church's activity building. All former members are given a special invitation to attend the twentieth anniversary service. The public, of course, is invited to attend as well.

Gospel concert slated Sunday

A gospel concert will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Apostolic Faith Church.

The Rev. Bob Taylor invites the public to hear several different musical groups Sunday night. The church is located at 14th and Goliad.

St. Paul Lutheran says goodbye

Members of St. Paul Lutheran Church will hold a special farewell social at 5 p.m. Sunday.

It will honor some 75 members who are Webb Air Force Base personnel and who will be leaving Big Spring between July 1 and September.

The event will be held at Birdwell Park. The church officials point out "these members have been a great asset to St. Paul Lutheran Church and to Big Spring."

Class honors two couples

The couples class at First Presbyterian will honor two Webb Air Force Base couples with a farewell supper Sunday night.

The class has established the policy of honoring the couples individually as they depart.

The supper is for Col. and Mrs. Jerry Grimes, base commander, and Maj. and Mrs. Gary Wallace.

East 4th Baptist to host speakers

East fourth Street Baptist Church invites the public to hear guests speakers at their morning worship service, Sunday, June 26.

The speakers are to be Rev. John Halady and his wife, Doris, who are founders and directors of Global Outreach Ministries located in Spring Valley, Calif.

This organization began 20 years ago in Mexico. It then expanded into the Philippine Islands. A number of churches have been built in these countries.

Presently, Rev. Halady is doing extensive ministry in the communist countries Eastern Europe and Russia. He has a good working knowledge of five languages and speaks Russian quite fluently.

He has made three journeys to these communist nations delivering Bibles and New Testaments to the congregation located on N. Monticello as pastor.

Dr. R. Byron Orand became the third full-time pastor, following Dr. Ray Ellis of Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, who served as interim pastor. After Dr. Orand resigned, Dr. Ellis was again asked to serve as interim pastor until the present pastor, Dr. Jimmy Law was called to the church in 1971.

Other present members of the staff include Gene Jones, minister of education and youth, and David Norvelle, minister of music. Working on a volunteer basis with the deaf is Glen Carrigan.

The church has had continual growth throughout the years and the members have involved themselves in various types of ministry. Each Sunday, the church conducts a Bible study at the Veterans Administration Hospital and the Mountain View Lodge.

Members are engaged in a Bible study program at the Westside Community Center each Saturday. The church also sponsors a Latin American Mission in Ogden Utah. The youth of the church will conduct a Vacation Bible School, July 8-15, at the Mission in Utah.

Continental Singers due at Hillcrest Baptist

Fred Heumann will direct the Continental Singers and Orchestra in a concert of contemporary Christian music on Thursday, June 30 at 7:30 p.m. at the Hillcrest Baptist Church, 22nd and Lancaster.

Heumann is in his sixth year with Continental Singers, and his first year as director. In 1975 he served as assistant director with the first Continental group to tour behind the Iron Curtain. In 1976 he was assistant director on the tour to Central America.

The director attended Bowling Green State University in Ohio and is currently attending Moorpark College, majoring in music. He also works full-time as Assistant Talent Director of Continental Ministries.

In addition, Fred oversees the Los Angeles area Continental Ministries, including the Fall and Spring Continental program. He has served two Southern

In addition to his directing ability, Fred is an outstanding vocalist. During the past spring he directed and performed as soloist with the newly formed Continental Company around the Los Angeles area.

Thanks expressed

The pastor and members of Baker's Chapel A.M.E. Church of Big Spring wish to take this opportunity to say thanks to the many merchants and contributors for their support in the A.M.E. Sunday School convention held at the church last week.

The Rev. W.G. Gilbert pastor; Charlie Merritt, secretary and Mrs. Naomi Graham, publicity director, state, "The convention was a success and all visitors to the city left happy, appreciating such fine hospitality."

Agnew still owes IRS?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned as vice president in 1973 because of income tax evasion, failed to report almost $27,000 in income when he filed his federal tax return the next year, the Internal Revenue Service says.

The IRS says Agnew owes $13,966 in back taxes and penalties on the unreported 1973 income. But Agnew's lawyer says his client is being "harassed" on at least one of the items being questioned.

Agnew, who resigned as vice president of the United States and then pleaded no contest to a felony charge of tax evasion on Oct. 10, 1973, was notified of the new IRS case on April 15, the day the three-year statute of limitations ran out.

Agnew's lawyer, Myron J. Mintz, filed a petition Thursday in U.S. Tax Court disputing the IRS contentions.

The IRS says Agnew should have reported as income $11,370 for home improvements by the General Services Administration; $4,398 for personal use of government aircraft; $5,554 in personal and family expenses and $924 in food delivered by a grocery chain executive.

In addition, the IRS disallowed an exemption Agnew claimed for supporting an aunt as well as $3,600 in home office expenses and business entertainment deductions.

The IRS is seeking a 5 per cent "negligence" penalty plus back taxes on the alleged unreported income. The case does not involve new criminal charges.

In the petition filed for Agnew, Mintz said the improvements were made on Agnew's Kenwood, Md., home for security reasons and "for the convenience of the U.S. government." They included a brick wall, a remodeled staircase and plumbing.

The petition contended Agnew used the government aircraft to carry out his official duties as vice president and accepted the food delivered by Joseph Rash, a vice president of Food Fair Stores, Inc., as "a gift made from detached and disinterested generosity."

Man charged with Odessa's abduction

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — A Hobbs, N.M. man is charged with false imprisonment in connection with the alleged abduction of an Odessa, Tex., woman.

Carlsbad Magistrate Court Judge H. H. Linnweh set bond at $7,500 Thursday for Luis Enriquez, 28. He was being held in the Eddy County jail Thursday night in lieu of bond.

Nancy Craig, 21, allegedly was taken by force from her apartment in Odessa early Thursday morning, said a spokesman for the district attorney's office. He said several witnesses in Odessa reported the incident to police.

Later, a car stopped for gas at the Halfway Bar on the road between Hobbs and Carlsbad, the spokesman said, and a woman in the vehicle slipped a message saying she was being abducted to the bartender. The spokesman said officers from the state police and county sheriff's department stopped the car about 10 miles east of Carlsbad and arrested Enriquez.

Linnweh said he understood Odessa officers have put a "hold" on Enriquez, but have not filed a complaint.

Cancer Institute to test Laetrile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Cancer Institute, bowing to public pressure, will test the controversial substance Laetrile on cancer patients who have exhausted all other hope.

Dr. Guy R. Newell, the acting director of the cancer institute, said Thursday the fact that the experiments will be conducted does not "change our opinion that Laetrile is not effective" in the treatment of cancer.

Proponents say Laetrile is a cancer remedy. Its opponents say it has no medicinal value.

"We have reconsidered our position because of a lot of factors, and one of them is societal pressures," Newell told a House government operations subcommittee conducting hearings into the government's war against cancer.

Newell also said the tests are being undertaken because of the number of states that have legalized Laetrile or are considering it, in spite of the federal attitude toward the substance.

Laetrile, a derivative of apricot pits, has been legalized in 11 states but the Food and Drug Administration bans it for interstate sales on the grounds that it is useless in cancer treatment.

Newell said the Laetrile will be administered in cases where patients had been given all the best known medical treatment to no avail.

Dr. Saul Shepartz, a cancer institute scientist, said the tests would be conducted on "a couple of hundred" terminally ill cancer patients and that the program should begin in about three months.

The institute said results of the test would be known in about a year.

Newell said patients in-involved in the test will be given Laetrile in conjunction with other medication and that no patients will receive only Laetrile.

Newell said one group will receive Laetrile along with the standard treatment and the other group of patients will be given the standard treatment and dummy pills or injections that they would think was Laetrile. He said patients would not know whether they were in the Laetrile group or in the group receiving dummy medication.

Newell made it clear to the panel that he does not think the experiments will end the Laetrile dispute, noting that even doctors attached to the cancer institute "are not of uniform opinion."

"I don't really think in my heart and soul that one clinical trial will settle the question," he said. "But there are a lot of well-intentioned physicians and legislators out there who probably will accept the results of a well-conducted clinical trial."

And he said there is a group of people who won't accept any evidence that Laetrile doesn't work as a cancer treatment. "Those who don't want to believe it won't," Newell said.

Benny Kirkland

You remember Benny Kirkland. He was the field master for the Steers back during Coach Don Robbins first stint in Big Spring in the early and mid-sixties. Benny played in the shadow of able QB Albert Fierro for a year at BSHS, but went on to do himself proud in the Black and Gold and later at East Texas State as signal caller. He's been back in Big Spring about two years, after entering the glass business in Midland and Killeen. The reason he's in the directory is because he has a few words to say about Wednesday's "Through" column concerning the number of years the Steers have been in the football cellar. "Big Spring hasn't always been in the District 5-4A cellar," the ex-quarterback said. "In the 1963 and 1964 seasons, the Steers beat some teams you've probably heard of... San Angelo Central, Odessa High, Ysleta Bel Air, Odessa Permian, Midland High and Abilene Cooper. "They may not have won district," Kirkland continued, "but they were far enough from the cellar that they couldn't hear the rats." Benny insists that these "miracles" just didn't happen either: "In 1963 and '64 when the Steers took the field, the fans, the student body, the school board, the coaches and most of all, the players didn't think they were supposed to lose. "They thought they were supposed to win. Doesn't that sound strange!" he said, knowing that it didn't. "The fact that they had fewer players on the squad, less size and less speed didn't matter to them. The other team could only play 11 men at one time, so it was fairly even," Kirkland said. Benny wonders why his old coach came back to Big Spring. "Could it have been to build a football program? I'll bet it was," he answered himself. "Maybe if people will give him the support he needs, and let him do what the school system is paying him to do, 'miracles' will happen again. "Hopefully, in the not too distant future, when a young man puts on a black and gold uniform and goes out to do battle in District 5-4A, he, his parents and his community can be proud of him," Kirkland concluded. Kirkland was a gritty player during his high school years here, and I still like the cut of his jib. We talked about the ol' days, the day Kennedy was shot, Nov. 22, 1963. That night the highly-rated San Angelo Bobcats came into Big Spring and a surprise shotgun offense shot them down. That was the night Steer Thurman Randle knocked All-Stater monster man A.Z. Drones on his backside all night. Yeah, but the good ol' days are gone, and there seems to be more to do in high school than there was back then... more on a young man's mind than football. Another person called about the Wednesday column, complaining that I was picking on "those poor boys" who will be Steers next year. Bull! I'm more behind them than that chronic complainer is. That's the problem. If you call someone a "poor boy" long enough, he'll eventually start believing it. I just hope the reverse is true. "Get out there and fight, you tough SOB's!" That's what the Steers need to hear next season, not excuses.

Riggs still where the action is WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — His notorious "women's lib" hustle in 1973 has netted him $1.5 million, says Bobby Riggs, and the dividends are still rolling in. "Who said I have gone into hiding?" the 59-year-old con man of the courts said during a break in Wimbledon's 100th anniversary tennis festivities. "Almost every day I get a challenge to take on some celebrity or local hero somewhere and, if the price is right, I catch the next plane out." Riggs still is not particular and he confesses he is amenable to a broad range of ground rules. He will play tennis carrying an umbrella, holding a gorilla on a chain, using park benches and conceding the alleys. If that isn't agreeable, he will play golf standing on one leg or using right-handed clubs left-handed. He will bet a bundle on his ability to flip playing cards in a upturned hat from 10 feet away, to guess which sparrow flies off a telephone wire first and how many golf balls he can chip into a partially opened bureau drawer from a hotel room rug. Wee Bobby remains sport's consummate gambler.

"They asked me and I said, 'Sure, what's the action?' When they said $10,000 wintertakeall, Bobby started making plane reservations.

FORMER WIMBLEDON CHAMPS — Bobby Riggs, center, perhaps best recalled for his notorious "women's lib" hustle match with Billie Jean King in 1973, joins Gardner Mulloy, right, and Don Budge, background, at a meeting in Queen's Club in London Thursday. All three were among the former Wimbledon champs who are preparing for the battle of former stars to be held at the tournament next week.

Riggs is here as one of the former Wimbledon champions, preparing with Don Budge, Gardner Mulloy, Pancho Gonzales and others for the battle of former stars here next week. In his first Wimbledon appearance, Riggs made a sweep of the men's singles, doubles and mixed doubles in 1939 and went on to take the U.S. Open crown at Forest Hills. The idea of a mixed match involving an over-aged male star and a top woman player flashed like an electric light bulb in Bobby's fertile mind in 1968 after he had seen a friend, Johnny Fonce, lose a match to Maria Bueno in Los Angeles. Bobby issued a challenge to anyone who would listen.

1st All-SWC QB dies at age 81

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — M.T. Johnson Sr., the first quarterback ever to be named to an All-Southwest Conference team, has died at 81. Johnson, who died Thursday, played for Oklahoma when the Sooners were charter members of the SWC and was named to the SWC's mythical first team in 1915. He also returned a kickoff 75 yards for a touchdown in 1914 against Texas — the longest such run in the storied series between the two schools. He was the grandfather of Monte Johnson, captain of the 1970 Oklahoma team.

Musical managers game over?

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Lucchesi to Stanky to Ryan is not a famous double-play combination. It's just this week's combination of managers for the Texas Rangers. Frank Lucchesi was fired as the Rangers' skipper Wednesday, and replaced — supposedly through 1978 — by Eddie Stanky. But a homesick Stanky abruptly quit Thursday after one game and third base coach Connie Ryan, 57, was named interim manager by Texas executive vice president Eddie Robinson. The Rangers were 31-31 under Lucchesi this season, then 1-0 under Stanky after rallying to a 10-8 triumph over the Minnesota Twins Wednesday night. But under Ryan, they're 0-1 after a 12-2 loss Thursday to Minnesota. Though there has been no official announcement, it is expected that Ryan will manage the team through the end of the season. Robinson said no decision would be made until he discusses the matter with owner Brad Corbett.

CONNIE RYAN Third in three days

Robinson said flatly at that time that Ryan would never replace Lucchesi as the Rangers' manager. "Now we have a completely different situation," said Robinson. "I see no reason why Connie couldn't run the ball club until such a time as we needed somebody else." Ryan learned of Stanky's decision only three hours before Thursday's game. Texas arrived here Thursday night for a four-game weekend series with the California Angels. After arriving in Anaheim, Ryan said he was "just taking things as they come, I'd be guessing if I said anything now. I'll know better in four or five days. "I think I want the job permanently," Ryan added. "It hasn't been offered to me yet. I'm going to wait a couple of days before I say much." Stanky, 59, left for his Mobile, Ala., home from Minneapolis Thursday morning. He will return as baseball coach at the University of South Alabama, a position he held the past nine years. Robinson said Stanky telephoned him Thursday morning to tell him he was at the airport and heading for home. Stanky said after Wednesday night's game he was "lonesome and homesick," and that he enjoyed his brief return to pro baseball and would have stayed "if I didn't have to go to my room alone each night." Okie leads Jr. tourney WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Defending champion Lawrence Fields of Oklahoma City held a two-shot lead over Mike Zarcaro of Seabrook, Tex. heading into today's final round of the Texas-Oklahoma Junior golf tournament. Fields fired an even-par 72 Thursday, while Zarcaro shot a 73. Fields was five shots off the pace when play began Thursday, but fired a steady 36-36-72.

SALUTE FROM BILLIE JEAN — Billie Jean King of the United States raises her racket in salute to crowd Thursday as she leaves center court at Wimbledon with Brazil's Maria Bueno. The two, who hold nine Wimbledon singles titles between them, had just concluded a singles match. They came out of retirement to play in the Wimbledon centenary tourney. Mrs. King won the match, 6-2, and 7-5.

Yank twins ignite Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — A pair of tennis twins from Onalaska, Wis., Tim and Tom Gullikson, have caught the imagination of the massive crowds at the centenary Wimbledon Tennis Championships this week. Oldtimers were even mentioning the legendary tennisplaying twins, Willie and Ernie Renshaw, who dominated the fledgling Wimbledon tournaments of the 1880s when tennis was still played in long trousers and straw hats. The Renshaws learned their tennis on an asphalt court at school, and the story is much the same for the Gulliksons, 25-year-olds who picked up most of their tennis savvy in public parks playing against each other. Tim is a stocky right-hander, and Tom, older by five minutes, a lefty. Otherwise, it's almost impossible to tell them apart. For four gruelling hours under a hot sun Thursday, Tim fought his heart out on a packed outside court, with many in the record 37,815 crowd straining their necks to get a glimpse of his battle against No. 7 men's singles seed, Raul Ramirez of Mexico. Matching the masterful Mexican at his own game with finesse at the net, Gullikson took the first two sets 6-3, 6-4, lost the third 3-6 and wasted four match points in the fourth which Ramirez won 9-8 on a tiebreaker. Ramirez, with his Mexican bandit mustache, sprayed a strained stomach muscle with painkiller between games, while Gullikson suffered cramps in the closing stages of the tight deciding set as every point drew oohs and aahs from the crowd. After breaking in the fifth game to go 3-2, Gullikson reached 5-4 and was serving for the match. He lost another four match points before piledriving a serve which Ramirez could only hit into the net for the match. The muscular American whooped in relief, the crowd burst into prolonged applause and Gullikson took a spare tennis ball and clouted it high over the grandstands. Californian Billy Martin also turned in a big upset, dumping Guillermo Vilas of Argentina in straight sets. The top men's seeds, Jimmy Connors and Bjorn Borg, posted victories as did the top women's seeds, Chris Evert and Martina Navratilova.

BSGA partnership tourney this Sunday

The Big Spring Golf Association will hold its sixth tournament of the season this Sunday at Comanche Trail Golf Course. The tourney, a draw-your-own partnership, 10 and under — 11 and over (1/2 handicap), is expected to showcase the largest group of golfers so far this year. All entries must be in by noon Sunday, all entry fees must be paid by 12:30 p.m., and the tournament itself tees off at 1:30 p.m. Golfers who wish to participate in the September Grand Tournament are reminded that they must play in at least four BSGA sanctioned tourneys to be eligible. The only exception to this rule would be for members that are on shift schedules and cannot participate because of their work schedule. These members can pay their entry fee and be counted as a tournament player. Four tournaments, in addition to the one Sunday, still remain on the BSGA schedule: a Louisiana Draw on July 24; an Individual flighted handicap on Aug. 28; a Selective Drive on Sept. 18, and a Partnership open to all ages on Aug. 20-21. Committee members for Sunday's tourney are Hecker, Soldan Sr., Roddy Caffey, Beene, Murphy and Dudley.

DALLAS (AP) — Steve Cottrell has resigned as Southern Methodist University's assistant basketball coach to take the head coaching job at Western Carolina University. The announcement was made Thursday.

Daily Bread

By Phillip McClendon
HILLCREST BAPTIST CHURCH
Romans 1:24-25
Our country is pursuing the same path that destroyed the Roman Empire. The next few articles of Daily Bread should cause us to reflect upon our direction as individuals and as a nation. The key word in Roman 1:24 is desires. Aristotle defined this word as a reaching out after pleasure. The Stoics defined it as a reaching after pleasure which defies all reason. The word means passionate desire for forbidden pleasure. It is the desire which makes men do nameless and shameful things. This can easily be related to the low moral state that pornography has brought our nation. Even people who profess to take pornography in stride are revolted by the sight of America's latest festering social ailment: kiddie porn. Some of the children involved with each other or with adults are as young as three years; some of the adults are their parents. The very thought of it is depressing and sickening. The Apostle Paul wrote to Christians in Rome who were facing the same social problems as Christians today. Our hope today is in the saving power of Jesus Christ. The same Christ that the Apostle Paul preached many years ago. Be much in prayer for these young victims of pornography. Share your faith in Jesus Christ with someone today.

COME AND SEE

Clubhouse confidential: Astros panned Farrah

If you were to take a vote of ballplayers and writers for best hotel stop on circuit, Shamrock Hilton in Houston would win, hands down. Stewardesses from Air France sunbathe the topless at pool there.

Which reminds me: Each year Astros elect beauty queen, candidates submitted by each station in team's radio network. About eight years back, Corpus Christi entry was Farrah-Fawcett. Whatever her name was then, she finished fourth. That's the kind of scouting that got the Astros where they are now. . . . Bill Virdon says they won't be down long. "We have a young pitching staff that I wouldn't trade for any in the league," says Astro manager, not a popoff guy.

Whatever happened to those who were rapping Mets for not giving Dave Kingman the moon he asked for? By time they gave him away to San Diego club critics were as silent as Dave's bat. . . . Right up till end, Mets were willing to give Kingman the $200,000 offer. Says Buzzy Bavasi, Dave's new boss: "To get $200,000 from me a player has to bat .300 and hit 40 homers." Good luck. . . . Bavasi on Bobby Valentine, whom Mets got for Kingman: "You better not have any players there who don't hustle, or Bobby will punch them in the nose!"

Ted Turner, running behind in payments on Braves, may default club back to Bill Bartholomay. Ted can always get a job managing. . . . Lou Piniella, says coach Bobby Cox, runs lot better than most people think. "He's like Nettles," says Cox. "No speed to first base, but after that he runs the bases well."

Bob Howsam broke up Jerry Kapstein unit on Cincy club by giving away Gary Nolan and Rawley Eastwick. Kapstein and other agents have appraised their clients that this is to be new ballclub countermove on unsigned players or six-year-men who can walk out on club at end of season.

Fans and writers must learn to reappraise lifelong thinking on baseball trades. Days of big trades are gone.

Bruce finds swing at Western Open

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Bruce Lietzke, who faded after a dazzling start this year, says he's found his golf swing again. Gary McCord says he's finally located the press room.

"I thought the press room was where you got your clothes laundered," the stocky Californian joked after carding a five-under-par 67 Thursday to share the first-round lead with Lietzke at the Western Open.

Bill Mallon, who has been on the pro tour for 1 1/2 years, was third at 68. Five golfers, including defending champ Al Geiberger, were two strokes back at 69.

McCord was escorted by tour officials to the press interview area after his round. Though he hasn't won since joining the tour in 1973, he settled easily into the unfamiliar surroundings.

"I just went out and played like everybody else," said the 29-year-old of the round in which he dropped 30-foot putts for birdies on his first and last holes.

Of previous tournaments this year, he said, "I'd get off to a good start then get a 74, 75 or 76. It's like riding a bike up a hill. You pedal hard, but you don't get anywhere."

McCord said his putting, which suffered because "my setup was all screwy," has improved with the help of fellow pro John Schroeder.

Lietzke also has had help in displaying again the magic that made him the talk of the early 1977 tour. He says his brother Duane watched him on the practice tee and confirmed that his swing was back.

"I must have gotten into a bad habit of picking the club up real quick" after he had won the Tucson and Hawaiian Opens and finished second at the Bob Hope Desert Classic by mid-February.

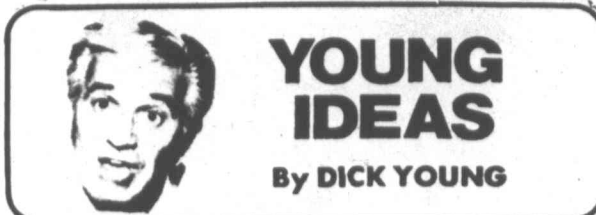

Hockey merger still rocky

CHICAGO (AP) — National Hockey League owners will have to get around Jack Kent Cooke of the Los Angeles Kings if they hope to make any advancement towards a merger with the World Hockey Association.

"It's one against 17," said R. Alan Eagleson, head of the NHL Players Association late Thursday night after a series of meetings involving the owners, board of governors and members of the Players Association.

While the owners refuse to hold any news conferences or to make any announcements, it was learned that the sale of the Cleveland Barons had been completed prior to the deadline set by the governors and that the team would compete next season.

Too many union obstacles now. Most deals will be unsigned star for unknown prospect. Example: Eastwick for Doug Capilla. For Doug who? Eastwick is playing out option. Cards have sat at division title and took him for what they can derive for little more than half a season. You don't pay much for man you won't have four months from now.

YOUNG IDEAS

Tal Smith, Houston GM, after Steve Henderson had played one game at Shea: "that kid can be a superstar" . . . Joel Youngblood's arrival at Shea Saturday signaled official end of Joe Torre's outstanding playing career — to make room for the outfielder. Torre phoned Joe McDonald and said: "You better come down here to the clubhouse. A player is tearing up the place." When McDonald asked who it was, the Mets' manager said "Joe Torre. I just released him!"

He is one of Sports Illustrated promotional staff that has made 1,000 speeches to gatherings within past six months. Decline of KC from last year's West Division champs explained by manager Whitey Herzog: "Were not playing alert ball. Last year, if a pitch hit the dirt, the runner on base was gone. Now they're standing there watching it." Only Al Cowens is hustling.

BACK IN THE CIRCLE AGAIN — Steve Cauten rides Little Miracle back to the winner's circle at Belmont Park Thursday after winning the second race and claiming purse of $9,500. It was the first mount Cauten had since last May when he was injured in a spill. The win was Cauten's 277th of the year.

Father's Day Story: Sean O'Grady, who slugs with Davey Vasquez on the Garden's kayo card Wednesday, is 18. He has been at it in the pros since 15. Along the way, he was knocking over older featherweights and getting a big head, so Pat O'Grady decided to teach him a lesson. Dad put him in with Danny Lopez, flyweight champ, who flattened the kid. Sean now listens to dad.

At Belmont, Gov. Carey was strutting around with button in lapel reading, "Mario Cuomo for Mayor." He can carry the weight and go the distance. Carey told racing people. . . . Carey also told them he would raise N.Y. State mutuel takeout from 17 to 19 per cent and turn extra revenue back to track for fatter purses to be split down to fifth-place finisher. They swallowed Cuomo easier. More takeout, for whatever purpose, will turn away fans.

Jim Kensil, repeatedly asked why Leon Hess picked him as prez of Jets, says: "I never was surprised when anybody came into the NFL office to hire somebody. I figured they wanted a piece of Pete Rozelle." . . . Ten years after merger, sign above Diamond Club entrance at Shea reads: "N.Y. Jets, American Football League" . . . Add Mickey Rivers needing of Reginald Martinez Jackson: "No wonder you're all mixed up. You got a white man's first name, a Spanish man's second name, and a black man's third name."

Rangers finally get rid of Carew

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — There are undoubtedly a lot of reasons the Texas Rangers are glad to be out of Minnesota.

The Twins moved back into a virtual tie for first place in the American League West Thursday after they pounded out a 12-2 victory over the Rangers, who played for their third manager in as many games.

The victory boosted the Twins back into a share of the lead with the Chicago White Sox going into tonight's opener of a three-game set against the Sox at Metropolitan Stadium.

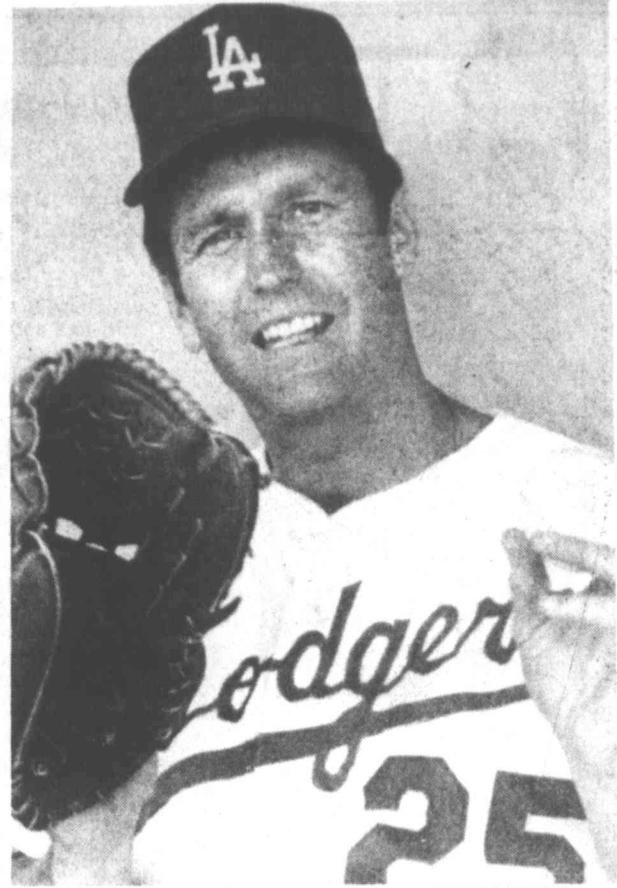

"I think it was an accomplishment to get a split," said Rangers' interim Manager Connie Ryan. "Besides, we'll be able to get away from Carew."

Carew, naturally, is Rod Carew, baseball's top hitter. The 31-year-old first baseman belted out three more hits and boosted his average to .395.

"I really don't want to be thinking about 400 right now," said Carew after being asked the obvious question. "There's a long way to go yet."

Minnesota Manager Gene Mauth believes Carew not only can do it, but thinks he will.

"He won't let his mind get cluttered up thinking about it," said Mauth. "And that alone is bound to help. I think

PRESSURE OR NOT, IT'S FUN BEING NO. ONE — Tommy John, Los Angeles Dodger's ace left hander, interviewed on their upcoming series with the Cincinnati Reds says, "there's pressure in being No. 1, but it's more fun." John, the come-back player of the year last season, wants to pitch seven more years to make a total 20 years in the major leagues.

Love means win streak

By The Associated Press "Love and happiness" is behind the Cleveland Indians' eight-game winning streak, according to Rico Carty. But the four-hit pitching of Wayne Garland and the timely hitting of Buddy Bell and Carty figures in it, too.

"I think the change of managers has had a positive effect on me — not that I didn't get along with Frank Robinson," said Garland, who hurled the Indians to a 4-0 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays Thursday night. "But Jeff (Torborg) is a former catcher and understands me as a pitcher better."

Recipe watcher notes

Baba Ghanoush catches on

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Recipe-watchers like myself are always interested to note when certain dishes "catch on."

Take Baba Ghanoush, a delicious cooked eggplant and sesame paste appetizer served with pita, individual disks of flat bread easily split open, or with raw vegetables.

A recipe for Baba Ghanoush appeared in "Good Food From The Near East" published over 25 years ago. It surfaced 12 years later in "The Best of Near Eastern Cookery." The first book was written by a restaurateur and homes. Its recent popularity may be attributed to the fact that woman with an international background; the second by two New Yorkers who consulted culinarians at various missions to the United Nations.

But Baba Ghanoush didn't catch on until recipes for it appeared in "A Book of Middle Eastern Food" and "Middle Eastern Cookery," both published in the last five years. The first book was issued by a New York publisher, the second by a publisher in California. Nowadays you'll find Baba Ghanoush served in both these days sesame paste is more available than it once was.

One note about the spelling of this interesting appetizer. We have found it spelled baba gannoj, baba ghannouj and baba ghanoush. We have used the last spelling as given in "A Book of Middle Eastern Cooking" by Claudia Roden who grew in Egypt and who has thoroughly researched Mideastern culinary and literary matters.

BABA GHANOUSH
1 large or 2 small eggplants about 1 1/2 pounds
2 cloves garlic
1/4 c. lemon juice
2 tbsps. olive oil
Sesame Paste, see below
Salt to taste
Minced parsley
Cut eggplant in half lengthwise; place cut side down on a foil-lined broiler pan minus the rack. Broil about 6 inches from high heat, turning as necessary, until the skin is charred and the eggplant is very soft; this may take as long as 45 to 60 minutes but check often because broilers vary considerably. Cool eggplant slightly; scrape pulp away from skin and discard skin. In an electric blender whirl together until smooth the eggplant pulp, garlic, lemon juice, olive oil and cup sesame paste; add salt and more sesame paste if you like. Cover and chill. Before serving sprinkle with parsley. Serve with wedges of hot pita or with cherry tomatoes or such raw vegetables as celery wedges or cauliflowerets. Makes about 2 cups, depending on how much sesame paste is used.

Sesame Paste: Labeled Tahini, it may be bought in some supermarkets, in health and food specialty shops and in stores featuring Middle Eastern products.

Dear Abby

The Price Is Right But The Service Poor

DEAR ABBY: My dentist does very good work for a reasonable price. Many people go to him because his price is so right.

What bothers me is his office, which always looks so dirty. Even his towels and his "white" jacket don't look clean. His instruments look rusty and dirty, and while he works he puts them down on an unclean surface.

Sometimes he leaves me in the chair for a few minutes to work on another patient, and when he comes back he goes right to work on me again without even washing his hands! Abby, how can I tell this doctor to wash his hands between patients and to clean up his office?

Sign me...
MR. CLEAN

DEAR MR. CLEAN: You can tell him what you've just told me. He might clean up his act, but I wouldn't bet on it. If I were you, I'd find another dentist. What does it matter if the "price is right" if you risk infection?

DEAR ABBY: Our dear and saintly minister preaches a beautiful sermon every Sunday morning, and at the conclusion of each service he goes to the rear of the church to shake hands with all the members of the congregation as they go out the door.

The problem is that he grasps each hand and squeezes it as though he were cracking nuts!

My poor mother, with her hands gnarled by arthritis, waits in line as though she were going to her execution!

I'm sure our minister reads your column, Abby, so if you print my letter, he may recognize himself and take the hint. Thank you.

W.

DEAR W: Your mother—and all the rest of you out there for whom an enthusiastic handshake is painful—should not hesitate to say, when extending a hand in greeting, "Gently, please—arthritis!"

DEAR ABBY: You are my last hope. I am 29, considered intelligent, and "a lot of fun," and everyone admires my jolly, outgoing personality. I have had a few dates, but no man has ever taken me seriously. I am the "pal, buddy and big sister" the men come to for advice about the girls they "care about."

To get to the point, I weighed myself yesterday for the first time since September 1975, and the needle hit the highest number and just stayed there. It was one of those inexpensive bathroom scales, but it goes up to 300. Need I say more?

I have played Santa Claus at our office Christmas party for the last time, Abby. In plain language, can you give me a diet I can stay on? Don't tell me to see a doctor. The last one I went to weighed more than I did.

FAT AND MISERABLE

DEAR FAT: If you want my advice, DON'T tell me what NOT to tell you to do. You MUST see a doctor! Find a thin one if a fat one inspires no confidence. But follow his instructions to the letter—and no cheating.

Don't expect miracles. It will take all the willpower and self-control you can muster. But anything that's worth having is worth working for. Good luck.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Shive home coffee site

A bridal coffee was given at the home of Mrs. Wendell Shive Saturday morning honoring Miss Sally Echols, bride-elect of Vernon Itz of San Angelo.

Receiving the guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Ray Echols and Vernon's mother, Mrs. Roseda Itz, Fredericksburg; the grandmothers Mrs. Ed Darnell, Midland; Mrs. Leroy Echols, Coahoma; and Mrs. Harry Kunz, Fredericksburg.

Miss Echols was presented a corsage of blue and yellow daisies, the bride's chosen colors, as were the other members of the receiving line.

The table was covered with a white linen cloth inserted with picot lace which was centered with an arrangement of yellow, blue and white daisies in a crystal compote. Appointments were silver and crystal.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Charles Murphy, Mrs. Charle Hale, Mrs. Vale Best, Mrs. Lanham Hodnett, Mrs. Eddie Engle, Mrs. Rex Shive, Mrs. Jack Wolf, Mrs. E.L. Collier, Mrs. Bill Tinner, Mrs. Phil Wyen, Mrs. Bob Read, Mrs. Stan Griffin, Mrs. Frank Loveless, Mrs. DeWitt Shive and Mrs. Ronnie Wood.

Attending from out of town were Mrs. Ed Darnell and Mrs. Dick Rowan, both of Midland, Mrs. Roseda Itz, Mrs. Harry Kunz, Mrs. Bill Guinka and Miss Kim Grinke, all of Fredericksburg.

The couple will be married July 16 at the First Presbyterian Church, Big Spring.

Bridesmaid luncheon honors attendants

A bridesmaids luncheon was held today at the Big Spring Country Club to honor the attendants in the Sherri Alexander-John Key wedding.

The hostesses, Mrs. Gaylan Goddard, Plainview, Ms. Paula Green, Houston, and Mrs. Leslie Green, presented Ms. Alexander with a vegetable bowl. Guests were seated at tables centered with spring bouquets in the chosen colors of yellow and white.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Travis Key, mother of the groom; Mrs. Tom Key, and Ms. Stefani Key, Mineral Wells; Mrs. John Thomas, Denver City; Mrs. Mark Alexander, Graham; Mrs. Don Alexander, Ft. Riley, Kansas; Mrs. Michael Alexander, Dallas; and Mrs. Ben Cowling, Ms. Rebecca Cowling, and Mrs. W.B. Lovelace, all of Kermit.

The wedding is Saturday.

DAV auxiliary elects officers

Officers for the coming term were installed Monday evening for the DAV Auxiliary during the group's meeting in the VFW Hall in Silver Heels.

Mrs. Katie Spivey, commander of the ladies auxiliary, presided. She introduced Mrs. Kenneth Cooper, Boarderland No. 10, El Paso, as a guest.

Mrs. Norman Burkhart reported that 80 patients at the Veteran's Administration Hospital were served homemade cakes and coffee. A drawing for the canteen books was also held at the VA, she reported. Serving refreshments there were Mrs. Dwight McCann, Mrs. George Kunkel, and Mrs. Norman Burkhart.

Mrs. Oletha O'Neal, second junior vice-commander for the state department, and Ms. Gladys Miller, region 1 commander, gave a report on the state convention which they attended in Houston July 10-12.

Officers installed were Mrs. M.H. Spivey, commander; Mrs. Fannie Clark, senior vice-commander; Mrs. Norman Burkhart, junior vice-commander; Mrs. A.E. True, chaplain; Mrs. Margaret Caldwell, adjutant-treasurer; Mrs. Sam Lewis, sergeant at arms; and Mrs. Raymond Ferguson, state executive committeewoman.

Mrs. Spivey reported that two local unit members, Mrs. Margaret Caldwell and Mrs. Y.J. Luna, were hospitalized and released recently.

The next meeting is at 7:30 p.m. July 18.

Farm Early warning sought on farm machines

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government may try to work out a system requiring federal subsidy for the development of new farm machines which might cost agricultural workers their jobs. Labor Secretary Ray Marshall says he is inclined to favor such a requirement. He said he intends to check into it with Agriculture Department officials.

Hog numbers remain same

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. inventory of hogs and pigs on June 1 was 54.1 million head, about the same as it was a year ago, according to the Agriculture Department. But surveys indicate that farmers intend to step up production through Nov. 30, the end of the 1976-77 marketing year.

Cattlemen are urged to be at meeting

Independent Cattlemen's Association president T.A. Cunningham this week called on all cattlemen in Texas and surrounding areas to attend hearings set up for June 28 in Fort Worth by the U.S. Trade Commission on the impact of beef imports.

Artists should pick up work

The Big Spring Art Association reminded Artists exhibiting at Big Spring Savings Association, to pick up their work prior to the firm's closing time at 4 p.m. today.

Several hundred persons have already viewed the "Cowboys 'N Indians" exhibit, and spokesmen for the local art association termed the exhibit a success, and expressed thanks to Ray Don Williams, manager of Big Spring Savings.

Visitors flock to museum here

If daily registration is any indication, tourism is certainly on the rise. Heritage Museum registered visitors from 27 Texas cities and 13 states since June 1.

Special tours included a group of teenagers from the Big Spring State Hospital School with teachers and aides, and a group of underprivileged children sponsored by Webb Air Force Base.

Regular traffic continues to be good, according to Mrs. Gerri Atwell, curator.

New and renewal memberships since last printing are Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dickson, Mrs. Paul J. Drouet, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Crowell, Jewel Barton Hyer, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Irons, Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Cauley, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gossett and Mr. and Mrs. G.A. Barnett.

Six from here on elite list

COLLEGE STATION — Six students from the Big Spring area have earned "Distinguished Student" ranking at Texas A&M University, announced Registrar Robert A. Lacey.

The undergraduate honor is awarded students who have excelled academically. Recipients must earn at least a 3.25 grade point ratio (out of a possible 4.0) during the most recent grading period.

"Distinguished Student" ranking is limited to 10 per cent of Texas A&M's undergraduate enrollment.

Distinguished student include: Terry D. Allison, engineering technology; Silvia A. Holguin, political science; Rose P. McCraw, mathematics; Kirk M. McKnight, forestry; Brenda K. Willbanks, mathematics; and Randy C. Schreengost, physical education, all of Big Spring.

exactly halfway between Lenorah and Tarzan. To have called it by any of the old school or community names would have caused a great deal of jealousy and controversy.

So the newly created school district was named for Grady Standifer, from whom the land was obtained.

Grady added a high school to their curriculum in recent years, with the first seniors graduating in 1976.

That same year, Grady Schools had one of the more successful Spirit of '76 festivals with a pioneer day which included demonstrations on how to churn butter, forge blacksmith tools, pull taffey and other early arts.

Right next to the Grady school are three homes, including two for school administrators and one owned by one of the school board members.

The superintendent of schools is Bill Baker. The school board includes Merle Mitchell, Newell Tate, Butch Howard, George Sawyer, Don McMorris, Jackie Romine and Bruce Key.

That's all the governmental officials at Grady, because the school is the only thing there. Like Tarzan, the telephone numbers for Grady residents and the Grady schools fall under Lenorah in the Telephone directory.

This caused some confusion in the Big Spring Herald office one year when Joe Pickle, then managing editor, instructed a rookie reporter to call several of the area locations and get them to call back the results of school elections.

One of the locations was Grady, and since information didn't have a Grady listed, he ended up calling Brady. On the night of the elections, Brady school officials obligingly called in and told Pickle, "I don't know why you want the results of our school election, but here they are."

Grady schools are located at the crossroad of the high-
