

Decision nearing on gas deregulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Commerce Committee is nearing a decision on whether to adopt President Carter's plan for continued regulation of natural gas prices or to end federal price controls on new gas supplies.

The stage was set for a key committee vote today following a flurry of parliamentary maneuvering on Tuesday.

Both sides are predicting victory. The Carter plan would set a new ceiling of $1.75 per thousand cubic feet on new natural gas. All new gas in every state would be sold in the national market, and gas sold under existing contracts could be renegotiated to sell for up to $1.45 when the contracts expire.

But proponents of deregulation altered the Carter proposal in a House Commerce subcommittee, voting 12 to 10 in favor of lifting controls on the price of new natural gas.

The deregulation plan, offered by Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex., would free new gas from federal controls, probably allowing the price to settle at $2.20 per thousand cubic feet. The plan also would provide that gas now being pumped and sold in Texas and other producing states would not have to be placed on the national market.

Krueger says a free, higher price for natural gas would encourage exploration and result in an ample national supply of relatively cheap, clean-burning fuel.

The administration says its ceiling is a generous incentive, and that the industry has said so privately.

A modified package that may be taken up later by the committee would eliminate Krueger's intrastate limitation.

Death for rape struck down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that states may not impose the death penalty for the crime of rape.

The court said the death penalty "is a disproportionate punishment for rape."

"It is difficult to accept the notion, and we do not, that the rape, with or without aggravating circumstances, should be punished more heavily than the deliberate killer as long as the rapist does not himself take the life of his victim," the court said in an opinion by Justice Byron R. White.

The court's action, decided by a 7-2 vote, struck down the death sentence a Georgia court imposed on Ehrlich Anthony Coker, convicted for the 1974 rape of a 16-year-old Waycross, Ga., housewife who three weeks before had given birth to her first child.

Although Georgia's law concerned the rape of adult women, the court decision's wording indicated that states may not impose the death penalty even for the rape of children.

Joining White's opinion were Justices Potter Stewart, Harry A. Blackmun and John Paul Stevens. Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall, who oppose the death penalty under any circumstance for any crime, filed concurring opinions.

Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. voted to strike down Coker's sentence but said he did not think the death penalty for rape was cruel and unusual punishment in all circumstances.

"Although rape invariably is a reprehensible crime, there is no indication that petitioner's offense was committed with excessive brutality or that the victim sustained serious or lasting injury," Powell said.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and

Justice William H. Rehnquist dissented, saying that the death penalty for rape can be a justified punishment.

The court's decision dealt only with the crime of rape but it may have a profound impact on the history of capital punishment in the United States.

Had the court ruled that states may impose the death penalty for crimes in which the life of the victim was not taken, it could have opened the door for future rulings that capital punishment may be valid for crimes such as treason, espionage, kidnaping, hijacking and terrorism.

Of course, the court still could rule in favor of the death penalty for such crimes but that prospect is less likely after today's ruling.

The court's decision affects only six of the 350 death row prisoners across the nation.

OPEC cancels price hike

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A majority of members in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — OPEC — have decided to cancel plans for a 5 per cent increase in the price of crude oil July 1, the OPEC secretary general announced today.

The 13-member oil cartel has been split over prices since last December when 11 members called for a two-stage 15 per cent price hike for 1977. The other two members, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, opted for a 5 per cent increase for the whole year.

The 10 per cent increase imposed Jan. 1 by the cartel majority raised the price of their crude oil to $12.70 a barrel. The second stage of the increase was to have gone into effect July 1.

All M. Jaidah, the secretary-general, said in a brief statement that the decision to cancel the increase was made "in the interest of unity and solidarity of OPEC."

Steering panel discusses personnel

In a brief open-session meeting, the Webb steering committee met today with Gene Pollard of the Department of Defense to discuss employment of Webb personnel. Pollard encouraged the steering committee to try to find positions for RIF'd personnel from the base. These people are civilians who were formerly employed at the base and are now being released to find other employment.

The committee then went into closed session to discuss progress on the base re-use plan. The plan, still due for several work sessions with the committee and the government agencies which must approve it, will be made public in its final form around August 21.

Girl Scout missing in Florida

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — A 15-year-old Girl Scout wearing a Mickey Mouse T-shirt was dragged struggling from her tent in a state park by a heavily built man today as her sister and another scout screamed in terror, authorities said.

The girl was identified by sheriff's deputies as Charlotte Grosse of Venice, Fla.

The man ripped open the back of the three-person tent in 460-acre Oscar Scherer State Park about 6 a.m. EDT, grabbed the girl by her long brown hair and dragged her into sharp-pointed palmetto scrub, Sarasota County Sheriff's deputies said.

The man was described as heavily built with dark hair and a deep voice. He was wearing dark clothes, officers said.

Earlier this month three Girl Scouts were sexually assaulted and then murdered at a camp in Locust Grove, Okla. Authorities have charged 33-year-old prison escapee Gene Leroy Hart in the June 13 slayings and are still searching for him.

The abduction here touched off an immediate manhunt in Sarasota County. About 100 law enforcement officers, volunteers, a mounted posse and even Florida Power & Light Co.

service trucks joined the search that was set up under the sheriff's specialized weapons and tactics unit known as SWAT.

The park is located two miles south of the tiny town of Osprey and 12 miles south of Sarasota on U.S. 41.

The girl was on a camping trip with 16 other scouts under a summer program sponsored by the Sarasota Girl Scout Camp.

Her father joined the search while her mother, sister and grandparents waited for word with park rangers and detectives.

The scouts were camping in an area near the northeastern border of the park just north of the main pavilion which is reached only by a narrow dirt road and is surrounded on three sides by thick palmetto scrub.

Forgery witness heard

Yarbrough claims persecution

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The man who says Texas Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough plotted to kill a grand jury witness and forged an automobile title as part of a payoff is being kept in seclusion by the Harris County district attorney's office.

Bill Rothkopf was whisked from the grand jury room here Tuesday hiding his face from newsmen under a paper sack. In a copyrighted Saturday story, the Houston Post quoted Rothkopf as saying Yarbrough plotted to kill Victoria banker Bill Kemp because Kemp could testify to Yarbrough's complicity in another alleged forgery of a $200,000 letter of credit.

Harris County authorities said Rothkopf's story, as he related it to them, is being investigated. Since the alleged title forgery took place in an Austin motel room, a Travis County grand jury is listening to the testimony.

Rothkopf preceded Yarbrough to the witness stand behind closed doors. Spokesmen for both the Harris and Travis County district attorneys' offices said immunity has not been offered to Rothkopf in return for his testimony.

Yarbrough, whose November election to the state's highest court has been clouded by a disbarment suit, told reporters after testifying that allegations about his forging the car title are part of a pattern of persecution against him.

"I think we've pretty well explained to the grand jury certain facts that put that tale in its proper perspective," Yarbrough said.

Asked what the proper perspective was, Yarbrough said, "It doesn't exist."

He also was asked about Rothkopf's published allegation that he plotted the killing of a Victoria banker.

"People who know me know I've never entertained the possibility of killing anybody except maybe a newsman once or twice," Yarbrough said.

He said that the 1974 Chevrolet in question in the alleged title forgery actually was sold to Rothkopf in late April 1975. He said the car was used in his law firm but no longer was needed. "One thing you don't need is an extra car hanging around, so I sold it to Mr. Rothkopf," Yarbrough said.

He said the allegations against him were "orchestrated by persons with ulterior motives...the general acceleration of adverse publicity—that ought to be quite a message to those people who are thinking people...what has happened to me should be of great concern to every person who treasures his liberty."

Yarbrough predicted he would survive his "ordeal," including disbarment proceedings and various allegations against him.

Social Security hike given local residents

Social Security recipients will receive a 5.9 per cent cost-of-living raise in their checks Saturday, according to Don Minyard of the Social Security office here.

The raise will increase the amount of dollars flowing into Howard County from $934,700 per month to $989,847 per month, an increase of $55,147. There are 5,358 residents receiving the funds, for an average increase of $10.30 apiece.

According to Minyard, the raise is nationwide, figured by the Bureau of Commerce after the cost of living has gone up.

Trucking firm agrees to fix park damage

The CCI Trucking Company of Coahoma has agreed to repair all damages caused by their trucks at Comanche Trail Park over the weekend, according to Jerry Foresyth, assistant city manager.

CCI trucks are hired by Cosden Refinery to haul water which is used in the oil refining process. The firm has had an agreement with the Colorado River Municipal Water District for the last two years giving it permission to haul water from the reservoir at Lake Thomas, according to Foresyth.

Recently, with the heavy rainfall, the water at Lake Thomas became muddy and unsatisfactory for Cosden's use. Foresyth gave CCI permission to haul water from Comanche Lake while parked on a ramp behind the Dora Roberts Community Center.

But on Saturday, according to Foresyth, a CCI driver decided on his own to haul from a different spot. The truck was backed off of Highway 87, through a gate in the park, and down the Comanche Trail Park hike and bike trail. In the process a tree was torn up and deep ruts were dug into the ground where the trucks became bogged down, according to Foresyth.

The assistant city manager contacted CCI officials this morning, and they agreed to completely repair any damages caused by their drivers.

Also, nearby residents had complained about the noise made by the trucks when hauling from the ramp at the tennis center. So CCI officials agreed to begin hauling water from Highway 87 using long hoses so as not to damage the landscape in the park.

"That should take care of it," said Foresyth.

"That should do it," said Foresyth. "We have always cooperated with Cosden, and they have been very cooperative with us. We would certainly rather supply water to them under any circumstances than have them forced to shut down," he added.

Offbeat: Tourists, skip this PUT-IN-BAY, Ohio (AP) — Among the summer resort towns of the Midwest, tourists can be a valuable commodity. So can good, flat skipping stones.
Officials on Mackinac Island, Mich., let it be known a week ago that its shoreline is short on the rocks used in the annual Fourth of July rock-skipping contest.
Now Put-In-Bay has announced its willingness to ease the shortage — in the hope that Mackinac will send a few tourists to Ohio.
"The people of Put-In-Bay are jealous because they have far more skipping stones than tourists," said Kendra Larcey, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, "so we are mailing the island a box of stones in hopes they will ship us some of their tourists."
Five pounds of "nice flat stones" is being mailed to the Mackinac Chamber of Commerce.

FATAL FALL — Three men and a woman from South Carolina were killed Tuesday when the tractor trailer in which they were riding flipped over a bridge railing and fell 70 feet to the street below. Another South Carolina woman was critically injured in the nighttime accident in downtown Pittsburgh. Police have not determined the cause of the accident.

Carter-Brezhnev meet?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today he hoped the chances for a meeting with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev were good but said he did not know whether he would meet with the Soviet leader this year.

The President made his comments to reporters after his foreign policy assistant said Carter and Brezhnev were certain to meet but refused to say whether such a session would take place this year.

The President spoke with reporters outside the Oval Office after concluding talks with Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez.

Asked whether the chances for a meeting with Brezhnev were "pretty good," Carter replied "I hope so."

Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security adviser, told reporters that "at some point, it's certain they'll meet."

Asked whether conditions of the U.S.-Soviet relationship were proper for a summit between the two leaders, Brzezinski said "the climate is all right."

.44 killer sought

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City police have stepped up their manhunt for "Son of Sam," the .44-caliber killer. On Tuesday 10 detectives were added to the force of 50 officers working full-time to catch the killer who has called himself the "Son of Sam." The New York Daily News offered a $10,000 reward Tuesday for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer. In 11 months, 11 persons have been shot in Queens and the Bronx by the killer, the first on July 29, 1976, the latest last Sunday morning. Four women and one man died. One woman remains paralyzed.

Carter not concerned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decision upholding the government's seizure of Richard M. Nixon's White House papers is not causing any immediate consternation in the Carter administration. Presidential counsel Robert Lipschutz said Jimmy Carter already has indicated he wants the public to have access to the records of his administration, to whatever extent possible.

B1 decision near

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is nearing a decision on whether to approve production of the B1 bomber, which would be the most expensive combat plane ever to enter the U.S. defense arsenal. The President, who termed the B1 "wasteful" during his campaign last year, has been reconsidering his position. He is due to announce his decision at a news conference on Thursday.

Fetuses found in jars

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Police here are still unable to discover why four human fetuses, floating in coffee, were kept in pickle jars in the refrigerator of a midwife and licensed pharmacist who was charged last Friday with injuring a child.

Officers and members of the Cameron County District Attorney's staff made the grisly discovery Monday when they raided Miguel S. Orihuela's clinic.

Orihuela, 44, was arrested Friday and placed under a $500,000 bond for allegedly crushing the head of an infant with surgical forceps during delivery. The child spent five days in the intensive care unit of a local hospital and is now listed in stable condition. However, doctors say the child's brain may be damaged.

Democrats fighting for pay raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives is preparing to vote on an amendment that would have congressmen give back the $12,900 raise they got in March.

Congressmen hoping to repeal the pay raise maneuvered toward a vote today that would focus only on the pay of House members and would not tamper with increases given at the same time to some 20,000 top level federal employees.

Funds to continue the pay raise into the next fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1, are in a legislative appropriation bill before the House. It is these funds the amendment would cut.

An extremely close vote was predicted.

If the House members delete the funds to cover the pay raises for the next fiscal year, the Senate would not have to go along. Senators could vote to put the money for their raises back into the bill. Then the measure would be sent to a conference committee, which would try to reach a compromise agreeable to both chambers.

The March pay raise went into effect automatically without the need for a vote. It raised the salaries of congressmen and senators from $44,600 to $57,500 and included pay increases for the vice president, Cabinet members, other high officials and top civil servants and federal judges.

The House Democratic leadership, fighting to preserve the pay raise, sought approval of procedures that would make any amendment to roll back the increase apply to all recipients except the judges. The Constitution protects judges against having their pay reduced during their terms.

Many congressmen indicated that if the congressional salaries could be linked to those of the federal employees who received raises at the same time, the House members would find it easier to justify a refusal to give back their raises. They could say they were simply thinking of all those deserving federal executives.

Members of the House were also in line for another pay hike, a cost of living increase, on Oct. 1. But on a 397-20 vote Tuesday, the House sent to President Carter a bill denying the cost of living raise to anyone who received the big March increase.

The cost of living raise has not been computed but is expected to be about 6.3 per cent, which would have amounted to about $3,500 for members of Congress. The great majority of federal employees will be eligible for the adjustment, due Oct. 1.

Police beat Joy ride bit costly

Local police had a relatively quiet Tuesday. Vandals took an expensive joy ride on a tractor trailer owned by the McKinney Oil Company of Lamesa. The tractor, which does not require a key to start, was parked at 3101 West Highway 80.

The vandals climbed aboard and drove the tractor around the lot. They neglected, however, to release the brakes, and caused $1,000 worth of damage to the eight tractor tires.

Vandals also threw a rock through a plate glass window at the Firestone Store, 507 E. 3rd, sometime late Monday night. The window was valued at $150.

Three mishaps were reported Tuesday.

Vehicles driven by Eugene T. Sequell, 302 S. Gregg, and Vina H. Morris, 1108 Pennsylvania, collided in the parking lot of the Gregg Street Safeway Store, 3:47 p.m.

A vehicle driven by Debora L. Russell, 1105 E. 15th, collided with a parked vehicle belonging to James M. Campbell, 2104 Marcy, in the parking lot of Gibson's Discount Store, 3:34 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Judy R. Willett, 2304 Lynn, collided with a vehicle driven by Lucy A. Britteon, 302 Gregg, 12:12 p.m.

Confession key issue

Burglary trial snag

The burglary trial of Johnny Lee Williams ground to a halt Tuesday in the midst of a pre-trial hearing, after Judge Ralph Caton dismissed the jury at 3 p.m.

Williams took the stand at 2 p.m. with the jury waiting outside the courtroom to be seated. He testified in his own defense that his signed confession should not be used in evidence against him.

Ray Bedford concerning the circumstances of the confession. District Attorney Rick Hamby established that Whittom had read the prisoner his rights before the signing, that Williams had been allowed to look at the confession, and that he had told the deputies that he had no questions and understood the confession before signing it.

"So he never promised you anything?" queried Hamby. "I felt like he did," replied Williams.

Garza also based the motion to squash the confession on his client's illiteracy.

Williams' mother briefly took the stand to testify that her son had been passed through the sixth grade on age only, that he could understand some things said to him, but that he could not understand the language surrounding his rights and the confession.

The motion to investigate the confession was introduced by defense attorney Eddie Garza after the jury was chosen. Caton said later that this forced him to keep the jury outside until the decision on the confession was made.

Testimony was heard from Howard County deputies Bill Whitton, Eddie Owens, and Garza stressed the point that his client had believed he was signing the confession in exchange for probation. Williams, while on the stand, testified that Texas Ranger Eddie Almond, who visited Williams in the county jail, had told him he would "try" to get him probation.

Garza said he wished to call Eddie Almond to the stand, but the Texas Ranger was unavailable.

District Judge Ralph Caton, at 3 p.m., dismissed the jury still waiting in the hall. Twenty minutes later, the hearing ended, to be resumed when the case is again set for trial.

No final decision on the admissibility of the confession was made.

Economic growth drag indicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today its index of economic indicators declined in May for the first time in four months, possibly indicating some slowing in the rate of economic growth in months ahead.

The Commerce Department said its so-called composite index of leading indicators decreased two-tenths of 1 per cent in May. While that was a small decline, it followed increases of five-tenths of 1 per cent in April and nine-tenths of 1 per cent in February.

The index, which is a composite of 12 individual economic statistics, is designed to foreshadow future trends in the economy.

The May decline, however, will not be taken too seriously by government and private economists since most feel it takes at least three months of upward or downward movements in the index to establish a trend.

There has been other evidence that the steady economic growth under way since late winter may be slowing somewhat. Steel producers have reported a decline of orders in recent weeks and retail sales by major department stores have been disappointing in June.

Stove burns produce loot

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A 15-year-old San Antonio girl whose chest was badly burned in an accident ten years ago was awarded $230,000 in damages today by the Texas Supreme Court.

The court upheld lower court rulings that Magic Chef, Inc., must pay the money to Sandra Jo Shifflett because of a defectively designed stove.

Miss Shifflett was five years old in 1967 when she pulled a chair up to a stove to reach fudge that was cooling on the back burner.

Reaching over the stove, she rubbed against a control knob, causing a front burner to ignite. Her blouse caught fire and she received severe burns to her chest and the rest of her upper torso.

In closed session, the board is expected to meet with legal counsel, regarding the status of the proposed desegregation plan. The plan is currently under study by HEW, and no official word of its acceptability has been received here.

Joe Murphree

NOLAN — Joe Murphree, 21, of Sweetwater, died when his crop-dusting plane crashed as he was spraying cotton about four miles east of here about 3:30 p.m., Tuesday.

The plane burned as a result of the crash.

The accident occurred when Murphree climbed to make a turn as he finished spraying a section of the field. The engine failed, causing the craft to go into a nose dive.

Nolan is a small farming community located about 17 miles southeast of Sweetwater on FM Road 126 about five miles from the Nolan-Taylor county line.

First Federal denied zone change in Odessa

First Federal Savings and Loan of Big Spring approached the Odessa City Council Tuesday to request a zone change for a branch of the firm to be constructed near Wynwood Mall. The request was denied.

The firm owns property in the 1800 block of E. 42nd about two blocks west of the shopping center and were applying for a branch at that location.

The request was denied by the Odessa Planning and Zoning board ten days ago and the Big Spring firm had then appealed to the city council.

Charles Beil, president of Big Spring Savings and Loan, said, "We will pursue this further in the future."

He did not know at this time at what other location, they would seek to place the branch firm.

First Federal Savings already has one branch opened in Snyder last year.

The council voted four to one against a request by the firm to change from single-family to office zoning at 1809 and 1811 E. 42nd.

Odessa used the argument that they did not want to spot zone. Beil said that there are commercial ventures across the street, but that on the side they were looking at, it was all still residential.

"They all will eventually go commercial, and it's just a matter of time," Beil said here today.

Beil indicated that, "In the meantime, we will probably pursue another location."

Within a few months, the proposed connection between East Loop 338 and State 158 in Midland County is expected to change the picture where the entire area will probably become commercial.

Brownwood to lure flag wavers

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — It began when a group of folks in this West Central Texas town decided to get back to "basic beliefs" and ended up with a real red, white and blue flag waver. "I started studying these rock festivals," said funeral home owner Groner Pitts. "I may not agree with what goes on there but, by golly, they are well organized. I said, by golly, we ought to do something like that."

Pitts' idea took hold and before long a 400-member committee launched Brownwood's first annual Freedom Week — complete with Anita Bryant, flags and a little thing called the brocade crown chrysanthemum.

"We figured it was time that a little town in Texas went back to the basic beliefs," said Pitts. "It may sound corny, by golly, but I'm going to be honest. This week is for motherhood, brotherhood and apple pie," Pitts said. "This is the greatest country in the world. I don't know anyone trying to get out but I know there's a lot of people trying to get in."

To kick things off, Brownwood's Little Leaguers distributed American flags to residents the past week. The festivities will continue through Sunday night and wind up with Miss Bryant's appearance.

Work has also started on a 10-foot hole — make that bomb crater — for the brocade brown chrysanthemum. Actually, it's a giant skyrocket being made for the celebration by a Fort Worth firm.

"It's the biggest fireworks shell that's going to be shot this year," said Pitts. "It's 260 pounds and it goes up 2,000 feet before going off. We have to drill a hole in the ground 10 feet deep to get the dudgum thing in."

Storms dump rain in West Texas

By The Associated Press

Bristling thunderstorms swatted parts of far West Texas and the Panhandle-Plains sector during the night, dumping torrential rain in places and inflicting wind damage at some points.

By this morning most of the turbulence subsided and steamy heat held the state in a clammy grip.

As much as four inches of rain in one hour poured down at Terlingua, a Big Bend hamlet known as site of an annual chili cooking contest. Radar detected rainfall at rates of two to three inches elsewhere in that vicinity.

Winds gusted up to 60 miles per hour around El Paso. They smashed the windows of some homes just north of there at Canutillo and Anthony as the storms reached across the state line into New Mexico.

Another area of heavier storms ranged westward from near Snyder, Lubbock, Plainview and Childress.

Skies were partly cloudy to cloudy nearly everywhere in the state and forecasts promised little change. Another round of scattered thunderstorms was expected in West and North Texas by evening.

Tuesday's top temperatures hit 100 degrees at Fort Worth, 102 at Childress and 104 at El Paso and Presidio.

FORECAST Partly cloudy through Thursday with widely scattered, mainly night thunderstorms. Warm days and mild at night. Low tonight: mid 60s north and mid 50s mountains to mid 70s southeast. High Thursday near 90 north to near 105 Big Bend.

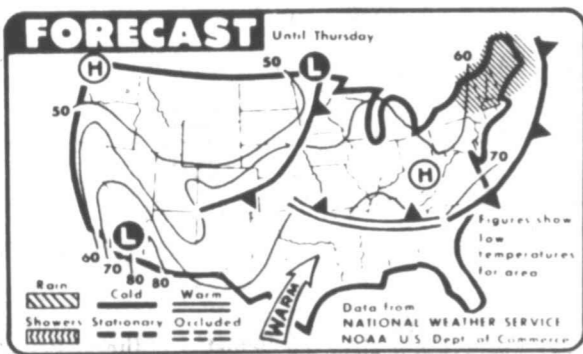

EXTENDED FORECAST WEST TEXAS: Scattered afternoon and nighttime thunderstorms, mainly central and north Friday through Sunday. Otherwise continued seasonal temperatures. Highs mostly in the 90s except 100 to 105 along the Rio Grande. Lows in the 60s north to 70s south except 50s mountains.

Seal coating project okayed in Colorado City

COLORADO CITY — City councilmen approved a street seal coating project of 88,600 yards during the summer months when they met Tuesday night.

It authorized city manager, James Campbell to let bids or add the project to the contract of Bobby Nobles, contractor, who is currently putting in some new city streets.

In other action, the council approved naming the former Webb Air Force Base auxiliary strip the auxiliary Municipal air strip. Several alternatives for use of the property were discussed with no final decision made. The property becomes city property again on Thursday.

The council also authorized purchase of a two-cubic-yard sanitary loader with bid dates to be announced.

They approved paying $500 for help in setting up a state health office in the Wallace Center.

It was announced that work on the Ruddick Park restrooms had begun. They also approved the city manager taking informal bids on a riding lawnmower for the park system.

Shark scare continues

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Swimmers and beach goers along the Texas coast are so jumpy following the shark scare three weeks ago that any fin sticking out of the water creates excitement.

A report that another school of sharks had appeared off shore late Tuesday was dismissed today by the Coast Guard.

"They were dolphins," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Several thousand sharks moved into the area earlier this month and roamed up and down the coast for several days as close to the shoreline as 20 yards. Marine biologists said the sharks apparently were attracted by the abundant small fish and shrimp in the clear waters of the Gulf.

One marine science student was bitten on the arm by a shark.

Domino capital of the world?

The idea that Big Spring has been looking to draw statewide attention to our town may be surfacing.

Two things are happening: First, there is the upcoming publication of a new book by two Big Spring men on a rather unusual subject.

THE SUBJECT is "dominoes," and the co-authors are businessman George McAlister and Lloyd McLeod, manager of Pinkie's Liquor Stores in this area.

The name of the book is "Dominoes, and there is not one anywhere in the world, and there Texas Style," and 10,000 copies of it will be off the presses in early August. I talked with McAlister this week, and he said a busy two years had been mainly spent in preparing the book. He added that a main motivation in doing it was to capture on paper what his co-author, McLeod, knows about domino playing, which apparently is considerable.

The second thing that is happening, and it is only in the planning stages, is the possibility that Big Spring might host a world champion domino playing contest.

McAlister said that there is not one anywhere in the world, and there should be. The idea has gained momentum support by Paul Meek, a former Big Spring resident who is president of American Petrofina in Dallas.

In the days when Meeks was president of Cosden, he played dominoes with the devoted Big Spring participants.

AMERICAN PETROFINA is giving consideration to sponsoring the event, which would most likely be a huge domino play-off in the new Howard County coliseum sometime in the first half of 1978.

The idea strikes me as one with great merit because there is nothing like a domino player. I think that they might come from all over the state, nation and maybe even the world to have a shot at claiming one of the titles.

It's not hard to imagine the event growing to rival other world championship contests, and maybe even being covered play-by-play through ABC's Wide World of Sports.

So shuffle them up, boys. The domino players may yet have their day.

Smith's last card

Evans, Novak

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — Prime Minister Ian Smith, dubious that the latest initiative by Great Britain and the United States will bring a political settlement for Rhodesia, is ready to make a new long-shot try for moderate black government intended to pose a test of sincerity in London and Washington.

In an interview at the Prime Minister's office, Smith could hardly have been colder about the Anglo-American effort conducted by British Foreign Secretary David Owen. But he made clear the alternative was not a war of attrition where time is on the side of the guerrillas. "I do reassure you that I have got other thinking," Smith told us. "We have other irons in the fire."

TO IDENTIFY the irons now, the Prime Minister said, would be "bad tactics." He did not totally rule out his own resignation and replacement by a black man but seemed far more inclined to seek the same goal in two steps — perhaps through elections. Smith is unquestionably in tune with South Africa's intent for Rhodesia: quickly establish a black government which surely would be rejected by "front-line" black African states bordering Rhodesia but could confront the West with difficult choices.

So, Ian Smith, having stubbornly staved off the whole world for 12 years running Rhodesia's white minority government, is about to play what may prove his last card. Although his long suit is doggedness rather than dexterity, how he plays his card may determine whether Rhodesia's belated changover to black government shall be orderly and Western-oriented or chaotic and Community-aligned.

A signal that something new was up came June 15, when R.F. (Pik) Botha, South Africa's foreign minister, conferred in Salisbury with Smith and his cabinet for three hours. Before coming here, Botha was privately musing whether Washington and London could reject democratic elections on a broad-based black government put in place by Smith. Was this discussed here June 15? Smith would not tell us, but he did not deny it.

IN OUR interview, Smith was less equivocal about the Anglo-American initiative. He predicted black Rhodesian leaders backed by guerrilla forces would reject elections but noted Dr. Owen's statement that this would not prevent settlement. Does Smith think this reversal of past British policy will stick? "One 'hopes' he will abide by it," Smith said icily.

The reason for pessimism about the Anglo-American effort, Smith went on, is resistance to "the necessary safeguards in order to insure the confidence of white Rhodesia." He may only be storing up bargaining chips by his proposal that voting be limited to "qualified" LACKYS — totally unacceptable to everybody else concerned. But on maintaining the Rhodesian police and army and a trust fund providing financial guarantees to white Rhodesians, Smith is deadly serious.

Given the impasse, liberal white businessmen here, who criticize Smith for always reacting rather than initiating, fear he will commit Rhodesia to waging an unwinnable war. But the Prime Minister — while contending "people would be amazed at how long Rhodesia can go on, if we 'have' to" — conceded he is "concerned" about white emigration which is "having an effect on the economy and the military effort."

Heart a target for rheumatic fever

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a medical problem and I wonder if it is worth seeing a doctor about. I am 26 years old and had rheumatic fever as a child. Because of that I now have something called "aortic insufficiency." I have a check up for it once a year.

Recently I had a bout with the flu and ever since then my heart beat has kind of gone out of whack. I can feel it and when it goes on for about five minutes I get dizzy. Once I even passed out for a few minutes. Is this normal with this kind of heart problem? Do you think it will go away by itself? — N.C.

Rheumatic fever can leave permanent heart damage, which the victim must reckon with the rest of his life. The aortic valve is a frequent target of such an illness. That is the valve that controls blood flow from the heart to the aorta, the body's main artery. With rheumatic fever there can be a scarring (thickening) of the valve and the blood flow can be altered (aortic insufficiency).

It's important to understand this possibility. You are wise to have your annual check up. If heart damage did occur, you have to become extra alert to such things as flu infection. Bedrest is important, more so than for non-rheumatic fever patients. They should receive maximum possible protection against the flu viruses.

Your dizzy spells can be directly related to this aortic insufficiency. You should report them. An electrocardiogram will show any difference between your present heart beat and what it was the last time.

One can't predict whether this will go away by itself or require specific treatment. Your anxiety about the condition isn't helping matters. You should have this matter checked just to be on the safe side.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have what my mother believes is a bone spur on my heel. I was wondering what would have to be done to have it removed. Does it require hospitalization? I am a young man active in sports, and I'd like to wait until after summer for surgery. When should I see a doctor? — J.B.

Neither you nor I nor your mother can tell on sight whether you have a bone spur (a bone protrusion). An X ray of the foot is the only way to tell. Bone spurs in one your age are not common. I think you may have to settle for another diagnosis — "painful heel." This can be the result of inflammation or undue pressure on the bursa under the tendon that wraps around your heel and attaches under the heel bone. In most cases pain can be relieved by removing the pressure as with a soft cushion in the shoe at the heel. Hot soaks and rest can help, and hydrocortisone injections have been used for this.

As to when to see a doctor I suggest now is as good a time as any, and forget the business of surgery and hospitalization.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you please explain "bacillary pneumonia." How long does it last and what causes it? — M.S.S.

Bacillary pneumonia is the type caused by a coccill germ, usually the pneumococcus. Treated promptly and appropriately one should be over it in from 7 to 10 days.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When they talk about "fat-free milk" or "fat-free" this and that, does that mean it is lower in calories or free of calories? I'm confused. — F.L.

Fat-free doesn't mean calorie-free. Take milk. Fat free milk contains on the average about half the calories you get in whole milk. The fat-free milk still contains protein and carbohydrate calories. The same applies to other products.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to have some recipes that I can use to cook for my dad. He has an allergy to eggs. I would like recipes that exclude them. — J.P.

There are many good eggless recipes. A hospital dietician would be able to provide some. I have seen some mouth-watering examples, such as a delicious cake that contained no eggs. If you can get to a library look for a copy of Dr. Claude A. Frazier's excellent book, "Coping With Food Allergy." It contains many tempting recipes for all sorts of allergic needs. Quadrangle is the publisher.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

I think it's time someone took up for the policemen in our town. We can at least give them a little praise, since we don't give them a decent living wage. They work extra overtime hours without time and a half like the rest of the working people. They are humans and have families to feed and bills to pay like everyone else and you have to admit they have to be financial wizards to make ends meet.

Add up all of the married men on the force and you might find 3 or 4 men whose wives don't work. These women work as a necessity, not for extras, or luxuries, but I mean to buy groceries and to pay rent and medical bills. We want protection for our town and a clean town to raise our children and grandchildren. We need to raise the wages of these men so we can get qualified help on our police force. Would you believe for the hours they put in these men would make more pumping gas? Remember, these are the men looking out for our lives and families and possessions. They work shorthanded because the pay scale is so low no one wants a job on this police force.

We train them and when they learn the basics they go to Midland, Odessa and other towns where the wages are more comparable with the cost of living. Now, I ask you, isn't this ridiculous for a town of our size? These men rarely get a weekend and have to change their plans frequently due to the shortage of man-power. Where else could you get people to be on call at all hours of the day and night for such a meager wage?

Like the evening Cosden had its major fire. Our firemen and policemen were out all night and I realize so were a lot of the rest of the citizens. I say let the ones complaining about the policemen get a raise, take care of their own problems when they need an officer to assist them. Like ones who complain about the fact that the taxes might be raised are usually the first to holler when they need a policeman to assist them. They want protection but they want it for practically free.

We pay for what we get. It's hard for these guys to do their jobs when they only have a supervisor and maybe 2 patrolmen on a shift for a population of 30,000. You've got to be kidding! These men risk their lives and put hardships mentally and financially on their families for you and for me. Would you like to be without law enforcement? It could come to that if we don't get these men wages on a halfway comparable scale to the other towns.

We, the people of Big Spring, need to learn to put first things first. If we can't afford to pay these men then we can't afford to pay these men then we can't, please, how we can afford a nice bike trail in the city park for our pleasure, among other things. As for me, I say our lives and well-being should be first on the list. Let's give our policemen praise, respect, and a fair living wage. These things are due them. So, Big Spring, let's put some serious thought into this.

Dear Editor:
I would like to comment, on the new doll museum in our city. I think it is a wonderful addition to our city.

I had out-of-town company for the weekend, to help entertain them, after lunch, I took them to visit the doll Longhorn Steer Museum.

Their reactions were one of real pleasure. I am so glad that our city is getting, places of interest for our children and friends to visit in our city. My thanks go to Mr. and Mrs. Simon Terrazas, for a very different and unusual, beautiful display of gorgeous dolls. As a doll collector myself, I doubly enjoyed our tour.

Ill-fated trip

Around the rim

Bill Werrell

My brother James leaves for vacation Friday, and through the excitement of it all I've been reminded of a vacation I took about two years ago.

It was a typical day in late March or early April in Upper New York state. The weather, alternating between freezing rain and snow all morning, had finally cleared to bring unusually sunny 50 degree temperatures.

IT WAS was for Bill Scannell and I to shrug off the guilt feelings caused by the fact that everyone else on campus seemed to enjoy plodding their way through spring puddles to class.

Not so for Bill and me. At last the weather we had been waiting for, had given us a chance to take that much deserved fishing trip, which we had planned since December.

With the slight guilt of joyously skipping three classes, we packed my car. First in were the plastic coated wire drink holders, followed by the fishing rods Bill had borrowed from his little brother, a tent, two cases of beer, and our prize; a one-man rubber raft with paddles.

Our destination was Kayderosers Creek, a good-sized stream legendary for its huge muskellunge and pike.

We stopped in a local bait shop where we bought two of the large size boxes of night crawlers, and a sure fire hook-em today $4 fishing lure. We also obtained some free advice on where and how to fish.

Once we got to our location, it didn't take long before we tired of putting up the tent and set off to do some serious fishing.

Both of us, self proclaimed expert fishermen, headed in opposite directions to get the big one. Since I bought it, Bill allowed me to use the sure-fire lure.

After about 50 casts into all the right places for fish, I decided it was time to move on. Bill had the same idea, and appeared from around a bend in the raft, saying "Come on Werrell, let's troll."

MOMENTS LATER the water line on the little raft was approximately three inches below the surface of the water in the high spots. The two of us, two boxes of worms, the fishing poles, and even some enthusiasm were now all perched on the inflatable boat.

Feeling sure that now we'd catch some, we both tried to relax and enjoy it. That was the first mistake. As the weight in the raft shifted toward the right, an uncomfortable feeling of clammy coldness was suddenly felt on the seat of my pants. A rapid overcorrection proved nearly disastrous, as the water flowed over the gunwale and into our laps.

One of the fishing poles all of a sudden caught a low hanging branch and was yanked with one of the cartons of worms out of the boat.

Trying to decide whether to dive for the pole or not, Bill stuck a naked foot into the water. Yes, it was too cold, and as he fell back into the boat a fresh gallon or two of icy river water surged into the boat.

That was enough, it was time to rest and dry out. Ahead of us we spotted an old tree which had fallen across the creek. Thinking it would be easy docking, and misjudging the speed of the current we grabbed hold of it.

Before we realized our mistake, the swift current dragged Bill and raft under the tree submerging them, and left me dangling from one of its branches.

Both of us were completely soaked through, and it took us nearly an hour and a half to get back overland to our base camp.

As it began to snow a little we called off the vacation and headed for home.

Not only had we no fish, but Bill's brother still wants to know what happened to his fishing rods.

Oil sabotage

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The story can now be told how terrorists tried to hijack a multimillion-dollar offshore oil platform and hold it for a high ransom. Other terrorists staged a hit-and-run grenade attack on a Pennsylvania refinery. Still other conducted a blow-torch assault upon pipe valves in California.

These dramatic incidents, withheld from the public by fearful federal authorities, have been revealed to the Senate Judiciary Committee in secret testimony. Dr. Maynard Stevens, a veteran pipeline safety expert, described the sabotage attempts as stark evidence that terrorists could disrupt the nation's fuel supply all too easily.

SO DISTURBED is the committee over the menace that the testimony was distributed to senators for their eyes only. We have obtained a copy, nevertheless, of the secret transcript. We have decided to withhold the how-to-do-it details for security reasons. But the public is entitled to know, as Dr. Stevens gravely testified, that "no thought" has been given to protect our vital oil facilities "against invasion or planned destruction."

He learned in New Orleans about the attempt to seize the offshore platform, "demanding payment of large sums of money. This has been done and kept out of the papers..." he said. "It's been kept very quiet but it has been done, to actually take the offshore platform as a hostage."

A $50 million platform installation, he pointed out, "makes a very great hostage." Yet only a single Navy ship patrols the oil facilities, which are probing under the sea for precious petroleum.

The reaction to a sabotage attempt, he said, is to hush it up. "We try to avoid TV coverage. We try to avoid newspaper coverage..." he said. "We hate to admit that we have enemies, you see."

Yet the lack of publicity, unfortunately, has created a lackadaisical attitude toward adequate security. A concentrated attack on oil refineries by a few well-trained men, Stevens warned, "would put us entirely out of business." Assaults on pipelines at bridges, underwater river crossings and pumping stations could wipe out the nation's oil and gas supplies for months, he pleaded.

Fast-moving motorboats could easily set fire to a series of offshore wells. Perhaps 10 or 15 people, coordinating their efforts, could send the United States into an economic tailspin overnight, he said.

Stevens warned that the Alaska pipeline, now pumping oil out of the Arctic, was "highly vulnerable." Even a "stray bullet from a hunter's gun could cause damage and serious problems," he said.

In a matter of hours, he claimed, two or three saboteurs could also "shut off 80 per cent of the natural gas going to the eastern United States." All they have to do, he said, is stage an attack in the right places — which, of course, we don't intend to identify.

Incredibly, the petroleum lines serving one-third of the East Coast are controlled by computers in a single building. "It's bad security," said Stevens. "It's putting all your eggs in one basket." If the computer should be blown up, he reported, the fuel supply would have to be shut down until it was repaired.

"An oil and gas pipeline system is like a watch," he explained. "A small part might be destroyed and it stops the entire movement." Yet what little security planning the oil industry is doing, he said, is "with friends and over cocktails."

THE GOVERNMENT isn't doing much better. "Each agency, military and civilian alike, expects some other agency to (do the) contingency planning," Stevens said.

Yet the assaults that have already taken place should be warning enough that tighter security is urgently needed to protect the national fuel supply.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: They tell me you are a fundamentalist — that you believe everything in the Bible as the inspired Word of God. But hasn't God made certain natural laws? And wouldn't He be refuting them if He broke them Himself? Which is the most dependable: natural law or the Bible — R.D.

DEAR R.D.: I call myself an evangelical, theologically. That is to say, I believe the Word of God to be just what it implies: God's Word. There are many miracles in the Bible which were given for specific purposes. For example, Jesus said regarding his miracles, "If... ye believe not me, believe the works, that ye may know" (John 10:38).

Since God made natural laws, He has the authority to transcend them.

He is omnipotent! This means He alone has the power to revoke natural law for His own purposes.

A former pastor of a certain Hollywood church once took his Bible and read the story of creation. "We really don't believe this, do we?" he said to his audience, as he tore it out of his Bible. As he read passage after passage, he tore out more pages. He finally got to the begats. "All some people have left of the Word of God is the begats," he said.

The whole story of redemption is a miracle. God loves us. That's a miracle. He sent His Son to die for our sins. That's a miracle. Christ is coming again. That's a miracle. There are many things about the Bible I don't understand, but I believe them. Yes, I believe the Bible to be the inspired Word of God, our one sure guide in an unsure world.

REVEALS THE FIGURES — Interstate Commerce Commission Chairman Daniel O'Neal uses a chart as he briefs newsmen in Washington Tuesday on oil company rates for use of the trans-Alaska pipeline. The figures at right are the rates which the ICC has said it will allow the individual companies to use as a pipeline charge.

Pope's warning ignored

ECONE, Switzerland (AP) — Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre ordained 14 priests and consecrated 16 subdeacons today in his crusade against modernization of the Roman Catholic church. He said he would continue to defy Pope Paul VI because "we refuse to collaborate in the destruction of the church."

Rejecting the Pope's threat to excommunicate him if he carried out the ordinations, the 71-year-old French prelate said: "We do not hesitate to continue on our course."

He charged that "mercenaries, wolves and thieves" had sneaked into the church to destroy it. "We will not lend a hand to them, we will not collaborate in this destruction," he declared.

do not want anything else." Lefebvre, a former archbishop of Dakar, also opposes Pope Paul's efforts to improve their church's relations with Communist governments and with other churches. Last year he accused the Pope of "dealing with Moscow, communism, Freemasonry and destroying the Church."

The traditionalist movement has enlisted many thousands of followers in France, West Germany, Italy and Switzerland who believe that the liberal reforms launched by the 1962-65 Second Vatican Council perverted Roman Catholicism. They are particularly insistent on the celebration of the Mass in the traditional Latin because to them Mass in vernacular languages is a symbol of the church's compromises with other churches and modern social trends.

Pope Paul suspended Archbishop Lefebvre in June 1976, from all priestly functions because he refused to close his seminary. He was the first bishop to be disciplined so severely in 150 years. But he continued to ordain priests trained in his seminary, to celebrate well publicized, well attended masses in Latin and to attack the Pope in sermons and speeches.

The Pope wrote Lefebvre last week that if he carried out the ordinations this week, he might be excommunicated. But the archbishop ordained a priest in eastern France on Sunday and went ahead with plans for the ceremony today.

Excommunication cuts a person off from the sacraments of the church and is the church's most severe form of punishment.

Oil firms told to cut rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for several oil companies are preparing court challenges to the Interstate Commerce Commission order that they lower rates on the trans-Alaska pipeline.

"We certainly intend to challenge it," BP-Alaska spokesman Frank Lickwood said Tuesday after the ICC ruled unanimously that tariffs proposed by the companies were too high.

The ICC decision could reap the state of Alaska millions of dollars in extra taxes from the eight companies that own the pipeline. It does not affect the ultimate cost of gasoline at the pump, however.

The eight had proposed tariffs of $6.04 to $6.40 a barrel for moving the oil from Alaska's north slope to the southern port of Valdez.

The commission said the rates should range from $4.68 to $5.10 a barrel — the rate for each firm depending on how much of the pipeline it invested in. Commission chairman Daniel O'Neal called this range "a reasonable maximum."

The commission's order is only temporary, however. After an investigation, expected to take seven months, into whether the oil companies' rate requests are just, the commission could still approve them.

Alaska's income from north slope oil is based on the wellhead selling price, which is the selling price in the U.S. minus pipeline and tanker charges. The lower the wellhead price, the less taxes the companies pay the state, which is why they would like to have a high transportation price tag.

Alaska Gov. Jay Hammond hailed the order as "a far-reaching, significant decision" for the state.

Hammond said the ICC decision, if sustained, will yield the state about $135 million more a year in taxes and royalties from north slope production than if the original rates had been accepted.

The oil companies were angry.

Sohio President Joseph D. Harnett said he was "astonished" by the decision. Mobile Oil said it was "shocked" by the ICC decision.

Several other oil company representatives called the ICC action unreasonable. They said they were ready to seek a temporary restraining order or an injunction in a federal court.

A spokesman for ARCO said, however, that his firm had not decided whether to take the case to court.

Mysterious power blackout probed

By the Associated Press

Central Power & Light officials are busy this morning investigating the mysterious cause of a power blackout that knocked out service to 45,000 customers in 15 South Texas communities.

Power either fluctuated momentarily or vanished completely Tuesday in most border towns between Del Rio and Zapata, which is about 50 miles south of Laredo.

The blackout was first noticed about 4 p.m. during rush hour traffic. Traffic lights were useless but police in Laredo and Uvalde, the two towns hardest hit, reported few fender benders and no injuries.

A Webb County sheriff's spokesman in Laredo said power was restored after about 6 p.m.

A spokesman for the Uvalde Police Department gave a similar report, but added, "We couldn't even get any quack calls. Our phones are hooked up on an electrical circuit and we couldn't get any calls at all."

CP&L spokesman Bob Noster said Tuesday night the utility had not discovered the cause of the failure but noted that CP&L supplies electricity to Mexico.

A second spokesman, Jim Burkhart, said the company initially thought the problem may have developed "somewhere in Mexico."

"The exact cause is not known," said Noster. "However, a unit at the Laredo power station was damaged. When this unit failed, the transmission system also experienced difficulty when a remote switching device failed to operate."

Noster said CP&L crews reported most of the power restored to affected customers by 6:50 p.m.

Power fluctuations were reported as far north along the Texas-Mexico border as Del Rio and as far south as Zapata, about 50 miles south of Laredo.

"My electric bills are going up the same as yours. Here's one thing I'm doing about it."

"At Texas Electric, where I work, our job is to provide you with the electricity you need. But higher construction and fuel costs are making it more expensive to do. I can tell just by looking at my electric bill. One thing I do at home is to keep a checklist right on my air-conditioning/heating unit. I have the months listed, and every time I clean the filter I check off that month—so I make sure I check it at least once a month. I couldn't remember it otherwise, and it's important. A dirty filter limits the air flow through there—and that uses more electricity."

Rotary officers installed

E. Ray Tatum of Big Spring State Hospital became the new president of the Big Spring Rotary Club in ceremonies Tuesday.

Tatum was installed by Odessa builder Louis Rochester, who is district governor nominee for West Texas.

Tatum succeed Jimmy Anderson, a Big Spring pharmacist who has headed the 80-member organization for the past year.

Other officers installed at noon in the Settles Hotel were: Charles Beil, vice president; Riley Foster, secretary; Hal Boyd, treasurer; and Bill McCree, A.J. Prager, Ray Don Williams and Steve Childress, directors.

The club also announced its annual "Rotary Man of the Year" award to Big Spring radio station owner Winston Wrinkle for his work in the community over the past 18 years.

The award was presented by Adolph Swartz, who heads the selection committee along with Ralph Brooks and Beil.

Wrinkle was cited for his current effort as head of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce's Industrial Team and for his work with the Legislative Action Committee in trying to save Webb Air Force Base.

Swartz noted that Wrinkle had twice been elected president of the chamber, although ill health prevented him from serving once, and that he was a national delegate and a member of the State Executive Committee of the Republican Party.

Former Rotary District Gov. Ralph McLaughlin introduced Rochester to the club as a builder, banker and the developer of Coronado Hills subdivision and apartments in Big Spring.

Rochester was presented with the key to the City of Big Spring by Mayor Pro Tem Polly Mays, who noted that the Odessa man must be visiting Big Spring with mixed feelings since a few years ago his plans to build apartments here met with some very vocal opposition. Mrs. Mays said she hoped that this was all forgiven and forgotten.

As he installed the club's officers, Rochester explained that their leadership was like the hub and the spokes to the Rotary wheel.

In the annual president's report to the club, Anderson said that he past year had been one of achievement for the Big Spring Rotary with the biggest gain being the formation of a second club. He also noted that the club had climbed from 1100 per cent participation in Rotary Foundation to 1400 per cent.

Anderson presented a $500 donation from the club toward incoming President Tatum's becoming a Paul Harris Fellow of Rotary.

Breath of Life leader named

Mrs. Phillip Reid of Coahoma has accepted the chairmanship of the 1977 Breath of Life campaign in Howard County.

The campaign was organized to provide funds for research in the fight to contain cystic fibrosis.

A little more than a decade ago, the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation was working to keep youngsters afflicted with the disease alive long enough to start school.

"Now we are trying to help some of those same patients, who have grown to young adulthood, enter college or find jobs," Mrs. Reid said, in accepting the appointment.

Cystic fibrosis, number one genetic killer of children, affects one out of every 1,500 babies born each year and occurs when a child inherits two genes for the disease, one from each parent.

"The parents don't have cystic fibrosis, but they are among the ten million carriers of the gene in the United States," Mrs. Reid said. "One goal of foundation-supported research is a test to detect those carriers. We don't need more reasons than those to actively support the Breath of Life campaign."

July 4 parade shaped

The Highland South Parade which has been a Fourth of July tradition in that neighborhood for seven years will be held again on July 4 at 10 a.m.

The neighborhood children are invited to participate at all age levels and enter decorated bicycles, tricycles, lawnmowers, golf carts and walk on foot down Highland South to the end of the street where a brief patriotic ceremony is held.

This year Winston Wrinkle will act as master of ceremonies and Dan Wilkins will give the prayer. Jack Butcher, a former prisoner of war, will be the speaker and Joe Whitten will furnish music.

Judges are to be Sonny Shroyer, Mrs. Helen Mahoney, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown and Mrs. Betty Robb. This year, Girl Scouts will be used as the color guard instead of Boy Scouts.

Parade marshalls are Daryle Hohertz and Jim Parks. There is also a possibility the parade will include a kazoo band.

The Veterans council is sponsoring a downtown parade of veterans at 8:45 a.m. from the former Malone-Hogan clinic to the flagpole east of the Courthouse, where there will be a brief dedication with Mayor Pro Tem Polly Mays as the main speaker.

The parade will be a foot parade of veterans to the dedication marker.

Jaycees are planning a day of games and booths in the Comanche Trail Park. They need more clubs as sponsors.

Anyone desiring to help with the event, contact Neil Roberts or Morris Molpus Jr.

The Evening Lions will sponsor a barbecue at noon in Comanche Trail Park.

Schools for potential drop-outs

Programs help youth locally . . .

By SUSAN HAMPTON
Under the direction of the federally funded Head Start program, more formally called the Comprehensive Educational Training Act, about 25 area young men and women are receiving new direction that could some day lead them to better and more meaningful lives.

The program, called the Pre-Vocational World of Work Career Exploration, is set up to allow a low-income, potential high school drop-out to work and go to school during the summer for a wage, according to Nabor Martinez, program director of the Human Resource Center of Howard County and one of the program's founders.

Begun as a one-day summer seminar for students two years ago, the program is now set up as a four-week program. The current session began June 6 and the last day for the students participating will be Friday, July 1, Martinez said.

The purpose of the program, he said, is not only to keep potential high school drop-outs in school, but to also expose the available job market to those who have graduated and who have already dropped out.

"We also want to encourage the students who have dropped out to take the test to receive the General Equivalency Diploma (GED) so they will have a better chance at a job they want," Martinez said.

The class, which lasts about two and half hours a day, five days a week, ac-ording to Ms. Wanda Spratt, instructor for the students in the program, consists of counseling techniques in writing applications and resumes and conducting interviews.

Role-playing in interview situations are conducted during the class time also, Ms. Spratt said.

The students then work at an outside job in the community approximately four hours a day.

There are different work sites for every student," Ms. Spratt said. "We try to match the work with the student's interests," she added.

For instance, a student who is interested in teaching will work at a local pre-school nursery. Another interested in nursing will work at one of the hospitals here, she said.

Field trips to various businesses and organizations comprise part of the class time. Field trips so far have taken the students to an oil well, the Veteran's Administration Hospital, the Wilson Ranch, the Big Spring Daily Herald, KBST Radio Station and Howard College, she said.

The students, ranging in ages from 14-21, are volunteers for the program, Ms. Spratt said. Few are chosen for the program because the ones who are interested in it and who need it the most are willing participants, she said.

Most of the students in the program come from Big Spring, but some come from surrounding areas such as Ackerly, Stanton and Coahoma, she said.

After participating in the program, the students are more knowledgeable about what they want to do after high school, she said.

A survey taken at the beginning of the program indicated that most of the students did not know what they wanted to do with their lives, she said.

"No stress is put on getting a college education, just what the students themselves feel is right for them," she said.

. . . and across nation

CHICAGO (AP) — Hundreds of teen-agers are doing chemical experiments in hospital labs, observing in stockbrokers offices, sitting in on college classes, volunteering their time to community service organizations and learning to fly airplanes.

They are participants in a growing number of programs designed to challenge, motivate and educate high school students to meet the demands of a changing society.

Many of these programs were reviewed for educators attending the recent meeting here of the North Central Association. The association is an accrediting agency whose members in 19 Midwestern states set educational standards for universities, colleges, elementary, junior high, middle and high schools, and for overseas dependents' schools operated by the Department of Defense.

Dr. Ewald B. Nyquist, former New York State Commissioner of Education, described several "optional learning environments" that are stimulating reform in public schools.

In New York, Rochester's School Without Walls operates almost entirely in the community. Students might study biology at college lab; chemistry classes might meet at the University of Rochester or a local hospital; business studies might include observing at a stockbroker's office or a local gas station.

The "Greenhouse" in Rockville Center, N.Y., is an alternative high school for potential dropouts providing them with the opportunity of combining part-time classroom study with direct experience in such fields as banks, business and social agencies.

In Ft. Wayne, Ind., Northrop High School has combined a traditional program with a "School Within A School".

SWAS concept in one building. SWAS, started in 1975 with two courses of study, has grown to four alternative study areas. Melvin Zehner, SWAS administrator, explained the program's operation:

The Community Based option enables students to combine classroom study mornings with for-credit service in the community during the afternoon.

The Inquiry Center, limited to 80 students, offers an accelerated academic program. Classes are held in a college atmosphere for major study areas. Students normally add up to three "electives" from the traditional program to their required schedule.

The SWAS Learning Center is for students who have scheduling problems or cannot function in a traditional classroom setting. They can work independently on assignments. The following year they can move back into the traditional program, or should an opening occur, into the Community Based program.

The Work Study Center is for educable mentally retarded students who spend half the day in class and half the day on community job training sites.

The flight training program at Sooner High School, Bartlesville, Okla., was started to motivate students not interested in math and science to sign up for classes. Basic concepts are explored through the study of meteorology, navigation, aerodynamics, aircraft construction, mechanics and aircraft performance, said Dr. Dale

Open house conducted

An open house was conducted by Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Moore Sunday afternoon at their Lake J.B. Thomas greenhouse.

A tour of the tomato and African violet houses, in which more than 100 attended from garden clubs of surrounding areas, highlighted the day.

Assisting with the open house were Mrs. C.L. Kirkland and Mrs. Pat Johnson, Council of Garden Clubs; Mrs. Cass Hill, Texas Star African Violet Club; Mrs. C.W. Clinkscales, Texas Bouquet Violet Club; and Mrs. Wanda Horn, Knapp Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Freda Murphy displayed several dolls from her collection and then gave them to girls attending. Boys received plants.

Door prizes, consisting of a sack of tomatoes or an African violet, went to Mrs. G.T. Adams and Mrs. Cecil Vorden, both of Big Spring; and Mrs. Donna Crawford, Tahoka.

Bride-elect given party

Miss Patti Porter was honored recently with a "pounding" in the home of Mrs. R.L. Keith.

A "pounding" is an old fashioned method of helping a new bride to stock her kitchen.

Miss Porter and her mother, Mrs. Robert Tinley, were given green and white checked gingham flower corsages to blend with the gingham flowers of green and salmon used on the refreshment table.

Assisting Mrs. Keith were Mrs. Glenn Allen, Mrs. James Cape and Mrs. Wayne Kuykendall.

Dear Abby

Conserves Water, But Marriage A Splash

DEAR ABBY: I realize that the water shortage in my area has caused a great deal of inconvenience for some, but count us as a couple for whom it has been a real blessing.

In an effort to conserve water, my husband and I decided to try bathing together, and all I can say is, "WOW!" It has opened up a whole new series of experiences for us. (He's 36 and I'm 35, we've been married for 14 years, and we have three children.)

To those who would scoff at this lovely kind of togetherness, if you haven't tried it, don't knock it.

JIM AND JANE IN MARIN

DEAR J AND J: Can it then be said that "the family who bathes together stays together"?

DEAR ABBY: My husband saves newspapers and magazines. We've been married nearly 12 years, and each year I have begged him to get rid of the two daily newspapers and the pile of magazines we get, but to no avail.

He keeps promising to go through them and cut out the articles he wants. He went through two years' worth about five years ago while he was out of work. But since he put all the clippings in one box at random, finding any one given article would be a major undertaking.

The crushing blow came this year when he had to store our lawn furniture in the family room because there wasn't room in the garage! (I refuse to let him store these magazines and newspapers in the house.)

I've threatened to throw the newspapers out or call the fire department, but he says I'm unreasonable because there's nothing wrong with saving newspapers and magazines.

Starting this year, I told him that if he doesn't cut out what he wants to save within a week of the time we receive the paper, I'd get rid of it. So far, it's been fairly successful, but it hasn't reduced the collection he's stored in our garage. Every time I go there, I feel like throwing a few newspapers away. He'd never miss them, but I've never deceived him and I don't want to start.

Any suggestions from you or others who have solved this problem will be greatly appreciated.

DESPERATE IN ANN ARBOR

DEAR DESPERATE: Tell him that he has until next fall to make room in the garage to store the lawn furniture because you will not store it in the family room another season. There's nothing wrong with saving newspapers and magazines, but when the accumulation becomes a nuisance and a fire hazard, it's time to lay down the law.

DEAR ABBY: You claim there's no such thing as a "frigid-dear"—only clumsy men.

As a former "clumsy" man, let me assure you that many men are conditioned through repetition to be clumsy. ("Not tonight, I have a headache," or, "Well, okay, go ahead, but hurry up and get it over with.")

Thanks to Dr. Freud, I found someone to "untrain" me.

Mobsters bootlegging cigarettes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interstate cigarette smuggling has become a highly profitable business for organized crime and often finances other illegal activities, a government advisory panel says. Cigarette bootlegging has become the most difficult revenue enforcement problem for many states, costing them $391 million a year, says the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. The commission recommended, in a report released Tuesday, that the United States mount a coordinated attack on the interstate cigarette smuggling, including making it a federal crime.

The commission said there is evidence that organized crime has obtained control of some tobacco wholesale operations in North Carolina as part of its smuggling network.

The report said organized crime's involvement in cigarette bootlegging is most prevalent in about a dozen Midwestern and Eastern states. While not naming all the states, the commission said New York State is most plagued by organized crime bootleggers.

"The tax rate disparity between New York City and North Carolina translates to a difference in price of $2.10 per carton, which provides a highly attractive profit opportunity and invites criminal activity," said the report.

The commission added that the volume of smuggling has forced some dealers into illegal activities to compete with the bootleggers.

The divergence in taxes, from 2 cents in North Carolina to 23 cents in New York City, is the major cause of the problem. The report called for state "restraint" in enacting increases in cigarette taxes because of the potential for criminal profit.

The commission said the lack of federal penalties hampers efforts to eliminate the problem. The report noted that local and state law enforcement officers are frustrated because the crime crosses state lines. It also urged tougher state penalties and more cooperation between states.

"The high-tax states should enter into cooperative agreements with low-tax states for detecting and reporting unusually large cigarette purchases that appear to be intended for illegal sale in high-tax states," the commission said.

JENNY JENSEN
... points out Australia

Aussie talks peanuts

By MARJ CARPENTER
Jenifer Jensen, 21, is visiting in the Big Spring area from Australia on the IFYE program.

This program is International Four-H Youth Exchange and Big Spring currently has a 4-H girl visiting in Poland under the same program. In turn, Jenifer is visiting here in the home of the local delegate's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buchanan. Jenny, as she is called, said that Dilgety Australia is paying her way. She said this is comparable to a farm and ranch supply firm in the United States.

Her dad is a peanut farmer in Kingaroy, Queensland. She said that she didn't think her father was aware that the President of the United States is a former peanut farmer, since "he doesn't go in for politics."

She said the name of her town originally meant Red Ant and that the soil there is sandy and red.

The Australian girl said that the Big Spring area is "similar to Western Queensland — flat with hills and a grass coverage." She said they had "another bush — not the mesquite."

She does not belong to a 4-H Club but belongs to a group called Rural Youth for young people from 15-26 years of age. "It is mostly people who live in the rural area although we have some urban membership. We go into competition for the trips overseas."

Jenny arrived first in San Francisco where she spent eight days. Then she came to Texas and has visited at Dublin, attended the 4-H Congress at Texas A&M, visited in a little rural town in South Texas called Somerset and then came to Big Spring. She goes next to Corpus Christi, on to Virginia and ends up in Washington, D.C.

She said that the different areas of the United States were quite different from each other. She said that people here seem to eat out more, eat more desserts and more fried foods and she was surprised when they wore blue jeans to the rodeo dance.

"We wear blue jeans, but we always wear dresses to dances," she added. She is a graduate of the University of Queensland and said that "In Australia, only about five per cent of the young people go to college. Here everybody seems to go."

She is trained to teach French and history, but currently is teaching geography and physical education. She said the state government, under the Department of Education hires all teachers and places you where there is an opening.

For the past four years, Australia has also had national health insurance. "At first it was optional, but now it comes right out of your paycheck. We either join a private health insurance firm or a Medi Bank," she stated.

"Everybody isn't happy about it," she added. She said that Australia has a Prime Minister who is elected by Parliament and that the Parliament is elected by the people.

Jenny also said that the Queen of England still visits Australia and visited there recently in her Jubilee year.

The young Australian said she loved our Mexican food, but does not like iced tea. "We drink hot tea," she added.

She also pointed out that at her home, "We serve the plates in the kitchen and bring them out, we don't pass all those bowls around."

The young traveler said that her dad's peanut crop ends up as peanut candy, packaged peanuts and peanut paste. "The dairy farmers will not let us call it peanut butter," she laughed.

She said that packaged peanuts are sold in Australia under different flavors. "We have beer peanuts, curry peanuts, and salt and vinegar peanuts, to name a few."

The Australian lass said that in the schools, the girls still wear uniforms in most locations. She said the music is much the same as here. "You can turn on a radio and music is much the same as here, except for the announcer," she quipped.

"All in all, Texans seem to be a lot like Australians in their nature and their habits. I am enjoying my stay," Jenny concluded.

New city maps about ready

Big Spring will soon have brand new city maps, compliments of the Tourist Development Council.

The maps have been printed and will soon be ready for distribution through the Chamber of Commerce and at local motels.

The maps include directions to the County Airport, the Big Spring Country Club, and Moss Lake outside the city limits. These had been missing on other maps.

Millions face threat of death from noxious fumes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like the 42 persons who died Sunday in a Tennessee jail, millions of Americans face the threat of death from noxious fumes given off by any number of household items that burn easily. Put a match to the cushy throw pillows that decorate your sofa and the smoke could quickly kill you.

Ignite any of the home furnishings made of foam plastic or the insulation in your house or the decorative beams in your living room and the same thing might happen. Or your mattress. In Sunday's fire, burning mattress padding made of polyurethane foam produced the fumes that quickly filled the Maury County jail in Columbia, Tenn. Items made of polyurethane and polyvinyl chloride are the most dangerous. So much so that the federal government is now studying what happens to the two plastics when they burn. The danger from the fumes is the subject of studies being conducted by the National Fire Prevention and Control Administration. Polyurethane is best known as the soft, foamy filling in pillows and some mattresses. Polyvinyl chloride is harder, often used as a flexible covering.

SAFE AT FIRST — In a blur of motion, an unidentified Cardinal runner finds the first base bag safely as the Oiler first sacker watches an overthrown ball. The Cards beat the Oilers 6-0 Tuesday night.

OUT AT HOME — The Devils' Rick Daniels has just scooped up a bunt and stepped on home plate to force out Pirates pitcher Jamie Phillips. The Devils went on to beat the Pirates 5-3.

WINDING UP — Tommy Gutierrez, Devils' pitcher revs up the old throwing arm as teammate Vince Coates prepares himself in the background. The Devils 5-3 win put them in the semi-finals tonight against the Cardinals.

'I don't wanna be a super star' -- Andujar

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher Joaquin Andujar frequently talks to the baseball before a pitch ("not like Mark Fidrych, like Joaquin Andujar") and doesn't want to pitch in the All-Star game.

"I don't want to pitch in the All-Star game and I don't want to be a super star," Andujar said Tuesday night after five hits to the Astros to a 5-1 victory over the San Diego Padres. "I just want to pitch good for the Houston Astros."

Andujar may be forced into super star status and the All-Star game if he continues his current performance. Andujar's victory boosted his record to 9-4 and marked his seventh win in eight starts.

"I look at the ball sometime and I say 'Okay, come on, let's go,'" Andujar said.

With a little help from Enos Cabell and Bob Watson, who drove in four of Houston's five runs, Andujar's conversations with the baseball were sufficient to subdue the Padres for the second straight night.

Houston took a 3-1 lead through the first five and onehalf innings on a groundout by Watson and a sacrifice fly by Jose Cruz in the first inning and Watson's double in the fifth. Gene Tenace's sixth inning triple provided San Diego's lone run.

Andujar singled in the bottom of the sixth and scored on Cabell's two-run homer to give the Astros the final victory margin.

"If I do go to the All-Star game someday, I won't get big headed," Andujar said. "I will always be Joaquin Andujar. I won't change just because I go to the All-Star game."

Bring back the good ol' days

From listening to some of the old-timers, news media, and Howie's pal Dick Young, the seemingly eternal bickering, salary disputes, out and out fights and general dirty laundry-hanging that is prevalent in the major leagues today is ruining the game . . . the death knell for big time baseball.

Oh yeah. Sounds to me like the pros took heed of Anita Bryant's publicity man's antics which have brought that orange-juice drinking celeb back from the brinks of oblivion.

The fans love the controversy. The more controversial, the more fans.

Point in fact. This past weekend, almost 700,000 money-paying fans attended major league games in two days, 681,020 to be exact.

That's some kind of mark for a sport that is supposedly twirling head-first into the can.

And wouldn't you know it. The top teams from each league that had the biggest numbers were the Yankees in the American, and the Cincinnati Reds in the National.

The Yanks, while destroying the Red Sox both days, tallied 47,481 and 55,039. In case you've had your head stuck in the comics for the past week or so, Yank Reggie Jackson and manager Billy Martin almost came to blows recently.

Fans that have been packing the parks since then no doubt consider it just as notable to be in attendance when a manager flattens a player (or vice versa) as when an Indy 500 nitro-burner plows into the stands. Ahh, the thrill of violence.

And guess who's packing them in over in the National League. The Reds of course. Tom "Terrific" Seaver and the whole gang of super stars help there, to be sure, but inner strife is bubbling up from the depths of those super-salaried mega-athletes.

My secret source in Cincinnati (Deep Red), laying aside his natural bias, says that jealousies among players are taking their toll. Even Pete (Weavly) Rose, the staunchest team player and hustler in recent history is dissatisfied and is making that point be known.

Cauthen 'Wimby' surprise not shy!

NEW YORK (AP) — Teenager Steve Cauthen, having lost the five-pound weight allowance given apprentice jockeys, obviously isn't affected by having to carry the extra weight.

Cauthen celebrated his first day as a full-fledged jockey Tuesday by riding winners in his first three races at Belmont Park.

The 17-year-old sensation raised his number of winners for the year to 287, tops in the nation. He booted home Crab Grass, $5.80, in the second race, Double Gemini, $5.40, in the third, and Smokey Lantern, $13, in the fourth.

All three horses came from off the pace, and after each victory, the crowds around the winner's circle mounted and the 14,477 fans applauded him loudly.

Cauthen's success did not surprise him. "I was an official jockey the first time I got on a horse," he said.

As an apprentice, Cauthen had 524 winners.

Cauthen returned to action last week after a month's layoff due to injuries.

"A lot of people were wondering how I would do without the 'bug' (the five-pound weight allowance he enjoyed as an apprentice)," Cauthen said.

He didn't keep them wondering for long.

JOHN MCENROE

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — "I'm not shy," says John McEnroe, 18-year-old tennis sensation from Douglaston, N.Y., in the understatement of Wimbledon's centenary tournament.

McEnroe, son of a lawyer, came here primarily to play in Wimbledon's junior tournament. He's scratched himself from that. He's got far more important things to do, like playing Jimmy Connors in the men's singles semifinal.

McEnroe reached the last four — the youngest in Wimbledon's history to do so — by knocking out Phil Dent, the Australian seeded 13th, 6-4, 8-9, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the quarter-finals Tuesday. In the previous round he effectively disposed of the very experienced Sandy Mayer of Mendham, N.J.

In the semifinals Thursday, he's due to meet Connors, the No. 1 seed and hot favorite. He's taking the prospect coolly. "I don't know I've even met him," he said.

McEnroe's passage to the last four hasn't been a quiet one. He's already drawn one rebuke for his language. And he threw a temper tantrum once or twice in his match against Dent when calls went against him.

"I'm very intense," he explained afterward, "but I've controlled myself here. Wimbledon is a great tournament, but I'm not letting it intimidate me. That way, you lose matches."

The prospect of playing Connors doesn't seem to bother him. But what to do with the prize money does. Even if he loses his semifinal, he'll have netted himself $6,800.

As an amateur, he won't be eligible for any prize money. "I don't know what happens," he said. "I think they give it to me and I have to give it up to someone else. We'll find out about that later."

McEnroe's victory over Dent was one of two shocks in the men's quarter-finals Tuesday. The other was the almost clinical elimination of Ilie Nastase from the singles by Bjorn Borg, the champion who beat Nastase in the final last year.

Borg's score Tuesday was 6-0, 8-6, 6-3 and he ran the wily but temperamental Romanian right off court with some of the best pinpoint passing shots seen on the center court this year.

Chris Evert upset

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Britain's Virginia Wade upset defending champion Chris Evert 6-2, 4-6, 6-1 in the semifinals of the women's singles of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships today.

Can I still be manager...huh?

OAKLAND (AP) — Billy Hunter's last move in his first game as Texas Rangers manager was to bring left-handed reliever Darold Knowles in to face left-handed batter Willie Crawford of the Oakland A's.

It didn't work. Crawford lined a one-out single to right field, scoring Wayne Gross from second base with the A's second run in the ninth inning, beating the Rangers 6-5.

"I didn't consider using a right-handed pinch hitter. Willie has 10 years of experience," said A's Manager Bobby Winkles.

Besides, the A's best known right-handed batter, Dick Allen, was somewhere other than the Oakland Coliseum.

"I don't know where he is," Winkles said half an hour before game time when it was clear that Allen, whose oneweek suspension had ended, would not be in uniform.

A's owner Charles O. Finley, who suspended Allen after seeing the player taking a shower during a game in Chicago, said after learning of his failure to return, "I'm not surprised."

Finley, also unaware of Allen's whereabouts, added that the first baseman will remain on the A's disqualified list — drawing no pay — until he reappears and is ready to play.

And it's anyone's guess whether Allen will ever play another major league baseball game.

The men in uniform Monday night produced an exciting game with an ending that was sweet for the A's, losers in 13 of their last 17 tries, and nightmarish for the Rangers.

"The bounces didn't go our way, that's for sure. But I'm encouraged. We played good ball. If we play like that all year, we're going to win more than our share," said Hunter.

The former Baltimore third base coach promised to be back on the job for tonight's doubleheader. Eddie Stanky, hired as Texas manager a week ago today, changed his mind and resigned after one game, a victory.

Former A's shortstop Bert Campaneris gave Texas a 5-4 lead with an eighth inning homer, and Rangers reliever Adrian Devine had retired 13 straight batters going into the ninth. Then Oakland began getting the breaks.

Manny Sanguillen bounced a ball off home plate for an infield single. Matt Alexander pinch ran, moved to second on a balk and scored on Gross' check-swing single to left.

"Gross didn't even want to hit the ball and he drove in the tying run," Hunter said.

"The way I've been going, I'll take any kind of hit," noted Gross.

Pats ink vets

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots have announced the signing of veterans Randy Vataha and Bill Lenkaitis and three other players.

Vataha, signed as a free agent in 1971, has caught 178 passes for 3,065 yards and 144 points in 80 National Football League games as a wide receiver. Lenkaitis, a center, is a veteran of eight pro seasons, six with New England.

Safety Willie Germany and linebacker Pete Barnes also signed contracts.

BOUNDING JIMMY — Jimmy Connors of the United States bounces across Number One court at Wimbledon Tuesday as he goes after shot by South Africa's Byron Bertram during men's singles match. Connors beat Bertram, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2 to reach the semi-final round.

Goodby, Spirit of '76

with Marj Carpenter

During the Bicentennial year, when we all learned many things, we joked a lot here at the office of how glad we would be to see them taking the Bicentennial flags down.

Everytime we got asked to take a picture of a Bicentennial flag going up, we'd cry for one to be going down.

A lot of the stuff we went to was plumb durned ridiculous. But a lot of it was good. And a lot of school-children and adults learned some American history they had forgotten.

In fact, the moments in history on television taught me a lot of history, I'd never ever heard in the first place. Among the things that were the most fun to write about locally was the series of articles on old houses.

Along about April 1976, shortly after the first announcement that Webb Air Force Base was to be closed, two trainer planes were painted with Bicentennial colors out at Webb.

One was called the Spirit of Big Spring and the other the Spirit of Howard County. They also had the number '76 and a fancy patriotic design.

We took colored pictures of them and were quite proud of them. In the closing down period that we are now going through, the government orders came down to get the Bicentennial paint off them. And I'm sure, that the spirit of Big Spring and Howard County will also be removed.

ONE LAST PICTURE — Col. Stanley C. Hanson, deputy commander for Resource Management; Col. Jerry S. Grimes, base commander; Col. Harry A. Spannaus, wing commander; Col. Jay T. Gannaway, deputy commander for operations; Col. Paul Brown, deputy commander for Maintenance and Maj. Edward C. Morton Jr., hospital commander, pause by the Spirit of Big Spring before it is repainted.

It's just as well, because the way the average citizen here feels about the Pentagon at this point — we wouldn't want those words on the planes anyway.

But it's sad. Because the military people stationed here actually stuck their necks out when they approved the painting of the planes in the first place. And Big Spring and Webb had a good thing going for a long time. They really liked each other. Maybe that's why the government had to shut it down. Nothing should work that well.

Almost all of us will lose some personal friends with the closing of Webb. And everything's all right as long as we don't let ourselves think of the political implications too much.

But when you do, you really can get freaked out. When I was in Biloxi, Miss., I took one of those little open train rides through the historical portion of the city and out through Keesler AFB. I was with a reporter from the Fort Worth Star Telegram.

We could not believe the money that had been spent on that Air Base. They had a fantastic several-storied hospital that could probably take care of most of Southern Mississippi. It was way more than needed for Keesler.

They had all kinds of modern buildings. They still had the old World War II buildings too, but it was pretty apparent that somebody was approving lots of cash to be spent at Keesler.

Their annex base had been turned into a beautiful modern retirement home for Seamen. The biggest shipyards in the South were not too many miles away and they had lots of military contracts.

Of course, their senator,

Sen. John Stennis just happens to head the Senate's Armed Forces committee. He's the same one who apparently saved Columbus AFB when all of the reports indicated that Webb was more efficient.

It's not very likely that anybody will run against him in Mississippi — not with the money that all of us taxpayers are pouring into that state via his stamp of approval.

And it's not very likely that anybody can do anything about any of it.

I just feel kind of helpless and a little bit sad as they peel the paint off the Spirit of Big Spring.

But hail and farewell. The indications that the city is going to fight back and boom are all around us. Building permits and new construction — real estate sales — sales taxes — everything is looking good.

The steering committee is trying to steer in the right direction and get us some industry and things are going to be all right ... out by the Webb fence.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

We are planning changes in the rates for calls to Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, and changes in the rates for some mainland interstate calls.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has filed a new schedule of rates with the Federal Communications Commission which decreases the charges for all dial-direct calls to Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, and increases charges for some Long Distance calls made interstate in the continental U.S.

The Company has asked that the new rate schedule for U.S. offshore points become effective July 1, 1977. The new rates are designed to more closely align rates for calls to Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands with the current rates for all interstate Long Distance calls within the forty-eight contiguous states. The charges for some continental interstate Long Distance calls would go up effective September 13, 1977. The combined effect of the above rate actions is designed to provide approximately a zero revenue change in Bell's estimated interstate Message Telecommunications Service revenues for this phase of rate integration.

The new rate schedules and supporting data have been filed with the Federal Communications Commission.

Basic charges for initial minutes for all calls within the contiguous forty-eight states remain unchanged. Additional per-minute charges will increase by one cent or less for out-of-state calls up to 431 miles.

In order to bring the charges for calls to Alaska and Hawaii more closely in line with the charges for similar calls made between the contiguous forty-eight states, the charges for the average call to Alaska and Hawaii (based on past usage) will now be reduced by 29% and 25% respectively.

Charges for calls to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands will be reduced as a result of restructuring and reducing the rates between the U.S. mainland and these points. Rates will be revised so that they are structured in the same way as the rates for interstate mainland calls. Charges will vary dependent upon the distance covered by the call and by the time of day and day of the week, and dependent upon whether or not the call is operator assisted. These changes in rates for calls to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands will result in a decrease of about 24% in the charge for the average call based on prior usage.

The following examples illustrate the new Long Distance rates between U.S. mainland and the offshore localities indicated:

Dial-direct rates apply for all offshore dial-direct calls completed from a residence or business phone without operator assistance. They also apply on calls placed with an operator from a residence or business phone where direct dialing facilities are not available. Dial-direct rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel/guest, credit card or collect calls, or calls charged to another number, because an operator must assist on such calls.

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to express our sincere appreciation to all our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the recent loss of our beloved mother, Ada Armstrong. For the abundance of food, the beautiful flowers and the sweet words of comfort we would like to share with you a poem she wrote about 3 years ago:

Oh, call it not death But that blessed sleep. Never again to wake up and weep. The morning shall come, the body shall rise And meet the dear Lord somewhere in the skies. Then cheer up dear who sadly weep For happy are they in Jesus they sleep. Yes, they are now free from sickness and strife, Then call it not death But Eternal Life. The Family of Ada Armstrong
