

Panama Canal pact signed

Treaty support still in doubt

PACT SIGNED — Officials execute the Panama Canal treaty Wednesday night at the Pan American Union in Washington. From left are: President Carter; Organization of American States Secretary General Alejandro Orfila; and Panama's head of government Omar Torrijos.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has Latin American backing for the new Panama Canal treaty, but the support of the American people and Congress is still in doubt.

After the colorful treaty-signing ceremony, attended by 27 visiting leaders, the spotlight is focusing on opponents of the pact.

Two long-time foes of relinquishing control of the waterway planned to argue their case today before the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on separation of powers: former California Gov. Ronald Reagan and Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa.

With public opinion polls showing only minority support for the treaty, Carter faces an uphill fight in his bid to convince two-thirds of the Senate that the accord is in the national interest.

American officials say the President is expected to use three main arguments in his campaign for the treaty.

He is expected to stress the international support the treaty enjoys, a point amply demonstrated Wednesday night.

The 27 foreign leaders were at the Organization of American States headquarters to watch Carter and Panamanian head of government Omar Torrijos mark the formal end of 13 years of negotiation with the signing.

The officials said Carter will also seek support by campaigning against the present treaty, which dates from the turn of the century.

He told the OAS gathering, "That treaty, drafted in a world so different from ours, has become an obstacle to better relations with Latin America."

At a White House dinner for the visiting hemispheric dignitaries after the OAS ceremony, Carter noted that no Panamanian had read the 1903 treaty before it was signed.

The third point Carter will use in the coming weeks focuses on the provision in the treaty guaranteeing the United States the right to ensure canal neutrality even after Panama assumes control of the waterway at the end of this century.

Carter said the treaty marks "the commitment of the United States to the belief that fairness, not force, should lie at the heart of dealings with the nations of the world."

Torrijos said that while the old treaty was a "technical conquest," it also was a "colonial conquest."

"To be strong carries with it an obligation to be just," he said.

At the end of the 30-minute ceremony, Carter and Torrijos embraced warmly.

There were some dissenting voices to the signing. In Panama, demonstrators advocating an immediate takeover of the canal hurled stones and shouted slogans at the Foreign Ministry.

In Washington, some 2,000 demonstrators marched near the White House. Their target, however, was not the treaty but the presence of 11 military leaders from Latin America.

"They carried placards saying, 'Carter's Human Rights Policy — Dinner with Fascists.'"

Locals oppose canal treaty

By JAMES WERRELL and BILL WERRELL

President Carter and Panamanian head of government Omar Torrijos signed a treaty Wednesday night which signified the end of 13 years of negotiations between Panama and the United States over the Panama Canal.

The majority of those questioned about the new canal treaty in a random on the street survey answered with a "no comment" or "I don't have enough information to answer that question."

However there were a few who had more definite opinions on what the effect of the new treaty will be.

Earl Douglas, of Stanton, was of the opinion that the U.S. should not give up the canal.

"Once you buy something, and pay for it, it's yours. The United States purchased the canal for our benefit, and as long as it's ours, everyone can use it. But if the canal gets into another nation's hands, I don't know what the result will be," said Douglas.

L.L. Hager, also of Stanton, said that transferring the Canal into Panamanian hands is not going to solve a thing.

"If we give it away it's not going to solve any of Panama's governmental stability problems, and it will just lead to more trouble for all the shipping that goes through there," he said.

FIERRO BLANKENSHIP HAGER DOUGLAS MORELAND ABREO

Jim Abreo, 302 E. 5th, said the whole situation was a tough one, and that he wasn't in favor of the new policies. "We have a lot of shipping and transports going through there that need to be protected. The Russians might try to stick their necks in there, and we might end up with another war," he said.

"I don't agree with the ideas behind the new treaty," said Jim Fierro, 107 N.W. 8th. "We put too much work into the canal to just give it away. We made the treaty with Torrijos. But with these South American governments being so unstable, the next leader in Panama may not recognize the treaty."

Mrs. Becker of Odessa, who was shopping in Big Spring, also disapproved of the treaty.

"I am definitely against it. We improved the area (in Panama) and without the development of the land around the canal, that area would have been completely unattended," she said.

Two local women had mixed feelings about the treaty.

"I am not sure, but I feel that it will work out in the end," said Maggie Blankenship, 4217 Muir. "If it is something that will help the country, I am all for it. I am from Madrid, Spain, but I wouldn't trade the United States for anything. I voted for (President) Carter, and I think that he knows what he is doing, and if he feels that the treaty is good, then we should accept it."

"I have sort of mixed feelings about the treaty. If it turns out the way it is supposed to, then it is probably a good idea," said Irene Moreland, Box 1735. "We have to ask ourselves whether this is a good idea, and what it will mean for America. Situations like this don't always turn out the way they were planned," she added.

Borden's Anderson won't run

Rich Anderson, Borden County rancher, announced this morning he had decided against entering the race for the U.S. congressional seat in the 17th District, which will be vacated at the end of 1978 by Omar Burlison.

Anderson, a registered Republican, did not close the door on reentering politics at some future date but said the press of personal business denied him the privilege of getting involved in the campaign, even though he felt great concern over the direction in which the nation is headed.

"I had some contact with prominent Democrats who asked me to switch parties, and I lent that somerserious thought," Anderson told The Herald. "I think conservatism is strong in the 17th District, both among Republicans and Democrats. The brand of politics you find out here is entirely different than one finds in the Southeastern part of the country."

The Anderson family maintains ranching interests in Lee, Quay and Guadalupe counties in New Mexico, as well as in Borden county. Rich, of course, spends a considerable amount of time commuting between New Mexico and the family home in Borden County.

His decision not to offer for the seat leaves one Republican in the campaign. That would be Bill Fish, a 33-year-old Abilene tax attorney.

Democrats who have already declared they will be candidates for the congressional seat are A.L. (Dusty) Rhodes, Abilene, and Jim Snowden, Tye.

Jim Baum, Big Spring; Charles Stenholm, Stamford; and Jim Sharp, now a doorkeeper in the U.S. House of Representatives, are others who have indicated they will throw their hats into the political ring.

No gas allotments seen for Big Spring

While some other West Texas towns eye their federal allotment of gas for the winter, Big Spring will have an unlimited supply.

So says Pioneer Natural Gas authorities Dearl Pittman and Bob Mills. Despite federal regulations on interstate gas companies which will "allot" the amount of gas the towns can use for the winter and assess a penalty for any overage, Pioneer, because of its intrastate nature, can go on with business as usual.

"I don't think we will be faced with anything like that soon," affirmed Pittman, local manager. "Although I'd hate to say that for a certainty and then get turned around by some federal regulations."

Mills, Pioneer's public relations chief, from Abilene, was a little more specific. "In the new federal energy package," he explained, "the Federal Power Commission is given the right to regulate wellhead price on intrastate gas as well as interstate."

"We in the industry believe that the current energy policy sets deterrents on exploration for new gas through federal price regulation. Further, the expansion of this price regulation to intrastate companies can be viewed as Uncle Sam's first foot in the door towards control of intrastate companies."

Mills reconfirmed that Pioneer's gas reserves had actually grown over the past few years and that actual supplies were plentiful.

"But," he restated, "while we have no problems with supplies or regulations this year, that situation could be very different in the future. We're hoping it won't be, of course."

Federal regulation has already placed an allotment of the 1972 level on Kermit, Denver City, and other West Texas towns.

TWO-TRUCK COLLISION — These two tankers collided early this morning on state Highway 33 in Glasscock County. Ronald Davidson, 22, Snyder, is reported in stable condition at Malone-Hogan hospital following the collision. The incident apparently occurred as one of the trucks attempted to turn onto 33 as another truck drove past.

Amin in coma after surgery

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — President Idi Amin of Uganda was reported by one of his top aides today to be "in a coma" after undergoing surgery in a Kampala hospital for an undisclosed ailment.

Robert Astles, British-born confidant of the 51-year-old president, said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press in Nairobi he did not have further details.

Asked the reason for Amin's operation, he replied: "We don't exactly know. But he's in a coma. We believe he'll pull out of it. I'm going over to the hospital right now to see what's happening."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Meter reader

Q. Why is a city of Big Spring employ reading gas meters when it says water department on his truck? Doesn't he know the difference between a water and gas meter?

A. The city of Big Spring has read the gas meters for Pioneer Gas Co. for many, many years. One man is assigned to this task and he drives a city water department vehicle. The city receives 25 cents a meter plus a percentage of the gross, according to a spokesman from the city finance department. The city receives a check each month from Pioneer Gas.

Justice for farm workers years away?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of the Texas Farm Workers Union expects it will be several years, at least, before his quest for "justice for the farm worker" reaches fruition.

But, Antonio Orendain said Wednesday, that does not bother him. He has been trying to organize workers in Texas for 10 years without much success. He says he will be content if his efforts are met with success in his children's lifetimes.

Orendain, a sun-wrinkled man with a drooping mustache and a battered brown sombrero, spoke after he and other TFWU leaders met with Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall. They plan to spend the rest of this week lobbying in Washington.

Orendain called the session with Marshall a "very good meeting," but he could report little or no progress in the TFWU's efforts to persuade the federal government to enact a national labor rights law for farm workers.

The TFWU wants federal help to overcome what it feels are handicaps it faces as it tries to organize the transient labor force that picks the crops in South Texas. Texas has a right-to-work law that is permitted under Section 14(b) of the federal Taft-Hartley law. And farm workers are not covered by the federal statutes that guarantee workers in other industries the right to organize, vote secretly for union representation, bargain collectively and strike. Though it claims 7,000 members, the union has never successfully organized a farm or ranch and won a contract.

Marshall "listened to us for an hour and heard our point of view. I think it was a real good meeting," said Orendain. The TFWU representatives suggested that the administration form a committee of farm workers and legislators to draft a bill. They said Marshall was receptive to the idea but noncommittal.

Marshall was unavailable for comment after the meeting.

Marshall has spoken recently of including farm workers in the National Labor Relations Act, but the TFWU leaders said that was unacceptable. The NLRA is designed for industrial workers and applying it to farm workers "would be like wearing a tuxedo to work in the fields."

They said a law tailored to farm workers would recognize their transient lifestyles and allow for quick elections without the procedural delays that are part of the NLRA.

Orendain said the farm workers are seeking the basic rights granted by the NLRA "and maybe if they make some changes in it we'd be in favor of it."

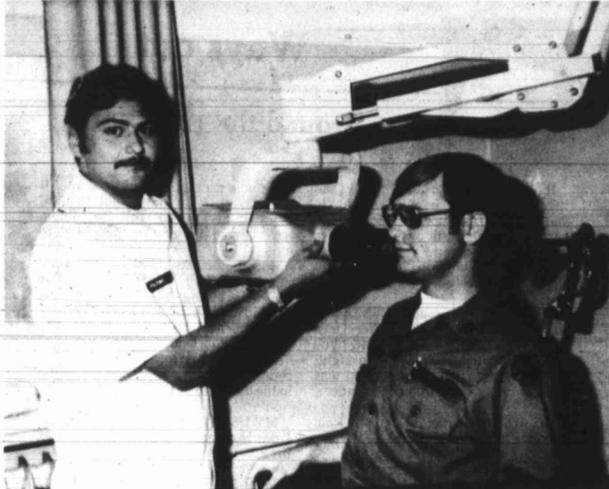

The TFWU is operating without support from either the AFL-CIO or the better-known, California-based United Farm Workers of Cesar Chavez. Orendain once was an organizer with Chavez, but the two split when Chavez decided to concentrate the larger union's resources in California.

There, the state has passed a farm labor relations law and there is no right-to-work law.

The TFWU said it had no progress to report in its efforts to get a meeting with President Carter. That was the avowed goal of its 82-day, 1,500-mile march from Austin that reached Washington on Labor Day.

Candidates to announce intentions

By SCOTT CARPENTER
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — "Head 'em up and move 'em out" rapidly becoming the call in what is becoming the most used room in the State Capitol—the Speakers Committee Room.

It is in that room that the lion's share of candidates for statewide office unveil their political plans.

Until a couple of years ago it was a dark room with dark trim on beige walls, dirty gold curtains, a large dark wood table, brown leather chairs and window air conditioning units that made it hard to hear. But there have been some changes.

Now the room looks like a television studio—bright lights, a bright blue curtain backdrop, a large state seal on the wall, bright gold carpeting, light stained wood and a quiet central cooling system that doesn't interfere with tape recorders or cameras.

With five months left before the filing deadline for those who want to bear the public trust, candidates already have started flowing through the Speakers Committee Room for the traditional press conference to announce their intentions.

Their intentions are rarely a surprise to anyone who has been reading newspapers. It was no shock that Price Daniel Jr. wants to be attorney general or that Rep. Joe Hubenak wants to be agriculture commissioner.

It won't be a shock the next few months as Atty. Gen. Hill says he wants to be governor and Ray Hutchison, state Republican chairman, says he does, too.

As the Feb. 6 deadline for candidate filing grows near, the line of political candidates waiting outside the Speakers Committee Room for press conferences will lengthen.

Smart politicians time when they will announce for office. Most of the incumbents announce early, hoping to head off any rumors that they might be ready to move out.

Those who lead in the early polls, like Daniel or U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, who wants to run against U.S. Sen. John Tower, also announced early. They hope to scare off any opposition.

Others pick times when newspapers and radio and television will have slow news days so that they can steal the headlines.

Scheduled for announcements later this month are Hill and Secretary of State Mark White, who will be looking at Hill's current job.

To date, the only statewide elected officials who appear to have an easy road ahead are the State Supreme Court justices. Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, Comptroller Bob Bullock and Railroad Commission chairman Mack Wallace. Some opposition is bound to surface, however.

Austin politicians still find it hard to believe that Gov. Dolph Briscoe named Hugh C. Yantis Jr. as chairman of the Board of Insurance.

It's not so much that Yantis' honesty is questioned as the fact that he's hated by a large segment of the Texas population who feel he didn't do an adequate job in protecting the environment in his last post—head of the Water Quality Board. Even some of Briscoe's aides are still in disbelief.

There are some long ties in the Briscoe-Yantis relationship, just as there are in Yantis' relationship with Speaker Billy Clayton.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin considered it a personal slap in the face that Briscoe didn't ask him about Yantis. Under the system called senatorial courtesy, the Senate won't confirm a governor's appointee unless the hometown senator okays it.

After Doggett's objection, it was announced that Yantis would buy a farm in Bastrop. That's Sen. Bill Patman's district, and he wouldn't have any part of Yantis either.

So the Yantis "mobile home" is being moved to Seguin, where Sen. John Traeger says he'll back Yantis.

It was the second slap at Doggett. Earlier in the week, Briscoe named Dorsey Hardeman to the new Water Commission. Earlier, Doggett had said he would object to appointment of Hardeman, a longtime Austin resident while he served on the Water Rights Commission.

Stormy 'Clara' draws attention

By the Associated Press

A tropical depression in the Atlantic attained gale force winds today and became a tropical storm.

The National Weather Service in Miami has designated the storm "Clara." Forecasters say it is centered about 300 miles northwest of Bermuda and is moving toward the east-northeast between 15 and 20 miles per hour, or out to sea.

Maximum sustained winds are 50 m.p.h. with gale force winds extending out about 100 miles from the center, the weather service said.

Meanwhile, flash flood watches continue in the mountains of North and South Carolina as the result of heavy rain which began Wednesday.

Up to eight inches of rain has fallen over the Carolinas resulting in highway flooding and several mud slides.

Other showers and thunderstorms were along the Texas Gulf coast today while an area of showers spread into northern Idaho and Montana. Skies were generally clear over other sections of the country.

There were 11 tornadoes reported Wednesday — six in Texas, two in South Carolina and Georgia and one in Illinois. No injuries were reported but there was some property damage.

The Southwest sizzled Wednesday with record high temperatures. Bakersfield, Calif., recorded a record 110 degrees, breaking the previous record of 106 set on the date in 1944. Phoenix had a 109 reading, breaking the previous record of 106 set in 1973. Also, Flagstaff, Ariz., hit 89 to break the previous record of 85 set in 1945.

Yarbrough must make restitution

HOUSTON (AP) — A special judge has ruled that a disbarment lawsuit against Donald B. Yarbrough is a moot issue since the Texas Supreme Court said Yarbrough's resignation from the State Bar was "tantamount" to disbarment.

However, retired Civil Appeals Judge Bert H. Tunks ruled Wednesday that Yarbrough, a former Texas Supreme Court justice, must make restitution to anyone who has suffered financially as a result of actions alleged in the disbarment suit should Yarbrough apply for reinstatement in five years.

Waggoner Carr, Yarbrough's attorney, had filed a motion for dismissal of the suit because Yarbrough had submitted his resignation last week. He admitted none of the alleged wrongdoings listed in the disbarment suit.

Tunks, assigned to hear the disbarment suit, said, "This case has been dismissed because Yarbrough already, in effect, has been disbarred by the Supreme Court."

"There is no further point in maintaining this lawsuit," Tunks said. "The action of the Supreme Court in accepting his resignation is tantamount to a disbarment, so there is no point in maintaining a suit for disbarment."

State bar attorneys Frank Bean and Steve Peterson declined to comment. Both have contended Yarbrough's case should have been presented to a jury.

Yarbrough, who resigned from the high court July 15, has been indicted on charges of forgery and perjury in Travis County. His trial is scheduled Oct. 10.

'Inside the Cuckoo's Nest' called must see

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you saw "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" and wondered if the movie accurately depicted life in a mental hospital, you'll definitely want to see public TV's "Inside the Cuckoo's Nest."

You might be relieved after seeing this 90-minute documentary, produced by KQED in San Francisco for airing tonight over public TV's national hookup (some stations may televise it later).

Filmed at Oregon State Hospital, where the 1975 movie starring Jack Nicholson and Louise Fletcher was made, the show's aim is to study if what we saw in the movie was the McCoy or merely good drama.

Aiding the study with occasional narration and explanation is Dr. Dean Brooks, who played the head of the movie's mental hospital and in real life is superintendent of the Oregon State Hospital in Salem.

I suspect some in his field will view his participation in tonight's show as a belated effort to counter whatever bad image of mental hospitals Nicholson's powerful movie caused.

But I'd call it a valuable effort to help lay viewers understand the actual treatment of mental illness, at least in his hospital, and in the process show how it differs from the make-believe of the movie.

actors in the movie about their experiences making the film. Miss Fletcher, who won an Oscar for her portrayal of stern, authoritarian Nurse Ratched, also discusses her role briefly.

Bear with all this, because the show immediately improves as it juxtaposes key scenes from "Cuckoo's Nest" with what KQED's film crew shot at the hospital.

Example: The movie showed patients docilely lined up for their daily medication. They weren't told what it was, but it clearly was dispensed to control them, not help them.

The "Inside" view: Patients know what they're getting, why and discuss it with a hospital "treatment team" of experts.

One of the strongest, most terrifying scenes of "Cuckoo's Nest" showed Nicholson receiving electroshock treatments.

Strong drama, but technically wrong, Dr. Brooks says. The patients don't get the treatment cold, as in the movie, but are first anesthetized and given drugs to reduce convulsions.

An ensuing scene of such a treatment is an extremely disturbing sight, but infinitely more humane than what folks saw in "Cuckoo's Nest."

You may worry that "Inside" grossly invades the privacy of the patients it shows. But KQED says no filming was done until the patients, their doctors and the patients' families all gave permission.

Social Security nearing bankruptcy

Walter Stroup had the courage this week to stand up in front of the Big Spring Rotary Club with a slide presentation that advocated more taxes.

One might expect that the normally jovial Stroup might have been stoned off the speaker's podium with hot rolls for such a thing, but the Rotarians listened seriously because they know Social Security is in trouble.

Stroup's presentation was entitled, "Can We Have Sound Social Security?" It was prepared by the National Association of Life Underwriters, a 130,000-strong body of insurance men.

While a group of insurance men might be said to have a partisan view of Social Security, there is no question these days that the Social Security System is looking down the road to bankruptcy.

Stroup noted that Social Security began in 1937, during the Great Depression, as a "base floor of protection."

But it has become a political football. He said the SS benefits have been raised every election year, and only once were the taxes to support the new benefits raised at the same time.

WALTER STROUP

THE PRESENTATION noted that Social Security has two types of financial problems.

1) An immediate cash problem when the present trust fund runs out. The Wall Street Journal estimates this will happen within two years.

2) A long-range financing problem as fewer and fewer workers (and therefore taxpayers) support more and more retirees.

Of the two problems, the long-range one is the more serious, so naturally the government in Washington is attacking only the short-range cash flow.

The Carter Administration wants to solve the coming cash crunch by taking the money out of the general fund. In other words, income tax revenues (not now sufficient to support the government) would be used to subsidize the Social Security System. Actually, the government would have to borrow the money or to print it, since the general fund will run a deficit of billions of dollars this year already.

The long-range problem is so difficult to solve that few Washington politicians are even willing to address it. Clearly, the Social Security System will find it impossible to meet its promises to present generations of working Americans unless radical changes are initiated soon.

In a Tuesday article, the Wall Street Journal said that the latest estimate of the Social Security System's deficit is $4.1 trillion. That's right, trillion. Over the next 75 years, the Journal said, the system will owe $4.1 trillion (plus interest) more than its current projected revenues.

The real crunch will begin in the mid-1980s when one of six Americans will be on Social Security, and it will grow until by year 2030, six persons will be on Social Security for every 10 workers.

The Social Security tax already is more than income tax for millions of Americans. By the next century, it may well be 40 or 50 per cent of a worker's total income. Stroup's presentation said that the Social Security tax must be increased right away and that the government must address another weakness in the system which allows benefits to increase at double the inflation rate.

One member of President Carter's cabinet, Commerce Secretary Juanita M. Kreps, proposes that the retirement age be slowly extended to age 68 instead of 65. This could save trillions of dollars when the postwar baby boom begins to retire.

Her suggestion was followed by outrage almost everywhere. HEW Secretary Joseph Califano said, "I think the older Americans of this country have worked for years, 30, 40, some of them 50 years, and we have promised them that at age 65, there'll be Social Security benefits to help them have a comfortable and dignified life as senior citizens." The government has promised, but there may be no way for it to deliver.

Stroup says the local association of life underwriters will be happy to show the presentation to other clubs and organizations. It presents a serious problem and solves it with an unpopular stand.

Ways out

Around the rim

James Werrell

It has happened to everybody at one time or another. A person walks up to you, greets you as an old friend, carries on a pleasant conversation for about 20 minutes, and walks off.

And for the whole time you didn't have the faintest idea who the person was.

If you are lucky, someone else in the room will clear up the mystery in a matter of minutes. Sometimes you wake up in the middle of the night, remembering that the person was your locker partner in second grade.

OR MAYBE a year later you spot the "old friend's" picture in a yearbook or the newspaper.

But a lot of the time, the mystery person vanishes, remaining a living question mark for the rest of your life.

There are few graceful ways out of this predicament. Most just sweat it out, hoping the person will drop a vital statistic about him-herself and let the cat out of the bag.

If you are with friends, you can say, "And these are my friends, the so-and-sos," leaving question mark's name dangling in space. The mystery guest will then fill it in himself. You hope.

If you are unlucky your friends will ask, "And who is this?" You are then, of course, doomed.

I had a buddy in college whose father was a doctor. Being a doctor, the father constantly ran into these phantoms who seemed to know him intimately while he was completely in the dark as to who they were.

According to my friend, though, the doctor was smooth. When a ? approached, he smiled and, leaning toward his wife, said, "Dear, you remember the (cough) Bergafrazmites?"

He was such an expert, and said it so fast, that he never got caught, claimed my friend. But he almost never found out who the people were either.

Question marks strike on the phone more than any other place. The typical greeting from a ? when the ringing phone is picked up is, "Hi."

A more devious ? will say, "Hi, you know who this is, don't you?"

Of course the wise thing to do is reply, "No, I sure as hell don't," nip it in the bud, and go on from there.

MY USUAL reply is, "Oh, yeah sure I do. How are you? It's been a long time." Then I wait for the vital statistic.

My father pulled a cutie on me while I was visiting in Cincinnati recently. We were in a shopping center, and he spotted a couple whose faces he recognized, but whose names were lost in the dusty files of his memory.

Shaking hands with them, he turned to me and said, "You know who these people are, don't you?"

"Nope, sure don't," said I, expecting the name to be forthcoming.

"Oh come on, you must recognize them," he said, giving me a little punch.

"Sorry Dad," I said, ready to run. "OK, I'll give you a hint," he said.

Luckily, the only fact he could remember about the couple (that their son had been president of my brother's class) tipped me off, and I came up with the name.

I felt ridiculous. My dad felt ridiculous. And the couple didn't have the vaguest idea of what was going on.

Why couldn't he just have introduced them as the Bergafrazmites, and be done with it?

Prices good thru Sept. 8. We reserve the right to change prices without notice. None sold to...

Muzzling U.S. voice

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — A letter by the American ambassador passionately defending President Carter's human rights policy, published on July 30 in Poland's most prestigious newspaper, was barred from the Voice of America's (VOA) Polish-language broadcast by intervention of the ambassador himself.

In an Aug. 3 cable to Washington from Warsaw, Ambassador Richard Davies argued that since the newspaper, Polityka, had "courageously" published the letter, broadcasting the test by VOA would serve no purpose. The VOA's unseasoned director immediately capitulated to the dente-conscious State Department, which instinctively prefers good bilateral relations to the Carter human rights crusade.

NO DECISION for many years has so infuriated the professional news staff at VOA. It violated strong guidelines giving total news autonomy to VOA, rather than the parent U.S. Information Agency (USIA) — guidelines issued by USIA director John E. Reinhardt May 4.

The result is an erosion of both VOA's credibility and the President's world crusade for human rights. The Davies letter, responding to Polityka's earlier criticism of Mr. Carter's human rights policy, was an emotional but highly effective defense of that policy. The newspaper, obviously waiting for clearance from Communist boss Edward Giersek, held the letter three weeks before publishing it.

The news value of an American diplomat's letter published in a Soviet satellite state is beyond question. It is a Free Europe and Radio Liberty, subsidized by but independent of the U.S. government, both carried much of the letter. The British Reuters news service published the entire text.

The reason for this extensive coverage is obvious: publication of the letter in a Communist newspaper was a major political event, signifying either deliberate Polish defiance of Moscow or an important prelude to this fall's Belgrade conference which will draw a balance sheet on human rights. No U.S. official here or in Warsaw knows the true reason, but the mere fact of publication was on its face a triumph of the President's policy which deserves maximum exploitation.

INSTEAD, THE Voice of America ran merely a 69-word commentary in its Polish language broadcasts on Aug. 1, containing no verbatim quotations. The appeal from Davies, perhaps understandable under a narrow interpretation of his own duties as ambassador, carried the field, the pledge in Reinhardt's guidelines that "VOA will be solely responsible for the content of news broadcasts" was ignored.

USIA officials insist the decision not to run the text of the letter was made by VOA itself. Technically, in the absence of a specific directive issued to VOA, the decision-maker was VOA's new and inexperienced director, Manhattan radio station owner Peter Straus.

Surgery needed for pilonidal cyst

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a grandson who will be 14 years old soon. He was born with a dimple at the end of his spine. It is now a running cyst. I believe it is called a "pilonidal cyst." It has been running for about a year now. The doctor wants to wait a year before surgery. Isn't there danger in waiting? Could he get meningitis? What about another cyst forming after surgery? — Mrs. V.R.

A tiny dimple, often barely noticeable, is the sign of a congenital cyst (present at birth). The cause is a slight disturbance in development of the spine area. It often goes unnoticed until early adolescence, when enlargement and drainage starts. An accumulation of hair usually develops with it, hence the name "pilonidal" which means hair nest.

The important consideration at this point is guarding against infection, which frequently occurs. Post-surgical recovery can be lengthy and uncomfortable, and perhaps the doctor wants to delay this for the convenience of the family and not to interfere with schooling.

The cyst must be kept covered and receive special attention. But, while infection is possible, inflammation of the spinal cord (meningitis) is a rare complication.

Surgery to remove the cyst is quite successful, with only a slight chance of its recurring.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had back surgery five years ago. He is 50. It left him disabled. He also has terrific distress (bloat) in his stomach, mostly after he eats. One of his doctors prescribed Valium. He is taking one or two a day. He claims he has to take these the rest of his life because his doctor told him so. In addition, he drinks four to five pots of coffee a day and smokes a pack of cigarettes. He has changed tremendously and I would like to know what he is doing to himself.

I am also interested in gout. What can you tell me about it. At what age would you say a person may develop gout? — M.S.

Valium is a good tranquilizer and an excellent muscle relaxant. However, your husband is getting a lot of coffee. The volume alone, not considering the caffeine content, could cause bloating and make him tense and irritable. The 20 cigarettes a day can be compounding his problem. Cut his coffee down and try to get him interested in a hobby or some chore to keep busy. Continuous coffee drinking and cigarette smoking are traits of the bored non-busy person. Find a rehabilitation center nearby where he can learn how to adjust to his disability.

Gout can appear at almost any age, but usually after 30. Rather than repeat information on this common ailment, I refer you to my booklet, "Gout, The Modern Way to Stop It," which discusses it in detail. Send 35 cents to cover printing and handling, along with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read the warning signals for cancer and one of them was change in bladder habits.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently I read some things you said about the dangers of the tongue. I agree with you, because my tongue often gets me in trouble. How can I keep from speaking the wrong things? They just seem to slip out. — M.M.

DEAR M.M.: The Bible says, "He that keepeth his mouth keepeth his life; but he that openeth wide his lips shall have destruction." (Proverbs 13:3). Yes, the tongue can do great harm, and it is also one of the hardest things to control.

Let me suggest that you first bring this matter to God. Confess to Him that you often sin with your tongue, and ask Him to give you the wisdom and strength to deal with this. Isaiah confessed to God, "I am a man of unclean lips" (Isaiah 6:5).

Next, it may be helpful for you to examine just what kind of speaking

Now I think I have a change. One morning I didn't urinate very much when I got up, which I thought was strange. Later in the day I did and had a normal full stream, but at the end there was a trickle for several seconds. I don't remember this happening before.

Is this anything I should check with my doctor? — Mr. C.L.

Danger signals for cancer include changes in bowel or urination habits. If you noticed blood, it should be checked promptly. I think you can dispel your fears about cancer unless something more dramatic than you describe appears. Sounds like your prostate may be acting up. If the episode is repeated you should see the doctor. Collect a urine specimen taken at the midpoint of urination for examination.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My arm pits itch frequently and severely at times. I use ointments but it only relieves it for a while. There is no visible sign as a rash or change in color. I have discontinued all deodorants. — Mrs. M.I.

You do not mention a depilatory or whether you shave your armpits. With no rash I suspect subtle hair growth as the cause. If you shave infrequently itching can occur with hair regrowth.

Letelier murder case

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The man behind the murder of Chilean exile leader Orlando Letelier, as federal investigators have pieced together the mystery, is probably Chile's shadowy secret police chief, Manuel Contreras Sepulveda.

In one of the most complicated investigations since Watergate, FBI sleuths have traced the man who ordered the killing to Contreras' office in Santiago, Chile. They are not yet certain, however, whether Contreras himself gave the order or whether it came from a top aide.

Most federal sources believe the murder could not have been carried out without Contreras' direct approval. In fact, some Justice Dept. sources speculate that Chilean President Augusto Pinochet himself personally suggested the assassination.

NO ONE working on the case will comment directly. But we have learned that the FBI has stepped up its activity among terrorists in Miami and hopes to resolve the case in the near future, complete with the names of the actual assassins.

Letelier was killed by a bomb, which was attached beneath his Chevrolet. The bomb exploded last September 21 as he was driving down Washington's tranquil Embassy Row with two American colleagues, Mike and Ronnie Moffitt.

The blast killed Letelier and Mrs. Moffitt but miraculously spared her husband. Afterward, an anguished Mike Moffitt begged us to investigate the bombing. We have kept in close touch, therefore, with the federal investigation.

Within a few weeks, we were able to identify Chile's notorious secret police, known by the dread initials DINA, as the probable culprits. Now we can describe the murder plot.

We are told that Pinochet expressed his displeasure with Letelier to the DINA chief. We have reason to believe that Contreras, in response to the Chilean president's wishes, dispatched a DINA officer to the United States to meet with two leaders of Brigade 2506, an organization of Bay of Pigs veterans.

Some members of the brigade, trained in violence by the CIA, allegedly have become right-wing terrorists. The DINA agent was put in touch with them, according to our sources, by a Chilean diplomat in the United States, who secretly works for DINA.

We reached the diplomat who reportedly has been interrogated by U.S. authorities. At first, he told us through an interpreter that the affair was his "private problem." Then he refused to comment; then his aide told us the charge was "ridiculous."

Investigators tell us, however, the two brigade leaders contacted among others a Cuban demolitions expert, Guillermo Novo, in New Jersey. At the time, he was on probation after conviction for illegal use of explosives. He violated his probation and is now a fugitive.

The assassination plot was worked out, our sources say, at a secret rendezvous near Bonao in the Dominican Republic. It was decided that a special shaped plastic charge was needed for the bombing.

The explosive was available on the streets of Miami, and the bomb materials were bought and fashioned in the United States, most sources believe.

However, one source told us the bomb was actually constructed in Chile.

It was later delivered to the Miami area by a Chilean military official carrying a diplomatic passport and flying in a military airplane, the source said. The device was transmitted to a member of Brigade 2506, we are told. He then carried it to New Jersey where the assassination team was waiting for it. They used the bomb, according to our sources, to kill Letelier.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

Thank you for James Werrell's objective, well written coverage of the One Mile Lake drainage question. Mr. Werrell is to be commended for his thorough research on the subject, particularly his column "Would it Help?" in which he stated, "Fools rush in, as they say, and one local fool recently opined, 'What's a few birds anyway?'"

There are many people in Big Spring who support Mrs. (Bebe) McCasland in her love of birds and help for endangered species. She had a number of anonymous telephone calls from people who said, "We want you to know that we support you, but we cannot give our names!"

In your paper of Aug. 30, Mr. Ivie (CRMWD Manager) contradicted himself when he stated that: "One Mile Lake recently had 20,400 parts of chloride per million gallons. Sea water has only 18,000 per million. That makes One Mile Lake saltier than the sea."

Mr. Ivie should know that sea water has 35,000 to 36,000 parts of chloride per million; therefore, One Mile Lake cannot be saltier than the sea. It is questionable that the drainage of One Mile Lake will improve the quality of drinking water in Lake Spence.

We appreciated the opportunity to read Mr. Birdwell's letter on the drainage of the lake and the skateboard park. He made us realize that this is our town, too. He expressed the opinion of many in this city who have remarked, "What is going on?"

Mrs. A.G. Edmonson

Dear Editor:

In reference to Mr. Reagan's editorial comment concerning UIL rules and regulations. Perhaps some of Mr. Reagan's criticism have merit; but does he over look the main purpose for UIL specifications for high school competition—that being to provide for all size schools, standards attempting to equalize participation and competition?

Specifically, Mr. Reagan's quote comparing regulations of athletics to "band, drama, speech, and debate"—would he please take the time to investigate how we in these areas are regulated before making general statements with specified students groups? He is a little misleading in his comparison.

UIL rules can be changed through proper channels; it takes time and determination. Until a better regulating system is developed, I will strongly support the UIL system.

Pros will try to collect on student loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you borrowed money from Uncle Sam to get through college and neglected to pay him back, there may soon be a bill collector looking for you.

The government, getting tough with some 390,000 recipients of federally insured student loans who never paid them off, is turning over about $430 million in bad debts to private collection agencies.

So, if you're among the one in six federal loan recipients who defaulted since the program began nine years ago, there's the prospect that your credit rating may be jeopardized unless you pay up.

The Office of Education, part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has been trying to collect on the loans, but hasn't been successful, so it's calling in the pros.

If you're one of those in default, though, you'll be given one last chance to repay before your file is turned over to a collector, says a federal official.

"We want to give them a chance to pay because, if their files go to collectors, we want them to know what they are getting into," says Leo Kornfeld, deputy HEW commissioner for student finance assistance.

"They could be jeopardizing their future credit ratings and could have trouble later getting mortgages, credit cards or car loans."

Kornfeld said the decision to use private collection agencies is "rooted in our firm conviction that those who are able but unwilling to pay their debts do a grave injustice to the American public who provided them with an opportunity for education."

"Unfortunately, there is an attitude on many campuses that this is government money, it's a soft touch and you can get out of paying it back," Kornfeld said in an interview.

"This will almost be an educational lesson in a way," he said. "A part of growing up is learning that you have to pay off your debts."

Kornfeld said the response to his department's invitation to private organizations to bid for the first collection contract has been "overwhelming."

The winning bidder will be required to locate the negligent borrowers and set up a schedule for them to repay the government.

If unsuccessful, the collector will recommend to the government other measures it can take, including legal action.

Kornfeld said the first contract will be awarded and files sent to the collection agency by December. The contracts will prohibit unethical harassment tactics, he added.

Kornfeld said the federal government has directly insured about half of all loans in the Guaranteed Student Loan Program. The rest are guaranteed by 27 state and private agencies, some of which already use private collectors, Kornfeld said.

The collection contract will apply only to the Federal Insured Student Loan

Program, under which the federal government has measures it can take, including legal action.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — An employee of the state department of highways has been assessed a six-year probation sentence and ordered to pay almost $50,000 after pleading guilty to one count of forgery.

E. C. Black, former right-of-way officer for the Texas Department of Highways in Wichita Falls, entered the guilty plea and was sentenced Wednesday.

Black was ordered by State District Court Judge Calvin Ashley to repay $49,493 to property owners who lost money in a relocation-of-funds scheme.

"I could probably give you a lot of excuses, but not a good reason," Black told the court after District Attorney Tim Eysen asked if he had an explanation for his actions.

"I don't know why it happened," Black said. "I don't have the answer. I was trying to stay ahead of the game."

Black was dismissed from his job on Jan. 25 after an investigation involving several state agencies.

Birthrate decreasing in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Jose Lopez Portillo says Mexico's family planning efforts should reduce the birthrate from 3.2 to 2.5 per cent within five years.

The president, during a meeting with Japanese officials, said the birthrate is down from 3.6 per cent four years ago.

Lopez Portillo said Mexico has a population of 64 million. At the current birthrate of 3.2 per cent, the nation's population would grow by 2 million this year to 66 million.

An estimated 9 million Mexican workers are unemployed.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A jury was deliberating charges today against Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in a $29 million damage suit filed against it by a fired executive and the family of another former Bell official who committed suicide. The suit by James Ashley and the family of T. O. Gravitt went to the 10-man, two-woman panel in state district court Wednesday afternoon following four weeks of testimony and four hours of final arguments by lawyers on both sides. Deliberation of the case began at 9 a.m. today.

Gravitt was the top Bell official in Texas when he killed himself at his Dallas home Oct. 17, 1974. Ashley was a $55,000-a-year Bell executive in San Antonio when he was fired two weeks later, ending a 23-year career with the telephone company.

The suit, filed in November 1974, alleged that an improper internal company investigation by Southwestern Bell hounded Gravitt to his death and led to Ashley's wrongful dismissal. The telephone company said it began its probe in late summer 1974 after rumors of sexual misconduct among San Antonio-area Bell employees reached corporate officials in the St. Louis headquarters. Pat Maloney, the plaintiffs' lawyer, urged the jury to find Bell guilty of the allegations in the suit and

"join a mighty crusade asking for social reform" of the giant utility. He said the investigation was designed to drive Ashley and Gravitt out of the Bell power structure because they became critical of certain company policies they considered unfair to consumers. He said these included unfair rate-making tactics, operation of a political "slush fund" and extravagant wastes of company money. But Bell lawyer Hubert Green said Ashley and Gravitt "did themselves in" by the actions which led the company to investigate rumors of misconduct.

He said there were two Gravitts, one who was a chamber of commerce president and the other who was sexually promiscuous with female subordinate Bell employees.

Green reviewed the testimony of various women Bell employees who said they felt compelled to have sex with Ashley to get promotions.

"What we have are two people who were caught. That's what's so tragic," Green said. He said neither Ashley or Gravitt ever complained of company policies "until they felt the heat" of the investigation in 1974.

And, Green said every time the plaintiffs talked about some alleged wrongdoing by the telephone company, "they were at the bottom of it."

Judge Peter Michael Curry gave the jury final instructions and a list of 35 questions they had to answer before returning with their verdict.

Most of the questions dealt with whether Southwestern Bell or its corporate parent, American Telephone & Telegraph, slandered Ashley and Gravitt and whether the investigation was malicious. Jurors also had to decide the amount of damages, if any, to be awarded.

Gravitt left behind a suicide note in which he said, "Watergate is a gnat compared to the Bell system."

And Maloney told the jury, "The truth is Watergate really is a gnat compared to the Bell system." Generally, Maloney did not discuss much evidence in the case, and instead directed the jury to consider what "magnificent people" the plaintiffs were.

"They have lost the personal dignity it took them all their lives to build up," he said referring to alleged damages caused by the Bell investigation.

And, Maloney blasted the telephone company as a corporate monster which believed it could control anyone with its money.

"They got the wrong guy. He wouldn't run. He stood and told the truth about them. It's a story that had to be told, a hill that had to be climbed," he said.

Maloney also said Bell had never fired any other employees who were supposedly involved in sexual activities with other employees. And, he said Ashley was the only executive at his level ever fired by Bell.

Jack Hebdon, another Bell lawyer, said Ashley and Gravitt were held in high esteem by their superiors in the telephone company until the investigation.

"They were in trouble with their subordinates. Little people will take it and put up with it just so long. Finally, they were heard from. Finally, the little people had enough" of the abuses by Ashley and Gravitt, Hebdon said.

"What are superior officers supposed to do when they hear one of their top employees in San Antonio (Ashley) is inviting female subordinate employees to sex parties?" Hebdon asked.

Migrant ed funds listed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas has received the federal government's largest single allocation for migrant education, the state education agency reported Wednesday.

Education Commissioner Marlin Brockette said the $3.7 million grant would benefit 110,000 children in 145 districts.

Special projects at Texas A&I and in several South Texas communities also will receive part of the allocation, he said.

Largest single grant will be $1.8 million to the Pharr-San Juan-Alamo Independent School District. Brockette said migrant children from Texas spend at least part of each school year in one or more of 40 other states.

"This year we expect 72 per cent of our migrant students to be actively following the harvests with their parents with only 28 per cent staying in one place throughout the 1977-78 term," Brockette said.

DOLLARS ARE BIG WORRY — Teacher Evelyn Lewis goes over opening day instructions with her second grade class as school began for another year in Dayton, Ohio, Wednesday. Dayton is among six of the state's eight major metropolitan areas to be in the middle of a school funding crisis, with nearly one fourth of the state's 2.1 million students attending schools with money problems.

Forgery, bondage, drugs by-products of smuggling

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Forgery, bondage and drugs are by-products of an unparalleled smuggling operation of Mexican aliens into the United States spawned by rumors of presidential amnesty.

Authorities said that in Texas alone last week agents confiscated 23 counterfeit alien resident cards, nine altered cards and seven more that were stolen and given to aliens who resembled the original owner's photo. Also, 525 border crossing cards used by aliens to shop and visit with 25 miles of the border were picked up because their owners abused their privileges.

Jerry O'Connor, deputy director of the El Paso Intelligence Center, a federal unit that supplies information to all border law enforcement agencies, said Wednesday that Mexican-U.S. border points from Texas to California broke up 8,392 separate smuggling operations that handled 49,165 aliens during 1976.

"This thing is skyrocketing," he said when asked about the misunderstood amnesty rumors. "There's no question about it having an impact. The Mexican border mayors are all complaining because it hurts their economy and living conditions.

President Carter's proposal has yet to be considered by Congress. If passed, it would allow aliens who have been in the country at least one year to remain under certain resident classifications.

But O'Connor said the program has been misinterpreted by Mexicans who are willing to try almost anything to enter the country. The result, he said, has been a "remendous boon to smugglers, many of whom have deliberately misinterpreted the amnesty program to boost business."

"They're dealing in human lives," he said. "One group we know of has gotten into smuggling cocaine, Colombian aliens and now they are even supplying counterfeit identification cards. They are also counterfeiting American money and selling it to the aliens who don't know any better."

O'Connor said some aliens are virtually "kept in bondage" by the smugglers until they can be dumped at various "drop houses" where they begin making their own ways into the country's interior. He said the smugglers have been charging up to $75 per alien per day to keep from turning them over to U.S. authorities.

Last week, O'Connor said agents in California, Arizona and Utah broke up 283 smuggling rings that had handled 2,512 aliens during that period. Some 270 phony and altered resident cards were confiscated.

"We haven't caught him yet, but there is one guy who gets $300 a head for smuggling aliens from Nogales to Idaho Falls, Idaho," he said. "If you figure they're getting $200-$300 a head, my gosh, there's no way to tell how much they're making."

O'Connor quoted from a report that he feels is "pretty symbolic" of the smugglers' viewpoint. It was a statement from a woman arrested in California who was "heavily involved" in alien smuggling.

"She said she thought there ought to be a rehabilitation program for people like her," said O'Connor, "because she had become addicted to the easy money in smuggling illegal

Declaration of war?

One-armed dove hunt

OLNEY, Tex. (AP) — Television's "Fugitive" would go bananas in this North Texas town.

On Sept. 9 and 10, a lot of one-armed men will be singeing it to Olney with their shotguns. Reason for all the bad jokes is the sixth annual one-armed dove hunt sponsored by the two "one-armed Jacks," Jack Northrop and Jack Bishop.

"We like to keep it light and joke it up," said Northrop, who lost his right arm at the shoulder in 1956. "But really, we feel like we've helped a lot of amputees with this, just to get them to ease up a bit and come out and join us."

Friday's registration will be followed by such nonsense as shoe-tying and glove swapping contests along with some country music and a skeet shoot. The actual hunt starts Saturday.

Northrop said this year's special guest is Evangelist Clay McClary, a Vietnam veteran who lost an arm and an eye during the war.

"We're also going to have a cow chip chunking contest," said Northrop. "It'll be the amputees versus the politicians. We know these guys sling a lot of the stuff. We just want to find out if they can throw it as well."

Northrop said the gathering started in 1972 as a joke. He and Bishop, a Young County commissioner, were discussing what kind of shotguns they prefer to hunt with at a local drug store. Their conversation drew a lot of laughs from eavesdroppers.

"We just got to wondering how many one-armed guys we could get to come out," said Northrop.

Forty-four amputees and 134 guests showed up last year to compete in two divisions — amputees above and below the elbow.

Northrop said the invitation is open to all arm amputees. He "guarantees" a good time and even promised to play his guitar one-handed.

declaration of war or an effort to pressure the Kremlin into cutting off arms to the Somalis.

A broadcast from Addis Ababa Wednesday night said Ethiopia's ruling military council had ordered Somali diplomats to leave the country within 48 hours.

The Ethiopians claim that Somali army troops are fighting alongside the insurgents in southeastern Ethiopia who are fighting to unite the Ogaden area with Somalia. Most diplomats in Nairobi believe the claim is true.

The Somalis have denied any direct participation although they acknowledge training and arming the 3,000 to 6,000 guerrillas of the Western Somali Liberation Front, who are ethnic Somali tribesmen.

The Somalis claim that Cuba and Czechoslovakia are helping the Ethiopian troops, a claim Addis Ababa denies.

Diplomats in Nairobi said Somalia might welcome a declaration of war so it could fight the Ethiopians openly.

The rebels claim they control 95 per cent of the Ogaden. A hard fight is reported under way for the town of Jijiga, in the northern part of the territory. Jijiga and the two nearby towns of Harar and Diredawa are reported to be the last Ethiopian holdings in the disputed area.

Diplomats said Ethiopia's official break with Somalia could force the Soviet Union to make a final choice between its two East African clients. These sources believe the Russians will back their newer and more populous ally, Ethiopia, even though it would mean the loss of the new Soviet naval base in the Somali port of Berbera.

SAD TO SEE WEBB GO — Mrs. J.E. Settles, secretary at the Texas Education Agency, has been a favorite personality among Webb Chapel workers for the past 19 years.

Webb chapel organist recalls younger days

By EILEEN McGUIRE

Last Sunday was Mrs. J.E. Settles' last day as organist for Webb Air Force Base Chapel. Though the chapel will remain open several weeks longer, Mrs. Settles will not be returning. "I cannot express my sadness at seeing Webb close," Mrs. Settles explained. "It's very difficult for me to go out there now."

A speech was delivered by Chaplain Andrews, installation chaplain at Webb, honoring Mrs. Settles for 19 years of devoted service as organist for both Catholic and Protestant services as well as playing at a majority of chapel-held weddings, graduations, memorials and funerals.

Mrs. Settles is the wife of J. Edward Settles, nephew of W.R. Settles who built the Settles Hotel and had a street named for him. She is employed as a secretary by the Texas Education Agency in the Permian building.

By those who knew her at Webb, she will best be remembered for the many stories she told of Big Spring's past. Having moved from Snyder to Big Spring as a small child, Mrs. Settles has watched the town change since she was a child. According to Mrs. Settles, "Main and Scurry were the only main roads when I was a child. All of the area south of where Gregg Street now is was desert."

I spent many childhood days riding my Paint pony where Gregg Street now lies. Once, my pony took off with me on it. The Settles lived on 19th Street and it was my future husband, Ed, who brought the pony to a halt."

The year was 1933. Two years later we were married."

Mrs. Settles said "I have enjoyed living in Big Spring from the first. And I have enjoyed watching it grow. We had some good times back then, but I like it the size it is now."

"For recreation," Mrs. Settles remembers, "we used to all go up on top of Signal Mountain for Sunday picnics. Whole families would spend Sunday climbing up that mountain."

Mrs. Settles remembers when they used to use baskets and ropes instead of cash registers. "The clerk would put the money in the basket and raise it with a rope to the upper level of the store where someone would make change and send the basket back downstairs the same way it came up."

"Between Runnels and Main Street, there used to be a train depot," she recalled. "During one big rain and flood, people were evacuated from the depot by boats. It was a very unusual sight. The train depot was also a favorite place for many during WWII. It was there that everyone would gather to watch the troop trains pass through. I'll never forget the big Victory sign that hung there."

Mrs. Settles learned to play the piano during eight years of instruction under Professor W. Dawes whose son still lives in Big Spring. "It wasn't until much later, when I was asked to help out at St. Thomas Church, that I accidentally discovered the organ. Expecting to find a piano waiting for me, I found an organ instead. When I tried playing it, it sounded like Webb was bombing the church."

Her musical career includes playing for three Presidential Memorial services. "I felt a kind of kinship to President Lyndon Johnson," she said. "He was a Texan and I was too." She also played at the memorial services for Presidents Truman and Kennedy.

"I've met so many wonderful people out there at Webb over the years. Whenever a young man left to go to another assignment, I would tell him 'I never want to hear from you again — except at Christmas.' And hear from them at Christmas. I do. I receive cards from all over the United States, Hawaii, Germany and the Azolar Islands."

Xmas Tree Marks Day Dad Left

DEAR ABBY: A reader wrote in asking what you thought of people who still had their Christmas tree up in May. He suggested that perhaps the men in the white coats carrying butterfly nets should be called. I'm glad you didn't join in and ridicule the people whose tree was still up because ours has been up longer than theirs.

My husband disappeared on December 22nd, 1975, and no one has heard a word from him since. He helped me put up our Christmas tree on the 20th of December, and our kids (now 6, 9 and 10) keep begging me not to take the tree down "until Daddy comes home."

It's still up. My hopes are fading, but you know how kids are — they never give up. God bless them.

ALL CRIED OUT

DEAR CRIED: If prayers will help, be assured you have mine.

DEAR ABBY: Seeing that you answer everything from A to Z, I was wondering if you'd stop at "D" for dogs. I have a problem with mine. He's an 8-month-old shepherd — a terrific dog, but I can't seem to housebreak him.

He is not dumb, but I can't seem to get the idea across to him that he has to wait until someone lets him out. Abby, I have read dog books and followed every suggestion in the book, from rubbing his nose in the mess to spanking him within an inch of his life, but nothing has worked for me.

I hope you'll print this because there must be a way to housebreak a dog that works, even though it's not in a book.

DESPAIRING

DEAR DESPAIRING: My canine consultant suggests that you establish a "routine" by walking your dog at set times of the day. If he does what he's supposed to do where he's supposed to do it, reward him with a treat. And if he messes in the house, scold him in a harsh tone and "show" him why you are displeased. He'll catch on.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for trying to educate the public concerning the handicapped.

My wife and I are both deaf and mute (please, not "deaf and dumb") and we use sign language to communicate with each other.

The reaction of some uninformed people we encounter in places of business would astonish you.

I'd like to repeat a very old, but true story to make my point. One afternoon two fine Boston gentlemen were hanging onto the straps of a trolley. Below them were seated two deaf-mutes, conversing in sign language.

One of the straphangers whispered to his friend, "I'm curious about something... whereupon he took a note pad and pencil from his pocket and wrote, 'CAN YOU WRITE?'" Then he handed it to one of the deaf-mutes, who, after studying it carefully, slowly drew from his pocket an elegant, expensive fountain pen, emerald in color and trimmed in gold. Then, with a grand flourish, he penned a few words on the note pad and handed it back to the standing gentlemen.

Imagine their chagrin when they read in exquisite penmanship: "CAN YOU READ?"

AXEL WINTERLANE

DEAR AXEL: Beautiful!

Shower given for future bride

Miss Betty Stanley, bride-elect of Wesley Thixton, was honored with a lingerie shower Tuesday night in the home of Mrs. Leon Pettitt.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Pettitt were Miss Toni Pettitt and Mrs. Tammy Thompson.

Guests were served a heart-shaped cake from a table with silver and crystal appointments. The centerpiece was red and pink flowers. Approximately 15 attended.

Correction

In a recent birth announcement in the Big Spring Herald, the names of the parents were omitted. Mr. and Mrs. N.T. (Nick) Nichols, announced the birth of their first child, a girl, Jennifer Nicole. The mother's name is Judy.

Plant sale draws money for landscape job

Enough money was made in last Friday's Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs plant sale to provide money to landscape the historical Potten House, according to Mrs. Edna Womack, co-chairman of the projects committee for the council.

The landscaping project was the council's annual project.

The landscaping will not get underway until a member of the city council (Mrs. Polly Mays) gives the final go-ahead, Mrs. Womack said.

"Hopefully, we will have the job done before the end of the year."

Before the actual planting of bushes and trees, however, the ground around the house will have to be mulched, she said.

About 150 persons came to the sale and the preceding salad luncheon.

Tickets were $2 a person. The council hoped to raise about $500 from the sale, she said.

The council now wants to make the plant sale an annual city event, somehow tying it in with other city events. "Everything the council does is for the city's benefit," Mrs. Womack said. "Maybe we can get the Chamber of Commerce to help advertise the sale each year."

Mrs. Womack indicated more money could be raised for the landscaping project.

An ongoing project of the council is the repairing, replacing and cleaning of the potted plants along the downtown area of the city, she said.

During the months of September until December, the council, which consists of 7 individual clubs, will take turns with the project, she said.

Past projects have included landscaping the community center, constructing the Johnny Johansen circle located above the historical Big Spring and the Cottonwood Arbor on E. 2nd St.

"At the arbor we planted trees and shrubs," she said. Mrs. Womack said anyone can donate money to the council in memory of a loved one and the council, in turn, will plant a tree or shrub with the money.

"We always observe Arbor Day, which is Jan. 17," she said.

Last year, the council planted more than 150 flora buda roses and 9 red climbers in the rose garden in the Comanche Trail Park.

The group constructed a cactus garden on the top of Scenic Mountain, but "vandalism has all but ruined the work we've done," she added.

Young homemakers eager to manage homes better

By DUSTY RICHARD
"A group of young homemakers interested in learning better ways to manage their households" is one way to describe the club, according to the club's president.
The Creative Homemaker's Home Demonstration Club was formed in 1975 to get young women interested in homemaking, according to President Darla McLeod.
Mrs. McLeod, who lives at 2717 Carol Dr., said the club meets once a month on the second Tuesday of each month at different places.
Mrs. James Johnston, founder of the club, organized the group to get women in the community interested in homemaking, she said. She had originally been a member of another home demonstration club in the city, but formed this club to get young women interested in homemaking. She served as president for the first two years, and is a home economics teacher at Big Spring High School, Mrs. McLeod said.
There are many home demonstration clubs in Big Spring, but this one is the newest and has the youngest members, she said.

Members of the club learn crafts like candlemaking, painting on glass and bread baking. They have had meetings on Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR), sewing and family social problems. Sometimes they have speakers at the meetings and other times they interchange ideas with each other.
Tuesday night at 7:30 they will give a salad dinner in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Gas Building. Each member will bring a different type of salad and a book of recipes that the club has compiled will be given to each person attending. The club is conducting a membership drive.
Mrs. McLeod said, "I think a lot of women will be interested in our club — it offers them a chance to get out of the house and meet other women their own ages with similar interests."
At the meeting, members will discuss the programs for the year. These programs include, in October, how to make cornhusk dolls for Christmas tree ornaments; in December, Young-n-Alive will demonstrate hairstyles and cosmetics for the holidays; in February, a talk will be given on toxins and what to do if a family member is accidentally poisoned, and in May, members will learn exotic cooking.

Other programs will be on sewing, macrame, family crises and in May, a style show will be given. "We have tried to round out topics for meetings to include many interests," Mrs. McLeod explained.
Mrs. McLeod was born and raised in Abilene. She graduated from Wiley High School and received her Bachelor's Degree in Science and Education from Abilene Christian University in 1972. Also, in 1972, she married Gary McLeod. They moved to Big Spring in January of 1976. She is presently working as an editor at Gamco, where she is writing a filmstrip-cassette series covering seventh grade life science. Her husband is employed by Hollingsworth, Wilson, Lee and Reynolds as an accountant.
Mrs. McLeod said that her mother had taught her to cook basics, but she attributes her interest and success in cooking to college chemistry classes. "We had to be so exact in our measurements," she said. "I really didn't cook much until she was married, but now she loves to entertain guests and cook for them."
Her favorite things to cook are fancy dishes such as French-style chicken and "Spanish food because my dad comes from Santa Fe." She said that she also liked to experiment with new dishes.
Mrs. McLeod urged all young homemakers to attend the meeting Tuesday night of the Creative Homemaker's Home Demonstration Club. She asked that anyone planning to come please call her if possible so that club members will know how many guests for which to make arrangements. Her number is 7-6704. Guests can also phone Mrs. Jackie Zimmerman at 3-0489 or Mrs. James Johnston at 7-2364.

'Fast foods' declining Increase in home baking predicted this year

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
The high prices of 1973 and 1974 which prompted people to cut down the use of convenience foods have left a legacy in the form of continued interest in baked goods and other "do-it-from-scratch" types of food.
Government statistics show that per capita consumption of wheat flour in the United States declined steadily from 118 pounds in 1960 to 106 pounds in 1974. The trend was reversed in 1975, however, and estimated per capita consumption of wheat flour for 1976 was 111 pounds.
Not all of the increase, of course, is due to more homebaked cakes and breads. A spokesman for the Wheat Flour Institute pointed out that Americans are eating more and more hamburgers every year. More hamburgers means more buns. And more buns means more wheat flour.
It is too soon to tell what the picture for 1977 will show. But some industry sources predict steady interest in home baking and consumers will find that they can save money and time if they learn what types of flours are available and which ones do what.
There are three parts to a kernel of wheat. The inner part, or endosperm, is the part which is ground to make white flour which accounts for more than 90 per cent of the flour milled in the United States.
The other two parts are the bran or outer layer and the germ — the part which would sprout. The bran and the germ are removed from white flour, but are left in whole wheat flour. They also are sold separately, usually in breakfast cereals.
Enriched white flour contains vitamins, iron and sometimes calcium which are added to replace nutrients lost when the bran is removed in processing. Laws in 36 states require that all white flour be enriched.

Bleached flour contains an oxidizing agent which is designed to whiten the flour and improve its baking quality. Food and Drug Administration standards require that a flour be labeled as "bleached" if any oxidizing agent has been used.
Here is a guide to some common types of flour on the market:
—All purpose or family flour, available in bleached and unbleached varieties. A blend of hard and soft wheats milled for home use in a variety of products including yeast breads, quick breads, cakes, cookies and pastries.
—Cake flour. A finely ground flour made from low-protein soft wheat. It is particularly suitable for baking cakes and pastries which require light, fluffy flour. It is not suitable for baking yeast-raised breads.
—Hard-wheat or bread flour. This is milled from hard, high-protein wheat. It is used chiefly in commercial bread production where doughs must withstand machine handling.
—Self-rising flour. This is all-purpose flour with added salt and leavening agents — sodium bicarbonate and one or more acid-reacting substances. This type of flour should not be used for baking yeast-raised products.
—Quick or instant-blending flour. A granular flour which disperses easily, even in cold liquids, and requires no sifting. It does not pack down in the package. It may be used in almost all recipes in place of regular flour. It offers convenience, but is usually more expensive.

Tween 12-20 Smokers can harm innocent bystanders

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D.
Copley News Service
Dear Doctor:
Mom and dad both smoke and the house reeks of tobacco smoke. I have tried to get them to stop but to no avail.
Yesterday after dinner the house was so full of smoke that I even started coughing, and I told them that they were ruining my health. They said I was only being silly and other than a discomfort that my health was in no danger.
My teacher said that just breathing tobacco smoke was dangerous. Is this true?
Trudy, Michigan City, IN
Dear Trudy:
The smoke exhaled by smokers can be very damaging to those who have allergic or breathing difficulties. Scientific studies have shown that smoke drifting from cigarettes and cigars is definitely more dangerous than that inhaled by the smokers.
—Please share this information with your parents.
Dear Doctor:
I am not considered a shy person. I have no problems in communicating with girls except in one instance — that is when I want to ask a girl out for the first time.
If I'm not interested in dating a girl, I have no problem talking with her, but if I would like to date her, I'm lost for words and find myself blushing and ill at ease. What causes this?
Scott, Joliet, IL
Dear Scott:
What happens is this. When you are talking to a girl you are not planning to date, you are at ease because you have nothing to lose, but when you show interest by wanting to date a girl, you do have something to lose, so you act flustered and bewildered.

Now that I've told you what I think causes this, it is up to you to solve it.
I read in your column several times where you discouraged students from changing teachers when the student had a particular problem with the present instructor.
I was assigned Miss "X" for mythology. For two weeks I thought mythology was boring and foolish and was not relevant to my present life. I just hated it.
My counselor would not change teachers for me so my mother called the principal and he placed me with another mythology teacher.
Now I see that a fascinating subject it is — really beautiful. My new teacher, Miss "Z" makes it exciting and meaningful.
In my situation, the teacher made the difference.
Theresa, Columbus, OH
Dear Theresa:
No doubt, in your situation Miss "Z" is the greater motivator, and being in her class is the best for you.
Changing teachers is not always the correct solution. It all depends on the circumstances. Many times a student's change in study habits eliminates the need for change in instructors.

Steers travel to meet pass-potent Hobbs Eagles

By DANNY REAGAN
Sports Editor

Last season, the Big Spring Steers won only one game. That was against Hobbs, a sluggish affair in Big Spring that was decided in the last few minutes of the contest.

Times change. The Bovines are a lot better this year. That would be fine and dandy, but for one slightly important matter. The Hobbs Eagles are a vastly improved ballclub this season as well.

Think back one year ago this Friday. The Steers were outnumbering the Eagles in every statistic: 15 to seven in first downs, 115 to 57 in yards rushing, 146 to 16 in yards passing and so on. But it took a couple of sterling defensive plays by Tommy Churchwell to brake the Eagles short of scores.

Quarterback Flint Knight and fullback Clay Daniels were impressive last year against the Steers, squelched as they were most of the time. And they're both back this season — Knight at the helm again, and Daniels heading up the defense at his linebacking slot.

But the headline of the Eagles' dime novel this year reads "Mike Pennington has some hands." The 180-pound junior tightend is Knight's favorite receiver this season. He's speedy, tall and very good. Pennington caught five passes in last week's 33-7 drubbing of Lovington.

Knight completed 14 passes in that game, and is expected to give the Steers secondary, led by Kenneth Coffey, Del Poss and Kent Rice, fits and big fits.

"These guys are potent this year," said Steer Head Coach Don Robbins in reference to the Eagle offense.

"Flint is back from last year and is a smooth runner with a strong arm. They run from a variety of offensive sets, unlike last year when they went from the wingback all the way," Robbins continued.

The Eagles vary their offense with wide outs, long motion, reverses and counter plays. On defense, they use misdirection for disguise. Coached by Jim Cromartie, they are well-disciplined and every bit the challenge to the Steers that Andrews was.

To fight the Eagle multiple offense, Robbins and his crew have been working on a combination man and zone defense for the New Mexico game. "Their quarterback is very capable and reads the defenses very well, anticipating who will be open," Robbins commented.

Robbins indicated that the Steers would have to play much better football than against Andrews to win the Hobbs contest. "We have to keep improving as a football TEAM if we hope to win," he said. "If we can eliminate the mental and physical mistakes we made last week, we have a good chance."

Physically, the Steers have improved any mistake on conditioning. "We've been running quite a bit, and the weather's been hot, so I would say we're in better shape there," said Robbins.

The Steer coach also emphasized the importance of the kicking game in the Friday night game. "Hobbs turned their game around last week with that blocked punt that resulted in a touchdown, and they really like to rush punts, rushing eight to 10 people every time."

The locals will also have to contend with Federation, rules and the bump and run tactics of the Hobbs' defensive secondary. "Those people like to hit intended pass receivers, cutting them down before they have a chance to catch the ball, or making them fumble. And Federation rules concerning fumbles are just like the pros. Any fumble can be advanced," Robbins stated.

Two changes have been made in the Steer starting lineup for this week's game. Doug Archer has been moved into the quick guard position on offense replacing Lance Perry, and Mark Young will take Matt Harris' place at quick tackle on offense. Perry and Harris were two-way starters and will be used exclusively on defense this week.

The Steers will attend a 3 p.m. pep rally at the high school Friday and eat their pre-game meal at the cafeteria, leaving by bus around 4 p.m. After the ballgame, the locals will eat at the Sirlon Stockade, directly across from the stadium. Steer boosters are welcome to stop in at the restaurant, Robbins said.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. Hobbs time, 8:30 p.m. Big Spring time. The game can be heard on local radio stations, and for those of you who want to take the trip by car, take Highway 176 (Andrews) out of Big Spring, all the way to Eunice. Turn north there on Highway 18 into Hobbs. Total distance is approximately 105 miles.

Roger won't be dodgin'

DALLAS (AP) — Don't look for Roger the Doger to be doing his thing tonight.

Roger Staubach, the 35-year-old Cowboy quarterback with a penchant for wild scrambles, says he will stay where National Football League quarterbacks his age should stay — in the pocket.

The Cowboys host the Pittsburgh Steelers in nationally televised National Football League preseason game with some 50,000 fans expected in Texas Stadium.

Staubach has been bothered by a pulled hamstring muscle and missed two preseason games.

"I've played before when I didn't run," says Staubach. "I don't want to jeopardize my chances against Minnesota in the season opener Sept. 18. If I get in trouble I'll just lay the ball off."

The Cowboy brass is worried that any sudden dash by Staubach might reinjure the hamstring.

"He's in good shape but he has to be careful he doesn't sprint," said Dallas Coach

Tom Landry.

There will be one person on the field tonight who doesn't have to worry about going high speed and that's Steeler running back Franco Harris, who has been having a workhorse preseason.

That statistic has caught the eye of the Cowboy coaching staff which saw the Dallas middle ripped for 250 yards by Houston in a 23-14 loss last week.

"There's nothing fancy about the Pittsburgh offense," said Cowboy assistant Ernie Allen. "It's just move you out of there."

Houston wiped out Dallas' defensive tackles and middle linebacker Bob Breunig last week.

"I suspect the Steelers will give us a test there," said Landry.

Pittsburgh is 3-2 in the preseason while the Cowboys are 2-3.

Dallas leads the regular series 10-8 and Pittsburgh has a 2-1 edge in preseason meetings with Dallas winning 20-10 last year.

The biggest meeting between the two teams was Super Bowl X in which Pittsburgh bagged a 21-17 decision in one of the most exciting NFL title games in history.

RAGAN PUNCH: — All-District volleyballer for Big Spring, Becky Ragan, goes high for power-drive during Tuesday night's varsity win over Monahans. Teammate Susan Johnson looks on. The local fans will be in action on the road against Seminole tonight, and will travel to the Angelo State Tournament Friday for an opening round tilt against El Paso Burges at 9:30 a.m.

Angelo zooms up AP poll

By the Associated Press

The San Angelo Bobcats gave the Bryan Vikings only a brief taste of the limelight in The Associated Press Texas Schoolboy Football Poll.

Bryan, ranked No. 2 in the AP's preseason poll, was expected to battle top ranked Sherman in the early part of the season for the No. 1 billing.

San Angelo end that abruptly last week however, with a surprisingly easy 38-7 victory to knock Bryan out of this week's 4A rankings. The victory also earned San Angelo the No. 8 spot in this week's poll.

While San Angelo created the biggest waves, Sherman in 4A, Mount Pleasant in 3A, Yoakum in 2A, Poth in A and Wheeler in B all kept their No. 1 crowns untarnished.

Sherman held onto its Class 4A ranking with a 50-26 rout of Hurst Bell.

Mount Pleasant polled 10 first place votes and easily held its top billing in 3A but two other teams stumbled.

Andrews, ranked No. 3 last week, fought Class 4A Big Spring to a 14-14 tie and dropped to ninth this week. Dickinson, ranked sixth last week, disappeared after a 36-35 loss to Huntsville.

Brownwood, which defeated 4A Abilene Cooper 15-6 and Gainesville, have moved into a share for the lead in 3A.

Rockdale, No. 7, and North Lamar, No. 8, were Class 2A losers and both dropped out of this week's list. Their replacements are the Nos. 9 and 10 teams are Caldwell and Columbus.

Yoakum continued to rule the 2A ranks with a 28-12 victory over Edna.

Grapeland moved in as the No. 10 team in A.

Tech vs bad news Bears

Texas Tech ventures into the valley of the shadow of the bad news Baylor Bears Saturday — not the ideal spot to open defense of the Red Raiders' Southwest Conference football co-championship.

The Tech-Baylor series dates back to 1929 and the Red Raiders are a poor 2-12 in games played at Waco.

Baylor didn't exactly flop over and hibernate in Lubbock last year, scaring the Red Raiders before falling 24-21 with freshman quarterback Sammy Bickham hurling two passes for 62 yards and a touchdown.

Bickham is a sophomore now and joined by running back Gary Blair who romped through the Red Raiders for 199 yards on 30 carries. However, Bickham is injured and fresh Scott Smith may start.

"This will be the first time our staff has taken a team to Waco and we're not exactly relishing the thought," said Tech Coach Steve Sloan. "We have a great deal of respect for the Baylor Bears. Everytime I think about that game we played last year I have to sit down."

There will be one person on the field tonight who doesn't have to worry about going high speed and that's Steeler running back Franco Harris, who has been having a workhorse preseason.

That statistic has caught the eye of the Cowboy coaching staff which saw the Dallas middle ripped for 250 yards by Houston in a 23-14 loss last week.

Barnes checking out

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP) — The Rhode Island state prison will soon be losing its best basketball player. Former All-American Marvin Barnes will be checking out next month.

Barnes, who wound up behind bars last May for a probation violation, was granted parole Wednesday and will be returning to the Detroit Pistons on Oct. 14.

"He (Barnes) presented himself very favorably," said Joseph Galkin, Parole Board chairman. "He was contrite. He said he made two mistakes and he learned a hell of a lesson."

The 6-foot-9 forward was given a one-year suspended sentence and placed on probation for three years in 1974 after pleading guilty to assaulting Providence College teammate Larry Ketrivits.

Favorites still advance, Tracy tree-topped

EVERT IN AN EASY WIN — Top seeded Chris Evert slams a two-handed return to Billy Jean King Wednesday night in match of U.S. Open Tennis Championships at Forest Hills. Miss Evert beat Ms. King, the no. 7 seed, 6-2, 6-0.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Chris Evert beat the past and Betty Stove beat the future to advance to their semifinal matches today. No. 2 seed Martina Navratilova, the Czech expatriate now playing out of Dallas, faced No. 10 Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia and third-seeded Virginia Wade of Britain met Wendy Turnbull, the No. 12 seed from Australia.

With all the hoopla attached to Miss Austin, the most famous school girl this side of Amy Carter, a pair of men sneaked less dramatically into the semifinals.

Guillermo Vilas, the No. 4 seed from Argentina, could do no wrong in his 6-1, 6-1, 6-0 rout of unseeded Ray Moore of South Africa. Vilas has a Saturday semifinal date with Harold Solomon, the No. 12 seed from Silver Spring, Md., who wore down No. 10 Dick Stockton of Carrollton, Tex., 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

The other semifinal pairing will be determined today. Brian Gottfried, the No. 3 seed from Lauderdale, Fla., plays surprising Corrado Barazzutti of Italy and second-seeded Jimmy Connors, Belleville, Ill., meets fifth-rated Manuel Orantes of Spain.

While school bells were beginning to ring around the country, Miss Austin — set to turned the clock to midnight with a powerful 6-2, 6-2 triumph.

In the other women's quarterfinals matches today, No. 2 seed Martina Navratilova, the Czech expatriate now playing out of Dallas, faced No. 10 Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia and third-seeded Virginia Wade of Britain met Wendy Turnbull, the No. 12 seed from Australia.

While school bells were beginning to ring around the country, Miss Austin — set to enter the ninth grade in Rolling Hills, Calif. a week from today — was given a professional tennis lesson by Miss Stove, the 32-year-old native of The Netherlands.

"She just overpowered me," said Tracy, standing tall on the court at 5 feet and 90 pounds. "I was lucky to get in a rally. Most of the time she just put the ball away off her serve, and hit winners off me. She was too strong for me."

Miss Stove gave Tracy a professional beating because she was able to see her pig-tailed opponent as the enemy, not just some cute little kid.

"Five or six years ago, I would have been sentimental, too," said the 6-foot, 160-pound Miss Stove.

"And I would have lost to her."

"I never saw Tracy at all. I only saw the ball."

"I considered her a competitor, a very good competitor. She has a real good future."

Ms. King, a four-time champion here, had a wonderful past. But if her comeback from knee surgery and a year's retirement from tournament singles doesn't progress, she hinted that she would retire permanently.

"I'm really ticked with my play," said the person most responsible for the growth of women's tennis. "I played the big points badly. Chris played them much tougher."

"I better be ready by October or November, or that's it."

There will be one person on the field tonight who doesn't have to worry about going high speed and that's Steeler running back Franco Harris, who has been having a workhorse preseason.

That statistic has caught the eye of the Cowboy coaching staff which saw the Dallas middle ripped for 250 yards by Houston in a 23-14 loss last week.

"There's nothing fancy about the Pittsburgh offense," said Cowboy assistant Ernie Allen. "It's just move you out of there."

Houston wiped out Dallas' defensive tackles and middle linebacker Bob Breunig last week.

"I suspect the Steelers will give us a test there," said Landry.

Pittsburgh is 3-2 in the preseason while the Cowboys are 2-3.

Dallas leads the regular series 10-8 and Pittsburgh has a 2-1 edge in preseason meetings with Dallas winning 20-10 last year.

The biggest meeting between the two teams was Super Bowl X in which Pittsburgh bagged a 21-17 decision in one of the most exciting NFL title games in history.

Orantes comes back from knife

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — It was the end of May. Summer was approaching, and it was not a happy time for Manuel Orantes.

"I had a pinched nerve in my left elbow," the personable 32-year-old Spaniard recalled. "I was losing all feeling in my fingers. My racket was twisting all the time and I didn't know what was going on."

Orantes did not want to go under the knife. Surgery, after all, comes with no guarantees. He had avoided it for 15 months, hoping a combination of rest and treatment would make the pain go away. It didn't.

"I was getting discouraged," Orantes said. "I knew I had to have the operation."

So Orantes, who won the U.S. Open in 1975, underwent surgery on May 28. He did not pick up a racket until July 4, when he practiced for about 10 minutes. He returned to competitive tennis at Kitzbuhel, Austria in late July.

His first big test was the Davis Cup series between Spain and Italy. It was a disaster.

"I lost singles and doubles, and the press in Spain came down hard on me," he said. "I don't think it was fair. The easy thing for me would have been to say I'm not 100 percent, so I won't play. But I thought it was my responsibility, so I played."

That was the lowest point. Since then, Orantes' star has been on a steady rise. He won the U.S. Clay Courts at Indianapolis, whipping Jimmy Connors 6-3, 6-1 in a stunningly easy final. Here at Forest Hills, he's won all four of his matches in straight sets, not losing more than three games in any one set.

"My surgeon, Dr. Nirschel of Washington, expected me to play well again but not this quickly," said Orantes. "I'm winning matches, and that has given me all the confidence in the world. I'm seeing the ball very well. I feel I can do almost anything I want with the ball, and that's a very good feeling."

Lightning kills prep QB

TERRELL, Texas (AP) — Lightning struck and killed Terrell High School quarterback Bernard Derrick during a practice session here Wednesday.

Head coach Mike Bailey said Derrick, 17, was struck by lightning while fielding punts during a practice session. He was pronounced dead upon arrival at a Terrell hospital.

"There had been some lightning, but from a distance" Bailey said. "It wasn't the type thing that would have made people doing things outside go indoors."

"I felt a jolt, but I wasn't knocked down. Everyone on the field immediately hit the deck. We didn't notice Bernard had been hit until everybody else got up," Bailey said.

"It came out of nowhere and struck. I didn't know what had hit when it first happened," said assistant coach Jack Herrington, one of several persons knocked to the ground by the jolt.

Derrick, a senior, did not play football last year, choosing to concentrate on basketball.

Introducing Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia.

Recommended by American Library Association Booklist Review***

The best way to get information is to go to the source.

And that's exactly what Funk & Wagnalls has been doing since 1876, when they began publishing reference books.

Their sources for this new Centennial Edition include hundreds and hundreds of prominent people. Each a recognized authority in his, or her, field of knowledge. Many with Nobel and Pulitzer prizes to their credit. And while they're too numerous to list here, you'll find they're all listed in Volume 1.

The result is a comprehensive, accurate home reference center with over 193,000 indexed subjects. (That's as many subjects as encyclopedias costing hundreds of dollars more contain.)

And each article is written in clear, simple English that gets to the heart of the subject without going over your head.

That's why the experts recommend Funk & Wagnalls.

To introduce you to Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia, we sell Volume 1 at the remarkable introductory price of only 49¢.

So instead of going through a salesman's sales pitch, you just go through Volume 1 and let it convince you to buy the rest of the set.

That way, you find out if it's the right encyclopedia for your family before you pay for the whole set. And you save two ways. First, because Funk & Wagnalls sells their encyclopedias through supermarkets instead of through salesmen there's no commission to pay. Second, because supermarkets can sell in great volume, Funk & Wagnalls can afford to charge you less per volume.

So stop by the Funk & Wagnalls display in any of our supermarkets and pick up Volume 1. It's one of the smartest purchases you can make these days.

Lethal injection decision

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — With Texas' first scheduled execution by injection only a week off, state officials have decided to completely retire the state's electric chair and use a general anesthetic for the lethal dose.

The Department of Corrections earlier had said it planned to use "Old Sparky" as a place to restrain persons to be given the fatal injections.

But TDC spokesman Ron Taylor said Wednesday that TDC Director Estelle had chosen instead to use a hospital gurney.

A gurney is a stretcher on wheels with straps to hold the passenger.

After reviewing TDC lethal drug research that indicated three options, Estelle decided on sodium thiopental, a general anesthetic.

Loss of consciousness comes almost immediately after the drug is injected, Taylor said, and death would occur "within minutes."

The two other drugs under consideration were succinylcholine chloride and sodium cyanide. The former is a muscle relaxant while the latter is a "contact poison," Taylor said.

The drug research was aided by unnamed consultants, whose identity TDC "intends to protect," Taylor added.

Unless a stay of execution is granted, the new execution

Carter's pick for FBI chief

'doing fine'

HOUSTON (AP) — Frank M. Johnson Jr., the federal judge who is President Carter's choice to head the FBI, was reported in a satisfactory condition today at Methodist Hospital.

The Montgomery, Ala., jurist underwent surgery Aug. 26 during which an aneurysm, or balloon-like swelling, on his abdominal aorta was removed and replaced with a dacron graft.

"He's doing fine," said Gary Cottingham, a hospital vice president. "Recovery is going exactly as it's supposed to. There are no complications at all."

Woman con to be called

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman serving a 35-year prison sentence for her alleged part in the 1972 slaying of a Houston plastic surgeon was expected to be called as a witness today in the trial of a $7.6 million damage suit filed in connection with the slaying.

Lilla Paulus pleaded the Fifth and 14th Amendments Wednesday to all questions by attorneys except the first one — when asked her name.

She appeared outside the presence of jurors hearing the wrongful death damage suit against oil millionaire Ash Robinson.

The son, widow and mother of slain plastic surgeon Dr. John Hill have filed the civil suit against Robinson, alleging Robinson arranged the death of Hill in revenge for the death of Robinson's daughter.

When Hill was shot to death at his plush River Oaks home, he was awaiting trial on charges he killed his first wife, Joan Robinson Hill, through medical neglect in 1969.

Robinson, 79, has not been charged in the Hill slaying, and his lawyers deny the allegations by Robert Hill, 17, Connie Hill, 37, and Myra Hill, 75.

Mrs. Paulus, 58, was convicted on charges of conspiracy to commit murder in the Hill slaying.

Wolf attack explained

IRVING, Tex. (AP) — The animal that mauled a four-month-old infant here last month was probably trying to play with the small boy, according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Beaumont.

A report compiled by the Beaumont officials also said the animal was a wolf-dog mix.

The victim, Douglas Aaron Workings of Euless, was released from Children's Medical Center in Dallas last week. He was admitted Aug. 24 in critical condition.

No charges have been filed in connection with the incident but the case has been referred to the district attorney's office.

The animal was destroyed the day after the attack.

form will be used Sept. 16 on convicted Fort Worth mass murderer and rapist Kenneth Granviel.

The U.S. Supreme Court turned down Granviel's appeal earlier this year and let stand a decision by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals that Granviel was properly convicted in the fatal stabbing of 2-year-old Natasha McClelland.

Granviel admitted killing five members of the McClelland family on Oct. 7, 1974, in a night of terror, and killing two women on Feb. 8, 1975. He said the killings "occurred in a frenzy" brought on by his sexual urges.

Texas' execution-by-injection law went into effect Aug. 29.

While the death seat has changed from the polished oak of "Old Sparky" to the white linen of a gurney, executions will still be performed in the death chamber behind the ivy walls of the Huntsville Unit of the TDC, Taylor said.

The new law gives Estelle the option of designating an executioner or giving the lethal injection personally.

In June, the Rev. Clyde Johnston, Protestant chaplain at the TDC and a witness to 14 electric chair executions, said: "I would like to see this carried out in a nice clean room, something that doesn't look like a prison. Certainly not the death cell."

Johnston said he could picture executions carried out in a "gentle, humane" way, "just like someone going in, laying down and going to sleep."

No decision was made whether to remove Old Sparky from the death cell.

"Old Sparky is a part of the history of the penitentiary. There is a possibility down the road that it may be moved to state museum," TDC spokeswoman Gail Monroe said last month.

Three hundred sixty persons have died in the famed chair since it began operation in October 1924.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Chairman Calvin Guest of the Texas Democratic Party appointed Dwayne Holman on Wednesday as the party's executive director.

Guest said Holman's chief duty "will be to prepare the Texas Democratic Party for the 1978 general elections."

He said the new director's duties will include fund-raising, voter registration and a get-out-the-vote drive.

Holman, a former junior college political science instructor, served as the party's program director. He coordinated the 1976 registration and get-out-the-vote drives. Holman is a member of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee and is serving his second term as president of the Young Democrats of America.

Vandygriff

gets S & L job

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Alvis Vandygriff becomes state savings and loan commissioner today replacing W. Sale Lewis, who retired Sept. 1 after 10 years in the position.

The afternoon swearing-in ceremony was scheduled at the Texas Savings and Loan Department.

Vandygriff, a native of Ellis county, will supervise regulation of 264 state-chartered associations with 859 approved branch offices and total assets of $16 billion.

He formerly was district clerk in Ellis County before joining the General Land Office in 1938. Later he practiced law in Austin and joined the Savings and Loan Department in 1970. He has been serving as deputy commissioner.

Trial of two ex-cops to begin

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Jury selection in the murder trial of two former Houston police officers was expected to begin today after a one-day delay caused by a lack of a sufficient number of prospective jurors.

Selection was called off Wednesday when less than 50 of the 160 called for duty reported.

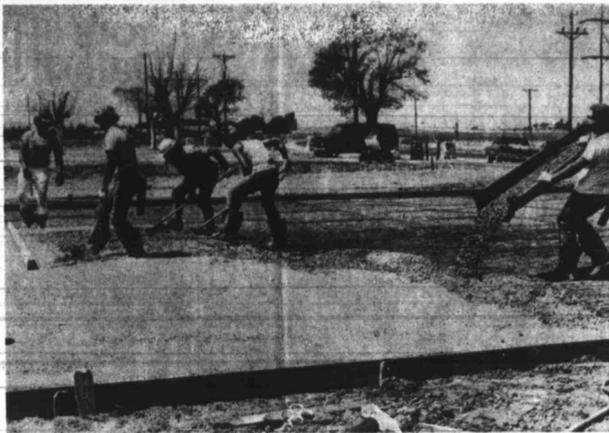

State District Judge James Warren issued an emergency call for jurors and ordered those who did not report to return at 10 a.m. today.

Terry Denson, 27, and Stephen Orlando, 21, are on trial for the May 6 beating-drowning death of Houston laborer Joe Campos Torres.

A police investigation resulted in the two being accused of participating in Torres' arrest at a Houston night spot and his subsequent drowning in a deserted area called Buffalo Bayou.

Police said they received a complaint that Torres was being disorderly at the bar. Two other officers reportedly involved in the incident were given immunity in return for their testimony during the investigation. A fifth was suspended and later reinstated.

Warren expressed little surprise at Wednesday's poor turnout, explaining that much of Huntsville's population is transitory and the jury wheel used to select prospective jurors contains a 3-year-old list of registered voters.

NEW COURTS FOR STANTON — Upwards to $12,000 is being spent for the two tennis courts being constructed in the Stanton city park. The money came from Federal Revenue Sharing funds. The courts were authorized by the Stanton city Council.

Mexico building naval base in Pacific

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico is building a Navy base on Socorro Island, 450 miles west of Manzanillo in the Pacific, which will be used to step up surveillance of the nation's 20-mile sea zone.

Navy Secretary Ricardo Chazaro Lara said here at a news conference the base, which will cost $1.33 million, is to be operational by April 1979.

He said construction has begun, and that the base will include docking facilities, radar station, and air strip and housing facilities.

Kin asks to bury Elvis at Mansion

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The 42-year-old singer, Elvis Presley's family wants to move the bodies of the singer and his mother to a garden at Graceland Mansion.

D. Beecher Smith II, an attorney for the family, submitted a request Wednesday to the Board of Adjustment for an exception or variation to the residential zoning of the singer's 13-acre estate.

A variation would be required before the bodies could be moved from the mausoleum at Forest Hill Cemetery to the Meditation Garden on the mansion grounds. The cemetery is about three miles north of Graceland.

Smith said in a letter the board should grant an exception because it is impossible to provide adequate security for the bodies at Forest Hill. Smith said the cost to the family of providing security at the cemetery is about $200 a day.

Dental records help identify 'Free Spirit'

WHARTON, Tex. (AP) — Dental records have been used to identify a decomposed body as that of a 21-year-old woman who disappeared last January, Wharton County officials say.

Chief Wharton County Deputy Sheriff Earl Winebrenner said Wednesday he had been told by Harris County Medical Examiner Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk that dental records had been used to identify the body as that of Diana Kaiser.

Miss Kaiser vanished during the early morning hours of Jan. 6 shortly after she was seen on the shoulder of U.S. Highway 59 that runs through this Southeast Texas county.

The remains were found Tuesday near East Bernard, about 16 miles north of here.

Earlier Wednesday Sheriff H.R. Flourney said he was convinced the remains were those of Miss Kaiser, who was known in the area by her CB handle of "Free Spirit."

Flourney said the body was found in a culvert on Farm Road 2919, by Department of Highway workmen cutting grass in the area.

"We found a white jacket, a blue blouse that she was supposed to be wearing at the time, a ring and a necklace," Flourney said.

The compact pickup Miss Kaiser was driving at the time of her disappearance was discovered earlier this year about 10 miles from where the body was located.

The night Miss Kaiser disappeared truckers reported seeing her pulled over on the shoulder by a brown car with flashing lights. When her truck was found, authorities said Miss Kaiser's purse was missing although her credit cards and eyeglasses were in the vehicle.

Voters reject cloud seeding

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Voters in the Panhandle have rejected cloud seeding to suppress hail.

The Water Resources Department informed Speaker Bill Clayton it had finally determined the election results Wednesday.

It took several days to make that determination because the affected counties failed to include precinct maps with the ballot results.

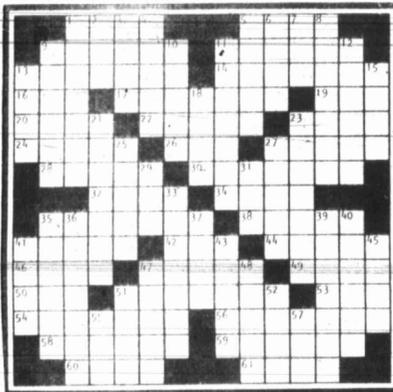

"The elections, provided for by legislation passed last spring, have given the opportunity to the people of our area to finally settle the long-standing dispute over state regulation of hail suppression," Clayton said. Clayton is from Springlake.

"The people have made their wishes known and the Department of Water Resources is informing the companies involved of the people's decision by letter," he said.

The affected counties are Bailey, Castro, Cochran, Deaf Smith, Lamb, Oldham, Farmer, Briscoe, Crosby, Floyd, Hale, Hockley, Lubbock, Randall and Swisher.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You want to get some encouragement for what you have in mind and that requires considerably more effort on your part. Keep working at creative goals so that you have a satisfactory situation when conditions break in your behalf.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Not a good day for pleasure. Complete what you have begun and reap right benefits from it. Take time out for needed rest.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study whatever is causing problems at home and do something constructive about them. A new project is not good to get into until you have all the facts and figures.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Use particular care on the road and avoid an accident that could otherwise occur. Tact is necessary with one who is oversensitive.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Work out monetary affairs efficiently and intelligently. Listen to the advice of an influential businessman.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You doubt if you are making the right kind of progress, so be sure to do something about it constructively. Do not attend a group affair that could spell trouble. Take better care of health.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use your energies wisely and get rid of some very limited condition you have been laboring under. Try to be more understanding with mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't get involved in an unsavory situation that a pal is enmeshed in or you get into trouble also. Avoid group affairs where arguments could ensue. Be wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take no risks where name is concerned and be sure to rise above the petty. Use a different tack with credit matters and get right results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Gather more data before you get into a new project that appeals to you. Be more circumspect and avoid getting into or making trouble. Think along more conservative lines.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go over your account matters well and then pay bills, make collections that are correct. Don't argue with mate but quietly eliminate cause of trouble. Think clearly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Instead of arguing with associates, be more cooperative and operate on a more intelligent basis. Back others who are deserving and gain their gratitude.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be exact in the performance of any work you have to do and derive good benefits from it. Forget going off on any tangents.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will need encouragement in order to do good work and to build the ego. Much creativity here and of large scope, so be sure to prepare now for an adequate education.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Rape remarks help defeat judge

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Basing her campaign on "the right of everyone to know they will get a fair trial," attorney Moria Krueger defeated Dane County Judge Archie Simonson in a recall election sparked by his courtroom remarks on rape.

Ms. Krueger, 33, parlayed outrage at Simonson's comments linking rape and women's revealing clothing into 27,244 votes and a 35 per cent plurality Wednesday. Six candidates were on the ballot in the first judicial recall election in Wisconsin history.

Simonson, whose comments from the bench in a May 25 juvenile rape hearing attracted national attention and sparked a 35,000-signature local recall petition drive, received 25 per cent with 18,435 votes.

"I'm a little overwhelmed," Ms. Krueger said at an uproarious celebration at a friend's home on the predominantly liberal West Side, which proved to be her stronghold.

The 52-year-old Simonson said, "The verdict is in and I have no comment other than that."

However, he repeated his steadfast campaign stance that he had run not against his opponents but against the notion he should be recalled for what he said.

The judge said his plans for the future are indefinite, but indicated he would probably not try to regain his seat next spring.

"If nothing else, I can practice law," he said.

He also said he might consider joining a local citizen's campaign against the sex-for-sale business.

"It depends if they ask me or not," said Simonson at a local hall after the ballots were counted.

Ms. Krueger refused to attribute her victory to her longtime link with the women's movement.

"The most important principle is the right of everyone to know they will get a fair trial," she said as the champagne and beer flowed at her victory party. "They aren't going to be judged on their gender or race or other extraneous factors."

played outrage at Simonson's comments linking rape and revealing women's clothing into 27,244 votes and a 35 per cent plurality in the six-candidate field.

State funds on time deposit

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Treasurer Jesse James said Wednesday that state funds on time deposit in 1,260 Texas state banks produced $98.28 million in interest for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31.

On Aug. 31, James said, the state had a total of $2.167 billion time deposit drawing 6 percent interest in the state banks.

The most profitable month was August when state funds drew $10.24 million in interest, compared to $9.23 million in July, the next highest month.

Other collections by James' department during the past fiscal year included $277.4 million in state cigarette taxes, $430 million in investments by the bond division and $4.5 million from escheat and other taxes.

The total collection for the past fiscal year was $810.3 million, a total of $80.7 million more than the previous year.

She doesn't mind stepping on toes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carol Tucker Foreman says she is still a consumer advocate in her job as assistant secretary of agriculture; but she is also a farmer advocate and thinks the two groups should move much closer together.

She works hard at her job and doesn't mind stepping on some toes if need be. She is a take-charge person who likes her name to be associated with actions taken by the Agriculture Department.

But sometimes Ms. Foreman, as she prefers, takes charge of something important while her boss, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, gets the credit in official news releases.

She was cranked up by the department's information mill.

For example, on Tuesday Ms. Foreman called a news conference to announce proposed changes in the government's 31-year-old national school lunch program. A major aim is to reduce food waste by serving smaller portions to younger children.

At the news conference, it was clear that Ms. Foreman accompanied by two officials of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service — was in charge and was the chief spokesman.

Meanwhile, USDA information specialists were preparing a news release describing the proposed changes and attributing prepared remarks and the whole thing to Bergland. It was distributed at Ms. Foreman's news conference.

Corn crop in good shape

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's corn crop is rated in good shape throughout the Midwest Corn Belt and "fair in most other areas" of the country, according to the Agriculture Department.

The report for the week of Aug. 29-Sept. 4 said that harvest of the 1977 crop is progressing steadily in the South, although the crop has been cut severely by drought this year in parts of the Southeast.

"In the eastern North Central states, 65 to 70 per cent of the corn was in the dent stage (of kernel development) in Michigan and Ohio," the report said.

"About 35 per cent of Indiana's crop was mature and 90 per cent of the Illinois corn, twice the average in both states."

Further, she told the dairymen, "I'd like to put a quick, painless end to the old concept that there is some sort of mystical dividing line between the farmer and the consumer. There is not and never has been, except in the minds of some people."

Appreciation day in Stanton

STANTON — The Martin County Chamber of Commerce has set "Agriculture Appreciation Day" for Sept. 28.

Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Reagan V. Brown will be in town at that time to fulfill a luncheon speaking date.

The annual Martin County farm tour, shortened this year, will be held on that date. Coincidentally, a fashion show featuring the latest styles manufactured from cotton, is planned.

The farm tour begins at 10 a.m., in front of the First National Bank. A luncheon will be served in the Community Center following the tour, which will be made by bus. There will be no charge for the meal, according to Agriculture Appreciation Day.

Door prizes will be given away during the luncheon and the style show.

Chamber officials are hopeful the community will turn out en masse and meet Brown.

17 watershed jobs approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has approved 17 new watershed projects as eligible for planning assistance from federal technicians.

R.M. Davis, administrator of the Soil Conservation Service, said Wednesday that he has authorized the agency's state offices to help local sponsors of the projects with investigations and surveys necessary to develop watershed plans.

The projects will be developed under the Watershed Protection and Flood-Prevention Act. The projects are limited to watersheds of 250,000 acres or less. The newly authorized projects include the Tyrone River Watershed in Poinsett County, Arkansas.

Top killers in Texas listed

Two of every three deaths in Texas during 1976 were caused by diseases of the heart and blood vessels — plus cancer, says the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Texas Department of Health.

Deaths from all causes in 1976 totalled 100,620, according to Don Carroll, Chief, Bureau of Vital Statistics.

Slightly offsetting these grim statistics is some good news. Infant deaths reached the lowest point in Texas in 1976 — 16.0 deaths per 1,000 live births.

The two top killers, heart disease and cancer, came as no surprise since both of these have been the leading causes of death in the state for some time.

Last year, Carroll noted, heart disease killed 33,836 Texans, while cancer accounted for 19,230 deaths.

Even though heart disease is a top killer in Texas, a decline in the death rate from heart attacks has continued for the third straight year. In 1976 the death rate was 118 per 100,000 population. In fact, health officials say, there were 360 fewer deaths than expected from heart attacks, based on 1975 experience.

"Whether a three-year declining rate is related to a decline in 'risk factors' for heart attack isn't known," said Dr. Richard K. Donelson, Director of the Epidemiology Division. "And, whether the decline is matched elsewhere in the United States will be answerable soon, when the US mortality data becomes available."

The mortality rate for all forms of cancer in 1976 showed an increase of 550 more cancer deaths in Texas last year. The mortality rate was 154 per 100,000 population, compared to the 1975 rate of 150.

"Some forms of cancer, such as leukemia and cancer of the mouth and throat, are showing slight decreases," said Dr. Donelson. "But unfortunately, cancer of most of the other body sites has continued to cause a gradual increase in the death rate over the years."

The other killers in the top 10 for 1976 were: (3) apoplexy (cerebrovascular disease) — 10,653; (4) accidents — 6,468; (5) pneumonia — 3,057; (6) diabetes mellitus — 1,894; (7) certain causes of infant deaths — 1,818; (8) arteriosclerosis — 1,691; (9) homicide — 1,633; and (10) suicide — 1,526.

A significant increase in the number of deaths ascribed to septicemia was observed last year. The 405 deaths were up from 297 such deaths in 1975.

"Several explanations for this increase in septicemia deaths are now being investigated," said Dr. Donelson. "One possible explanation is that physicians and hospital workers have recently become more persistent in their attempts to diagnose and make special records of septicemia. This is perhaps due to the increasing emphasis on hospital infection control. The several different types of septicemia appear to have been equally increased," said Dr. Donelson.

B.F. EVERETT
...part of an experiment

B.F. Everett, 60, is currently part of a medical experiment being conducted out of the Methodist Hospital in Houston, in which he is being injected daily with cobra venom.

Everett, a longtime locomotive engineer for the T&P, in recent years has developed a muscular disorder similar to muscular dystrophy.

The disease was first diagnosed as muscular dystrophy, then limb-girdle MD, and then an adult spinal muscular disorder.

The Everetts felt rather helpless and first thought there was nothing they could do but live with it day to day. They told their children, Mrs. Sue Easterling who works at a local nursing home, Don Everett who lives in Fort Worth and Mrs. Janet Heading, who works here at the Ramada Inn.

B.F. and Eunalee were trying to accept it, but the children didn't feel that way. They all began to check around. Their son, Don, heard of an experiment in Florida where cobra venom was being injected in an experiment conducted by a Dr. Murray Sanders of Boca Raton, Fla.

He learned that was to be an experiment in Texas and he got his father included. For the first three months, half of the patients received the venom and half received something else. This was so that they could not simply improve from a psychological factor.

Everett has no idea whether he had venom those three months or not. But his condition does appear to have stabilized and there has not been additional deterioration. He is presently taking the venom daily and knows that he is taking it now in the second three months of the experiment.

Taggart named info officer

The appointment of Frank W. Taggart as regional public information officer for the West Texas region of the Texas Department of Human Resources has been announced by Hazel Baylor, regional administrator.

Taggart will be responsible for developing and coordinating information services for the department's 23-county West Texas area, which includes El Paso, Midland and Odessa. He will prepare news releases, edit the department's regional newsletter and serve other public information functions.

He previously served as assistant regional public information officer for the state agency in the Dallas-Fort Worth region.

A journalism graduate of Southern Methodist University and the University of Stockholm, Sweden, the Houston native was a business writer, religion editor and Washington correspondent for The Dallas Times Herald before joining the state agency, previously known as the Texas Department of Public Welfare.

Oldest school growth noted

GEGETOWN, Tex. (AP) — The state's oldest university, Southwestern, founded in 1840 under another name, reports a "steady growth" in enrollment since it lifted its enrollment ceiling several years ago.

With a week to go before registration closes Sept. 15, the fall enrollment stood at 938, a new all-time record. The old record, 933, was set last year.

FCC actions to force phone rates higher?

The telephone system in Big Spring and across the nation could end up like the railroads if Congress doesn't act on pending legislation, says Robert Hurt, manager of Southwestern Bell.

"America woke up in the 1950's and realized it no longer had an efficient rail system for passengers," Hurt said. "Over-regulation and wasteful duplication of tracks changed the rail industry so that today few of us really benefit from passenger train service."

Hurt expressed concern that telephone service as it's known today and its cost to the consumer are in jeopardy. "We in the phone industry know Americans don't like unpleasant surprises, so we feel we should express our views now on two little bills in Congress. These bills could change our vital phone service and how we pay for it," the manager said.

The bills in the U.S. House and Senate are titled the Consumer Communications Reform Act, Hurt said, and they are sponsored by 76 U.S. representatives and nine senators.

"The CCRA would reaffirm the intent of the Federal Communication Act of 1934 — to make service available to as many people as possible at a price all people can afford," the telephone manager said. "Recent decisions by the Federal Communications Commission have jeopardized that principle."

"The FCC has allowed more and more firms to enter the market for different telecommunications services. These new firms have been allowed to serve whomever they want, wherever they want, and under completely different rules from those established for telephone companies," the manager said.

"In short, the FCC has created an artificial situation where new firms have free rein, and the rest of the industry doesn't. Anytime you change the rules, you change the game. And in the case of telephone business, we believe the FCC's rule change will mean that average consumers — people like you — will have to pay more for telephone service than you should."

The manager said traditional pricing policy in the telephone industry permits total revenues from all services at rates lower than otherwise would be possible. "Thus, stimulation of consumer spending through advertising for long distance and other services helps hold down the cost of basic telephone service," the manager said.

"Nationwide, the average cost of home telephone service is about $9 a month. But the average cost to Southwestern Bell is $16.15 each month to provide that service. So, if the current pricing trend continues, the average cost of home telephone service would move closer to $16.15 a month," the manager said.

The CCRA's principles are supported by the Bell System, some 1,600 independent telephone companies, labor unions representing telecommunications workers and may state regulatory agencies.

The bill was introduced in the 1976 session of Congress. It received the support of 175 congressmen and 17 senators. The act has been reintroduced in both houses.

Subcommittees of both houses of Congress conducted hearings in March that could directly affect the CCRA, Hurt said. AT & T Chairman John D. deButts testified before the Senate subcommittee.

"As deButts said then, Congress should define the public interest objective of telecommunications service in this country," the manager said. "We need to determine our future needs and work to meet them. And we need to know where our priorities lie — with the average home telephone user, like people here, or with the large business communications market."
