Energy plan costly, power company says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Power company representatives are telling Congress that the Carter administration's energy proposals could cost consumers an extra $60 billion. The Senate Finance Committee, continuing hearings on the President's plan despite a congressional recess, is hearing today from the utility officials. The $60-billion estimate comes from the Edison Electric Institute, an organization representing private, investor-owned utilities. The institute based its estimate on what it says companies would have to spend on coal-burning equipment, the taxes they would have to pay for continuing to use oil and natural gas and the cost of installing new types of meters.

The House-passed version of the President's program, now before the tax-writing Senate committee, is intended to change how electricity is used while cutting the amount of oil and natural gas utilities consume.

Backers of the program say they don't know how much it would cost consumers. They say the proposed changes have never been tried all at once and add that local conditions would affect the program's price tag.

Under the plan, all utilities would be required to interconnect transmission lines to shift surplus power where it is needed.

Watch for fake paper boys

Some of the 'con men' working the streets of Big Spring come quite young these days.

Three boys, each estimated to be about ten years of age, have been collecting for Herald subscriptions along Hamilton and Calvin streets. Somewhere, they came up with a collection book that makes their mission look authentic.

J. Tom Graham, Herald publisher, says that all persons approached by collectors should ask for credentials before giving them money.

Meanwhile, juvenile authorities are seeking the enterprising trio, bent on asking them questions that could prove quite embarrassing.

In Webb AFB equipment

Air Force leaving $2.2 million

By JAMES WERRELL

The Air Force may leave behind as much as $2,251,548.70 worth of property at Webb AFB for use by the city.

The list of property, which ranges from a pair of snare drums to sophisticated X-ray equipment valued at thousands of dollars, was presented to City Manager Harry Nagel this morning. Frank Pace, Air Training Command supply management representative, who worked with city officials to compile the list was present when Nagel received it.

The two-inch thick list is categorized by building on the base, and contains descriptions and acquisition price items to be left in the building. In many cases the building list is composed mostly of garbage cans, wall clocks and in-and-out baskets, according to Pace.

But other items to be left behind include three fire trucks, two ambulances, and X-ray equipment for checking structural soundness of other machinery, a complete mechanical repair shop and many other valuable items.

The list is still just a preliminary one, and some items may be deleted if the Department of Defense finds a use for them elsewhere. But there is also the possibility that items will be added to the list, according to Pace.

The equipment will not be given directly to the city but will first be turned over to the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity for review. It will then pass to the General Service Administration for final determination of whether a need exists for it here. "This was a cooperative effort between the Air Force and the community," said Pace of the list-making process. "Mr. Nagel, members of the steering committee and the mayor all played a part in compiling the list."

"In many cases it was input from these people that determined what stayed here. Take the dining room for example. Not so much as a toothpick was removed from there," he added.

Pace explained that equipment would only be deleted from the list under two specific situations. The first is if certain items are needed in a mission support capacity at another base.

All equipment associated with the T-36 and T-38 missions at Webb AFB could fall under this category, cited Pace, as an example.

The second condition arises when a specific need for equipment is found at another base, and funds have not been allocated by the Department of Defense for the purchase of the equipment.

Virus drug comparable to penicillin discovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Development of the first drug capable of treating virus-caused diseases is a "major advance," comparable to the discovery of penicillin nearly 50 years ago, health officials say.

Scientists with the National Institutes of Health announced Wednesday a new experimental drug, adenine arabinoside, has been used successfully to treat a rare virus-caused brain disease.

Manufactured by the Parke-Davis pharmaceutical company of Detroit, the unpatented drug, also known as ara-A, was administered to 28 hospital patients suffering from herpes encephalitis, a disease that destroys brain cells.

Dr. Charles A. Alfred Jr. of the University of Alabama, who coordinated the NIH-sponsored tests at 15 medical centers, said they showed that ara-A reduced herpes encephalitis mortality from 70 per cent to 28 per cent.

The virus that causes the disease is a member of the same herpes family that causes chickenpox, shingles, fever blisters and the venereal disease, genital herpes.

The many infectious diseases that attack humans are caused mainly by two kinds of germs: bacteria and viruses. The discovery of penicillin in 1928 led to the development of antibiotics that have been used successfully to treat most bacteria-related diseases.

Action/reaction: No Sunday funerals

Q. Why aren't Sunday funerals held in Big Spring?
A. Several years ago, the Howard County Ministerial Alliance and managers of the two cemeteries, Trinity Memorial Park and Mount Olive Memorial Park, approached Big Spring city councilmen, urging them to approve an ordinance banning Sunday funerals. They pointed out labor costs for Sunday funerals had become prohibitive and the ministers felt they had plenty to do on the Sabbath without trying to crowd an occasional funeral in on that day. Duly impressed, the council passed such an ordinance. Funeral homes personnel still conduct occasional Sunday funerals, but in communities other than Big Spring.

Offbeat: Dallas' finest fined

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Motorcycle Officer C.W. Cottongame paid $15 Wednesday to satisfy Mrs. Kateri Ewing's principles.
He paid it by order of City Judge Scott McDowell after pleading no contest to a complaint filed by Mrs. Ewing after he gave her a traffic ticket.
Mrs. Ewing said she spotted Cottongame throwing a cigarette butt onto a city street after she was stopped for improper use of a turning lane.
Mrs. Ewing paid a $30 fine, then filed a littering complaint against Cottongame.

'Son of Sam' caught, charged

NEW YORK (AP) — A $35 ticket for parking too near a fire hydrant led police to a reclusive postal worker they said was "Son of Sam," the night stalker who killed six young persons and wounded seven with his .44-caliber revolver.

The arrest came as David Berkowitz, 24, left his apartment house Wednesday night in suburban Yonkers and encountered police, who had staked out the building.

Police said that as Berkowitz stepped into his car, they asked him who he was, and Berkowitz replied: "I'm Son of Sam. Okay, you've got me." He offered no resistance, police said.

"We have him," a police spokesman for 1st Deputy Police Commissioner James Taylor told reporters later.

Berkowitz was formally booked today at the 84th Precinct in Brooklyn on charges of second-degree murder, attempted murder, assault and possession of a deadly weapon in the murder of Stacy Moskowitz, 20, the killer's latest victim. Her date, Robert Violante, 20, was wounded and may never see again.

Wearing worn-out blue jeans, a light blue and white striped shirt and light brown suede shoes, Berkowitz smiled at reporters as a cordon of police moved him out of the precinct house and took him to a nearby criminal court for arraignment later in the day.

DAVID BERKOWITZ
... 'Son of Sam'

There was no immediate explanation of why the charge was second-degree murder.

Neighbors in Yonkers, a city of 150,000 on the northern border of New York City, described Berkowitz as "a nice guy" who kept to himself.

Police said they seized two shotguns in his seventh-floor apartment and a .44-caliber Charter Arms Bulldog revolver Berkowitz carried with him as he entered his cream-colored Ford Galaxie sedan outside his apartment house. They said he also carried a brown bag with two dozen bullets and a poem.

Ballistics tests early today confirmed the revolver was the same one which was used in the killing of Miss Moskowitz, police said.

The poem described the death of a young woman — "... And huge drops of lead poured down upon her head until she was dead ..."

Police said they found a submachine gun in a gunny sack in Berkowitz' car and also found several notes in his car and apartment, one of which warned that Son of Sam would kill again.

"I want to see the animal's face that took my baby's life," Miss Moskowitz' mother, Neysa, said today. "And I want him to see me."

A newspaper, a television station and columnist Jimmy Breslin said today that police had told them that Berkowitz, a $13,000-a-year letter sorter at a post office in the Bronx, said he planned to strike next in Suffolk County, on the far end of Long Island. They said he allegedly planned to use the submachine gun in a discotheque or night club.

Police said previously that the same .44-caliber gun had been used in all eight attacks by the Son of Sam. Five women and one man died, three men and four women were wounded.

The latest shooting was the only one in Brooklyn. The seven previous shootings were in Queens and the Bronx. Any charges related to those crimes would have to come from authorities in those two New York boroughs.

County, airline talk differences Monday

For the first time in almost a year, Howard County Commissioners and Trans Regional officials will face each other to talk about their differences.

At their afternoon session, the commissioners agreed Monday to set the meeting between themselves and the airline officials for next Monday morning.

At that time, problems relating to rent on the hangar occupied by Trans Regional, service provided to the residents of the county by Trans Regional, and the present leasing arrangement will be discussed.

Also appearing before the court was County Tax Assessor-Collector Zirah Bednar to ask the court for approval of the tax roll. Included in the tax roll discussion was approval by the court to revamp the tax appraiser's contract to authorize him to correct errors in the classification of property, and to modify current appraisals of irregularly shaped lots and place them all on the tax roll the same year.

In other action, the commissioners heard a request from District Clerk Peggy Crittenden for a grade raise for one of her employees. The court took the request under consideration.

Courthouse heat wave triggers elevator rain

The heat is on in the Howard County Courthouse, and the officials are steaming. From the district judge down to Eddie Harper, the maintenance man, it is like being in a pressure cooker.

What has happened? Well, this is the third day county employees have sat it out without air conditioning in the 90 degree plus heat.

"We had a chiller blow on Monday," said Harper. "We're working on it, and we hope to have put the situation on ice by this afternoon."

The loss of the chiller caused more than simple heat waves. When District Judge Ralph Caton pressed the elevator door button on the first floor Wednesday, he was not prepared for rain inside the elevator.

"What happened was that the water pressure backed up to the top of the building and blew out a line at the top of the elevator shaft," explained Harper.

The water cascaded down onto the elevator, seeping through the ceiling and raining on the unhappy occupants.

"We still have water in the elevator shaft," said Harper.

But for most employees, the heat meant discomfort and silent waiting for a repair team from Midland to fix the chiller. Fans are at a premium.

County judge Bill Tune, the only official with the authority to close the courthouse, first said "No comment" and then said, "Check with the commissioner's court on Monday" when asked whether he would release the inflamed employees.

In the meantime, everybody's just trying to act cool.

Krueger slates Stanton visit

STANTON — Cong. Bob Krueger, already committed to enter the 1978 race for the office of U.S. Senator from Texas, will visit Stanton Friday afternoon.

Krueger, who represents the 21st District in Washington, will attend a coffee and reception beginning at 4:30 p.m., in the Texas Electric Reddy Room here. The reception will last about an hour.

Krueger is the only announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for the senate seat now held by Republican John Tower.

In 1974, Krueger, whose home town is New Braunfels, was named the most effective legislator in the lower house. He is widely known for his fight to deregulate the price of oil. He lost the battle, thanks to extreme pressure emanating from the White House, but gained a host of friends in the defeat.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brenda Vaccaro, the actress who said at her wedding that nothing lasts forever, has decided to end her 23-day-old marriage to San Francisco attorney William Spencer Bishop. Publicist Paul Bloch said Wednesday that Miss Vaccaro will file for divorce as soon as she returns from filming in Oklahoma, probably next week. There was no explanation of what happened to break up the July 20 marriage. Miss Vaccaro, 36, and Bishop, 35, were married in Dallas and then went almost immediately to Ardmore and Lawton, Okla., where Miss Vaccaro is working on the film "Moonbeam Rider." At one point during the wedding ceremony, Miss Vaccaro said, "Hold on a minute. Let's take out this 'til death do us part' and 'as long as we both shall live' stuff. Nothing lasts forever."

Polanski nabbed camera

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Authorities have rejected a news photographer's complaint contending that movie director Roman Polanski assaulted him and stole his film after he snapped a picture of Polanski kneeling at the grave of his dead wife, actress Sharon Tate. "In the interest of justice we've rejected any criminal charges," said Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael J. Montagna on Wednesday. The photographer, Curt Gunther, had complained to police that Polanski leaped upon him and snatched a costly motorized Nikon camera at Miss Tate's gravesite in Holy Cross Cemetery. The incident occurred on Tuesday, the eighth anniversary of Miss Tate's murder by the Charles Manson family. Polanski, 43, had pleaded guilty Monday in Superior Court to unlawfully snatching the camera from a 13-year-old girl. Of Tuesday's incident, Montagna said, "The only force used on Gunther was pulling the camera away from him and it was incidental to taking the camera in an effort to protect his own privacy and no injuries were sustained."

No cash at prison

ALDERSON, W.Va. (AP) — It's the "West Virginia Prison Blues" for inmates here who have received word that country music singer Johnny Cash won't have time to play a concert at the Federal Correctional Center for Women. When Cash appeared in nearby Roanoke, Va., in 1972, officials of the prison asked him to schedule a concert at the facility. Cash said he didn't have time, but would try to give a concert the next time he came to the Mountain State. So when prison officials learned he planned two concerts at the West Virginia State Fair at Lewisburg just 17 miles away, they contacted Cash's manager, Lou Robb. But he told them Cash's schedule is so tight on that date, Aug. 21, that a prison concert wasn't possible.

More effort needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government must do a better job of informing consumers about the fuel efficiency of new cars, the General Accounting Office has concluded. In a report to Congress, the investigative agency said Wednesday it found that only seven out of every 100 new car buyers were aware of a fuel efficiency guide published by the Environmental Protection Agency. It said the evidence indicates that when people are made aware of gas mileage figures, they often select the more fuel-efficient cars. The GAO said the government should make greater efforts to inform the public of the existence of the mileage guide, which is designed to encourage people to buy high-mileage automobiles.

Forgive and forget, begs queen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II today appealed to feuding Protestants and Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland to "forgive and forget" their centuries-old hatreds and end eight years of sectarian bloodshed. The monarch said in a short speech at the New University of Ulster at Coleraine, in the north of the war-torn province, that there are hopeful signs of reconciliation. She declared: "Those with different beliefs and aspirations understand that if this community is to survive and prosper they must live and work together in friendship and forgiveness. There is no place here for old fears and attitudes born of history, no place for blame for what is past." The queen delivered her speech a few hours after flying by helicopter to the campus on the second and final day of a controversial silver jubilee visit to Northern Ireland. Irish Republican Army guerrillas warned earlier they had "breached security" at the university and hinted they had planted a bomb there. The queen refused to cancel her eight-hour visit to the heavily guarded 300-acre university complex. Troops searched the campus but found no bombs, and no terrorist action had been reported by midafternoon. The IRA issued a strongly worded warning to authorities and to the queen: "Clear the university buildings of all civilians. Clear the grounds of children. Any bomb fatalities or serious casualties will be your responsibility Elizabeth, your day to remember. This is no hoax." "Eliza-brit" is a derogatory IRA epithet for the queen.

The 51-year-old monarch has not yet personally witnessed any violence during her two-day visit, but her presence aggravated the bitter sectarian hostilities behind a rash of bombings and street clashes Wednesday. Traveling by helicopter instead of motorcade as a security precaution, the queen was to attend a round of functions at the university, situated in Coleraine, on the northern tip of the province. On Tuesday, a small one-pound bomb, believed placed by Irish Republican Army (IRA) sympathizers, exploded on the university's campus despite massive security checks in the area. An unexploded bomb had been discovered at the university 11 days ago. Hundreds of Roman Catholic extremists parading behind a banner calling Elizabeth the "Queen of Death" battled troops in violence-prone Belfast Wednesday. Security forces blocked the illegal march and tried to disperse the crowds, but protesters responded by hurling bricks and bottles at the police and were injured. At least 15 persons were trapped and 20 or more demonstrators were arrested.

The queen, wearing a floral hat and dress, looked nervous as she stepped from the red, twin-engineered Wessex helicopter onto the lawns at the 300-acre university complex. But she soon smiled as more than 1,800 children cheered her. Sharpshooters manned rooftops, helicopters buzzed over the surrounding countryside and army patrols combed the brushland around the complex. The royal couple arrived in Northern Ireland early Wednesday and were scheduled to sail for western Scotland tonight.

mean fairer taxes for the community, not necessarily a tax increase. The action has not been formally undertaken, but with the continuing discussion by the school district, the possibility becomes greater every day.

Tax reappraisal looms

In a brief meeting Wednesday, the Howard County Tax Appraisal Board faced simultaneously new appraiser Earl Dean and the question of reappraisal in Howard County. Dean, who will report to his office in his official capacity Monday, had worked in Howard County for a year and a half previously and is familiar with the county's unique use of a 1958 rate schedule. Although representatives from the Big Spring schools, the junior college, and Frozan schools were not present at the meeting, discussion centered around the possibility of reappraisal. Without the missing members, no action could be taken. Under directions from the Commissioner's Court and specifically Commissioner Bill Crocker, County Tax Assessor-Collector Zerah Bednar requested consideration of a re-writing of the appraiser's contract to specifically lay out his responsibility for keeping appraised values on an up-to-date building schedule. It appears that most, if not all, of the bodies participating in the Appraisal Board have approved a contract change empowering the appraiser with these specific charges. That means that the door for a reappraisal has been opened. The problems facing such an action are large. Cost of an outside firm doing the reappraisal is estimated as high as $400,000, although Mrs. Bednar believes that it can be done by hiring additional staff for the appraiser's office at a significantly lower cost. Other problems are the additional workload laid at the new appraiser's feet, especially if the entire job is to be accomplished in two years. A third problem is public disapproval of the reappraisal, although it will mean fairer taxes for the community, not necessarily a tax increase. The action has not been formally undertaken, but with the continuing discussion by the school district, the possibility becomes greater every day.

Hull reunion 83 attend

Descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. S.L. Hull met at the community center at Stanton Sunday for their annual reunion. In all, 83 persons attended. Four of the five living children of Mr. and Mrs. Hull, who came to Howard County in 1906, attended. They were Earl and Floyd Hull of Big Spring area, Mrs. J.L. (Leona) Baugh, also of Big Spring, and L.D. Hull, Stamford. Henry Hull of Hobbs, N.M., another son, was unable to attend due to failing health. Sixteen of 23 grandchildren were in attendance, as were several great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren. The Hull family has been meeting collectively since about 1930. Originally, 11 children were born to the Hull union, eight of whom were boys. Mrs. Gussie Hull, the mother, died in 1935 while the patriarch of the family succumbed in 1944. They are buried in the Salem Cemetery in northeast Howard County. Dinner was served at Stanton and those attending spent the rest of the day visiting with each other.

Carter aides to withdraw abortion memo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trying to avoid the appearance of an open fight with their boss, members of the Carter administration who oppose the President's position on abortion reportedly are withdrawing a memorandum expressing their disagreement. Instead, between 25 and 30 aides, most of them women, plan to send individual letters to Carter objecting to his belief that the federal government should not finance abortions for poor women, well-placed administration sources say. The letters are expected to be delivered by early next week to Margaret Costanza, White House director of public liaison. She will take the sealed letters to Carter, the sources said Wednesday.

Police beat 'Pete' suspected in rape case

A middle-aged Big Spring woman was robbed and raped late Wednesday night. According to police reports, the woman was alone with a last customer at the Bush Country Lounge, West Highway 80, around midnight Wednesday. The man grabbed the woman and forced her to open the lounge's cash register, and scooped up $75 in bills and change from inside. The assailant then forced the victim into his car and drove to the west part of Howard County where he molested her. According to investigating officer Robert Sims, the white, male assailant wore a belt with the name "Pete" stamped into the back. Three women reported receiving obscene phone calls during the night Wednesday. The calls reportedly ranged from "very obscene words," to "just loud breathing." "Vandals smashed a window at the Texas Electric Building, 409 S. Runic, late Tuesday night. Damage was

Sharp may enter race

Jim Sharp, who regards himself as a progressive conservative, visited in Big Spring Wednesday and again this morning, admittedly to test the political waters. The former Big Spring resident, a Democrat, says he is entertaining the idea of entering the 1978 race for U.S. Congressman from the 17th District. The position is being vacated by Omar Burleson of Anson at the end of his current term. Sharp, now one of 41 doormen assigned to work in the House of Representatives, says he will definitely commit himself on whether he will toss his hat into the ring after a family reunion at Red River, N.M., Aug. 21. The 25-year-old bachelor was able to return to Texas and visit the district when Congress went into its annual summer recess. He will be back in Washington Sept. 7. Born in Midland to the Rev. and Mrs. J.B. Sharp, Jim enrolled at Southern Methodist University after

Republican encouraged

A Republican says he plans to run for the office of Congressman to be vacated by Omar Burleson and a Democrat concedes he's looking at the post. Bill Fisher, a 33-year-old Abilene attorney who served as acting chairman of the Republican Party in Taylor County last year, said that he will make a formal announcement in mid-September but that he definitely is planning at this time to run for the position of Congressman. "The young attorney said, 'I'm kind of tired of us always turning the posts over to seasoned politicians. Some think that a Republican wouldn't have a chance. I'm a Republican because I'm a conservative and I think most West Texans are conservatives. And I think they deserve a choice.' Fisher said he has received a lot of encouragement from local citizens and state and national Party leaders and plans to approach the race with the idea of winning. "I've been interested in politics for some time. And I think West Texans and Texans have been told for years that Republicans can't win. They believe it, but I don't. I think West Texans will vote for the best candidate," he added. On the other hand, State Sen. Grant Jones, who is a Democrat, is obviously looking at the position but has not reached a decision. Jones said, "I have a lot of heavy responsibilities in the State Senate and I am just not sure what I want to do." He served eight years in the Texas House and is in his fifth year in the Senate. He too has received a lot of encouragement to seek the post by fellow citizens and leaders in the Democrat party. Jones does not believe that a Republican would win in this district. "However, there will be quite a race in the Democrat primary," he added. "Of course, we don't know yet who all will decide to run." The two Abilene men are considered two of the strong possibilities in the upcoming race.

Trustees may hire attorney

FORSAN — School trustees will consider the need for an attorney to collect delinquent taxes when they meet in regular session at 7 p.m. Monday. The board will discuss the matter with a Big Spring attorney. It also will consider the building program, including the new all-weather track, paving and other projects. The agenda includes a report and contract proposal from Jim Rapier and Tim Miller at Pritchard and Abott, tax appraisers. The board will review and amend the 1976-77 budget and hold a public hearing on the new budget. It also will consider joining the Community Schools Association for the coming year and consider a new contract with the Texas Association of School Boards on workmen's compensation. Board members will also consider insurance bids on the new gymnasium.

Carter getting personal report on canal pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is getting a personal report from his negotiators on their historic agreement to relinquish control of the Panama Canal by the year 2,000. The pact crowns efforts for a new treaty that began with bloodshed 13 years ago. U.S. Ambassadors Sol Linowitz and Ellsworth Bunker said they were returning from Panama today to meet with Carter. The President, at the White House for his first full day of work after a five-day vacation in his hometown of Plains, Ga., will receive a copy of the treaty once the principles of the agreement are drafted into treaty language. "He wants the treaty in his hands," White House Press

Secretary Jody Powell told reporters before leaving Georgia. "He wants to go over it word for word, line by line. And he wants the National Security Council and the Cabinet to go over it, too." Carter had hoped to reach an agreement on principles by Wednesday, when Linowitz's term as special ambassador expired. Now the White House hopes to have the treaty drafted by the time Congress returns from its summer recess in September. The agreement reached late Wednesday is known to call for turning the canal and adjacent Canal Zone over to Panama by the end of this century. It also makes a big increase in U.S. payments for use of the canal. The pact provides Panama with hundreds of millions of dollars in aid for the life of the treaty and guarantees unrestricted transit through the canal. "From the point of view of the United States, we are confident that this treaty will not only protect but strengthen our national security interests," said Linowitz and Bunker in a statement Wednesday night in Panama City.

Storms roaming

By the Associated Press
Showers and thunderstorms, including some locally heavy storms, roamed the Texas Panhandle during the night and early morning hours. Amarillo got .52 of an inch of rainfall during the night. A few light showers were reported in the El Paso area during the night, but elsewhere skies were mostly clear and temperatures remained quite warm. A cool front moved southward into the Panhandle during the night, dropping temperatures into the low 60s in northern portions of the Panhandle. Elsewhere, temperatures ranged upward into the 80s. Some early morning readings included 67 at Amarillo, 77 at Wichita Falls, 81 at Waco, 72 at Houston, 75 at Alice, 79 at Del Rio, 78 at San Angelo, 75 at El Paso, 71 at Lubbock and 59 at Dalhart. Forecasts called for scattered showers and thunderstorms across most of the state today. They were expected to be most numerous in the Panhandle and South Plains today and tonight. Highs were expected to range from the middle 70s in the Panhandle to near 102 in South Texas.

Travel logistics in 17th burden

The 17th Congressional District starts way up in the southern portion of Cooke County north of Fort Worth and Dallas.

It doesn't lack much of a stone's throw touching Sherman.

From there, the district winds down to Parker County on the western outskirts of Fort Worth, and dips all the way down to the peanut country of Comanche County.

It zips along the southern boundaries of Eastland, Taylor (Abilene), Nolan (Sweetwater), Mitchell (Colorado City) and Howard (Big Spring) Counties with only a southern toe sticking down into Coleman County.

The district wanders through oil and cotton country upward along the Howard and Borden County lines, but it does a really funny thing by jutting into Dawson County just enough to pick up the area north of Ackery (but not Lamesa).

It turns east to include Lynn County (Tahoka) almost to Lubbock, and it builds a tower out of Crosby and Floyd (Floydada) Counties well up into the Panhandle. Then it meanders back toward Cooke and Montague Counties to the north.

WHAT A district it has been for the past 31 years that Cong. Omar Burleson has represented it.

The Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote rule caused it to gradually enlarge until it now covers 27,500 square miles, or larger than eight states.

The interests of the area are almost as varied as the size with irrigated cotton farming to metropolitan areas, from oil fields to peanut patches.

The size and shape of this district is being eyed these days by a number of persons who hope to replace Burleson in Washington.

Burleson, had he chosen to run again, would have been hard to beat because he is well-known in the far flung rural areas of the district and has strong ties and support in the district's most populous town, Abilene, where 100,000 people live.

A newcomer, even a well-known one in any particular region, will have 33 counties to cover in establishing his candidacy. The travel logistics alone would be a terrible burden.

BUT BURLESON made things more simple on Tuesday. Standing on the Windsor Hotel mezzanine surrounded by press and one hundred supporters, the congressman said he would step down.

Although many had predicted the decision, it still came as a surprise to many of his supporters, and an involuntary gasp of "no" went up from the audience.

Burleson is aware of that criticism, obviously, for he defended his record by admitting that many of his victories have been negative ones which kept the government from doing something he felt it shouldn't. He said he had voted against $79 billion worth of appropriations this year alone.

The loss of veterans like Burleson indicates the change which is taking place in Texas congressmen. Veteran Cong. George Mahon, one of the most powerful men in Washington, is retiring, and there is speculation that Cong. W.R. Poage of the 11th District and Cong. Olin Teague of the 6th District may too.

One longtime Abilene political observer noted that West Texas has contributed truly honest and sensible men like Mahon and Burleson to Washington for more than 30 years, and he wondered aloud who could ever replace them. And he wondered what effect the loss of these powerful restraints might unleash in the federal government.

THAT IS a question that the voters of West Texas have about one year to determine.

The field of candidates may become crowded on both the Democratic and the Republican Party sides. The candidates will have many, many miles to ride if they are to make themselves known in the 17th District.

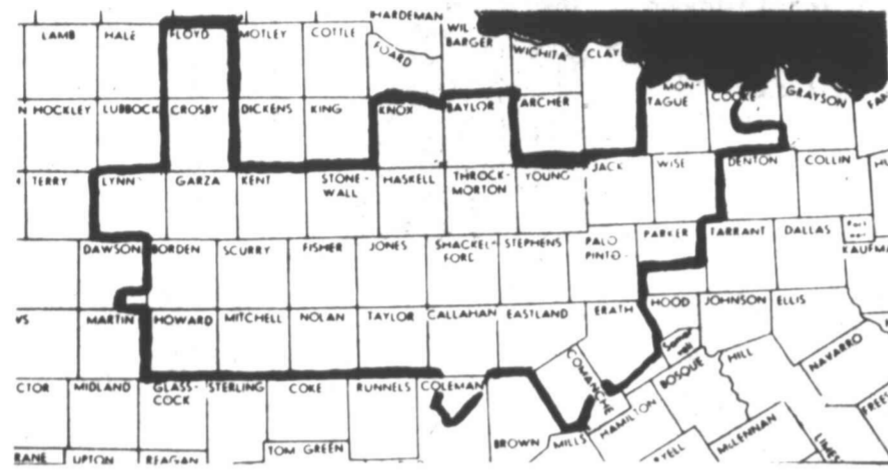

Burleson said that he naturally preferred to see his successor be of a similar political persuasion but that he would not work in any other candidate's campaign.

But he apparently did tell State Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene, one of the potential candidates and an old friend, of his decision not to run several weeks ago.

The loss of Burleson and Mahon at once will certainly be a blow to West Texas, but both were predictably responsible enough to give their respective districts more than a year to examine would-be successors.

It should be a very interesting year indeed.

Dangerous potential

Around the rim

James Werrell

Mess with someone's garbage and you're asking for real trouble.

That seems to be the rule in this city. Of all the issues to come before the public eye (with the possible exception of stray dog pickup), the one that makes Big Springers hottest under the collar is their trash.

ONE PARAGRAPH near the end of a Herald story of a City Council meeting mentioned that the city would soon write citations forcing citizens to put their garbage in trash cans. This morning the switchboard at City Hall was flooded by callers with suggestions as to where the city could put its citations.

The new city policy calls for an employee to work full-time writing citations for residents with improper garbage cans or no garbage cans at all. The fines will range from $5 to (!) $200.

And the city has an ordinance to back up its threat. The ordinance states that city residents must have a garbage can of not less than 10, or more than 30 gallon capacity; of galvanized metal or other "acceptable" material (the ordinance doesn't elaborate on what's acceptable); a tightly fitting lid or cover; and handles strong enough to empty contents conveniently.

This whole situation has the potential to become absurd. It would be utterly absurd, for example, to fine a citizen $200 for a topless garbage can when in all probability the can has been so battered by garbage collectors that a lid wouldn't fit on it anyway.

Or what about the citizen who, in order to keep his alley clean, carries his own trash to the municipal dumpground. Will he be fined $198.50 for not having the proper container?

We have reached the plastic age, and, as one city employe readily admitted, it is easier for both the homeowner and those who pick up trash to hoist a strong plastic bag than a huge metal can.

But the important question at hand is the issue behind the issue. In a nutshell, Big Spring is becoming overrun with trash, and both city officials and concerned citizens are at wit's end.

What can be done about it? Garbage is openly thrown from cars, and unless a policeman is there to witness the act, virtually nothing can be done about it.

REFUSE COVERS the alley behind a citizen's home. The citizen claims it is his neighbor's garbage that the wind blew over (the neighbor claims the opposite), and nothing can be done about it.

Cigarette butts, cans, bottles and candy wrappers slowly fill up the planters along the street in the downtown area, and nothing can be done about it.

Dogs and pests root through bags of rotten scraps and garbage, spreading it into yards and alleys, and nothing can be done about it.

Is it impossible for Big Springers to police an area of about 15 square feet behind their homes?

The answer is probably yes. And that's why the city is making nasty noises about fines and garbage cans.

City officials are fed up, frustrated, and unfortunately, pretty powerless when they have to go it alone. The problem of both fines and litter can only be solved with a little cooperation between citizens and city.

Allow me to be the first to propose a motto: "Let's get together over garbage someday, shall we?"

WASHINGTON — Just about every nation in real or apparent need has received substantial aid from the United States.

Now the official in charge of dispensing the aid, John Gilligan, has been quoted in the papers as saying our tax money has gone for "Rolls-Royces and fighter planes and bowling alleys to keep the rulers happy."

THIS IS raising a rumpus in the backrooms of Washington. Gilligan, director of the Agency for International Development (AID), has been accused of spouting off "half-baked, out-dated cliches," of taking "a series of cheap shots," of undermining his own agency. Dismayed subordinates have been heard to suggest he should be banished to Gilligan's Island.

The whole hubbub can be summarized in a confidential exchange of letters between an indignant congressman and the outspoken Gilligan. Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., a champion of the unpopular aid program, wrote angrily: "I can only say that I was shocked and dismayed at the content of your statements as reported in the newspaper."

"Either the things you said are true and your staff has been running a woefully mismanaged program," Solarz said, "or else you were misrepresenting the program over which you were in charge." He demanded to know "where and when have we bought Rolls-Royces under the AID program? Where and when have we bought bowling alleys to keep the rulers happy?"

The congressman accused Gilligan of trying to "lead the pack in denouncing" his own foreign assistance program.

The AID director responded that he had been "speaking in the past tense," that he had been "attempting to make the point that numerous Americans believe" aid funds have been misused and that, in fact, aid money had been used to buy a helicopter for Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, to construct a luxury hotel in the Dominican Republic and to bolster dictatorships.

But Gilligan insisted he merely wanted "to get across the message that the new administrator of AID was aware of these and other criticisms and intended to see that funds are used as Congress has directed."

WE HAVE kept a close watch on the distribution of aid for a quarter century. The program began from the best motives; the American people after World War II wanted to get the world going again. But all too often, Uncle Sam offered handouts to hands that were only too quick to pick his pockets.

Nor has the flow of aid, as Gilligan suggested, always been channeled to the neediest. It has often been used as a form of bribery to keep foreign potentates on our side in the world power struggle.

But the focus has changed in recent years; AID projects are now designed to help the world's impoverished people increase their agricultural productivity. "Rural development," has become the watchword.

Most of the programs look impressive enough on paper; the results are often less impressive. AID officials find themselves entangled in endless red tape. They forever fill out forms and file reports to Washington until they have time for little else.

"Of course, you realize the tax assessor is going to raise our property taxes."

Mailbag

Dear Editor: On behalf of the board of directors of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, I express our sincere appreciation to the Big Spring Herald for its exceptionally valuable contribution of the Webb Industrial Tabloid.

As you know, more than 13,000 have been mailed to firms across the nation and many more have been distributed through various means. We have received numerous inquiries concerning the properties at Webb and I feel that a substantial number are directly attributable to these fine advertising pieces.

I know that much time was expended in researching the material, shooting the pictures, planning the layout, printing and distributing, and I know that the project was an expensive one. The investment, however, will bear a high return and the Board wants you to know that they recognize this major effort as significant in helping to "Build a bigger better Big Spring area."

Speaking for the community, we thank you for this expression of confidence and for the many other contributions to "community unity".

WASHINGTON — A draft presidential directive on defense strategy was amended last week by adding six words that seemingly reassert the U.S. commitment to defend Central Europe but actually raise contradictions that can only be resolved by Jimmy Carter himself.

The original draft prepared last month contained this ambiguous policy for meeting a Soviet attack against West Germany: "Consistent with present NATO strategy, including forward defense, the U.S. is committed to minimum loss of territory in the event of a Warsaw Pact conventional attack."

A revised version drafted last week was strengthened to read that "the U.S. is committed to having the capability, in conjunction with its allies, to stop a Warsaw Pact attack with minimum loss of territory, and ultimately to restore prewar boundaries." Most important are those last six words — "and ultimately to restore prewar boundaries" — meaning that the Soviet invasion would be rolled back to the Communist bloc's present borders.

ACCORDING TO SOME defense sources, those six words were slipped into the directive after our recent column reported a U.S. strategy conceding the loss of one-third of West Germany to a Soviet invasion. Whatever the timing, the revision raises two serious questions.

Question No. 1: PRM-10, the voluminous national strategy paper upon which the six-page presidential directive is based, says a Soviet attack in Central Europe can be rolled back to "prewar boundaries" only if defense spending is increased beyond a level acceptable to the U.S. public. As we reported earlier, national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski echoed that view before the Security Coordinating Council (SCC), which made no dissent. So, how will the pledge in the presidential directive be made good?

Question No. 2: Bath PRM-10 and Dr. Brzezinski (at the SCC meeting) suggest covering military weakness with strong rhetoric. So, were the six reassuring words added merely in pursuance of this dubious tactic?

WHAT IS involved here is not merely scholarly consideration of future options but an official appraisal of present reality. PRM-10 says: "The study concludes that the chance of NATO stopping an attack with minimal loss of territory and then achieving its full objective of recovering that land which had been lost appears remote at the present time."

Eating problems need early attention

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'd appreciate any information on anorexia nervosa. I believe that's the correct name for it. My 12-year-old son began his eating problems at least four months ago. Can you tell me what the usual outcome is? Is a special school, or hospitalization needed to return him to proper eating? Is it important to find out what triggered this? — S.A.

Anorexia nervosa is a psychological problem and difficult to treat. It usually occurs in adolescent females. Untreated, the outlook is not good because the aversion to food leads to emaciation, personality changes, and ultimately to infections and glandular problems.

The diagnosis should be made by a professional (not by yourself). Four months is sufficient time to establish it, and the earlier treatment is begun the better the outlook is.

The causes are obscure, as they often are in psychological disturbances. Without drawing undue conclusions in your son's case, I can say that domestic problems (divorce, bickering, etc.) can be involved. Or it may be an emotional disturbance stemming from early childhood — as in obesity. Some patients are obese before striking the hunger strike.

So it's extremely important to get your son under treatment as soon as possible. A psychiatrist is usually required to determine the triggering factor. Separation from the family and the previous environment is usually necessary, so that a fresh start can be arranged. Hospitalization may be required. This allows direct control over nourishment. I am familiar with some excellent medical facilities in your area. You should have no trouble getting help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 15-year-old son has developed an acne condition. It isn't too bad. But I know how these situations can develop and cause a severe pocking and ruin social life. I've heard so many conflicting reports about the importance or unimportance of foods (like greasy food). I'd like to start him off on the right foot in controlling this. Can you help? — Mrs. T.O.

There are things he can do. Some won't amount to a hill of beans. Others can have a dramatic effect in control. Acne is an individual problem. There has been controversy about the food aspect of control, but I've seen enough evidence to make me a believer in certain basic diet factors.

He should go easy on sweets and be sure he gets food high in vitamins A and C. The evidence is conflicting on the business of greasy foods, but in my opinion they should be avoided, as should all seafoods, which are high in iodine. Iodine tends to be a simple producer in persons sensitive to it.

There are some simple steps which may or may not help. Others are a little more complex, chiefly the matter of hygiene. You and he may find a good program of control in my booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads, and Pimples." For a copy, send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I noticed that you wrote that a mental depression can come from taking the drug Ser-Ap-Es. Does it affect everyone that way sooner or later? I take it, but so far have had no reaction. It has been lowering my blood pressure. — Mrs. J.M.S.

I did not say I would necessarily cause mental depression. I said it is not advisable in persons who have mental depression. In other words mental depression is a "contraindication" to its use. The generic name of the drug is reserpine. You may have no problem whatsoever.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like your opinion on scaring of a child under a year old. The father makes loud noises with his mouth and by slapping his hands. The child becomes so scared his mouth twists into a funny expression and his lips tremble. Would this sort of thing have any harmful effect? — Mrs. M.C.

I'm not a psychiatrist, but I don't think it takes one to tell this father he should stop this bizarre way of "playing" with the child. I can't speculate about what effects it might have on the child's psyche, but I can't envision any good from it.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I watched part of your last television crusade while I was at work as a technical director for a television station. I have believed in Jesus for some time, but lately I've been praying especially for guidance. How will I know if I'm really receiving it? — G.D.S.

DEAR G.D.S.: Thank God for the clear-cut promise of His divine help. For example, read Psalms 25:8, 9 (Revised Standard Version): "Good and upright is the Lord; therefore he instructs sinners in the way... and teaches the humble his way." And from Isaiah 30:21 (Living Bible): "If you leave God's paths and go astray, you will hear a Voice behind you say, 'No, this is the way; walk here.'"

I believe the verification for whether guidance is truly of God is found in the sources for that guidance. If direction is born of studying the Bible, of time spent in prayer, of consultation with Christian friends, and of the inner persuasion of the Holy Spirit, you're on the wavelength of divine help. If, in addition, circumstances confirm your conviction, you can generally proceed with assurance.

Consider this statement from the church father Augustine Hippo: "When I vacillated about my decision to serve the Lord my God, it was I who willed, and I who willed not... All you asked was that I cease to want what I willed — and begin to want what you willed."

Firefighters are diverse group

WELCOME BACK TO WORK — Dayton firefighters Steve Bayer, left, and Jim Witt take breather after extinguishing blaze in west Dayton on Wednesday. This was the second Dayton fire after settlement was reached by Dayton Fire Fighters Local 136 to end three-day-old strike.

BIG SUR, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of them have come from almost every one of the 48 mainland states. They are the firefighters. They range from swaggering rookies lured by adventure to a hard-bitten veteran who grew up in the Los Padres National Forest, now ravaged by the two-week-old Marble-Cone fire. In their race against the 80,000-acre inferno, the firefighters share only two traits: they want to protect the forest and they are tired, so tired.

It's manly and it's fun. People say, 'Hey, wow, you're a firefighter.' That's cool." Short, blond and bandy-legged, Jones speaks with awe of flames shooting 200 feet into the air and emitting a roar which can be heard for eight miles. "At first it scared the hell out of me," he said between squirts of tobacco. "But now I'm getting used to it."

A devilish grin. A firefighter for six years and a holshot for two, he says he is happiest in the midst of a big blaze like the one near Big Sur. "That's where it's at," he said. "It's an incredible rush. I couldn't work in an office." Tomlinson modestly said his job "is not really that dangerous. I don't feel my life is in danger at all. And it's a good feeling knowing you're doing something good for the land."

He knows, for example, that in the 1940-41 rainy season, 161 inches fell on the coast ridge just a few miles west of the Marble-Cone fire. Cahill began as a temporary firefighter in 1948. He is now a Forest Service supervisor. "I fought the last big fire here 27 years ago."

Despite his experience with forests and fires, Cahill takes the Marble-Cone fire as a personal affront. "It sort of makes me cry when I see it," he said, looking out over the smoke-shrouded ridges and canyons of the Los Padres forest. "That's because I was raised in it."

Firemen win pay hike

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Firemen exchanged their picket signs for fire hoses today, but their 59-hour strike left bitter feelings among residents who remember houses burning as firemen stood by and watched. "If you ask me, they should have fired every one of them," a woman at a downtown office building said Wednesday. "They don't need no raises," said a man who had watched helplessly as homes burned. "They need to fire every one of those guys ... They ought to get some of those firemen and string them up."

City Manager James Alloway capitulated Wednesday to demands for more pay and fewer working hours, even granting the 375 firemen amnesty by dropping contempt of court charges. The firemen walked off their jobs Monday morning. When talks broke off on Tuesday, the firemen were asking that their work week be cut from 52 to 50 hours. They also demanded a 25-cent-an-hour increase that would move their annual top salary from $14,123 to $14,560. The city had refused that demand. Alloway admitted later his change of heart came on orders from the City Commission and Mayor James McGee. During the strike more than 15 fires destroyed at least 20 buildings in this city of 241,000. Authorities had no estimate of the total damage done by fires. Although most of the fires were of a suspicious origin, authorities would not label any as outright cases of arson. Many of the fires started in empty structures, but some blazes spread to occupied homes. At the Dayton Human Rehabilitation Center, a correction farm where one of the first fires during the strike burned two barns, one inmate who helped contain the blaze said: "We got a sense of responsibility. What did they think we would do?"

Just stand by and watch it burn like those firemen?" Meanwhile, Dayton policemen were considering a strike of their own. Fraternal Order of Police members voted to give their executive committee authority to strike if necessary. The city reportedly offered the policemen an 18-cent-an-hour raise while at the same time it was giving in to fire department demands for a 25-cent increase. "We've got a real bumper on our hands," Ronald Brandenburg, FOP president, said. "I'm real worried what might happen if the city doesn't move from its stand."

R.A. Jones, 24, is an Arizona State University sociology major in his first season as a firefighter. He struts about the fire line with a slug of chewing tobacco lodged in his lousung belt and two bandanas sticking out of his silver helmet. "I like going for it," Jones said. "That and the bucks."

Ross sentenced to 10 in prison
HOUSTON (AP) — An Arizona man has been sentenced to 10 years in prison after pleading guilty to a charge of unlawfully carrying a firearm during the offense of kidnaping.

Dennis Oliver Ross, 27, of Glendale, Ariz., was sentenced Wednesday by U. S. District Court Judge Woodrow Seals who directed that Ross be sent to an institution where he will receive psychiatric treatment. "When I first started, we either walked into them or rode a horse," said Mangum, who lives in Alpine, Ariz. Mangum's wife and child know summer means Dad could be gone for months at a time. This year he's already fought fires in five states. "Some years I am gone a lot and some years I'm not," he said with a slight twang. "When we leave we don't know when we'll be back. It's hard work, but I enjoy it. I've always liked the outdoors."

Tommy Tomlinson of Chewelah, Wash., is a "hot shot," one of the firefighting elite who, unlike the khaki-trousered, yellow-shirted regulars, dress with scruffy flair. They are the troubleshooters who execute special maneuvers in the battles. "We're all crazy," the 28-year-old Tomlinson said with

Dig this cool gardner

PARAMUS, N.J. (AP) — Like many other teenaged boys, Kevin Flood earned his summer money mowing lawns and tending gardens. Unlike other boys, he liked it. He thought of it more as fun than work, especially the gardening.

Even then, Kevin Flood seemed to be a natural-born gardener and now, at 23, the garden he tends is a most unusual one.

"Not many other gardeners get to work in air-conditioned comfort. I'm lucky, I guess. Of course, I also take care of the trees and plantings outside."

Kevin Flood is the chief horticulturist at Paramus Park. Everybody knows Paramus Park, or something very like it.

Paramus Park is one of those huge shopping malls, one of the really massive ones, the mobile society's answer to the general store. It has acres of diagonally lined parking places, no fewer than 118 terribly clever stores, mossy waterfalls, bubbling fountains, a United Nations of instant souvlaki, instant tacos, instant crepes, instant bratwurst, all under one glass roof, and with instant music playing every instant.

Oh well, at least the flowers are real.

"No, I couldn't tell you how much room all the flowers would take up if you put all the planters together. Enough, that's for sure. We have about 50 trees and all varieties of tropical plants: gardenia, palm, schefflers, diffebachia, spathiphyllum. After a while you get to know every one. Not every variety, every plant.

"Taking care of them is a full-time job, all right. The biggest concentration is at the waterfall. That's where I spend a good deal of my time."

The waterfall is a six-tiered, two-story confection surrounded by greenery and escalators and people eating off paper plates.

As with other such watery places in this land, the pools at Paramus Park are full of coins. Somehow Americans can't seem to resist throwing money if it splashes but doesn't quite disappear.

"I clean them out about every six weeks and pick up anywhere from $300 to $500," Kevin Flood said. "I don't mind that job because the money goes to local charities."

"What I don't like is cleaning out the cups and napkins and cigarettes and other junk. I have to do that every morning.

"It makes you wonder about people."

(AP WIREPHOTO) A GARDENER IN AIR CONDITIONED MALL — Kevin Flood, 23-year-old gardener at Paramus Mall Park, Paramus, N.J. prunes plants in the area near the waterfall next to a restaurant and shops. "Not many other gardeners get to work in air-conditioned comfort. I'm lucky, I guess," says Flood.

Census critic fired

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Bullock, an economic statistician whose outspoken criticism of Census Bureau data led to the belated correction last December of a $50 billion understatement in an economic study, has been fired.

Bullock, 30, said he was accused of "coercion to seek advancement" after he found more errors in another Census Bureau study and threatened "to go public" unless permitted to organize an effort to correct the figures.

The dismissal followed two letters of reprimand, one for what he said was alleged to be a "malicious, vicious insult" to a superior, and another for insulting his wife's superior.

Robert Hagan, bureau director, said he was not free to discuss the bureau's action but said the details were spelled out in a letter to the former employee.

Bullock termed the coercion charge a fabrication resulting from his insistence that he be permitted to correct the additional errors, a job that apparently would have required a rating higher than his GS-12.

He said he was asked by Shirley Kallek, his superior, to put his demands in writing, which he did, and that the dismissal followed.

At issue, he said, are figures making up the basic annual economic data base of the bureau, which are released separately for individual states, followed by publication of a national survey.

Included in such studies are figures for the number of businesses of all kinds, the number of jobs and the size of payrolls in all the nation's counties. Bullock claims the figures are biased by 25 to 30 per cent.

The latest accusations by Bullock follow a personal, four-year fight to correct problems in another survey, that for the level of unfilled orders at the nation's factories.

The bureau at first minimized the extent of the unfilled orders miscalculation. Bullock said that instead of adjusting the figures or issuing a caveat, he was threatened with insubordination by Miss Kallek, who devised the methodology.

Following a special study, rushed to completion last December, the bureau conceded the understatement in the level of orders to be, in some years, close to 40 per cent, and to total roughly $50 billion a year.

Asked then—in December 1976 — why a caveat hadn't been issued, in keeping with the published policy of the bureau in regard to questionable statistics, Milton Eisen, chief of the industry division, said "We were slow in accepting anything he (Bullock) said."

Searching for creature

STILWELL, Okla. (AP) — Members of a group searching for the legendary creature "Big Foot" will come here Saturday.

The Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation has joined the group in investigating a reported creature described by a youth as being 9-foot tall, hairy, and having glowing red eyes.

The 15-year-old youth, Brian Jones, told authorities that the creature grabbed him and ripped off his shirt outside a friend's rural home near here Friday night.

The State Bureau of Investigation is studying the boy's shirt, which authorities said had long coarse brown hair attached to it.

Bob Stamps of Oklahoma City, director of a group calling itself Sasquatch Investigation of Mid-America, said he has talked with authorities in the eastern Oklahoma town and is convinced "that there is something there — just what, I don't know."

Stamps and other members of his group will search the area Saturday night, after interviewing persons in the area during the day.

"We believe these people (who have reported a strange creature) are telling the truth and we just want to find out what this thing is," said Adair County Civil Defense Director Tobe O'Neal.

New engine doesn't burn anything, runs on air

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — Engineer Arnold Burke doesn't like to pay high prices for gasoline. He doesn't see why cars can't run on just thin air.

Ex-resident shot during purse snatch

A former Big Spring resident, Peggy Henson, is in good condition today in Ft. Worth Osteopathic Hospital after she was shot in a purse-snatching attempt. She told the Herald that she was in the parking lot of a Skaggs-Albertson's in Southeast Ft. Worth when she was assaulted Tuesday at 4 p.m. Before she could remove her purse from her shoulder, she said, one of the two assailants shot her once in the stomach. "I'm okay now," she said, "but I hurt all over."

In fact, Burke thought gasoline cost too much in 1961, so he decided to do something about it. And after surviving more than 100 lab explosions, he's developed an engine that runs on little more than thin air.

Mounted on a stand in a garage not far from Burke's mobile home in this Central Texas city, the invention only remotely resembles an automobile engine. It requires neither battery nor ignition switch — the mass of steel, tubing and gauges run at the twist of a valve. Its sound is more of a soft hiss than the rumble of a combustion engine. There are no spark plugs, no radiator, no wires and no carburetor. It runs primarily on oxygen and nitrogen, two main ingredients of the air man breathes. But perhaps the most attractive feature of Burke's invention is that it recycles fuel — there is no exhaust; no air pollution.

The inventor rather suddenly came upon the idea of using oxygen as a fuel several years ago while searching for a way to beat the gas pumps. "The oxygen idea came about after I almost lost my arm when an oxygen bottle exploded," he recalled. When bottled oxygen gets around oil or grease under the right pressure, "it'll blow your hand off," Burke said, pointing to a "Use No Oil!" warning on the valve of an oxygen tank. "The first experiments I had were pretty violent because I never knew when it (the explosion) would occur," he said. After trying "about 75" fuel variations, Burke settled on a 50-50 oxygen-nitrogen mixture. "Nitrogen was introduced into the oxygen to stabilize it, to keep it at the same pressure for each firing," he said. Burke made yet another booming discovery that brought further stability his fuel mixture. "I opened a jar of this chemical one day, and the atmospheric pressure in the room set it off," he said.

When the gases are combined with minute amounts of the chemical catalyst and mineral oil in each of eight cylinders, the mixture explodes, powering the engine. While explosions in a gasoline engine are ignited by a spark plug, several factors work together to trigger Burke's engine. Heat is generated when the catalyst hits the oxygen mixture. "The mineral oil acts as an explosive because the catalyst aggravates it," he explained. Pressure in the fuel line sometimes reaches as much as 4,000 pounds, he continued, and a minimal amount of heat is generated when the mixture is forced into each cylinder through a

Gentry heads Lee ROTC

George H. Gentry Jr., a native of Big Spring, has just been appointed head of the ROTC program at Robert E. Lee High School in Baytown. Gentry is a retired colonel from the U.S. Marine Corps after 26 years in the service. His brother, Tommy is mayor at Baytown and his father is the retired superintendent of schools there. When in Big Spring, his father was high school principal and his mother was a teacher.

hole so small that "water won't go through it. You can't feel the heat with your hand, but the fuel reacts to it," Burke said. "It's like spontaneous combustion." Burke declined specifics on the catalyst because his concept is not yet patented. Oxygen is not "burned," as in a regular auto engine. The used fuel is filtered through coke, then exposed to the catalyst again and again for renewed firing.

Sound unbelievable? "There are five laws of physics that are so stretched in this engine that they're on the verge of breaking," Burke grinned. However, the hardy inventor admits his machine won't run perpetually. "The oxygen content drops about 40 per cent after the engine is run for 100 hours," he said. Half of Burke's prototype engine actually drives the crankshaft and the other half recycles fuel. The crankshaft drives a compressor that sucks used fuel from the cylinders. Next, a series of Burke-designed "pulsators" jacked up the pressure in steps, much the same way that a transformer steps up voltage in an electrical circuit.

Forty-two per cent of the machine's power is used to recycle fuel, leaving 95 horsepower for workloads, Burke said, which is comparable to the power delivered by small V-8 engines. The fuel is stored in a football-sized tank, rather than the multi-gallon tanks automobiles use today. Even if the recycling system breaks down, he explained, the engine will run "wide open" for 36 hours on gases supplied by two five-foot tanks of oxygen and nitrogen. Not including a deposit, the full tanks average about $12 a pair. If all goes as planned, the inventor hopes to have a second prototype ready for manufacture in five to seven months. His massive three-foot high invention weighs 1,000 pounds, but Burke says design improvements will cut the weight of the second prototype in half. Another bug in the invention is that mineral oil condenses in the fuel lines and explodes at the wrong time, rupturing the lines. But Burke says fuel lines in his next prototype will be ribbed so that condensation will drain instead of clogging the lines. If installed in an auto, the engine features a power take off unit to drive air conditioning, power steering and other accessories. Now that the engine is finally running, the engineer-inventor says the thing he remembers most about his road to discovery is the ridicule he received, not the dozens of mechanical failures or sudden explosions. "If people hadn't laughed so much, I probably would have given up," he mused. "There were so many explosions at first that my neighbors talked of getting up a petition to stop my work. "People would come to the hospital after an explosion had destroyed some part I'd worked on for months," Burke recalled. "They couldn't understand why I'd be jumping for joy because each time was a step forward. "It's a lonely life, being an inventor, but somebody had to invent the first safety pin. They probably laughed at him, too, until after he'd done it." And the explosion-scarred inventor said his feelings have changed about 1961 gasoline prices. "If I saw then what it costs today, I wouldn't have complained," Burke said.

Crystal City trying Lo-Vaca settlement

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — Crystal City officials were awaiting word from Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. officials today after the city council approved a plan to settle the town's $720,000 gas debt to Lo-Vaca by giving the firm an oil lease in a city park. Lo-Vaca officials, who have said they would shut off the gas to the South Texas town's municipal-owned system by Aug. 27, said Wednesday they were awaiting action from the council before making a decision. The proposal approved 4-1 late Wednesday by the council also would hike gas rates in Crystal City to the level paid by other Lo-Vaca customers. Mayor Francisco Benavides said that geologists "say there is good potential for oil" in the 34-acre lease in Juan Garcia Park. "All the royalties would go to Lo-Vaca," said Benavides, "except the city would retain a portion in the sinking fund for wear and tear on the land." "We're ready to settle," Benavides said after the vote. "We're trying hard to come up with something to avoid having the gas shut off." The dispute arose when Crystal City refused to pay more for gas than the 36 cents per 1,000 cubic feet (mcf) called for in its supply contract with Lo-Vaca. The going rate is now $2, and the Texas Supreme Court says Crystal City and its residents must pay it. Lo-Vaca had said it will cut off the gas if the back bills aren't paid. Three oil companies are seeking to lease the tract, Benavides said. "We don't have any money," said the mayor of the town of about 8,000. "We decided to go this route instead of to higher courts. "We can't have our gas cut off." Since most of the residents are poor and cannot afford $2 gas, Benavides said the city would seek a way to charge less than that and make up the difference from some other source of municipal revenue. Benavides said he told Lo-Vaca officials in a negotiation session in Austin Tuesday that the city would implement the higher rate as soon as Lo-Vaca lifts its cut-off deadline.

Nutrition is important to local homemaker

By CAROL HART
When preparing meals and snacks for her family, Mrs. Doug (Sharon) Stelter keeps nutrition in mind. Many of the foods she makes for her family are prepared with natural ingredients that she purchases from health food stores.

Mrs. Stelter explained that she became interested in nutrition and natural foods several years ago. She said she read many articles concerning nutrition and the dangers of preservatives. She added that her husband brought up the fact that the family used a lot of refined sugar in their meals. They then decided to follow a diet that used natural foods that are also high in nutrition.

Because of the preservatives, Mrs. Stelter said she rarely buys canned goods from grocery stores. To cut down on sugar usage, the family uses raw local honey in many recipes calling for sugar. The family also prefers to keep away from produce that has been chemically sprayed.

Mrs. Stelter spends quite a bit of time in the kitchen preparing meals for her family. She said her speciality is baking. She added, "I've been baking all of the bread we eat ever since I've been married."

Mrs. Stelter and her mother, Mrs. Merrill Creighton, learned to bake bread together several years ago following the death of her grandmother. She and her mother searched for a bread recipe her grandmother had used. After finding it, they began baking bread, and have both continued making it for their families. "I wouldn't think of using anything else," Mrs. Stelter added. "The bread is very nutritious." She added that she uses no preservatives in the bread she makes.

Although Mrs. Stelter is a Big Spring native, her family now has been in Big Spring about two and one half years. Stelter is originally from East Texas. She attended school at Baylor University, and the family later lived in Dallas and Lubbock. They are now residing at 609 W. 15th.

The couple has a daughter,

Laran, 4. The family is active in the First Baptist Church, where Mrs. Stelter teaches a seventh grade girls Sunday school class. She is also a member of the church choir.

The family has been involved with remodeling their home since moving in over two years ago. Mrs. Stelter has refinished most of the furniture in the home, and has been making draperies. She also has been working in the yard around the home, as well as cultivating indoor plants.

Mrs. Stelter also did many of the paintings that hang in the family's home. She taught art for several years while the family resided in Dallas. She now works with her husband, who is a professional photographer.

Mrs. Stelter said her family is "spoiled now" when it comes to eating natural foods. She said her husband and daughter were very cooperative in adapting to the healthful diet they now follow. Recipes using many of the natural ingredients Mrs. Stelter prefers follow here.

MRS. DOUG (SHARON) STELTER butters some of her homemade bread. Mrs. Stelter prepares all the bread that her family eats. She is concerned with nutrition and prefers natural foods. Mrs. Stelter and her family reside at 609 W. 15th.

Cucumber, fresh dill add to dishes

By CECILY BROWN-STONE
Summertime, when fresh dill is in markets and gardens, is a great time to use it with cucumbers. You may find, as we do, that the two are an irresistible combination.

We like to add finely chopped cucumber and minced dill to cottage cheese for a noontime salad. Served with lettuce and sliced ripe tomatoes, the twosome is not only refreshing and filling but usually pleases calorie-watchers.

For a spread you might like to mix cream cheese or farmer cheese with minced cucumber and dill. The mixture is delicious on squares of fresh bread or on crackers.

Chilled cucumber soup sprinkled with a copious amount of minced dill and served in ice-cold glass bowls is a lovely starter for company supper.

Another great way to use fresh dill is with braised cucumbers. For cucumbers are just as good cooked as they are raw. Tasters at our house who thought they wouldn't like cucumbers cooked have succumbed to them after they tasted them prepared this way. If you try braising cucumbers with dill you may have the same fulfilling experience.

$\frac{3}{4}$ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
Dash of white pepper
Minced fresh dill, as much as you like

Sprinkle cucumbers with the salt; stir well and let stand 30 minutes. Turn into colander and drain well; do not press. In a 10-inch skillet melt the butter; add the cucumbers and pepper; stir well. Cook, covered, over moderate heat and stirring several times, just until as tender as you like—3 to 5 minutes. Stir in the dill. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: The cucumbers may be prepared without presalting and draining. Skillet-cook them, as directed above, with the ingredients listed but with less salt. This way the cucumbers will have stronger flavor and slightly firmer texture.

Bureau notes label standards

Want to know more about the wine you buy? The federal government may have help.

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms has proposed standards for labels on American wine to show the origin and types of grapes used. The new proposals result from hearings held earlier this year on regulations suggested last November.

The government planned public hearings on the proposals in Washington on Aug. 23 and in San Francisco Aug. 23-25.

Recipes from Mrs. Stelter

NUTRITIOUS PIE CRUST
1 c. unbleached pastry flour
1 c. stoneground whole wheat flour
1 tsp. salt
Mix well. Cut $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup unrefined oil into flour.
Sprinkle $\frac{1}{4}$ cup ice water over mixture. Mix well with fork. Form into ball. Roll out on floured board. This will make two nine inch pie shells or one double crust for fruit pies.

QUICHE AU FROMAGE
Use one of the crusts from recipe above. Chill one hour. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Bake 10 minutes. Cool. Preheat oven 375 degrees. Melt one teaspoon butter over moderate heat. When foam subsides, cook six slices of bacon, (preferably nitrate free) cut into $\frac{1}{4}$ inch pieces in the butter until brown. Drain. Beat two eggs plus two extra egg yolks with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup heavy cream. Add $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt, pinch of pepper. Stir in $\frac{3}{4}$ cup grated Swiss cheese and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup plain yogurt. Scatter bacon over bottom of cooled shell and ladle custard into it. Sprinkle top with bits of bacon. Bake 25 minutes or until knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Serve hot for brunch or dinner.

CAROB BROWNIES
 $\frac{1}{4}$ c. unbleached pastry flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
4tbsps. carob powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. butter
 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. raw honey
 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. raw sugar
3 eggs, well beaten
 $\frac{3}{4}$ c. chopped pecans
 $\frac{1}{4}$ c. wheat germ
1 tsp. vanilla
Mix carob with sugar, then add to melted butter. Add honey. Mix in eggs, beating thoroughly. Add dry ingredients to above, then nuts, wheat germ and vanilla. Mix well. Spread in oiled 8 inch by 8 inch pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 25 minutes. Cool and cut into squares.

CHICKEN ENCHILADAS
1 chicken
1 small onion
1 can green chilies
8-oz. grated Jack cheese cornstarch powdered milk
corn tortillas
unrefined oil
Stew whole chicken or four breasts, seasoned with an onion, carrot, celery and cumin seed. Reserve broth, skim off fat.
Mix one heaping tablespoon cornstarch and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup powdered milk. Mix this with chicken broth. Cook until mixture thickens.
Heat unrefined oil in small pan. Dip each tortilla in this, and drain on towels.
Mix $\frac{1}{2}$ of the thickened broth with chopped onion, green chilies, $\frac{1}{2}$ of the grated cheese. Fill each tortilla with chicken bits and this soup mixture. Fold over, secure with toothpick. After the tortillas are filled, cover with remaining soup and grated cheese. Bake for 35 minutes at 350 degrees.

NUTRITIOUS HONEY TREATS
 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. raw peanut butter
 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. raw honey
 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. wheat germ
1 c. powdered milk
Mix together all ingredients. Roll into small balls. Store in refrigerator.

BANANA NUT CAKE
 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. butter
1 c. raw honey
 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. raw sugar
3 eggs
3 bananas
1 c. unbleached pastry flour
1 c. soy flour
1 tsp. soda
Pinch of salt
4 tbsps. buttermilk
1 tsp. vanilla
 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. wheat germ
 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. chopped pecans
Cream butter and honey and sugar. Add eggs and bananas. Alternate dry ingredients with buttermilk and vanilla. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes or until done in the center.

EARTH BREAD
1 c. warm water
3 tbsps. yeast (3 cakes)
1-3rd c. local raw honey
1 c. uncooked oatmeal
1 c. bran flakes (not cereal)
3 tbsps. unrefined oil
4 tps. salt
2 c. boiling water
3 eggs
2 c. stoneground whole wheat flour
4 c. or more unbleached (hardwheat) flour
 $\frac{3}{4}$ c. soy flour
 $\frac{3}{4}$ c. skim milk powder
 $\frac{3}{4}$ c. wheat germ
Combine oatmeal, bran flakes, oil, salt and boiling water. Let stand until only warm. Place yeast, honey and 1 c. warm water in bowl and let stand five minutes. Measure and mix remaining dry ingredients. Stir the yeast mixture into the oatmeal mixture. Add 2 cups of the flour mixture, then add eggs and beat well. Add the remaining dry ingredients, kneading in the flour as you go. Add flour and knead until dough is smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl, cover, let rise until mixture doubles. Turn dough into two large loaf pans or three medium sized pans. Let rise until doubled. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes, or until golden brown.

For pizza, reserve a small portion and press into greased pizza pan.

WONDERFUL SALAD
Fresh spinach and lettuce
Favorite sprouts
1 cooked egg
Chopped celery
Sliced cucumbers
Broccoli tops
Fresh tomatoes
Soy beans
Grated white cheese
Mix ingredients together.
For dressing, mix $\frac{1}{2}$ cup yogurt with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup mayonnaise. Blend in one mashed avocado.

MAKE YOUR OWN MAYONNAISE
1 egg
1 tbsp. lemon juice
 $\frac{1}{4}$ c. unrefined oil
 $\frac{1}{2}$ -1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. vinegar
 $\frac{3}{4}$ tsp. sea salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. white pepper
 $\frac{3}{4}$ c. unrefined oil
Combine egg, lemon juice, vinegar, mustard, salt, $\frac{1}{4}$ c. oil and pepper in electric blender. Cover and blend on low speed until mixed. Increase speed to high, uncover and add remaining oil in slow steady stream. Blend until all is smooth and creamy. Keep refrigerated and use within 7-10 days.

Tween 12 and 20 Funny first names cause kids' traumas

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D.
Copley News Service

Dear Doctor:
As you can probably see by the signature, my problem is my name. I don't like it at all and take a terrible ribbing from my fellow students. My mother is proud of my name because it was her maiden name. She has instructed all my teachers to address me as Bonaparte, but I would like to be called by my middle name of William. There is probably not much advice to give me, but you can bet my children won't have stupid, embarrassing names.

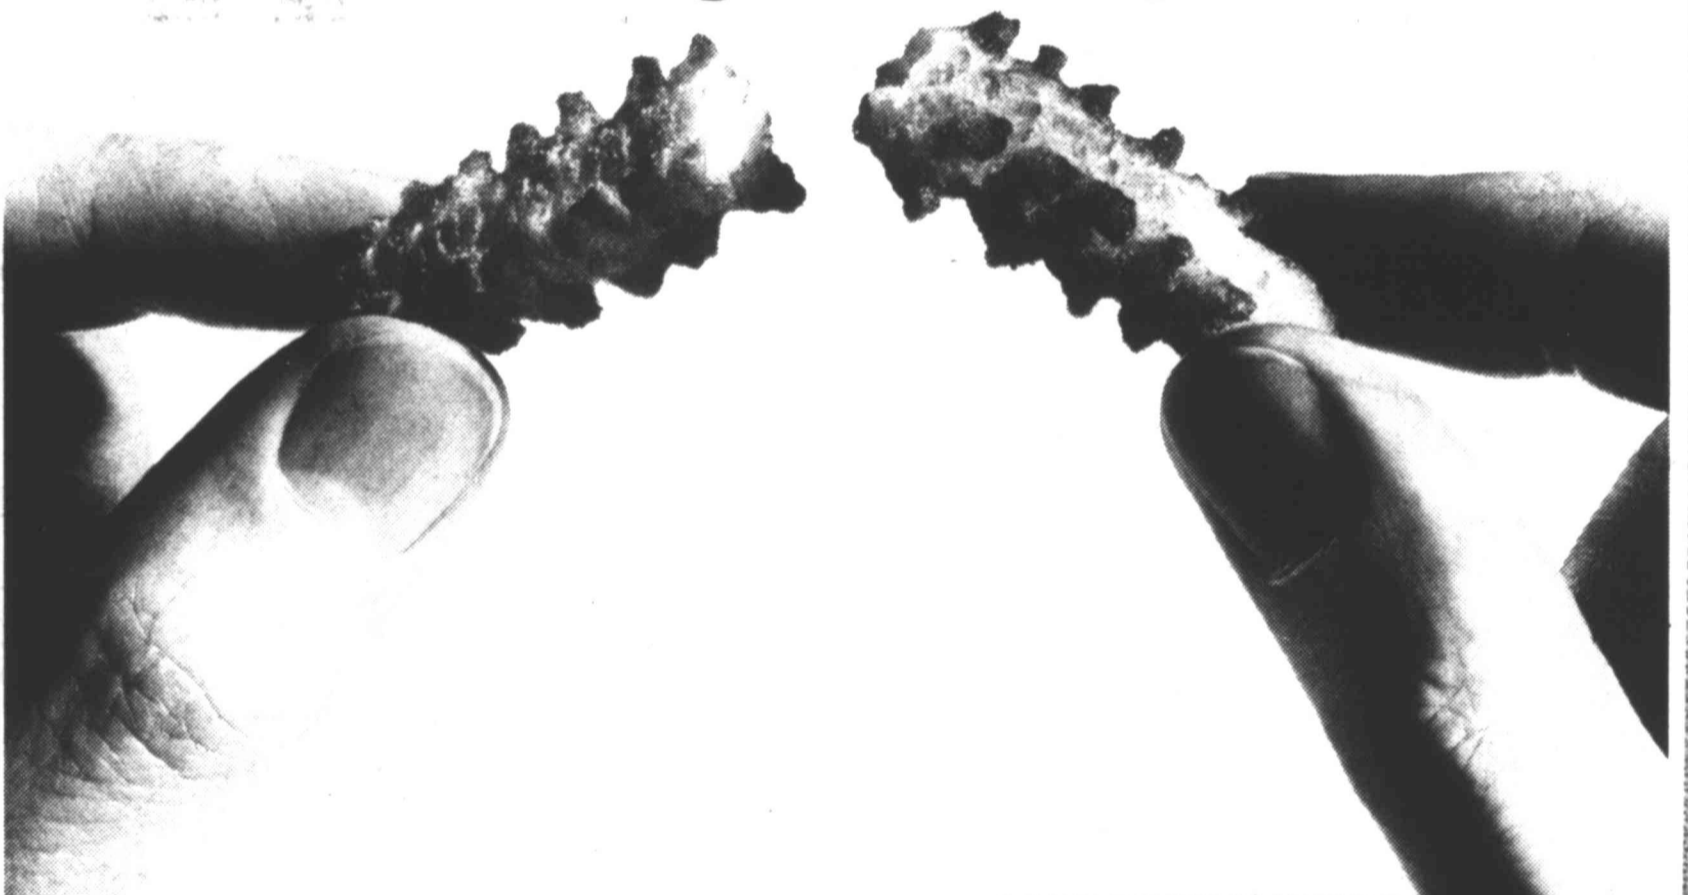

Bonaparte, Elko, NV
Dear William,
(At least it is a start):
I agree with you totally. Sometimes parents do not realize that they might cause problems by giving their children odd or unwanted monikers. Do you know what the O. stands for in O. J. Simpson? Orenthal. No wonder he uses O. J.!

Dear Doctor:

We have five counselors in our high school of 2,500 students, and the taxpayer should be spared over $100,000 per year in salaries because it is impossible to see one when you need to.
You can't get to see a counselor unless you make an appointment a week ahead. By then, you can probably solve the problem yourself. In fact, I've seen counselors leave students sitting in their office while they spend a half an hour in the faculty room drinking coffee.
Gill, St. Petersburg, FL

Dear Gill:
With a student load of 500, it is very difficult for counselors to give individual attention to all those who need it. I still believe the best time to see a counselor is during the "off" hours—before and after school, and during lunch.
Believe me, the $100,000 for five counselors is well spent. Questions may be sent to Dr. Robert Wallace, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Ore-Ida introduces french fries so crisp, they snap.

If you want french fries that are extra crisp, try new Ore-Ida Crispers.™ Regular french fries merely bend. But new Ore-Ida Crispers™ are so crisp, you can actually snap them. That's because they're specially made for oven heating. They have little ridges that lift them off your cooking sheet and let the heat circulate around them evenly. So you get french fries that are probably crisper than any others you've eaten. New Ore-Ida Crispers!™ Snap 'em up.

Ex-resident's hand sewn back on with Marj Carpenter

Mrs. Terry Patterson, well-known Big Spring artist, went to visit her sister in Austin and had quite an experience. Her sister is Virginia Cartwright, formerly Virginia Terry of Big Spring.

On July 26, she was at the airport at Manor's Bird's Nest Airport in Austin and turned to run toward her son's plane, afraid he was going to take off with her keys in his pocket. Her sister was with her when this happened.

A moment later, Virginia lost her balance, fell into the spinning propeller and crumpled to the pavement with her left hand severed and flung away, and her arm nearly slashed away by the flailing prop.

Then as Virginia puts it, "God took charge." She said a team of doctors, nurses and technicians worked through the night at Seton Medical Center to repair her arm and give her back her hand.

The doctors are saying that they believe they can start being optimistic about the unusual surgical procedure. The orthopedic surgeon and the vascular surgeon would not allow their names to be used but they have talked about the surgery, which is a first in that city.

The orthopedist said, "The hand has continued to be viable. She appears to have adequate circulation in it and while the prognosis at this point is still guarded, the fact that the hand has lived this long is unusual and very encouraging."

A week after the surgery, Mrs. Cartwright can move her thumb a little bit as it protrudes from thick bandages.

Virginia and her fiance,

(AP WIREPHOTO)

HAND SEVERED, RE-ATTACHED BY SURGERY — Virginia Cartwright's left hand was severed by the whirling propeller of her son's airplane July 26. The missing hand located 60 yards away. A surgical team at Seton Medical Center labored throughout the night to repair the mangled arm and replace the severed hand. Smiling from her hospital bed a week later, she's able to move her thumb on that hand and is regaining feeling in the fingers and while the prognosis is still guarded, progress thus far is encouraging. Mrs. Cartwright is the former Virginia Terry, Big Spring.

Dale Hammack and other family members, including her sister, had gone with her son Terry and his wife to the small airport for their return flight to Groveton.

As quickly as he could shut off the engine, Terry was beside his mother as she lay on the pavement. He almost passed out when he realized her hand was missing. Virginia told him "Don't break down on me now — every second counts." While they waited for an ambulance, knowing it would be some time because the road to the airport was torn up for major repairs, Terry took a piece of yardstick which was in the airport office and twisted it with a red, white and blue scarf Virginia was wearing as a tourniquet for the heavily bleeding arm.

The ambulance took Virginia but did not have time to look for the hand. Members of the family searched in the dark. Terry, using the spotlight on a sheriff's patrol car, found the hand near the end of the runway, 60 yards from the accident scene.

Virginia remained conscious, told the doctor about her blood type and pled for him to try to save her hand. One nurse said when she arrived on duty that night, they had two operating rooms set up — one for Virginia and one for her hand. While they were putting her arm together in one operating room, they were preparing the hand in the other room to be attached to the arm.

Neither Virginia nor her doctors believe the hand will ever be good as new, but they are pleased with what has been achieved at this point.

Some of the skeptical operating room personnel considered the operation an exercise in futility but are in awe now that her hand is starting to show response.

Mrs. Patterson is quite pleased with the progress of her sister, Virginia, and rightfully so. But we could have told them that Big Springers are tough — out by the Austin fence.

Connally linked to Box 13

DALLAS (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally "could render his greatest service to this country" by revealing what he knows about the Box 13 scandal in Lyndon Johnson's senatorial election 29 years ago, says a Texas historian.

"I doubt if any man alive now knows more about that Box 13 than John Connally," said J. Evetts Haley, who 13 years ago wrote "A Texan Looks at Lyndon: A Study in Illegitimate Power."

Johnson defeated Coke R. Stevenson in the 1938 Texas

Democratic primary runoff, springing Johnson on a career that led to the presidency.

Connally was Johnson's campaign manager and was active in promoting his candidacy to the public.

Connally, asked about the Box 13 episode recently in Houston, said at that time, "I know nothing that would add to the clarification of the situation, nor do I know anything that would contribute to the confusion of the story. I'll have nothing to say about it."

Luis Salas, a former Texas voting official, recently told The Associated Press, however, that he certified enough votes to steal that election for Johnson.

At a news conference here Wednesday, Haley said that Connally "was up to his neck in the incident after the returns were in. I don't know what he did."

A self-described "cowpuncher by profession" and now 75, Haley confirmed the part that Salas had in the alleged fraudulent returns.

"I think that my account is accurate," he added. "Mr. Johnson was in constant touch and he didn't need to go to Jim Wells County."

"Unfortunately for the moral tone of the country, the major figures and chief beneficiaries of this criminal conspiracy themselves resisted all promptings of conscience to admit their guilt, assuming they ever had any."

Haley said, "I refer particularly to such leading principals as the notorious criminal George Parr, Justice Hugo Black of the Supreme Court and Lyndon Johnson."

Regarding Box 13, he said he would not reveal his sources and added that "to the best of my ability it is based upon fact and I have never been challenged."

Bell official knew about cheating, but did nothing

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A high-ranking official of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. says he knew of expense account cheating by some company officials beneath him but never disciplined the offenders.

C. L. Todd, vice president and general manager for Southwestern Bell in San Antonio, gave the testimony Wednesday as a hostile witness for the plaintiffs in a $29 million damage suit against the telephone company.

The suit was filed by former Southwestern Bell executive James Ashley of San Antonio and the family of T. O. Gravitt, who was the company's top Texas executive when he committed suicide in Dallas on Oct. 17, 1974.

The suit alleges that Ashley was wrongfully fired and that Gravitt was hounded to his death as a result of an improper internal investigation by the company in 1974.

Todd testified that Bell security agents reported to him incidents where lower management employees made political contributions and then padded expense vouchers to recover the money.

At most, he said, an offender was "talked to" by his supervisor about the alleged cheating.

But Todd said he suspended 23-year Bell employee Ashley without warning in October 1974. Ashley at the time was making about $55,000 a year in his executive position.

"Ashley was a different case entirely," Todd said when asked why Ashley apparently was treated differently than other Bell employees accused of any wrongdoing.

Todd said he was "surprised that he (Ashley) showed no emotion" when informed of his suspension by Todd as the two men drove to a hotel where Ashley was quizzed by Bell security agents.

Todd said he never suggested to Ashley that the charges against him were serious or that he get a lawyer before talking to Bell investigators.

Todd denied he had wanted the promotion to Gravitt's job in Dallas both before and since Gravitt's suicide. He said he never plotted against Gravitt within the telephone company.

Pat Maloney, lawyer for Ashley and the Gravitt family, has said Ashley and Gravitt were "marked for destruction" when they became rebels seeking to reform Southwestern Bell from within.

Gravitt left a suicide note in which he said, "Watergate is a neat compared to the Bell system" and which outlined his allegations of wrongdoing by the giant utility.

The trial began here Monday and is expected to continue for several weeks.

Efforts to revitalize Baker Hotel under way

By MARJ CARPENTER

The Baker Hotel looms as a high spot on the Colorado City horizon.

And it perturbs the Colorado City citizens. They have taken the attitude since the '70s that they are going to have to clean up their own town and improve themselves.

Colorado City is an interesting city that was the cultural center of the West in the 1880s when it served as the railroad for the Texas and Pacific Railroad.

In those days, they were kind of the dropping of place between Fort Worth and El Paso and there was lots of activity there. They had an opera house and they had a swinging saloon.

Lumber was brought west to the railhead and hauled overland to such upstart villages as Lubbock and Big Spring.

Then the railroad moved on and so did some of the prosperity. But Colorado City rose again. It had a refinery and was going strong when suddenly the refinery was closed.

The second setback discouraged some folks, and a lot of people sat around, recalling old days gone by.

One day, the community seemed to begin to arise from the ashes and take a look at itself. A downtown business fell in. The roof actually caved in on the store, which was one of many older buildings on Main Street.

That shopkeeper tore down

ONE OF THE FINEST IN THE WEST . . . in days gone by the old building and built an attractive new one in its place and other Colorado City citizens began to take a look around. A bank remodeled and landscaped. The Chamber of Commerce built a beautiful civic center downtown.

The school voted a bond issue and built one of the most modern schools in West Texas.

And the citizens are now taking a look at the big old empty Baker Hotel.

They decided there must be something good to do with it. The city has applied to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for funds to remodel it as a home for the elderly.

They are seeking funds to turn the five-story building into apartments to be used by elderly citizens.

Colorado City has a lot of elderly people who have stayed in that community because they like it there.

They also have a great need for apartments. The city has investigated and found that there have been successful similar projects in such communities as Groman and Dublin. They are attempting to do something about the Baker Hotel and help local citizens at the same time.

Colorado City has not been sleep in recent years. Residents finally got busy and cleaned up the tank farm, left behind when the refinery closed. They remodeled the old opera house and use it as a theater. They are constantly making improvements to their parks and to their town.

And they hope to do something about the Baker.

Missing fleet

PORT O'CONNOR, Tex. (AP) — The Rev. George Haynes was left high and dry on the docks here this morning.

It seems he was to give the invocation, or "bless the fleet," prior to the start of the three-day Texas Masters Fishing Tournament, sponsored by the Port Lovaca Chamber of Commerce and local jaycees.

Rev. Haynes got to the docks at 6 a.m. but the only boat in sight was a U.S. Coast Guard cutter scheduled to lead the fleet to sea after the blessing.

A couple who showed up for the sendoff went looking for the crowd and the missing fleet but returned momentarily and reported finding not so much as a dinghy.

Fishermen reported via shortwave radio the fleet left port before sunrise.

Rev. Haynes, still determined to do the job he was hired for, blessed the patrol boat and went home.

DOMINO MOXIE — George McAlister (second from left) and Lloyd McLeod (second from right) have become so knowledgeable about the game of dominoes, the game they're playing here, they've written a book entitled "Dominoes Texas Style" about it. They plan an autograph party for purchasers of the $5.95 pocket-size book at the Big Spring Country Club, starting at 7:30 p.m., Friday. A hamburger buffet will be served to purchasers of the book. With the two here are Bill McClendon (left) and Les King.

'How to succeed in business without really trying'

Dinner theater at HC

Tickets are now on sale for the Howard College summer dinner theater presentation of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." This production will be held today and Friday at the college dining hall in the Dora Roberts Student Center. Dinner will be served at 7:00 p.m. followed by the theater.

Reservations may be made by phone and picked up at the door on the evening of the performance or may be purchased in advance by coming to the College

Business Office. For phone reservations, the number to call is 267-6311. At the time of the reservations, the number in a party will be noted and a table reserved for each group.

The menu for the evening consists of a choice of ham or roast beef along with a fancy salad bar, vegetables, baked potato, drink, dessert, and homemade bread.

Cost of the tickets are $6.50 each or $12 for two.

This is the story of a young man achieving success in business, sometimes with unethical methods, having a disaster and turning it into his advantage. He starts as an employee in the mail room and advances to chairman of the board by following instructions in a little book, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

Leading role is played by Ken Carney. The leading female role is played by Marshann Hoyt. Other major roles are handled by Jim Wiley, Laurie Choate, Kenneth West, Cathy Mays. Director of the play is John Gordon, with musical direction by Ken Sprinkle.

Howard College has attempted to make these offerings into community theaters with community involvement and participation in all phases of the productions.

Misplaced bird dies

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — Texas wildlife experts aren't sure how a rare, colorful bird made its way to a Brownwood driveway. But they do know the bird was about 2,000 miles away from its Equatorial home.

The spotted rail — which stood in stark contrast to sunparched West Texas with its green beak, red legs and silver spots on its dark plumage — died Tuesday night as Howard Payne University scientists tried to determine its origins.

Dr. Ed Roth, a Howard Payne professor, speculated that the bird, a notoriously weak flyer, either was caught up in a tropical storm, stowed away on a cargo ship or escaped from a nearby zoo.

But a check of zoos within flying distance of this West Texas town showed that no spotted rails were kept there, much less missing.

Only one other spotted rail has been reported in North America, Roth said. The normally secretive creature inhabits moist areas along rivers in Cuba, Central and South America, he said.

The bird's remains have been sent to Texas A&M to be studied by wildlife scientists there. Dr. Keith Arnold, an A&M wildlife science professor, said the description fits that of the spotted rail, but added that he couldn't be sure until seeing photographs.

"It's a rare thing," said Arnold. "I've never seen one alive, but I've seen a specimen."

Officials didn't rule out the possibility that the bird wandered 2,000 miles off course. "It's unlikely, but it's possible," said Louis Bisabato, director of the San Antonio zoo. "These birds get off course often and you hear of unusual incidents around the world."

Peggy Gillett found the sick bird on its back in her driveway Tuesday morning.

Howard Payne professors, who scurried to Mrs. Gillett's house after she reported finding the creature, said the bird was already ill and rejected any food.

Women judges are appointed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe has appointed two women judges in Amarillo to higher judgeships, including the appointment of Mary Lou Robinson as the first woman chief justice of a Texas appeals court.

Briscoe named Judge Robinson to replace Judge James Ellis of Amarillo, who is retiring Sept. 1 as chief justice of the 7th Supreme Judicial District.

Judge Robinson has been an associate justice on the court since her appointment by Briscoe in 1973. She is a graduate of Amarillo College and the University of Texas Law School.

County Court-at-Law Judge Naomi Harney was appointed judge of the 251st Judicial District, Potter and Randall Counties, also effective Sept. 1.

She was county attorney for Potter County for 13 years and has served as county court at law judge since 1975.

She has a bachelor's degree from the University of Texas and law degree from the University of Houston.

Show biz bug bites 'shrink'

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It is said actors are nuts. Does it help, then, for a casting director to be a qualified psychologist?

"Yes, it really does," says Dr. Jerold Franks, 33, who left full-time psychology for show biz four years ago and since July has been casting director for ABC's "Barney Miller" and "Fish" series.

"I think one of the things lacking in the industry is compassion understanding and empathy," the good doctor said. "We all go through a certain amount of rejection."

"But I think it helps to understand that actors have more rejection than anybody else because the competition is rougher. So this (a background in psychology) does help me a great deal."

Franks, of Bradley Beach, N.J., educated at Boston University and UCLA, says he got the show biz bug 14 years ago when, while still a student, he worked in Universal Studios tours division here.

He left that after getting his degrees and went to work as a psychologist at the Veterans Administration and in private practice here, he added. But in time, he returned to entertainment, first as an actors' agent, then as a casting director.

Why the shift?

"Well, when I was at the VA, I was dealing primarily with drug addicts and alcoholics, and I really got to the point of feeling very negative about people in general," Franks explained. "It's difficult enough to deal with life without having all that depression thrown in your face."

"And so I decided to get back into it."

Franks estimates he interviews about 60 actors and actresses a week while "Barney Miller" and "Fish" are in production.

And, odd as it may sound, he says the job-seekers don't differ much from folks applying for work in other fields. Some arrive exuding confidence, other display Grade-A jitters.

"But as a group, he conceded, thespians are "much more insecure" than civilians "only because the competition is so much rougher. And once one makes it, it's harder to stay on top."

Reminder: The space shuttle Enterprise, which has stayed atop a Boeing 747 jet for several months of airborne piggyback tests, will be on television Friday morning on CBS, NBC and ABC.

The networks plan to cover the first in-flight separation of the Enterprise from the big jet, and the space shuttle's landing in a dry lake bed near Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Weather and equipment willing, live pictures of the separation — at about 24,000 feet — will be provided from a NASA chase plane.

ABC's coverage, lasting an hour, starts at 11 a.m. Eastern time, while CBS and NBC will start their half-hour shows at 11:30 a.m. EDT.

Rail crossing alert

By SEN. LLOYD BENTSEN

Sixty-nine people died in traffic accidents at railroad grade crossings in Texas last year.

There are 553 frequently used grade crossings in our state — crossings traveled by 1,000 or more autos and six or more trains every day — that have no active safety devices: no flashing lights, no clanging bells, no guard rails that raise or lower.

Grade crossings such as these are one of many highway obstacles that pose serious traffic safety problems, not only in Texas, but across the nation.

Inadequate highway bridges are another safety hazard.

Over 9,000 bridges on our national highway system — 57 of them in Texas — are described as "structurally deficient" by the Department of Transportation. In most cases that means older bridges that weren't designed to carry the weight loads demanded by modern traffic.

According to testimony before my Transportation Subcommittee, some of these bridges are so "structurally deficient" that they can't carry the weight of a loaded school bus. The buses have to stop, unload their children, drive across, let the children walk across and re-board.

In some cases, older bridges made out of timbers are still in use.

In addition, there are more than 30,000 "functionally obsolete" — or narrow — bridges in use on our national highway system. One thousand six hundred and five of these are in Texas.

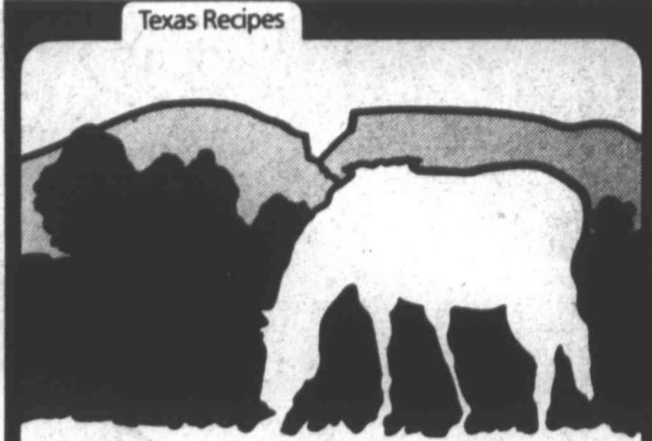

As Chairman of the Senate Transportation Subcommittee, I have begun a series of hearings that will give a thorough reassessment to the nation's highway program over the next several months.

The first hearing, held recently, examined a report from the Transportation Department on alternative methods of funding the Interstate Highway System.

Other hearings will follow this fall and early next year with a goal of sending a new highway bill to the full Senate for action by late next spring.

In many ways the subcommittee is facing a new series of circumstances on highway needs.

Brazos Valley Biscuit Loaf

- 1/2 cup raisins or currants
- Boiling water
- 2 cups biscuit mix
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 tablespoons Imperial Granulated Sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup tea (made from 1/2 teaspoon instant tea and 1/2 cup cool water)
- 2 tablespoons heavy cream
- 2 tablespoons Imperial Granulated Sugar

Cover raisins or currants with boiling water and let stand for 5 minutes. Drain and cool. Combine biscuit mix, spices and 2 tablespoons Imperial Granulated Sugar. Combine beaten egg and tea with raisins or currants and stir into biscuit mix. Put 1 teaspoon butter or margarine into 8" square baking pan and heat about a minute in pre-heated 450°F oven. When pan is very hot, pour biscuit batter into pan. Bake about 10 minutes. Whip cream with fork; add 2 tablespoons Imperial Granulated Sugar and brush over top of biscuit loaf. Put under broiler to brown and glaze. Makes 9 squares. Best when hot and freshly baked. Re-heat or toast leftover squares. Serving suggestion: Delicious served warm with whipped cream and orange marmalade along with a cup of hot tea.

Alcohol studies registration

AUSTIN — Preregistration is now under way for the 20th Annual Institute of Alcohol Studies Aug. 23-26 at the Austin Hilton Inn. The Texas Commission on Alcoholism and University Continuing Education at the University of Texas at Austin are sponsoring the conference. More than 500 participants are expected for the three-day Institute.

Leroy Richart, resident supervisor of the Big Spring Detoxification Center will attend the conference leaving for Austin on Aug. 22.

"In Concert: Instruments, Tempos, and Movements in Alcoholism Today" is the theme for this year's meeting. Serving as keynote speaker will be William Madsen, professor of anthropology at the University of California at Santa Barbara. Featured speakers such as Rev. John DeFoor of the Pastoral Counseling Center in Abilene will provide presentations throughout the conference.

The Institute will feature workshops on such topics as women and alcoholism, alcoholism and culture, medical aspects of alcoholism, counseling training, and management issues. Once again, the Institute will provide basic orientation for those new to the field; advanced training for those with experience; and an opportunity for concerned individuals to share experiences, ideas, and information.

"The Institute will offer something for everybody," says Clinton Kersey, executive director of the Commission, "including teachers, program directors, counselors, volunteers, legislators, doctors, and people who are just 'interested.'"

Anyone interested in attending the 20th Annual Institute of Alcohol Studies can obtain registration materials from the Joe C. Thompson Conference Center, The University of Texas at Austin, P.O. Box 7879, Austin, Texas 78712. Cost for the Institute is $45 through August 9 and $50 at the door.

Hawk Queens sign two more stars

Two excellent basketball players have recently joined the ranks of the Howard College Hawk Queens... Sherrie Coalson and Paula St. Julian.

One of the top basketball players in West Texas in recent years has signed a letter of intent with Howard College for the coming season.

Sherrie Coalson, a 5-7 point getter from Bronte High School, will figure as a major factor in the Hawk Queens efforts this year.

Sherrie was an all-district selection three years in her high school career, in a span that saw her amass 3,563 points. Also over her four-year high school career she maintained a 48 per cent field goal shooting average, 75 per cent free throw shooting average, as well as averaging 24.6 points per game over the four-year period.

She was also selected to the All-Regional team her junior and senior years as Bronte advanced to the regional meet both years, reaching the semi-finals her senior year with a team record of 32-10. In regional play over a two-year period Miss Coalson averaged 37 points per game.

As a senior, Sherrie averaged 35 points per game, with 66 per cent field goal shooting accuracy and 77 per cent from the free throw line. She was second team all-state her senior year.

In addition to these accomplishments she was all-state spiker in volleyball, state semi-finalist in doubles tennis, cheerleader 3 years, basketball sweetheart and "Miss Bronte High School."

"Needless to say I am very pleased to acquire the services of Sherrie in our basketball program. The stats aforementioned take on added luster when one realizes that Sherrie is not a spot shooter or a one-position player, as she scores from all over the floor with a wide variety of shots.

She is truly a fine all-around player in every phase of the game. Sherrie was ably coached in high school by Zula Sweeten, whose coaching ability I respect." The latest recruit signing for the Hawk Queens basketball team is Paula St. Julian of Rayne High School, Rayne, Louisiana. Paula is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur St. Julian and she was coached by Miss Brenda Simon.

SHERRIE COALSON

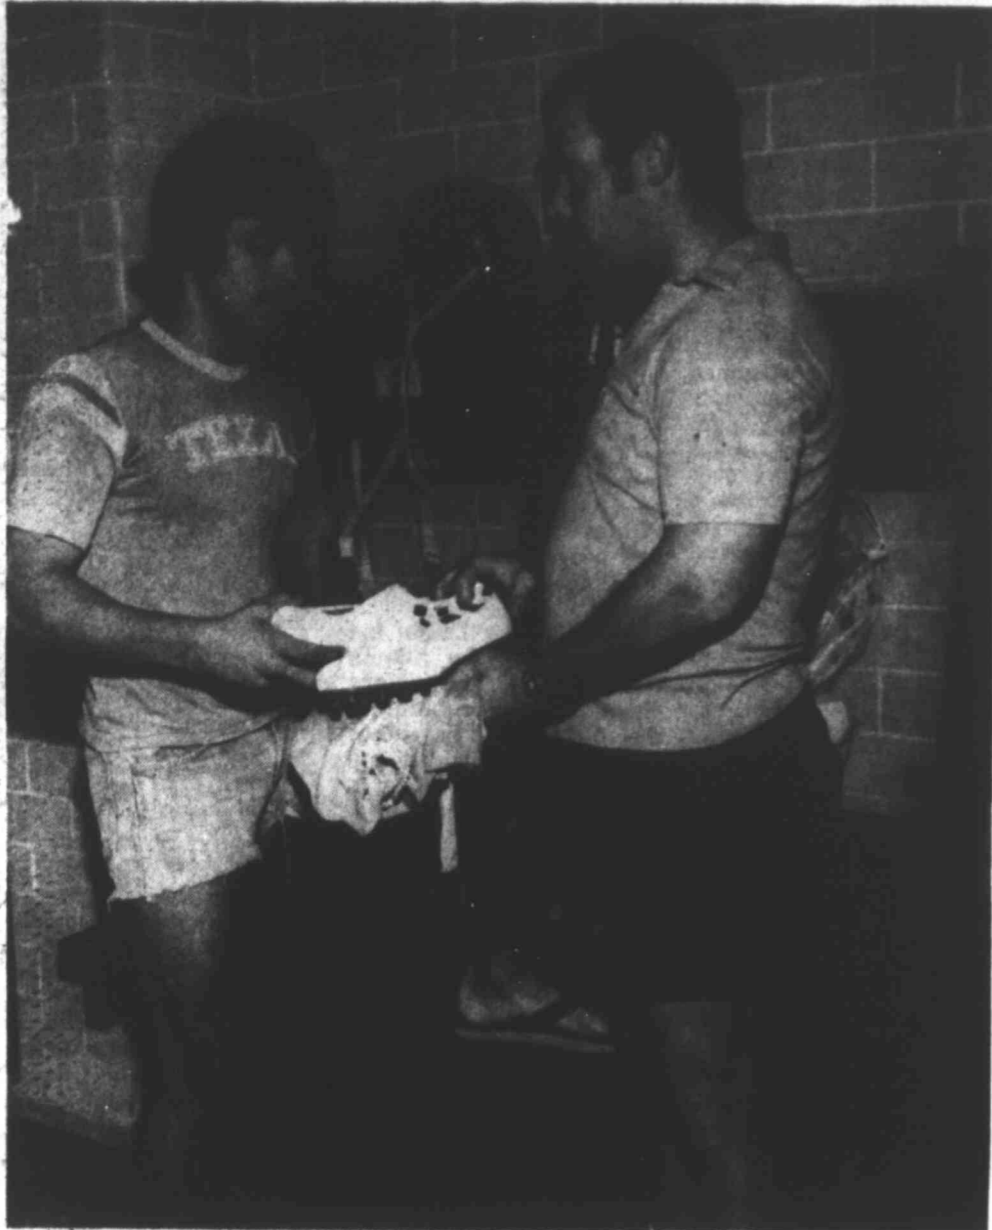

PAULA ST. JULIAN

to the West All-Star team for the state of Louisiana. The East-West All-Star game, played July 30 in Baton Rouge, resulted in Paula's Western team defeating the East All-Stars by 19 points.

"I watched Paula perform in a workout and scrimmage last week in Louisiana and I was impressed with her quickness and leaping ability. I feel that she will improve rapidly with work as she has just begun to develop. Paula will furnish the much needed size for the coming season as this was a prime concern of mine."

This brings the total to eleven that have signed scholarships for the coming season. Other members of the squad are: Sophomores Tami Edwards, 5'10", Farmington, New Mexico; Letha Strickland, 5'8", Foston, Texas; Linda Batla, 5'6", Garden City, Texas; and freshmen Beverly Strickland, 5'8", Forsan, Texas; Sharla Jameson, 5'7", Eola, Texas; Jan Phillips, 5'7", Abernathy, Texas; Sherrie Coalson, 5'7", Bronte, Texas; Debbie Jones, 5'6", Paint Rock, Texas; Sandra Smith, 5'9", McCamey, Texas; and Kelley Cartwright, 5'9", Cloudercroft, New Mexico.

HERE! FILL THESE SHOES — Mike Abreo, left, 157-pound senior quarterback for the Steers this season, is issued athletic shoes and socks Wednesday by offensive coordinator Ron Logback. The Steers will work on individual conditioning until Monday, Aug. 15, when the first day of organized drills commence.

Astros snap SF's string

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants ran out of comeback Wednesday night, but it wasn't Randy Elliott's fault.

Elliott pulled the Giants within 7-6 with a two-run pinch-homer in the eighth and made the last out on a long fly to left as the Houston Astros snapped San Francisco's four-game winning string with an 8-6 triumph.

Elliott's homer followed a walk to Marc Hill off reliever Joe Zambito. It was Elliott's third pinch-homer of the season and the ninth for the Giants, who raised their pinch-batting average to .327 with three hits and four trips.

After Houston nicked Randy Moffitt for a run in the ninth, singles by Jack Clark and pinch-batter Gary Alexander and a two-out walk to Mike Sadek loaded the bases for Elliott in the bottom of the inning.

"I just wanted to hit the ball hard," said Elliott of a towering fly caught near the left-field fence. "I hit it off the end of the bat and I knew it wasn't gone so I was hoping it would blow foul."

Reliever Ken Forsch, who registered his eighth save, saw it otherwise. "If I'd thrown him a straight changeup, it would have gone out," he said.

Houston jumped to a 5-0 lead off loser Lynn McGlothen, 2-9, thanks to an error by second baseman Rob Andrews that led to a pair of unearned runs. Cesar Cedeño added a double and a two-run homer.

But the Giants got to winner J.R. Richard, 11-9, with the help of an error by third baseman Enos Cabell in the fourth. Willie McCovey's two-run homer was the big blow, his 484th career homer and 20th of the season.

The Giants, who concluded the four-game series today, were betrayed by their bullpen. Moffitt allowed three runs in less than two innings to squander Elliott's heroics.

Royals make Rangers move

Arlington, Tex. (AP) — The defending American League West Division champion Kansas City Royals are making their move and to hear Manager Whitey Herzog tell it, there's not a tense soul on the club.

"Oh, everybody still goes out and gets drunk at night," Herzog joked Wednesday night after the Royals nipped Texas 4-3 and moved within 2½ games of first-place Chicago.

"It's too early to get all revved up," said Herzog. "Of course, if a team gets hot and wins 15 games in a row, the last two weeks of the season won't mean a thing."

"But it (the race), should go to the wire."

Herzog said, "At this time last year, we were 8½ games in front and then went into a slump on Aug. 26 when we quit hitting. That gives you an idea of how much time is left for teams to make their moves."

Herzog, saying he didn't want to make Chicago and Minnesota mad, put the finger on the Rangers as the toughest of the contenders.

"I think the Rangers are the team to beat," said Herzog. "They're a much better team than the last time I saw them. The catcher (Jim Sundberg) has just been going wild with the bat."

Kansas City won the first game of the brief two-game series with the clutch hitting of Frank White and a brilliant defensive play in the eighth inning by third baseman George Brett.

White caromed a two-run line drive single off shortstop Bert Campaneris' glove in the third inning to put Kansas City ahead 4-2.

With runners on third and first and one out in the bottom of the eighth, Bump Wills hit a shoe-top high liner down the third base line that Brett gloved, and then gunned down the Ranger runner at first for a double play.

Dennis Leonard, 12-9, lasted seven and one-third innings, but needed relief help from lefthander Larry Gura.

Gura earned his eighth save of the season, by pitching one and two-thirds innings of hitless ball.

Gaylord Perry, 10-9, was the victim despite striking out 13 Royals. Texas took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on a single by Dave May, an RBI double by Wills, and Sundberg's run-producing single.

Hal McRae hit a two-run homer to tie the game in the third inning.

"When the bottom half of your batting order gets hot, I can tell you right now you're going to win," said Herzog, "and that has started to happen to us."

State champs in Stanton tonight

(Special to the Herald)

STANTON — Area softball fans will have an opportunity to see the state champion slow pitch team in action on the Stanton diamond tonight when the Goodrich Service Center squad from Midland plays the Stanton Jaycees.

The Goodrich-Jaycees game has been set for 7:30 p.m. on Tommy Walker Field, followed by a contest between the Goodrich squad and the Walker Auto Turbos.

All proceeds from the games will go to help send the Goodrich squad to the national slow pitch softball tournament in Parma, Ohio September 1-5. Parma is a suburb of Cleveland.

Goodrich fans will operate the concession stand Thursday night and tickets on a new rifle will also be for sale.

The Goodrich nine composed a 94-27 season record this year, taking championship honors at several tournaments and winning the state title in Midland recently. Goodrich took third in Texas in 1974 and 1975.

This summer the squad was busy, winning tournaments in Fort Worth, Midland, Big Spring, Lubbock and finishing well up the ladder in San Angelo and Abilene tourneys.

Two Martin Countians play for the squad — Alan Wooten and Bud Glaspie. Wooten, a first baseman, joined two of teammates on the state all-tournament team. Don McClung of the Goodrich nine was named most valuable player at the state tournament.

The Walker Auto Turbos squad is also made up of Stanton and Martin County ballplayers and finished fourth in the Big Spring national league this season.

Bogey clubs show at PGA

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Tom Watson was using a different set of clubs today in his quest for a third major tournament title this year—the 59th PGA Championship.

Watson has won five 1977 tournaments, including the Masters and British Open, with a set of clubs declared illegal Wednesday because the grooves in the irons exceeded legal limits in width and spacing. He had voluntarily asked that they be inspected.

Watson and Ray Floyd and Gary Player, who also had several clubs disqualified, were among a handful of players in the field of 141 who had requested a ruling on their clubs by Clyde Mangum, deputy commissioner of the PGA tour, on the eve of the PGA Championship at the drought-stricken Pebble Beach Golf Links.

After the initial publicity, other players brought their bags to Mangum for an inspection and he found that at last five others were carrying clubs that did not meet the specifications. Those players included Tom Weiskopf and Kermit Zarley, with illegal pitching wedges, Hale Irwin with illegal eight and nine-irons and John Lister and Floyd Thomson, each with several illegal clubs.

Mangum said the interest of the players was generated as a result of George Burns being disqualified after the second round a week ago at Hartford, Conn., after he had requested an official inspection of new clubs he was using. They were found to exceed the legal limits.

Mangum said the rules permit grooves to be no wider than 35-1,000ths of a inch across the entire groove and to be no closer together than three times the width.

"It's the nature of the sport that the players police themselves," said Mangum, who also noted that Watson had a similar set of clubs ruled illegal a year ago in Houston after requesting an inspection.

Officials said Watson's previous victories would not be affected by the ruling.

Watson is using the same clubs with which he won the 1975 British Open, ones which have lighter shafts than the irons declared illegal.

His main regret is that the sand wedge in the set he has been using for the last 14 months also was considered to have grooves too deep.

"I can always get a set of irons," he said. "But the sand wedge I'm using is not mine to keep. I borrowed one from Leonard Thompson."

Watson said he didn't think the lighter shafts would affect his play.

"It will be a little different feel," he said. "I hope that I can adjust to it. I'm swinging well. When you're playing well, you can play with a broomstick."

Watson, who earlier this year won the Bing Crosby Pro-Am at Pebble Beach, is a co-favorite along with Jack Nicklaus, a five-time winner on this course over the years, in the tournament which is being played over the 6,806-yard, par-72 course.

The tournament will be nationally televised (ABC) from 5:30 p.m.-7 p.m. EDT Saturday and from 4:30 p.m.-7 p.m.

Connors wins again on clay

INDIANAPOLIS — Jimmy Connors, almost toying with Matt Mitchell, scored repeatedly with his patented back-to-the-net overhead slam and crushed the defending national collegiate champion 6-2, 6-0 in the second round of the $160,000 U.S. Clay Court tennis tournament.

Second-seeded Manuel Orantes, the 1975 champion, fought to a three-set victory over Steve Krulovitz and No. 3 Harold Solomon shrugged off a shaky start to coast past Andrew Pattison.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

ONE OF THE FAVORITES — Tom Watson, who along with Jack Nicklaus heads the field for the 59th PGA Championship, tosses his ball into the air during Wednesday's final practice round at Pebble Beach, Calif. Watson called his home in Kansas City Wednesday and arranged for an old set of clubs to be shipped to him for the PGA.

Little action at District confab

District 5-4A officials put off a decision here Wednesday on the revision of the current playoff system in basketball, baseball and volleyball.

The coaches, superintendents and principals of all the league schools could not arrive at a solution to playoff problems that sometime arise because of the two-half system. The system offers the various teams two chances at a district title, but it also presents numerous perplexities in the event of ties.

Previously, district guidelines have called for coin flips to settle the question, but that rule was temporarily amended this year.

The coin flip solution was unanimously unpopular, and various alternatives were presented: a three game playoff and a look at the overall district records were offered as a solution.

However, the governing body voted to give the question further consideration and rule on it at the October 20 meeting, also to be held in Big Spring.

Tornado coach replaced

DALLAS (AP) — Fred Hoster, instrumental in developing the Southern Methodist University soccer program, will replace flamboyant Dick Berg as general manager of the Dallas Tornado of the North American Soccer League, Tornado officials have announced.

Hoster, 38, was named to the post Wednesday. Berg, who lured fans to the Tornado games with zany promotions, has announced that he will be going to another, unidentified NASL team in August.

Hoster has been the executive vice president of the Mustang Club for five years and heads the organization's fund raising activities. Last year, his efforts helped produce a record $300,000 in contributions to the school's athletic program.

DALLAS COWBOYS

COWBOYS FACT SHEET

THIS WEEK — The Dallas Cowboys (1-0) visit the Seattle Seahawks (1-0) on Saturday night in the Kingdom in the second weekend of 1977 National Football League pre-season action.

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS — Dallas 34, San Diego 14; Seattle 34, San Francisco 24.

KICKOFF — 6 p.m. PDT (8 p.m. Dallas time) in the Kingdom. Crowd estimates: A near sellout in the 64,752-seat domed stadium in downtown Seattle.

TELEVISION — Televised live in Dallas on KXAS-TV, Channel 5, with Frank Gieber and Bill Mercer. RADIO — KRLD (1080) in Dallas, KPJZ (1270) in Fort Worth and the eight-state Cowboys Radio Network with Verne Lundquist and Brad Sham.

SERIES STANDING — Dallas won in Seattle last Oct. 3, 28-13, in the teams' first meeting. The fledgling Seahawks, who joined the NFL along with Tampa Bay in '76, led 13-0 in the second quarter before the Cowboys could get untracked. This is the first pre-season game between the clubs.

THE COACHES — Tom Landry is the sixth winningest coach in NFL history, with a 17-year record of 137-93-6 as the Cowboys' only head coach. His teams have enjoyed 11 straight winning seasons and have reached the playoffs 10 of those years while compiling a 112-40-2 record over the 11-year span. Landry's Dallas clubs have appeared in three Super Bowls, winning No. VI over Miami, 24-3, on Jan. 16, 1972, in New Orleans.

Seattle's Jack Patera, a linebacker for Landry and the Cowboys in 1960 and 1961, probably had the most competitive 2-12 team you could imagine in 1976. The Seahawks scared the daylight out of a lot of teams (including the Cowboys) and defeated Tampa Bay and Atlanta. It was an encouraging beginning for Patera, who will remember the Cowboys' first season — 0-11-1 in 1960. Before taking over at Seattle, Patera was defensive line coach at Minnesota from 1969 through 1975.

NEXT WEEK — The Cowboys host the Miami Dolphins in Texas Stadium on Saturday, Aug. 20, at 8 p.m. Training camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., continues until August 19.

CAROLINA OF COLORADO — Named Dave Clements head coach. The Carolina will join the NASL for the 1978 season.

COLLEGE

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY — Named Frederick La Plante, assistant track and field coach.

ALL-AMERICAN JUICE — Stanton High School's prolific tailback, Marvin Jones, (left) was notified recently that he has been named to the High School All American team. Here Jones gets some instruction from head coach David Thompson on accepting handoffs. Jones, nicknamed "Lemon Juice" by his teammates two years ago, lacked only a few yards achieving a 1,000-yard rushing performance last year and is expected to lead the Buffaloes' title charge in District 5-A this year.

'Big Cat' outhits 'Golden Bear'

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The "Golden Bear" may be the undisputed king of tournament golf, but the envy of every duffer who tees the ball up with his weekend foursome is a man called "Big Cat."

Jack Nicklaus wins championships, Evan "Big Cat" Williams simply knocks the ball out of sight. He is the recognized Babe Ruth of the fairway set, winner for the second straight year of the PGA long-driving contest.

"I just relax, delay my hand release, give it some strong leg action and wham! — let 'er rip," says the towering, 29-year-old slugger from Leonia, N.J. Even such famed hitters as Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Jim Dent look with awe — and a certain amount of concealed jealousy — when Big Cat throws his 6-foot-6, 205-pound frame into a tee shot and watches the ball fly no more than 300 yards.

Ordinary mortals recognize that stringing up 63 tour victories and 16 major titles, as Nicklaus has done, defies their imagination. But anyone can walk up to a tee, and with one free swing and some luck, knock the cover off the ball.

AP WIRE PHOTO: PENALIZED — Frank Taveras, shortstop for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was suspended for five games Wednesday and fined an undisclosed amount for throwing his bat last week during a game with the Cincinnati Reds.

It warms the soul. "I've been hitting the ball a long way since I was 18, but it wasn't until three years ago that I discovered that I might make a career out of long driving," Williams said. "There was this exhibition driving contest at Grossinger's up in the Catskills (in New York). I heard that Jim Dent was in it. He's recognized as the longest driver on the pro tour. And also Jack DePaolo of Valhalla, N.Y., who some swear is the longest hitter in the world.

"I beat them both. I drove the ball 368 yards on the carry. The fairway was wet. The ball spun back five yards, so I got credit for 363 yards.

"Since then I've entered contests and been in demand for exhibitions. Winning the driving championship in the last two PGA tournaments hasn't hurt my reputation any."

Big Cat's winning shot Tuesday soared 353 yards, 24 inches, counting the roll over the baked fairway — 46 yards farther than his first prize effort at Congressional in Washington, D.C., last year.

The triumph for Vilas, second-seeded here, was his 30th consecutive victory on clay and his 23rd straight overall. He comes to the tournament riding a four-tournament winning streak. The top seed, Brian Gottfried, defeated 19-year-old Charles Strode 6-0, 6-3 in a second-round match. Gottfried, from Lauderhill, Fla., needed only 56 minutes to gain the decision.

Cubs in tie
By the Associated Press
El Paso designated hitter Steve Strouther slammed two home runs and drove in five runs Wednesday night as the Diablos took a 10-8 Texas League victory over San Antonio to move into a tie for first place with Midland in the league's West Division.

In other Texas League action, Midland defeated Amarillo, 8-4, Tulsa edged Arkansas, 5-2, and Jackson slipped past Shreveport, 5-4.

The El Paso victory snapped a five-game losing streak. Strouther had a three-run homer in the first inning and a two-run home run in the seventh inning to increase his home run production to 19 for the year. Jim Anderson also had a two-run homer for the Diablos. Dave Steck, now 1-2, took the victory while Joe Beckwith, now 4-4 was the loser.

There was plenty of extra-curricular activity in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and San Diego Wednesday night, resulting in the following overtime for ballplayers and fans:

—In Philadelphia, the Phillies and Montreal Expos played for nearly 10 hours before completing a rain-drenched, twilight doubleheader that ended with 6-1, 6-1 sweep for the home team.

—In Pittsburgh, the Pirates struggled for nearly five hours before subduing the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 18 innings.

—And in San Diego, the Padres swept the Atlanta Braves, but not before playing an 11-inning game in the nightcap. The scores were 8-6 and 2-1 and the time was nearly six hours.

"It was the longest rain delay I ever sat through," said Larry Christenson of the Phillies, who pitched a two-hitter in the opener. "I didn't think we'd ever start again."

There were two rain delays in the opener — at the start, when the game was held up by an hour and three minutes, and in the third inning, when the contest was halted for two hours and 27 minutes.

Christenson didn't know it, but umpire John Kibler was three minutes away from calling the game. Kibler had told the Phillies' vice president, Bill Giles, "I'll give it five minutes more and if it doesn't stop, I'll call the game." Two minutes later, the rain stopped.

The doubleheader took nine hours and 48 minutes to play, winding up at 3:30 a.m., EDT.

In Pittsburgh, only one game was scheduled, but the teams eventually managed to play a doubleheader, anyway.

Ed Ott, who spent 4 1/2 hours watching from the bullpen, finally ended it with a pinch-hit sacrifice fly in the 18th inning.

"We had to finish it sometime, didn't we?" Ott said. "I was out there in the bullpen for 17 innings, and we had a lot of fun. A lot of fans were hollering, 'I've got to get up at 5 o'clock. Please finish it.'"

In other National League action, the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Cincinnati Reds 1-0; the St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the New York Mets 3-1 and the Houston Astros tripped the San Francisco Giants 8-6.

Lambert is packing bags
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers middle linebacker Jack Lambert says he is moving from Pittsburgh because he has been unable to reach a contract settlement with the National Football League team.

"Frankly, I'm very disappointed and thoroughly discouraged. I am in the process of packing my belongings and will be leaving Pittsburgh, Lambert said Wednesday.

In a telephone interview from Texas, Lambert's agent Bucky Woy said he has negotiated several times with the team owners since Lambert first asked to be traded about 10 days ago, "but nothing is any better."

He said the 25-year-old All-Pro is determined not to play his option year for his $33,000 salary.

Rainbow girls meet Tuesday

The Big Spring Assembly No. 60 Order of the Rainbow for Girls met Tuesday evening in the Masonic Temple for their regular monthly business meeting with Worthy Advisor Miss Kendra Born presiding.

Introduced at the meeting were Past Jr. Member of the Grand Music Committee Ms. Mary Jane Wright and Past Grand Representative from Tennessee to Texas, Ms. Sara Lu Armstrong. Past Worthy Advisors introduced were Ms. Emily Boyd, Ms.

Leilani Thomas and Ms. Pam Parmenter.

New members welcomed included Miss Robin Snodgrass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Snodgrass, 2704 Crestline, and Miss Gina Loftis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Loftis, 1707 Ayford. Miss Snodgrass and Miss Loftis were initiated July 26.

The Assembly will have a going away party Aug. 16 for the members who are leaving for college soon. The party will be from 4-6 p.m. at Skateland. All members and advisory board members are urged to attend.

Miss Jean Sauze, grand visitor, will make her official visit to Big Spring, Aug. 23. There will be an official practice Saturday, Aug. 20 at 2 p.m. All members are to attend the practice.

The Assembly will be getting ready to work in the football concessions for the varsity games. The first game is Sept. 2.

There will not be a study hall held this Saturday but there will be one the following Saturday.

Is your number up?

If your blood pressure is 120 over 80, what does it mean?

For persons between ages 18 and 45, it would probably mean a normal blood pressure.

It's important to know, however — because high blood pressure can be very dangerous, if not properly treated, Carla Shearer, a health education specialist, warns.

Years of untreated high blood pressure can damage the heart and blood vessels. It is the leading cause of heart disease, kidney disease and stroke — and it contributes to almost 300,000 deaths annually in this country, she added.

Ms. Shearer is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

"Unfortunately, less than half of the people who have high blood pressure know it — yet physicians recommend regular blood-pressure checkups for everyone, even children," Ms. Shearer said.

Blood pressure is the amount of force required to circulate blood through the body.

The top number (systolic) measures the force of the heart pushing blood into the vessels. The bottom number (diastolic) measures the pressure of blood against the vessel walls when the heart is relaxing between beats.

Normal pressures range from 90-60 to 140-90. Generally speaking, a blood pressure reading of 120-80 is normal for an adult between the ages of 18 and 45.

Blood pressure varies not only from person to person, but also in the same person at different times.

Throughout the day a person's blood pressure will vary and may even be higher than 140-90. It is only when it is high and stays high most of the time that a person is considered to have high blood pressure, she explained.

Bride-elect honored

Miss Brenda Hester, bride-elect of Bobby Bradshaw, was honored Saturday evening at a dinner for her attendants. It was held in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. W.C. Williams, 1110 E. 12th.

The tables were covered with beige linen cloths. White wrought iron hurricane lamps holding beige candles were used as the centerpiece. The bases of the lamps held tiny white flowers and wedding bells, tied with peach ribbons.

The ten girls attending were served from a buffet which featured a chocolate cake iced with tiny peach wedding bells.

Never regret it

If you make pancakes often, you'll never regret investing in an electric griddle. We like the rectangular griddles because you can usually bake half a dozen pancakes at the same time.

Had different drive principle

'Cartercar' was tough and gearless

By MARTY HAIR
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — In 1901, a bicycle salesman in Jackson, Mich., thought of a different drive principle for those new-fangled things called automobiles. He called it a Cartercar.

Only Byron Carter didn't use gears. Instead, he set up a system of two perpendicular wheels. The result was a car with an infinite number of gear sand a thousand speeds.

The car cost about $1,600 and averaged 10.5 miles per gallon of gasoline — a gas-guzzler by today's standards. The lightweight two-cylinder machine may not have been President Carter's answer to energy conservation or auto emission, but had its day.

In 1908, to celebrate the nomination of John Kern as running mate to presidential candidate William Jennings Bryan, about 10 husky young Hoosiers jammed into a Cartercar and toiled six miles to the Indiana Fairgrounds.

Midgets Mrs. General Tom Thumb and Count Magri demonstrated the Cartercar, which could climb a 50 per cent grade fully loaded.

Cartercars, built from 1905 to 1915, were sold to Detroit department store J.L. Hudson's and the cereal maker, Kellogg Co. in Battle Creek, Mich. In March 1906, the Hudson's car traveled 1,172 miles and averaged 12 mph.

A special Cartercar was built for the paymaster of Detroit after several foot patrols had been robbed and the city's paychecks stolen. The Cartercar was a "bank on wheels" — it had a special locked compartment in the rear to thwart thugs.

Byron Carter's first model, road-ready in 1903, was a runabout on a 79-inch wheelbase that weighed only 650 pounds. A patent was granted in 1904. Its two-cylinder, air-cooled engine was up front under the hood. The car, called a Carter, was said to be cheap and reliable.

In 1905, Carter and several backers took $150,000 and formed the Motorcar Co. in Detroit. Carter was second vice president and the new cars were called Cartercars.

MR. AND MRS. J. L. MILLICAN

Couple honored at fete Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. J.L. (Jim) Millican will be honored Sunday Aug. 14 from 2-5 p.m. at the Texas Electric Service Company's Reddy Room in celebration of the couple's 50th wedding anniversary.

Hostesses will be the couple's nieces. Millican and his wife, the former Ethel Hardwick, were married Aug. 12, 1927 in Comanche, Tex. They were married by Justice of the Peace J.P. Graham.

Millican was born in Brown County, Texas in 1904. Mrs. Millican was born in Hopkins County, Texas in 1901.

They farmed in the Gap community until 1944 when they came to Big Spring, where Millican worked for the Texas Pacific Railroad.

Since Millican's retirement in 1972, the couple keeps busy with a garden and raising bees at their lake cabin at Colorado

City Lake.

Mrs. Millican also raises an assortment of flowers. The couple has no children, but helped rear a niece, Mrs. Eldon Burks, who nicknamed the Millicans "Oppie" and "Dooler". They are known to all their nieces and nephews by those names.

They are members of the Carl Street Church of Christ and are very active in church work.

Out-of-town guests at the party will include Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Burks, Jerry Burks, Pam Burks and Sharon McCasland, all from Wichita Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Baron Bloomer, Crane, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Redge Stewart, Louisville, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. James Burks, Longview, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hufstelder and Mrs. Lavelle Hardwick, all from Amberst, Tex. and Ed Hardwick, Houston.

year. According to several reports, the three models had the same machinery but interchangeable tops — a delivery vehicle, a racy roadster and a sedate five passenger coupe. This was one way to keep up with the Joneses, who would think you had three cars when it was really just one body underneath. The idea was soon dropped.

Cartercars for 1909 had an enclosed chain casing, eliminating the worry that a loose stone would wrench the chain off the sprockets. That year, two new four-cylinder Cartercars hit the market.

Japan promotes use of deep sea fish

By KATHRYN TOLBERT
TOKYO (AP) — For a fish-eating people, the Japanese still approach some deep sea fish as ugly or unknown, but in the age of 200-mile zones, they are taking another look at these aquatic animals and ways to cook them.

Shrimp-like crustaceans, for example, can be mixed with chopped onions, celery, mushrooms, white wine, bread crumbs and butter and spread on crackers.

Deep-sea fish with sweet vinegar sauce is made with silverfish, whiptail or hake — fish caught south of the equator and fairly unknown in Japan — with rice wine, ginger, egg yolk, soy sauce, vinegar, green peppers and pineapple.

These are just a couple of the hundreds of recipes being developed. A number were distributed to thousands of people during a food week fair in Tokyo, where samples of the foods were offered.

"It's the first time I've eaten it and it's quite good," said 76-year-old Mitsugoro Kokaji of Tokyo, trying the crustaceans, "oki-ami" in Japanese.

"It doesn't taste too much like fish," said Mrs. Masami Yabe, 44, also of Tokyo.

The food week fair is a bi-annual event sponsored by the Agriculture and Forestry Ministry, the Economy Planning Agency and the Tokyo metropolitan government. What made this one different was its big new exhibit under the theme, "Eating Habits in the Age of 200-Mile Economic Zones."

With the United States, the Soviet Union and Canada already having declared 200-mile zones, Japanese fishermen will be netting less tuna, bonito, salmon, herring and other popular fish, which supply the Japanese with 51 per cent of their animal protein.

The effects of higher prices for fewer fish will not be felt for some time, officials say, but the fishery agency nonetheless has embarked on a program to raise enthusiasm for and knowledge about unpopular and unknown fish.

It has built a 3,300-ton deepsea fishing vessel, targeted $700,000 each year for eight years to promote mackerel, sardines and other fish available to Japan, and stepped up research on the shrimp-like crustaceans, an important food for fishes and whales and a future protein source for humans.

"Deep sea fish have such big eyes and thick skins that they aren't attractive to people at first," said Mrs. Atsuko Takahashi, a professor at Tokyo Women's Nutrition College.

"But you don't know how they will taste until you try, so that's what we're doing — getting people to taste them."

She said the reaction was generally favorable, and the free recipe cards were picked up readily.

Another object of the campaign is to make better and different uses of the kinds of fish that have been in the Japanese markets all along, but not favored by Japanese palates.

Some of these possibilities are mackerel curried rice, marinated mackerel, curried mackerel gratin, curried mackerel gratin, mackerel soup, deep-fried sardines and sardine croquettes.

Tamotsu Hasegawa, 58, owner of a "sushi" or raw fish restaurant, said the new fish cooking tasted more like dessert to him, since he is used to the simple taste of raw fish dipped in a little soy sauce.

GI Forum leaders rip Carter's aliens proposal

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — What to do with Mexicans living in the United States illegally is a central issue at the national GI Forum convention.

And leaders of the group aren't happy with President Carter's plan.

They say the proposal would turn all Hispano-Americans into the only card-carrying Americans, forced to prove their citizenship on a daily basis.

"The part of Carter's plan that is not acceptable is some type of identification to identify the Spanish-speaking," said Pedro Jimenez, chairman of the New Mexico GI Forum. "Carter suggests that the employer be fined for hiring illegal aliens, so what develops there is the individual must have some sort of identification.

"It would set our group apart," Jimenez said Wednesday.

The GI Forum originally was a group of Hispano-American veterans of United States military services who organized to fight discrimination.

Jimenez said the only solution to the illegal alien problem lies in cooperation between the governments of the United States and Mexico.

"In order to get the problem solved, we must have some sort of agreement with Mexico," Jimenez said. "It doesn't matter what type of legislation is passed by the federal government in the United States if it doesn't reach some type of agreement with the Mexican government."

He said beefing up the border patrol wouldn't solve the problem if the beefing up was done only on the United States side.

"I believe it should be an open border," he said, "but if a border guard is used as a solution to the problem, both countries will have to participate."

Economic aid and trade agreements between Mexico and the United States would be the best first step toward solving the illegal alien problem, Jimenez said.

"Perhaps the solution would be providing economic assistance to Mexico—a sort of Marshall Plan to the country," he said.

"Economic assistance to Mexico would allow the country to make its own jobs and develop its own resources."

Mexico's representative to the convention echoed Jimenez' sentiments in a press conference earlier Wednesday.

"We are a country of 65 million, and we don't have enough jobs," Raul Roel

Martinez said through an interpreter.

"We are not ashamed to accept that we are poor," Martinez continued. "But the solution doesn't only belong to Mexico."

Martinez said his country recognizes that illegal aliens are a problem in the United States, but said Americans must remember that during World War I and World War II, while Americans were fighting, Mexicans were taking care of the fields and industries in the United States.

He said any solutions to the illegal alien problem will come from meetings to be held between representatives of the two countries. Martinez did not specify a date for discussions, but said "solutions will come soon."

Judge attempts to shield pal

ORANGE, Tex. (AP) — A local judge who tried to keep an indicted friend's name from reporters says the matter is being "blown way out of proportion."

County Court-at-Law Judge Grover Halliburton said Wednesday he asked members of the Orange County Attorney's staff and a local reporter to either delete the friend's name from the indictment list or misspell it in print.

The pleas failed and now the judge admits, "I'm stuck with it."

But Judge Halliburton, who claims to be in the running for the newly created 200th State District Court post here, said he doesn't think the publicity will hurt his chances.

"All it was, was just us two passing in the hall and I asked him (County Attorney Jim Beardon) and he said 'Oh my God' and kept walking," said Halliburton. "I asked the other prosecutor and he told me it was too late, that the list was already in the media's hands. So, at that point, I just forgot it."

Prosecutor Mike Shuff said he never took the judge's request seriously. "I thought he was joking," he said. "There's no way I would have done it."

Girl loses battle with rare, deadly disease

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP)—A 17-year-old girl is to be buried today after fighting a losing battle with a rare and deadly disease caught while swimming in a lake.

Dahlia Reyna slipped into unconsciousness last week when her brain fell prey to a disease doctors diagnosed as amoebic meningoencephalitis. She was taken off the respirator that had kept her heart pumping for eight days while members of her migrant farm worker family agonized over the decision to take the teenager off the life-sustaining machine.

Late Tuesday night, as relatives and friends prayed for the miracle that never occurred, Dahlia's family ordered the respirator unplugged according to one of her brothers, Joel.

Hospital officials said the attractive brunette was pronounced officially dead at 10:24 p.m.

"This is not a life-and-death decision," Father Luis Brum, the Catholic priest who had counseled the family, had stressed during the past week.

"As long as there is a chance of life, there is hope. But the doctors have said there is no hope for Dahlia. She has no brain waves. The respirator is keeping her heart pumping.

"The family will decide whether to keep her on the respirator or take her off and let God and nature take its course."

Doctors say the disease that claimed her is as rare as it is deadly.

"This young lady was at the wrong place at the wrong time," said Dr. Ben Garza, Hidalgo County health officer, at a news conference Tuesday afternoon.

He declared the lake where Dahlia reportedly contracted the disease as dangerous to swimmers.

"Delta Lake is off limits to swimmers until further notice," said Garza. "We can't patrol the lake and keep people out but we have posted signs that let them know they are entering the water at their own risk."

Ironically, the county said it has spent a lot of money on beautification projects around Delta Lake, one of the few public lakes with free swimming in this area, listed by the last U.S. Census report as the poorest in the country.

Dahlia swam in the lake two weeks ago during a family outing. Doctors theorized the microscopic amoeba in the water probably entered the girl's body through her nose but cannot explain why other family members were not affected.

"These amoebas exist everywhere, so to speak," said Garza. "But circumstances have to be very exact before anyone can contract the disease."

A spokesman for the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., said only 80 cases have been reported worldwide since 1966 and there are only three known survivors.

"She's never been sick a day in her life," said Mrs. Sara Reyna, the girl's mother, after a family meeting Monday. "I keep wondering why... Why my Dahlia?"

Welfare cutbacks

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Dolph Briscoe's "no new taxes" policy, combined with legislative decisions to put funds elsewhere, will cut state protection for thousands of youngsters.

The legislature trimmed the Texas Department of Public Welfare's budget by 14 per cent for such "administrative" expenses as salaries, effective Sept. 1.

One area that will suffer is protective services for abused and neglected children, says welfare commissioner Raymond Vowell.

The welfare department said the budget cut means a reduction of 155 jobs for this program.

"Every effort will be made to respond to all reports of child abuse or neglect. However, because caseload continues to grow, with the reduction in staff we will not be able to handle all complaints on a timely basis," Vowell said.

Also cut back will be the staff to license child care and child placing institutions. It will be reduced from 585 persons to 454, Vowell said.

Speaker Bill Clayton has criticized department regulations for day care centers, and the House narrowly approved a bill exempting church-related institutions from regulation. The bill died in the Senate.

Poor people who happen to get sick also might be worse off.

Vowell said the vendor drug program, which enables Medicaid recipients to fill prescriptions, with the state getting the bill, is "marginally funded."

"If utilization increases and a deficit is projected, the number of prescriptions per recipient per month may have to be reduced," Vowell said.

The legislature said each recipient is entitled to at least three prescriptions per month, but Vowell has asked for an attorney general's opinion on whether less than three can be provided if funds get tight.

DAN SAUNDERS

Sheriff honored

STANTON — Sheriff Dan Saunders was honored at the 99th Annual Sheriff's Conference held in Amarillo on July 25-27.

He received the Tom T. Tellepsen Law Enforcement Award for making the Greatest Contribution of any sheriff in the State of Texas this past year in Law Enforcement.

In addition to the plaque and the letter of commendation, a check of $500 went with the award.

Saunders is a past president of the Sheriff's Association of Texas and also a past president of the West Texas Eastern New Mexico Peace Officers Association.

Rep. Johnson joins HEW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health Education and Welfare announced this morning the appointment of Texas State Rep. Eddie Bernice Johnson as a regional director.

Ms. Johnson told The Associated Press in Dallas this morning she would accept the appointment.

The HEW region she will head includes Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

"It is a challenge, but I feel I will be able to do an effective job. Had the Carter administration been convinced I could not do an effective job, I wouldn't have been appointed," she said from her Dallas home. "I did not pursue it myself, but I have accepted it."

Ms. Johnson said she would not be resigning her legislative seat immediately.

"It will probably be in a month or two," she said. "I need time to transfer my responsibilities."

She said she would remain headquartered in Dallas in the new HEW post. "It's my understanding that I'll have to make frequent visits to Washington and the other states involved."

Ms. Johnson is serving her third term in the Texas House, where she headed the education and labor committee during the last regular session.

Rep. Johnson was director of psychiatric nursing in a Veterans Administration Hospital before her election to the legislature in 1972. She has served in Austin as chairman of the Labor Committee and a member of the Social Services Committee.

"Her experience in the legislature, plus a number of years of nursing service are tailored exactly to what I am seeking," said HEW Secretary Joseph Califano in announcing the appointment.

Her expected appointment had been reported earlier this week.

She beat out Dr. Barbara Reagan of Austin for the appointment, informed sources said. Rep. Johnson had the backing of a number of state legislators and of several congressmen, particularly Rep. Jim Mattox of Dallas. Dr. Reagan, in addition to some congressional support, was strongly backed by several Mexican-American groups.

A department spokesman said the appointment is subject to approval by the U.S. Civil Service Commission. Her salary is expected to be $47,500 annually. She replaces Stuart Clarke, who has held the job since 1974.

War games draw fire from Russians

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — U.S. soldiers bearing Soviet uniforms and wearing Soviet-style uniforms are playing war games around this huge Central Texas Army post, the Dallas Morning News reported in a copyright story Thursday.

The paper quoted the Army's Senate liaison as confirming that the training program has come under fire from Russian publications.

Known as OPFOR (Opposing Forces), the training program uses Soviet military tactics and weaponry supplied by Israel from booty taken in the 1973 Israeli-Arab war, the newspaper said.

Specific references to the OPFOR units as Russian have been modified recently to "Eastern Bloc" when describing tactics.

"There's no question about what we're doing," an officer was quoted as saying. "But we'd rather leave it unsaid and let your readers put one and one together."

Tactics have been referred to recently as those of "foreign threat people" or "the people we are portraying."

But the 95 words used in the training are referred to as "Russian," or "Tex-Russian."

"It used to be you had the good guys and the bad guys and the only thing separating the good guys from the bad guys was a patch on their jacket and a wooden ridge running down the helmet," said Sgt. Mike Atkinson.

"Both used American tactics and every move was predictable."

The OPFOR units numbers 118 officers and men, trained to act as Eastern-bloc troops. They utilize flag signals, which are frequently used during battle by Soviet troops. Their uniforms are patterned after those worn by Soviets.

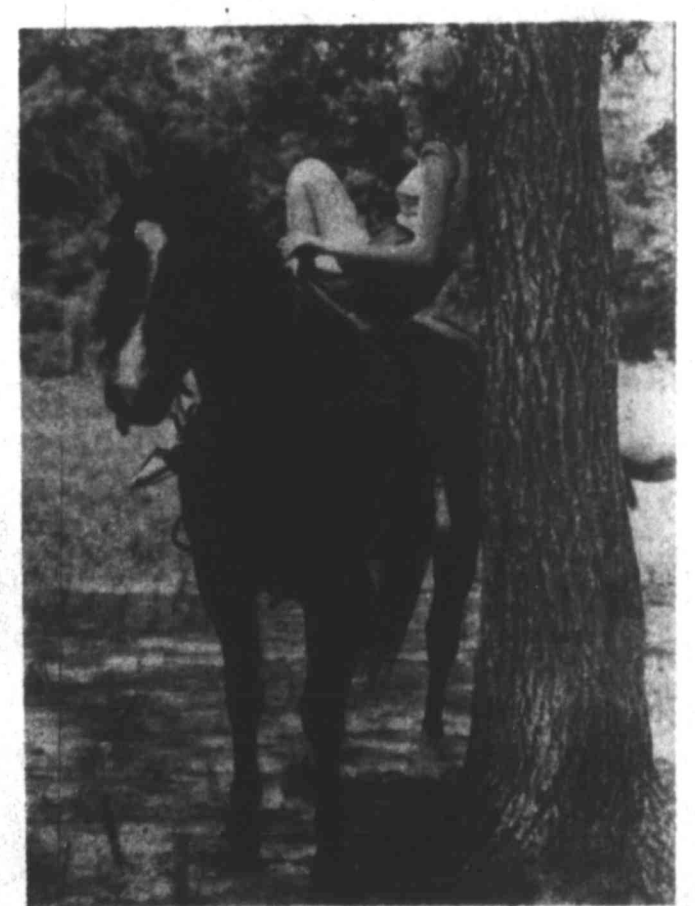

"We're trying to look like enemy forces," said Sgt. Roger Griffith. "That way the training is more realistic." The company-sized OPFOR generally is pitted against a platoon of 40 men.

"We operate under the very real assumption that any attacking force will outnumber our men three to one," said Lt. Henry Hughes.

Several members of the OPFOR units discussed a project called "Red Thrust," aimed at setting up similar training projects at other posts.

The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center has announced its fourth annual school screening program will be held next Thursday from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m., at the center.

referred to a medical doctor between 12 noon and 1:30 p.m. Appointments may be made or children will be evaluated on first-come basis.

Past experience indicates that over 50 per cent of 'normal' children have weaknesses in one or more areas.

A charge of $5 per child will be assessed. Families with three or more children will qualify for special rates.

The Jaycees will assist in coordination of activities as in previous screenings.

Appointments may be made by contacting the secretary at the Rehab Center, 267-6387.

Brief screening is scheduled in the areas of posture, coordination, visual perception, speech, hearing, vision and behavior. A dental check will also be conducted.

Those parents wishing to have their children screened in the dental area should make appointments between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 12 noon. Visual acuity will be checked.

Suspect cases will be

Lack of action might ax VA benefits

Jack Coker, director of the VA Regional Office in Waco, has warned that a large number of women whose husbands died or suffer total, permanent disability resulting from their military service will lose their eligibility for certain valuable Veterans Administration benefits if they don't act within 18 months.

The VA education benefits provide up to 45 months of schooling to eligible wives and widows and to children between the ages of 18 and 26, Coker said.

But the eligibility of a spouse ends on Nov. 30, 1978, or ten years from the date the veteran was found to have a total and permanent service-connected disability — or ten years from the date of his or her death, whichever is later.

Dependents of MIA's and service personnel who were captured, interned or forcibly detained in line of duty for more than 90 days may also qualify for these benefits, Coker said.

Spouses of service personnel declared missing in action, captured or detained in line of duty, are eligible for education benefits until Dec. 24, 1980, or for 10 years from the date the listing was made, whichever is later, Coker said.

For a spouse intending to take apprenticeship, on-the-job or correspondence training, eligibility is based on the 10-year period or Oct. 24, 1982, whichever is later.

A child's marriage is not a barrier to the education benefits, Coker said, but the remarriage of a spouse ends his or her eligibility unless that marriage is later terminated by death or divorce.

Unless the child of a veteran has been accepted by an approved institution for courses leading to a standard college degree, he or she is required to have VA counseling to assist in the selection of an educational goal and program. Such counseling is available to any eligible child on request.

In addition to the types of training listed above, spouses may enroll in secondary and correspondence schools, pursued six months or more, or in schools offering farm cooperative programs. The VA will provide educational-vocational counseling to spouses upon their request. Any program of education outside the United States may be pursued only at an approved institution of higher learning. Monthly allowance rates paid under this program are $292 for full-time students, $219 for three-quarter time students, and $145 for halftime students. Tuition costs only — limited to $292 — will be paid to less than half-time students. Enrollees in full-time cooperative courses which alternate classroom study with on-the-job experience will receive $235 a month.

Eligible students may borrow up to $1,500 per academic year to pursue a college degree course or one leading to a professional or vocational objective which requires at least six months to complete.

Loans are available only to students unable to obtain student loans of the amount required under provisions of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended.

Full information on the VA dependents' education program can be obtained at the nearest VA office.

Gerber stockholder suing for damages

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Gerber Products Co. stockholder is suing in U.S. District Court for damages stemming from a lowering of the bid price for Gerber shares by a Houston food conglomerate that wants to take over the company.

The suit, filed Tuesday for New Jersey shareholder Larry Berman by the New York law firm of Bagin & Silverman, sought $8 in damages for each share of common stock in the nation's biggest baby food maker.

The suit was filed as a class action on behalf of all stockholders except company officers named as defendants, who hold about one million shares. At $8 a share, damages of other stockholders would exceed $56 million.

The suit stems from Gerber officials' opposition to a takeover attempt by Anderson, Clayton & Co. of Houston.

Anderson, Clayton offered to buy Gerber's 8.1 million shares at $40 per share. Just prior to the mid-April tender offer by the Texas firm, Gerber shares sold for $32 per share.

A drop in Gerber first-quarter earnings resulted in a reduction of the bid by Anderson, Clayton to $37 per share.

Michael Yaudovin, an attorney for Bagin & Silverman, emphasized that the suit was based on the difference of the market price and the offer when it was first tendered.

According to federal court rules, a plaintiff get the court's permission to turn the suit into a class action. Berman, who owns 60 shares, intends to ask for it, Yaudovin said.

Gerber, based in nearby Fremont, Mich., attempted to block the Anderson, Clayton offer by filing suit in federal court charging violations of the anti-trust laws.

That suit and a companion state suit has put the takeover bid in limbo.

Anderson Clayton is barred by Michigan law from buying any more Gerber stock, until 60 days after the registration of its offer by the state Corporation and Securities Bureau, a registration not yet effective.

The Texas firm was required by the Michigan Court of Appeals to amend its registration statement to acknowledge payment of "inducements" to foreign officials. The firm is under a restraining order until Newaygo Circuit Judge Harold Van Domelen and Hugh Makens, director of the securities bureau, are satisfied the registration statement has been amended fully.

Rustling raps hit doctor, pharmacist

VERNON, Tex. (AP) — Two men were free today after being charged Tuesday in connection with the thefts of cattle and equipment reportedly stolen in eastern New Mexico and western Texas.

Dr. Paul Parkey, 36, of Vernon, and Darrell Theford, 35, a Vernon pharmacist, were each charged with five counts of theft over $200 and one count of theft over $10,000.

Justice of the Peace Joe Krebs set bonds totaling $150,000 for each man. However, State District Court Judge Leslie Thomas lowered the bonds to $35,000 each Tuesday night during a writ of habeas corpus proceeding, Krebs said.

Parkey and Theford were released Tuesday night after posting bonds.

Wilbarger County Sheriff Loran Smith said the series of cattle and truck thefts were expected to involve other state and federal law enforcement agencies.

Don C. King, secretary and general manager of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, said the thefts date back to December 1976 when 64 head of cattle and a truck were stolen at Booker, Tex.

$3,162,945 budget voted

SNYDER — Trustees of the Scurry County Junior College District have approved a $3,162,945 budget for 1977-78 and set the college district's tax rate at 41 cents per $100 valuation.

The overall budget is virtually the same as that for 1976-77. The tax rate, however, rises by 6.4 cents per $100 valuation. The increase was blamed on a decline in county oil values on the county tax roll.

Teacher salaries at Western Texas College have been increased approximately 5 per cent across the board.

Belt buckles to be awarded

The Howard County Youth Horsemen Club is sponsoring an open belt buckle playday Saturday, Aug. 13 at its arena on the Garden City Highway.

Registration for events begins at 5 p.m. and play starts at 6 p.m. Entry fee is 50 cents per event.

The events include western pleasure, barrels, poles, flags, ring and potato race.

Belt buckles will be awarded to the high point rider in each age group including nine and under; 10-12; 13-15; 16-19 and adult. All HCYH members will also receive points at this playday toward annual awards.
