

DRAGGING — An unidentified protester, one of about 150, is taken to an awaiting bus on the Kent State University campus. The people are protesting the proposed building of a gymnasium that would take part of the hill where four students were killed by Ohio National Guardsmen on May 4, 1970 also arrested were parents of some of the students that were killed.

Kent State protesters peacefully arrested

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Police armed only with nightsticks moved across the Kent State University campus today, arresting more than 100 protesters defying a court order to abandon a tent city on the site where four students were killed seven years ago.

Those arrested included fathers of two of the slain students.

There was little resistance from the protesters, who had prepared themselves for the confrontation by linking arms and legs to form a square. As police took the demonstrators into custody one by one, they either walked or were carried to waiting buses to be taken to the county jail.

The demonstrators have been protesting the pending construction of a $6 million annex to a gymnasium near the site of the deaths and the wounding of nine others by National Guard troops during an antiwar protest on May 4, 1970.

A judge had ordered the protesters to leave the encampment, but also ordered the university to delay construction of the gym.

Among the first to be arrested were Martin Scheuer, whose daughter Sandy Lee Scheuer was killed in the 1970 protest; Arthur Krause, whose daughter Allison Krause was shot to death, and Alan Canfora, who was among the wounded.

The arrests began about half an hour after the 8 a.m. deadline set by a county judge. Before police moved in, the protesters were read the judge's order to leave the area and then individual copies were distributed. Demonstrators collected the copies and deposited them in a waste can.

Shortly before the 8 a.m. deadline, more than 100 persons had moved to the crest of a hill overlooking the site here the students had been shot. Faculty observers wearing yellow arm bands watched.

Residents of the makeshift tent city had voted Monday night to defy the court order to leave the campus before the deadline.

'Big Seven' favors school finance bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Spokesmen for three major educators' organizations endorsed Sen. Oscar Mauzy's $32.7 million public school finance bill today but said it provided too much for equalization.

With the Senate sitting as a committee of the whole, leaders of the Texas Association of School Administrators, the Texas School Administrators Council (TSAC) and the "Big Seven" districts said they favored the bill.

First up was Linus Wright of the Houston Independent School District, speaking for TSAC.

He said TSAC's biggest reservation about the bill was the large amount of new money it would use to equalize spending by rich and poor districts — $210 million.

"We have many poor children in districts of above average wealth. . . . We have not reached the poor children in above-average-wealth districts," observed Wright.

He suggested a smaller amount of equalization aid "until we have solved the problem of dealing with both poor children and poor districts."

Corpus Christi Supt. Dana Williams, speaking for the "Big Seven," said Mauzy's bill "provides a good balance between program improvements, improvements in compensation and taxpayer relief."

He said it should provide more for bus operations and observed that all of the seven biggest districts except San Antonio are under federal desegregation orders. Corpus Christi spends $100 per student above the state allocation for buses to implement its court order, he said.

Forrest Watson of San Antonio, representing the Texas Association of School Administrators, said his organization likes Mauzy's bill but also thinks it should put less into equalization.

Ezell votes for camera ban

County facing sex rights suit

Howard County Attorney Harvey Hooser told the commissioner's court Monday afternoon that he had been served notice that suit had been filed in federal court in Abilene alleging discrimination against two female Howard County Sheriff's office employees.

Deputies Bernice Nail and Rachel Shaffer, who have been involved in the suit for approximately a year, maintain that they are being paid inadequate salaries because they are women.

According to Commissioner Bill Crooker, although suit has been filed, the case will not necessarily come to trial. "The federal people encourage an out-of-court settlement," said Crooker. "We will certainly examine the problem."

The Court did not adjourn after Monday's session. They remained in session in order to deal with four issues next Monday when all members of the Board would be present. County Judge Bill Tune was out of town Monday.

The commissioners will make decisions regarding the equalization board and the values set by the tax collector, the tax rate for the 77-78 tax roll, appointment of two members to serve on the EMS committee, and consideration of legal action which has been brought against the court.

Crime up 61 per cent here

By BILL WERRELL
Although crime increased 61 per cent for the first six months of this year as compared to the same time last year, local police are doing a better job of solving crimes than they did last year.

Burglaries and the thefts account for the major increase in crime, with assaults and auto thefts following closely behind, according to a six-month report compiled by Captain Jimmie McCain.

In the short months between January 1 and June 30, of this year, total loss to burglaries, thefts, and auto thefts amounted to over $380,000 in property loss. Of this figure, nearly half $143,631 is due to burglaries.

Police Chief Stanley Bogard and McCain attribute the increase in the crime to several reasons; narcotics usage and addiction being at the top of the list.

BOGARD EXPLAINED that narcotics usage leads to crime because the user has an abnormal need for money to pay for the drugs he uses. He also said that certain drugs by themselves lead to criminal acts, such as vandalism.

Bogard said that with the overcrowding and huge number of criminal cases processed by the courts every day, a criminal is not at all sure now whether he will ever have to pay for his crime even if he is caught.

Bogard said that the Big Spring Police Department does not have enough officers at this time to cover the city, and there is no way that the officers can just patrol, because they have too many calls to make.

The rise of crime was also attributed to what Bogard called an increasing trend to temptation to "beat the system", by the general public, and a rising rate of juvenile delinquency.

THE NUMBER of burglaries committed is up nine per cent since last year, and theft is up 29 per cent. Auto theft is up 60 per cent, and assault is up 46 per cent.

However, the number of murders committed during the first six months of this year is down 300 per cent from the number committed last year in the same period, and narcotics trade and vice crimes are down 41 per cent.

There is also a bright side to the burglaries figure. Although there has been an increase of nine per cent in burglaries committed, the Big Spring Police Department has cleared 36 per cent of them, and retrieved much of the stolen property.

The clearance rate for the burglaries is up 11 per cent since 1976.

The average clearance rate on all major crimes in Big Spring is 20 per cent; two per cent points higher than the national average clearance rate on major crimes.

To await PUC action

City suspends rate hike action

By BOB BURTON
The Big Spring City Council today heard Jack Redding of Texas Electric Service Co. (TESCO) formerly request a utility rate increase. Redding told the city council that the increase would probably average out to about a 25.1 per cent overall cost rise. After a public hearing in which no one had any comment on the proposed hike, the council agreed, on the advice of City Manager Harry Nagel, to suspend any action for 120 days until the Public Utilities Commission has held its hearings on the proposal.

Later in the meeting, Nagel asked for authority to possibly join with other cities in TESCO's service area and retain Don Butler, former Austin city attorney, as an attorney to appear at the PUC meetings representing the city.

"I want to stress that this is not an adversary position," said Nagel. "If, on the advice of the city attorney, we decide to do this, it would be because we should be represented at the hearings."

The council granted the authority. In requesting the increase, Redding cited several pressures on the utility, including decreasing reserves of oil and gas, higher costs of electric plants, and higher interest rates on loans.

He explained that by 1983, TESCO intends to double its lignite (coal)-derived electricity, increase its nuclear dependence to 17 per cent, and drop its gas and oil-produced power from 71 per cent to 19. The cost of building power plants has increased to 3 to 7 times what it was in the last decade, and the interest rates on the $400 million of loans required has increased from approximately 5 to 8 per cent.

However, Redding offered reassurance that TESCO's rates would not be on the top of the heap after the increase.

"We are among the lowest in the nation, and we are the lowest in the state right now," he said. "Even after increase we will still be in better position than many other Texas cities." Redding cited Austin, Brownsville, and El Paso as cities whose rates will still exceed Big Spring's.

In other action, the council accepted the first reading of an ordinance which would extend the late-hours permit of the county to private clubs in the city. Affected by the move introduced by Bob Lancaster of the Wooden Nickel Club would be that club, the Ramada Inn Club, and the Pump Club.

The motion was made by Mayor pro tem Mrs. Polly Mays, who added the Councilman Ralph McLaughlin proposed a raise in the motel occupancy tax from three to four per cent. The raise, according to McLaughlin, was permitted by law and would "balance out the taxes we pay when visiting other cities with the taxes they pay while visiting Big Spring."

Bids were awarded on hydrated lime by the bag to Austin White Lime Co., on aluminum sulfate to Russ Chemical Co., on liquid chlorine to SEC, and on activated carbon to Husky Industries.

Bids were hydrated lime — Round Rock, $48.80 per ton; Austin White bulk, $48.80 per ton; Austin White bag, $59.95 per ton; United States Gypsum, $48 per ton; United States Gypsum, bag, $59.95 per ton.

Aluminum sulfate — Stauffer Chemical, $132.20 per ton and Russ

No bids were received on a parcel of city property located near the cemetery. Mayor Wade Choate dropped the proposal.

On the request of Nabar Martinez, the Area Manpower Advisory Committee was disbanded. Douglas Cheney was appointed Howard County representative to the Regional Manpower Advisory Committee. Martinez recommended the dispersal of the committee because of lack of subject matter.

Milton Isiah Jr. was appointed to the Parks and Recreation Board, replacing Sam Earle.

The council agreed to advertise for bids on sealcoating. The bids will be let in units rather than cost per block.

The council concluded its meeting with a budget work session.

Action/reaction: Whole 9 yards

Q. What does the expression "the whole 9 yards" mean? I have traveled around the country quite a bit, and I had never heard that expression until I came to Big Spring. Since then I have heard many different types of people say it. Does it refer to a football game or a dump truck?

A. Apparently, the expression got its start many years ago when merchandising establishments sold material in bolts measuring nine yards. Some merchants refused to sell any part of it without selling all of it, which is the reason some of the clothing people wore looked a lot like some of the curtains found in a household.

Judge Bates removed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The case presented in the removal of Houston Dist. Judge Garth Bates from office featured taped conversations, $50,000 in payoff money — and Bates, apparently unwittingly, helping to trigger his own downfall.

Bates' removal was effective Monday, and the Texas Supreme Court said it would not grant a rehearing on its decision.

One of the nine justices voting to remove Bates was Don Yarbrough, who also faces possible removal.

The supreme court unanimously accepted the recommendation of the state Judicial Qualifications Commission to remove Bates, noting that he had been charged with bribery.

Yarbrough is under indictment on forgery and perjury charges and also is the subject of a commission investigation.

Riots made impression

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Ten years ago today, rioting broke out here that left 26 persons dead, $15 million in damaged property and a lasting impression that Newark symbolized everything wrong with urban America.

Since those five days in 1967, changes have been made in the police department and city government. The city has a black mayor, and blacks are better represented in other areas of government.

But the lives of many of those who rioted are not much different.

Three admit contribution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three more congressmen, including former Democratic presidential contender Morris Udall of Arizona, admit they received campaign contributions from South Korean businessman Tongsun Park. But Udall and Reps. Melvin Price, D-Ill., and Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., say they received the money in 1970, when campaign contributions from a foreign businessman were legal.

Postal increase eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar says it will be at least 10 months before a proposed twofold postal rate plan could go into effect.

The Postal Service's governing board on Monday formally approved a new rate schedule that would increase mail rates an average of 22 per cent, but would allow private citizens to continue using the current 13-cent rate for first-class personal letters.

Oil prices not talked

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) open a two-day semiannual meeting today. The subject of oil price increases is not on the agenda and an OPEC spokesman said "spectacular results" are not expected.

On the question of 1978 prices, at least one OPEC hawk sounded conciliatory toward their customers of the industrialized West.

Liddy gets parole

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watergate mastermind G. Gordon Liddy, who stuck to his code of silence through more than four years in prison, was granted a parole today to take effect Sept. 7.

The early release of the man who sought political dirt on the Democrats in the 1972 election was made possible through the intervention of a Democratic president, Jimmy Carter, who cut Liddy's 20-year sentence to 8 years.

The U.S. Parole Commission set the release date today.

Don Yarbrough not fit to hold his job?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas House and Senate will act as jury next Friday while backers of an "address" resolution try to prove Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough is not fit to hold office.

If two-thirds of the members of each house approve, Gov. Dolph Briscoe must remove him from office.

It will be the first time since 1953 that such a resolution has been considered by the Texas legislature. The last effort, against a district judge, died in committee.

The House first voted 129-

13 Monday for a set of rules covering the joint hearing. The Senate approved the procedure by 27-0.

Atty. Gen. John Hill removed some technical protests late Monday when he ruled that "removal of judges by address is a quasi-judicial proceeding and may be considered in a special session even if it is not included in the governor's proclamation." Under the resolution, the 161 Senate and House members will meet at 9 a.m.

Friday to consider the resolution as presented through witnesses, evidence and arguments of appointed counsel.

Scottsboro historian doubts rape

WINCHESTER, Tenn. (AP) — Attorneys for NBC rested their defense of a $6 million libel suit Monday after a historian testified that he doubted whether the famed "Scottsboro Boys" rape ever occurred.

Dan T. Carter of Emory University in Atlanta wrote the book on which NBC's movie, "Judge Horton and the Scottsboro Boys," was based.

The film involved the trials of nine black youths accused of raping two white women on a freight train in northern Alabama 46 years ago.

The defendants, who came to be known as the Scottsboro Boys, were convicted and sentenced to a total of 130 years in prison.

One of the women, Victoria Price Street, now 70, filed suit against the network, claiming that the film defamed her by suggesting that she lied in her testimony during the trials.

"It is obvious when you condense 1,000 pages of court testimony into 30 pages under the chapter heading, 'A Horrible Mistake,' that you felt these men were innocent," Mrs. Street's attorney, Don Wyatt, said to Carter, author of "Scottsboro — A Tragedy of the American South."

"It was my conclusion after two years of research that they were not guilty of the crime of rape," replied Carter.

Pension burdens grow

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's 100 largest industrial corporations owe their employees at least $38 billion more in pensions than the companies have put aside to pay retirement costs.

This massive potential debt is more than the companies' combined profits of $32 billion in 1976, one indication that it could pose a major problem for some companies and for their employees.

The bill collector won't come around next week or even next year to collect this debt. Piece by piece, like a home mortgage, the companies have to pay off the debt.

And if the companies fold or can't pay their pension debts, the government will step in.

Paying off these long-term debt obligations plus funding the pension checks due now is quite a burden already for some companies, since it is a business expense that must be paid out of income and thus lowers profits.

For example, Uniroyal's pension costs of $79.4 million were almost four times its $20.1-million profit. McDonnell-Douglas, the aircraft company, made a $108.8 million profit in 1976, but that is overshadowed by the $115.6 million it paid for employee pension costs.

Others among the top 100 whose profits were lower than pension costs include Lockheed, Republic Steel, LTV and Litton.

Together, the top 100 firms paid $9 billion for pensions last year — both in current costs and paying off the $38 billion liability.

That's up $1.4 billion from 1975 costs, a 20 per cent rise in one year.

These totals come from an Associated Press study of annual reports and other official reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission by the largest 100 industrial corporations, as ranked by sales.

How does your garden grow?

'I've never seen such a to-do over flowers

TECUMSEH, Okla. (AP) — For nearly half a century, Ouida Parsons was mighty proud of her flower garden.

Just last month there were thousands of brightly colored blossoms bobbing in the wind around her home near this town 30 miles southwest of Oklahoma City.

Now all the 77-year-old widow can look at are plots of stubble after police officers pulled up and burned what Tecumseh Police Chief Lloyd Rogers called one of the largest single crops of Turkish opium poppies ever confiscated in the United States.

"My land, I've never seen such a to-do over a bunch of flowers," lamented Mrs. Parsons. "It's been a lifetime with me. I can't believe they're all gone now."

She said she had been told once it was illegal to grow the poppies, but added, "I never did pay it a bit of mind, that opium business. I couldn't see how a beautiful flower could do any harm."

Mrs. Parsons said her mother originally gave her the poppy seeds. "She got them from my grandmother," she said. "I suspect my great-grandma Kinard back in Georgia grew them too."

Each winter Mrs. Parsons planted a crop and each spring she harvested "pretty near a gallon" of seed for the next crop.

Then a Tecumseh resident got worried about the poppies and contacted the police. An officer sent one of the fresh blooms to the State Bureau of Investigation for an analysis that showed the flowers definitely were opium poppies.

"The crime bureau said we had to destroy them, even though she was only growing them for her own use, for the beautification of her own garden," Chief Rogers said.

For a week officers patrolled the area just outside Tecumseh, keeping their eyes on the crop. They spent a whole day hiding in a nearby barn to see whether Mrs. Parsons was selling any of the plants.

GENE CURRIE

Nearly 17 million

vets used GI Bill

Nearly 17 million veterans have taken advantage of the GI Bill in the 33 years since it was launched, but Jack Coker, Director, VA Regional Office in Waco, says Vietnam Era servicemen and women should be the smartest of them all.

That's because 64 per cent of these men and women participated in GI Bill training, compared with a participation rate of 51 per cent of those eligible under the World War II GI Bill and 43 per cent of the Korean Era eligibles.

Not only did Vietnam Era vets outdo their earlier cousins in GI Bill participation, a higher percentage of them took college level training than Korean Conflict or World War II veterans. The figures are 34 per cent for Vietnam Era vets, 22 per cent for veterans of the Korean Conflict and 14 per cent for World War II GI's.

For the three GI Bills combined, more people — 7.3 million, Coker says — have trained in college than in any other type of training. This is followed closely by non-college level school training (6.7 million, including correspondence school training). A total of 2.1 million persons have taken on-the-job training and more than 800,000 have been farm trainees.

Privacy protection study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employers should be prohibited from requiring workers to take lie detector tests, and federal funds should be withheld from schools that violate student rights to privacy, a federal study commission says.

In addition, the commission said today, there should be new rules to regulate how the government uses individual tax returns.

The three recommendations were among 162 listed in a 654-page report released today by the Privacy Protection Study Commission after a two-year, $1.75-million study.

The seven-member commission, created by Congress in 1974, also called for establishment of a new government agency to safeguard the privacy of individuals.

"Government has enormous opportunities, both to help and to embarrass, harass and injure the individual," the commission said. "Recent history reminds us that these are real, not mythical, dangers."

The commission also looked into abuses of privacy by private firms. Commission chairman David F.

Linowes said the most serious problems found by the study were misuse of personal financial records and snooping into medical records for insurance purposes.

Most of the restrictions recommended by the commission would be mandatory and require action by Congress. The proposed curbs on misuse of mailing lists, however, would be voluntary. Linowes said industry appeared to be willing to cooperate.

He said the polygraph industry, however, had expressed opposition to the proposed ban on the use of lie detectors to gather information from employees or job applicants. An estimated 300,000 persons submitted to such a procedure in 1974, according to a report by a Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights.

The commission also recommended that arrest records of employees or job applicants not be made available in most cases.

The commission said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare needs a "more credible and flexible sanction" to back up its policy of seeking voluntary compliance by schools and colleges with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act passed in 1974.

It recommended a change in the law that would allow withholding of federal funds from any institution which fails to comply voluntarily.

The 1974 act gives students over 18, and the parents of younger pupils, the right to inspect and correct educational records and to control access to the information in them.

The commission also urged Congress to prohibit federal prosecutors from obtaining tax returns to determine whether prospective jurors might be biased against the government because they have been audited by the Internal Revenue Service.

It also recommended that the IRS be barred from disclosing tax information about prospective federal appointees.

If the commission's recommendation is adopted, an individual who can prove a violation of the Privacy Act could collect up to $10,000 without showing that the violation caused him any financial loss. Under present law, he can recover only money he can prove he lost because of the violation of his right to privacy.

Deaths

Hannah Jones

LAMESA — Services for Mrs. Hannah Pearl Jones, 80, of Lamesa were held at 10 a.m. today in the Crestview Baptist Church here, with the Rev. Dorman Kinard, former pastor, officiating.

Burial followed in Lamesa Memorial Park under the direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Jones died in an Odessa nursing home at 1:30 p.m. Sunday after a brief illness.

A Tennessee native, she had lived in Dawson County and Lamesa 54 years. She married the late Clarence N. Jones Oct. 17, 1914 at Monday. She had been a member of the Crestview Baptist Church for the past 12 years.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Jack (Modan) Everett of Odessa; three sons, Raymond Jones of Lamesa, Ralph Jones of Houston, and Melton Jones of Oklahoma City; three brothers, Nelson Melton of Lamesa, Arnold Melton of Odessa, and James Melton of Weatherford; nine grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Hal Tucker Sr.

SNYDER — Hal Wilson Tucker Sr., 91, father of a former Big Spring resident, Mrs. Wacil McNaair, died at 11:25 a.m. Monday in a local hospital.

Services will be in the Bell-Seale Funeral Home in Snyder at 2 p.m., Wednesday. Officiating will be the Rev. Miller Robinson, pastor of Colonial Hills Baptist Church. Burial will take place in Hillside Memorial Gardens.

He is survived by his wife, Dona, Big Spring; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Igler, Apex, N.C.; two grandchildren, two brothers, Robert McCormick, Turlock, Calif.; and H.L. McCormick, Big Spring; and a sister, Ruby Nix, Turlock, Calif.

Survivors include his widow, the former Lola B. Boykin; another daughter, Mrs. Jack Fellows Jr., Laguna Beach, Calif.; a son, Hal Tucker Jr., Washington, D.C.; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

McCormick

Grady McCormick, 64, died Monday at 5 p.m. in a local hospital.

Services are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

He was born March 14, 1913 in Winston County, Ala. and was a resident of Big Spring since March of this year, moving from North Carolina.

He is survived by his wife, Dona, Big Spring; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Igler, Apex, N.C.; two grandchildren, two brothers, Robert McCormick, Turlock, Calif.; and H.L. McCormick, Big Spring; and a sister, Ruby Nix, Turlock, Calif.

Soviet skyjackers surrender

SPLAT! — Not a bird, and not a plane, stuntwoman Ellen Bry goes splat Monday as she lands into a fruit vendor's stand in front of the New York Daily News building. Actually the sound was more like whoosh, since the cart was padded with foam rubber to cushion landing for the stunt lady, who stands in — or perhaps falls in a better word — for Margot Kidder in film "Superman".

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Two Soviet skyjackers surrendered to Finnish authorities early today, ending the second hijacking of a Soviet airliner to Scandinavia in 6½ weeks. Finnish officials said the pair would be turned over to the Soviets as soon as possible. Authorities identified them as Alexander Zabrjak, 19, and Gennady Seluzhko, 22. They commandeered a twin-engine Aeroflot Tupolev 134 Sunday night on a flight over northern Russia between Petrozavodsk and Leningrad. Interior Minister Eino Uusitalo told an airport news conference Finland had received an extradition request from the Soviet with a 1974 antihijacking government. Finnish officials said the men would be returned to the Soviet Union in accordance with a treaty between the two countries. In the Soviet Union they face prison terms of 3 to 15 years and could have been executed if the hijacking had caused any deaths. An official Finnish communiqué said the first hijacker gave himself up three hours after the last three hostages managed to escape from the plane early today. He was followed within a half-hour by the other hijacker, it said. Officials said the hijackers had been armed with one hand grenade that, according to preliminary investigation, contained no explosives. During negotiations the two had claimed to be armed with several hand grenades, the communiqué said.

Energy Confirmation noted in Martin County

One confirmation was completed in Martin County and another was assured in another Martin County field recently. The Lcaff multipay field in Martin gained its second Devonian oil producer and a ¾-mile southwest extension to that pay with completion of BTA Oil Producers, Midland, No. 6B 7412 (formerly 7402) JV-S Mustang, 20 miles northwest of Lenorah, for 381 barrels of 44.8 gravity oil. Production was through a 10-64-inch choke and open hole at 12,201 feet, where 7-inch casing was set, and 12,215 feet, total depth. Location is 1,650 feet from the north and 476 feet from the east lines of 2-7-University. The Devonian opener, the firm's No. 57402 JV-S Mustang, was finished May 22 for 450 barrels of 42 gravity oil, through an 8-64-inch choke and open hole at 12,228-239 feet. Teen wins hoedown

STANTON — Ricky Boen, 15-year-old Odessa, won first place in the hoedown contest in the Martin County Old Settlers Reunion here Saturday. The contest winner was determined by sound without the help of sight this year. Judges were not allowed to see the fiddler entries. Damon Boyd, 51, finished second while Don Tolle, Big Spring, wound up third. Van Doyle Murphree and Tom Castle, both of Big Spring, were among other entries. Danny Fryar and Bob Hamm teamed up to win the egg-throwing contest. Fryar is mayor of Stanton while Hamm, formerly of Stanton, is now a resident of Woodward, Okla.

In a bubble-gum blowing contest, Billy Shanks, 14, wound up in first place. The reunion attracted hundreds from over a wide area.

Border Patrol considers closing Lubbock station

LUBBOCK — The U.S. Border Patrol says it may have to close its station here if Lubbock County commissioners do not reconsider their decision banning illegal aliens from the county jail. Deputy Chief Patrol Agent Ed Barnette said it was useless to keep a patrol office here if no one is willing to house the department's prisoners. Lubbock is regarded as a 'major pickup area' for illegal aliens. The Lubbock station has five agents and a $125,000 annual payroll. The commissioners court on June 14 gave the federal government 30 days' notice that it no longer can offer its jail accommodations to persons arrested by the Border Patrol. The decision becomes effective Thursday. One commissioner says Lubbock County simply doesn't have the space to accommodate an average of 15 federal prisoners and take care of its own needs at the same time. The federal government has been paying Lubbock County $6.50 daily for each federal prisoner housed and the county wants that sum raised to $20.

Who's Who

two selected Jana Reed and Lisa Ann Martin, both of the Ackerly community, have been recognized by the Association of Distinguished Young Americans as members of Who's Who Among Tomorrow's Homemakers. The honorees are subsequently eligible for ADYA All-American recognition and a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond. The association honors outstanding Home Economics students for leadership, achievement, service and contributions to their class, school and community. The two girls were students at Sands High School last school year.

Ector job panel might be fired

ODESSA — All 12 members of the Ector County Job Classification Committee, which last week saw its employe salary recommendations approved almost without exception by the county commissioners, may be fired this week. County Commissioner Joe Johnson said he thought the committee should be made up of persons in private industry not connected with the county. The committee is now made up of courthouse employes. The system is five years old and members of the committee are appointed to two-year terms. County Judge Joe Connally said he agreed with Johnson that the committee should be reorganized. Under a salary schedule adopted by the county recently, all officials elected county-wide will receive $22,500 annually while commissioners themselves, elected by precincts, will earn $20,000 annually. Since the salary vote, Judge Connally said he would not accept his pay raise — amounting to about $4,000 annually — but would refund part of it to the county treasurer each payday. However, he suggested that the salary for the office remain at $22,500 because he believes a county judge is worth that much. Connally, who said he had been approached about running for a state Senate seat next year should the incumbent, Kent Hance of Lubbock, seek the U.S. Congressional seat being vacated by George Mahon, indicated he would be a candidate for the county judge's position again. He will be 42 later this week. Connally has been an attorney in Odessa since 1964.

Burleson backs 'double-dipping'

The U.S. House of Representatives adopted, 219 for and 174 against, an amendment last week permitting military personnel to draw their military pensions at the same time they hold civilian jobs with the federal government. The legality of drawing both a military pension and a civilian pay check was reaffirmed by this amendment. Reps. Omar Burleson and Bob Krueger, both of Texas, both favored the continuance of 'double-dipping,' by voting 'yea.' Burleson represents Howard County in Washington, Krueger Glascock County.

The House also adopted an amendment to the defense budget, 288-119, to permit military guard and reserve units to continue to utilize 'dual-service' technicians. The amendment eliminated from the defense appropriations bill a proposed phasing out of the practice. So-called dual-service technicians are federal service employes such as mechanics or bookkeepers who also belong to a national guard or reserve unit and who perform their civilian jobs also for their military unit. They are paid separately for their civilian and military duties. There are an estimated 65,000 dual-service technicians. Members voting 'nay' opposed the hiring of dual-service technicians. Both Burleson and Krueger voted 'yea' on the amendment. The Senate voted, 43 for and 42 against, to appropriate money for beginning production of neutron warheads for U.S. missiles. The approval is subject to Pres. Carter signaling a go-ahead for production and complying with congressional reporting requirements. The neutron bomb is an 'enhanced radiation' weapon which kills primarily by radiation and is said to do less damage to natural and man-made environments. Sen. John Tower, Tex., voted 'yea' and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Tex., did not vote. The Senate rejected, 34 for and 52 against, an amendment to eliminate funding of various water resources projects that Pres. Carter wanted killed. Had this amendment been adopted, the Senate would have terminated all water projects on Carter's 'hit list.' Its defeat kept alive nine of the 18 projects that Carter opposes. Bentsen and Tower both voted 'nay.'

More building at Midland

MIDLAND — Building permits issued in Midland have now topped the $31 million mark, including $3,128,292 applied for during the past two weeks. Since the beginning of the year, 926 permits have been issued for estimates totaling $31,318,749. Fifty-four permits for new homes were issued for the two weeks' period ending July 9.

The field in the men's cow-chip throwing contest was won by Mark Guerin with a toss of 250 feet. Loretta Young won the women's division with a toss of 120 feet. A hot pepper-eating contest was won by John White, 20. He swallowed seven peppers in a minute's time.

Building boom in Odessa

ODESSA — Building permits for the year here now total $26,071,114, including the $409,130 issued last week. A total of nine permits were taken out for new residential construction last week, with total value of $330,000.

Woman sets fire in jail

COLORADO CITY — A woman identified as Lavonda Bill, 47, has been charged here with driving while intoxicated and destruction of county property. Officials said she set fire to three mattresses in the jail and had to be rescued from the smoke. State Highway Patrolman Jimmy Granato had arrested the woman about 3 a.m., Sunday and lodged her in the women's section of the jail. The woman remained in the county jail pending $4,000 bond set by Peace Justice Henry Doss.

Barnes plans big building

SAN ANGELO — A firm headed by Ben Barnes, former lieutenant governor of Texas, has announced plans for a six-story, 60,000-square foot office building in Southwest San Angelo. Barnes now resides in Brownwood. Construction of Plaza Tower, which Barnes insists will not take business away from downtown San Angelo, will begin before Sept. 1, with completion anticipated in nine to ten months. A 300-car parking lot will adjoin the building site. Barnes estimated the cost of the new building at $1,700,000.

Burt named tax collector

COLORADO CITY — Mike Burt has been named Mitchell County tax assessor-collector, succeeding Skeet Harkins. Harkins resigned his position effective last June 30, citing health reasons. Burt will formally assume his duties Aug. 1. He is a former principal of Wallace School and a one-time employe of the late Frank Kelley, an oil company land man. "Should Burt be elected to continue in the post, he would have to stand for election again in 1978."

Weather Winds churn silt in Texas Panhandle

Dust blew and light rain fell in the north part of the Texas Panhandle today. Except for occasional clouds along the coast the skies were clear across the rest of the state. Gusts of wind up to 60 miles per hour churned silt into the air at Dalhart and four counties in that part of the state were under a severe thunderstorm warning for a time. Dalhart later measured .27 inch of moisture. Early morning temperatures across the state ranged from 82 degrees at Galveston on the coast down to 59 at Marfa in the West Texas mountains, with readings elsewhere generally in the 70s. Monday's top marks went as high as 104 at El Paso and 105 at Childress. Another round of thunderstorms was expected by evening in the Panhandle, far West Texas and Southeast Texas. Clear skies were in prospect elsewhere and more hot weather was promised in all sections.

Long, hot summer--Big Spring style

Something about the long, hot summer has its effect on Big Spring, too.

We do not have the riots that plague so many American cities, but we have had quite an increase in vandalism.

A STORY on last Friday's front page displayed the exasperation of City Parks Director Jerry Foresyth in reporting several hundred dollars of senseless damage to city parks.

As much as vandalism costs taxpayers, it hurts consumers even more.

Private businesses are at least as hampered by the problem as local government.

For example, I was talking last week to Bill Chrane, who owns several sales lots along 4th Street for autos, boats and recreational vehicles.

Chrane said the previous night he had three windshields shot out with B-

G guns, and he had recently had six more done the same way. To repair the vehicles will cost him about $1,200.

And unfortunately, that's not unusual. Chrane said petty theft alone costs him $100 a week.

Chrane's situation is not atypical. All the auto dealers have vandalism problems, and these costs just add to the overhead consumers must pay when they buy a vehicle.

"We've got to stop it," Chrane said. "I'm tired of the thugs and vandals."

CHRANE SAID THAT the Big Spring Police Dept. does as good a job as it can in watching his lots, but the vandals still find ways to strike.

He wants the customers to be able to walk around and look at the vehicles for sale, and one can't exactly operate a car lot as if it were a fort.

But Chrane says that something has to be done, and he and some other used car dealers are talking about a security watch.

Chrane thinks that strong prosecution of theft and vandalism cases by the county and district attorneys would help.

Vandalism is Big Spring's version of summer woes, and there must be some way to lessen it.

The town shouldn't have to wait until the first winter blizzard blows in to see the number of incidents drop off.

—J. TOM GRAHAM

Anita wrong?

Around the rim

Troy Bryant

I've run across some stories that you probably didn't see in the headlines, but might make interesting reading.

For instance, a three-judge panel ruled that a California county ordinance prohibiting nude bathing applies not only to the shore, but three nautical miles out to sea as well.

The decision rejected an appeal by a woman arrested when she took off her clothes standing ankle deep in the surf.

SHE CLAIMED that she was improperly convicted because the ordinance only controlled bathing landward from the mean high tide line.

The judges upheld her sentence of 30 days in jail and a $65 fine.

Also, Dr. Benjamin Spock says that anti-gay crusader Anita Bryant (no relation to myself) is "barking up the wrong tree" and that homosexual teachers in no way can hurt a child's development — unless they are poor teachers anyway.

Spock said it is his professional opinion that a person's sexual disposition is probably determined in early childhood, and most likely is a permanent characteristic by the time one reaches five or six years of age.

Therefore, teachers sexual persuasion does not affect the children, he said.

Michel Fourdrinier returned to his Normandy birthplace after a 17-year absence to discover that he is officially dead.

The news that he hanged himself in a wood two years ago was delivered by a town hall official when Fourdrinier, a 43-year-old mason, called to ask for a copy of his birth certificate.

Rudolf Hess, 83-year-old former Nazi official who is serving a life sentence, has been allowed to watch television on a regular basis for the first time.

PERMISSION to watch a color TV set is part of a series of moves in recent weeks to make life easier for Adolf Hitler's deputy, the only remaining prisoner in West Berlin's Spandau prison.

Hess, sentenced at the Nuremberg war-crimes trial in 1946, never before had been allowed to watch TV while inside the brick prison. He got his first look at television in 1969 when he spent four months in a nearby British military prison.

It is reported that the same censorship regulation requiring the elimination of all mention of his case and the Nazi Third Reich from books and magazines is being applied to his television viewing.

At least he doesn't have to watch 'Hogan's Heroes' reruns.

Resurrection of CDM

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Without fanfare, the moribund Coalition for a Democratic Majority (CDM) is being resurrected with two big-name honorary chairmen and ambitious plans for prodding President Carter toward tough-minded defense, foreign and domestic policies.

The soon-to-be-named chairmen are Sens. Henry M. Jackson and Daniel Patrick Moynihan. Despite much praise from them and others for Jimmy Carter's human rights campaign — a sequel of the Senators' own espousal of human rights abroad — some other Carter administration actions fail the test of virtue as perceived by many centrist Democrats.

THE STATED objective, however, is not a high-pressure lobbying operations against Mr. Carter. Rather, Jackson, Moynihan, author-politician Ben Wattenberg, Yale law Prof. Eugene Rostow and other leading lights of CDM will actively support or oppose the President, depending on the issue and the policy. Mr. Carter, they feel, has shown himself to be "highly responsive" to "reasoned" public pressure and they plan to exert it, particularly in the fields of nuclear arms, human rights and economic growth.

Fully expecting to "self-destruct" after the election of Democrat Carter last November, CDM changed its mind and quietly launched a new fund-raising campaign several weeks ago (with about $25,000 raised so far). Significantly, its top fund-raiser is now S. Harrison (Sonny) Dogole, a rich Philadelphia (Globe Securities System) and long-time political ally and fund-raiser for Sen. Hubert Humphrey's multiple presidential campaigns.

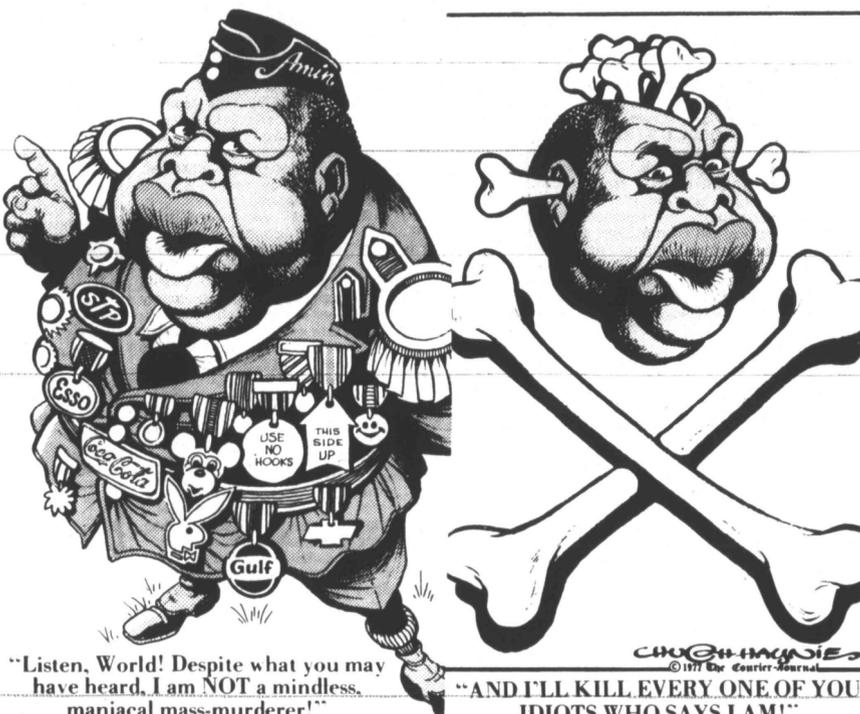

Dogole's existing position as a chief fund-raiser for the Democratic National Committee and chairman of the President's exclusive "1600 Club" of large contributors has raised some eyebrows. But Wattenberg (principal founder of CDM whose purpose was to drive the Democrat party back to the center following the McGovern debacle of 1972) sees "no problem."

DOGOLE'S DECISION to raise money for a political group whose avowed purpose is to influence Jimmy Carter strongly reflects centrist party unhappiness with Carter policies on a diplomatic exchange with Cuba, the widely-predicted diplomatic break with the Republic of China and U.S. policies in southern Africa.

One other area certain to come within the new CDM's sights is the Middle East and the President's heavy pressure on Israel (at least until his long session this week with top Jewish leaders).

What determined the resurrection of the CDM was clearly foreshadowed within 10 days of Jimmy Carter's inauguration: concern that the Jackson-Moynihan centrists were being ignored in staffing policy-making jobs in the State Department and the National Security Council. "My problem is not the appointees, but the . . . missing point of view," Wattenberg told a closed-door meeting here of centrist Democrats on Jan. 31.

MR. CARTER'S LATER decision to name Paul Warnke, highly suspect among defense-oriented party leaders, as chief arms control negotiator played a major role in the decision to rehabilitate the CDM. Plans now call for a $150,000 budget in 1978, raised (for the first time) largely without help from organized labor, and a broadened horizon extending beyond foreign and military policy to such issues as growth versus the environment (CDM will push growth) and the party's attitude toward business (CDM wants it improved).

"Listen, World! Despite what you may have heard, I am NOT a mindless, maniacal mass-murderer!"

"AND I'LL KILL EVERY ONE OF YOU IDIOTS WHO SAYS I AM!"

'Nutrition': A misunderstood word

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My dentist urged me to see an oral surgeon to find out if a biopsy was needed to determine the cause of a chronic mucous membrane problem. The consultant saw no need for a biopsy, but suggested faulty nutrition as the cause.

This seemed ludicrous to me, since I am well-padded. I am now taking vitamin A daily, and after three months there has been some improvement, but it seems to have stopped there. Is there something more I can do? —R.S.

Vitamin A lack is a possible cause of leukoplakia, yellowish white areas of the mucous membranes of the mouth. More common causes are physical things such as jagged teeth or irritation from tobacco, alcohol, food that is too hot or too heavily seasoned. Since you show improvement with the vitamin A, a deficiency may be involved.

Leukoplakia may be premalignant so biopsies are done to be on the safe side. Your dentist is to be praised. Your letter raises an important fact about nutrition, a word that is horribly misused today amid the welter of diet schemes. You can be "well-padded" and undernourished. Nutrition is the sum and substance of all materials the body needs to nourish itself properly, including vitamins.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are there new developments in treatment of migraine? I can't find a sympathetic physician and have had severe migraines as often as once a week for ten years. I'm now 30. I've used about every pain pill on the market. One doctor told me I have to live with migraines. My job demands my presence every day. If you have any booklets on this subject, please send me one. —Mrs. C.L.K.

Biofeedback is reported to have some success with migraine. It's fundamentally a matter of physical relaxation. I understand biofeedback is being used in some rehabilitation units these days, so if there is one in your area you might inquire about it. Putting the hands in hot water (but not scalding) does something to the circulation and provides relief for some.

Sounds to me as if that your job involves considerable tension and that may be contributing to your attacks. Better adjustment here might help. Migraine victims tend to be perfectionists. I knew one woman whose husband (far from perfect, incidentally) provoked in her attacks that lasted for days. The medication helps in most instances, particularly if taken at the start of an attack. My booklet on the general subject of headaches may be of further help in understanding migraine. Send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that a certain type personality is prone to getting psoriasis? A family member has this problem, but seems to be a more than usually calm type person with no particular hangups. He has a friend who told him he saw this somewhere. —F.S.

There is no apparent connection between a person's personality and the occurrence of psoriasis. Dartmouth scientists studied this very possibility recently. They could find no evidence of a "psoriatic personality" nor any psychological predisposition to the disease. As a matter of fact, they found the patients they studied were better adjusted than a non-psoriatic control group. This study was cited in the bulletin of the National Psoriasis Foundation recently.

For a better understanding of colitis and other intestinal ailments, their causes and treatment, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a real problem with my daughter-in-law. She is always calling me on the phone and making up stories about my son, which gets me upset. I know I ought to love her, but it is hard. What can I do? —Mrs. W.O.

DEAR MRS. O.: There are some people whose personalities are such that they are a delight to be around. Unfortunately, there are other people who are more difficult, and perhaps your daughter-in-law is one of them. It is hard to say what her true motives are, and what she thinks will be accomplished by telling you false stories.

There are really two problems here. The first one has to do with your relationship with your daughter-in-law, and what you can do to keep from becoming embittered against her. Although you may be tempted to hang up on her when she phones, I think you know that would not be good in the long run. Look for opportunities to reason with her, and point out obvious distortions if you can. However, it may be that about all you can do is listen, and pray that God will give you the patience necessary.

The other problem has to do with your daughter-in-law and her marriage. You need to discuss this frankly with your son, to be sure there are no grounds for some of the accusations she is making. If she is simply making things up, she is a troubled person who needs help from others. She should know that you care for her and that you are concerned about why she acts as she does.

I believe many of the problems you mention would be solved if your daughter-in-law were to become a Christian by inviting Jesus Christ into her life. Christ can help her deal with her lying, and give her a new ability to love. Pray that God will help you point her to Christ.

Terrorizes west

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — A religious fanatic, who has trained women to murder for him, is spreading terror in the West. He has sent women on murder missions more bizarre than the crimes of the notorious Charles Manson family.

Ervil LeBaron, who believes he is God's executioner, is responsible for at least 20 murders. This is the conservative estimate of investigators who have been following his trail. On one occasion, he sent a band of women to bushwack a Mexican community, Wild West style, because its residents had rejected him.

YET NEITHER federal nor local authorities have been able to find the elusive LeBaron, whose trail invariably disappears into the desert. He maintains hideouts in the same rugged terrain where the legendary outlaws Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid once eluded the law.

We began investigating the LeBaron cult a year ago, lured by rumors of religious executions and mysterious disappearances. We visited LeBaron's desolate habitat; we spoke to confidential sources who are in contact with the cult; we have also had access to government investigative files.

By all accounts, Ervil LeBaron is a bulldozer of a man, with a temperament as volatile as nitroglycerin. According to the wanted posters, he is six-foot-two and weighs 220 pounds. He is darkly handsome, with strong features and deep-set, blazing black eyes. He is given to Vesuvian outbursts when things don't go his way.

LeBaron believes in the vengeful God of the Old Testament and claims the authority to carry out God's wrath. He can quote scriptures and order executions in the same breath. He refers to the latter as "military orders" from God.

Yet those who know the bloodthirsty LeBaron describe him as extremely intelligent, with charismatic powers. His fanatical followers are ready to kill at his command.

Even the children are taught to kill as soon as they can handle weapons. One child told our sources that he had lain awake at nights thinking how he could murder for Ervil. And a woman told us that her own sister had warned she would kill her if Ervil decreed it.

THE CULT PRACTICES polygamy, and rebellious wives have been known to vanish. One of Ervil's wives, Montsie, became disenchanted in 1974. That's the last her relatives have heard of her. Ervil's first wife, Delphina, used to correspond with her relatives regularly. They are now worried; they haven't heard from her for six months.

Sources with pipelines into the cult also report that Naomi Zarate, one of the wives of a loyal disciple, was murdered along with her 14-year-old son. Their bodies allegedly were dumped into the Gulf of Mexico.

Here are other murder stories from government files: —Ervil quarreled with his elder brother, Joel, over the leadership of the cult. On August 20, 1972, Joel was brutally beaten with a chair and then shot to death in Ensenada, Mexico. Mexican authorities named Ervil as the "intellectual author" of his brother's murder. But according to our sources, he bribed his way out of prison after serving only a year. He reportedly paid $80,000.

—Ervil called upon the followers of his slain brother to "repent" and accept his leadership. Those who refused lived in the tiny Mexican town of Los Molinos. Ervil dispatched a band of women, led by one man, to shoot up the place. From ambush, they burned down the town with firebombs and shot haphazardly at the panicky people. Miraculously, only two died in the gunfire and flames.

—A LeBARON DEFECTOR, named Dean Vest, was gunned down on June 16, 1975, at a house near San Diego. Our sources say LeBaron ordered two women from his flock to commit the murder. Police picked them up but couldn't get a word out of them. The murder weapon, meanwhile, had been wiped clean of fingerprints. So the women were released for lack of evidence.

—A polygamist leader, Dr. Rulon Alford, received several threats from the LeBaron cult. On May 10, 1977, two women walked into his office outside Salt Lake City and fired six bullets into his body, killing him instantly. A LeBaron disciple, Nancy Chynoweth, has been arrested and charged with the murder.

There have been a number of strange disappearances. For example, a Utah polygamist named Robert Simons vanished on April 23, 1975. He was last seen south of Salt Lake City with some LeBaron associates.

Investigators claim that LeBaron's hard-core followers number at least 40, most of them women, all of them fanatics. But a wavering member of the sect told us that no more than half-a-dozen men and two dozen women could be classified as fanatical followers.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: Thank you for the nice article in Sunday's Herald about our son, Mark, and the honor he has been accorded. One word of clarification, however. He was not "chosen" to participate in the missions trip of our church. All our young people were invited to go. It just happened that Mark was the only boy . . . all the other volunteers were girls. The purpose of the trip was to conduct a Vacation Bible School (for children) on behalf of a relatively new, but already established church in Minnesota.

Our thanks, too, to Gene Kimble, Circulation Manager of the Herald, for his patience and cooperation and to the patrons of route 344 for their encouragement and many kindnesses to our three sons as they have served as Herald carriers.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Jones

Dear Editor: Because all Americans are volunteers, we are obligated to respect the personal sovereignty of each of us and we, each of us, are obligated to earn this respect.

When "We the People" created our Republic by adopting our Constitution, we retained control of our personal sovereignty by delegating limited sovereignty (authority-responsibility) to our Congress, our President and our Judiciary.

Thus when we become adults, we, each of us, are free to demonstrate our integrity and self respect by accepting the responsibilities inherent in citizenship in our Republic; or, by moving to another location on spaceship earth.

By amending our Constitution, to limit the number of terms any one of us can serve in our Congress, we can elect more of those of us with the integrity and ability to lead and follow volunteers.

Bread nickel a loaf

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A supermarket chain has San Antonio shoppers battling for newspapers which contain discount coupons offering bread for a nickel a loaf, eggs for five cents a dozen and milk for 19 cents a half-gallon.

"We've had people calling all night long wanting to buy 200 copies of the newspaper before dawn," said one local newspaper executive. "The callers say they can take the advertising inserts and sell them for 50 cents each."

The promotional campaign was launched June 30 by the San Antonio-based Handy Andy Supermarkets, a chain of 51 stores spread across South Texas.

The first week the advertising coupons appeared on Thursday morning, bread was offered at five cents a loaf, eggs were a nickel a dozen and margerine was sold for five cents a tub.

The afternoon San Antonio News reported the second highest daily circulation in its history. Every copy of the paper was sold and extras were quickly printed. They sold out, too.

The coupons are good for a week and supposedly are limited to one per family.

Last week, a shopper with the coupons could buy milk for 19 cents a half-gallon and weiners for 10 cents a dozen. The newspapers sold out again.

Handy Andy officials won't say what's in store for this Thursday's advertisements, but the newspaper executive said: "We have had the inserts under lock and key to protect them."

The battle for the coupons is so fierce that newspaper officials report thefts at coin-operated newspaper boxes have jumped on Thursdays. Instead of removing just one paper, some people have been grabbing the whole stack.

At the Handy Andy stores, shoppers are jamming the aisles. One shopper went to the store last Sunday, finally found a parking place and then had to wait in a line outside before getting into the store.

One store manager said the sales are not just limited to the advertised specials. "Our sales are just fantastic," he said. "They (customers) are buying everything in the store."

Morris Mathieu, vice president for advertising and promotion for Handy Andy, said results of the ad campaign so far are inconclusive.

"We're trying to increase sales and profits and traffic in our stores," Mathieu said Monday. He said the specials will continue indefinitely.

The same advertisements are appearing in newspapers in Austin, Houston, Corpus Christi and Kerville, where Handy Andy has other stores.

Meanwhile, officials of the larger H.E.B. Supermarket chain which has 142 stores, refused to comment on the Handy Andy campaign. H.E.B. is Handy Andy's main competitor in San Antonio.

H.E.B. has advertised it has "everyday low prices."

NEW DIRECTOR — Bill Stewart (above) has succeeded Charles R. Barden as Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board (TACB). Barden, the agency's original director, left the TACB July 1, to enter the engineering consulting business after 40 years in Texas State government. Stewart, the personal choice of Barden, has been with the State's air pollution control agency since 1968.

Fewer dying on highways

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas traffic deaths are down four per cent this year, the Texas Department of Public Safety reports.

So far this year there have been 1,513 deaths in accidents on streets and highways compared to 1,583 for the same time last year.

There is a six per cent increase in accidents in which deaths occurred — from 1,309 to 1,386.

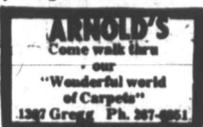

AREA YOUTHS IN 4-H DELEGATION — Delegates to the 1977 National 4-H Citizenship Short Course and Heritage Tour was shown in Washington during their trip to the Nation's Capitol June 22. There were eleven in the group including: Kirby Boyd of Woodson, Joan Diener of Stephenville, Gena Fischer of Haskell, Van Gaskins of Knott, Kerry Kemp of Haskell, Jacqueline Kunkel of Seymour, Amy Leatherwood of Crosbyton, Dirk Perry of Big Spring, Monie Walker of Hico, Mary Waller of Breckenridge, and Cyndi Wood of Tahoka.

Tarrant County taxes whacked

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Tarrant County commissioners served carefully sliced cuts in county and hospital district taxes Monday, and then seasoned the offering with an improved homestead tax exemption for senior citizens.

Approval of the three-course tax package, which cut Tarrant County taxes by 4.3 per cent, Tarrant County Hospital District taxes by 7.7 per cent and increased the senior citizen tax exemption from $3,000 to $7,000, came while Dallas County commissioners were approving a tax hike.

Always going back home

with Marj Carpenter

She sat in the Colorado City Drug Store, where so many citizens sit at noon and hastily eat a sandwich and drink a milkshake.

Like West Texans often do, we got to talking to each other. West Texas is one of the last areas in the United States where citizens still basically trust each other.

Her name was Joyce Womack — and she'll be surprised to see this column, because it was many weeks ago that we visited.

"I was born here and went to school out at Seven Wells. It was so pretty out there," she recalled.

"We used to go to school there through the seventh grade and then come into town. Back about 1945, they closed down all of the rural schools and it was kind of sad."

"All the little communities died once the schools were gone. There was Looney and there was Cuthbert and Spade and lots of little places."

"Seven Wells was a pretty location. Of course, most of the early picnic area is now under Lake Champion, unless the lake is really low," she added.

Then she talked about later years, when she and her husband — who works for an oil company — lived out at Robert Lee for a while.

"We liked it out there too. But we watched Silver die. When we would drive back and forth to Colorado City, we saw Silver in its booming days when there were two Sun Oil camps and other activities. And we saw it when they began to move houses out of there. And then we saw it after it became an absolute ghost town."

Then she commented on Colorado City — "which is home." She said, "I was born here and everytime I'd move somewhere I was soon back."

Mrs. Womack is typical of many West Texas "oilfield families." They move around but everywhere they go they know somebody and they usually base in one location and head back home.

Well, the Womack's home is Colorado City. And there are lots of Colorado City folks who come back home after working elsewhere.

It's an older town as far as West Texas towns go and some families have had three, four and five generations of citizens in that community.

The people in Colorado City have deep roots and they are proud of their heritage.

The town and the county have had their ups and downs, but the early families that came down the T&P and stopped at Cee City stay around — and if they get away — they return.

It's always nice to visit with somebody there at the drug store counter at a good old fashioned fountain with good milkshakes — when I'm out ridin' fence.

Value of farmland spirals

WASHINGTON (AP) — New government figures for 1976 show that farmers, on paper at least, boosted their assets by three times as much from higher property values as they did from profits for selling crops and livestock.

As of Feb. 1, the Agriculture Department said Monday, the total value of U.S. farm real estate was a record $495.5 billion, a 16 per cent gain and $67.9 billion more than a year earlier.

"The value of farmland is expected to continue upward by another 8 to 10 per cent during the coming year, but the actual amount depends largely on domestic and foreign demand for our farm commodities," the department's outlook board said in a preliminary report.

Last year's net farm income was $23.3 billion. Thus, the jump in real estate value was almost triple the amount of farm profits in 1976.

The average value of a single farm nationally was $180,300 as of Feb. 1, the report said. That was up about $26,000 from the average price a year earlier.

"I added extra insulation at my house. Because my electric bills are up, just like yours."

"The people who work for Texas Electric — like me — get electric bills, too.

I work in billing and I can tell from people's comments that they're concerned about their bills.

Even though I know why they're higher, mainly because of higher fuel and construction costs, I'm concerned about mine, too.

That's why the last couple of years we've been trying to wrap our house in insulation. We've put six inches in the attic and three in the walls. It's really helped.

A friend of ours used to kid us and say we'd just been brain-washed by the electric company. But now he's insulated his attic, too."

Electricity. You count on it today. We're working to keep it that way.

Land swindle five sentenced

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Five land promoters who took part in a $5.2 million nationwide swindle by Western Land Sales Co. have been sentenced in federal court to terms ranging from 2 to 11 years.

U.S. District Court Judge Carl Muecke fined two others associated with the defunct Phoenix company in court appearances Monday.

Muecke sentenced Jacob Hood Jr., 41, of El Paso, Tex., to 11 years in prison and imposed a fine of $7,000. Hood, the ringleader, pleaded guilty March 24 to two counts each of mail and securities fraud.

Muecke advised the defendant that the sentence would have been more severe if he had not testified for the government in the trial of four others sentenced to prison.

Allan J. Besbris, 34, of Scottsdale, a lawyer and former legal counsel for Western, was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $5,100. He was convicted of 15 counts of mail fraud and two of interstate transportation of money obtained by fraud.

Bell libel

suit slated

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Lawyers say nearly 200 witnesses may be called during the trial of a $29 million libel and slander suit against Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. which is scheduled to begin Aug. 8 in state district court here.

The trial, scheduled on Monday by Judge Peter Michael Curry, may last from four to six weeks.

The suit was filed in late 1974 by fired Southwestern Bell executive James Ashley of San Antonio and the widow of the late T.O. Gravitt.

Gravitt, at the time of his suicide in Dallas in October 1974, was Bell vice president for Texas operations.

Ashley's dismissal and Gravitt's suicide followed an internal company investigation during 1974.

The suit claims Ashley was wrongfully fired and that the company hounded Gravitt to his death.

Last December, a 57th District Court jury ordered Southwestern Bell to pay Ashley $1 million in a separate suit in which he alleged the company invaded his privacy by wiretapping his home telephone.

That trial lasted for three weeks, and Pat Maloney, attorney for Ashley and the Gravitt widow, said next month's trial probably will last four to six weeks.

Maloney said he expects to call at least 100 witnesses and Bell attorney Hubert Green said he will call at least 60 witnesses.

Judge Curry said he will hear a motion by Southwestern Bell next week which seeks to move the trial from San Antonio on grounds of excessive publicity here.

The case, in the past 20 months, has bounced from state court to federal court and back to state court. Southwestern Bell wanted the case in federal court but the U.S. Supreme Court ruled earlier this year that it is a matter for a state court to decide.

Two guards demoted

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Two state prison guards, held responsible for the escape of two inmates who are suspected of killing six persons, have been demoted and suspended for 30 days.

Warden Richard Crisp announced the punishment Monday for C. C. Battles and Billy Jack Cohen.

Battles, a 21-year veteran guard, was demoted from captain to guard, and dropped two pay scales — about $200 per month.

Cohen, a 12-year veteran, was dropped from lieutenant to guard and demoted one pay scale, about $150 per month.

Both were suspended 30 days without pay. The suspension, made retroactive to a personnel hearing held last Thursday, will end Aug. 5.

Two other guards were on duty with Cohen and Battles when the escape took place, but Crisp said they were not disciplined because they were under the supervision of Cohen and Battles.

The four guards were supervising a work gang of 20 inmates tearing down an old building on June 23 when they broke for lunch.

The inmates were placed in a building, Crisp said, but no one was placed at the rear door to guard it.

Inmates Earl Van Denton, 27; Paul Ruiz, 29, and Elmer Finin, age unknown, fled out the back door, across a landfill area and into McAlester proper.

First-degree murder charges

PURCELL, Okla. (AP) — First-degree murder charges were filed here Monday against two Oklahoma prison escapees, who also are charged with two murders in Arkansas.

The charges were filed against Earl Van Denton and Paul Ruiz, who escaped the prison on June 23.

They were recaptured last Friday in Portland, Ore., after a relative of Ruiz's tipped the Federal Bureau of Investigation that the pair would be at the Western Union office.

They are accused here of killing James M. Short, 40, a Purcell taxicab driver.

Short disappeared July 1 after going to answer a fare call. His body was found last week about 20 miles from Purcell.

Ruiz and Denton also are charged in Arkansas with the slaying of a town marshal at Magazine, and a ranger for the Army Corps of Engineers.

Western Auto Stores sell merchandise, service

Western Auto, located at 504 Johnson, has a wealth of items at low and economical prices.

It's amazing how many different items they handle and if you haven't been to this store recently, you will be surprised.

You ought to go in and see for yourself all of the merchandise and services they have to offer.

The Big Spring Western Auto, owned and managed by Reeves Moren, sells real good values in merchandise such as tires, batteries, and items such as starters, mufflers, voltage regulators and fan belts.

Moren emphasizes that in the automotive line, the store concentrates on the parts that are easy for a motorist to put on the vehicle himself, without needing a mechanic.

But the store also has lots of home items, such as air conditioning units and conditioning sets.

They have gifts for the bride and homemaker's needs such as cookware and mixmasters. You can make the kitchen a pleasanter place to work in with some of these appliances.

You will be amazed at the selection of summer sporting and vacation season needs.

If you are a do-it-yourselfer, look there for tools. With fall and hunting coming up, look there for guns and hunting needs.

The store has a welding service available. They also wire cars and trailers for inspection.

They do lots of things. Call Western Auto at 267-6241 or go by 504 Johnson.

BRUSHON and roaches leave

Some people avoid others because of roaches at home

Some people never have the neighbors in ... and it's understandable. Who wants to take a chance on the neighbor spotting a cockroach flitting across a counter, or down a drain?

How To Get Rid Of Roaches And Ants

Spray No-Roach for fast, quick kill of roaches and ants. Apply Brushon No-Roach for long term control. Take your choice, or better yet ... take them both. Johnston's No-Roach. Available at: Safeway, Furr's, SAV-U, Gibson's, Foodway, Giant Discount and all grocery stores. Dist. by Kimbell.

Of course they can. All they have to do is discover Johnston's No-Roach ... the sure-fire answer to cockroach problems. Not to mention ants ... and silvertish ... and spiders ... and so forth. No-Roach, the household insecticide that keeps the promise of its name. The seeming magic about No-Roach is the ease with which it is used. You just brush it on anywhere that roaches or other crawling pests may assemble: across doorways, windowsills and baseboard; in cupboards and along the edges of kitchen cabinets. No-Roach dries to an invisible shield that is colorless and odorless. All the time you are serving coffee to the neighbors, No-Roach is killing cockroach eggs back in the nest ... 'cause every roach (or insect of any kind) that crosses No-Roach, picks it up on its feet and takes it home.

Do the neighborly thing. Serve the ladies on the block a cup of coffee in a roach-free kitchen ... thanks to Johnston's No-Roach.

Available at: Sav-U, Safeway, Furr's, Gibson's, Foodway, Giant Discount and all grocery stores. Distributed by Kimbell.

Used as a form of therapy

Nursing home resident changes useless land into garden

By SUSAN HAMPTON
What was once two useless, rocky pieces of land in the back of Parkview Manor Nursing Home is now rich, vegetable producing gardens. And Dan Scott is to be thanked for that.

FROM USELESS LAND — Dan Scott, 77-year-old resident of Parkview Manor Nursing Home grows many kinds of vegetables in his two gardens in back of the nursing home. There he works from dawn until dusk in the kind of activity which he has been involved in all of his life and enjoys doing most of all — growing things.

Scott, an amiable 77-year-old resident of the nursing home, is a retired farmer "who loves to grow things," according to Marcie Rogers, administrator of the nursing home.

"He came to the nursing home in 1974," she said, "and shortly thereafter we gave him the land to use as his garden."

"It is definitely a form of therapy for him, just as painting or knitting might be to another resident," she said.

Having lived some of his life in Seminole and the past 40 years in Big Spring, Scott seems to know what grows best in West Texas. In the garden he grows squash, beets, beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, onions and radishes. And, according to Scott, everything is "growing pretty well."

"The remarkable thing about the garden is that he plows the entire length of it by just a hoe and a rake," Rogers said. "No other equipment is used."

Rogers said Scott can be seen working in the garden from dawn until twilight, just before it gets dark. "He really enjoys working in it," she said.

Scott begins work in the garden each January. "He will be out there every day after then, until the vegetables are fully grown," she said.

Besides working in the two small gardens, Scott also works in a greenhouse, growing flowers and plants.

"Several kinds of flowers are grown there," Scott said. Chrysanthemums, mums, aloevers, and "hens and chickens," a form of cacti are some of the varieties, he said.

Scott also re-plants plants which are either donated to the nursing home from weddings and funerals or from residents in the nursing home who need their plants re-potted, Rogers said.

One incident which occurred in the greenhouse last winter still causes Scott some consternation — the time the heater broke and all of the plants in it died. "It was terrible, losing all those beautiful plants," he said.

Scott shares the seeds and the fertilizer for the garden. His sister, a Big Spring resident, runs errands for him when needs arise in the garden and sometimes gets his help in her own garden, Rogers said.

Scott shares the seeds and the fertilizer for the garden. His sister, a Big Spring resident, runs errands for him when needs arise in the garden and meals," Rogers said. Although many of the residents of the nursing home are unable to understand many things, Rogers said they know Scott works in the garden and provides them with fresh vegetables. "They appreciate that," she said.

At women's conferences

Abortion, ERA support tested

(AP) Thousands of women across the nation met over the weekend to prepare for the International Women's Year national conference next fall. But in most cases, the meetings turned into a test of support for abortions and the Equal Rights Amendment.

Montana's meeting split into two groups, both claiming the right to choose the state's 14 delegates to the International Women's Year national meeting in Houston in November. Disputes arose over abortion, the ERA and whether disadvantaged and Indian women's interests were represented.

Alabama convention goes failed to adopt any resolutions after a day of debate.

Capitol Police in Albany, N.Y., were called to ward off a threatened confrontation at a lesbian workshop.

The federally sponsored International Women's Year had urged that the meetings not be a forum to debate the ERA, but they clearly were. Anti-abortion and anti-ERA forces seemed to be well prepared for the meetings and targeted specific workshops where resolutions they opposed were to be voted on. There were accusations by feminists in Helena, Mont., and the Ellensburg, Wash., that Mormon women had attempted a takeover of the conferences.

In Jackson, Miss., Laura Huff and Patricia Maddox of Pelahatchie said they came to the meeting because they were against the ERA.

"We were told in our church that ERA meant the end of marriage, that schoolbooks would show pictures of people having sex with animals, and we've got to protect our children," Mrs. Huff said.

Several women were dismayed that the meeting had taken on political overtones.

Betsy Walker, a law student, said she had hoped the meeting "would be a place where we could get together and calmly talk over our problems. In fact, just last week we were even worried that not very many people would show up."

Black women with experience in the civil rights movement said they thought the conference organizers were "naive to think they could keep politics out of such a meeting."

"When you put blacks and white together in Mississippi and there's some possibility that they'll sit down and work something out, then that's political," said Unita Blackwell Wright, the first black woman mayor in the state. "There are still people in this state that can't bear to see that happen."

In Albany, N.Y., an estimated 10,000 women were drawn to the pre-Houston meeting to elect 88 delegates and adopt resolutions.

An anti-ERA group calling itself Operation Wakeup and the anti-abortion Right to Life managed several victories in the workshop sessions but failed to gain passage of an anti-abortion resolution.

Capitol Police ordered a large group of women to leave a workshop on lesbian households after the group attempted to disrupt the meeting. A spokesman said the women left and there were no further problems.

Local girl division finalist in state pageant

Whitney Lynn Etchison, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Etchison, Lubbock, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waymon Etchison, Big Spring, was in the top 10 finalists of the La Petite Division in the state contest of the Little Miss Universe Contest which was held in Houston during the week of June 27, through July 2.

The contest is sponsored by the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant.

Miss Etchison has been invited to the Miss World Pageant in Niagara Falls, N.Y. August 11 through August 17. She will sponsor Lubbock and Texas if she attends.

Wants Divorce — Temporarily

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 16 years and have four children. The oldest is 15 and the baby is 2. My husband (I'll call him "Joe") is a NCO in the U.S. Army. I thought our marriage was solid, but when he came home last month after serving 13 months in Korea, he seemed quiet and moody. Then he dropped a bombshell in my lap when he told me he had "fallen in love" with an 18-year-old Korean girl who is now four months pregnant with his child!

He says he loves me but can't turn his back on this girl because when she was 17, she had a baby by a Canadian soldier who deserted her.

Joe wants to divorce me, go back to Korea, marry this girl and bring her (and her child) here, so she can have her baby here. He says in time she may find another man to love and marry her, then he'll divorce her and marry me.

Joe is 38 and I am 35. I know he really loves me, but he feels guilty about what he did in Korea and takes pity on this girl. I told him I loved him too much to divorce him. (Was that wrong?)

I know if I let him go to marry her, he'll regret it later. What do you advise?

HEARTSICK IN TEXAS

DEAR HEARTSICK: I think you're wise to hold off rushing into a divorce. Although Joe doesn't deserve any good conduct medals for his behavior in Korea, it's to his credit that he's willing to accept the responsibility for his actions.

An alternative plan would be to send the Korean girl money for her confinement and child support. It makes more sense than breaking up a 16-year-old, four-children marriage so that he can hastily marry a 18-year-old girl, divorce her later and remarry you again.

The word from here is to hang in there and keep your marriage intact. Good luck. Let me know what you decide to do. I care.

DEAR ABBY: SINGLE SIMON wrote to say that as a bachelor he is through accepting party invitations unless he can bring his own date. And you said that most hostesses invite bachelors to provide escorts for the single women.

The concept that most bachelors are invited to parties only to provide escorts for single women is a screaming insult to all single men!

Why must a party have an equal number of men and women? There is no need for a man or woman to feel out of place at a party without a partner unless, of course, the party is an orgy.

SINGLE BY CHOICE

DEAR SINGLE: For my part, guests should be invited to parties for their personalities—and not to balance the number of males and females. (P.S. I've never attended an orgy, but I am under the impression that any number can play.)

Miscellaneous shower given Friday

Miss Brenda Hester, bride-elect of Bobby Bradshaw, was honored with a miscellaneous wedding shower Friday evening, July 8, in the home of Mrs. Dick Davis, 423 Hillside Dr.

The honoree was given a peach colored daisy corsage, as were her mother, Mrs. Roy J. Hester and the prospective groom's mother, Mrs. Robert D. Bradshaw. Miss Kathy Hester, sister of the honoree, helped open and display gifts.

Other special guests were the bride-elect's grandmothers, Mrs. Roy C. Hester and Mrs. W. C. Williams, both of Big Spring.

The refreshment table was covered with an ecru lace cloth over a peach colored polyester underlay. An arrangement of peach and white carnations in a crystal bowl on a crystal pedestal centered the table.

Other hostesses with Mrs. Davis, were Mrs. M. G. West, Mrs. Jerry Oliphant, Mrs. H. M. Macomber, Mrs. Floyd Sorley, Mrs. Rafor Dunagan, Mrs. Mike Steward, Mrs. Edward Slate, Mrs. Sam Robertson, Mrs. Bob Brock, Mrs. R. C. Medical treatment topic of meet

Instruction in emergency medical treatment will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. July 15 for members of the Christensen-Tucker Auxiliary to the Veterans of the First World War (VFW) Post No. 2013. Miss Marianne Simpson of the Veterans Administration Hospital nursing staff will conduct the class.

The auxiliary met July 5 for a business meeting with Mrs. Margaret Barnett presiding.

New members welcomed into the auxiliary were Mrs. James Morrow, Mrs. Donald Ellis, Mrs. L. C. Morris and Mrs. A. Ray Kemper.

Mrs. Sallie White, president of District 25, presented the auxiliary with a plaque, five awards and four citations. The auxiliary was given the awards at the state convention in Houston, June 30-July 4. The plaque represented 100 per cent membership, and one of the citations was for 100 per cent participation on the Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW in compliance with the Department of Texas requirement for the year 1976-1977.

The All Veterans' Planning Council will meet at the post on Driver Road at 7:30 p.m. July 29 to elect officers for the coming year.

Richard sparks fire in Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard says the fact that Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson will manage the National League All-Stars had nothing to do with his five-hit 2-0 shutout of the defending world champions Monday night.

"I don't worry about the All-Star game," Richard said after baffling the Reds, retiring 18 of the last 20 batters after a shaky third inning. "I get paid to pitch for the Houston Astros. I thought I should have made it last year and didn't so I don't worry."

The Reds were plenty worried Monday night. Cincinnati starter Fred Norman pitched a perfect game for 4 2/3 innings and still wound up the loser as the second-place Reds try to catch

Los Angeles in the National League Western Division race.

"I've felt better in the last two starts than I have all season," said Richard, who trounced the Dodgers in his last start. "I had a slight muscle tightening in my shoulder that I didn't even know about at first."

"But I've been doing exercises to loosen it up and it felt great tonight."

Norman had the Astros under control until Jose Cruz popped his bubble with a single into leftfield in the fifth inning. Norman lost it in the sixth when Richard and Julio Gonzalez hit back to back singles, and Norman loaded the bases by intentionally walking Cesar Cedeno after a wild pitch.

Bob Watson then came to the plate and blasted a 3-1 pitch into short right-centerfield scoring Gonzalez and Richard with Cedeno holding at third.

"I just had one bad inning," said Norman, 9-4. "I got behind some of the hitters in the sixth but I still had good stuff. I got behind Cedeno 3-0 and still struck him out."

Cincinnati's only serious threat against Richard, 8-6, came in the third when Bill Plummer reached first on an infield hit and Pete Rose followed with a single with one out.

Richard then retired Ken Griffey on a groundout and got Joe Morgan on a fly out to leftfield to end the threat.

"Both pitchers pitched well," Reds manager Sparky Anderson said. "Fred got behind the hitters in the sixth but his big trouble was he gave up the clutch hit. That was the best I've seen Richard pitch in a long time. He was outstanding."

Richard, who last season became only the second 20-game winner in Houston history, started his drive about this same time a year ago.

"Power pitchers like J.R. take awhile to get rolling," Watson said. "But once they get it together, they're really tough and J.R. is there."

SAFE GOING BACK — Cincinnati Red third baseman Pete Rose cannot get the tag on Houston Astro Cesar Cedeno in the sixth inning of the game at Houston Monday night. Cedeno rounded in the bag at third after coming from first on a single to center by teammate Bob Watson and was almost caught off base on the relay throw. Houston took the game 2-0.

Atkinson's slander suit begins in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers was wrong to accuse Oakland Raider defensive back George Atkinson of trying to maim Steeler receiver Lynn Swann, a federal court civil jury has been told.

The trial of Atkinson's $2 million slander suit against Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll and the Steelers opened Monday before U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti. It is expected to last two to three weeks.

"George Atkinson will indicate to you that he is no angel and no saint, but also that he is not a criminal element out to maim. He is hurt and embarrassed by Mr. Noll's statement almost on a daily basis," attorney Willie Brown said in an opening argument. "He put a label on Mr. Atkinson that will follow him the rest of his life."

The suit was filed after Noll linked Atkinson with what he called "a criminal element" in the NFL and said Atkinson's hit on Swann "was with intent to maim and not with football in mind."

The comments followed a Pittsburgh-Oakland game last September.

"The clarity of what occurred is equalled only by its ferocity," Steeler attorney James Martin MacInnis said the incident. "It was intentional."

MacInnis said Noll spoke the truth and does not apologize for the remarks. He called them "temperate—not at all defamatory of Mr. Atkinson."

Also at issue in the trial is a $1 million counterclaim filed by the Steelers for Swann's injuries inflicted by Atkinson, a nine-year veteran defensive back.

A long list of prominent football players and officials are scheduled to testify at the trial, including NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and a number of Oakland and Pittsburgh coaches and players.

Cowboys begin twice-a-days

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Nine young Dallas Cowboy veterans and 64 rookies today began the first of several weeks of twice-a-day workouts in full football gear.

The players underwent physical examinations followed by running and weightlifting Monday in the Cowboys' first full day of pre-season training camp.

Veteran quarterbacks, receivers and centers will report next Sunday, with the complete squad expected July 22 to prepare for their pre-season opener Aug. 6 against the San Diego Chargers at Dallas.

Miller leads Trans-Miss

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Lindy Miller of Fort Worth led a field of 245 at the Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament here as officials prepared for the second round of qualifying today. Miller carded a six-under-par 64 Monday over the 6,900-yard Hogan Park golf course, where 29 golfers bettered par 70.

It is the first time the annual tournament has been played in West Texas, and two golf courses were used to handle the large number of golfers.

The field will be cut to 64 players when match play begins Wednesday at the 7,400-yard, par-72 Midland Country Club Course.

Ticket deadline for Exes buffet nearing

Tickets to the Texas Tech Exes Hamburger Buffet at the Big Spring Country Club this Friday are still available, but deadline for purchasing them is Wednesday.

Jess Stiles, a Texas Tech assistant coach, will be this special guest speaker at the informal event. The Red Raiders and their part in the Southwest Conference picture this season will be the topic of discussion.

Tickets are $3.50 per person, and all interested sports fans, not just Tech exes and their families, are invited to attend.

Tickets may be obtained by calling 3-4949, 3-2306 or 7-2676 by Wednesday evening. The Buffet is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. this Friday at the Country Club.

'No magic wand'--new Angel boss

ANAHEIM (AP) — Dave Garcia told the California Angels before his first game as manager that he has no magic ways to transform a muddling baseball team into a contender.

Garcia was coaching third base until Monday, when the Angels fired Norm Sherry, who himself was brought in as manager one year ago in another midseason shake-up by the American League team.

"I laid down some rules," Garcia said Monday night before the Angels took on Minnesota. "I didn't say much. I told them I didn't have a magic wand and we won't win 20

Texas League action is hot

Jackson shortstop Mario Ramirez made a poor throw to first with two outs in the 11th inning as Shreveport's Larry Little hurdled across the plate to carry the Captains to a 3-2 victory in a Texas League game Monday.

Jackson had tied the score at 2-2 with a two-run homer by Ed Clipot in the sixth and held Shreveport at bay until Littleton ran all the way home from first base on Nelson Norman's single to short center field. The victory moved Shreveport to third place in the league's East Division, while Jackson slipped to fourth.

In other games, San Antonio crushed Midland 10-2 and Arkansas whipped Tulsa 5-3.

Baseball fans fickle, but still predictable

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball fans may be fickle, but when it comes to choosing the National League All-Star starting team, they're very predictable.

The final tabulations in the eighth annual All-Star fan balloting released by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Monday listed seven previously elected starters as returning to the 1977 NL All-Star team.

Steve Garvey, the slugging first baseman of the Los Angeles Dodgers, headed the list of returnees as he became the first player to receive more than four million votes. Garvey, winner of the Most Valuable Player Award in the 1974 All-Star Game when he made the NL team as a write-in candidate, was selected as a starter for the fourth straight year. He received 4,277,735 votes in the balloting, breaking the record of 3,497,358 set by outfielder Reggie Jackson, then with Oakland, in 1974.

Selected along with Garvey were second baseman Joe Morgan, shortstop Dave Concepcion, outfielder George Foster and catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds, third baseman Ron Cey of Los Angeles, and outfielders Greg Luzinski of the Philadelphia Phillies and Dave Parker of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Overall, a record 12,562,476 ballots were tabulated this season, more than four million above the previous mark of 8,870,145 set last year.

The American League starters will be announced today, and the reserves and pitchers for both clubs will be named later in the week by the managers—Sparky Anderson of Cincinnati and Billy Martin of the New York Yankees.

The 48th All-Star Game will be played July 19 at New York's Yankee Stadium.

Morgan, a seven-time All-Star and a starter for the sixth year in a row, was runner-up with 3,309,754 votes. Bench, the only player to be chosen as a starter in each of the eight years of fan balloting, was named to the All-Star team for the ninth time, with 3,262,680 votes.

New coaches inked at AHS

ABILENE — Lyndon (Earl) Gathright, 39, has been named the new track and field coach at Abilene High School.

Gathright, formerly head track coach at Class AAA Marlin, will also assist in football.

He succeeds Pat Aguilar, who resigned recently to become track coach at Texas A&I. Gathright has been at Marlin six years.

Gathright is a graduate of Howard Payne University, where he was a teammate of Glenn Petty, the former Big Spring coach who is now head track coach at Abilene Cooper High School.

Trudy Davis, formerly at Rosebud-Lott, has been named girls' volleyball coach at Abilene High. Janet Hindman was named to coach girls' track at Abilene High.

Astros post honorable mentions

NEW YORK (AP) — The Houston Astros didn't grab the top spots in fan balloting for the National League all-star team, but they did well enough for a few honorable mentions in the nationwide poll.

Houston catcher Joe Ferguson was No. 6, with 562,193 votes, as was Astros first baseman Bob Watson with 571,548. Enos Cabell netted 400,581 for the seventh spot among third basemen. Houston's Roger Metzger got 369,205 votes at shortstop, also for a No. 7.

The all-star team, announced Monday, was dominated by players from the Cincinnati Reds, Los Angeles Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Tornadoes lead conference

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Tornado's last two victories have given them at least a temporary lead in the Southern Division of the North American Soccer League's Pacific Conference.

The Tornado defeated Rochester 3-2 Sunday and Portland 2-1 last Friday for a 14-6 record and 124 points. Archival Los Angeles has a 13-6 mark and 121 points. However, Los Angeles could regain first place Wednesday when it visits Tampa Bay.

Dallas plays its next game at home against the St. Louis Stars Saturday night.
