To stop border skirmishes

Cease Fire is accepted

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt and Libya have accepted a ceasefire in the bloody border conflict that erupted six days ago, a spokesman for Palestinian leader Yasir Arafat said today.

He said the agreement contained three points, but declined to disclose the details.

Palestinian sources said earlier that Arafat was proposing a temporary cease-fire, an end to the long-time propaganda warfare between the two North African Arab neighbors and negotiations aimed at achieving a permanent halt to the conflict.

Algerian President Houari Boumediene helped in negotiations, holding talks Sunday with Arafat and Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy. Boumediene then flew to Alexandria to consult Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Shortly after Boumediene's arrival in the Egyptian Mediterranean port city, Sadat ordered his forces to cease all hostilities against Libya.

There was no immediate independent confirmation that hostilities had ended in the embattled border region, which has been off limits to reporters.

An Egyptian military spokesman said paratroopers, complying with the cease-fire, withdrew early today from the Libyan oasis of Al Jaghbug, about 100 miles south of the Mediterranean coast and 20 miles west of the border.

The spokesman said the soldiers, supported by aircraft, had occupied the oasis Sunday because it was being used as a staging area for sabotage raids on Egypt.

There were conflicting claims regarding battlefield action Sunday. Libya said it downed 14 Egyptian planes and captured one pilot who bailed out. Egypt said it lost two planes in an attack on the Al Adam airbase, south of Tobruk. It also reported air raids aimed at two radar stations and an airfield at another oasis.

The Arab Revolutionary News

Agency (ARNA) in the Libyan capital of Tripoli said two Libyans were killed in an Egyptian attack on the Al Kufra oasis at the southern end of the frontier, about 550 miles south of the Mediterranean. The Egyptian spokesman said Al Kufra's airport was raided after Libya moved planes into the area, threatening Egypt's security.

Long-standing enmity between Libya and Egypt, whose regime is considered relatively moderate among the Arab states, flared into open combat last Tuesday with air strikes and ground clashes along the desert frontier.

JOHN HILL

John Hill due here

Attorney General John Hill will visit with citizens of Big Spring at 4 p.m. Thursday in a public reception at the Reddy Room of Texas Electric Service Co.

Robert Miller, a Big Spring attorney and chairman of the reception committee for the visit by one of the state's highest officials, said Hill wants to answer questions about the state from the public. He is expected to give a brief talk.

Although Hill has been mentioned as possible candidate for governor next year, Miller emphasized that Hill will be visiting here as attorney general and not as a candidate for any political office.

Others on the local reception committee are Ray Don Williams and Adolph Swartz.

Hill will be coming here from Snyder and will depart Big Spring for Austin about 5:30 p.m. Thursday. His wife, Betsy, will accompany him.

Miller said that he had been a personal friend of the Hill family since they were neighbors in the Spring Branch-Memorial area of Houston. This was when Hill was an attorney and did not hold public office, he said.

By attorney in mass slaying case

Police actions questioned

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — An attorney who wants to represent Lorne Acquin, charged with the slayings of his foster brother's wife, seven children and a niece, says there was "gross misbehavior" by state police in the investigation.

State police refused comment on the accusation by John R. Williams, and also refused comment on a published report that the 27-year-old ex-convict told them that he bludgeoned members of Frederick Beaudoin's family with a tire iron and then set their house on fire in nearby Prospect with gasoline early Friday.

Williams, who met with Acquin over the weekend, said he would ask to be appointed Acquin's attorney when he appears for a preliminary hearing today at Waterbury Common Pleas Court on charges of murder and arson.

Acquin was held on $250,000 bail after being arrested early Saturday. Williams said Saturday that the police investigation of the slayings involved "some of the most shocking misconduct of its kind I have ever seen."

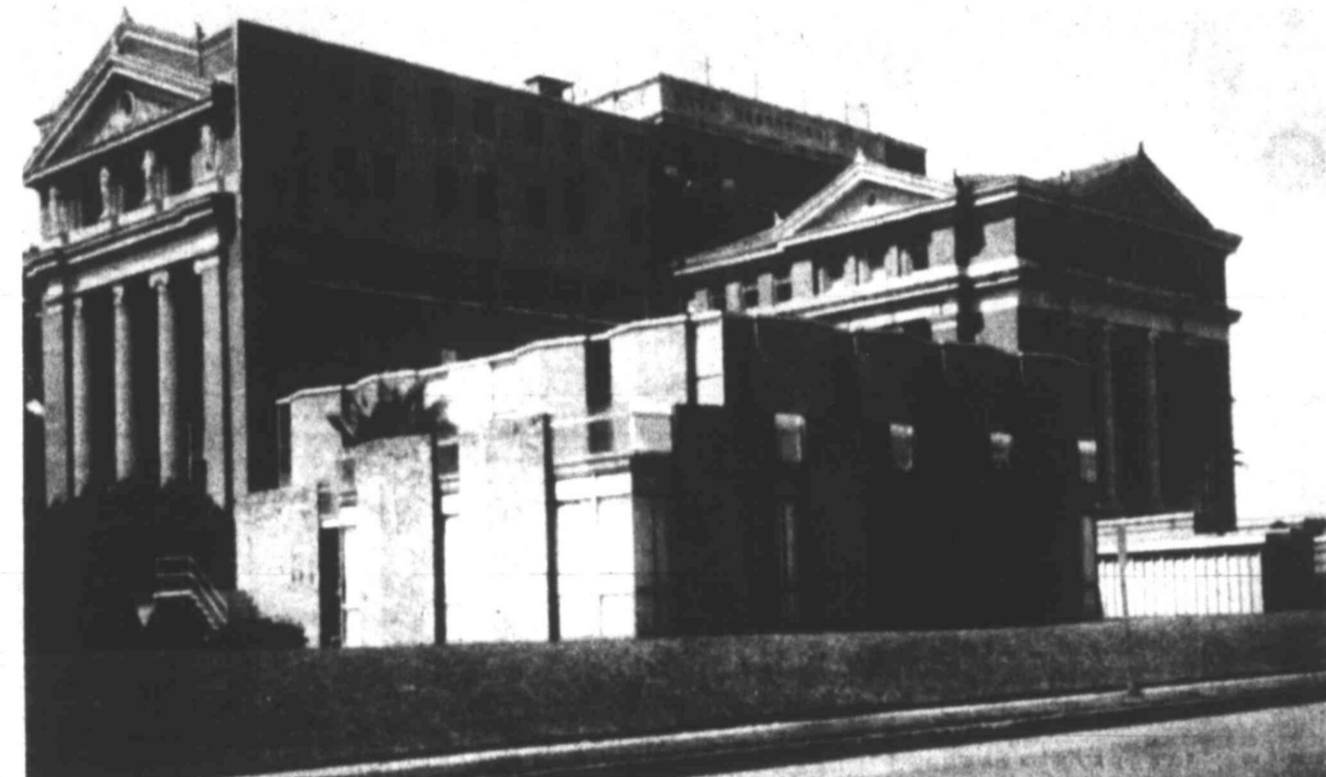

He would not elaborate.

The report in the Sunday editions of The New Haven Register quoted sources as saying Acquin, who had lived several years ago with the Beaudoin family, told state police he arrived at the Beaudoin home between 2:30 and 3:30 a.m. Friday.

The Register quoted the sources as saying that Acquin told police he talked in the kitchen with Beaudoin's wife, Cheryl, 29. Beaudoin was at work on the night shift at Pratt & Whitney aerospace plant in New Haven.

After the fire, investigators found her body in the kitchen.

An autopsy indicated that she had died of head injuries and a stab wound to the chest, Chief State Medical

Detox center problems aired

Cutback will be felt

By MARJ CARPENTER
Howard County Commissioners are giving serious consideration to adding their support to the City Detoxification Center, after hearing an appeal from the Steering Committee and director here today.

Ed Mitchell, director of the highly successful facility to provide services for alcoholics in the county and community, pointed out that the financial support of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism has been cut back this year by a $10,000 figure.

This is part of a sliding cutback of the state financing of the facility, which has been backed since the beginning by the City of Big Spring and the state agency. City friends continue but state aid was cut to $40,000.

When the facility was started, the former county judge, A.G. Mitchell told the group that "The alcoholics are all in town." Ed Mitchell recalled this statement to the commissioners this morning.

The director pointed out that the facility has continued to assist people out in the county. He expressed appreciation to both the sheriff and the county judge for their assistance to the center.

Mitchell, backed by members of the steering committee, including Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, Ed Bowman, Matt Caperton and Jack Powell, pointed out that to keep the present level of services, an additional $5,000 was needed and "We could tighten our belt for the balance."

Commissioners were invited to tour the facility Wednesday along with a representation from Waco, who are coming to visit the successful facility and use it as a pattern for setting up one in their city.

The Detox Center is used to such tours, having had people come from all over Texas and several states, to view the facility. Since its opening in February 1974, some 1,368 persons have been admitted. The number of continued sobriety patients is high.

Bowman pointed out that he uses many of the patients as workers in the oil field and "they make good workers." The commissioners asked many questions concerning the facility and agreed to give it every possible consideration.

Following this presentation, a stone mason named J. Sivadon, who is traveling through the West Texas area, asked the commissioners to step outside and view some possible damage to the courthouse. He warned the commissioners that some of the outside stone is pulling away from the building.

He pointed out that even though the building structure was sound, that if the stone facing pulls away, damage to the steel reinforcements can follow. Commissioners heard his presentation, but did not plan to make any decision on the matter at this time.

They also heard Neel Barnaby report that paving projects will begin Tuesday in Precinct 1 starting at Woody Long corner and going one mile west and two north. They then will go over to Ward Lagg and to Howard County 9, south of West Knott, continuing over to the Darwood Road area.

Dale Worthan also met with commissioners and requested use of the property south of the Fair Barns for the Band Booster carnival Aug. 15-20. He was told that the property belonged to the Rodeo and Fair Association and asked to make the request through them.

Judge Bill Tume presided today with commissioners present including Bill Crooker, Jack Buchanan and Ol. Brown. Ikie Rupard was out of town.

Thrill ride, heat almost too much

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A 53-year-old Houston corporation executive says he nearly passed out several times from the heat after being locked in a car trunk and taken on a chase in which his car pushed another vehicle at 93 miles per hour.

But Davis Vanscoy, who was in the Kerrville area visiting his mother, escaped from his horrifying predicament and two men charged with kidnaping were still in Kerr County jail Sunday.

Vanscoy said his problems began when he was struck in the rear by a car driven by two men on Interstate 10 in the Texas Hill Country. Both cars stopped and Vanscoy offered to drive the men to a service station because their car was disabled.

On the way to Kerrville, the two pulled out knives and ordered Vanscoy to pull over.

"They made me go around to the side of the car and lay on the ground," he said. "They emptied my pockets."

Then while one of his abductors drove Vanscoy's car, the other held a knife to Vanscoy's throat as the trio returned to the disabled car.

"They said they were going to push their car, and I told them to just take mine," Vanscoy said. "They refused and shoved me in the trunk."

"I didn't get my thoughts about me until I was in the trunk," said the World War II combat veteran. "I found a tire tool and worked on the trunk latch until I pried it loose."

By this time, he said, both cars were traveling at a high speed. Texas Department of Public Safety officer Charles Brune said he clocked the cars at 93 miles an hour.

"I raised the trunk to get some air and try to get someone's attention," said Vanscoy, who nearly almost passed out several times in the oven-like heat of the trunk.

"Then as I was looking out I saw a trooper turn across the median and begin chasing us," he said. "I'd never been so happy."

The driver of the disabled vehicle fled, according to authoritities, but the chase of the car with Vanscoy in the trunk continued for about 25 miles before the driver gave up.

"I jumped out of the car and said, 'I'm going to get a piece of you, buddy,'" Vanscoy said. Brune, however, arrived in seconds and arrested the driver.

The second man was later arrested after a two-hour manhunt near the second automobile.

Later charged with aggravated kidnaping, robbery and auto theft was Terry B. Martin, 19, of New Orleans. Frank Bowles, 21, of Hamilton, Ga., was charged with aggravated kidnaping and auto theft. Bond for Martin was set at $30,000 while a $20,000 bond was set for Bowles.

Vanscoy said he would be more leery in the future about offering help on the highway.

"Just before those two got in my car I had a feeling I should drive off and stop and call in the accident," he said. "I just made a bad decision."

Bus crash kills 37, hurts nine

NUEVA ITALIA, Mexico (AP) — A chartered bus carrying a group of Roman Catholics on a religious pilgrimage through Mexico left the highway and plunged 300 feet down a canyon, killing 37 persons and injuring nine others, a Red Cross physician said today.

Dr. Jesus Mora Martinez said survivors told him the bus was about five miles south of Nueva Italia, in the west coast State of Michoacan, when it missed a curve and tumbled down the canyon.

"The driver is among the survivors and he told me he doesn't know how it happened," Mora said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press in Mexico City.

Hey Kids! School will be delayed

Good news for the school kids came today with an announcement that the opening of school will be postponed to Aug. 29, rather than Aug. 22.

The decision was due to the ruling by the state legislature cutting the required days of school from 180 to 175 per year. The in-service for teachers will now begin on Aug. 23 rather than on Aug. 15.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: U-Turns

Q. Are U-turns allowed around the median strip at Farm Market (FM) 700's intersection with Westover Road and at Wasson Road? This is a slow tedious process, and is dangerous to the heavily congested traffic using these intersections.

A. According to Sgt. Jimmy Wallace, Traffic Division of the Big Spring Police Department, U-turns are legal in any intersection unless the intersection is posted, "No U-turn." A vehicle making a U-turn must yield to all other traffic passing through the intersection. Since the intersections of Westover and Wasson Roads and FM 700 are not posted "No U-turn," a U-turn is legal at either intersection.

Offbeat: Oke-e-e Poke-e-e?

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Big success has eluded bricklayer John Standberry Jr. through his songs, so he's invented a dance he calls Oke-e-e Poke-e-e.

"There was a dance way back called the hokey pokey," he said. "This is a little bit similar but has a lot of modern steps."

Standberry, whose recording of his song about the new dance will be released about the end of the month, crooned a couple of bars in his tenor voice: "I know I can do the Oke-e-e Poke-e-e. Would you like to do the Oke-e-e Poke-e-e?"

Standberry says Elvis Presley was a truck driver when he walked into a studio and recorded a demonstration record, so there's no reason a bricklayer can't get to the top.

Even if financial success never arrives, Standberry said, he's getting self-satisfaction from his music.

Laetril reactions noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Georgetown University cancer specialists say they watched two cancer patients develop adverse reactions from using Laetrile and that the controversial substance may be dangerous. Dr. Philip S. Schein, chief of Georgetown's medical oncology division said Sunday that he and three colleagues seem to have found the first reported incidents of harmful effects to cancer patients who used Laetrile, a fruit derivative which some hail as a cure for cancer. The Georgetown physicians have submitted a report on their findings to the Journal of the American Medical Association. "The main purpose of the report is to alert the medical profession and the public that this material may not be safe," Schein said in a telephone interview Sunday. "It has been assumed by the lay public and the medical profession that this material is at worst a harmless placebo. It may not even fit that criteria."

In their report, the Georgetown University doctors said, "It cannot be assumed that Laetrile is nontoxic or that this compound has not already contributed to the death of patients with malignant diseases." The report to the AMA said the symptoms of the cancer patients were of a type that could be easily missed by a doctor who prescribes and believes in Laetrile. A doctor who believed in the substance could have thought the Laetrile-caused reaction was a symptom of the patient's cancer, the doctors said. Schein said the doctors based their findings against Laetrile on this finding: When patients used the substance they experienced reactions. When they stopped, the reactions disappeared. Federal agencies and the AMA have said Laetrile is worthless in treating cancer, but at least 11 states have approved use of the substance.

The Agriculture Department says the nation's 2.8 million farms averaged a total income each of $19,059 last year. That was up from $17,558 each in 1975. But only $7,885 of the 1976 total came from farming profits. The remaining $11,174 came from "off-farm income" such as moonlighting jobs by farmers themselves or from jobs held by spouses and other members of their families. The off-farm earnings were most pronounced for the smallest category of farms, those with annual sales of crops and livestock of $2,500 or less. These often have been called "country residences" by some authorities, rather than farms. Those averaged $1,921 each from farm income and $15,630 in 1976 from off-farm earnings, a total income last year of $17,551 per farm. But the $2,500-or-less farms account for more than one million of the nation's 2.8 million farms, about 39 per cent. On the basis of dollar value of farm product sales, those accounted for only 1.4 per cent of the nation's food and fiber last year. Not until annual farm product sales reach $20,000 a year do the off-farm earnings drop below those of actual farm income.

Deaths

Jim Doe

James G. (Jim) Doe, 51, died at 5:35 p.m. Sunday in a local hospital. Services are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

He was born Feb. 16, 1926 in Okla. and was a mechanic. He was a veteran of World War Two, and had been a resident of Big Spring for 30 years.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Gladys Doe, Big Spring; a brother, Robert (Huck) Doe, Garden City; and a sister, Justine Kelly of Fort Worth.

Monroe Kelly

Services for Monroe Kelly, 78, of Big Spring, who died Friday evening in a Big Spring hospital after a long illness, will be at 2 p.m. today in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel.

Dr. Jimmy Law, pastor of College Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Police beat Man mum about injury

Raul Garza, 1906 Runnels, was shot in the jaw 3:15 a.m. Sunday at a party at 801 Lancaster. Reports of the shooting are sketchy because Garza is unable to testify with his wounded jaw. According to reports from Medical Arts Hospital, Garza is in a great deal of pain with bullet fragments from a pistol lodged in his left jaw, but is in satisfactory condition overall.

Weather

Texas has hottest weather in nation

By the Associated Press — Texas shared an unwelcome distinction today — some of the hottest weather in the nation. The mercury hit 109 degrees Sunday in Dallas and the same level in Palm Springs, Calif., making them the two warmest spots in the United States, the National Weather Service reported.

More than a dozen other Texas points were only a little cooler with top marks from 100 up. There was a little cooling overnight, and it was still uncomfortably warm nearly everywhere in the state this morning. Scattered thunderstorms rumbled across the north third of the state Sunday afternoon, and high clouds lingered there. It was mostly clear over Central and West Texas.

WEST TEXAS: Increasing cloudiness north, partly cloudy south tonight, scattered showers and thunderstorms north and extreme west portions. Considerable cloudiness north, partly cloudy south Tuesday, scattered showers and thunderstorms east and north portions. Lows tonight 62 to 75 except middle 50s mountains. Highs Tuesday 82 north to 105 Big Bend valleys. EXTENDED FORECAST WEST TEXAS: Scattered mainly late afternoon and evening showers and thunderstorms mountains and north Wednesday through Friday. Temperatures near normal. Highs near 90 north to about 100 south and 103 lower elevations of the Big Bend. Lows mid 60s to the low 70s except 50s mountains.

WEATHER FORECAST — Mild to cool weather is forecast Monday from the northern Rockies to northern New England. Warm weather is expected to continue in the southern states. Showers are forecast from the Appalachians to the Northeast and in the Southwest.

Brown: Exit is proper

SEOUL (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown told South Korean officials today that the phased withdrawal of 33,000 U.S. troops is justified because it will remove the U.S. military presence here as a possible political issue in the United States, informed sources said. The sources also said Brown, meeting with South Korean Defense Minister Suh Jong-chul, spelled out details of a $1.9 billion U.S. military aid program for the South Koreans that President Carter will present to Congress.

Brown and Suh held the first of two days of meetings today on Carter's plan for a four- or five-year pullout of all American ground forces in Korea, principally the 2nd Infantry Division and its support units. U.S. congressional and other critics of President Park Chung-hee's authoritarian rule want U.S. troops pulled out unconditionally.

Confidence sources said Brown told the South Koreans that the phased withdrawal was in order because the U.S. troops would be "politically vulnerable" if they remained in Korea. Brown seemed to be implying that allowing the issue to boil over into a major controversy in the United States might lead to a sudden pullout without proper planning and with the danger of prompting North Korean aggression against an unprepared South Korea.

The sources said Brown indicated that the first 6,000 troops would be withdrawn by the end of 1978. As the hour-long first meeting opened, the sources said, Suh read a statement reiterating South Korea's desire to have the troops remain but agreeing to accept the withdrawal on the condition that compensatory measures be carried out — meaning U.S. aid in bolstering South Korean defenses.

The aid program laid out by Brown was described this way: Carter will ask Congress to provide $275 million a year for the next four years to South Korea in foreign military sales credit, a one-shot $300 million credit, and the transfer as an outright gift of $500 million worth of military equipment to be left behind by the departing 2nd Division. Of the $1.9 billion aid total, $1.4 billion would be in the form of new foreign military sales credits, the interest on which generally averages 8 per cent a year.

On Sunday, Brown visited U.S. and South Korean positions south of the uneasy demilitarized zone and told American soldiers there that despite the withdrawal plan they must "remain fully combat-ready" to deter possible attack from the Communist North.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, responding to criticism of his domestic program by the director of the National Urban League, defended his welfare and job proposals today, saying he has "no apologies to make."

In a speech to the League's 67th annual conference, Carter pledged that his administration will provide "real money, real programs to help real people in need of real help."

Vernon Jordan, director of the moderate civil rights organization, called Sunday night for an August strategy meeting of black leaders, declaring, "many black people feel that their hopes and their needs have been betrayed" by Carter.

In his speech, Carter said his wife Rosalynn referred to the critics and told him, "Vernon doesn't think you're doing as well as I think you're doing, Jimmy."

After the talk, Carter met privately with Jordan, who then escorted him to his car and shook his hand before the President entered.

Carter listed increased jobs programs and anti-discrimination efforts as cornerstones of his concern for the nation's poor. He said the welfare revision program he soon will send to Congress will emphasize "jobs and work for those who are able." The plan, criticized by Jordan, "is not a move backwards," and will create more than one million new public service jobs, he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allegations of a new Washington scandal growing out of alleged South Korean influence-buying may have been blown out of proportion, Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd says. But the U.S. Justice Department is reported close to issuing indictments against five former congressmen, the Los Angeles Times said in today's editions. Byrd said Sunday he believes charges that South Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park used his money to influence congressmen's votes may be exaggerated. "I have a feeling that the matter is overblown because it appears in the public mind based on the number of persons whose names have appeared on some lists," the West Virginia Democrat said. Byrd was referring to a list with the names of several dozen congressmen that once was found in Park's possession. The senator suggested that Park might have exaggerated his own influence in Washington to impress the South Korean government. Park, who now resides in London, has acknowledged giving gifts and campaign contributions to several congressmen. But he denied acting on behalf of the Seoul government. Park entertained many congressmen at his George Town Club in Washington before leaving this country. Meanwhile, the Times quoted an unidentified source close to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill as saying the House ethics committee had been told of the impending indictments. The newspaper said the House panel, chaired by Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., D-Ga., was given no indication as to the identity of the former congressmen. The Times source said federal prosecutors were fearful that if evidence against the five was given to the House committee, it could be leaked, jeopardizing a fair trial. Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel declined to comment on the report. Department officials have said much of their information is subject to grand jury secrecy rules, and Justice has been reluctant to share its information with the ethics committee, the newspaper said. Byrd made his comments on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

Farm Small farmers do better in town

WASHINGTON (AP) — New government figures show that farm families who sell less than $20,000 worth of crops and livestock a year continued to earn more from jobs in town and other sources in 1976 than from what they produced on the land.

The Agriculture Department says the nation's 2.8 million farms averaged a total income each of $19,059 last year. That was up from $17,558 each in 1975. But only $7,885 of the 1976 total came from farming profits. ### British join fight

LONDON (AP) — British Airways has joined the cut-rate Battle of the Atlantic. The government-operated airline announced Sunday that it was seeking approval to lower its round-trip New York-to-London air fare to compete with Freddie Laker's walk-on Skytrain scheme. Two U.S. airlines, Pan American and Trans World Airlines, have already announced plans to combat Laker Airways' challenge with lower transatlantic fares.

British Airways said it wants to cut its round-trip fare by 17 per cent to $290. The lower rate would apply only to trips originating in New York and only to so-called excursion tickets bought 45 days in advance. The new fare would be effective Sept. 1 and "probably will run only during the low (winter) season," a British Airways spokesman said. The fare would include confirmed seats and meals. Laker has said his $236 New York-London round-trip fare, which provides for no advance booking and does not include meals or other extras, would be year-round. He plans to begin his "no-frills" operation Sept. 26.

Death decree doomed?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas legislature probably will abolish the state's death penalty in 1983, according to a Texas prison lobbyist. Charles Sullivan, head of Citizens United for the Rehabilitation of Errants (CURE), said Sunday that his prediction was based on a change in the makeup of the legislature that he feels will be brought on by the 1980 census. "With the new census, I think you are going to find a much more liberal legislature," he said. "I think the people are much more liberal now on the death penalty than the legislature."

The likely effect of the 1980 census, and the redistricting that will follow in 1981, will be to increase the number of urban seats in the House and Senate, at the expense of rural areas. Legislators will be elected to those new seats in 1982 and will begin serving in 1983. Sullivan also said Gov. Dolph Briscoe blew an opportunity to make Texas safer by rehabilitating more convicted felons. Sullivan criticized Briscoe for vetoing a bill enabling ex-convicts to enter 61 state-licensed occupations from which they now are banned. Briscoe also drew Sullivan's ire for vetoing a bill automatically restoring convicts' voting rights after they have served their prison time. "That's when, I guess, we lost all our confidence in the governor, that he actually was going to do something about rehabilitation," Sullivan said.

Canning is 'in' thing

By LOUISE COOK By the Associated Press

Millions of Americans who planted backyard gardens during spring and early summer are enjoying the fruits — and vegetables — of their labor. And many of them are turning to home canning to stretch out the enjoyment of the produce through the year. Industry sources estimate that more garden seeds were purchased in 1975, the latest year for which complete figures are available, than in the previous five years combined. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated that more than 20 million persons canned their own fruits and vegetables last year.

There are several basics for would-be canners to keep in mind. Fruits, tomatoes and pickled vegetables — all of them high in acid — can be processed in a boiling-water-bath canner. Low-acid items — all common vegetables except tomatoes — require a steam-pressure canner with the extrahigh temperatures needed to destroy bacteria present in the food. Select fresh, firm fruits and young, tender vegetables for canning and process them before they lose their freshness. If you must store them, find a cool, airy place. Wash produce carefully, even if you plan to peel it, but don't let the fruits and vegetables soak too long since they may lose flavor. Decide whether you want to pack foods raw or cooked. Most raw fruits and vegetables should be packed tightly into the container because they shrink during processing. Exceptions are corn, lima beans and peas, which expand and should be packed loosely, as should hot food. Hot items also should be at or near boiling temperature when packed.

Officially, Chicago

with Marj Carpenter

Last year, we featured an article on Chicago, which battled out with Lamesa which city was to be the Dawson County seat. The old sign shown here was taken several years ago and has blown away. Only a cotton field marks the spot. But through the diligent work of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, the Texas Historical Commission has now marked the spot where Chicago once existed. Dedication of the plaque will be Monday, Aug. 1 at 8 p.m. Located on the north side of N. 22nd Street, the marker is about halfway between the Lubbock Highway on the east and the Brownfield Highway on the west.

Handwritten memories of an old rancher who lived in Chicago were located in Austin by the women's division.

The marker reads "W.C. Bishop of Chicago, Ill. and wealthy lumberman George N. Fletcher established the OTO later Bar TO Ranch about 1887 on Fletcher's extensive landholdings in Dawson County. A post office was opened at the ranch headquarters on April 15, 1889 and named Chicago, both in honor of Bishop's hometown and in humorous reference to the sparse population of the area.

"The postal facility served other larger ranches in this vicinity, such as C.C. Slaughter's Long S.

"In the 1890's, Fletcher left the ranching venture and A.F. Crowley and W.H. Godair became Bishop's partners. By that time, a village had begun to grow up around the post office.

OLD MARKER has blown away

"B.A. Oden served as OTO Ranch foreman and postmaster of Chicago from 1894 to 1903. When Walter Stemons replaced him in both positions in 1904, the settlement was renamed Stemons's.

"The same year, a post office was established in the new town of Lamesa, two miles south of Chicago.

"Dawson County was originated in 1905 and both towns entered the contest for the county seat. When Lamesa won, residents of Chicago quickly relocated their homes and business there. The school and Baptist and Methodist Churches also moved to Lamesa. Within days, the community of Chicago had disappeared.

Out at Chicago, the early ranchhands from the Slaughter Rnch used to gather at an open saloon, which was probably the only open saloon ever in Dawson County — and that was before the county was formed up.

That was not included in his historical marker, but it should have been since it was the only one around for miles. The ranchhands came into Big Spring and bought supplies and resold them in Chicago for a higher price.

They made a little profit for traveling on into the wild town of Big Spring.

With the evoting out of Chicago, the only saloon also went down the wash. Incidentally, Chicago was written up at one time in the Chicago Tribune. The article said, "What sandstorms, drought and other hardships could not accomplish, voters accomplished when they voted Chicago, Tex. dead."

And that's the way it is where there will be a Chicago marker on Aug. 1 out where I ride fence.

Bond sales hit .44 of goal

June sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds in Howard County were reported today by County Bond Chairman Jimmy TAYLOR. Sales for the six-month period totaled $319,045 for 44 per cent of the 1977 sales goal of $725,000.

Texas sales during the month amounted to $24,027,340, while sales for the first six months of 1977 totaled $140,919,165 with 51 per cent of the yearly sales goal of 276.9 million achieved.

GI bill schooling helps 17 million

During the 33-year life span of the biggest free schooling program in the nation's history, nearly 17 million Americans have been educated under one of the three GI Bills passed since World War II, the Veterans Administration said today.

The program trained nearly 8 million World War II veterans, more than 2 million Korean conflict vets and nearly 7 million post-Korean conflict servicemen and women.

Free to the students, the three GI Bills cost the taxpayers $40.7 billion and are regarded as one of the most successful and widely used of all veterans' benefits.

Tourist industry rosier

NEW YORK (AP) — The American tourist industry, which has been something of a little sister in the world travel picture, seems to be moving into its own.

While it may be years before the number of tourist dollars flowing out of this country is matched by money from foreign visitors, Commerce Department officials say the flow of U.S. tourist dollars abroad is far less lopsided than a decade ago.

"In recent years, this deficit — some call it the travel gap — has begun to shrink," said David L. Edgell, director of policy analysis in the Commerce Department's U.S. Travel Service.

"In 1976, it was 14 per cent less than in 1975, but still a substantial $2.65 billion," he said, in an article a recent Commerce Department publication, "Commerce America."

Edgell quotes agency predictions that, if recent trends continue, the United States will close the so-called "travel gap" by the end of the century.

There are a couple of reasons for his optimism.

The United States, which didn't even open a government office to coordinate a national tourist policy until 1961 — years after most European countries had aggressive programs — is seeing a gradual slowdown in the numbers of U.S. residents who vacation abroad.

Ten years ago, about 20.56 million U.S. citizens traveled in foreign countries; five years ago, it peaked at 23.8 million; last year, about 22.9 million Americans visited foreign countries. This year, government travel specialists predict about 23.5 million U.S. residents will travel in foreign countries.

By contrast, there has been a rapid growth in the numbers of visitors from other countries to the United States. The U.S. Travel Service said that in 1967, when more than 20 million Americans traveled abroad, only 9.96 million foreign visitors came to this country.

That number of visitors from abroad grew to 13.06 million by 1972 and reached 17.5 million for last year's bicentennial.

This year, the agency forecasts a 5 per cent increase to 18.4 million visitors. But officials say figures for the first five months show a jump of more than 8 per cent over a year ago may indicate the agency's estimate is too conservative.

One major reason for the increase in foreign visitors is simply that the economies of other countries and the amount of leisure time available for travel is growing.

Then too, as the United States draws more visitors and gets publicity through such events as the bicentennial, a snowball effect can take place. Those who vacation here tend to influence their friends to do the same.

If world economic conditions remain stable, the U.S. Travel Service says it expects receipts from foreign travel, which were nearly $7 billion last year to reach $20 billion in current dollars by the year 2000.

Energy Buildup feared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continued use of oil, gas and coal will result in a buildup of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, which could change the climate and perhaps cause the oceans to flood the earth's great coastal cities, says a report by a panel of scientists and engineers.

"The climatic effects of carbon dioxide release may be the primary limiting factor on energy production from fossil fuels over the next few centuries," the panel said in a report released Sunday by the National Research Council.

"There are profound uncertainties regarding the carbon cycle, climate and their interdependence .... The possibility of modification of the world's climate by carbon dioxide released in the production of energy from fossil fuels should be given serious prompt consideration," the report said.

Roger Revelle of Harvard and the University of California at San Diego told a news briefing that the potential climatic changes might result in increased snows in polar regions, and destruction of the West Antarctic icepack "resulting in a corresponding rise in the sea level of five meters (15 feet) in 300 years."

"It would happen slowly but coastal areas would have a lot of trouble," he said. And as for such coastal cities as New York and Los Angeles: "You'd have to move them," he said.

If present trends continue, the report said, global temperatures will probably increase six degrees centigrade, or about 11 degrees Fahrenheit by the 22nd century, and even more in polar regions. It said such an increase would far exceed the temperature fluctuations of the past several thousand years and "would very likely along the way have a highly significant impact on global precipitation."

Smokey Knocke looks back on long service

R.J. (Smokey) Knocke Jr., pipeline at Big Spring, has completed 25 years of service with Shell Pipe Line Corporation. He was honored at a luncheon at the Petroleum Club in Midland and received an award in recognition of his long period of service.

Beginning his Shell career as a laborer at Forsan, Knocke worked as pipeline at Forsan, Roberts and Big Spring. He was a tank farm gauger at Hendrick tank farm near Kermit for about two years, then pipeline at Goldsmith and Penwell before returning to Big Spring as pipeline in August, 1967.

Smokey has served as right of way and ditch inspector at Clute, Texas; right of way and burying inspector on the Central Gulf-West Delta project off shore Louisiana; coating inspector on the Tarpor project 16" system in Southern Louisiana; and has been tank inspector, station inspector and ditch and backfill inspector at various locations within Central Division.

Born in Hermleigh, Knocke attended school at Beeville and graduated from Colorado City High School. His wife is the former Dorris Hunter of Colorado City. They have two sons, Richard Lee Knocke at Stanton and Barry Knocke at Lubbock.

Don Farris is named to post

HOBBS, N.M. — Atlantic Richfield Company has named Don Farris senior production supervisor for the Permian District here, succeeding Homer L. Honea, who has taken a similar position in Odessa, Tex.

A native of Eunice, N.M., Farris comes to Hobbs from Anchorage, Alaska where he has been operations training coordinator for the company's Alaska Region, South District, since January. He originally went to Alaska in 1974 as supervisor on the King Salmon platform in the Cook Inlet.

Farris was graduated from Texas A&I University with a BA degree in petroleum and natural gas engineering and joined Atlantic Richfield in 1967 at Denver City, Tex.

Honea also from Eunice, N.M., began his career with the company in 1958 at Big Spring, Tex., after being graduated from Texas Tech University with a BA degree in petroleum engineering. He was named senior district production supervisor at Hobbs in 1974.

Confusion, disgrace of blackout recalled

By MARJ CARPENTER

"Either the world has ended or we have another blackout," A Citizens Band radio operator said in New York City during the recent power failure.

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin McNally, both of whom are employees of the Big Spring Herald, were back in Midland, N.Y., visiting his parents when the blackout occurred. Kevin works in the press room and Gwen is an advertising sales person.

Since that is only 60 miles away from the city, they were driving through the edge of the city when they first heard the CB radio reports of the "mess."

The mass confusion and the disgrace of the looting which accompanied the power failure were the subject of discussion for days in the New York area, Mrs. McNally reported.

"They may never get through talking about it," she related. She noted that one of the bigger hospitals even had the emergency generator fail and had to wait for assistance.

"It's hard to believe how much we count on electricity until it's gone," she noted.

"They arrested around

3,700 looters," Kevin added "and didn't even scratch the surface. They were taking their time processing them and had them packed into cells. The looters were screaming about their rights but they weren't getting much sympathy."

Gwen added, "Watching the local television was infuriating. The TV would show people who were obviously poor running around wearing rings on every finger and they would tell the commentator, 'It's none of your business where I got 'em.' I saw one newscast that showed this fellow rolling tires down the street and he simply cursed the commentator when he asked about them."

Some of the shopkeepers who could get to their stores, sat all of their frozen food out front for people to get it trying to keep them from breaking into the building.

The majority of the storeowners could not get through the traffic jams to their places of business, according to the McNallys.

Gwen also reported that people sat out on the stoops of the apartment houses all night trying to get some air.

"Those 20 story apartments were hot, I'm sure," she recalled. She also told tales of people caught inside elevators when the power went off.

"We were praying out in Middleton that the power wouldn't go off that far out and we were lucky. It was kind of a terrible night," she recalled.

She added, "And it made you realize that everybody doesn't act really great in an emergency situation."

Carbon monoxide often difficult to detect

The same fire that gives meat its delicious smoked flavor also produces a potentially deadly gas.

The dangerous gas is carbon monoxide, CO, a tasteless, colorless, odorless gas produced every time a carbon-containing material burns.

The Texas Medical Association says CO combines with blood 200 times more easily than oxygen. If a person breathes air containing a normal amount of oxygen and a moderate amount of carbon monoxide, the blood will be starved for oxygen. When blood cannot supply oxygen to the brain, permanent brain damage or death may result.

Dangerous quantities of CO usually accumulate when a relatively cool, slow fire burns in limited air. Since the gas cannot be seen, smelled or tasted, it is hard to detect except by the symptoms of its poisoning: drowsiness, headache, tightness across the forehead, confusion, nausea and muscular weakness. CO poisoning may cause enough confusion that victims cannot reach fresh air to relieve the symptoms and prevent serious injury.

To prevent a carbon monoxide attack in your home:

1) Provide plenty of fresh air for charcoal grills, barbecue pits and hibachis, especially when used indoors. Better, yet, do not use them indoors at all.

2) Some people get CO poisoning because charcoal briquets were brought inside when they were gray ashes. As long as wood or briquets give off heat, they give off CO.

3) Be sure the garage is sealed from the house. Never run an engine, especially a vehicle engine, in a closed garage.

4) Before winter, have all heating systems checked for operating efficiency. Make sure vents, pipes, flues and chimneys are tight.

Cooperative effort earns praise

Col. Harry Spannaus has called Thursday's scramble to find two pilots who were forced to bail out of their T38 "the greatest display of civilian-military cooperation in a rescue" that he has ever seen.

SPANNAUS, WING commander at Webb, said Friday morning that as he rushed to the scene of the accident near Garden City, he called Connie Edwards.

Edwards, a rancher and antique aircraft collector, took a plane into the air and was radioing information to

CONNIE EDWARDS
Spannaus en route before the two pilots' parachutes had even touched the ground. Spannaus said that Edwards circled the area where the pilots came down and helped the Col. Spannaus reach them right away.

Fortunately, neither of the pilots were seriously injured, but one did suffer some minor neck injuries.

Capt. William Cottingham was flown to San Antonio for observation, but he was expected to be back at Webb by this week.

The colonel had nothing but praise for all the military and civilian officials involved in the rescue mission, especially Edwards whom he termed most helpful.

WHILE EVERYONE regrets that any aircraft accident has to happen, it is reassuring to see how quickly military and civilian authorities reacted last week to this one, even though it occurred in a rather remote area. Marine helicopters were even involved in the effort.

All parties participating in the rescue effort obviously did an outstanding job.

One of a kind

Around the rim

Danny Reagan

The other day someone asked me, "You killed your cat yet?"

No, I haven't, not yet at least. "Starbuck", sometimes known as "Buck", occasionally called "Buckie" and most of the time referred to as something other than I could put in a family newspaper, is alive and well and tearing up the city of Big Spring.

He's almost a year and a half old now. Lord, is that all?

2) He mutilated my Texas Tech stool during the night.

3) He starts jumping on the walls in the front room until we let him out, and in the most vengeful and seemingly impossible act of spite,

4) In the span of one minute (60 seconds) from the time my wife put a book she was reading on the bed, went into the other room and came back, he had ripped the front 50 pages of the book to shreds and was nowhere in sight.

No, it doesn't do any good to beat him... even if Pearl would let me.

HIS NEWEST ACT is to bother the family of Mockingbirds in the big tree next to our apartment. He can't get up to their nest, and I doubt that he wants to anyway. But he will crawl up the tree and "talk" to them, while they make the sound of 50 banshees and dive-bomb him.

He comes in with peck-marks all over his face, but has loads of fun. (He's crazy.)

He loves the laundry closet. He'll scratch at that door to be let in, and we let him, and he'll stay in the closed laundry hamper for hours on end, hiding in the dirty clothes, playing his games and refusing to come out, except for a bit of Tender Vittles.

The only habit of his that really gets on my nerves is that he won't eat his food (dry) until he paws it out on the floor first. He's weird I tell you.

But we have to be nice to him, especially now. He's recovering from a nasty bump on the head. The phone rang late one night, and he was so shook up about it, he took a dive head-first off the bed and smashed his head against the wall.

He'll be fine, though. (Heck.)

Selling the treaty

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Top presidential aide Hamilton Jordan has been given an unannounced new assignment of the utmost difficulty and political sensitivity: to make sure President Carter gets the two-thirds Senate vote needed to ratify a new Panama Canal treaty.

That means Mr. Carter is turning to his most trusted lieutenant, architect of his presidential nomination, for what promises to be one of the most heated treaty ratification fights in Senate history. Jordan, who gets bored with philosophic consideration of issues, tells friends he is delighted with the prospects of a knockdown fight for votes, reminiscent of the presidential campaign.

SELLING THE CANAL treaty is only one of several new responsibilities for Jordan that underline his primacy on the White House staff. He also is in charge of relations with the American-Jewish community, supervised negotiations with Congress on the water projects and will be responsible for Senate ratification of any arms limitation (SALT) treaty signed with the Soviet Union.

In privately claiming there are only 30 hard-core Senate votes against the canal treaty, Jordan may be underestimating his task. During a recent chat with the President, Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina counted 43 opposition votes (nine more than needed). Other foes of the treaty believe the total may climb over 50 once a major media blitz begins playing on a naturally deep-seated apprehension by the public.

A footnote: Assignment of White House aide Joe Aragon as Jordan's deputy on the canal treaty betrays some dubious political thinking. Aragon, formerly head of the Democratic National Committee's Latin American division, is supposed to line up Spanish-speaking Americans for the treaty.

BIZARRE ALLIANCE
A bizarre alliance of corporate big business and liberal White House aides is burying one of President Carter's tax-reform campaign promises: ending double taxation of corporate profits and stockholder dividends.

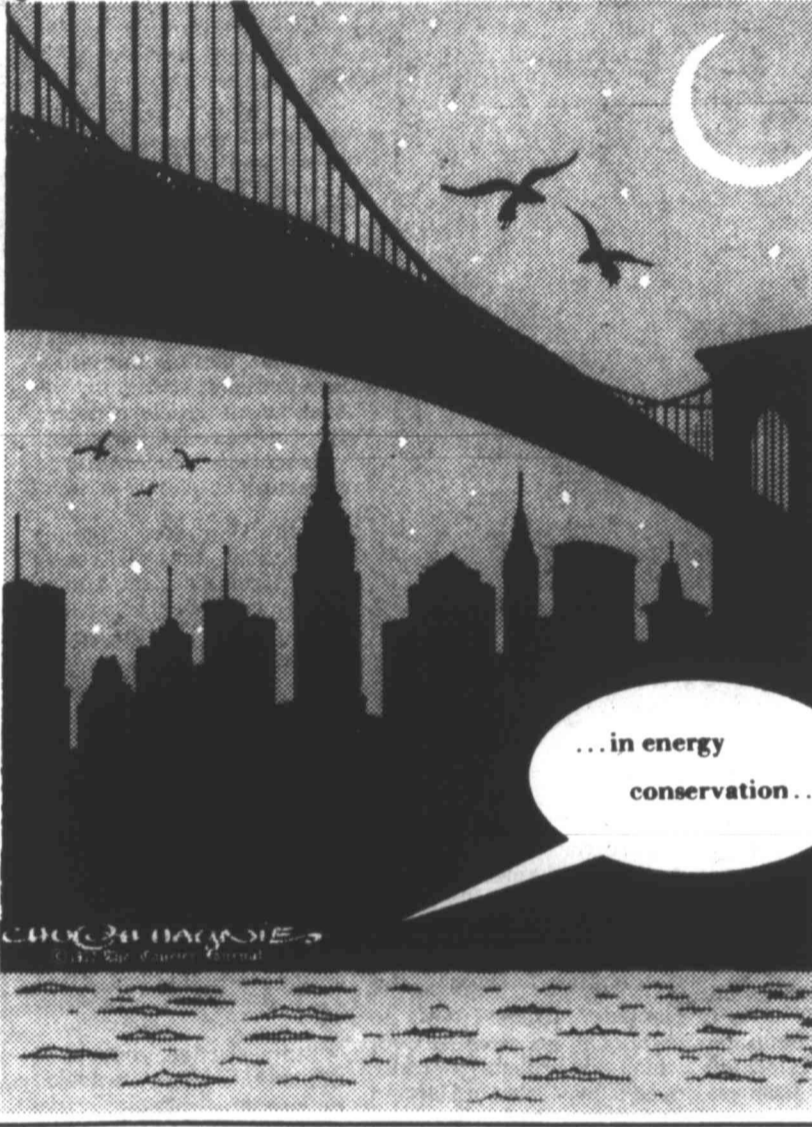

THIS COALITION'S success is made all but certain by the fact budget director Bert Lance has just joined it. Presidential confidant Lance's reason for opposition: the $14 to $18 billion revenue loss.

Business opposition, led by the influential Business Roundtable, results from the fear of corporate managers that a stockholders' tax credit to offset taxes paid at the corporate level will squeeze corporations for higher dividends. Liberal aides in the White House, led by policy chief Stuart Eizenstat, see the proposal as making the President vulnerable to charges that he favors rich stockholders over blue-collar wage-earners.

A footnote: Business wants a drop in the present 48 per cent corporate income tax rate, along with more rapid depreciation based on replacement costs. Despite liberal misgivings, Lance is willing and the President may go along.

CONGRESS AND KOREA
In his first attempt to justify to Congress removal of U.S. ground troops from South Korea, President Carter ran into surprisingly unanimous criticism — running the gamut from Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the pioneer arms control advocate, to defense-oriented Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia.

Rubella shots protect all

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter does not believe it is necessary to immunize my granddaughter against measles. She WANTS her to get measles so she will not have to worry about having deformed children when she is of child-bearing age.

She has had all her other shots. I have read that there is a measles epidemic expected, so there must be many other mothers who feel the same way she does about this. I think they should be educated on the facts. — L.M.R.

I agree with you, grandmother. The measles epidemic is not only expected—it's here. And the reason is, as you imply, that growing numbers of young children are not being immunized. Judging by your reference to child-bearing, I think you mean rubella or German measles.

Your daughter's confusion stems from lack of understanding of just what the shots are supposed to do. In a sense, they mimic an actual attack but in a harmless way. The alternative is waiting for the child to contract the virus naturally from school chums or whomever.

There are two potential problems involved in waiting. One is that your granddaughter may never be exposed and not be protected later in life. Secondly, waiting can last on into adolescence when an attack could make her mighty ill.

Are you sure she has not had the immunization. I am surprised that it was not included among the other protections you say the child has had. In any event, I highly recommend immunization against rubella.

An important point missed in confusion about childhood immunization is that the child in not the only beneficiary. The others are the unprotected pregnant women who would be exposed to rubella when and if the child gets it. So if active immunization programs are promoted, the community as a whole benefits. We've lagged a bit on such programs. The result is apparent—a sharp increase in the disease, with all of its tragic consequences to newborns.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am anemic and it is caused by rheumatoid arthritis. My doctor tells me that there is no cure for this. Won't injections of vitamins or iron pills help? What causes me to be tired—the arthritis or the anemia? Also, how can I keep my sedimentation rate down? — E.M.H.

I'm glad to be able to expand just a bit on an earlier column about this problem. Most chronic disorders, particularly infections, cause an anemia. The red blood cells may appear to be normal but are lacking iron. This kind of anemia is quite difficult to treat. Vitamin B-12 injections or iron taken by mouth or injection are usually not effective.

You mention sedimentation rate. This is a measure of how fast red blood cells settle down to the bottom in a tube of blood. This is not only an index of how severe the rheumatoid arthritis is but also the anemia. There is little you can do to lower the rate except to keep your arthritis under control. One of the most important things you can do for both the arthritis and the anemia is to be sure you are getting a wholesome diet, which can offset things and perhaps restore some of your vitality. Both the arthritis and the anemia are at work in your feeling of weakness.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What, in your opinion, would be the cause and treatment for a sore mouth, tongue, and lips, which feel like they have been scalded. This has happened for the past three years. My doctor, in another state, recommended brewer's yeast in large quantities. That cleared it up temporarily, but it doesn't seem to help any more. I might add that I have diverticulosis and peptic ulcers. — M.P.

Your previous success with the brewer's yeast strongly indicates a vitamin B deficiency as the cause of the membrane problem. Yeast is a rich source of B-complex vitamins. But beyond that, your ulcer and intestinal problem (diverticulosis) are probably contributing to the deficiency by hindering absorption of the natural vitamins from your food. Factors such as smoking can be a cause, as well as menopause and dental problems.

If you are not being treated, you should be. You probably need B supplements.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint disease as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis," write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Trade sought

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The bizarre story can now be told of a subtle attempt by Yugoslavia to trade a jailed American for information from the FBI.

President Tito's secret police, known by the dread initials UDB, had been anxious to exchange information with the FBI. What the UDB really wanted, according to our sources, was access to the FBI's files on the anti-Tito emigres in the United States.

But the FBI had no intention of sharing this information with Tito's police. Then in August, 1975, an opportunity came to apply some quiet pressure on Washington.

The UDB arrested an American businessman, Laszlo Toth, on charges of espionage. He was accused of securing pictures of a Yugoslav sugar refinery, a facility of dubious military significance.

IT HAPPENED that Toth had been born and raised in Yugoslavia. As a young man, he had worked at the sugar factory. He wanted the pictures strictly for nonpolitical reasons.

Meanwhile, he had moved to the United States where he had become a citizen and had found employment with the Great Western Sugar Company. His 1975 visit was a sentimental journey to his homeland.

Intelligence sources say that the UDB at first offered to release Toth if he would agree to spy against his adopted country. He turned down the deal and was hit with a jolting, seven-year sentence.

This aroused then-Ambassador Laurence Silberman, a former Justice Department hotshot, who reviewed the case and concluded that the Yugoslavs must have known Toth was innocent. Silberman deduced, therefore, that they had some other reason than suspected espionage for holding Toth.

Silberman began badgering the Yugoslav foreign ministry with demands for Toth's release. When the diplomat gave him the brush-off, he went directly to the most feared official in Yugoslavia, Interior Minister Franjo Herljevic, who heads the secret police.

HERLJEVIC is skilled in the devious arts. With Balkan subtlety, he spoke to Silberman first about Yugoslav emigres in the United States. Then Herljevic glided smoothly into the question of Yugoslavia's long-standing desire for liaison with the FBI.

Silberman began making a case for Toth's immediate release. But Herljevic dismissed the formal arguments. Among friends, he said carefully, anything could be worked out.

The brilliant, if brash, Silberman quickly grasped the message between the words. He suggested in dispatches to Washington that Herljevic was offering a quid pro quo. If the United States would agree to the FBI-UDB exchange program, the Ambassador noted, Toth could be quickly cut loose.

But Silberman didn't like the deal, which he considered to be extortionary. He took his complaint straight to the Yugoslav foreign office. The State Department bureaucracy, however, wouldn't back up its ambassador. To them, Yugoslavia was a friendly nation.

Toth continued to languish in his Balkan jail, therefore, for months. In the end, Silberman went out of channels to liberate the American businessman. He learned that then-Treasury Secretary William Simon, a tough operator, was preparing to visit Yugoslavia.

President Tito was eager for the visit of Simon, who held the keys to more trade and more dollars. But a Silberman's instigation, Simon threatened to cancel the trip as long as Toth remained in prison.

This produced a sudden "pardon" for Toth from Tito himself. There remained only the repercussions. The record shows that the State Department bureaucrats accused Silberman of "being too zealous." He struck back with a denunciation of the department's obstructionists. Toth had been "innocent as the driven snow," Silberman declared.

THERE WAS an additional round or two of recriminations, and the matter ended with Silberman's departure from Belgrade as part of the post-election Republican exodus. The story was locked up, meanwhile, in the State Department's most secret files.

Footnote: We questioned Silberman who confirmed the general outline of the Herljevic episodes. Toth, aside from saying he was grateful to both Silberman and the United States, declined comment.

WATCH ON WASTE — Last March, we reported that the Capitol Hill elite claimed to be exempt from President Carter's crackdown on oversized limousines. Shortly thereafter, Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill gave up his comfortable Cadillac for a Mercury. More modest cars were ordered for Democratic leader James Wright and Republican leader John Rhodes. On the Senate side, eight new Marquises were ordered to replace four Cadillacs and four Lincolns. House Sergeant at Arms Kenneth Harding, while settling for a Marquis, ordered one with a flashy moon roof at an extra cost to the taxpayers of $50. "But," he assured our reporter Vance Hawthorne, "I buy my own gas and oil."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: When someone we love dies and goes to heaven, do you think they know what is going on down here on earth? — S.L.M.

DEAR S.L.M.: To my knowledge the Bible does not speak about this matter directly. There are some hints, however, that people in heaven may have an awareness of what is going on in this present world. When Moses and Elijah came back temporarily to talk with Jesus during His ministry, they seemed to have had some understanding of His earthly work and the course of His mission (Luke 9:28-31). The book of Hebrews speaks in chapter 11 about great men and women of God who have gone to heaven, and then says that "we are surrounded by such a great cloud of witnesses" (Hebrews 12:1, New International Version). Some take this to mean that those in heaven see what we do on earth, much like spectators watching an athletic contest.

While the Bible does not say much about this, it does give us one very important truth we should never forget. It is really not very important whether or not we are observed by those who are in heaven. The important thing, the Bible says, is that God Himself does know all about us. He knows what we do, and He knows what we think, and what our motives are. "The Lord searcheth all hearts, and understandeth all the imaginations of the thoughts" (1 Chronicles 28:9). "Doth not he see my ways, and count all my steps?" (Job 31:4).

I know the thought that some loved one who is now in heaven may be watching us may make us want to be better people. But how much greater our desire should be to please God, because "the man who loves God is known by God" (1 Corinthians 8:3, NIV).

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JULY 26, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Consider some new ideas under which to operate in the future, to study languages or new thoughts or to depend more upon your prophetic inside to decide the problems and situations that do come to your attention. Fine also for planning any trips you anticipate in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Communicating with those out of town and improving your dealings with them is wise, as well as making friends of new acquaintances. A trip you want to make could be to your benefit.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Follow your hunches in handling obligations and you come out all right. Romantic leanings are fine but be sure to be considerate of the other person. Take no chances where credit is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Come to a better understanding with new partners and make revisions on agreements so that all works out smoothly. Handling a civic matter intelligently is possible now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't delay any longer but get busy and handle your responsibilities wisely. Avoid one who is a detriment to your progress.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Good time to enjoy yourself at whatever outlets are most appealing to you. Put that particular talent to work that can yield good results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Concentrate on home and family, even though you may have to be away from home. Make everything more functional. Entertain at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study interests well and you can be most productive now, be able to expand also. Present plans to allies and gain their cooperation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study into money and property interests and know how to add to and better them now. Listen to the advice of a successful friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Concentrate on personal aims and go after them intelligently and gain them. Take part in a worthwhile group affair.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study into the principles of your present interests and put details aside for the moment and know where you stand, come to right decisions. Show more devotion to a loved one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good time to be with good friends and come to a better understanding. Don't permit others to downgrade you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take part in communal activities that could lead to improvement. Bring finest talents to the attention of bigwigs.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be highly independent early in life and must be taught early to be more cooperative with others if there is to be real success in this lifetime.

Legal rights: How much do couples living together have?

(Editor's note: This is the second and final part of a series dealing with the social and legal aspects of couples who marry and those who choose to remain single, but live together.)

By CAROL HART

What are the legal aspects of a couple's living together without having undergone a formal ceremony or obtaining a license?

A man and woman sharing the same home can sometimes be referred to as married under common law, if both parties "hold out to the public as being married," according to Wayne Basden, local attorney.

Concerning common law relationships, "every case is a matter of proof," Basden said. He said the parties must live as man and wife, with both parties having the present intention of being married.

Basden added that the "legal presumption is against common law marriage." In order to legally establish common law marriage, proof that both parties have shown the above requirements must be brought forth.

What about children of relationships where their parents live together, but were never legally married? In cases where the couple living together has a child, Basden said "in the hospital, they don't ask the mother if she obtained a marriage license. When they ask for a date of marriage, she can give the date she and the father started living together."

In cases of unwed parents that may end in adoption of a child, Basden said a father has to be cited and appear in court before his parental rights can be terminated. Basden added that there are often cases where a mother cannot or will not give the name of the father.

Concerning inheritance, children will always inherit from their mothers, Basden said. Basden added that there are now laws that state children can inherit from their fathers, even if they are illegitimate. He added that there are cases where a father of a child cannot be determined.

Common law relationships provide for many of the benefits of ceremonial marriage, Basden said. If the man or woman dies, the remaining partner often stands to inherit the estate. For couples living together without claiming common law, a will must provide for the remaining partner, Basden said.

Don Minyard and Rey Abelar of the local Social Security Office discussed government benefits that stand to be affected by marriage.

In the case of older couples who depend upon social security, Minyard said that there could be possible advantages for such couples living together. At one time, widows who remarried lost all of their Social Security benefits. A widow over 60 who marries today will receive 50 per cent of her former Social Security benefits. A widow under 60 loses all benefits, unless there is a child involved.

A child does not lose his Social Security benefits if his mother remarries, said Minyard and Abelar.

The men added that some young couples receiving Social Security benefits would be cut off if they marry. For such couples, living together would provide more benefits on a monetary basis.

Women Not Now Subject to Draft

DEAR ABBY: After reading your response to CONFUSED regarding ERA, I am still confused. You stated that "The ERA means that women will be subject to the draft." I have read various articles by people supporting the ERA that have said over and over that the power to draft women, if they should be needed to serve, already exists. The U.S. Constitution grants this power and the ERA will not really affect it.

What do your experts say? Does the power to draft women already exist or not? This seems to be the main complaint against the passing of the ERA. Please set us straight on this part of a very important issue. Thank you.

FAITHFUL READER

DEAR FAITHFUL READER: Under the present law, women are precluded from being drafted by Section 453 of Title 50 of the United States Code. Once the ERA is ratified, the Congress will be required to treat men and women equally with respect to the draft. This means that both men and women who meet the physical and other requirements, and who are not exempt or deferred by law, will be subject to conscription.

Of course the ERA will not require that all women serve in the military any more than under present law all men are now required to serve. Those women who are physically or mentally unqualified, or who are conscientious objectors, or who are exempt because of their responsibilities (certain public officials, or those with dependents) will not have to serve. Thus the fear that mothers will be conscripted from their children into military service under the ERA is totally unfounded.

Congress has always had the power to draft women by legislating such a change. It almost did so in World War II. But the law as it currently stands does prohibit the drafting of women.

DEAR ABBY: People who dislike having their friends follow them into the kitchen are missing the boat. What difference does it make if their kitchens are messy? Why are some people always "on stage," never wanting anyone to see them (or their kitchens) in a less than perfect state?

My friends come to see ME—not my kitchen. And if they want to follow me into my kitchen while I'm preparing a snack or dinner, it's all right with me. It gives us that much more time to spend together.

How can a person find time to finish a good book or do something creative or make himself an interesting person to be with if he's always worrying about appearances?

KITTY

DEAR KITTY: Thanks for pointing out something I confess I did not see. That's a topic on which I was myopic.

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing in reference to SHOCKED, whose soon-to-be-married daughter informed her family that they should please telephone before coming over. You said it "sounded unfriendly," but it wasn't necessarily so. Thanks for that answer. My husband and I had to tell our families flat out to please phone and to stop ringing our doorbell because they happened to be in the neighborhood.

Several times we were right in the middle of lovemaking when our families dropped in on us unexpectedly. Needless to say, it was embarrassing for all of us. We would much rather have been interrupted by the telephone (and we have been) than by the doorbell.

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN: There's no reason to be interrupted by the telephone, either. Take the phone of the hook until it's convenient for YOU to answer. If someone calls and your line is busy, they'll call again.

Fabric 'hand' essential to appeal

Fabric luxury — in feel and appearance — marks one growing trend in fashion, as velour, velveteen, suedes and silky knits increase in popularity.

Margret Ann Vanderpoorten, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says one important factor in the move toward luxury is the fabric "hand" — the way it feels.

"Simply put — fabrics that are nice to touch have an appeal that makes them enjoyable to wear.

"Wide use of natural fibers underscores the importance of a pleasant hand in fabrics," she said.

Also, manufacturers are treating synthetic and blended fabrics in various ways to make them more appealing — fabric surfaces are brushed, sanded, napped or treated in other ways to make them soft to touch.

For synthetic and blended fabrics, sueding is the most popular finish, followed closely by brushing, she said.

Kurt Sproul and Robert Beal are stopping in Big Spring for a fast week with their sizzling new revue from Las Vegas called "HOT STUFF." It is a mini-revue that features fast-paced choreography in their dance numbers, comedy, singing, magic acts, lightning-fast costume changes, and "one of the best-looking casts ever to be in show business." The majority of the cast were in an all time favorite show called Bottoms Up. Kurt Sproul and Robert Beal put their heads together and decided to produce a show very similar but faster, fresher and newer. Sproul and Beal, currently being billed as the youngest producers in show business, have worked with such names as Ann-Margret, Sammy Davis, Jr., Phyllis Diller, Bob Hope, Olivia Newton-John, Mitzl Gaynor, John Davidson, Jerry Van Dyke, Rip Taylor, and a host of other luminaries. The sets and costumes that Sproul and Beal have conceived have been executed by the same companies in Las Vegas who work for all the production shows, such as Hallelujah Hollywood, Follies Bergere, Lido de Paris, and Casino de Paris. Ennea will be providing the background music. "HOT STUFF" will be appearing at the Brass Nail for one week only. We are unable to accept reservations, so make plans early to see the show.

New bumper information proposed by government

Car buyers may be "bumper informed," says Claudia Kerbel, consumer information specialist, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

If the proposal of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) carries, then consumers will know — as of September, 1978 — these things about any new car:

NHTSA's goal is to better inform car buyers. They ask for comments from industry and consumers by August 15, 1977. Write Docket No. 73-19, Notice Docket Section, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, Room 5108, 400 Seventh Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20590.

Results of bumper crash tests at 5 mph, costs for repair of damaged bumper systems and insurance rate discounts available for vehicles whose bumper systems perform at particular levels.

In evaluating crash-worthy bumpers, manufacturers will do the testing. If in a 5 mph crash a bumper sustains only "inconsequential damage," then the vehicle will be so labeled.

But if the bumper does not meet this standard, then the label must say so, telling the buyer how much bumper system repairs should cost.

This information will be available, free, from car dealers.

Buy less, save more

During cookout season, buy less tender meat cuts, marinate or slow cook them, and save money — since greater demand for the more tender steaks makes their prices higher at this time, advises Mrs. Gwendolyn Clayatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Then this must be Big Spring

Today is Monday. "I don't do Mondays!" I told Mack Hart when I first took this job. There's something about Mondays that polarizes my fingers into a negative reaction with the typewriter keys.

But this is Monday, and I am working. If you can't tell the difference, who needs you. The subject today may seem at first to be perfect for a Monday, but on closer observation, it doesn't look that bleak.

While digging in the web-covered, musty, dark labyrinths and catacombs that is the Herald basement of bound copies, certain angles of the previous Steer football seasons struck me like bat out of Helsinki.

This column is dedicated to you guys out there who unequivocally know that the local gridgers are traveling the road into oblivion this season . . . in a Trans Am yet.

You know who you are: "In 1974 they were 3-7, in 1975 they were 2-8, in 1976 they were 1-9, and this year they will be 0-10." You pessimists you. You should be gonged in the game of life.

Let's look at the record . . . say, the last 10 years. During that span of pigskin battles, the Bovines have accrued a 31-69 won-loss record. That digitals out to a .449 winning percentage. Not that great, but not the worst in the world.

When you consider the last five years, the figures get thinner and thinner . . . a 8-42 reading — a starving .190 percentage figure. Looks like the new Jim Baum doesn't it? Now hold on, there's better stuff back in the record. Ferinstenz . . . the W-Ls over a period of time that reaches even further back than 10 years indicates that there seems to be a three-year cycle to the success-failure abilities of the local squads.

Therefore, if you accept that theory, and the record shows it to be valid, the Steers bottomed out last year, and are due for a much better round of gridiron clashes this season.

"Pipe dreams Reagan, just pipe dreams," I can hear the grouchies saying out there right now.

But hold on for just a little longer. I promise your knuckles won't get white. There's something else back there in the record. The Steers have a better showing against their pre-district foes than the guys have against us. And we play the same three again this year.

Take another ferinstenz . . . the Steers have beat Andrews two of the last three years; they have beaten Hobbs four out of the last five outings, and even though Snyder has beaten the locals for the last four years running, three of those contests were decided by three points, five points and last year's "Where'd-the-last-bloody-ditch-go?" 14-13 disappointment.

Of course, it's been November of 1974 since the Steers won a district encounter, but there's only one way to go with that. Can't do any worse.

Think positive. After all, they play on Fridays, not Mondays.

Astros' cobwebs cover Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Art Howe, who hadn't swung a competitive bat since July 5, and Joe Niekro, a knuckleballer who hadn't started a game in more than a year, all but knocked the Chicago Cubs out of the National League East lead Sunday.

Howe, suffering from bruised ribs, hit home runs in both games, and Niekro, a short reliever pressed into a starting assignment on the injury-riddled Houston staff, went the distance in the nightcap to lead the Astros to 10-6 and 6-4 victories.

The double loss, coupled with Philadelphia's 7-4 victory over San Diego, cut Chicago's lead over the Phillies to one-half game.

"We lost two games, that's all I can tell you," said Cub Manager Herman Franks. "We're only one-half game ahead? I can't help that. We'll just keep battling, that's all."

Franks was fumbling with a letter and when he opened it, a silver dollar dropped out.

"Imagine that," said Franks. "A real silver dollar. Guy's been a Cubs fan for 35 years and sent it to me for luck. Maybe I should've opened the letter before the games."

Howe drove in five runs in the opener with a three-run homer and a single and also homered in the second game. Enos Cabell homered in both games, while Ed Herrmann helped in the nightcap with three hits, two runs scored and a run batted in, while handling Niekro's knuckler.

Niekro, 5-3, had to push himself to go the route.

"I wanted out in the seventh inning. But he told me he didn't have anybody else and asked me to push myself," Niekro said.

Manager Bill Virdon admitted he wanted to lift Niekro in the seventh but "the more tired he got, the better his knuckleball behaved."

Howe, still aching from being plunked in the ribs by San Francisco's Charlie Williams, had to push himself to get into the starting lineup.

"I'm still sore but I'm glad I made that trip to Pittsburgh during the All-Star break. It really helped," he said.

Howe went to see Connie Haber, a chiropractor in Pittsburgh who has helped other players. Howe received massages and treatments, which helped alleviate much of his pain.

After the current series ends in Chicago Monday, the Astros will go to Pittsburgh and Howe's first mission will be to visit the chiropractor and give her his thanks and have another treatment.

Howe's three-run homer in the third inning of the first game broke a 1-1 tie and put the Astros ahead to stay. He singled home two more in the fifth and then scored ahead of Cesar Cedeno's fourth homer.

Teen tourney begins today

Two local Teenage League teams will be involved in the District V Junior League Tournament to be held at the city's Roy Anderson Complex, beginning at 4 p.m. today.

The Elks and the Rebels will participate with teams from Colorado City and Sweetwater. Three games will be played today and tonight.

Trevino wins Canadian with 'hard' work

OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — The grin was in place and the quips were chattering out with machine-gun rapidity.

But Lee Trevino interrupted the flow of one-liners to turn dead serious, humble and philosophical.

"When somebody thinks he's tough, he just needs to get knocked down to find out what it's all about," Trevino said in the wake of his wire-to-wire triumph in the Canadian Open, a victory he'd feared would never come and one that capped his comeback from an operation that threatened to end his rags-to-riches saga.

He'd been knocked down. Surgery for a herniated disc in his back last winter put him on the sidelines.

There was considerable doubt that he'd ever regain the form and flair that made him one of the most popular figures to play the game and secured for him a place in American folklore.

"The doctors told me I couldn't play until July," he recalled. "I started playing in March. I hurt. I still hurt. You can't imagine the pain there is in my back when I get up in the mornings. It takes me an hour just to get straightened up."

"The thing is, when you've reached a position in life, you tend to forget that you got there by hard work. And it's gonna take hard work to keep that position."

"I've neglected that over the last few years. I wasn't working hard enough, practicing hard enough. I'm working hard now. I've got something to prove. I've got to prove I can win again. After you've been hurt, you have to prove you're not all through."

He proved his point and with surprising ease, scoring a frontrunning triumph that required only a final round of two-over-par 74. He finished with a 280 total, eight under par on the hilly, 7,090-yard Glen Abbey Golf Club course and four strokes clear of the field.

CLOSE, BUT NOT CLOSE ENOUGH — Houston Astros' Enos Cabell, right, slides into second base for a successful ninth inning steal as Chicago Cubs short stop

Ivan DeJesus takes throw from catcher George Mitterwald in first game of double-header Sunday in Chicago.

Rangers have kings of the hill

CLEVELAND (AP) — Texas Manager Billy Hunter deadpanned a line Sunday after his red-hot Rangers tripped the Cleveland Indians 4-1 behind the seventh-pitching of Doyle Alexander.

"We gave up a run,"

Hunter said with a straight face. "We may have to ship Doyle out."

Hunter's solemn face finally erupted into a laugh and he added, "They're coming out of the woodwork, aren't they?"

A leadoff home run by Cleveland's Rico Carty in the fifth, his eighth, ended a string of 24 shutout innings by Texas pitching. But that's all the Indians could get off Alexander, 11-5 and suddenly the ace of the Rangers' staff.

Meanwhile, Texas came up with a pair of runs in the sixth and two more in the ninth off Cleveland's Wayne Garland, 7-11, who gave up eight singles and a double in going the distance.

Heck, I don't see why that has to keep coming up. It's a personal thing and it has nothing to do with the way I pitch.

"But, if people keep bringing it (the pressure) up and asking about it, it just won't go away," he said.

The Rangers scored their first two runs on three singles, a walk and a fielder's choice grounder. Willie Horton and Ken Henderson got the runs batted in.

They added two more on a single by Henderson, a run scoring double by Bump Wills and a fielder's choice grounder by Jim Sundberg on which Wills slid under catcher Ray Fosse's tag at the plate.

The teams meet again tonight, with Jim Bibby, 9-7, pitching for Cleveland against the Rangers' Dock Ellis, 5-9.

Stacy's simple plan

wins Women's Open

CHASKA, Minn. (AP) — Hollis Stacy's plan was simple. Conquer the sprawling Hazeltine National Golf Club course in three over par for 72 holes.

She almost did. Only a bogey on the 18th hole Sunday dropped the 23-year-old Georgian to a four-over 292, but it was good enough to win the 1977 U.S. Women's Open golf tournament.

"I had the strategy of respecting the course," said Miss Stacy, who won just over $11,000 for her second tour victory in three months.

"Try to hit the greens and pray to get my putts down in two was the strategy," explained Miss Stacy. "On a course like this you have to play conservative golf."

The fourth-year pro from Savannah, Ga., never surrendered the lead she built in Thursday's opening round although newlyturned professional Nancy Lopez of Roswell, N.M., moved into a tie for five holes Sunday.

Miss Stacy's 74 Sunday followed rounds of 70, 73 and 75 on the 6,313-yard, par-72 Hazeltine layout. Her opening-day 70 was one of just five par-breaking performances in the tournament.

A double bogey on No. 12 ended the victory bid by Miss Lopez, who finished with a six-over 294 to narrowly miss winning in her professional baptism.

"I did my best," said the Spanish-American, who also finished second in the Open two years ago as an amateur.

"It was probably the best I've ever played in a tournament," continued Miss Lopez, who picked up over $7,000 for her second-place finish.

Two-time Open champion JoAnne Carner finished third at seven-over, 295, while Jan Stephenson, Amy Alcott and Pat Bradley tied for fourth at 298.

Ms. Stephenson, who began the day just one stroke behind Miss Stacy, ballooned to a final-round 79.

Few Cowboys miss drills

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Two-day workouts resumed at the Dallas Cowboy training camp today after the team had only a single workout Sunday.

Among those missing Sunday's work because of injury were No. 1 draft choice Tony Dorsett, veteran tackle Rayfield Wright, fullback Scott Laidlaw, end Percy Howard and linebacker Mike Hegman. All but Wright and Howard, both with knee injuries, are expected to resume practice by mid-week.

Veteran running back Charlie Young hurt a thumb near the end of Sunday's workout, but the extent of the injury was not known immediately.

Westberg leads

HOUSTON — Steve Westberg of Cottage Grove, Ore. jumped from 21st place to first following the opening session of match play in the $60,000 Houston Open Professional Bowlers Association tournament.

Westberg, whose best previous finish in a PBA national tournament was 10th last year at Tucson, averaged 238 for his eight games and posted a 5-2-1 match play record to open a 35-pin lead over second-place Bobby Fenton of Cucamonga, Calif.

All-Star confidential: Seaver star gets dimmer

Tom Seaver is definite Hall of Famer, but not an All-Star. In last three games, he has given up seven of the nine runs scored by AL — three in 1975, one in '76, and now another three (2 earned) . . . Peter O'Malley roundly booed in pre-game ceremony. "The sins of the father . . ."

Joe DiMaggio, honorary captain of Martin-managed All-Star team, goes back long way with Billy — to when DiMaggio was "Big Daig," and Martin "Little Daig," on Yankees. They're good friends, but Joe says it's not so that he phoned George Steinbrenner during Martin-Reggie crisis which threatened Martin's job. Story had that DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle both threatened never again to set foot in Yankee Stadium if Martin were fired. "I wouldn't do anything like that," says Joe. "The only time I did talk to Billy was when he was managing Texas and I had some trouble with the owners. I said, hey, you have a pretty good deal here. Don't lose it up. We all have to listen to our boss once in a while."

Mrs. Danny Ozark says the proof that her husband isn't developing ulcers as manager of Philly is he still eats Polish sausage she cooks for him . . . Baseball Writers Association threatening to abandon Hall of Fame voting unless Old Timers' Committee discontinues practice of cramming Cooperstown with unselected cronies . . . Most All-Star brought wives to New York. Ron Fairly, an unusual guy, brought wife and his mother. Fairly, 39 and in 20th big league season, sniffs at notion that a ballplayer can get physically tired. "He'd have to go 4-for-4," says Ron. "Most of the time, you make out and sit down a while."

Somebody asked Reggie Jax during BP if he expected anything interesting to happen in game. "Yeah I'll catch a fly ball," he said . . . Ken Singleton's appraisal of

Reggie: "You can love him, you can hate him, but you can't ignore him" . . . Richie Zisk and Larry Hise, are only two unsigned players to make All-Stars. They should have no trouble finding profitable free-agent market . . . Zisk describes type of ball his slugger White Sox play: "Every game is like a Lyle-Foreman fight, the guy standing at the end is the winner."

Mickey Mantle is youthful-looking 44. Sparky Anderson, at 43, has striking snow-white hair. "I just can't believe I'm older than you," Mick needed the All-Star manager. "Well, just look at it this way," said Sparky. "When I'm 65, they'll say I haven't changed a bit!"

YOUNG IDEAS By DICK YOUNG

Johnny Bench was at Jimmy Weston's night before game. Called up on stage, he country-westerned two songs: Leroy Brown and I Gotta Get Drunk . . . But he didn't . . . Bench was asked how Reds can make up 9 1/2 lengths on runaway Dodgers in second half. "I don't know if we can do it," he said. "We're blowing too many leads." According to Cincy stats, club has lost 10 games in which it led by four runs or more.

Everyone here from Reds seems proud as punch about Steve Henderson's success with Mets. Henderson went to Florida during All-Star break, and was told by Joe Torre that he could join Mets in San Diego Thursday for start of Western swing. "No thanks," said rookie slugger. "I want to return to New York and work out with the team Wednesday." . . . "I told you that's the kind of kid he is," said Sparky Anderson when he heard about it.

Can't blame Nolan Ryan for being ticked off about not having been original choice for AL squad. Any guy with 234 Ks at this stage, and 13 wins, deserves to be show-pieced to public. Just because staffmate Frank Tanana was picked is no reason Ryan should have been passed up. Billy Martin says maybe squads should be expanded from 28 to 30 or 32 to avoid future slights. Why not? Economy is only apparent reason for limiting size of All-Star squads.

According to baseball grapevine, recent revelation of fraudulent misuse of hockey players' funds by an agent is small stuff compared to pending revelation. One big athlete (I haven't been able to pinpoint which sport) has had million dollar trust fund wiped out by his agent . . . Charley Finley pushing his three-balls-you-walk campaign at All-Star HQ. "It will give more action and increase attendance 25 per cent," he claims. Finley also suggested that umpires in All-Star Game wear bright red shirts with white sweaters and red shoes. His pal Bowie wouldn't listen.

George Steinbrenner's wishful thinking about Red Sox reliever Bill Campbell: "The way they're using him, if his arm doesn't fall off, I'll be very much surprised" . . . Group of maverick clubowners, known as Young Turks, have been given official sanction as committee by Commissioner Kuhn. It is known unofficially as The Committee to Stop Giving Away the Store to The Ballplayers' Union. "And John Gaherin will not be among us," says Steinbrenner, who thinks negotiator was blitzed by Marvin Miller. "We'll even take a two-year strike if we have to," warns Yankee owner.

Lightning chars Cubs

By The Associated Press
First-inning lightning helped Tulsa and San Antonio make up ground in their respective Texas League divisions Sunday night.

Tulsa scored four runs in the first to beat the Midland Cubs 6-2 and pull within two games of the East Division leader behind Arkansas, which fell 7-1 to San Antonio after the Dodgers put five runs across the plate in the first frame. The victory pulled San Antonio to two games behind El Paso in the West because the Diablos fell to Jackson 6-2 in a game shortened to six innings by rain.

Amarillo at Shreveport was postponed because of rain.

Charlie Meyers had a two-run single to highlight San Antonio's five-run first and then added a two-run double in the eighth to support the four-hit pitching of Joe Beckwith, now 3-2.

Mike Bucci and Jerry Reedy had back-to-back two-run singles in Tulsa's big opening inning. Jack Mirabella got credit for the victory, his eighth in 14 decisions, although he needed relief help from Rick Kemp over the last four innings.

Jackson got two-run homers from Mario Ramirez and Terry Ervin and a solo blast from Dave Lozano in the rain-shortened triumph over El Paso. The Diablos' only run off winner Jeff Grose, 5-4, was a two-run homer by Steve Strougher.

Gottfried defeated Solomon

WASHINGTON — No. 2 seed Brian Gottfried changed tactics midway through his match to defeat No. 6 seed Harold Solomon 4-6, 6-3, 6-1 and advance to the finals of the $125,000 Washington Star International Tennis Championships.

Argentina's Guillermo Vilas, seeded No. 1, defeated Eddie Dibbs 7-6, 6-2 to gain the other berth in the finals.

In the second set of Gottfried's match, he charged the net. He then won 12 straight points and never lost court after that.

Managing off field could mark Martin's end

NEW YORK (AP) — On Billy Martin's desk is a plastic fly swatter which effectively keeps the pesky creatures out of the Yankee manager's hair.

Martin must wish his other problems could be eliminated so easily.

Martin, watching the only job he's ever really wanted slip away from him, is a man no longer in control of his fate. Hired to win ball games, Martin can do that. (See 1976 American League championship.)

But his job is hanging by its last, thin pin stripe because of factors beyond his managerial skills, which are extraordinary.

Martin is being undermined because he can't control the fragile, conflicting personalities in the clubhouse and because he can't cope with an owner who feels he paid for the team, so now he can play with it.

"Managing on the field is easy. I can win 150 games on the field," said Martin

Sunday after conferring with Yankee President Gabe Paul and finding his position was safe, for the moment. "It's the clubhouse that's killing me."

Martin is a throwback to another era, a time when baseball players — not businessmen — played baseball. All that mattered was the game. Managers made decisions like umpires. There were no appeals.

"The players used to like to just play baseball. Now they want to pick their place in the batting order," said Martin.

Casey Stengel, the late Yankee manager, shuffled Martin into practically every pigeonhole in New York's lineup, but the combative infielder never uttered a peep. Except once.

"The Old Man batted me ninth once behind (pitcher) Will Hafey in the Pacific Coast League, but I refused," Martin said. "I told him that I wouldn't let him embarrass me like that. He changed the order."

Martin claims no one else wants the Yankee job. "I don't think any manager wants to come into this clubhouse," he said. But, actually, a new manager would probably have it easier.

The Yankees, a first-place club on paper, are presently in third in the American League East. If the club begins playing up to its potential, the new man will get credit. If the team continues to play mediocre baseball, it will be blamed on the first two-thirds of the season or the irreparable damage done by the antagonisms on the team. And Martin, who got into a near fist fight with Reggie Jackson in the dugout at Boston's Fenway Park last month, is in the middle of some of those disputes.

"The manager can't make all the players happy," Martin said. "You just try to keep harmony between yourself and the players."

A manager also must keep a semblance of harmony between himself and the team owner. Martin was fired at Minnesota, Detroit and Texas because he tangled with management.

Martin seems unwilling to play by Yankee owner George Steinbrenner's rules. He says he will make no concessions to Yankee management concerning his running the team.

"A man's gotta do his own thing," he said. "There are leaders and there are followers. I consider myself a leader. I have to follow my own convictions. I've never run scared. I'm not going to start now."

Ford Invite begins today

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus heads a field of 160 ranking professional and celebrity golfers entered in the first annual Jerry Ford Invitational Golf Tournament which was to open here today.

The 32 five-man teams vie for $25,000 in cash and other prizes in the two-day, 36-hole event.

Other top touring pros scheduled to appear were Bruce Devlin, Lee Elder, Hale Irwin and Tommy Jacobs. Celebrity participants, in addition to the former president, will include Bob Hope, Jackie Gleason, Jack Lemmon, Clint Eastwood and Coach Larry Brown of the National Basketball Association Denver Nuggets.

The tourney benefits Vail charities.

PAY ATTENTION — These young basketball players find themselves riveted to the instructional comments of James Griffin of Big Spring, one of the coaches in Howard College's Fifth Annual "Camp of Champs" held on the local campus last week.

Hustle 3 - Program paying off

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President,
Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce
Industrial Growth and Development

ONETIME KENNEDY IMPRESSIONIST - Vaughn Meader, (above) the comedian whose zany characterizations of John F. Kennedy made him an overnight success in 1963, is alive and well in Hollywood. Kennedy's death affected Meader's personal life as well as his entertainment life. Now 41, Meader is making his living as a songwriter and by playing the piano at various recording sessions. He is reportedly working on a Jimmy Carter impression.

Hey! That program of positive - progressive - partnership by purposeful people is paying off!! In other words, good things are happening in Big Spring. Decisions are being made - folks are pulling together and actions are beginning to generate results. We are expecting an announcement this week of our first industry to locate at Webb. Last week a "home grown industry" was announced. Indications are that we will build an Industrial Park on purchased property at Webb. We are putting together a list of businesses who qualify for recognition to receive the Big Spring Builders Award and the list in itself is truly impressive. We are beginning a program to enhance and increase our economic benefits from the Convention and Travel Industry. Industrial prospects are telephoning, writing and visiting us daily in numbers which should please everyone. The Chamber has announced plans to complete the necessary action to become Accredited by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Several business expansions, new firms and service facilities are under consideration to locate in Big Spring. Positive steps have been taken to establish a regional cancer therapy and research center, which will add to an already impressive medical center complex. These "pluses" follow closely on the heels of a really successful chamber membership campaign and $19,000 in new and expanded memberships, and the truly wonderful Industrial Foundation fund-raising which now totals more than $400,000. Such actions don't just happen, they are caused by good people working together to make our community "a better place to live and earn a living." And when we do get a little momentum going, it's really contagious - kind of like a tonic - to put it in plain language - I'd have to say the Big Spring Area is showing some real old-fashioned HUSTLE!

SHOP BIG SPRING FIRST
It's never too early to plan ahead, so here's one for your calendar. The 1978 Chamber Banquet is tentatively scheduled for Monday, January 30, 1978 at the new Howard College Coliseum. It already promises to be a first class affair under the repeat guidance of Chairman Johnnie Lou Avery.

SHOP BIG SPRING FIRST
Attorney General John Hill will be visiting Big Spring on Thursday, July 28, at 4:00 p.m. at the TESCO Reddy Room. Should be a fine opportunity to meet one of the top members of our state government.

SHOP BIG SPRING FIRST
I've had the opportunity to visit some other Chamber professionals last week and compare notes, ideas and trends. I'm pleased to report that Big Spring stacks up with the best in every respect and our progress is well ahead of most. Such a favorable comparison reflects the spirit of our community and should impress us here at home as well as those who are considering us in their future plans. My admonition is very simple - keep up the good work folks and show 'em how to HUSTLE! HUSTLE!
